FIGHTING RENEWED. London, April 23.-According to a dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Daily Mail, official information has been received that renewed military activity is beginning in Manchuria. Chinese troops are strongly entrenched at three points around Mukden. They are armed with good Mauser rifles and have Krupp guns.

To the eastward of Mukden, near Turchausen, there are 12,000 men under the chief Boxer, Gen. Lutanse. To the northward, near Kulo, there are 6,000 Chinese under the former gov- pany, which did the work of dredging ernor of Mukden. To the eastward in Mongolia and near the In Shan Mountain there are 9,000 more under the Chinese general, Schu. Admiral Alexieff has accordingly organized an expedition under General Zerpinsky, consisting of two regi-Zerpinsky, consisting of two regiments and five Sotnias of Cossacks, sixteen guns and a body of volunteers, to operate against the three points mentioned.

KULO WAS STORMED. The first movement was successfully erried out in the beginning of April. Kulo, which is 250 kilometers from governor of Mukden was taken pris-

DAY LABOR ?

Relative Advantages of Two Systems Discussed in Parliament.

Emphatic Denial of the Story That

London Men Were Given Work on St. Thomas Drill Shed. Ottawa, April 22.—The relative advantage of the day-labor and the contract system was the subject for discussion for a large portion of the afternoon session of the house today, Mr. Ganong, Mr. Clancy and Dr. Sproule complaining because the minister of public works was carrying out a public work by the day-labor system Tarte explained that he invited tenders, but received none, and justified the system as economical and in the public interest. Mr. Sutherland suported the minister of public works, and took advantage of the opportunity to read a letter from the contractor for the St. Thomas drill hall, contradicting certain statements made by Mr. Ingram in recent debate. This evening Mr Tarte, in reply to a question by Mr.

Mr. Sutherland read a letter from Mr.

freen, the contractor for the St. Thomas drill hall, who is a Conservative. contradicting the statements made by Mr. Ingram the other day in reference to the employment of Conservatives upon that work, giving a most un-qualified denial to the statement that a London man was given the sub-con-tract for the brickwork. Mr. Green contined: "He (Mr. Ingram) is also reported to have stated 'it was current report in St. Thomas that Mr. Green could not get the contrct until he gave a pledge that the brickwork would be given to a prominent London Liberal.' I wish also to deny this, and I am surrised that Mr. Ingram would take up the time of the house in making such statements when he could have so easily ascertained the true facts of the matter. But I suppose this would not have suited his purpose. I might relieve Mr. Ingram's anxiety with reference to Conservatives being employed in connection with the building of the armory by telling him that Dr. Wilson has frequently stated that he had no objection to their being employed on any part of the works, and that in my negotiations for the sub-contract I have stipulated that all available labor in St. Thomas should be employed.

CHASE & SANBORN,

WHERE SNOW FLIES

The Fifteen Feet of It in the Yukon May Cause Disastrous Flood-Snow and Frost Down South.

IN THE YUKON.

Vancouver, B. C., April 22.—Old-timers in the Yukon are anticipating a flood because of the unprecedented snowfall along the Yukon. A heavy snowfall, aggregating four feet, has been recorded a week ago. It is stated that there is now fifteen feet of snow on the summit, and the White Horse and Yukon Railway Company are preparing for possible trou-ble when the snow melts. SNOW IN TENNESSEE. Chattanooga, Tenn., April 22.—Special dispatches from Huntsville, Tenn., on the top of the Cumberland Mountains, say there is from four to six inches of snow on the ground there, and it is still falling. Knoxville, Tenn., April 22.-This is the coolest point south of St. Paul, Minn., according to the weather bureau reports, the temperature being 36 at 7 a.m. Indications are for warmer weather, although snow is falling in upper east Tennessee. FROST IN FLORIDA AND GEORGIA Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—Low temperature in some sections, causing injury to cotton and other growing crops, prevailed over the Southern States today. Weather bureau reports show slight frost in the vicinity of Jackson-ville, Fla., Meridian, Miss., and Charleston, S. C. Snow is reported at Gains-ville in Northern Georgia, the mountain tops being capped with white—an unusual sight at this time of the year. Albany, in South Georgia, reports the estimated damage to cotton at 50 per cent and that watermelons and can-teloupes have been injured 25 per cent.

RATHER EMBARRASSING

Michigan Girl Tried to Pick a Stray Thread Off a Gentleman's Coat.

L'Anse, Mich., April 23.-A young ady attending church Sunday evening sat directly behind a tall, welldressed stranger, with a raveling hanging to his collar. Being one of these generous-hearted, whole-souled girls who grow up to be motherly old ladies, a friend to everybody in town, she thought how glad she would be if some kind-hearted girl would do as much for her father were he to go to hurch with a raveling hanging down his back, so when the audience rose for the first hymn, she concluded to pick it off. Carefully raising her hand she gave a little twitch, but it was longer than she supposed, and a foot or more appeared. Setting her teeth gave a pull, and about a yard of that horrible thread hung down his back. This was getting embarrass-ing, but determined, she gave it another yank, and discovered she was unraveling his undershirt. Her disomfiture was so painful that chloroform would not have alleviated her sufferings, nor a pint of powder hidden her blushes, when the gentleman turned with an inquiring look to see what was tickling his neck.

Extraordinary Activity in Stocks-Boom in Corn at Chicago.

According to a New York Herald dispatch from Buenos Ayres, Dr. Vil-New York, April 23.—The extraordinary activity of yesterday's speculation is witnessed by the record of the aggregate sales for the day, which rose to 2,382,500 shares, compared with the previous record on Friday of 2,193,400 shares. The character of the market showed a marked ed change from that of the latter part of last week, when the tendency was distinctly upward throughout the list, it was obvious that there was very heavy profit-taking going on in stocks which have shown the greatest strength recently, but the buils had the situation fairly well in hand throughout the early part of the day, and the process of stocks to another, which has gone on in constant succession all through the period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the same of period of the rise, seemed to be going on the waves. But the weight of the profit-taking became so formidable, and the violent manipulation of special stocks by which it was sought to sustain prices became so palpable, that the bears made a powerful concerted attack on the market in the final hour. The relapse from the high point was very violent under Saturday's close. The violence of the decline invited some quick profit-taking by the bears, whose covering demand caused a few sharp rallies, but the general tone was weak at the close.

CORN GOES KITING.

Chicago, April 23.—After a rest of a fortnight, the May corn option on the board of trade, believed to be controlled by George H. Phillips, came into prominence again yesterday, by rising over 2 cents a bushel. May opened ¼ to ½ cent higher, at 44% to 44% cents, rose to 46½ cents, and closed at 46% cents, Phillips' announcement that he would take over 3,000,000 bushels of corn in store here on delivery day, and that he was shipping corn east on a liberal scale, with receipts yesterday of only 86 cars, of which 8 were contract grade, combined to frighten the shorts badly, and their efforts to cover outstanding contracts ceased only when the closing bell sounded. The close was 2 cents net higher than Saturday, and 1½ cents above the previous high record of the option. CORN GOES KITING.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 22.-Vincenzo Patermitano, an Italian, 33 years old, died at the hospital this morning from a bullet wound inflicted by S. Castrogiovanni, also an Italian, yesterday afternoon, during a fight over a keg of beer. Pietro Scarzone, a brother-inlaw of the dead man, was seriously injured in the same fight.

TOUCHED A LIVE WIRE. Syracuse, N. Y., April 22.—George Boddy, a 9-year-old colored boy, was touched yesterday afternoon by looked to be a harmless wire on the Erie Canal tow path near Crouse av-enue. It had become charged from an electric light circuit. He was horribly burned, and the current passed through his body until the wire was torn away by men from the morgue a half hour afterwards.

LIVE MAN INSIDE A HEARSE. Ludington, Mich., April 23.-Town folks were recently shocked at the spectacle of a passing hearse through the glass sides of which could be seen the form of a man stretched out inside, without coffin or robe. Investigation showed that the supposed corpse was the local undertaker, who, becoming chilled by the raw winds while returning from a country funeral, had crawled inside the hearse for comfort.

IRON TANK FELL SIX STORIES. Chicago, Ill., April 23.-A high wind, reached Chicago yesterday, loosened a huge iron water tank from its fastenings on the roof of the Gal-braith building, Madison and Franklin streets, causing it to crash through the six floors to the ground, injuring five persons and resulting in a damage to the building estimated at $50,000.

BABY BURIED ALIVE. New York, April 23.—Patrick Mc-Evoy, employed by the New York Cen-tral Railroad at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, saw a man and woman bury a 2-weeks-old baby boy yesterday. As soon as McEvoy realized what was being done, he ran to the rescue and EAST WILLIAMS.

At the last meeting of East Williams council, held on April 15, a bylaw including all officers for the year was passed. They are:

Poundkeepers—John S. Walker, John Hord, Gordon McKenzie, Wm. Cowie, Hugh McDonald, Chas. Cummins, John T. Stewart, Dugald C. McIntyre.

Moved by Messrs. Campbell and Johnston, that the reeve be empowered to succeeded in removing the loose earth from the child in time to save his life. The man and woman ran away, but McEvoy gave a description of them to the police, and a man and woman were arrested in Yonkers on suspicion that they were the would-be murderers. The man said he was Givori Luttacavole, of Manhattan. He said he was married and had three children. The woman said she was Francisca Stin-ella, 18 years old, a dressmaker and Moved by Messrs. Campbell and Johnston, that the reeve be empowered to have the road graded south of Waters' bridge, Springbank sideroad.

Moved by Messrs, Johnston and Matheson, that 27 square feet be the standard load of gravel for statute labor.

Moved by Messrs. Campbell and Johnston, that the motion appointing Angus Cruickshank a member of the board of health be rescinded and the name of David Sutherland substituted.

Moved by Messrs. Campbell and Traddle that this council offer a reward unmarried. She would not give her place of residence, but said she was a niece of her companion. The woman denied that the babe was hers, and

Yesterday the coroner's jury fixed the responsibility upon Douglass, who has been in Flower Hospital, owing to an attempt to shoot himself immediately after killing his wife. Policeman Cunningham had a talk with Douglass, and the man told him the following story: "My wife was working in Harlem at the time, and I was the janitor of the place on Lexington avenue. She had come down to see me and was lying on the bed, crying. I told her I wanted her to come back and live with me, but she said we had not enough money and we'd better wait until fall. can't wait,' I answered her. I was walking up and down the room and I told her the best thing was for us both to die. She said 'yes,' but wanted to know what we would do about the baby. I said 'I have a home for baby.' She was crying all the time. Then I took my pistol from the shelf and I said, 'good-bye, Alma.' She did not answer or move. Then I pointed the revolver at her. She was holding her hands in front of her face. Then I placed it close to her and fired twice, afterwards standing up straight and firing at my own breast. I wanted to die and so did she." TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER. Innisfell, N. W. T., April 23 .- Arthur Noble Bioletta has been committed for trial on the charge of the willful murder of his brother-in-law, David Karr. He was taken to Calgary today. TWENTY YEARS IN PENITEN-TIARY. Winnipeg, Man., April 23.—Yester-day morning W. O'Connor, found guilty of criminal conduct with little girls, all under ten years of age, was sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Nervousness and Nerve

The more nervous a man is the less nerve he has. That sounds paradoxical—but it isn't; for nerve is stamina.

Hood's Sarsaparilla gives nerve. It tones the whole system, perfects digestion and assimilation, and is therefore the best medicine a nervous person can take.

If you get tired easily mentally of the system of the system of the less medicine and take. If you get tired easily, mentally or physically, take it—it will do you good.

How Theatrical Audiences Differ-Interview With Miss Alberta Gallatin, Who Appears at the London Opera House Tonight.

In an interview yesterday with Alberta Gallatin who appeared at the London Opera House last night in "Nell Gwynne," an Advertiser reporter asked if she found any material difference in audiences in the various sections of the country over which she traveled. "Oh, yes," replied Miss Gallatin. "I find a difference in cities only fifty miles apart. For instance, I was recently playing in two western cities quite near each other. The first one gave every evidence of its apprecia-tion by numerous curtain calls and considerable applause during the acts. The following night I appeared before a large and most fashionably dressed au-dience in the second city. All the socalled 'points' went for nothing, and the curtain went down at the end of each act with what seemed to me dead and sickly thud, and with perhaps two or three friendly 'hands' from the gallery. On seeing my manager after the second act, I exclaimed:
'Please tell me what is the matter. Don't they like me?' He was unable to say, and had to admit that appearances seemed to indicate that they did not. I felt much grieved and spent a sleepless night wondering as to the cause of my failure. "The next morning I was introduced to a prominent railroad official, who informed me that he, as well as his wife and sister, had enjoyed my work and play extremely. He went on to say that I had made a most favorable im-pression on my audience, and finished his eulogy with: 'Why, no one left the theater during the play; even the manager's family in the left-hand box sat throughout the entire performance.'

"I could not refrain from laughing at this. He then added: 'Let me assure you that is a great compliment. The people of this city never applaud, but when they remain throughout an entire play it is very evident that they like it and the star.' As my notices were very fine in this same city I began to feel that I had not made a failure after all,

Umpires come and umpires go, but Bob goes on for ever—and he does it in a nice way, too. He is a quiet chap, Bob, who scarcely speaks above a whisper except at National League prices. But he does his work, and you never heard of him doing a foot race in front of an enthusiastic mob or dodging the bricks the playful fans are wont to hurl in the direction of the man with the extra mask. And when winter comes he wanders back to his native village, where the only excitement is the arrival of the railway trains and the report of the pigeon shooter's gun. Jackson, Mich., April 22.—Some 40 freight handlers at the Michigan Central freight house went on a strike Saturday night. Truckers have been paid 111/2 cents an hour and loaders 121/2 cents. About a week ago a demand was made for an increase of 121/2 cents and 15 cents an hour, and no answer being received the men struck. The local, agent gave them assurances that the increase would be granted and the trouble was over in an hour or so. HONORED A CITIZEN

Doechester Shows Regard for Ticket Agent D. Ross.

The esteem in which Mr. D. Ross is held by the people of Dorchester was manifested Tuesday evening, 'April 16, in a very significant manner. For some time his friends had been planning a surprise that would indicate to him that his services as telegraph operator and ticket clerk at Dorchester would be greatly missed, and that would be expressive of their regret at his approaching departure for Revelstoke, B. C., to take a similar position on the C. P. R. Mr. Ross was presented with a very beautiful locket and chain, appropriately inscribed, and an address, read by Mr. W. Ferguson. The presentation was made by Mr. H. Bonnel. The address was as follows:

To Mr. Dan Ross: Dear Friend, -We, a number of your friends, have met here to express our sincere regret at your leaving our midst. The recollection of harmony, and the friendly spirit which prevailed between you and us will never be forgotten; and as some small indication of our kindly feelings, will you please accept the accompanying gift as a very slight token of our love and esteem? The use of the wift we trust you will enjoy, particularly when you are reminded while using it, that it came from the hands of your former associates. We heartily join in expressions of our desire that your future life may be bright, and that prosperity may follow you. We trust that, though we will be sepour ties of friendship will never be broken. Signed on behalf of your Dorchester friends. F. P. Pickard. H. Bonnel, G. Roulston.

Mr. Ross in his reply thanked his many friends for the kind words contained in the address and also for the handsome present. He said that during his residence in Dorchester a mutual and reciprocal regard existed between him and his friends, which he hoped would always remain. He reminded them that no matter where located he would always cherish the memory of his friends in Dorchester. After the address and presentation, Mr. W. Walker gave some of the young

FIVE CHILDREN BUTCHERED. Chartres, France, April 23.-This city has been horrified by the brutal murder of five children and the attempted of their father, a farmer named Briere, residing in the neigh-

Briere returned while the murderers were robbing the house. They heard him enter the courtyard, attacked him and after a desperate struggle left him for dead with four stab wounds in the The murderers then escaped with 1,600 francs and a number of objects of value.

Inside the farmhouse there was a ghastly spectacle. The bedrooms were bespattered with blood and brains. murderers had battered out the children's brains and then cut their throats. A FEW FACTS

About the New Catarrh Cure. The new Catarrh Cure is a new departure in so-called catarrh cures, cause it actually cures, and is not simply a temporary relief.

The new Catarrh Cure is not a salve, ointment, powder nor liquid, but a pleasant lasting tablet, containing the best specifics for catarrh in a con-centrated, convenient form. The old style of catarrh salves and pintments are greasy, dirty and inconvenient at the best; the new preparation being in tablet form is always clean and convenient.

The new Catarrh Cure is superior to Catarrh powders, because it is a notorious fact that many catarrh powders contain cocaine. ders contain cocaine.

The new Catarrh Cure is called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a wholesome combination of blood root, beachwood tar, gualacol and other antiseptics, and cures by its action upon the blood and cures by its action upon the blood and mucous membrane, the only rational treatment for catarrhal trouble. You do not have to draw upon your imagination to discover whether you are getting benefit from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; improvements and relief are apparent from the first tablet All druggists sell and recommend them. They cost but 50 cents for full-sized packages, and any catarrh sufagain in a state of active eruption ferer who has wasted time and money will appreciate to the full the merit of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

ANARCHIST SPOTTED.

Madrid, April 23.-It is reported here that on the arrival at Vigo of the merchant steamer Halle, from Buenos Ayres, March 27, it was ascertained that there was an anarchist on board, believed to be implicated in a plot against the lives of several European sovereigns, formed in Rosari, Argentine and Paterson, N. polling sub-division obtain all recent information of party concern, and thus keep the local organizations alive to the work. The workers are familiar with the forms used, and they are changed or improved, just as occasion requires. Recently the Opposition press and speakers have misrepresented one of these slips and the purpose for which it was issued. They have announced that the circular was issued direct to the enumerators, with the printed instruction that each enumerator fill blanks and send the same to the Liberal candidate. No such circular has ever been issued by the Liberals, either for enumerators or any other class, and any circulars or slips that have been issued from time to time have not been sent to enumerators or those about to be appointed enumerators, but they are, casion requires it, sent to the men who work in their polling subdivisions. Men of long experience, and those of short experience, are aware of this, and it is but reasonable to think that some of these workers may also enumerators, and a few of the latter may have obtained the slips used in preparing information for the courts of revision, now that almost all the assessors have returned their rolls, and the courts of revision will be meeting in May. Schedules were also used during the past two months by the local Liberal workers for forwarding names of voters to the assessors and good results have been realized. If the recent circulars were intended for the enumerators they would have been in use weeks ago, and not kept until the second week in April. The work of the enumerators began on April 1, and was practically over before these slips reached the Liberals in the ridings. The following is the title on the back of the form which the

These slips and schedules are ordinary organization forms, used in the work of a thorough revision of the voters' lists, and those who them on hand are not the enumerators or census commissioners, but either members or candidates or officers of the local associations, and they are always to be had by the local workers whenever they them; but the work is not through the enumerators, nor other European Rulers by anarchists their appointments in any way depend upon this work, are the services of any employe of or otherwise, made use of in this organization work. It may be true that because of their fitness and from their knowledge of the polling divisions some of the best Liberal workers in the ridings are enumerators, and they are no doubt considered by all the people in the community as worthy of the position; but to brand these men as dishonest, and misprint the words of a circular to enable the charge to have some slight color of fact, is certainly dealing rashly with the truth.

We take the details from The fational Review for March, which, nmenting upon the Daily Chrone's exposure of the so-called Conlliation Committee, says: "Recently aflet, which purported to be a letter ound by Lieut. Morrison, of the Candian Artillery. It is always danpportunity of verification when you ersion of what he had written." How, nen, was this explained? The committee copied from the Manlester Guardian, and the Manchester luardian had copied from the New ork Sun. Now, the Sun has many rtues, but unhappily fairness to critain is not among them; it is the ast source to which honorable Engshment would go for dispassionate vidence on such a subject. Here is n extract from the letter. First take as given in the garbled form: 'As I stood looking, a woman, the wner of a very pretty cottage, standng in a rose garden on a side street, which was being destroyed, turned to e and pathetically exclaimed, 'Oh, ow can you be so cruel.' Mental Fatigue.

It has been often asserted that children become mentally tired out after the day's work in the school-room. So widespread has the idea become that psychologists have thought it a proper subject for investigation. The latest declaration, the result of an investigation by Dr. Thorndike, is to be found in the Psychological Review. Concluding, as he does, that mental fatigue, as a result of school work, has no existence, his conclusions will be rather startling to many. He

"The present research aims to settle the question of how much less able to work the child is, after having done the work of half or the whole of a results * * are unanimously in chool-day, than he was at start. The favor of the answer, 'He is just exactly as able.' If these results were legitimately obtained, they prove that the work in the case of the schools tested did not decrease one jot or tittle the ability of the scholars to do mental work.

Dr. Thorndike goes on to say: "The fact that the children can work as well does not at all mean that they do work as well, or that measures should not be taken for their relief. It does mean that the argument for shorter hours and longer pauses, so far as based on alleged incompetency to work under present systems, was a false argument and its measures for relief ill-considered. The more appropriate remedy would be not to give the student less to do, but to make it worth while for him to work, to make the work inter-

This learned doctor thinks that the decrease in mental work during a school-day is due more to a flagging of interest on the part of the pupil, and as a remedy he would suggest better teaching. "A tax on sugar of a penny a pound where imported from a bounty-giving foreign country, and a half-penny where imported from non-bounty-giving countries, and a farthing on British colonial sugar would produce over £10,-000,000 and prove an immense boon to the distressed West Indies, but as it is against the doctrinaire Shibboleths of free trade the Chancellor of the Exchequer is not likely to impose it, although it offers a simple and easy means of raising a large sum." Again the critic is out of it. "There is a tax on refined sugar of a half-penny in the pound, but there is no approach

A Successful Governor.

We are pleased to read the testimonies that are borne to the important work of Lord Curzon in India. To represent the King and the Empire in that great land is a difficult duty, but the present holder of the office, a man in the very prime of life, seems to be showing both wisdom and force. This is the kind of charge that he gives to the youthful Indian prince, about to going to ask Shakespeare if he wrote

A Great Public Organ.

They are trying to devise ways and means to build a monster organ in Massey Hall, Toronto, and one of the schemes is to solicit the church choirs for subscriptions. That is a pretty small piece of business. Church choirs anywhere as a rule are not drafted from the most opulent classes of the community, and the individual members make many little sacrifices of time, money and convenience. Such singing in a choir more attractive. —

We are inclined to think our contemporary on the wrong track. The bject Toronto is after, namely, the ouilding of a great public organ, to ommemorate Queen Victoria, is one which might appeal with peculiar force members of church choirs, in which here must be several thousand singers in all in Toronto, and we have no loubt the choristers would be perfectly willing for such an object to tender their corporate services, as well as their private gifts to the extent of their individual abilities.

We would be glad to see a movement for a great public organ in London, and we have no doubt the more than six hundred members of the various London church choirs, Protestant and Catholic, were they to meet together and decide to promote such an object would make a combination of influence that could powerfully aid in adding a great public organ to the attractions London already possesses.

The Methodist Book Room.

A recent issue of The Advertiser republished, from the Toronto Star, certain criticisms from the pen of Rev. E. R. Young, sen., respecting the conduct of the publishing establishment named, more particularly that part of the business which had to do with the printing and selling of fiction, which Mr. Young strongly condemned. We have been requested to state that the annual meeting of the Book and Publishing Committee is to be held of May 15 and 16, and that, in the judgment of his brethren, Mr. Young should have laid his complaint first at that court, rather than in the press. We are also informed that Dr. Briggs will not reply until the meeting of that committee, when a full answer will be

Mr. Justice Street heard an interesting suit brought by George H. Kilmer, barrister, Toronto, against H. Corey, Petrolia, formerly president of the Menzie-Turner Company. The action is one for commission in a transaction by which Mr. Corey retired and Mr. Menzie reentered the firm of window shade manufacturers, the amount of commission claimed being $1,000. O. L. Lewis, Chatham, and A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., Toronto, appeared for the defendants; Mr. Irving and G. F. Sheley, K.C., for the plaintiff. When Mr. Corey sold out his nterest in the company he was the owner of $40,000 worth of stock, and entitled to an additional $100,000, which he had advanced it by way of a loan. THE NEW OPERA HOUSE. The excavators for the foundations of the new Grand Opera House are being hampered by the loose, sandy nature of the soil. The rain of Saturday night loosened it greatly around the edges of the excavation, causing several minor cave-ins. The old frame buildings on the nouth of the site have had to be propped up to prevent their tumbling. This morning the inner sections of the cement sidewalk in front of the site fell in for about half the length of the lot, owing to the loosening of the soil under it. And when he finishes the last line of what has been his evening's entertainment, he knocks the ashes out of his pipe, the paper slides to the floor, and he indulges in a peaceful preliminary snooze, while his wife, who has been anxiously awaiting that stage of the game, picks up the paper and hunts diligently for news and bargains. With them the morning paper has no show at all, for the husband and father must take up his day's toil, and the busy housewife must clean away the breakfast things and get the children off to school. They have no time for the morning publication. The evening paper is the paper of the busy men and women whose hours of daylight must be devoted to other things than read-

Warde In "Othello."

It is to be hoped that the small attendance at the London Opera House on Saturday night was attributable to the disagreeable nature of the weather, for otherwise it would be a reproach to the artistic sentiment of London patrons of the drama if such an excellent Shakespearean actor and scholar as Mr. Frederick Warde could visit the city and present a sterling attraction like "Othello" without receiving encouraging patronage. The performance was a most enjoyable one throughout, and it is cause for regret that London is not more often given the opportunity of witnessing its like. The true friend of the stage owes a great debt to men like Mr. Warde. who refuse to cater to the demand for meretriciousness, but hold by the high ideals which were set up by the old dramatists and which must yet prove the salvation of the drama, if it is destined to continue a living power in the world of art. Of Mr. Warde's Othello one can only say that throughout it was a most finished conception of the role noble-hearted but jealousminded Moor. The tenderness of the new-made bridegroom, the dawning suspicion and growing jealousy. prompted by Iago's hints, the terrible rage and thirst for vengeance which culminated in murder, and the over-whelming remorse which ended in selfdestruction, all were portrayed with fidelity which betokens the true artist in the profession which "holds of Iago, which many critics pronounce the more difficult of the two characters, received adequate treatment by Mr. E. Hairsbreadth Escape of a Fast Train and Its Passengers—Saved by a Boy-The Ohio Has Reached the Danger Line at Cincinnati.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 22. - At three o'clock this morning the three rivers were receding at the rate of three inches an hour. The Ohio River mark s 23.3 feet and falling. One of the thrilling incidents con-nected with the flood was the hair-breadth escape from destruction of the Pennsylvania limited train, west-bound, near Tyrone, yesterday. A boy riding frantically at the side of the track, wildly waving his cap, gave the warning to the engineer that saved the train from going full speed into a landslide. Even so, the train ran into a large rock, knocking off the cow-catcher of the engine, and a Pullman was badly damaged.

At Altoona another engine was secured, and the damaged car was taken out of the train.

Promotions in the C. P. R. Service—Relations of the G. T. R. to Montreal.

A number of promotions in the C. P. R. service are announced: Mr. Wm. Whyte is to be assistant to the president; Mr. Thomas Tait is to be manager of transportation; Mr. H. P. Timmerman is to be superintendent of the Ontario and Quebec division, with headquarters at Toronto.

A high official of the Grand Trunk Railway says: During the recent debate in the Dominion House of Commons, references have been made to the Grand Trunk building up a foreign port at the expense of the city of Montreal and other Canadian ports. In that connection, the official stated that the company had spent so much in making a winter port for their road that they could not afford, from a strictly business standpoint, to let the desire to do business there all the year round. They would continue to do business in Montreal on a large scale. The point they brought out that while the company has been anxious to extend their terminal facilities in this way, valuable land has to lie idle on acthe other hand the city made many demands in connection with the gift, and in that respect the company has gone far further than even the city demanded in the way of expenditure.

Diseased Kidneys

Result From Exposure to Cold and Dampness or Injury of the Back-A Wonderfully Successful Home Treatment Is Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

Though among the most painful and atal of diseases, derangements of the kidneys are indicated by such marked symptoms that it is not necessary for anyone to be in doubt as to their ailment. Increasing weakness, debility and loss of weight; dull, heavy pains in the back, over the kidneys; frequent and pressing desire to urinate scanty, highly-colored urine; quick pulse; dry, harsh skin; constipation and diarrhea alternating; nausea and pulse: stomach troubles and dropsical swell-

As the most frequent cause of kidney disease is exposure to cold and dampness or straining of the back and kidneys, it is especially common among workingmen, teamsters, railroaders and farmers. Kidney disease is also the result of constipation, and is found to prevail among men and women of edentary habits and those accustom ed to irregular hours, highly-seasoned foods and alcoholic liquors. If a council of medical men were called to select the most effective treatment possible for kidney disease, they could not do better than choose Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This is the prescription which Dr. Chase found most efficient in his immense practice, and it is doubtful if any physician was ever more successful in treating diseases of the kidneys.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills owe much of their success to the fact that they have a direct combined action on both the kidneys and liver, and so thoroughly rid the system of complicated diseases of these filtering organs. There is no longer any doubt as to the remarkable virtue of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In Canada alone last year there were sold one hundred and ninety thousand boxes of this great kidney medicine; one pill a dose; 25c a box; all dealers, or Edmanson. yv Bates & Co., Toronto.

THOSE THAMES LICENSES

The Trouble Arose From the Advice of a Lawyer.

Toronto, April 23.-It appears that the trouble over fishing licenses in the Thames, which led to Lieut.-Col Leys resigning his seat in the legislature, arose through the advice given by a lawyer. Several persons in the neighborhood of the Cashmere dam who had applied for licenses and forwarded their license fees on the advice of the local barrister went on fishing for a day or two without waiting for their licenses. This occurred nearly two weeks ago. The department, however, did not, and will not, it is stated, is-sue the licenses applied for, and state that it has never been their practice to consider applications, and even money paid as authority for fishing temporarily unless the license is actually granted.

DROWNED AT ERIE.

Four Hands From Rockefeller Boats Met Their Death-Upset in the Gale.

Erie, Pa., April 23.—Four men em-ployed on the Rockefeller boats laid up in the upper bay were drowned Sunday afternoon from a yawl, while they were coming ashore. Their names are: Percy B. Durand, of Florence, O., 17 years old, son of G. L. Durand, of the schooner George Corliss; Thomas Greer, of Buffalo, an engineer; Miles Carmer, of Buffalo, an engineer; Guy Lapham, Painesville, O., an engineer.
The first intimation of the accident was the finding of the yawl boat yesterday. The four men left the anchored fleet in the bay some time during the afternoon, intending to spend part of the day ashore. They reached the land in safety, and were drowned on the return trip in the boat. The wind was high and there was much sea on the bay.

Madame Marton regarded her with un-Madame Marton regarded her with un-feigned astonishment, forgetting, in her surprise at the statement, to be angry at being contradicted, a circumstance which usually made her furious. "Pardon me, but I mean it," Shirley smilingly apologized. "Many of these things were made by poor people in foreign countries; and don't you believe they enjoyed earning the money in this they enjoyed earning the money in this they enjoyed earning the money in this way more than they would if it had been given to them in charity?"

"I never thought of that before," madame admitted, and looking somewhat perplexed over this presentation of the problem of political economy.

"Any right-minded person would prefer to earn money rather than have it given outright," the girl continued independently. "I love pretty things dearly," she went on, with an eager light dependently. "I love pretty things dearly," she went on, with an eager light in her beautiful eyes, "and if I were rich I would have lots of them. Oh, madame, what if God had made the world with only bare rocks and brown earth! what if there were no green grass, no flowers, no leaves on the trees, no beautiful clouds or lovely colors in the sky! It would be too dreary for anything. Don't you think so?"

"Humph!" grunted madame, but the expression on her sallow face plainly betrayed that she was considering the subject from a standpoint different from that to which she had hitherto been accustomed.

wrong for us to have and enjoy them; indeed. I think we should commit a greater wrong to ignore them, and allow God-given talents to lie dormant. I love a beautiful house and handsome aplove a beautiful house and handsome appointments, soft, warm, rich colors, fine pictures, dainty dishes, and the many other accessories which add so much to the beauty and comfort of life. I love pretty dresses, too," she added, with a mischievous sparkle in her bright eyes, "and since the skill and taste has been given to me to fashion them, I shall always use the most of my ability in that line."

"Well, well, child, you do have an earnest and remarkable way of arguing questions to make them sound very plausible," said the woman, regarding her curiously; "and so I suppose you'd like all this trumpery scattered over the house."

'Indeed I would; but I shall not agree with you that it is 'trumpery,' responded Shirley with smiling eagerness,' and if you do not like to trust the serand you may be sure I will handle them wants with so much costly bric-a-brac, I will gladly get up an hour earlier in the morning and dust everything myself, very tenderly."

"Well, well-have your way," said madame, with a shrug of her shoulders.

"I reckon that some of the people who gave me the things have thought it rather shabby in me to take their presents and then tuck them out of sight."
And to Shirley she handed the key to the closet as she concluded "Thank you, Madame Marton, ever so much," Shirley replied, her heart leaping with exultation at this concession; then following up her unlooked-for advantage, she asked: "And are you willing I should arrange my own room as I like."

'Of course, child; put as many flowers and gewgaws in it as you choose. They won't bother anybody but yourself," said the woman, turning away as if she had had enough of the subject.

"And so, during the week that followed, Shirley made the most of her privileges. Her first work was to empty the closet of its precious contents and arrange them about the rooms, filling the vases with the choicest flowers that the domain contained, and which the gardener seemed only too happy to cut for her, making the house, even with these slight changes, seem like an entirely different place.
Then, the first time that madame took her to the city she purchased some inexpensive material, and, by rising with the sun for a week, she managed to complete some dainty draperies for the windows in her room.

This done, she smuggled the gardener and a step-ladder into the house, one afternoon, while Madame Marton was afternoon, while Madame Marton was taking her usual nap, and had them and her pictures all hung before she awoke. She had begged a couple of old willow rockers, which she had found stowed away in the attic, and these, with the help of the same ally, she had cleansed and painted white, while with a pretty blue and white cushion and a dainty tidy for each they proved to be a great tidy for each, they proved to be a great addition to the room.

The unsightly black marble mantel she draped with a long silken scarf—another home souvenir—and, with a bright throw here and there, and the rich old Indian shawl in lieu of a rug, no one would have recognized the place as the same bare, cheerless apartment to which she had been consigned on the night of her artical when it was all finished, she filled her vases with fresh flowers and invited madame to come and make her a call.

She had not said a word to her about what she was doing, after having obtained permission to arrange the room as she choose, and so Madame Marton had not given the matter a second thought. Shirley had not failed in the performance of a single duty while thus engaged—she had read her regular hours, she had walked with madame, she had accompanied her upon her drives every afterneon, and so she had used no time that did not belong to herself in thus beautifying her apartment.

"Nothing, only I thought perhaps you would like to see my room; you know you gave me permission to arrange it as I like." Shirley answered, flushing slightly at madame's tone.

the open windows upon the handsome Indian shawl, which lay in the middle of the floor, thus bringing out its rich colors to perfection. The two pretty white rockers stood invitingly in opposite corners; the spotless draperies swayed gently in the breeze; the flowers in their vases nodded brightly and exhaled the sweetest perfume; and the whole scene was like a revelation of some other sphere to the sternly practical, narrow-minded woman, who all her life had obstinately persisted in trying to shut out all beauty from her existence.

She stopped short on the threshold and looked about her for a minute without speaking, while her sharp eyes took in every detail of the change before her.

Then she turned to Shirley:

"Child, when did you do it?" she demanded, in a tone of wonder.

"A little at a time during the last week," she replied, with rising color, for she was not quite sure, from the expression of madame's eye, that she was exactly pleased.

"Where did you get those chairs?" was the next query, for the woman had not recognized them in their new dress.

"Where did you get those chairs?" was the next query, for the woman had not recognized them in their new dress.
"They are those old ones from the attic which you gave me leave to take," Shirley explained.
"Those dainty things?"
"Yes; I bought a little can of white paint in the city, and James and I gave them their clean coat one afternoon between sunset and dark," said the young girl, who was determined that she should know the whole truth.
"Humph! The curtains, too, I suppose, are some of your work?"
"Yes, madame."

"Humpn: The curtains, too, I suppose, are some of your work?"

"Yes, madame."

"Haven't you any better use for your money than to spend it in fitting up other people's houses?" madame inquired, with caustic sarcasm.

Shirley began to look troubled.

"I hope you are not offended with me, Madame Marton," she gently remarked; "but I am fond of draperies, and the windows were so tall and bare; besides, the muslin was inexpensive."

Apparently madame paid no heed to these observations, for her sharp eyes were now riveted upon the costly square that lay in the center of the floor.

"Goodness gracious!" she exclaimed, throwing up her hands, and bristling with displeasure at such wanton desecration: "and a thousand dollar Indian shawl for a carpet! Where did you come by such a treasure, and how dare you put it to such a use?"

a treasure, and how dare you put it to such a use?"
"It is an heirloom," said Shirley, flushing hotly beneath this severe censure.
"It was given to my grandmother by a weathly relative, and she gave it to mamma when she died. Of course it came to me when I lost my mother, and I am very careful of it. I do not step upon it at all. I fold it at night and only keep it spread on the floor daring the day. The room is so large and looks as here without anything." the day. The room is so large and looks so bare without anything—"
"Hoity-toity! I've lived on bare floors all my life, and I'm pretty well preserved, even yet," interposed the woman, with sharp contempt. Then she added, authoritatively, and with a peculiar companyers of her thin lips: pression of her thin lips:
"Take up the shawl, fold it, and put it away. Such things were not made to

Dr. Cl. T. Campbell's Interesting Address Before Normal School Pupils.

Sanitary Science and Hygiene Are Taught in a Practical Way by a Practical Man.

arged the staff of the Normal School ere by the appointment of Dr. Cl. T. Campbell as lecturer on sanitary science and hygiene. The idea is to give the students a short, practical course on matters affecting the health of pupils and teachers in the public schools. Dr. Campbell's method will, it is un derstood, consist of conversational addresses on personal hygiene of teach ers, school sanitation, conduct in em ergencies and other practical subjects. Dr. Campbell is not only a man of sei entific attainments, but one who has the advantage of being a capable pub-

A man can be compared to a city. The city is composed of individuals; these are continually dying, and the dead must be removed, or the become a source of danger; and new arrivals, by birth or immigration, must take their places. Individually, each citizen is an independent living creature: and if he were entirely alone, would manage to live after a fashion. But united with his fellow-citizens, there is a division of labor, and each takes some special work, and fills some special place, and both the individuals and the community are benefited by the arrangement. So a man is made up of individual cells, each capable of an independent existence; but united in the body, they divide their labors, and voted to the accomplishment toplasm, modified into vegetable

The great plagues that scourged the most ago, are now scarcely known, except by name; while the span of human life has been lengthened, as shown by the experience of England, which has an annual death rate of 17.5 per 1,000, as compared with 80 in the 1,000 two centuries since. Modern sanitation is based on a knowledge of anatomy and physiology, and the influence on the body of its surrounding circumstances, such as heat and cold, light and darkness, food, clothing, climate, occupa-tion. Every occupation, for example, has its attendant dangers and diseases, which have to be avoided. The special dangers to health for the teacher were those incidental to mental overwork, and a sedentary life—such as brainfag, nervous disease, dyspepsia, anaemia, consumption. Mental labor is not mia, consumption. Mental labor is not injurious; but to preserve health there must be an equable balance of the processes of waste and repair; all parts must be exercised, and all must have opportunity for rest. The muscle worker uses his brain to some extent, as well as his body; and sleep gives him the needed rest for both. But the brain er uses his brain to some extent, as worker seldom uses his muscle; and so, while one part of his system is wearing out, the other part is rusting out he reight had the bars been The only remedy for the ills that arise But when it came to form of from this condition is in the regular althe champion brand, Adam Beck, of ternation of mental and physical work. And to obtain the full benefit of this exercise it must be aken out of doors, where the vivifying influences of sunlight and pure air can be secured to assist all the bodily funcions engaged in the work of repair. To meet special requirements different forms of exercise are needed. Athletics will develop certain muscles; rowing will strengthen the respiration; and so Violent exercise, however, for a special purpose, as in running, or professional rowing, cycling, or other games, is liable to overstrain, and cause serious injury to the heart and lungs. But to repair waste of brain and nerve tissue, walking will do the most good, and the least harm. Attention was called to the fact that exercise which is pleasurable is always more beneficial than that which is monoton ous and uninteresting. And teachers were advised to adopt some hobby, which would involve outdoor work. like the study of botany or entomology By this means they would obtain the necessary exercise, and develop both adding largely to their store of useful this matter was enforced by referring to the fact that a teacher, no matter how well educated, is incapable of do-ing good work, and of managing little children properly, while suffering from the nervous irritation that accompanies ill-health, or an unevenly balanced system. Pay When Cured.

This is Dr. McLaughlin's offer to Weak Men. Rheumatics, Dyspeptics, Men with Lame Backs, Weak Kidneys, Lest Vitality, Varicocele. Wasting of Vital Strength, Sciatica, Constipation, "Come and Go" Pains and to Women with the Weaknesses Peculiar to their Sex.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt, with its Special Attachments for Either Sex, Restores Youth, Strength and the Pleasure of Living.

I know how sceptical people are after paying hundreds of dollars to doctors without getting any benefit, and knowing that any man would willingly pay for a cure when he gets it, I now offer to all honest men what no other man has ever offered them—a complete restoration to manly vigor and health before you pay a cent. There is no deception about this offer, either in the making of it or in carrying it out. All I ask is fair security that I will be paid when the work is done; this any honest man will be glad to give. I I take all the chances—you take none. Is that fair? Do you want any better evidence of my confidence in my belt?

Now, if you suffer, do not lay this aside and say you will try it later, because I will not continue this offer much longer. Act upon it to-day-NOW.

If you are close enough to call, do so. Let me show you the difference between ny up-to-date appliance and old-style, burning Electric Belts. Let me prove to you why my belt cures when they fail. If you will call I will give you a free treatment to show you how I cure.

SPECIAL NOTICE—If you have a belt that burns, or a "no-electricity" band which has disappointed you, bring it in and I will allow If you can't call, write for my beautiful descriptive book, showing how my belt is used and giving hundreds of letters from grateful people. Mr. Loveless arrived in London on a Sunday in March, 1844, having with his father walked through the woods from Hamilton, where they had come a few days previously from England. Set-tling on a farm on the sixth concession, then very sparsely occupied, by strenuous and constant labor, deceased hewed from the forest a comfortable and thriving homestead, and became one of the best best-known and most popular farmers in the district. He was married to Miss Annie McGuffin, daughter of Mr. Hugh McGuffin, a pioneer of Nissouri, and her three brothers, Messrs. Eurastus, Robert and Joseph, are well-known residents in that township; another brother, Mr. Wm. McGuffin, lives in this city. Some twelve years ago Mr. Loveless retired from the farm and came to live in London, where the family, with the exception of one son, Hugh, of New York, now reside, and by his kind and friendly nature he had made many warm friends here.

MORGAN

The Steel King's Power in the Anthracite Industry.

At His Dictation the Usual Summer Drop Will Not Be Large.

The name of J. Pierpont Morgan brings of inconceivable millions invested in the steel industry. To those of us who are not constructing railroads, nor building either warships or bridges, he seems no closer than other Aladdin-like personages whose power has been felt in countries other than our own. Still, the steel industry is only one of this man's playthings. To vary the monotony of controlling simply the steel output of America, and of managing several immense railway concerns and an extensive banking business, he betheught himself of another interest for his fertile mind—the coal trade—and by making use of his vast money power, he secured the governing influence in several railroads that have the closest possible relations with the anthracite industry. The output of the Morgan roads now amounts to 40,614,823 tons each year, or 85.21 per cent of the American output. Thus it comes to be that his name may be associated directly with your home interests, for the coal that you have burned recently, and will burn in the future, is Morgan coal, and he dictates its price.

His hard coal prices for this summer, and as far on as next March, are now in the hands of London coal men, and they can judge pretty accurately what the retail price will be. The announcement shows that the initial summer price will probably be only 50 cents less than the highest winter price of this year, which is now top notch. This first information has considerable significance in this city. At present there are some 50,000 tons of anthracite coal burned here annually, so that it means something if prices are to be held up. If local dealers are to retain the same margin of profit which they now enjoy, hard coal will have to open at $6.25. It is $6.50 now. However, it is likely that a slight reduction will be made, cutting into the local profits, in order to start the coal from the bins early. If the opinions of leading coal men go for anything, the selling price of hard coal will open as high as between $6 to $6.25. In other places it has been stated the high prices for hard coal that obtained here during the years of the famine and the strike, caused an increased use of soft coal. London dealers claim that the local trade was not affected to any appreciable extent, though with the railroads taken into consideration, 200,000 tons of bituminous coal are consumed here each year. Local dealers account for the high prices quoted for 1901-1902 by the formation of t America, and of managing several immense railway concerns and an extensive

"For over four years I have been in poor health, and received treatment from two doctors besides using seven kinds of patent medicines. I also sent to New York and got a month's treat-ment of a special medicine, but no good results came from it. I was run down, suffered terribly, could not rest at night, and every morning had a severe pain in my back, dizziness in my head, and vomited bitter green matter, and East Middlesex Commissioners Consider Celery Compound and decided to give it a trial, and am happy to report that it worked wonders. The pains are all gone, I rest well at night, my appetite is good, and my health is now splen-did. Paine's Celery Compound has
