

GRIP THIEF CAUGHT WITH STOLEN GOODS!

J. Corrin, of 425 Bathurst St., Neatly Run Down by P. C. Fysh.

STOLE VALISE
AT G. T. R. DEPOT

Prisoner Is a Young Man—
Remanded for Trial On Three Counts.

P. C. Fysh made a clever arrest last night, when he placed John Corrin, a young man employed at Leonard's, and residing at 425 Bathurst street, in the cells on a charge of stealing grips at different times from the local railway stations.

At the police court this morning, Mayor Beattie, after hearing the evidence, committed Corrin for trial on three charges, and Crown Attorney McKillop stated that there would be nothing done in the fourth.

Last night when Mr. Frank Lawson, of London, came in on the C. P. R. train from Toronto, he had occasion to go into the waiting-room for a few minutes, and left his overcoat and valise on the floor.

When he returned a few minutes later he found both articles gone.

Alleged Thief Was Arrested.

Fortunately for Mr. Lawson, Howard Jones and his brother, Chester, two youths who came over from Detroit to see the fair, were standing there, and at once gave Mr. Lawson a description of the man whom they had seen pick up the grip and coat.

The police were notified, and in a very short time P. C. Fysh took Corrin into custody in the Walpole House.

In court this morning both the James boys identified him positively as the man whom they saw take the things.

Property Identified.

After Corrin had been arrested, Detective Eglinton went down to the prisoner's home and in his room found two suitcases.

In one of them was a quantity of articles which Mr. William Mountjoy, of The Advertiser, identified as belonging to him.

Mr. Mountjoy said he left his grip on a seat for a few minutes last Saturday in the G. T. R. waiting-room. He noticed a man sitting in the adjoining seat.

Corrin, he said, was the man, and when Mr. Mountjoy came back his valise was gone.

Sent for Trial.

Detective Eglinton stated that Corrin had told him that he had stolen the valise taken by him at the C. P. R. station on Saturday, Sept. 10. It is thought to belong to James Hewson, of Appleton.

Corrin was sent for trial on three separate charges of theft. He is a boiler-maker, and previous to his arrest was employed at Leonard's. Bail was refused.

DON'T CARE MUCH FOR RENOMINATION—TAFT

And Intimates That Only One
Republican Can Be Elected
Next Time.

New York, Sept. 15.—The New York Times tomorrow will print the following dispatch under a Beverly date:

"I am not thinking of 1912; in fact, I don't know what I am going to do. From the way things are drifting, it may be that no Republican can be elected, save possibly one."

"From a trustworthy source the New York Times' correspondent learns that this was the statement President Taft made several weeks ago to a friend with whom he was discussing the political outlook for 1912. From an entirely different source the correspondent is informed that President Taft made substantially the same remark to another friend. These statements have been repeated among the intimate associates of the President until they are almost common property, and for his reason additional weight is given to a dispatch also along these lines sent out from here today."

"The subject is in the minds of many prominent Republicans, and friends of the President are understood to believe that his course is bound to be a matter for frequent speculation from now on."

BOY SCOUTS RALLY ON SATURDAY

Local Body Now Numbers Above a Hundred.

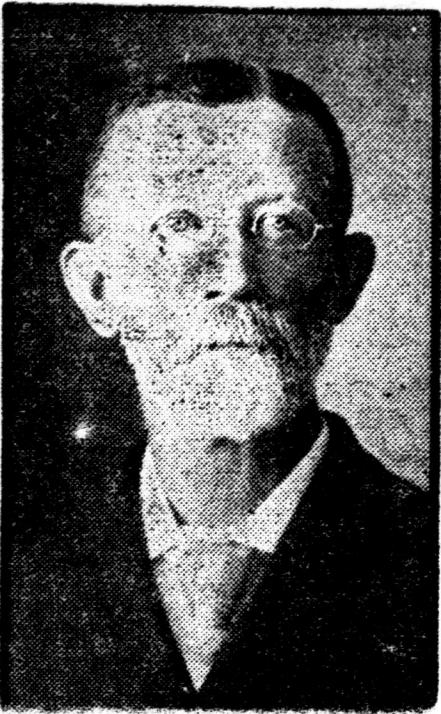

A rally of the Boy Scouts will be held on Saturday afternoon next in Queen's Park, and all boys interested in the work, whether members of the corps or not are requested to attend.

The London Boy Scouts now number nearly 100, and it is expected that fully 100 more will be enrolled this fall. The work appeals to the boys strongly, and a programme of active manoeuvres will probably be arranged for shortly by which the Scouts will be divided up, and each section in command of one of the officers will be instructed in practical work by actually doing it. All over the country the formation of Boy Scouts is being taken up with enthusiasm as it was by the boys of England, when Major Baden-Powell started the work some time ago.

A CASE OF RABIES.

VAN CLEVE SAYS TO HOLD GRAYDON

New City Official Advises That Old Official Be Kept For Six Months at Least.

Consulting Engineer Graydon will not be asked to hand in his resignation for a time at least if Head Engineer Van Cleve has his way.

At a meeting of the board of works held this morning a letter was read from Mr. Van Cleve, in which he accepted the position. Incidentally, he suggested that Mr. Graydon be kept in the city's service for six months' time at least.

"I would also take the liberty," he says, "of suggesting at this time, that the services of the past engineer, Mr. Graydon, be retained for a period of six months. I make this suggestion, firstly, because it would appear to be a fitting recognition of the long services which Mr. Graydon has rendered to the city of London, and secondly, for the reason that I will thus have an opportunity to become familiar in all respects with the work heretofore under Mr. Graydon's direction, it being possible that all the information in regard to the several works may not be a matter of complete record. I will advise you as soon as possible as to the date at which I can undertake the duties of my office, and think that such time will not be long delayed."

The committee filed the letter, but it is understood that the movement on foot to get rid of Mr. Graydon will not be carried out at this time. Nothing will be done now in any event until Mr. Van Cleve is on the ground.

MISSIONARY IN INDIA

Rev. D. A. Gunn to Go Out Under the Auspices of Baptists.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Rev. D. A. Gunn, of Calgary, has been recommended for Baptist missionary work in India, and he may go early in November. At one time Mr. Gunn was secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at the Soo, and at present is provincial secretary of the Sunday School Teachers' Training Association for Alberta.

A conference between a committee of pastors on the Dominion Board of Baptist Foreign Mission and a committee from the American Evangelical, Lutheran Missionary Board of Philadelphia take place in Toronto early in October, when matters of common interest in India will be discussed.

WORKING TOGETHER.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—"The way the Protestants and Roman Catholics are working together in the temperance cause in Quebec, is certainly hopeful," said Rev. J. W. Atkins, field secretary of temperance and moral reform for the Methodist Church, yesterday.

Mr. Atkins, who has just returned from touring the eastern provinces, told of a successful temperance congress at Knowlton, Que. He also spoke of Archbishop Bruchesi's firm stand as another sign of progress.

Miss Jean Hutton, of 269 Colborne St., Is an Additional Victim.

The department of education continues to ignore geographical boundaries, and another student of the London Collegiate Institute has been asked to go to the Hamilton Normal School, although there is a Normal in the city.

In addition to the list published in The Advertiser some days ago, Miss Jean Hutton, of 269 Colborne street, has been ordered to report to Hamilton when the school opens.

A great deal of dissatisfaction has arisen over this matter, but so far the department of education has refused to do anything whatever to relieve the situation.

"It is a downright shame," said a prominent educationist to The Advertiser. "These students should not be compelled to go so far from home when every facility is right at hand. The department of education apparently has no idea whatever of geographical boundaries. Some of the clerks should at least be furnished with a map of the province. Such work is very silly, to say the least."

DOROTHY McCANN WINS SCHOLARSHIP

London Young Lady Distinguishes Herself at Western University.

Miss Dorothy McCann, daughter of Mr. B. C. McCann, of this city, has won the scholarship of Western University for the city of London.

The senate of Western University made the announcement today, and Miss McCann is receiving the congratulatory of friends on her success.

Miss McCann, of Lucan, won the scholarship for the county of Middlesex.

COUNCIL WILL MAKE ANOTHER ATTEMPT

Efforts to Appoint a Water Commissioner Are to Be Resumed.

The committee of the whole council will meet tonight to endeavor to select a successor to the late A. T. McWhin on the water commission.

So far no agreement has been reached. Another effort was made to secure the consent of Mr. John White to accept the place, but so far with indifferent success. The name of Mr. Frank Lawson is the latest to be added to the number of possible nominees. The water commissioners will also meet tonight, and a joint conference may be held.

Mr. W. M. Spencer is another citizen whose name has been mentioned in connection with the vacancy.

BERLIN ASKS FOR POWER CELEBRATION

Mr. Beck Promises to Take the Matter into His Consideration.

Mayor Hahn, Mr. Laekner, M. P. P. Aid. K. Laing, and Ald. Jansen, of Berlin, are in the city today, to interview Hon. Adam Beck regarding the official opening of the Niagara power lines.

The Minister of Power met them at the station, and with Mr. Philip Pock, he took the visitors about the city.

They were first shown the London waterworks system, and the artesian well plant was shown them.

Later they were taken to the London Club for lunch. They were then taken to the Byron sanatorium, and shown through the grounds.

When they had concluded their visit there they were brought back to the city, and shown the Western Fair. They were more than delighted with what they saw.

It has not been officially announced where the official opening of the Niagara power line will be held. The Berlin people laid their claims before Mr. Beck, and he promised to take them into his consideration.

Later an announcement will be made on the matter.

THORNDALE MAN OUT ON RAMPAGE

James Smith Was Real Rough and Was Put in Jail.

James Smith, of Thorndale, who started out to "do" the fair yesterday in the course of his ramblings, accumulated a cargo of stimulants and became as much unbalanced as the influence that he wished to go to sleep on the steps of the Majestic Theatre.

The manager objected, and the inebriated one started in to "clunk up" on him. In the end, however, he was what roughly handled. This, however, only seemed to arouse his ire, and when P. C. Probyn arrived, he informed the officer that he had not had enough yet, and wanted some more, and started in to "clunk up" on him.

The match, however, and by the time the officer got through with him, he said he didn't think he would care to walk to the police station, and wanted to ride. He was accommodated with a ride in the patrol. This morning he was allowed to go.

ALLEGED CROOK ARRESTED ON CHARGES OF "PLUCKED" A SEQUEL TO WESTERN FAIR

Thomas Kipp, of Ottawa, Is Charged With Bare-Faced Robbery
On the Exhibition Grounds—Sent for Trial
On One Charge.

Thomas Kipp, a dapper-looking little chap, who hails from Ottawa, got himself into a peck of trouble at the fair grounds last night through working a cash extracting process that appears to have been extremely profitable.

Kipp appeared on the grounds with a very large suitcase, and in a short time was doing the old-time stunt of giving away collar buttons, lead pencils, fountain pens, and sundry other articles.

Every now and then Mr. Kipp would hand back the purchase money, and make the purchaser a present of a whole outfit whatever it might happen to be.

Naturally, he drew a big crowd, and among them was Eldon Gould, a youth residing at 217 Hamilton road.

Burnt a Hole in Pocket.

Young Gould had a five-dollar bill that was fairly burning a hole in his pocket, and when Kipp produced razors and offered to sell them at $1, Gould was among those who handed up his "V."

Kipp told Gould to stay around awhile and he would get his change. Gould stayed around, but when some of the crowd began to yell "Stung," he began to feel uncomfortable. He went and requested his change immediately from Kipp, and Kipp told Gould that he had a wife and 17 children in the poorhouse, and packed up his bill, and crumpling a big wad of bills into his pocket, walked away.

120,000 PEOPLE SAW THE FAIR LACK OF MIDWAY DISCUSSED MATTER TO BE THRESHED OUT

Board of Directors of the Exhibition Alluded to the Omission at a Meeting Today But Nothing Will Be Done Until the Big Show Is Over.

This is closing day at the Western Fair, and although the exhibitors break away this evening, there was a good crowd at the grounds.

The attendance is more largely confined to the citizens than any previous day, and while the crowd will not be anything like that of Wednesday or Thursday, it will be larger than on Friday of last year.

Quite a number of school children are on hand, the majority desiring to wait until today rather than take a chance in the crowds that attended yesterday.

Today saw quite a number of people on the grounds, and from what can be learned there are about 1,000 more people present than a year ago.

Directors' Meeting.

At the daily meeting of the directors today, there was little business of a serious nature to be transacted.

There was quite a discussion, however, concerning the Midway. It is no secret that the Midway this year was a failure. Who is to blame is quite a different problem, but it is quite certain that there will be a decided change next year.

This year's board can do but little, as their term of office is all but expired. But they will send some recommendations to next year's board. It is likely that something of a more tangible nature will be submitted.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

The rest of the sectionmen had a narrow escape. East had both legs broken, and his head was badly hurt, while Graham was badly cut about the face and head. East was about 50 years old, and leaves a widow, while Graham was about 28 years of age, and leaves a widow and one child.

READY MADE FARMS

Those of the C. P. R. at Sedgewick
Nearly Completed.

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 15.—Forty out of fifty sets of buildings on the ready-made farms, near Sedgewick, are nearly completed. These farms are to be occupied by British settlers, whom the C. P. R. is bringing out to Canada early in 1911. The recent rains stopped in time to save threshing operations, and the crops in Southern Alberta are looking remarkably well. In the Wetaskiwin district, threshing operations are under way, and show excellent results.

Vat Bursts Letting Loose 18,000

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 15.—A vat at a brewery here collapsed yesterday while workmen were repairing its foundation. The vat contained 18,000 gallons of beer, which poured through the cracks. The workmen were caught in the rush and were rescued with difficulty from drowning. The beer found an outlet in the sewer, which showed a head of over three feet when it discharged the "suds" into the Maumee River.

SAVED HONEYMOONERS, GOT $5,000 REWARD

Capt. Turnavick Saved Lives of Bartlett Courts and His Bride.

Montreal, Sept. 16.—The arrival here this morning of Capt. E. Turnavick, owner of a fishing fleet operating on the Labrador coast, and commander of one of his own vessels, brings to light a remarkable tale of romance. Capt. Turnavick reached the city in time to receive a check for a thousand pounds, which arrived for him in the English mail this morning. It was from Mr. Bartlett Courts, of London, as a reward for saving his life and that of his bride. The Bartlett couple started from the Shetland Islands, where he has an estate, in his private yacht on their wedding tour last July. The yacht was blown out across the Atlantic in a big storm in which the three members of the crew were drowned. Captain Turnavick, in his fishing schooner, came across the couple clinging to each other in the steering of the sinking yacht off the Labrador coast, near Cape Muskivik, and rescued them. He sent them back to England on another fishing vessel. This morning he received his reward.

SHEEP WINNERS AT THE FAIR

Names of Some of the Exhibitors Who Took Prizes at the Big Show.

MORE CHICKEN AWARDS

Attendance in the Live Stock Department on Thursday Was Very Great.

Thursday's attendance in the cattle sheds and poultry building reached high-water mark. All day long, and especially from 12 o'clock, there never was a slack moment. The writer fails to recollect a Thursday when there were so much interest taken in viewing the live stock and poultry.

Many visitors from Calgary and Southern Alberta were on the grounds. Quite a few were purchasers of fancy poultry, and good prices were realized in most cases.

In conversation with a western poultry breeder, The Advertiser man gained much information regarding the chicken industry in the west. Like all other branch of industry there, the poultry business is just in its infancy, but promises to be one of great importance, especially in Alberta, where the weather is favorable to the hatching and rearing of poultry every month in the year.

The sheep end of the Western Fair like the rest of the live stock is certainly a credit to Western Ontario. Nowhere on this continent is there a province or state that can compare with Western Ontario for high-class sheep, of which London is the center.

Below will be found a number of winners in sheep and poultry:

Cotswold sheep—T. H. Shore, White Oak, makes a fine exhibit in this class, winning 9 firsts, 6 seconds, and 4 thirds. J. H. Campbell, Jericho Post-office, wins in Cotswolds, 6 seconds, and 5 thirds.

Leicester sheep—James Snell, Clinton, wins 6 seconds, 2 firsts, and 1 third. Alex. Smith, Maple Lodge, wins 1 first, 2 seconds, and 4 thirds. A. W. Whitelaw, Guelph, won 6 firsts, 4 seconds, 4 thirds, and 1 champion. Shropshires—Jones Bros., Burford, captured many prizes.

J. and J. D. Campbell, Woodville, make a good record, winning 1 first, 2 seconds and 4 thirds.

Southdowns—Robert McEwen, Byron, scored well—3 firsts, 7 seconds, and 3 thirds.

Dorset sheep—R. H. Harding, Thorncliffe, took everything in sight—10 firsts, 6 seconds, 2 thirds and 1 fourth. J. A. Orchard, Shedden, 3 seconds, and 5 thirds.

Oxford Downs—G. Barbour, Erin, makes a clean sweep, 9 firsts, 4 seconds and 4 thirds.

Hampshires—John Kelly, Shakespeare, cleans up in grand style, 8 firsts, 5 seconds, 3 thirds, 1 fourth.

Lincoln Sheep—J. & Sons, Highgate, have the goods, and win out, with 10 firsts, 6 seconds, 2 thirds and 2 bronze medals.

Queries Answered.

TREASURER—Is it any more than duty of a treasurer of a church trustee board or any society treasurer to borrow money for running expenses than it is for the secretary or any member of the board or society, when such secretary or member is requested to borrow the money?

ANS.—It is not the duty of a treasurer to borrow money, unless specially authorized to do so by the board or society upon whose credit the money is to be secured—and who may authorize and empower any other member or officer to secure a loan to be handed over to the treasurer whose duty it is to receive and to pay out all the money of the board or society. The money is borrowed by the board or society, and the treasurer or other officer or member negotiating the loan acts as an agent, whose authority must be shown to the lender of the money.

LEMIEUX ACT CRITICS.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 15.—The Lemieux trades dispute act was the chief subject of discussion at this morning's session of the Canadian Federation of Labor, it being both commended and criticised. Some of the delegates wanted the scope of the act extended so as to cover all classes of labor. Some delegates, on the other hand, thought the act needed amendment in other ways, claiming it was at present cumbersome and of very little benefit to the workmen.

YOUTHFUL ELOPERS TRAVEL 2,500 MILES

A Lad of 18 and Girl of 16 Caught in Chicago After a Long Trip From Spokane.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—The 2,500-mile elopement journey planned by George Widner, 18 years old, and 16-year-old Noma Kirby, of Creston, Wash., came to a sudden end when the youthful pair, after travelling from Spokane, stepped from a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train into the arms of an unromantic Chicago policeman, and were placed under arrest.

A suspicious and inquisitive railway conductor and lack of romantic sentiment in the breasts of Chicago policemen are blamed by the young elopers, who, after four months of waiting and trying, had eluded the intended bride's parents, only to be arrested more than two thousand miles from home. Amid a flood of tears and protestations of love on the part of the 16-year-old girl who seeks to become a bride, and exhortations to be brave and that all will come right, from the young intended groom, the pair were separated. Widner being sent to a cell at the Central station and the girl to the Harrison street annex until her parents had been notified.

Two years ago young Widner went to the Pacific coast to seek his fortune. He found employment on the fruit ranch of Miller Kirby, the father of the intended bride.

Four months ago the pair became engaged, and since that time have been but waiting an opportunity to elude the vigilance of Miller Kirby, and be married. At last the chance came. The Kirby family went to Spokane to see the circus. Young Widner was with the party. In the evening the young couple said they were going around the corner for a soda, and thus the start on the long elopement journey was made.

In less than half an hour from the time the pair had left the family of the bride, they were on their way. A postal to the father of the girl, mailed before they started, said: "Dear Father—Don't be worried, we are going east. 'Noma and George'."

Damascus, Virginia, was the destination planned by the two. Here Widner had spent his boyhood, and for more than a year he had been saving his wages in order that he might take his bride to his home village and there be married.

"I have saved for more than a year in order to take this trip," Widner told the police. "I paid $126 for the two tickets, and I can't see why if Noma and I want to get married, that the police should separate us. We came here in the day coach so as to save money to start up housekeeping. I love her and I am sure she loves me, even though her parents may come for her. If they get us this time we will try it again."

At the Harrison street annex, the 16-year-old intended bride, in her short-brown dress, vowed she loved George, and would never go home unless she was forced to do so by the police.

FRENCH AVIATORS TO FLY OVER ALPS

Preparations For Sail Across the Mighty Mountains Into Italy.

Paris, Sept. 15.—Great preparations are being made for crossing the Alps by aeroplane. The flight is to be from Brigues to Milan. It will start Sunday, Sept. 18, and six days are allowed for its completion. Many aviators are anxious to make the attempt, but only five are to be chosen by the committee, no others will be permitted to start.

Complete arrangements are being made for the convenience of the five. Sheds fitted with electric light have been erected at the stopping points and starting places have been selected, some of which are 2,000 feet above sea level.

Each of the five aviators will have at his disposal a fast automobile, with an official to give him all necessary help authorized by the rules of the contest. The course is from Brigues to Demodola above the railroad and river, and thence to Milan. A line of motor boats will mark the route, the motor boats being used across Lake Maggiore. A special service of motor boats has been organized, Alpine soldiers have been stationed at the Montserrat Pass to make signals with oxyhydrogen light. At the Milan aerodrome a captive balloon will mark the final landing place.

To Offer $50,000 Prize.

It has been decided by the Paris municipal council to offer an annual prize of $50,000 for an aerial circuit of France, passing through the large cities—Paris, Bordeaux, Marseille, Lyons and back to the capital.

President Fallieres has ordered a prize to be awarded at the coming aviation meet at Bordeaux, near the president's native town, Loupillo. The prize is to go to the French constructor whose aeroplane wins the most laurels at the meet.

Henry Deutsch has put up another prize to promote further development. This is to go to the first aviator who makes a flight of 200 miles in two sages, carrying five passengers. M. Deutsch says he wishes to encourage the building of a practical aeroplane, which will be comfortable for touring, and may fly the Sahara.

Under the latest decision of the French ministry of war a regular aeroplane service across the Sahar Desert is to be established. It is to be from Colomb Bechar, the southern station of Algeria, to Timbuctoo. The French National Aerial League has been considering the idea with the ministry for over a year. Now it plans to be definitely decided. After the autumn manoeuvres four new posts will be created with twelve aeroplane each and twelve officer instructors. It is proposed to build relay stations for repairs and supplies.

At the desert posts work is expected to be satisfactorily carried on during the winter, as the winter weather there is more favorable for flights than it is in France. The distance from Colomb Bechar to Timbuctoo is about 1,000 miles. At present the journey requires four months. It is anticipated that with proper relays the trip will be made by aeroplanes in a few days easily.

In 1894, 4,063 trespassers lost their lives on American railroads; five years later the number was 5,000, and in 1907 the number killed was 5,612, more than 15 a day.

LONDON, FRIDAY, SEPT. 16.

ATTACKING THE MOTHER COUNTRY.

Sir James Whitney's attack upon the mother country, which is printed in full in the Standard of Empire, is mortifying to self-respecting Canadians. Here is one passage:

"We want something done, and something must be done, or the Empire will in time be but a recollection. You (the British people) have set up a golden age to be worshipped, and it is worshipped, and you forbid any one to discuss its omnipotence or its right to be worshipped. You say, 'We will worship it, and no matter if a greater god arises alongside it, we will not allow any other gods.' All I can say is that if Great Britain continues in that frame of mind the ties which bind the Dominion to her will be loosened. We want a remedy—some remedy! If preference be the remedy, then let us have it! We do not care what we have so long as we are fairly treated. Give us this, and the bonds of Empire, which are so strong now, will become even stronger."

This amazing utterance is insulting to Canada and Great Britain alike. In what respect are we not getting fair play? Great Britain throws open her market freely to Canadian products, while we obstruct British imports by a tariff ranging from 15 to 20 per cent. Great Britain puts all the power of her diplomacy, her navy, and army, behind us, free of cost. She permits us to negotiate trade treaties with other countries. Sir James Whitney himself says that we are "practically independent." But he tells the British people that we will consider ourselves unfairly treated, and will desert the Empire, unless, in addition to these privileges, they tax their bread and meat for our advantage. This is a deplorable misrepresentation of Canadian opinion. It is a libel upon the imperial sentiment of this country. It is grossly unjust to the mother country. Fortunately the British people regard Sir Wilfrid Laurier as the authoritative spokesman of the Dominion, and he has promptly repudiated Sir James Whitney's deliverance. If a premier of Ontario has done, Canada would today be an object of contempt to a large portion of the British nation.

RUBBER.

The two sensations in the industrial world during the past year have been the motor rage and the rubber boom. The former had much to do with creating the latter. There has been nothing else in years comparable to either. The motor craze has been most pronounced in America; the rubber boom in Great Britain. It is a cause for legitimate boasting in Great Britain that a new and wonderful source of wealth has been largely captured by British enterprise. Says the London Nation:

"The new rubber plantations of the Malay Peninsula, entirely financed by British capital and controlled by British management, are a marvellous proof of what this country can do. Half the world's rubber is consumed by the United States. Probably three-quarters at least of the cultivated rubber is British. Here is a new and enormously profitable trade captured and monopolized within the last few years by British adventurers."

It is one more evidence of the commercial vitality of Great Britain. The business activity of the past year has been almost unprecedented. Over £200,000,000 of new capital have been subscribed in London since Jan. 1, to public issues at home, abroad, and throughout the Empire. For the seven months ending July 31 the exports of manufactured articles rose £26,895,000, compared with the same months a year ago. It has been a bad year only for the croakers, of whom Great Britain appears to have more than her share. The mother country has apparently not yet finished the course.

BIGGER AND BETTER STEAM-SHIPS.

In a recent article Sir William H. White, the eminent naval architect, draws attention to the great improvements in material and methods of shipbuilding, and in marine engineering, which the last half-century has witnessed. He thinks there is no reason for supposing that further increase cannot be made in the dimensions and speeds of ships if commercial considerations should make that course desirable, and if the necessary financial provision were made for the construction of larger ships, and for suitable dock accommodation at terminal points.

That the limit has not yet been reached is shown by the fact that the White Star Line has two ships, the Olympic and Titanic, larger than the Lusitania and the Mauretania, far advanced in construction, while the Hamburg-American Company has recently ordered a steamer which will be larger and swifter than the Olympic and Titanic, and the Cunard Company is said to be considering designs for still larger vessels. At the annual meeting of the latter company, the chairman predicted that the future of the New York trade rested not with the 10,000-ton cargo boat, but with the 40,000 or 50,000-ton vessel, combining passenger and cargo capacity. Coming from so high and responsible an authority, Sir William White declares this expression of opinion is likely to be followed by action and the competition for possession of the biggest ship afloat is obviously not ended.

To show the great advance in shipbuilding in the last 40 years, Sir William makes a comparison between the Great Eastern, which made her first trans-Atlantic trip of July 17, 1860, and modern steamships. The vessel that played so important a part in the laying of the first Atlantic cable had a length over all of 693 feet, while that of the Lusitania and Mauretania is 790 feet, of the Olympic and Titanic 882 feet, and of the Hamburg-American steamers 910. The gross tonnage of the four classes of ships named is 18,915, 32,000, 43,000 and 45,000 tons respectively, and the horsepower 8,000, 75,000, 40,000 and 60,000.

Sir William believes further increase in the size of steamship would undoubtedly be accompanied by economy in the cost of over-sea transport of cargoes. The benefits to be derived from enlarged size are, however, most sensible up to the point at which the dimensions of ships become great in proportion to the largest stormwaves likely to be encountered. At the same time the writer agrees with an experienced transatlantic steamship commander, who recently declared that in the largest vessels now at work the decision whether or not to "carry-on" at full speed in very bad weather had to be based on the consideration of possible damage to superstructures, navigational appliances and fittings of ships, not upon the possibility of driving them through the heaviest seas with little loss of speed. This is borne out by the remarkably uniform performances of the Lusitania and Mauretania over long periods and in all conditions of weather.

In view of what has happened in the past, it is not possible to predict what will happen in future, but it seems certain that commercial considerations will predominate. It is the ship-owners and dock proprietors, not naval architects and marine engineers, who will have to make the decision where and when increase of size and speed shall stop.

According to Sir James Whitney there are seven ties of empire, namely, five leaves and two fishes.

The crop returns show that good old Ontario has "delivered the goods" as usual.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is holding its annual meeting in the west, and bearding the low tariff lion in his den.

The political activities of British trade unionism have been given a setback by a judicial decision that members cannot be compelled to contribute toward political purposes. The act of congress will urge the Government to bring in a bill to reverse the decision. The rational plan would be the payment of members of parliament, as in other portions of the empire. Members would not then be the paid servants of party organizations.

Sir Tupper once declared that Canada ought to have a preference in the British market in return for her share in the South African war. Colonel Denison complained that Canadian blood in South Africa had been shed in vain because the Boers were granted self-government. Sir James Whitney says Canada will desert the empire unless she gets fiscal favors from the mother country. Heaven preserve the empire from some of the so-called imperialists!

DUTY OF CANADIANS.

While Canada is now in the making, Canadians should awaken to the scope and importance of their mission. There must be a national purpose. Nationally things do not merely happen—they come to pass. Destiny is not a thing to be waited for—it is something to be achieved. A nation's purpose determines its destiny.

ILLITERATE VOTERS IN OLD LAND.

[London Daily News.]
A Parliamentary return issued yesterday shows that of the 6,551,214 electors who voted at the general election, 41,710 were in the former division, 1,405 were in the heaviest proportion of "illiterates."

England and Wales 15,151 5,770,243
Scotland 2,944 690,442
Ireland 22,215 230,529
South Mayo and East Donegal provide the biggest proportions. Of 4,893 who voted in the former division, 1,405 were illiterate. In East Donegal the proportion was 1,532 to 5,617. A striking Scottish contrast to this is provided by Aberdeenshire. In the western division there was not one illiterate voter in the total of 9,065, while in the eastern division, where 10,562 voted, there was only one illiterate. There are no illiterates either in Orkney and Shetland or in Peebles and Selkirk.
There were no illiterates among the 11,182 voters in the southern division of Aberdeen Burgh, and only one among the 7,555 in the northern division. The biggest proportions of illiterates in Scottish constituencies were in Inverness County and Ross and Cromarty, the figures being 333 out of 7,373 and 210 out of 5,848 respectively.

PUMPKINS VS. ORATORY.

[Hamilton Herald.]
Mr. Borden has cancelled some of his political meetings in Ontario in order to avoid interfering with fall fairs. Perhaps the Conservative leader realized that the big talks could not compete successfully with the big pumpkins.

SOMETHING WRONG.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
Recent events indicate that there is altogether too much of the "come easy, go easy" system in the management of Ontario's jails and asylums.

ADVICE OF A FRIEND.

[Toronto Telegram.]
Conservatives at Ottawa may not have left themselves with much of a future to lose. The future of the Borden Opposition, such as it is, cannot be prolonged or brightened by the strategy which imagines that it is smart politics to coddle Henri Bourassa, M.P.E.
The less the Conservative party has to do with Mr. Bourassa the better for that party's health, wealth and long life.

THE ASYLUMS.

[Toronto Star.]
Dr. Bruce Smith's statement that 25 to 40 per cent of the inmates of Toronto Asylum are discharged annually as cured raises a question in the minds of many as to whether there would be as many of these "cures" if there were ample asylum accommodation for all patients who require it.

A RAIN TRAP.

[Yorkshire Daily Post.]
In a time of distressing drought a harassed amateur agriculturist stepped into a shop to buy a barometer. The shopman was giving a few stereotyped instructions about indications and pressures, when the purchaser impatiently interrupted him.
"Yes, yes," said he, "that's all right, but what I want to know is, how do you set the thing when you want it to rain?"

BOOKER WASHINGTON IN LONDON.

[London Daily News.]
Mr. Booker Washington, the American negro leader, who has come over to gain a knowledge of industrial conditions on this side of the Atlantic, had yesterday a busy day.

One item in his programme was a visit to the Thames police court, where he listened attentively to the various charges that were dealt with by the magistrate. In the afternoon he called at the Local Government Board offices for Mr. John Burns, who took him on a tour of inspection of the various model dwellings and institutions of his own constituency of Battersea.

In conversation with a member of our staff, Mr. Washington said he was greatly impressed by the model dwellings of Mr. Burns. "Mr. Burns," he said, "struck me as being a genuine statesman, who has the interests of the people at heart. As to your workmen's dwellings, baths, and other institutions, they are 'real bully'—much finer than anything we have in the States. You see, our Government or municipal authorities do very little in this direction compared with what is done over here. The size and beauty of your parks, too, are a great deal more than a congested city as London."

Mr. Booker Washington will leave tonight on his visit to Mr. Andrew Carnegie at Skibo Castle, and will not return to London until early in October, when he will speak at the National Liberal Club on "The Economic Value of the Negro."

VAUGHAN ADDRESSES THE EMPIRE CLUB.

Noted Jesuit Orator in Strong Condemnation of Race Suicide.
Toronto, Sept. 15.—Father Vaughan, the noted Jesuit orator, this evening addressed the Empire Club.

His speech was a stirring appeal to the citizens of Canada to build up individual character, which he held to be the foundation of an empire's greatness, to cultivate home life and perform the duties of the married state and hold fast to religion. As an example of his ideal of men he quoted Sir Wilfrid Laurier, R. L. Borden and Sir James Whitney.

He was scathing in his condemnation of race suicide, which he described as treason against the majesty of God, and fearfully proclaimed his belief in Catholicism as the true religion.
"If I did not believe I had the best religion I would chuck it," he said. "I believe in having the best in religion. Whatever you may think of the Catholic Church, you have to admit it is the greatest. I tell you it is here to stay. It will last forever."

CASE OF GERMAN SPY IN LONDON POSTPONED

Prosecutor Doesn't Accuse Man of Representing Government.

London, Sept. 15.—Lieut. Helem, the alleged German spy, was arraigned in the Tottenham police court today, charged with having committed a felony in obtaining information concerning the Portsmouth defences, for the purpose of communicating the same to another state. Helem was arrested while engaged in sketching the fortifications. Prosecutor Bodkin at the outset of the proceedings disclaimed any intention of representing the prisoner as the accredited agent of Germany, but said it was evident that Helem's object in obtaining information was to promote his personal advancement. After evidence that the prisoner had possession of plans of the defences when he was arrested had been introduced the case was adjourned to Sept. 30.

AN "ENGLISH CATHOLIC"

Bishop of London Speaker at Great Montreal Gathering.

Montreal, Sept. 15.—The Bishop of London, England, Rev. Dr. Ingram, was the principal speaker at a big meeting held tonight in connection with the opening of the convention of St. Andrew's Brotherhood, and aroused great enthusiasm in the course of his address, by declaring that he was not a Roman Catholic because he was proud to say he was an "English Catholic." The bishop spoke in glowing terms of the success of the bi-centenary gathering in Halifax.
Dr. Ingram reached the city this morning from Nova Scotia, and was greeted at Windsor station by a large and enthusiastic gathering of Anglican clergy and churchmen.

ARTISTIC NEGLIGE OF SILK

The craze for black and white is still on. Not only are new hats and gowns in black and white, but veils, gloves, stockings, petticoats and negligees are made of this popular combination. The photograph shows a charming three-quarter length saque of soft black silk, trimmed with wide white German Valenciennes insertion and lace. The long points in front and the large sailor collar are striking features of this pretty garment.

CULTIVATE VIRTUE OF CHEERFULNESS

Comparatively few persons possess uniformly cheerful dispositions. Most of us have our sad hours and moods. But whatever his disposition, a man is bound by the laws of his own being and by those of his social relations to cultivate the virtue of cheerfulness assiduously and constantly. He has no more right to injure his neighbor's happiness than to interfere with his pecuniary property, and he cannot indulge in venting his ill-humor and spleen, with gloomy forebodings and complaints, or even carrying a sad, sour, frowning visage, without sensibly diminishing the enjoyment or comfort of others, and thus infringing on their rights. Any individual who tries to do so can win himself from despondency and sourness. The power of enjoyment is in itself a faculty capable of improvement.

The Gorgon's Head

Wonderful Adventures of Persius With the Magic Wallet, the Enchanted Carpet and the Helmet of Darkness.

Once upon a time a very wicked king named Polydeutes ruled over a wicked people on the island of Seriphus. He was so very bad he resolved to get rid of the only good people on the island—Princess Danae and her son Perseus, a noble and courageous youth.

So King Polydeutes sent Perseus on a most dangerous mission, to slay the Gorgon Medusa and bring back her head as a souvenir. He never expected to see Perseus again, for the three Gorgons were sisters, with terrible tusks, and hands like brass claws, and scales like all over their bodies. Instead of hair, hundreds of big snakes grew on their heads, all alive, twisting, wriggling, and thrusting out their venomous tongues. Worst of all, if once you fixed your eyes on a Gorgon's face you would be instantly turned to stone.

But brave Perseus started out, and soon met an odd, brisk, young stranger named Quicksilver, wearing wings on his cap and shoes. Quicksilver volunteered to help Perseus, and led him through the dark woods to find the Three Grey Sisters, funny old women who could direct him to the place where the Nymphs lived, for he could not slay Medusa without first getting from the Nymphs the magic wallet, the flying slippers, and the helmet of darkness. The Three Grey Sisters were the strangest persons Perseus had ever seen, for they had only one big bright eye between them, which they took turns using, and quarreled about all the time. One of them, Scarecrow, took the eye out of the centre of her forehead, and held it out for Nightmare or Snakejoint to take—for they hadn't seen Perseus. Just then Perseus grabbed the eye. They pleaded and pleaded with Perseus to return their one and only eye, but he would not until they told him where to seek the Nymphs. He found the Nymphs soon after and they kindly gave him all he asked. He strapped the magic wallet to his side and with the flying slippers he could fly through the air like a bird. When he put on the helmet of darkness, presto! no one could see him nor the helmet either.

They flew a long, long way over land and sea, until at last they saw an island, on which lay sleeping the three terrible Gorgons. Then Perseus was glad he had polished his shield, as Quicksilver had told him to do, until it shone like a mirror, for in it he could see the reflection of the Medusa's face, without risking being turned to stone. The moonlight glistened on these terrible creatures, and the snakes in their hair writhed and twisted, though asleep. Perseus dashed down upon them and slashed off the wicked Medusa's head with one blow of his sword. Instantly the other Gorgons jumped up screaming and struggling, but Perseus flew away again with Medusa's head in the magic wallet, which had quickly expanded to hold it. Back flew Perseus, straight to Seriphus. King Polydeutes summoned all his wicked subjects to see Medusa's head, but Perseus felt sorry for them, wicked as they were, and did not want to show it. "Show us the Gorgon's head or I will cut off your own," thundered the king. "Behold it, then," cried Perseus, and as they looked this bad king and all his wicked subjects turned to hard, glistening stone. Then Perseus went to tell his good mother they need fear no more wicked King Polydeutes no longer.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Miss Grey: Although of the stronger sex, I never fail to read your page, and from it have received many helpful hints. Will you oblige me by advising as to the following: I am a young married man employed in a large office. Working with me, side by side, are three charming young stenographers, and I find them so inspiring, so helpful to me spiritually and mentally, that I would like to show my appreciation in some tangible manner. At the same time I feel that perhaps it would not be quite the proper thing to send them gifts. What would you advise?

A.—Why not send them three good seats for Melba? They won't mind.

Dear Miss Grey: I have corresponded with a young man a couple of years. Recently he told me he is engaged, but he writes me very affectionate letters, saying he is not happy in his engagement. I have done nothing to make him dissatisfied or to lead him on. What do you think of the matter?

A.—From my point of view this young man is dishonorable. Since he discusses his sweetheart with you, he probably makes fun of you to his sweetheart. You and she, as my opinion, you, too, are doing wrong in corresponding with him.

Dear Miss Grey: I am very much in love with a young man, but someone has taken him from me. I have not heard from him for some time. Would it be proper to call him up and ask him to come over? I think that I am at fault and that I ought to call him up.

A.—If you are sure you are at fault I see no reason why you should not call him up.

Dear Miss Grey: Please give me recipes for hot cakes for two, for soft white icing, for stuffing and pickling green peppers, for apple butter without cider, and for cooking Belgian hares. Also tell me how to remove stains from my plumper's husband's shirts and handkerchiefs and from towels.

CONSTANT READER.
A.—Cakes—Add to three-fourths cup of scalded milk and one-third cup of butter three-fourths cup fine stale bread crumbs, and soak until soft. Add one well beaten egg, one-fourth cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, and a little salt. Mix well and bake on griddle in small cakes.
Icing—Beat the white of one egg until stiff. Add two teaspoons cold water and three-fourths cup powdered sugar. Beat thoroughly and flavor.
Stuffed Peppers—Cut tops from peppers and remove seeds. Fill with salt and cover with cold water. Let stand 48 hours, then drain. Leave in cold water over night, then fill with stuffing made of two tablespoons minced cabbage, two tablespoons grated horseradish, a teaspoon minced onion, one-half teaspoon each powdered mace, nutmeg and ginger, a teaspoon each celery salt, pepper, and mustard seed, a teaspoon sugar and a tablespoon olive oil. Tie tops on peppers, pack in crock and fill crock with boiling vinegar. Repeat scalding ten days later. Cover airtight.
Apple Butter Without Cider—Not satisfactory.
Belgian Hares—Cook same as rabbit—stewed in pot-pie, or roasted with dressing.
Stains—Use a chloride of lime solution.

When a Man Marries

By Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Copyright, 1909, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"You are—better today?"
"Quite well, thank you."
"I am glad you find tent useful. Does it keep off the wind?"
"It is quite a shelter"—frigidly.
"He still stood, struggling for something to say. Evidently nothing came to his mind for the time being, but he was wearing, and turning away, began to work with the wiring of the roof. He was clever with tools; one could see that. If he was a professional gentleman-burglar, no doubt, he needed to be. After a bit, finding it necessary to climb to the parapet, he took off his coat, without even a glance in my direction, and fell to work vigorously."
One does not need to like a man to admire him physically, any more than one needs to like a race horse or any other splendid animal. No one could doubt that the man on the parapet was a splendid animal; he looked quite big enough and strong enough to have tossed his slender bridge across the gulf to the next roof, without any difficulty, and co-ordinate enough to have crossed on it with a flourish to safety.

Just then there was a rending, tearing sound from the corner and a muttered ejaculation. I looked up in time to see Mr. Harbison throw up his arms in a futile attempt to regain his balance, and disappear over the edge of the roof. One instant he was standing there, splendid, superb; the next, the corner of the parapet was empty, all that stood there was a broken, splintered post and a tangle of wires. I could not have moved at first; at least it seemed hours before the full significance of the thing penetrated my dazed brain. When I got up I seemed to walk, to crawl, with leaden weights holding back my feet.

When I got to the corner I had to catch the post for support. I knew somebody was saying, "Oh, how terrible!" over and over. It was only afterward that I knew it had been myself. And then some other voice was saying, "Don't be alarmed. Please don't be frightened. I'm all right."

I dared to look over the parapet, finally, and instead of a crushed and unrecognizable body, there was Mr. Harbison, sitting about eight feet below me, with his feet swinging into space and a long red scratch from the corner of his eye across his cheek. There was a sort of mansard there, with windows, and just enough coping to keep him from rolling off.

"I thought you had fallen—all the way," I gasped, trying to keep my lips from trembling. "—oh, don't dangle your feet like that!"

He did not seem at all glad of his escape. He sat there gloomily, peering into the gulf beneath.

If it wasn't so—er—messy and generally unpleasant," he replied without looking up. "I would slide off and go the rest of the way."
"You are childish," I said severely. "See if you can get through the window behind you. If you cannot, I'll come down and unfasten it." But the window was open, and I had a chance to sit down and gather up the scattered ends of my nerves. To my surprise, however, when he came back he made no effort to renew our conversation. He ignored me completely, and went to work at once to repair the damage to his wires, with his back to me.

"I think you are very rude," I said at last. "You fell over there, and I thought you were killed. The nervous shock I experienced is just as bad as if you had gone—all the way."

He put down the hammer and came over to me without speaking. Then, when he was quite close, he said: "I am very sorry if I startled you. I did not flatter myself that you would be profoundly affected, on any event." "Oh, as to that," I said lightly. "It makes me ill for days if my car runs over a dog." He looked at me in silence. "You are not going to get up on that parapet again?"

"Mrs. Wilson," he said, without paying the slightest attention to my question, "will you tell me what I have done?"

"Done?"
"Or have not done? I have racked my brains—stayed awake all of last night. At first I hoped it was impersonal, that, somehow, you were merely venting general disfavor on one particular individual. But—your hostility is to me, personally."

I raised my eyebrows, coldly interrogative.

"Perhaps," he went on calmly—"perhaps I was a fool here on the roof—the night before last. If I said anything that I should not, I ask your pardon. If it is not that, I think you ought to ask mine."

"I was angry enough then."
"There can be only one opinion about your conduct," I retorted warmly. "It was worse than brutal. It—it was unspeakable. I have no words for it—except that I loathe it—and you."

He was very grim by this time. "I have heard you say something like that before—only I was not the unfortunate in that case."

"I was choking."
"Under different circumstances I should be the last person to recall anything so—personal. But the circumstances are unusual." He took an angry step toward me. "Will you tell me what I have done? Or shall I go down and ask the others?"

"You wouldn't dare," I cried, "or I will tell them what you did! He would lay me on those stairs there, and forced your carcases, your kisses, on me! Oh, I could die with shame!"

The silence that followed was as unexpected as it was ominous. I knew he was staring at me, and I was furious to find myself so emotional, so much more the excited of the two. Finally, I looked up.

"You cannot deny it," I said, a sort of anti-climax.
"No," he was very quiet, very grim, quite composed. "No," he repeated judicially. "I do not deny it. He did not? Or he would not? Which?"

CHAPTER XIV.
Almost, But Not Quite.

Dal had been acting strangely all day. Once, early in the evening, when I had doubled no trump, he led me a club without apology, and later on, during his dummy, I saw him writing our names on the back of an envelope and putting numbers after them. At my earliest opportunity I went to Max. "There is something the matter with Dal, Max," I volunteered. "He has been acting strangely all day, and just now he was making out a list—names and numbers."

"You are to blame for that, Kit," Max said seriously. "You put washing soda instead of baking soda in those biscuits today, and he thinks he has a steam laundry. Those are laundry lists he's making out. He asked me a little while ago if I wanted a domestic finish."

"Yes, I had put washing soda in the biscuits. The book said soda, and how is one to know which is meant?"
"I do not think you are calculated for a domestic finish," I said coldly as I turned away. "In my case I disclaim any such responsibility. But—there is something on Dal's mind."

IN THE BOUDOIR.

The way the head is held has a great deal to do with a double chin. Be careful always to hold your chin up and sleep with your head in this position. This keeps the skin of the neck firm and prevents it from sagging. A good exercise for this condition is to throw the head back as far as possible for about nine or ten times several times a day.

If you find a cavity in a tooth, don't wait until you have a jumping, aching molar, but avoid the pain and more expensive dentist's bill by having a small filling put in the day the cavity is discovered.

If you wish to have sound teeth make a practice of having them examined by some good dentist twice a year at least.

You can test your teeth yourself for cavities with the aid of a silk thread. Teeth that are sound present a smooth surface on all sides. The presence of a small cavity is indicated by a roughness which is instantly transmittable to the silk thread. If your thread cuts habitually it is proof that the tooth is decayed, or tartar is present.

Tall women are more apt to walk well than plump little ladies, who, with the keen desire to keep down their superfluous flesh, grind themselves into the tightest of clothes and go about puffing like tiny steam tugs. A short person may get the effect of height by holding herself exceedingly supple and upright.

The United Services College at Windsor, England, has been teaching its boys the principles of aeronautics for some time.

ANOTHER SLAM AT STAND PATTERS

Illinois Primaries a Victory For Republican Progressives.

CANNON'S MAN LOSES

And Joe Himself Gets His Renomination With a Reduced Plurality.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Scattering returns indicated the nomination for re-election to the Illinois assembly of Lee O'Neil Browne, minority leader in the last legislature, and also of Edward D. Shortt, speaker of the Illinois house of representatives.

Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the national house of representatives, was nominated for re-election in the eighteenth district, Danville, by a reduced plurality. His opponent was H. B. Downs.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Standpatism in general and Cannonism in particular suffered a staggering blow today when Rep. Henry Sherman Boutell, of the ninth congressional district, was beaten for renomination by F. H. Gansberger, progressive Republican.

Mr. Boutell long has been one of Speaker Cannon's most reliable allies in congress. He nominated the speaker for the presidency at the Republican convention here in 1908.

Early returns show that Rep. George E. Foss, regular, is running behind G. P. Englehardt, his Republican progressive opponent, in the tenth district. Forty-three precincts out of 147 give Foss 1,041 to 1,092 for Englehardt.

Rep. James R. Mann, another stalwart, is leading J. R. Burges, insurgent Republican, in the early returns in the second.

Moxley Wins. William J. Moxley, Republican, who succeeded Senator William Lorimer in the lower house, was renominated in the sixth district.

In the eleventh congressional district Aurora gave Ira C. Copley, progressive Republican, 1,200 majority over Geo. W. Conn, jun., regular. Almost complete returns indicate that Will and Kane Counties also would go for Copley.

Rep. Fred Lundin, Republican, was nominated for congress in the seventh district. Frank Buchanan was named by the Democrats.

In the fifth district, L. H. Chusman received the Republican nomination. A. J. Salsuth is the Democratic incumbent for re-election.

In the fifth Illinois congressional district Martin B. Madden, incumbent, got the Republican nomination over his opponent, Frank Hall Childs, progressive.

Other Nominations. For state superintendent of public instruction Francis G. Blair, Republican incumbent, had no opposition, and was renominated, while the Democrats named Conrad M. Bardwell for the office.

Alpheus K. Hartley was nominated for state treasurer by the Democrats. There were two Republican candidates for the position.

Caleb Powers Nominated. Barboursville, Ky., Sept. 15.—Returns from the Republican congressional primary in the eleventh district show the nomination of Caleb Powers, of this city, over Representative D. C. Edwards, stand-patter, by 4,000 votes.

National issues did not enter into the race.

Powers, who was a famous politician-prisoner, regards the nomination as his vindication.

A DINNER FOR LORIMER

Proposed to Feed Ten Thousand and Then to Organize a New Club.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Friends of United States Senator William Lorimer are going to give him a dinner. Indignant over the slaps from Theodore Roosevelt, they intend to entirely eclipse the Hamilton Club affair with a monster function that will be in the nature of a showing of the strength of Lorimer.

President Taft will be invited to sit at the head of the table. The scene of the function will probably be the Coliseum. At least 10,000 persons are to be present, and among them will be politicians from Illinois and other states.

As a sequel to the dinner a new Republican club in Chicago is predicted. The club is expected to consist of Lorimer supporters whose resignation from the Hamilton Club is looked upon as sure to follow that of their chief and other prominent Republicans who have no central club affiliations.

Party lines will not be drawn and Democrats will sit at the board with Republicans. But it is a love feast in honor of the junior senator and all his friends are to be present, regardless of their political affiliations.

It is the present intention to hold the dinner prior to the election of November. Special Cannon is understood to have tentatively accepted an invitation, and most of the Illinois congressmen will be bidden.

ORATORY NOT ON WANE SAYS PROFESSOR ABBOTT

Former Londoner Gives Interesting Interview to a Kansas City "Star."

Professor Frederick Abbott, son of Mr. H. G. Abbott, of this place, and a former Londoner, in an interview in the Kansas City Star, on Saturday last, gives a most interesting story on present-day oratory:

"This talk about oratory being on the wane is all bosh and twaddle," says Professor Frederick Abbott, head of the department of public speaking in the State Normal School at Warrensburg, Mo.

"There never was a time in the history of men when oratory was better understood or more correctly practiced than it is right here in the United States. No student of public speaking who has read the great orations of the past or heard the orators of fifty years ago will shut his eyes to the fact that, given the occasion, where one orator a hundred years ago was able to meet it, ten would meet it as effectively today—and more so men have not changed in their initial characteristics, and what moved them ages ago will move them now. Let the event appear, the moral principle be great enough to stir men's souls, as were the circumstances, and questions that produced the great orators of the past, and all over our land orators will spring into the arena and charm and thrill and move to action fully as much as did Cicero, Demosthenes, Webster, Clay, Calhoun, Lincoln, Phillips or any other of the few whose names dot here and there, the pages of history.

The Occasion Makes Orators.

"Why," says Professor Abbott, "every student of oratory who has heard Bryan, Roosevelt, Beveridge, La Follette, Folk, Champ Clark, Cummins, Gypsy Smith, Thomas Greene, Robert McIntyre, Frank Gonsalus, J. Parks Cadman, Frank Dixon, and many others of this day, must be struck with the fact that, should some truly great and all-inspiring issue arise—an issue that proved to be of vital interest to the hearts and consciences of all our people—there would be heard the voices thundering out from every part of our nation and the words from a hundred throats, which would be caught up and heralded to posterity as two of the greatest orators of the world." "For we find only names of Washington, Webster, Patrick Henry, Madison, Andrew Jackson, Jefferson, Adams, Sherman, Calhoun, Phillips Clay and a very few others."

"Bryan the First Today." "Those were the times," said Professor Abbott, "to which pessimists and these carpers who only see good in the rosiest past, delight to call our attention. But what is most significant to the careful student is the fact that exceedingly few of the orations of those men have come down to us as great. I dare assert that for every name of a great orator in any period that has gone, I will cite two for the same period today. An orator is made not born; made by years of study and practice. An oration is born of an occasion; it is the oration—may be great or otherwise—according to the nature of the occasion which gives it birth."

"Whom do you consider to be the greatest American orator of today?" was asked of Professor Abbott.

"I think there is no doubt, taking into consideration those qualities which go to make up the orator, viz., his thought, his style, the arrangement of his subject matter, his stage deportment, gesture, voice, his clear enunciation and correct pronunciation and use of inflection, and emphasis—that William Jennings Bryan (and I speak as a critic and not as a partisan), stands at the head in this country—and I doubt if he has a superior in any other."

THE BOARD OF REGENTS.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—No balloting will be necessary for the election of representatives of the alumni of Victoria College on the board of regents. The nominations closed last night, and Prof. A. L. Langford, the registrar, received only four names of the men who were the representatives of the alumni during the last quadrennium. They are: Arts, R. Hough, M. A. L. D. His Honor Judge Huyck, B. A. L. D. C. James, M. A., deputy minister of agriculture; C. W. Kerr, B. A.

Law, J. R. L. Starr, B. A., LL. D.; dentistry, Rev. E. A. Chown, B. A., B. D.; medicine, H. W. Atkins, B. A., M. D.

In addition to these representatives the board of regents now has for membership Rev. A. Carman, D. D.; Rev. S. D. Chown, D. D.; Rev. Chancelor Burwash; Hon. J. J. MacLaren, vice-chancellor; Hon. B. M. Britton; Rev. E. B. Ryckman; Rev. James A. L. D.; Hon. Geo. A. Cox; E. R. Wood; Rev. J. W. Graham; Rev. E. N. Baker; J. C. Eaton, Esq.; Cyrus A. Birge, Esq.; Rev. S. Cleaver, A. E. Ames, R. A. Reeve, Rev. William Briggs, N. W. Rowell, Rev. S. P. Ross, C. V. Massey, W. L. T. Addison, Chester Thomas Manning.

Dr. Wilson's nomination was brought about largely through the influence of former United States Senator James Smith, jun., of Essex County, who is undisputed Democratic leader of the state, and Robert Davis, leader of the Hudson democracy, who for the first time in many years acted in harmony with Mr. Smith. Besides this support Dr. Wilson has with him a number of independent Democrats who believed that because of his standing as an educator he would make an unusually strong candidate.

Dr. Wilson was nominated on the first ballot and received 40 more votes than was necessary to nominate him.

BRITON DEFEATS CURTISS IN RACE

Grahame-White Drives Bleriot Monoplane at Mile-a-Minute Speed.

Boston, Sept. 15.—Driving his Bleriot monoplane at approximately a mile a minute, Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator, brought to successful close his first American engagement by defeating Glenn H. Curtiss, the American flier, and world's speed champion of the air, in a special marked speed test at the Harvard Aviation field at Atlantic yesterday.

He defeated Curtiss by 15.4 seconds, in a five and a quarter mile race. White thereby won the $3,000 Harvard cup, and made a new speed mark for the field by following the course in 5 minutes 47.4 seconds.

White also added to his winnings the John Hays Hammond cup, the second prize for a special bomb-throwing contest, Ralph Johnstone, the Wright aviator, took the first prize, the city of Boston cup.

This was the concluding day of the Harvard aviation meet, and it was marked by the first noteworthy accident of nearly a fortnight's flying. A. V. Roe, an English flier, who has had bad luck with his triplanes, wrecked his second machine yesterday, and was painfully but not seriously injured himself. He was taken to the field hospital, where six stitches were given in a face wound.

DR. WILSON NOMINATED

Princeton's President Selected Democratic Candidate for New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 15.—The New Jersey Democratic state convention today nominated Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, for the office of governor of the state.

Dr. Wilson's nomination was brought about largely through the influence of former United States Senator James Smith, jun., of Essex County, who is undisputed Democratic leader of the state, and Robert Davis, leader of the Hudson democracy, who for the first time in many years acted in harmony with Mr. Smith. Besides this support Dr. Wilson has with him a number of independent Democrats who believed that because of his standing as an educator he would make an unusually strong candidate.

A MEAN FRAUD.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—John MacPherson, the horse dealer, who took $55 from Rev. William Williamson, an old Anglican Church clergyman, from Shelburne, for a horse fit only for the glue factory, was allowed to go by Mayor's decision in the police court this morning. MacPherson, it was shown, had returned the $55 to Rev. Mr. Williamson, had paid the costs in the case, and had recouped the old gentleman for his expenses in coming to the city. The magistrate, in dismissing MacPherson, scathingly denounced the man's conduct, saying that he had perpetrated a most deliberate and willful fraud and ought to go to jail.

A NICE HAUL.

Belleville, Sept. 15.—While the inmates of Charles Vandewater's and George W. Sills' residences in Sidney Township were yesterday afternoon in attendance at the Belleville fair, burglars entered the premises and made a good haul. Some $25 in money, a lady's gold chain, silverware, two gold rings, a razor and other articles were taken from Mr. Sills' place, and a number of articles of jewelry were secured at the Vandewaters.

A REAL OLIVER TWIST

Put Through Tiny Window to Steal for Another.

London, Sept. 15.—The pathetic child hero of Charles Dickens' famous novel, who was thrust through a window by Bill Sykes, has his counterpart today.

An intelligent boy of twelve, Harry Evans, of 832 Lane, appeared at Coventry police court on Monday first as defendant charged with being on enclosed premises with intent to steal, and subsequently as a witness. Harry Mason, laborer, of a lodging house in West Orchard, charged with stealing two suitcases.

The evidence showed that a policeman hidden in the premises of Arthur Davis, marine store dealer, Palmer line, saw the boy drop through a window a distance of six feet. When caught the lad shouted, "Oh, catch that man; he has put me through the window." At the police station the boy said the man had put him through the window on several occasions. The boy accused the policeman to a common lodging house, where he pointed out the man Mason.

The boy said he met the man in the street. Mason gave him a cricket bat and asked him to meet him at the lodging house that night. This the lad did, and Mason took him to Mr. Davis' place of business, put him over the wall, and instructed him how to take the money from a drawer. Mason then put him through a window, and when he got back with the money gave him a penny.

About a week afterwards Mason met him and told him he would have to go again and get him money for his lodgings. Mason put him through the window again, but on this occasion he found no money. Three days afterwards Mason made him go again, and he got two shillings this time, and Mason gave him a penny. Witness did not tell his father because Mason threatened he would kill him if he did.

When arrested, the boy pointed the wrong man; he replied: "Not me." Formally charged, he replied: "Not me." Mason elected to be dealt with summarily, and pleaded not guilty. He went into the witness box and swore that he had made a mistake in identifying him. He had never been on prosecutor's premises nor had he ever seen the boy Evans before.

When found the case proved, and sent Mason for three months' hard labor. The boy was placed under the care of the probation officer for six months.

A List of Cattle and Chicken Men
Who Have Been Made Happy—
A Walk Through the Buildings.

Wednesday was the banner day in the Poultry Building. Farmers' Day always brings the crowds, and never in the history of the Western Fair was there a larger throng in the Poultry Building than yesterday. And never did the building look better, and the weather was all that could be desired for the large exhibit of poultry. Hot weather is always disastrous to poultry, as they get overheated during the day in the afternoon, and then they cool off in the evening, with the result that many birds come home with roup.

Below will be found a few more of the prize-winners:

Roosevelt a Caesar;
Theosophists say so

Great Roman and Alexander

Live Anew in the Dashing American.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—A great astral

giant, a master of men in every period in which he reappears upon the earth, a being that had his inception before in Alexander the Great of Macedonia, and later, probably, in Julius Caesar, Napoleon Bonaparte, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, is the soul picture of Theodore Roosevelt as drawn by the Theosophic Society during the convention held yesterday at the assembly hall in Northwestern University, Lake and Dearborn streets.

A special comparison was made of Col. Roosevelt and Julius Caesar.

T. H. Talbot, chairman of the delegate assembly, declared that he had no doubt that the spirit of Theodore Roosevelt had achieved prominence in the world's affairs in previous generations. His present status is even greater, he said, than in past ages, for it has grown with the experience of each physical life.

Is Like Alexander.

"Our occultist," said Mr. Talbot, "have a genealogy, or rather a list of all the great personages, each with his or her own name, for all physical reappearances. I do not have at hand the astral name for Theodore Roosevelt, but he is one of the greatest that ever appeared on the earth. He very probably once lived in the person of Alexander the Great or Julius Caesar. A study of his character shows that he has developed his greatness only through many ages of training."

"He is a great statesman, and doubtless, if the occasion demanded, he would show himself a military genius, as did Julius Caesar or Alexander the Great. He is as generous as were those two men. He is so big that he sees a wider benefit in being sincere and honest in his efforts to influence people than it would be to use his insight and intellectual power to hoard private, personal gain."

"After Julius Caesar had been outlawed by Pompeius and decided to cross the Rubicon he found the people of Rome ready to receive him as a chief prepared to deliver them from the corruption and political rottenness with which the Government had been infested preceding him."

Roosevelt a Caesar.

"He turned out the corrupt politicians and gave the people of Rome the best Government they had ever known. Roosevelt is doing the same thing. He has swept through the foreign countries and conquered them, and now he has come home, and the plotting, iniquitous enemies who have made our government a national scandal are being scourged and driven out. Is not the genius the same, only improved. For in this modern age we do not have to bear with bloodshed."

Mr. Talbot asserted the reappearance of the spirit of Julius Caesar in great men of succeeding ages. Of course, there were differences, he explained, such as would be expected in the different physical developments of the succeeding bodies. He said there were existing in the present age men who had become great through ages of religious study.

Weiler Van Hook, who last Sunday was re-elected general secretary of the society, lectured on "Humanity and Divinity." There will be continuing sessions this morning, and this afternoon the society will take a lake trip. C. Jinarajadasa, the personal representative of Mrs. Besant, will read "some of the lives from class A" this afternoon, beginning at 1:15 o'clock, and continuing until 3:15, when the party will leave for a boat trip.

A peacemaking conference upon Sir Charles Hardings, governor-general designate of India.

MADAME CAVALIERI IS GETTING UNEASY

Lawyers Disclose Many Technicalities That May Save Chanler's Millions.

New York Sept. 15.—Because the famous and mysterious marriage pact between Robt. Winthrop Chanler and Mme. Lina Cavallieri-Chanler which has stirred inter-continental society to gossiping, was not signed by Chanler's first wife and because it is said to compromise the trust fund of $250,000 belonging to Chanler's two children by his former marriage and the alimony fund for Mrs. Chanler the first, it was reported here today that the pre-nuptial agreement will be proved null and void.

She Is Worried Now.

In an interview granted by Mme. Cavallieri-Chanler in her Avenue de Nesine residence in Paris, the operatic bride showed today that she is worried over the outcome of her brother's efforts in New York to bring about a fulfillment of the contract at the earliest possible date.

Cavallieri said she had been unwittingly duped by her husband because she thought his fortune at least $2,000,000 when he married her, judging from the debts which he confessed to.

Love Messages Cease.

It was learned in Paris that the love messages from "Bob," the husband, had suddenly ceased five days ago, the last one being the cable-gram in which Chanler sent affection and hope for the money. There were notable features about the Cavallieri interview. Asked if she still loved her husband she replied with a shrug, "Ah, I esteem Mr. Chanler very highly for his talent. I may go to America within six weeks to join him there. My presence may be needed in America for our affairs are entirely straightened, too. Likely

35,000 SAW THE FAIR

Western Attracted Many Thousands of Outsiders As Well As School Children.

THREE DRIVERS WERE FINED

Starter Baker Got Tired of the Exhibition of Scoring and Put a Stop to it.

Visitors' Day at the Western Fair lived up to its reputation, and a crowd almost as large as Wednesday's saw the Western Fair on Thursday.

Altogether Wednesday and Thursday have been the two largest days the Western has yet seen, and makes it absolutely certain that the Fair will be a financial success.

The weather all week has been simply perfect, and as a result the attendance has been excellent.

Yesterday there was an enormous crowd. They started early for the Fair grounds, and from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., they poured in a continual stream to the park.

The number of children at the Fair was noticeable. The public and separate schools were closed and the youngsters took advantage of it to attend the big exhibition. They were there in large crowds and had a fine time. They were the most enthusiastic and appreciative audience of the week.

35,000 People There.

The attendance is estimated at 35,000, a trifle less than Wednesday. The grandstand both afternoon and evening was crowded to its capacity, and the visitors were given a good entertainment.

An added feature of the programme was the appearance of Hon. Adam Beck and Mrs. Beck with their string of hunters, Sir Edward, Sir Thomas, and Sir Frederick.

Jimmy Smith was mounted on the Olympian winner, Sir Edward, while Mrs. Beck rode Sir Thomas, and Mr. Beck, Sir Frederick.

It was an excellent exhibition and pleased the crowd greatly. They were most enthusiastic when Sir Edward jumped 6 feet 8 inches, with all the grace imaginable.

Miss K. Wilks, of Galt, owner of the Cruikston farm, was a visitor and saw her horses in action. One of her favorites, Vanity Oreo, won the gentleman's wagon race, after a somewhat strenuous time, and it pleased her greatly. Her famous show winner, Mograia, also gave a fine exhibition.

The attractions, all the attractions were given in full, including the 91st Regiment Band. Everything moved smoothly, and everybody seemed pleased.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. J. Bland-rish, who is in charge of the fruit exhibit from British Columbia, gave an excellent address on fruit, and showed the possibilities of the great western province along these lines.

The horse races were the best of the week, and hair-line finishes marked each heat.

The gentlemen's road race for trotters was an exciting affair, and was won by Miss Wilks' Vanity Oreo, as fine a little trotter as ever looked through a bridge. There was the most tiresome lot of scoring ever seen on a London track, and Starter Baker fined three drivers $10 each for scoring ahead of the horses.

Harry Lang took the second heat of the race with Peacemaker, a big strong horse, after the type of old Alvin. He is a green one, and should be as good as could be seen anywhere.

The other race, a three-horse affair, was always a contest, and the finishes were close.

The Results.

Gentlemen's road race, trotters; half-mile heats—

Vanity Oreo, Miss K. Wilks, Galt 1 5 1 1 Peacemaker, Lang, Yarmouth 3 1 3 4 Mary Isabel, C. W. Leaming, Brantford 2 3 4 2

Harriet Grattan, J. K. Darch, London 5 2 2 5 Driftaway, D. Thody, Thamesville 6 4 5 3

Time—1:11 1/4, 1:10 1/4, 1:12, 1:14, 2:16 pacers, 2:25 trotters (Unfinished)

Ray, E. Crummer, Thamesville 3 1 1 Delmas, N. K. Cornwall, Thamesville 1 1 2 2

Billy Sims, B. B. McCarty, Thamesford 2 3 3 3 Time—2:24 1/4, 2:25 1/2, 2:24 1/2

The evening performance was very largely attended. The stands were crowded to capacity. The programme provided was excellent.

E. Leonard & Sons have exhibited this year in the Machinery Hall one of the finest exhibitions of engines ever made at the Western Fair.

This company is well known throughout the Dominion as manufacturers of Leonard-Tangye, Clipper, and Leonard engines, boilers, heaters, pumps, governors, and other engine supplies.

As a manufacturing center London owes much to the enterprise of E. Leonard & Sons, whose local factory is one of the largest in the city. Distributing agencies are located at Montreal, St. John, N. B., Winnipeg, Calgary, and Vancouver.

An interesting feature of the exhibit at the Fair is the Leonard Automatic 11x10 engine, which generates electric light and power for the Machinery Hall.

Points of advantage in Leonard engines are Evan's Patent Governor, and Ball's Balanced Slide Valve. The Leonard-Tangye Engine, the Leonard Clipper, Leonard engines with Up-right Boilers, Adjustable Bolted Pumps, Adjustable Force Pumps, Duplex and Burnham Boiler Feed Pumps, and the Leonard-Corliss Standard Engine, with Girder Frame, are found among other lines included in the large and comprehensive exhibit of E. Leonard & Sons.

Leonard-Tangye Engines are made in sizes from 50 to 250-horsepower, the Leonard Clipper 25-horsepower and upwards, and Leonard Upright Boilers 4-horsepower and upwards.

The Leonard exhibit is, because of its extent and superiority, the meeting place at the Fair of engineers, machinists and all others interested in machinery and power. Let nothing stand between you and a visit to the Leonard exhibit. Alike interesting and instructive, it is moreover a revelation of human ingenuity and inventive skill.

Royal Purple Stock Specifics. One of the most striking exhibits in the Made in London Annex, is the Royal Purple Exhibit of stock and poultry specifics. The booth is attractively and effectively draped with purple bunting, in keeping with the registered trade mark of the products exhibited. The W. A. Jenkins Manufacturing Company, of this city, are here showing Royal Purple Stock Specifics, Royal Purple Poultry Specifics, Royal Purple Lice Killer, Royal Purple Gall Cure, Royal Purple Lintment, and other Royal Purple preparations.

Royal Purple Liniment is the great friend of the horseman, being an unequalled remedy for all the external ills and accidental injuries to which the equine creation is heir. Royal Purple Stock and Poultry Specifics are a drawing card with the farmers, who manifest their interest in the exhibit by innumerable inquiries and expressions of appreciation.

Royal Purple preparations are growing rapidly in popularity, and the capacity of the large factory of the W. A. Jenkins Manufacturing Company, on Ridout street, is taxed to the limit, filling the constant stream of orders which pour in from the length and breadth of the Dominion. Mr. Jenkins is personally in charge of the exhibit.

Morgan's Supply House.

The only exhibit of its kind at the Western Fair is that of A. J. Morgan, 113 Dundas street. Morgan's has always been the Canadian headquarters for poultry supplies, but this year only one of the many lines just as completely stocked by A. J. Morgan, who has on exhibition in the Agricultural Hall, birds, eggs and bulbs, seeds, fertilizers, insecticides, disinfectants, books, sprayers, garden, bird and aquaria supplies, rubber stamps and stencils, and dairy, bee, pet stock and dog and cat supplies.

A neatly arranged exhibit of Morgan's Song Roster and Bird and Poultry Foods, is shown with impressive effect. A unique and interesting feature of the exhibit is the fine showing of gold fish and singing canaries.

The exhibit of Ruberoid Roofing has created more interest than a little. Their complete line of proven reputation is worthy of attention. Machinery Building.

FALLS ON A STAKE AND DIES OF INJURY

Charles Bee Meets Tragic Death While at Work Near Aylmer.

Aylmer, Ont., Sept. 15.—Charles Bee was killed near here today, while at work on a barn, through falling on a pointed stake. The stake penetrated the lining of the stomach. Bee, dying shortly after, being taken home.

Bee, who had been in this country about ten years, is survived by his wife and a seven-year-old boy. Mr. Bee is a sister of George Fisher, who was killed in the burning factory explosion last fall. Bee was 35 years of age.

SENTENCED TO GALLOWS FOR KILLING CONSTABLES

Timothy Candy Makes Long Plea For Mercy, But is Unsuccessful.

Montreal, Sept. 15.—Timothy Candy was today sentenced to be hanged on Nov. 18, for the murder of Constables Fortin and O'Connor last spring.

Candy had stolen some goods from the Ames, Holden Company, where he was employed as night watchman, and when pursued by the policemen opened fire.

Before being sentenced he made a long plea for mercy, and Judge St. Pierre was greatly affected.

SPAIN ABOLISHES GALLOWS.

Madrid, Sept. 15.—In reopening the Cortes today, Ruiz Valarino, the minister of justice, announced the early abolition of the death penalty and said that numerous modifications would be adopted for the purpose of simplifying the civil and military codes.

RIGHT TRUSSES RIGHTLY FITTED

It is a comparatively easy matter to find good trusses, but it requires experience to know what truss is best suited to any given case and to fit that truss correctly. We not only have a large line of modern, scientifically constructed trusses but, what is more important, we know how to fit them.

GLOCKING NAMED TO HEAD LABOR

The Congress Elects Him at Port Arthur Convention.

CALGARY NEXT YEAR

Resolution to Close Bars on Labor Day Was Defeated.

Port Arthur, Sept. 15.—Wm. Glock-ing, of Toronto, was chosen president on the first ballot over James Waters, of Victoria, and James Somerville, of Moosejaw, by the Trades and Labor Congress today.

R. T. Pettypiece, of Victoria, defeated Samuel Hadden, of Hamilton, for fraternal delegate. Calgary beat Guelph for the convention of 1911.

Jos. Gibbons, of Toronto, urged legislation be asked for providing for centre aisles in street cars and the prohibiting of running boards.

J. H. Burnett, of Toronto, wanted better sanitary conditions in foundries. A socialist resolution, which it is expected will cause some debate, will ask for a change to the constitution which pledges the congress to public ownership of telephones, gas and electric lighting, street railways, and sub-stituting instead a public provision for the co-operative working of all means of wealth, production, distribution and exchange. This is not likely to carry.

The most important subject discussed by the congress this morning was the secretary's report, which was adopted, as was the audit committee's statement, showing a balance in the bank of $2,378.78. Dr. Shearer, of the Lord's Day Alliance, was present at today's session. Delegate Manning, from the American Federation of Labor, read a cordial address of greeting. A resolution for the closing of bars on Labor Day was withdrawn.

NEW OFFICERS WERE FORMALLY INSTALLED

Rousing Welcome Was Extended by the Officers and Staff.

Thursday night, before a very large and representative audience, the new officers of the London (Ontario) branch, of the Salvation Army, were formally installed.

There were a number of speakers who have addresses, extending a very hearty welcome to the new commandants, as follows: Elizabeth Taylor, of London, speaking for the women officers of the division, gave her pledge that the women could be depended on and that they would look up to the officers and strive to follow out their commands, and learn the lesson that their long service entailed them to.

Captain Weeks, in voicing the feelings of the men officers, could only follow along the lines of Elizabeth Taylor and stated that they received their new leaders right into their hearts, and could be depended on to follow out their commands. For a long time he had been a volunteer, a militiaman, and a Queen's soldier, and in these posts had learned the beauty of obedience, and as representing the soldiers of the old London I Corps, he could assure the new leaders of the utmost loyalty in following out their wishes in every matter pertaining to the extension of the kingdom. He was glad to know that they were in London, and trusted that their advent would mean many souls being saved.

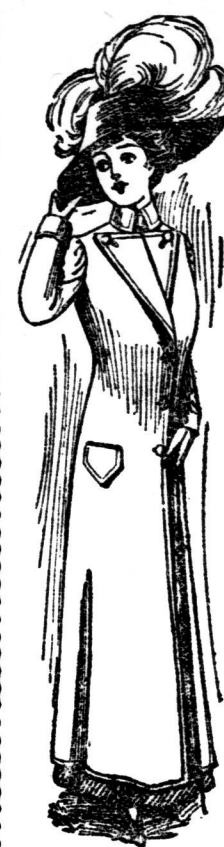

Staff Captain Walton followed on behalf of the corps and officers. His welcome was hearty. He remembered the colonel for many years, and knew that in him they would have a brave and consistent leader, and he knew already what the wide-hearted welcome to London meant to him, and assured the colonel that they, as a corps and people, were one with him for the carrying out of the convictions and teachings of the army.

Mrs. Andrews then spoke a few words on behalf of the Mercy League. They were one with their leaders in pushing on the claims of the work, they knew what it was to have to hustle as well as look after homes and home interests, but they were one with them for the helping of mankind.

Working for the Master.

Mrs. Chandler was the first to make reply, which she did very gracefully, alluding to the twenty-one years which she had spent in the Salvation Army, and how nothing could ever separate her from it and its teachings. When she first joined the army it meant the separation of herself from her mother and her home, but because of her stand today there were four sisters and one brother in the army working for the common Master.

The colonel in speaking of the heartiness of the welcome accorded to Mrs. Chandler and himself, told a little of his early struggles in soul-winning. Hill, in a very pleasing manner, and also welcomed Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. Chandler on behalf of the staff of the territory, and wished them all kinds of good success.

Staff-Captain and Mrs. Crichton, who have been for the last four years in London as chancellors and D. O's, said a few farewell words. They have been appointed to succeed Major Patterson at Quebec, as representatives of T. H. Q. on immigration matters.

PESSIMISTIC JIM

Carruthers' Blue Ruin Crop Prediction Not Quite Correct.

Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—Grain buyers are of the opinion that the spring rains are showing better results than anticipated. While grades on the whole are not disappointing, some sharp criticism has been passed on the recent pessimistic utterances of James Carruthers, of Montreal, who was reported as saying that the great bulk of the crop would not grade over No. 3 northern.

"Mr. Carruthers may be strong on the export business," said one old member, "but he has a good deal to learn about the crop of 1910."

BY AN ELEVATOR

Accident to Arthur Handbea at McCormick's Works Today.

Arthur Handbea, a young Englishman employed at McCormick's factory, was crushed in an elevator while at work there at 11 o'clock this morning, one of his legs being jammed between the ground floor and the car. His condition is not considered serious. His screams attracted the attention of fellow employees, who threw off the belt, stalling the car. Handbea was later removed to Victoria Hospital in the city ambulance. He has no relatives in this city, it is said, but boards on Dundas street.

A large part of the flooring of the elevator was cut away before the young man could be removed.

A MARINE LIFTING MAGNET.

A novel experiment is being made near New Orleans, where a barge load of keged nails is being raised by means of a large lifting magnet. A load of cotton ties, sunk near Natchez will be next taken up, while a load of woven wire sunk near Pittsburg will be the third task.

The magnet used in the work is three and one-half feet in diameter, and weighs 2,000 pounds. It is dropped into the water, the current turned on and five or six kegs of nails raised to the lift. A derrick is employed for the purpose. The nails weigh 200 pounds to the keg, so the magnet lifts from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds each trial.

A great saving is being realized by the use of the magnet which could not be otherwise effected. Were a dredge used kegs would be broken open and much valuable material lost. In this way the kegs are raised intact and the nails are uninjured, except for slight rust. Between 85 and 95 per cent of the cargo can be raised. It is valued at $45 the ton.

The kegs are raised from a depth of seventy feet. The cotton ties are strips of steel used in fastening cotton bales—Electrical Record.

POWER OF THE SOCIETY WOMAN

Society, if it means anything, means companionship, not just the passing entertainments of the hour. The pleasure of a dinner party does not consist in the food and drinks, and the true pleasure of a ball is not merely in the mazy dance, but in the mingling of the people and getting and giving mutual enjoyment. I want you to realize what power and possibility there is in you to lift and leave the tone of this queer thing, society. Far more than many realize, it is in the power of a woman to purify the life in which she has a part. The old fable of Una and the lion is a fact. Sheltered in her instinctive modesty and pureness, a girl has the power not only to resist and to refuse, but far more than that, to put to shame and rout the insolence of a presumptive familiarity. The tolerance of an intoxicated man in any house after a first offence, the recognition of men or women living in the sin of a so-called marriage, or after a scandalous divorce, the permitted entry into a Christian house of a notorious libertine are things which with a quiet dignity every woman is bound to protest, and, protesting, to protect herself to prevent the repetition and to purify the atmosphere of social life.—Bishop Doane, in Leslie's.

LONDON POLICE ARE WITH WINDSOR BROTHERS

Say Detective Rogers Is Wrong in Dismissing Two Border Men.

Local detectives are extremely outspoken in their views regarding the action of Provincial Detective Rogers in dismissing Detectives Campeau and Kemp, of Windsor, recently, because they refused to do their work and wear the official uniform that Mr. Rogers thinks they should wear. "It is absolutely impossible to do the work these men are expected to do, and wear a uniform which proclaims them Government officers," said a member of the local force to The Advertiser this afternoon. "A man might as well wear a sign saying that he was a detective as go into places with the uniform that Mr. Rogers wants them to wear. The men they were looking for would spot them a mile off." "Another piece of absurdity," said another, "was sending Chief Mains up to Windsor in his official uniform to dismiss the detectives officially. There is about as much business in a move of that kind as there is in some of the other moves that are being made in the department."

THE RAISED BEACHES OF ARRAN

The Island of Arran is one of those places in the west of Scotland where the geologic phenomenon known as a "raised beach" is very apparent. All along the coast there are evidences that the land has been considerably elevated at some period of the world's history. One of these proofs is the presence of caves of various sizes, formed by the action of the waves in the past, but which are now well above the present high-water mark. The farmers use some of the larger caves as shelters for sheep in stormy weather. In a remote corner of the island one of these caves has been converted into a human habitation, where a family of several persons dwell in absolute seclusion. Their occupation is the gathering of whelks—an employment which is said to afford but a precarious livelihood. As the gathering of the shell fish can only be done at low water, and as the fishers have no boat or other occupation, they have ample leisure to enjoy the pure air and bask in the sunshine.

Except for the drip from the face of the high rocks above, which is still fully diverted, the cave is absolutely dry. The interior is shaped like a triangle, the floor forming the base. Save at the sides, there is ample room to stand upright and move about inside. Besides the beds and cooking utensils, the cave contains many articles of various kinds, giving the interior quite a homelike appearance. The apology for a fireplace is some way back from the entrance, through which the smoke finds its way outside.—Wide World Magazine.

St. Peter's, at Rome, reared centuries before the age of steam and electricity began, is still the biggest of churches, the most colossal of all places of worship.
