LOAD FELL ON HIM

Walkerville, Ont., Aug. 19.—Howard Stephenson, an employee of the Walkerville Brewing Co., was trucking some merchandise in one of the warehouses on the second floor of the building to-day, when he stepped backward into an open shafting, falling a distance of about 15 feet. Fortunately the truck did not fall on him, though the load did.

Stephenson's injuries were a badly bruised hip and injured knee and several injuries about the face and head. His lip was so badly lacerated by his teeth that Dr. Storey, who was called in, had to dress the wound by means of several stitches. He was taken to his home on Gladstone avenue where it is thought he will be laid up for several weeks. The young man is about 24 years of age.

JUSTICE HAS BEEN BLOCKED

Writ of Error Granted by U. S. Supreme Court in Andrews Case.

Prejudice on Part of two Jurors Being Alleged—Attorney Investigating the Matter.

Detroit, Mich., August 20.—Frank C. Andrews will not go to Jackson penitentiary just yet, the supreme court having ordered a stay of proceedings in granting a writ of error, and this will entail his remaining in charge of Sheriff Dickson until some further action shall be taken. The issuing of the writ of error is a mere formality and simply gives Andrews the right to apply for a new trial within a year. But the stay of proceedings is something unusual. It means that for an indefinite time, whose duration is to be fixed by the supreme court, the prisoner can reside at the county jail as an honored guest of Sheriff Dickson, instead of doing time at the penitentiary like any ordinary criminal, for the sentence commences from the moment it is pronounced, and every day Andrews is kept here means a day less in Jackson.

The order was issued by Chief Justice Hooker and Justice Moore, sitting in chambers, at the request of Andrews' attorneys, Fred A. Bant, John W. Beaumont and Alex. Groesbeck. Their next step will probably be to move for the release of their client on bail pending the decision of the supreme court on their application for a new trial for him. The question will have to come up, before Judge Murphy, the trial judge, or one of the judges of the circuit court. Should they refuse to admit him to bail, or should they place the bail so high that it would be out of Andrews' power to raise it, it will then be in order to apply to the supreme court on that point also. Judge Murphy's opinion as to the advisability of granting bail has been so clearly expressed that the attorneys are not likely to apply to him again.

A LENGTHY BILL.

The bill of exceptions on which the applications for a new trial is to be based will be one of the lengthiest documents ever laid before the supreme court. Hundreds upon hundreds of exceptions were taken and if they are all to be incorporated in the bill, it will take at least five or six weeks to draw it up. One of the leading lawyers in the case is said to have declared that he would not undertake the job for $5,000.

The principal grounds upon which the defendant relies are the dismissal of the first panel of jurors, the blackboard incident and the alleged determination of two of the jurors to convict Andrews no matter what the evidence might be. They are alleged to have said when they were called that they were "glad of the opportunity to sink it to Andrews, anyhow." Attorney Groesbeck is making a searching investigation into this, and if he can establish the fact of some of the jurors being prejudiced, it will be the best of grounds for demanding a new trial. But now that the jury has got through with the case and rendered a verdict, the law presumes that everything has been done regularly and fairly, and it will be for Andrews to prove that such is not the case.

There was no more delighted man in town than Frank Andrews when he received the news, which was conveyed to him by Marens Pollack and "Eddie" Barnett, the former having received a telegram notifying him of the stay of proceedings. Andrews heaved a big sigh of relief and then jumped up and shook his visitors by the hand. "It is the first ray of hope," he said. Mrs. Andrews visits him frequently in jail and stays with him for an hour at a time.

Judge Murphy received an unexpected tribute to his masterly management of the case when he walked into his office yesterday morning. He found awaiting him a huge bouquet of flowers which had been gathered by a lad who had lost all his little savings by the failure of the City Savings bank. Judge Murphy left last night for a fortnight's vacation in Mackinac and other points in Michigan. Prosecutor Hunt has gone to Mullett lake, near Cheboygan, for a fortnight. Assistant Prosecutor Merriam is also away on a vacation.

NO ANTI-BRITISH SPEECHES WANTED BY BOER GENERALS

Request Conveyed to Supporters at the Hague—Might Impair Success of Their Mission—General Botha's Address.

Rotterdam, August 19.—De Wet, De la Rey and Botha, the Boer generals, and their party landed here this morning. They were given a hearty welcome by the municipal authorities and representatives of Boer associations. Many ladies presented bouquets to the generals' wives. The ships in the harbor displayed their flags. The party proceeded to The Hague.

PUBLIC RECEPTION.

The Hague, August 19.—A public reception was accorded the Boer generals on their arrival here to-day from Rotterdam. Gen. Eyer, in a speech, paid a tribute to their heroic deeds. Gen. Botha replied, expressing the appreciation of the Boer officers at the warmth of their reception, and referring to the consolation which it had been to them to know that while they fought their women and children were being supported by Dutch generosity. The visitors were escorted in procession through the town in open carriages, and were everywhere loudly cheered by the crowds assembled. A number of Boers who served during the war formed a guard of honor for the generals.

The Hague, Aug. 19.—The space in front of the hotel where apartments had been secured for the generals was closely packed with people. Cheers of "Long live the Boers," greeted the "South African" commanders when they appeared, and then the crowd sang the Transvaal National Anthem, whereupon the generals bowed their heads and waved their hats in acknowledgement of the enthusiastic welcome accorded them. Subsequently a reception was held

BACK SEAT

Kruger and Leyds Will be Asked to Hand Over Reins and Funds of Afrikaners.

London, Aug. 20.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail, at The Hague, telegraphs that he is informed that at the approaching meeting between General Botha and his colleagues and former President Kruger, the latter will formally abdicate his position as Afrikaner chief, and hand over the reins and the residue of funds to Gen. Botha and Gen. De Wet, and Messrs. Fisher and Wolmarans, who were formerly Boer delegates.

Mr. Wolmarans, according to the correspondent's information, will endeavor to dispossess Dr. Leyds, the European agent of the Boers, of the power of signing checks.

There are also rumors here, adds the correspondent of the Daily Mail, of an impending struggle for supremacy between General Botha and General De Wet.

$500 TIP

Millionaire Gates Completely Demoralized a Waiter at a Saratoga Hotel.

Saratoga, Aug. 19.—A heretofore obscure waiter has been boosted into the horizon of high class tip-grabbers. He is Gustav Bauman, a waiter at the United States Hotel.

When John W. Gates, who was served by Bauman, finished his luncheon, just before he left there, the millionaire beckoned to Bauman and slipping a bill from his ponderous wallet, flipped it toward the waiter. Bauman caught it on the fly, and then faintly—at least he paled and sank into a chair. A $500 bill was clutched in his nervous grasp. "All for me," he murmured.

Instantly he gave up his job, threw off his apron, ordered a bottle of wine, and when last heard of was driving in a stylish rig toward the race track. Mr. Gates only smiled when asked about the trip.

WHERE COLOR LINE IS DRAWN.

Raleigh, N. C., August 19.—Roadmaster Fred Stevers, of Stevers, Va., was shot and killed by Jim Mitchell, a negro, in a south-bound air line train near Middleburg to-day. The negroes had taken a seat in the coach reserved for whites, and it was over this the trouble occurred. Passengers caught them off their guard and two jumped from the train, escaping to the woods. Bloodhounds have been sent from Elden to chase them down.

MASONIC OUTING

About 150 people came up on the special from Windsor to-day on the Palestine Commandery No. 3, K. T. Masons annual excursion. They were met at the G. T. R. station by the local lodge of Masons in command of D. Lee and were escorted from the station to the lodge rooms by the Detroit city band. The special leaves for Detroit to-night at 11.50 sharp.

MULOCK NOT ILL

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 19.—In view of a report telegraphed from Ottawa to outside newspapers that Sir William Mulock, postmaster-general of Canada, was very ill and had gone to Paris to consult specialists, Dr. Colter, assistant postmaster-general, cabled to ascertain the facts. To-day he received the following cable from Mr. Lauchinger, private secretary to the postmaster-general:

"Report referred to absolutely without foundation."

JOHN MILLER CHOSEN

Sandwich, Ont., Aug. 19.—The Essex county council met in special session at Sandwich this afternoon and selected John Miller, one of the number, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late John McKee as clerk of the county of Essex. Miller was decidedly in the lead from the onset, despite the number of entries for the coveted position. When the final ballot was taken the vote stood 8 to 5.

A by-law was then drafted and passed confirming the appointment. The new clerk has been a member of the county council for a number of years and retired from the office of warden of the county in January last. The council passed a resolution of condolence on the death of the former clerk, Thomas A. McKee.

THE MARKETS

Planet Office, Tuesday evening, July 19.

GRAINS

Harry Stevens, of the Canada Flour Mills Co., gives The Planet the following grain quotations.

Deliveries of wheat are light, farmers being busy with their harvests. Very good samples are shown by the farmers, which is really better wheat than that of last year. A per cent. of the crop which is sprouted and damp, is offered for feeding purposes and not suitable for milling.

Oats promise a larger yield and better quality than for some seasons past. It is early yet for the deliveries of any grains.

Barley—Samples that have been presented show good weight, but are discolored.

Wheat—Old, 75c.
Wheat—New, 75c.
Corn, shelled, 62 to 63c.
White oats—Old, 40c.
White oats—New, 40c.
Peas, $1.00 to $1.10.
Barley, per cwt., new 75c, old 90c.
Cornmeal, $1.50 to $1.75 per cwt.

Alfalfa, $5 to $5.50.

Seed Corn, 50c.

WOOL AND HIDES.

Nelson Stringer states that very little wool is coming in, and the price of unwashed is 7c, while washed is 12c. Hide market is a trifle firmer.
Wool, unwashed, 7c.
Wool, washed, 12c.
Lamb skins, 6c to 7c per lb.
Lamb and shearings, 10c to 15c.

Horse hides, $1 to $2.
Deacons, 20c to 35c.

HAY.

T. M. Tennent gives The Planet the following hay quotations:

Hay market has practically just opened and No. 1 timothy brings $5 per ton with a fair demand and large quantities offered, partially damaged.
Hay buyers are paying $5 to $5.50.
Hay, clover, $5 to $7.
Hay, new, loose, $6 to $7 per ton.

FURS.

Nelson Stringer gives The Planet the following quotations:—
The fur season is well over. Odd skins should be marketed, as the month season will soon be on.

Mink skins, 75c to $1.50.

MEATS.

O'Keefe & Drew quote as follows:—
Receipts of live hogs this week have been light, and lower prices are looked for shortly as the American market has dropped $1.00 per cwt this week.
Pork, 8c to 12c.
Mutton, 9c to 12 1/2c.
Live hogs, 8c to 12c.
Beef, 10c to 12 1/2c.

FISH.

W. Bunnag, dealer in fish, reports that he is paying 6c per lb for yellow pickled, and 4c per lb for muller whole, and cannot get enough at that high price.
White fish, 15c per lb, dressed.
Lake Huron trout, 10c per lb, dressed.
Yellow pickled 10c per lb, dressed.
Sturgeon, 10c lb, dressed.
Parch 25c dozen.

APPLE PROSPECTS.

L. & H. Williams, of Glasgow and Liverpool, Britain in a circular being sent around, state—The home crop of apples is light, while continental shipments will not be heavy and as the home and continental crop of pears is almost a total failure, we are of the opinion that apples will come into early consumption. While advising good prospects, it must be understood that it refers to well packed and carefully graded stock.

OUTSIDE MARKETS.

HENRY CLEWS' REPORT.
Henry Clews, in his weekly letter to The Planet, says:—

The actual results of a good harvest are difficult to accurately measure just now. Our crops will not be entirely free from danger for frost for another three or four weeks; and this being an exceptionally cool season such contingency is the more imminent. Some diminution of the splendid indications of the last government crop report, however, need cause no surprise should it come. According to the August government report the outlook is for the largest crop of corn on record, the second largest crop of wheat, a big oats crop and a large cotton crop, the yield of many other crops also being above the average. If we have crops of 650,000,000 bushels of wheat and 2,500,000,000 bushels of corn, there will be enormous traffic in store for the railroads; the corn crop in the form of live stock, etc., alone being a big item in the freight bill. But the farmers are likely to benefit even more than the railroads; and, allowing for the declines in prices or injury by frost, the growers of wheat, corn and cotton are almost sure to receive between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 more this year than last for their crops. What will be the effect of such a harvest upon business? Inevitably it must prove a very great stimulus, and all accounts from the west are noticeable for confidence and expectations of another year of pros-

Would You Think It?

Would you think it possible that you could be disappointed in the face of a woman whose shoulders, and beautiful hair suggest womanly perfection and beauty? Such disappointment comes not seldom when the face turned to you shows disfiguring blotches and blemishes. In general the cause of these eruptions is impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the corrupt accumulations which cause disease. When the blood is cleansed, pimples, tetter, salt-rheum, boils, sores, and other results of impure blood, are perfectly and permanently cured.

"For three years I suffered with that dreaded disease eczema," writes Mrs. J. Koepf, of Herman, Oregon. "I was told to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and after I had taken fourteen bottles I was permanently cured. It has been a year since I stopped taking your medicine and it has never appeared since. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and hope others suffering as I did, will take it and be relieved of their suffering."

Some of the most remarkable cures effected by "Golden Medical Discovery," have been of scrofulous diseases.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy of Fonda, Pochontas Co., Iowa. "It has cured me of chronic eczema of twelve years' standing. I had doctored for the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

perity. Unfortunately these prospects are not fully shared in the east, where strikes have checked improvement, and in the south progress is less pronounced. Yet there is a large home demand for foodstuffs, and we are likely to find a good export inquiry for our corn and cotton, though Europe is not in as great need of our wheat as last year.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—There were 900 head of butchers' cattle, 150 calves and 1,500 sheep and lambs offered at the east end abattoir to-day. The butchers were out strong and bought freely, but the prices continued very low and unsatisfactory to the drovers. A few of the best cattle were sold at from 4 1/2 to 4 3/4c per lb, and from that down to 3 1/2c for pretty good stock. Common cattle were very hard to sell and prices ranged at from 1 1/2 to 2c per lb. A considerable number will have to be held over for another market. Mr. Ritchot of St. Jean street bought a very fine yearling calf, weighing 241 lbs, for $12, or almost 5c per lb; the other calves sold at from $2 to $10 each, or from 3c to 3 1/2c per lb, and lambs at from 3 1/2 to 4 1/2c per lb. The general price of good lambs was about 4c per lb.

Fat hogs sold at from 7c to 7 1/2c per lb, for good lots, weighed off the cars.

TORONTO HAY AND STRAW.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—Baled Hay—Moderate demand and supply at $9.50 to $10 a ton for new hay on track here and $11 for old.

Straw—The market is quiet at $5 to $5.50 a ton in car lots on track here.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

Toronto, August 19.—Butter—There is only a steady market. There is a good demand for anything choice, either in the creamery or dairy, but offerings are largely of common stuff.

Creamery, sorted, 19 1/2 to 20 1/2c.
Creamery solids, 18 1/2 to 19c.
Dairy tube, choice, 15 to 16c.
Dairy medium, 13 to 14c.

Eggs—Of the average case of eggs arriving just now only about one-third of the contents can be set aside as new laid stock. These select eggs will sell at 16c and sometimes a little more, but the other two-thirds is composed of seconds and cracked eggs, which sell at 11c to 13c. The average run of new laid stock sells at 15c.

Poultry—Fair receipts meet a moderate demand at steady prices. Chickens are quoted at 50c to 75c; hens at 40 to 50c, ducks at 60 to 80c and turkeys at 8c to 10c.

Potatoes—Continue to arrive in small lots only, and sell to a steady demand at 35c to 45c a bushel.

TORONTO FRUITS.

Toronto, Aug. 19.—The deliveries of fruit at the wholesale market yesterday were small. We quote:

Bananas, per bunch, $1.50 to $2.

Canadian tomatoes, 40c to 60c basket.

SPION KOP

Notwithstanding the hints that the press freely prints; Spite of blue book, on dit, and suggestion; Skill from experts in vain we attempt to obtain A reply to the Spion Kop question. Ink by quarts has been shed, odd reports have been spread, Strange dispatches curtailed, and expanded; But still there's a doubt which has not been threshed out, As to who on that hill-top commanded?

The "Bullerites" swear with a blustering air, Which to English traditions seems foreign; That if any one man can be blamed for the plan Which resulted in failure—it is Warren!

Whilst the "Warrenites" vow, all fair folk must allow That there could not be evidence Than that which connects the fiasco's effects With the too-tardy tactics of Buller!

Some discern through the smoke of the fray General Coke, Limping up with not very good gait, Whilst others suggest that, when blame is assessed, Just a little should fall on Woodgate.

There are sharp critics, too, who incline to the view (One that time has not tended to soften) That Thornycroft's fame hasn't been quite the same.

Since he took the command vice Crofton. So no wonder each day we peruse with dismay In the papers yet more revelations, As denouncers attack and defenders hit back.

And new charges bring new vindications; Till the public, amazed and perplexed and half dazed, In the role of distracted beholders, Are in such sorry case that they can't even place The just blame on the right pair of shoulders.

But no matter! If wise they'll conceal their surprise And refrain from more vague accusation; For we've news to impart—let the public take heart! We can give the desired information.

In command on the top of that ill-omened kop, Where our soldiers like sheep had to huddle, Was a general whose name England knows to her shame, That confounded old General Buller.

LIGHT SMALL COMPLETE

Lightness and compactness are merits that are more appreciated by the owner the more he uses his camera.

In travelling, hunting, fishing, yachting—all the forms of outdoor life—a camera that goes in the pocket, weighs next to nothing, and TAKES PERFECT PICTURES is the photographic ideal.

The Pocket Peaco Camera is just such a camera—Price $9.00.

A. I. McCall & Co., Limited
Druggists and Opticians

Dr. Allan S. Bond, of Toronto, is visiting in the city.

A ladies' jacket, advertised in The Planet a few days ago, has been left at this office to-day.

James Glenn, Jr., has purchased W. S. Marshall's cottage at Centreville, Erieau.

The funeral of Mary, the little daughter of George Mann, Edgar St. took place this afternoon.

Lost, on Sunday evening, a pair of gold rimmed eye-glasses. The finder will be rewarded by leaving them at this office.

Geo. Gammage, of Harwich, a member of the 24th Regiment Band, is laid up with an injured foot. Mr. Gammage accidentally cut his foot while splitting wood.

WHAT ABOUT BAND

"The Bills for the Scotch Picnic at the Eau to-morrow, advertise the Chatham City Band," said Bandmaster Harry Philp to The Planet to-day, "but as yet I have heard nothing of it and it's almost time I did if we are to be engaged."

RUNAWAY

A very exciting runaway occurred this afternoon about 2:30 on King street, when a horse took fright at a piece of paper in front of Shell's Fair and galloped madly down the street. Mrs. Henry Clements, who was in the rig, hung tightly to the lines and was the admiration of the numerous spectators along the course of the runaway down King street as she steered the mad brute between rigs and out of the way of others. Mrs. Clements lost control of the horse near the Aberdeen bridge, where it turned and fell. The brave lady was not injured in the least, but was greatly excited. This is the second time this horse has run away with Mrs. Clements.

WELL SHOT

P. D. McKellar went up to Northwood yesterday to see a well of the Ontario & California Oil Co. shot. The company has several hundred acres leased at Northwood. All are producing oil in small quantities. The well shot yesterday was the 13th well and the prospects are that it will be a good paying well. The first shipment of oil from these fields was made yesterday.

Mr. McKellar says that the crops of the farmers whose lands lie adjacent to the railroad were very good. Nearly all the grain is harvested. One farmer is just harvesting his hay. He has fared better than if he had cut it earlier. It is a little over ripe, but is not injured much.

A man never realizes how sick he has been until he gets the doctor's bill.

Dunn & Merritt

Good farm, 78 acres, within two miles of Chatham, good house and barn, also drive shed. This is a bargain.

72 acres in Township of Chatham, price $2,500. Good frame house, also barn 34 x 54, two good wells of water; 50 acres under cultivation.

House and lot on Thames street, nearly new, price $850; also house on Thames street $650. This is a snap.

The Planet this afternoon is in receipt of a communication from a gentleman signing himself "Law and Order." The writer "desires to compliment The Planet on directing attention to the way the license laws are enforced" and proceeds to express his views thereon. "Law and Order," however, unfortunately descends to unpleasant personalities, and for this reason his letter, in its present shape, cannot be used in this journal. What-ever may or may not be said about the manner in which Mr. Macnabb performs his official duties, personally he is a very estimable gentleman and rightly enjoys the respect of the community. If our correspondent will amend his communication by eliminating the personal portion, it will be published—not otherwise.—Ed. Planet.

AWFUL REVENGE

New York Women Drenched
Fleeing Husband With Vitriol.

Special to The Planet.

New York, Aug. 20.—Fearing her husband, from whom she had been separated for four years, was about to leave the city without paying to her several hundred dollars for alimony, Mrs. Claire Chenuau drenched him with oil of vitriol, and burned him so severely on the face, shoulders, back and chest that it is feared he will not survive. One of the man's eyes was destroyed.

When arrested Mrs. Chenuau said that should her husband recover she would divulge the story of a crime he had committed in France about five years ago, as a result of which they had to flee the country.

COAL GOING UP

Fuel Famine Threatens 50,000 Men at Pittsburgh.

Special to The Planet.

New York, Aug. 20.—The wholesale price of anthracite has jumped to $10 a ton for stove coal and $11 for egg. Attracted by the high prices ruling in Manhattan, dealers in towns up the state have been making offers to the New York men to supply coal, some of the offers coming from Troy and Utica. So far as could be learned the dealers were not in favor of closing with these offers, as the cost of transportation and handling would be added.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 20.—The Post to-day publishes a story to the effect that a fuel famine is threatened for the mills in this district and that 50,000 men may be thrown into enforced idleness through the lack of coal and coke. The trouble comes from a scarcity of engines to move the loaded cars. It is said that on the sidings of the B. & O. R. R. leading into Pittsburg from the coal and coke regions there are nearly 5,000 loaded cars.

POWERS PROTEST.

New York, Aug. 20.—Advices have been received here that Germany, Great Britain and France in joint action protested this morning against the blockade of Venezuelan ports, says a cable to the Herald from Willemstad, Curacao, the Venezuelan government will make a reply.

NEGRO PROBLEM IN AFRICA.

London, Aug. 20.—Mail advices received here from Johannesburg indicate that the negro problem is growing more acute, and is causing the authorities infinite worry. Among the immediate dangers native attacks on Boers returning to their farms and attempts of natives to assault white women are threatening to lead to serious conflicts between the Boers and blacks. Under the old regime the crude but simple retribution for assaults on women was shooting on sight. Now, however, there is no legislation on the subject, which is causing both Boers and Afrikaners intense irritation and encourages the blacks to truculent effrontery. Experienced British colonials strongly favor universal disarmament of the natives and prompt legislation making assaults on women a capital offense.

Yellowstone National Park

This famous national park offers to the tourist and sightseer more novelties and curiosities than perhaps any other spot on earth. The stage ride from Monida is through scenery hardly inferior to the park itself, and this ride is one of the very many enjoyments of the trip.

The new route to the Yellowstone is via the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line Railroads to Monida, Montana, thence daily by palatial Concord coaches of the Monida & Yellowstone Stage Company to all points in the Yellowstone National Park.

William Campbell has received word from one of the coal firms with whom J. L. Scott deals, to the effect that nothing definite has been done in regard to the closing of the strike of the miners. The mine owners still refuse to recognize the union. The miners are beginning to realize that, and may go back to work as individual miners and not as members of a union. Coal will probably be $7 a ton.

Constable James Rankin brought a Syrian peddler into the city this morning. He arrested the fellow on the charge of selling without a license. The man came to Mr. Rankin's home last night and stayed on the platform, but stayed all night. The peddler gave his name as James Isaac at first, but changed it every time he was asked. Tom Groves asked the Syrian if he understood English. The man answered in fairly good English that he didn't, and after the policeman had had a hearty laugh, Isaac refused to answer any more questions.

WEALTH COULD NOT SAVE HIM.
Pittsburg, Aug. 19.—Wealth could not save John Henry, the richest man in Carnegie, from death. Crushed and bleeding, he lay on the platform of the Fourth Ave. Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad Saturday night, pleading for his life, and offering $100,000 if someone would save him.

He was crossing the tracks when a train coming out of the tunnel tossed him into the air. He fell between the train and fence, where his arm was cut, his ear torn off, and he was terribly crushed. Another train followed, and as the maimed man was unable to attract attention of the crew, it passed by him, adding to his injuries and sufferings.

Mr. Henry finally crawled a short distance and successfully called for help. He died at the Mercy Hospital. He was going to Alma, Mich., for his health. He was formerly president of the Charters Steel Company, which was sold to the American Sheet Steel Company. He was 52 years of age, and the largest landholder in Carnegie.

WAS A WHOPPER

A. E. Pellet and Ed. Wing spent yesterday fishing at Erieau. They succeeded in catching some fine large bass, one of the largest of which weighed a full pound, and they had hard work persuading Felix Carey that it wasn't a shark.

LOVE AT SIGHT

Miss Mary Kadlock and Clarence M. Newman, of Cleveland, Ohio, were married on Monday at the residence of Rev. T. T. George. These two young people, who come from two of the best families in Cleveland, have been summing at the Eau and have been there since the season commenced. They evidently did not take long to come to an understanding concerning both their future lives. They came into Chatham Monday morning, secured a license, were married and returned to the Eau in the evening to resume their holiday visit at Chatham's popular summer resort.

FINE EXCURSION

The Catholic Order of Foresters excursion to Lagoon Park yesterday was a most decided success and well deserved to be, because it was a most beautiful trip, firstly down our own beautiful Thames, secondly a most pleasant sail across the yesterday smooth waters of the St. Clair, thirdly the sights along the Detroit river were excellent. Port Wayne could be seen to splendid advantage, and fourthly after arriving at Lagoon Park, which is a beautiful spot, shaded by weeping willows innumerable. Dancing was indulged in, the side show where you were taken in, and the picnic spot, it was easy to put in the three hours and half. A number went to Detroit and Windsor, some of whom did not catch the boat and had to come by train. About 500 took in the excursion and were all well pleased with the day's outing. The Foresters wish to thank all who aided in making the excursion a success.

NEW FACTORY

Yesterday The Planet interviewed Mr. Felix Lesser, Canadian representative for the Superior Drill Co., of Springfield, Ohio, whose company is constructing the erection of a factory in Canada, to be in operation in time for next year's business. This company is one of the largest makers of farm implements in the world and realizing the importance of the trade in Canada, and the great possibilities for the future, like many other shrewd business houses, find it in order to hold the trade it will be necessary to manufacture their different lines in this country. This was Mr. Lesser's first trip through Canada, and he said his visit was to establish a western agency in this city, and make it a distributing point and to look the place over as a suitable location for the factory. He placed a full line of drill and harrows and other goods with Messrs. Westman Bros., who will have charge of the western business, as the goods will be sent here. During Mr. Lesser's stay in the city he visited a number of locations, and secured prices on two or three properties that he deemed would be suitable for the company's business.

BURNED IN THEIR HOUSE.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 19.—Word reached here yesterday that Oliver Gough, of Harvey, Albert county, and his wife, both seventy years of age, were burned to death in their house in the morning. The old man rose, lighted the fire, and went out. Seeing the house in flames, he rushed in to save his wife, and both perished. It is feared that a son, who has not since been seen, has been burned to death also.

The steeple will last no longer than the foundation.

FISH STORY

"I was out in Harwich at Ed. Smith's one day a short time ago," said Mr. Knott, of Gray & Sons, to The Planet this morning, "and was watching a couple of children in a boat in the air and landed in the boat. It was fully 20 inches long and must have weighed a few pounds. It scared the children half to death, but they soon recovered and killed the fish and had it for dinner."

When asked what kind of a fish it was, Mr. Knott said he guessed it must have been a succor.

ROYAL MUSKOKA NOW OPEN

Guests Are Arriving Daily at the New Summer Resort.

The opening of the new Royal Muskoka Hotel on Lake Rosseau, Muskoka Lakes district, for the season of 1902, has been a source of satisfaction to the proprietors, and the reservations that have been made up to the present for accommodation at this resort assure the success of the venture. Guests are arriving daily, and by next week, hundreds of people will be enjoying the beauties of Muskoka with the advantage of sojourning in one of the best summer hotels in America.

Among the guests at the hotel now are prominent people from Buffalo, Chicago, New York, and other American cities, as well as many Canadians. The Ontario Government, in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Rail, is sponsoring the policy inaugurated last year of restocking the Muskoka lakes with parent bass. The first carload was deposited in lake Rosseau, June 20, and a finer lot of bass has seldom been seen. Last year 10,000 fish were transplanted into the Northern Lakes with much success. The fishing this year in the Muskoka Lakes is good, some excellent catches having been made, the bass weighing from two to four pounds, and pickerel from two to eight pounds.

HEALTH RESORTS AND ATTRACTIONS

There is no region in America richer in mineral springs than Colorado, while throughout the state there are pleasure resorts and splendid scenes of attraction of various kinds in great numbers. It has been truly said that all of Colorado is a health resort, and this statement is sustained by the most eminent physicians of the country. What with its beautiful cities on the plains, its gorgeous mountain peaks and lovely valleys, its awful canyons and their rushing torrents, its forests and streams, its broad green parks and charming crystal lakes amid the mountains, what more could nature provide or man desire for his welfare or his delights. Not only the health-giving mineral and thermal springs, which gush spontaneously from the mountain sides invite the invalid and the weary, but in all the rest of these charms of nature is found a panacea for the ill and cause of body and mind diseased.

To enable persons to reach these favored localities without unnecessary expenditure of time or money, the Union Pacific has put in effect very low rates and splendid train service, three trains leaving Missouri River daily for Denver, one of which is "The Colorado Special," which is the finest train in the West. Accommodations are provided for all classes of passengers, the equipment including free reclining chair car, dining car, buffet, smoking cars, drawing room sleepers and day coaches. Full information cheerfully furnished on application to G. G. HERRING, G. A., 128 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. H. F. CARTER, T. P. A., 60 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.

TENANTS WON

Belfast, Aug. 19.—The first election in Ireland since Mr. Balfour assumed the premiership of Great Britain took place here yesterday, and resulted in the defeat of the landlord party. Two candidates contested the seat of William Johnston, former Protestant Conservative member of the South Division of Belfast, and the leader of the Ulster Orangemen. The candidates were both Orangemen. They were Mr. Sloan, the representative of the tenants, and Mr. Fuller, who stood for the landlords. The election resulted in Mr. Sloan receiving 3,786 votes and Mr. Fuller 2,969. The announcement of the result was received with great good humor and cheering. There was no disorder.

A FINE TRIP

Frank Bechard and Henry Primeau have returned from a trip East. Mr. Bechard was on a visit to his relatives in Quebec, while Mr. Primeau was on a purchasing trip for William Gordon. Both report having had an exceedingly enjoyable time during the two weeks they were away.

"From Toronto," said Mr. Bechard, "we went to Montreal on the steamer Kingston, one of the finest steamers on the lakes and the one on which the royal party visited the Thousand Islands. From Kingston to Montreal we passed through the Thousand Islands. It was very pretty to see the handsome residences built on these small islands."

Arriving at Montreal Mr. Bechard was met by his cousin, Henry Remillard, who took him on an automobile trip through St. John, Lacadie, St. Jacques, St. Andre, where he visited relatives he had never seen before. He was joined again by Mr. Primeau and they proceeded to Quebec, where they visited all the points of historical interest, staying at the famous Chateau Frontenac. St. Anne Du Beupre was also visited by the travellers. This is the place made famous by its wonderful faith cures. Mr. Bechard said he saw in the rest of the church hundreds of canes and crutches which had been discarded by cripples coming from all over the country to be cured.

"It was a fine trip," concluded Mr. Bechard, "and I intend to take it again. I thought that the trip up the lakes was splendid, but it is not to be compared with this trip."

TURNED ON GAS AND DIED.

Napanee, August 19.—About 3.30 this afternoon, W. Coffee, a man of about 65 or 70 years of age was found dead in his room in the Paisley house. It is clearly a case of asphyxiation by gas, which had been turned on. There was no occasion to use gas, there being an electric light in the room which was going all night. The man is a commercial traveller, but it is not as yet known what firm he represented. In five or six places in a book, and on the inside of a newspaper he wrote, "No. 121 Stuart street, Kingston, is my home," which showed that he premeditated the rash act. Deceased came to the Paisley House last Friday and went away, coming back again Saturday, having been there ever since. He had no baggage or grip. He had been dead a long time when found.

A GIRL OF THE PEOPLE

By Mrs. C. N. Williamson

In crossing the threshold she turned and looked back, speaking to someone in the room. "I will bring it to you in less than ten minutes," she said, in an ordinary tone, without a trace of agitation. "Be patient till then."

She took a step forward, but a faint murmur from the person unseen caused her again to pause. I could not hear the question, if question it was, but her answer reached me distinctly. "I cannot help that. After what happened last night, it is your own fault. But though the door must be locked after this, for the next night or two at all events, when you are left alone, you are in no sense a prisoner. As soon as you are well enough, if you choose to leave this house, and there is any other place where you would rather live, you have only to say so. I came here for your sake alone. And everything I have done since coming has been for your sake. It appears to me that you are very well off here. But we will talk about it again when I have brought you the wine."

She closed the door, and once more the corridor was dim. But I could see that she was bending down, and I could hear the fitting of a key into a lock. If I could escape her sharp eyes, in my dark, but otherwise so secure, hiding-place, after all this seeming contrivance might work out for good. Evidently the key of this door was not in Roger Cope's possession, but in Sintra Leigh's. Now, if she would only, only leave it in the lock! Was it possible that she would do so?

For an instant she appeared to hesitate. I could guess what was in her thoughts. She was wondering whether there could be the smallest imprudence in letting the key remain where it was for the few moments of her intended absence. Before I could have counted twelve she had decided that she might safely trust it there, and, turning the key with a faint grating noise, she hurried away.

My only hope of escaping her quick eyes lay in the sheltering shadow of the big clothes-press as I stood huddled into the angle it made in the wall, and the fact that no woman had no suspicion of my presence. Probably she would have looked me into my room if she had not disliked proceeding to extreme measures by removing the key from the inside. Or perhaps she had felt confident that, after the alarm of the preceding night, I would not dream of venturing out after dark. She had reason to be secure in the knowledge that I could not leave the house, and she might have reflected that vague curiosity alone was not a strong enough motive to lure me from safety.

These thoughts dashed through my head as she came nearer, and gave me hope. Fortunately, she carried no candle, and she had just come from a room brightly lighted, so that the darkness must have appeared more dense to her than it did to me.

I was half afraid that she might hear my heart beating, or the rustle of my gown as it rose and fell with the throbbing of my bosom, for the sound was loud in my own ears. I hardly dared look at her as she approached, lest my eyes should attract hers with some subtle magnetism, yet I could not force myself to turn them from the tall, swiftly advancing figure.

It was all over, however, in less than a minute, and she had gone by without even glancing towards the clothes-press. The sense of relief was so great when she had actually passed, that I grew giddy, almost faint. But there was no time for analyzing my own sensations. Not a second was to be lost. I meant to do the daring thing which had presented itself as an allurements to my mind.

The woman in black had said that she would be away less than ten minutes. I might, then, count on at least five clear minutes in which to work.

Peering out from my hiding-place, I only waited until Sintra Leigh's head had disappeared down the well of the staircase. Then I flew to the door of the room she had left, and unlocked it. I was too much excited now to be afraid, or I might have hesitated in dread of what I should see on the other side. But I did not hesitate. I turned the key and opened the door without knocking.

What I saw was a commonplace, comfortably furnished bedroom. A large reading-lamp stood on a table near a huge, downy bed, and in the bed, supported by banked-up pillows, reclined a man.

The first glance told me that he was the original of the third portrait in the library downstairs, and I felt far less surprised at this discovery than I should have done.

He had a book in this wasted hand, but at the sound of the opening door he looked up, fixing two great pale, startled eyes, set like topazes in deep shadows, upon the unexpected visitor.

"Who are you?" he exclaimed, in a voice as like Sintra Leigh's as his face was like hers.

I gave him the answer that sprang into my mind and insisted on utterance. "Hush!" I said, with my finger to my lips. "I am Ermytrude's daughter, and I've come to you for help and justice."

The features, worn and altered by years and suffering since the portrait had been painted, changed and paled in the light of the green-shaded reading-lamp. "Ermytrude's daughter!" he echoed. "Ermytrude had no daughter."

"She adopted a daughter," I went on, hastily. "I heard you call her name last night, and I couldn't rest till I found you. I loved her dearly, and she loved me, too. There are so many things you could tell me, if you would; and perhaps I could tell you some things that you would care to hear, if only you'd listen."

"For Heaven's sake, then, tell me how she is," the man cried.

"She is dead. Didn't you know?" I answered, with awe in my heart.

He fell back among the pillows, groaning, his hands, thin and yellow as claws, hiding his face.

For an instant I had forgotten that at almost any moment the woman might break in upon us; but now I remembered, with a shock. I ran to the bed and bent over the man who lay there.

"There are other things I can tell you—things that have been kept from you

"Ermytrude," I said, "do you wish to hear them?"

"Yes, yes," he moaned.

"There isn't time to tell you now, for we are liable to be interrupted. Is Sintra Leigh your sister?"

The man looked me in the face once more and nodded, without speaking.

"She wished to keep us apart. When I asked about this room to-day she said that it was a store-place and Sir Roger Cope kept the key. When she comes back, if she finds me here, she will send me away. She is stronger than I, and she can call the servants to aid her if she chooses; I can't resist. But if you will do as I ask, I will run whatever risk there may be in displeasing her. I've shut the door, and the key is outside, where she put it a few moments ago. When she comes back, she will think that she must have failed to lock the door, or perhaps she will turn the key round and not know that it has been tampered with. If I hide in this room, so that I can talk to you when she has gone away again, will you promise to keep the secret?"

"Yes," the man answered. "She has tricked me, and she deserves to be tricked in return."

I could not be sure whether or no he would keep his word. But I determined to take the risk. At worst, Sintra Leigh would hardly dare to kill me, whatever might be her desire for revenge should she find me out.

"Halt!" the man's voice broke into my thoughts. "I heard something in the distance. She's on her way back."

Without a word I flew to the window nearest. It was covered with heavy curtains that had been drawn together and fell in straight folds to the floor. Behind them I found that the window was partly open, to let in the mild air of the June night. If the curtains moved, Sintra Leigh might think that they were stirred by the breeze. There was a deep embrasure, and, gathering my skirt closely about me, I knew that, unless the woman in black should be seized by a whim or I was betrayed by her brother, I stood in no immediate danger of discovery.

The curtains had scarcely ceased to quiver after being drawn into place by me, when I heard the door open. I half expected Sintra Leigh's first words to be an expression of surprise at finding the door unlocked, but, instead, she began quietly to speak about a bottle of port which she had fetched from downstairs. No doubt she had done what I had suggested—turned the key without becoming aware that someone had been before her.

"It was so dark in the passage to-night that I stumbled at the top of the stairs," she said, "and almost dropped the wine."

"I heard a sound," replied her brother.

"Now, you are to drink this," the woman went on, "and I am sure that you will have no return of the dreams which troubled you last night. We cannot have any more such disturbances, especially while we are guests in this house. There! You feel better already, I am certain."

"I think I do," answered the weary voice from the bed. "I hope I may sleep to-night. Thank you for bringing me the wine. You might as well go now; I shall need nothing more."

"I should be glad to stay with you longer if you cared to have me. But, of course, if you think you can sleep that will be best."

"At least I shall try. And somehow I think that to-night I shall succeed better than before—better than I have for a very long time."

"Shall I close the window?" asked

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are also utterly worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

I held my breath. Would the man remember that my window was the one which had been opened? And would he still be true?

"No, no," he rejoined, rather irritably. "You know that I like fresh air."

"Good-night, then. And remember that the bell beside your bed has now been made to connect with my room. You have only to ring. It would have been better if you had not forgotten that last night."

"I lost my head last night, I admit," was the reply. "It shan't happen again. I promise you. But, for Heaven's sake, don't lock me in. The thought of being unable to get out is enough to drive me mad."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Sintra Leigh. Impatiently. "You might ask that, with a better grace, if you had not lost control of yourself and alarmed the house last night. I must lock the door. But ring if your nerves get the better of you again, and I will come."

I had listened eagerly to this discussion, for I divined that the invalid's request had been as much with a view to my convenience as his own. But I was hardly disappointed that his appeal should have been in vain. When I had learnt the secret—if he could be induced to tell it—I must make the best of the situation I had created for myself. At all events, this game that I was bent on playing was more than worth the candle it would cost. And sufficient for the hour was the evil thereof!

She went out and closed the door, locking it with a certain ostentatiousness. At the sound, despite my resolution, I felt a slight sinking of the heart. For it was not pleasant to think of being shut up for an indefinite period with that ghastly-faced, hollow-eyed creature, who might be—probably was—a certain extent a madman. But I had chosen; and I must now abide by my decision.

I waited until I was sure that the woman in black was much with a view to my convenience as his own. But I was hardly disappointed that his appeal should have been in vain. When I had learnt the secret—if he could be induced to tell it—I must make the best of the situation I had created for myself. At all events, this game that I was bent on playing was more than worth the candle it would cost. And sufficient for the hour was the evil thereof!

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Secret.

"When did Ermytrude die?" the man demanded of me, abruptly, as soon as our eyes met.

I answered as concisely: "In April. One night your sister came and took her away from the theatre, where she and I had gone. When she came back to the hotel where we were staying she was very ill. She tried to tell me something, to give me some directions, which I couldn't understand. And in a few moments she was dead."

"That night!" the man whispered, beneath his breath. "It was that night! Then—I am her murderer!" His great eyes stared past me into space.

I was faintly conscious of a growing pity for him. "The doctor I called in told me that her heart must have been weak for a long time," I said, more gently.

"Her heart was weak!" he echoed. "Poor Ermytrude! Poor tortured soul! And to think that all those years, O Heaven! If I could only be sure that she knew now how I had suffered, that through it all I suffered as much as she!"

"Perhaps she does know," I said. "You—what do you know of it all?" he demanded, almost with scorn.

"I only know," I returned, "that she was never happy—never since I can begin to remember anything. And my memory goes back to the time when I was a tiny child—seventeen years per my skirt closely about me, I knew that, unless the woman in black should be seized by a whim or I was betrayed by her brother, I stood in no immediate danger of discovery."

"That awful night!" he exclaimed, more to himself than to me.

"She loved me, I think, and was always good," I went on. "But her moods were often strange. Sometimes she used to be stern with me when I could not tell what I had done that was wrong. Sometimes she would load me with presents and kindnesses; and again, perhaps in the same hour, she would seem to feel it a sin that I should be happy."

"The boy among the pillows muttered, the man among the pillows muttered, with a sigh that was like a stifled sob."

"The boy who died?" I finished the sentence for him. "Perhaps. She never spoke of him to me, never once. But I am sure."

Why a Bulldog is So Called.

As to the derivation of the word bulldog, it is only necessary to state that at one time this species was exclusively used in bull baiting, the name by which it is universally known. A cross between this and the terrier is appropriately termed the bull terrier.

A Scientific Voice Improver

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal chords, Catarrhose cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhose keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety, untidiness of voice. The most eminent speakers and Prima Donas would not be without degrees their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence. The hard rubber inhaler fits quite conveniently into a purse or vest pocket, and may be used in the church, theatre, any place or time. Complete outfit $1. Small size 25c. Few temptations beset the industrious, but all temptations assail the idle.

What does it profit a woman if she gain the whole world of knowledge and lose her own health? Young women students, and school teachers, eager, ambitious, and full of energy, very often neglect their health in the struggle to gain education. They eat insufficient food, and at irregular hours, they allow irregularity of the womanly functions to be established, and the result is that they become chronic invalids with all their education practically worthless. There is a plain road back to health for such as these, marked by the feet of thousands. It is the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for cures of the stomach and digestive and nutritive organs, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the delicate organs of womanhood. A cure so certainly follows the use of these remedies that the number of thousands of women who have tried the treatment, ninety-eight in every hundred have been perfectly and permanently cured. Constipation, with its calamitous ramifications, is a common ailment of students, can be entirely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The heart hardens by misfortunes like the hands of labor.

A SINCERE TRIBUTE

AN IRISHMAN TELLS OF THE GOOD NATURE OF BRITAIN'S KING.

A Man Who Never Did an Inconsiderate Thing, Who Never Said a Tactless Thing, But Whose Life Has Been of Necessity Devoted to the Non-Essentials of Being—Fond of Popular Liberties.

James O'Donnell Bennett writes thus of King Edward VII.:

His gift for making everybody feel good was positive genius and no figment of a truckling imagination. When the royal coach rode through the streets of London this one and that one was greeted with various degrees of respect and affection—the old Queen with reverence, Alexandra with chivalry, as if she were the sweetheart of the Empire, the Empress Frederick with tender sympathy.

But Edward with cheer, in which there were good humor and good fellowship. It was amazing to see how instantly his appearance in a royal pageant relieved the tension, and set people up comfortably on their weary legs. His mother received the tribute of awe, his sisters the tribute of respect, but for him was reserved the pleasantest sound that can greet the ears of a prince—cheers with the welcome of laughter in them.

The people would begin to grin amiably as soon as the word ran down the line "The Prince is coming." When he rode in sight there was nothing perfunctory about the greetings. They vibrated with the spirit of fun, deep-chested, jovial cheers, such as greet a winning sportsman or a popular idol, whom we are glad to see in continued luck.

It was so on Jubilee day of '97, when he rode on horseback directly behind his mother's carriage. The eyes of thousands filled with tears as they saw her—that sad, serene little figure, above whom hovered the brightness of so many glories, the shadow of so many sorrows. Then they saw the merry prince whom they had loved and berated and forgiven for nearly half a century, and they hastily brushed away the tears and gave him once again the deep-voiced welcome which he had earned by his comradeship behind it.

Again, I saw him late one night, when with much rumbling of wheels and clattering of hoofs and jingling of accoutrements, he and his retinue swept out of the narrow Strand and into the broad expanse of Trafalgar-square. He was on his way from a command performance of opera at Covent Garden to Marlborough House. The streets were flooded with light and you could see him plainly through the glass doors and sides of his carriage. He was pale, and I swear his face would have seemed merely stupid had it not been so serene. The thrusters followed his carriage, instead of riding around it. I have never seen a man in a position that was in itself so abjectly helpless. Only the will to harm him was required to put him in a position perilous in the last degree. Yet there was in his eye a placid look of trustfulness and affection that stirred a kindly feeling in more than one republican heart. The wheels of his carriage all but brushed our coats as we gaped at him. He was dressed in a scarlet uniform, and blazing with decorations. He looked just what he was—a splendid, pleasing figure-head, serving an entirely and harmless purpose, in some respects, a very useful purpose.

The tired, close-packed multitudes cheered him way inside the palace gates as the glimpse of him had so restored the gala spirit of the long-drawn-out, tiring day that everybody scurried for the neighboring cafes to drink his health.

The man, without whom the world could have got on just as well as has with him, has been the object of intense loyalty and affection for a generation and a half, because he has an intensely loyal and affectionate nature.

He has loved to be loved, and he has worked on the principle that the surest way to receive affection is to inspire it.

More than any other public figure of our time, he has been all things to all men, more than once so complacently so as to bring reproach upon himself.

He has made it the business of his life to cultivate the amenities, the genial superfluities, that help to make existence pleasanter, if not more purposeful.

He possesses social sagacity in its perfection and unimpaired adaptability. He can contribute a sane hint or a feasible plan to a family conference in which sit the throne heads of Russia, England, Denmark and Greece, and he can say the pleasant, cheering word at a dinner of London cab drivers.

Consider, in making your estimate of him, the interesting fact every one of his multitudinous occupations has had to do with the non-essentials of life.

For a man who has been dilettante-student, traveler, horseman, administrator of social functions, amateur farmer, hunter, yachtsman and connoisseur of pictures, for such a man to have at all impressed his personality on his time is marvelous. This the Prince and King certainly has done to some extent.

Just now it might perhaps be hard to say, and the value, such as it is, of his work can perhaps not be more exactly sum up now than by saying that he made society more genial and less snobbish.

This was the task of only an ardent humanitarian, to be sure, and so makes no very great entry in the sum total of the world's progress. But it was a task worth doing, nevertheless, and when he ceased to fulfil it Europe will look in vain among her lofty placed ones for a man to carry on the fosterings of society's elegance as tactfully and sanely as he did.

It may not be much to go down in history as the pleasant, agreeable,

Prince, who never did an inconsiderate thing and never said a tactless thing, but it is something.

"Molto amabile," the nuns of the Sepolite Vive call him to this day, and cherish the memory of this visit, for he talked with them sympathetically, and was interested in their handiwork. "Molto amabile" he has been to all the world, patiently and consistently. "Pleasant a test" is monde." Prince Metetrich, who had a shrewd eye for character, called him when he was a boy. That sturdy, uncompromising republican, Gambetta, shook his head in bewilderment after he had chatted with him and said: "Oh, those lucky Englishmen! Their very princes are fonder of popular liberties than are our very liberals."

Fond of liberty, and particularly of his own liberty to come and go as he liked, and to amuse himself as he pleased, Edward VII. has been all his life. He has respected the rights of other people and he has debonairly taken for granted that other people would respect his. It required some courage to do this, for had he invariably truckled to the rigorous exactions of the nonconformist conscience he would have had a poor time of it. Despite the fact that he has a will of his own, he steered safely clear of scandalizing the possessors of the nonconformist conscience on the one hand and being a prig, and a hypocrite on the other.

The English are an intensely materialistic and practical people, in their pleasures, as well as their business and their politics. Edward has been liked and loved by them because he is, in a superlative degree, what they are. They set a great store by material good things, and he has been a frank, breezy, unaffected exposition of their tastes, liking good horses, good wine, good fellows—masculine or feminine—good hunting, good clothes, good manners—liking, in a word, the things a prosperous Englishman likes, and gets, if he can.

As Gambetta said, he is a better democrat than many who profess the faith. He forbade the members of his household and his servants to address his children as their Royal Highnesses. He snubbed the Norfolk gentry unmercifully because they took umbrage at his inviting the sturdy farmers on his Sandringham estates to the same festivities to which he had bidden them. He had his boys trained by old sailors on the B. B. and the B. B. and the B. B. and the end that they might know how to do a man's work dexterously and feel an honest artisan's pride in it.

He has found his keenest enjoyment when he could knock about remote corners of the world with his wife under the alias of "Mr. and Mrs. Williams."

He has made the purple, red and black respected on the great race course of England, as a token of honest, gentlemanly sport.

He has relieved social life of some of its foolish complexities, by inventing the semi-dress coat and the short jacket, and by wearing them.

All his life long he has been gentle, frank, engaging, fun-loving, discreet-speaking—and he has never hurt anybody's feelings—which is a kindly thing in itself.

AFRICA'S SLEEPING SICKNESS.

British Scientists to Study Strange and Usually Fatal Disease.

An expedition organized by the British Foreign Office and the Royal Society recently left England for East Africa to investigate the whole subject of the "sleeping sickness" in Uganda. The expedition consists of Dr. Low, who lately returned from investigating yellow fever in St. Lucia, and who recently carried out some highly interesting experiments in regard to malaria in the Roman Campagna; Dr. Christy, who has done valuable medical work on the Niger and in connection with the plague in India, and Dr. Castellani, of the Jenner Institute.

These gentlemen will go direct from Marseilles to Entebbe, the headquarters in Uganda, via Mombasa. It is hoped to conclude the preliminary investigation into the subject in about eight months. The observers will not only study in the various provinces of the Uganda Protectorate the history and causes of the disease, with a view to remedial measures, but also the area within which the malarial fever has been declared itself.

"Sleeping sickness," or negro lethargy, is a very fatal disease, which has been long known in West Africa, but has recently traveled along the Congo into Uganda. The fear is that it will spread to this region. It has many features in common with the general paralysis of the insane. Hitherto it has only attacked natives, and three cases were recently under treatment in London hospitals. Latest reports from Uganda indicate that in Bugosa alone 20,000 persons have succumbed, and it is said to be still on the increase.

King William's Determination.

There are some interesting glimpses of William IV and Queen Adelaide in a volume which Mr. Brintley Johnson has ready for Publication. It consists of the letters and personal reminiscences of the late Miss Clithrow of London House. We learn, for one thing, that King William made a "determination never to lay his head on his pillow till he had signed everything he ought to on the day."

This caused him "cruel suffering" from cramp, and he had often to stop in the middle of work and "put his hand in hot water." The documents which have to be signed by the King in these days must be many more—London Chronicle.

MISS LAURA HOWARD,

President South End Ladies' Golf Club, Chicago. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound After the Best Doctors Had Failed To Help Her.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can thank you for perfect health to-day. Life looked so dark to me a year or two ago. I had constant pains, my limbs swelled, I had dizzy spells, and never known one day how I would feel the next. I was nervous and had no appetite, neither could I sleep soundly nights. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, used in conjunction with your Sanative Wash, did more for me than all the medicines and the skill of the doctors. You might months I have enjoyed perfect health. I verily believe that most of the doctors are guessing and experimenting when they try to cure a woman with an assortment of complications, such as mine; but you do not guess. How I wish all suffering women could only know of your remedy; there would be less suffering I know."—LAURA HOWARD, 115 Newberry Ave., Chicago, Ill. —$5000 Forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are ill to write her for advice. Address Lynn, Mass., giving full particulars.

Advice to Mothers
If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerve-line. Don't be afraid to use Nerve-line freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerve-line has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.

The Whole Thing.
"Bixby seems to think he's the whole thing as an expert authority on sporting matters."

A council of war was held this evening to decide whether it would be of more benefit to have a club house on the bar or a hall which could be used for a church on Sundays and for dancing on week days.

A club house could be used for a decided acquisition to the society and nearly all the male portion of the settlement seem to take kindly to the idea. Then also a yacht racing association could be formed and something more than the occasional brushes, which are the limit to the sport now.

By the way, what has become of the yacht racing association which was formed some few years ago? It seems to be an unknown quantity. Is it not time they spoke up and let their influence be left once more among the sporting element, to live up to the proceedings here?

Miss Gill, of Toronto, was the guest of Mrs. E. R. Smith today.

Many of the spy glasses on the bar were levelled at a yacht which sailed the waters of the bar this afternoon. On closer investigation it was seen that a pair of feet encased in slippers and a considerable extent of drop stitch was suspended from the deck. Merely that and nothing more. The owner, fair or otherwise, seemed to be in a very recumbent posture, as not even a flounce was visible.

The moonlight nights here are most perfect, and to-night was no exception. A large crowd came out on the band train and the twelve coaches were filled going home.

The second son of Mr. J. G. Kerr, of "Hazeldean" cottage, is quite ill. The fishing is very poor lately. It is supposed that the meeting held at Lone Tree Point, which was reported a few days ago, is the cause of it.

BOAT BURNED

Ferry Destroyed by the Flames at Port Huron—Only Recently Rebuilt.

Sarnia, Aug. 19.—At twelve o'clock today, while the steamer Omar D. Conger was lying at the wharf in Black river, fire originated in some manner and before the Port Huron firemen or the fire extinguisher on the boats could be got into play the handsome ferry boat was a seething mass of flames. One of the other boats belonging to the Ferry Company was just pulling into the wharf at Port Huron at the time and several passengers aboard the boat noticed a small blaze issuing from the Conger. The alarm was given at once but the fire broke forth with terrific force and enveloped the steamer. The upper works of the Conger have been destroyed and she is in about the same condition as when destroyed by fire a little over a year ago. The loss on the Conger will be a severe blow to the Ferry Company, as she had only recently been rebuilt and refitted throughout.

BUNCH OF 'EM

Young Chatham Citizen Meets Many Varied Experiences on Pleasure Trip.

"While strolling the beautiful William street boulevard, last Friday evening," said Geo. E. Perrin, chatting with The Planet this morning, "trying to pass away a few packages of moments, I heard Sousa Phil and his courtiers, cutting into a bunch of drive away the cares and troubles, but not very far on the cares of George."

"So I hiked over to the depot and me to the Eau—with the accent on the owe."

"After visiting his owes for a pair of hours, I took to the train and, after smoking a couple of Geo. Heyward's perfectoes—for 5 per—I took a peek out of the window, and the conductor says, 'Well, sir, do you want to get off at Highgate, or will I back you back to Ridgeway?'"

"So I let the Highgate go for the conductor, and took to the turnstile about four miles back of Highgate."

"The young man at Ridgeway, driving the bus, don't stand very good with the town, because, when he landed your uncle Dudley in the middle of the road he very politely told me there was a place at the right that he didn't think was open, but on the other side he knew that one was open sure."

"Well, you know that I went to the ones that were not open first. When I finally landed I gave the hotel clerk a two case note for my interest in the hay for the night. He didn't even look at it; I guess I looked like the spending money. His night clerk showed my up, although I guess I showed myself up before he took a look in the morning. I got the train for Chatham and was telling another conductor on Mr. Pierce's road, and he was going to give advice to his brother officer. Then he asked me where I was going and I said—Chatham."

"He laughed and the best I got was that I was two miles past the junction. Fine for me, eh?"

Dressmaker's Backache.

Women engaged in the arduous work of dressmaking frequently have trouble with their back and kidneys. Running a sewing machine, plying the needle in the never ceasing stitch, stitch, stitching seams—constant bending over—soon tells on the back, makes it achen and pain! No wonder these women often find their health fail. The kidneys get out of order, the back pains, and the whole system gets full of poisons which the sick kidneys are unable to eliminate. No dressmaker should allow her health to slip away, and backache and kidney troubles keep her in misery, when such ease, comfort, freedom from pain and invigoration of the system can be obtained by using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Miss A. Schwartz, 42 Water Street, Berlin, Ont., states her experience with Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets as follows: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for some years, which I think was due to sitting so close and bending over at my work. The trouble at times was quite severe, so I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets at Ross' drug store. They certainly acted splendidly with me, for I had not finished the first bottle until I got complete relief."

Men's Working Clothes

Every working garment sold in the store is our own make. When you buy a smock here please remember that T. & D. are responsible for every thread of it, and give them credit for all the looks and wear and comfort that you find stitched in.

When we first set out to make these goods we started from the standpoint of the man who wears them—which is not the usual way with manufacturers. We planned each garment about as a man's wife would, supposing her to be an expert. Made them ample, comfortable, extra strong where extra strength is needed—did everything to postpone the day of the first patch. Results were so satisfactory that we have kept right on making them that way.

We are content with the maker's profit on these garments. You pay at our counters about what we should have to pay at wholesale if we bought them from another maker.

A number of our young people took in the excursion to the Falls and report a good time. The party was composed of Miss Keats, Miss Clara Keats and Miss Maude Drury.

Miss Grace Drury is convalescent after her recent illness, and the teachers and officers of our Sunday school showed their sympathy by a practical way by meeting at her home and presenting her with an address accompanied by an English sovereign stamped in King Edward's reign.

Mrs. Wells read the address and Miss Jessie Dolsen made the presentation. Although Miss Drury was completely taken by surprise, she replied in a very suitable manner, thanking the teachers and officers for so kindly remembering her.

Krause Conservatory of Music

....Vocal Department....

No more pronounced advancement or business enterprise could be displayed on the part of R. Victor Carter, Musical Director of the Krause Conservatory of Music, Chatham, than has been shown by engaging the two artists whose cuts we reproduce in this issue, to superintend and direct the vocal department of the Krause Conservatory of Music.

SAMUEL I. SLADE

Mr. Slade is a resident of Detroit. He is soloist of the First Presbyterian Woodward Avenue Church and also of the Detroit Opera Co. During the past few seasons he has been the principal soloist of the Russell-Fox de Angella Opera Co., the Whitney Opera Co. in "Brian Boru," and the famous Doly Company of New York. At a concert soloist Mr. Slade's reputation is continental.

The New York Dramatic Mirror says:—"Mr. Slade is a grand singer. His solos were magnificently done."

New York Despatch:—"Mr. Slade has a wonderful voice."

The Chicago Tribune:—"A magnificent voice of unusual compass."

These are but a few clippings from the many press encomiums from the best musical critics in America.

As an instructor of the Art of Voice Culture Mr. Slade's reputation is that of the highest. Mr. Slade's Chatham Classes will commence on Tuesday Sept. 2nd, at the Krause Conservatory of Music, Chatham.

MISS EVA N. ROBLYN

Miss Roblyn is a resident of London. Before going upon the Concert Stage Miss Roblyn took a full three years' course of study at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, under Signor d'Arzio, standing each year at the head of her class. She taught in the Vocal Department in same Conservatory for two years, and also in Presbyterian Ladies' College, Toronto. Miss Roblyn then studied for two years Europe, first in Milan Italy, and afterwards in London, England, with Mr. Wm. Shakespeare, and also with some of the most successful teachers in those musical centres.

Before going to Europe she filled the position of Soprano Soloist in new Richmond Methodist Church, Toronto, for one year, and afterwards in new St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (Rev. Dr. Macdonnell), for same length of time, to the complete satisfaction of both congregations.

Miss Roblyn at present holds a similar position in Dundas Centre Methodist Church, London, Ont., which position she has filled for six years, and is also Director of the Vocal Department at Alma College, St. Thomas, Ont., and the Krause Conservatory of Music, Chatham, Ont.

As a Concert Soloist Miss Roblyn's reputation is established throughout the continent, as the many press encomiums from England, United States and Canada attest.

As an instructor she is without doubt one of the very highest standard as her hundreds of past students has clearly proven.

Miss Roblyn's Classes in Chatham will commence on Wednesday, Sept. 3rd, at the Krause Conservatory of Music.
