Dieudonne Lozon Meets Sudden Death On William Street

LAMENTABLE ACCIDENT

A very unfortunate accident occurred in this city yesterday afternoon about half-past five o'clock, near Gray's factory, whereby a young man, named Dieudonne Lozon, of Valoisville, Que., lost his life.

The unfortunate young man was a member of the linemen's gang, which has been in this city for the past few days, connecting wires for the G. N. W. Telegraph Company. They were working on William St., and Lozon ascended one of the poles to arrange some wires at the top. It was noticed that two of the wires had become crossed, and were burning. One of these was an electric light wire, charged with electricity. The boss of the gang saw that the wires were burning, and told Lozon, who was at this time at the top, to come down and leave the wires alone, that they would fix it later. In spite of the command from his chief, Lozon threw a rope around the burning wire, and tried to pull them apart. As he did so the electric light wire gave way and struck him across the fingers. He was immediately given a severe shock, which in itself must have caused immediate death. He fell across the wires, the electric light wire striking him again in the neck, right back of the left ear. He remained hanging in mid-air.

His fellow workmen saw him hanging helplessly on the wires and immediately went up the pole to bring him down. He was quite dead before they ever reached him. It was fully five minutes before they could disentangle him from the wires, as the electric current was still going through his body.

One particularly unfortunate feature of the occurrence was that the deceased's brother was one of the gang, and was, in fact, one of the men who ascended the pole and assisted in taking him down.

The deceased young man was 22 years and 10 months old, and was unmarried. He had been in the employ of the G. N. W. Company for the past three years. He was an expert workman, and a favorite with his companions.

The remains will be shipped to the home of the deceased this afternoon at two o'clock.

NEW MASTER AT COLLEGIATE

Board Will Advise For Teacher At Salary Of $900

MR. JENNINGS RESIGNS

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening to consider what was best to do in view of the resignation of E. W. Jennings, B. A., one of the junior masters at the Collegiate, who has had an offer to take a senior position in Owen Sound, at a higher salary.

Those present at the meeting were, Messrs. Morley, McArthur, Brackin, Somerville, McLaughlin, McCorvie, Dr. Duncan and Dr. Sullivan.

Mr. McArthur read the resignation handed in by Mr. Jennings, in which the latter stated that he wished to be released by the end of the present term. Mr. McArthur said that the committee had held a conference with the Principal, Mr. Twohey, and they had decided to recommend that the resignation be accepted, conditional on securing a teacher suitable to take Mr. Jennings' place, and that the committee be empowered to advertise for a new teacher.

Mr. McArthur moved that the recommendation of the committee be adopted. Mr. McArthur and Mr. Morley both stated that they regretted very much to learn of Mr. Jennings' resignation, as he has proven an excellent teacher, able and thorough in all of his work. The reason he is leaving Chatham is not so much on account of salary as it is due to the fact that he will hold a senior position in Owen Sound.

Mr. McArthur's motion, when put to a vote, carried.

Mr. McArthur—if we advertise for a new teacher, will it not be necessary to state what salary we will be willing to pay?

Mr. Somerville thought that the Board should not offer less than $1,000 as an initial salary, as he believed that a competent master should be secured. If less were offered, the Board might not get as good a teacher to take Mr. Jennings' place.

Mr. McArthur thought it would be unwise to offer an initial salary as high as the one at present being paid to Mr. Jennings. He thought that the Board should not go higher than eight or nine hundred dollars.

Dr. Sullivan was in accord with the views expressed by Mr. Somerville. He thought that a good man could not be secured at a salary much less than $1,000.

It was moved by Dr. Sullivan, seconded by Mr. Somerville, that the Board offer $1,000 a year as an initial salary, while Mr. McCorvie seconded by Mr. McArthur, moved in amendment that the amount of the initial salary be $900.

The amendment carried. Mr. Somerville arose at last night's meeting to state that his attention had been drawn to an industry that had just recently commenced operations in the near vicinity of the Central school. This was a carpet-cleaning factory, the dust from which came in through the open school and created a nuisance. The factory being so close also created a disturbing noise. Mr. Somerville said that the factory had just recently commenced operations on the old Darling property. He thought that the Board should make an investigation of the complaint.

Mr. McCorvie thought that this dust drifting into the school might be a menace to the children's health, as it would be filled with disease germs.

Dr. Duncan said that a proper cleaner would not distribute the germs, but prevents the dust from spreading.

It was finally decided that a committee, composed of Dr. McKeough, Dr. Duncan and Dr. Sullivan should investigate the matter and report to the Board.

It was moved by Mr. McArthur, seconded by Mr. McCorvie, that the Property committee be instructed to confer with Mr. Edwards on the purchasing of a filling cabinet for the commercial department at the Collegiate—Carried.

This cabinet is to be used to keep a record of each pupil's work.

THOUGHT HE LOST MONEY

T. Buchanan Gets In Row in Wang Lee's Eating House

DOINGS OF THE POLICE

Thomas Buchanan, a young man who recently came to this city from Manitoba, came up before Judge Houston in the city Police Court this morning, charged with assaulting Porter Deat of the Garner Hotel. Buchanan and Deat were both having dinner in the Chinese eating house yesterday afternoon about two o'clock when the row commenced.

Buchanan, who had a roll of bills amounting to $92 on his person, suddenly missed his money and accused the colored man of stealing it. Deat protested, whereupon Buchanan grabbed him by the throat and commenced to abuse him. Wang Lee, the proprietor of the restaurant, called for the police, and when Officers Dodson and McGregor arrived there was quite a lively tilt on.

After the two men had been separated, a search was made of Buchanan's clothes, and the $92 was found in the inner pocket of his coat. He said he thought he had placed it in his inner vest pocket. Buchanan was much under the influence of liquor at the time.

Buchanan was found guilty this morning, and fined $5 and costs—amounting to $10 in all.

Judge Houston has received a letter from someone signing himself as "Citizen," complaining that there are slot machines being used in some of the city hotels, contrary to the law.

The police know of no hotels where slot machines are in use, and this morning Officer Darr was assigned to investigate the charge, but could find no hotels in which there are machines of this kind. The police department would be highly pleased if the informer would give his name and designate what hotels are using the machines.

Spencer Newman, who lives on Woods' Survey, came up in County Police Court this morning on a charge of ill-treating his wife.

As the case was withdrawn, however, as the wife refused to testify against him, it is understood that the couple have made up again, and the husband has promised to be good.

High Constable Coogan went out to Chatham Township this morning with a summons for 18-year-old Henry Morris, a colored boy, who is charged with assaulting a son of Trustee Charles W. Haviland.

The three trustees from Charteris school house on the 2nd concession, came in this morning to lay the complaint before Judge Houston in County Police Court.

According to the complaints, it appears that the children were playing football in a field near the school yard, when young Morris jumped on Haviland and beat him. It is alleged that the father of young Morris came over to witness the fight and would not let anyone interfere. It appears that there has been bad blood between the boys for some time, and of course there may be two sides to the story when the case comes up for trial.

AN ANGLER'S ELYSIUM.

According to advertisements all summer resorts are alike. They are the best ever—but if fishing is better anywhere else than it is in "Georgian Bay" we do not know where it is. There is a greater variety of fish in this water than anywhere else, and they are always hungry. No one ever counted the fish in the Georgian Bay, but those that have been caught there have been counted and eaten, and if you read the Government report on fisheries, you know that Georgian Bay supplies more fish than any other aquatic body of water in the world. The only place you can afford to fish is where the fish are numerous, big and delicious in flavor, and that place is Georgian Bay—so the fishermen say. Suppose you send for booklet, issued by Grand Trunk Railway System, free, telling about the beauty of the bass, pickerel, pike and the noble trout family. Address J. D. McDonald, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

SAYS THAW IS INSANE

Commission on Lunacy will Likely Be Appointed

New York, March 21.—The Thaw trial opened yesterday with a decided surprise, Attorney Delmas, for the defence, withdrew the offer of the letter which he wanted to put in evidence Tuesday afternoon. This letter was written by Harry Thaw to J. Dennison Lyon, a banker of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Hamilton then took the stand. He is the alienist who has been under subpoena by both the defence and the prosecution at various stages of the trial. Dr. Hamilton has stated the belief that Thaw not only was insane when he shot and killed Stanford White, but has remained so. He does not appear as an employee of either the state or the defence, he has publicly declared, but has held himself ready to take the stand at any time and impartially give the results of the examinations he made of the defendant shortly after the tragedy. At that time he was engaged by the attorneys for Thaw, but when Judge Olcott left the case, Dr. Hamilton also withdrew.

Dr. Hamilton's Evidence. Dr. Hamilton, after qualifying as an expert, under Mr. Delmas' questioning, said, that with other alienists, he had seen Thaw soon after his incarceration.

"Was there any medical or physical examination at that time?" asked Mr. Delmas. "There was a medical examination as far as it went," replied Dr. Hamilton.

"What was that examination?" Mr. Jerome at once objected. "This is a re-opening of the whole case," he argued. "Dr. Hamilton's evidence has no place here. It belongs in the case in chief and not in rebuttal. Dr. Hamilton has been here all the time and could have been called at any time."

"The district attorney," replied Mr. Delmas, "has on several occasions called your honorable attention to the fact that he is a quasi-judicial officer. He has no right to come in here now and attempt to shut out the truth." "That is not so," broke in Mr. Jerome. "If the objection is made on that ground I will withdraw my objection. I am perfectly willing to re-open this whose case and let all the truth go in."

Court Adjourns. The jury was excused until Friday morning, but Justice Fitzgerald will hold court this afternoon, to hear testimony regarding the appointment of a commission to test Thaw's sanity. On Friday morning Justice Fitzgerald will deliver his decision in the matter.

In addressing the court, District Attorney Jerome declared that if he could legally present to the court all the facts he possessed it would be shocked and horrified.

"We have no right to be trying this defendant in a court of law," he continued. "I have served notice on counsel that if they have knowledge of facts I believe to be in their possession, I will call the matter to the attention of the appellate division of the Supreme Court."

Justice Fitzgerald said he would institute an inquiry before himself and not before the jury as to the present mental state of the defendant. Jerome said he would lay before Justice Fitzgerald all the information he had and which he believed would result in a halt in the trial.

Thaw a Paranoiac. Mr. Jerome told Justice Fitzgerald his own experts had informed him that Thaw is a paranoiac.

Jerome said the state's experts, while saying that Thaw knew the nature and quality of his act, thought that he is unable to advise his counsel as to the conduct of his case.

When a prisoner is in that condition, the court should not proceed further. Mr. Delmas asked if District Attorney Jerome intended his application to be for a commission in lunacy. "I understand it," said Justice Fitzgerald.

"I make no application. I say to the court that I can prove the defendant is incapable of directing his defence. I leave the matter with the conscience of the court."

It isn't polite to grab things, not even franchises.

Broken at Last

"The pitcher that goes too often to the well is broken at last" is an old saying and a true one.

In the olden times it was almost a calamity to break a jug owing to the scarcity of this much-used article and the value placed on it for its usefulness.

To day finds us in a far different position as regards the many uses of this indispensable article.

The variety to day is unequalled in the history of the potter's art.

We have jugs ranging in price from 5c up to 50c for the useful kind.

Of course the Royal Doulton's come higher, but they are works of art. We have them also.

MR. BOWYER STANDS TRUE.

It is gratifying to note that at least one member on the dominant side of the Legislature has not changed his views regarding one of the principal issues before the people of Ontario at the time of the last general election.

The speech which Mr. Bowyer delivered in the Legislature last week, and reported in this week's Sun, is precisely in line with the speeches which he delivered from the hustings in East Kent when seeking election to the Legislature. What Mr. Bowyer said in the House last week is a clear and strong declaration in favor of the equalization of taxation similar to the equalization which has already taken place in the United States, and is a complete refutation of the statement of Mr. Matheson that the fair taxation of railways across the lines has restricted railway-building over the way.

There are other members as strongly committed to the principle of equal taxation as Mr. Bowyer. Among these are Mr. Clarke, of Bruce, Mr. Downey, of Wellington, and Mr. Preston, of Durham. If these gentlemen will speak up as boldly as Mr. Bowyer has done, they will perform a service not only to the Province, but to their own party as well. By taking this course they would compel the Government to do what the Government is in honor bound to do—make taxation equal as between farmers and railway corporations; and equalization of taxation will relieve farmers from burdens now unjustly borne, and do more than anything else that could be done to strengthen the hold of the Government on the country. —Toronto Sun.

Weak Stomach Causes Sickness

Different Symptoms That Result From Indigestion. How to Cure By Strengthening the Stomach.

If you have ever suffered with a weak stomach you must realize that the digestive system is to the body what the foundation is to the house—the base of support and strength.

Whatever hurts your stomach or lessens its power, hurts all other parts of the body and impairs their strength. If the stomach is weak and distressed, one organ after another will be involved until the heart, kidneys and liver are all distressed.

Get the stomach right and health will naturally come to the other organs. This explains why a good many people who have doctored for years for diseases of the heart, kidneys or liver, have at last been cured by Mi-on-a stomach tablets. They found to their astonishment and happiness that, when the weak stomach was strengthened, their health returned, the heart became regular, the torpid liver active and the kidneys healthy.

Do not think we claim Mi-on-a is a "cure-all." It is not. It is a specific for all distresses of the stomach, and when it strengthens the stomach and cures indigestion, you will soon be well all over without further medicine.

Mi-on-a is sold only in 50c boxes, never in bulk. It is sold under an absolute guarantee by C. H. Gunn & Co. to refund money unless it cures.

BLenheim

Blenheim, March 19.—Chief Grant is in Toronto attending the Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W. His duties are being performed by W. B. Tedford in his absence.

The friends of Jas. Leslie, Township Treasurer, were pleased to see him in town yesterday, after several weeks' severe illness.

Robert Preston appeared before Magistrate Greenwood yesterday on charges of assaulting his wife, for which playful attention he was assessed $5 and costs.

Elder A. Leverton, of Clearville, is preaching in the Saints' Church this week, and also on Sunday, the 31st inst. Week night meetings at 7:45; Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.

W. D. Samson is ill with pleurisy. Fire broke out about 2 o'clock this morning in a vacant house belonging to Ed. Adair. Owing to it getting such a start the fire brigade were unable to save it.

The St. Patrick's social, held in the Methodist Church last night, was a pronounced success, standing room being at a premium. The program consisted of selections by Henry's Orchestra; songs by Patrick O'Flynn, Dr. Gibb; reading by Michael O'Flaherty, Mr. R. L. Gosnell; recitations by Mully Murphy, Miss Eva Ransom; and short speeches by Rev. Messrs. Gilmore and Holmes.

Refreshments were served after the program, and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close about 10:30.

A SPLENDID SHOW

The four-act play which has been so skillfully evolved from the novel, "Dora Thorne," met with a splendid reception at the hands of the patrons of the Brisco Opera House on Monday night.

It is a strong comedy-drama with sentiment, pathos and comedy in abundance and lacking in melodramatic impossibilities.

"Dora Thorne" is a beautiful girl and her child acting is the feature of the play. She wins the hearts of the audience in the first of many sad positions she is placed in. She truthfully fights her battles alone. The characters were all well represented, and in point of scenery and effects the stage pictures left nothing to be wished for.

The staging is excellent and an exceptionally good company is in the cast. A return engagement would be greatly welcomed.

Alberta Fixes Game Law.

Regina, March 20.—In the Legislature yesterday the second reading of the bill for the protection of game was made.

The amendment of the game laws was made necessary through the rapid settlement of the country. One of the features of the bill is the prohibition of spring shooting of wild fowl.

It was approved by the convention of game guardians last year, and is generally approved of, but the Government desires to get into line with public opinion, not only in this province, but throughout the American continent.

There are also provisions for limiting the amount of a sportsman's bag to ten grouse or prairie chickens for one day and 100 for the season, and forbidding the use of dogs in hunting deer.

Salaries of Judges.

Regina, March 20.—A resolution passed in the Legislature here yesterday provides that judges shall be paid $500 yearly as judges of Surrogate courts by the Provincial Government. A Surrogate judge will also be district judge and in that capacity will receive $2,500 a year from the Dominion Government for first year of service, and after that $3,000 a year.

There is nothing humiliating in true humility.

The First Day Of The Opening Has Passed

And now we are fairly launched in our Spring Campaign. Our Opening gave us a good start. It demonstrated the superiority of our qualities, quantities and styles. It again verified our claims of being the high quality, low priced store.

There is no store that pays more attention to style than we do. The vainest woman, who does homage to that exacting daily "fashion" can find no fault with our expressions of the latest style decrees and ideas.

Our qualities are the best—or they wouldn't be here. Quantities—well, you know how extensive our stocks usually are. They are more extensive than ever this season.

Buying this season's goods especially advantageously, in spite of the prevailing high market prices, we will add another feather to our hat, as the profitable trading place.

Come in—look around, examine styles, qualities and price here—compare them with what is shown elsewhere—we know what your verdict will be—we know you will do your buying at this store.

It's The Tone That Proves the Quality Of A Piano . . .

In outward appearance one make of piano may resemble another very closely. The real difference lies in the tone, which is concealed within the case.

It's the tone every time that proves the quality of a piano. Run your fingers over the keyboard of a "Nordheimer" and just listen to the superb tone. No doubt about the quality of the "Nordheimer" piano with such a tone as it possesses.

Those who know the real value of tone-quality naturally select the "Nordheimer"—the unrivalled Canadian piano. Will you not come in and play over a selection and judge the quality of the "Nordheimer" tone from what your own ear tells you?

Our Mr. R. V. Carter will visit Chatham frequently in our interests, and will be pleased to furnish you with any information you may desire. Correspondence addressed to him, in care of the Garner House, will receive careful attention.

Sunday Law in Montreal.

Montreal, March 20.—Montreal bids fair to have a liberal Sunday observance law within the limits allowed by the act passed at the last session of the Quebec Legislature, which was the only Parliament to take advantage of the Dominion act to enact legislation of its own with regard to Sunday observance.

Notice of motion has been given to the city council by Ald. Lapointe, who is identified with the licensed victuallers, of his intention to move for a clear definition of the law as it applies to Montreal and for the repeal of several bylaws and their substitution by others.

Ald. Lapointe does not admit that it is the intention to make Montreal wide open so far as Sunday privileges are concerned, but it is not believed the mover's purpose is to place any thing further in the way of restriction. They may go as far as public opinion will permit.

Child Used For Beer Contests.

Ottawa, March 20.—There is a saloonkeeper in Hull who is said to use his five-year-old son as an advertisement.

It is complained against him that he puts the child on his bar and challenges his customers to a beer drinking contest.

The boy, it is reported, will drink as many as 20 glasses of beer in an afternoon.

Lord Bessford in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, March 20.—Lord Charles Bessford arrived from the Pacific coast yesterday and left for New York on the Soo line last night.

KIDNEY DISEASE COMES ON QUIETLY

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body and most people are troubled with some form of Kidney Complaint, but do not suspect it. It may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as, brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or suppressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc. Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

Doan's Kidney Pills

They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble. Mr. Thomas Kelly, Mass., Ont., writes: "After I was rived in Canada from New Zealand, a couple of years ago, I suffered very much from kidney trouble. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. Finally my back became so lame I could scarcely work. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking them I felt like a new man."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

SHAVING NAPOLEON.

It Was a Difficult Job For Constant, the Emperor's Barber.

Constant Napoleon's barber, tells of the many difficulties he experienced in shaving the emperor. Napoleon would take his place in the chair, conversing and gesticulating. Suddenly he would call for a paper or turn rapidly to look behind him.

The utmost caution was necessary on the part of his barber to keep from cutting him, yet in spite of all these restless movements not once while Constant was shaving the emperor did he do so.

Sometimes when in the chair he would sit stiff and motionless as a stone, and Constant tells that he could not get him to move his head either way in order to facilitate the operation of shaving.

Napoleon had a singular whim of having only one side of his face lathered and shaved at a time. When he shaved himself, which was seldom, he invariably cut himself badly. This was due to his restless impatience, and though he was scrupulously neat in his person, he would, after hewing a slice from his cheek, give up the operation in disgust and go about with part of his face unshaved until he had found his faithful barber.

The Two West Points.

The sensations of the new cadet when, after the excitement of boat landing, he finally reaches the plain—the two first sensations linger a long while. There are two West Points—the actual West Point and the over-arching spiritual one, of which the cadet only becomes conscious about the time he graduates. The determinate West Point that is to be his master for four years and the shaper of his destiny meets him at the top of the slope with ominous silence. He hears no voice, he sees no portentous figure, but there is communicated in some way through some medium the presence of an invisible authority, cold, inexorable and relentless. Time never was away from this first feeling. It comes back to every graduate on returning to West Point, let his years and his honors be what they may. And perhaps it is just as well that it be so; that there is one place left in our country where vanity of asserted ancestry and the too frequent arrogance of speculative and fortuitous commercial leadership find a chill—General Morris Schaff in Atlantic.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. He has most properly investigated them, and in his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has won for itself to be the most famous and successful medicine of the age, he has shown the medicinal value of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

The Teeth.

The accumulation of tartar on the teeth makes them unsightly and is of ten the cause of a bad breath. If the teeth are properly brushed each day tartar will not have the chance to accumulate, but if it has already been allowed to do so it can be removed by a very simple treatment. Moisten the toothbrush in warm water and dip it into magnesia. Rub on the teeth, and after three applications the tartar will have entirely disappeared.

Well Meant Prayers.

Sydney Smith declared that the children of Bishop Phillips used to end their usual prayers by praying for Earl Grey, explaining that "papa tells us it is our duty to pray for our greatest enemies."—London Spectator.

SUSPICIOUS BIRDS.

Easy to Make Sparrows Show Their Fear of a Trap.

One winter day I made an experiment with sparrows to see exactly how far their natural suspicion would hold out against hunger. I had often noticed that if one put a little bit of string, a large button or any strange object among breadcrumbs the sparrows would not touch the bread. They feared a trap. Starlings are less suspicious in this way. If they care about the bread at all, they are more trusting and do not make any fuss about some small foreign object. But I thought hard weather might make all the difference even to sparrows.

So I put a long piece of apple peel among the bread. It looked quite good to eat; but might be taken by a very suspicious bird for something of the nature of string or tape, which sparrows seem to regard with particular distrust. Can they regard it as an emblem of captivity? Directly the bread was thrown on the ground about fifty sparrows perched in a tree above it. They looked at it very glumly, and not one ventured to come down. Generally they would be devouring the bread within a few seconds. For a little over three hours a crowd of sparrows watched the bread with the terrible piece of apple peel lying among it, but it remained untouched. Then one sparrow made up his mind to take the risk. He was soon followed by all the others. In twenty minutes the bread was gone. But they had wasted over three hours.—St. James' Gazette.

DOWN IN THE FIRE ROOM.

Raking the Ashes From the Furnace of an Ocean Liner.

My "watches," four hours long, began at 8 in the morning and at 4 in the afternoon. The rest of the time was mine, excepting when it was my turn to carry water and help clean up the mess room.

The first descent into the fire room of an ocean liner is unforgettable. Going down that series of ladders into the bowels of the old Elbe, the heat seemed to jump 10 degrees a ladder. At last the final ladder was reached, and we were at the bottom—the bottom of everything was the thought in more minds than one that afternoon.

The head fireman of our watch immediately called my attention to a poker, easily an inch and a half thick and twenty feet long. "Yours!" he screamed. "Yours!" And he threw open one of the ash doors of a furnace, pantomiming what I was to do with the poker. I dived for it madly, just barely raised it from the floor and got it started into the ashes and then dropped none too neatly on top of it. "Hurry up, you sow-pig!" the fireman yelled, and I struggled again with the terrible poker, finally managing to rake out the ashes.—Joshua Flynn in Success Magazine.

What Rules the World.

Many years ago John Brogham, Lester Wallace, Artemus Ward and others used to meet after the play at Windhurst's, in Park row, in New York. One night the question, "What rules the world?" arose, and various opinions were expressed. William Ross Wallace, who was present, retired before long and some time later called Thomas J. Leigh from the room and handed to him a poem which he had just written. Mr. Leigh read it aloud to the company, and Mr. Brogham made a happy little speech of acknowledgment. The thing was entitled "What Rules the World," and the first stanza ran:

They say that man is mighty,
He governs land and sea;
He wields a mighty scepter,
O'er lesser powers that be,
But a mightier power and stronger
From his throne has been brought, and
And the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rules the world.

The Hiss Poite.

The Japanese prince drew in his breath with a hissing sound as he bent over the young girl's hand.

"Prince," she said, "I have been up against a lot of Japanese, and they all hiss like that when they meet you. What's the reason, anyway?"

"The reason is politeness," the prince answered. "I hiss like this—I draw in my breath—I keep on drawing it in as long as I remain near you. For if I blow any one out of me it might be blown in your fair face. What an offense! Shocking! And so we Japanese always hiss in exchanging greetings. Out of politeness we hold our breath."

Imperfect organic action makes bad blood, so, too, bad blood, in turn, makes imperfect action of every bodily organ. If the blood becomes impure, poisoned or contaminated in any way from constipation, biliousness or any other cause, some especially weak organ must soon become diseased thereby, or the whole system may suffer in consequence.

Pimples, boils, blotches, ulcers, festering sores, abscesses, tumors, rashes or some serious and perhaps incurable blood disease may result. There is no medicine on the market to-day to equal the old and well-known remedy,

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

WITCHES AND PLANTS.

Many Legends and Traditions That Link Them Together.

In all countries in which the witchcraft delusion now exists or in which it prevailed in former times we find folklore stories connecting those mysterious bogies with the plants of those particular regions. Even the great Shakespeare causes his witches to discourse learnedly on the diabolical properties of "hemlock digg'd i' dark" and of "slips of yew silvered in the moon's eclipse." They are supposed to have had their favorite flowers as well as plants, and in England at the present time foxglove is spoken of as "witch bells" and harebells as "witches' thimbles." The common ragwort is well known as the "witches' horse," the tradition being that they mounted rank growths of that species of weed and "rode the skies" just as the dame with the pointed hat rides the broom in the familiar picture. In Germany and throughout northern Europe it is the belief that witches float from place to place on beds of hay, composed largely of witches' blossoms and "devil spikes," this last being a species of dwarfed sallow grass. St. John's wort, which is now so popular for shoulder and buttonhole bouquets on St. John's eve, was formerly worn for the express purpose of averting the crafts and subtleties of the witches, bogies, ghosts and spirits which the European peasantry believed walked abroad on "that night of witching mysteries."—London Spectator.

The King En Route.

In the early part of the year King Edward almost always takes a short trip abroad, and the following few points about His Majesty's mode of traveling will not be out of place.

Frequently, when traveling incognito, he favors the Dover and Calais route, and on his arrival at the Gare Maritime of the latter town, partakes of a light luncheon, which invariably consists of clear soup, two poached eggs on toast, a wing of cold chicken, and a plentiful supply of fresh fruit. His Majesty rarely takes cheese, and liqueurs never seldom.

His luncheon over, King Edward orders a huge bundle of newspapers and periodicals to be brought to his carriage, and these, together with a supply of cigars, keep him occupied until his arrival in the French capital. His Majesty is an inveterate newspaper reader.

It is an interesting and perfectly true fact that for every morning and unofficial enjoyment, the King prefers a pipe to cigars or cigarettes.

AN INDIAN MYSTERY.

The White Woman Who Fought With the Tonto Apaches.

The following story was told by one of Arizona's early pioneers:

In 1864 Dr. Alsap and Lord Duppa, well known pioneers, were prospecting with a party in the Bradshaw mountains on the Hassayampa creek. One morning the party separated for the purpose of hunting. In going up a canyon, in which they were separated from their companions by high mountains, Duppa's detachment was attacked by a large band of Tonto Apaches. The whites gradually fought their way across the ridge with the hope of rejoining their companions. During the advance Duppa, who was stationed behind a rock, noticed that he was the particular mark of an Indian with a bow. Several arrows had fallen at his feet, and one struck him in the arm. Raising his rifle, he took aim, and just as he was touching the trigger the supposed Indian cried, "Don't shoot!" in good English, but it was too late, and the body fell over with life extinct.

Soon after the two parties succeeded in forming a junction, and the Indians retreated, leaving the dead.

Out of curiosity the party returned to the place where Duppa killed the supposed Indian and found that it was a white woman, evidently about thirty years of age and dressed in all the paraphernalia of the Apaches. Investigation was made, but no trace of her former whereabouts could ever be obtained.

THE UNEXPLORED.

Many Regions of the Earth Still Remain a Mystery.

Many years will elapse before any other continent is as well mapped as Europe, and perhaps the era of perfected mapping all over the world may never come, because surveys are very expensive and the five other continents have far greater expanses than Europe of comparatively worthless lands that do not call for the most detailed and refined cartography. But a large amount of pioneer work still invites the explorer, for many of the unknown areas have most territorial extent.

In the Amazon basin, for example, three of these regions are each much larger than all of our New England states. One unknown area in north-west Alaska is nearly as large as New England, and the Sahara has two areas in black that are each twice as large and another three times as large as New England.

Asia still has several of these vast mysterious spaces, and the solid chunk of the unknown in New Guinea, the largest island in the world excepting Greenland, would swallow up New England and leave a black border all around it.—Cyrus C. Adams in Harper's.

"Leaves."

To him who is penetrated by true principles even the briefest precept is sufficient, and common precept, to remind him that he should be free from grief and fear. For example, says Homer:

Leaves—some the wind scatters on the ground.
So be the race of men.

Leaves also are they children, and leaves, too, are they who cry out as if they were worthy of credit and bestow their praise or, on the contrary, curse or secretly blame and sneer, and leaves in like manner are those who shall receive and transmit a man's fame to aftertimes, for all such things as these "are produced in the season of spring," as the poet says. Then the wind casts them down. Then the forest produces other leaves in their places. But a brief existence is common to all things, and yet thou avoidest and pursuest all things as if they would be eternal. A little time, and thou shalt close thy eyes, and him who has attended thee to thy grave another soon will lament.

Curious Nesting Habits.

Many birds in their nesting habits have accommodated themselves to the advance of civilization. Thus the barn and cliff swallows, which once built under overhanging cliffs and in caves, now place their nests on the rafters and beneath the eaves of our barns. The chimney swift, which originally placed its nest on the inside of hollow trees, now uses our chimneys for that purpose. The purple martin, once nesting exclusively in holes in trees, will now in many sections of the country use nothing but the bird boxes which kind hearted men have erected.

Handicapped.

"Too bad about Keene. There's a fund of good humorous stuff in the antics of the world be society people in his new neighborhood."

"Well, he's just the fellow to take advantage of that for his funny sketches."

"Yes, but his wife is trying to get into society there."

He Couldn't Object.

Clerk—You can't get a room here for that man. He's drunk. Man (supporting a weary friend)—That's all right. What of that? Clerk—This is a temperance hotel. Man—Well, he's too drunk to know the difference.

Trouble Ahead.

"Is your husband up yet?" asked the early caller of the sour faced woman at the door. "I expect he is," was the reply. "I'd like to see him for a few minutes." "So would I. He hasn't come home yet."

The truth of it is those who best deserve praise have generally the most exquisite relish of it.—Steele.

Miss E. Rutledge has returned home after a three weeks visit with friends in Woodstock, Hamilton and Toronto.

F. Fisher, Raleigh street, is going to Cleveland to-day. Mrs. Fisher will accompany him as far as Detroit.

The dressmaker above Cooper's stationery store, has moved on Third street, second house back of Baby's store.

Miss W. McShield, of London, a lady organizer for the Independent Order of Foresters, is in the city this week.

Workmen began to-day in clearing away the rubbish where the new Blonde Block will be built. The building will be erected between Dover street and Grand avenue. Excavation will begin at once.

The Chippewa lacrosse team met and organized on Tuesday night at the Garner House parlors. Julius Perrot was appointed assistant manager, and regrets very much that he is not able to attend to the sports of the coming season.

Miss Carmen MacIntyre, who has been filling a three weeks' concert engagement in New York and Long Island with the Banning Concert Company, has been meeting with the greatest success, being exceptionally well received everywhere. She has also received many flattering offers for summer engagements. Her many friends will be pleased to hear of her success.

FLOODS IN CALIFORNIA

Severe Hardships And Many Drownings Are Reported

CITIZENS UP IN TREES

Chico, Cal., March 21.—Flood conditions still serious. The Village of Dreadful, near Oroville, has been entirely destroyed by the Feather River. More than two hundred men, women and children were driven to take refuge in trees and on tops of houses, where they were exposed to rain and cold for 48 hours. Small boats rescued many. One boat engaged in rescue work was capsized and seven were drowned. They were Mrs. J. R. Hogue, one child; Mrs. J. F. Dallis, two children; Mrs. Legalay and Stella Legalay. A relief train from Chico, with berths, clothing and provisions was dispatched over the Northern Electric Road, reaching the scene after some difficulty. The rescue work continues. Fifty people are yet on the island, and there is much suffering among women and children.

Over Half-a-Million Loss.
Oroville, Cal., March 21.—It is estimated that the loss caused by the flood in Oroville will be not less than $650,000. The water is now falling as far as Montgomery street. All the business houses on this street are under six feet of water. A telephone office has been established in the second story of the Union Hotel, and that is the only method of communication with the outside world.

Two Persons Were Drowned.
Stockton, Cal., March 21.—A report from Venice Island, in the San Joaquin River, says two persons were drowned there Tuesday night. At 1 o'clock yesterday morning, the flood had reached its highest point and the water commenced slowly to subside in the city, but there is still a great rush of water through the streets. In the business section of the city it is four feet deep.

Danger Over At Pittsburg.
Pittsburg, March 21.—Clearing weather and a cold wind have checked the rising streams at the head waters and all danger of another flood has passed.

Southern Pacific Blocked.
Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—The coast line of the Southern Pacific has been blocked by a landslide that has closed the Santa Margarita tunnel, located in the mountains north of San Luis Coiso. The line will be closed to traffic for at least four or five days.

VICTIM OF REMORSE.

Woman Suicides After Charging Her Husband With Assault.

Stettler, Alta., March 21.—The wife of a German named Stritz committed suicide a few days ago at her home in the Notre Dame de Lavoie settlement, some 20 miles east of here, by shooting herself through the heart.

Her husband, it seems, had been confined in Fort Saskatchewan for assault upon his wife. It is believed that during his imprisonment the wife met and fell in love with another man, and that remorse for this, augmented by the kindnesses which the wronged husband treated her, caused her to commit suicide. She had intimated to a stepson of Stritz what her intentions were and the husband, hearing of it, had taken every precaution to hide firearms. The deed was done, however, while he was away, and the body was found in an outhouse by the dead woman's children.

A DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Railway Man Shot Wife Who Had Left Him.

Boston, March 21.—John Blake, an employee of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co., yesterday intercepted his wife Mary, who refused to live with him, on Carson street, in South Boston, shot her, and then committed suicide. The woman may recover. It is said that Blake urged his wife to return to his home, and when she refused he shot her. As she fell Blake placed the revolver's muzzle in his mouth and fired four shots, causing instant death. Six children of the couple lived with their mother.

Hat Cost His Life.

Sault Ste. Marie, March 21.—During the storm Tuesday, Donald McDonald, while crossing the river on the ice bridge, tried to recover his hat, which blew off, but broke through the ice and was drowned.

S. Larson went in to try and rescue McDonald, and was swept under the ice.

He came up in another hole, after it was supposed he was drowned. He crawled out unseen and went to his boarding house.

Cashier and $68,000 Gone.

Charlotte, N. Y., March 21.—Frank H. Jones, assistant cashier of the Charlotte National Bank, is missing with $68,000 of the bank's funds. The bank has offered a reward of $1,000 for his arrest.

Affiliated With McGill.

Montreal, March 21.—Principal Peterson of McGill University announces that affiliation with McGill of the Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, P. E. I., is accomplished.

Earl Grey Praises Booth.

Ottawa, March 21.—Gen. William Booth of the Salvation Army addressed the Canadian Club yesterday on the work of the Army. There were present the Governor-General, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, R. L. Borden, Hon. Mr. Emerson and Speaker Sutherland.

Earl Grey, in moving a hearty vote of thanks to Gen. Booth, said it had been his privilege to have Gen. Booth as his guest at Rideau Hall, and it was a privilege he would not easily forget.

PASSED AWAY

Mrs. D. R. Van Allen, relict of the late D. R. Van Allen, for many years manager and president of the Chatham Wagon Works, and who also took a prominent part in the progress of our city for over half a century, died at her residence on Joseph St. this morning, aged eighty-three years.

The deceased lady had a charming personality and for many years took an active interest in church and charitable works, but at her advanced age succumbed to an attack of pneumonia.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30.

Complaint is made that the work on the Aberdeen bridge is not being rushed as fast as it might be. The closing up of this bridge causes a great deal of inconvenience to teamsters around the city, and it has been suggested that the Board of Works might see that the railway people rush the work as fast as possible.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the far-spreading contest which will be given by the Hospital March Club in St. Andrew's school room to-morrow night.

It is hinted that a number of the speakers have been trying to bribe the jury, but it is understood that all efforts along this line have so far been fruitless. The judge and jury are firm. The evening promises to be one of intense enjoyment.

New moving pictures, illustrated songs and vaudeville, Brisco Opera House to-morrow and Saturday; 5c matinee each day.

MATINEE TO-MORROW

Five new reels of moving pictures, two new illustrated songs, and vaudeville, making a two-hour show, at the Brisco Opera House, Friday and Saturday, with a 5-cent matinee each day. Crowds attend these performances. This week's pictures are exceptionally good, instructive and amusing. Don't miss them. In the Sheriff's office.

DILAPIDATED FURNITURE

The dilapidated condition of the furniture and fittings in the Sheriff's offices in Harrison Hall, was pointed out to a Planet reporter this morning by a citizen who happened to be in the office at the same time as the scribe.

There is scarcely a chair in the office that is fit to sit on. Eight rickety old affairs, from which the bottoms have long since departed, are among the first things that catch the eye of the visitor. They are neither ornamental nor useful, and they should have been consigned to the rubbish heap years ago. It is said that these chairs have been in use for over 18 years.

It is time the County Council took some steps to install new furniture

WAS GREAT SUFFERER

A very sad death occurred Tuesday afternoon at about 2.30 o'clock when Mrs. Aloise Rees died at her home on the 4th concession Harwich. Deceased had been suffering for the past eight years with a severe form of eczema, and during all that time had borne all her sufferings with a christian spirit, never flinching in the hope that she would some day recover. She however gradually grew weaker until death claimed her yesterday. She was 55 years of age and leaves to mourn her loss a husband and three sons.

Two brothers and one sister survive her. The brothers are Michael Zink, of Botany, Joseph Zink, also of this city. The funeral will take place on Friday morning, leaving the house at 8 o'clock, it will proceed to St. Joseph's Church, where services will be held at 10 o'clock, after which interment will take place in St. Anthony's cemetery.

—TO BUY—

SILVER BIRD

AT 15 CENTS

By resolution passed by the Board of Directors of the Silver Bird Cobalt Mines, Limited, shares will positively be advanced to 25 cents per share after March 25th. Intending purchasers should act quickly.

Have you bought any Silver Bird? If not you had better buy it now. If you have some, buy more before the advance.

You must buy now if you want it at the first issue price.

It will be 25 cents per share after Monday, March 25th. It will be advanced to 50 cents per share within 60 days, and before long everybody will want to buy at one dollar per share and won't be able to get it. Take our advice and buy now.

We are in a position to judge. We know what we are talking about. This advance to 25 cents per share is a legitimate, meritorious advance, brought about by recent developments highly favorable to the Silver Bird Mine.

If you have any Silver Bird shares hold on to them. Don't be induced to part with them. Buy more if you can. Hold them and reap the great profits that are coming to all holders of Silver Bird shares.

Orders sent either by mail or telegraph on Monday, March 25th, or received by us bearing that date, will be accepted and allotted at 15 cents.

FURNACES IN ENGLAND.

John Bull Prefers to See a Blaze in Open Grate.

According to London papers, Englishmen are up in arms over a threatened invasion of what they regard as one of their inherent rights, the right to keep their houses comfortably cold. At a recent meeting of remonstrants resolutions were passed demanding a rumored attempt to supply open fires with furnaces. The British husbands and fathers assembled agreed that home would be anything but attractive had it always an atmosphere reminiscent of the House of Commons, or, worst still, of the reading room of the British Museum. There is reason to believe that the house that is improperly heated possesses a number of advantages over the house that is thoroughly heated, although it is impossible to persuade people on this side of the water that any change is desirable. It costs much less partly to heat a house—to heat the ends of two or three rooms—for one thing, and that is an important consideration, surely, when coal goes up whenever the temperature goes down. Again, given an armful of logs piled near an open fireplace, and almost anybody can keep a fire going, whereas it is a very different matter to descend to the cellar and fix a furnace. The trouble with most furnaces is that they are located in the cellar.

Then, too, if callers call at all at a house in which their teeth chatter they remain only long enough to "pay their respects"; they do not accept invitations to be seated and rock the hours away chatting about nothing in particular while the members of the family on whom they are calling are waiting for an opportunity to go to bed. It isn't surprising that Englishmen are opposed to warm houses, but why they continue to cling to open fires is a mystery. The open fire is more or less ornamental, it is true, but it merely serves to accentuate the general chill and gloom which pervade the average English "living room."

LOOSER IN MORALS.

Bishop of London So Describes Married Men.

"Taking them all round, married men are much looser in their morals than single men." This affirmation by the Bishop of London, England, quite startled his hearers at a meeting of the Council for Promoting Public Morality. Those present were pleased, however, to learn, on the Bishop's authority, that London is becoming more moral, thanks to the efforts of the police. There is still, however, much to be done. The Bishop said he would never rest content until the open sale in shops of things to make sin easy was suppressed.

POET OF THE PEOPLE

CENTENARY OF LONGFELLOW'S BIRTH CELEBRATED.

Inherited the Poetic Temperament From His Mother—Was Influenced by His Early Residence Near Sea—Was the Greatest Scholar of Modern Times—His Shorter Poems Were the Most Liked.

Just a century ago, on Feb. 27, 1807, in the seaport town of Portland, Maine, was born of cultured parents one destined to become, not the greatest, but perhaps the best known and most loved poet of any age—one skilled to sing of time and of eternity—a "poet of the people." Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. From his mother, who was fond of music, poetry and nature, the boy probably received the romantic and imaginative side of his nature; from his father, a much-respected lawyer, he no doubt inherited his integrity and habits of industry, for he was throughout his life a hard worker, and from early youth cherished "noble longings for the strife."

The fact that he grew up in a seaport town had much to do with the influence of the sea so noticeable in his poetry that he is often called the "poet of the sea."

Throughout his life the haunting "secret of the sea" remained with him, and never failed to inspire him with fancies romantic and tender. Surrounded from youth to age with a happy environment of friends and artistic possessions, he might well think his lot the especial favor of Heaven. Appointed to a professorship at 19, sent across the sea to study foreign languages and later given a chair of literature in Harvard, with leisure for literary work, what more could heart desire? He was less tried in the furnace than poets are wont to be, and therefore was not a "poet of passion or of pain"; no erratic genius such as Shelley or Poe, Byron or Swinburne, but a calm, finely-poised soul, with a mind highly gifted by the gods, and well nurtured and disciplined by habits of study. He lived in a spot where he had all the delights of country life and the advantages of cultured Boston.

Longfellow occupied a unique place in American literature. He was the greatest modern scholar of the times, a scholar in spirit as well as in letter. Both by his verse and by his teaching he made familiar the culture of modern languages, bringing from Europe whole libraries of the stories and legends of European history putting the American people in touch with a nation with the tongues of both the north and south.

His longest and best poem, probably the best poem ever written by an American poet—The Song of Hiawatha, known in all lands, and his masterpiece and favorite among the longer poems, is "Evangeline." This poem had a rapturous welcome from the public when it appeared, and for the first six months after publication sold at the rate of a thousand copies a month. Wherein lies the charm of this poem? Why its universal popularity? It presents the most

LONGFELLOW'S HOME, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

For a time Washington's headquarters during the Revolutionary War. perfect type of woman's affection "that hopes and endures and is patient"; it tells sweetly and simply and tenderly the story:

"Old and yet ever new, and simple and beautiful always; Love immortal and young in the endless succession of lovers."

In this exquisite character study the figure of the devoted Evangeline stands invested with a beauty as of angels.

Longfellow's home at Cambridge became a Mecca for countless pilgrims because the poet lived and died there, but numerous Cambridge scenes have a place in Longfellow's verse for their own sake. Every hamlet in the land has its smither.

Where children coming home from school Look in at the open door, and, although the tree that shelters it may not be a "spreading chestnut," every one recognizes it as the type Longfellow had in mind when writing "The Village Blacksmith."

It was in his shorter poems that this gentle poet sang his way into the hearts of the common people. "A Psalm of Life" is the poem by which he is best known, perhaps. It is far from being his best, but it has a message of cheer for those given to depression. Charles Sumner, the poet's friend, tells of a classmate of his who was about to commit suicide, when he was deterred by the reading of this poem. "Excelsior." "Resignation" and many of his minor poems belong to the same class, and have gladdened many sad and weary lives.

Longfellow was genuinely religious, but his religion was so broadly human that he could not confine it to the narrow creed of any of the various sects. He leaned toward Unitarianism, but his belief may be summed up in a single line of his own, "Heart within and God overhead."

He was certainly not a Shakespeare, nor a Goethe, nor yet a Tennyson or a Browning, but he will be remembered and loved quite as long as they. His place as a strong pillar in the temple of American literature is secure. The cathedral bell has tolled, and the twilight closed in, but though it still comes the tender voice in poems that are a priceless possession of the human spirit.

VICTIMS OF INDUSTRY.

Enormous Number of Non-Fatal Industrial Accidents in Britain.

Last year no fewer than 110,762 non-fatal industrial accidents were reported in Great Britain, compared with 99,546 in 1905. Fatal accidents numbered 1,116 against 1,063. Only 27 of last year's total were females, and 107 were young persons. The largest number of accidents in any one industry was 145 in the construction of buildings, as against 117 in 1905; 143 fatalities occurred in docks, and 118 in metal foundries. Mechanical machinery accidents were responsible for 362 of the deaths; 15 deaths were due to electric shocks, and 371 were caused by "persons falling." Hoist fatalities numbered 38, and cranes were responsible for 89.

Glasgow, with 131 deaths, occupies the unenviable position of first in the list of towns, and it was in the same plight in 1905 with 117 deaths. Birmingham had only 23 fatalities, Manchester 58, East London 57, and South London 52.

Lead poisoning cases in the year numbered 632, against 592 in 1905, and there were 66 cases of anthrax, four of mercury poisoning, and five of arsenic poisoning, making a total of 707, with 54 fatalities, against 663, including 42 fatalities, in 1905.

"THE UNIVERSAL PROVIDER."

Late William Whiteley Leaves $5,000,000, to Found Homes For Poor.

"The Universal Provider" was the name by which the late Wm. Whiteley of London, Eng., was known far and wide. Mr. Whiteley, who was killed on January 24 by a school teacher, was the founder and owner of a very large department store in London. He occupied a position in London somewhat similar to that of Mr. Timothy Eaton in Toronto, whose death followed within a few days after Mr. Whiteley was born in September, 1831, and began his business career.

He was apprenticed to a draper in Wakefield. When he was 21 he went to London, and as soon as he had the opportunity, that is to say, in 1863, he opened a retail establishment in Westbourne Grove, a district against which he had been cautioned. He started with a capital of between £600 and £700; in 1890 his annual profits were £100,000, and his company was capitalized at £1,818,100. At the beginning of his enterprise he employed two women and a boy; when he died his employees numbered 6,000. In his will he left $5,000,000 to found homes for the poor.

KING'S LAST MATCH.

Exciting and Nervous Moment On a Canadian Prairie.

King Edward once said that he spent the most exciting and nervous moment of his life on a prairie in Canada when he visited that country as a youth. He was in no danger of being scalped by a Red Indian, or eaten by wolves, or gored by a mad-demon bison. His anxiety and nervousness were simply due to his efforts to light a match. The Prince and his party were miles away from any human habitation; they wanted to smoke, and had only one match between them. Lots were cast as to who should strike it. The lot fell on the Prince, and with great difficulty he managed to get the light which was to supply them with fire till their return to civilization.

The Kaiser's Latest.

The Kaiser is breaking out in a new place. He is going into the china business. He has founded out of his private treasury a manufactory of majolica ware on his estate at Cadzand. He himself laid down all the plans of the new manufactory and follows its development with the greatest interest. It is likely "Kaiser ware" will be popular among china collectors. His majesty is doing his best to transform his Cadzand estate into a model property, a kind of German Sandringham.—London Mail.

INEBRIETY IN ANIMALS.

Birds and Beasts Become Slaves to the Cup That Cheers.

Man is not the only animal fond of intoxicating liquors, says The Baltimore Sun. Birds, insects, even fishes, have been known to become drunkards at a suitable opportunity. A remarkable case of bird inebriation occurred during the course of a homing pigeon contest in France. Four hundred and twenty-nine birds were taken from Tours to La Bohalle, and the toss took place at the latter town. Out of all this lot only forty birds found the way home; the others were too intoxicated.

At first the owners of the pigeons were mystified at the non-appearance of their little racers. Then the forty wearily dribbled in home in a decidedly sorry condition. They were in a shocking state of inebriation, but they gave a clue to the absence of the others.

Investigation showed that a mass of black currants formed part of the freight of the railway. The crate containing the pigeons had been placed in the same car as the black currants, and the pigeons had sipped the exuded juice, with the unhappy result related.

A still more shocking case of bird depravity comes from Scotland. A farmer was astonished to hear an appalling din one day. This was caused by his flock of geese, every member of which was screaming in a maniacal manner as it cut fantastic capers. Homeward they were coming, cackling, hopping, waddling, fighting and generally behaving in an unseemly manner—they were intoxicated.

Loudness as it may seem, it was a serious matter for the farmer, as the geese were never fit for anything again. They used to spend their time in sleeping off the drink when they were not actually drinking. It appears that they had found a pool which was contaminated with the dregs from an adjoining distillery. They became useless domesticans.

Even the industrious little bee is not free from inebriety. It is a fact well known to owners of apiaries that the little creatures often get "fuddled" upon the inebriating nectar found in certain flowers. For instance, there is a species of willow, the members of which have large flowers which form a great attraction for bees. These flowers excrete a syrup or juice which is intoxicating. A bee, usually a humble bee, will sip until it falls down in a stupor, to awaken many hours afterward, stiff and dazed.

Fishes, as is well known, are inveterate little drunkards, shamelessly drinking all kinds of intoxicating liquors. It is the elephant, however, which is the biggest drunkard. The only thing which will prevent an elephant from becoming inebriated is the absence of all intoxicants. After an elephant has acquired a taste for alcohol it is a matter of the greatest difficulty to break the habit. In the case of a circus elephant which was dosed with spirits under medical advice this was found to be impossible, so frantic did it become when the usual dose was stopped. Its violent behavior was quieted only by returning to the old state of affairs.

A RARE BIRD.

Why an American Showman Could Not Get It For His Museum.

When the eminent French writer Ferdinand Brunetiere visited the United States some years ago, lecturing at Harvard and other leading universities, he had an amusing experience, which he described in the recollections of his American tour which he afterward published. The great litterateur devoted much attention to the life and works of Bossuet, who was often styled the "Eagle of Meaux," on account perhaps of his lofty flights of eloquence. This fact, with others pertaining to his literary career, was mentioned by some daily papers during his stay in this country. It caught the eyes of a shrewd American showman, who, however, got somewhat mixed over the meaning of the allusion. He wrote the following letter to the French author:

Sir—I have just heard that a certain Meaux eagle, very celebrated, it appears, in your country, has become your exclusive property. Now, I am the manager of a museum in one of the largest cities in the States. This Meaux eagle, whose reputation has been enhanced by your eloquence, would certainly not fail to excite the curiosity of my public. If you will let me have the rare bird and tell me how to feed it, you can quote your own figure.

Brunetiere politely explained that the "rare bird" had been dead for nearly 200 years.

CORDON BLEU.

Origin of the French Title as Applied to a Fine Cook.

The Order of the St. Spirit was created in 1557, was suppressed by Louis XVIII. in 1814, and was revived by Louis XVIII. considered that the order had never ceased to exist, for he had given two collars during his exile, in 1810, the one to Francis I., king of the two Sicilies, and the other to his brother, the Prince of Salerno, the father of his brother's wife, the Duchess d'Aumale.

The ribbon of this order was a light blue color. It was worn around the neck in the reigns of Henry III. and Henry IV., but was changed by Louis XIV. when it was worn across the chest. The Chevaliers of the St. Spirit were always known under the name of Les Cordons Bleus, and this was the supreme honor during the monarchy of France. It was from this that the title of "cordon bleu" was given to a first class cook. A gentleman one day declared after a good meal that he who had cooked the dinner had proved himself a "cordon bleu" among cooks—in other words, the master of his art. The title became quite the rage and is now always used to designate a good cook without the persons who use it knowing what it means or still less the origin of the title.

FOREIGN HOTELS.

They Differ In Many Ways From Those of Our Own Country.

Hot water is not "laid on" (piped) at foreign hotels, says the Travel Magazine. If you hear a gentle tap on the door in the morning, you may interpret it as meaning that a copper ewer of hot water has just been set down outside for your personal use.

If you order a bath, it will be prepared for you accordingly, and a sweet voiced maid will give you notice when it is ready. You are not expected to operate the water valves at all, and it is doubtful if you would succeed if you tried.

From a variety of vacant rooms at a hotel shown you select the one you prefer, with a definite agreement as to price. You are not required to accept humbly and thankfully, in blind faith, whatever room the clerk deigns to assign to you, as in America. It is expected, however, that you will order your breakfasts at the hotel, being free to get your other meals elsewhere if you prefer.

Electric light switches are not commonly turned on by a push button or a flat key, as in our buildings, but by a small brass lever. Many of the best hotels have a reading light in the headboard of each bedstead.

The Last Resort.

A man went into an oculist's the other day and, complaining of failing sight, got fitted with a pair of spectacles.

"Is this the weakest glass for my eyes?" he asked.
"Yes," replied the oculist.
"Supposing I can't see with it after a few months?"
"Get a stronger then."
"And if I still can't see?"
"Get a still stronger."
"And if the strongest glass fails?"
"In that case I think if I were you I should buy a small, intelligent dog and a couple of yards of string."

It Made a Difference.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the visitor. "Hear those boys fighting and yelling out there. Regular little hoodlums, aren't they?"
"I can't say," replied Mrs. Famley. "I'm rather nearsighted, you know."
"But surely you can hear them."
"Oh, yes; but I can't tell whether they're my children or the neighbors."

"This bill is too high," said the customer. "Too high?" ejaculated the handyman. "That's what I said—too high." "But, man, do you know how long it takes to do up a shirt?" "Why, about four washings!"

The Bore.

"I think Jones is one of the worst bores that ever lived." "Why so?" "He broke right in and began talking about himself while I was talking about a thrilling experience I once had out west."

AERIAL NAVAL WARFARE

TITANIC CONFLICT IN CLOUDS
TO TAKE PLACE IN 1913.

German Writes Book Describing How England Will Become Dependency of His Country—Navy Will Be Futile—Weird Dream of Aerial Warfare—Drop Bombs From the Sky—Battles in the Air.

Recent progress in aerial navigation has greatly stimulated the imaginations of those authors who delight in waging bloody wars—on paper. When in "Lockley Hall" Tennyson, many years ago, "dipped into the future far as human eye could see," his prophetic vision beheld "the nations' aerial navies grappling in the central blue."

But, according to the poet, that awful conflict is to bring about the era of universal peace—"the parliament of man, the federation of the world." According to Prof. Rudolf Martin of Berlin, it is to be the Germany—the mistress of the globe. He has just published a book entitled "From Berlin to Baghdad: the German World Supremacy in the Coming Era of Aerial Navigation," in which he tells how it is to be done. The pursuit of it ought to afford some little solace to the thousands of the Kaiser's poorer subjects who yearn to exchange a diet of horse flesh and dog meat for the roast beef of old England. For, of course, it is England which is to suffer most at the hands of the German despoiler.

Make English Navy Futile?
When airplanes can travel faster than railway trains now move Great Britain, the professor says, will be deprived of the present strategic advantages of her geographical position. The British navy will be reduced to comparative insignificance. The Himalayas will no longer protect India from land attack.

The professor admits that England and America may build aerial navies that, ship for ship, may be quite as good as those of Germany, but they will have no armies fit to cope with Germany's highly trained legions which, conveyed by aerial transport, she will overwhelm hostile countries. The narrative of events which the professor relates takes place between 1913 and 1930. Germany adopts an improved form of the airship invented by Count Zeppelin, and thus far has merely succeeded in spending large fortune in abortive attempts to conquer the air. The Zeppelin airship consists of a cigar-shaped balloon, with an aluminium deck, and fitted with powerful motors and steering apparatus.

His Airship Dream Weir.
In the death dealing, perfected form it takes in Prof. Martin's book the balloon has a capacity of from 60,000 to 100,000 cubic meters, is divided into something like 150 air-tight compartments, carries 600 men on its aluminium deck, and, among other weapons of destruction, is provided with 400 or 500 aerial torpedoes. The professor predicts that by 1916 Germany will have 2,000 of these fighting airships in commission. Without armament he figures that they will cost only $75,000 each, about what it now costs to build a torpedo boat.

In addition Germany is to be supplied with aerial trains, consisting of four airships linked together, the front airship alone being supplied with motors, and towing the other three after it at a prodigious rate of speed. Each train will suffice to transport 1,000 fully armed and equipped German soldiers.

1913 to Witness World War.

The universal shindy starts in 1913 with another war between Japan and Russia, in which the Japanese achieve a crushing defeat to the colossal of the north by means of their magnificent aerial fleets. It is followed by a revolution in Russia, in which the Romanoff dynasty is overthrown. The Czar, besieged in his palace, appeals to the Kaiser by wireless telegraphy to save him from the mob which clamors for his life. The Kaiser responds to his appeal by carrying him off in one of his matchless airships.

Anarchy ensues in Russia. Out of the chaos emerges a second Napoleon in the person of Suvaroff, a young Russian engineer, who is a master of the art of aerial navigation. He is made president of the Russian republic, and goes in for airships by the wholesale. He then means Russia again becomes a mighty power, which threatens to dominate Europe. Suvaroff gets himself proclaimed Czar of Russia under the name of Michael, and sets about preparing to subjugate the rest of the world.

Awful Battles in the Air.

Then the Kaiser takes a hand in the game by declaring war on Russia. The imagination of the most lurid dime novelist never depicted such awful battles as take place between the flying warships of Germany and Russia. From dizzy heights they drop destructive bombs on hostile armies. They riddle one another with shells, they ram each other in midair, and the wrecks, falling from heights of 10,000 feet, are smashed to smithereens. The combatants are provided with parachutes in lieu of life belts, and thus many of them, after their airships are destroyed, succeed in reaching terra firma safely and renew the struggle there.

One scene describes the raid of a Russian air fleet in Berlin, led by the usurper Michael, who pulverizes the German capital by raining bombs of tremendous explosive power upon it and destroys thousands of German troops.

But, of course, the new Napoleon ultimately meets his Waterloo through the superior courage and skill of the German warriors of the air, and Russia has to accept the terms of peace dictated by the Kaiser. Then, having walloped Russia, the Kaiser proceeds to make himself master of the world. England, stripped of her colonies becomes a mere dependency of Germany.

FIGHTS A GRIM BATTLE

THE MAN WHO IS TRYING TO SET
HARRY THAW FREE.

Delphin M. Delmas Who Is Chief Counsel in the Famous New York Trial—Has Been Called the Napoleon of Bar—Dramatic Methods of Appealing to the Feelings of a Jury.

Delphin M. Delmas, who lately came into the limelight as chief counsel in the defence of Harry K. Thaw, was for many years leader of the Bar on the Pacific slope. Mr. Delmas is 63 years old and practiced law in California for upward of 30 years. Most of his practice has been in civil cases.

DELPHIN M. DELMAS.

But some of his notable victories have been won as a criminal lawyer. Mr. Delmas is a striking personality. He has been called the Napoleon of the Bar in the west not only because of his resourcefulness, his tireless aggressiveness and his courage, but because of his remarkable resemblance to the great Corsican.

The San Francisco earthquake was mainly responsible for Mr. Delmas' removal to New York. Before that disaster he had no thought of changing his residence.

The following story in P. T. O., a weekly paper, shows that Mr. Delmas will disappoint English followers of the Thaw trial if he doesn't do something spectacular before the case concludes. Mr. Delmas, according to the anecdote, was once defending a husband who had murdered his wife's betrayer, and concluded his address to the jury in a very melodramatic fashion:

"Now, gentlemen of the jury," he said, "what would you do to the monster who thus wrecked forever the happiness of your heart's desire? Shall I tell you? Shall I show you? Suppose you saw the foul despoiler of your wife's chastity this minute walk across there—there, in front of you—this instant you would do, for you are the jury, you would whip a revolver from his hip pocket and fire six shots into the steps of the judge's bench."

TO HELP BRITISH YOUTHS.

Scheme to Foster Imperial Aspirations and Interests in Colonies.

In the course of an address on "Federal Tendencies in Education," given by Mr. E. B. Sargent recently in the Whitehall Rooms, Hotel Metropole, before the Royal Colonial Institute, and in the subsequent discussion, a rough outline was sketched of a novel and exceedingly interesting scheme by which Imperial aspirations may be fostered, and the ties between Great Britain and her overseas Empire greatly strengthened.

The idea is to form in Great Britain an association on similar lines to that which has been established in Montreal, known as the Public Schools Association, the object, as explained by the Hon. T. A. Brassey, being to give young men from a country who may wish to seek a career in the colonies an opportunity to enter upon that career without undue delay.

Those who are to be selected will have to possess a certificate from the master of the school in which they studied, and this certificate will be an assurance to the colonial authorities that the bearer is in every way worthy of confidence, advice, and assistance in obtaining employment. It will, in short, be a certificate of bona fides, and a proof that the owner of it has not only left school without a stain on his character, but also that he has passed through the probationary period immediately after school, say, of 18 months or two years learning a profession or calling with credit.

The newly formed association in Canada is prepared to give a helping hand to all such young Britons, and it is fully recognized in Canada that the coming of such highly qualified youths to the Dominion is in the highest degree to be desired. The advocates of this plan of federal education pointed out that hardly any could be devised which would so admirably effect the grand purpose of all true Imperialism—namely, the bringing into close touch of the educated, trained young men of Great Britain with their comrades in Canada, Australia, and the other portions of the Empire.

Sponge Treatment.

A young housekeeper in one of the suburbs had just succeeded in getting a new cook, who came highly recommended. One day Nora made a sponge cake which was so hard it could not be eaten. The housekeeper said:

"Nora, do you call this sponge cake? Why, it's as hard as can be." "Yes, mum," replied the cook calmly. "That's the way a sponge is before it's wet. Soak it in your tea, mum."

Making Love Up a Tree.

Billing and cooing among the Filijans is a curious feature in their social customs. It is decidedly against the rule to do any courting within doors. The gardens or plantations are the spots held sacred to Cupid, and the generally approved trysting place of lovers is high up among the branches of a breadfruit tree. You may often wait around a plantation on a moonlight night and see couples perched forty feet from the ground in the breadfruit trees, one on each side of the trunk, a position which comes fairly within the limits of a Filijan maiden's ideas of modesty.

Between the ages of fifteen and forty-five, the time when womanhood begins and motherhood ends, it is estimated that the aggregate term of woman's suffering is ten years. Ten years out of thirty! One-third of the best part of a woman's life sacrificed! Think of the enormous loss of time! But time is not all that is lost. Those years of suffering steal the bloom from the cheeks, the brightness from the eyes, the fairness from the form. They write their record in many a crease and wrinkle. What a boon, then, to woman is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It promotes perfect regularity, dries up debilitating drains, heals ulcerations, cures female weakness, and establishes the delicate womanly organs in vigorous and permanent health. No other medicine does for woman what is done by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

London's Huge Appetite.

The secretary of the Public Health Commission says the total amount of foodstuffs which London yearly consumes is between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 tons, of which rather more than two-thirds arrives by water and less than one-third by rail. Three-fifths of the whole quantity is consumed by the Londoners, the remainder merely passing through in the course of transit elsewhere.

The shipments include 1,000,000 tons of meat, fish, milk, butter, eggs, lard, etc.; 500,000 tons of fruit and vegetables, including sugar and preserved fruits, and 1,400,000 tons of grain and flour. It is pointed out in the committee's report that the system of inspection is inefficient and that oleomargarine is largely sold as butter.

Traced by Bloodhounds.

Guthrie, Okla., March 20.—The body of Dr. J. W. Davenport was found in a road near Ardmore, Indian Territory, Saturday, and Monday Mrs. M. Brooks, a neighbor, was arrested. Bloodhounds followed a trail to her house, where a revolver with one chamber empty was found.

MRS. MARY QUACKENBOS.

She is a Special Assistant United States District Attorney.

Mrs. Mary Grace Quackenbos, one of New York's best known woman lawyers, holds the responsible position of special assistant United States district attorney, to which she was appointed by Henry L. Stimson, United States district attorney.

Mrs. Quackenbos is the first woman who has attained so important a position in the legal profession. Her energy and thoroughness in investigating peonage cases in the lumber and turpentine camps of the south, which had come to her notice as representative of the People's Law firm, brought to her the recognition of the United States district attorney.

Mrs. Quackenbos' rise in the profession of law has been remarkable. Admitted to the bar in July, 1904, she has in the short space of time since then figured in several celebrated cases. Perhaps the best known of these was the case of Mrs. Antoinette Tolla, murderess, of Kingsland, N. J., whom she saved from the gallows. On March 9, 1905, three days before Mrs. Tolla was to hang, Mrs. Quackenbos, after an untiring week's effort, induced the board of pardons of New Jersey to commute this death penalty to seven and a half years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Quackenbos has devoted her attention chiefly to the philanthropic side of the law, having been first connected with the People's Law firm, a concern interested in the securing of legal rights for the unfortunate. Because of her humane and unselfish work there are many among the unfortunate who have cause to remember Mrs. Quackenbos with great gratitude for the generous services she has rendered both as attorney and as friend.—New York World.

Treatment of Clothes.

A bit of real lace often will contribute greatly to the style of a frock, and it is an excellent plan to rip any lace trimming from garments before they are thrown aside.

No matter how badly soiled, every scrap of lace is worth saving, and this applies to the imitation as well as to the real, for if there is only sufficient to trim a stock collar it may be used for that purpose very conveniently and effectively on some future occasion, and as lace does not occupy a great deal of space and is not so popular with moth as are many other materials it may be easily preserved.

You ought to save all the pieces of velvet, if they are not hopelessly soiled, always remembering, however, to brush them thoroughly first and then roll them around a cylinder.

This same treatment should be accorded to ribbons, silks or satin as well, for if they are worth keeping at all they are worth keeping in good condition.

Eternal vigilance is the only salvation of gloves. Never wear a pair that has even the smallest tear or lacks a single button. In their most decrepit days they must neither be rolled into a ball nor squeezed into a shapeless wad, and be sure to give a sufficiently large size, for not only does a glove that is too small disfigure the hand, but its period of usefulness is certain to be brief.

A net veil that has the misfortune to get caught out of doors in a storm is not necessarily a ruined veil, for by carefully detaching it from the hat, in order not to tear the mesh, and then pinning it over a pillow the imprudent bath will sometimes prove rather a blessing than otherwise, and the original stiffness will be renewed.

Chiffon veils stand considerable rough usage, and the black ones will sometimes survive a season of almost continuous wear if only they are not folded over when damp.—New York American.

The Wife's Influence.

Every married woman, no matter how limited her life may seem, no matter how shut up she may be in the nursery or the kitchen, has a means of contact with the great world in the man who goes out into it—has a means of influence on it through him. Seen or unseen, it is there. The man who is happy in his home carries the atmosphere of it with him. He is himself more in touch with others because of it. In this day and age, when so many women are seeking scope for their powers in arts and professions and business careers, there are some who realize that in their marriage there is the very widest scope—women who put the enthusiasm, the brain power, the artistic perception, the clear sighted effort into their profession as wives and mothers, mistresses of households. These are the women who use their brains and their souls to love with, as well as their hearts, and who wield an extraordinarily far-reaching power, all the greater because that power is the last thing they are thinking of or seek to attain. That intangible thing that we call the spirit of the home walks abroad with every member of it. The "nice" children in school gravitate instantly toward the children of that household, gravitate toward the home itself, because there is something there that they need.—Mary Stewart Cutting in Harper's Bazar.

The Dishcloth.

The dishcloth in many homes is a breeding place for microbes and contains more disease germs than almost anything else of the same size. Many diseases are in a large measure caused by filthy dish rags, contaminated water and impure air. The cheesecloth bags that sugar is sold in make good dishcloths and towels for wiping dishes. It is a good plan to have two sets for constant use. Those in use should be washed every morning in warm water, with soda, ammonia or washing powder, then rinsed and hung in the air to dry while the other set is in use. Besides this, it is well to wash each time after using and to boil them once a week. Keep your dish rags clean, sunned and aired if you value the health of your family.

Putting in Sleeves.

To sew in sleeves take your tape measure and measure one inch back of shoulder seam, fold the arm scythes, gather at this point and place inside sleeve seam at the opposite point of fold. After the sleeves of a waist are sewed in and the seam bound or finished in some way, turn the seam so it rests up against the waist instead of down on the sleeve and tack it to the shoulder seam to keep it in this position. You will be surprised to notice what an improvement this makes in the set of the upper part of your sleeves.

The Dado Is Economical.

Nothing is more economical in wall decoration than a dado, according to Wall Paper News. As the lower part of the walls become soiled more quickly than the upper, a room can often be freshened simply by renewing the dado without touching the upper walls. Another advantage of the dado is that it gives a room a comfortable and furnished appearance without the addition of a lot of furniture. This is particularly true of a hall or stairway where there is a lot of space that needs breaking up.

Bags For Clothes.

When you are making dust bags to slip over your prettiest dresses, make blue ones for your white things. White will yellow. There's no denying that. Many a pretty party dress, hung away for a little while, has yellowed on the books until it is a far cry from the pretty, fresh bit of daintiness it was at first. But a blue bag—one of the deeper china blues is a good depth of color to get—makes a mighty good ounce of prevention.

Gathers.

In putting in gathered sleeves, sun-bonnet crowns or any work you wish gathers to be even use two threads, one where the seam will be and the other one-fourth of an inch inside first. Remove second thread after sewing, or you can use machine to gather by making tension very loose and drawing up threads. By using second thread it does away with the ugly little plaits so often seen in gathers.

Moods.

Can one help having the "blues"? Can one help having a bad temper? Certainly. Moods are as subject to the will as any mental faculty, asserts a woman writer. The difference between the successful, popular woman and the woman who by her disagreeableness drives every one from her is simply the power of the former to control her moods and her temper.

To Keep Washing Soda.

It is advisable to keep soda in a jar covered with a lid, especially if the atmosphere of the room is dry, as soda exposed to dry air effloresces, yields some of its water to crystallization, leaving a white powder, which is therefore stronger than washing soda and is injurious to certain kinds of clothes.

An Audacious Fool.

The funeral of the king's fool in medieval times was in a measure an important one, and he who filled the post had often very great influence with his sovereign. Perhaps the brightest and most astute of fools was Triboulet, the favorite jester of Francis I. It was reported that his majesty, who was of a very generous nature, had acceded to a request of Charles V., emperor of Germany, that he might pass through France on his way from Spain to the Netherlands. Putting aside all recollection of what he had suffered at the emperor's hands while a captive in Spain, Francis was preparing to receive Charles with much ceremony and splendor. Observing one morning that Triboulet was scribbling industriously upon a bit of paper, Francis inquired what he was doing.

"I have just added the name of Emperor Charles of Germany to my list of fools," answered the jester, "a sovereign who is committing the incredible folly of trusting himself to you by passing through your kingdom."

"Tolly? How if I should let him pass safely?"

"Then I shall substitute your name for his," was the audacious retort of the fool.

TWO NURSES GRADUATE

A very delightful ceremony took place at St. Joseph's Hospital Tuesday evening, March 19th, when two brilliant nurses graduated, after fulfilling the necessary requirements of a three years' course of training at this excellent school for trained nurses. The young ladies who received their diplomas were Miss Florence Darling, of Chatham, and Miss Lily Burns, of Amherstburg.

The ceremony took place in the nurses' recreation hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with long silk streamers of white and yellow, the colors of the hospital, and a profusion of exquisite flowers.

The Rev. Father James made an ideal chairman, and the enjoyable program consisted of a number of selections of music and song, while Dr. Charteris, Sullivan and R. V. Bray made capital addresses.

The young graduates, besides receiving their diplomas and gold badges, were the recipients of many bouquets of beautiful flowers. A delicious banquet was tendered the nurses after the entertainment.

It is understood that Miss Burns will reside in Port Huron, but that Miss Darling will practice her profession in her native city. The Planet joins in congratulations.

MR. AULD SPEAKS

Toronto, March 21.—Mr. J. A. Auld, M. P. P., South Essex, had some remarks to make in reference to the statement that a Senatorship was in store for him. He was inclined to treat the report as a joke and apparently was not moved by the idea of going into the retirement of the Upper Chamber. For his own part he was of the opinion that the position in the Senate should be given to a French-Canadian resident of the Province of Ontario.

A GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly, of Euphemia, Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary of Their Marriage

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly, of the Township of Euphemia, Lambton County, was celebrated at their home last Saturday, March 9. All of the children whose vocations permitted were present. Altogether there were over one hundred relatives and friends gathered to do honor to the very respected couple.

The spacious drawing room was beautifully decorated in gold and white, and the tables fairly groaned under the weight of good things placed upon them. The room was lined with one hundred wax candles, the wedding cake being also decorated with smaller tapers, and trimmed with gold, the whole making a very pretty sight to behold.

The supper over, the tables were removed, and the second part of the program was commenced, the most interesting feature of which was the presentation of an address and a purse of gold to the aged couple. The presentation was made by ten of the grandchildren, who marched in one by one bearing the purse of gold and each carrying a gold ribbon. There were many gold pieces in the purse as Mr. and Mrs. Kelly had spent years of married life. The address, which was read by Mr. James Pritchard, was as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly, Euphemia Township, County of Lambton:

Dear Sir and Madam,—Whereas we, a few of your friends, having learned that you are about to pass the fiftieth anniversary of your marriage, desire to express to each of you our very sincere and hearty congratulations for having been spared to celebrate this, the golden wedding day, and ask your kind acceptance of this purse of gold as a slight token of our high esteem and regard with the assurance of our very best wishes for your future happiness and welfare.

Signed on behalf of those above mentioned; this the ninth day of March; one thousand, nine hundred and seven.

The balance of the program consisted of concert selections, over which Mr. George Kelly presided. Mrs. McGuigan, whose age is 76, was present and told some droll stories regarding Mr. and Mrs. Kelly's courtship. She was the only one present who attended their wedding fifty years ago. The concert was under the directorship of Mr. Ed. Pritchard, and was well put on.

Among those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kelly, of Kingston. Mr. Dennis Kelly took a photograph of the entire assemblage before the gathering broke up. Relatives and friends were present from Chatham, and all over the County.

HENRY ALLENOR DEAD

Henry Allenor, one of the oldest residents of this city, passed away Tuesday afternoon, at the ripe old age of 77 years, 3 months and 19 days. Deceased has been ill for the last five years and has been an invalid during that time. He has been a resident of this city for the past 50 years, and was one of the city's most respected men. He was born in Market Arden, Norfolk, England, and came to America in '40. He settled in the United States until '43, when he came to Chatham, and took up his residence on Harvey street, where he lived during his whole life in Chatham. His residence was one of the first brick houses erected in Chatham. He was an old volunteer fireman, and in the early days carried the mails from London to Windsor, before the old Great Western Railway was put through. Latterly he was a Maple City drayman. The immediate cause of death was heart failure.

Deceased never married, and the only surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Springer and Mrs. Littlejohn, both of this city.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2:30 to the Maple Leaf Cemetery.

CAPT. FOSTER DIES

A well known figure in marine circles, passed away at Port Powell, Ont., the other day, in the person of Captain Foster, who at one time was the owner of pleasure steamers which ran to Springbank from London.

He is survived by three sons and two daughters—Mr. Charles Foster, Flint, and Mr. D. Foster, Marine City; Dr. Arthur of Flint; Mrs. Cooper, Milford, Ont., and Mrs. Titus, of Detroit.

Deceased at one time sailed pleasure boats on the Thames and also at Erieau. He was well known in Chatham and vicinity.
