Technical and Bibliographic Notes / Notes techniques et bibliographiques

The institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming are checked below.

- Coloured covers / Couverture de couleur
- Covers damaged / Couverture endommagée
- Covers restored and/or laminated / Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée
- Cover title missing / Le titre de couverture manque
- Coloured maps / Cartes géographiques en couleur
- Coloured Ink (i.e. other than blue or black) / Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)
- Coloured plates and/or illustrations / Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur
- Bound with other material / Relié avec d'autres documents
- Only edition available / Seule édition disponible
- Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin / La reliure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distorsion le long de la marge intérieure.
- Blank leaves added during restorations may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming / Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont pas été filmées.
- Additional comments / Commentaires supplémentaires:

L'institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-être uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

- Coloured pages / Pages de couleur
- Pages damaged / Pages endommagées
- Pages restored and/or laminated / Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
- Pages discoloured, stained or foxed / Pages décolorées, tachetées ou piquées
- Pages detached / Pages détachées
- Showthrough / Transparence
- Quality of print varies / Qualité inégale de l'impression
- Includes supplementary material / Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
- Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips, tissues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image / Les pages totalement ou partiellement obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata, une pelure, etc., ont été filmées à nouveau de façon à obtenir la meilleure image possible.
- Opposing pages with varying colouration or discolourations are filmed twice to ensure the best possible image / Les pages s'opposant ayant des colorations variables ou des décolorations sont filmées deux fois afin d'obtenir la meilleure image possible.

The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Archives nationales de Québec,
Québec, Québec.

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\rightarrow$  (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Archives nationales de Québec,
Québec, Québec.

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole  $\rightarrow$  signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole  $\nabla$  signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

NEW ST. LOUIS HOTEL

QUEBEC JUNE 1902

*When I behold the ancient city,
Guarded, moated, fortified,
With the August sunlight streaming,
Over town, and tower, and tide.
Proudly o'er her fortress floating,
Over moat and bastioned wall,
Waves the flag that long has listened
To old England's bugle call.
At my feet the lettered granite
Carved in characters of flame,
Shows to men the deeds that cluster
Round a Wolfe and Montcalm's name.*

ST. LOUIS HOTEL

QUEBEC was founded in the year 1608 by Samuel de Champlain ❀ ❀ ❀ ❀

During the three centuries which have elapsed since its foundation in 1608 by the illustrious Samuel de Champlain, Quebec has accumulated a history rich in material for the philosopher, the poet and the romancer and among the records, associations and scenes thus brought together, the visitor, if so inclined, may find endless fields for research, observation and intellectual delight.

Unfortunately the majority of tourists nowadays do not seem to realize or appreciate this truth. In fact, they do not see Quebec, even when they come to visit it expressly for the purpose. They merely skim the surface, so to speak, and more than one half of its beauties, as well as of the contents of its rich historic storehouse, remain a sealed book to them. Inspired are they who care to evoke them. In and out among the angles and bastions of its hoary ramparts still flit the shadows of the great men who have left such indelible marks upon the history of the New World by their heroism as soldiers, their daring as explorers or their zeal and self-denial as missionaries and pioneers of Christianity and civilization. From every nook and corner of the wonderful old place, their spectral faces peer out at the visitor and impress him with respect, if not with awe, for the solemnity of his surroundings. One by one, their figures materialize again: Jacques Cartier, the discoverer of Canada, Champlain, the founder of Quebec, Bishop Laval, Frontenac hurling defiance at Phipps from the mouth of his cannon, La Salle, Marquette, Joliette, La Verandrye, bold and successful explorers, De Brebœuf and Lallemant, martyrs for their faith, the infamous Bigot and the noble Montcalm, victorious Wolfe, chivalrous De Levis, Montgomery and Arnold, Guy Carleton, Elgin and hundreds, nay, thousands of others, whose names are forever linked with the history not only of Quebec and Canada, but of all America.

With kind permission of the author, much of the facts related in this book were taken from Chamber's Guide, which book is considered one of the best, giving a true history and guide to Quebec.

The Governors' Garden

The Governors' Garden is a pretty little shady retreat, the principal attraction of which is the monument of Wolfe and Montcalm, erected in the years of 1827 and 1828, thanks to Lord Dalhousie who was then the Governor-General of Canada, who originated the idea of the monument.

The Dufferin Terrace

The Dufferin Terrace, the pride of Quebec, is a magnificent promenade built on the very edge of the cliff or castellated walls and overlooking the St. Lawrence and Lower Town 200 feet below. To the eastern end of the Terrace one can climb the glaces which slope down from that part of the Citadel, known as the King's Bastion, or we may ascend by the steps to a new extension of Dufferin Terrace that encircles the outside of the Citadel walls along the edge of the cliff to the historic Cove fields. From this point the tourist may get a better view than from any other part of the City, of the panorama of beauty reaching away far out from the Gibraltar of America, by descending the steps again to the Terrace and going north you see the beautiful building of the Chateau Frontenac Hotel, next to which is erected the imposing monument of Champlain, the founder of Quebec.

Place d'Armes

On leaving the Terrace you proceed to the Place d'Armes Square to the north east of which you will find the old Union Building once the rendezvous of the old Club of Barons, but now owned and

ST. LOUIS STREET (near Hotel)

OLD UNION BUILDING

NOW OCCUPIED BY

D. MORGAN, Tailor

occupied by D. Morgan, the tailor and outfitter, to the west of the Union Building is situated the Court House. On the south side of the Square Quebec's fashionable street (St. Louis) commences. By proceeding west on St. Louis Street you come upon the beautiful hostelry the famous old St. Louis Hotel, the former home of Royalty, Governors, Statesmen, and the scene of heretofore gorgeous festivities in the history of old Quebec, which reopened under a new management on April 27th, 1901. This Hotel has been completely overhauled and put in first class order, it has been remodeled and refurnished at a very heavy cost, a new heating apparatus put in, an electric plant installed operating its own electric light and electric elevators, the cuisine is first class and it and every other department in connect on with the hotel is under the supervision of experts and practical assistants.

The situation of the St. Louis Hotel is ideal, built as it is on the principal street of the City, the spot is so historic that it is of more than ordinary interest. It is surrounded by historic ground, to the right of the hotel is the old Duke of Kent House, now being used for lawyers' offices but formerly the residence of the late Queen Victoria's Father (The Duke of Kent), opposite the hotel is the Montcalm House, formerly the headquarters of General Montcalm, to the east of which is the Masonic Temple in which are situated the offices of the Quebec Central Railway, The Boston and Maine Railway and the general ticket agency of Mr. F. Stocking. About fifty yards west of the St. Louis and on the same street is the house where Gen. Montgomery was laid out after his death. The hotel is also near all the principal stores, the Post Office and Churches. The street cars pass the door every few minutes to all parts of the city.

Parliament Buildings

The Parliament Buildings are situated on Grand Allee just outside the St. Louis Gate, and within three minutes' walk of the St. Louis Hotel. Their construction was commenced in 1878

CHAMPLAIN'S MONUMENT
(Dufferin Terrace)

and completed in 1887, and in them the Provincial or State Legislature holds its sessions, and the public departments are located.

Plains of Abraham

The historic scene of the battle of the 13th of September, 1759 which decided the fate of the French regime in America, and upon which fell both Wolfe and Montcalm mortally wounded. On these grounds is also built the monument marking the place where Wolfe fell victorious.

Martello Towers

The Martello Towers were built as outposts of the citadel fortification nearly one hundred years ago, in the locality of which occurred some of the heaviest fighting towards the end of the famous battle of the 13th of September when the British Army followed up the advantage they had gained shortly after the striking down of Wolfe.

The Laval University

One can ill afford to leave Quebec without a visit to this old college of education. It has an entrance on the Grand Battery but may also be reached by a long passage from the Seminary, the gates of which adjoin the Basilica, it was founded by Mgr. de Montmorency de Laval, in the year 1663; at least half a day, or, if possible, a whole day should be devoted to this visit. There are several large halls containing museums of Geology, Natural History and Science, etc. The picture gallery alone is well worth the visit, as it is receiving large additions yearly, and the Library is one of the largest in Canada.

PARLIAMENT HOUSE
St. Louis Street (near Hotel)

The Grand Battery.

Starting somewhat south of the entrance to the Laval University begins the famous Grand Battery on the very edge of the cliff and overlooking Lower-town. A number of guns are here mounted. They are now of obsolete pattern, however, and would be of little service. The tourist will find much to interest him here if he has the time at his disposal.

Notre Dame of Victories.

In that portion of the city known as Lower Town will be found the little church of Notre Dame of Victories, the oldest church in the City, erected in 1688, which was destroyed by fire in 1759, and rebuilt upon the old walls which were left standing after the fire.

The English Cathedral.

To the right of the Court House and nearly opposite the Place d'Armes with its entrance on Garden Street, is the English Cathedral, which was consecrated in 1804; this church is noted for its historic solid silver communion service. The Cathedral is half a minute's walk from the St. Louis Hotel.

DEATH OF MONTGOMERY
(From painting by Prof. Clemens, Academy of Arts, Copenhagen.)

The Basilica

Built at the top of Fabrique Street and opposite the old market square the beautiful French Roman Church is located, the first mass in which, was said in the year 1650. In this church some of the most valuable objects of art on the Continent are to be found, as well as some of the most rare historical altar vestements. The church is beautifully decorated and is certainly well worth a visit and is only about two hundred yards from the St. Louis Hotel.

Beside the three already described the following are worthy of mention :

Catholic Churches

St. Patrick's on McMahan Street, founded in 1832 for the Irish Catholic Population, by the late celebrated Father McMahan ; the St. Jean Baptiste, situated on St. John Street ; the St. Roch Church, situated on St. Joseph Street; the St. Sauveur and Our Lady of Lourdes are in that section of the city known as the suburbs of St. Sauveur. There are also the chapels of the Good Shepherd, Grey Nunnery, St. Bridget's Asylum and the Jesuits Churches on the Esplanade and of St. Foy road near the toll gate.

Protestant

The Methodist church on McMahan Street ; Trinity church, St. Stanislas Street ; St. Andrew's on St. Ann Street ;

ROCK SLIDE, Champlain Street

Chalmers church, St. Ursule Street and St. Matthew's, situated about a quarter of a mile outside St. John's gate.

Ursuline Convent

Within twenty-five yards of the St. Louis Hotel is the entrance to the Ursuline Convent. In the chapel of this institution, which contains some rare old paintings is also the mural monument erected to the memory of General Montcalm and beneath the flooring rest the mortal remains of the unfortunate commander. The Ursuline convent was established in 1639 and is the fashionable boarding school for young ladies in Quebec, the nuns are cloistered ; no man save the Governor-General or a member of the Royal family ever set foot there. and then by special permission, accompanied by the clergy.

City Hall

Only one block separates the Ursuline convent from what was known as the old market square, on one side of which is built the new City Hall, facing the far famed Roman Catholic Basilica already described. The City Hall occupies a very historic site ; here was founded in 1637 the famous college of the Jesuits. After the cession of Canada to the British and the suppression here of the Jesuit Order, the old college was used as a barracks for the Imperial forces. The old building was torn down some years ago as well as the old city gates.

CAPE DIAMOND
Where Montgomery fell.

The Citadel

The Citadel, or principal fortress, is well worth a visit with its old chain Gate and extensive fortifications, built nearly three quarters of a century ago from plans approved by the great Duke of Wellington, the drive is from St. Louis Street, and the entrance is about two hundred yards from the St. Louis Hotel.

Some Old Buildings

Below the Grand Battery already described may be seen the narrowest and most remarkable street of the whole North America known as (Sous le Cap) on which are built some very old and strange buildings, but no building is more strange than the stone structure inhabited by some of the officers of the Royal Canadian Artillery, on St. Louis Street. Mr. Kirby, in his book "The Golden Dog," describes the old house thus; It was a tall and pretentious edifice overlooking the fashionable Rue St. Louis, where it still stands old and melancholy as if mourning over the departed splendor, (this building is just one block from the St. Louis Hotel). On the other side of the street, but nearer the hotel is a modern residence bearing an inscription to the effect that it occupies the site of the humble dwelling in which General Montgomery's body was laid out after death. He was killed beneath the Citadel of Quebec while storming the city with Arnold in the year 1775.

IN ST. ROCHE—In this quarter, will be found some very extensive shoe factories and tanneries, as well as some of the finest stores in the city. St. Roche in olden times also contained Bigot's Palace. The ruins of a portion of the building has been transformed into ale and porter vaults, and are still to be seen in rear of Boswell's Brewery. When tenanted by the infamous French Intendant the place was employed for vile purposes. It was once the abode of luxury, and the scene of revelry and debauchery, where Bigot concocted his nefarious plottings and squandered the thousands which he robbed from the public Treasury. Often he must have let himself into this princely palace with his latch key, in the wee sma' hours of the morning after his disreputable (rendez-vous) with the fair, or rather dusky occupant of his country house, concealed in the woods of Charlesbourg, two or three miles away.

There is also a remarkable story connected with the Golden Dog, which is cut into the stone front of the Quebec Post Office Building, and which has a strange remarkable reference to an incident in Bigot's life, related as follows in Chambers' Guide:—

On the right and close to us is the Post Office Building, in the modern facade of which is the figure of a rather tame looking dog gnawing a bone, and thereby hangs the tale, not to the dog alone, but to the entire surroundings. This is how it happened, and it came to pass under French regime that the proprietor of the old house that formerly stood upon the site of the Post Office was named Nicholas Jocquin Philibert. Now Philibert had some disagreement, some say with Pierre Legardeur, Sieur de Repentigny, an officer who had been quartered in his house, according to other writers, with Bigot, the Intendant or Lord Lieutenant himself. To revenge himself he placed this tablet in the front of his house, with the accompanying lines :

Je suis un chien qui ronge l'os,
En le rongant je prends mon repos,
Un temps viendra qui n'est pas venu,
Que je mordray qui m'aura mordu.

which may be translated as follow :

I am a dog gnawing a bone,
While I gnaw I take my repose,
The time will come, though not yet,
When I will bite him who now bites me.

Wilder versions state that Philibert was assassinated by Legardeur, and that Philibert's brother pursued the assassin to Europe, and later to Pondicherry, East Indies, and slew him.

THE CHATEAU BIGOT.—Three miles north of Quebec, the picturesque village of Charlesbourg, with its handsome church, is seen, perched upon the slope of a hill and commanding a splendid view of the city of Quebec and its surroundings. A drive of four miles to the east brings the tourist to the Chateau Bigot, Beaumanoir, sometimes also called the Hermitage. These ruins give but a faint idea of the grandeur, extent and secret passages of the original building which was erected by the Intendant Bigot, whose profligacy and extravagance were unlimited, and whose rapacity supplied his requirements. Hither with companions as graceless as himself, he was wont to resort, to indulge in every excess of dissipation, and here was enacted the tragedy already referred to, in connection with the Golden Dog, which resulted in the death of Caroline, the unhappy Algonquin maid.

Bigot is said to have first met with Caroline after losing his way in the woods where he had been hunting. Sitting down, exhausted with hunger and fatigue, he was startled by a sound of footsteps, and perceived before him a light figure with eyes as black as night, and raven tresses flowing in the night wind. It was an Algonquin beauty, one of those ideal types whose white skin betray their hybrid origin,—a mixture of European blood with that of the aboriginal race. It was Caroline, a child of love, born on the banks of the Ottawa, a French officer her sire, while the Algonquin tribe of the Beaver claimed her mother. Struck with the sight of such beauty, Bigot requested her guidance to his castle, as she must be familiar with every path of the forest.

The Intendant was a married man, but his wife seldom accompanied her lord on his hunting excursions, remaining in the Capital. It was soon whispered abroad, however, and came to her ears that something more than the pursuit of wild animals attracted him to his country seat. Jealousy is a watchful sentinel, and after making several visits to the castle, she verified her worst fears.

On the night of the 2nd of July, when every inmate was wrapped in slumber, a masked person rushed upon this "Fair Rosamond," and plunged a dagger to the hilt in her heart. The whole household was alarmed, search was made, but no clue to the murderer was discovered. Many reports were circulated, some tracing the deed to the Intendants wife, as already recorded, others alleging that the avenging mother of the Métisse was the assassin. The victim was buried in the cellar of the castle and the letter "C" engraved on a flat stone, which up to less than half a century ago, marked her resting place. The Chateau at once fell into disuse and decay, and a dreary solitude now surrounds the dwelling and the tomb of the dark-haired child of the wilderness, over which green moss, ferns and weeds cluster profusely.

For years the ruins of this picturesque and romantic spot have been allowed to crumble more and more to dust, until now much of them have disappeared, but quite recently some enterprising and public spirited parties in Quebec, undertook to renovate at least the grounds around them, in so far as was consistent with their ancient and historical character.

BITS AROUND QUEBEC

That anyone can visit and leave Quebec without spending at least an hour or two in such entrancing surroundings is well-nigh incredible, and yet it is an indisputable fact that many have done so. However the poor condition of a short piece of road, and the unkept state of the palace, have been mainly responsible for this fact and now that this reproach is removed, there is no longer any reason why all should not bend their steps in this direction.

Drives Around Quebec

The environs of Quebec abound in the most delightful scenery and drives, the roads in the vicinity are amongst the finest on the Continent. The drives are all comparatively short, averaging about nine or ten miles, and the roads all along are pretty and interesting, and full of graceful variety. Among the principal drives may be mentioned the drive to Montmorency Falls, and the Natural Steps,—the latter no one should miss on any account,—the Falls of Lorette, St. Anne and the Chaudière Falls. Few persons ever go to see the Fortifications at Levis, and yet they are well worth the visit.

Then there is the old ruin of Chateau Bigot, the haunt of one of the most notorious scoundrels, already mentioned. Chateau Richer is on the way to St. Anne's and though the distance is a trifle long, the road goes through such a lovely section of country that one does not mind the length much. Lovers of scenery cannot do better than spend a few hours at the beautiful lakes of St. Charles and Beauport.

St. Anne-de-Beaupre

The shrine of St. Anne is situated about twenty-one miles from Quebec and is reached by the Electric Cars, which run along the north bank of the St. Lawrence for the entire distance. For over 250 years has the shrine of St. Anne been yearly visited by those seeking the restoration of health. Miracles of all kinds have been wrought, here the sick are healed, the blind made to see, the lame to walk and all through the intercession of that pure soul, the good St. Anne.

One of the finger joints and a part of the wrist of St. Anne is shown and venerated in the church of the parish.

Island of Orleans

The Island of Orleans, or, as it was called, the Isle of Bacchus is down the river to the east, where it divides the river into two channels. It is reached by ferry from Quebec and it is a favorite summer resort for Quebecers.
