The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

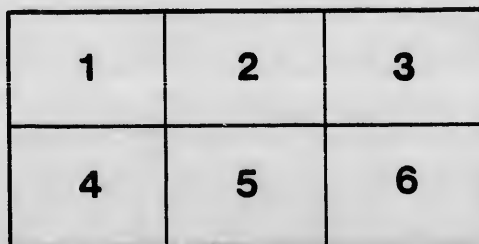

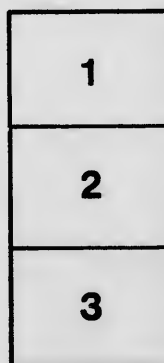

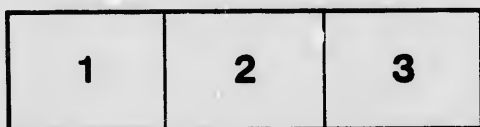

New Brunswick Museum
Saint John

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

New Brunswick Museum
Saint John

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

CAPE ANN "WEEKLY ADVERTIZER."—"We found this comfortable old house, yielding to the march of progress, undergoing extensive repairs, which when finished will make it one of the most convenient and elegant hotels in the Dominion, which will help to draw hither the stream of American tourists, who yearly increase in number to do the rounds of this interesting trip, extending to the romantic, wild and picturesque scenery of Cape Breton, and the fertile and beautiful Prince Edward Island. The Americans will patronize a good hotel, and Messrs. Hesslein & Sons are doing a great thing to attract travel to Halifax, by making their hotel first-class in every respect."

CAMBRIDGE "CHRONICLE."—"This admirable house has just been thoroughly renovated, and is now, with its richly decorated and spacious entrances, plate glass windows, elevator, electric lights, and other modern improvements, truly a first-class hotel, while the cuisine leaves nothing to be asked for."

* PREFACE. *

THIS little brochure must have a preface, even if I have to purchase one at a second-hand store.

It was made to sell—to celebrate the Queen's Jubilee, as it were. Don't jubilee-ve it?

This book is for tourists, so are a pair of handcuffs for two wrists, still there is no similarity between them.

I wish to correct an erroneous idea as to the authorship. It has been attributed to Rider Haggard. "She" did not write "It." It was written "Jess" before "Dawn" (at least it was written "After Dark") by a haggard writer who was the author of "Beautiful Snow," "Called Back," and other religious periodicals. This, I trust, will forever set at rest the vexed question.

I think it was John Phoenix who said, "the person to whom you dedicate a book is sure to buy a copy," and, with admirable foresight, dedicated his book to a numerous party named John Smith. I, with equal prescience, dedicate this to "The Commercial Drummers," an overworked, underpaid class who are more sinned against than sinning, and if each one invests a dime it will dime-inish the edition very rapidly and make the author correspondingly happy. I narrowly escaped being a drummer once. I was invited to carry a line of "White Bronze Monuments," but the doctor said they were too heavy for my constitution, as I was in a decline, so I declined. Perhaps I made a grave mistake.

This book is intended for a guide (no, not guyed) to the poor drummer and other innocents who are in-no-sense at home, and if it will alleviate or mitigate the mental agony of some unfortunate who did not collar an order in the last town, or failed to "fill" at the last session, my labor will not have been in vain.

There is nothing seditious in it. It is not a seed catalogue to be seed-itious; but if, perchance, you see dishes or plates in it, they probably belong to some far-sighted crockeryware man who has had the good sense to advertise.

Please read the ad's. You will find it adds to the interest and—principal. In fact it was my principal reason for publishing it.

And now, at parting, a few kind words of friendly advice. If drinking interferes with your business, give up the biz. Keep in the "straight" path and never go back on your "ante" or—"uncle." If you have never tackled billiards, don't be cue-rious to learn. Keep up your "average." Es-chew tobacco. Cultivate art. Learn to draw—your salary—or to a "bob-tail"; and if you "fill" your "full" you will fulfil your mission.

Yours fraternally,

THE AUTHOR.

THE CITY OF HALIFAX,

ITS PUBLIC BUILDINGS, PARKS, &C.

HALIFAX is the Capital of Nova Scotia, and next to Bermuda, the principal naval station in America. It is situated on one of the finest harbors of the Atlantic coast. It was founded in 1749, and was first called Chebucto, but changed afterwards to Halifax, in compliment to Earl of Halifax. An expedition, under command of Lord Cornwallis, landed on the 21st of June, and selected the site of the Capital City of Nova Scotia. Its population in 1881 was 36,100. The city occupies a picturesque situation on the east slope of the peninsula (of 3000 acres) between the Bay, the N. W. Arm and Bedford Basin; and looks out on a noble harbor, spacious enough to hold all the navies of Europe, and with fortifications strong enough to successfully resist the encroachment of any belligerent. The city has a copious supply of water from the Chain Lakes, twelve miles distant. There is a fire-alarm telegraph, and an efficient fire department, with several steam engines, and a protection corps.

The city lies along the shore of the harbor, and is two and one-half miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide. The plan is regular, and the streets, as a rule, are well laid out. Hollis and Granville streets contain several elegant and substantial buildings, but in some portions of the city the dingy appearance of the houses might be improved by a little outlay on paint.

Approaching Halifax by water, the traveller's attention is first drawn to Cape Sambro on the western coast, on which there is a light house, to warn the approaching mariner of impending danger. Light houses and strong fortifications are seen at every prominent point as you enter the harbor. On the west shore Herring Cove is passed. Two miles from Herring Cove you pass Salisbury Head, and run between the Martello Tower on Meagher's Beach and the York Redoubt. Passing McNab's Island the steamship soon runs by Fort Clarence and the fortress on George's Island, and drops anchor opposite the Deep Water Terminus.

If the traveller comes by the Intercolonial, or Windsor and Annapolis Railway, he has a fine view of picturesque beauty, as the train glides past the shores of Bedford Basin, which is 5 miles long and from 1 to 3 wide. It is from 8 to 36 fathoms deep, and contains about 10 square miles of secure anchoring ground. The village of Bedford, 10 miles from the city, is prettily located, and has several summer hotels, and quite a number of handsome suburban villas, where the merchant princes rusticate during the summer season.

The I. C. R. Depot at North Street is one of the finest in Canada. It is two stories high, and mansard roof, with tower and dome. It measures 113 x 50 feet. On the ground floor are waiting rooms, I. C. R. and W. & A. ticket office, telegraph, news agent and Superintendent's offices, which are all heated by steam. The passenger car shed is 400 feet long and 87 wide.

On arriving here the usual babel of hackmen's tongues greets the weary traveller, and if he is fortunate enough to survive he is soon rolling along to the Queen, Halifax, or some other fashionable caravansary.

A pleasant ramble on a fine balmy morning may be enjoyed by walking up to the Citadel. At the summit a charming view of the harbor and the City of Dartmouth is obtained. Dartmouth is directly opposite Halifax, and is accessible by steam ferry-boats, which run regularly every fifteen minutes, until eleven o'clock at night. There are several fine private residences belonging to Halifax merchants, and about half a mile from the town is the Mount Hope Insane Asylum, a long granite building, from which a grand view of the harbor can be obtained. Visitors are shown through the institution on Tuesdays. Dartmouth has 4300 inhabitants, and has several factories and foundries. The Skate and Cordage factories give employment to a large number of operatives. A large Sugar Refinery was built some years ago, but not proving profitable, has ceased operations. Cow Bay, one of the finest natural watering places in America, is about ten miles from Dartmouth. The Atlantic rolls in on its long stretch of hard sandy shores, affording excellent facilities for surf bathing. All visitors to Halifax should visit this delightful summer resort.

On the ramparts of the Citadel there are signal staffs, and when a vessel is made out at Sambro, information respecting her is telegraphed to the Citadel, and repeated to the citizens by a series of signals. From the Citadel a ponderous cannon keeps us up to time by belching forth at noon and half-past nine at night, which is a warning to "our brave defenders" that they must get home to barracks.

The view from here is varied and interesting. The island from which Meagher's Beach juts out is McNab's, on which is the military range. It is a popular resort for picnic parties. Back of McNab's is Lawlor's Island, on which is the Quarantine Hospital. George's Island, about 1800 feet from the shore, is quite pretty. It was named as a compliment to George III. There is a powerful modern fortress containing heavy guns. This position is a key to the harbor, and with Fort Clarence, could successfully prevent any foe from entering the harbor. Barracks. The principal powder magazine is close to these barracks. Further south is the Dockyard, about three-quarters of a mile in length, and enclosed on the land side by a high stone wall. It contains store houses, machine shops, arsenals, hospital, and officers' quarters. H. M. vessels repair and refit here. Visitors are admitted on application to the Superintendent. The Admiralty House, where the Admiral in charge resides, is on Gottingen street. It is a plain, unpretentious edifice of stone, and has been the residence of many distinguished individuals, and was the first place in which the Marquis of Lorne and his wife the Princess Louise stayed when they came to this country.

Near the foot of Citadel Hill is the Military Hospital, close to the Garrison Chapel, a plain wooden building, in which are many tablets in memory of deceased officers. A little further along Brunswick street is St. George's Church, more familiarly known as The Round Church, from its circular form. On the corner of Brunswick and Gerrish streets stands The Little Dutch Church, erected in 1761 by German immigrants. Further north, on Gottingen street, is the Deaf and Dumb Asylum. The Old Town Clock must receive a notice, en passant, for though not a "thing of beauty" architecturally, it is one of the old landmarks, and the clang of its sonorous tones no doubt reminds ye oldest inhabitant of lovers' meetings in the dim and distant past.

Visitors desirous of going through the Citadel can only do so by applying at the Brigade Office for a pass, and even then it is extremely difficult to get one under the new regulations.

Along the waterside are the wharves and warehouses of our merchants, the Military Ordnance Yard, the Queen's Wharf and, below, the Blind Battery, the Gas Works. In the south-western suburbs, on Morris street, is the School for the Blind, which can be visited on Wednesdays. In the next block the City and Provincial Hospital, and the New Poors' Asylum on South street. The Exhibition Building, on Tower Road, is a fine structure. It is leased by H. B. Clark, who runs it during the winter season as a Skating Rink. A little further north you come to the pride of Haligonians, known as "The Public Gardens," which may be entered from Spring Garden Road, Summer street, Sackville street or South Park street. It contains about eighteen acres, and is, without doubt, one of the handsomest public gardens on this continent. For beauty of design and exquisite blending of colors it cannot be excelled. Frequently during the summer promenade concerts are given, and when lighted up in the evening and the strains of sweet music greet the ear it seems like a veritable fairy land.

Taking a hack, a favorite drive is down Pleasant street, past the Esplanade, (a pleasant little lounging place, which at one time was crossed by a bridge called "Kissing Bridge," where youth and maiden plighted their troth), and then passing Steele's Pond you enter Point Pleasant Park with its pretty groves of evergreen trees, threaded by nicely macadamized roads. After a survey of the forts, harbor approaches and many points of beauty, by a turn to the right hand the road to the North West Arm may be followed to the Chain Battery point.

Turn eastward, passing the Prince's Tower and north past the Penitentiary, Public Gardens, Cemetery and Common to the Quinpool road on the left the head of the Arm is soon reached. Keeping north you pass Dutch Village to Bedford Basin. If the left hand road be taken from the Arm head south it will take you to Melville Island and the Dingle, which is a favorite for picnic parties. Another nice drive is coming up from the Park by the Bowery road. On the left as you turn down the Bowery is a road leading to the old Penitentiary, lately used as the Poor House. Before turning to come up Tower road again you pass the Pine Hill Theological Hall and several handsome private residences. The road to Bedford via Gottingen street is a very pretty drive. Near the Four Mile House is Mount St. Vincent Academy for ladies, managed by the Sisters of Charity. Two miles further is a small building which is known as the Music Hall of the Prince's Lodge. The Lodge, where Her Majesty's father, the Duke of Kent, resided, is among the things that were but are not. The Duke was also the builder of the Round Church on Brunswick St. A nice drive is along the road by the head of the Arm along the shores of the lakes from which Halifax draws its water supply, out to a cosy little roadside house kept by Mr. Wilson, where you can get a first-class meal and enjoy a row on the lake close to his house. This is a favorite resort, as it is retired, quiet and free from bibulous rowdies.

The Parliament building occupies a square, enclosed by Granville, Prince, Hollis and George streets. It is built of brown stone, was commenced in 1811 and finished in 1819. In the north part of the building the House of Assembly is located, and in the south part is the Legislative Council Chamber, in which are some very fine portraits of distinguished individuals, notably that of Nova Scotia's famous humorist, "Sam Slick." Parties desirous of visiting the building can obtain permission from the Librarian.

The Provincial Building, which contains the Post Office, Custom House and Provincial Museum, is on Hollis St. It is built of freestone, 140 by 70 in area, and cost $120,000. The west half of the building is occupied by the Post Office department, and the other side by the Customs, Inland Revenue and Finance offices. The Museum is on the third flat. The collections are varied and well arranged. It is opened daily from 10 to 1 o'clock, and from 2 to 4. On Saturdays from 10 to 1 only.

The Government House, near St. Matthew's church, on Pleasant street, is the official residence of His Hon. Lieut.-Governor Richey. It is painfully plain with projecting wings.

Old St. Paul's cemetery is located opposite Government House. Here rest in silence many of the first settlers of Halifax. A handsome monument is erected to the memory of two of Nova Scotia's heroes, Welsford and Parker, who were killed in the Crimean war.

The Court House erected in 1860 is a fine structure, built of freestone. It is situated on the south side of Spring Garden Road, near St. Mary's Cathedral. The County Jail is in the rear of the Court House. The Supreme, Vice-Admiralty, Equity, Divorce, County and Probate Courts, are all held here. The Prothonotary, Clerk of the Peace, Registrar of Deeds, and County Treasurer, have offices on the first floor. The High Sheriff has an office on the second floor. The Law Library, containing a large collection of ancient and quaint old law books, is also on this floor.

The R. C. Cathedral of St. Mary's is on Spring Garden Road, near Pleasant Street. The original building was improved some years ago by the addition of an elegant granite facade and spire, in florid gothic architecture. Archbishop O'Brien resides in the house adjoining, on the corner of Spring Garden Road and Pleasant Street.

The Academy of Music, on Pleasant Street, facing Spring Garden Road, in its auditorium and stage appointments is second to none in Canada. Mr. H. B. Clarke is the lessee, and the citizens of Halifax are indebted to him for many musical and dramatic treats.

The Orpheus Club Hall, (formerly a Baptist Church,) on Granville Street, is a cosy little hall, and owned by the Orpheus Club, which is composed of the best amateurs of the city.

The Lyceum, on Starr Street, is a place of amusement, but not considered tony enough for the blue blooded dudes to patronize. A good dime show can draw here like a plaster.

The Salvation Army, which cannot perhaps be properly classed under the head of amusements, has its headquarters in the old Reform Club Hall, corner of Brunswick and Duke Streets. There they make the night melodious with their peculiar variety performances, and think they are doing God service.

The Church Army meet in Trinity Church, corner of Jacob Street and Popular Grove.

The Halifax Club has an elegant house on Hollis Street. It is fitted up in first class style, and only the creme de la creme have an entre to its aristocratic rooms.

The young swells who find the Halifax "too rich for their blood," have one of their own called the City Club. It is located on Barrington Street, near Sackville. Here in insouciant ease they can laugh to scorn a beastly License Act, and solve the mysteries of the relative values of "a flush" and "four of a kind."

The Old Ladies' Home on Gottingen street, was erected last year. It is fitted up to meet the requirements of the poor old ladies who will spend the balance of their days there.

The R. C. Orphanage is located on Brunswick street, and the Protestant Home is on Lockman street. St. Paul's Alms House of Industry, for poor Church of England children, is on Tower road.

The Y. M. C. A. Building is a plain but substantial building on corner of Granville and Prince streets. It has a spacious Reading Room which contains a great variety of papers and magazines. Strangers are always made welcome by Mr. Theakston, the Secretary.

nice place to spend leisure time. Here, also, strangers are kindly treated.

The Masonic Hall, on the corner of Salter and Granville streets, is a fine looking building and centrally located. Its architecture is Italian with Mansard roof. There is a cupola on the dome from the apex of which rises a gilded vane. It is built of brick and is covered with mastic. It is tastefully fitted up inside and it is a building of which the craft should feel proud.

The High School, corner of Brunswick and Sackville streets, is a fine building and a credit to the city.

The Citizens' Free Library is in Argyle Hall, Argyle street. Open from 12 to 6 p.m.; Saturdays, from 6.30 to 8.30 p. m.

Halifax is sadly deficient in market accommodation. It seems comical to a stranger to see the streets surrounding the Post Office littered up with "coon" green grocers and loads of hay. The coal pedlar with his dismal monotonous cry of "C-o-a-l!" or "Oh! oh!" or whatever it is, is enough to give one the "jigs." Another relic of antiquity is the wheezy old tin horns blown by newspaper vendors.

The new City Hall, now being erected by Mr. A. E. Milligan on the site lately occupied by Dalhousie college on the Parade ground, will be a splendid specimen of architecture and will be an ornament and credit to the city. Mr. Milligan is also building the new Dalhousie college out on College Place, which when completed will be one of the finest buildings in the Province.

The large brick building with a tall chimney, down by the water north of the Dockyard, is the Nova Scotia Sugar Refinery. A branch of the railway runs down by the Dockyard wall and terminates at the long wharves and Grain Elevator at the south of the Dockyard. Here the ocean mail steamers land mails and passengers directly into the rail cars.

The horse railroad cars run from Richmond, where the stables are situated, through the principal streets south to corner of Inglis and South Park streets. Particulars of routes and fares are given in another part of the book. Office on Prince street next to Chronicle office.

The Western Union Telegraph Office is on Hollis street, near the Halifax Club. Rates given elsewhere. The Telephone office is in the Hesslein Building, next Queen Hotel. Non-subscribers can send messages from central office on payment of 10 cents, to any part of city ; 15 cents to Bedford or Waverly, and 25 cents to Windsor, Newport and Hantsport.

The Police Station, on Bedford Row, is a dismal, dingy-looking building. The Court is presided over by Robert Motton, Esq., who dispenses justice with a smiling face to the "simple drunks" who get "half seas over" in spite of an absurd license law which says no liquor can be bought by the glass. Stringent laws of this kind fail to carry out the desired end. Our wise-acre lawmakers will find this out to their sorrow.

Halifax tenaciously clings to, and sacredly venerates, its ancient institutions and landmarks, as evidenced by the "cribbed, cabined and confined" old building in which Judge Motton is compelled to inhale sweet aromas. It is certainly not a "thing of beauty." But, notwithstanding the cries of croakers, Halifax is arousing from its Rip Van Winklish state, and with improved hotels, such as the Halifax and Queen, Electric Light, Dry Dock, Grain Elevator, Horse Railroad, New City Hall, and other improvements, shows she is bound to keep pace with the times. We don't like to find fault unnecessarily, but would merely suggest, in closing, that if some energetic city father would inaugurate a street reform in the improvement of sidewalks and put down asphalt instead of the patchwork crazy-quilt combination of broken stone, wornout brick and

This sketch of Halifax, gleaned from various sources, in our cramped space is naturally imperfect, and for all sins of omission or commission we crave indulgence, promising, like the bad boy, to do better in future; and if the tourist can have his peregrinations made more pleasant, while here, by the perusal of this book, our labor will not have been in vain.

THE NATTY DUDE.

BY JO KER.

Do you catch my stwyle as I walk the stweet,
 A living pichaw of beatitude;
 With a cigawette and tooth-piek fweet;
 Say, chappie, old boy, "ain't I a natty dude"?"

I powmenade, dwink lemonade,
 Eat nev—no, nevah! eat much fatty-food;
 Smoke a mild segah, which I buy fwom Sah,
 And the girls all say I'm "a little natty dude."

With my collah high, and a glass in eye,
 Through Gwanville stweet I stwut in happy-mood;
 The ladies sigh, as they pass by,
 And gently simpah, "what a natty dude."

I mash the chawming little cweachaws,
 Awound this very beastly latitude,
 They can't wesist my Gwecian feachaws
 You know, old fel, I'm such a natty dude.

As I twirl my canc, and smirk and smile,
 And stwike a vevy gwaceful attitude,
 The chawmers all admire my style
 And say, "By Jove ain't he a natty dude"?"

My girl complains that I've no bwains,
 Say, Chappie, do you call that gwatitude?

For her I've spent my last wed cent:
 Is that the way to tweek her natty dude?

(SELECTED.)

To draw, or not to draw, that is the question,
 Whether 'tis safer in the player to take
 The awful risk of skinning for a straight,
 Or, standing pat, to raise 'em all the limit,
 And thus, by bluffing, get it. To draw—to skin,
 No more—and by that skin to get a full
 Or two pair, the fattest, bouncin' Kings
 That luck is heir to—'tis a consummation
 Devoutly to be wished; to draw, to skin,
 To skin! perchance to bust—aye, there's the rub!
 For in that draw of three what cards may come
 When we have shuffled off the uncertain pack,
 Must give us pause. There's the respect
 Which makes calamity of a bobtailed flush.
 For who would bear the overwhelming blind,
 The reckless straddle, the wait on the edge,
 The insolence of pat hands, and the lifts
 That patient merit of the bluffer takes,
 When he himself might be much better off
 By simply passing? Who would trays uphold,
 And go out upon a small progressive raise,
 But that the dread of something after call,
 The undiscover'd ace-full, to whose strength
 Such hands must bow, puzzles the will
 And makes us rather keep the chips we have
 Than be curious about hands we know not of?
 Thus bluffing doth make cowards of us all.

TRADE REPORT.

THE fish market is in a very scaly condition. A speculator in eels let several slip through his fingers. Turkeys open easy. Ducks have gone down. Venison is deer. The market is bare of bear's meat. Eggs open fresh. Shooks unsteady. Pine boards drooping. Spruce boards brisk. Oysters open dull. Feathers, a light supply, with an upward tendency. Onions, by the string, 20 cents. Billiards, by the string, at Shepard's, 25 cents. The Indigo market looks blue. Lead, in pigs, dull and heavy. Pigs, lead in, advancing slowly. No sales of spruce gum. The resin' is no one chewses to buy it. Butter was strong last weak. Whiskey going down rapidly.

SPORTING QUERIES.

CAN a young man, who writes a good round hand, make a good round-hand bowler?

Is round-hand bowling the most honest, as nothing should be done in an underhand manner?

If a player is struck with the ball when he goes in with the bat, is he likely to come out with a h-owl or a bawl!

Are fish balls, batter pudding and 'leaven'd bread considered good diet for cricketers?

When a bore calls on you and stops a long time, would there be any impropriety in calling him a "long stop," and would you be justified in giving him the "slip"? Do you see the point"?

If a ball strikes the batter's leg, glances and knocks off the "bails," would he be "bailed out" or would it be considered a case of "leg bail"?

WYLLIEAF SOAP

It is as delicate and harmless as any Toilet Soap, and free from all impurities. For LAUNDRY and KITCHEN use it is unexcelled. Use it in any method, old or new, in fact in your own peculiar manner, and the result will be clean and sweet Linen. Wholesome in its use, giving a healthy action to the skin, and in every way conducive to health. We claim that this Soap is made by a process recently discovered, and is one of the Greatest Scientific Triumphs of the Century.

THE DRUMMER.

THE drummer inhabits railway trains. He also temporarily infests the best rooms in hotels. He is usually swung to a satchel containing a comb and brush, another shirt, clean celluloid collar, a pair of cuffs, railroad guide and a newspaper wrapped around a suspicious-looking bottle. He also carries a "Seaside" novel and a pocket-knife with a corkscrew combination. He has a two-story iron-bound trunk containing "sambles ov dem goots" which he checks through to the next town. He travels for the largest house in his line, a firm that sells more goods and cheaper than any two firms in the country. He is very modest and blushes when he makes this statement.

He can talk on any subject, although he may not know much about it, but what little he knows he knows, and lets you know that he knows it.

He is at home everywhere, although we do not remember to have ever seen him in church. Sitting on his gripsack at a way station waiting for a train six hours behind time, and abusing the railroad officials from brakeman to president with a profuse and robust profanity that gives the air a sulphurous odor for miles around, he seems in perfect keeping with the surroundings.

When he gets into a train, if alone, he occupies two seats. One he sits on, and on the other he piles his baggage and tries to look as if they belonged to another man who has just stepped into the smoking-car and would be back directly.

Drummers are usually found in pairs or quartettes on the cars. They sit together with a valise on end between them, on which they play euchre and other sinful games. When tired of playing they adjourn to the smoker, where the distillery drummer "sets em up" from his sample case, and they swap lies about big bills of goods sold, tell highly-seasoned stories and exhibit to each other photos of their last "mash."

His love of truth is one of his strong points, except in the matter of excessive baggage. He is the only man who dares address hotel clerks by their christian name. He knows every hotel in the country and every room in the hotel. When he arrives by the late train he is the first to get out of the 'bus and reach the clerk's desk, when he says to the clerk, "Hello! Charley, old fel, how are you? Got No. 16 for me"? And the clerk flashes his kohinoor and a smile on him as he shakes the gentleman's hand, pounds the nickel-plated call-bell and shouts, "John, take this gentleman's baggage to 16."

He flirts with the chambermaid, teases the bootblack and plays practical jokes on the regular boarders. He goes to bed late and sleeps so soundly that the porter wakes up people ten blocks away and shakes the plaster off the wall trying to inform him that the 4.20 train will start in ten minutes.

The drummer has much to worry him, yet he is usually good humored, although he sometimes expresses his feelings regarding the toughness of a beefsteak in language one would never think of attributing to the author of Watt's hymns.

A man saw a drummer in the wood, camping out under an umbrella.

"What are you doing hero?"

"I'm camping and living on spruce-gun, to save expenses," replied the drummer.

"What are you doing that for?"

"To bring up the average."

It seems the firm had allowed him a certain sum per day for expenses, and by riotous living he had gone beyond his daily allowance.

The chief end of the drummer is to sell goods, tell anecdotes and circulate the latest fashionable slang phrase.

He is an energetic and genial cuss, and we hope he will appreciate this notice and the fact that we have suppressed an almost uncontrollable impulse to say something about his cheek.

ALECK SWEET.

LONG LIVE OUR QUEEN.

To honor our noble, good Queen's Jubilee;
Let them re-echo from shore unto shore,
And we trust she may reign o'er us many years more.

SPRING FANCIES.

BY LON TENNIS-ON.

In the spring a young dude's fancy light-ly turns to cigarettes;
In the spring the dunning tailor wants the dude to pay his debts.
In the spring a fuller color comes upon the bummer's nose;
In the spring the clothing drummer takes his orders for fall clothes.
In the spring the rising freshet overflows the river banks;
In the spring "fresh poems on spring-time" are declined "with many thanks."

In the spring dear Arabella hugs and kisses her dear pa;
So she'll get a new spring bonnet, then she laughs a loud "ha! ha!!"
In the spring the boarding missis buys an ancient leg of ram,
Which she "springs" upon her boarders under nom de plume of "lam."
In the spring the old black tom cat for his dear "Mariar" calls;
And the night is filled with mew-sic of infernal cat-a-wauls.

FISHING AND SHOOTING.

The sportsman, fond of angling, can gratify his piscatorial taste at Hubley's on the St. Margaret's Bay Road, about 12 miles from the City, and 2 miles further, in Five Island Lake, there is excellent trout fishing. Good accommodation can be obtained at both Hubley's and Johnson's, where boats, guides, &c., will be furnished on application. En route don't forget to give Wilson a call. Mine host runs a first class house, and is deservedly popular. It is about six miles from the Head of the Arm.

Spider Lake, on the Waverly Road, about 8 miles from Dartmouth, is also noted for its trout fishing. On the Prospect Road there is White's Lake which is said to contain some fine sea trout. Marling's Lake, on the Sambro Road, about 12 miles distant, is another choice fishing rendezvous where you can always secure a good catch of small but gamey trout.

In Mill Lake, 28 miles distant, at Hubbard's Cove, there are some very large trout.

Parties fond of deep sea fishing can catch plenty of cod and haddock during the Summer months opposite McNab's Island. Boats can always be hired at the Market Slip.

Any further information in reference to fishing resorts will be cheerfully furnished by Messrs. Sarre & Son, George Street, vide advertisement on opposite page.

In the vicinity of Sheet Harbour, about 74 miles from Halifax, there is good moose hunting. Hammond's Plains is noted for woodcock, Cole Harbour and Laurencetown for snipe, and good duck shooting can be had anywhere along the coast. The season for woodcock and snipe shooting begins first of August, other game first of September. Any further information can be obtained from Mr. T. J. Egan on Lower Water Street, where visitors are welcome to examine his large and beautiful collection of stuffed birds, from the kingly eagle down to the tiniest specimen of feathered songsters. —vide Mr. E.'s advertisement in another column.

NARROW ESCAPE OF CLARA LOUISE.

I always had an ocean that a log would not sink, but it appears that when Kel-log was here she fell into the sea at Point Pleasant and, but for the timely rescue by her gallant young manager Stracosch, who plunged into the briny, she would have been drowned in the sad sea waves. Clara has been practicing on the "High C." long enough to be able to swim, and is rich enough to "float a-loan." An irreverent punster said that when she fell into the water the roar of the surf was not surficient to drown her—cries.

Dear Clara Louise, I don't wish to tease—
Don't you think you were more scared than hurt?
For the people all say it was nothing but spray
And Strac. didn't wet even his shirt—collar.

Why shed these tears of grief"?

The Lyceum has been recently repainted and thoroughly renovated. Messrs. Nannary & Fyffe brought down an excellent dramatic company, but I'm afraid their unwearied exertions to please will not be adequately rewarded. There is no reason why this theatre should not be patronized by the best classes; but the "dizzy" reputation of the past occupants is hard to eradicate.

HALIFAX SPORTS.

The Wanderers' Athletic Club contains some of the best all round athletes in the Maritime Provinces. Two of their cricketers, Henry and Fielding will be in the Canadian Team which is going to England this summer to test the supremacy of the willow with the English amateurs. The Wanderers have secured new grounds near the Public Gardens, which they purpose opening next summer.

Base-ball is a favorite game in Halifax. There are two Clubs, the Socials and Atlantas. They play on the Y. M. L. A. Base-ball grounds on Quinpool Road, near the Officers' Polo grounds.

Halifax has always been noted for its aquatic contests, and was justly proud of George Brown the single scull champion whose early death, in the zenith of his fame, was lamented by a large circle of friends who honored him for his sterling integrity as much as they admired him for his pluck and skill as a single sculler. He scorned a bribe to sell a race, and his name will go down to posterity as "Honest George Brown." Hamm, McKay and others have scored well earned victories in single scull contests.

Bedford Basin is a splendid sheet of water and admirably adapted for regattas.

LIKE OLD SHOES.

How much a man is like old shoes !
 For instance, both a sole may lose,
 Both have been tanned, both are made tight,
 By cobblers both get left and right,
 Both need a mate to be complete,
 And both are made to go on feet.
 With shoes, the last is first : with men,
 The first shall be the last ; And when
 The shoes wear out they're mended new ;
 When men wear out they're men dead too.
 They both need he ling, oft are sold,
 And both, in time, turn all to mold.
 They both are trod upon, and both
 Will tread on others, nothing loth.
 Both have their ties, and both incline,
 When polished, in the world to shine.
 They both peg out. Now would you choose
 To be a man or be his shoes ?

WORTH REMEMBERING.

The following simple rule enables anyone with the commonest mathematical education to ascertain the day of the week upon which any day of the month in this century fell or will fall on:

To the given year, rejecting the century, add its fourth part, rejecting the fraction. To this sum add the day of the month and the ratio for the given month, as per table below. Divide the sum by seven, and the remainder (not the quotient) will be the day of the week, counting Sunday as the first day. When there is no remainder it is Saturday:

TABLE OF RATIOS.

For January add	3	For July add	2
For February add	6	For August add	5
For March add	6	For September add	1
For April add	2	For October add	3
For May add	1	For November add	6
For June add	0	For December add	1
For Leap-Years—
For January add	2	For February add	5

The other months same as other table.

EXAMPLE.

Suppose we desire to ascertain what day of the week the 5th of April, 1841, fell on:

Put down	41
Add its fourth part	10
Add day of the month	5
Add ratio of month	2
Divided by	7)58(8
	56
Remainder	2

The answer is Monday, the second day of the week.

HOW TO TELL THE AGE OF ANY PERSON.

There is a good deal of amusement in the following magical table of figures. It will enable you to tell how old the young ladies are. Just hand this table to a young lady and request her to tell you in which column or columns her age is contained, and add together the figures at the top of the columns in which her age is found, and you have the great secret. Thus, suppose her age to be 17, you will find that number in the first and fifth columns; add the first figures of these two columns. Here is the magic table:—
