"KYRA," OR,
The Ward of the Earl of Vering.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Conclusion.

A couch, covered with furs, had been drawn beside the fireplace, and a little alcove, made of screens, served to back up the throne—for no queen's ascension to a throne aroused profounder joy among her subjects than did Kyra's return to life, and the ways of life, among the members of the Grange household.

Excitement reigned below and above stairs; a calm and a joyous serenity were to be found in the bedroom in which the heroine of the county was being invested with her dainty satin dressing-robe. At last, leaning upon the loving arm of her sister, Mary Morival, she descended the broad stairs and made her half-way journey back to life again.

At the door of the luxurious little room she turned to Charlie and asked him, with a smile, if she might look over the balustrade.

"Yes, if you like," said outspoken Charlie; "but you won't see him; he is in the library waiting for permission to come up."

Whereupon, Kyra blushed a vivid crimson and retreated within the room, and Lady Mary indignantly pushed the too-candid youth downstairs. Then ensued that delicious quarter of an hour when the convalescent looked round the room and admired the old, familiar objects which she never expected to see again, and learns how sweet life is, and of how much enjoyment she is still capable. It is a short, sweet quarter of an hour, and then, as Kyra leans back with a happy sigh and closed eyes, Lady Mary steals out of the room, and Percy steals in and takes her place. No need to raise the white, languid lids, with their long, dark fringe; she knows who has come; the mystic, sympathetic thrill has run through her, and she lies incapable of anything but a sweet, longing blush.

Percy stands and devours her with his eyes for a brief, sweet moment, then bends over her and takes her to his heart.

"Kyra, Kyra, look up! I am here!" Very slowly she opens her eyes, and fixes that old, sweet look of divine tenderness and passion upon him.

Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

"Percy, I have come back to you!" "Yes!" he whispers. "Ahl! but have you? or is it only a dream; shall we both wake the next minute?" She holds out her long, graceful arms with an ineffable smile.

"Yes? Then wake here!" And, as he sinks on one knee beside her, she it is who takes him to her heart, and lays his face upon the little red scarf, which is the living seal of her love.

They have changed places from henceforth. It is he who is glorified and succored by her love; it is she who makes all the world seem sweet to him, and the days one dream of joy.

It is she who plots for his comfort and happiness; who lies awake of nights that she may think, in the quietude of the stars, of the great joy that has befallen her. These two will never sink into the dull dreariness of the commonplace married couple; not while the remembrance of those white plains and faraway forests serves to bring before them the birth of their passion and the forecast of their happiness.

There is no elixir of life unto love, and it is only with life that the love of Percy and Kyra will close.

THE END.

WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER I.

Something of a Mystery.

"At all events, you have got your price for it," said Mr. Vanley, as if rather tired of the subject, "and I"—with a grave smile—"should in all probability have beaten you down."

"I'd rather you had bought it at half the price," murmured Mr. Sparrow, meekly.

"Well, well," said Mr. Vanley, almost impatiently. "It is too late now, and—there's an end of the matter." He turned to the pair at the piano, and regarded them for a moment. "I shall be in the library if you want to see me before you go, Bradstone," he said.

Bartley Bradstone looked over his shoulder carelessly—too carelessly for a young man addressing his senior.

"All right," he said, "I'll look in as I go."

CHAPTER II.

"The Cherub."

Mr. Vanley was not only Bartley Bradstone's senior, but his superior in looks and status.

The Vanleys had held Hawkwood Grange for centuries, and there was no name better known in Devonshire than that which the squire bore. Twice a baronetage and once a peerage had been offered to the Vanleys; but to a Vanley the old English and old Devonshire title of "Squire" was too dear to be exchanged for any other, though it might be higher rank; and so Squire Vanley, the master of the Grange, refused, and certainly was not the less respected for his refusal of a peerage.

While as to Mr. Bartley Bradstone, as the French wit remarked, "He may have had a grandfather, but no one has yet been found credulous enough to believe it!"

Five years before this notable afternoon, Mr. Bradstone had purchased an estate within three miles of the Grange. Perhaps it would be as well to be exact, and explain that he had loaned money on the place, and, foreclosing, got possession of it.

An old, but rather ramshackle house stood upon it—a house quite large enough for a bachelor, by the way—but Mr. Bradstone pulled it down, and in its place built a huge mansion which, by its highly florid architecture, was far more suitable to South Kensington than North Devon.

It was a tremendous place, all gables and turrets, and being built of red brick, with white stone facings, was terribly conspicuous. Olivia had remarked, the first time she saw it, which happened to be on a blazing hot day, that "no one ought to look upon it, except through green spectacles." And she added that it would be useful in winter—to warm one's hands at!

The interior was decorated and furnished in strict accordance with the very latest canons of the very latest art craze; and, as if to atone for the red glare of the exterior, the inside was cold and repelling.

Mr. Bartley Bradstone, however, considered it perfection; and here he settled down. The country people were shy of him at first. Devonshire is celebrated for apples, cider and—exclusiveness. Nothing was known of the newcomer, excepting that he was rich; there was no doubt about that—immense rich; and those who had been thrown into his company were not prepossessed by him. There was that look in his eyes, for one thing; and, for another, with all his careful dressing and studiously "correct" manners, Mr. Bartley Bradstone did not seem, to the very particular country people, to be—well, exactly a gentleman.

But after a time the squire, who had met him once or twice in the market town, seen him at church, touched his hat to him at the meet—of course the squire was the master of the hounds—at last the squire made a formal call upon Mr. Bartley Bradstone at The Maples, as he called the red monstrosity.

That which was good enough for Squire Vanley was, of course, good enough for the rest of the country people, and Mr. Bartley Bradstone was not only asked out to dinner, but, greater honor still, had the gratification of seeing the best people of the neighborhood round his own—new—mahogany.

He gave good dinners—too good, it was whispered; too many covers, too many wines, with too much plate, and too many servants.

"It's a pity," remarked Lord Carfield to the squire, as they walked home after one of Mr. Bartley's dinners, "that there is no one to caution these parvenus against overdoing it. Give you my word, Vanley, I felt all the evening as if I were dining at one of those new hotels in London, where they give you twelve courses, served in a gaudy room, all gilt and white paint, and play music at you all the time. I suppose you have twice as much plate? I have some"—the Carfield plate was the boast of that part of Devonshire—"but we never think of making a silversmith's counter of our dinner-table every time we ask a neighbor to dinner."

"He means well," said the squire. "Just so," said the old lord. "That makes it all the worse. It's a hopeless case."

They were near neighbors, and an intimacy sprang up between Mr. Bartley Bradstone, the millionaire, and the Squire of Hawkwood. The young man would ride over—on a long park horse, which he rode abominably!—to the Grange in the morning, and was often easily persuaded to stop to lunch. Sometimes he would remain to dinner, a servant being sent to The Maples for Mr. Bradstone's evening clothes. Miss Amelia quite liked him, and the squire, as has been said, was intimate with him; but he made no way with Olivia. From the first moment she had seen him, when her frank eyes had rested upon his restless, shifting ones, she had kept him at a distance, so to speak.

If her father had brought home the village sweep to dinner, she would have treated him courteously and extended a welcome to him; and that is all she did to Bartley Bradstone.

White he—! He was as much in love with Olivia Vanley as utterly selfish man can be, and he had sworn to himself that he would have her. Now, Bartley Bradstone, though he was not a gentleman, though he over-dressed, gave too elaborate dinners, and made occasional mistakes in etiquette, was both rich and clever. The man who had bought him for a fool would have lost his money. Olivia, who despised him, was wrong in doing so. She should have been on her guard and—feared him. All the while Mr. Sparrow was repeating his story to Mr. Vanley, Bartley Bradstone was talking in an undertone to her.

"It's just a simple picnic, a rough affair, but I'll promise you shan't be bored, Miss Vanley," he said. "The squire is coming, and he told me—that is, he said I might ask you. I hope you will come. Lord Carfield is coming, and has promised to bring his son, Viscount Granville. Lord Granville arrives at his father's to-night. You know him—the viscount, I mean?"

"Bertie Granville? Oh, yes. 'The Cherub,' as he is called."

"That's the man," said Bartley Bradstone, with a faint flush. He would not have dared to call him "Bertie" or "The Cherub." "Well, he is coming, and I hope to persuade Miss Amelia, too. But the whole thing will be spoilt if you refuse."

Olivia looked at him from under her lids—the look which makes a man—that is, if he has a sensitive skin—feel as if he had been struck by a whip. "I don't quite see how my absence could spoil your picnic, Mr. Bradstone," she said, coldly.

He lowered his restless eyes, and caught at his upper lip with his teeth. They were whole and even, but rather too large.

"I mean that it would be spoilt for me," he said, and added, nervously, "and—for the rest, of course. Please say 'Yes,' Miss Vanley."

Olivia looked straight before her, with that expression in her eyes which belongs to the unfettered maiden spirit. "I will see," she said, calmly. "You are not listening to Mr. Sparrow's story, Mr. Bradstone."

He was too wise to press her further, and at once turned away toward the old lawyer, and listened to him for a moment or two; then he turned to the door with a contemptuous laugh.

"You've sold your property to some fellow who is in hiding from his tailor, Mr. Sparrow," he said. "Pity you didn't sell it to me; I'd have given you twice the sum for it this man has given. Shouldn't be surprised if we had the police down here directly looking for him. 'Pon my word, you ought to be more careful, Mr. Sparrow," and with a patronizing nod he left the room, pausing for a minute or two to present his invitation to Miss Amelia.

This last straw broke down Mr. Sparrow's back, and shortly afterward he took himself off, feeling that he had, by selling his property to the mysterious unknown, not only offended his neighbor, but actually lost money!

Select Medicine Carefully.

Purgatives are dangerous. They gripe, cause burning pains and make the constipated condition worse. Physicians say the most ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; they are exceedingly mild, composed only of health-giving vegetable extracts. Dr. Hamilton's Pills restore activity to the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and purify the blood. For constipation, sick headache, biliousness and disordered digestion no medicine on earth makes such remarkable cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c. box yourself.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Is it proper to have cards engraved 'Mr. and Mrs.'," inquired Mrs. Green.

"The old custom has been of having 'Mr. and Mrs.'" This simplifies matters generally, as a woman leaves one of these cards and one of her husband's cards when making a call, said her aunt.

News of Disaster in Which K. Met Death Comes as Shock to C. D. Chetwynd.

Few people who read of the trophies in last night's edition of Express-Advertiser of the loss of H. M. S. Hampshire, a cruiser of the British North American squadron which were reported as lost by the British War Office, realized how near home the news received with shocking horror in Portland and in the district did the news come as a blow to the family of Mr. C. D. Chetwynd of 45 Beacon Street. On the cruiser Hampshire was carrying the world's party from London to Archangels.

Our Baseball Column.

PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

The Baseball game yesterday between the Cubs and Wanderers for the H. D. Reid Cup at the Mt. Castled Garden Party attracted a large number of the visitors there. The game, however, was very disappointing, in view of the exhibition which these two teams gave when they met in the regular League show time ago, it was thought yesterday would have witnessed a fast and exciting match. It was a cinch for the Wanderers from start to finish, who played their regular consistent game, whereas the Cubs' fielding was worthy of beginners and they failed to connect in pinches. Even "Demon Dug" was unable to "pull any of his big League stuff" though his efforts were spectacular, if not effective. The score was:

Wanderers	2	0	8	0	x-10
Cubs	0	0	0	1	0-1
The lineups were:	Cubs
Wanderers	P.	Cubs
King	1b.	Hall
Britt	2b.	Clouston
Hartnett	3b.	St. John
Hocken	ss.	Duggan
McCrindle	lf.	Orr
McLeod	cf.	Lehr
McLean	rf.	Carter
Hunt	c.	Tessier
Brien	if.	Murphy

Inning 1.—The Cubs went to bat with Murphy facing King; he connected but failed to reach first; Hall also hit but died before reaching the post of which Tim was custodian. St. John waved his bat three futile times in the air. McLeod was first man up for the Wanderers and was given a walk by Claude; McLeod flied; McLean hit but failed to attain the object of his desires; Britt then hit out a two-bagger scoring McCrindle, followed by Hocken who repeated the same stunt bringing home Britt safely; Hartnett flied reaching first. Wanderers 2, Cubs 0.

Inning 2.—Orr hit safely, as did also Lehr, but both were left on third and second respectively when King pulled his favorite one-two-three stunt on Duggan, Clouston and Carter. Brien died in a desperate attempt to reach first; Hunt fanned; King made a nice hit but when McCrindle failed to connect the side was retired. Wanderers 2, Cubs 0.

Inning 3.—Tessier's pop-fly was quickly grabbed; Murphy bugged out a nice liner but was left reposing on third when Hall and St. John got three strikes across each. Then a little shower of rain played havoc as usual with the Cubs, and the Wanderers started their preparations, peroxide. The three "Maes"—Crindle, Leod, and Lean laid down nicely placed hits; Britt fanned; Hocken smote another two bagger followed by Hartnett who also put the ball in the bushes for two bases. Brien gently tapped it without risk with the score card marked with ditto for Hunt and King. McCrindle got on first again for his second time at bat in this short innings; McLeod failed to swat the old pill, but McLean winged it to the outfield. He was left on second when Britt was caught by Lehr. Truly it was some batting feat. Wanderers, 10; Cubs, 0.

Inning 4.—Orr singled but Lehr's bunt failed; Duggan took his three chances against Clouston, singled scoring Orr but was left on first when Carter's weak hit to King retired the side.

Hocken hit, followed by Hartnett; when Brien singled the Cubs pulled off the only piece of baseball they played for the afternoon when they worked a doubleplay on Hocken and Hartnett; Hunt failed to find Hall. Wanderers, 10; Cubs, 1.

Innings 5.—King decided to end the Cubs' agony, and retired Tessier, Murphy and Hall in quick succession. The Wanderers did not play their last half of the fifth as with the score 10 to 1 in their favour it was not necessary.

NOTES.

Orr and St. John of the Cubs were in excellent form but did not receive any support.

Claude Hall did not seem to have any hop on the ball, and was easy picking apparently for the Wanderers to select the nice ones.

Dick Hocken was easily the star of the victors, though the whole team worked well and handed out a good brand of ball.

The Wanderers are now the proud possessors of the H. D. Reid trophy for the second time, having won it before in 1914.

We offer our hearty congratulation to Mr. Hartnett and his crew.

"Chief" Chesman and "Doc" Smith controlled the game very efficiently, while the genial Mr. P. E. Outerbridge made the score sheets to everybody's entire satisfaction as usual.

News of Disaster in Which Kitchener Met Death Comes as Shock to Mrs. C. D. Chetwynd.

Few people who read of the catastrophe in last night's edition of the Express-Advertiser of the sinking of the H. M. S. Hampshire, a cruiser of the British North American squadron on which were reported as lost Earl Kitchener, the British War Minister, and other prominent British officials, realized how near home the news was received with shocking horror, as right in Portland and in the Deering district did the news come as a terrible blow to the family of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Chetwynd of 45 Beacon Street. On the cruiser Hampshire which was carrying the world renowned party from London to Archangel, Russia, via the northern coast of Norway was Harold Chaplin, a brother of Mrs. C. D. Chetwynd, who was an officer, a navy surgeon, and is believed to have gone down with the ship as everyone was reported lost in the official report of Admiral Jellicoe.

Mr. C. D. Chetwynd who told the representative of the Express-Advertiser this morning of how near home the great catastrophe came, said it is the second brother that his wife has lost in this great conflict, as Jack, her younger brother, died while in the training camp of the Newfoundland contingent in Northern Scotland, last year from illness, and the recent news on top of the other came as a dreadful shock.

Surgeon Harold Chaplin, was a native of St. John's, Newfoundland, and at the outbreak of the war enlisted in the British navy as a surgeon, having graduated from St. Thomas Hospital, London. At first he was assigned to a hospital ship running from Calais to London across the British Channel and in several letters to his sister in this city described many thrilling events which he had witnessed. In one letter in particular he told of a huge German Zeppelin which flew over the hospital ship on which he was stationed and tried to drop bombs on the ship. One he told his sister struck within 100 yards of their mark.

Several months ago he was transferred to the fatal Hampshire on which he was supposed to have met his death. The last letter which Mr. and Mrs. Chetwynd received was prior to his trip and was written from Belfast, Ireland.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. John S. Rowseil, of Bonavista, begs to thank the very many friends who have telegraphed or written so kindly to him and to Mrs. Rowseil on the occasion of the death of their son, Lester H. J. Rowseil, from wounds received in the action at St. John's Wood, in France.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other Liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. The Roll of Honour.

It has been a sad month for Newfoundland. The first shock fell almost wholly upon St. John's, but it was plain but the forerunner of sorrow to the whole island. The long interval of silence that followed the receipt of the list of fallen officers could describe very few, while it added greatly, though unavoidably, to the anxiety of all. It thus increased in a measure the weight of the blow that has at last fallen, and great and universal is the sympathy that will go out to those whose worst fears have been confirmed.

A glance at the list will show how terribly severe the loss is. As might have been expected it is greatest in St. John's, more than a score of the names being from the city; but every district of the island contributes to the honourable roll. Some may have been better known than others and be more widely mourned, but all leave behind them empty places and aching hearts. These brave men were of the rank and file; where their officers led they did not hesitate to follow. They have received their promotion. Words are little things at a time like this. To those bereaved we can only offer what sympathy we may. We shall not be censured if we offer it first and in the fullest measure to the mothers of the fallen lads. We have shared in the admiration of the world of the part that womankind have taken upon themselves to bear in this Armageddon, a part nobly greater than that which was expected of them. War is to them a strange and terrible thing; it demands the sacrifice of much that they hold dearest to a cause of which they only instinctively grasp the meaning. But the sacrifice itself has a depth and meaning to them which no man can ever fashion or appreciate. To bear it in silence, as all our mothers do, is a heroic which no deed on the battle field surpasses. A mother's grief for her son is the saddest and the noblest gift of war.

Pozieres.

We have several times dwelt upon the importance of this position. Its capture by the British brings their operations a long way forward. It has been effected in unexpectedly speedy time since the first serious assault. The credit appears to belong chiefly to the Australians; Britain is certainly well represented by her colonies on the West front.

We have now established our line from Pozieres through Bazentin and Longueval, and completed the first stage of the advance upon Bapaume. The road thither is commanded by our guns, and the more important plateau as well. The British will now press on their offensive with renewed vigour and confidence. The importance and magnitude of the reduction of Pozieres may be gauged by the strength of the defence opposed by the Germans, who even withdrew troops from Verdun for the purpose.

Read with the reports from the other fronts, the news makes good reading. As did Erzerum, the stronghold of Erzingan has fallen almost before we were aware it was being attacked. The utmost we knew was that the Russians were advancing in force towards it. The brave announcement from Berlin that Turkish forces have been sent to the Danube will be received with some amusement in the light of the fall of Erzingan. It is true, they will probably be bundled back again post haste. The condition of Turkey is almost critical. Only the summer heat and Russia's concentration upon her European operations have saved Turkey from the Grand Duke, but he is under way again in earnest. Probably he will not extend his activities for the present further south in the region of

Charged With Receiving Stolen Goods

An East End tinsmith was summoned to court to-day by Detective Tophin charged with buying lead from three boys who were convicted a few days ago and sent to jail for stealing the material from the Chronicle building. The evidence showed that the defendant did not know the lead was stolen and that he paid five cents a pound for it. The charge against the defendant was dismissed.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Archibald and their little boy, accompanied by Miss Rose Archibald arrived from Vancouver by yesterday's train.

The concert held by the company from the School for the Blind at Halifax, in St. Paul's Hall last night was a grand success. The building was completely filled, so much so that by request the company will appear again to-night in an entirely new programme. The concert was indeed a treat to the audience. We cannot help mentioning one of the company—Mr. Peterson—who kept the audience in the happiest mood by his comic songs, etc. All the performers did excellently.

Mr. Max Parsons of the Bank of Nova Scotia, St. John's, is in town spending his holidays with his parents and his many friends.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, lately assisting Mr. Fort at the railway station here is now working in the same capacity with Mr. F. Maher at the station, Carbonear.

There are still a number of cases of measles in town, but we hear from one of our medical men that the epidemic is on the decrease.

Good mutton was sold in town on Friday and Saturday last at 14 cents per pound.

A very large number of people from the outlying settlements were in town early to-day selling strawberries, 40c a gallon was the general price asked for this delicious fruit.

Mr. John Weir, the Secretary of the company travelling in the interest of the Blind Institution, went to St. John's by this morning's train on important business we are informed. CORRESPONDENT.

The Turn of the Tide.

(From the New York Evening Post.)
The statement by David Lloyd George that Great Britain has now a free-flowing supply of all the guns and ammunition needed goes well with the steady offensive of the British armies. Lloyd George, in all the first year and a half of the war, never prophesied smooth things to his countrymen. He consistently warned them that they were in danger of failing, and repeatedly dwelt upon the fact that Germany was beating them in the explosive-factories and the gun-foundries, as well as in the field. All the more credit, then, is to be given to his present assertion that the great problem of manufacturing for the war has been solved. His reference to the surprise which Russia had given the German General Staff by the unexpected fall of equipment of her armies, seems to bear out the hints we have had that England has sent much artillery and vast stores of shells through Archangel. It is true, as Lloyd George said, that the military initiative has now passed from Germany to the Allies. Even German newspapers speak to-day of German soldiers fighting with their backs to the wall. Major Morath warns his readers that the battles on the western front are critical for Germany. Such things, with the obvious facts always before their eyes, must tend to bring about in the minds of Germans a profound change. It is not that their spirit is broken, or their patriotic determination weakened, but that they see their early hopes definitely destroyed, with no prospect whatever of being able to impose a peace on their enemies by their own victorious arms.

THE INVICTUS

A shoe for well-dressed men. Costs enough to insure a perfect shoe, but is as low as a shoe of this character can be sold. Seen beside a cheaper shoe, the difference is unmistakable. Men who want appearance, satisfying wear, and solid comfort, should wear the "Invictus shoe."

Two Leading LEATHERWARE Lines

In Shoes; Low Prices and Cheapness

Are as far apart as the Poles. Cheapness in Shoes does not depend upon their price, but upon the service they give. To maintain the Low Price of cheap shoes it is necessary to use even more inferior leather than usual. That can only result in one thing—less service—less wear—therefore less economy. No substitution of inferior stock has been made in either of our two Leading Lines for Men and Women.

ON ALL FRONTS.
LONDON, July 26. The Allies are able to congratulate themselves on another good day's record, with the capture of the important position of Pozieres on the Western front, and Erzincan in Armenia, while the Russian General Sakharoff in the fighting on the Stoneva River, has captured another 4,000 prisoners and five guns. The British Secretary of War, Lloyd George, published a statement to-night which shows the importance of the German attack on the retention of Pozieres, by quoting from a German divisional order, issued at Contalmaison, on July 11th, as follows: "Furthermore, the conversion of the villages into strong points is of greatest importance. Such villages are Pozieres, Contalmaison and the two Bazanoffs and Longueval." Secretary Lloyd George points out that with the capture of Pozieres the last of these villages and places into the Allies hands. He further points out that to-day's German claim of the repulse of an attack on Trones Wood must be a clerical error, as Trones Wood has been in British possession since July 14. The opinion of military critics in London is that no positions so strong as those the British are now attacking will be found between Pozieres and Bapaume, otherwise, they argue, the Germans would not have risked bringing troops and guns from the Verdun sector to defend Pozieres. It is inferred from indications in official despatches that the British are already beginning to establish themselves on both sides of the road from Pozieres to Bapaume.

As on the West front, the German and Austrians appear to be unable to make a successful stand anywhere against the victorious Russian forces. General Sakharoff's recent success has brought him within about twelve miles of Brody, which guards the approaches to Lemberg and places into Bothmer's army in danger. The unexpectedly swift fall of Erzincan leads to the supposition here that the Turks must have evacuated the town from the defences of this town to assist the armies in the field, not anticipating such a rapid Russian advance in such a difficult country. The Italian front attracts little public interest, but the Italians recently have been making good progress in Dolomites region.

BRITISH CAPTURE POZIERES.
LONDON, July 26. The village of Pozieres has been completely captured by the British according to an official announcement made to-day. The text of the statement follows: "The whole village of Pozieres is now in our hands. We of the village our territorial troops made a further advance and captured two strong trenches and a number of prisoners, including five officers. Elsewhere on the battlefield there is no change." The capture of Pozieres gives British troops domination of the highest point overlooking the plateau on which the German lines extend to the eastward.

ERZINCAN EVACUATED.
LONDON, July 26. Erzincan, a strongly fortified Turkish town in General Armenia, has been evacuated by Turks.

Her Friends (?) Advice.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A letter friend is in a queer quandary. She is the mother of two boys, whom she has tried to bring up to the best of her ability. Some friends (?) have offered this startling criticism — "It is a pity playing with the boys as we do and all mingling together, we will lose our influence over them." Can you equal it? Who has more influence over the boy who spends his time away from home—his boy companions or his parents? We all know the answer to that, and a sad answer it often is. Who Has The Most Influence With A Boy? Who, then, is going to have the greatest influence with these boys? Their companions, of course, who are in this case those who love them best. But I didn't take up the subject to prove a point which is practically an axiom (interfering friends to the contrary). I've just mentioned it as an introduction to the picture of her home life which my letter friend has given me: "I have two boys, twelve and fourteen years of age. They are great home-loving boys. The oldest one is a great reader. We have always tried to give him the best of books; his father reads the same books and magazines he reads, to try to keep up with his reading. The Kind of Home Other Children Come To. "Nearly every day some of his boy companions come home from school with him; they take the afternoon up in reading. "The other one also brings his companions home with him; they indulge in games such as rook, checkers and many other house games. They play the piano, cornet, violin and bugle; both being scout boys, of course they love a bugle. "We have always tried as best we could to make their home as pleasant as possible, although we only have a little bungalow. Clean Rugs Versus Clean Hearts. "Their father and I have always been more companions than parents. It is not that we forbid them to run the streets, but they stay in because they say we have a better time at home. People sometimes ask why I allow the boys to bring their company home in all kinds of weather in mud and snow. Well, they are always happy to be here, and I say to myself that with a little trouble I can clean the druggets, and I know where the boys are and that they are happy, which makes me happy. "After the boys leave, my boys are looking forward to the night coming of their father, and after supper they all play rook until about ten o'clock. Then follows the question I quoted. She signs her appeal, "An anxious mother." I don't think she needs to be. On the contrary, I think she might have written her experience for the benefit of other mothers and (with the one alteration that the boys ought to have a little more fresh air and go to bed a little earlier), she might have called it "The Experience of a Perfectly Successful Mother."

Enjoy your meals by taking a teaspoonful of Stafford's Prescription "A" before eating. Price 25c. and 50c. Postage 5 and 10c. extra.—July 22, 1916

North Dakota.

By GEORGE FITCH. Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

North Dakota is a broad, flat state with a mind of its own, when LaPollette isn't using it, and about enough history to fill a sovereign postal card. It was discovered in 1870, massacred in the fifties, admitted to the Union in 1889, and has had several blizzards and a presidential primary. More about North Dakota's history would be a waste of words.

North Dakota is part of the old territory of Dakota which was taken into the Union in two gulps, viz.: North and South Dakota. The former has 70,000 square miles, which are sowed to wheat each year, and a population that looks at the baseball score. When wheat is a bumper crop North Dakota puts storage tanks around its national banks, but when the spring is dry a book agent could walk across the state without getting a chance to take out his prospectus.

North Dakota is also noted for its vast ranches and farms. Laramie once worth $5 a township, and those far-sighted men who bought a few thousand dollars' worth, now have farms so big that it takes four men on ponies to get the morning paper out of the R. F. D. box at the front gate before it is stale.

North Dakota was first noticed by Jim Hill about thirty years ago. He built the Great Northern across the upper end and has since built so many branches into the wheat fields that the road looks like the skeleton of a trout on the map.

Being just under the Canadian border, North Dakota is plentifully supplied with winter, which begins shortly after September, and lasts until the thermometer often drops to 50 degrees below in the state, but nobody minds it because it usually drops to this mark from 45 degrees below. The snowfall is very liberal, especially on the railroad tracks, and all summer long officials keep discovering trains which were mislaid during January. North Dakota afternoons last until tea o'clock in the summer and the people spend them reading progressive literature. The state is so progressive that it regards Roosevelt as a conservative.

HARVEST TIME.

Arise and work a spell in binding neighbour! The farmers call for men to labor. A thousand miles of wheat is standing, the strength of harvesters demanding. The farmers shriek for husky fellows who're sound in wind and limb and bellows, to toll behind the clanging reaper—get busy, then, O dreamer, sleeper! Alas, you will not lift a finger! Around the village pump you linger; to honest toil you are not partial; you'd rather roast the statesman Marshall, or prove that Woodrow Wilson's record in politics is gravely checked, or show that Hughes is unbecomingly by his antipathy to shaming, than go forth where the harvest fages, and gather in a prince's wages. The wheat is spooling, say the grangers.

ers; exposed to multiplying dangers, because there are not men to reap it, and in the shocks and windrows heap it. It surely seems a crime and pity that every village, town and city, must have its string of idle talkers when fields of wheat are needing shockers. Small Patrol Took German Field Fort.

Nine Frenchmen, by Clever Ruse, Frightened Garrison of Baches Fort into Complete Surrender.
Paris, July 19.—One of the most striking episodes of the great Somme offensive was the taking of the field fort at Baches and the garrison of one hundred and thirteen men by nine French soldiers. The fort had resisted throughout the artillery bombardment and the infantry attacks had been checked by numerous machine gun fire.

By a lucky chance a French officer discovered the precious secret that the terrible bombardment had made the fort vulnerable at one point. Selecting a second lieutenant, two sergeants, a corporal and four men, he led them on hands and knees through the long grass to the spot where he knew there was a breach in the defences. They reached their objective point without the Germans learning of their approach.

Rushed in Boldly.
Abruptly three of the French officers, leaped into the work shouting in stentorian tones "forward with the bayonet," and throwing bombs which exploded in the dugout. The other six daring Frenchmen remained behind ready to retreat if the attempt failed.

But the Germans, taken unawares, had no time to get their weapons, and surrendered almost without a show of fight. When one of their number fell shot by a revolver fired point blank by the commanding French officer, the Germans, one hundred and thirteen in all, came out of their shelters and threw up their hands, the French assert.

The three French captors now began to feel nervous as they saw no reason why the Germans should not fall upon them and exterminate them. But at this moment the other six hurried in. Their resolute energy imposed upon the Germans who believed that the new arrivals were followed by many others. The German officers in the fort then threw down their arms and the entire garrison was marched to the French rear, escorted by the nine captors, who had not lost a man.

ON ALL FRONTS.

LONDON, July 26. The Allies are able to congratulate themselves on another good day's record, with the capture of the important position of Pozieres on the Western front, and Erzingan in Armenia, while the Russian General Sakharoff in the fighting on the Stoneva River, has captured another 4,000 prisoners and five guns. The British Secretary of War, Lloyd George, published a statement to-night which shows the importance of the Germans attached to the retention of Pozieres, by quoting from a German divisional order, issued at Contalmaison, on July 11th, as follows: "Furthermore, the conversion of the villages into strong points is of greatest importance. Such villages are Pozieres, Contalmaison and the two Bazanins and Longueval. Secretary Lloyd George points out that with the capture of Pozieres the last of these villages has fallen into the hands of the Allies. He further points out that to-day's German claim of the repulse of an attack on Trones Wood must be a clerical error, as Trones Wood has been in British possession since July 14. The opinion of military critics in London is that no position so strong as those the British are now attacking will be found between Pozieres and Bapaume, otherwise, they argue, the Germans would not have risked bringing troops and guns from the Verdun sector to defend Pozieres. It is inferred from indications in official despatches that the British are already beginning to establish themselves on both sides of the road from Pozieres to Bapaume.

As on the West front, the Germans and Austrians appear to be unable to make a successful stand anywhere against the victorious Russian forces. General Sakharoff's recent success has brought him within about twelve miles of Brody, which guards the approaches to Lemberg and places Von Bothmer's army in danger. The unexpectedly swift fall of Erzingan leads to the supposition here that the Turks must have removed the guns from the defences of this town to assist the armies in the Caucasus. Anticipating such a rapid Russian advance in such a difficult country. The Italian front attracts little public interest, but the Italians recently have been making good progress in Dolomites region.

BRITISH CAPTURE POZIERES.
LONDON, July 26. The village of Pozieres has been completely captured by the British, according to an official announcement made to-day. The text of the statement follows: The whole village of Pozieres is now in our hands. West of the village our territorial troops made a further advance and captured two strong trenches and a number of prisoners, including five officers. Elsewhere on the battlefield there is no change. The capture of Pozieres gives the British troops domination of the highest point overlooking the plateau on which the German lines extend to the eastward.

ERZINGAN EVACUATED.
LONDON, July 26. Erzingan, a strongly fortified Turkish town in General Armenia, has been evacuated by Turks.

BRITISH DREADNOUGHT TORPEDOED.

SMALL STEAMER ATTACKED.
LONDON, July 26. With reference to the German statement that a submarine had torpedoed a British Dreadnought off Orkney Islands lands July 20th, the British Admiralty stated that a small auxiliary steamer, off the north of Scotland, was attacked by a submarine. She was not hit.

"IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS."

BERLIN, July 26. Important developments are impending on the southeast front and they will soon be seen on the Danube too. This was the cryptic utterance of the Chief of the Intelligence Department at a luncheon to American correspondents at German Headquarters last Sunday. The Associated Press is now able to add that Turkey had placed a force of Ottoman troops at the disposition of the Central Powers for service in Europe. These troops are now in transit through the Balkans, and leading detachments are already approaching Galicia where they will co-operate with the Austro-Germans against the Russians.

NOT FIRING OF THE WAR.

LONDON, July 26. "Great Britain is not firing of the war, but on the contrary has never been more hopeful," said Lord Derby, former Director of Recruiting, and now Under Secretary for War, in an interview to-night.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, July 26. A British official to-night says: With the exception of occasional artillery duels and sharp local encounters at various points, there was no important incident to-day.

WILL ASSIST ON CONDITIONS.

LONDON, July 26. The British Government, it was learned to-day, will consent to a plan for ratioling the civilian population in areas occupied by the German and Austrian armies, under the supervision of a neutral commission appointed by President Wilson, if the Central Powers will consent not to remove native food supplies. The plan will be given Ambassador Page in a letter from the Foreign Office this week.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

NO OBJECTION RAISED.

LONDON, July 26. No objection has been raised by the British Government to any proposed visit of certain American citizens of repute to Ireland for philanthropic purposes, Lord Robert Cecil, the Minister of War Trade informed Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist member for Northwest Meath, in reply to a question in the Commons.

AMSTERDAM, July 26. The Telegraph is authority for the statement that bread tickets will shortly be introduced in Holland.

HEAVY FIRING REPORTED.

LONDON, July 26. Reports of prolonged firing being heard coming from the Gulf of Bothnia on Monday, are printed in Stockholm newspapers. No details are given.

IRISH REVOLT IN COMMONS.

LONDON, July 26. The first symptoms of the expected Irish revolt in the Commons as a consequence of the deadlock of Lloyd George's negotiations, broke out in the Commons last night on the report stage of a series of votes on supply bills, the ordinary course of which would have been purely formal procedure. The House was nearly empty and a handful of Nationalists twice seized the opportunity to attempt to discuss in a general manner the rule in Ireland. When they were declared out of order by the Speaker, they were led to believe, in referring to the Government to summon members from the lobbies to vote.

An exciting scene, indicative of the strong feeling which prevails among the Irish members, took place in the Commons to-night, when Timothy Healey charged the Government with arresting 2,000 innocent persons in the course of the Irish rebellion, and treating them with a cruelty and ferocity which even German troops had not shown in Belgium. The Home Secretary replied that Healey's administration started the Sinn Fein organization in Ireland, and therefore he was the father of the movement. The Speaker then called Healey to order for irrelevance, but did not refuse the request of Sir Herbert L. Samsel, the Home Secretary, for permission to reply to the charges made by Healey. Secretary Samuel characterized the charges as utterly unfounded, and denied vigorously that prisoners had been ill-treated or placed in solitary confinement, as alleged. The Home Secretary said he would leave the House to judge the value of Healey's allegations.

REACHED THE ICE FIELD.

BACCS, July 26. According to a message received to-day, Lieut. Shackleton, the British Antarctic explorer, has reached the ice field in his effort to rescue the twenty-two men left on Elephant Island last April. The relief party left Punta Arenas on board the schooner Amma, which was to be towed as far south as possible by a Chilean Government steamer, after which it was the intention of the explorer to continue the search for his marooned companions.

PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT.

SANTA DOMINGO, July 26. Frederico Carvajal was proclaimed Provisional President of Santo Domingo to-day.

CIVIL LORD.

LONDON, July 26. Earl Lytton has been appointed Civil Lord of the Admiralty, replacing the Duke of Devonshire, who has been designated Governor-General of Canada.

PATROL'S GOOD WORK.

LONDON, July 26. In a report to the Admiralty, reviewing the work of the patrol since December, 1915, and recommending a number of officers for meritorious conduct, Vice-Admiral Bason, Commander of Patrol, says: In the six months, more than 21,000 merchant ships, apart from men of war and auxiliaries, passed through the patrol lines. Of these only 21 were lost or seriously damaged by enemy vessels; but to effect this security to merchant shipping, says the Admiral, I regret over four per cent. of our patrol vessels have been sunk and the lives of 74 officers and men lost to the nation. The Admiral further notes that the patrol assists as a protection on the flank of all sea transports to and from the British army in France, and that this vast transport has been so thoroughly safeguarded that not a single life has been lost during the sea passage.

"Rising Sun," L. O. L., No. 1.

GUARANTEES TO MAINTAIN A COT FOR ONE YEAR—INTERESTING ADDRESS BY REV. BRO. S. T. SIMPSON.

An emergency meeting of "Rising Sun" L.O.L. No. 1, was held in their hall on Thursday last, July 19th, the object being a very worthy one, that of donating a sum of money towards the Cot Fund for our brave lads who are fighting and bleeding for the Empire. A large number of the brethren were present and a motion was made that the Lodge supply a cot for a year ($260.00), which was unanimously carried.

Rev. Bro. S. T. Simpson, Sovereign Deputy Grand Chapter, just returned from South Ryegate, Vermont, U. S. A., who had been previously invited to attend, was then introduced by the W. M. The rev. brother in rising to address the body first expressed the great pleasure it gave him to be once more present in "Rising Sun" Lodge, where he had received his baptism of Orangelms, and particularly so at this meeting where such a generous gift was being given to that very worthy cause—the Cot Fund—for our wounded Newfoundland soldiers. His address was principally on the war and was very interesting and instructive. He told the brethren that the German sentiment in the United States was not so strong as we are led to believe. In referring to President Wilson, he explained that he had accomplished much in furnishing the Allies with munitions of war and in keeping neutral. The United States is helping in many other ways, even the Sunday schools and churches. Rev. Bro. Simpson concluded, and he was contributing to the Belgian Relief Funds and also the Red Cross and other funds.

He very ably reviewed the war from the beginning up to the present date, and all present were much interested in his able and instructive address, and hoped to hear him again before his vacation is ended.

Rev. Bro. Simpson's address, which lasted an hour and a half, was an excellent one, and the writer, who was present, feels sure that the public would greatly appreciate and enjoy such a treat, but owing to his short stay in the country this privilege cannot be theirs just now.

In addition to being an Orangeman, Rev. S. T. Simpson is a leading member of the Masonic, I.O.O.F. and Sons of Temperance Societies, and is at present the District Worthy Patriarch of the Sons of Temperance.

May he or some one of such ability and of such broad-minded views and tolerant spirit visit our Lodge often. Many times we are misunderstood, but if we could explain ourselves with such ability as Rev. Bro. Simpson has shown, we would be more appreciated and upheld by those who now despise it.

GERMAN STEAMER SUNK.
LONDON, To-day.—A Stettin despatch to Reuters says the German steamer Norderny, 5,397 tons, bound from Sweden for Germany laden with iron ore, was sunk north of Arcona, Rugen Island. The captain and crew were drowned.

AS FAR AS BERLIN.

LONDON, To-day.—Lord Derby, the new Under Secretary for War, in an interview to-day said, "I want you to impress on the American people our determination to destroy the efforts of Germany for world dominion. The fighting is now terrible—so awful that no man actually in it, ourselves as well as the Germans, ever wants another war; but we must push our victory until we make it impossible for the German rulers to renew the conflict. We have no desire for the partition of Germany. Some of our Colonies may insist upon the return of the German Colonies, but that is not what we are in the war for; we want to prevent future wars; we want the United States to be with us further along this war, but hereafter." Asked how far the present offensive expects to go, he said "I don't know, but personally I want it to go as far as Berlin."

THE DEUTSCHLAND FARGE.

BALTIMORE, To-day.—The German merchant submarine Deutschland cleared from the Custom House this afternoon, but Capt. Paul Koenig, her commander, said "The time of my departure is indefinite." In reply to a question asked by the Customs officials for the benefit of the Pilot Association, Collector Ryan, with the approval of the German commandant of the submarine that the manifest be withheld from publication for a reasonable time, Capt. Koenig said that the Deutschland would not leave for a week. When asked why the departure was further delayed after the clearance papers had been taken out, the Consul would vouchsafe no explanation.

12.30 P.M.

THE PREMIER IS OPTIMISTIC.

PARIS, To-day.—Morris, Premier of Newfoundland, in an interview to-day with a representative of the Evening Telegram declared that the Germans were beginning to realize that the war is practically finished. He has just returned from the section of the Somme front where the Newfoundland detachment is stationed. Before leaving for the front he was asked by President Poincare and Premier Briarclaire to express to his countrymen in the trenches, France's admiration and appreciation of their splendid bravery. In his interview, he said, "the war is virtually finished," and the Germans are beginning to realize it. The battle of Verdun, the greatest battle in history, is a victory for the French. It is the finest of all her glorious exploits and gives a new impetus to the whole nation. German prisoners with whom I have talked, officers wearing the Iron Cross, told me that the Emperor and his staff seem to hear that Germany has lost the game. The collapse of Germany is only a matter of time; when that day arrives we must see that victory won by our arms is not lost by diplomatic negotiations.

NOTED AVIATOR KILLED.

LONDON, To-day.—Lieut. Otto Parsham given recently a decoration for bringing down his eighth enemy aeroplane, has been killed in action.

ABOUT TIME.

LONDON, To-day.—It is expected that Asquith will announce in Commons that the three Germans who still hold British titles of nobility are to be deprived of their British honours. They are the Duke of Albany and the Duke of Cumberland, who are in the line of accession to the British throne, although remotely, and Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein.

BAD TIMES IN GERMANY.

LONDON, To-day.—A despatch from the Hague says that the price of horse in Germany has doubled. Farmers are making fortunes selling rabbits at twenty-five cents each; the bad weather is spoiling the crops.

PETITION FOR CASEMENT'S REPRIEVE.

LONDON, To-day.—The Premier received a deputation of Nationalist members of the Commons to-day, who had a petition signed by 390 of their colleagues including the Roman Catholic Bishop of Dublin, fourteen other Bishops and 119 representatives of Universities and learned Societies, for the reprieve of Casement. The Premier promised a careful consideration of all the points.

1.00 P.M.

DEUTSCHLAND STILL THERE.

BALTIMORE, To-day.—If Capt. Paul Koenig of the Deutschland plans to start to-day on his return voyage to Germany, there was nothing on this morning when the submarine is berthed that showed signs of departure other than has been the case for the last few days. Over night developments, in fact, tend to increase the probability of the report late last night that it had been decided to hold the Deutschland here until some word has been received concerning her sister ship, the Bremen.

LATEST 2.00 P.M.

CONQUEST OF ARMENIA.

A despatch from Petrograd says on the occasion of the Turkish retreat is in the way of becoming a stampede. Erzingan is burning. With this city in Russian hands, the occupation of all Armenia, which was delayed after the capture of Trebizond by a sudden renewal of Turkish resistance, will be accomplished; in fact the Turks are retreating west and also southwest, apparently with the object of protecting the Bagdad railway and guarding connections with Syria.

Burin Mourns.

Special to Evening Telegram. BURIN To-day.—Burin mourns to-day the death of Randolph Winter, the first of her gallant sons to fall in the fight for right and freedom. He was one of our prominent young men and up to the time of his enlistment in the 8th Nfld. Regiment was Secretary of Hillman Lodge, A.P.C.A.M. His death in action somewhere in France sounds as a trumpet call to others to go forward and take his place.

Sub-sea Trip on British "Tin Fish."

Crew Know Nothing of What is Going On Overhead While Commander Directs Attack On German Ship.

A graphic description of the "life" in a British submarine about to attack a German ship is given in the following account:
"Look carefully and see how the grim shadow, almost black with the sea, blends with the gray waters and the gray sky. Her narrow deck is washed from end to end, her bow hidden in a pillow of boiling sea, her counter lathered in the foaming eddies of her wake. Behind the canvas "doggers" of her ruddy bridge her command, more men appear on her wet deck, all her movements gear—the wheel, the ventilation cowls, the compass, and other objects—are detached and taken inside her hull. The rails are turned down in one moment flush with the deck. Then everyone disappears; the hatch is screwed tight, the main ballast tanks are filled, the periscope is pushed up to its full height, and thus she prepared to dive to the wet shadowy realms of the cod and the conger eel.
Silence After Noise.
The roar of her oil engines has suddenly ceased. The silence seems strange after their thunderous note, and to take their place comes the gentle hum of the electric motors which drive her below the waves. Suddenly there is a sharp word of command, more men appear on her wet deck, all her movements gear—the wheel, the ventilation cowls, the compass, and other objects—are detached and taken inside her hull. The rails are turned down in one moment flush with the deck. Then everyone disappears; the hatch is screwed tight, the main ballast tanks are filled, the periscope is pushed up to its full height, and thus she prepared to dive to the wet shadowy realms of the cod and the conger eel.
Torpedo Stations Make Ready.
"Torpedo stations, make ready!" comes from above. The firing reservoirs of the tube are instantly charged with compressed air, the caps covering the outside ends of the tubes are raised by "No. 2" of each tube, and water floods each chamber until it is overflowing from a tiny vent inside the boat tells the torpedoman that all is clear for firing.
The silence which now reigns is alone broken by the hum of the motors. Everything depends on the judgment of one man; the others see nothing, know nothing and have blindly to obey his will. The cruiser is now standing up a dark silhouette on the skyline. Not one of her people have seen the "glume" of the submarine's periscope heading straight and true to cut them off.
Already a string of concise orders is coming down from the commandant; finally, "Starboard tube—stand by." The tube is ready, "No. 1" (the chief torpedoman has jumped round to bang down the flaming ball in case the electric circuit fails.)
Single Word, "Fire!"
The commandant's finger crooks round one of the pistol triggers before him—very carefully he is aiming with his whole ship (for the tubes are fixed in the hull). Then comes the single word, "Fire!" There is a heavy thud, a momentary alteration in the boat's trim (at once corrected by the alert coxswain), and at the same instant over 200 pounds of explosive in the war nose of the torpedo goes hurrying away at forty miles to the hour.
The enemy notes the wake of the "tin fish"; there is a burst of flame from his secondary battery, and as the shells start on their screaming courses there is a fresh series of commands inside the submarine, and like a shadow her periscope has vanished, and she is plunging down to sixty feet below the surface, and turns and twists away, steered by clock and compass. All the while her crew are listening. Water is a good conductor of sound and will bring to their ears a message if the torpedo has gone "home." Suddenly they hear it—just a heavy thud—and on the instant they slip towards the world of fresh air once more. As the periscope projects the commandant starts and ejaculates, "Good shot—right in her engine-room."

S. S. Picnics

Yesterday the following Sunday Picnics were held, the C. of E. Cathedral and St. Michael's Schools, at "Harley's farm, off Freshwater Road," St. Mary's (Southside), Mount Pearl, and Wesley (Methodist), at McDougall's farm, Blackmarsh Road. Needless to say that the little ones enjoyed themselves immensely. A feature at the C. of E. outing was the number of "scravels," as the children delight to term them. His Excellency the Governor's little girls were present and from well-filled receptacles in the carriages fairly showered "sweetmeats" amongst the larger scholars. Rev. J. Britton seemed also to be in his glory helping the little girls dispose of their "wares." Return to town had to be made rather early—owing to the rain—but all enjoyed themselves fully.

FORTY-FIVE ROUND TRIPPERS.—There are forty-five round-trippers on the S. S. Florizel, which arrived here this morning. To-day they are around the city and suburbs sight seeing. The American people complain of the excessive heat that prevails at New York.

NEWS FROM LABRADOR.—The Reid Nfld. Co. received the following message to-day from C. J. Parsons, of (Hon.) Mrs. John C. Crosbie, taken from the S. S. Sagona: "Arrived Hopeville 26th, wind west and southwest, fine weather all trip north. Fishery poor to date, very little doing now; most of the fishing fleet gone north."

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWN-ING.—Yesterday afternoon Denis Neville rescued from drowning at Mundy's Pond an eight year old girl who was gathering lilies and was sinking gradually through the muddy bottom when Mr. Neville brought her to safety. The little girl, who was too badly frightened to tell her name, had a narrow escape.

Big Annual Event at Mount Cashel

A SPLENDID SUCCESS.

The annual garden party in aid of Mount Cashel took place on the grounds of the institution yesterday and was as big a success as ever. The surroundings were nicely decorated with bunting. The tea and refreshment tables within the grounds in charge of the ladies did a thriving business and the programme of sports was faultlessly carried out by those in charge.

A regular multitude of people were present during the day including His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, His Grace Archbishop Roche, Rt. Rev. Mons. McDermott, Rt. Rev. Mons. St. John, Rev. Dr. Greene, Rev. Dr. Carter, Rev. Frs. Rooney, Giff and McGuire, the Christian Brothers of St. Bogaventure's, Mount St. Francis and Mount Cashel as well as a large concourse of other citizens prominent in State.

In the football five the B. I. S. won the final, defeating the St. Andrew's by 2 goals and 2 corners to 1 corner. The winners were: F. Phalen, H. Phalen, W. Burke, F. Brien and T. Duggan.

The baseball match between the Wanderers and Cubs ended in victory for the former by 10 runs to 2, by which they win the H. D. Reid Cup. The players were: Wanderers, Cubs, King, Pitcher, Ford, Catcher, Hartnett, St. John 1st Base, Hocken, 2nd Base, Brit, 3rd Base, McLeod, 4th Base, McLean, Left Field, McCrindle, Centre Field, Carter, Right Field.

Perhaps the most interesting and exciting event for the day was the pony race. Twenty ponies entered, and in the 12 hands class Messrs. Furlong and Brennan won; 14 hands class, Messrs. Kelly and Hutton, over 14 hands class, Messrs. Liddy and Hutton.

The other attractions were also very enjoyable, including the dancing and gun drill by the Mount Cashel pupils. The C. C. T. A. and Mount Cashel bands were present and discoursed lively and patriotic airs. During the evening the enjoyment that prevailed was converted into sadness and flags were lowered to half mast when it became known that so many of our sons, brothers and heroes had made the supreme sacrifice in France. Immediately the sports concluded the prizes were presented by Rt. Rev. Mons. St. John.

Within the past twelve months the good Brothers enlarged the Industrial Home by the addition of a play hall, 100 by 50 feet. Last night the gentlemen responsible for the arrangements, which were so successfully carried out were entertained by Rev. Bro. Ennis (Superior) and the other Brothers of Mt. Cashel. The chair was filled by Mr. J. L. Slattery in his customary tactful way. Mr. Slattery announced to the gathering that the gate receipts were the highest on record, which was a good index of what the aggregate proceeds would be. Continuing, he welcomed Rev. Bros. Kennedy and Ryan, Mr. C. H. Hutton, Dr. Howlett and Mr. Bas, Buckingham. The latter was eulogized as a worthy representative of Mt. Cashel. He then suggested that the usual festivities be omitted on account of the sad news received and in conclusion extended sympathy to Mr. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A., on the death of his brother, Sergeant Edmund Higgins.

Rev. Bro. Ennis followed in an eloquent speech, expressing, on behalf of Mt. Cashel, his gratitude to those present and the public at large as well for their support. He was particularly thankful to the ladies, who, by their efforts, were responsible for the success of the affair in no small degree and to Messrs. Slattery, J. W. Larkin, Grace, Donnelly, Ellis, Mahoney, Vinnicombe, Howlett, O'Began, Puter and Macpherson. He sincerely thanked His Excellency the Governor in acknowledgment of a cheque towards the funds and to the Press; paid a warm tribute to Mr. James Huchingham as an ex-pupil of Mount Cashel and a citizen, and sympathized with the mother and brother of the late Sergeant Edmund Higgins. Bro. Ennis then made eloquent references to another ex-pupil and loyal exponent of Mount Cashel in the person of James Maher. The news had just come in that Private Maher had laid down his life in France like many other young heroes and brothers in arms. Again Bro. Ennis extended his deepest sympathy to those whose loved ones had fallen in the battlefield and in closing remarked that his only hope was to spend the rest of his life at Mount Cashel where he always met the most generous people in the world.

Rev. Bro. Kennedy thanked the public for their attendance and congratulated Bro. Ennis and co-workers on the successful manner in which the affair was conducted, and in referring to the number of ex-pupils who had gone to the front, he pointed out that it was a proof that their teaching was of a high order of patriotism. In very touching words he spoke of the death of Sgt. Higgins and of the record of our Regiment in Gallipoli and France.

Messrs. Hutton, W. J. Carroll and C. Ellis gave short addresses praising the work of the institution.
