IN THE WAKE OF THE STORM.

NEW YORK, June 12. Daybreak found hundreds of parents, children and relatives still standing at the docks at City Island awaiting arrival of police boats which during the hours of darkness had searched Long Island Sound for additional victims of Sunday's terrific storm. Powerful searchlights played over the waters as the steady search went on, but the swift tide had apparently carried away the bodies not recovered last night. Early today the police reported the list of known dead had not been augmented. More than fifty persons were thought to have lost their lives and upwards of 100 were more or less seriously injured in the typhoon which crossed over the hills of New Jersey, beat the Hudson into foam-capped breakers, swept across New York City and then centred its wild energy on City Island.

A NEW PLAN.

A lot of excellent up lifters have organized to fight the weed, and to redeem the looted drifters who smoke and chew and go to seed. They are not dreary cranks or croakers, they go to battle wearing bells; they'll not insist that foolish smokers should all be placed in noisome cells. They will not ask for statutes drastic, to make the briar pipe a crime; their program's friendly and elastic, a novelty in this fierce time. They hope to win by moral suasion a triumph over the filthy weed; and, though I smoke, on this occasion I say to all the bunch, God speed. For I am weary of reformers who have "Thou shalt not" on the brain; I'm tired of seeing noisy stormers who swat me first and then explain. If some one breaks the pipe I'm smoking and tells me smoking is a sin, I think I'd like to see him stoking where brimstone's heaped in every bin. But if some fellow, smiling sweetly, reproaches me for burning hay, he'll doubtless capture me completely, and see me throw my pipe away.

WALT MATON.

Denies Gen. Sherman Said "War is Hell."

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y.—Thomas D. Collins, a civil war veteran of this city, winner of a congressional medal for bravery, who was with Sherman in his famous march, in a statement here declared the general never said "war is hell," but that the correspondent who quoted Sherman was inaccurate.

"It was within a few feet of the general," says Collins, "when the mayor and officials of the city of Fayetteville, N.C., came out of the city and pleaded with the general not to invade the town.

"The mayor and the city officials did not want us to go into the city," Gen. Sherman told them he would not enter the city if they would lay down their arms and come back into the Union. Until you do, we will have to go on. War is cruel. I cannot define it. I will make as great sacrifices to-day as any of you gentlemen, but you must lay down your arms before I will consent to remain out of your city."

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

MUCH HELP FOR LITTLE TIME.

A friend of mine says she would like so much to be healthy but she finds if she tries to follow all the directions for bathing, exercising, resting after eating, care of the hair, nails, teeth, sleeping enough and so forth that the health experts give she doesn't seem to have much time for anything in the world except her eight hours at the office, the prescribed eight hours' sleep, her meals, and the care of her health.

I've had that same feeling myself.

More Than We Are Worth.

When the little boy in the Tennessee mountain district saw a traveler prepare himself for the day by performing certain of the ceremonies of civilization such as cleaning his teeth, he inquired pityingly: "Say, mister, ain't you an awful lot of trouble to me?"

An Exercise All Can Take.

Next, if you haven't time to take exercises (I mean if you think you haven't) you can surely have time to breathe. Fill your lungs and expand not only your chest but your abdomen. You can do that without really stopping work (though it is vastly better of course to stop and open the window for a few seconds) and if you take even a dozen deep breaths in a day you will soon feel good results.

Stop eating between meals (unless you need it because you are undernourished, and even then the extra nourishment should be very carefully spaced so as not to spoil your regular meals). Wasn't it Franklin who said "Shall I put the whole mechanism of my digestion to work for a cherry?"

Bring Outdoors In.

Stop worrying. Stop being so tense in mind and body.

You will surely admit that you can do all these things without using up much of your precious, and rightly precious, spare time.

Evening sandals are of brocaded satin and metal brocades, and are ornamental with rhinestones.

Drawnwork and hemstitching is used on cotton volles, crepes and handkerchief linen.

You Will Enjoy This new teeth-cleaning method

Brush teeth for ten days in this new way. We supply the test. See and feel the good effects. Compare them with the old ways.

It will be a pleasant task. And it may bring to you, as it has to millions, a new conception of clean teeth.

Whiter teeth

One great object is to fight the film—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

Old brushing methods do not effectively combat it. Much is left intact, forming a dingy coat. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Film is what discolors, not the teeth. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Fight it daily

Dental science has found two methods to effectively fight film. Many careful tests have proved them. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

MINARD'S LINTMENT USED BY VETERINARIANS.

Not a Flivver.
GLOUCESTER SCHOONER "HENRY FORD" AT NORTH SYDNEY.
"She's not a flivver," Capt. Clayton Morrissey, of the American fishing schooner Henry Ford, told the Herald this morning on discussing the behaviour of Gloucester to North Sydney, says the North Sydney Herald, of June 9. The Henry Ford called at Shelburne to pick up her dories. The schooner is on her first trip to the Grand Banks and is taking on ice and supplies at Voight's wharf; she will stock bait at St. Ann's. The Henry Ford was designed to participate in the International Fishermen's race as a possible challenger. According to the rules governing the International Fishermen's race the ship should have been on the Grand Banks fishing a couple of months ago, but at her launching she ran ashore at Wingerneck Beach where she pounded for several days before she could be hauled from shoal water. The Halifax trustees of the cup informed the United States race committee that in the event the vessel was chosen to challenge, her lateness in reaching the grounds owing to the accident would not be held against her. Capt. Morrissey said this morning that Tom McManus had designed a good ship and the hulliers had made a job when they turned out the Henry Ford. He expressed himself as delighted with her sailing qualities and said that she would give a good account of herself. He appeared to be quite confident that she could show her heels to the Puritan, another possible American representative which is now returning to Gloucester from her second trip to the banks. Capt. Morrissey did not believe the Puritan, but thinks he has a match for her or any other fishing craft on the Atlantic.
"You can say," said her skipper, "that the Henry Ford has two qualifications that please her namesake; she runs on air." Capt. Morrissey, who is one of three brothers, all master mariners, is a Nova Scotian and has visited this port several times. He has numerous friends here and had a large number of callers to congratulate him on having been appointed to his present command. The ship herself attracted a large number of visitors to Voight's wharf and the general opinion of the sailing fraternity is that she is a likely looking craft.

Humans Eat Moths, Ants and Butterflies.
Grasshoppers have been eaten from the earliest times. The scriptures offer abundant evidence of this, and the law of Moses is very plain, indeed, in its permission to the people of Israel to eat "the locust after his kind, the bald locust after his kind and the grasshopper after his kind."
There were two ways of preparing grasshoppers to be eaten. They were either crushed or their wings were plucked off and they were boiled in salt water and then dried in the sun, when they were ready to be eaten.
Ants are eaten in Africa. Junker relates that the chief of a tribe on the Masharich river, in the Sudan, sent him 30 baskets of ants for provisions on his journey. They are pounded into a sort of paste and are said to taste like liver.
Moths and butterflies have often been eaten, and the Romans used beetles as food. Some Brazilians are said to esteem a bug that feeds on the palm leaf. In Chile and Peru one of the national dishes is the chupe de chiche, a sort of stew made of potatoes and the chiche, a beetle-like insect that is found among the stones along the water courses.
Nearly every specimen of animal that has a backbone is somewhere or other eaten by human beings. In the Andaman Island the eating of a live rodent is deemed a test of manhood, and no man, it is said, is permitted to marry until he has accomplished this feat. The Chinese are not alone in eating roast dogs, for our own Sioux Indians have from time immemorial been very fond of this dish, and a century ago dogs were a favorite meat with the negroes of Louisiana. African heroes eat the lion, the jackal, the hyena and the crocodile.—Washington Star.

"REG'LAR FELLERS"

"Whip Minders"—A Curious Occupation.
A robbery in Covent Garden Market was frustrated because the men in the plot failed to take into their reckoning all the forces against them. One of these was a "whip-minder," who whispered to the manager of a firm that the "so-and-so gang was about." It sounds like a story from the wild west, but the so-and-so gang was well enough known in this London of ours for steps to be taken. The detectives were instructed, so-and-so gang were not, and were accordingly captured red-handed. All through a "Whip-Minders" quick eye for suspicious faces in Covent Garden. There are people who consider themselves familiar with Covent Garden, who have neither knowledge of, nor consequently respect for, the honorable company of "whip-minders." It is small, select, and of long standing. The members are 20 women, who exercise their rights or privileges by the authority of an ancestor of the present Duke of Bedford. They may be seen between 3 and 7 o'clock in the morning, holding in the crook of their arms, as in a quiver, the whips of the carters who have brought produce to the market. This may seem a small matter, but anyone suggesting as much to one of the women may be forcibly reminded of his ignorance. For it involves a sway more or less mild over the vehicles to which the whips belong, and an intimate and peculiar knowledge of their position and the whereabouts of their guardians. If a Covent Garden merchant wants to find Blank's cart, lorry, or whatever it may be, or Blank's carter, he need not set out on a search. All he does is to ask the "whip-minder," who tells him the cart or lorry is such-and-such a number in the rank, and that the carter is—where he is. Sometimes the human element being busy, is more elusive than the material and stationary. The "whip-minder" then calls in the aid of a husband or son, who is generally in the office, and the question is satisfactorily answered, since very little of what goes on within their prescribed limits escapes the attention of the principal and her assistants. The status and business of whip-minding have been in some of these families for generations.

The Wreck of the Egypt.
(From the Westminster Gazette.)
The loss of the outward bound P. and O. Indian mail steamer, Egypt comes as a rude reminder that even in a world that is freed from maritime war dangers the sea is able, as of yore, to take the toll of the lives of those who have the hardihood to put out on her waters. There remains a menace older than mine or submarine. The Egypt came in collision with a French steamer off Brest, in fog. In fog also two steamers are reported to have run ashore at the Lizard. More sinister still might have been the news that in the fog two liners approaching Plymouth from New York, the Lapland and Rotterdam, had been "seriously delayed." The passengers of the Egypt were just sitting down to dinner when they felt the shock of collision. The passengers, like the majority of the crew were doubtless unaware of the danger which had been threatening. The usual smooth routine of ship life was established. There was none of the preparedness for calamity with which ship's passengers make their sailings during the war, knowingly carrying their lives in their hands. The precise circumstances which brought the ships into collision have yet to be explored, but the prime cause was fog, or mist, a weather condition in which innumerable sea tragedies have been enacted. Generally speaking, the world is relatively safe to live in each day it becomes safer, but until a means is found to greatly reduce the fog peril, either by the aid of the scientist or by imposing a more "safety first" code on the captains of the ships, the ships will continue to be a menace, even in fair weather.

Pearls Made to Order.
For many years the fine crystals we call diamonds and rubies have been experimentally produced in the laboratories of scientific wizards like Sir William Crookes in England, and M. Henri Moissan in Paris. Yet the trade value of the natural stones remained unaffected.
The great De Beers monopoly continued to distribute a certain stint to each nation; so did the Burma ruby mines. And in Amsterdam alone, ten thousand cutters and polishers go about their business as usual, as they have done since the Spanish conquest of the Netherlands in the seventeenth century.
But now, at long last, it is the pearl's turn, and this case is very different. In all ages the "pearl of price" has been a criterion of previous value.
What is a pearl? It is a gradual secretion of "nacre" by certain kinds of oyster. It is, in the first place, due to the presence in the shell of some foreign substance, like a parasite insect, or even a grain of sand.
This gives rise to an ingrowing "pocket" in the cell-tissues of the living creature. The pocket gradually becomes a capsule, which encloses the intrusive substance, and begins to pour upon it layer after layer of translucent material, which reflects light into a soft shining, lustre of matchless beauty and charm.
Up to now, the great pearl-fisheries of the world have, of course, been pure gambles. At Broomo, on the West Australian coast, in Ceylon, and in the Persian Gulf, there are regular fisheries where either white or dark-skinned divers walk the sea floor, gathering up the big gaudy shells which may or may not contain pearls of price.

The Divers at Work.
In Eastern seas, natives go down with their nude bodies greased, and with a wooden cup on their nostrils. They can remain below as long as two minutes. On the other hand, the diver who wears modern equipment can, of course, remain hours under water in his rubber suit and copper helmet; his electric searchlight, life-lines, telephones, and air-tubes communicating with a boat on the surface with its attendant and pumping gear.
The whole industry is at once uncertain and elaborate. Yet fine pearls have, up to now, retained their high value. Even during the Great War we saw a long rope of "fine orient" pearls fetch over $250,000 at Christie's famous rooms in London. There are necklaces worn by the native princes of India whose value is far in excess even of this great figure.
There is possibly no gem more lovely or becoming to woman's beauty; yet now—by the marvelous discovery of a Japanese—it has been demonstrated that it is perfectly possible to "manufacture" real pearls through the instrumentality of the oyster itself.
This discovery is due to the researches of a Japanese expert named Mikimoto, who has spent his whole life investigating the anatomy of the oyster—very much as a skilled surgeon might do with physiological specimens. Like all great discoveries, the process is extraordinarily simple. A tiny bead, cut from the oyster's own shell, or even a minute seed-pearl, is first of all introduced into the living body of the oyster. Its presence is soon resented in the usual way; and the irritated creature begins to cover and envelop the foreign substance with film after film of nacre.
The process of forming the complete pearl may take six years or more; but it is clear it can be done on a great scale, producing thousands of pearls, slowly but simultaneously. Of course, as happens often in the depths of the sea with the oyster's pearls, these real-artificial ones vary much in size, shape, and color. Much appears to depend upon the variety of oyster, and even upon its diet. Nor does irritation by the introduction of a foreign substance always mean that a pearl will be shaped.

Dried Fish.
The chief interest at the moment centres in the arrival of the Lunenburg fleet from their second trip. The returns so far seem to be somewhat erratic running all the way from 500 to 3000 quintals per vessel. However, it is thought that the average will be fairly high, and that the total catch for the trip will be approximately 60,000 quintals, or about the same as last year. As to the prospective price for the new landings, there is no news except that exporters claim to be losing money on present holdings, which cost them $5.00 per quintal, and say that before they make further contracts, a concession of this figure will be necessary. However, nobody is losing sleep over this question at the present time. It is a case where tomorrow will take care of itself. The fleet will be going off again very shortly; in fact just as quickly as they can get underway.
Reports from West Indian markets are encouraging. The slump expected in Porto Rico did not materialize, and Cuba, Jamaica and Trinidad continue to be active buyers. The European situation is somewhat better, but prices are not as high as Newfoundland exporters would like. Some exporters, there we understand, made quite heavy losses and their purchases of fish are so long as the public can get fish at a reasonable price consumption is steady, but immediately an effort is made to charge more, sales drop off. The opinion among the exporters here is that the world markets generally are well cleaned up on dried codfish, and that unless values are advanced too much, there will be no difficulty whatever in marketing the summer catch during the coming fall and winter season.—Maritime Merchant.

Indian Statesman Exposes Ghandism.

EDITOR HAD PERSONAL OBJECT IN VIEW.

MADRAS, INDIA, (Associated Press)—Sankaran Nair, formerly a member of the Viceroy's Council and also Secretary of State's Council, recently returned from England, has undertaken the task of exposing Ghandism. He considers to be Ghandi's aims for India. His opinions are published under the title, "Ghandi's Anarchy," constitutes a vigorous attack on Ghandi and an exposure of the dangers which Sir Nair sees in the operation. Sir Nair has always remained loyal to the British Government, and the gulf between Ghandi and the British Government was made complete at the conference of Moderate Leaders at Bombay recently. In the course of his remarks on the Ghandi movement, he says: "Ghandi himself and the majority of his followers were not well-known in the Congress camp or in the strenuous days which preceded the introduction of the Home Rule scheme, his party contained some men who were members of the old constitutional Congress which afterwards was turned into the present revolutionary Congress entirely under the control of Ghandi. There is an item in the Ghandi programme which is not a complete rejection of everything preached by the foremost sons of India till 1919; it has not been strongly, even denounced by these old members of the Congress who now follow Ghandi. 'The simplicity and austerity of Ghandi, combined with his appeal to the principle of Ahimsa (non-injury), derived from Buddhists and now in vogue in Hindu life, has secured him the support of the Hindu masses, and especially vegetarians.' His fanatical demands have secured the Indian support. Some politicians who naturally desire to use him as an influence, he has acquired for the pressure on the government towards further reform, also have followed him. There are of course many patriots who, believing in the efficacy of his methods to obtain home rule, also follow him. But I am sure that he is using them all to his own ends, an attempt to be bound to him."

Mackay-Bennett Off for London.

TO BE LAID UP ON ARRIVAL.

She is to be laid up on arrival in London, where her official crew will be transferred to the new ships, the Commercial Cable Company's steamer Mackay-Bennett sailed last evening on her way to London. As the plans indicate the steamer will be laid up on her arrival on the 14th. It is possible that she will be used for small jobs in the surrounding waters. There is only a slight possibility of her again visiting Halifax in the course of a cable ship. She was built thirty-seven years ago the Mackay-Bennett has Halifax as her home port and where she will be greatly missed by the watermen. She was constructed by the Mackay-Bennett Shipbuilding Co. of Halifax. She is one of the finest cable ships in the world and she has a valuable service. Not only was her cable work but she has many times saved lives in North Atlantic waters. In this connection her most notable work was in connection with the Titanic disaster. She was quickly despatched to the scene and picked up many bodies, bringing them to Halifax. On her arrival in London, Capt. Liveston and his officers and crew are to be transferred to the John W. Stewart, which will be commissioned in this month. She is to be laid up on her arrival in London and will replace the Mackay-Bennett on this side of the Atlantic. Another ship, the Marion Louise, now being completed, is expected to be stationed here. The Mackay-Bennett has been engaged for some months supervising the outfitting of the new ship, the Mackay-Bennett was built by the Commercial Cable Company at Glasgow, and registers 1731 gross and net tons. Her dimensions are: length, 303 feet; beam, 40.1; depth, 20.5. —Morning Chronicle, June 7.

Church Fellowship.

(From the Chicago News.)—Bishop Talbot tells of an adventure Bishop Kemper had in the diocese of Kansas. Dr. Kemper was riding in a stage coach which had up one night. Bishop Talbot remonstrated with the driver, saying, "Surely you would not have a poor bishop engaged in the night of his sacred duties." What the driver said the man behind the wheel of the stagecoach. "I belong to the Episcopal church." "What church?" "The Episcopal church." "I don't say so. Why, then, do you belong to the Episcopal church?" "Good night, bishop."

Bamboozling Tactics

That after much lingual combat a further temporary agreement between Government and Railway Company has been reached, may be welcome news to the public in having the assurance that there will be no immediate interruption of the transport service, but the pleasure is rather lessened by the refusal of the Government to make known the exact terms or basis upon which this new agreement has been made.

Labrador Outfitting.

News from Conception Bay fishing centres is not altogether so bright as might be. Outfitting for Labrador is being engaged in to some extent at Carboner, Harbor Grace and Bay Roberts, but not in so general a way as in former years, when there would be great activity in all the principal places, and schooners ere this date would have been cleared for the season's voyage.

ing town, editorially discusses the situation in the following article:

"Other years at this season there would be some activity in preparing for the Labrador fishery but except for the larger outfitters there are very few signs of the beginning of the industry. There are many small crews that will have difficulty in securing their supplies, the high cost making the supplies and supplied chary in taking up the work. The unfortunate results of last season, the low price of fish compared with the high cost of supplies coupled with the unsatisfactory outcome of the Government guarantee scheme will result in many crews remaining home. Up to last season, quite a number of small crews were taken on as a venture at places on the Northern part of the coast frequented by stationary planters, but the poor returns in 1920 have cut off that which promised to become a paying branch of the fishery. The Shore fishery offers but a poor chance to the many who will have to depend upon that source, falling to get to Labrador or to Bell Island. Present appearances tend to indicate that the larger firms will supply for the Labrador on much the same scale as last year—that is as far as regular crews are concerned. The many crews, in this vicinity at least, that prosecuted the Labrador fishery through the agency of the Government guarantee will be compelled to seek employment at some other calling. Something may be said about the necessity of attempting to bring a better system of dealing among all engaged in this industry, but that will take time even to start, and these critical times do not favor any modification in the system in vogue. A happy state of trust and confidence would do much to improve the condition now governing the prosecution of the country's staple industry. Radical changes, no matter how desirable, cannot be effected in one season."

Diocesan Synod.

SESSION OPENS JUNE 21ST. The Diocesan Synod of Newfoundland will open its Twenty-first Biennial Session on Wednesday, June 21st. His Lordship the Bishop has secured the services of Rev. J. P. D. L'Wyd, D.D., D.C.L., Dean of Nova Scotia as preacher at Evensong on that day, and he will also conduct special services for the clergy on the preceding day. In reference to the business before the Synod the current issue of the Diocesan Magazine says: "The Executive Committee proposes to amend the Act entitled 'Appointment of Clergymen' in regard to the status of vacant parishes, and the ladies may be glad to know that Rev. Canon Jeeves will introduce a Bill to amend the 'Constitution and Rules,' so as to enable women, who qualify according to the Rules of Synod, to have a vote in parish meetings, and a place on Select Vestries."

Marine Court of Enquiry

Yesterday afternoon a Marine Court of Enquiry was opened in the Central District Court under the presidency of Judge Frank Morris to investigate into the stranding and loss of the schooner, Rona M. at the Cove, on Jan. 15th, last. Capt. Edward English, Jr., and Capt. Marshall are sitting with Judge Morris as nautical assessors. The enquiry adjourned at 4.30 until tomorrow at 3 p.m. Mr. H. A. Winter for the Crown and Lloyds. Mr. C. J. Fox for Capt. Kendrick and owners of the vessel.

Fishing Schooners Sail.

MAKE MARINE PICTURE GOING THROUGH NARROWS. Some twenty-five or thirty sail of craft bound northward with cargoes of salt and fishery supplies left port early this morning, but owing to light wind and fog could not round the heads. They returned to port but at 10 a.m. the weather clearing and the wind freshening the whole fleet set sail again. As the schooners went through the narrows under all canvas they presented a pretty sight.

Portuguese Consular Fees.

TAX ON NEWFOUNDLAND FISH.—Messrs. Lind and Couto writing to the Secretary of the Board of Trade under date May 24, calls attention to the new Portuguese Consular fees which are now being levied on cargoes of British fish. The letter states that if a shipper fails to pay the 2 per cent. ad valorem tax in Newfoundland he is liable to pay 4 per cent. in Portugal, and adds, "we consider the whole thing iniquitous, and we are writing to the British Consul here, to find out if Portugal can levy this tax under the terms of the Treaty of Commerce between England and this country. We would also point out that for some time back the Municipality of Oporto have been levying 10 reis per kilo on British fish, which is in addition to the 20 reis per kilo, payable to the Customs." According to the market report enclosed with the letter shipments of Danish, French and German fish have been placed on the market.

Referred to Governor.

The prime Minister has communicated to his Excellency the Governor the effect of Mr. Archibald's statement in the House yesterday about the Cable Companies, and has requested him to communicate with the British Government on the matter. It is manifestly unfair that men should be sent out from England to occupy jobs that local unemployed are capable of taking up.

The Political Situation.

CONFERENCE HELD TO-DAY. IN THE TRACK OF THE RETURN. NEW YORK, June 13. Margues and undertaking shows of the metropolitan area to-night, held the bodies of more than three score men, women and children, victims of yesterday's brief cyclone and thunderstorm. The matter police, who continued throughout the day grappling in Falham Bay and Long Island Sound, of City Island, where the greatest toll was taken among Sunday canoeists and fishermen, predicted they would find at least a score more victims, enough to push the death toll past eighty. Eye witnesses of the tragedy placed the number even higher. At least 250 canoes, rowboats and small motor craft were bobbing about off the island, witnesses said, when the storm came, blowing at a velocity of eighty miles. The storm lasted less than five minutes, but scarcely a dozen craft had survived. Scores of men and women were clinging to wreckage and overturned craft in the choppy Sound and Bay. One by one they gave up the struggle and dropped off to be carried toward the open sea by tide. Some of the bodies, the police say, probably never will be recovered. The tide, turning, brought more than a score of them back to-day. Eye witnesses estimated there were between 600 and 750 persons in the wrecked craft.

Cut Steel Ear Rings.

The new ear-rings of cut steel sweep the shoulders and one might be excused for mistaking them for old-fashioned bell-pulls rilled from mid-Victorian walls for my lady's adornment. Several cut steel ornaments depending from a slender chain and the carrying ends in a tassel of sparkling steel beads. These glittering earrings are the rage in Paris and are sufficient to please the most ambitious taste. MRS. MARY'S LINEN HALL'S 23 DUFFERIN.

DIED.

Passed away at the Weston Hospital, Toronto, May 20th, Alice Myrtle; aged 18 years and four months, daughter of Mrs. William Sharpe and the late Mr. Isaac Adey of Lady Cove, Trinity Bay. Left to mourn are mother, two sisters and four brothers and a large number of friends. We trust she is gone through the beautiful gates. Away to the city of gold; Which knows no sorrow, sin or pain; She is safe in the heavenly fold. No pen can write, no tongue can tell; Our sad and bitter loss; But God alone has helped us well; To bear our bitter cross. No one knows how much we miss her; None but aching hearts can tell; Earth has lost her; Heaven found her; Jesus death all things well. 'Tis not good-bye dear Myrtle; A little while, a moment, we too with Christ shall dwell; Sleep thy last sleep, free from care and sorrow; Best where none weep, till the Eternal morn. —Inserted by Sister Freda and Brother Ernest of Toronto.

Daily Questionnaire.

TUESDAY, June 13. Q. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Minister if it is correct that the Government is providing for the unemployed money to pay the passage of this country, of men going out of this country, of men going out of this country, of men going out of this country...

TO GIVE ROTARIANS ROYAL WELCOME.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Forty Englishmen will be the special guests of Robin Hood and his merry band when the delegates of the International Rotary Convention enjoy the hospitality of Doug Fairbanks at his motion picture studio. Fairbanks is putting the finishing touches on his forthcoming production of the story of England's famous Greenwood adventurer and is particularly anxious to have the visiting Britishers look over the production. Some of the scenes will be enacted for their benefit during the course of their visit.

More than five thousand Rotarians are the guests of the motion picture colony on Saturday, the last day of the convention which began here June 5. They are here from all over the world to attend what is regarded as the most important convention in the history of Rotary. Business of unusual importance will be transacted during the sessions, including the consideration of a proposed international constitution that will make Rotary one of the few international organizations with a single governing body in the world.

Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Bill Hart, Pauline Frederick, Charlie Chaplin and others of the motion picture colony in Southern California have appointed themselves a committee to show members of the Rotary Clubs from all over the world what the motion picture industry really is. Hundreds of delegates from every section of the United States, Canada, Newfoundland, Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and Australia, are here to attend the convention of Rotary Clubs. More than 150 are from outside the borders of the United States and more than 100 of these from overseas. England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales are represented by fifty.

Some Dust.

An old couple from the country wandered into a moving picture show in town. As they entered a cowboy picture was being shown.

The old lady laid a restraining hand on her husband's arm. "Bill," she said, "let's not go too far down in front; the dust is awful. My clothes'll be ruined." Pearson's Weekly.

Making Bid for German-American Passenger Trade.

LONDON, June 2.—The Canadian Pacific steamships are making a strong bid to capture German and American transatlantic traffic. Fortnightly services between Hamburg and Southampton and Cherbourg and Quebec has been inaugurated. The Empress of France left Hamburg Wednesday on the first regular trip.

Sir George McLaren Brown, European chairman of the line, said he was well satisfied with the first fruits of the new venture, as the ship carried more than 1,000 tons of German toys, instruments, etc., to Southampton, and left at noon the same day with 800 passengers. The Empress of France and the Empress of Scotland are operating from Hamburg, and the Coy. hopes to carry the majority of the German-Americans of the Middle West and Western States, who plan an ocean voyage, working in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Railway and the numerous lines throughout the Middle West owned by the company.

One advantage claimed for the Canadian Pacific route is the fact that the ship is on the open sea only four days, the remainder of the journey to Quebec being up the St. Lawrence River. Actually, the company claims the distance from Hamburg via Quebec to Detroit, Chicago or St. Louis is shorter than via New York— in some instances, twenty-four hours less by the Quebec route.

The Empress liners range from 18,000 to 25,000 tons, carry 2,000 passengers and are equipped with most comforts of the bigger liners. The company expects to secure a large number of British and continental tourists between Southampton and Hamburg during the summer, and has fixed low rates in order to get that Channel-Sea traffic.

Sir George says that the inauguration of the new direct service between Hamburg and Canada should lead to a revival and increased trade between the Dominion and Europe. He declared that Hamburg was the natural port for Central Europe, and anticipated great results from the new service.

Lady Astor's Pledge.

NO MORE SPEECHES IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK, June 8. (Associated Press).—The next time Lady Astor visits America, she intends to make no speeches. That was what she confided to reporters before sailing for England. Few public speakers, or workers of any kind, are ever keyed to the high tension with which Lady Astor seems charged when addressing an audience. Her nervousness may not have been so apparent to listening crowds at her 40-odd public speaking appearances in this country during April and the first three weeks of May. But if one sat near her, the eye quickly observed that she incessantly wrung her hands behind her back and ran her fingers over and under her jeweled bracelets, the muscles of her arms and shoulders quivering from nervousness. Somehow the strain never seemed to affect the clarity of her speaking tones. In fact she talks to crowds, no matter what their size, were in a manner friendly and informal. Always she was breaking away from her prepared notes to state a sentence with the loose, conversational "now" or "well."

FAGGED OUT AND NERVOUS. But when the speech was done, the first woman member of the House of Commons was fagged out and intensely nervous. That, too, seemed never to ruffle her smooth, smiling demeanor, nor did her expression reveal fatigue. Lord Astor knew how high-strung the Lady Commoner really was and he made it his job to keep her from talking too much to her friends just before or after a speech. "Nancy, Nancy," he would call in warning whenever she pitched straight from a speech into chats to which she seemed to give just as much energy. Reporters seated immediately in the rear of the speaker's desk when Lady Astor gave her farewell address noticed that her shoulders suddenly depended to a pink flush as she got up to talk. Then, when her message had gone over, and there remained only the two closing paragraphs, the tension was relieved and the blush faded from her skin.

2100 Mile Fence Holds Back Rabbits.

WESTERN PART OF CONTINENT PROTECTED AGAINST PESTS.

The havoc that rabbits have wrought in Austria has cost the country millions of dollars. Until a few years ago, however, the western part of the continent, protected by a barrier of seemingly impassable desert, was free from the pest. Then one day a solitary rider on the edge of the arid land saw something scuttle across his path. It was the advance scout of a vast invading army of rabbits. The government immediately determined to build a 2100-mile fence to shut out the devastating horde.

This fence is the longest that has ever been constructed. It traverses an inhospitable country where for miles and miles there is no timber, where the rain may fall once a year, or perhaps not at all for three years. It was necessary to carry materials for the fence and supplies for the workmen hundreds of miles in carts and on camel back. The work had to be pushed with feverish haste, for countless thousands of rabbits, pressing westward steadily, were eating the country as bare as a city road.

When the workmen had nearly finished the barrier, the news came that the rabbits had rounded the end. Without hesitation they began a second fence 100 miles to the westward, and before the farming region was safely enclosed, the two fences extended over 2100 miles.

In appearance the barrier resembles the woven-wire fences that are seen in all parts of the world. The setting is stretched between posts sunk deeply into the ground and treated with tar to make them less likely to be destroyed by the white ants. The lower edge of the setting is sunk into the ground to prevent the rabbits from burrowing under it, and along the top runs a heavy wire capable of withstanding the shock of charging kangaroos and emus.

Without constant attention and patrolling, however, the fence would be useless, for outside of them the rabbits keep ceaseless watch. A boundary-rider patrols each section of the fence twice a week, and he carries enough material and tools to make ordinary repairs. In some parts the riders are men on motor-cycles, in others they are horsemen, and in the arid deserts the men use camels. There is a sort of "biking squad" assigned to each half-dozen sections, and the boundary rider can call on them when the fence is badly broken, or when the incursions of rabbits are especially threatening.—Kansas City Star.

Two Good Stories.

WHEN MARK ADDRESSED DEAF MUTES.

Here are two good stories of Mark Twain taken from the "Reminiscences of a Raconteur" by that well known Canadian Will, Geo. H. Ham. He was invited to address the inmates of a charitable institution in a small town in New York State. The audience was of both sexes and all ages and varying degrees of intelligence, and for a moment he was at a loss to decide what kind of talk to give them. After a few moments he "fired a mild one at them." There was no response, not even the faintest suggestion of a laugh. All sat with their eyes glued on him, wrapt in wonderment, admiration, and respect. This was a poser to Mark, but he continued to talk, and in a minute or two he "fired a stronger one and hurled it into their midst." The result was the same—a morose-like silence. Finally, he launched an anecdote that had never failed, but there was not a laugh or a smile.

He was furious and commenced to "take it out of" his audience in sarcastic vein. When he reached his friend's home, he asked him if he could explain their stupor.

"Why, didn't you know?" said his friend. "They're all deaf mutes!"

Mark's Beautiful Poem.

On another occasion Mark Twain had a very different kind of audience—the faculty and the graduating class of Columbia University in New York—and he thought the occasion would be a suitable one to show an intellectual audience that he was something more than a humorist, and he decided to read a beautiful poem written in memory of his daughter Susy, which had not then been published. First of all he gave them one of the wittiest speeches he had ever made. When he had finished he raised his hand beseeching silence, and then said, "I would like now, ladies and gentlemen, to read you some serious verse which I composed recently. It is an appreciation to my—"

The applause was renewed with fourfold force, the laughter fairly shook the building, Mark looked visibly pained; he appeared to be (as he was) deeply distressed. This served only to accentuate and prolong the demonstration. Finally they quieted down, and very solemn Mark said: "But, ladies and gentlemen, what I wish to read to you is sacred in my eyes. It refers to—"

But it was no use—the shrieks of laughter drowned his words. After exhausting themselves, the audience waited for more, waited for "the joke." But Mark merely said, in as grave a tone as he truly felt: "I see, my friends, that you are in no mood this evening to treat me seriously, so I will not burden you further."

Current Business Conditions

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS (From the Monthly Bulletin for June issued by The National City Bank of New York)

The general business situation has continued favorable from month to month until confidence is now well established that the worst of the inevitable post-war depression is over. The most potent factor in the revival has been the exhaustion of stocks, the wearing out of things in use, bringing consumers to the necessity of coming into the markets to supply their own wants and of selling what they might have to provide the means of purchase. The progress of reciprocal wants gradually brings all branches of industry to the readjustments that have to be made.

In the case of foodstuffs and the leading raw materials of industry there are no large supplies being carried over, unless we except corn, which does not enter readily into consumption until it has been converted into meat. The grains chiefly used for feed are closely used up, the world depending upon feed crops each year. In the chief materials of clothing, wool and cotton, the absorption of investment securities, the foreign exchanges are stronger, which means a more favorable condition for foreign buyers in this market.

Railroad Rates and the Labor Situation. The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered a ten per cent reduction in freight rates and the Railroad Labor Board has ordered a reduction of wages for one class of railroad employees at about the same rate. Other wage reductions are expected to follow. These orders go well together and are in harmony with the general trend of the last year and a half.

There are no signs of a settlement of the coal strike which has run two months. Production of bituminous coal is still at a relatively small figure, one-half the normal requirements. The situation is becoming critical in the case of anthracite as there is little surplus mine capacity from which to make up the loss of production.

With the coal miners on a strike, the population in jeopardy it aspires to an exercise of power that in the long run society will not tolerate. When rights and interests come in conflict all parties are bound to have a voice in the settlements.

The outlook for the crops is excellent. The season was backward on account of wet weather, but the crops are growing in the ground in good shape, and with ample moisture to give them a fine start when warm weather comes. The single exception is the cotton crop, which had a poor start and is threatened by the boll weevil. Apprehension is felt of a short crop, and the price reflects it.

The improvement is not confined to this country. Foreign trade is better. The South American countries which produce raw materials and foodstuffs are finding better markets, working off the surplus stocks of merchandise, which have embarrassed them, and beginning to buy again in substantial amounts. Conditions in Asia are improving. The foreign exchanges are stronger, which means a more favorable condition for foreign buyers in this market.

The action of the miners and railroad employees in forming an alliance must be accepted as meaning a purpose to exercise their control over the mines and the railways, and is a threat of arbitrary power inconsistent with the mutual obligations upon which society rests.

This, of course, is not saying that the miners and railroad men are an exceptionally bad lot; we know they are not; as individuals they would be as kind, considerate and helpful as the average of other people, but as with most people, they have such a bias for the interests of the group or class that they do not see the fundamental rights that underlie all others and which must be respected if orderly society is to endure.

With the coal miners on a strike, the population in jeopardy it aspires to an exercise of power that in the long run society will not tolerate. When rights and interests come in conflict all parties are bound to have a voice in the settlements.

Opposition Oppose Adjournment.

Details of Temporary Arrangement Demanded.

Definite Date for Meeting Required--More Duty Concessions--Mr. Coaker Makes his First Appearance in the House.

If, as seemed apparent, it was the intention of the Prime Minister to adjourn the House for several months without tabling the details of the new agreement for the temporary operation of the railway, the Opposition made it very clear yesterday that they would not be a party to any such arrangement. The Prime Minister was plainly told, that the Government was plainly told, that the Supply would be passed only up to such a date as the Government might appoint for the meeting of the House after adjournment. Considerable discussion arose out of the Prime Minister's statement that kerosene oil imported in wooden barrels would be exempt from duty. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries made his first appearance in the House for the session and received a welcome, the warmth of which could not have been altogether agreeable, despite the fact that Mr. Coaker is now accustomed to equatorial climates.

RAILWAY PRONOUNCEMENT.
When the House met, Mr. Sullivan asked that the Portia should be put back on the Western route and that the Eagle should replace her on the Labrador. The Minister of Shipping replied that the amount of freight offered did not warrant the employment of the Portia on her old route, and that both the members for Burin and Burgeo had agreed to the change. Question time was productive of very little interest.

The Prime Minister made a pronouncement on the railway, which, as announced in yesterday's Telegram, was to the effect that an agreement had been made for the temporary operation of the line until the autumn. He wished to hasten through outstanding business and then to adjourn the House for several months. He suggested that Supply should be passed for six months.

UNREASONABLE REQUEST.
Sir Michael Cashin said that the Prime Minister's request was unreasonable. He reminded him of the farcical prorogation of last year and made it plain that the Opposition would see that there would be no repetition of such methods. It was a case of once bitten, twice shy. Sir Michael referred to the entry into the House for the first time in twelve months, of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. He severely censured that gentleman for his neglect of his public duties. Returning to the request made by the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition said that he would not agree to pass Supply in full, but that he would pass sufficient to see the country through up to the day which the Government would set for the Legislature to meet again.

The Prime Minister said he had been misunderstood. He did not suggest that the House should pass the vote for the whole year. He only desired to have Supply passed up to the end of the present year. This did not necessarily mean that the Legislature would not meet before December 31st. The Leader of the Opposition was criticizing his own observations made during the past week, in criticizing the motion for a lengthy adjournment.

INFORMATION NECESSARY.
Sir Michael Cashin replied that information in connection with railway matters was necessary before the Opposition could consent to an adjournment. They were not prepared to trust the Government again. He again referred to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and explained to him that a very large number of questions referring to his department had been asked during the session. The Prime Minister could not be expected to give satisfactory answers to these questions and the information was expected from the Minister, now that he had returned from his trip.

DUTY CONCESSIONS.
On motion of the Prime Minister, the House went into Committee on Ways and Means.

Resolutions whose effect was to remove the duty from kerosene oil imported in wooden barrels, were submitted. The Prime Minister said that the duty would remain on oil imported in bulk or in steel casks.

Sir Michael Cashin, in a lengthy speech, pointed out by this action the Government were proving that the advice so frequently offered in this connection by the Opposition, had been sound. He showed that the use of steel barrels had been a heavy burden on those who exported cod oil. A ton of oil was worth only $100 and the cost of the barrels used to contain it, would be in the neighbourhood of $60. Sir Michael asked if the Government proposed handing back to the people of the colony what they had robbed them of in the last twelve months. He certainly intended to vote for these resolutions because they were his and his party's resolutions, not those of the Government. He had hoped that the Prime Minister would have gone further and allowed gasoline in wooden casks to come in free of duty.

GO TO THE COUNTRY.
Mr. Bennett in a sound address, joined with Sir Michael Cashin in the criticisms he had made of the resolutions before the House. He, however, was not so sanguine as his leader, with respect to the effect which the removal of duty on kerosene in wooden barrels would have. He thought that the Imperial Oil Company would refill the barrels that they had in stock and would get a rebate of the duty. He hoped that a large quantity of kerosene in wooden barrels would be imported. He also expressed himself as being in agreement with Sir Michael Cashin's reference to the Prime Minister's proposal of a lengthy adjournment following the passage of the Legislature now before the House. The Prime Minister should go to the country on this railway question. He would challenge the Leader of the House to take this step instead of adjourning. There was no solution to the railway problem at the present time and there would be none in December.

CONSIDERING OTHER INTERESTS.
Some pronouncement on the part of the Government was necessary. If Reids have to be paid, they should be paid. If the colony owes them nothing, then they should certainly receive no payments. Litigation might mean that the question would drag on, not for months, but for years. He was afraid that other interests and influences were being considered. The time for trifling was past. Until some definite pronouncement was made or further details were given, those who were a party to the adjournment of the House would be derelict in their duty.

The Prime Minister characterized Mr. Bennett's address as consisting of much noise and little talk. The member for St. John's West had only been in order when discussing the question of the Kerosene Oil resolutions. With reference to his remarks in this connection, Sir Richard said that the distribution of barrels would to some extent be through the Imperial Oil Co. They had some eight or nine thousand barrels on hand. He would assume the responsibility for permitting the Company to fill the barrels.

BENEATH CONTEMPT.
Mr. Higgins impressed upon the Government the necessity for seeing that the refilling process was not carried on. He then turned his attention to the Railway and added his objections to those of his colleagues on the question of an early adjournment without further details. The Government had been compelled to give in to the Reids again and their position was beneath contempt. It was brought about by their own inability to deal satisfactorily with the situation when it first assumed serious proportions. He would very much like to know if the Minister of Marine and Fisheries had been a party to the verbal agreement which was made last year and promised to Reids the full amount of the guarantee. It was only natural that the Opposition should respect being kept in the dark with respect to the new agreement.

SHOULD TABLE DETAILS.
Hon. Mr. Coaker said that he was not aware of any verbal agreement through which Reids could be paid the full amount of the guarantee. He did not think the House should be left ignorant of the details of the new agreement and was sure they would be tabled at the next sitting.

Mr. Walsh expressed his pleasure at the fact that the Opposition had compelled the Government to remove the kerosene oil duty. He thought that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries what had become of the fog alarm which had been promised for Point La Hève two years previously. The answers to the questions put to Mr. Coaker had certainly not been satisfactory. This could only be expected as the Minister had absolutely neglected his duty. He reviewed the attitude which Mr. Coaker had adopted in the House in the days when he was in Opposition. His actions in those days were far removed from those which characterized him to-day. To a great extent Mr. Coaker had been responsible for the Government losing so much money to the Reids. By his very act, said Mr. Walsh, the Minister had betrayed his country. This was a gross blunder. He had worked for Mr. Collishaw and for none else. The Minister, declared Mr. Walsh, was a misfit and was too lazy, too indolent, to look after his department.

Mr. Coaker attempted to explain the delay in granting the fog alarm to Point La Hève and became embroiled in a heated verbal battle with the member for Placentia, who told him he did not know what he was talking about. For several minutes both parties to the argument hurled abuse and defiance across the floor at one another, until the Minister was compelled to take his seat.

After the report of the Select Committee on the Municipal Bill had been presented, Mr. Archibald drew the attention of the House to the fact that the British Government had bought out the Western Union Cable Company and were sending men from England to take up positions which could be filled quite capably by local unemployed cable men. He did not think this was right.

The House then adjourned until this afternoon.

Craig Day at Grand Falls

GALA OCCASION FOR THE ODDFELLOWS.
With the coming of June, Grand Falls' Oddfellows begin to look forward to the annual visit of John A. Craig, P.G.M., P.G.P., P.G.R., for he brings such an atmosphere of good fellowship and fraternity with him, that he is as welcome as the first swallow. This year there was some doubt as to whether the railway trouble would stop his visit, but "Johnny" came by the sea to St. John's and managed to get to Grand Falls for a couple of days. Exploits Lodge No. 2, Esperance Rebekah Lodge No. 64, and Grand Falls Encampment No. 2, united in a social evening on June 7th to do honor to their distinguished visitor. Brother Craig paid a visit to the regular meeting of the Esperance Rebekah Lodge, and then the three branches of the order met in the Parish Hall, the lodge room being too small to accommodate the united gathering. Here there was the usual toast list, but the feature of the evening was the list of presentations which were as follows:—Brother Albert Hann, P. G., and Sister May Ballam, P.N.G. received the Craig Jewels; Bro. Geo. LeMoine, P. G., received a P. G.'s Jewels from Exploits Lodge; Sisters Collins and Morgan received P.N.G.'s Jewels, suitably inscribed from Bro. Craig, while Sister Petrie, P.N.G., received a P. G.'s Rebekah Pin from the same source. In recognition of several years' splendid service as Financial Secretary, Bro. Bartle, P. G., was presented with $20 in gold from Exploits Lodge, No. 2. Then Brother Craig came in for his share of the good things. Exploits Lodge and Grand Falls Encampment united in giving an album of 100 Grand Falls Views, while Esperance Rebekah Lodge presented a set of sleeve links of Labradorite set in gold.

During the evening Bro. Craig gave a fine address on the Home Fund and briefly sketched the situation and attraction of the several properties which the Home Fund Committee had visited. The various lodge speakers warmly enlisted Bro. Craig for the inspiration and help he has afforded Odd-fellowship in Grand Falls, while Bro. Craig in his turn spoke of the pleasure he derived from these trips. The refreshments served by the Rebekahs were up to their usual high standard, and were much appreciated. The social closed with a short dance which ended a little after midnight.

On the following night (Thursday) the regular meeting of Exploits Lodge was held, and Bro. Craig was again present with his helpful advice, stimulating the brethren to the daily practice of our principles. We all hope Bro. Craig may make a longer stay next year to enjoy the entertainment provided for him at Grand Falls.

"Unseen Forces"
IS A PICTURE OF THRILLS AND SUSPENSE—TREMENDOUS STORY AT THE NICKEL TOMORROW.

Without a doubt the most intensely fascinating photoplay of its kind ever produced dealing with the power of intuition of an individual will be the attraction extraordinary at the Nickel to-morrow, "Unseen Forces." The leading star is "the beautiful Australian actress, Sylvia Breamer." With a powerful love interest the story is fairly brimming over with dramatic and emotional situations offering Sylvia Breamer the biggest opportunity of her career. Just as the title would indicate, the story deals with "unseen forces." In it Sylvia Breamer has the role of Miriam Holt, known as "the girl who sees around corners." The childhood romance of Miriam and Clyde Branton ripens into real love, but an unfortunate incident serves to part the lovers. Branton marries another woman, soon runs the step he has taken, and when he later returns to St. Petersburg, but was eventually discovered, and in April, 1903, only a little more than a year after the attempted appeal to the Tsar, he entirely disappeared.

Father Gapon was among those who escaped, and, for a time, he was compelled to live in Switzerland and in various other parts of Europe, seeking in every way to help his unfortunate fellow-countrymen. Finally, in disguise, he ventured back to St. Petersburg, but was eventually discovered, and in April, 1903, only a little more than a year after the attempted appeal to the Tsar, he entirely disappeared.

What became of him has never become known, and many Russians believe that he is still alive. Others assert that he was imprisoned. So many conflicting reports were circulated that no grain of reliable truth can be found. He may be alive, he may be dead. But if he is alive, why

The first baseball game for the season takes place tomorrow on St. George's Field, when the Red Lions and Cubs will open the season. The game starts at 2.30 p.m. and it is anticipated that a large number of fans will be present. Hon. Tasker Cook, the Mayor, will toss the first ball over the plate, officially declaring the season open. Amongst those who will witness the game will be his Excellency the Governor, and Sully, and Sir R.A. Squires. Messrs. F. V. Chesman and P. J. Grace will officiate in the field, while Messrs. WHERE IS FATHER GAPON?
Father George Gapon was born in a miserable hotel in a remote Russian village. He was the son of the poorest of parents—yet he was a born leader of men. For many years he laboured among the peasant classes, trying to effect a betterment of their conditions, and, in 1904, when there was a great strike among the workmen, Gapon's influence became very manifest. The people loved him, they trusted him, and they followed him wherever he commanded.

His Feelings Hurt.
Alfred Fair, described as a managing director, and whose address was given as the Sports Club, St. James's Square, who rang the bell of a police station cell and said he could not get an answer, was very angry about it at Marlborough Street station, where he was charged with being drunk and incapable in the early hours of the morning, says the London "News."
"I was treated with the most awful indignity," he said in a hurt tone. "I was down in a cell, and when I rang the bell nobody answered it."
Mr. Mead (magistrate): "The service must be very bad at the police station. (Laughter.)"
Fair told the magistrate that his salary was £10,000 a year.
He had been dining, he said, at Park Lane, "and when I got outside I was arrested. I was in a case of sheer Bobbery."
A fine of 10s. and 10s. costs were inflicted.

New Contestant for the Fisherman's Race.

Description of "Mahaska," a Lunenburg Entry With Which it is Hoped to Trim "Bluenose" off Halifax Next Autumn.

(By AGNES G. McGUIRE in Saturday Night, Toronto.)

It should see some real sport when the various contestants in the Lunenburg Fisherman's Race Elimination Series, because one or two new clippers are expected to appear. The "Mahaska" is a new entry, preparatory to spreading its wings in the effort to capture the Fisherman's Trophy, which will be sailed to Gloucester to contest the International Cup.

The latest aspirant for honors is "Mahaska," a saucy trim, counting craft which left the ways of Lunenburg yard on the morning of March 28th, during a gale, which did not quench the enthusiasm of hundreds of spectators assembled to see the launch of a possible champion. As the "Mahaska" was knocked out and the "Bluenose" started her slide to the sea, she port, wip, crashed her bow, and she received her "Mahaska" from Fred Mack, the 22-year-old son of Captain Emiel C. Mack, who will command her. This is an Indian origin, is taken from the name of the late Albert, and has the trade name of "Bluenose" for the sake of a belief along the line of the name of the fisherman, and many of the Lunenburg fleet have such names.

The "Mahaska" is a 120-foot boat, which is being built that last champion the "Bluenose," got her name coming, without the aid of any particular power.

George A. Rhuland, of Lunenburg, is the designer of the "Mahaska" and Rhuland, the well-known Lunenburg designer, the "Mahaska" is a sleek looking craft and is as freely offered as to her name as last year's favorite "Bluenose" and the "Bluenose" is not a racer. It is a 120-foot boat, which is being built that last champion the "Bluenose," got her name coming, without the aid of any particular power.

the previous year, and made such a splash showing last year with the newer type of contestant. No matter how pleased the backers of the "Bluenose" were at her winning, the real sporting fight made by the "Delawans" will long be remembered by the fans who cheered her to the echo. She was a typical Lunenburg fishing schooner and freighter, of the former type, built with no thought of racing, and her performance in the race was highly creditable.

A member of the firm of W. C. Smith & Company rather deprecated the idea of "Mahaska" being a contestant in the race because she was "smaller than the other schooners," but that is characteristic of Lunenburg, to be cautious until the racing fever starts its epidemic. I have no fear but that "Mahaska" will race; whether she will beat "Bluenose" will be proved. Remembering the performance of that aquatic greyhound as she tore along the homeward stretch last year, I am heartily in accord with the small boy who said, "She'll have to do some travelling."

Captain Emiel C. Mack, generally called "Paddy," is probably one of the best known of the Lunenburg skippers. His name is familiar to all fishermen of the Atlantic coast. He has sailed out of Lunenburg for 22 years, nineteen of which he has been master. Last year he stayed at home and was a buyer of fish for H. R. Silver, Ltd., of Halifax. He is noted for knowing what he wants and usually getting it, and is always on the alert for improvements in type. He was the first to introduce the semi-knockabout and later the knockabout model in the Lunenburg fleet. He believes, however, that the semi-knockabout is the speedier craft. He is a real fish killer and will make the "Mahaska" a paying proposition and can be depended upon to get all the speed out of her that she will yield.

This year will see thousands of persons in Halifax for the big Atlantic Meet. Already, people are laying plans so that nothing will conflict with the marine Derby. There will be entered some of the former contestants who have a large number of adherents.

The backers of "Bluenose" are still confident she will win; those favoring "Mahaska" know she will win. Mahone Bay will put in a handsome new craft, the "Patara" sailed by Captain Levinus Wentzell, and built by the firm of J. Ernst and Sons, of Mahone Bay. Her dimensions are: 130 feet over all, 27 feet beam and 10 feet depth of hold. Should you talk to her crew, the others "haven't a chance" and "there ye a-a-r-re."

WEALTHY FOLK WHO BECAME DESTITUTE.
A ragged old woman, who for years was known to frequenters of the French Central Markets as the "Chinese Princess," was found dead in her garret the other day.
Her death certificate read: "An unknown beggar-woman described as the 'Chinese Princess.' The police authorities could reveal her identity, but they decided that it would be wiser not to do so."
Thirty-five years ago the woman was a famous Parisian beauty of high rank. She was married to an elderly gentleman. One day, during his absence from Paris, she went with a party to rather shady resorts where revelry approaching the character of Eastern orgies was indulged in.
The next morning she found herself lying in a garret where she had been taken by those who had drugged and robbed her. She made her way back to her mansion, but found, to her dismay, that her husband had returned unexpectedly.

Some time before the war a young man in tattered clothes, with his left arm in a sling, entered the police-station in the Rue Reaumur, Paris, and handed to the inspector a valuable ring which he had found. When asked for his name, he produced papers of identity, and it was discovered that he was Viscount Osoin de Bourgoigne, son of General Bourgoigne, who held a high command in the French Army a good many years ago.
The visitor stated that he had passed through the Cavalry School of Saumur to take a commission in the army, but a motor-car accident left him with a paralyzed arm, which destroyed all hopes of a military career. At the time, this unhappy man had been living in a garret.
KING WHO DIED PENNILESS.
Mlle. Bernadine Hamasch, a famous singer, died in a hospital in Brussels from wounds inflicted by herself owing to destitution. She sang in 1857 at the Mass at the baptism of the Prince Imperial, the son of Napoleon III, and the Empress Eugenie, who was killed in the Zulu War of 1879.
Mme. Emelka Engetvari, a popular Hungarian actress and a famous beauty between the years 1850 and 1875, died a few years ago in the workhouse at Mohakoz, Hungary.
It may not be generally known that the King of Corsica, who was crowned in 1736, died penniless in a shop in 1806, London, and was buried in the churchyard which surrounds St. Anne's Church in that parish.
He came to England in 1738, where he was arrested for debt and thrown into prison. On his release he took up his residence with a tailor in Soho. There King Theodore, as the monarch was named, died penniless, a king only in name, his subjects having refused to recognise him.—Tit-Bits

Christian Women in Paris Wear Veils.
DO NOT, HOWEVER, DON THE MOHAMMEDAN "CHADAR."
The women of Paris—like the Mohammedan women of every other country—go about their duties, when called into the streets with veils which hide their faces from the eyes of passers-by. Tradition tells us that one day when Mohammed was with his favorite wife, Ayesha, who was unveiled, all women then were, a stranger happened to see her lovely face, became enamored of her, and offered to buy her at the price of one camel. It is said this so angered Mohammed, the prophet decreed that women, thereafter, should wear veils to hide their faces from the gaze of other men.
But, although "the better class" of Persian women are not, often seen upon the streets, many of their humbler sisters walk abroad almost as freely as do the women of any other country. Oddly enough, also, Christian women as well as Mohammedan women wear the veil out of doors. This is by force of custom. Yet one can tell a Mohammedan woman from a Christian, even though both are veiled, because the Mohammedan woman wears an all-enveloping garment called "chadar"—and Christian women never wear this cloak.

In their homes, of course, where Persian women gather to gossip and sip tea, and do all the other simple things which form their amusements, they go unveiled in the women's private quarters. But when they go for a picnic, it is an odd sight to see the little party start off, in carriages, on camels or donkeys or afoot. Each woman is so veiled and so wrapped up in her chadar that she looks like a shapeless bundle rather than a woman.
One of the curious things about these outdoor teas is that each woman contributes something to the picnic, even though one may have elected herself the hostess. So off they go, each woman carrying some contribution to the tea. One bears the charcoal, the other the teapot; another the sugar, another the samovar, and the son on.

Just Folks
THE YOUNG OLD WORLD.
Seems the good old earth rejoices At the sound of children's voices. And it never seems too weary Of the brave hearts and the cheery Men grow old and tired and fretful, Worn and feeble and forgetful, But the good old earth still sprightly Wears her centuries but lightly.

Strife and stress through the ages Are recorded in her pages, But each year the birds come winging To the orchards with their singing, And the month of June discloses All the beauty of her roses, Fresh and fragrant, graceful, slender, With the old-time youthful splendor.

She comes smiling to her duty, Never tired of weaving beauty, Never weary of repeating Loveliness however fleeting; In the far untrodden spaces Still she paints a thousand graces, Always youthful in endeavor, Yielding fruit and bloom forever.

Seems the good old earth rejoices At the sound of children's voices And grows never tired of giving To the charm and joys of living. Ages old have come and vanished, Men have flourished and been banished, Buildings rise and fall and moulder, But the earth seems never older.

PLAYTIME.

"And all the world rejoice
For playtime now is here.
And playtime is a gaytime,
The best time of the year."

WANTS MORE!

Dear Sir—As an old player it was with interest I read in last night's Telegram the resume by Friend "On-looker" of the first year of League Football in Newfoundland. To show the remarkable adaptability of Newfoundlanders it is interesting to note that the year following (1897) the Stars and C.L.B. climbed from 8th and 7th to tie for second place, which was won by the latter in a play-off. The C.E.L. from spoonholders the previous season, climbed up to fourth position. Of course, the Saints with such experience and talent as that possessed by Peter Mars, Arch Munn, Walker, Black, Stan Roger, and Harvey Jardine again won out, but it was not long before they too had to succumb to the prowess of the "townies" who had only recently acquired a knowledge of the game.

Some more old time reminiscences by "On-looker" would I assure you, Mr. Editor, be a veritable treat to the readers of your column.
Yours faithfully,
OLD-TIMER.

PLAY BALL!

The baseballers and their executive have determined to put some of the old time vim into their efforts this year, with the result that tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the season will open in a gala manner. Mayor Cook has very kindly consented to throw the first over and thus formally declare the season open, and no one can deny but that the Mayor has an assortment of very nice curves. His Excellency the Governor and suite will be present, and will be received by the executive consisting of Messrs. Orr, Higgins and Thomas. The Lions and Cubs will open the series, and fans may expect the usual fireworks when something unexpected turns up to disturb the usually tranquil spirits of Bill Callahan and Claude Hall.

THE FOOTER'S RECREATION.

If I liked walking mile on mile
This Golf would be about my style.
If I disliked my eyes and nose
I'd box and take a lot of blows.
If in the surf I'd like to soak
I'd learn the crawl and trudgeon stroke.
If I were old and liked to doze
I might try chess and dominoes.
But I can't see these sports at all—
I'm waiting for the spiel, "Play Ball!"
And I'll be there, Bo, if I crawl!

ST. BON'S SPORTS.

It was an excellent idea on the part of those in charge of the Sports to include in the programme the outside events such as the 2 1/2, and 1/2 mile, and will certainly add interest to the school events. All our local roadsters are availing of the 2 mile event and among those entered are Taylor, Thorburn, Murray, Stoyles, Kelly, Dunphy, Redmond, and the plucky little O'Tools, who made such an excellent showing against Jack Bell in the A.A.A. 5 mile marathon last year. Eddie Eshlan, Egan and Skinner are among those doing the 1/2 and 1/4 mile. Another interesting event will be the Relay Race between the Past and Present pupils. Teams are being served at a nominal fee by the lady friends of the College.

TURNED SEMI-PRO!

Eddie McNoley, who had a professional engagement here at the Crescent last winter is now manager of the Providence semi-pro team, and according to newspaper clippings received is evidently burning-up the Rhode Island League.

IS LL.

It is most unlikely that Billy Burke of the B.L.S. will be able to play in to-morrow night's game, as since Friday he has been confined to his home. Should he be unable to play his services will be greatly missed against the formidable Felidians.

GUARDS WIN OPENING GAME.

A slippery field, and a greasy, heavy ball, somewhat marred the first game in the League Football series, played on St. George's Field last night. The game was between the Guards and the C.L.B. Old Comrades, and the former won by 4 goals to nil. The attendance was a record one, nearly 1500 spectators being present. On the whole the game was good, but the disadvantages referred to above were responsible for a good deal of bad shooting and poor combination. The Guards had the best of play from the start and succeeded in scoring within a very few minutes after the whistle had gone. Coultas obtained the goal from a wing shot. Efforts by the C.L.B. to equalize were unsuccessful, while some excellent tending was got in by their goalkeeper, who received several calls. A penalty near half time enabled the Guards to bring their score up to two for the first period. The efforts of the C.L.B. in the second half to find their opponents' net were futile, although the wind was in their favour. Early in the half, some pretty play on the part of the Guards forwards gave them their third goal, and the final score was obtained a bare minute before the end.

HIS DIARY.

June 12th.—A very foul wet day, but warm. The talk is in the highest degree of the railway and what will be done with it. Abroad sometimes and to meet Mr. Reid, he being about to attend a meeting of the Cabal. I did ask him the news of the railway and he did smile mightily pleasant, and did say how it was very hopeful. This I did take to mean that there will be an arrangement which will favor his company. So to the office of the Prime Minister, and I learn from Sir R. Squires how there is an agreement made, and the railway will not close down, but will operate till the autumn, but that the House will adjourn for many months. This is, I think, a strange thing, that the railway company being averse to operating, will yet consent to continue for some time, and must make a big payment of money by the Cabal. I did hear to-day, also, how Mr. Coaker did have a falling out with Mr. Reid about the Humber scheme, he trying to put it through with no authority, and is now heartily against the Reids and their plans about the railway. I did this day pay $20 for a racquet to use at tennis but my wife mighty angry, and says I will spend money on my own selfish wants, but when she wants a new hat or another dress, will refuse it. To appease the wrath, I did give her the promise of a hat for the summer, whereas she falls about my neck and embraces me, which I like not to be done by my wife. The House, in the afternoon, in a mighty heat about the railway, and the Opposition demands more information. The Prime Minister did appear to be in a great rage, but Mr. Coaker, being there for the first time, did mind it not a bit.

COULD NOT GO ACROSS ROOM, BUT NOW ABLE TO WALK SIX MILES.

I cannot express to you my thanks for your Heart Tablets as I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I had heart trouble for fifteen years and would have had spells so that I would have to sit up for five or six weeks at a time, only getting two hours rest out of forty-eight. I had smothering spells and would have to be fanned for hours at a time, and the pain at my heart was so severe that I would think that every minute would be my last. My heart would beat so fast that I could not count the beats, and would then stop altogether and my breath would be so short that I would sink away in fainting spells. Many different physicians treated me, and one specialist stated that I had the worst affected heart of any he had ever treated and that it was impossible for me to be cured. I was not able to walk across my room on account of my heart, but am now able to go six miles on one walk. I was not expected to live by any of my friends, and they now all ask me: "What did you take to cure yourself?" I am looking well, and my heart never troubles me and it has been six years since I took the Tablets. My son was taken with the grip and was not able to work for five weeks. His heart troubled him so I advised the use of your Heart Tablets, and in three days he was well and has not lost a day's work. I shall do all I can to recommend your medicine.

Above Heart Tablets are sold at $1.00 per box at all Drug Stores, or write to P. O. Box 913, St. John's for further information.

The War Memorial.

DESIGN COMMITTEE MEET.
 The Design Committee in connection with the War Memorial met at the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon, when preliminary matters in connection with the Memorial were discussed. Mr. Robinson of the Government Engineer's Office who was present, kindly offered his services to survey the site on the Beach and make blue prints. It was also arranged that Lt. Col. Nangle interview the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and the Harbour Master with a view to receiving permission to have the leading light included in the memorial. It was decided at the meeting that a list of the subscribers to the memorial will be placed in a recess in the base of the proposed monument. The Design Committee will meet the General Executive Saturday next, and report.

An Excellent Show.

"FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY" A GREAT SUCCESS.
 Even the author, George M. Cohan, would not have been able to find any fault with the manner in which his famous musical comedy was performed at the Casino last night. The stage settings were as good as was possible, with the limited scenery at hand, and the acting was all that the most exacting critic could desire. The scenes of the show in New Rochelle and it abounds in amusing situations which combined to keep the audience in a continuous fit of laughter. Many of the numbers are exceedingly catchy and were encored several times. Mary Jane Jenkins is not the type of stage name that Miss Ruth Oswald is accustomed to, but the manner in which she portrayed the petite housemaid was true to life in every detail, and showed her to be a character actress of no mean order. In her scenes with Billy Clifton her acting was splendid. Miss Torrey made a delightful Florida Dean, but then it was not necessary for her to act when portraying a footlight favourite. She has only to be herself and the audience does the rest. Miss Thropp was the ideal stage mother-in-law, and it is very fortunate that there are so few sterner members of the weaker sex. She was a very good reason why men leave home. Poor James Liddy earned the sympathy of the entire audience whenever he had to put up with a lecture from his iron character mother-in-law.

The Land of Upside Down.

ALL ABOUT GEISHA GIRLS IN FAIR JAPAN.
 When an Englishman decides to go to the theatre, or the music-hall, he likes to take his wife or sweetheart with him. In Japan this is "not done." Japanese ladies do not go about in public with their men-folk. Their places are filled by geisha. These are girls who are trained from their youth up to make themselves agreeable to men. By noticing the local "geisha exchange" in any Japanese city or town, you can hire a geisha to come and dine with you and amuse you with her bright and witty conversation, to dance to you, to sing or play to you, to go picnicking or joy-riding with you; to be, in short, a merry comrade to you for so long as you may require her services. All this, too, is quite "usual"—it is the recognized way of going on. Geisha girls often marry quite well. Occasionally, even, young Japanese aristocrats take geisha for their wives, just as young English noblemen marry chorus girls. Many geisha are scarcely more than children, and with their sweet, bright, happy little faces, and their bewitching brilliant flowered-silk costumes, are altogether fascinating. Once at a party in a great house in Tokyo—writes Mr. Julian Street in "Mysterious Japan"—I saw a score of these little creatures scampering down a broad flight of stairs, making a picture that was like nothing so much as a mass of autumn leaves blown by a high wind. It is often said that the Japanese never kiss. This is not quite true. They do kiss occasionally in their own homes, but never outside them. So strong, indeed, is the feeling against kissing in public that when moving pictures were first taken in Japan, the audiences there hooted at the tender passages! And because of that, such parts are now cut from films before they are shown in Japan. The work of cutting is done by an American who lives in Tokyo, and who has made up what is probably one of the strangest films in the world by assembling all the cuts into one long reel of kisses!

Called World's Strongest Fort.

BUILT ON GREAT ROCK IN HEART OF CEYLON.
 The world's best known fortress is the Rock of Gibraltar; but the strongest and strongest and best known is far away in the heart of Ceylon. It is known as the Lion's Rock, and also as Sigiriya. Rearing some 600 feet in the centre of a lonely jungle-covered plain where only tigers and wild elephants roam, it is unknown to the world at large, and its historic past untold. Its shape is like a domed pillar. The sides are nearly perpendicular and in all but one place the top actually overhangs the walls. Standing in the heart of a flat plain it is a natural wonder, and remarkably suited to form a fortress impregnable. In the fifth century Ceylon was the home of a great nation, made up of people from India who came some 1100 years before. In the fifth century a prince named Kasapa, killed his father and assumed the throne, and would have killed his sister and only brother Mogallana had not Mogallana escaped in time to the court of the Indian King. The capital of the kingdom, which was noted for its magnificence, was at Anuradhapura. Kasapa was much afraid his brother would return with an army from India and revenge himself and take the throne which was rightfully his, how that his father had been murdered. So Kasapa bethought himself of a wonderful rock fortress of Sigiriya, a couple of days' march distant. But the rock was so sheer that, while its top would make the strongest fortress in the world, there was no way to scale it. Still, Kasapa was determined. So he called the most skilled engineers in the kingdom in council. They set to work with thousands of slaves to assist them. They cut into this great pile of granite a winding stairway up the face of the rock, and laid a wonderful floorway of solid brickwork, covered with limestone slabs. The stairway or causeway was further protected by wonderful wall some nine feet high and four feet thick. Around the rock this wonderful causeway wound. At the northeast side and about two-thirds of the way up as a further protection an enormous lion was built through which the passage led. Between the paws of the lion huge and magnificent gates of iron were hung. Beyond this the way led to a point so steep that steps of stone were cut for

The Land of Upside Down.

His singing, however, was not in the least marred by the cruel treatment meted out to him. Billy Clifton was his old irrepressible self. He would make one laugh at one's own funeral, and was responsible last night for many aching sides. The minor roles were all well sustained and reflected credit on those who portrayed them. This is a show which is well worth seeing. It is being repeated to-night.

Slow Paper.

Eugene Field was always a cheerful debtor, and H. H. Kohlssat tells the latest story of his cheeriness in this regard: William E. Curtis, of whom Field borrowed $150 some years before, came to Chicago from Washington. He called on the poet and reminded him of his debt. Next day Field printed this paragraph in his column: "William E. Curtis, the well known correspondent of the Chicago Record, is in the city for a few days looking after some of his permanent investments."

WHAT THE MACE SYMBOLISES.
 When the Mace is on the table there is a House; when the Mace is under the table it is a Committee; and when the Mace is neither on nor beneath the table, no business can be done in the House of Commons. "Under" the table, however, is not to be understood literally. When the House is in Committee the Mace is placed upon rests in front of but below the surface of the table. That is understood as "under." If the Sergeant-at-Arms, carrying the Mace, were to walk into a Committee-room, that Committee would be dissolved immediately. Oliver Cromwell knew how to break up a sitting of the House. "Come, come, I will put an end to your prating!" he said, and, as every schoolboy knows, he had the Mace removed. A Funny Incident. The present Mace dates from the reign of Charles II, and is a handsome piece of work. It bears the initials "C.R."

A funny incident occurred about the middle of last century. Members had gone down to a naval review at Spithead, and had arranged for a sitting at ten o'clock the same night. When members and Speaker were ready, no Mace could be found. It turned out that it was locked up. The official who had the key was in one of the later return trains, and was unable to reach Westminster until eleven o'clock.
