THE SEWING QUEEN.

From out all nations around her there drew. The fair and lovely, the honest and true, Greatly admiring this fair, royal one, And loudly praising the work she had done. There were Hems and Fells and Scallops all And Ruffles and Tucks all Braided around, And Cords that, were laid as straight as a line; Others were curved, and some serpentine; Embroidery too—there was every shade—And Scams as heavy as ever were ready. Simbroidery too—there was every shade—And Seams as heavy as ever were made!

They gazed with delight, as she whirled around So Light and Easy, with saarcely a sound. Her speed was terrific—she never grow tired; They verily thought she must be inspired. Her Thread was double, and her stitch a lock, Her work, so perfect, was all of their talk, And sweetly they sang—in a grand refrain—Lauding her merits—again and again.

Who is this fair one—so noble and grand—That calls forth such praises on every hand? For all who had heard, and those who had seen, Were anxious to learn the name of this Queen. When, lo! there appeared in resplendent flame A golden halo from that Goddess—Fame—Inclosing the words "Light Running Domestic". This is the name of the Queen majestic.

SEVEN MURDERERS SENT TO THEIR LAST ACCOUNT.

> New York, Jan. 6.-Martin Kinkowski vas hanged in Jersey City at 10.30 a.m. for the murder of Mina Muller in Opdyke's to call a special session of the court of par-don to consider the case. The news was broken to Kinkowski by the Rev. Mr. Meas, broken to kinkowski by the Rev. Mr. Maas, his spiritual adviser, and the former was exceedingly dejected, the more so as he had previously been unusually cheerful. The application for a reprieve was based on the letters recently published purporting to be a confession of John Braun that he and a man named Reymann had committed the murder at the instigation of Simon Muller, the murdered woman's husband. In the letter Braun said that Reymann had In the letter Braun said that Reymann had since committed suicide. District attorney McGill made a thorough investigation of the letters, and arrived at the conclusion that they were written by Kinkowski him-

A TYPO'S FATE.

ELMIRA, N.Y., Jan. 6.—Joseph E. Abbit twas hanged at 11.10 a.m. for the murder of George Reed, a fellow prisorter in Ellmira reformatory in April, 1880. He was twenty years of age and his former residence was Waterbury, Conn. He was sent from Utica to the reformatory for high way robbety. He was a printer by trade. He kept up his courage to the last, and kissed his brother Lawrence "good-bye" at the scaffold, exhibiting no fear. He said he expected he would meet with more merey in the other world than was accounted by his fellow men. He died innocent of the wilful murder. Death ensued in five minutes from strangulation. He was attended to the last by the Episcopal elergyman, and said his sins were forgiven.

New York, Jan. 6.—The Post says what the government has most to fear in the Guiteau trial is undoubtedly a disagreement of the jury. It is said two jurors had insanity in their own families. It is also reported Judge Cox has a distant relative whose mind is affected by an accident.

OSKALOOSA'S EXPLOSION. The Shattered Remains of Victims Found 150 Yards Away.

OSCALOOSA, Ia., Jan. 6.—The boys killed by the powder explosion yesterday were all of prominent families. There were seen to shoot at the building from a short distance, and then go up to see the results. They afterwards fired another shot, and then came the explosion The body of Phillips was found fifty yards down the hill, with the clothing nearly all gone, and the back portion of the head carried away. The body was otherwise horribly mangled. Stedeman was blown through a wire fence a hundred yards away, and was fearfully torn. Joyce was found in a creek one hundred and fifty yards away, with his head almost completely gone. The boys had been warned to quit. The damage to the city is very great. Most of the houses in the north half of Oskaloosa are badly wrecked, chimneys toppled, and flues cracked from top to bottom: The wreck of plate glass on the principal streets is nearly complete, and cannot be covered by $30,000.

WHAT HE CALLED A THIEF.

WHAT HE CALLED A THIEF. Hugh Mackenzie sued James E. Baullie, commission merchant, for calling him a thief, and the action was tried before Judge Osler and a jury yesterday. The defendant's explanation as given in his evidence, was that Mackenzie had purchased hams from him, and had not paid him. He waited for three years before he got a chance to garnishee certain monies due to Mackenzie. When he asked to be paid Mackenzie when he asked to be paid Mackenzie wore at him. Wm. Monteith asked him how all the commission men on Colborne-street existed? Witness replied that he himself was slowly starving, and that Mackenzie was what he called a thief, as Kavanagh could tell him. He was talking jocularly. On cross-examination by Hugh Mackenzie sued James E. Baullie, that Mackenzie was what he called a thief, as Kavanagh could tell him. He was talking jocularly. On cross-examination by Mr. Bigelow for the plaintiff he said that he received the money he garnisheed less certain costs. He did not say Mackenzie was a thief. The plaintiff testified that commission merchants had not spoken to him since the slander, that his credit at Molson's Bank had stopped and that his business had gone to the dogs. The jury gave a verdict of 25 cents damages, and the judge ordered each party to pay his own costs.

CRANK GUITEAU

The Court Taking a Rest—The Law Points of the Defence.

Washington, Dec. 6.—It is thought that after the court rules on the law points of the defence in the Guiteau trial to-morrow, an adjournment will be taken till Monday. The prayers of the defence have been subject to general discussion with the legal fraternity, particularly the one stating that if the jury believe the prisoner was responsible and he wilfully but without malice in the district of Columbia wounded the president, who subsequently died in New Jersey, then the jury should find prisoner guilty of manslaughter. This is regarded as a last resort of the defence. It is not believed the judge can rule favorably upon this prayer.

THE WORLD'S I. EPENDENCE.

It is pretty certain from the outspoken, trenchant utterances of the Toronto World that if it ever was drawn in the wake of the Globe or the Mail, it has cut the tow line, unreefed every sail, and is sendding before the wind at a lively rate. Its flag, which may be seen from afar, inscribed with the worl 'Independence' flutters gaily in the breeze. Although not prepared to endorse all its statements regarding the political situation, we are heartily glad to know that there is at least one journal in Canada that refuses to be dragged after the Globe or the Mail. It doesn't say much for the independence of journalism in Canada that so many of our local newspapers should be content to occupy the position of mere satelites of either one or the other; to reflect their light and give importance to them. We have always detested the arrogance and dogmatism of the Globe, and the unfairness and bitterness of the Mail towards its political opponents. The local press is to a great extent influenced by the dictum of these two leading political organs, and unfortunately drinks deeply into their spirit.

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 7, 1882. THE WORLD ONWARD.

of The World from all parts of Canada. The World is appreciated for the fearless questions; for the newsy character of its reading matter; for the hope it holds out of Canada becoming something more than a mere colony. The World is now read in every town and village of Ontario and in many places in the other provinces.

The World is forging ahead into the front rank, and at the present rate of progress it will soon be there.

THE NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

Ever since the erection of new huilding for the provincial legislature was proposed by Mr. Mowat, our respected confreres of the outside towns and rural districts have been down on the movement with a deter mination exactly proportioned to the amount they didn't know about it. From Sarnia to Ottawa, every country editor has sworn by his gods that, so far as in him lies, the wicked taxpayers of Toronto, rolling in wealth and laziness, shall not quadruple their colossal fortunes at the country's expense in this affairr. Now, we propose to say, in a few words, what money is to be made in the matter, and who is to get

Whether the building cost a million, or half a million, its cost is the cost of materials and of labor. The whole expenditure is to pay for these, and those who furnish them are the ones who will receive the money our country friends are so patriotically anxious concerning. Who is to furnish them? "Oh, Toronto, Toronto, Toronto!" cry with full chorus and mighty lungs the whole outside confederation. We really beg your pardon, gentlemen, nothing of the scrt. The monopolizing money-grabbing rascals you are so vigorously denouncing be those of your own household. The country us unroll the garment before you, and

Where will the stone be purchased? From the quarries in the country. The sand? Same place. The lumber? In the to do with it, and, judging by the generous and liberal tone of their articles on the subject, they will be equally happy to hear that the laborers won't get any wages. Well, for the rest—the slates, the asphalt, the nails and ironwork, the paint, the everythin g in fact wanted, comes, in one word, from outside Toronto. There are none, or next to none, of them produced fiends. here. The expenditure for materials-probably two-thirds of the whole, goes elsewhere at one slap, and most of it right into the pockets of people in the much injured country districts-poor fellows. Then as to the labor. "Oh," cry our ontside friends, "you wicked city people will furnish that, and he paid for it. Come you cannot deny that. Yes, this is a new nothing of the sort. The counties will farnish the labor, and will get paid for it. Toronto, we are glad to say, has neither had of late, nor is likely to have, the labor to spare. Our workshops are fully employed—our laborers have twice raised their wages labor. He can not get it from the States; he will simply get it from our own country districts, or from the stream of European tricts, who will carry there the money they make here. Even the small proportion the contractors and architects get may stay in Toronto or may not. In many cases it has not. Now, do our anti-Toronto friends begin to see through the question? The expenditure is, most decidedly, to be in the country, not in the city.

If our country friends have anything more to say against the extravagance of a rich province building itself a decent parliament house when it badly needs it, let them air their economical articles again. They are not of a kind, let us tell them, to make a Canadian-however he may feel about the city-proud of his country.

However, do not let them accuse the city Toronto will get by parliament being here, Even those who never go to church will she gets now. The new buildings will not be injured by dropping an occasional bring no more members, no more clerks, no more residents here. Nav. she is even to lose by it, for it is proposed to sell the present site, the money obtained for it going, of course, to the credit of the province, and to take a site in the Queen's park -Toronto property - instead, a project which will spoil, if effected, our central and chief place of city relaxation.

Our outside confreres have, in short, for two years been barking up the wrong tree. Let it be a lesson to them, and tree. Let it be a lesson to them, and let them remember that all we have told he is the same man in his party that he lung troubles; neglected cold or damp feet them they knew all the while, if they had was five years ago. only used their own powers of thought, and not joined blindly in a cry, raised by some one who laughs to see them echo it Canadian papers have been too much used Mackenzie, if his health continues, will be a book for their ideas in the chief party power in the house, both in this parliato look for their ideas in the chief party power in the house, both in this parliajournals-sometimes rather empty wells to ment and the one to follow. How great showed up the too utterly vileness of the and men must be judged by their rela habit of using naughty words and the prac-tice of telling improper aneodotes, has rous-ed the ire of the editor of the Free Press, and he proceeds to demonstrate to Nicholas that one who understands the science may fill half a column with singularly strong anguage without using one of those per-difficulty of the task-arising possibly from that dearth of adjectives which is the weak ed when we say that the Free Press editor wrath "young Nick" and a "crank," and a "crazy Minerva" and a "brute." To be sure the editor tries to tone down the last two epithets by printing them in italics and trying to pass them off for Latin. but the deception is palpable. Besides, it is adding insult to injury, for it is equivalent to intimating that the editor don't thinks he can safely call him names he don't understand. Now, if Mr. Davin is not classical he is nothing. If, after this statement the Free Press man insists on

The Free Press accuses Mr. Davin of lavishing his sweetness on the Ottawa girls, in plain English of being spooney on them the assailant overshoots mark. The story is discredited by the fact, known to thousands, that Mr. Davin has seen Toronto girls. The Ottawa editor sets about an elaborate argument to prove that when Mr. Davin said that young men used swear words and told naughty stories, he must have meant Ottawa young men and not Toronto young men. This is a work of supererogation. Of course he didn t mean Toronto young men, for they never! never!!! are guilty of anything so horrid. Just here we may remind the Free Press that it does not better the case for the Ottawa young men, to insinuate that Mr. Davin wrote his letter after the ninth hour as it were, for in vino veritas.

We confess we are not a little puzzled to account for the Free Press man's wrathiness. For to us it seemed that Mr. Davin was carefully impersonal, and we can't see why our contemporary has felt personally called on to resent it. If Mr. Davin and the editor of the Free Press will pardon a Hibernicism we might say that if the latter's reply had preceded Mr. Davin's letter, there might be some reason to think the letter was specially aimed at the writer of the reply. But if it will help to preserve the peace and spare the capital the horrors of what otherwise threatens to prison, we are sure our country be a most regrettable feud, we don't South Simcoe is looked upon as the bonds friends will be happy to hear mind assuring our contemporary that Mr. due of Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin. No that country labor will have a good deal Davin did not intend any reflection on any- doubt if Mr. Davin cou ne connected with the Ottawa press.

Most unkindly the Free Press while calling Mr. Davin a crank alludes to Guiteau, and tells Sir John to beware the Ides of March and be warned by the fate of Garfield. To our mind if the editor don't speedily make an apology Sir John will not be the most risky risk for Ottawa insurance

Pew rents have often been condemned as departures from the apostolic program. It has been plausibly contended that the churches of to-day should follow the example of the churches of the fathers, and by making the preaching of the gospel ree, robbery you will perpetrate on the poor without money and without price, bring Atrocious! Horrible?" Now, within its influence those who have the truth of the matter is Toronto will do neither the money to pay pew rent nor the wherewithal to clothe themselves as pewholders are required to be clothed But this not an apostolic age. It is not an age of simplicity and self-sacrifice. It is an age of business, of money-getting and of money-spending. St. Peter never dreamt of such a cathedral as bears his last year. To erect the parliament build. name in Rome, nor would St. Paul recogings, any contractor will have to import nize as his own the pile that perpetuates the Pauline memory in protestant London. The bishops who claim to be the legitimate successors the apostles are better fed, clothed, housed and paid than the founders of their dynasty, and the exigencies of the age demand that they should be.

The Christianity of the present time has lost much of the spirit of primitive ages. It can not live upon the purely voluntary system, because this is a commercial age. Dr. Talmage tried the free seat plan in his Brooklyn tabernacle for ten years, but on Christmas day he announced that that plan was a failure, and that thenceforth the "pay as you go" method would be ad-

For his manliness, for his honesty, Mr. friends, the approval of his opponents.

THE PRESENCE IN ROME of Mr. Errington verted theological expressions against which families who have continued to remain loy Mr. Davin fulminated. Some idea of the at and wealthy Englishmen without be coming protestants, has excited considerable comment in the old country. It is admitpoint of the Queen's English-may be form-ted that, although not an accredited agent to the vatican. Mr. Errington carries "a finds it all impossible to relieve his pent up letter of confidence" from Mr. Gladstone to feelings without calling the object of his the pope. This admission arouses the suspicions of the Parnellites upon the one hand, and of the evangelical protestants upon the other. The recent creation of two English cardinals, both men of uncommon ability—and the protestantism of the Irish leadership lend color to the surmise that Mr. Gladstone contemplates the establishment of such relations with the holy see as will enable him to influence the catholi land leaguers through their spiritual ad visers. Such an alliance would prove both unuatural and unsuccessful. It would mingle religion and politics with a ven saying he is not classical, his blood be on geance. The land question can never b settled by either priests or preachers. It appertains to the realm of practical politics.

> THE OLD COMMON LAW still in force in this country is that the master is not re sponsible to a servant for injuries received through the negligence of a fellow servant do not recollect the reasoning on which the "sages of the law" defend this principle, but it is doubtless as sound as their argument against allowing illegiti mate children to inherit their father's pro perty-namely, that it would encourage mmorality! The simple layman would naturally reason that the servant does not choose his fellow: that the master has the choice of all the employes, and should b esponsible for their acts. In England the aw has been placed on something like ommon sense basis, but our legislature ha yet this work to perform.

> THE DEATH OF MR. LITTLE, M.P. for South Simcoe, has caused a great pricking up of ears among tory aspirants for parliaonstituency for any man who gets the tory nomination. WHAT IS A KISS?

A Vexed Question Answered by an Army of The puzzle editor of London Truth recently offered a prize for the best brief definition of a kiss. An immense number of answers were received and many of them published. The following list, containing the best of them, makes interesting reading:

A language all can understand, In any age and any land. A harmony in red (Grosvenor Gallery),
A kiss is a declaration of love by deed of mouth.

My definition's a commercial one,
A bill presented, and a stamp thereon.

The ever-fashionable sealskin.

The right of a mother,
The toy of a flirt,
The hope of a lover,
The true one's desert.

Love's proof impression taken both before And after letters, oddly, too, the more The print's repeated, the impression's stronger, And the true artist's effects last longer. A monosyllable ferm of communication composed by of bials, frequently used as a conjunction, a hough an article, and more common than proper.

A free press.

Child and mother's fond delight,
Lover's draught of sweetest bliss;
Woman's veil of keenest spite.

A popular abridgement of an old story, which, while judiciously curtailing the more involved passages of the narrative, robe it of none of its elequence and manages to preserve the author's mean-If fit material for a kiss you seek You need but two lips and a little cheek.

The key which opens the fatal door To thoughts unknown, unguessed before; But whether 'tis for weal or wee Those e'en who use it do not know. Two pairs of lips and a couple of fools, A kiss to be sweet must be under the nose, But sweeter by far when 'tis under the rose

The soft touch of a mother's lips on a sleeping infant's brow;
The impress warm, on a rosy mouth, that seals a lover's vow;
In joy or sorrow love's token sweet, when tongues no werd can speak;
Affection's last fond tribute press'd on the chill and changeless cheek.

Sir, kisses are many, and hard to define—
Some skim milk and water—some maddening wine;
But a kiss defined singly, by Venus' dove!
Should be the first clasp of strong fetters of love.

The best definition of a kiss?
Why barely, two mouthfuls of bliss.
It may mean little, it oft means much,
And oftener nothing at all;
And it's always off as soon as it's on,
And it's never the same to all.

What part of speech is it?

What part of speech is it? A noun some say.
Common and proper, yet no speech it hath,
Nor is it e'erapart. It takes away
The breath, to that we "tell it not in Gath."
Noun it may be, yet is its leading junction
To lead the lips to form a sweet conjunction.
