So you know all these things will be done well. We march exactly one hour, and half fifteen minutes. We have just halted for dinner. I can see the mountains all the way. We have lovely weather, but the sun is hot in the middle of the day and the nights are cold. I am marching although I have the right to ride. My feet stand it well, and I bathe them twice a day. The men were in swimming last night. I did not try it. The next best thing to the prairie to walk on is a velvet carpet. The turf is springy, and I go as I please, and so dodge any small wet places. We had the work road on the start. We only made six miles the first afternoon, rossing. Bow river and Moose creek. We made twenty-five yesterday, and can keep it up. Gen. Strange is three days march ahead, and we expect to have to fight our way through Blg Bear's Crees to join him. I am writing this standing on duty. T. The ground was thirsty and the downpour of yesterday with a little sunshine this morning will make very little difference either to the track or the steeplechase course.

That the sport promises to be good has been asserted over and over again and the pressure orbear giving any additional reasons therefor forbear giving any additional reasons therefor than those already given. Each race has filled well, and the class of horses is at least well up to the average.

The usual trial stakes, a wind-opener of three quarters of a mile, sets the ball a-rolling. Our old friend Disturbance is favorite in the betting and with a start should win, although the little daughter of Meteor and Lady Glasgow will probably push him along at his best. These two fit and well there would seem to be nothing else in the race. Disturbance is complaining a little of his ankle, and last night there were unconfirmed runors that he might be an absence, and falling him Minnie Meteor has our vote. Director, the son of Disturbance, if he can be got to go, may be well up at the finish, and Inspector should not be miles in the rear, although we have no fancy for him.

A courier has reached Calgary with what is now believed to be reliable news from Gen-Strange and the column operating against west, acknowledges with thanks the follow additional subscriptions to this fund:

Big Bear. The general has deemed it best not to move east of Victoria as rereliable scouts had reported Big Bear's outfit in the Smoke Hills district north of Sadd'elake. It is a most maccessible country and is well chosen for defensive operations. McDonald, the courier, further stated that a halfbreed prisener who escaped from Big Bear's camp is now with Gen. Strange and wil at the proper time identify those Indians who committed excesses and overt acts. He says all the white prisoners with Big Bear are being well treated. He denies the story of Mrs. Delaney's death and ill treatment.

The settlers around Edmonton have put in no crop so far, being afraid of the result of the rebellion. Fighteen bull teams with one hundred and fifty thousand pounds of supplies for Edmo ton expedition are now here ready for march, but there is no escort. The courier also contradicts the rumor of an engagement with Big Bear by Capt. Steele. The bodies of Corporal Code and Privates Hardesty, Fraser and Watson 1 ft Mose Jaw last night and arrived to night.

Cimmissioner Witgley has received a despatch confirming the Felease of Chas. Bremner with twenty-one teamsters captured by Indians. He had just arrived with a flag of truce and a letter from Poundmaker for peace.

The teamsters were delighted at their re-by Indians. He had just arrived with a flag of truce and a letter from Poundmaker for peace.

The teamsters were delighted at their release. They state that while on the trail they were surrounded by 100 Indians. They had no e-cort and but little ammunition, and yielded to the demand to surrender their arms. The indians promised them an escort, but the Stonies compelled them to return to camp, where they were well assated. Poundmaker was very polite, and the haltbreeds wyited upon them and attended to their warts. Three bags of newspapers were in the mails captured, and were opened. The news of the surrender of Riel demoralized the Indians, they returning the prisoners and offering teams atto, if wanted, four for days.

Jefferson, a farm instructor, wrote a letter, and the answer was that they would have to treat with General Middleton.

Halfbreeds say that the Indian force at Cut Knife creek was four hundred and fifty, and that the total force was about five hundred. The Indians were caught mostly asleep and were obliged to fight. Riel's emissary and two other halfbreeds were in the fight. After the battle Poundmaker waoted to go to the Rockies, but the Stonies would not let him. Little Poplar is now with Big Bear. The latter was invited thrice to join Poundmaker, but sent no answer. Big Bear was not in the fight, but one of his sona was. The Indian loss is stated to have been fitty killed and seventeen wounded. It is stated that Big Bear has been illtreating his prisoners. THE CIRCULAR NOTE FORGERS. Extensive Operators. Osgod fell deadin the fight with Poundmaker and was buried by the halfbreeds who obtained the necessary permission from the chief. Elliott according to the halfbreeds fell unhurt and traveled toward the trail in the open. Other Indians surrounded him and he fell after using his rife to the last.

An escort consisting of fifty men of the Queen's Own, some police under Col. Herchmer and two guns leave on Saturday to fetch forty wagons of supplies and ammunition, including the gifts of the ladies of Toronto. Fontaine, the scout, was shackled at night in the Indian camp.

Simcoe regiment under Col. Oliver arrived here this evening from "Fort Qu'Appelle, which they left on the morning of the 13th, thus making the distance of 130 miles in seven days' consecutive marching.

Lieut. Merritt telegraphs from Humboldt that he and fourteen of the governor-general's body guard succeeded on Tuesday evening in capturing White Cap and twenty-two of his tribe. After hard riding on Sunday Troopers McNab and Shimms while on a reconnaissance captured Moosoque, White Cap's right hand man. The Sloux led the cavalry party to the last camping ground of White Cap, and for two days the trail of the chief was followed rapidly. The Indians travelled all night, and were making for the South. Peter McDonald, from the Carrot river settlement, assisted the Indian in following the trail. The Indians had just killed a bear, and the cavalry men helped them to dispose of some rump steak. White Cap states that armed halforeds and Crees threatened to shoot him if he did not join Riel. The hostiles took all White Cap's oxen, killed and ate them. He deceived the Indians with all manner of promises. The cavalcade, which rode into camp, was decidedly a unique one headed by Mrs. White Cap on Lieut. Fleming's charger, that officer having gallantly offered a mount to the distinguished lady. Lieut. Merritt telegraphs from Humboldt lowed rapidly. Sir Alexander paid a high tribute to the devotion and bravery displayed by the troops in the Northwest. Poundmaker has not actually surrendered up to the time of writing, but he has made overtures and has released the teamsters recently captured, all of whom, by the way, state that they were not nearly so harshly treated as they might reasonably have expected.

BATURDAY MORNING MAY 23, 1884

The New York Herald recently spoke contemptuously of Gen. Middleton and his "toy" soldiers. These said "toy" soldiers have given their neighbors a lesson on how to suppress an Indian rising by which it is to be hoped they will profit. Our men have proved themselves by their deeds, and, in the opinion of Gen. Middle ton and all those best able to judge, no only able to fight and brave and cool under fire, but have shewn the whole world that Canada has most excellent grounds for exerting her claim to nationality, in so far as she is perfectly competent to defend herself and her glori-

.Next to the capture of Riel the surrender of White Cap and the offer to treat of Poundmaker come in importance. White Cap was one of the first to give in his adhesion to Riel and from the beginning, actively used his influence with Beardy and the other chiefs to induce them to lift aloft the standard of rebellion. He and his braves took a prominent part in the Fish creek fight, and were well to the fore in the field at Batoche. It is, however, said that after Fish creek he was anxious to come in, but Dumont, by causing exaggerated accounts of the loss of Middleton's force to be circulated, and by collecting twenty or thirty supporters together to make the famous ride of defiance after the engagement to prove that the victory was with them, succeeded in overcoming the weakness of the chief until he his profession of divine inspiration accomplished the rest and White Cap was induced to renew his vows of everlasting fealty to the rebel cause. When the forces commenced their charge White Cap and his warriors were the first to seek safety in flight and the half-breed prisoners assert were largely the cause of the subsequent

Of Poundmaker sufficient is already known. Half-starved, he and his councillors saw in adhesion to the rebel cause plenty to eat and drink for a time and their natural predatory instincts were aroused. To Poundmaker's great credit it can be said that, although Instructor Payne was treacherously mur. dered, he has not been guilty of such atrocious barbarities as are laid to the door of that other infamous Cree chief, Big Bear. Beyond the murder aforesaid, which must be attributed to individuals rather than to the tribe as a whole, Poundmaker and his braves have been guilty of no more than looting and burning and armed resistance to authority. It is consequently thought comparatively lenient terms will be offered to Poundmaker, while Big Bear and his braves will have to be made the objects of braves will have to be made the objects of exemplary justice.

With the collapse of the Northwest rebellion and the adoption by both sides at Ottawa of a more conciliatory attitude on the franchise bill, it is likely that public business at the capital will now be pushed through and the measure of relief for the C. P. adopted. In that case there is no likelihood of the strike among the men of the road, predicted by the Globe, taking place. Mr. Van Horne admitted yesterday that the pay car was late in getting round, but it would soon be along, and then the men, if they saw fit to strike in the meantime, would be sorry for taking such a course.

newspaper, but Lieut. Merritt had the good fortune to be present when White Cap surrendered, and the opportunity was too good to be lost, so with all speed he hastens to the telegraph office and sends a despatch to the Mail announcing that Lieut. Merritt and a party of fourteen of the Governor-General's Body Guard have captured the chief Sioux who assisted Riel. Does the minister of militia or Gen. Middleton think it right that officers of the a.my should send news of their actions to specially favored newspapers? Possibly the "energetic liar" of the Mail will deny that the despatch was sent by Mr. Merritt, butthe initials W. H. M. are too well known to be disputed.

PHENOMENAL PROGRESS. e Mutual Reserve Fund Life Associa-tion's New Business for 1884—Facts and Figures Which Speak for Them-selves—Favorable Instead of Adverse Legislation — New Business for the most sanguine among its extended circle of friends. In a period of four years the membership of the Association has increased to over 23,000, with insurance amounting to almost $38,000,000; figures which afford the best of evidence that its admirable system is being duly appreciated.

From the New York Review. The remrkable popularity of the system of ife insurance devised by Mr. E. B. Harper, President of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life association, has been a surprise to even the nost sanguine among its extended circle of ciends. In a period of four years the mem.

As the constantly increasing volume of business also affords the best refutation of the many falsehoods regarding the Association, which have been circulated by its less successful competitors, the following figures are eminently worthy of perusal:—increase of membership during 1884, 6934, with increase in insurance amounting to $38,795,750. Turning to the new business done in the city and State of New York, where the Association is best known and appreciated, we find it smounted in 1884 to $16,185,000; one-half greater than that of the Equitable Life Assurance Society for the same period; nearly double that of the Mutual Life, and nearly three times larger than that of the New York Life; taking out the two companies first named, and the new business obtained by the Mutual Reserve Fund Association exceeded that of all the other companies by nearly $1,500,000 and was more than one-third as large as the combined business of all the level premium companies transacting business in New York State; and the expenses for each

Although remarkable, indeed, the progress of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association

000, '00, over three million of dollars for the first fifteen days of the second quarter, and during a single day in the month of April the new business exceeded half a million of dollars. Such success has never before been known in the history of life insurance. Verily the people understand what they want, and the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association is supplying this want, and "all the life insurance monopolies in the world may unite to stop its progress, but their efforts will only result in making this beneficent institution more and more popular, since it is no longer an experiment, but rather an established fact, with the cash on hand to pay every death claim, dollar for dollar, even if all the members should cease their membership at once. And each day the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association grows stronger and stronger, although it is paying to its widows and orphans over two hundred thousand dollars every day in the week."

From the Hamilton Spectator The struggle between the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific railways has dene much harm to both. It cannot do any good to either; and as long as it lasts it must be destructive. There are signs already that both parties are weary of the strife. Some rivalry between the two there must be; but for the most part they servedistinct and wholly separated sections of country. There is no need of strife between them. They must continue to exist. Neither can destroy the other; and the question for the stockholders and efficials of each to consider is, whether the rivalry between them should be partial and friendly, or total and ruinous. Catarrh-A New Treatment. Catarrh—A New Treatment.

Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern science has been trained by the Dixon treatment for catarrh, but of 2000 patients treated during the past ix months, fully ninety per cent. have been sured of this stubborn malady. This is none he less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent. of the patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefitted, while the patent medicines and other advortised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissues, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his care to their extermination; this accommissioner and and sites in the tissues, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his care to their extermination; this accomplished, the catarrh is practically cured, and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him four years ago are cures still. No one else has ever attempted to cure catarrh in this manner, and no other treatment has ever cured catarrh. The application of the remedy is simple and car be done at home, and the present season of the year is the most favorable for a speedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Sufferers should correspond with Messrs. A. H. Dixon & Son. 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada, and enclose stamp for their treatise on catarrh.—Montreal Star. 46
