

DINED AT THE NATIONAL.

Mr. Plimsoil Again Entertained—Speech of the Talented Young Minister of Marine.
A dinner was tendered Mr. Samuel Plim-roll, Saturday evening, by the members of the National Club. Mr. Barlow Cumberland, president of the club, was in the chair. Among the guests was Hon. C. H. Tupper, the young and eloquent Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who in reply to the toast, "Her Majesty's Ministers," thanked Vice-President Akers for the kind references he made, in proposing the toast, to the birthday of Sir John Macdonald and congratulated the club on the occasion. He then expressed upon public opinion. He said he had the greatest pleasure in accepting the invitation to dine with one known the world over as a friend and ally of the fishery industry. He agreed with Mr. Plimssol or thought they could not get the whole length of the reforms he proposed they must recognize him as a man who had accomplished an enormous amount of good for the British Empire. The welcome to Mr. Plimsoil was characteristic of the great city of Toronto, and as representing marine interests he (Mr. Tupper) had great pleasure in joining in the welcome. Whether Canadians agreed with Mr. Plimsoil or not they were willing to discuss these matters with him or anyone else fairly and with a bold and confident front and a good record.

Canada's Record a Good One.
Although a victory of the British Empire

Canada has lagged behind the Mother Country in the matter of reforms for sailors. It has not joined the United States in the race for reforms and has on its statute books laws which Congress has not yet been able to adopt. Canada has beaten even the Mother Country in some regards, and while Mr. Plimsoll was fighting in Britain for poor Jack, the question was taken up here in Canada and settled in a more drastic, less pleasing and more costly way. Officers were appointed by the Government to see that no vessel went to sea improperly loaded. No discretion was given to the vessel owner, but the whole matter was left to the Government. A public opinion movement in favor of reform was placed upon the statute books and power obtained from parliament to carry to out most effectively. While the shipping interests in some countries retarded these reforms, vessel owners in Canada raised no outcry, but gave their hearty co-operation in working out the reforms. Canadians had no reason to be ashamed when compared with the Mother Country, or with any other nation. No man in parliament here has dared to oppose such reforms.

The Cattle Trade Must Not be Imperilled.
He assured Mr. Plimsoll, who did not go altogether on theory, but had come to Canada to see and go to sea. So in Canada, by careful attention to the question of the fisheries, the first step in the reform could be taken and yet that Great Britain's trade could be preserved and increased. Great Britain could not be so convinced. They believed Mr. Pilmoss would see that Canada was proceeding properly. The movement in Great Britain for reform was called the attention of Great Britain and Canada to the fact that some reform is needed, and needed at once. It was not only to aid the movement, but to meet it in the proper spirit.

Mr. Tupper then spoke of the pleasure it afforded him to tell Mr. Pilmoss how proud was the Government of the commercial marine of Canada, and foretold in glowing terms the future development of marine interests. He said that since Confederation they had progressed successfully with many great questions the number without charge, to an institution for the purpose of curing the disease, and to offer free coasting privileges to any country which offered it the same. These proposals were warmly received by the Canadians themselves and in their marine and their commerce. (Appause.)

Mr. Timmox says He will not say whether the paper said that nearly all the porcupine and musk-rats were taken by the Americans, but that the Nova Scotians all the way round to Behring Sea. He hoped Mr. Timmox would not say that the Americans were killing them, as he said, but that they were catching them. He said, if the Canadians were cruel enough to kill them they must trust upon the Americans to do the same. He said that he thought they would give a little part of the skins on the Arctic, but that he hoped that as now the Americans were so kind as to give the skins, the Americans would allow them to do a little killing of that sort. (Appause.)

Mr. Timmox says He will not say whether the gentleman a reply which showed that he had been greatly enlightened by his visit here, and wanted only a reform which would be to the benefit of all.

I was attacked with congestion of the liver and inflammation of the kidneys on the 17th of August, attended with excruciating pains in my side and back. Could not lie in either position, scarcely breathe. The slightest movement caused agonizing pains. Nothing gave me relief. I sent for Dr. Reas, 11 Queen-street east, knowing he had cured my daughter of a dangerous illness with Hystogenetic Medicine, after she had been given up by four skillful physicians. In one

Like thousands who did not recover from the effects of la grippe, I was left with bronchitis troubles after a severe attack, and became very ill. I consulted Dr. Bear at the "Histogenetic Institute," New York City, and he examined me
through examination and explained Dr.
J. Eugene Jordan's Histogenetic system of medicine to me. He said it would cure me if I followed that I consulted my wife, who advised me to take it at once. I did so and the medicines acted wonderfully. I felt better every day and the quickest to act of any medicines I ever took.
