GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

WAS WELL WORTH WAITING FOR

Vaudeville Acts Delayed by Train, But Made a Big Hit Upon Their Arrival.

There was only one show in the Opera House last evening owing to the fact that the Boston train did not reach the city until after 9 o'clock with the members of the vaudeville acts. As a result many patrons had a long wait but were entertained with a number of good motion pictures, and as several exclaimed as they were on their way home, "we certainly got our money's worth."

When the acts reached the Opera House they lost little time appearing. Although greatly fatigued after their long journey they made a most favorable impression.

Byron and Price scored a hit in their comedy variety act, which consisted of comic stories, songs and dancing. Bondy and Galt, "The Man from Nowhere," or a Few Minutes of Transpogony. Jester and King gave a pleasing entertainment of gymnastic and acrobatic feats. Jessie Franks was well named when she was termed "The Surprise Girl." Her bag pushing act was one of real merit and she deserved the hearty applause tendered. Chailis and Cortina, who sang songs and chatters, also made a most favorable impression on the audience and received a good share of the applause. In addition there was another interesting episode of the motion picture serial, "The Midnight Man" featuring James J. Corbett. The performance will be repeated this afternoon and evening and again on Monday afternoon and evening and will undoubtedly attract capacity houses.

AN EXQUISITE FILM FROM "EVANGELINE"

Imperial Theatre Has Unusual Attraction for Monday—A Photo-Tone-Poem.

Those interested in pictorial and dramatic beauty will find much that is exceedingly worthwhile in the William Fox motion picture version of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's exquisite poem "Evangeline"—a classic of the world over—which will be presented Monday at the Imperial Theatre.

First of all must be noted the beauty of the production. The land of Acadie and the little village of Grand-Pre in the Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, are wonderfully visualized, as are the wanderings of the unhappy Acadians after their exile.

Much credit is due Miriam Cooper for her interpretation of the title role. Her mobile face reflects every thought of the unfortunate heroine, from the happy days in Acadie through the agony of the exile to the final reunion in old age with her lover Gabriel.

Sportsworld Aiklen, the English star, appears as Evangeline's father, James Marcus as Basil the Blacksmith, and Paul Weigel as Father Pelican.

That a poetic masterpiece of the delicate texture of "Evangeline" should be adapted for the screen without the sacrifice of any part of its charm as literature is an astonishing feat—and one that places the pictorial drama several steps further forward in true advancement.

Night Coughs Prevent Sleep WEAR OUT THE SYSTEM

The dry, hacking cough, cough, day and night is very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition they get no chance to heal.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy without an equal for curing coughs and colds, soothing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, strengthening and healing the breathing organs and fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mrs. Fred Fairburn, Copper Cliff, Ont., writes—"I caught a heavy cold, got a sore throat and had a terrible hacking cough that I could not get rid of. I could not sleep at night. I had tried quite a few remedies, but they did not seem to do me much good until I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. By the time I had taken two bottles my cough was all gone."

"It seemed to loosen the cough right away so that I could spit up the phlegm that gathered in my throat, and also took the hot, raw, burning fever out of my bronchial tubes. I feel that Dr. Wood's has no equal."

DEELY HAS ALL LONDON TALKING

Turning Out Clothing at Half the Price That Shops Are Charging.

(Canadian Press.) London, Feb. 28.—Everybody is talking about a scheme of Malvina Deely, a wealthy member of parliament for one of the London suburban constituencies, to beat the clothing trade profiteers. His factories are turning out huge quantities weekly and are taking orders for suits by thousands at prices which are quite half below the shop rates. The scheme, he says, is neither charity nor philanthropy but a profit-making business enterprise and a lesson on the possibilities of mass production. Deely came into prominence a few years ago by a big deal in London real estate property, including the famous Covent Garden.

SUGAR TAKES ANOTHER JUMP

Increase of Two Cents a Pound Follows Refiners' Action — Removal of Control Declared the Cause.

Prepare to get rid of your diamonds and invest all your available capital in sugar. As a result of the action of the refiners showing the price up from $14.50 per hundred pound bag to $15.50 and $16.50 yesterday, following the abolition of the control of sugar prices, the retail price went up this morning to the local stores two cents a pound. This brings the cost to the consumer up to nineteen cents a pound in most of the retail stores. Some of the smaller shops quote the price from seventeen to nineteen cents, but in every case the two cent increase has been applied.

CORN AND OATS
Chicago, Feb. 28.—Predictions of an improvement in trade conditions after railroads are returned to private ownership counted somewhat today in weakening the corn market. Renewed attention was also given to gossip that the government report on farm reserves would indicate a good-sized surplus. Selling, however, was only a scattered sort. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 3-4 cents lower, with May $1.29 to $1.27 1/2, were followed by a moderate general setback.

Oats were easier with corn. After opening 1-8 to 1-4 to 1-2 lower, including May at 79 1/4 to 79 1/2, the market continued to sag. Provisions reflected the weakness of grain. Upturns in the value of hogs failed to act as an offset.

NEW DIRECTOR OF HOUSING IN QUEBEC.
Quebec, Feb. 28.—(Canadian Press)—The resignation of Dr. Nadeau, as provincial director of housing, tendered the government on Jan. 9, was made public yesterday and it was also announced that in an order-in-council accepting the resignation the government appointed as his successor Oscar Morin, deputy minister for municipal affairs.

The technical commission composed of an architect, a town planner and a sanitary engineer, appointed under Dr. Nadeau, has been abolished by the government, and each municipality will now be permitted to administer its share of the loan. The government will have general control, but municipalities will be free to do as they wish so long as they remain within the law.

ST. JOHN'S OPPORTUNITY.

The present session of parliament offers an exceptional opportunity for St. John to present its case to the country. The speech from the throne is so meagre that there should be ample time for the discussion of the whole question of the winter ports and their relation to the trade and the transportation system of the country, especially the Canadian National Railways.

A determined advocate, beginning with a few pointed questions on the order paper, and later submitting a resolution to the house, could bring the whole matter before the house and the country in such a manner as to bring results; for it is only necessary to inform the members of the house and the people of the central and western provinces of the merits of the case and they will support the demand for such an equipment of national ports as will enable them to handle national traffic.

It would be unfortunate if the session were allowed to pass without such a presentation of the case for St. John as its citizens know can be made. It would be the height of folly to assume that the adoption of harbor commission would influence either the government or the country. Neither the one nor the other has any special interest in how the harbor is administered so long as the rates are not excessive; but both are interested in providing the connecting link between the government railways and the government steamships, in order to ensure more business for each.

The City Council, the Board of Trade and the Commercial Club should see to it that the whole matter is threshed out at this session of parliament. That and not harbor commission, is the vital thing for this national port. Quebec will unite with St. John, for though Quebec has harbor commission it has not been given the terminals it desires. Halifax will join, for Halifax is a winter port which ought to be getting business that goes to American ports. The time has come for a show-down by the government as to its policy in regard to national ports.

Sir Robert Borden nine years ago declared nationalization to be his policy. What has been done at St. John and Halifax since then has been along that line, but the acquisition of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Railways, and the building of steamships, have alleviated the whole situation, making it imperative to develop at once what Sir William Van Horne described as the "spout" through which the traffic of the railways will pour into the steamships.

Parliament is in session. The government has not submitted a large programme of legislation. There never was and never will be a finer opportunity to have a full and free discussion of Canada's trade policy and its relation to the winter ports.

THE BARGAIN COUNTER

The gentlemen who at the Commercial Club last evening advertised throwing the harbor of St. John upon the bargain counter omitted any reference to four important facts, as follows:—

- 1.—The government is pleased to extend the breakwater to Partridge Island and cannot and does not desire to evade that obligation.
- 2.—The government has signed a solemn agreement to provide all necessary wharves and warehouses at West St. John, and cannot evade that obligation.
- 3.—There are already built all the wharves needed at West St. John to accommodate all the traffic that can be handled over a one-track railway from Montreal.
- 4.—There only remains provision on the east side of the harbor to handle the traffic of government railways and government steamships, and this connecting link the government must provide or its railways and steamships cannot do business in winter.

There is no need of harbor commission so far as getting facilities for West St. John is concerned. There is no need of it to induce the government to make provision for the traffic of its own railways and its own steamships on the east side of the harbor.

Why, then, throw the harbor on the bargain counter? We are wasting valuable time. Why waste any more?

Some of the speakers referred to nationalization as if it were a mysterious something which nobody could define, and which nobody could define.

As a matter of fact the government began to nationalize this port when it made its first expenditure for dredging and wharf building. It has pursued the policy of gradual nationalization ever since. The only complaint that could be made was that it did not proceed fast and far enough, and harbor commission would not make it proceed one whit further or faster, since the government must approve of all that is done and sanction the expenditure. And under the harbor commission act that expenditure would be a burden on the traffic of the port. Mr. Buley was asked point blank if the government would look after any deficit. He only replied that it had done so in Quebec. He would not pledge himself to do it for St. John, and he certainly could not pledge his successor in office. But he did say emphatically that it would not be made a part of the commission act. One listens with amazement to men who in one breath frankly admit that the government has not carried out its agreement, and in the next express the most child-like faith that once we give up the harbor all governments will immediately become eager to do unto us even more than we can ask or desire. By what species of self-hypnotism have these gentlemen arrived at this state of mind?

When the government proceeds to provide terminals on the east side of the harbor for its railways and its steamships it will not need three harbor commissioners to tell it what it ought to do and where. It will be guided by its own experts. The thing for the Commercial Club, the Board of Trade and City Council to do is to drop this controversy and direct their whole energy to the task of speeding up the work of nationalizing the port, which the government began a considerable number of years ago, and which it must continue in the interests of the trade of Canada and of its own railways and steamships.

FACE THE FACTS.

To those speakers who last evening presented harbor commission as a panacea for all our harbor ills the Times-Star commends the following extract from a speech by Senator L'Esperance, chairman of the Quebec harbor commission, less than two years ago:

"The government cannot justify its present policy assuming the ownership and operation of the G. T. Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways otherwise than by assuming at the same time the development and equipment of the Canadian tide water ports in such proportion as will take care of all the traffic within the scope and radius of these railways, and this can be done only by adopting a prompt, vigorous and energetic policy. First a schedule of export rates via Montreal, Quebec, Halifax and St. John that will compare favorably at all seasons with the rates via Buffalo, Portland, New York and other American ports. Again, equip the ports of Quebec, St. John and Halifax with the docks and grain elevators required to handle promptly all the traffic offered these railways. The sum required for this equipment will be small as compared to the burden it is now proposed to assume. Why is it that this port (Quebec), so richly endowed by Providence, is so neglected by man?"

By "man" the chairman of the Quebec harbor commission meant the government. If St. John had harbor commission it would still be beating that path to Halifax. Better to beat the path to the harbor as an asset than to give it up and go empty-handed.

Parliament will be asked to vote $20,000,000 to complete the government programme of shipbuilding. These Canadian steamships should trade at Canadian ports in connection with the Canadian National Railways in winter as well as in summer. For this reason the winter ports must be provided with ample terminal facilities, and the work should go on at the same time as the building of the vessels. St. John must be up and doing, in its own interests and in the interests of the trade of Canada. The two are interdependent.

Christian Science Monitor: Professor Gilbert Murray says children should be taught history from the point of view of world development, and not from the point of view of the aggrandizement of any country; history should not have a propagandist bias; children should not be allowed to pick up their education about the world where they liked and at what price they liked; teachers should select for them things likely to be helpful and not harmful. It is eminently good advice.

The Canadian Reconstruction Association, which might better be termed the High tariff association, has during the past year sent out a great deal of matter calculated to persuade the public that tariff reduction would be a grave mistake. All this is preparatory to a high tariff campaign whenever the federal elections take place.

SNOWBIRDS.

Along the narrow sandy height
I watch them swiftly come and go,
Or round the leafless wood,
Like furies of wind-driven snow,
Revolving in perpetual flight,
Own a changing multitude.

Never and nearer still they sway,
And scattering in a circling sweep,
Rush down without a sound;
And now I see them peer and peep,
Across the level bleak and gray,
Searching the frozen ground.

Until a little wind upheaves
And makes a sudden rustling there,
And then they drop their play,
Flush up into the sunless air,
And, like a flight of silver leaves,
Swirl round and sweep away.

THE FLU.
Last year I had the well known flu, and now I have the flu once more; I lie in bed and say, "Kerchoo," and other words I have in store. My dome of thought is full of ache, and pain through all my system wends, and busy druggists strive to make the pills the sawbones recommend. 'Twas war that brought this punk disease, that threatens now my useful life; I cannot think of any ill in all this sorry world so wide, that can be charged to old Ex Bill—and now they say he won't be tried. Ah, woe is me! This tin horn sport in my court, for having ushered in the flu. If I should spring some puny disease that made you pills of no avail, how long before the cops would seize my frame and put the same in jail? This lack of justice makes me blue; my anguished breast with wrath it fills, and so I cry, "Kerwoosh! Kerchoo!" and take another mess of pills.

Domestic Happenings of Other Days

AFTER THE VICTORY.
When the news flashed around the world on Feb. 27, 1900, that the Canadians had been instrumental in forcing the Crows, the son of the Transvaal, to surrender, there was great rejoicing everywhere. The victory was recognized by the beginning of the end of the war in South Africa and there was great rejoicing in London and everywhere in Canada. About thirty Canadians had made the supreme sacrifice of war, while ninety were wounded in the final battle. It was a motley crowd of soldiers who wore the ordinary clothing of the farms of South Africa. Lord Roberts and all the army had learned that they were feeble fighters. Grey bearded men, stooped with their labor of many years, surrendered with mere youths who had been compelled to quit the country home for the grim uncertainties of the field of conflict. Some of the latter were only fourteen or fifteen years of age. Fifty women who had left their homes with their men and boys marched out to the front lines, and with the air of old veterans. All of these had expected injury with the exception of a girl left in the hands of the Boers who had been captured. The captured men were marched away that same day and when night came the Canadians and imperials slept on the ground that had been the scene of the surrender. The Boers were taken from the scene of the action, and British control for the march to the instrument camp they were to occupy for the time.

LIMEHOUSE SUNSET.
(From The Poetry Review, London.)
The limehouse is the stone
And there are curious things afloat,
But the wind hath a nobler song,
And the birds have sharper notes and swift.
A flowing fire is on the river,
Like wine outpoured, wine gold, wine
For purging of her piteous dead,
The great crane engines swing and quiver,
And the lost seabirds wheel and cry,
The long, slow barges, dreamfully,
The little brown-shed boats go by,
Intent to find the sea.

IN LIGHTER VEIN.
The Retort Courteous.
One could see only his eyes and mouth.
"Halloo, old man, what in the world has happened to your face?"
"Oh, no," replied Smith; "I'm just wearing these to keep warm."

Powers of Persuasion.
A meek little individual encountered a burly ruffian in a lonely lane the other day.
"Can you do anything, gun-nor?" the big man inquired, "for a poor chap who's got nothin' in the world—except this ere cudgel?"
Monitory assistance was forthcoming.
—Tit-Bits.

A Clash of Mittens.
"You say that you often find your work confusing," said the visitor.
"I do," replied the discouraged weather-forecaster. "Frequently when my scientific calculations point to fine weather, my corns tell me it is going to rain."

Change.
Sing a song of sixpence, a pocketful of eyes,
That was, oh, so long ago, Ah, how times does fly!
Now sixpence will buy nothing, And a pocketful of eyes,
Is worth its weight in good doubloons, The price has gone so high.

MENNONITES TO LEAVE CANADA.

The Mennonites who adhere to the Old Colony Church have definitely decided to leave Canada and seek a new home in South America, according to W. Juhls of Saskatoon, who says he has been appointed official agent for the sale of the Mennonite lands, live stock and farm implements belonging to the members of the Old Colony Church. The Mennonites feel they have been unfairly treated in being forced to sell their children to the public schools, and their understanding of the agreement with the dominion government under the terms of which they entered the country in 1878 co-operation in the league. Nothing was that they were to have complete freedom in religious and educational matters. Their idea of freedom was to educate their children at parish schools where the Old Testament in the German language was the sole textbook. This the provincial government would not tolerate and many Mennonites have been fined for refusing to send their children to the public schools.

DEVELOPING WATER POWER.

A traveler recently returned from South America reports a remarkable activity in the development of water-power in many sections. The exact figures are not available for 1919, it is estimated that the number was considerably larger. The electrical works of the town of Sverdberg have successfully used gas instead of petroleum. A locomotive fuel it proved to have some disadvantages, requiring a larger boiler and giving off many sparks. Peat producers have complained that the government's maximum price on this article has made its manufacture difficult. There have been a number of failures. However, the quality of peat has been greatly improved during the last five years, and more has been learned of its possibilities. It will therefore undoubtedly figure much more than previously in the United States for this purpose.

Also Resolved that should Sackville have a Community House that the Women's Civic Council pledge themselves to give to the house a sum of five hundred dollars to be used according to their best judgment.

LESSONS OF A STRIKE

(Canadian Finance.)
The United States steel strike resulted in more than 300,000 workers throwing down their tools. Twelve demands were made by the strikers, six of which referred directly or indirectly to wages and hours of labor, the other six having reference to collective bargaining, the abolition of "company" unions, abolition of physical examination of applicants for work of a seniority to govern shop maintenance and reinstatement of men discharged for union activity. The steel congress became concerned at the disposition of business resulting from the strike and instituted an investigation to ascertain whether state intervention would relieve the situation. The report of the committee in charge contains a number of recommendations which will appeal to the people of western Canada, particularly those of comparatively recent events in the western industrial world. The committee urged the government to pass the Americanization bill, then under consideration. This bill provides that all illiterate foreigners and native born shall receive an elementary education. The committee further

IN HER OWN TIME

(London Daily Mail.)
The United States will, no doubt, in time be a member of the league. Her partnership is indispensable to complete the barrier against future war. If America stands out, the old international diplomatic routine will resume its sway. We know what that means. America knows what that means; for despite a century's abstention from European conflicts brought her into the league. The logical conclusion and completion of America's participation in the war is her full and whole-hearted co-operation in the league. Nothing but the league can harness the peace and bring it home to the peoples. We have no doubt that America will do the right thing, but she must be allowed to do it in her own time.

PEAT AS FUEL

In 1919 peat established itself as a fuel more firmly than ever in Denmark. It is used now by nearly all the industries, by the private railroads and in the country districts, where it is practically the only fuel. Twelve million peat bricks were taken from the marshes in the Odense district in 1918, and while figures are not available for 1919, it is estimated that the number was considerably larger. The electrical works of the town of Sverdberg have successfully used gas instead of petroleum. A locomotive fuel it proved to have some disadvantages, requiring a larger boiler and giving off many sparks. Peat producers have complained that the government's maximum price on this article has made its manufacture difficult. There have been a number of failures. However, the quality of peat has been greatly improved during the last five years, and more has been learned of its possibilities. It will therefore undoubtedly figure much more than previously in the United States for this purpose.

NEW ERA IN ACTIVITIES OF LOCAL SCOUTS

District Council Plans Progressive Year's Work

PROTECT FIRE ALARM

Boy Scouts to Observe Commissioner Thornton's Appeal—Some Fine Meetings of the Week—What Public Health Badge Means.

With the establishment of the headquarters office in St. John, a new era is opening up in local scout activities. A meeting of the St. John District Council was held on Monday evening at which plans were made for a progressive year's work. Commissioner Ingletton intends to visit every troop in the city within the next month on a tour of inspection. Among other matters the council drew up a new list of examiners for the various proficiency badges. The names on this list are the only ones that will be accepted by headquarters for badge issue, and arrangements may only be made with these examiners through the district secretary by the scoutmasters.

Public Health Badge

Among other badges for which examiners have been secured is the Public Health Man Badge. The requirements for it are as follows: Know the dangers of the more ordinary contagious and infectious diseases, including mumps, measles, chickenpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, tuberculosis, typhoid fever and venereal diseases; know how these are transmitted and the best methods to prevent their spreading. Give a list of infectious diseases that must be notified and state also the period of incubation of each disease and the precautions that must be taken to prevent them spreading. Give one or more methods of disinfecting a house and a room and its contents after a contagious disease. Describe the method used in the community and in camp in disposing of garbage. Draw a diagram showing how the house fly carries disease. It may readily be seen that a scout who has qualified for this badge is a decided asset to any community.

Mr. Thornton, city commissioner for public safety, appeals to all boy scouts in the city to do all in their power to protect fire alarm boxes, which have been greatly abused recently in certain sections of the city. Steps have been taken to have every scout at the "Alert" in this matter.

With the Troops

Troop secretaries are requested to send in reports of the troop's activities each week to headquarters, Room 5, Globe building, before Friday in order that they may be published in this column. The 15th Coburg Street Troop held its regular meeting Tuesday evening and carried out a very interesting programme of scout work. Friday evening saw them assembled again with the Wolf Cubs to enjoy a slight drive. On returning to the church they were treated to a supper by the ladies of the church. A large number were in attendance and spent a most enjoyable evening, appreciating especially the excellent supper. Scoutmaster Dunlop has decided to have a complete reorganization of the troop and the Wolf Cubs following a practical talk on organization, by Mr. Eaman to the scoutmasters on last Monday. In future the Wolf Cubs will meet on Thursday from 6:30 to 8 p. m. The 15th Centenary Troop held an "open" night on last Friday, inviting all parents of the scouts and friends of the movement to attend. Some C. G. I. T.

girls directed by Misses Langstroth, Dinamore, Goodwin and Hart, served an excellent supper to the troop at 6:30 p. m. They had as guests Provincial Commissioner Skelton, District Commissioner Ingletton, Rev. H. A. Goodwin and Mr. Narzaway, district secretary. After supper the scouts gave a display of scout activities and works to a large number of adults. Mr. Skelton and Mr. Ingletton inspected the troop and presented prizes for neatness in appearance to Scouts Langstroth and Hart. Demonstrations of physical exercises, signalling and first aid featured the evening and were followed by scouting lantern slides. During the evening a competition was held in knot tying in which Scout Edwin Gunn carried off the honors, closely followed by Patrol Leader Goodwin. A very pleasing part of the programme was the presentation of badges to several scouts. The following received badges: Stanley Goodwin, R. Hart, C. Barker, H. Barker, E. Gunn, R. Macdonald, V. Breen, A. Paterson and W. Sergeant. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

St. Luke's Troop

The troop met as usual on Monday evening with a large attendance of Scouts and Cubs. Some of the second class Scouts took up their work for the ambulance badge while others were detailed for fatigue duty in the general cleaning of the Scout office. The tenderfoot Scouts took up second class work. The Wolf Cubs worked on their first star under the guidance of their causer, Rev. R. P. Wright. Towards the close of the evening the troop was drawn up in horseshoe formation for the investiture of badges, etc. The mission badge was presented to Scout Russell McConnell, musician's badge to Scout Charles Rourke and Harold Hart was invested as a tenderfoot. A large number of service stars were also presented. It was announced that a scout paper was to be issued to the Scouts every fortnight. The name of the paper is to be decided later. H. Edgar Adams was appointed editor, Fred K. Bream chief reporter with the patrol leaders as assistants and Ralph B. Bream as business manager. The meeting closed with the flag salutation.

DOMINION L. O. L. FAIR.

The prizes at the Dominion L. O. L. No. 144, fair in Simons street last night were won as follows: Door prize, ham, Mrs. C. Livingstone, ticket, $29; ladies' board, fancy work basket, Miss Ramsay; ladies' bean board, set of glass tumblers, Miss Amdur; gentlemen's bean board, safety razor, G. Adams; shooting gallery, man's soft felt hat, George Stackhouse; bowling alley, cast-iron dish, George Leavers; ten pin granite pot, John Doeman. The next door prize will be a load of hard wood.

Burial Permits

RURAL DISTRICTS

As there is at times, some difficulty experienced in rural districts in obtaining permits for burial, the following proviso from the Public Health Act, 1918, may be of interest to those concerned:

Section 35. "Provided, however, that in country districts, a burial may take place without such authority being given by the sub-district Board of Health, so long as the cause of death and notice of burial shall be given within thirty days, by mail, to the Sub-district Board of Health by any of the parties mentioned in sub sections (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this section."

The Department of Health, however, requests that, whenever at all possible, permits for burial be obtained by the undertaker, and that only in extreme cases this proviso be exercised.

Jews Repudiate LEADER TROTZKY

H. S. Henriques Says He Is Regarded as Renegade From His People and an Apostate From the Faith.

London, England—That it was their duty to do their best to advance a country which had shown such regard for civil and religious liberty, was the statement made by Lord Reading, who presided recently at a dinner at the Connaught rooms in celebration of peace and in honor of the semi-jubilee of the Jewish Historical Society of England. There was a large and distinguished company present, including the lord chancellor, the American ambassador, H. S. Henriques, president of the society, Mrs. Henriques, the Chief Rabbi and Mrs. Hertz, the Chinese minister, Mr. Justice Sankey, Lord and Lady Swaythling, Lord Sterndale and Viscount Burnham. The chairman said they were not only recording twenty-five years of the society but they were celebrating peace. The society had fulfilled a valuable function in that it recorded the history of their community in England since the earliest times and was a history in which their race had played an important part. When they thought of peace and the appointment of a ferial inspector for factories and the minimum wage question, both of which are favored by the Trades and Labor Council, Mrs. Good's views coincided very largely with those of the Trades and Labor Council. She offered to assist the council in any way possible and was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for her address.

Jews in Britain and Empire

The Jewish community in Britain, he pointed out, was 275,000, and there was another 145,000 in the British Empire. In the war just over, 50,000 had belonged to some branch of his majesty's forces, and they paid their toll and made their sacrifice. Five won the Victoria Cross, the D. S. M., 250 the M. C., and 380 were mentioned in despatches. The chairman said that the work of the society was not one of merely antiquarian interest, but of great practical value, both to the community where the bulk of their people still dwelt, he had to face the same dangers and the same difficulties as had beset them in England centuries ago. The charge of Bolshevism leveled against their community had been not only a period so important in the determination of their national destinies and even in the very foundation of the state, but also a period when they had made a remarkable martial contribution made by the Jewish community. The American ambassador, replying to the toast of "Law and History" proposed by Israel Zangwill, was profoundly struck by the statement that out of a population of 40,000,000 the Jewish community had been nearly 275,000 of the Jewish community. If he were a Jew he would be proud of nothing more than the fact that he was a member of the Jewish community. The proportion of the total population of the islands had played a part in the determination of their national destinies and even in the very foundation of the state, but also a period when they had made a remarkable martial contribution made by the Jewish community. Race's Martial Qualities

The lord chancellor, responding to the toast of "Law and History" proposed by Israel Zangwill, was profoundly struck by the statement that out of a population of 40,000,000 the Jewish community had been nearly 275,000 of the Jewish community. FURTHER RETURNS FROM ANGLICANS

The following amounts have been realized by twenty-five of the Anglican churches in the forward month of St. Paul's, St. John's, St. George's, St. John, $4,906; Mission, St. John's, Fairville, $1,825; Christ church, St. Stephen, $2,155; Bathurst, $1,911; North Devon and Douglas, $1,146; Dorchester, $1,034; Bay de Vin, $834; Derby and Blackville, $824; Pettaodiac, $696; Kingston, $607; Kingsclear, $584; St. Martin's, $534; Waterford, $375; St. Martins, $364; Prince William and Dunfries, $167; Burton and Maudersville, $147; Queensbury and Southampton, $199; Welsford, $100; Bright, $98; Edmundston, $38.

CHURCH AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS

"It seems clear," says the New York Churchman (Protestant Episcopal), "that all the clergy should know something about the social problems with which the gospel that they are preaching deals, but it is highly important that some of the clergy have a specialist's first-hand knowledge of these problems. We certainly do not want to raise up a generation of clergy who shall be merely social service experts, but perhaps it would be more disastrous to send forth from our theological schools ministers of the Word who have no specialist's knowledge whatever about the application of the gospel to social and industrial problems. Christianity is challenged today to do more than to announce principles, it must apply those principles to definite problems and it must announce a Christian solution of some of those problems. The most tragic heresy of the ages is to teach the incarnation while in practice we deny brotherhood of man. All the saints have known that to be true. But all churches and clergy have not acted and spoken as if they understood it."

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL FAVORS LABOR MINISTRY

A special meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last evening in Oddfellows hall, president F. A. Campbell in the chair. The council favorably passed upon several matters of legislation which are to be submitted to the provincial federation of labor convention in Fredericton next month, and later, if adopted, to the legislature for enactment. They include the creation of a ministry of labor for New Brunswick, to be in control of all labor legislation, mothers' pensions, conciliation work, compensation amendments and minimum wage. Mrs. W. C. Good, representing the women's council, gave a very pleasing address on the appointment of a ferial inspector for factories and the minimum wage question, both of which are favored by the Trades and Labor Council. Mrs. Good's views coincided very largely with those of the Trades and Labor Council. She offered to assist the council in any way possible and was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for her address.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC DEVELOPMENT

Moncton, Feb. 27.—W. Rupert Turnbull, of St. John, addressed the Moncton Canadian Club at the Brunswick Hotel on the proposed tidal hydro-electric power development of the Petitcodiac and Memramouc rivers. Dr. H. S. Thomson, president of the club was in the chair. The address was illustrated with lantern slides showing the location of the proposed dam and various features. An interesting discussion followed the address and a resolution was unanimously carried asking the provincial government to make borings at frequent intervals along the Petitcodiac and Memramouc rivers to determine the position of the solid ledge rock suitable for the foundation of the dam and to complete complete plans and estimates for tidal hydro-electric installation at Hopeville.

UNDERPAID PREACHERS.

Why Many Have Nothing for Their Old Age. Some very startling facts and figures are contained in a report issued by Rev. R. J. D. Simpson, secretary-treasurer of the superannuation fund of the Methodist Church. The fund will receive $1,500,000 from the Forward Movement to overcome the appalling conditions of the past. The minister when he enters the service of the church agrees to go where the church sends him, accept the remuneration offered, devote his services exclusively to the work of the ministry, and quit when told. For this service ten average cases are cited as to salaries. A was in the ministry for fifty years and received an average salary of $43 per annum; B, forty-five years, and received $48; C, forty-two years, and was paid $42 yearly; D served forty-two years, and was paid $42. The tenth case cited was of thirty-four years' service with pay of $34. In the church there are now four hundred retired ministers, four hundred widows and one hundred children dependent upon the superannuation fund. In 1917 and 1918 the average amount paid to superannuated ministers was $400, and $428 to widows. During the past year there has been a slight increase to $514 and $422. The report shows twelve ministers and sixty-seven widows twelve ministers and one hundred and nineteen children dependent upon the superannuation fund. In 1917 and 1918 the average amount paid to superannuated ministers was $400, and $428 to widows. During the past year there has been a slight increase to $514 and $422.

RED CROSS MEETING.

The Red Cross hospital committee met yesterday with its recently appointed convener, Mrs. J. V. Anglin, presiding. Mrs. G. W. Y. Scott was welcomed as the new treasurer. At the request of Mrs. H. Lawrence the following committee was appointed to make purchases of other than monthly indent: Mrs. W. P. Bonnell, Mrs. H. Lawrence and Mrs. F. S. White. Reports submitted were most satisfactory, and pleasure was expressed at the prompt and generous response to appeal for articles demanded for the influenza outbreak.

AN INTERESTING DEBATE ON THE HARBOR MATTER

Question Taken Up by Commercial Club Last Night—Decision Will Be Rendered Later.

The pros and cons of harbor commission were debated last night at a meeting of the Commercial Club in the rooms of the G. W. V. A. the question being: 'What shall we do with our harbor?'

It developed that most of the speakers were strongly in favor of the adoption of a commission, some were strongly opposed to the idea, while others were in a questioning mood.

The first speaker was H. C. Schofield, A. H. Wetmore, H. W. Frink and H. J. McLellan, while the judges were W. J. Mahoney, F. W. Daniel and E. A. Schofield.

The first speaker was H. C. Schofield, who spoke as follows: 'The question of harbor commission has been before the citizens of St. John at various times and in various forms for the past fifty years and up to the present date no satisfactory solution has been arrived at.'

facilities necessary to do business in the proper way between this country and the world markets. The geographical position of the city makes that this be done. There were three ways to get this done, either by harbor commission, nationalization, or by citizens themselves.

More than $1,500,000 had been spent to show that, but this expenditure had not been a success. It was a part of national importance. Canada saw the need of making St. John a national port but there had always been lacking a comprehensive scheme for the well defined development of the port.

The northern area would be composed of the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry and Tyrone and the boroughs of Belfast and Londonderry.

A council for Ireland, composed of forty members, half of whom would be selected by each of the parliaments, is also provided for in the bill.

The legislative powers of the council would be divided by the two legislatures, but the framers of the bill hope it will form a nucleus around which would be built one parliament for the whole of Ireland.

What the government considers one of the chief safeguards in drafting the powers of the parliaments is a provision specifically prohibiting either body from establishing any particular religious creed or penalizing anyone for belonging to or not belonging to any religious denomination.

The bill provides that the united parliament, if formed, would control the customs and excise.

At the outset, according to the bill, the board of commerce was to be composed of the board of education, local government, the land policy, agriculture, roads and bridges, transportation, old age pensions, insurance, municipal affairs, housing, hospitals and homes.

TWO PARLIAMENTS TO BE ESTABLISHED FOR THE WHOLE OF IRELAND

Text of Home Rule Bill Made Public by the British Government

London, Feb. 27.—The government tonight made public the text of its Irish home rule bill introduced in the house of commons on Wednesday and passed through its first reading by title. The measure follows closely the outline given to the house by Premier Lloyd George last December.

The northern area would be composed of the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry and Tyrone and the boroughs of Belfast and Londonderry.

A council for Ireland, composed of forty members, half of whom would be selected by each of the parliaments, is also provided for in the bill.

The legislative powers of the council would be divided by the two legislatures, but the framers of the bill hope it will form a nucleus around which would be built one parliament for the whole of Ireland.

What the government considers one of the chief safeguards in drafting the powers of the parliaments is a provision specifically prohibiting either body from establishing any particular religious creed or penalizing anyone for belonging to or not belonging to any religious denomination.

The bill provides that the united parliament, if formed, would control the customs and excise.

FALLS FIVE MILES IN TWO MINUTES

U. S. Air Pilot Has a Thrilling Battle for Life

Makes New Record for Height and Then Fearful Plunge to Earth Begins—Apparently Lifeless in Machine But Revives.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 28.—An airplane carrying Major R. W. Schroeder, chief test pilot of the U. S. Army, fell five miles yesterday after reaching an altitude of 30,000 feet, said to be 5000 higher than the world's record.

The pilot was discovered sitting erect and apparently lifeless.

A plunge was witnessed by thousands of people, and for a brief time spectators thought a comet had appeared in the sky. The trail of vapor in the wake of the plane gave rise to the belief.

FRAUD IN HARKNESS WILLS ALLEGED

Mrs. Kennett Cowan, First Wife of Dead Sportsman, Charges Deceit in Probate.

Wants Entire $20,000,000—Says Decedent Was of Unsound Mind When Property Was Left to Second Wife.

(New York Times.)

“A bill of complaint pending with unusual allegations, Mrs. Kennett Cowan, first wife of the late Harry S. Harkness, yesterday began her fight to wrest the $20,000,000 estate from Mrs. Florence Steuber (Gaines Harkness), the widow.

Producing the text of the “mutual contract” between her and Mr. Harkness, executed Nov. 5, 1909, Mrs. Cowan in her complaint alleged that the will of the late sportsman was a fraud and that she was entitled to the entire estate.

Mrs. Cowan’s document, presented through her attorneys, Rockwood & Lark of 327 Fifth avenue, further charged “upon information and belief” that Mr. Harkness had not signed the will and that the witnesses to it had not signed the instrument in his presence, as required by law.

The complaint, in connection with Harkness’ own signature, referred to it at one point as “the alleged forged signing thereof by said decedent.”

Incidentally, the bill disclosed that between February, 1915, and October, 1916, when she and Mr. Harkness were parted by divorce, there had occurred a period of alienation.

Cites Agreement of 1909.

Relating the marriage of Mrs. Marie Moss Harbison to Mr. Harkness, the document stated how “said Harry S.

Harkness and the plaintiff entered into an agreement by the terms of which it was mutually covenanted and agreed that in consideration of mutual love and affection and the mutual promises then made that they should make mutual or reciprocal wills. These documents, the complaint sets forth, were “to be irrevocable and not to be kept secret by the death of one or the other party to it.

Annexed to the complaint were copies of the “mutual agreements.” The witnesses to each were the same; the wording, except where it referred to children, was identical. The agreement signed by Mr. Harkness will serve as illustration.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat; but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

SAY WEEK-END HABIT DANGEROUS

London, Feb. 27.—The week-end habit is a dangerous thing, say practitioners of the science of physical culture, who see people killing themselves because they insist on violent exercise at the week-ends—Herbert Carson, at the Institute of Hygiene.

Father Bernard Vaughan, when interviewed, expressed agreement with Mr. Carson’s views.

“People are ruining themselves with too much pleasure and they know it,” he said. “They flock around like birds from one place to another, with a restaurant as their headquarters, and perhaps glad to get away from them at the week-ends.”

The master of St. Faith’s Nursing Home at Ealing, who specializes in the care of the aged, said that most of her patients were not suffering from too much pleasure, but from too much pressure. “They are chiefly women who find the strain of unaccustomed work too great, or who have been overworking in some way,” she explained.

“But I am sure there is danger in the week-end habit. Very many illnesses would be prevented if people would spend one day a week in bed. Everyone who at any rate spends a day in bed a month, and periodic rests of this description would be a great advantage in these days of pressure and excitement.

“There is always a tendency to take too much exercise at the week-ends, but it is better to take too little than too much.”

The secretary of a well-known golf club said he believed there was much danger in over-exercising on the links than in playing fast and furious games of tennis.

“After all, a man can enjoy a game of golf alone,” he pointed out, “but in tennis there is temptation to carry on past the point where the player wishes to continue the game. And this leads to over-exercising. It is certainly not good for him.”

ARE YOU GUARDED AGAINST THE FLU?

Physicians say that when influenza strikes the germ hits hard at the system which is unfortified. Unless the system is strong serious results may follow. Cat Has Gold Tooth and Goes to School

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—Aside from being a cat on education bent, “Bunny” McNamara, of Fairmount avenue, is a resident and school boy. A desirable gold tooth—a cupid at that. So proud of his golden cupid is “Bunny” that he wags his vanity and frequently from his bay window seat he elicits admiration of passersby. But he does it especially, according to his own confession, to increase the envy of the neighborhood felix tribe, among which he has no mean reputation.

“It’s a birthday present this gold tooth of mine,” Bunny explained to a reporter during a formal interview. “I was badly in need of the tooth,” he went on to say, “grindingly grinding whisks the white,” and so long as it is to be given publicly I am anxious that you have the details relative to how I came to lose the tooth.

“Several weeks ago I was peacefully pursuing my way through a side street for a little fresh air after a hard examination at the Lincoln school, which I attend regularly. We are having a holiday now. But to get on with my story. A pugacious dog with whom I have had a good bit of trouble came testing around a corner suddenly and invited me to attack. You see, I come from something of a pugacious family. Walton hotel vicinity during his day—and besides, there wasn’t a tree handy, so I gave him a little. He had the toughest hide of any dog I ever was compelled to sink a tooth in and I came away minus the left upper cuspid. Modesty forbids me to tell what happened to the dog.”

Investigation revealed that the dog breathed his last a few days after his encounter and is now frisking about in Beautiful Joe’s Paradise.

“That both and its mate are the principal fighting weapons of my family,” Bunny went on to explain, “and until the doctor here performed this little piece of dental work on me as I developed stomach trouble and I was having a pretty rough time all around, what with the smart cats and dogs in the neighborhood taking advantage of my disability. But they’re keeping their distance now.”

“Dr. F. C. Abbott of the Jefferson Medical College, called here one day and discussed my case. He prescribed a new tooth, and it was a very good diagnosis, for there isn’t a thing the matter with me now. Dr. Abbott, you know, was a major in the medical corps of the A. E. F. and was decorated seven times, I think.”

The commission proposed is one of three members, each of whom shall be a resident and elector of the city, appointed by city council on nomination of the board of control, for three-year terms, one to retire each year, to be a member of council to be a member of the commission.

TO RELIEVE CATARRH, CATARRH DRAINAGE AND HEAD NOISE

Persons suffering from catarrh of the nose, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises, will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh of the nose, cut out this remedy for them. It is permanent and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 10c. of Parmitin (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmitin is used in this way, not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the result gives a nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling noises in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

STUFFY HEAD CLEARED OF CATARRH GERMS BY “CATARRHOZONE”

We owe something to a science that has given us Catarrhozone—that wonderful remedy which so surely enables us to permanently cure diseases that have given us pain. We all know that stomach dosing is useless, and this departure in the mode of treatment is an advance in medical science that everybody can appreciate and value. He says neglect causes more eye troubles and poor vision than any other cause. Many whose eyes were failing say they had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: “I was almost blind; could not see—read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me.” A lady who used it says: “The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can now read fine print without glasses.” It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discern them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so it is sold in this city by all druggists, including Watson’s Drug Store.

Symptoms That Tell of Biliousness

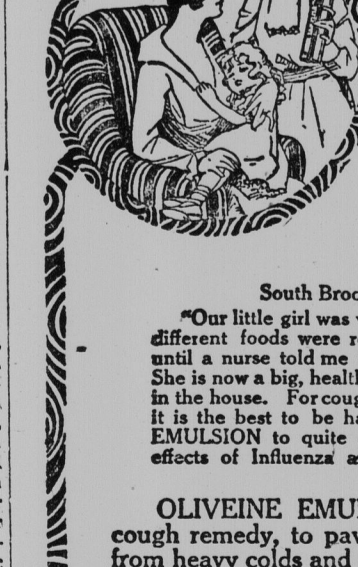

HOW TO PREVENT AND CURE

Are you dizzy? Do your head swim? Does your eye turn dark when you rise after stooping? Are you constantly suffering from headaches? Are you short of breath after going upstairs? Are your tongue coated and furred? These symptoms give warning that your system needs a thorough cleansing—your position must be flushed out. The remedy is Dr. Hamilton’s Pills. Marked benefit immediately follows their use. These pills loosen the bowels and stop constipation; they act on the liver and kidneys, make them strong and vigorous.

This ensures health and purity for the blood and consequently the whole system.

No other medicine tones and braces like Dr. Hamilton’s Pills; they act on the entire system, cleanse the blood, color, coated tongue, and all diseases arising through fault of the stomach, kidneys, or liver, try them.

Results prove the merits of Dr. Hamilton’s Pills, 25c. per box.

The Nurse told Her to Give OLIVEINE EMULSION

THE GREAT HEALTH RESTORER

South Brookfield, Queens Co., N.S., Oct. 1919.

“Our little girl was very sick with Stomach Trouble and different foods were recommended, but everything failed until a nurse told me to give her OLIVEINE EMULSION. She is now a big, healthy baby and I would not be without it in the house. For coughs and colds and as a health builder, it is the best to be had. We recommend OLIVEINE EMULSION to quite a few who were suffering from the effects of influenza and they used it with good results.” (Name of nurse)

OLIVEINE EMULSION is more than an ideal cough remedy, to pave the way for a quick recovery from heavy colds and deep-seated coughs. It is a body builder—gives strength to the weak—tones up and invigorates the whole system. It is pleasant to take and is agreeable to the most sensitive stomach.

the Country Requires More Than Two Billion Dollars Worth of Buildings.

(Financial Post.) Building permits issued during the month of January indicate a revival in building operations which, if continued throughout the year, promises something like old-time activity. The total value of permits issued in all important cities of the Dominion in January reached a total value of $3,627,232, as compared with $1,992,911 for the same month a year ago. January is usually a slack month in building in Canada as the weather conditions completely tie up operations in many localities, but the return for the past month indicate a most encouraging condition. With the high cost and scarcity of materials and the abnormal condition of labor, thereby limiting building almost entirely to those who are forced to expand their accommodation through growth of business, the building activity of last month is evidence not only of a high degree of prosperity but of confidence in the future.

Eastern Cities Ahead.

The twenty-four Eastern cities were as usual well in the lead with permits reaching the total value of $4,110,018, a most remarkable increase over the total of $3,627,232 for the same month a year ago. The country at that time had not settled down to a peace basis and as a result building had not been resumed on any extensive scale. The Western cities also experienced activity, more than doubling last year's total with permits issued to the value of $1,219,219. Toronto is the only city in the Dominion whose total passes the million dollar mark, her permits being valued at $1,469,200, as compared with $225,875 for the corresponding month last year. The city of Windsor is her nearest rival, the total being $635,950, an increase of $699,- 400. Montreal does not give any indications of unusual development, her total being $227,655, which compares favorably, however, with the total for January 1, 1919, of $20,000.

Millions Behind.

While building permits issued in Canada during the year 1919 reached a higher value than in any year since before the war, the country is still behind in its construction program to the extent of many millions of dollars. The widespread slackening of building activity during the years from 1915 to 1918 has left a great shortage of homes, offices, factories and warehouses that is noticeable in nearly every section of the country. Comparison of building permit figures of recent years indicates that the country is at least $300,000,000 behind in its building program. This is four times the total value of the building permits issued in Canada during the year 1919, and would seem to indicate an active era of construction for several years at least.

In the ten years prior to the war
building permits issued in Canada averaged about $100,000,000 yearly. Had this

You Pay only the Same Duty on Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea
as on the Very Poorest Tea

Before the war there was no duty on tea.

To-day there is a duty of 7 cents a pound on tea brought from British possessions, and one of 10c. a pound on tea brought from other countries, regardless of the quality.

If it were levied on the value of the tea, as is the case with other goods imported into Canada, the duty on a pound of Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea would be about double that levied on common tea.

But the duty on a pound of this fine-quality, mountain-grown tea—Red Rose Orange Pekoe Tea—is the same as that on a pound of the very poorest tea.

This is one of the reasons that this tea of extra quality—as well as our standard, well-known Red Rose brand—is so much better value than ordinary teas.

You pay less duty.

This situation is appreciated by tea lovers all over Canada. There is a greater demand for fine-quality tea to-day than before the war. And our
NEW fine-quality tea—Red Rose Orange Pekoe—is already enjoying a brisk demand.

Try it. Sold only in our new package—the waxed board carton.

DROP THAT COUGH

It is from the trifling cold, the annoying cough, that pneumonia develops; it may easily be the outcome of the Whooping Cough, Croup, Bronchitis or Catarrh if this condition is neglected. Disregard for these warnings of nature has proven fatal only too often; decision to look after it tomorrow instead of tonight is folly in the extreme. Would you hesitate about calling help if your house was burning? Would you leave a scorched dinner on the stove after you discovered the scorch?

rate of expansion been continued during the war the value of building permits issued between January 1, 1915, and December 31, 1919, would have totalled $600,- 000,000. As a matter of fact, building permits issued in that period totalled only $207,428,461 in all. These areas must be made up before the country will have the buildings necessary to house its people and its industries.

Costs up 75 Per Cent.

Perhaps it may be argued that the country has not expanded sufficiently during the past five years to acquire this degree of construction. But the figures given do not account for a 75 per cent. increase in the cost of all labor and commodities that enter into building and the extra $225,000,000 that this increase represents would probably fully compensate for the lessened needs of the country.

As indicative of the slackness in building in Canada as a result of the war, building permit figures for the past ten years, as compiled by The Financial Post, are given below:

1909	$ 72,805,804
1910	103,261,408
1911	126,082,715
1912	196,847,472
1913	167,839,778
1914	103,548,287
1915	84,411,491
1916	27,786,681
1917	28,221,084
1918	87,028,146
1919	75,080,999

United States Also Behind.

This, however, is not a condition peculiar to Canada. In the United States, it is estimated that the country is $2,000,000,000 in arrears on its program of construction. In spite of the record breaking figures of about $1,812,- 000,000 last year, the slackening in building activity during 1917 and 1918 put the United States far behind that it will probably take some years to catch up. During the war construction was retarded by the loss of many workers who left the building trades to engage in the lucrative war activities, and at the same time high prices for both labor and materials discouraged new building enterprises. Building permits in the United States totalled $1,137,000,000 in 1916, dropped to $815,000,000 in 1917 and $480,000,000 in 1918.

CHILDREN BOSS THEIR OWN SCHOOL

Novel Plan Lets Little Ones
Conduct Education Utterly Alone.

Tiptree, Eng., Feb. 27—There is a band of happy school children amid the fruit trees and beautiful meadows near Kelvedon.

They live at Tiptree hall and are absolutely free to rule themselves, conduct their own education, learn respect for community interests—which has produced in them a delightful natural courtesy—and mete out their own punishments.

The self-controlled and self-educated little community is drawn from the poorest class. They are mostly war orphans, and many have come from evil surroundings.

The children teach themselves history by means of a sort of wooden ladder, on the rungs of which hang cards bearing such inscriptions as "Wars of the Roses" with the date on the back. On the rung the number of the century is printed.

The game is for one little boy to turn his back on the ladder while another picks a card at random and reads the inscription. In a second or two comes the answer, giving the date.

With garlands of leaves in their hair
they afterward danced the "Spring song" and Chopin's funeral march, and their sense of rhythm, meaning and sensibility was astonishing. The only lesson in dancing they ever received was

"do what the music tells you."
Lord Glenconner is chairman of the committee of educationists in charge of Tiptree hall. Sir MacMunn is the head of the school.

In East Providence the highway department had to dig a road through a snow drift on the old Barrington road that was eight feet deep in places and nearly an eighth of a mile long. It took a crew of shovelers a day and a half to make a one-way passage for vehicles through the blockade.

Speed is one good quality of Beaver Board. There's no time lost waiting for plaster to dry. Your own men can do it if outside labor is not quickly available.

Beaver Board will last as long as the building—a quality of even greater importance. It is a true lumber product, made from fibres of the white spruce. It is built up into large, flawless panels that cannot crack, and is treated with the patent
"Sealtite" sizing process to prevent warping.

"Beaver Board and Its Uses," is the title of a book that in both business and home. Write for a copy to-day.

RECORD OF YOUTH IN POLICE CIRCLES

Wm. Perry, Now Held on Liquor Charge, Many Times Taken in Since He Was Boy of 13 in 1916.

The following is the record of William Perry, now before the police court: The first time he appeared in court was in 1916, when he was thirteen years of age. On May 31 of that year he was tried on suspicion of stealing a box of cigarettes from Paddock's store on Marsh road, also pie from a baker's wagon and newspapers from Wadsworth store, Coleman's store and Tremblow's store. He was allowed to go on his promise to go to school. On October 27 of the following year he was arrested on a charge of stealing $1 from William Aronoff in Union street, and was allowed to go on suspended sentence. On November 20 of the same year he was arrested on charge of stealing a can of milk from Harry Selick and a can from the store of Andrew Miles. This time he was allowed to go with a warning. On December 1, 1917, he was arrested on charge of not giving a satisfactory account of himself in Pond street, and was sentenced to four years, but allowed to go. The following day he was taken on charge of stealing $6.50 from the till in a shop kept by Mrs. Walter McKay, Sheriff street, and received a repetition of the four years suspended sentence. On January 16, 1918, he was arrested on charge of breaking and entering a gear shed on Hilliard's wharf owned by F. E. Squire and was allowed to go with a warning that if seen late in the streets he would be arrested. On April 4 of that year he appeared before the court on charge of stealing a pocketbook containing $7 and some cigarettes the property of Hazel Totton, and was allowed to go. Again on the 11th he was taken on charge of not giving a satisfactory account of himself on the north side of King Square at 1.30 a. m., and again was allowed to go. On April 27 he was arrested on charge of stealing a tub of butter from D. J. Hamilton of the City Market, valued at $18, and was sentenced to four years in the Boys' Industrial Home. He was taken to that institution, but his stay was short. On May 21 he was back again charging with escaping and was sent back to the home. On June 6 he had the charge of escaping from the Boys' Industrial Home registered against his name, and he was again sent back. On April 18th, 1919, he was arrested on charge of lying and lurking in a barn off Somerset street at 1.30 a. m., on which occasion he was allowed to go. On February 26, 1919, Perry was again arrested on charge of wandering in company with three others and not giving a satisfactory account of himself at 3.35 a. m. He forfeited a deposit of $8. On February 6, 1920, he was arrested on charge of lying and lurking and not giving a satisfactory account of himself in George Harrington's post room in Union street at 8.30 a. m. On that occasion he was allowed to go. Just fourteen days later, on the 20th, he was again arrested in Charlotte street, charged with drunkenness. He was also charged with carrying liquor in his possession other than in his private dwelling. This matter is now before the court.

ORGANIZING A BAND FOR 62ND

M. E. Perkins Appointed Bandmaster—Twenty-five Members Already.

Another strong musical organization is in process of formation in the city, a fact already well known, and promises to be very successful. A city regiment without a band would hardly be according to K. R. and D., propriety of ceremonial, or in keeping with pre-war days, so the organization of a military band has been going on with the 62nd St. John Fusiliers and it now numbers about twenty-five pieces.

M. E. Perkins, who is well known in musical circles in St. John and who went overseas as bandmaster of various units, and arranged for a pleasing instrumentation. The band is expected to prove a credit to the Fusiliers, and a feature in which they may be excused for taking pride.

THE INFLUENZA SITUATION

No new cases of influenza were reported to the board of health this morning, while four cards were removed. The situation today is as follows: Total number of cases reported, 282; recoveries, 159; deaths, fourteen, and 109 cases reported existing in the city. Two patients were discharged from the emergency hospital this morning.

In speaking to a Times reporter this morning, Dr. William Warwick, district medical health officer for the southern district, said that in some parts of his district numerous cases of influenza have been reported, but it is of a mild type and few deaths result, and the patients seem to recover very quickly. He says he has seen throughout the district it is on the wane.

DEATHS ARE 24

The number of deaths reported to the board of health during the week show a decided decrease from last week, when forty-one were reported. This week the total is twenty-four, as follows: Bronchopneumonia, five; pneumonia, four; influenza, two; typhoid, two; influenza, one; convulsions, one; premature birth, one; duodenal ulcers, pneumonia, one; cancer, one; stroke and septic middle ear disease, one each.

THE STORY OF THE MAN WHO GOT TO THE NORTH POLE

Peary Had Tried and Tried and Tried Again

Discouraged After Sixth Trip and Wrote in Diary That His Dream Could Never Be Realized - But He Went Back and Won.

Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole, who died a few days ago at his home in Washington, was sixty-four years of age. It was eleven years ago, on Sept. 6, 1909, that the message came from Peary at Indian Harbor, Cape Ray, Nfld. "Stars and Stripes Nailed to North Pole," and it was six months before the day, April 6, that the actual sailing had been done. The news was six months late, but after three centuries of working toward the pole on the part of the human race in general and after seven trips by Admiral Peary himself, the wait was not proportionately long. The claim of Dr. Cook had come four days before his sort of discovery being notoriously a speedy traveler—and when Admiral Peary returned it was into the midst of such a seething controversy as has never before or since been waged over the achievements of exploring or scientific men.

Admiral Peary was born in Cresson, Pa., in 1856, but when his father died in 1859, was taken by his mother to live in Portland, Me., which state was always home to him. Casco Bay and its neighborhood was the best-loved place when he was a boy. He was graduated later from Bowdoin College, where he was known for a runner and jumper as well as a rather exceptionally good student. He then went directly to Washington as a draughtsman in the coast and geodetic survey office. Book Impelled Him.

His spare time he filled with studying civil engineering, and then passed on into the navy, becoming Lieutenant Peary, U. S. N. His first assignment was to the tropics, as leader of the surveying for the Nicaraguan Canal route. But this was his only trip in the capacity of naval engineer, for when he got back to Washington he happened to run across a book on Greenland in a bookstore one day, and the real Peary developed.

He was thirty years old when this happened. The one chance book on a counter was the beginning of a long line of books which he absorbed, and finally he got leave from the naval service to take an expedition to Greenland to find out something of it for himself. He then determined its insularity, and discovered and named many of the Arctic points which are now familiar, as Independence Bay, Melville Land and Midgirdin Land. It was on a later trip that he found the meteorites which he brought back with him, one of which, weighing eighty tons, is now in the American Museum of Natural History.

Lectured to Raise Money.

To raise money for further exploration Peary lectured between trips on what he had already found. He was a zealous man—on one of these lecturing trips he delivered 168 lectures in ninety-six days, and raised $18,000. After discouragement is apt to come before a real success, and it was on the sixth trip that he gave up for ever (or so he thought) his dream. The pole was almost in sight, but things were bad—both of his feet were frozen, he was in despair and was convinced of the hopelessness of the whole undertaking. Although he had reached the northernmost land in the world, at the tip of Greenland, and named it Cape Morris K. Jessup, he felt that he could never win to the pole. In his diary at this time he wrote:

"The game is off. My dream of sixteen years is ended. I have made the best light I knew. I believe it was a good one. But I cannot accomplish the impossible."

What the idea of the one thing which fascinated him being impossible of attainment couldn't last, and by the time he had reached home after that sixth trip he was beginning to plan the seventh. With a new and specially designed ship, Roosevelt, he set out again, on his next to the last trip, and drove farther into the north than any man had been before. He went ahead on foot until his record stood at 80 1/2, when lack of food and weariness enough to sustain life sent him back again. But he knew now for sure that there was no impossibility about his dream. It was simply a mathematical problem to be worked out, a problem which more accurate, more confined, more obtainable, each trip he made.

"The Pole—Or Bust"

In July, 1908, when Peary was fifty-two years old, he set out for the eighth and last time. Col. Roosevelt saw the boat off, and to him Capt. Bartlett, Peary's veteran navigator, cried as she was letting go the docks, "It's the Pole or bust this time, Mr. President." It was the Pole, as things turned out.

Five detachments were used this time, and they pushed north in the manner of a telescope. At the eighty-eight parallel, Peary left Capt. Bartlett in charge of the fourth detachment, and he, with one member of his crew and four Eskimos made the final dash. The Eskimo's story, which has never been told, would be an interesting one. The 133 miles were covered in five days. Thirty hours from April 6 to April 7, 1909, were spent at and around the North Pole, which was a great tract of frozen sea. The weather was perfect, the temperature ranging from twelve to thirty-three degrees below. Sometimes an open place would allow a sounding, and then 9,000 feet of wire, which was all the party had, could not find bottom of that mysterious Northern sea.

There was something quite convincing about Admiral Peary, his eight trips and his scientific work and his unswerving work. He was made Rear Admiral of the U. S. navy then and retired on pay, and Congress awarded him its special and Congress awarded him its special "de of thanks."

There are three books by Admiral Peary which hold the story of his explorations. "The North Pole," "Northward Over the Great Ice," and "Nearest the Pole."

Much of the last years of his life were spent at his home on Eagle Island, off the coast of Portland, Me. The rest of his time was spent in Washington. He leaves his wife, who before her marriage to Admiral Peary in 1888, was Josephine Diebisch, of Washington, D. C., and a son and a daughter who, because she was born farther north than any other white child in the world, has always been known as the "Snow Baby."

"Foremost Explorer"

Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary's success in reaching the North Pole was due to his introduction of common sense methods into Arctic exploration, in the opinion of Vilhjalmur Stefansson said. "I think that Admiral Peary was easily the foremost explorer who ever ventured into the north. Personally he was a charming man, and the somewhat harsh and brusque characteristics attributed to him never were found by those who knew him closely. In his opinions he was decidedly broad-minded, and changed his views considerably as time and experience came to him."

Henry Woodhouse, vice-president of the Aerial League of America, of which Admiral Peary had been president since 1917, and one of the board of governors of the Aero Club of America, on which the discoverer of the North Pole also had served for the last six years, characterized Peary as the pioneer in aerial navigation and transportation and the originator of the aerial coast patrol idea.

"It is hard to express in words the shock we feel in hearing of Admiral Peary's death," Mr. Woodhouse said. "At the time the United States entered the war 300 aviators were trained at private expense through Admiral Peary's enterprise."

Admiral Peary was president of the Aerial League of America and for several years had been a member of the board of governors of the Aero Club of America. About a month ago he accepted the presidency of a St. Louis airplane company.

He was an honorary member of the Philadelphia Geographical Society, American Alpine Club, National Geographic Society, American Museum of Natural History, New York Chamber of Commerce, and all the principal American and foreign geographic societies.

THE EARLY ACQUISITION OF PARKS PROFITABLE

New York City's Parks Have Been Paid for by Increased Taxes on Adjoining Property - Toronto Parkway Scheme.

(G. H. Ferguson, in Conservation.) In city development there are several sound reasons to justify the early acquisition of park lands, not the least of which is their direct effect upon the value of city property, and the consequent increase in the city's income from the taxation of land. In the case of Madison, Wis., new parks not only met all charges, but by reason of the increased value of the adjoining property, brought into the city treasury $10,000 a year in increased taxes. Up to 1914, the city of New York collected, in twenty-five years, taxes on the property of the three wards contiguous to Central Park, over and above the ordinary increase in the taxable value of the real estate in the remainder of the city, $65,000,000, or about $21,000,000 more than the aggregate expense of maintenance and similar expenses during the period 1880-1914. In other words, in addition to acquiring lands valued at $20,000,000, the city of New York has received $1,000,000 in cash out of this transaction. The original price paid for the 840 acres forming Central Park was $2,064,500. Toronto can well boast of its park areas. In Queen's Park and High Park, the city has two of the finest natural parks in Canada. The total area, which includes 57 parks, is 1,902 acres. The city's park commissioner is planning a boulevard driveway, sixty-three miles in length, including park driveways, and which he hopes to have approved by the city council now that the war is over. The main boulevard, encircling the city, will be thirty-three miles long and the internal driveways will aggregate thirty

It is estimated that it will cost approximately $7,000,000. It will have a width from 100 to 500 feet. Information gathered by the town planning branch of the commission of conservation shows that there is a wide variation in the area of park land in various cities of Canada. A comparison of Canadian cities with United States centres of about equal population shows that Canada has done at least as well in the provision of public recreation spaces and a comparison with the largest centres of Europe places this country in a very favorable light.

No Uncertainty about this Milk - its Quality or its Delivery

It comes from Canada's finest dairy sections. It is pure "whole" milk. But is delivered in a safer, more convenient way. It is sealed. If you wish, you can keep a week's supply—or a month's—on your pantry shelves. Then you have fresh, rich milk every time you open a can. When you run short, you simply phone the grocer for more.

That is how Milk comes from the spotless Carnation Condenseries.

Gathered every morning from Ontario farms, Carnation Milk must first pass rigid tests and inspections. Part of the water is evaporated from it. Then, rich and creamy, it goes fresh into new clean containers and is sealed. It is sterilized to insure its purity.

No sugar or anything else added. Carnation Milk is "whole" milk—nothing more. Richer, of course, because it contains only half as much water. Safe because it is sterilized. Kept pure because it is sealed.

Add Water to Carnation Milk

Water has been taken out. Carnation comes to you rich and creamy—just right for coffee, tea, fruits or cereals. But you may have it as rich as you wish. Add an equal part of water and Carnation has the natural richness of whole milk. Most people add even more water. Double the quantity of water makes a nourishing drink for kiddies—safe and usually superior in quality to ordinary milk.

Carnation is milk of unusual quality—without the bother or uncertainty of daily deliveries.

Carnation waits your convenience. Ready—fresh—the moment you want it. Phone your Grocer—he is the Carnation Milkman.

DR. RICE TO BARE SECRETS OF SOUTH AMERICAN WILDS

Strange Races and Tribes Being Studied by Explorer and His Wife Who Are Braving Dread Hardships of Jungles to Get Knowledge.

New York, Feb. 26.—Dr. Alexander Hamilton Rice, the explorer, has arranged with his London publishers to bring out a great work on the results of his expeditions in the South American region north of the Amazon river. He states that the tribes he is now studying, alleged to be composed largely of blood Indians, centered on the headwaters of the Orinoco river, are known as the Guaharibes, practically a wild people. If they are white, they must have always been white, for two reasons. Madison Grant has shown in his new book, "The Passing of a Great Race," that where blonds are found among the dark races it merely shows that at some time they were a mixture of Nordic sailors and the local.

On the other hand, Louis Agassiz proves in his work on the Amazon, that the descendants of all intermarriages between whites and Indians are between blacks and South American Indians have ultimately reverted to the Indian type and characteristics. In other words, the South American Indian type, being the most primitive in existence, refuses to give way to the infusion of other bloods. Hence the insistence that a blond race of Indians in that part of the world must have been always white.

Wife Also Explorer.
In 1915 Dr. Rice married Ellen, Mrs. George D. Widener, of Philadelphia, daughter of the late William L. Elkins. Mrs. Rice immediately and enthusiastically devoted herself and fortune to the explorations of her distinguished husband. She accompanied him on his last expedition up the Amazon—a honey-moon trip.

Mrs. Rice went through her first trial of penetration of the disease-laden tropics without incident, so far as any infection was concerned. She strictly followed the rules. Before entering the infected regions she took ten grains of quinine twice daily. She kept her face and hands draped in insect netting. She kept a good exercise by doing practically a man's daily work. One of the requirements, quite a severe hardship for her, is, after a tiresome day's work, to emulate each member of the party before retiring, by writing down a minute account of all she saw and experienced.

Also before any sleep is the daily wireless flash to the station at Arlington to get correct latitude and longitude and time, often beset with vexatious delays. River Four Miles Wide.

The worst of the whole work in this section begins at Camanero, where the river is four miles wide. Here were only a few colonists comprising Portuguese, married to native women for trade interests, for without knowledge of the Indian dialect it would be impossible for the rich families—the ruling class—to maintain vassalage that exists.

The Makus are wandering tribes, hunted and hunted down, without regard to descent, by settled Indians. They are also looked upon as a remnant of a powerful race, bearing culturally the stamp of great antiquity and differing radically from other tribes. The women of these nomadic tribes are seized by chiefs of settled tribes for wives and the men for arm bearers.

They are also looked upon as a remnant of a powerful race, bearing culturally the stamp of great antiquity and differing radically from other tribes. The women of these nomadic tribes are seized by chiefs of settled tribes for wives and the men for arm bearers.

On one of his trips over the Andes, Dr. Rice found the trail dominated by the violence of Cotacachi volcano, which literally threw at him and his men the bowels of the earth. His Arrieros, however, clean and pure that you are unable to throw off disease.

The great cause of impure blood is constipation, allowing accumulated waste to remain in the system, especially the colon, where the entire blood circulation passes every twenty-four hours. There, poisons are taken up by the blood and the system becomes a prey to any infectious disease that may be present.

The only method of properly keeping the colon and intestine clean is by bathing internally. The J.B.L. Cascade is the only perfect appliance for this purpose, and only purified warm water is used. It positively removes constipation and keeps the system as clean and healthy as nature intended it should be. If you want to avoid being sick or to regain your health, keep your system clean and your blood pure. Thousands of Canadians have proven this wonderful health-giving method, and scores have been restored to perfect health by using the J.B.L. Cascade without taking drugs of any kind.

There should be a J.B.L. Cascade in every home. It is being shown and explained by E. Clinton Brown, Druggist, Cor. Union and Waterloo streets, St. John and E. N. Munro, Dispensing Chemist, 357 Main street, St. John. Ask for free booklet all about Internal Bathing.

When you find that the successful men and women you know—who are doing things worth while—you will find that they possess force, vim and energy—the kind that simply bloom over when the blood is filled with Nuxated Iron by enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, strengthens the nerves, relieves the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed force and energy into the whole system. Three million people use it annually as a tonic, strength and blood-builder.

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.

ENOUGH 'FLU TO MAKE IT DANGEROUS

People Should Take Preventive Measures, States Dr. Boucher.

In an interview with the Medical Health Officer of Montreal, Dr. Boucher says, "I do not think we have to fear a big epidemic of 'flu' if the people take precautions. Tell the people to be prudent. The situation is far from taking the bad turn it assumed in 1918 as regards the number and severity of the cases."

In this connection it is well to remember the epidemic of influenza raged throughout Canada.

"Personal cleanliness is all-important. Hands and face should be washed several times a day with soap and water, and the hair should be kept clean and the hairbrush washed frequently. Sleep with the windows open. See that the digestion is sound. Keep the stomach in order and avoid constipation."

While there are so many cases of 'flu,' it is well for everyone to take a little preventive like Abbe's Effervescent Salt, which will correct the faults of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and put the entire system in the best possible condition to resist disease.

Have Strange God.
The only god known in the Amazon is Jurupary. Hence the instruction of that name—a gigantic negro-phobia. When it sounds at night no woman may see it, under penalty of being stoned to death.

At the Languna Mure, Dr. Rice encountered a village cunningly hid from the Germans when they were driven out by the Allied advance in 1917. The explanation of the status of the Amazon, the wood including portions of the same, is a mystery.

When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. If, instead, you use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never hurts, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.00.

It is really wonderful how quickly the home-made remedy can soothe a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, soothes a dry, scratchy or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of natural pine-needle extract and has been used for generations for the relief of coughs, colds, and croup. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

SPANISH INFLUENZA
How to protect yourself against it and check an attack.

1—Do not alarm yourself needlessly, but be careful; follow as much as possible the elementary rules of hygiene. Treat a common cold as if it was a serious ailment, and on the appearance of the first signs of fever, call in the doctor.

2—Avoid crowds, meetings, and places where you have contact with people who are ill. If you must go, wear a mask and avoid the place of business every day.

3—Breathe pure air as much as possible; breathe through the nose and not through your mouth. Seek the sun rays—they kill the germs—and walk to and from your place of business every day.

4—Keep the windows of your bedroom open at night and in daytime those of your office as much as possible, avoiding, however, draughts.

Spanish Influenza is a contagious disease caused by a germ found especially in the saliva and secretions of the nose, throat and bronchi. The above advice followed faithfully will reduce to the minimum the chances of being overcome by the disease.

The celebrated Dr. Metchnikoff has proven conclusively, that Influenza like all other contagious diseases find its greatest number of victims among people habitually constipated.—During epidemics he advises to keep the bowels free by the use of a saline purgative water like Riggs Purgative Water.—Follow his advice, you will never have to regret it.

"GHOST" RAPS IN MORSE CODE

How a Girl Unwittingly Spoofed a Village—An Excited Crowd.

(London Chronicle.)

Strange rappings at night on a bedroom wall have caused many of the people of Brickenton, a Hertfordshire village, to believe in the presence of a ghost. Scientists said that someone was working "a fraud."

The rappings continued during many nights, and so much interest and discussion were excited that the Psychological Research Society sent an investigator. He was accompanied by two local councilors, and a huge crowd assembled outside the house, which is on a poultry farm.

No rappings, however, were heard, and the disappointed crowd became restless. Presently, to satisfy them, the investigator called: "There is no ghost, there is no fraud; the position is caused by a girl's bad state of health, which might happen to anyone."

It appeared that a girl in the house had been taught the Morse signal code by her brother when he came home from the war. She had caused the rapping every night on her bedroom wall.

To a press representative the investigator said the case was parallel to number of other cases well known to doctors, and hundreds of which were never heard of. The girl might not have been conscious of making the rappings, or she might have been conscious of making the rappings. He declined to say how she made them.

NATIONALIZATION OF MINES AN ISSUE

(Montreal Herald.)

In the Paisley election the Rt. Hon. Herbert Asquith placed himself on record as being opposed to labor's demand for the nationalization of mines. The labor party in Great Britain is making an active campaign for the nationalization of the coal industry and the decisive stage of the struggle is now at hand.

Robert Smillie, president of the British Miners' Federation, spoke in Paisley in support of the labor candidate on this issue. He contended that the coal of the country ought to be for the use of all the people and not for the purpose of drawing royalties and rents by the few who first stole the surface of the land. According to Mr. Smillie the miners are determined that they will not risk their lives in the mines any longer without a voice in control. They do not want dual control, but believe that with joint control between the miners and the state they can better develop the output of coal.

Mr. Asquith clearly stated his position on this question. He favors the acquisition by the state of the mineral rights and royalties and of the establishment of boards on which employers and employed and the state, as trustees for the consuming community should be associated in the control and management of the industry. To the nationalization of the mines and of their working he returns a firm answer in the negative. He regards this demand as a first step in the policy of nationalizing industry as a whole, which he believes "would enshrine the rule of bureaucracy, tend to stultify progress, paralyze individual initiative and enterprise, reduce output, and sooner or later impoverish the community."

Mr. Smillie does not, however, speak with the voice of a united body of men, as shown by the following telegram sent to Mr. Asquith during the recent campaign in Paisley by the Conservative agent at Llanishen, Glamorganshire:—"Forty meetings of West Conservative miners have passed a resolution against nationalization of the mines. Liberal miners also oppose it. Both thank you for your outspoken opposition to the proposal. Despite Smillie and his bureaucrats, only Socialist miners want nationalization."

The forthcoming Trades Union Congress is to decide whether labor's nationalization policy is to follow constitutional lines, or direct action be the chosen weapon. The labor party are said to be exceedingly nervous respecting the outcome. The congress will be warned of the dangers to trade unionism of violence against which Lloyd George says he will fight to the death. The delegates will be urged to await the decision of the poll of the next general election rather than precipitate a conflict with the government.

In the view of Lord Selborne the labor party are out for nationalization, not only of the coal but of all the means of production, distribution and exchange. Having begun with an attempt on the coal industry he believed their most important attack, whenever they came into power, would be on the land and he regarded it as extremely possible that in a few years there might be a labor government.

It is well that the issue in a matter of this enormous importance should be clearly joined. The government are pledged against nationalization. Both the prime minister and Bonar Law have made emphatic declarations to this effect. To this Mr. Asquith has joined

MODERATION, PLEASE!

(Canadian Finance.)

It is admitted that we have extremists in our midst, but it is not always admitted that there are two types of extremists. One class of extremists, that which leads the way and biases the trail in all progressive movements, is a distinct asset to the country. It leads forward, sometimes unwillingly. Its ideas are somewhat ahead of the times, but with the moderating influence which practical men exert the extremist is held in leash. The other class—that which would tear down the institutions of the country by force—is a danger, and, like all dangers it should be combated.

At the present time the extreme labor man is receiving much attention; so

A Rough Road For Wheels but a Smooth Road For Passengers

WATCH Overland 4 on rough cobbles or unpaved roads. The wheels follow surface inequalities, but the wonderful new Triplex Springs give car and passengers remarkable riding steadiness.

The three-point diagonally-attached Triplex Springs give 130-inch Springbase to a car of 100-inch wheelbase.

This makes for the gently buoyant road action of a large, heavy car with the operating economy and convenience of handling of a scientifically designed light car.

Triplex Springs also mean care-free maintenance, so perfectly do they protect the delicate parts of the car from road strain.

Electric starting and lighting, door-opening curtains and dash light give but a hint of the completeness and quality which characterize everything about Overland 4.

Congressional motto seems to be, "Never put off until tomorrow what you can postpone until after election."—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

How the President Has "Come Back"

President Wilson "knows that he is now quite up to his fighting weight. As to his mental vigor, it is simply prodigious. He is giving splendid attention to the affairs of state, and we have every assurance that he will become progressively more active in these matters with the advent of spring and sunshine," according to one of the President's physicians. Disturbing, however, are the words of Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan, former President of the American Medical Association, who says that "the disease of the arteries," from which the President is suffering, "is permanent and not a temporary condition." Whatever the President's mental and physical condition, in the opinion of the medical men, he has emphasized his return to public life by receiving a delegation of railroad labor leaders, by sending to the Allied Supreme Council a virtual ultimatum on the Fiume controversy, and by dropping his Secretary of State. The latter action startled the public and aroused a storm of criticism, much of it unfavorable to the Chief Executive.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for February 28th, there is an illuminating article, illustrated with striking cartoons, upon the return of President Wilson to his official duties. It presents the editorial opinion of American newspapers upon the President's recent activities and gives various reasons why Secretary Lansing was asked to resign.

ZBYSZKO WINS FROM LEMLE

Defeats Former "Perfect Man" - Latter Wrestled "Cyclone", Burns In This City.

(Boston Globe.) Stanislaus Zbyszko, who started his American tour in Worcester with a win over Karl Lemle, the one-time "perfect man," showed all his old-time skill and power, and although much over weight, as judged by American standards, proved that he could go a long route without showing distress. He had planned to open the tour in Boston next week, but began earlier in order to be in better condition for that appearance. With the added time and a week of minor contests ahead, "Stan" will come to Mechanic's Building a week from tonight ready for his match with sturdy John Grimalovich, the youthful and powerful Serbian giant.

here or anywhere else for that matter and did much to give wrestling a new impetus. Karl, however, was too fond of creature comforts and too much averse to the drudgery of training. He took on weight and with it a lack of ambition. His friends did everything to stir him up to his great possibilities, but he did not listen and finally drifted out of the game. He essayed a come-back against Stranger Lewis two years ago, but lack of condition told and he went down to defeat without even making a respectable showing.

Lemle is still young in years and if he would place himself in proper hands and listen to the advice of those who have his best interests at heart, he still has possibilities. But "pinocchio" must be taboos and rich, creamy foods must be avoided. Note—Wrestling fans will recall Lemle's match in the old Mechanics Institute with "Cyclone" Burns in 1913. He was a perfect specimen of manhood and as fine a looking athlete as ever appeared on a local stage. It will be recalled that Lemle had Burns in a dangerous hold and while protesting to referee Touhey that he had Burns' shoulders pinned, the latter suddenly broke loose and, catching Lemle, threw him over his head and pinned him with a head and arm lock.

This beats the world's record by the great margin of 42.5 seconds and the achievement is the more amazing because the ablest of American swimmers have second by second brought down the standard from 1:58 in the last few months.

HALIFAX TO HAVE MORE HOSPITALS

Halifax Echo: Tenders have been called for erection of the new buildings proposed for the Victoria General Hospital grounds and are to be in by Saturday, March 20. The buildings to be erected are three separate units and the contract will be a big one, work to begin in the spring as soon as weather permits, in expectation that the structures will be habitable for use the following winter.

The larger of the three buildings will be the private patients' pavilion, which will run east and west from the main hospital building towards Tower road, and will be near to and parallel South street. It will be 146 feet long, east and west, by about 45 feet. It will be three stories in height and will be of pressed brick with granite trimmings. It will be flat roofed.

On the Morris street side of the hospital grounds there is to be erected an extension of the nurses' home building, near Summer street. The extension is to be about 100 by 35 feet, of brick with stone trimmings and three stories in height. It will parallel Morris street, extending east from the present nurses' home building.

The third structure to be erected will be a new service building to replace the present wooden structure in the rear of the main hospital building. It will occupy the site of the present service building and will be of brick.

Every hour of fine weather is being taken advantage of by the building mechanics at work on the Maternity Hospital building, Summer street, with the result that the brick walls grow higher each week. On the eastern section of the building the window frames are in for the second floor and the brick work is well up to the third, while on the western section the walls are up to about half of the second story.

Something Refreshingly New, Though One of Our Oldest and Sweetest Historical Dramas

"Evangeline" Longfellow's Exquisite Story

Imperial Monday

When the first glimpse is given of the "forest primeval, the murmuring pines and the hemlocks."

When the little village of Grand-Pre is screened.

When Evangeline is first seen—"when she had passed it seemed like the ceasing of exquisite music."

When Evangeline and Gabriel plight their troth.

When the royal governor, Charles Lawrence, without authority from the king, decides to deport all Acadians.

When Evangeline, surrounded by pretty village maidens, decks herself for the wedding.

When the arrival of the soldiery checks the gaiety of the Acadians assembled for the wedding.

When the colonel reads the decree of exile for every man, woman and child in Acadia.

When Evangeline and Gabriel are separated as the actual deportation begins.

Dramatic Moments in a Story of Deep Emotions

When the village of Grand-Pre is burned.

When, without bell or book, they bury the father of Evangeline on the beach.

When Gabriel and his father find prosperity in the southern Savanna.

When Evangeline ever-seeking, journeys here and there with other exiles in a never-faltering search for Gabriel.

When Evangeline refuses all suitors, saying "Whither my heart has gone, there follows my hand, and not elsewhere."

When Gabriel and emigrants in the wagon train are attacked by Indians.

When Evangeline becomes a Sister of Mercy.

When Evangeline and Gabriel at last are re-united in a pestilence hospital.

CURLING. Ottawa Rink Beaten.

Golf for Everybody.
Border Cities Star—Victoria, B. C., is talking of a municipal golf course. A by-law recently submitted with that end in view failed of adoption, but the project is being revived by the Victoria Rotary Club and the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, with the result that it will probably carry the day when again placed before the electorate. A similar proposition has often been discussed in the Border Cities, and the Star sees no reason why the scheme cannot be proceeded with. Various local organizations could be depended upon to back the project, and it is understood that the mayor and council look favorably upon it.

CHARGE MADE AGAINST DEMPSEY

Warrants for Ring Champion and Manager Kearns

False Swearing in Returns Relative to the War Draft Is Alleged in Indictment Against Dempsey.

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, and his manager, Jack Kearns, have been indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of conspiring to have Dempsey avoid the selective draft, according to a responsible federal official here today.

Dempsey was charged with having falsely sworn that his father, mother, widowed sister and the latter's two children were dependent on him, that he had contributed $20 a month each to their support during 1917, and that they were receiving support from no other source.

Dempsey's statement to the draft board that his wife had lived with him for eighteen months previous to his appearance before the board and that his parents and widowed sister had made their home with him for years were false, according to the indictment.

A second indictment charging Dempsey with an actual evasion of the draft through falsification of his draft records also will be filed, this official said.

Warrants will be sworn out after the jury reports and the men will be arrested upon their expected arrival from Los Angeles on Saturday.

At one time snail racing was a great fad in Austria. Vienna had a fashionable snail racing club, where fortunes were frequently wagered on the ridiculous contests. Careful records of the time taken by the winning snails to crawl around the miniature snail track were kept in order that contestants might be properly handicapped in subsequent matches.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 27.—Jack Kearns said today he was waiting to hear from his attorney in San Francisco before making any move concerning the indictments. He said he hoped it could be arranged for him and Dempsey to surrender to federal officials here.
