WEBSTER & McINTYRE

St. George, N. B.

With froufrou of furbelows and ripples of laughter Miss Petticoats is on her way to St. George where she will be presented by a clever company on Monday eve. Aug. 16 for one night only, and the whole town is on the "qui vive" to see and hear the adventures of this wonderful girl, who, born of French and American parentage on the New England coast, had a most remarkable career. Her name was given her by her fond grandfather with whom she lived on board of an old whaler, because the mother when diving had called her "Mon petit coeur," and left her to old Capt. Stewart, a sturdy sea captain, who lived in the cabin of the "Harpoon," and here little Agatha Renier, daughter of a French nobleman, grew to womanhood. Her brilliant evolution from this quaint home, through the vicissitudes of the smart set of New Bedford, and her final graduation into aristocratic circles of Paris as a leader of society, furnished some very lively reading in the novel of "Miss Petticoats," and it was brought out as a play about five years ago at the great Boston Theatre, where it was greeted nightly by enthusiastic audiences, who pronounced it a powerful and thrilling play. From the shores of picturesque New Bedford to the salon of the Countess Foray is a long stretch, and makes a highly interesting contrast. The villainies and jealousy always awakened by a beautiful woman beset Agatha from the beginning when she saved the life of a rich old lady by "clinging like a scarlet vine" to the horses' heads, until she returned in triumph, and with the same irresistible strength of will, inherited from her Puritan mother, doomed all her former enemies, and brings the remarkable drama to a climax by giving up her own strong will for "love's sweet sake."

THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Cures Stomach Troubles.

When your stomach is working right you never know it is there. But when it feels as heavy as lead—when you have Heartburn, Belching of Wind, Sourness, a gnawing hunger, with distress after eating—when you feel irritable and depressed—then you may know that the digestive fluids in the stomach are not sufficient to digest what you eat.

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Tablets supply these fluids in concentrated form. Each tablet, dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1 3/4 pounds of food, which is more than an average meal.

Read what Father Morriscy's treatment did for Mr. Gosline, of Salmon Lake. He writes Nov. 30, 1908: "I was troubled with indigestion, so severe that I really thought I had cancer of the stomach. I took much doctors' remedies, till I was forced to seek another resource, and this was the Rev. Father Morriscy. His treatments worked miracles, until I have been entirely cured, so that now I do not look so the quality of the diet but to the quantity."

Identifying Criminals Around the World.

A few days ago M. Lepine, Paris Chief of Police, found in his morning mail a letter with an American stamp which read:

I inclose herewith Bertillon and finger print card of one Jean Raoul arrested in this city March 31, 1909, for snatching a purse from a lady in our streets. This man has been here but a short time, and says he comes from Paris. Do you know him and has he a criminal record? J. B. COOK, Chief of Police, San Francisco Cal., United States of America.

"Send it to M. Bertillon," was all M. Lepine said. Half an hour later a letter was on its way to the Golden Gate 6,000 miles hence, signed by the famous creator of the scientific method of identifying criminals, which stated the following facts:

"Jean Raoul, identified with Arthur Ferdinand Bernard, born in Paris Feb. 26, 1872; arrested Jan. 29, 1886, for burglary; convicted and sentenced to jail for three months; arrested again July 18, 1889, for attempted murder, sentenced to life imprisonment commuted to life imprisonment; escaped but re-arrested March 18, 1891; escaped again Feb. 18, 1900 since when his whereabouts unknown.

It was to find out precisely how M. Bertillon handled this matter of identification so expeditiously and obtain a personal impression of this extraordinary man that I called at his office in the Palais de Justice one morning. I expected to find a typical European bureaucratic official but was agreeably disappointed. My newspaper credentials were my "open sesame." A kindly brown eyed man of about 53 years of age, with mustache and pointed beard tinged with grey—his manner and appearance entirely that of the man of science rather than the policeman rose from his desk to greet me in English—"savage English," he smilingly termed it—but very intelligible none the less. He still held in his hand a piece of broken earthenware which he had been examining under a magnifying glass. "See," said he, "our exchange of courtesies over. This broken pot contains some wax. We found it at the scene of a burglary last night. The burglar had cut a pane of glass with a diamond. He used the wax to help him remove the glass without making any noise. The policeman who found this pot thinks we may identify the finger prints. Unfortunately, no. The fingers have been in the wax, but they have left only a blur while these other marks you see through this magnifying glass. Unfortunately, no. The fingers of linen. Too bad! The exhibit is useless as evidence," and M. Bertillon laid the broken pot aside with the regretful air of a baffled bacteriologist.

His MODESTY.

"So you want to know about our identification of the man in San Francisco?" Turning to me again, said the Master—"for so his thirty assistant in the 'Service de l'Identite Judiciaire" reverently speak of him. "Yes," it may be interesting, because the request for his identification comes from such a distance as San Francisco but is nothing more extraordinary than happens every day. It only proves again that my efforts in establishing a scientific method of identification have not been altogether successful. But—"

and here M. Bertillon hesitated—"these are things that I never like to talk about myself. My Chief clerk, M. Robert Bernadet, will illustrate to you precisely how we identified the San Francisco man. It was only a matter of four or five minutes to pick his card out of the 600,000 others we have classified."

M. Bernadet rung a bell, gave a brief order, and before I knew it he had in his hand the card bearing Bernard-Raoul's photograph and measurements July 18, 1889. There, truly, was the same individual in one case 17 years of age, in the other 37; the slight difference in measurements due to the fact that his physique was not fully developed at the beginning of his criminal career in France.

"Follow M. Bernadet and he will tell you everything. I have nothing to say about myself except that my father was an anthropologist and when a young man, being possessed with the idea that we needed some scientific method of identifying criminals. I got my first in the division 1870-79. Our next division is the length of the head—long medium short. Next the width of the head—broad, medium, narrow. Next the left middle finger—long, medium or short. Then the foot—again in three grades, long, medium or short. The forearm governs next in three degrees; the height follows, still in three degrees, tall, medium, short. Then you have six sub-divisions of this section of shelves. We have finally got down to this fingle box. 'Our man—' I have him on record—'must be in this box on which I

FILLING THE RECORDS.

Passing through the photographing and measuring rooms, M. Bernadet led me into the filing room. It was filled with shelf after shelf of card cases.

"We first classify our criminals according to the date of their birth. Here you have those born from 1840 to 1849; next from 1850 to 1859—and so on. The San Francisco card gave one man's age as 37. We know we must find him ideas from his scientific studies. In order to work out my system I joined the Police Department as an under secretary about thirty two years ago. It was not till 1889 that I obtained official authority to make measurements of the criminals in our prisons. This resulted in the creation of this service, to which I was appointed Chief in 1893. The addition of the finger print record? That was supplementary. I got that idea from the English scientist Francis Galton. That is all I can tell you about myself."

And with this further illustration of the practical operations of M. Bertillon's system, my visit to the Palais de Justice ended.

with a smile that did not conceal his pride in his Chief. "You see how simple the whole thing is—thanks to M. Bertillon!"

An important adjunct of the service is M. Bertillon's training school for applicants for positions on the detective force. The course over which he presides takes three months, and twenty young men from the class. His system he calls Le Portrait Parle. The motto conspicuously displayed on the wall gives the keynote of his method: "The eye only sees in things what it looks for there. It sees what is already in the mind."

TEACHING THE BERTILLON SYSTEM.

In M. Bertillon's school the pupil is taught to observe intimately, accurately, and rapidly every detail of the human face. One feature after another is taken up. Scores of enlarged photographs of actual heads and details of heads—chins, ears, noses, eyebrows, mouths, foreheads and so on—are exhibited, and studied. Pupils are required to reproduce in drawing various details of scores of faces which are briefly submitted in their observation. Special attention is given to the study of the nose, ear and eye.

"I should never mistake you in twenty years," remarked my attendant by way of illustration. "One detail of your features is sufficient to identify you in my mind."

"And that is?"

"The lobe of your left ear—its shape and angle."

M. Bernadet showed me a group of artificial eyes made, he told me by a member of the service. They were graded from the palest blue to the deepest dark brown. I think they numbered in all ninety nine.

"The trained eye of the detective," said he, "should be able to discriminate between every shade in that set."

Every now and then to taste the progress made by his class. M. Bertillon has prepared sets of cards on which are drawn more or less fragmentary outlines of noses, chins, ears and the like. These features belong to members of the class, who are turned out of the courtyard and told to pick out the class-mate whose features they are.

"Sometimes," said my informant, "we give a man a card with the outline of his own left ear or nose, and he has quite a time discovering himself."

Training of this character sharpens the perception wonderfully, especially when it is as thorough and painstaking as M. Bertillon insists upon. The men who pass his examination as a rule become most valuable detectives.

ALBUM OF UNDESIRABLES.

A very interesting record prepared under the master's direction is an album containing the photographic records of about 6,000 undesirable persons who are interdicted from putting foot on French soil. Every French Chief of Police has received a copy from M. Bertillon. The photographs are classified according to the shape of the nose—concave, straight or convex, with sub-classifications in the order of the ear, the height, the apparent age, color of the left eye, inclination of the base of the nose.

"To show you the value of the album," said Mr. Bertillon to me "I can send you to one of our policemen who, thro' his acquaintance with his contents has made nearly 150 arrests of interdicted persons within twelve months."

I was about to take my leave of the great identifier when my attention was attracted by a photograph on the wall of a malevolent face, under which the name was written, Scheffer—1902."

"This was an interesting case," remarked "the master." "He broke into a dentist's house in 1902, killed the butler, carried off a lot of silverware, which he took from a case and escaped."

We had no clue to the murder except from finger prints of the glass of the broken case. There we carefully preserved and photographed. About six months later a burglar was arrested in Marseilles. His measurements and finger print record was forwarded to us. The finger prints were identical with those on the glass of the dentist's silver case. The man was Scheffer. When he accused of the Paris murder he broke down, confessed, and was sentenced to death."

And with this further illustration of the practical operations of M. Bertillon's system, my visit to the Palais de Justice ended.

Clock Made of Bicycles.

A clever Frenchman named Alphonse Duhamel has instructed a timepiece twelve feet high, composed entirely of bicycles of their component parts. The framework is a huge bicycle wheel, round which are arranged twelve ordinary sized wheels, all fitted with pneumatic tires. A rim within the large wheel bears the figures for the hours, the figures themselves being constructed of crank rods. The hands being constructed of steel tubing which is used for the framework of bicycles. The minute strokes on the dial are small nickel-plated pieces. The top of the clock is an arrangement of twelve handle bars. The clock strikes the hours and the quarters, bicycle bells, of course making the chiming. The pendulum is made of various parts of a bicycle frame. It is said that the clock, besides being a curiosity, is an excellent timepiece.

Prince of Wales Growing Popular

LONDON, July 3.—There can be no doubt that the public is at last beginning to realize that the Prince of Wales is a strong personality in spite of his rather insignificant appearance. He is every day adding to his popularity and he has vastly impressed the delegates who came from the remotest parts of the British Empire to attend the Imperial Press Conference.

When he invited the delegates to a garden party at Marlborough House, at which both King and Queen were present, he caused telegrams to be sent to every London newspaper saying that he emphatically desired that no description of the party should be published. The editors at once recognized that the Prince wished to meet the Colonial editors in an entirely friendly and unofficial manner, and all of them respected his wishes. The party was absolutely informal and the Princess of Wales was never seen to better advantage. She has lost all traces of her stiffness due to nervousness which kept her rather at a distance from the public, and she talked in a most animated manner and with a good deal of knowledge to the Colonial and Indian delegates.

The Prince has greatly added to his popularity by his tour of the Duchy of Cornwall and Devon, where he owns vast estates which will pass to his eldest son. In the old days the estates were abominably managed and "Grant" was written over the face of them. Queen Victoria changed all that and not only saw that the tenants were properly cared for, but increased the revenue from the estates. In 1887 the payments made for the then Prince of Wales amounted to $195,000. Today the Prince of Wales is drawing over $400,000 from Cornwall and Devon and the tenants there are carefully housed and cared for. The Prince of Wales is working with tremendous enthusiasm, too, over the rebuilding of his London slum property. As the leases fall in he is building the most up-to-date workman dwellings where artisans can live in flats with bathrooms, for two dollars a week. When Prince Edward of Wales comes to the throne the whole of this vast property will be a "workman's paradise."

On Eating too Much.

Overeating is always dangerous, but for the old and for women it is especially bad. As age advances well meaning friends and relatives are only too apt to think that extra nourishment and support are necessary, doing much harm thereby. Certainly any change in the diet should be gradual and not sudden. Large heavy meals are especially to be avoided. Small meals, consisting of easily digested materials, should follow one another at not too long intervals. Meat should be taken only in moderation, while the vegetable food may be somewhat increased. Some blood nourishment at the bed side is often useful in case there is a sensation of hunger in the early morning; this also tends to prevent wakefulness if such a condition exists at that hour.

There are scientific reasons for stating that a woman requires less nutriment than a man, even apart from the fact that she is usually of lighter build and does not lead such an active life. Knowing this, it is not surprising that some of the aggravated cases of obesity should be among the women of the luxurious classes of society. During the period of lactation a woman should be provided with a more liberal diet, especially of milk foods.

Why Cough Syrups Fail

They slip quickly over the sore irritated membranes, drop into the stomach and do little else but harm digestion. It's different with Chamberlain's Cough Syrup. Every breath sent to the lungs is moistened by the inflamed tissues. The soreness and inflammation are cured by healing pine essences. The cough grows fewer, easier is suppressed, and the patient is cured. Nothing so simple, so certain, so certain to cure the Cough Syrup. Try it. 25c and $1.00 sizes. Sold everywhere.

TOWN COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held Tuesday evening. Mayor McGee was in the chair, and all the aldermen present except Alderman Boyd. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A number of bills were presented, referred to committee and afterwards approved for payment. The street committee reported an over expenditure of $81.00, and would require more money to complete some needed repairs. On motion an additional sum of two hundred dollars was given the committee, making the total street appropriation eight hundred dollars.

Alderman McKenzie brought up the matter of an appropriation for water. He said the people in the lower end of the town were compelled to go long distances for water, and it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that water could very easily be obtained in the locality and at small cost. It was an important matter and he strongly urged favorable action by the council. His remarks were endorsed by alderman Bogue. After further discussion on which opposition developed, a resolution was put before the council that a well be provided; on a division alderman Dewar, Greason, Craig and Meating against it, Bogue and McKenzie for it. Mr. Charles Johnson was present and addressed the board on the matter of street improvements recently made—referred to street committee. Mr. Edward McGrattan was heard in reference to taxes—claiming the present rate of taxation was most excessive, intimating that steps would be taken to resist payment. The Mayor referred the speaker to the law covering the case. On motion the town clerk was instructed to have the assessment list published. Adjourned.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

The Truancy Act was adopted at a recent meeting of the town council, but no provision was made for its enforcement. It would appear that the duties of the Marshal are, at present, about all he can carry out, and the position of truant officer could hardly be added to his other duties.

It is a regrettable fact that, in this community, children of school age, are permitted to remain away from school on the most flimsy excuses, perhaps to earn a few paltry dollars per week. If the interests of the children are considered carefully, it will be evident that the public schools will fit them for the better things in life, and a better future than mere wage-earning. The responsibility on parents is very serious, and it is expected of them to develop the best there is in the child, and prepare him for the battle of life.

The large amount of money demanded for school purposes and the increased expenditure to provide for the education of the young, should be brought to the attention of those persons who are delinquent, and perhaps careless, in their duty to their children. It would be a judicious and commendable act on the part of the Council to carefully consider the enforcement of the truancy act, even if a special officer has to be appointed to carry it out.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mr. Editor:—
In the matter of water facilities for the lower end of the town the council certainly did itself proud. Ald. McKenzie very clearly pointed out the necessity of making some water provision for the residents of the district. What he stated were simply facts and he thought it was the duty of the council to remedy the present conditions. No good sound argument was offered against the project. As an illustration of some of the weighty objections made, Ald. Greason, said if a well was put in here, the people in his locality might ask for one. If they should ask for one, and it is needed, give it to them, instead of wasting the dollars in running gravel trains, building snow ploughs and other non-sensical works. The people must have water in spite of the opinion and votes of Aldermen Dewar, Crickard, Greason, Meating and Craig. All honor to Aldermen McKenzie and Bogue for their votes on this question.

WATER.

BY THE WAY

President Taft, at Yale, expressed the sober opinion of the Republican party when he declared that "if the Republican party does not live up to its promises and when the people expect of it, it will be relegated to a position like that of his majesty's opposition.—Philadelphia Press.

As Canadians look back and in soberness of mind consider the obstacles which have been overcome and the progress which has been made on the eve of another natal day, have they not good reason to be satisfied with their achievements and to look forward in a spirit of thankfulness and optimism to the future.—Victoria Daily Times.

"Once in a Bible lesson, said a Sunday school teacher, 'I repeated the text, 'Arise and take the young child and his mother and flee into Egypt.' And then I showed the children a large picture that illustrated the text in bright colors.

"The children studied this picture eagerly. Then they all frowned; all rather disappointed. Finally a little girl said:

"Teacher, where is the flea?"

Woman's admission into the ranks of teachers dates back several centuries, and at the present time she has so far outstripped man in the successful handling of young scholars that the field is left almost entirely to her. It is a strange fact, however, that, for all woman is more capable than man in teaching the young, she is paid on an average much less than the comparatively few men who have entered her chosen field.—Monitor, Boston, U. S. A.

The United States Senate has adopted the Brown amendment as to the duty on wood pulp, giving the President power to double it against any country restricting in any way the export of pulpwood therefrom; also to double the duty upon paper exported from such country as the United States. These amendments are a kind of club intended to be used against Canada, Ontario and Quebec forbidding the export of pulpwood from their crown lands. As a coercion measure it will prove a flat failure.—Hamilton Times.

Thus does Nature, by rewarding us with strength, repose and confidence, lead us up to the big events of our lives, teach us to achieve more to-day than we did yesterday, show us that industry is a source of strength. When we have worked well we have left the laggards who are competing with us for behind and have entered a new class. Life is an unfoldment or a decay! Honest efforts unfolds and unlocks those powers which lie hidden in every human being. Evasion of duty and opportunity is punished by a tightening of coils about us.—Halifax Herald.

A Psalm of Knife and Fork

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
There is nothing fit to eat;
While there's cabbage and cucumbers
We can well dispense with meat.
Life is real; meals are earnest—
Better start them all with fruit;
Neat thou need'st; to meat returnest,
Was not spoken of the brute.
Not in stuffing, not in starving,
Is our destined end or way;
But the gentle art of carving
Grows to seem somewhat passe.
Art is long and time is fleeting,
And our hearts, though stout and bold,
Quaver when it comes to eating
Many tinned things that are sold.
In the world's broad field of battle,
In life's scrimmage, long and tough
We'll not eat embalmed cattle
Nor adulterated stuff.
Trust no butcher, how'er pleasant;
Of his sausage be afraid;
Do not take it as a present—
Only he knows how its made.
Let us then be up and chewing,
With a taste for any dish;
Not with anxious vision viewing
P'tomaine poison in our fish.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

In 1883 the poll-tax was ninety cents.

A lot of interesting local and personal news has been crowded out this issue.

The boys of Camp Utopia are out with a challenge to any base ball team in the vicinity for a series of games.

Schooner Francis Goodnow sailed Friday for Norwalk Ct. Tug Wesley A. Gove towed her down river.

Mr. Grover Martin has been appointed to the high school staff of the St. John schools. This is a well deserved compliment to the teaching ability of Mr. Martin.

The bathing privileges around the "basin" are the best in the land, and the boys are taking advantage of the favorable tides to indulge in the swimming past-time.

Preparations on a large scale, are being made for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of Calais as a town. The event will take place July 31st.

Two hundred and fifteen names were on the assessment list in the year 1883. Only fifty-six of these names appear on list for the present year. While some have gone away, death has been the principal change.

"The Town's Incorporation Act" Section 83.

Any person thinking himself aggrieved by any assessment made under this chapter, or the agent of any non-resident, may appeal by a petition under oath, made before a justice to the council at any time within thirty days after the date of the notice of assessment served on him, or left at his last known place of residence, and the council shall have power to grant such relief as seems just, and no appeal shall be made against such assessment by certiorari, or otherwise, until the matter has been first brought before the town council as herein provided.

There is much excitement at Notre Dame, Kent County, and vicinity over a reported gold discovery recently. Rich gold quartz was found on the bank of a creek at St. Anthony, and later more quartz was found at Peller in the settlement a short distance from St. Anthony. Both finds are said to be on the same vein. Samples of the ore were sent to New York and the report received a day or two ago shows the quartz assayed $220 to the ton. A man named Cogen is said to be at the head of a party making the find, and a mining lease has been taken out from the Crown Land Office at Fredericton. It is proposed to organize a company for the development of the property.

It did not rain on Thursday, St. Swithin's day, and we can now hope for dry weather. St. Swithin was bishop of Winchester (852-862) and tutor to King Alfred. At his request he was buried in the churchyard of the Abbey, where passers-by "might tread o'er his grave, and where the rain from the eyes might fall on it." After his canonization in 865 A. D., it was resolved to remove the remains to the chancel of the cathedral—the customary burying place of the bishops—and July fifteenth was appointed for the ceremony, but on that day and for forty days thereafter, St. Swithin to testify his displeasure, caused rain to fall so heavily that the monks abandoned their design as against the wishes of the Saint. From this legend arose the popular superstition that if rain falls on the 15th July it will continue to do so for forty days following. Careful records kept at Greenwich Observatory for twenty years show that this superstition was not well founded.

Two hundred and fifty delegates attended the annual session of the New Brunswick I. O. F. High Court, held at Fredericton on 13th and 14th. In his annual report the high chief ranger said: We have passed through a critical period in our order's history since last we met, no one will be disposed to deny. That this crisis was inevitable we now believe. That our order stands on a surer foundation than ever before is apparent to the most casual observer. What is there then to hinder a vigorous forward movement? I might answer, nothing but our own apathy, or our own shortsightedness. We have our courts all over our province, showing with what zeal the planting has been done. Many of these hold few or no meetings or are otherwise in a moribund condition, showing that a cultivation, a logical sequence of planting has been neglected. Brothers and companions let us look to this duty in the coming years. Let us not restrict our deputies, but instruct our superintendents of organization to prosecute the work of re-education and rehabilitation zealously and vigorously as far as our funds will permit.

A difference of opinion between Charles Woodbury and Archibald Warren in reference to payment for wood sold by Woodbury to said Warren, was settled in a magistrates court on Friday, by a jury giving a decision in favor of Warren.

The majority interest held by Mrs. C. H. Newton in the Red Beach Plaster Co., was purchased recently by two Boston gentlemen, Messrs. Sleeper and Haves. It is understood that the new owners intend operating the plant to its full capacity, which is very gratifying news to the residents of ward seven.—Times.

The bodies of Mr. J. W. Christie, wife and daughter, who was murdered in Rudolph, S. D., about ten days ago, arrived at Moore's Mills on Wednesday, and were taken to Oak Hill, where they were interred in one grave. Friends from all sections of the county gathered to follow them to their last resting place. Rev. A. D. McLeod, pastor of the Methodist church at Oak Hill, was the officiating clergyman.

Only the presence of mind and promptness of Horace Stuart prevented a drowning accident at the river bank Thursday. Two Wrenn boys, brothers, were bathing and one, who had a life preserver on, got into deep water and the preserver failed to hold him up, his brother went to his assistance, and as neither could swim, they were soon in an exhausted state, and crying for help, young Stuart went into the water, swimming to a raft, which he pushed near the brothers, he then reached out and caught hold of the unfortunate boys just in nick of time, as they were going down for the last time. They were pulled on the raft and brought ashore, and it was some time before one of the boys recovered from the experience. The boy, Stuart, is very modest about his part in the affair, but he undoubtedly saved the lives of the two boys, as those on the shore were powerless to aid in the rescue.

The Telephone Girl.

The telephone girl sits in her chair and listens to voices from everywhere. She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news, she knows who is happy and who has the blues, she knows all our sorrows, she knows all our joys, she knows all the girls who are chasing the boys; she knows of our troubles, she knows of our strife; she knows every man who talks mean to his wife; she knows every time we are out with "the boys," she hears the excuses every fellow employs; she knows every man who's inclined to be "fast," in fact, there's a saucy curl of that quiet, demure looking telephone girl. If the telephone girl told all that she knows it would turn half our friends into bitterest foes; she could sow a small wind that would soon be a gale, engulf us in trouble and land us in jail; she could let go a story, which gaining in force, would cause half our wives to sue for divorce; she could get all our churches mixed up in a fight and turn all our days into sorrowing night; in fact, she could keep the whole town in a stew if she'd tell a tenth part of the things that she knew. Oh brother, brother, now doesn't it make your head whirl when you think what you owe to the telephone girl?—Vernon, Tex., Call.

A tickling or dry cough can be quickly loosened with Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. No opium, no chloroform, nothing unsafe or harsh. Sold by All Dealers.

Manhoods Disgrace.

Is it right for the mother of a family of small children to have to leave them alone, as they so often do to go out to scrub and wash to earn a miserable livelihood for herself and them, and alas, often also for him who promised to cherish and protect her for life, but does not do it? It is a stain and disgrace upon the manhood of this country that they take so little interest in this unprotected class of helpless ones. They are very merciful some ways; a man cannot drive his horse without a shoe but he can let his wife and children go barefooted without fear of interference; he must not overwork or half starve his beast, without being justly amenable to the law; but his wife and children may be overworked and underfed; and half dressed, and it's nobody's business—they "must look out for themselves." There are more neglected women and children right here in this christian country than we like to own to.

Nothing in the way of a cough is quite so annoying as a tickling, teasing, wheezing, bronchial Cough. The quickest relief comes perhaps from a prescription known to Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And besides, it is so thoroughly harmless that mothers give it with perfect safety even to the youngest babe. The tender leaves of a simple mountain shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its remarkable curative effect. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by All Dealers.

Be Kind to the Aged.

In the rush and hurry of modern life do we think as much as we might of the happiness of those who are growing old. They have lost so much! Their youth, often their health, most of the friends and companions who started with them on life's journey; and yet we often grudge them the joy and brightness we might so easily put into their lives. We will not stay to hear the recollections of old and happy days which they love to tell us; we let them see so plainly that their day is over, and ours has come! That those who have borne the burden and heat of the day, toiled and struggled and worn themselves out for others, should be left to feel lonely and neglected is sorrowful. We can and ought, each and all in our own place and way, do something, to bring the glow of summer and the remembrance of the days of roses and love into the lives fast nearing their winter and their end.

Sciatica EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline"

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering. It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to CURED build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrone, one tablet with each meal. YEARS I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them." There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline," 25 cents per bottle or six for $1.00; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhzone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Look Here Boys.

It has been most truly stated, "Distance lends enchantment," and the city looks well from the old farm. Perhaps you do not see thorns and thistles, but they grow in the city thicker than on the farm. Home discipline may be hard to bear, but in it are gems of all successes. Parents are midway in the temple of life and certainly must know more than those standing on the threshold. It is always safe to listen to the voice of wisdom and affection. You may not be permitted to control all things at home but please remember before seeking the larger liberty of the store clothes, but you must be the servant of all. Liberty and ease are the fruit of toil. The boy that knows more than his parents goes to the wall in the city. Success depends upon industry, obedience, economy and purity. Brown hands, clean tongues and hearts are in great demand in the city. A country loafer becomes a city loafer and neither country nor city has use for either. The earthquake never breaks the ground so as to heave gold at their feet. Boys who present noble and manly lives for recommendations may win everywhere. In the city you must begin away down, but if you smilingly submit to the inevitable and make each day tell how much rather than little good work you can do you will be on the line of promotion and in the time may rise, but think not the way is strewn with heartsease and roses; ah, there are many bitter pangs and sharp thorns that will pierce you, but if you dare to grapple with them you may even win in the great city.

The Young Rascal.

An iron hoop passed through the area railings of a suburban woman's house recently and played havoc with the kitchen window. The woman waited, anger in her eye, for the appearance of the hoop's owner. Presently he came. "Please I've broken your window," he said, and here's father to mend it. And, sure enough, he was followed by a stolid looking workman, who at once started to work, while the small boy took his hoop and ran off. "Fifty cents," announced the glazier when the window was whole once more. "Fifty cents!" gasped the woman. "But your little boy broke it. The little fellow with the hoop you know." "You're his father aren't you?" The stolid man shook his head. "Don't know him from Adam," he said. "He came around to my place and told me his mother wanted her window mended. You're his mother, aren't you?" And the woman shook her head also.

Sweetheart's Death Made Him a Hermit.

A Bangor despatch to the New York Herald says:

Far up the valley of Crooked River in Washington county, beyond the limits of the logging camps, lives Jack Wilber, the hermit of Peaked Mountain, who for thirteen years has dwelt in solitude in a log hut. Something of a mystery has always surrounded this slender, palefaced reclus, whose physique did not seem strong enough to withstand the hardships of a winter in the Maine woods, and who in every way appeared unfitted for the life which he had chosen to lead.

It was known that Wilber had to his credit $30,000 in a local bank, and this made his conduct all the more inexplicable to those who knew of his lonely existence.

The explanation has been however provided by two lumbermen, who returned to Machias from a trip through the Crooked River Valley and who partook one night of the hospitality of the hermit. They induced him to tell his story, which reveals the causes which induced him to forever isolate himself from the haunts of civilization.

This romance of his life, he says, has never told before. "My home was in the west," said Miller, "and when I was yet a young boy my parents died and I was entrusted to an uncle and aunt who lived in Montana. My new guardians seemed to resent the additional burden which had been thrust upon them, and my life with them was not pleasant.

"As I became older the sights became still more unbearable, and had it not been for the growing attachment between myself and their daughter, Mary Stenningham, I would have long before started out to find employment and, if possible, a less irksome existence.

"One night, when I was about 20 years old, I asked Mary if she would trust me and wait for me three years. During that time, I said, I would earn enough money so that we could get married and go east.

"Yes Jack," she replied, "I will wait for you three years and I know I can trust you."

"The story of my attempts to gain a living is not of especial interest, but at the end of that time I succeeded in purchasing a building lot of L. P. Small, who owned a large ranch in Southern California, and by whom I was employed. Soon after natural gas was discovered on the ranch, and I sold my section of it for $30,000.

"The three years were nearly up and my first thought was of Mary Stenningham, with whom I had been in constant communication.

"When I arrived at the little town where she had lived with her parents I deposited the money in a bank and then started for Mary's home.

"On the way I met a funeral procession. I asked a former acquaintance who was dead. His reply shattered in a moment the air castles which I had been building, for he told me that my sweetheart had died only two days before, after a brief illness.

"My money now seemed valueless to me. All the charm of life had gone, I did not feel that I could meet my uncle and aunt, so I immediately withdrew my money from the bank and took the first train east. I kept on in that direction until I came to the wilds of Washington county, in Maine, in the eastern most part of the country, and here I erected my log hut. Here is where I shall always stay.

"When I go it shall be to meet Mary, and until then the loneliest place is none too lonely for me."

Women's Period of Pain

Regularity of the system can only be secured by maintaining strong healthy circulation. If feeble, run down, nervous be sure that circulation is poor. The natural result is congestion that exacts so severe a penalty. Besides being a food former and nerve tonic, Ferrone adds additional vigor to the heart and ensures strong blood circulation. This is the only means of preventing congestions that cause pain, headache and nerve weakness. The whole system is renewed and fortified, with strength, vigor and endurance. For girls and women nothing equals Ferrone 50c. at all dealers.

A falling tiny nerve—no longer than the finest silken thread—takes from the Head its impulse, its power, its regularity. The Stomach also has its hidden or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or falling Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of the ailments—These weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt, clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organ. Treat the cause of sick ness is the only sensible and successful way. Sold by All Dealers.
