FALLING TO PIECES.

The Dominion cabinet is rapidly falling to pieces. It has been repaired and patched so often that only three of the original members remain. The cabinet of 1878, though bearing the same name yet, cannot be identified with that of 1888. The timber in the reconstructed cabinet is admittedly weaker than that with which it was originally built. A conviction has spread among business men that the end is near; and those who a few months ago were inclined to trim their sails to catch the tory breeze, are now trying to get back into the liberal current which is daily gaining force.

The cabinet is not merely damaged in the public estimation by the recent electoral changes, but its strength is sapped away by intestine feuds. The rivalry among the Quebec Blue leaders, which has more than once imperilled the safety of the administration, even when it was stronger in its personnel and its parliamentary following than at present, has now become so irreconcilable that a ministerial crisis may take place at any moment.

The Hon. Mr. Chapleau, as the one Quebec Blue, commanding a parliamentary following, feels keenly that a slight has been put upon him by the recent cabinet changes and appointments. Mr. Chapleau holds the portfolio of secretary of state, which does not carry with it the influence and patronage in the country which a politician of his standing thinks he should command. As a consequence his newspaper organs are not merely denouncing, in unbridled language, Mr. Foster's appointment to the portfolio of Finance, but are actually holding Mr. Foster up to public ridicule. But it is Mr. Foster's promotion over the head of Mr. Chapleau, is regarded by the latter as an injury, the appointment of the juvenile Tupper is proclaimed an insult. There is not much love for the name of Tupper felt by the Chapleaus. A brother of the secretary of state, it will be remembered some years ago, was dismissed from the department of public works by the new High Commissioner, who was then minister of public works because this Chapleau was receiving bribes from contractors for giving private notice of departmental intentions respecting public works. The present Secretary of State who was not then in the cabinet, has never forgiven Sir Charles for that affront to the family.

La Presse, of Montreal, which is well known to be Mr. Chapleau's personal organ, thus refers on his behalf to Mr. Chapleau's new colleagues in the cabinet: "Frankly we say to our ministers from Quebec, as well as to Sir John, that the promotion that humiliated and injured Mr. Foster is not of the kind which would lead to the expectation of seeing him put in the first rank. But Mr. Tupper is still in long clothes when the Secretary of State travelled through the Province and everywhere deflected at the meetings, Confédération, and the article then proceeds to enumerate the important positions which the Hon. Mr. Chapleau has held in the service of his province, his powers as an orator, and his success in averting defeat and in saving the Province of Quebec to the Government at the general elections. It speaks of Mr. Foster as a cadet, and sincerely adds that Mr. Tupper is a young lawyer who, has not learned naval science or that of fish culture in his nine years experience at the bar."

It looks very much as if the appointment of young Tupper was a final insult heaped upon Mr. Chapleau by Sir Charles on leaving the cabinet, and that the Secretary of State regards it as such. But Mr. Chapleau is not of the stuff which submits to this class of treatment without a protest, and his protest will continue to be made public until the vacant portfolio of the interior is filled. The secretary of state having missed two chances of promotion now looks longingly towards the late Mr. White's vacant position; but Sir John Macdonald desires to appoint Mr. Dewdney, the retiring Lieutenant-governor of the Northwest, to that position. Mr. Chapleau declares through the press that he will never submit to this additional indignity; and the Premier is in a quandary. He is presented with two horns of a dilemma, and whichever he may choose will not lessen the discomfort of his position very much.

SALISBURY IN PERIL.

Good news continues to come from England supporting the growing opinion that the days of the unholy coalition between the Tories and the Dissident Liberals to oppress Ireland, are numbered. The Gladstonian tactics, whereby Home Rule was not only pressed in parliament but also compelled to be abandoned by the administration was then compelled to deal with English domestic reforms. The moment the consideration of public affairs was transferred from Ireland to England, that moment the so-called party of Union became disunited. The government was the other day nearly wrecked on the License clauses of the Local Government bill, and to avoid a ministerial collapse, has been compelled to ignominiously abandon the whole of these particular license proposals including compensation. The strength of the ministerial majority in parliament is also perceptibly weakening; and the Gladstonian gains at the bye-elections have been swollen by greater defections in parliament from the Unionist ranks. It is but three weeks since that the government was only sustained by eight majority on a proposal to attach a salary to the newly created position of under parliamentary secretary for Ireland, which was held by Col. King Harman, whose death was announced a few days ago. But the narrow escape described has been succeeded by a defeat which though not carrying with it resignation, yet intensifies the growing discredit. On Tuesday night Mr. Jennings, conservative, Mr. P. for Stockport, introduced a resolution censuring the frequent and costly re-organizations of the financial and secretarial departments of the admiralty, as resulting in extravagance, premature pensions and bonuses. The resolution, which was radical in its tendencies, was supported by Lord Randolph Churchill and a score of conservatives, and also by extremists like Bradlaugh and other radical members. The government opposed the resolution, but it was adopted by 113 to 94. The effect of this defeat in parliament and the frequency of the close calls to which the government is subjected must have the effect of impressing the country with its growing weakness; and of hastening its overthrow.

An urgent whip was issued by the government only a few days ago, which says it is impossible to foretell the moment when a division will take place, and warns its supporters that "defeat even on a minor point will socially weaken the government." Indeed it does not overstate the case. The issue of such an urgent whip shortly before the election on a minor point, shows the Salisbury government to be indeed in greater peril than the anti-home rule correspondents of the press have been leading the world to believe.

Don't migrate, but stay here in the Maritime Provinces, try to reform the administration of the country, seek to establish the Dominion's trade relations, and prosperity will be acquired without any separation of old ties. Young men and women may be venturesome and desirous of change, but under good government and unrestricted trade with the United States, no place could offer more desirable homes than these provinces.

Mr. Couture, M. P., the independent member for Cheongin, has addressed his constituents, and expressed regret for having been misled into voting in favor of the Macdonald administration, and promised his steadfast support in future to Mr. Laurier and the Liberal party. Messrs. Hale and Skinner, M. P.s, have yet to be heard from.

TEEN POWER WAKING.

The Salisbury Government meets with reverses. On June 13, last night, Louis J. FROM THE COUNTRY.

News from the Districts About Us

As Reported by Our Active Correspondents.

Accidents, Personal Intelligence, and Things in General.

NASHWAUK.

The Prope-Trent Fishing-Trip.—The main fishing trip to the Trent River, which was held by Mr. John Buchanan on 81st.

The fishing operations in this locality are about to come to a close. Most of the men are up and looking well. Grass on high lands is backward.

The glass in the window of St. Andrew's Kirk is being mended in the morning by Mr. J. McNeil, which gives it the appearance of red frosted glass and prevents the sun from shining through the window and gives the building a pleasing appearance.

Mr. Elias White, with the main Nashwauk drive, cleared the Durham bridge on Monday last in which place he has received orders to leave it for the present. Mr. White, as foreman, deserves credit for the remarkably short time in forwarding sorting the mail. Hayes mended his knife and asked Selton if he had a new one. Selton replied that he had a new one, but that it was a very small one and that he must get a new one to suit his needs. Selton then took the knife of Hayes all the way to the house where he was working.

HARVEY STATION.

Our Budget of News from the Border. Harvey Station, June 13. Miss Mary A. Thompson is very sick, but hopes of her speedy recovery are entertained by her friends.

Miss Emma Little is home from Fredericton, where she has been learning the military business.

A meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian Church is called tonight, for the purpose of planning an entertainment of some kind for the benefit of the church. It is reported that salmon have been seen in the Magalloway this year for the first time for a long period. The issue of such an urgent whip shortly before the election on a minor point, shows the Salisbury government to be indeed in greater peril than the anti-home rule correspondents of the press have been leading the world to believe.

Mr. Robert Robinson has built a very good little cottage opposite the Embleton station.

Mr. Donahoe has out several truck wagons, and finds no trouble to sell them. Mr. Craig, mail clerk, has the best first lot of grass in the parish. It is clean, and is on the line of the N. B. Railway.

The Little Mill Co. are rebuilding their mill which was burnt some time since. On Saturday they tested the engine and it worked to satisfaction. They have a large amount of lumber on the ground, and will be a good success.

A large band of aborigines under the leadership of Red Bull, has made a settlement on the shore of the lake. The band of St. Mary's, has been seen in the neighborhood of the lake, and are industriously making baskets and other articles for trade.

Many large trout have been taken this season; one caught in the lake by William Atkinson weighed five pounds. It was a beauty.

Most of the farm work of the season is finished, and the farmers are now at leisure to devote their time to the improvement of their farms. They are now at leisure to devote their time to the improvement of their farms. They are now at leisure to devote their time to the improvement of their farms.

The school term in Williamsburg Settlement went home last Friday with the month, which is a good sign. The men are all on the drive now. Some of them are going to the bark woods. Mrs. Moore and Gregory are kept busy. There is much sickness in the different settlements.

John Reid has recovered from his late illness so as to be around again. James Logan has trapped five bears this spring. Some gold was found on Nashwauk stream the other day.

A traveler in Norway says that the horses in that country have a very peculiar way of taking their food, which perhaps might be beneficially followed here. They have a bucket of water put down beside their allowance of hay. It is interesting to see with what relish they take a sip of the one and a mouthful of the other alternately, sometimes only moistening their mouths, as a rational being would do, but often a dinner of such dry food. A broken wheelbarrow is scarcely ever seen in Norway, and the question is if the mode of feeding has not something to do with the preservation of the animal's respiratory organs.—Scientific American.

Hunting for Lost Gold.

The muddy bottom of Chippewa river, Ontario, is being raked for gold. During the war of 1812 some £50,000 in gold was supposed to have been buried by a British paymaster, who was hotly pursued by Yankee troops, and the money has laid there ever since.—Brooklyn Daily.

A Great Legacy.

To bequeath to your children, is a strong, clear, pure constitution—better than wealth, because it will never prove a curse. You cannot give what you do not possess, but money will find its way to your children's hands, and they will use it as they see fit.
