WHITE PASS RAILWAY Called to Time-Its Exorbitant Charges Are Unauthorized by the Government and

Must Be Amended. [Special to Advertiser.] Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 17.-For some time past serious complaints have been made respecting the freight rates upon the White Pass Railway. These complaints have been so incessant that the Minster of the Interior has been making some inquiries of an unofficial character into the rates upon this road, which has a monopoly of the trade going into the Yukon from Skagway. One case has been cited of a carload of nails upon which the freight from Skagway to Cariboo Crossing, a distance of 58 miles, was over $1,100. The rates upon this railway have never been approved by the government on account of the excessive nature of the schedule which was submitted by the company. The rates which are being collected up to the present time are not being collected under the author ity of law.

This condition of affairs was brought to the attention of the Min-ister of Railways by Mr. Sifton, and Mr. Blair has now notified the company that the rates which they have submitted to the department will not be authorized, and that a very large reduction will have to be made. The Minister of Railways has also called the company's attention to the fact that the rates now being collected are contrary to law, and the company must adhere to the laws regulating the conduct of railway business without any further delay.

Big Conspiracy Story From Skagway, Alaska.

To Overthrow Government of Northwest Territory-Americans Said To Be Leaders in the Movement.

San Francisco, Nov. 17 .- The Call today prints an unconfirmed story from Skaguay, Alaska, under date of Nov. 6, telling of the discovery of what is alleged to be a huge conspiracy existing in Dawson and ramifying to Skaguay, Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, for the overthrow of the local government of the Northwest Territories and the establishing of a republic with Dawson as its capital. According to the details of the story, arms, ammunition and provisions have been taken in over the railroad and cached at strategic points. Prominent American residents of Skaguay are said to be leaders in the conspiracy. Miners to the number of 5,000 are said to await the summons to arms, ready to fight for the independence from the Dominion rule of the gold fields, camps and towns. The plan is to overpower the mounted police, arrest the civil authorities and take the government into their own hands. The rigors of the Arctic winters would give the insurgents six months' immunity from attack by Canadian or British troops and the adventurous arch-conspirators could prepare for intervention of outside assistance by the time the melting of ice and anow will permit the invasion of their isolated republic. It is further related that a hurried conference, lasting until midnight, was held at Skaguay, Nov. 5, at which were present Capt. Corrigan, of the Northwest Mounted Police, who had arrived from across the Canadian border late that evening; Judge Brown, of the United States district court; United States Marshal Shoup, United States Attorney Frederich and Major Hovey, commanding the United States troops at Skaguay attended the meet-

New York, Nov. 16.-Defalcations amounting to $60,000, have been discovered in the accounts of the Williamsburg Savings Bank. Gen. J. V. Meserole, president of the bank, is authority for the statement that the parties implicated are Harry E. Corbett, former paying teller of the bank, who died Nov. 2, and George Zollinhofer, a receiving teller, who, it is alleged, gave the first information leading to the discovery. Harry D. Corbett had been in the employ of the bank for 18 years. He was looked upon as a man of exemplary habits, and not the slightest suspicion attached to him up to the time of his death. Zollinhofer, it is stated, has confessed, that he and Corbett for the past two or three years had taken funds from the institution for the purpose of stock gambling, and that so far as he could estimate the amount that had lost was between $50,000 and

Ancient City of Erzeroum Visited by Earthquake—A Thousand Houses Destroyed-Fifteen Thousand People Homeless-A Romance of the South African War-Diss De Barr's Trial-Large Increase in Membership of British Labor Unions.

M. Delcasse, the French foreign min-

The powers, there is good reason for stating, secured from M. Delcasse binding pledges to abandon the demand of a material guarantee from Turkey and to withdraw Admiral Caillard as soon as the porte publicly promised to con-cede all the French demands. At the same time the powers undertook to bring every pressure to bear upon the sultan, who, finding himself abandoned by everybody and unable to trust Ger-many any more than Russia or Great Britain, was forced to yield.

The result of all this will undoubtedby be to reduce Germany's influence at Constantinople, which for some time has been predominant, and to exalt French influence, which has been practically nil, thus restoring more or less the old position in Turkey, as regards external affairs.

For France the result is distinctly beneficial. It will remove one of the weakest points of the republic in the eyes of Frenchmen, the lack of external repute and prestige in Europe. Thus the present government and the Republican party have been greatly strengthened for the coming election.

THE OLD WAY

Of Treating Stomach Trouble and In digestion a Barbarous and Useless One.

We say the old way, but really it is the common and usual one at the present time, and many dyspeptics, and physicians as well, consider the first step in attempting to cure indigestion is to diet, either by selecting certain food and rejecting others or to greatly diminish the quantity of food usually taken.

In other words, the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential in the cure of weak digestion. The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for stomach trouble has been proven time and again, but still the usual advice, when dyspepsia makes its appearance, is a course of

Mr. Andrew Morden responded briefly, expressing his pleasure at seeing his children and their families so fully represented among his guests, and also thanking his neighbors and other friends for honoring himself and Mrs. Morden by their presence. wished long life and happiness to all. The health of the bride was proposed by her oldest son-in-low, H. F. Gardiner, who recalled his first visit to the home of their hosts, on which occasion he was more impressed with the excellence of his future mother-in-law's black current tarts with the possibility might some time want one of her little daughters for his wife. He felt highly honored to be connected even by marriage with so old a Canadian family, for though his own father had lived in Canada since 1827, and his mother was born in Brockville in 1822 he realized that he was a parvenu Canadian in comparison with the Mordens. Looking over the records in the family Bible and other memoranda, he had discovered that his fatherin-law, Andrew Banghart Morden, the of the nine children of Ralph and Margaret Morden, and the only one surviving, was born in London town-Dec. 20, 1823. His father, Rev. Ralph Morden, was born in the township of West Flamboro, near the present town of Dundas, Jan. 3, 1797, and died in London, June 7, 1873. His mother, Margaret Banghart, was born on Oct. 27, 1802. They were married on Aug. 3, 1819, and with his bride of 17 on the horse behind him, Ralph Morden left the head of the lake to found a home in the woods of London. journeyed through Burford they had a narrow escape from destruction, for the bush was on fire and the horse refused to move, until Mrs. Morden took off her skirt and tied it over the horse's head. They took up land on the 5th concession of London township, and on that farm all their children and all of Andrew Morden's children were born. An obituary notice of Ralph Morden, written by the late Rev. Thomas Webster, of Newbury, says that he "went to London at the commencement of the settlement of that township, and endured much hardship and severe privations, as did nearly all the early settlers, but he manfully struggled with the difficulties of the position, and lived to see the wilderness become a fruitful field. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1820, and continued a faithful Christian until the end of his days. In 1843 he was licensed to officiate as a local preacher. He was a strong temperance man, one of the first 'teetotalers' in London,"His widow died in 1891, aged 89 years.

Ralph Morden claimed to be the first white child born in Dundas. He was the son of John Morden, who was born in New Jersey in 1769, and who married Hannah Sutton. He was brought to Canada by his widowed mother during the Revolutionary War. His father, Ralph Morden, born in Yorkshire, England, in 1742, married Ann Durham and emigrated to Pennsylvania. Although he was a Quaker, and therefore a noncombatant, his preference for the British government and the assistance which he afforded to some British refugees making their escape to Canada caused him to lose his life, whereupon his widow took the first opportunity to remove to a counwhere she and her children could be secure under the protection of the British crown. "The Morden family, with many other United Empire Loyalists, settled in Flam-borough and in the other townships about the head of Lake Ontario, one branch locating near Rednersville, in Prince Edward county, about 1790. Governor Simcoe, from regard for memory of their father, took great interest in the Mordens, calling on them at their home and offerthem a large tract of land, but much of it was never located, so little was real estate thought of in those days. Mrs. Andrew Morden was born in Cumberland county, Nova Scotia. Her parents, Richard and Elizabeth Brown, were born in Halifax, her grandfather having emigrated from England to Noxa Scotia in the eighteenth century. Richard Brown removed from Nova Scotia to Upper Canada with his family in 1832, landing at Morpeth, Kent county, and settling in that neighborhood. He died in 1836, but his widow survived until 1873, dying at Chatham, Ont., aged 76. Of Mrs. Morden's ten brothers and sisters, three are still

Rev. C. Burdett, of Ridgetown, responded on behalf of Mrs. Morden, with whom he had been acquainted for fully forty years, and at whose house he had often been hospitably entertained. He thought that good people, as they grew old, became more beautiful, and he was delighted to see the children so glad to flock to their old home.

Rev. Jasper Wilson, Ridgetown, told of the high estimation in which he held the couple who had been married 50 years ago, and added a couple of appropriate stories.

Short and appreciative speeches were made by Messrs. B. Jull, Ridgetown; A. Routledge, Hyde Park; D. Logan, Highgate, and John Cochrane, Ridgetown, after which a coupe of hours were happily spent in conversation and music, the party beginning to break up about midnight.

All who were present voted it the most pleasant and successful affair of the kind they had ever attended. Ex-Mayor Teetzel, of Hamilton, sent a basket of roses and maiden-hair fern as a token of esteem for his mother's old friend.

Kansas Convicts Caused the Death of Warden Waldrupe.

Four Trainmen Lose Their Lives by Collisions-Twenty-Three Fishermen Missing.

Leavenworth, Kas., Nov. 18 .- J. D. Waldrupe, a warden at the prison, who was shot during the mutiny at that institution on Nov. 7, died Saturday of his wounds. Twenty-six mutineers now become liable to a charge of murder. 23 FISHERMEN MISSING.

St. Johns, e Nfld., Nov. 18 .- The fishing schooners Nimbus and Campana, with crews aggregating 23 men, are missing, and it is feared they were lost in the recent gale. They left St. Johns bound for their home port on the northern coast, and have not been reported at any of the intervening harbors. Little hope of their safety is entertained. It is feared that other fatalities will be reported next week as the result of

IN FRONT OF A MIRROR. Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 18 .- Joseph Blake, of Grandville, 80 years old, committed suicide Saturday by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. A mirror which he had evidently looked into while taking the deadly aim was found standing on his desk. Illhealth is thought to be the cause.

SAD END OF SEARCH FOR GOLD. Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 18.-The bodies of Con and Florance Sullivan, who were murdered by hold-up men in the Klondike last August, arrived here Saturday afternoon for burial. They were brothers, and left for the gold region about a year ago to seek a for-They had considerable money when killed. Their murderers were convicted and hanged last month.

BOILED TO DEATH. Detroit, Nov. 18 .- Theodore Dobronski, a butcher, who lived at 432 Twenty-sixth street, died at Harper Hospital Saturday from the effects of falling into a vat of boiling water. Dobronski works for Parker, Webb & Co. The man was cooking tongues in a large vat. vat was filled with boiling water, and Dobronski was leaning over the edge reaching for some of the tongues. He reached far across the open top of the vat and suddenly slipped and fell headforemost into the seething water. But he had presence of mind enough to grasp the edge of the vat as he went in, and held on so that only the upper half of his body entered the water. Then he managed to pull himself back and out of the vat, and threw himself into a vat of cold water near by. The man was removed to Harper Hospital, but recovery was impossible

THREE FATAL COLLISIONS. Elgin, Ill., Nov. 18.-The Chicago Great Western east-bound limited had a serious collision on Saturday with the Sycamore milk train at Marshall's Crossing, four miles west of St. Charles. Rose Root, aged 13, of Sycamore, was instantly killed. A Chicago traveling man named Murphy was probably fatally injured, and Simon Chaffee, of Wasco, Ill., and the engineer of the limited were seriously injured. Several others were slightly hurt. The limited, running fifty miles an hour, dashed around a sharp curve into the milk train. The rear coach was thrown upon the top of limited engine and immediately caught fire and was consumed. The engineer and firemen saved their lives by jumping, but the former was seriously in-The passengers escaped with jured. slight bruises.

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—In a collision between the Seashore express and a freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad at Newport. Pa., Fireman Charles D. Toomey, of the passenger train was killed, Harry Kuhlwind, engineer of the same train, was fatally injured. Orchard, Idaho, Nov. 18.—By a collision on the Oregon Short Line, near Idaho, between an east-bound freight train and a west-bound helper engine, Charles Wallace, brakeman, and Martin Cosgrove, engineer, were killed, and three men injured. THREE PERSONS BURNED. Vernon, Ill., Nov. 18 .- Mrs. Charles Bass left her two small children locked in the house while she went to a neighbor's. The house was burned and the children perished. Mrs. Bass rushed to the house, and in attempting to save her children, received burns from which she will die.

KILLED BY RUNAWAY CARS. Coudersport, Pa., Nov. 18 .- L. Keepler and Wm. Purdy, employed by the Lackawanna Lumber Company, were killed Saturday on their log road near Mina, Potter county, by the bark cars running away on a steep grade and crashing into the log train. Purdy was employed as brakeman and loader and Keepler was the engineer in charge of the steam loader on the log train. C. P. R. BRAKEMAN KILLED.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 17.—Charles Hudson, a C. P. R. brakeman, was killed here early this morning by cars running over him. It is presumed he stepped on to the wrong track after making a coupling, and was run down. He was about 20 years of age.

MR. CANN'S LETTER

An Exeter Man Who Expresses His Opinions Freely in the Local Newspaper.

Exeter. Nov. 18.-(Special).-Lorne Cann, a laundry man of this town, has sent a letter to the Advocate stating that Dodd's Kidney Pills have changed him from a sickly, delicate, run-down man to a strong, hearty and robust one.

Nothing could be plainer than the statement made by Mr. Cann. says he was in such a terribly rundown condition that the least exertion would leave him tired and breathless. He tried many medicines, and was under physicians' treatment for over three months, but got no better-Finally he tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and the results of the first box were so encouraging that he continued the treatment, and in the end was completely restored to good health and stronger than he has been for years.

THERE IS DANGER in neglecting a cold. Many who have died of consumption dated their troubles from exposure, followed by a cold which settled on their lungs, and in a short time they were beyond the skill of the best physician. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumption syrup, before it was too late, their lives would have been spared. This medicine has no equal for curing coughs, colds and all affections of the throat and lungs.

I must make the following remarks: Had each one of the lawmakers of our country the virtues and powers of your pills. America would soon become a paradise. That your pills would conquer the obstinacy of my complaint is more than wonderful. The movement of my bowels is as regular as the works of a good watch. I began with four pills and decreased to two, and for a time took one two hours before dinner, and have a free movement of the bowels every morning. It is seven weeks since I have taken any of your pills, but still have regular movement very morning. Kind gentlemen, I wish further to tell you: A poor washerwoman that suffer d from a tumor and would have paid $150 for an operation. I dissuaded her from for an operation. I dissuaded her from doing so. Owing to her tumor she was obliged to stay in bed, but now she has gone to Pennsylvania, eured through taking your Fills and Resolvent, as you direct in your treatise on tumor. Respectfully, Canada, the Land of Promise.

A significant feature of the new order of things in Canada, is the everincreasing number of settlers from the United States who are coming into the country and taking up land.

The chief centers from which the immigration is coming are the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska. During the last 1ew years the Dominion Government has been persistent in bringing before the people of these great border agricultural states the enviable position of the Dominion, and the unrivaled opportunities that are offered to those desirous of making a living on solute protection to life and property. agricultural districts, see for themreasonable conditions, has been a steadily increasing volume states named recrossing the border. and gladly beginning life under the but thousands of natives of the Unithave joined in the hegira. Ontario Horses Ahead.

The best of results have grown from the representations which Premier Ross made, on behalf of this Province, to the imperial authorities. He pointed out, in unmistakable terms, the merits of Ontario as a horse-producing country, and now we find that Col. Dent, who was sent to the Dominion to buy remounts for the British army, has purchased 6,350 horses, of which number no fewer than 4.005 were obtained in this banner Province.

Premier Ross and his colleagues are ound to see to it that, so far as in a government lies, this fair Province is kept in the van. Let our farmers breed good animals.

A Severe Castigation.

Opinions have been expressed by number of influential people that "the highly respectable journal, the London Spectator," has injured itself by dabbling in sensational gossip. New York received the gold medal for the largest number of varieties, while Ontario was awarded the gold medal for its "general display of fruits of superior excellence." After all, it is better to surpass in quality than in quantity, and there seems no question but that our Province has an established reputation as a fruit producing region.

Canon Gore represents a different and a more modern type. He reminds us that the labels, "high," "low," and "broad" have lost something of their distinctive meaning under the influence of recent criticism. The new bishop has dealt most with theology and New Testament teaching, but he has also identified himself with those who accept the new reading of the Old Testament. He is a High Churchman. He has recently written a book on "The Body of Christ," which one reviewer has classed as "epoch-making." The description is extravagant, as the teaching of the new volume is just what might be expected from one in might with more reason have been called an epoch-making or rather an epoch-marking book, as it showed that the new leaders of the High Church party in England had felt themselves results of scientific investigation and Biblical criticism. If it did not make a new epoch, which is a very big thing to say of any man or book, it at least signified a new modification of theological thought in one great branch of the Christian Church. The representatives of this school attempt to assimilate what they regard as the best elements in the high, low and broad section of the church. They have the task of showing that the Church of England can adapt itself to the new intellectual conditions without breaking with "Catholic tradition." Canon Gore's recent volume gives a view of the Sacrament which is perhaps nearer to the Lutheran than the Roman, but his treatment of the subject is too subtle for the ordinary mind. However, whatever one may think of the new bishop's theology, he is recognized as a man of sincerity and energy, a vigorous thinker and powerful preacher. has just been appointed to Durham, and the ablest High Churchman to that the balance of power has been pretty well preserved.

The Timber Supply.

The Forester claims that wood is disappearing under the world's increased consumption. This is a serious reflection. In Canada there are many reasons for believing that far more wood has been disposed of by forest fires, caused by carelessness, than has been cut for commercial purposes. It is truly lamentable the enormous loss that has been caused by the firing of our forests. None too soon did the Dominion and Provincial authorities set in operation machinery for preventing the destruction of timber by fire, and for reafforsting the country. Timber will never be scarce in Canada if these two things are looked after.

Macdonald Seed Grain Competition

The reports for 1901 from competitors who are operating a seed grain plot in the Macdonald seed grain competition. show that the systematic continuous selection of seed grain, recommended by Prof. Robertson, when given a practical test on Canadian farms, is meeting with the unqualified approval of all who are giving the work careful attention. Farmers are quite as much interested in the work as are their boys and girls. That which at first seemed wholly theoretical and capable of being followed only by the scientist, when brought into practice on their own farms, has turned out to be even more simple and quite as practical and as necessary to success as the methods they have long been accustomed to follow in the selecting and breeding of poultry, pigs and sheep.

On the average farm of 100 acres. two acres of land-one for oats and quired for growing seed for the main crops on the farm. This seed grain land should be specially prepared with a view to forcing a vigorous growth of plants that will give a large yield of grain of good quality. The time required to gather by hand, before the grain is cut, sufficient of the best developed heads to produce enough good seed for an acre of land-the seed grain plot-need not exceed four hours

Experiments have been conducted Experiment Station, to determine the effect of a change of seed from one soil to another, and from one locality to another. Two varieties of wheat, of the same variety, obtained from the

To encourage the boys and girls in this work Sir William C. This work of selecting seed has now been conducted for two years on over eight hundred Canadian farms which are fairly well distributed throughout the

Brought This Woman Near to Death's Door-Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Made Her Feel Healthy and Young

There is cause for rejoicing among women on account of the marvelous assistance given to them at the trying times of life by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. By instilling into the blood that vital principle which goes to create new nerve force, this celebrated food cure gives energy and vitality to every organ of the body, and strength and regularity to the peculiarly feminine organism.

This portion of the anatomy is a mass of nerves, and health and regularity depends almost entirely on the condition of the nerves. For this reason Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves of incalculable value to women form maidenhood to that time of life when change comes to the female func-

Insert this whistle into the heel valve, and when foot is lifted, the whistle, sounds out sharp and clear, as if blown through.

When foot is borne upon, the whistle is mute, because the valve will not permit the air to go out where it comes in, and so compels it to circulate up around the stocking, and out at boot top.

This is an absolute proof that as much fresh air enters the shoe as could be blown through the whistle.

Hot Pursuit of the Boers Planned --- Mine-Owners Want Peace---Fear Their Share of the Cost Will Be Too Large.

Kitchener's campaign is apparently the organization of a fresh series of mounted columns, with the lightest possible equipment, and probably without -Steyn, Dewet, Botha, Delarey and Kemp. There are no practical results of the new tactics, but with the reinforcements ordered or already on the way military men are hoping that the collapse of the Boer struggle will come in due time. It is noticeable that neither the end of the year nor the meeting of parliament is mentioned as the limit of hostilities, but the coronation in June. BOERS' WARFARE MORE REGU-

LAR. The Boers, with their talent for adapting themselves to new conditions, are reverting from irregular to regular warfare, and after scattering their forces are now massing them for attacks upon rear guards of columns and isolated garrisons. Botha and Dewet are following the same tactics. But the bands of Cape rebels against whom Gen. French is operating are too widely dispersed to co-operate with

MINE OWNERS UNEASY. There are increasing signs that heavy pressure is being brought to bear on the government by a powerful section of those interested in South African finance to come to a settlement with the Boers. Mr. J. B. Robinson, the well-known gold magnate, is taking a leading part in this movement, the primary object of which is to protect the vested interests of Rand capitalists. The chancellor of the exchequer has promised that the Rand shall be made to contribute a share of the war expenses, and it is evident that the longer the war lasts the heavier will be the call on those who have most at stake in South African gold mines. No decision has yet been arrived at as to the exact proportion of the cost of the war which the Rand will have to disgorge, but it is stated by a newspaper, which is understood to be the mouthpiece of Mr. Chamberlain, that the matter has more than once been under the serious consider-ation of the cabinet. This very doubt on the point is being used as a lever by Mr. Robinson and other Rand millionaires to bring about pacification in the Boer territories at well-nigh any cost. ARAB LABOR IN RHODESIA. The scarcity of labor in Rhodesia is still a matter of great difficulty, and pressing for immediate solution. The dislike which is shown to the im- age of 14.

LORD KITCHENER'S REVIEWS. The government may have been lost guns, for hot pursuit of the enemy's in the recent fog, but Lord Kitchener force and the latter of their leaders knows where the battalions are, and has not been disheartened by repeated failures to overtake or entrap the guerrilla leaders. His latest dispatches with the sidelight thrown upon them in the detailed reports of the operations of the army explain what is going on in South Africa. The ance of the Dutch districts so that the enemy could not maintain systematic hostilities in them was the chief object early in the year; driving the scattered bands of guerrillas against the lines of blockhouses where the enemy is forced to surrender in small groups is the supreme end of the close of the BLOCKHOUSES EFFECTIVE.

The magnitude of the system of blockhouse lines has not been appreciated by military writers here. There is a complete network of railway defenses for the protection of the lines of communication, and also transverse barriers across the Orange River Colony, from Jacobsdal to Ladybrand, from Aliwal North to De Aar, and thence to Kimberley, and in the Eastern and Western Transvaal, with Heidelberg and Megaliesburg as centers. The surrenders reported from week to week are mainly due to the sweeping movements of mobile columns towards these blockhouse lines. Bloemfontein, Nov. 18 .- Boer prisoners continue to arrive here from the various British mobile columns in about 100 per week.

The military hospital is almost empty, and the doctors find little work the improvement of the city's beauty on their hands, as the troops in the field have become hardened by their rough life, and are in excellent health. It could buy bulbs and plants cheaply, been visited by enormous swarms of locusts, but the British military authorities have made a free distribution of fungus to the farmers, which has proved deadly in stamping out pest. Lately on a farm near Modder River three great swarms of locusts were all killed by this process.

There is a noticeable improvement in the condition of cattle, sheep, and horses, owing to the excellent grazing which has followed the rainy season. Plowing and sowing are now their stores out on the sidewalks. I would prohibit delivering and handing out dodgers and inaugurate a new garbage system. What we really need is a larger appropriation for streets in the southeast and northeast portions of the city." There should be a uniform system of tree planting here," said Mr. W. W. Gammage, "On some of our streets we have too many trees, and on others

An announcement of a meeting in Toronto for the purpose of discussing the question of how that city may be beautified, suggested the seasonableness of a similar movement here, and to that end The Advertiser has secured the opinions of a few representative citizens, whose ideas, briefly expressed, are printed below. It will be observed that more than one of the gentlemen spoken to approve of an extension of the park system, as has been advocated by this paper, and say that in the plan for improving the times too close together. When they beauty of this city, the securing of grow to a fair size, it will be necesmore public playing grounds and best results are to be obtained. breathing spots should not be omitted. Many other suggestions that are practical and involve the expenditure originating and encouraging of plans for the city's improvement.

"Every individual in the city should take more interest in seeing the city more beautiful," Mr. T. J. Murphy said, when the question was put to him. "If each person made his own place attractive, the object would be accomplished in a private way."

"In a public way, the city might be made beautiful by expending money in improving the streets, sidewalks, parks and public buildings. One thing I hope to see is the erection of a new city hall, in the park system. We have lots of room to use for little garden plots, court house and registry building.

"We might learn a lesson from the England, Scotland, Ireland and France the people beautify their homes and grounds with all the flowers they can get. We don't do enough of that here. If we did more along that line it would improve the city wonderfully."

Mr. John Bowman gave a few minutes of valuable Saturday morning time to tell The Advertiser of what he believed should be done to make London more beautiful.

"I would not confine the work to the city proper," he said. "If we could build that river road that is talked of, plant trees along it, and have a drive-way along both sides of the river, it Would be a great attract "The eyesore in this city teday is our pavements. We should get the old block pavements out and put new ones in. I would not say what kind of a pavement—but something permanent, and of good appearance. We should improve the streets in other ways, too. Some system, controlled by the city engineer, and run by corporation labor, should be devoted to keep the streets free from weeds. I mean, of course, the part that does not come under the legitimate care of the householder The trees ought to be trimmed and cared for. A man should be appointed to do this work, and the result would be a great improvement. The beauty of the city." he said. "lies in the measure of pride each individual takes in his home. London is a garden in itself, with its trees and wellkept lawns. We should cultivate flowers and shrubs more. It would brighten the city marvelously if more atten-tion were paid to this. We don't do enough in that way. Lack of water may have something to do with it, Last summer the shortage proved handicap, and perhaps, if citizens could depend more on a regular water sup-ply, they would attempt more in the way of improving their lawns by cultivating flowers. A general planting of Orange River Colony, at the rate of while the effect would be wonderful, flowering bulbs would not be expensive. especially along the principal avenues. "I think that an organization having as an object would be a good thing. It could adopt plans and direct the work. The country around this place has and distribute them to its members. If formed it might work in affiliation with the Horticultural Society. "There is another improvement that might be made," Mr. Bowman added. That is, beautify the river front, near the foot of Dundas street. People go down there to see the court house; they are tempted by a glimpse of a pretty landscape and the sight of the old court house—but when they get there they see nothing but garbage lots. If the river front there were terraced would be an immense improvement." Mr. H. C. McBride spoke from the viewpoint of an architect when the question was put to him.

"The first thing I'd do," he said, "to improve the beauty of the city would be to repeal the fire limits bylaw, which prevents the erection of frame houses within certain limits. As long as this law is in force, we will have variety in our buildings-there will be the same dead monotony of red and white brick. Of course, I wouldn't let a man put up a cheap frame house beside a handsome brick. I would set a limit. No frame structure that costs less than $3,000 should be allowed within the boundary. Let that be the lowest price. If people in this city were allowed to erect frame houses, it would improve the beauty of the city wonderfully. We'd have some variety then, and many more people would build. Every person who visited Buffalo this year was struck by the number of handsome frame dwelling houses there. For the same money you can get a much handsomer frame_house, and there's not the same monotony.

"The business portion of London," Mr. McBride went on to say, "is about phone, 997. as ugly as it could well be. It would greatly improve the city's appearance if the fronts were modernized. Below the cornice line they are not so bad, but the upper portions could be much improved.

Mr. McBride's list of improvements included, also, new pavements, and the erection of a combined city hall and county buildings. He said that many small cities and towns about here have finer municipal and county buildings than has London.

"How would I improve the city?" said Assistant City Engineer Iron-side. "Well, first of all, I would make

Our department, with an appropriation of $35,000, could make London a perfect little paradise, because the city has great natural advantages. We can't do it, though, while our allow-ance is so small. I would make the streets look better in one way by attending to small things. There is so much boulevard along our streets that the citizens can't keep it tidy. I would give this work to old men-those who get relief from the city anyway—and let them earn something instead of giving it to them. I would stop people from throwing rubbish on the streets, and merchants from sweeping their stores out on the gidawalks. I

"Next, I would buy the Parke property over in South London and turn it into a public playing ground for the children of that district. I would also buy a place for the same purpose not enough. In one place they are too close together, and in another there are not enough. This work should be done under municipal guidance, by a man who understands so that it will not be necessary, after a while, to take any out. Up in the north end of the city particularly, the streets could be made to look much better; but care should be taken in planting the trees. Now, down at Springbank, for instance, they are making a grand avenue, and lining it with trees that are nearly three sary to cut many of them out, if the

"Our park system should be under one superintendent, and besides being a man who understands buying, planting and general care of plants, he of no large sums were made, among should be a man of executive ability. them, that a society be formed for the Our parks should be supplied from one place. The city is large enough now to support greenhouses of its own, and they should supply Victoria Park, Queen's Park, the Hospital and Spring-

"While the city is small and prop-erty is procurable and cheap, some provision should be made for the future, in the way of public breathing spots. They would not only be valuable assets, but would provide for a future necessity. We have places that natural parks—the Parke property, for example. With very little expenditure it could be made into a very beautiful public place.

"I would include street intersections and they would have a delightful effect. The appearance of our buildold lands," Mr. Murphy added. 'In ings could be greatly improved if flowerboxes were used more generally. A box of flowers in a window makes the plainest building beautiful, and gives a fresh appearance to the street. Buffalo serves as an example in that

Mr. Gammage believes that an improvement society, if organized, would have a noticeable influence. Dr. Cl. T. Campbell made a number of practical suggestions, when the subject was mentioned to him. "I would continue the present system of laying cement walks," he said, "and improve the street pavements in the cheapest and best way-that is, by constructing more of th adam roadways, with cement curbing and watercourses. I would have greatcleanliness of walks, streets and alleys, involving a system of garbage collection and disposal. I would have greater police activity, so that the bylaws touching upon the cleaniness of streets and sidewalks would be enforced. The control of trees, shrubs, flowers and grass in parks, boulevards and all public places should be invested in a citizens' committee, composed of members who have a special knowledge of their care. "Drinking fountains of artistic design should be erected in suitable places, and a monument to the South African soldiers built on some wide streetopposite St. Paul's Cathedral, on Richnond street, for instance.

"Every citizen should have the land in front of his residence neatly sodded and adorned with flower beds. In fact, a society of citizens for the purpose of city improvement should be formed. which should encourage the cultivation of trees and flowers, and secure enforcement of laws tending to cleanliness and public sanitation. Vice-Principal Dearness, of the Normal School, said:

"Probably nine out of every ten maple trees planted in the city are of the white, sopt species. The hard, red soft or Norway, though less rapid growers, are more desirable trees, and should be preferred by tree-planters. Greater variety in the kinds of trees would add to their appearance as a whole. "The ends of streets that run out to the river banks might be converted into small parks. Such view points, will, when the river is improved, be very attractive. "When the supply of water for the streets and large factories is obtained from the river, there will be water to spare for sprinkling the lawns in dry spells in the summer. In the matter of street watering some discrimination might be observed. Apparently as much water is splashed on a shaded, clayey street, for example, Ridout, south of Bruce, as on an exposed, sandy street. Muddy ruts remained on the street named throughout the year. It is worse than useless to deluge the streets with water in the fall evenings. On account of being so full of water, melting snow, such as we have at present, causes them to cut up much worse than if they had not been so copiously sprinkled."

Something That Should be Rubbed. Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or ack, take Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; our a little in the hand, and applying it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The oil will gradualy penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

Interesting Programme at Regular Meeting of Literary Society.

At the last meeting of the Normal School Literary Society, the chairman, Mr. R. Darling, announced that the usual place of the debate on the programme would be filled by a lecture on "Wireless Telegraphy," by the honorary president of the society, Mr. F. W. Merchant, and that as the programme for the day had been arranged under the supervision of Miss A. Stout, that alone was sufficient to assure the society of a very pleasant and profitable meeting. The secretary, Mr. Robert Aylesworth, read the minutes of the last meeting and the programme was opened by a well-rendered mandolin and guitar solo by Miss Stacey and Mr.

Aylesworth respectively. Mr. Robinson clearly demonstrated his ability as a musician by his excellent rendering of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," on the cornet. He was accompanied by Mr. F. L. Evans and graciously responded to an enthusiastic encore. Mr. Alexander's rendering of the pathetic story of the "Knight of Hon-

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

Resolution Regarding Change in Coronation Oath.

Very Interesting Address by Mr. Frank Holman, the Physical Director, Y. M. C. A.

The London Ministerial Alliance held its regular monthly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms this morning. President Rev. Dr. Johnston occupied the chair. The following were present: Dr. Beaumont, G. J. Bishop, G. M. Cox, Archdeacon Davis, J. H. Moorhouse, C. C. Owen, C. T. Scott, ORDINATION OF A. H. Rhodes, G. B. Sage, J. G. Stewart, R. D. Hamilton, W. J. Clark, S. Salton, W. M. Walker, W. H. Claris and A. K. Birks; and Rev. Mr. Brownlee, who was introduced and invited to sit with the members. It was voted to amend the constitution so as to add honorary presidents to its offices. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for union day services during the week of prayer. Another committee was appointed to draw up a resolution, to be presented at the next meeting, referring to the pro-posed change in the coronation oath. Prof. Holman, of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the meeting on the relation of physical training to the spiritual life of young men, and he emphasized the difference between gymnastics and athletics, showing the superiority of the moral training in the former. He asked the ministerial brethren for increased sympathy and help from them in his department of the Y. M. C. A. All expressed a great pleasure and profit in listening to his remarks. Reference was made to what was

Falls From Suburban Car and Is Now Lying Critically III at Hospital.

An urgent message reached the city about 9:30 this morning to the effect that Hubert Wilson, son of Mr. Wm. T. Wilson, of 560 King street, had been seriously injured at Detroit. Mrs. Wilson and her son George left at once to attend him. Hubert Wilson was a byterianism claimed the terms bishop through, but I am young and hardy well-known and popular young resident of the city, and was for some years employed at Pavey's warehouse. The Detroit Free Press has the following account; "Bert Wilson, 20 years of age, one of the day clerks at the Cook House, Ann Arbor, was severely injured late last night, probably by falling from an eastbound Ann Arbor line car. The accident occurred in Springwells. The westbound midnight car, due at the barn near the city limits on Michigan avenue at 1 a.m., found Wilson lying beside the track in a semi-conscious condition. He was hurried to the city and Boyd's ambulance carried him to St. Mary's Hospital. He is suffering, early this morning, from concussion of the brain, and his skull may be fractured. For eight months previous to a month ago, when Wilson accepted the position at the Cook House, he was key clerk at the Hotel Cadillac."

LONDON LOSES FINE INDUSTRY

Plant of Tobacco Company Being Shipped to Leamington.

The absorption of the London Tobacco Company by the Consumers' Tobacco Company of Leamington means a loss to this city of an industry which had been successful since its inception and rapidly increasing in prosperity. Previous to the fire, which damaged the company's premises several weeks ago, 30 hands were employed, and the concern had more orders than it could fill. The plant is now dismantled and is being shipped to Leamington, to be re-erected there.

New York, Nov. 18 .- A dispatch to the Herald from Berlin says: Miss Loie Fuller has arrived here with her troupe of Japanese. On her way she gave a performance at Cologne and after that had her valuable scenery, worth $12,500 sent on here. Judge her mortification when on its arrival "La Loie" found that it had been packed in open wagons without anything being placed over it for protection. The result was, that owing to persistent rain the whole lot, including beautiful plush curtains just purchased new in Paris, the Japanese pictures, and picture frames and delicate scenery, were all soaked and entirely spoiled. Miss Fuller at once placed the matter in the hands of a lawyer and claim full damages from the state

FOUR ELDERS

Impressive Services in First Presbyterian Church.

Appropriate Sermon Delivered on the Occasion by Rev. W. J. Clark, the Pastor.

A very impressive service was held yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church, the occasion being marked by the ordination of four elders, as follows: F. W. Merchant. M.A., Alexander Stuart, K.C., James I. Anderson, and George E. Ollerhead. The sermon by Rev. W. J. Clark was, apropos of the proceedings. He gave byterianism, tracing the history of its offices back to the Jewish and Christian churches of Bible times. Presbyterianism, said Mr. Clark, derives its name from its form of gov- trip is to get away from the everyday ernment, the word "Presbyterian" be- people and things one is constantly ing an approximation in sound to the encountering, to see something out of Greek word for elder. That ward, pres- the way, and to spend at least two buteros occurs in the New Testament years sailing. I was always passion-71 times, denoting in ten or twelve in- ately fond of the water, and I see an stances age; in all other instances it indicates official positions or characa distinct class of men in the Hebrew commonwealth; they were the office-bearers, chosen from men in the more seen everything worth seeing in the mature period of life. Not possessing any information in regard to the or-ganization of the Christian church at Presbyterianism churches, claims that it is but fair to infer the continued prevalence of the forms to which the whole Jewish people as well as the converts to Christianity had books I read aroused a spirit of adfrom time immemorial been accustom-

Mr. Clark went on to say that Presand presbyter to be equivalent and as and can stand as much as most men designating the same office. In regard in the way of harships." to the qualification of elders, "If any be blameless," said St. Paul, of the elders. "for a bishop must be blameless, it becomes the overseer, the elder, to be blameless." Each of the elders was an overseer, a bishop. The elders are nowhere spoken preachers, or as being instructed in the art of preaching. They were men belonging to the ordinary walks of life; they were men of business, men of good repute and men of influence in the community. Mr. Clark concluded as follows: "The principal symbols of the Presbyterian faith are the canons of the synods of Dort, A.D., 1619, and the confession and catechisms of the Westminster Assembly of Divines, London, A.D., 1648: also the Heidelburg Catechism. These symbols, however, have been so modified by the Presbyterian churches of America, in particular, as to exclude the church and state theory, and to affirm the complete independence of the church in respect to the state. "In fine, the Presbyterian system claims for itself a large-hearted catholicity. It extends the right hand of fellowship to all cummunions that profess the faith and hold the headship of our Lord Jesus Christ; and most cordially does it co-operate with Christian people of every name in giving the Bible to the world, and in every good work for the purification and elevation of our common humanity.'

Norman K. Luxton, formerly of Winnipeg, son of W. F. Luxton, has completed the first stage of one of the most perilous journeys ever undertaken in a boat. News was received in Winnipeg this week stating that, in company with Capt. J. C. Voss, of Victoria, he had reached Apia, in the Southern seas, in the Indian war canoe in which they are trying to circle the globe. The adventurous sailors arrived at the Samoan islands October 10 in good health, and after a brief stay there proceeded on their long journey to Sydney, Australia, where they expect to arrive in time to eat their Christmas dinner.

It is several months since Mr. Luxton announced to his friends on the coast that he was going to take his unique and hazardous trip. No one expected to hear of him again, as old mariners, who knew the Pacific like a book, said that his small craft could never live in a heavy sea. After leaving Vancouver, B. C., Voss and Luxton sailed in their tiny craft for fifty-six days without seeing land or a sail of any description, and on August 31 they landed at Penrhryn Island. From ther they sailed for Apia, 6,400 miles from Vancouver, where they remained only long enough to secure a supply of water and provisions.

Winnipeg people who are well acquainted with Mr. Luxton, naturally wonder what induced him to take such a strange voyage. He gave his reasons to a member of The Telegram staff, a clear and succinct account of Pres- who then resided on the Pacific coast. OBJECT OF THE JOURNEY.

"I am tired of the trammels of civilization," said Norman, while preparing at Victoria for his long voyage. "One of my principal objects in taking the opportunity of taking what I have always longed for-an extended sea ter. The elders or presbyters formed voyage. Our trip will not cost us much, and if we survive it, we will before we have completed it, have southern seas. Our present idea is to spend about eight months cruising among the islands of the Southern Jerusalem, as well as of other par- Pacific. For some years of my youth, I spent most of my spare time in reading literature dealing with the southern seas. The subject interested me intensely, and some of the venture in me which I have never been able to overcome. Perhaps I will get too much of it before I am

Mr. Luxton gave his informant, the writer of this article, more substantial reasons for his trip. He said that he was taking with him a splendid photographic outfit, with which he expected to obtain unique photographs, which would be of great value to him when he returned to civilization. It was his intention to gather curios of write a book later on. After reaching Sydney, Australia, he would, with Capt. Voss, go to England, exhibit the war canoe, photographs and curios, and deliver interesting talks on the natives and their costumes in the little known islands of the Southern Pacific. Mr. Luxton said that if the trip planned was successfully accomplished, he would not have worry about financial matters for Town Topics, which strongly advocated the closing up of gambling places. His crusade had a great deal to do in closing up many undesirable resorts later. After six months spent in newspaper work in St. Paul, M. Luxton again returned to the coast. He said he could not keep away from the sea. He then started another weekly called In Black and White, and ran it with success until his departure for the southern seas. It was while engaged in his second coast venture that Mr. Luxton met Captain J. C. Voss, proprietor of the Queen's Hotel. The later has sailed around the world several times, has made several fortunes, and lest them without the quiver of an eyelash, and has a most interesting personality. His stories of the sea, and of the strange impression upon the young scribe-Finally, Voss also souring on the ways of civilization, proposed the unique trip to Mr. Luxton, who accepted it.

The little vessel in which the voyage has thus far been successful, has considerable depth, and is over thirty feet in length, strongly made, and almost waterproof. It was sufficiently large to enable the voyagers to carry large supply of provisions, water, photographic outfit and most of the things necessary for a long voyage. Provided with sails, it was built to make a fair speed, but at the best it is a mere cockleshell.

If Mr. Luxton successfully completes his long voyage, he will obtain worldwide renown, as one of the most daring travelers of modern or ancient times. His future movements will be watched with great interest here. Mr. Luxton was known in Manitoba as a clever marksman, and was also prominent in the realms of sport.

SLEEP OF ANIMALS

IN A DUGOUT. Heavy, Peaceful Slumber of Lions, Tigers

There is nothing odd or peculiar about the sleep of the lions and tigers. In captivity they show the same indifference to danger that they manifest in the jungle, and by day or night will slumber through an unusual tunult unmindful or uncon-scious of the noise. Their sleep is commonly heavy and peaceful.

Bears are also heavy sleepers, but less disposed than lions and tigers to slumber in the daytime. Grizzly bears usually curl up under the rocks, but sometimes they crawl up to the very top of the rocks, and with front paws spread around the iron cage bars, go to sleep in what seems an uncomfortable position; but bears never release their muscular grasp of any object when asleep.

The black bears will curl up among the branches of a tree when they have the opportunity, and go to sleep in this peculiar position. The polar bear shows a peculiarity in the selec-The polar tion of their sleeping places. They choose one particular corner of the cage for the purpose, and invariably ek this out for the night's rest. The high-strung, nervous are the most interesting to watch at night. They usually belong to the hunted tribes, whose lives are in constant danger in the forest, and they possess such a highly developed nervous system that they really sleep with one eye open. The slightest noise will instantly awake them. The prairie wolves merely seem to close their eyes for an instant, and then open them again to see if all is quiet. Many vain attempts have been made to photograph these animals by flashlight, and without exception the camera has revealed the fact that one eye at least was partly open. The day sleepers in the menagerie are for some reason the heaviest slumberers of all, and when they close their eyes in the early morning they seem almost as stupid as if drugged. This is in marked contrast to the light night sleepers, who, on the approach of danger, are instantly awake and on the alert.—Penny Pictorial Ma-

KING EDWARD'S RENTS

He Receives a Curious Lot of Rubbish in th. Good Old Way.

His majesty the King received yesterday half a dozen old horseshoes sixty-one nails, two bundles of fagots, and a sharp and a blunt hatchet, as part of his rents inherited from William the Conqueror. The rent was paid by the corporation of the city of London, with all the ceremony befitting their service to their liege.

The yellow light of a city fog lent an old-time air to the bare room on second floor of the east wing of the law courts, where a ladies and gentlemen had assembled. On the table were spread the flat horseshoes, which are themselves very ancient, and were apparently made for an extinct species of horse of elephantine proportions. The appearance of the king's remembrancer, Mr. George Pollock, was the signal for turning on the electric lights, and the illumination of those who were ignorant of the quaint custom about to be performed The remembrancer said the cere mony they were about to witness had been observed for the last 700 years, and probably was performed long before that. At any rate it traced from the time of King John.

The city solicitor and Mr. Secondary attended there on behalf of the corporthe southern seas, keep a minute ation, and he himself on behalf of the diary of the voyage, and possibly, to crown, to receive from them the dues on certain, or rather, uncertain, lands which had been held for hundreds of years on these terms. These curious quit rents were in respect of lands in the county of Shropshire, called the "Moors," and for a forge in the parish in which the cere mony was taking place. one time received by the King in person, later by the lord chancellor, and afterwards by the lord chief baron. Since 1856 they had been received by the King's remembrancer. The warrants having been read, the remembrancer called out: "Tenants of the lands, come forward and do your services." The secondary, Mr. T. Vaughan Roderick, took up his ax and at once clove the first bundle of fagots, the pieces of which flew in all directions, and were kept by the ladies as mementoes. He then took the blunt cleaver and laboriously cut through the second bundle. Afterwards it was the turn of the city solicitor, Sir H. Homewood Crawford, who counted out his horseshoes, six in number, ten nails for each shoe and

"Good number!" called the remembrancer, and the proceeedings were over.—London Mail.

ELSIE.

| The watery moon was gleaming on the lawn; the flowers and shrubs were swaying in the night wind. Alas! for Owen's chances of escape! Three sturdy poincemen stood right under the window! If he leaped out it would be a mad leap that might jar his spine or his brain, or break his leg; and it not—if he reached the ground in safety—the policemen would quickly close around him and overpower him. Elsie prayed fervently that he would not attempt this escape; indeed, Owen did peer down into the garden; he leaned out and he distinctly saw the upraised bearded faces of the three policemen. A wild idea of casting bimadellong. A wild idea of casting bimadellong. A wild idea of casting bimadellong. The suburban mansion. Mr. Williamson was able to direct the detectives to the room of Owen, for he had helped to arrange it himself for the visitor. How did the days go on after that terrible night of Lady Rosewood's ball? Elsie seemed to live a life apart from the other—her grief was her own. Rosa, happy herself, was kind to her, but she had taken by this time the general view respecting Owen Hammond's position.

Guilty; said amen in their offices and from behind their counters. Guilty! said men in their offices and from behind their counters. Guilty! said ladies and gentlemen to each other, as they dressed to go to flower shows, or put jewels into their ears before going to church. Guilty! said ladies and gentlemen to each other, as they rode side by side in the Row. Even in the worlds of art and the enchanted realms of poesy, and amid the warbling sweetness of the singers' voices at the opera, the same opinion was able to direct the detectives to the room of Owen, for he had helped to arrange it himself for the visitor.

Guilty: said ladies and gentlemen to each other, as they rode side by side in the Row. overpower him.

Elsie prayed fervently that he would not attempt this escape; indeed, Owen did peer down into the garden; he leaned out and he distinctly saw the upraised bearded faces of the three poicemen.

A wild idea of casting himself headlong may have crossed his mind, but hope and youth spoke other words in his seas. Prison, shame were before him, perhaps a hideous death; but he knew that he had Elsie's love, and something whispered to him to be of good cheer. He shut the window and he answered the men in the corridor: the trial came on!

"Certainly he killed him—there can be no manner of doubt about it!" Elsie overheard one gentleman say to another at a dinner party to which she had accompanied the Stanlys.

The fruit and wine were on the table; the gentleman who spoke was a somewhat popular medical man. He had helped Elsie to grapes, and he thought she had one of the sweetest faces he had ever seen. He did not know her name.

"Certainly he killed him," said young Dr. Ross; "but I don't understand why. I think it was in revenge and hate; and the corridor:

"Wait! I will come to you."
And when he came out into the passage, Elsie, who stood under a lamp, was sage, Elsie, who stood under a lamp, was surprised at the calmness of his pale, handsome face; all the disfiguring adjuncts of his disguise—his false beard, wig, eyebrows—he had cast from him. He wore a shabby suit of his friend Clifton's; his dark head was bare, and the old brown overcoat hung on his arm; but there was a distinguished air about him which would have shown itself had he worn beggar's rags.

"Certainly he killed him," said young Dr. Ross; "but I don't understand why. I think it was in revenge and hate; and he took the purse and papers and seal to make it appear that the deed was the work of a common thief—only offering the ruby for sale, and first of all defacing it, looks like greed."

"Did they find anything else in his rooms?" asked the other man.

"No; only a fellow whom he appears to but there was a distinguished air about him which would have shown itself had he worn beggar's rags.

Elsie ran toward him.

"Owen," she said, "you are innocent. I know you are innocent. In a little while justice will be done you, and you will walk out of prison free and honorable." Mr. Everton looked and behaved exactly as if he had not heard a single word. His experience had been a long and terrible one of scenes like this. He had seen mothers cling wildly to the smooth young necks of sons just entering manhood—mothers who, uttering piercing shrieks, had called heaven and earth, men and angels, to bear witness to the innocence of their adored children; and then had followed the imprisonment, the long, stern, pittless trial; at last the fatal verdiet, and the condemned cell, and the rope around the smooth throat round which had clung the loving arms.

Even he shuddered at the latter portion of these grim stories, and he strove to banish them as much as possible from his mind.

Here was a beautiful youth, heir to an alias Hammond, a look for his defaulting lodger, since he knew that he visited him; and then, just as the police came to arrest Hammond, he met them, and informed them and the doctor that the pretended inyalld was the man who would not pay his rent. Of course, he was taken off to prison, where he will remain until the trial, and that won't be till August, at the Guildford assizes."

"It looks bad altogether," said the gentleman who sat next the doctor. Eisle's heart sank; it did sound and look bad, as the tale was honestly told and honestly believed by impartial people. Would nothing turn up just at the last to clear Owen from this hideous charge?

"If not," Elsie said to herself, "I hope I shall die before he does. We could both die."

Not the smallest doubt of Owen's innocence ever crossed her mind. Now in her heart say believe the treatment.

mind.

Here was a beautiful youth, heir to an earldom, beloved by this daintiest maiden, with a face like a saint in an Italian painting—a face that was innocent enough and sweet enough to be surrounded by a halo—and this young heart must break if it continued faithful, for Mr. Everton felt now convinced of the deadly guilt of the unhappy lad, as he called him in his thoughts.

Owen took Elsie's hands in his own.

Owen took Elsie's hands in his own and looked into her eyes.

She answered him, as it were, out of herself, inspired by she knew not what conviction of his approaching deflyerance. "Very soon all the world will be at your feet, begging your forgiveness for all this. I know it. I feel it. I will pray for you, I will work for you. Be of good courage. See I can even smile. I shall go to the countess."

Just for an instant their lips met, and then Owen was hurried away. then Owen was hurried away.
She did not go to the window again, she could not have borne to have seen Owen enter the hired carriage with those men.

Would he be spared the disgrace of handcuffs She heard afterwards that Mr. Everton had spared him this sad humiliation. In ten minutes after the departure of Owen, Mr. and Miss Stanly returned from the ball. Elsie went to them, white faced but resolute, and told them everything, exactly as it had happened on her return.

Rosa had come back from the ball very Rosa had come back from the ball very happy on her own account. She and the Rev. Eldred Barker had come to a complete understanding. Rosa was now thoroughly convinced of his disinterested feelings towards herself—she had plighted her troth—she had promised to be the curate's wife; and during the drive home she had brought her kind and pliant father to her way of thinking.

This terrible news about Owen upset her nerves, and she gave way to a fit of genuine hysteries; however, she was very kind and pitiful to Elsie, who told the story of her love quite frankly now that the confession could pain nobody but herself.

"How in the world could the here

"How in the world could they have found him?" said Mr. Stanly.

Elsie did not know. Owen had seemed quite confident that his disguise had concealed his identity; but it came out in due time that Williamson, the younger footman, an industrious student of all the sensational cases in the daily papers, had been suspicious of the apparently. had been suspicious of the apparently elderly man from the first. Williamson was a London footman, newly hired, but he had heard from his fellow-servants that the Mr. Owen Hammond for whom that the Mr. Owen Hammond for whom the police were looking had been formerly engaged to Miss Stanly; putting this and that together, and bearing in mind the heavy reward that was offered for the apprehension of the unhappy young gentleman, Mr. Williamson had listened at the door during the long and exciting colloguy between the loves. Very soon at the door during the long and exciting colloquy between the lovers. Very soon the enterprising footman had heard enough to make him sure of his man. He had then stolen out. There was a telegraph office at a very short distance from Rylands, the house of the Stanlys. Late as it was, Mr. Williamson telegraphed to Scotland 197d, and within an hour and twenty matutes from that time Mr. Everton and his men were in Stories Told in Colloquial Form Bring Criticism From London Press-Comparison of Texts in One of Paul's Letters.

Chicago, Nov. 18 .- The Tribune of Saturday says: In "tentative form," the Twentieth Century New Testament is complete, Part III. having just been added to the other two sections pre-viously published. The new revision of the Bible, which has been translated by well-known English scholars, and published by the Fleming H. Revell Company, of Chicago, is aimed to meet a demand for the Scriptures in modern English. In the latest revision a suggestion offered to the English revisers when the edition of 1881 was in preparation has been adopted, and is accountable for the "tentative" form. The new edition will circulate experimentally for that criticisms and suggestions will be welcome. The identity of the men engaged in the revision is not revealed, but, according to announcement, criticisms should be sent to "The Treasurer of the T. C. N. T., 10 Gordon road, Clifton, Bristel."

ATTACKED BY LONDON PAPER. The first criticism has come from the London Evening News, which, in comment upon the work, says:

"In Chicago, even the masterpiece of literature is not sacred. Twenty mis-guided inhabitants have just issued a translation of the New Testament into modern American. Such an atrocity almost makes one sigh for a few hours of the inquisition.'

The translators have been at work upon the revision for twelve years. In introducing the edition to the public

"Few English-speaking people of today have the opportunity of reading the Bible in the English of their own time. In the course of the last hundred years the Bible has been translated into the every-day language of the natives of most countries, but the lan-guage of our Bible is still the English of 300 years ago."

OLD AND NEW COMPARED. It is the colloquial character of the English used in the new translation which has brought down criticism. This is illustrated in the first letter to Timothy. A comparison of the old and new versions of one of Paul's writings concerning women, contained in this let-ter, will show the difference in the styles:

MODERN ENGLISH. "I also desire that women should make themselves attractive by their discreet, quiet and modest dress. They should not indulge in wreaths or gold ornaments for the hair, or in pearls or in expensive clothes, but as is proper for women who profess to be religious -they should make themselves attractive by their good actions. Women listen to their teachers and al ways show them deference. I do not consent to women becoming teachers or exercising authority over men: they ought to be quiet. It was Adam who was formed first, not Eve. And it was not Adam who was deceived; it was the woman who was so completely deceived that she fell into sin." OLD TEXT. "In like manner also that women adorn themselves in modest apparel with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with braided hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array

"But, which becometh women professing godliness, with good works. "Let the women learn in silence with "But I suffer not women to teach, not to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence. For Adam was first formed, and then Eve. "And Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression."

$303,000 FOR TWO TIMBER BERTHS Toronto, Nov. 18 .- E. B. Eddy, of Ottawa on Saturday purchased at auction timber berths Nos. 176 and 182, on the north shore of Lake Superior, in the Algoma district, for $303,000. The berths comprise 72 square miles, and ten years ago were estimated to con-tain 110,000,000 feet of timber. Joseph H. Cullen, of Detroit, opened the bidding at $250,000. At $300,000 Mr. Cullen quit. Wm. Kerr, of Toronto, bid $302,000, and Mr. Eddy bid $303,000, getting the

HOPELESS CASES.

When the doctor leaves and says the case is hopeless, what remains to be done? Nothing, if the doctor's word is final. Much, if you will listen to the statements of men and women who were once "hopeless cases" given up by doctors, and who were perectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Nothing is more sure than that thousands of men and women with sweats, have been diseased lungs, obstinate coughs, hemorrhage, ema-ciation and nightrestored to perfect health by the use of the "Discove " Discov-Will it cure erv." you? It has cured in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred where it was given a fair and faithful trial. By that record you have only two chances in a hundred of failure and ninety-eight chances of being restored to perfect health. It is worth trying.

Abram Freer, Esq., of Rockbridge, Greene Co., Ill., writes: "My wife had a severe attack of pleurisy and lung trouble; the doctors gave her up to die. She commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she began to improve from the first dose. By the time she had taken eight or ten bottles she was cured, and it was the cause of a large amount being sold here. I think the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is the best medicine in the world for lung trouble."

Doherty Organ Company Burned Out Again-A Scorcher at St. Marys, Ont .-Cudahy Loses $150,000.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 18 .- Fire that began in the canning building of the Cudahy packing establishment destroyed that building, with a large stock of canned meats that it contained. The loss is estimated at $150,-

Clinton, Nov. 17 .- Shortly before midnight Saturday, the night watchman at the Doherty organ factory discovered fire and gave an alarm. The town fire engine and the fire apparatus of the factory did heroic service. The fire being in the finishing department, the inflammable material fed the flames until they spread from one end to the other upstairs in the main building, but was got under control before the ground floor was reached, the roof and contents of the upper story being mostly destroyed. Messrs. W. Doherty & Co. are protected by insurance, and we understand will proceed to repair at once, as they were pressed with orders, necessitating working overtime. Between 200 and 300 employes will be thrown out of work till the factory is re-established. St. Marys, Ont., Nov. 17.—The oat-meal mill of J. D. Moore, two miles south of this town, was destroyed by fire a little after midnight this morning. The cause is not known. loss is about $6,000, and it was insur-

Storm on the Lakes Wrecked 25 Vessels-Steamer Sunk With All on Board.

VRECKED TWENTY-FIVE VESSELS. Detroit, Nov. 18.—One of the most effectual embargoes in the history of the lakes has been placed on vessel commerce during the past three days by the northwest gale, and all over the lakes vessels was reported in shalter. A list of over 25 are reported in shelter. A list of over 25 losses directly due to the storm have been reported, and it has been noticed that sallors are taking no chances in remaining beside their boats if there is any chance of escape. With all this loss of vessel property, there has not been any loss of life reported.

The worst wreck, from a money stand-point, is that of the big barge Smeaton, ashore near Au Train, Lake Superior, and liable to go to pieces this winter if she is not released. LOST WITH ALL HANDS.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 17 .- A dispatch from Louisburg tonight says it was reported there that the Norwegian steamer Ella has been lost off the Newfoundland coast with all hands. WRECKED IN A FOG.

WRECKED IN A FOG.

St. Johns, Nfid., Nov. 17.—The barkentine Titania, Liverpool for St. Johns, was wrecked yesterday morning in a dense fog near Cape Race. One man, named Williams, lost his life in trying to reach the shore. The captain and the rest of the crew, all of whom were badly injured, had a terrible experience. They were on the wreckage 36 hours, lashed to the rigging, and were not rescued until this afternoon. So thick was the fog that the coast folk were not aware that a wreck had occurred, the crew being unable to make any signals that would attract attention. The fact that the Titania was in a cove between high cliffs, made it impossible for the crew to land. The ship is a total wreck, and the cargo is lost.

THE UMBRIA. London, Nov. 18.—The steamer Umbria, from New York, Nov. 9, was unable to put in at Queenstown on Saturday, owing to the dense fog, and proceeded to Liver-

KNIGHTS OF THE GRIP.

The Knights of the Grip, London Commandery, held their regular monthly meeting in Duffield block, on Saturday night. A large number attended and the enthusiasm manifested proved the vigor of the association. A smoking concert committee was named to look after a concert to be held on Dec. 7. The committee is composed of Messrs. W. D. Brock, W. H. Escott, C. W. McGuire, H. E. Buttrey, J. R. Sproule, J. S. Townsend, R. D. McDonald, C. A. Crozier, Alf Gunther, W. E. A. Best, C. H. Firth, W. H. Wilson, W. H. Edgcombe and J. A. Jones, The committee will meet next Saturday at the rooms of the Commercial Travelers' Association and make arrange-ents. The question of the season's ball was left over for consideration at madery, when committees will be formed to take the affair in charge. The finances were reported to be in good condition, both the general and entertainment funds having substantial balances to their credit.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"Human Hearts."

"Human Hearts," one of the first, and, perhaps the best of actor-manager be much purer than Springbank water, Hal Reid's successful dramas, was given satisfactory presentation at the horse power engine pumps the water New Grand on Saturday afternoon and evening. The play is rather above the level of Reid's more recent productions, containing less of the melodramatic and more of genuine human sentiment. The presenting company was a good one, though perhaps hardly as capable as the one seen here in the play several years ago. Frederick Fairbanks gave a convincing interpretation of the role of the stalwart and true-hearted blacksmith, Tom Hogan. Miss Amelia Losee and Mr. Herbert Betts were sufficiently realistic in their characterizations of Tom Hogan's faithless wife and her villainous accomplice to win the execration of the "gods." The minor parts were well filled, and the scenic accessories were good.

OPENS ENGAGEMENT TONIGHT. The Castle Square Stock Company, which tonight opens a week's engage-ment at the London Opera House, recently played a two weeks' engage-ment in Hamilton. The following notice is from the Herald of that city: "Sherman's cosy little theater was filled to the doors last night, when the Castle Square Stock Company gave its first production of "The Planter's The members, one and all, have proved themselves worthy of the compliments and predictions that preceded them, and they are likely to grow in favor and popularity as the week advances. 'The Planter's Wife' is a melodrama of the highest order, full of striking situations, many of which are of a highly sensational type, and with plenty of comedy, much that is novel in the way of realistic scenic effects, and a cast that embraces some clever people." The company comes strengthened by the addition of "Er-Co., druggists."

HAMILTON'S American mani," a clever fire dancer, who will appear nightly. Matinees will be significant. appear nightly. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. Seats are now on sale at the box office. Tonight will be ladies' night, when any lady will be admitted to the best seats for 15 cents. Prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents.

> "THE PRINCESS CHIC." "The Princess Chic" is well known to local music lovers as one of the pret-tiest and most meritorious operas that have been seen here in recent years. Manager LaShelle is himself the libret-tist, and in writing this piece he had in view the laudable standard of ele-vating the tone of his story above the tomfoolery and horse play of the modern comic opera with its slim thread of plot and its frivolous dialogue. The music was written by Julian Edwardes, whose "Madeline," "The Wedding Day," "The Jolly Musketeer," "Dolly Varden" and other notable melodious trifles have endeared him to lovers of jingling tuneful music. For "The Princess Chic" he has composed melodies of the most approved opera comique style, most of them with the tempo of march and waltz. The sale of seats opens tomorrow morning.

"FROM SCOTLAND YARD. "From Scotland Yard," a sensation melodrama, teeming with sensational episodes, with a great heart interest and strong comedy element, nounced for presentation at the New Grand next Saturday matinee and The play is in four acts, and has for its central character a detective sergeant in the service of the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard. The incidents of the play include the robbery of the bullion car, the murder of Herbert Mason, the fight on the roof-tops, the slow torture death in which the burning cord device is used and the slashing and theft of the celebrated Gainsborough painting of the Duchess of Devon-shire. "From Scotland Yard" exhibits lowly and high life in London as well Southwold station, died on Saturday as the charming domesticity of the provinces. A fine cast of players is engaged for the several roles.

AT THE AUDITORIUM. The introductory recital by Mr. Bertram Stuart and Miss Dolly Harcourt, at the Auditorium tonight promises to be a most interesting and enjoyable entertainment. The two principal artists of the evening will be assisted by well-known local talent.

A cordial and unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring president, Mr. J. M. Logan, for his valuable services during hic two years' term of office. In reply Mr. Logan spoke of the future of the society in an optimistic vein, and expressed the pleasure he felt at being of some service to it. He spoke of the many benefits of the organization, and pointed out that the society had lost by death the large number of fifteen members during the current year—nearly all of them in the first five months. Thus the calls upon the members had been more than ordinarily heavy. These, however, had been cheerfully met, and every claim fully and promptly paid, and the average cost per annum was still very low.

The annual meeting of the society will Treasurer-Robert Coates (re-elected)

The annual meeting of the society will be held on Satuprday, Dec. 21, at 3 o'clock, when the financial statement for the year will be presented. The report will be of a satisfactory nature, despite the heavy death rate experienced in the early port of the year. All claims were promptly and fully paid, and the society has now a reserve fund of over $10,000. Many apa reserve fund of over $10,000. Many applications are being received for membership, which now numbers nearly 900 travelers. In its sixteen years' existence the society has paid 112 death claims—an average of seven per year—by making 77 regular and 4 special assessments.

WAS AN ACTIVE CHURCH WORKER

The Untimely Death of Miss lvy Walker of Saturday.

Miss Ivy Walker, daughter of Mrs. Walker, 91 Wellington street, who died on Saturday morning, came here from Brussels about eleven years ago, and during that time had made many warm friends to whom her untimely death will bring profound sorrow. Deceased had been ill for a period of a year, four months of which were spent in Victoria Hospital, and her cheery disposition was never more apparent than during this period. Ever since her arrival in this city Miss Walker had been one of the most hard-working members of the First Methodist Church. She had been a teacher in the Sabbath school, a mem-ber of the choir, and secretary of the Epworth League for five years. References to her death were made yesterday during the services, by Mr. Thomas McCormick and Dr. Eccles. The pastor, Rev. Geo. Bishop, also made feeling remarks to the congre gation. The interment will take place at Brussels on Tuesday, where the remains will be removed tonight.
