URGES UNION EMBRACING ALL WORKERS IN WORLD AS MEANS OF PREVENTING ANOTHER WAR

Delegate From Great Britain Warns Montreal Convention That Russia's Idea Must Not Be Copied—Unionism, He Declares, Is Sweeping England, More Than 1,000,000 Having Joined the Ranks of Organized Labor in the Past Year.

Montreal, June 14.—An international organization of all the union workers of the world to further their aims and prevent another world war was advocated by J. W. Ogden, fraternal delegate of the British Trade Union Congress, in an address here today before the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Ogden, however, warned the federation that they must ignore and not be misled by the "red" propaganda of Russia and other countries. "The spirit of organization is sweeping England, and the non-unionist is almost extinct," in that country, Mr. Ogden asserted, and he predicted that the British congress will have a membership of 6,000,000 workers by next August.

This would be an increase of 1,000,000 members in the past year. The British congress are constantly fighting the high cost of living. Mr. Ogden said, adding that they had assisted the government in its "smash" prices and proffering the workers would ask no further wage advance, and "smash" on attain their proper stability.

Official Declared He Acted On Advice of Minister of Justice. Sentence Deferred. Defence Likely To Be That Judge Has No Jurisdiction.

Montreal, June 14.—Because he declined to produce Emile and Joseph Labrie, two prisoners serving long terms for manslaughter, who were released on a writ of habeas corpus, and re-arrested on the order of the attorney-general of Quebec, Governor Malapert of the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, was this morning sentenced to one year's imprisonment by Mr. Justice Dugas for contempt of court.

On Saturday C. C. Cabana, K.C., secured a writ of habeas corpus from Mr. Justice Dugas and it was served on the governor. He was ordered to produce the Labries in Justice Dugas' court this morning so that arguments on the writs could take place.

Judge Dugas gave Governor Malapert until next Monday to present arguments as to why the sentence passed should not be carried out. Judge Dugas this morning when the case was called that on the advice of the minister of justice, he declined to produce the prisoners. After awarding the governor's sentence, Judge Dugas said he would write, which will be served on Mr. Malapert at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary this morning.

Mr. Justice Dugas said it was high time that the authorities be shown that instead of hindering the process of justice, they should do their utmost to facilitate it. A terribly bad example was being shown, and one which could only do great harm to the respect and reputation tribunals were entitled to. It is understood that it will be argued in Governor Malapert's defence that Mr. Justice Dugas' court has no jurisdiction in the matter.

AWAY FROM EELS TO TALK OVER PLEAS FOR EIGHT S.T. RAILWAY STRIKE

Employees Hold Mass Meeting This Morning and Will Meet Ontario Railway Board Representative Tonight.

J. A. Ellis of the Ontario Railway Board is expected to arrive in the city in a short time. Street railway employees will immediately take up with him their plan for settling the strike. It was expected that he would be here in the day, but at last hour this afternoon he had not arrived.

The street railway employees held a mass meeting in the morning, but nothing was conducted at this except routine business. While not officially announced, it is understood that the latest plans for settling the strike is to re-route the cars, which the men claim will increase the revenue sufficiently to pay them the 8 cents an hour increase which they are asking. One change of this kind might be to remove two cars from the Ottawa line and place them on the other lines. The men may also suggest that the service could be speeded up, which would mean that more cars would be carried, with increased revenue.

It was intended that a plan of this nature should be laid before the railway board on Saturday. It will be John Colbert, president of the union, and Ald. John Ashton. By long distance telephone, the men will be in the city by Monday, and the matter could be taken up with him then.

Arrival of many L. C. P. delegates in the city Saturday and Sunday complicated the trouble and placed a greater burden than ever on the strike service which is attempting to cope with the situation. As a result of the strike most Londoners spent a quiet Sunday. A few jitneys were running, but the number of passengers was small.

No Action By Council.
No further action on the part of the city council was announced. It is certain, however, that the special street railway committee, or the council itself, will meet during the week to make another attempt to come to a settlement.

Mayor Little's suggestion in his statement Saturday that a vote be taken as soon as possible may be given consideration, and plans made for putting it into effect immediately.

The employees would a meeting this morning to conduct routine business. L. C. P. Session.
After the session lasting more than four hours, and marked by much warm discussion, the L. C. P., which is a standing convention of representatives of all labor and soldier organizations in this city, passed the following resolution: "That the L. C. P. place itself on record as against any increase in fares on the London Street Railway, in accordance with the vote of the people last January."

"That the L. C. P. send a deputation to the city council to ask them to protect the citizens in regard to the proposed service charge of 50 cents by the City Gas Company."

Seek Solution.
The meeting was held to find ways and means to solve the street railway situation and to bring the matter to the city council to collect the extra charge. Although the discussion waxed and waned, no definite decision was reached.

THE SERVICE FOR THE CITY IS TO BE REGULATE BY POLICE COMMISSION, DECLARES MAYOR

Action Should Have Been Taken Long Ago, Says Alderman Cameron Wilson—All Sections of the City To Be Served.

Regulation of the jitney service through the police commission, so that all parts of the city will be benefited will be put into effect as soon as possible, Mayor Little announced today.

"Until lately there have not been enough jitneys on the streets to take care of the traffic on Dundas street, so there was not much object in diverting them to other routes," the mayor said. "Now that a few more are available matters will be regulated so that as soon as the rush of traffic has been taken care of on Dundas street, the cars will be diverted to Richmond street, so as to serve north and south London. These cars as far as the city have not been getting much service."

Ald. Cameron Wilson is strongly in favor of a plan of this kind. He declared that the police commission should have taken action long ago.

When licenses were issued to the jitney drivers through the commission, they could have specified the routes on which the cars should run," he said. "A man could be allowed to operate on Dundas street today, on the Hamilton road the following day, and in some other location on the city the next day. In this way it could not be said that any particular driver was receiving the advantage of the busier streets. This would all have a turn at it. Under the present system some parts of the city are in the midst of the conversation. East London is well served for, as there is a regular jitney service extending from Richmond street as far as the pavement goes on Dundas."

The Hamilton road is also receiving the benefit. Other sections of the city have to rely on stray automobiles as a means of transportation. A few jitneys are plying between Springbank and the city.

With twelve feet of water in the Springbank reservoir and only the normal capacity, London is facing a serious water shortage. General Manager E. V. Buchanan issued orders today to stop the city water for lawns, gardens and streets.

Every citizen will be asked to conserve water to the utmost and to discontinue the practice of letting taps run continuously in order to get water.

Spring at Crystal Park and at Springbank are failing to produce the amount of water required for normal times. This is throwing an additional strain on the Horton street wells, and it is doubtful if they will last long.

Two Cases.
The shortage is due to two causes, failure of the supply and abnormal demand due to the hot weather.

Mr. Buchanan pointed out that the spring has been an exceptionally dry one. There has not been a heavy rain since the last snow disappeared, and as a result the springs have not been replenished. The sudden demand for water has absorbed what small surplus there was and is now making the reservoir, where there would be at least sixteen feet of water in normal times.

Mr. Buchanan is hopeful that the shortage will be temporary. "The law of averages works out pretty well and as we have had a long dry spring we are likely to have a long wet spell pretty soon."

Cut Off Outsiders.
Mayor Little advocated cutting off service to all private outside the city limits. This would not greatly reduce the demand, but he maintains that the city should not be asked to supply water to the city while the shortage exists.

Work on the new reservoir is being rushed, but this, of course, can have no bearing on the present situation. Mr. Buchanan thinks that present conditions fully justify the commission in its plans to erect a twenty-million-gallon addition to the present storage capacity. One section of the reservoir of ten million gallons will be completed this year.

A fine prospect for the citizens is not a pleasant one. The impossibility of obtaining oil for the streets has caused a revenue loss of $100,000. This is one of the causes of the shortage. Two flushers and several water-carts are attempting to obtain water. If no water can be obtained for the streets, the citizens will simply have to eat dust and make the best of it.

CONDUCTOR IS KILLED TORONTO EXPECTS A WHEN SPECIAL RUNS STREET CAR STRIKE INTO FREIGHT TRAIN WITHIN FEW DAYS

OHIO SENATOR CHOSEN AFTER A HARD FIGHT

Warren G. Harding Nominated
by Republican Convention.

LONG DEADLOCK

Candidate For the Presidency
Entered Race Only Four Days Ago.

Chicago, June 13.—Warren G. Harding, United States senator from Ohio, was nominated for the presidency last night by the Republican national convention after a deadlock which lasted for nine ballots, and which finally forced out of the running all the original favorites.

As his running mate the convention named Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, supporting a plan of a combination of the Harding backers to nominate for the place Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin.

The collapse of the forces of Governor Frank O. Lowden and their transfer in large part to Senator Harding put the Ohio candidate over.

General Wood lost heavily, however, when the Harding drift began, and Senator Johnson, the third of the trio of leaders in the early balloting, also went steadily down hill.

Entering the convention four days ago as a candidate distinctly of the "dark horse" class, Senator Harding got only 84 votes on the first ballot, and on the second he dropped to 56. When the convention adjourned Friday night at the end of the fourth ballot he had 61.

Most Likely to Break.
In all-night conferences among the party chiefs, however, he was mentioned many times as the most likely to break the nomination deadlock.

Neither Wood, Lowden nor Johnson took a commanding lead yesterday. They all failed to do so, Wood and Lowden running a neck and neck race for leadership on four more ballots, while the strength of the California candidate dwindled steadily. Meantime Harding pushed his total to 133. In dividends from many states swinging to him from the columns of the leaders and of their favorite sons.

Mr. Johnson's supporters, fearing a landslide was impending, then made a last play to save the fortunes of their leader. They moved to recess for a couple of hours for the purpose of taking an inventory and seeking new combinations. The Wood and Lowden forces, both virtually at the peak of their strength, but both disheartened at the long string of ballots without material gains, fell in with the recess plan, and the convention adopted it.

Dramatic Succession.
In the dramatic succession of conferences that followed, the fate of the candidates virtually was sealed. Some of the Wood and Lowden managers tried ineffectually for an agreement which would hold their delegates in line and kill off the Harding boom. Some tried to get a Wood-Lowden-Johnson agreement to adjourn until Monday without making a nomination. There was also a conference between Johnson and Harding supporters, in which the Ohioan's supporters tried without success to have the remaining Johnson strength swing to Harding.

It was the parleys between the Harding and Lowden men, however, which apparently bore the most fruit when the balloting began again, for Governor Lowden came to the convention during the ninth roll call, and, reversing a previous plan, to go before the convention itself, issued instructions from behind the scenes releasing his instructed delegates from that it could not be forestalled. Connecticut, when her name was called, took thirteen of her fourteen votes from

G. O. P. STANDARD-BEARER

SENATOR WARREN G. HARDING of Ohio, who was the choice of the Republicans for the presidential race.

WHO HARDING IS

Warren G. Harding has always been a resident of Ohio, which state he has represented since 1914. In private business life he is publisher of the Marion, Ohio, Star.

He was born on a farm near the village of Blooming Grove, Morrow County, Ohio, November 2, 1885, the eldest of eight children. His father, George T. Harding, was a country doctor, whose forebears came from Scotland. Before going to Ohio the Hardings were residents of Pennsylvania, where some of them were massacred by Indians. Others fought in the revolutionary war. The mother of Warren, Mrs. Phoebe Dickinson, was descended from an old-time Holland, Dutch family, the Van Kirk.

Was Born on Farm.
In his youth Warren Harding lived on a farm near Blooming Grove, attending the village school until 1897, when he entered Ohio Central College of Iberia, from which he was graduated.

As editor of the local paper he first displayed a talent for journalism. He was obliged to stop school now and then to earn the money with which to pursue his college course. At one time he cut corn, at another he painted barns, and at still another drove a team and helped to grade the roadbed of a new railway. At 17 he taught a district school and played a horn in the village brass band.

At odd times he worked in the village printing office, in time becoming an expert typesetter and later a linotype operator. He is a practical pressman and job printer, and as a "make-up man" is said to have few equals. The luck-piece he has carried as a senator is the old printer's rule he used when he was sticking type.

In 1884 Dr. Harding moved his family to Marion. A short time after the father purchased for Warren Harding the Star, then a small paper.

Held Many Jobs.
On the paper Warren Harding performed every function, from devil to managing editor. In all the years the senator has owned, it there has never been a strike or a threatened one.

Senator Harding is closely identified with many other large business enterprises in Marion and other parts of the state. He is director of a bank and several large manufacturing plants, and is a trustee of the Trinity Baptist Church.

Mr. Harding has twice represented the thirteenth senatorial district in the state legislature, and served one term as lieutenant-governor. At the 1914 election he was elected United States senator by a majority of more than 100,000, running 73,000 ahead of the next highest on the ticket. In the Senate he is a member of the committee on foreign relations. Senator Harding married Miss Florence Kling in 1911.

Lowden and gave them to Harding. In Florida he got seven from Wood, and then Kentucky, almost from the first, a solid Lowden state, dropped completely into the Harding column.

Rising Enthusiasm.
Amid scenes of rising enthusiasm other blocks of Lowden delegates followed suit, while many of the routed Wood supporters also went into the Harding camp. By the end of the roll call Senator Harding had rolled up a total of 374 votes, putting him far into the lead, and several scores of votes nearer to the nomination than any other candidate had received.

As the tenth roll call began, delegates quit Lowden, Wood and Johnson right and left, and the big hall was in almost continuous applause, as state after state announced accession to the Harding standard. It was reserved for Pennsylvania to add the crowning touch of enthusiasm. When the Keystone state was reached, the Ohio senator needed 32 votes to nominate him, and Pennsylvania gave him 60.

It was Governor Sproul himself, the candidate of his state on every preceding ballot, and mentioned many times as a possible dark horse, to break the deadlock, who announced the Pennsylvania vote for Harding.

Entering the Coliseum floor for the first time since the balloting began, he made his way to the Pennsylvania standard, amid cheers, released the delegation from longer supporting him. Then he took a poll, got the floor and threw in the winning Harding votes. A demonstration of several minutes followed, most of the delegates and visitors standing and cheering, while a procession took up its march around the hall. But it was too tired a convention after the grueling excitement of two sweltering days of balloting long to keep up such a demonstration.

Changing of Votes.
When it was seen a candidate had been nominated, the customary changing of votes began, with a half-dozen switching over so as to appear in the winning column on the last ballot. Most of Illinois deserted its governor, and many of the Wood men, too, asked to have their votes recorded for Harding. The final check-up showed 692 for Harding, with only 12 left supporting Lowden, 157 for Wood, and 89 for Johnson.

The plan to nominate Senator Lenroot for the vice-presidency had the backing of many of the men who had helped put Harding over, but the name of Governor Coolidge stirred the delegates and galleries. When the name of Governor Coolidge was called, the delegates and galleries were told that their work was done. It was early evening by the time adjournment was reached, but before midnight hundreds had checked out and were on their way.

LABOR LEADERS PREDICT CLASH OVER SOVIETS

Progressives and Conservatives Expect Warm Debate On Resolution.

ENEMIES OF LABOR

Gompers Denounces Republican Candidates As Anti-Labor Men.

MONTREAL, June 13.—Having completed its condemnation of the Republican party for neglecting labor's demands, the American Federation of Labor tonight was prepared to take up in its annual convention here legislation affecting economic and industrial conditions in the United States.

One of the first matters to come before the delegation will be the charge of the executive council's report that "nowhere in the world is the need of the masses of the United States, Congress failed to enact a single constructive measure that would aid in checking profiteering."

A strong resolution on this subject has been prepared. Labor leaders predicted tonight that the first big clash on the floor between the conservative and progressive wings would come when the debate opened on the resolutions demanding recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia and the lifting of the blockade against Russia.

The committee considering these resolutions, it was learned tonight, will

CHANDLER SIX

Famous For Its Marvelous Motor

See How Chandler Checks With High-Priced Cars

THE Chandler Six throughout its seven years of production has been distinguished for its many distinctively superior features of design and equipment which are used also on the highest priced American cars, and not used in any considerable degree by cars now priced hundreds of dollars higher than the Chandler. CHESTER GLASS' LETTER.

We are publishing in another column a letter from Mr. Chester Glass, councillor-at-law,
in New York city. The letter was published by the New York Times, and we gladly republish it. Mr. Glass' letter is an able one, dealing with great world questions vitally affecting the United States. We gather from his letter that the best men in the United States are in favor of a league of nations, possibly with some
reservations, and his estimate of the public men referred to is very correct. Mr. Glass is a cousin of S. F. Glass, M. P., for East Middlesex, and was at one time president of the Young Liberal Club in London that had its headquarters on the corner of Dundas and Talbot streets. It is evident that he is still as British as when he lived in Canada. The letter is well worth reading. It is strong, sound, sensible, and well written.

PRESERVING THE PAST.

The Ontario Historical Society, which has been meeting at Owen Sound this year, is an organization that is doing valuable work in preserving the earlier records of this province.
Under the able leadership of Dr. George H.
Locke, public librarian of Toronto, the society
has closed an active year and the program
that was presented at Owen Sound will probably add another to the growing number of county historical societies that are affiliated with the provincial body.

The Ontario Historical Society has published
more than a dozen volumes of papers and proceedings, placing in permanent form records
that would otherwise have been in danger of disappearing. The publications of the county societies, which take their stimulus in part
from the central body, now make up a small library of Ontario historical material that grows increasingly valuable. The London and Middlesex Historical Society has published ten numbers of its proceedings and thus brought together the earlier story of London in a way
that will be of constant interest and value to all who take pride in the city.

It is the practice of the Ontario Historical Society to meet in alternate years in Western Ontario. It is some years now since the society met in London, and if two years hence the Western University had its main building
erected it would be in order to have the Ontario
Historical Society meet at the university.
London and Western University would have much in the way of attraction for the society
and it would fittingly inaugurate the work of the history faculty in their new quarters.

THE HOOVER TOBoggAN SLIDE.

The uncertainties of an American presidential race are well illustrated in the case of Mr.
Herbert Hoover. Three months ago the energetic director of Belgian relief and other war activities, whose name had been in every
newspaper almost every day during the war,
seemed a likely possibility for the chief office
in the republic. At the Republican convention
in Chicago last week he had scarcely a look-in.
His downfall really dates from the adverse vote
of taking the first ballot in the convention hall
at Chicago. Failure to make a better showing during the last two months may be attributed to following bad political advice and showing bad political judgment. At the first of the year, when Mr. Hoover's name began to be proposed by various independent journals, he was without party affiliations, and it appeared
as if he would meet the demands of a great number of independent, liberal and constructive voters in both parties. His political advisers seem to have had the idea at that time that if he would stay aloof from affiliation with
the old parties, and devote himself simply to discussion of the real issues, he would find a large following. It was quite well understood that the Republican campaign managers would have nothing to do with him as an independent, unless he were forced upon them by powerful minorities from a large number of states.

The mistake was made when Mr. Hoover's friends persuaded him to abandon the role of a non-party man and definitely ally himself
with the Republican party. From the minute
that this announcement was made the non-
party following, which had been his strength,
dissolved away like a bubble, most of it going to Hiram Johnson. In the convention at Chicago Hoover had seven lone votes on the first ballot and five on the second vote. It seemed quite clear that Hoover had personally no greater liking for the Republican party than
for the Democratic party, but the old type of politicians, who were his mentors, were unable to understand a mind like his and forced him
into a course of action that has now made him
a political cipher.

COMING BACK.

Forty and fifty years ago Canada in the ranks of the Liberal or Reform party, had such men as Blake, Cartwright, Mackenzie, Laurier, Mills, Holton and others. Today Fielding, D.
McKenzie and Mackenzie King rank with
the men of other days. There are, too, Pardee, Ross, McOgill and Kennedy in the West, and able followers from all parts of Canada. There was a time between the present and the days
following Confederation when the Liberal
leaders were not so numerous as then or now.

It was probably due to a period of prosperity
that turned men's minds from public life to business and money-making.

Today the signs are that the Liberal party
is coming back. Fielding is a statesman of whom any English-speaking nation would be proud. Mackenzie King, a close student, from the beginning, by the right course of study
fitting himself for the highest position in Canada. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said of him early in his career, "He has the ball at his feet." It is a source of satisfaction that he has proved equal to the great responsibilities assumed. He will grow and perfect with the years.

D. D. McKenzie belongs to the solid,
thoughtful, safe class of statesman, and the three will not go far wrong. It is certain no man in Canada is as competent as Fielding to adjust a tariff to the requirements of the country. What he did once he can do again.

There are signs, too, that from the Prairie Provinces good help will come. T. A. Cregar
is a man with a sound mind in a sound body.
He is lithe and athletic. And who wouldn't like to see the Hon. J. A. Calder again where he belongs—back among the Liberals? He knows the West and its needs. In that respect
he resembles Senator James Ross.

Quebec is well equipped in the Hon. Mr.
Lemieux, an eloquent and able statesman, as true to Canada as Sir Wilfrid Laurier. And the Maritime Provinces never fail. They have given Canada a greater number of its ablest
men than any other part of Canada. Liberals from coast to coast can look to the future with the greatest faith. The leaders of today will size up with those whose memories Canada
honors. They will solve the problems of the future no matter how difficult.

THE NEWSPRINT SITUATION.

The cost of newsprint has been going higher
and higher. It is not likely to be any cheaper for at least a year and a half, so experts say.

About seventy-five per cent of Canadian newspapers are safe. They have unexpired contracts from the mills; the other twenty-five per cent may be cut off and forced to suspend.
Their contracts have either expired or soon
will. The requirements of all the newspapers of Canada combined amount to about one-sixth
of the capacity of Canadian mills.

Some of the mills in Canada contracted
with newspapers in the United States to furnish them with their whole output, and the mills may be held to their agreement.

It is admitted by everyone that the newspapers of Canada should be supplied and then the balance can be exported. The mills obtain the pulp from Canada and grew up and are operated under a protective tariff. Newspapers are the greatest power in the country next to the Government itself. Their power and influence
as outside critics of the acts of Parliament
constitute them an essential part of the Government itself.

The newspapers that have safe contracts
join heartily with those who are in danger to secure for them the necessary paper. They do so from a sense of fair play. To these should be added the great bulk of the mills and many of the newspapers of the United States with contracts for the whole output of a mill agree to waive their contracted right and recognize
the right of Canadian papers to be first supplied.

The difficulty is with the remnant. The injustice of that small section endangers seriously large and important interests to the country.

It is evident there should have been no
difficulty and that whatever difficulty there is proceeds from selfish motives wholly without justification. If it can be arranged by agreement to supply Canada without legislation it would be most desirable, and if it cannot be
so arranged, then legislation should be devised in accordance with sound principles of government. Legislation, like legal decision, should be based on sound principles. A general law is better than special legislation to meet a particular case. The latter is too much like using Parliament to do that which the courts should have the power to do.

There is only one opinion expressed; all newspapers, large and small, are entitled to paper, and if the remnant holding out will not consent, the wrong should be remedied by enacting a law that will compel the unreasonable
few to do right.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Democrats have the advantage of being able to size up their opponent before having
to nominate a candidate of their own.

The Unionist Government will not put its racetrack legislation in any record of its achievements intended for gathering support.

It is time that the matter of Ontario succession duties going in bulk to the provincial university was dealt with. The county council of Middlesex shows its interest in Western University by undertaking to move in the matter.

PROFITTEERING IN PAPER.

[From a Speech by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts
in the United States Senate on May 17.]

Another instance of the extent to which profiteering has been carried on is the evidence which has recently been presented before the senate committee investigating the shortage of newsprint paper. This evidence tends to show that there are manufacturers
producing newsprint paper at a reasonable profit
for about three cents a pound, yet the lowest price
that a large publisher can contract for newsprint
paper today is approximately six cents per pound;
and smaller publishers of country papers who can-
not make a contract because of their small requirements have to deal through brokers and jobbers,
who are charging anywhere from fifteen to twenty cents per pound. This unmistakably proves that there is a profit divided between the manufacturer
and the jobber, largely the latter, ranging from 400
to 500 per cent. Even the largest publishers, according to the evidence presented, are compelled to pay
some manufacturers of newsprint about 200 per cent profit over and above all costs of production,
including labor and overhead expenses.

One broker who handles newsprint and other kinds of paper appeared before this committee and
testified that his company in the year 1919 paid dividends of 120 per cent. His company does not handle paper at all, but simply acts as a broker.
And all these disclosures appear in spite of an agreement entered into by the department of justice
of the United States Government and the newspaper
manufacturers, which is still in force, permitting
the federal trade commission to fix the price of newsprint paper, and the last price fixed by this commission was 3.75 cents per pound.

In the face of uncontradicted testimony that 50
per cent of the publishers of small daily and weekly
newspapers will be driven out of business if present
prices continue, how can we all longer remain indifferent? The imminent success of the profiteers in destroying one of the safeguards of liberty—the means of enlightening and educating our masses—
should arouse us to action.

From Here and There

HOW ABOUT THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS?
Editor of The Evening Post:

Now that the totally inadequate Knox method of arriving at peace is out of the way, it is important
to consider the present status of the matter.

The action of the United States Senate in refusing to ratify the peace treaty and the League
of Nations with reservations, was very disturbing
and hard to understand. Our country apparently,
on the surface, does not wish to join in the effort
to prevent future wars.

A large number of the senators acted in an inconsistent and partisan manner, which, no doubt,
the president has recently made the situation
impossible for his own followers.

In the meantime the League of Nations is in active force, and of vast importance to the present and future generations of our people. Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan and other members of the league are settling vital matters
of world-wide interest and great concern to the future export and import business of the United States, and we are playing the part of Achilles and sinking in our tent.

Pushed Out of Markets.

A very prominent ex-United States senator
stated in the press last week that "if the opposition to peace should continue, that America would be pushed out of every principal market in the foreign world, and that our allies will have taken territories and countries of Europe and Asia that will shut the United States out of their ports, cut
our trade, and drop our securities to where they will threaten bankruptcy to all the business interests in America."

I do not believe that anyone quite understands
why the Senate adopted the suicidal policy of finally rejecting the League of Nations with reservations.
A majority of the Senate, in November, 1919,
adopted the Lodge-McCumber amendment, which dealt with Article X of the league and was the chief bone of contention, but this did not constitute
the necessary two-thirds vote for its final passage.
There was no question but what the league with reservations was acceptable to a majority of the Senate and of the whole country.

Among a host of prominent Republicans who favored it, I select at random the following names:
Elliott Root—A great, ardent patriot, and acknowledged to be the leader of the bar in this country.

Ex-President Taft—Believed in by all parties
for his sterling integrity, his learning and experience, and his staunch Americanism.

General Leonard Wood—Admired and trusted
by everyone, and who will probably be our next president.

Harbert Hoover and H. B. Davidson—Men of undoubted integrity and great ability, and possibly
the two greatest Americans produced by the war,
and both of them presidential timber to be proud of.

James M. Beck—Respected by many as the greatest orator in the United States, and whose brilliant services to this country during the war
can never be adequately repaid.

Among the number of prominent Democratic adherents, I note that Governor Cox
of Ohio, a good American, and a possibility as a presidential candidate, has just issued an address,
coming out boldly for the league with reservations.

Treaty Destroyed.

There appears, however, to have been an underlying determination of Senators Johnson, Borah
and Reed and their followers to destroy the treaty
and to threaten the whole matter into a state of chaos and make the subject a football for
the coming presidential campaign.

It has been noticed that the most ardent opponents to the league are the almost entirely certain disturbing elements in the community. We have the Bolsheviks, the I. W. W. and the pro-German, all of whom apparently do not want
either the peace treaty or the league, and would much prefer chaos and uncertainty. Then there is also that portion of the Irish in America who are blinded to the true interests of the United States
by their hatred of any ally with the British,
and are invited by agitators who are well paid by money collected in this country. These men are spending their time now in demanding an independent Irish republic, which any sane man knows
it would be sheer folly for the British to agree to.
The ceding of Heligoland to Germany was wisdom personified in comparison to what Valera demands from the British. Home rule should be given, the same as exists in Canada, but any prime minister who even considered making Ireland an independent republic would be driven from power
and hooted through the streets of London.

The British have recently saved their Empire at too
great a price to take any foolish chances now.
If two-thirds of the inhabitants of Long Island,
who were admittedly hostile to the Government at Washington, became dissatisfied with being a portion of the United States, and wished to become an independent republic, with power to deal independently with Germany, Japan or any other power, what would the American people think of it? They would not forget that Lincoln thought that the main issue in the Civil War was not slavery, but the vital question of preserving the Union and preventing secession of any portion of the Commonwealth. The question is whether the United States is to be controlled by these sinister influences which are rampant today throughout
the whole country, and whose policy might lead
to conditions as destructive as those which exist
today in Russia.

The league with reservations is acceptable to the Allied Powers and to the leaders in politics and
business of both Republicans and Democrats,
throughout the country. To the astonishment of the Democrats, President Wilson has recently
insisted that his party shall demand the ratification
of the treaty and the League of Nations without any reservations whatever.

In the present state of knowledge of the subject,
and of public opinion, this stand of the president
is impossible to support, and only adds strength
to the destructive policies of the Johnson-Borah combination.

Strong Man Lacking.

It is hard to see any light in the present situation in which the Senate is placed. A strong man could be found in the Senate to call together
a non-partisan caucus of senators, and take the matter up on a common-sense business basis, and
practically take the whole matter out of the hands
of Senators Lodge, Hitchcock, Borah and Johnson,
who are so completely dominated by their purpose,
something might be accomplished and the situation
saved. If two-thirds of the members were to agree upon passing the league with reservations,
the whole matter could be put through in short order.

It is said that there is no wrong without a remedy. Surely some remedy can be found to solve a problem which is at this moment destructive
to our business interests and is doing a vital injury
to many of the nations of Europe.

The present position is: That we went into the fight, and our boys did wonders in France, but when the only tangible result of the whole war is to be dealt with, we are placed in a ridiculous,
inconsistent position before the world, our business
interests are imperiled, and we are apparently outwitting the name, and not keeping faith with our allies; and all this because of few senators, who sat in comfortable armchairs in Washington, and
were paid large salaries throughout the whole
period of the war, disliked the president and his methods, and want to make political capital.

It seems to be a case of the tail wagging the
dog. A few determined malcontents in the Senate, possibly looking for favors from the influences I
have mentioned, have accomplished their purpose,
and the league and treaty are dead as far as we are concerned, and will remain so unless some
senators have enough virility, ability and courage
to resuscitate them.

A curious condition exists. In this, the wealthiest and one of the most powerful and supposedly intelligent countries in the world, a majority of the Senate wants the League of Nations with reservations, so also do a large majority of the people
of the United States, and so also do our friends
the Allies, and still, owing to the stupid blockade
in the Senate, and a hopelessly stubborn president,
we are deprived participation in the world's
affairs at this critical moment, when our future
interests are at stake and our honor demands that we should heartily co-operate with our Allies.

CANADA'S TIRE PRODUCTION.

Figures made public in Montreal show that there were about 2,000,000 automobile tires manufactured
in Canada last year, requiring about 8,000,000 square yards, or 12,000,000 to 16,000,000 pounds of tire fabric,
and that only about one-third of the fabric required
in the manufacture of these tires was made in Canada. The remainder came from the United States. Increased production of tire fabric is now
aimed at.

Poetry and Jest

A COUNTRY MOOD.
Robert Graves in London Mercury.
Take now a country mood.
Resolve, distill it;
Nine-acre swaying alive,
June flowers that fill it.

Spicy sweetbriar bush,
The uneasy wren
Gluttering from ash to birch
And back again.

Milkweed on its low stem,
Spread its mercurial trees
Sunlight patching the wood,
A hive-bound bee.

Girls riding, nim-nim-nim,
Ladies, trot-trot,
Gentlemen hard at gallop,
Shouting, steam-hot.

Now over the rough turf
Bridles go jingle,
And there's a well-loved pool
By Fox's Dingle.

Where Sweetheart, my brown mare,
Old Glory's daughter,
May loiter her leathern tongue
In snow-cool water.

DOUBLE-EDGED IRE.
"Were you annoyed because I sharpened a pencil with your razor?"
"Twice," replied the patient husband.
"After I had given up trying to shave I tried to write with the pencil."

UTOPIA.
We saw a tramp looking for work;
We saw a merchant reducing prices;
We saw men eating at a free lunch
counter;

We saw a waiter rejecting a tip;
We saw a barber silent as a sphynx;
We saw a woman declining a new
spring bonnet;

We saw a candidate refusing to
speak;
We saw a poet opening a bank account;

And, we would have seen lots
more if the alarm clock hadn't gone off at dawn.

PRICE OF THINGS.
[N. Y. Life.]
You surely have most valiant wings,
Price of Things, O Price of Things,
Their flap is heard by skulking boose,
By folding beds and baby shoes.

It seems there's nothing left on earth
That we can buy for what it's worth,
Which leaves us rant excuse for mirth,
Price of Things, O Price of Things!

How distant seems but yesterday,
When I was master of my pay,
I gave a bit and spent a bit;
I even saved and lent a bit.

My heels were straight, my trousers
pressed;
In overall I felt undressed—
A credit to my family crest!

Price of Things, O Price of Things!
I gave against the ill of war;
Returning, gave a great deal more,
The former earned my country's cheers.

The latter helped the profiteers
In food and clothing and in rent,
My cash and not a cent;
Price of Things, O Price of Things!

The well I'm strong for what may come,
I have a ready hand from yonder slum,
The foremost man on every tongue
Is yours, and bitterly it's wrong.

We're earnestly the prayer is said,
"Give us this day our daily bread,"
And starving homes must speed their deed.

Upon your wings, O Price of Things!
[The Home Sector.]
It was a modest prison, and the warden was talking with his latest "guest."

"Now, my man," he said, kindly,
"have you a trade, or are you skilled
in any line?"

"Why, yes," the man replied.
"Good! We always put men to work at their specialty. I'll do so with you."
"I am afraid you won't, sir," the man
replied regretfully.

"Oh, yes, we will. What are you?"
"Aviator, sir."

AN EXCEPTION.
[Somerville Journal.]
If you could just be young once more
And live your life again,
Would you remain such old mistakes,
Just as you made it then?

Or would you greater wisdom show
Each time when you were tried,
And take a tack so, looking back,
You would be satisfied?

No doubt you think, if you are like
The general run of men,
That you would save a lot to live
All through your life again.

And you may think, as most would think,
That if you only could,
You'd never make an old mistake—
But probably you would.

NANCY IN THE RAIN.
[Passing Show.]
When Nancy came to stay,
We met her at the station;
It rained in sheets all day
When Nancy came to stay.

And yet she turned up gay
And full of conversation.
We'd never had such rain;
We'd watch it dripping, hopping.

And rustling explain
We'd never had such rain—
She splashed along the lane
And said the view was topping.

We buttoned Nancy in
Our sturdiest mackintoshes,
Up to her lovely chin
We buttoned Nancy in—
She didn't care a pin.

She "jazzed" in her goshes!
The poplars flash and sway;
By Nature's never-ending
The glittering world is gay.

The poplars flash and sway—
"Fine weather!" I dashed;
My sunlight went with Nancy.

"I do," answered Jagaboy. "For example, I do."

THORNICROFT-BROWN.

One of the prettiest weddings that has taken place in Melbourne for some time was solemnized at the home of Mr. A. D. Brown recently, when his daughter Jean was united in marriage to Mr. Thornicroft of Appin. The marriage took place under an arch of evergreens, ferns and lilies in the drawing-room, which was decorated with ferns, snowballs and lilies. The bride, who was unattended, looked charming in a white gown, trimmed with lace and pearls. The wedding march was played by a sister.

Mystery Medicine.

Mary Jones, languishing in the fourth week of typhoid fever, suffered a dangerous complication in the form of a sudden change of doctors engineered by gossip of the neighborhood. But the physician ousted had no skillfully managed the case that Mary was able to endure the complication and in a week or so she was on the mend. The new doctor thereupon was given applause from the Saigercamps you see, he had agreed with their ideas about the treatment and nursing of Mary. It is a general custom to praise the healer who happens to be in at the recovery and damn the doctor who has but yesterday been discharged. And I tried seven different doctors, and wrote the credulous layman, "and none of them helped me. Then I heard of your remedy, purchased eight bottles, and today I am a well man." In this case it happens to be some nostrum that is in at the recovery and damn the physician who is being lost in case?

Not at all. Does any nostrum taker place the same confidence in the nostrum after the formula has been revealed to him that he felt before he knew the absurdity of the concoction? People who fancy that modern healing is getting away from the mysterious are superficial observers. There is unquestionably a great deal more of mystery deliberately mixed with the plausible appeals of all kinds of fad healing today than ever before. It is true that the old, old stuff about

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
What are Arabian bees? Is the be-erage made with them harmful? It is this. To one pint of bees add one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of molasses, one quart of water. Let stand and add a teaspoonful of sugar every day for one week, then drain off the liquor and drink after three or four weeks.—MRS. E. G. R.

Ans.—So-called "bees," hatched up with some foreign name to give the deplorable element of mystery, are wild or impure yeasts. The beverages prepared therewith are pretty crude liquor, intoxicating and rank, but if you believe every old woman who likes quiet nip, good for whatever happens to ails you, same as the regular booze of departed days.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Neil R. Gray, 503 St. James street, on Saturday evening when his niece, Miss Florence Forbes, was united in marriage to Mr. Benjamin Ware, son of Mr. G. T. Ware of Halesbury.

The house had been made a veritable bower of bloom, great pink and white bouquets being used effectively with smaller flowers to create a most pleasing effect. About fifty guests were present, including several from out of town.

Among those present were Miss Dorothy Gee of Rockford, Ill.; Mrs. F. A. Chapman of Exeter, Miss Dora Fortner of Dayton, Ohio; Mr. G. T. Ware of Halesbury; Miss Edith Stewart of Guelph; Miss Margaret Stewart of Toronto; and Mr. Fred Matthews of Toronto.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Ware will reside in Dayton, Ohio.

KOMOKA LAWN SOCIAL.

A lawn social will be held at Komoka Hall on June 16 by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church. The program will be furnished by well-known artists from London, including Miss Verner, district secretary, and Mrs. Keays, district visitor.

Those present thought it wise to withdraw the July and August meetings. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Herbert.

KENT COUNTY W. C. T. U.

A splendid convention was held in Blenheim last week by the county association of the W. C. T. U. An address of welcome was given by Mrs. Wm. Newson of Blenheim, which was fittingly responded to by Mrs. Geo. Cowan of Chatham.

Mrs. Perkins of Chatham gave a splendid address on "The Ideal W. C. T. U. Woman."

Rev. Gales of St. Paul's, Harwich, also gave an address which was very much enjoyed, and Mrs. Garnet Thompson of Blenheim favored with a delightful solo.

The regular business was transacted, and plans laid for active future work.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Henry Stokes, Chatham; vice-president, Mrs. J. B. Little, Blenheim; recording secretary, Mrs. Hitch, Ridgeway; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. Shaw, Chatham; treasurer, Mrs. Creighton, Highgate.

PRESBYTERIAL AT PARKHILL.

The sectional Presbyterian meeting held in Centre Road Church on Wednesday was a great success. At both sessions the church was filled with an interested audience.

Mrs. Calvert of Parkhill, a wee Scotch body, won every one with her talk on missionary effort in Scotland. Miss Isabel Rose read a helpful paper on "How to Increase Interest in Our Meetings," and Mrs. Dan Stewart gave an excellent report of the provincial meetings at Stratford.

Miss Beatrice Thompson of Toronto gave a most interesting and helpful paper on "The Sutherland and Mrs. W. T. Albert." Music was furnished by the choir, Messdames Aitken and McKen, the Parkhill Mission Band and Alex. Dawson.

The church was beautiful with plants in bloom, and the well-laden table was fragrant with white blooms from the Hawthorne tree.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

No life can be pure in its purpose, or strong in its strife, and all life not be pure and stronger thereby.—Owen Meredith.

For Fond Father.

I wonder if you would care to see your boy on a farm where he would get all the necessities the 12-year-old boy requires? We enjoy our share of prosperity—a couple without children. Would you appreciate your boy being reared in a home where he would receive care and love, Christian influences, schooling, the same as my own would have had? If you could see it this way, your boy would never regret his coming. Answer through the Cynthia Page.

ANS.—MOTHER HEART.

Ans.—Please send in your name and address to Mail-Box, Hungry Mother Heart, in case of a reply for you, have several letters for Fond Father, but he has not as yet sent in his name and address for them.

VERANDA CHATS.

Inclosed you will find 10 cents for the S. C. H. and 2-cent stamp for the S. C. H. Will you please send me the famous stocking-foot pattern? I enjoy the question and answer column very much and wish you every success in the same.

Inclosed please find 10 cents. Would it be asking too much to send me the stocking-foot pattern, as I have five girls, and they do wear out so many stockings.

When reading the Mail-Box letters this morning I saw where Paded Lily says she is sending a crocheted baby bonnet. Mail-Box, would you send it to me at once? If I happen to be the first to ask for it, I want to make some baby bonnets for a bazaar for our circle. Find inclosed a self-addressed envelope and stamps to pay postage.

Will you please send me the stocking-foot pattern, which you have? I do not know whether you have this in different sizes, but I would like to have one for small children. I suppose it can be cut down if it is a large size. I inclose postage with many thanks in anticipation of your kindness.

Ans.—Pleased to fill all of the above.

THE ORPHAN PUPPIES.

PART NINE.

Now, Teddy, or the Great Unknown, as he was called, had learned to be a good little dog, for he had won a great number of prizes; so it was he did not notice Tommy on the bench. Tommy felt hurt when Teddy went by without even looking in his direction, and if he had not been filled with awe at the sight of such a handsome puppy he might have barked out and told Teddy who he was.

But the address for judging came so soon and was so exciting Tommy almost forgot about Teddy. The first time Teddy was taken in the ring and the talking around the ring stopped and everybody sat up to take notice of this grand little dog who had never appeared at a show before.

"Isn't he like the Great Unknown?" "Isn't he?" everyone seemed to say at once, and when Tommy heard that his heart was filled with pride and he resolved to make himself look as nice as his brother if he possibly could so that he would not bring discredit to his name.

your music case over with a mixture, composed of equal parts olive oil and black ink, you would find it a help. Use a soft cloth, and it will make it look like new. Have seen it tried on a shabby handbag, and even black kid gloves. I think it needs to be done now and then to keep it nice. Hope you will find it of some use.

And now I wonder could anyone tell me how to keep pumps from slipping up at the heel? Have tried velvet, but they still persist in slipping. I would be thankful for suggestions. I should like to talk of books, but that would take another letter, so I'll say "Au revoir," but not good-bye. Some way in the paper my name has got changed into the Cold Heart of the North Wind, when I really am

Ans.—I'm sorry we changed your name, Heart of the Night Wind, because your real name is much prettier, and not so cold. How your letters breathe of the beautiful things out-of-doors! We all love you to come and keep us from "becoming too practical." Did you try rubber strips or non-slip for the heels of your pumps? They are procurable for a small sum at most shoe stores, and are coated with glass on one side, and are a great protection to the hose as well.

HELENE'S MARRIED LIFE

BY MAY CHRISTIE
Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

XCVII.—A Holiday.

"Helene, I can't hide my feelings any longer. I—I am leaving only for you, my dear!" Jim looked into my eyes.

We were resting for a moment on a mossy bank. The grass was starred with violets.

"Your answer means the whole world to me, Helene," he murmured. "Ever since I first knew you, I have loved you, dear."

Ever since he first knew me! Was that his memory coming back to him at last?

A queer tremor seized me, and a great glad ecstasy. Love! Nothing in the world could equal love—the sort of love I had for Jim!

But still I had no answer. I was afraid of something.

Perhaps, woman-like, I was frightened of the happiness I was surely lay ahead of me. Who knows?

And so I maintained silence, while Jim poured out words as new and always sweet.

"I can't wait any longer for you, dear," he murmured, smiling. "I wish, and plucking a spray of violets as he spoke, 'I care for you so much, Helene, that I would be too—too cruel—if you couldn't care for me!'"

He caught me in his arms. "I couldn't resist the sheerest bliss to feel those dear arms round me once again."

Over his head the birds were twittering a goodnight song. Long, slanting rays from the setting sun filtered through the branches of the trees above us. The world seemed to pause for a moment, breathless, at our happiness.

"Oh, Jim," I murmured, close into his ear, "I am leaving only for you, my dear!"

He caught me passionately. The springtime ecstasy of his arms, his words, his kisses, like some sweet narcotic. Moments of bliss like this occur but seldom in the monotony of human lives.

But when they occur, they leave a memory and an ecstasy that is unforgettable.

We did not speak. There was no occasion for mere words. But Jim knew and I knew—that we loved each other to the uttermost.

We seemed to be caught on the crest of a great wave of bliss. It was an enchanted dream from which I never wished to wake.

The sweet odors of spring always bring back that enchanted moment to me.

"Sweetheart, I never thought the world would hold such joy," I whispered at last, with fervor, but complete lack of originality.

Jim smiled into my eyes. "Helene, you wonder woman!"

In nearby woods, a bird called, half-mocking. A little wind rustled the leaves. How glorious it was to be alive—and young—and very much in love.

"Helene, just tell me that you care!" Jim's tones were very pleading. "Just tell me that you care!"

At The Theaters

PERCY HUTCHISON AND LONDON COMPANY IN "GENERAL POST"

AT THE GRAND TONIGHT.

The most humorous comedy of the decade. These are the words of London critics used in describing "General Post," the comedy in which Mr. Percy Hutchison and his London Queen's Theatre Company is to appear at the Grand tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 and Wednesday matinee at 2:30. The play sparkles with wit and apt repartee—the brilliance of a peer's drawing room. Among the laugh lines of the show are those two bits of soldier philosophy: "Snobbery is a peace time complaint. It's like the German measles; it's gone completely out of fashion since the war." And "I've yet to discover the man whose head is screwed so firmly on his shoulders that a pretty girl can't turn it. If she's determined to turn it, she'll turn it."

Mr. Hutchison, whose main claim to fame is as a light comedian given to London what New York critics asked for so eagerly—a straight light comedy part. Incidentally, perhaps the strongest appeal of "General Post" is the part of returned men who have seen it in London.

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Mr. Hutchison will offer the British version of "Brewster's Millions" and on Friday and Saturday evenings and matinee, "The Luck of the Navy" will be repeated by special request.

NOMA TALMAGE AND WILL ROGERS AT THE ALLEN ON

DOUBLE PROGRAM

You will not be able to find a better place in the city to entertain your visitors and friends this week than at the Allen, where Norma Talmage in her world and beautiful picture "The Muth" and Will Rogers in the famous Ziegfeld Follies Boy, is shown in the new comedy feature "The Strange Boarder."

Beautifully Norma never looked to better advantage than she does in this her most emotional and beautiful picture. With lovely clothes and brilliant settings, she shines forth like the sun she is, thrilling, appealing, and as alluringly beautiful as ever.

There never was another comedian like Will Rogers. With his quaint smile, lightning action and his way of introducing a subject, he has every one in a while he carries his audiences along on a wave of enthusiastic laughter.

Some times nearly a tear, and often with their hearts in the throats in the anticipation of his next stunt or chuckle rising from his homely wholesome and big hearted characterization. You will like "The Strange Boarder."

It is the tale of an optimistic cowpuncher, who traveled the road of too much trouble with a smile on his face, to the finish of happiness and love.

Special musical programs are to be provided by the Allen orchestra and musical director, under the direction of Maurice Pource.

CHARLES RAY AT LOEW'S.

Charles Ray is again the bashful youth who develops into a world-beater in his new screen comedy, "Alarm Clock Andy," which is the feature photograph attraction at Loew's for the next three days. This time the star is Andy Gray, shy, stuttering salesman for an auto truck company. Anxious to lure ahead in business, he strives to overcome his shortcomings by patter after the firm's star salesman, Hinkler, who is really nothing but a great big fourth wheel. Andy comes in contact by chance with Dodge, a big boy of the truck. The latter is impressed with Andy's determination.

A lucky accident puts Andy in soft with Dodge's pretty daughter, and follows her on his vacation to a summer resort. All the time he is making a fool of himself, and a fact is, less to say they are straightened out happily and Hinkler meets his due.

An extraordinary bill of excellent vaudeville and comedy, with the evergreen "The Virgin of Stamboul," a picture a real tiny little bill of enjoyable diversion for the first part of the evening.

Don't worry about the heat. Enjoy the cool blasts of icy breeze from the four mammoth electric fans, change the air every minute. Loew's is undoubtedly the coolest spot in all London. Come prove it for yourself.

AT THE PATRICIA.

"The Virgin of Stamboul," a master feature production, produced by Universal-Jewel, with Priscilla Dean as the star and directed by Tod Browning, is the announcement for today at the Patricia Theatre, which has aroused such unusual interest among the theatregoers of this city.

"The Virgin of Stamboul" is heralded as one of the important photo productions of the year, presented in a big way. It unfolds the life of the mysterious East and reveals the customs of the Turk and the Arab, from the mosque at Constantinople to the great Arabian desert. It leads through the floor of the sacred temple, through the forbidden portals of the harem, through the vast stretches of the arid waste.

WEEK-END FIRES.

During the week-end the fire department responded to two alarming minor fires. One was at 10:20 o'clock Saturday night, when an electric iron burned a hole through a table at Fedley's tailor shop on Clarence street. The other was at 2:43 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when some grass at the rear of Carling's Brewery caught fire.

PUPILS' RECITAL.

Those who took part in the weekly Saturday afternoon pupils' recital at the London Conservatory of Music were: Misses Jean Campbell, Evelyn Smythe, Thelma Roberts, Alice Wolberg, Gladys Gard, Alethier Taylor, Blossom McIntosh, Annette Linton, Agnes Harrison, Frances Byroft, Norma Scott, Josephine Fitzgerald, Jean Henderson, Doris Watts and Evelyn Ford. The teachers represented were Misses Irene Burns, Dorothy Munroe, Florence Dewey, Beatrice Gibson, Thos. Martin, Chas. Percy and Sydney Martin.

BICYCLE SMASH-UP.

While coming towards the city down a hill, just east of Springbank Park, at 4:10 o'clock Sunday evening, Harry Peaker, a boy residing in Westminster Township, was knocked from his bicycle by being struck by an auto which appeared from behind. After he was hit the car collided with his brother, Harold, and a companion, Russell Howlett, 208 Richmond street, who were also cycling. The car, which was a 1918 model, was driven by a man who had pushed the car to the city, while the other had to carry him. The riders were not injured.

All Must Help Soldiers

Get Back to Civilian Life

Strong Appeals Made in Many Churches Throughout the District Yesterday—5,000 Have Already Received Vocational Training.

More than eight hundred returned soldiers of the 5,000 who received vocational training are now without employment, and 12,000 more will soon be seeking positions. Rev. Quintin Warner told the congregation of Cronyn Memorial Church Sunday morning. He appealed to them to do their utmost in helping to re-establish these men in civil life, and declared that any impatience which the public might feel toward the returned men was due to the actions of a small and unrepresentative group.

His appeal was only one of the thousands made from every pulpit in Canada Sunday, at the request of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment. He pointed out that the appeal was not for money, but for a brotherly interest in the men.

"How soon we have forgotten the love we did express in deed and in truth during the war, and which we are now in too many instances prepared to express only by mouth," he said. "The appeal today is that that love should take a more practical form."

"The problem of absorbing the returned men into civil life and all the other after-war problems have been nothing like as difficult as we expected. We have had a lot of fulsome adulation of the returned heroes, a lot of magnificent oratory on the duty of properly reabsorbing them, but we are far enough away from that problem now to consider it in a cool, practical way. The appeal of the S. C. R. comes just at the right moment."

Four Classes.

There are four classes of returned men," the preacher asserted. "First there is the straight-forward man who took up the entire different military life for the sake of duty, home and country and all the other things for which we fought. He has come back with the energy of which he is capable and has kept quiet about it. The men of this class are the backbone of the country in peace or in war. The only thing we can say to them is that they would identify themselves more closely with the various organizations of returned soldiers for their stabilizing influence is greatly needed."

The second class of men is formed by those who have not come back.

LIBERALITY NEEDED TO BECOME GOOD

Any Person May Acquire Righteousness, Says Rev. W. A. McDonnell.

"Liberality is the beginning of goodness," said the Rev. W. A. McDonnell in his sermon on Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He took for his text "For Barnabas was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost."

"Any person may acquire greatness and rightly so, but few attain goodness which needs liberality, bigness of heart, faith in fellow men and service to humanity. To reach these ends, the Holy Ghost from which to derive comfort, reached the high-water mark of goodness through his possession of all these points. His liberalty was the greatest, as we can see by the Bible, which states that he not only gave himself, but all of his possessions to Christ, and his faith in his fellow men never weakened even when they stoned him."

Christ came to give comfort, and although he is dead in the body his spirit still rules among us. We must be comforted by the spirit of Him, which will give the necessary strength of heart to be able to forgive and to tolerate the depravity which is in our hearts."

No man who did not serve humanity can be a good man. He illustrated this point with the motto of the Earl of Shaftesbury, which was "love and serve." The earl received this motto while going to school at Harrow, through a simple deed he performed while watching a blind man.

Although he had had points, he was a good man through his largeness of heart, and his humanness of spirit. "Our hearts are walled in like our homes, and until that is done away, we cannot possess the greatest strength of heart or the faith in our fellow men which is necessary to make the good man."

RIDES FOR TEACHERS DURING CAR STRIKE

No. 1 committee of the board of education has arranged a transportation service for teachers in the outlying schools during the street railway strike. Commencing today, a conveyance will be at Richmond and St. James streets at 8:30. Proceeding south on Richmond, it will pick up school teachers residing in the surrounding district. It will turn east on Bond street and carry the teachers to Memorial teachers to that point. It will then go south on Rectory street to the Elgar road, where it will leave the Chesley avenue teachers and meet those for the Elgar school. The order will be reversed in bringing them from school after 4 o'clock. Fifteen or sixteen teachers will be accommodated by this plan.

ASSAULT CHARGE WAS DISMISSED

W. G. Blamford, proprietor of a store in the Village, appeared before Squire W. H. Chittick in the county court here Saturday afternoon, charged with assault on Stafford Smith. He was dismissed by the court. The charge was preferred by Smith's father, Isaac, who alleged that while his son was intoxicated in the village recently accused assaulted him. A host of witnesses were present at court Saturday, but Squire Chittick concluded that the evidence was insufficient to convict and discharged Blamford.

MOTION FOR SECURITY ENLARGED A WEEK

Three cases were heard in the weekly high court here Saturday by Chief Justice Meredith of Toronto, who presided. The first, that of Annis vs. Annis, a motion asking for security to costs was granted for a week on consent of E. H. Braund for the motion. W. C. Fitzgerald acted for the plaintiff.

The case of Box vs. Patrick, a motion to dismiss the action as against B. W. Patrick, was dismissed by the court. P. H. Bartlett acted for the motion and Meredith & Meredith for the plaintiff. The final case was that of Wood and Watson. An order was made confirming the report of the local master under the vendor and purchaser act. R. Fisher acted for the vendor and J. M. Gunn for the purchaser.

BAKERS' PICNIC.

At their regular meeting on Saturday, the journeymen bakers of the city decided to hold a picnic on July 3 at Springbank. They expect a large attendance.

There is a third group of returned men which was busy before the war, in the war and after the war. Now, with a certain claim on public sympathy, they are baring their service for gain. They are the real cause of any impatience which the public may feel with the returned man. We have allowed this noisy group to influence public opinion far too much for the good. A fourth group who will always deserve all we can give them and who ask only the chance to earn an honest living.

"This class is formed of men who through reason of their military service are now unfit for their previous occupation, or of young men who, in spite of Government regulations, got into the army before they learned any trade of earning a living. Already 5,000 of this class have been fitted for other work, but about eight hundred or a thousand are out of employment and 12,000 more will soon be seeking employment in Canada."

Backed By Churches.

"The appeal to help this work ought to be backed by every church in Canada which desires to promote practical kindness."

"In the appeal to the churches it has been pointed out that the recent Portage agreement was not only an appeal for money, but for the cultivation of more brotherly kindness. This is all that is needed to solve the problem of re-establishing these men. Just a fair and square opportunity, no bounty, nothing but a good opening and a little patience."

"We have every reason to be proud of what our Government has done in re-establishing the soldiers. Our policy has been held up as a model to the whole world. But it is now up to the employers of labor, and I ask them to give the first opportunity to these men."

"To begin with, it is the very best possible business. It is the great thing to do. Our taxes have been spent lavishly to educate these men and now they are the product of the greatest producing industry in the country, the soldiers' civil re-establishment. We should use this product as an evidence of the thankfulness we feel for the service we enjoy through the service of these men."

"Do you think it is easy to forget the terrible experiences it was a great thing to do and to settle down again to a hum-drum existence? Won't you love them some to a normal life again? Let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth."

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.)

Speaking of bird songs, the prize singer, according to Eaton, is the Winter Wren. He says its song is the sweetest melody heard in the woods. According to Bickwell it has an indescribable effect, "full of trills and runs and grace notes, a tinkling rippling roundelay." It is indescribably beautiful when heard in the evergreen swamps and dark woods of the north where the bird makes its summer home during spring migration, but very rare in the south.

It is always seen here several times where the bird makes its summer home. It is always seen here several times where the bird makes its summer home. It is always seen here several times where the bird makes its summer home.

Dorchester swamp Saturday last. The bird, which has passed on its migration time ago, left behind in this swamp a number of northern birds, which the north and conditions make it quite suitable for nesting. Besides the Winter Wren there were the White-Throated Sparrow, Black and White Warbler, Black-Throated Green Warbler and Northern Water Thrush.

All these birds and a number of others identified by the song. Familiarity with the songs of the birds is only attained by patience and long experience. In the case of the common summer residents it is fairly easy, but for the rarer migrants, which are seen only once or a few times each year, it is surely difficult. Then, too, the bird student must have a good ear to detect the slightest sound of a far-away song or the high-pitched notes of some warbler. This keen hearing is the chief secret in the finding and identification of the birds.

ILDERTON

ILDERTON, June 12.—The final meeting of the Lobo union school picnic committee was held at Poplar Hill on Tuesday.

The secretary read a communication from the secretary of Coldstream Women's Institute, giving a grant now totalling $256, to be used in lighting the Memorial Park. On motion by H. Fontaine and L. Chanen the secretary was instructed to tender the thanks of the committee to the Women's Institute for the donation.

Walter Campbell reported that the sports committee had secured four teams: afternoon, Ilderton I. F. S. vs. West Lorne; evening, Caradoc vs. Allen Craig; George Barrie vs. Caradoc.

E. R. Barclay and Robert Mitchell reported on the baby show. Six prizes will be given of high value.

The parade committee reported that the parade of school children will be held within the large new grounds instead of on the street as formerly.

The usual prizes for schools entering in parade will be given, also for the best floats in the parade.

On motion by L. Chapman and E. T. Caverhill it was decided to hold a picnic on Friday afternoon, June 18, to finish preparing the grounds for the picnic on June 23.

It was decided that the park be free to the public for picnics, etc., unless a charge is made when a fee will have to be paid to the committee.

A committee of local young men was appointed to prepare a tennis court on the park grounds.

Farmers all through the district have been busy hauling gravel and doing their statute labor, and a large amount of gravel has been laid down in repair work. Rain is badly needed for the crops. Fall work is heading out, and in most fields the straw will be short. Early sown oats look fairly well, but the late sown will be very light unless a good soaking rain comes soon. Some farmers report their corn doing well, but some fields already cultivated are looking fine; roots and potatoes not so good. A large crop of early apples is sure, and also a good crop of late. As the fruit is now set in fact some of the early varieties will have to be thinned to make a good quality of fruit unless the June drop is very heavy. Plums and cherries have also set well; strawberries and raspberries light; currants, a fair crop.

SUNDAY CONCERT.

Under the office of the Sir John Carling Chapter, O. D. E., the band of the 1st Battalion, Western Ontario Regiment, held a largely attended concert in Victoria Park on Sunday evening.
