The Next House.
The Difference.

EDITORIAL

THE NEXT House of Commons at Ottawa will have 234 members.

It is out of the question, allowing for the broad planks on which many candidates are running, for any party to carry on with less than 125 seats.

There is no chance of Mr. Meighen having this following, or anything approaching it.

The longer the campaign lasts the more solid the belief that Mr. King is going to come back with the largest following.

Right now we find whole might-be Meighen families in London that are voting Liberal in this election.

The same thing is taking place in other ridings.

Give Mackenzie King a fair working majority, and the "group government" business will take care of itself.

MR. MEIGHEN says the tariff is the only issue.

The Canadian elector who is up to the neck in taxes does not believe it.

The Canadian elector believes that Ottawa is costing him far too much for the service he gets from Ottawa.

Listen to Sir Robert Borden in 1911, prior to the reciprocity election. He said:

"The increase, which is known as ordinary controllable expenditures, of from 36 millions in 1896 to 79 millions in 1910, is proof of extravagance beyond any possible defence, and establishes a prima facie case of corruption."

All right, what then became of controllable expenditure, outside of war.

Here are the figures: When Sir Wilfrid Laurier went out in 1911 the controllable expenditure amounted to $79,411,747.

This year the Meighen party proposes to spend for this same purpose the sum of $367,905,251.

That difference is a tax on the ratepayers and residents of Canada.

That difference is one of the points the voters are going to thresh out with the Meighen party on Dec. 6.

That difference has convinced thousands of voters that they cannot afford to keep a million-dollar government in power at Ottawa.

That difference makes men and women realize that the buying power of their dollar is small because so much of it goes in the way of taxes to keep up that high-cost outfit at the capital.

That difference in itself is enough to wreck the Meighen government when it goes to the people on Dec. 6.

SO FAR there has been no response to the request that some of the W. C. T. U. workers in the Meighen cause here should state their views in regard to the official word from Ottawa that the Canadian Merchant Marine ships are ready to engage in the business of rum-running to the West Indies.

WHY?

ONE of the most inhuman things that has appeared in print in recent times has come out in some of the Canadian papers in the last few days.

A London woman is facing a charge of murder in Toronto.

A picture of her London home was secured, and inserted with it are the pictures of the mother and her two little girls, both of tender years.

Why is it necessary to exploit these children in connection with a case that is of such a nature that it leads to arrest and a charge of murder?

ASSASSIN KILLS EDITOR OF GUATEMALA PAPER

Guatemala City, Nov. 28.—Alfredo Conde, director of the newspaper El Democrata, was stabbed to death Saturday with a sabre. His assassin was captured. Senor Conde's paper is the organ of the federal Liberal party.

Triumphs in India

PRINCE EDWARD OF WALES.

BARODA, India, Nov. 28.—This city was illuminated on a scale of lavish magnificence last night in honor of H.R.H. Prince Edward of Wales. For hours the streets were a blaze of colored fires, while multitudes of natives wandered in the midst of glowing colonades, minarets and pylons.

THEATRE FIRE CLAIMS 3 LIVES

New Haven Playhouse Scene of Panic During Performance.

YALE BOYS AID RESCUE

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 28.—Three lives were lost and 79 persons were more or less seriously hurt in the fire which broke out in the Rialto Theatre here last night. It is possible that further search of the ruins of the playhouse will add one more name to the toll of dead, as one man, R. H. Perrigo of this city has not been seen since the fire was discovered, and the panic-stricken crowd surged towards the doors of the theatre. His son was among the injured.

Only one body, that of Timothy J. Hanlon, had been identified this morning. It was believed he was trampled to death, as examination of his injuries showed his neck was broken. Two other bodies taken from the theatre were burned so badly that identification was impossible. One was the body of an elderly woman, and the other was that of a young man apparently about 29 years of age. An official inquiry into the disaster began here today.

Panic Seizes Crowd.
The playhouse was crowded at 7:30 o'clock, and preliminary features of the entertainment were being completed when the fire was discovered. Sparks were seen dropping down in front of the silver screen upon which the picture was projected. There was a shout of "Fire!" and panic seized the crowd. In an instant, there was a rush for the open air, but it appeared most of the people were trying to get out the main entrance instead of using the emergency exits. Many cool-headed persons attempted to restrain the crowd, shouting there was no danger, but their words were futile, as was that of the orchestra, which continued to play for some moments after the first alarm was given.

Leap Over Railing.
Many who had held seats in the balcony of the theatre leaped over the rails and fell on the heads of the struggling people below.

There were many children in the crowd, and their parents were in many cases injured while trying to lift them above the press about them.
The theatre building was a frame structure, which burned like matchwood, and for two hours the whole city was lighted by the glare of the fire. Yale students were prominent in the work of rescue.

SHARES CENTER OF STAGE WITH BYNG OF VIMY

Sea Lord Receives Enthusiastic Greeting On Arrival At Union Station.

NAVAL VETERANS ATTEND

Military, Dominion and Civic Officials Welcome Jutland Hero.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty extended his conquests to Toronto today. Here he will share the center of the stage for a brief but strenuous ten hours with Baron Byng of Vimy. Arriving from Ottawa at 7:30 this morning, the sea lord was given a formal reception at the station shortly after 8 o'clock.

The Dominion Government was represented by Sir Henry Drayton, Sir Edward Kemp and Edmund Bristol, while the city of Toronto's welcome was tendered by Mayor Church. The military service was present in the person of Major-Gen. Williams and Robert Renzie, Brig.-Gen. Mitchell and Gunn, and Lieut.-Col. Rhodes.

Earl Beatty, on leaving his private car was greeted with prolonged cheers by the throng which had collected on the station platform. Proceeding with his entourage to the upper part of the station, he inspected a squad of some 20 bemedaled naval veterans and reservists.

In the entrance arcade a detachment from the Boys' Naval Brigade lined the two sides of the long corridor, while in the street outside B Company of the Royal Canadian Regiment formed a guard of honor, which was inspected by Earl Beatty, while the band of the Royal Grenadiers played a naval march.

A detachment of the Boys' Naval Brigade appeared with the tow ropes used in the navy in landing field artillery. Latching them to the car, which is off at the double, going up since to Wellington street. From there Earl Beatty proceeded to Government House. Here he breakfasted with Lord Byng.

At 10 o'clock Earl Beatty attended an informal reception in the city hall.

BRITISH PREMIER SECURES ESTATE

London, England, Nov. 28.—Mr. Lloyd George has purchased from Lord Ashcombe a portion of the Churt estate, which lies about five miles from Farnham, in Surrey, and forty miles from London. It is situated in the midst of the most beautiful part of a heavily-wooded district.

It possesses other attractions which will appeal to Mr. Lloyd George. The Hartley Common golf links, which has just been extended to eighteen holes, is quite handy, while not more than three miles away is the Hindhead course, of eighteen holes, said to be the most natural course in the south of England. Whatever changes the political future may have in store for Mr. Lloyd George, he will thus be able to avail himself of the consolations of golf.

Western "U" Bylaw Vote To Be Taken Monday, December 5

CANVASSERS for the Western University bylaw have found a number of cases where voters are under the impression that voting on the bylaw and voting for the federal election takes place on the same day.

This impression is wrong. The Western University bylaw vote takes place at the same time as the municipal elections, Dec. 5. The federal election, for electing members to the Ottawa House, takes place on the following day, Dec. 6.

Voters should be clear on this point, otherwise they will find themselves in confusion.

PROPOSE AERIAL MAIL SERVICE

Postal Authorities To Use Aeroplane Between Halifax and Newfoundland.

TO BEGIN DECEMBER 10

An experimental aerial service, which if found feasible will be used for the transmission of mails between Halifax and Newfoundland, beginning the 10th of December, the London postal authorities have been notified in the weekly Bulletin issued by the postoffice department at Ottawa.

The Bulletin states: "A trip by aeroplane from Halifax to Newfoundland is being arranged for about the 10th of December, and the department has been asked to encourage the venture by dispatching a letter mail from Halifax on the flight in question. It has agreed to co-operate in this way provided those sending mail assume the risk."

The requirements for this mail are: (1) "Fly aerial mail" to be prominently written on the address side of the envelope; (2) The usual four cents postage for a one-ounce letter to be affixed on the address side of the envelope; (3) Additional postage stamps to be placed on the address side of the envelope in payment for the special charge for transmission by aerial service, which has been fixed by those making the flight."

WELL DRILLERS END FIRST SURVEY IN CITY

Drillers employed by the Ohio Well-Digging Company, who have been engaged for several weeks past in their search in London and district for spring water, have completed their first survey of six sites.

General Manager Poe of that company arrives in London Monday evening from Massillon, Ohio, to conduct a survey of the work accomplished, and will outline the second survey. Future efforts will be based upon the results of the first undertaking.

Although no report is allowed to be submitted until the final operations are concluded, it is believed that the drillers and others interested in the possibility of an abundant supply of water available beneath London are largely enthusiastic and optimistic.

NEW ENGLAND IS HARD HIT BY SLEET STORM

Boston, Nov. 28.—New England was glazed over or melting out today, and its transportation and wire services were interrupted after a storm of sleet, snow and rain that fell from time to time in the past two days. A thaw set in this morning, opening switches frozen over during the night, and making possible improved traffic conditions.

HOW I'D MAKE LONDON BETTER FOR POSTERITY

Mrs. Frank E. Leonard Bases Ideals On Civic Beautification.

FAVORS FEDERAL SQUARE

Advocates Also Zoning, Union Station and Elevation of Railway Tracks.

BY HELEN MCILLAN.
The bare limbs of huge old trees cracked as they swayed in the wind. Dry leaves rustled across the rolling stretch of lawn. Soft damp earth, lately turned, scented the air with its freshness. An extremely young Alredale worried a huge yellow-lined squash shell, as he gamboled over the sward towards the house.

And I followed him along the driveway, for I had come to interview the hostess of the house, Mrs. Frank E. Leonard on how to make London better for posterity.

But she wasn't to be found in the house at all. Taking advantage of the yet unfrozen earth, she was spending the early hours of the morning, directing the mulching of the ground, planting bulbs and trimming shrubs.

And there I found her, eagerly engaged in making her own home surroundings beautiful, and just as eager to suggest means of beautifying the city.

The sum total of her suggestions amount to "a more beautiful London."

She would have a uniform plan of laying out the street, so that they would present long vistas of beauty, now so often cut off by jogs and turnings; she would have the city laid out in areas according to their use, whether for residential or business purposes, thus avoiding the ugly corner grocery store and like places of business, which now mar many a beautiful residential district; she would have the city promote the scheme of building a union station, with elevated tracks through the city, and she would have the proposed Federal Square proposition begun, if only on a very small scale at first.

"We should pierce future," she said. "We should not always be thinking just of ourselves and our day." "We should reach out beyond today to the future, say, 50 years hence, when we think of what should be done for London. Already London has let many opportunities go past, for lack of vision, but it is never too late to mend."

"I am perfectly in sympathy with the suggestions which have already been made by our citizens, but I would like further to suggest that London should take measures to prevent the commercializing of her residential sections. For everywhere have places of business penetrated into the residential portions of the city."

"Whilst it may seem severe and dictatorial to suggest to the mercantile community where it should locate, yet a moment's thought and a journey to all parts of the city will show how London is purely a matter of education to make the citizens of London see the value to the city of the residential areas. Many a prospective investor in residential property has been deterred from a purchase because of the proximity of some disfiguring shop. Surely it would be worth while for our mayor, aldermen and town planners to make it a point to look into this very important matter, which bears on London's status as a beautiful city."

Would Unify Streets.

Mrs. Leonard says that the first step in bringing about a better planned city is to get the people of London heartily in favor of the scheme. The streets should be laid out with uniform width, proper grades for water, sewerage and gas mains. She points out the mistake London made, years ago, of not continuing the city cross streets east of Adelaide street and west of Richmond as far as the river, so as to give long and beautiful vistas.

"If I suppose the streets were laid out with joy and turns interrupting them, so as to get as many lots crammed into the plan as was possible," she said, "But that was a mistake. A plan consisting by act of Parliament should insure that our streets are from now on, laid out Turn to Page 2, Column 3."

Remains Loyal to "Boston Wizard"

MRS. CHARLES PONZI.

[Special to The London Advertiser.]

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—If you were the wife of a multi-millionaire finance wizard—

And he lost his last penny—

And was thrown into prison—

Would you stay loyal to him and defend him while the whole world condemned him?

Would you leave his mansion and live in a five-room flat with his mother, awaiting his release?

Would you get back your old job as a stenographer to earn bread for yourself and his mother?

Well, Mrs. Charles Ponzi is doing just that!

Of course, you remember Ponzi. He promised clients to make millions in foreign exchange operations. Federal agents investigated and proved he was a financial faker. But—

"Charlie was honest," Mrs. Ponzi steadfastly maintains. "He meant to do right by all. Why, he could have kept some of the $8,000,000 he gave back to investors if he hadn't been square."

"He could have buried a million and no one would have known the difference. But he didn't!"

"I've had several offers to enter the movies, but I just can't capitalize Charlie's misery. It's all too tragic."

"Of course, it's lonely for us without Charlie—he was so kind and considerate. And—let me tell you this—a man who's kind to his mother and wife can't be bad at heart toward the rest of the world."

"Christmas!"

A wistful look came into Mrs. Ponzi's eyes. "Christmas—I do hope they parole Charlie before next Christmas. That's all I'm looking forward to!"

SUPPOSE NOBODY CARED!

ON CHRISTMAS MORN

"I DO NOT WANT anything for myself, but would like something for my little brother and sister" is the plea that comes winging its way to The Advertiser office this morning.

And we feel that if anyone deserved Santa Claus to remember her, it is this little girl who has the Christmas spirit so strongly that she wants other people to be happy.

Little Girl, when Christmas morning comes, there will be not only a nice warm overcoat for your little brother and rubbers for the older one, but there will be something for you, too, and some pretty toys as well.

Won't there, "good-fellows" of the "Christmas Cheer Fund?"

Aren't you all glad you are going to get into this wonderful scheme to make such people happy on Christmas Day?

Here's what one "goodfellow" writes: "In our home we keep a shining little mite box, which holds five dollars in ten-cent pieces. We drop all the dimes that come our way into it, and when it is full donate it to some worthy cause." He's just now emptied it for the "Christmas Cheer Fund," for with his letter comes all those bright ten-cent pieces, fifty of them, to nestle up against all the other silver pieces and dollar bills which are going to travel out into the city highways and byways on Christmas Eve to bring happiness and comfort in their trail.

The treasurer of the "Goodfellows' Christmas Cheer Fund" is waiting to add more contributions to his fast-growing list. Total contributions to date are:

PAVES WAY FOR RECOGNITION OF HER AUTONOMY

Powers, However, May Move Slowly in Granting Present Chinese Demands.

International Commission of Jurists To Visit Orient, Arms Parley Plan.

BULLETIN

Washington, Nov. 28.—A resolution declaring for relinquishment of foreign postoffice privileges in China was adopted today by the nine powers sitting as a committee on Pacific and Far Eastern questions.

The date of Jan. 1, 1923, was set for the abandonment of foreign post-offices, and this was agreed to by all the powers represented except Japan, whose representatives asked for time to hear from their government.

The Japanese delegates, it was said, did not object to Jan. 1, 1923, as the date for abandoning their postoffices, but felt that they did not have the authority to agree to that date without referring the matter to Tokyo. The nine powers' committee deferred final action until tomorrow on the question of extra territorial rights in China.

Washington, Nov. 28.—(By Ben Deacon, staff correspondent of the Canadian Press.)—The third week of the Washington conference opened this morning with the far east division ready to take up several phases of the general question of the relations of the powers with China, the preliminary work of which was completed at Saturday's meeting.

The naval armament question was also declared this morning to have reached a definite stage of advancement. The British and United States naval experts, it was understood, having virtually completed their examination of the technical points involved in the United States' proposals, Japan's experts were said to be still working on these details, and no new light had been thrown on France's attitude, which in the opinion of some observers here may make or mar success of the discussion.

The mail committee on Pacific and Far Eastern problems was convened at 11 o'clock. Its agenda for today called for the consideration of two reports to be submitted by sub-committees. One was to the form of a resolution which was drafted Saturday, declaring that the foreign postoffice in China should be abandoned "as soon as feasible." The other was a sub-committee recommendation for the gradual abolition of extra-territorial rights in China as soon as the Chinese judicial machinery will warrant the change.

Hear China's Demands.

The resolutions which the full committee is considering today cover two of the demands presented by China. At third point, and one which, in the opinion of those who have given the situation close study, is the most complex and most important of all, is still to be dealt with in sub-committee. This is China's demand for a gradual widening of autonomy in respect to the tariff. A special committee, on which Sir Robert Borden represents the Empire, is engaged in preliminary work on the problem and will report to the conference this afternoon or tomorrow.

The representatives of the world powers are unquestionably turning a sympathetic ear to China's plea. No one questions the sincerity of their desire to help the Chinese people in the establishment of an effective and stable government, and to raise China to a high status of nationhood, but the indications are they will move very carefully in doing so.

Favor Full Inquiry.

Before definitely granting any of the concessions China asks, they will first proceed to ascertain just what is possible at the present time and what is impossible in view of this conference. In the opinion of many observers here, China will be the richer in having turned to Page 2, Column 5.

DESTITUTE ASK AID FROM CITY

Inspector McCallum Has Duty of Supplying Jobs to Workless.

MANY IMPOSTORS APPLY

Demand for relief from the city is coming early and furiously this year. Inspector McCallum's office at the city hall is daily besieged. To add to the worries of this officer, the duty of deciding who is in need of a job at the unemployment relief work has also been placed on his shoulders.

Wanted Railway Ticket.

"If I go 'bloody' before long, let me down easy," he requested. But a few minutes later he got an opportunity to let off some of his pent up feelings when a strapping big fellow, a single man, asked to be provided with a ticket to Tavistock. He had a job to go to. "No, I cannot help you," said Mr. McCallum.

The fellow remained and the inspector went on with his work. Then, looking up again, he inquired, "Say, do you know that a man like you could be arrested for begging?" adding "It's a sorry day when a man of your build and evident intelligence, with absolutely no one dependent on him, has to apply to the already overburdened taxpayers for relief. Many a time I have walked farther than it is from here to Tavistock and you won't find the walking crowded."

Assists Old Women.

Then in came two old women. They hadn't a bit to eat in the house. They were soon looked after.

A batch of unemployed then lined the counter and it looked like a busy hour of hard luck tales for the inspector to start off the week on.

There are impositions attempted as bad as that of the single man. A woman with an income of $50 a month is sent to the hospital at the city's expense. Another family, the husband in the sanatorium and drawing a pension of $170 a month and his own keep, wanted their little girl sent to the hospital at the city's expense.

These are cases that rile McCallum when he is constantly face to face with so much suffering and absolute destitution.

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO R. M'LAUGHLIN

Representatives From All Parts of Canada Attend Oshawa Funeral.

Oshawa, Nov. 28.—Business was practically suspended in Oshawa Saturday afternoon during the funeral ceremonies for the late Robert McLaughlin, veteran automobile and carriage manufacturer.

Representatives from all over Canada were present, including Lieutenant-Governor Harry Cockshutt of Toronto; J. E. Dalymphe, vice-president, Grand Trunk Railway; C. A. Bogert, general manager, Dominion Bank of Canada, and heads of many large industrial concerns throughout the country.

The funeral was the largest ever witnessed in Oshawa. Service was held in the Presbyterian Church, Rev. George Yule officiating, assisted by Rev. J. P. Wilson, retired Methodist minister, a former pastor of Simcoe Street Methodist Church here.

The church was decorated with a gorgeous collection of floral tributes, expressing the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and business associates.

The funeral procession through the town, which deceased was instrumental in building up, was led by the massed bands of the 34th Ontario Regiment and the local Salvation Army.

Col. Otway and Col. Ady of the Salvation Army headquarters staff, represented that organization. Fully four thousand people viewed the remains in the church previous to the funeral service.

W. L. Borrager, manager of the London branch of the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, was among those who attended the funeral.

THE DEATH TOOK PLACE in Lobo Township Monday of Mrs. James French, 82 years old. The funeral will be held from her residence, lot 14, on Wednesday afternoon. The services will be conducted in the McLaughlin Methodist Church. Interment will be made at Melrose Cemetery.

ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN BARREL

Man Charged With Theft of Property of Kuntz Brewery.

Frank Martin was charged with stealing a beer barrel, valued at $10, the property of the Kuntz brewery.

A. M. Judd, counsel for Martin, asked that the case be postponed till Tuesday in order that he might consult with his client. Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop was quite agreeable, and the matter was so arranged.

George Morris, charged with having drugs in his possession, was allowed to go, as the contents of numerous tubes alleged to have been given by Morris to a prisoner at the county jail for another prisoner, proved not to be drugs, upon being analyzed.

Everett Wagner, of Windsor, caught by the police at the Grand Trunk station here, with a bottle of whiskey in his possession, pleaded guilty to the charge of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, and was fined $200 and costs.

Several drunks and the usual quota of M. V. A. culprits were assessed the usual fines.

CITY NEWS in BRIEF

AFTER POSTPONEMENTS that have lasted over a month, John Howe's case was finally dismissed in police court Monday morning because the crown was unable to locate his wife. Howe and his better half were charged with stealing $150 from Mrs. Howe's mother, Mrs. Mary Vandermoule.

ON ACCOUNT of missing train connections at Buffalo, Dr. Bloodgood, who was to have addressed the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine at the auditorium at the new Medical School this afternoon, will instead, address the academy this evening at 8 o'clock on "Cancer in Its Early Stages, Its Diagnosis and Treatment."

A. M. HUNT, secretary of the Western Fair Association, will leave for Chicago Monday night to attend the annual convention of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, which will be held there this week. Mr. Hunt will probably make arrangements for part of the program for London's 1922 exhibition while there. Mrs. Hunt will accompany him on the trip.

WHILE COMING north on Rectory street Saturday night at 9 o'clock, an Ottawa car, left the rails at the corner of Rectory and Dundas, and ran on to the curb and over the sidewalk. The position of the car tied up traffic for upwards of half an hour. No serious damage from the accident was reported, though the passengers suffered a severe jolt and an electric wire was severed.

THE SECOND WARD meeting in the municipal election campaign will be staged tonight in Ward One, the gathering being at Wortley road school. There are four of these meetings to be held. The first was on Friday night last in Ward Three. The third will be on Wednesday night in Talbot street school for Ward Two and the last on Friday night next in the Masonic Temple or some other hall if the schools are unavailable.

ABRAHAM BLOOM, a young farmer of Belmont, is seeking the whereabouts of his stepmother, brothers and sister. It is 23 years since he heard from them, and at that time the step-mother, Mrs. George Bloom, was living at Senfort. She has since moved. Bloom's brothers and sisters were also living in the Seaford district at that time. A year ago Bloom located his father through the item in The Advertiser. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of his relatives should write him, care of Joe Taylor, R. R. No. 1, Belmont.

CITY ROTARIANS AMEND BYLAWS

Change Date For Election of Directors to April.

President Yendall of the London Rotary Club, at the luncheon Monday noon, commended the club upon the average attendance of the members at the scheduled meetings, London having ranked among the highest in the attendance contest in District B.

Three new members attended the luncheon, and were introduced to the club by the members. They were Morley Aylesworth, Walter Gunn and Harvey Skeg. The president outlined the obligations imposed by the club upon the members for the benefit of the new members.

Dr. E. S. Detwiler gave a short address in explanation of the Rotary rule regarding the limitation of members. "If we are going to serve, we cannot have idlers," said the doctor. That is why we adhere to that motto, "Service."

An amendment was moved to the London constitution by Clarence Mays setting the date for the election of directors the second Monday in April, or the first Monday available thereafter. The object of the amendment was to make the London constitution conform with the standard constitution, which urged that the election be held in April. The amendment was passed unanimously.

Obituaries

FINLEY MARSHALL DIES.

Death moved one of London's best known citizens, Sunday, in the person of Finley Marshall of 145 John street. Mr. Marshall had been in failing health for some months, but his sudden death, which is attributed to heart failure came as a decided shock to relatives and friends.

Mr. Marshall was born in Lobo Township 58 years ago, and was the son of the late John Marshall, a farmer. He moved to London about 7 years ago, and joined the staff of the London Mutual Insurance Company, which he was connected with until the removal of the firm to Toronto. Mr. Marshall then joined the custom house staff as weights and measures department. Two years ago he was a Conservative.

He was past master of Kilwinning Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and was also a member of the Woodmen Order.

Besides a widow he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary and Miss Margaret at home, and one son, Irvine, a mining engineer at St. Louis, Missouri, and three brothers, Stewart Marshall of this city, John Marshall of Saskatoon, and Dr. James Marshall of Pontiac, Illinois.

The funeral will be held from his residence, Wednesday, November 30 at 10 a.m. Interment will be made at Nairn Cemetery.

E. J. HOWARD DIES.

The death took place Sunday at St. Joseph's Hospital of Edward J. Howard, 55 years old. The funeral will be held from the residence of John Elwood, 299 Eglinton street, Monday morning. Requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Mary's Church. Interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

HOW I'D MAKE LONDON BETTER

with a view to the future beauty of the city.

I also believe that certain areas in London should be declared residential, and no such disfigurements as corner grocery stores, repair shops, butcher shops and other such places of business allowed there. Some of these grocery stores might with very little change be converted into duplex houses, and so not be a dead loss to the community.

Would Zone City.

Other sections should be registered and set aside for retail business houses and retailers in residential districts should be requested to move into the retail business areas. Stables should be allowed in only certain districts. Wholesale business houses and warehouses should have their section, manufacturers their special areas and stock yards and abattoirs, theirs.

I believe that one of the things most necessary to London's beauty and convenience and safety is a union station, with elevated tracks through the city.

Then, too, the splendid Federal Square scheme should be gone on with. A plan should be secured and registered for a city hall, central fire stations, police court and station. And every year a sum of money should be set aside for fine city towards their building. Perhaps the city will be able to build only a section at a time, but it should keep in mind as it builds, the resulting structures that they may be a credit to the city."

AT THE ANNUAL meeting of the Christian Men's Brotherhood Federation held in Toronto recently, Rev. Geo. T. Watts, B.D., pastor of Wellington Street Methodist Church, was elected a member of the World's Council executive.

MOULD SCORES FRANK WHITE

Declares He Has Neither Mind Nor Power To Aid Labor.

"What can Frank White, as a member of the Manufacturers' Association, do for labor on the floor of the House, even if he had the mind?" was the challenge of Arthur Mould, the Labor candidate, addressing a well-attended meeting in the Masonic Temple Saturday night. While the gathering was called primarily for the women voters of the riding, many men attended.

"Look what Frank White represents," continued Mr. Mould, "the financial interests. If he wants to, how could he get up in Parliament and defend labor? He represents the interests that have him in their clutches."

"I say to the women of London and the men as well, open your eyes. This is not a battle between the old line parties and labor, but between right and wrong; between autocracy and democracy. I want to say to the women of London that in the dawn of the new era the women are going to see that their sons are not fed to the shambles of that competitive war that Frank White has told you about."

"Why is it necessary that we should have a struggle of this nature? We must be all hypnotized so that we can't think clearly. They rant about increased export trade, and at this moment we are not supplying ourselves with the very necessities of life."

Annulled by the Nazarene.

"The Germans believed in a 'white' conception of life, the state that was supreme. That was a Greek conception and was annulled by the Nazarene, whose principles were based on the Brotherhood of Man and the Fatherhood of God. When we set that conception here we will eliminate the conditions that are responsible for wars."

"This must be done by legislation. We want men with clearer vision, than those who think only of tariffs."

"The candidates being put up today by the old-line parties do not understand the psychology of a crowd, let alone that of a nation. That's why they are not statesmen and fail to compare favorably with the public men of the past. It's the men who have their ear close to the human soul and human conditions who can best legislate for humanity."

Touching on the record of the Ontario government, the speaker explained that the Conservatives had fought persistently against the mothers' allowance act, and declared that women who were vigorous opponents of the bill at its inception are now sitting on the board of administration.

He urged the women to see justice as one of the planks of the Labor platform, holding that if "industry bore its share of unemployment there would be no unemployment."

"It pays far better to insure as one of the planks of the Labor platform, holding that if 'industry bore its share of unemployment there would be no unemployment.'"

"For employers to treat those of their pay-roll like human beings possessing heads and souls, than like pig-iron."

Too Busy Talking Talk.

"The unemployed must be faced immediately. The two old parties are not bothering about it, however, being too busy talking tariff amongst themselves in hope that they may catch your vote. In London recently there spoke Sergt MacNamara, a camouflaged labor man. It was he, who in Toronto a year ago, made a most wonderful statement about the menace of unemployment. He knew it was such then, but he is not saying anything about it now, being paid to talk in the Tory camp."

"Sergeant MacNamara said a year ago not to go too far with the unemployed. He said 'remember a big proportion of these men that are out of work are trained in the use of arms, and after being through the horrors of war, he said 'I don't fear you can see what he is driving at. I'm telling you that a year ago he recognized the menace and wanted the government to do something. Now he goes around talking the tariff bogey. There are 20,000 men out of work in Toronto, and nearly a thousand men in London at this moment are looking for that job that Frank White says 'keep your eye on.'"

"There has been a lot of talk the past five or six years past, about loyalty," continued Mr. Mould, "I want to say that there is not a man or woman here who votes anything but the Labor ticket but will be disloyal to humanity. The other candidates do not represent humanity. At the best they represent only a section. Labor is 95 per cent of the people. Therefore we are the nation."

"Let any of the others who honestly believe that all humanity is in the movement. If they lack sufficient sand for that, let them at least vote for it."

WILLIAM SMITH BURIED.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the undertaking parlors of John Ferguson's Sons, of William Smith, 75 years old, who died at Victoria Hospital on Friday, Nov. 25. The services were conducted by Canon Gurney. Interment was made at Woodland Cemetery.

LOCAL RAILWAY ticket offices received confirmation of the report which appeared in the papers a few days ago to the effect that a reduction in the sleeping car rates for Canada. The reduction takes effect on Dec. 1 and consists of 25 per cent decrease of the amount added Sept. 1, 1920. The reduction only applies to Canadian lines.

CHINA WINNING WORLD'S GOOD WILL

ing secured the good will of the nations, and in the establishment of a spirit of essential co-operation toward her. But, in respect to many of the details of her demands, the concrete expression of good will will be dependent upon China herself.

On the question of extra territorial people.

There is a similar situation in connection with the proposal for the abandonment of the foreign postoffices. It is known that a number of the delegates, particularly those from Japan, have some doubt as to the feasibility of relying upon the present Chinese postal administration entirely. The expectation is that the powers now having postoffices in China will be called upon to investigate and report China's postal facilities before any action is taken on the demand.

It is likely that the question of greater tariff autonomy for China will also involve the investigation of the conditions in China.

If the Chinese government is to be allowed to levy higher duties than those which have been stipulated in the agreements with other nations, the representatives of those other nations will probably want pretty definite assurance that the extra money which will flow into China's coffers will be used for the development of the country, and will benefit the whole of the Chinese people.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of urinous waste, so you can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with a mild, harmless salt which removes the urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what ails you of your kidney trouble and backache.

Buying by Phone Is Coming Method of Doing Business

Equalized Rates For All Centres Surrounding City Allows For Five-Minute Connection At Reasonable Charge —Brings Trade To City.

The universal use of the long distance phone for the purpose of buying is spreading so rapidly that the phone companies are finding themselves steadily pressed for plant extensions to keep pace with the demand for service.

The department stores, drygoods houses, shoe merchants, men's clothiers are daily appreciating this. They are coming round to the point where they find that business of this nature is worth while.

It is profitable!

Sales are easily made! It is as easy to prepare a parcel for shipment out of town as it is for city delivery. Besides, it is new business and holds promise for wide development for the merchant who seizes the opportunity and caters to it.

Two things have made this new business possible for the merchant and for the country people surrounding the city. They are the rapid extension of telephone lines and the great improvement in delivery.

Today the country surrounding London is a network of rural telephone lines. Every township has its rural system. These lines are feeders to the big Bell system and bring the farmer's phone just as close to the big merchants of the city as the city housewife or buyer.

And the rural residents have not been slow to grasp their opportunity. They are as appreciative of this new development as any one, and merchants are reaping the benefit.

The phone companies today have so equalized the tariffs surrounding the city also that the residents can get fairly reasonable service.

It might be pointed out that within a radius of 32 miles of London it is possible for any phone owner to call up a merchant and spend five minutes ordering goods at a cost of a quarter. And for the most part, such orders placed in the morning can be delivered the same day.

Here again the phone companies have given evidence that this business is growing and is to be catered to. The old order of things made the limit three minutes for the minimum charge. The realization came that this was hardly long enough to give an order, and when the people found that the charges were overrunning the minimum they went back to the mail order.

But with the extension to five minutes, the buy-by-phone movement went ahead again brisker than ever.

"It's only in its infancy, but it's the coming method of doing business," said one merchant.

MOTHER DEFIES LAW FOR BABE

Wrests Daughter From Husband's Arms On Street in Detroit.

CHILD CRIES FOR HER

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 27.—Justice, unfeeling goddess that she is, tore 5-year-old Agnes Matskelunas from her mother's arms, Saturday, and placed her crying and heart-broken, in the custody of her father, Ignatz Matskelunas, 2425 Twenty-Fourth street.

But her mother, Anna, in the words of the court, "not a fit person to care for the child," loved Agnes too much to allow her to be disposed of in a way so obviously contrary to her wishes. When Mrs. Matskelunas saw her baby being borne away, a circuit court order became a trivial thing to her, and she rushed to the rescue.

Saturday night the girl slept happily by her mother's side, and the fact that the woman who caressed her might be sent to jail Monday for contempt of court did not interest her in the slightest.

Gave Up Boy.

Agnes' parents were divorced in October, and the father, an employee of the Parker-Webb Company, was granted custody of their two children, George 8 years old, and Agnes. The mother surrendered George, but refused to give up her blue-eyed daughter.

Matskelunas then obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Theodore J. Richter, ordering the mother to appear in court with Agnes, Nov. 23. She did not comply, and Judge Richter issued a bench warrant for her arrest, specifying that it should not be served until after Thanksgiving, so that the mother and daughter might enjoy the holiday together.

Saturday Mrs. Matskelunas, who is living at 1614 Porter street, with a sister was brought into court holding Agnes in her arms. The legal situation was simple, the father was entitled to the child and the mother must give her up.

Clings To Mother.

When the court's decree was put into effect, however, it was plain that Agnes had not been consulted. She clung to her sobbing mother with all her strength, and screamed in sorrow and desperation. Deputies pulled her from the mother, who was led out a side entrance while the father carried Agnes into an elevator.

The child's screams brought alarmed men and women hurrying from all parts of the county building. Agnes' voice was lent new power by the realization that none of them would help her return to her mother. She kicked and scratched at Matskelunas.

Looking back over her father's shoulders as she was carried down Cadillac Square, Agnes again caught sight of her mother—not sobbing now, but tight-lipped, determined. A moment later Mrs. Matskelunas' umbrella descended on her former husband. There was a brief struggle in the street, then Agnes dried her eyes on her mother's fur coat and was borne triumphantly home.

Ignatz, rather battered, appeared in Judge Richter's court soon afterward, and once more blind justice acted. The mother must show cause Monday why she should not be punished for contempt of court.

EX-GOVERNOR IS MASTOID VICTIM

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—Sir Douglas C. Cameron, former lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, died in the general hospital Saturday night, from pneumonia, which developed following an operation for mastoid, performed on Saturday.

Sir Douglas was taken ill about two weeks ago while on a visit to this city, and his removal to the hospital took place last week. Lady Cameron is hastening to Toronto from Vancouver.

GET MAIL SACK CONTAINING $10,000

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—The theft of a sack of registered mail said to contain cash and securities valued at ten thousand dollars from a mail car on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, on November 19, became known here yesterday.

It is said that one of the packages, a large sum of money, was being sent to the head office of the Imperial Bank in Toronto, from the Imperial Bank branch in Timmins.

The federal secret service officers and postal authorities are working on the case. So far no trace of the missing sack has been found, and the authorities refuse to divulge what they have discovered.

In Brantford.
Brantford gave Mackenzie King the most cordial reception it has yet extended to a political leader.
Brantford is a manufacturing centre of no mean importance, and its people are vitally interested in the result of the election.
Its people are vitally interested in the tariff.
Its people are not backing away from Hon. Mackenzie King.
Brantford has many Liberal manufacturers who look forward to the day when the framing of Canada's tariff shall be in the hands of Mackenzie King and W. S. Fielding.
Brantford's Liberal candidate, W. G. Raymond, is not a free trader. In fact, it is doubtful if any candidate, appealing to the electors of the Dominion, on either side of politics, has given a clearer or more searching analysis of present conditions than the same W. G. Raymond.
He is a student of history, a student of the times past, and of the times in which we live.
W. G. Raymond, Liberal candidate in Brantford, is not a free trader.
He knows the needs of Brantford factories.
Hon. Mackenzie King also knows and appreciates the needs of Brantford factories.
The reception given to Mr. King and to Mr. Raymond in one of the most outstanding industrial centres of the Dominion shows clearly the trend of the times.
The Liberal tariff brought prosperity to Brantford before, and the people there believe it will do so again.

Not Fair Tactics.
The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has furnished more fuel to the man who wants to take to the platform and charge that the Meighen government is the friend of the big interests.
The country is now being flooded with books of 100 pages, sent out under the name of the C. M. A., stating that Canada needs a tariff.
The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is composed of manufacturers of all shades of political opinion.
And yet the reading of this book is plainly a plea for a new lease of life to the Meighen party.
There are scores of Liberal manufacturers in Canada who would not subscribe to the publishing of that book. They are supporters of King candidates and a Fielding tariff.
And yet the book goes to the household, and the impression is given that the combined manufacturers of Canada are making a plea for the Meighen government.
This is absolutely not the true state of affairs.
The Meighen party know a revision of the tariff is necessary. They collected a tremendous amount of evidence, and then what?
Did they come to the relief of the Canadian taxpayer or the Canadian consumer?
No, they did not.
To all intents and purposes, the whole thing was pigeon-holed.
Mackenzie King is bent on building a tariff that will have in it the qualities of equity for manufacturer and consumer alike—that will give protection to the man who on account of the tariff is denied access to the markets of the world.
That is the Liberal idea of the tariff, and it is the interpretation that hundreds of Canadian manufacturers place on it.
It is unfair and not true to fact to have the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at this late hour flooding the country with an appeal for the Meighen government.

A Serious Error.
The Kincaid Reporter pays attention to political matters, and strikes out right and left as occasion warrants. Speaking of the Riddor scandal, the Reporter says: "The government appears to have driven its final nail into its coffin. If there was room for another one, by its action in the case of the Riddor taxes. This corporation, while wealthy and declaring a 10 per cent cash dividend in 1916, 1917 and 1918, was nevertheless allowed by the government to give promissory notes for its business profits and other taxation, and now that it has reached a stage of virtual bankruptcy, the government is in the position of having promissory notes and no likelihood of ever being able to collect them. And by the information which has been already gathered the Riddor is only one of several wealthy corporations which have been allowed to escape taxation, while the less influential businessmen have been threatened with dire punishment and also with heavy fines if they dare to make an error in the computation of their taxes. Mr. King hit the nail on the head in reference to this matter when he protested against the practice of this company. There was nothing in the law, said Mr. King, which gave the finance minister or anyone else discretionary powers with regard to the acceptance of notes for taxation. And if the government was going to do this for the big industrial corporations there was no reason why the poor man, unable to pay his income or other taxes, should not be entitled to give the government a promissory note for them."

Juvenile Court.
Judge Mott of the juvenile court, Toronto, spoke to London Kiwanis Club a few days ago, and there was little to be said when he was through.
London, as well as any other city, is making investments every year in various forms of municipal enterprise. It is spending money on sewers, for instance, faster than it is spending money on the proper machinery to take care of its under-chance boys.
London is thoroughly convinced of the need of a juvenile court. It is useless to go half way in a case like this and try to make ourselves believe that such a measure will fill the bill.
A half-baked juvenile court is scarcely better than none at all, because it is not fitted or equipped to do any of the follow-up work that is so necessary.
There is a vast difference between a judge in a juvenile court and one in an ordinary court. A juvenile court judge needs above all else to have a large measure of consecrated common sense and a similar allotment of humanity. It is not simply a case of weighing the case on the strength of the evidence submitted, and finding guilty or not guilty. It is hearing a case, and from there working up-stream to find where the young life has been tainted or polluted. It calls for more—finding the cause of the trouble and seeking to correct it—finding honest, conscientious men in the community who will take a real interest in the case, and follow it week after week until the wayward boy becomes a worth-while citizen.
Unless a man possesses these qualities it is absolutely fatal to the success of a juvenile court to allow him to have anything to do with it.
London is ready to move in the matter—in fact, the move is long overdue.

LITTLE 'TISERS
F. J. White claims a vote for him "is a vote for steady work for Canadian workmen." If any candidate in Canada in any party is making a wider or a broader claim than this we have failed to see it.
London voters should remember that December 5 is an important voting day for them. On that date they have an opportunity of showing to what extent they are standing behind Western University. Let them make sure of that institution, no matter what else happens.
Sir Edward Kemp a few days ago said he "presumed it was because of the ignorance of the western producers that they were against protection." The danger is that some person is liable to rise up and say that he "presumed it was because of the ignorance of the Tory government that Sir Edward Kemp was appointed overseas minister of militia."
The Toronto Globe features the fact that A. J. Anderson may get a judgeship because he stood to one side in West York while Sir Henry Drayton got the nomination. Well, why shouldn't Anderson get his reward? The patronage peddlers at Ottawa are handing out the stuff to the faithful, so why shouldn't Anderson edge up to the trough along with the rest of them?

Hard to believe it. But on Hugh Guthrie's nomination paper we find the names of H. Gummer, T. J. Hannigan and R. S. Cull. Now what do you know about that! For years this trio has been chasing around each election trying to hit Guthrie on the head with an axe. Now that he's turned Tory they're bringing apples to put on his desk and helping with the chores after four.

On one of the woman's pages of a daily paper we read the following: "A mother should never look withered and old in the eyes of her children."
Fine in sentiment, of course. But will the writer of these fine sentiments go ahead and tell how the mother of five is to keep from looking a bit withered and old at times?

Among those present was Rev. Provost Watkins, M.A., Huron College, London. The successful candidates in the recent examinations were as follows: Second (final) examination for the degree of Bachelor of Divinity, Rev. I. H. Hunt, M.A., King's University, Nova Scotia; Rev. Wilson McCann, B.A., Wycliffe College; Rev. J. C. H. Mockbridge, M.A., Trinity University, and Rev. W. J. Wilkinson, M.A., King's University.
First examination for degree of Bachelor of Divinity, Rev. W. McCormack, Wycliffe College.
Preliminary examination, Class II, Mr. L. H. Donaldson, Wycliffe College; Mr. W. Hunter, Wycliffe College; Rev. A. S. Madill, B.A., Trinity University; Mr. C. J. H. Mockbridge, B.A., Trinity University; Mr. W. J. Southam, Wycliffe College; Mr. C. W. Vernon, King's University, Windsor, N. S.; Messrs. Donaldson, Hunter, Mockbridge, Southam and Vernon, and Rev. A. S. Madill obtained over 50 per cent of the aggregate number of marks.

TROUBLES
BY DR. WM. E. BARTON.
I all have troubles. Some of us are not as rich as we should like to be, and others are much more poor than they want to be. Some of us have poor health and some have unhappy surroundings.
Some of us lack friends, and others have friends whom they would willingly lose. And most of us are not at liberty to tell our troubles, and we wish that the rest were not.
"Tell your troubles to a policeman," so runs the selfish legend which I have seen framed and hung above the desk of a busy man. "We have troubles of our own." So reads another placard. Not many people want to be burdened by hearing the troubles of others.
It falls to me to hear a great many people tell their troubles. It is a burden and a heartache. Often there is nothing that I can do to help. But now and then there is something to be said or done that helps. Then I am glad to have been in a position where people felt at liberty to come.
My own troubles are a small burden to me compared with those I bear for others. I have a long experience in this matter.
Sometimes there are troubles which one must tell and ought to tell. But many of our troubles grow greater as we talk about them. The more often we tell of them the worse they seem to be.
David Harum, in his homely fashion, said that "A reasonable amount of fuss is good for a dog; it keeps him from thinking too much about being a dog." A reasonable amount of trouble is not bad but good for a man; it keeps him from thinking too much about himself and his own comfort.
We are not here just to be comfortable. We are here to be strong and brave and true. We can make our troubles a means of strength of character. We can discipline ourselves to rise above them and to think of others rather than of ourselves.
A large proportion of our troubles are home-made. And very many of them can be cured at home.
If you cannot dismiss all your troubles, try to conquer them by courage and resolution and self-forgetfulness. Maybe you will see the time when you will be glad that you had some of these same troubles.

READ YOUR CHARACTER
[By Digby Phillips.]
NO. 46—BRAINY EARS.
It is strange how closely, though often inaccurately, our instinctive judgment of character follows the scientific process of character reading.
We get impressions of character unconsciously from the eyes, the shape of the head, the nose, the chin and from the general physical appearance.

But so far as our instinctive judgments are concerned the ear might as well not exist. It is probably less observed than any other feature. Detectives often observe the ear purposely, for in a rough way its convolutions enable them to identify a person in much the same manner as a fingerprint. But stop and think a moment. Call to mind three persons whom you know well. Try to remember what their ears look like from the side, and see how far you come from it.

Yet the ear is a very good indicator of fundamental traits.
The brainy ear, so called, is an ear which in general contour is quite wide across the top, and tapers rather steadily to a narrow point at the lobes. Its general effect tends toward the triangular rather than the round or square. It is an indication of predominance of mind over body. People who possess it are inclined to be fond of books, fond of speculation (mental not financial), reasonable, logical, with a tendency to introspection and the formation of opinions in the abstract, followed by the application of the abstract opinion to the details of matter in hand. They may be active, healthy and strong; but they're rarely rugged, aggressive or naturally inclined to physical energy.

WHO WILL BENEFIT FROM THE WESTERN UNIVERSITY BYLAW?

There is not a man, woman or child in this City of London who has not a direct or indirect interest in the Western University bylaw to be voted on December 5 next.

FIRST--- THE CHILDREN—all of them—to whom, through the passage of the bylaw, will be brought the opportunity to obtain the great advantage of a university education.

SECOND--- THE PARENTS, who want their children to have these advantages, but who, in many cases, could not afford the expense of sending them to a distant city. Official records show that 50 per cent of the students of nearly all universities come from within a daily traveling distance of the university.

THIRD--- THE PROPERTY-OWNERS, who will benefit by the greatly increased population. In ten years there will be a student body of 3,000 attending the Western University and its affiliated colleges. Many of these will have come here with their families. Hundreds of families will come to London for its educational facilities. Many families have already come.

FOURTH--- BUSINESSMEN, who will benefit by the expenditure of big sums of money annually put into circulation by a large body of students and the faculties; and for maintenance and for new buildings. If the expenditures of students and faculties are taken together they will average $1,000 a year all round, which, after, two years, will mean over a million a year from the expenditures of students and faculties alone. The hundreds of families who will come here will need furniture, clothing, shoes, groceries, meats and all kinds of services. Meantime, during the next two years, if the bylaw carries, $5,000,000 for buildings, maintenance and the expenditures of students and faculties will be circulated in the city.

FIFTH--- THE WORKINGMEN will derive the first benefit by the creation of this great building industry, which will absorb practically all the unemployment in the city and keep the wheels busy in every line.

SIXTH--- LONDON, AS A COMMUNITY, will derive not only the material benefits of the expenditure and circulation of large sums of money, but those bigger and lasting benefits flowing from the presence in our midst of a great seat of learning. The value of these advantages is not computable in terms of dollars, for they influence the whole fabric of the social life and thought of the city. No institution penetrates and influences the daily life of its community as does a university, and that influence is always for the better. It is an inspiration which goes on and on, overflowing its local boundaries and reaching to the outermost frontiers of the nation. There is no geographical limit to the sphere of the moral and cultural influence of a university.

The place to derive the first and most lasting benefit is its own home city.
AND THE COST?

Merely 30 cents on every $1,000 of assessed property value. Who would deprive a boy or girl of this great opportunity in life for the sake of 30 cents? Who would withhold from this city this great impetus towards the realization of its destiny as a seat of learning and the center of culture for the populous and prosperous counties of Western Ontario?

SOCIETY and NEWS of INTEREST to WOMEN

Seeing Week-End Market With Aunt Maria's Eyes

The farm woman, at least, has not yet acquired the gentle art of political vision. She is interested in politics, very. She is going to vote, gives her head an emphatic nod when she says so, even if she hasn't been attending political meetings.

"Who is your candidate?" asked of several women who were selling their farm products Saturday at the week-end market, brought without exception just one name. The name was that of U. F. O. Liberal or Conservative as the case might be. The candidate was the one they intended to vote for, therefore. "What is there other candidate?"

The others might just as well back off the map.

"Other women interested in the election out in your neighborhood?" was asked of a capable-looking woman who had picked twenty chickens on Friday afternoon for the Saturday market.

"They aren't saying much about it," she replied.

"But do they intend to vote?" "Well, I guess they do," with something of amazement in the tone. What have they got the vote for, if they aren't going to use it? You can trust the women are going to vote all right."

The woman who had picked the twenty chickens Friday still had five left, fine, plump, tempting-looking ones at 12:30 o'clock.

"You will have a fine big roast tomorrow. You'll have to eat chicken all week," said a neighbor.

"I'm afraid I will," she answered, with a rueful shake of her head.

In this she shared the lot of numbers of others. The last Saturday-in-November market was literally filled with fowl, chickens galore, ducks, selling from a dollar and a quarter to two dollars, geese "as usual." And turkeys again made their appearance, one really

Wrong Side Out? Oh, No

BY MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—No, dear, the lady hasn't her dress on wrong side out.

That is, the wrong side is the right side!

It's all the style to make up satin crepe with "inside out." The fad started in Paris, and our smart dressers coming home from the Rue de la Paix will have at least one satin crepe dress with the glossy side concealed.

In London the fad has been repeated, although the popular satin crepe holds its sheeny brightness still in favor.

Satin crepe, one of the most popular materials, is worn both reversed and right side out.

The stunning gown is of "Molly O" satin crepe, which is lustrous and soft. The gown shown here is "outside out" with care.

It is made along the Greek lines, which are so graceful, with the English touch showing in the long tassels at the side and on the sleeves.

CANDY-MAKING TIPS

NE of the most important factors of candy making lies in the cooking. Candy cooked too long is always sticky and very sugary, while candy cooked not long enough simply can't be eaten except with a spoon.

With a thermometer there is usually little difficulty in determining when the candy is done, but if one is making candy by the test method, a thorough knowledge of terms is necessary.

"Soft ball" means that when a few drops of boiling candy are tried in cold water the drops hold their shape, and if gathered with the fingers will stick together and the whole form a soft ball that may be very gently lifted from the water.

"Hard ball" means that the ball formed is solid to the touch, but pliable in the fingers. The next stage is when the ball will give to the fingers.

The "crack" stage is reached when the drops will not stick together to form a ball. When the syrup is dripped from the spoon, threads rather than drops are formed. These threads will keep their shape in water, will crack slightly against the cup, but will bend and not snap.

The "brittle" stage is when the threads snap against the cup and break if bent.

As fondant is one of the easiest candies to make, and can be used in many ways, try it first.

Fondants. Two cups granulated sugar, one-half teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half cup cold water.

Put sugar and cream of tartar in smooth saucepan. Stir to mix cream of tartar in sugar. Add water and let stand until the sugar is melted. Cook to boiling point. As the syrup boils crystals are formed on the sides of the pan. These must be removed, or the candy will be grainy.

Dampen a cloth in cold water and wipe two or three inches of the surface. Keep doing this until the pan is free from crystals. Do not stir during the boiling.

Boil until the soft ball stage is reached. Remove from fire and let stand until cool. Stir until white and creamy. Turn out on a marble slab or a big cold plate, and knead for five or ten minutes. Put on a level stretch damp cloth over the top, and cover with a plate. Let stand 24 hours or longer before using.

Frosted Grapes. Select large white grapes. Remove seeds. Melt fondant over hot water. Dip grapes in melted fondant and put on a level stretch damp cloth over the top, and cover with a plate. Let stand 24 hours or longer before using.

Stuffed Dates. Pour boiling water over dates. Drain and dry between towels. Remove stones and fill the cavity with fondant flavored with vanilla. (Copyright, 1921.)

THE GREEN SHOES

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"I think," said the Mushroom, "that the entrance to the 'Land of Underneath,' where Pim Pim reigns, is just by the dog-wood tree."

How quickly the Twins slipped off their own little stout brown shoes, and how excitedly they slipped on the wonderful magical green ones that the fairy mushroom had brought them. They knew the power of those wonderful shoes, how, with just the merest scrap of a wish, they would carry their wearers to the ends of the earth, up to the stars, under the ocean, over the mountains, and into any part of Fairyland where the Brownies lived. They were going to help Mr. Pim Pim to gather up all the things that the Christmas trees, of course, Mr. Pim Pim doesn't trim the trees, but you've no idea how Santa depends upon him and the Brownies for help. They get him all sorts of bright dyes for tree-toys out of the secret places under the earth. Sacks full of golden-glitter and silver-sheen, boxes of gleaming-green and blazing-blue, cases of ruby-red and sapphire-shine, and whole pounds of glittering, glowing, sparkling, wonderful white to put over everything!

Now, you know, my dears, how the good Mr. Santa gets his wonderful colors to dye all of his ornaments for the Christmas trees. From Mr. Pim Pim and the Brownies, and who knows. When you look at your tree this year you'll never know it but that Nanny dug up some of the beautiful blazing-blue for the lovely glass ball near the bottom, or that Nick helped Mr. Pim Pim to find the crystals of ruby-red to color the big glittery star at the top.

"I think," said the Mushroom, "that the entrance to the 'Land of Underneath,' where Pim Pim reigns, is just by the dog-wood tree. Yes, I remember perfectly, that's just where it is, to the left of those stones."

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening grey, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Adv.

SENDS LETTER TO SANTA. Dear Miss Grey,—I hope you won't be mad at me for writing to you, and you will have time to read it. My mamma is not in at present. I have put your name and address on file, in case it is asked for.

WHO LIVES ON A RANCH? Dear Miss Grey,—I would like to get the songs 'Peggy O'Neil,' 'Just Like the Ivy,' and 'The Two Orphans.' I would like to correspond with some girl that lives in the West on a ranch, who will write first. JEAN O' THE HARBOR.

The words of the songs are sent in by different boxites, but the ones you ask for are not in at present. I have put your name and address on file, in case it is asked for.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

REPEAT FRIENDLY TEA PARTY. Members of the Ladies' Aid of Dun-gas Centre Methodist Church are hoping for many callers on Tuesday evening, when they repeat "Afternoon Tea in Friendly Village" for the benefit of the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

WELCOME SHOWERS. A regular deluge of groceries, bread and milk tickets and other necessities of life has gladdened the Day Nursery over the week-end, thanks to the showers of these "Hatfielded" in the various Sunday schools on Sunday by the enterprising members of the Co-operative Council Girls' Cabinet.

NATIONAL SECRETARY HERE. Mrs. Mattie Rose Crawford will address the Young Women's Christian Association at a meeting Monday afternoon, in the King Street "Y" at 3:30. She will speak on the conference held recently at Dewey Lake, Central Field, U. S. A. Miss Marjory Ford, general secretary of the Dominion Council, will also give an address. Mrs. C. B. King will preside. After the business part of the meeting tea will be served.

WOMEN HEAR CANDIDATES. The citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women has arranged several mass meetings to be held this week, and is inviting all the women to attend to hear the various candidates in the municipal field. The first one will be held on Monday evening in the Wortley road school. There will also be one on Wednesday evening in the Tabbot street school, and on Friday evening in the Masonic Temple.

HELD "ECHOES" PARTY. Mrs. Gordon Edgecombe was the hostess on Saturday evening of an interesting "Echoes" party, given at her home on Colborne street, under the auspices of the Campbell Becher Chapter, the object of which was to raise money to supply the members of the chapter both in and outside the city with subscriptions for the "Echoes," the official organ of the I. O. D. E., also to present one to the public library. The chief feature of the evening was the guessing contest, each guest having to guess the names of the various books of Canadian authors, represented by pictures. Mrs. W. D. McGregor and Mrs. J. W. P. Jones were the prize winners, receiving works of London writers, "Little Miss Melody," by Marjorie Keith, and "The Forging of the Plakes," by Annyson North. A delightful event of the party was the presentation to the regent, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, of a Municipal Life Membership Certificate. During the evening a dainty supper was served by the hostess.

A CHINTZ TEA GIVEN. The Sunday school of St. Andrew's Church presented a quaint scene on Saturday afternoon, when the members of the Pathfinder Club held a chintz tea. In the sewing-loom, cre-was looked after in a delightful room, arranged with wicker chairs and pretty reading-lamps by the members of the Blue Bird Patrol, representing old-fashioned ladies in their crinoline dresses. Here could be purchased dainty little articles, most of them made from chintz, such as slipper-bags, desk-blotters, laundry bags and book-racks. The tempting treatroom, with its tables arranged with flowers and shaded candles, was in charge of the club a speaker for each meeting.

HELD ANNUAL MEETING. Miss Evelyn Hayman was elected president of the "Serve Club" of the Cronyn Memorial Church at their annual meeting held on Sunday afternoon, along with the following officers: Vice-president, Miss Kathleen Cowan; secretary, Miss Helen Talbot; and treasurer, Miss Phyllis Wilson.

The annual reports were read, which showed the splendid work the club had accomplished during the past year, in which P. P. Betts gave a short address, in which she congratulated the members for the keen interest they took in their work, and the great results they had achieved. The club is pecked several boxes, which are to be sent to poor families in the West. The club has decided to meet the second Wednesday of the month, and to prepare a speaker for each meeting.

PADDLERS PUT UP GAME SCRAP

Game In Doubt Until The Last Moment of Play.

CONACHER STARS

VARSITY STADIUM, Nov. 26.—The Argonauts won their second game in the R. U. C. championship series this afternoon, when they defeated the Parkdale Canoe Club, champions of the M. R. F. U. by a narrow margin as the margin being the same as the Scullers won from Varsity a week ago.

The Argonauts were closely contested and what it lacked in high-class rugby was more than made up by the stubbornness of the line, the result being in doubt until the last five minutes, when Conacher added two singles by his kicking, giving the Argonauts a margin that could not be overcome by a touch and a convert. The Argonauts fought hard, and in the closing minutes had the best of the play. Douglas tried outside kicks in order to score, but while some were successful no points were gathered. The slippery nature of the field affected the play of both teams, but Parkdale was the greater sufferer in this respect.

Conacher, That's All.

Conacher was the bright light of the game and there is no doubt that the Argonauts' eighth successive victory was due largely to his playing. He caught almost faultlessly and made many gains, both in running back and in kicking, and on half-back runs. He was fed well by Cochrane and Batstone, but on many plays he was the only player to handle the ball. Breen, Munro and Douglas were the only paddlers who could stop the Argonauts. Breen played well, but he was not as fast as Conacher. Douglas was a good player, but he was not as fast as Conacher. Conacher's kicking was a good performance. Brophy outbatted the Argonauts, but he was not as fast as Conacher. Brophy's kicking was a good performance. Brophy's kicking was a good performance.

Parkdale Line Good.

The Parkdale line had a slight shade on the Argos, but the Argonaut halves rounded the Parkdale ends for gains on many occasions. The best runs of the day were made by Conacher and Breen. Parkdale suffered greatly by penalties for offside and interference during the afternoon, but the team easily lived up to the claims of its supporters. Parkdale enters the same class as Varsity, preventing Conacher from crossing the line for a touch.

Argonauts—Stritt, flying wing; Batstone, captain; Conacher and McCormick, halves; Cochrane, quarter; J. Douglas, snap; Sinclair and Pugh, inside; Breen and Wallace, middle; Fear and Britton, outside; F. Sullivan, Abbott, Huestis, Thom, Palsen, G. Sullivan, Hay, Earl, Bradfield, Burt, McKenzie, Young, Taylor and Breen, Palsen.

Parkdale—Holmes, flying wing; Breen, captain; Brophy and Munro, halves; E. Douglas, quarter; Sheehy, snap; Neate and Stone, inside; Heston and Park, middle; Harris and McFarland, outside; Mitchell, Carroll, Giddard, Rodden, Shaw, Murray, Moore, Park, Barber, Lennie, Gilchrist, Burt, Anderson, Martin and Smith, spares.

Officials: Referee—W. A. Hewitt. Umpire—R. G. Doerich. Head Linesmen—Warren, Corvill, Yardsticks—L. Prendergast and S. Dawson. Touch—Charlie Gage and Dr. S. Lawson. Timekeepers—Dr. J. McCollum and Jas. J. Dolan. Penalty timekeeper—Percy Scott.

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 26.—George H. Flint, who resigned the presidency of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League, to take effect Dec. 1, will manage the Hamilton Club in that circuit. Hamilton is the largest city in the Flint territory and is known for sporting activities of all kinds. In the days of the old Canadian League ten years ago, with a population of 80,000, Hamilton would often draw from 6,000 to 10,000 paid admissions a day, and with 150,000 population now, a new baseball plant and the Flint organization a permanent fixture in the ranks of organized baseball. Flint hopes to put Hamilton on the baseball map, as he did the M. O. League. He has the backing of Al Johnson, a comedian, and Billy Carroll, a Hamilton sportsman, and will have a part ownership in the club.

BLUE AND WHITES NOW ENTER FINALS

Tunnel Town Lads Piled Up 20 Points and Held Toronto Scoreless.

SARNIA, Nov. 27.—The Oakwood Collegiate rugby team of Toronto was eliminated from the O. R. F. U. interscholastic series in a sudden death game here Saturday afternoon, when the Sarnia College gridders scored a 29 to 0 victory over the Queen City aggregation.

The local pliskin chasers assumed a seven-point lead in the first quarter, and piled on thirteen more during the remaining three periods, while the visitors, although they threatened several times, were unable to cross the goal line of their opponents. The Sarnia machine worked consistently throughout the game, both on the offensive and defensive, and Hayes punting was the outstanding feature. The sandy-haired backfield man was responsible for none of Sarnia's points and it was his outside kick that Garvey grabbed in the last quarter and ran over for a touchdown. The work of MacFayden and MacKenzie on the backfield, and Currie, Crow and Saunders on the wings was noteworthy. In fact the entire visiting aggregation played good rugby, but not good enough to equal the game turned in by the Tunnel-towered Sarnians.

The line-up:

Sarnia—Flying wing, Bentley; halves, Corey, Hanna and Hayes; quarter, G. Simpson; snap, Richardson; wings, Pugh, Randolph, Gabler, Newton, Mahore, Garvey; spares, Potter, Spears, F. Simpson, Danoune, Robinson, Parks, Oakwood—Flying wing, Saunders; halves, MacFayden, MacKenzie, Abbe; quarter, Dismore; snap, Scott; wings, Currie, Crow, Hugh, Montgomery, Robertson, R. FRED WILSON ELECTED PRESIDENT OF M.-O.

Toronto Sporting Editor is Also Secretary-Treasurer — Adopt Split Season For 1922.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

SAGINAW, Nov. 27.—Fred Wilson of Toronto, a newspaper sport writer, was elected president and secretary-treasurer of the Michigan-Ontario League at the annual meeting today.

The Canadian members came with the plan of combining the three jobs, and the Michigan members were all set to elect Halligan of the Flint club president and keep Wilson as secretary-treasurer. His salary in the combined jobs will be $3,000 and expenses.

Walter O. Foss of Bay City was re-elected vice-president. Judge Clements, president of the Saginaw club, was elected to represent the league at the annual meeting of the National Association in Buffalo in December.

The magnates were in executive session from 10 a.m. until late Sunday night. They voted for a split season in 1922.

London was officially awarded the 1921 pennant. Unipires' expenses, so retiring President Maines reported, were $1,000 less than last year. The president will name a committee to draft the schedule.

Figures submitted at the meeting showed 182,189 persons witnessed league games in Canadian cities during 1921, against 158,983 in Michigan cities.

ADMIRAL EARL BEATTY.

JUTLAND HERO SURE OF CUT IN WORLD NAVIES

Attends Divine Service At Cathedral in Montreal Diocese.

VISITS CANADIAN CLUB

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—Earl Beatty, admiral of the fleet and hero of Jutland, spent a day packed with thirteen hours of continuous events from the moment of his arrival here at 9:45 this morning, to the minute of his departure for Toronto at 11 o'clock tonight.

Debonair, bluff and smiling, the admiral arrived to find a crowd of five or six hundred persons, who had braved a bitterly cold morning, to greet him at the railway station.

He was met by the Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine, and a notable gathering including representatives of the government, the civil authorities, the naval, air and land forces, most of the latter being officers who had served overseas. He was driven to the Windsor Hotel, where he was the recipient of another warm greeting by another large gathering. At 11 o'clock his lordship attended divine service at the cathedral, where the sermon was preached by Bishop Farthing.

The first Sunday luncheon ever held here by the Canadian Club was later addressed by Admiral Beatty, who reiterated his statement made at Ottawa on Saturday to the effect that "if the conference at Washington were to claim the return of a prodigal, and Montreal were to be the prodigal, it would have accomplished a great task. The navies of the world are going to be limited, but it is recognized that the British navy does not go out of the picture."

It is estimated that fully 1,700 persons attended the luncheon. Lord Shaughnessy introduced the admiral in a brief speech.

"ALL WELL" AT WASHINGTON.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—"The fact that I am here today and am able to accept your invitation is indication that all goes well at the conference at Washington," declared Earl Beatty, addressing the Ottawa Canadian Club yesterday.

He continued: "As has been pointed out by your chairman, the conference is one to consider the question of the limitation of armaments, not as understood by many, on the question of disarmament, and there is a very great difference. I am happy to be able to report to you that on the naval questions, the principles which govern the great question have been universally accepted, and, therefore, if the conference were to close its doors tomorrow, it has accomplished something towards releasing the world from the great burden of armaments and the taxation it involves, for which we can all be grateful."

"You have read in the newspapers as to what limits are imposed upon various countries, and I feel that you will understand that those limits are not derogatory to the dignity of the empire to which we belong, that the empire on the sea will be as safe in the future as it has been in the past. That, gentlemen, is surely something for great congratulation."

Era of Peace Looms.

"There are many questions still to be worked out, details, etc., which will take a considerable amount of time. Rome was not built in a day and the great achievements which are aimed at, at the invitation of the president of the United States, also cannot be achieved in a day. But that they will be achieved, the spirit and the harmony which rule at Washington today are a very signal proof."

As the chairman and president of the club, J. G. Desbarats, said, the day was almost three years exactly since Earl Beatty steamed out with the grand fleet to receive the surrender of the German navy; and, as was to be expected, it was mainly of the sea that he spoke. He told of the navy's long vigil on the seas, but he made no claim for it that it won the war. We do not claim it for the British navy," he exclaimed, "that we won the war, but we do claim that we made victory possible."

NAVY BEAT ARMY BY SHEER WEIGHT

Plunge Scores Only Touchdown of Game in Second Quarter.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The Naval Academy eleven today defeated West Point, 7 to 0, in the annual football clash of the service teams. The entire game was carried on in a driving rain and on a field inch-deep in mud. The midshipman's touchdown came in the second quarter on a series of end runs and short line bucks. The army, but virtue of its star back, French, carried a desperate attack in the fourth period to the navy's eight-yard line, where the soldiers were held.

A gay assemblage of notables, including the secretaries of the army and navy, high naval and army officers, and members of foreign diplomatic corps attended.

Boys! Page Some Southpaws

HERE are all the good left-handed pitchers gone? They seem, for some unaccountable reason, to be a scarce article just now. Just at present the big idea with at least half a dozen major league clubs is the securing of a left-hander who can deliver. The New York club managed to win the American League pennant without a classy southpaw. It was one of the very few times that a major league club has turned such a trick. However, the New York club, despite the fact that it won the pennant, realizes that it not only needs a good left-hander, but a right-hander to boot.

RUTH ASKS $60,000 FROM YANKS FOR NEXT YEAR gets a salary of $12,000.

The Yankees made more money last year than any club since organized baseball was launched, and Ruth is said to have been largely responsible. He also brought in many an extra dollar for the Yankees' seven opponents.

It is possible that if Ruth sticks to his demand, the New York Club may ask other American League clubs to chip in a few thousand shares.

MONTREAL MUST BUY IN.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—While Montreal seems ready to return to the International, its chance, as usual, depends on its ability to buy a franchise. If it league will not oust Reading, as it did Akron a year ago to make a place for the return of a prodigal, and Montreal will have to satisfy Reading's claims, whatever price may be put on them. The Reading backers, meanwhile seem to be going ahead with 1922 plans as if they mean to stick.

Millie. Lengten Scolded, But Is Forgiven.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Millie Suzanne Lenglen received qualified approval last night from the council of the French Lawn Tennis Federation of her conduct during her recent tennis matches in the United States. She had repeatedly commended the approval of the federation since her return from America.

A resolution adopted by the council last night declared that the doctor's certificates showed that ill health must have affected her playing, but "from a sporting point of view" she should not have abandoned her match with Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory. Further, the council said, upon finding herself unfit to play, she should have returned immediately to France.

The council regretted publication in American newspapers of unfavorable comment on Millie Lenglen's sportsmanship.

VALLEY TOWN MEET HARD OILS NEXT

Free-For-All Fight Ended Game in Galt—Referee Retreats.

GALT, Nov. 27.—Saturday's return game here in the Intermediate O. R. F. U. semi-finals with Dundas carried all the thrills of the great fall sport, and with the score a tie, 5-5, and five minutes to go before time, the match was suddenly terminated by a free-for-all fight started by a Dundas player. Referee Loftus beat a hasty retreat from the field, going downtown and calling the game, while his associate official, C. A. Lewis, also of Toronto, not knowing of the decision remained on the field ready to finish the game. Dundas went into the game with a 15-point lead. The Valley Town gridders brought up a couple of hundred fans. The weather was typical for the season, raw and drizzly, and the field was slippery. Their great advantage in weight was a big asset to the visitors, while the Dundas players, who were not knowing of the decision remained on the field ready to finish the game.

The visitors' line proved their strong point and well it might with several ex-Tierers on it. They not only had the advantage in weight but also in experience. They backed hard, but still could only count a point at a time. Hal Horton was their main booter, while Miles Hobson and Caffery were shining lights of their team. Kress on Galt's half line, Goldie on his following up and Kinsman for his tackling starred for Galt.

Within a minute of the opening of play Dundas counted a kick to the dead line. In the second quarter they added two rouges, and in the third period added two more points.

The locals were outclassed in the first half, but in the second resort to a kicking game and were showing up best. In the third quarter Galt lost a try when Goldie, after dribbling the ball over the visitors' line, lost his footing, and it was kicked out of touch. Although Galt was down a yard off the line, they could not back over.

However, at the opening of the final period they counted a touch when by a quick tackle of a Dundas half against the goal posts the ball was knocked out of his arms, and Webster went over. A heavy mist set over the field at this stage and it was hard to follow play.

With Galt forcing play, Cross was sent into the Galt line, and after making a back he was on next time greeted with a poke in the face by one of the Dundas players, and when about to retaliate three Dundas fans on the line pounced on him, and that started the trouble which ended the game. It was said Referee Loftus was hit by a Dundas player, but he denied that. "The Dundas players did not like his decisions and even refused to go off the field, a which ordered to. The referee seemed to lose control of the game in its dying stages."

Alert Squads Work Tonight

Some Additional Candidates Expected for Juniors.

The Alerts will hold their weekly workout tonight at the "Y" gym for both juniors and intermediates. The juniors have been turning out around the 30 mark since they started their work. A few additional candidates are expected in at tonight's workout.

Last week the squad were taken out for a jaunt through Victoria Park, followed by floor work at the gym, and this procedure will likely be followed again tonight.

Some of the intermediates are working nights at present, and their turnout suffers as a result. However, most of the regulars are in good condition from lacrosse, baseball and basketball, and will not require the hard grilling juniors are in for.

Shaves Without "Rasp" or "Pull"

Each Durham-Duplex blade is individually hardened, oil-tempered, hollow ground and honed to a fine cutting edge, which is possible only with the finest Swedish steel. Then it receives 500 strokes on the stropping machine, because, before it is packed, each blade must be sharp enough to cut a hair six times in the hands of a tester. The result of such infinite care shows itself in the unusual number of cool, clean shaves you get from each Durham-Duplex blade—without the least "rasp" or "pull."

Standard set, consisting of razor, safety guard and three double-edged blades in a handsome ivory case, $1 complete. Other sets $2 up. In sale at all drug, hardware, jewelry, sporting goods and department stores. Get one today.

Viviani Furnishes Tone and Temperament

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING.
[Sketches for Frank W. For The London Advertiser.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Rene Viviani is singing the prima donna role of the French commission to the arms conference.

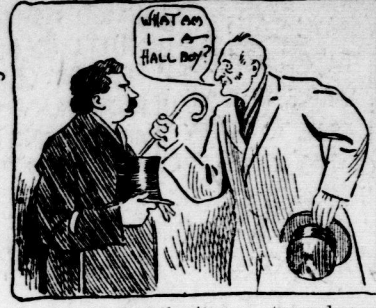

The big, grey-haired Frenchman rushes about the halls of the Hotel Willard, round felt hat, perched atop his round head, giving the delegation all of its tone and temperament.

While his wife, the little, dainty Madame Viviani, winks a gently and humorously understanding baton.

"Where is my coat? Where is my coat?" Viviani was making it down the hall on a dog trot, sticking his head into open doors, and peering under cushions.

"My coat is gone, my coat is gone!" The afternoon full of official engagements stretched before the restless Viviani. He gestured. He fled up and down the hall and then suddenly vanished. His engagements were unfulfilled. Telephone calls were sent about for him. He was nowhere to be found.

The secret service man delegated to guard him stood about with nothing to do. Even Madame herself couldn't find Viviani.

At length—it was toward evening—a member of the delegation strolls through a public sitting-room on the first floor of the hotel, past the former premier hunched in a chair behind a huge palm—alone.

The elderly Frenchman is always in a hurry.

"Hurry up! Hurry up! Hurry up!" He calls back to Madame Viviani. And diminutive Madame quickens her pace to a happy little run.

Ambassador Jusserand telephoned the hotel and made an appointment for Aristide Briand to meet Rene Viviani at the French legation. Viviani was the first to arrive at the legation. Somehow the men missed each other.

Back at the hotel again. One elevator carried Briand up to the floor occupied by the French while another just around the corner brought Viviani up.

"What am I that I run around after people so—a hall boy?" Viviani was spitting.

KING COMPARES MEIGHEN WITH "A LITTLE BOY"

Declares Premier Realizes He Is Fighting a "Losing Battle."

CRITICIZES ROBERTSON

Claims Senator Was Afraid To Contest Riding For Commons Seat.

PETERBORO, Nov. 27.—By Canadian Press staff correspondent.—Declaring that the prime minister, in his recent speeches, during which references had been made to "quacks and mountebanks," as applied to the gentlemen opposing him, had expressed himself "as might a little boy, but not a prime minister," Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, in his address here last night to an audience of five thousand persons in the arena rink, made several references to recent speeches of R. B. Meighen, Arthur Meighen, as well as other members of the cabinet.

"The prime minister," Mr. King asserted, "when he comes down to using such terms as 'infamous perfidy' and the like, shows the country that he realizes he is fighting on the losing side and he hopes to distract attention from his own losing fight by resorting to 'calling names'."

The Liberal leader also criticized Senator G. D. Robertson, "who, from a safe seat in the senate," was criticizing James Murdock, whom he termed "an eight-thousand-dollar hero." It would have been more fitting, Mr. King declared, had Senator Robertson faced the people in an open campaign by contesting a riding for the Commons, rather than "from a sheltered life job in the senate."

Party Fight Looms.

Wester Peterboro, in which riding Peterboro is situated, is one of the few Ontario constituencies where there is a straight two-party fight under way, the candidates here being G. N. Gordon, Liberal, and J. H. Burnham, Government.

G. N. Gordon, the Liberal candidate, spoke, as well as the Liberal leader.

Mr. King, in his speech, dealt with tariff matters, the railways, and charged the government with having followed "star chamber and order-in-council" methods in handling the business of the country. He criticized the government, declaring that it had refused information to Parliament and the public which was of vital public importance, and again asserted that there was "an invisible power behind the Meighen government, which had kept it in power for sixteen months against the wishes of the people."

Dealing with the tariff, Mr. King said that the best tariff policy in the history of the country was that of the Liberals, which, he explained, was a policy of downward revision; a tariff designed primarily for revenue, which would lighten the burden of taxation on basic industries, and on food stuffs.

Talks on Tariff.

The prime minister talked of the need of tariff revision, said Mr. King, but nobody had yet been told how he proposed to revise the tariff if his government were returned to power. He would not dare revise it upward and then face the people, and to revise it downward would be to bring down the wrath of the "invisible power" behind his government.

A huge sum had been spent in getting information as to tariff revision, but nothing further had been done, and the men who had gathered that information were keeping silent as to what was needed.

The Liberal leader again made an appeal for unity among all classes and creeds of Canadians to undo the harm wrought by the war, and urged his hearers to support the Liberal candidate and return to power a strong, united party, which could carry on without any thought of coalitions "of which the country was heartily sick."

On Monday night Mr. King speaks at Peterboro in the first meeting of his final Ontario series, which will end in North York on Dec. 5.

Mr. King sent from here his reply to the questions submitted to him by C. G. MacNeill, Dominion secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association.

Answers G. W. V. A. Query.

The wire to Mr. MacNeill at Ottawa follows:

"Replying to your communication received by wire today, permit me to say that I have the utmost confidence in the loyalty of all the Liberal candidates of the Province of Quebec to the Liberal party and toward myself as its leader.

"The persistent circulation of such rumors as those contained in your telegram owes its origin, I believe, to a very natural desire on the part of certain members of the National Liberal and Conservative party to have formed, after Dec. 6th, any and all of a coalition which would afford members of that party a continued participation in the control of government and to create in the interval, for party political ends, as much as may be possible, in the way of distrust and dissension.

"It is, I think, unnecessary for me to add that a coalition for any such purpose as those mentioned in your wire would meet not only with my entire disapproval, but with my active opposition, and in this I do not hesitate to speak for the Liberal party as well as myself.

(Signed).
"W. L. MACKENZIE KING."

YOUTH KILLED BY AUTO DRIVEN BY HIS BROTHER

Leonard McManus and Lady Friend Struck When Crossing Street.

AN INQUEST ORDERED

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GODERICH, Nov. 27.—One of the saddest accidents that has happened in this town for some time occurred about 8:30 Saturday night, when Leonard McManus was struck by an auto driven by his brother, Wilmore, and was fatally injured, dying in the General Hospital about five hours after the accident. His skull was badly fractured. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James McManus of Colborne Town, ship, just outside the corporation, and was in his 18th year.

Wilmore McManus was driving onto the square just as his brother Leonard and a lady friend were crossing the street on the west side to the Model Theatre, and before the car could be stopped it struck Leonard, throwing him heavily to the ground. The lady also received some injuries.

An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. Hunter. The jury was empanelled at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and after viewing the body adjourned until Wednesday night. The jury is as follows: Foreman, Carl Dunlop; John McKinnon, P. J. Ryan, Thomas Warner, Harry Watson, James Bogie, Thomas Anderson and J. J. Moser.

WOMAN DIES AT AGE OF 115 YEARS

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, colored, of Port Erie, died early Saturday morning, at the age of one hundred and fifteen years. Mrs. Clark was an eyewitness of the burning of the village of Buffalo by the British troops in 1814.

Mrs. Clark was born in Virginia, the daughter of free parents who came north when she was about two years old, and lived for a time in Port Erie. They later went to Buffalo and lived there during the war.

Returning to Port Erie about 1820, the young girl married Richard Clark, a stage-coach driver who lived until 1896.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

When the liver becomes slow, sluggish and torpid it is not working properly and does not supply sufficient bile to burn the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow, among which are sick or bilious headaches, heartburn, water brash, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, pain under the right shoulder, coated tongue, bad breath, yellow eyes, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

quickly remove the secretions, clear away the effete and waste matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Mrs. Alice Mohill, Napanee, Ont., writes: "I was very badly run down for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials and I am a different person today."

"I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to anyone troubled with liver trouble."

CANADA FAVORS HARDING PEACE INSURANCE IDEA

Submitted Identical Proposal Ten Days Before United States Broached Plan.

AWAIT CONGRESS MOVE

Nations At Parley To Sit Back Until American People Voice Views.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 27.—(By Ben Deacon, staff correspondent, Canadian Press).—What will be the attitude of the nations whose representatives are meeting in Washington with regard to the plan for holding of periodic future conferences, which has been endorsed by President Harding?

How far does the United States president propose to go in developing this proposal into a definite association of nations? What will be the effect upon the League of Nations?

Is the presidential attitude an indication that the people of the United States are now ready to unite with the people of other lands in some form of world organization for the promotion of the general welfare? What will the United States Congress do about it? Can Mr. Harding put the thing over?

These and a host of other questions have been asked in Washington since announcement came from the White House that Mr. Harding advocated periodic conferences. And they have been answered, unofficially, in a score of different ways.

The announced attitude of the United States president on the proposal has been the chief topic of controversy and discussion over the week-end. To-night, in a haze of conjecture and contradictory opinion only a very few definitely known factors stand out clearly.

One of these is Canada's attitude. Of all the nations represented at the conference the stand of the Dominion is probably the most clearly defined. Canada was recognized as favoring a plan of this description ten days before the White House announcement came. Sir Robert Borden, in a memorandum, is reported to have submitted a plan which, in principle, was identical with that of Mr. Harding.

It has been understood, though it has never been stated officially, that members of the other dominion delegations have expressed approval of the proposal as submitted by Sir Robert. No indication of the attitude of the Old Country representatives toward the Canadian suggestion has been given.

But, through a British spokesman on Saturday there came a hint as to the reaction of the delegates from Great Britain to the plan as expressed by Mr. Harding.

Interposed bluntly, this amounted to an expression of the belief that it was up to the United States first to formulate some definite plan which the United States could bring before the conference with the assurance that it would have the support of the people and of Congress. The British, it was said, were most anxious to participate in any movement that would tend toward the peace of the world, but it was felt the president's suggestion was "more or less a United States domestic question," and that it would not be proper for the delegates to express an opinion until the details had been worked out and the Congress of the United States had decided on some definite scheme that would have full approval of the people of the country.

"Older than the Dominion of Canada."

Why is it that there are over 600 branch factories of United States companies in operation in Canada to-day employing 90,000 people living in Canada, and representing invested capital of about $400,000,000.00?

THE TARIFF and The Tariff alone brought these United States manufacturers to Canada.

The Tariff stands as a partial barrier against the importation of products manufactured in other countries. It is a Customs Tax placed by the Government on certain foreign-made goods and it is collected when these goods enter Canada.

Because of The Tariff, these United States manufacturers found that they could not sell their particular products as extensively and profitably in Canada as they desired; they realized that to get our trade they had to come over here and be one with us. Consequently, they have established factories in this country, they are manufacturing their products here and are employing Canadian workmen. Both CRERAR and KING are pledged to the destruction of our Tariff—and with what result?

The hundreds of plants established in this country by United States manufacturers would be shut down. They would not need to be maintained, for the goods can be manufactured cheaper in the United States by reason of larger production due to their huge home market. Ninety thousand Canadian working men would lose their employment. These men are receiving over one hundred millions of dollars a year in wages; they represent 270,000 men, women and children all dependent upon these industries for a livelihood, and all consuming the produce of Canadian farms.

What is more, the great majority of our factories which are all Canadian and which represent Canadian capital would also be forced to close. They could not successfully compete with United States products—cheaper because produced in larger quantities—or with goods from Europe or Japan, where wages and the standard of living are very much lower than in Canada.

THE TARIFF brings foreign capital into the country; it provides employment, it protects the home market of manufacturer and farmer alike, and it ensures the maximum development of Canada's great natural resources, our raw materials being made into finished goods at home instead of being sent to other countries.

THE TARIFF is the one big issue before Canada today—and it affects the future of every man, woman and child in the country.
