SILK HOSE AND BOBBED HAIR TABOO AT WESTERN

Young Women of University of Western Ontario Favor Simplified Dress.

RULES ARE DRAWN

Plain Cotton Stockings To Be Preferred to Gauzy Silken Hose.

"Very thin silk stockings" are decidedly out of favor among the girls of the University of Western Ontario. Unofficially, it was announced that these young women have started a "simplified dress" movement, and in the future bobbed hair must be "combed and arranged in private." No more flourishing of the little pocket comb in the classroom or on the playground.

According to the suggestions for simplified dress, one purpose is to further a democratic spirit within the school. But another, although subsidiary purpose, is that one of the professors has taken definite objection to the maids' custom of combing their locks while in class.

A little organization to further these aims has been formed. A statement of policy submitted by one of the girls yesterday is that "the democratic spirit cannot exist when girls feel ill at ease because they are not so elaborately dressed as their neighbors."

Dress Regulations.

The statement continues: "The girls propose the following regulations in the interests of dress which will be healthful, suitable and refined:

"Dress: Simple and inconspicuous, woolen or cotton dresses. Velvet or silk are not approved. A possible exception may be made in favor of simply-made pongee dresses or simple dresses of dark taffeta or crepe. A minimum of simple, inconspicuous jewelry.

"Shoes: Neat low oxfords or high shoes. Conspicuous colored shoes and satin slippers are taboo. Plain stockings, cotton stockings being ones considered in better taste than silk ones.

"Hair: Simple, neat arrangements with no conspicuous pins or combs. Bobbed hair to be curled moderately, and to be combed and arranged in private. Entire absence of rouge, no lipstick. Powder in moderation. Girls without bobbed hair are asked to refrain from bobbing it."

"Bobbing" Going Out.

The last clause is indorsed by Madame H. A. Boyce, Talbot street hair-dresser. Madame Boyce says only an occasional girl asks to have her hair bobbed. Although the style is not exactly passe, no new members of the abbreviated locks brigade have been discovered recently.

It is to be noted that London girls are far behind in embracing the "shingle" style of hair-dressing so fashionable in the South Sea Islands and parts of New York City. This vogue decrees that ye maiden must cut her hair about eight inches up from the neck and above the knob of the head. The result is certainly incongruous, but whether it is an aid to beauty is questionable.

This style will not be followed by university co-eds, according to leading members of the newly-formed dress club. It is too radical, and besides, is not in accordance with the common sense of which college girls are supposed to possess an extra share.

TO HOLD WALKERVILLE SERVICES.

Brigadier McAmmond, head of the local division o fthe Salavtion Army left the city yesterday for Walkerville where he will conduct week-end services.

Material Hell Belief Obsolete, Says Bishop; London Pastors Agree

Flames and Brimstone Theory Is Antique, They Say.

Clergymen Believe "Hell" Is Merely Intended as Synonym For Punishment.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—That "hell fire" is no longer preached in the Church of England was the emphatic utterance of Bishop Farthing, of this city, to a group of Anglican young people here last night. His lordship flung out the challenge for anyone to point to any unit in the Church of England preaching hell fire today. He admitted it was done when he was a boy, and recalled it was his intention to preach on the subject on the first occasion after his ordination, but had never done so.

"I have been in the ministry 38 years this month, and I have never preached that sermon," declared the bishop. "Because," he added with emphasis, "I never could find it in the New Testament."

The statement of Bishop Farthing of Montreal that "hell fire" is an antique gospel which has no foundation in the New Testament is generally supported by London clergy. Each, however, has his own interpretation of "hell fire's" definition, and many were loath to express an opinion without considering the subject from all angles.

Antique Theory.

Rev. W. R. McIntosh of the King Street Presbyterian Ccurch declared that everybody believes in hell in all life. So far as flames and brimstone are concerned, however, the theory has become antique, and not worthy of consideration.

"I don't suppose any man believes in a material hell," Mr. McIntosh said; "but everybody believes in a hell throughout life. The hades of the Bible is to express the enormity of the consequences of sin. Hell is used as the strongest figure to show the people the result of iniquity.

"If there is life after death, there must be compensation for good on earth and punishment for bad. The punishment for bad is called hell, in a figurative sense. There is not a literal hell fire."

Says Claim Has Merit.

Rev. Dr. Bowley Green thought Bishop Farthing's claim to have many points of merit. He would not care to define the idea of punishment after death as explained in the New Testament, except after mature deliberation.

"I don't think Bishop Farthing can speak for everybody," Dr. Bowley Green said. "My own view of eternal punishment is that which was taught by Christ and recorded in the New Testament. That's where I stand."

Rev. Leslie Armitage of the St. James Anglican Church thought that no one believed in material hell fire.

"A material hell fire is a very crude opinion," he said. "I can't define my attitude offhand. I have preached on it, but a statement for publication would require careful thought."

Definite Punishment.

Canon Sage takes issue with Bishop Farthing regarding the statement that the gospel of hell fire mentioned in the Bible. It is there in several chapters but depends in its application on the manner in which it is interpreted.

"There may be no flames in hell, but the punishment hereafter is of something quite as real as hell—it is not brimestone, but something withing itself that is quite as real in the spiritual world."

The word "hell" has a figurative interpretation, Canon Sage added, which might mean a variety of penalties. t was something definite, however, and should not be eliminated from the teachings of the church.

FIVE CANDIDATES FOR TWO POSITIONS

Public Utilities Contest This Year Likely To Be Keenly Fought.

Five possible candidates have been mentioned for the two seats on the public utilities commission, which become empty at the end of the year, when the terms of Chairman Jared Vining and Philip Pocock expire.

Chairman Vining has signified his intention of again contesting the electon, if nominated, and, while Mr. Pocock has not yet declared himself, those who should know state there is no doubt but that he will again be a candidate.

Ald. Peter J. Watt will enter the field for the commission, while D. J. Tallant will seek election as the representative of labor. John May has also been mentioned as a possibility.

PROFESSOR FRED LANDON, who will be nominated as candidate for the board of education on Monday. He is a member of the faculty of Western University.

East Middlesex President Also Much in Dark as to Party's Intention.

Resolutions presented before the U. F. O. executive in Toronto urging withdrawal of the U. F. O. from politics and registering opposition to ex-Premier Drury as leader came as something of a shock to district members of the United Farmers of Ontario.

J. W. Freeborn, M.L.A., one of few U. F. O candidates returned to power in the last provincial election, expressed keen surprise when The Advertiser informed him of the resolution It took him completely offff his pins, so to speak, and he declared he would have to "take his time before he gave an opinion."

"s the U. F. O. dead?" Mr. Freeborn was asked.

"I can't say what it is," the member for East Middlesex replied. "I haven't even seen the resolutions you speak of. I am surprised to hear of them."

George Bogue, president of the East Middlesex branch of the U. F. O., followed Mr. Freeborn's lead when questioned on the subject. He was surprised to learn that any such resolution had been submitted to the U. F. O. executive.

ALL PARTIES ARE TO ISSUE MANIFESTOS THIS EVENING

Premier Baldwin Will Reveal More Definitely His Tariff Proposals.

CHURCHILL POPULAR

Constituencies in All Parts of England, Scotland and Wales Seek Him.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 17.—Prime Minister Baldwin tonight issues a manifesto to the country in which it is expected he will put the electorate in possession of the main features of his tariff proposals, showing at the same time how he means to fill the blank check, which, in the words of his opponent, he is demanding of the country.

One of the credits Mr. Baldwin is projecting, according to present speculations is an all-around ten per cent duty on imported manufactures which is figured to yield a revenue of 23,000,000 pounds.

The Liberals and the Laborites will also launch manifestos this evening so that the people will have plenty of political matter to assimilate over the week-end.

The striking feature of the campaign is the eagerness of several constituencies in all parts of England and Wales to secure Winston Spencer Churchill as their candidate—a noteworthy indication of the estimation in which he is now held by Liberals everywhere. Mr. Churchill has has not yet stated where he will place his patronage.

Another point of interest is a noteworthy, if not a very great, increase in the number of communists who are to seek seats in the new parliament. It is stated that the communist party intends to run a dozen candidates.

LONDON MAN'S CAR USED BY BANDITS AT SPARTA

Stole Sam Harris' Auto and Used It in the Jewel Robberies.

POLICE HAVE CLUE

Envelope Addressed to Sparta Firm Found in Automobile Seat.

That the thieves who entered the hardware store of F. W. Moldlinger, Sparta, last night, and the Flach jewelry establishment, St. Thomas, used the stolen motor car of Sam Harris, is a positive certainty, according to members of the local detective department.

The Harris car, stolen from in front of Mr. Harris' apartment, Wellington street, Thursday night, was found abandoned early this morning at Hamilton road and Price street. The car was covered with mud, and had been driven several hundred miles, police said.

There is a possible chance that the robberies were committed by a local gang.

WILL HOUSE INTERNES IN HOSPITAL

Plans Will Save Victoria Trust Paying Room Rent For Resident Surgeons.

USE OLD WARD

Improvement Outlay Will Be Covered by Former Expenditure of One Year.

Within a few days, possibly by the end of next week, new quarters for the interne staff at Victoria Hospital will be completed at that institution, accommodation for all surgeons on duty being included in the plans. When the quarters are complete they will solve a chronic difficulty for the hospital trust, which has been compelled for years to expend funds for interne's sleeping quarters in private homes in the vicinity of the hospital.

The new quarters, which will accommodate eight doctors, will be situated in the main building, in the ward previously used as a maternity section. The latter has been moved to the west wing of the hospital, where private and semi-private rooms have been completely re-decorated and re-furnished.

By a careful supervision of alterations, Dr. C. C. Clegg, medical superintendent of Victoria Hospital, has been enabled to create house surgeons' quarters within the hospital at little expense to the city. Equipment which has been stored away has been brought to light once more, and as it is in excellent condition, will be used to furnish the quarters.

It is understood that a dining-room for the internes will be situated in the new section. The outlay necessary for the improvement at the hospital will be practically covered by the amount of money saved the city during the ensuing year by the elimination of payment of room rent for house surgeons to owners of homes in which the doctors now sleep.

SCOTCH GIRLS REACH LONDON ON MONDAY

Last Immigrant Party of Year Has Arrived in Montreal.

The last party of English and Scotch immigrants to come to this country this year, through the Salvation Army, arrived in Canada yesterday. The party includes nearly forty girls who will take positions as domestics in London and some western cities. Eight girls of the party are expected to arrive in the city on Monday.

According to Adjutant Smith, head of the local Salvation Army immigration department, more immigrants have found positions in London this year than any previous one. Parties of from ten to fifteen girls have been coming to the city regularly every two weeks since the spring. The girls have all received positions as domestics.

DR. BRITTAIN GOT LAST OF ADJUSTMENT MONEY

Payment of $2,500 For Civic Survey Exhausts Special Fund.

WAGE BOOSTS WAIT

City Treasurer Cannot Pay Increases Until the Council Finds Coin.

Dr. Horace L. Brittain, chief of the citizens' research bureau, has received the $2,500 from the city for its survey of several municipal departments—the report which waits the consideration of the city council of 1924.

City Treasurer James Bell announced today that the check had been mailed to Toronto, following the sanction of the council. And he explains that this money was taken from the amount set aside in the year's salary appropriation.

"There is practically nothing left of the $5,000 set aside in the estimates for the wage adjustment," he stated. "We have just paid Dr. Brittain for his services."

Mr. Bell gives definite assurance that he cannot pay any of the salary increases, already authorized by the council, until after the next session.

Mayor Wenige also adopts the attitude that no payment should be made until a definite decision is reached by the council. He questioned the city treasurer today if he felt it incumbent upon him to pay after last night's action, and Mr. Bell replied in the negative.

"In any event, the council has yet to direct me as to what money is to be used for this purpose," he stated. "There is practically nothing left in the appropriation, and the council did not pass the necessary resolution to divert money from another channel."

ONTARIO POSTMASTERS MEET.

The Postmasters' Association, Ontario branch, will meet in Toronto at the Carls-Rite Hotel on Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 1:30 p.m., to talk over matters of general interest and to discuss and deal with questions that may be introduced by postmasters from various parts of the province.

Enjoys the Opera At 2 Cents a Seat

Berlin, Nov. 17.—Grand opera with first-class stars at two cents a seat was the bargain many Germans enjoyed at recent productions in the State Opera House, where Michael Bohmen and Barbara Kemp were the leading artists. Seats were put on sale ten days in advance, two billion marks being charged for the best reservations in the advance sale. That was a fair price at the time, but before the performances were given the admission fee, owing to the money situation, would not have bought one-fourth of a loaf of bread.

ALD. JOHN GREER YET UNDECIDED ON MAYORALTY

Will Take Sunday To Consider Whether He Will Oppose Wenige.

Arriving in the city at noon today Ald. John Greer declined to state his definite proposals respecting the mayoralty situation.

From his attitude and remarks, however, it is safely assumed that he is giving the question his earnest consideration between now and the hour of nomination, 10 a.m. Monday.

Ald. Greer's supporters are making every effort to induce him into the fight with Mayor Wenige.

"I cannot say anything just now," Ald. Greer told The Advertiser. "I know nothing definite about it. When I left the city a couple of weeks ago I was under the impression that another member of the council was going to run."

THE ADVERTISER'S CHALLENGE CUP.

To the London school which makes the best showing in exhibits, in attendance and in organiaztion The Advertiser next spring will award a silver Challenge Cup.

The executive committee of the Fair appointed by the Rotary Club are now working on a system of points which will give all schools an equal chance. Details of the plan will be announced later. The Advertiser's Challenge Cup will be for annual competition.

THE ADVERTISER'S INFORMATION BUREAU.

As an assistance to girls and boys in preparing their exhibits The Advertiser will conduct a Hobby Fair Information Bureau throughout the winter months.

The Advertiser will provide Saturday articles giving advise and instructions on various phases of the exhibits for both girls and boys and all questions will be answered with authority from the executive of the Hobby Fair.

Watch for the Information Bureau, and send your questions to the Hobby Fair Editor at The Advertiser.

And in the meantime get out and help your school's chance for the Challenge Cup.

POINCARE MUST GIVE IN TO SAVE ENTENTE

British Cabinet Considers Carefully Before Giving Final Word.

MAY COMPROMISE

Latest Developments May Cause Rupture in Diplomatic Relations.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 17.—Strong efforts are being made over the week-end on both sides of the channel to preserve the integrity of the Franco-British alliance. There were indications at the foreign office today that France was changing her attitude as to some of her threatened penalties against Germany in the event of failure to give up the ex-crown prince and permit the inter-allied military control to resume its interrupted investigation of German armaments.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, oNv. 17—The final effort to save the entente from dislocation will probably be put over till Monday, as the British cabinet seemingly is not ready to give the final word to Lord Crewe, the British ambassador here, as to its position on the application of further penalties upon Germany.

The efforts which will be made meanwhile to prevent a break are regarded in political circles here as unlikely to be successful, the French and British governments being too far apart, it is thought, to make an agreement possible.

It appeared this noon that the meeting of the allied council of ambassadors set for today would probably go over until Monday, although the French had been insisting on the earliest possible settlement of the question of obtaining resumption of allied military control in Germany.

Situation Critical.

All the allied ambassadors excepting the British and United States Ambassador Herrick who attends the meetings for his government were holding themselves in readiness for a call, but it was understood the British ambassador had not received final instructions and that Lord Crewe probably would absent himself if a meeting were called.

It was regarded as improbable that Premier Poincare would call a meeting today should the British ambassadors be unable to participate, although the premier is extremely anxious to have the situation cleared up at the earliest possible moment. He regards the present state of things as very harmful to all the allies, the idea having gained ground that a rupture with Great Britain was imminent and that further delay of a final decision would be likely to develop agitation.

Hope For Compromise.

Premier Poincare is ready to make any concession to the London demands respecting the ex-crown prince, it was declared in official circles this morning, and the hope was expressed in quarters near the premier that a compromise might be reached. The prospects of saving the entente were regarded as slight in political circles, however, where M. Poincare's optimism was not shared because it was felt he would remain firm in demanding action to obtain protection for the allied military control mission in Germany.

The break, if it occurs, is expected to be on this opint, as it is not believed the British cabinet will be willing even tacitly to approve the use of force in order to secure protection for the allied mission.

M. Poincare holds it is not safe for the allies to give way in this matter believing that the Germans would take encouragement from it to intensify their resistance to other clauses of the peace treaty.

BRIEF BUT LUCRATIVE WAS SATURDAY COURT

Police Court Collects $234 in Fines in Less Than Ten Minutes.

Short and sweet, especially in the matter of fines, was the police court session today. As soon as a man from Windsor had paid over $200 and costs for being caught with a bottle of whiskey in a place other than a private dwelling, four citizens each placed $5 and costs in the extended "mitt" of Police Court Clerk John Moule for speeding their motor cars on London streets. Seven voters paid $2 and costs each for breaches of city bylaws, making a total of $234 in fines in less than 10 minutes.

BRITISH ANSWER TO FRANCE CREATES NO SURPRISE

FRANCE FACES BIG DANGER IF ALONE, DECLARES TIMES

Fears the Nation Would Act Swiftly in Case of Council Disagreement.

LITTLE COMMENT

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 17.—The strained relations between Great Britain and France, although featured in the news columns of the morning newspapers, receive little editorial attention. This, perhaps, is because in view of the obviously critical situation, it is thought that the less said the better.

The Times, however, takes occasion in an editorial to recognize the French point of view, and at the same time to express a great fear that France will act swiftly in the event of a disagreement being reached when the council of ambassadors meets again. The newspaper says that even if, from the French viewpoint, the situation arising from events in Germany is as grave as it is represented in Paris, precipitate, violent action can only increase the danger.

"Is it possible," the Times asks, "that the people of France should be eager to plunge deeper in the morbid confusion of Germany when serious difficulties are multiplying in the Rhineland, and the Ruhr? We would say we are alarmed at the prospect of French isolation. It is not good for Europe that France should be alone. It is dangerous for France, far more dangerous, than the ravings of an exhausted Germany."

The Daily Telegraph prints a statement to the effect that the situation is far more critical than the British people imagine. The danger, says this commentator, lies not in a break between Great Britain and France, but in the menace of a final break between France and Germany, in which case further French military operations would become inevitable and would bring tumbling down the whole shaken structure of Germany, precipitating Central Europe into turmoil. The only way to prevent such a calamity, the statement asserts, is for Great Britain to control French action. This can only be done by maintaining the entente, but without actively helping France.

DR. WAUD GRANT REQUEST REFERRED TO 1924 COUNCIL

MAY ASK FRANCE TO PAY HER DEBTS TO GREAT BRITAIN

Proposal May Result in Causing Paris Government To Relax.

MUSSOLINI'S STAND

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 17.—The instructions of the British government to its ambassadors at Paris to inform the ambassadors' council that Britain would not accede to the demands of France for further punitive measures against Germany, caused little surprise here, for such a step had been generally expected in view of this country's attitude toward the German economic situation. There was, however, comment on Premier Mussolini's declaration to the Italian senate that Italy could not approve "any further occupation of German territory," and that the German people "cannot be destroyed."

Although the Italian premier intimated that Italy did not contemplate a break with France, some political observers here are not so optimistic over Franco-British relations.

One suggestion for forcing France into line with the British viewpoint is that she be asked to pay the debt she owes this country.

This proposal, however, meets with objection from those who fear the reaction to such a demand in France, especially its effect on British commitments and French exchange. In the event, however, that America should ask payment from France, Great Britain's position would be strengthened, these observers believe, and she could then make a similar request.

GYMNASTICS FOR A MOUSE.

In E. F. Bigelow's "Guide to Nature," the following appears from G. Henry Hale of Takoma Park, Washington, D. C.:

CLAUDE GUNTHER STRONG CANDIDATE FOR PREMIERSHIP

London Boy Strongly Supported in Boys' Parliament Elections.

TWO-PARTY AFFAIR

The election of members to the third Older Boys' Parliament of Ontario is scheduled to take place in the 106 electoral districts of the province on Saturday, Nov. 24, and the polls for the three London constituencies open in the Y. M. C. A. at 9:30 a.m., Nov. 22. Interest and enthusiasm among the youthful electors is intense. The fight is a straight two-party affair between the Ahmeek party, which is now in power, and the Advance party, which expects to be in power after the election. Indications are that the three local constituencies will go strongly Advance. The leader of the government forces is the Hon. Alan Van Every of Toronto, minister of organization in the last government, and Claude J. Gunther, last year's boys' mayor of London, leads the Advance party. Perhaps the latter fact has something to do with the belief prevalent here that the government will be defeated in the election.

London has always maintained a prominent position in C. S. E. T. work, and per capita, this city is leading Ontario in the number of active Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups in existence. Regardless of population, there are more groups here than in any other city excepting Toronto, and in actual achievements and enthusiasm displayed statistics show that even Toronto must take second place.

Trained in this center of C. S. E. T. work, a movement for the training of boys and young men physically, mentally, socially and spiritually, which has spread over all Canada until today it is, perhaps, the greatest force for the development of clean Canadian young men.

Claude Gunther is particularly well fitted to lead the next government. He first gave indications of unusual abilities as a leader when he was a student at the Technical School, having been president of the Literary Society, captain of the cadets and captain of the football team. He has had a long and varied experience in all branches of C. S. E. T. as a member of the Ahmeek Tuxis Square of Knox Church, as a mentor of a Trail Ranger group and last year as mayor of the London Boys' Council. At the present time he holds an important executive position with a large Toronto firm.

The Hon. Alan Van Every, leader of the government, is a sophomore at Toronto University, and for several years he has been prominent in C. S. E. T. affairs. He was minister of organization in Premier Milt. Walker's cabinet last year. In his platform he advocates that steps be taken to insure sufficient funds to carry on boys' work in the province; that older boys' county councils be established; that Tuxis clubs be formed in high schools; that a uniform for Trail Rangers be considered; that a larger number of boys be interested in the revised Tuxis program; that boys graduating from Tuxis be encouraged to actively support the program of the National Young People's Board.

SCHOOL PAGEANT AIDS IN PIANO PURCHASE

Ryerson Pupils Have Raised $200 Through Their Entertainments.

Ryerson School pupils re-enacted the pretty and charming pageant, with which they entertained scores of citizens some weeks ago, to another large and enthusiastic audience last night, and succeeded in raising more than $100 toward the purchase of a piano.

The children, directed by Miss Laura Cook, with Miss Muriel Lancaster at the piano, showed themselves even more proficient and carried through the presentation without a slip or a mistake.

As a result of last night's entertainment, the school will get the piano, the children themselves having raised some $200 in the two performances. The board of education has authorized a grant of $100 for this purpose, while the Mothers' Club of the school have contributed the remainder.

Fruit Man Sees Future In Advertising Stunt

It pays to advertise, especially with music.

At least, a local fruit vendor doing business on Richmond street believes so. And his statement is backed up by a record of sales unprecedented.

The popular swan song of the younger generation, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," is responsible for this phenomenal increase in trade. The vendor's sale of bananas last week was 40 per cent above that of any other similar period, and he attributes it all to the banana song.

"Since 'Yes, we have no,' etc., became so popular our banana sales have increased enormously. Young fellows come in here purposely and say 'Yes, have you any bananas?' They are willing to pay a good price for the privilege of pulling off this wise crack."

The possibilities of song advertising are immense, the fruit expert thinks. He illustrated his idea by contemplating the boost given to phonograph or soap sales if a song were conceived entitled "While There's Life There's Soap," or "The Old Broken Record."

The future of this line of merchandising is untold. Imagine the zest given to date sales if "I Made a Date With My Girl But She Ate It" were the title of a song. Suppose some genius composed something entitled "You Are My Little Grape Seed," think of the demand for grapes! Or again, "I Can't Elope With a Guy Who Eats Canteloupe."

The local fruit man has hit upon an idea which may prove of inestimable value to advertising agencies.

Turning Warmer In the Yukon

Dawson City, Y. T., Nov. 17.—The possibility that the Arctic climate is getting warmer is being discussed here. The Yukon has just experienced the hottest summer and autumn on record. Daily mean temperature has been the highest in 25 years. It was about 60 degrees Fahrenheit, averaging in June, July and August, while the temperature went to 91 degrees on several occasions.

The most uniform and gradual change was recorded this fall and the Yukon River remained open for a total of six months. Yesterday (Nov. 16) is the anniversary of the latest closing of navigation previously recorded.

MORE THAN 500 CITY BOYS WILL VOTE IN ELECTIONS

Registration on the voters' list for the third annual Older Boys' Parliament to be held in Toronto on December 27, 28 and 29, closed for C. S. E. T. boys last night. More than 500 names are on the list. This number, according to Secretary Jenkins, of the Y. M. C. A., is the greatest since the commencement of the Boys' Parliament movement.

BANK NOT SAFE PLACE FOR DRINKING BOUT

Police Arrest "Crock" Party Participants and $200 Fine Is Imposed.

"It's always fair weather, when good fellows get together," according to the sentiments expressed in a drinking song, popular in the days before the O. T. A. was born. But since the O. T. A. came into the world and developed into a husky child, fair weather has turned to rain, sleet and slush, in the opinion of a young banker and a friend from Windsor who started out last night to consume a quart of the "best" in the more or less safe confines of the bank, and it turned out to be "less."

The pair of inebriates got away with a fair share of the contents of the bottle before they started in to make more noise than is heard on the Western Fair midway on a busy evening, the result being that the police paid an unwelcome visit to the said bank and marched the bosom friends to the police station.

The owner of the bottle, a former Windsor clerk, admitted his guilt in police court this morning and took all responsibility for what remained of the "crock." He paid the customary fine while the bank clerk who is merely in London as a relief man, was discharged.

No, it's not always fair weather when good fellows get together.

GREER EXPLAINS WHY 1,189 SCHOOL CHILDREN FAILED

Inspector States 436 Were Unsuccessful Because of Lack of Ability.

LATE IN STARTING

Chief Inspector V. K. Greer this morning explained the apparently large percentage of failures among the public school children of last year, when some 14 per cent failed to make higher grades.

The total number of failures was 1,189, a figure that would seem to be surprisingly large. Of this number, 436 failed because they possessed less than the average ability. Mr. Greer did not comment on this, beyond stating that it was an approximate figure.

Illness, which no one can forecast, accounted for 143. The failure in this case was not the fault of the pupil in any way, nor in the fault of the teacher, and is small considering the number of pupils attending school, the inspector explained.

Starting to school late in the term was a very real reason for 202 failures. This also is a matter beyond control of either the child or the schools. It is to be regretted, he said, however, that the number was so large.

Lack of application, where the pupil himself was responsible for failure, was the reason why 213 failed to pass the examinations. This reason is one that is purely chargeable to the pupil, and therefore no blame can attach to the teachers or parents for the failure.

Irregular attendance, in which the parents are in some way to blame, added 155 to the large list. This is a matter that bids fair to be partly overcome this year, as irregular attendance is being successfully combatted by the attendance department.

Parental or home negligence was responsible for 40 failures. In this respect the parents were to blame for lack of co-operation with either the child or the school. The blame here rests on those with whom the child lives, and not on himself to such a degree, as in the case of lack of application.

"ANTI-WENIGES" MUST PICK MAN WITHIN 48 HOURS

Ald. Greer Considered Only Likely Opponent in the Mayoralty Race.

TORIES "UP A TREE"

In another 48 hours George Wenige will be declared mayor of London for 1924, unless his opponents can convince Ald. John Greer over the week-end to throw his hat in the ring and take a long chance.

Ald. Greer arrived in the city at noon, after two weeks' absence in the north, and had nothing to say for publication about the mayoralty situation. It is definitely known, however, that he is still considered the last possibility.

As the "zero hour" approaches, the mayor's staunchest opponents are well-nigh frantic in their efforts to secure a candidate for the fray, despite the opinion of others, who advise them that "Wenige cannot be defeated, no matter who the candidate may be."

Several weeks ago an extreme group at Conservative headquarters ruled that Mayor Wenige must be beaten at all costs, and a special committee was chosen to select a suitable mayoralty candidate as well as prospective aldermanic aspirants who would allow their names to be placed on a "Blue" ticket.

Dixon Glass was elected chairman of this committee, but Mr. Glass states that as far as he is aware no candidate is in sight other than Ald. John Greer. He cannot say, however, whether Mr. Greer will accept the standard or not.

Ex-Ald. H. J. Childs was another possibility, but his nomination would not meet with the undivided approval at general headquarters, as a repetition of his defeat of last year would be again forthcoming, some think.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE REACH SERIOUS SITUATION

BOARDS OF TRADE ASK FOR ACTION ON IMMIGRATION

Associated Boards of Trade Indorse Tax On Public Utilities.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, Nov. 16. — Immigration and the taxation of public utilities proved contentious questions at today's sessions of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce.

Both resolution were adopted. The one on immigration was revised and considerably modified. The one proposing the taxation of publicly owned utilities passed by the scant majority of one vote, the division being 21 to 20.

Another important resolution adopted concerned the abolition of the anomalous situation which imposes a stiff customs tariff on the products of Eastern Canada that are shipped in American bottoms, by way of the Panama Canal to Pacific ports in British Columbia.

Alarmed at decreasing levels of the Great Lakes, held to be directly attributable to the Chicago drainage canal, the association adopted a resolution calling for action in this matter so as to safeguard navigation, prevent interference with hydro development, and save from embarrassment the project to deepen the St. Lawrence River.

The executive will choose next year's place of meeting.

British Columbia's claim for a customs officer at the port of New York is sponsored by the Vancouver Boards of Trade, was warmly supported by Col. Brock of Toronto. He amplified that resolution by urging the association to request the federal minister of customs to give the matter his immediate consideration.

It was manifestly unfair, Col. Brock said, that goods from Eastern Canada, shipped in American bottoms via the Panama Canal to Pacific ports in British Columbia, should be classified as American and should be subject to heavy customs duties.

Stretching Powers.

W. F. Cockshutt, who seconded Col. Brock's resolution, said the customs authorities were perilously stretching their powers in exacting such duties.

Following the discussion on the subject of immigration, a lengthy resolution was drafted to go to the government, the gist of which is a demand for carefully considered action at an early date. Among other things the boards approved of the gradual removal of the war-time restrictions on immigration; the linking up of soldier settlement work with immigration; the control of the agencies by Canadian authorities to prevent misrepresentation; that officials coming into direct touch with prospective immigrants should be Canadian citizens informed upon Canadian conditions; the formation of a national citizenship with the federal authorities providing leadership and information; a strong forward policy, making the fullest use of science for the development of Canada's natural resources, particularly iron and coal, the general betterment of agricultural conditions and the interprovincial exchange of commodities; greater co-operation on the part of those interested in immigration to prevent a repetition of that state of affairs which permitted the return of harvesters last fall, and the appointment of a standing committee of eight members of the boards to give constant attention to the big problem.

Citizenship Council.

A national council on citizenship was also urged so that the federal authorities should definitely provide leadership and information on some well thought out plan to all the provinces to insure the fullest opportunity for the assimilation of those of foreign birth.

Other clauses provided that with the view to providing employment and stimulating economic improvement, a strong forward policy, making the fullest use of science, should be inaugurated, looking toward the development of Canada's natural resources, the use of Canadian coal and iron ore, and all other Canadian raw materials as fully as possible throughout Canada; the general betterment of agricultural conditions and the development of inter-provincial exchange of commodities.

The resolution also states that "The fact that several thousand harvesters were recently returned to Great Britain, coupled with the statement of the minister of agriculture of Ontario that at least four thousand men were needed immediately for farm work in Ontario, indicated a lack of co-ordination which should receive the earnest consideration of the authorities and of this association."

Officers elected this afternoon were:

Honorary presidents, Wm. Taylor, Owen Sound; John Elliott, Belleville; Lieut.-Col. S. Brock, Toronto; G. C. Coppley, Hamilton; president, M. P. Byrnes, Collingwood; first vice-president, J. G. Elliott, Kingston; second vice-president, K. J. Dunstan, Toronto; third vice-president, J. J. Duffus, Peterboro. Delegates to the chambers of commerce of the British Empire, John Elliott, Belleville; G. C. Coppley, Hamilton; K. J. Dunstan, Toronto.

Britain Refuses Demand Of France For a Punitive Move Against Germany

Paris Will Be Notified That Britain Will Not Allow Such an Undertaking.

HOPELESS DEADLOCK

Poincare Replies to Baldwin That His Country Will Not Recede From Position.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Eng., Nov. 16.—The British government will not accede to the demands of France for punitive measures against Germany, and has notified the British ambassador in Paris to so inform the council of ambassadors.

This action was taken after the cabinet at a lengthy meeting had deliberated on the punitive measures, M. Poincare, the French premier, proposes to take against Germany to force the extradition of former Crown Prince Frederick William and permit a full resumption of allied military control in Germany, which has been suspended for the past ten months.

The foreign office, immediately the meeting adjourned, telegraphed Lord Crewe, the British ambassador to France, to inform the council of ambassadors when it resumes its sittings, that Great Britain remains firm against the imposition against Germany of the severe coercive penalties threatened by France.

Hopeless Deadlock.

As Premier Poincare declares France will enforce these penalties separately if Great Britain refuses to join her, there appears to be a hopeless deadlock between the two nations which some of the political observers believe portends an ultimate dissolution of the entente cordiale.

It is felt in ministerial circles here that matters are exactly where they were early last August, when Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, sent his famous note to Premier Poincare, in which he declared that Great Britain could not much longer delay separate action toward settlement of the Ruhr problem without the gravest consequences to the recovery of trade and the peace of the world.

The cabinet is so preoccupied with the elections that it has been forced to subordinate the Ruhr problem and for the present there seems to be no likelihood of independent action in dealing with Germany.

The government appears bent on preventing if it can any further territorial occupation by France, which, it believes would only further paralyze Germany's ability to pay reparations.

Demand Payment.

Some members of the government favor making a demand on France for three billion dollars France owes Great Britain, as a lever to force France to adopt the British viewpoint regarding Germany; but other ministers are opposed to this in the belief that it would bring no results from France and would upset the economic equilibrium of Europe and cause a further depreciation in the franc. They feel they must consider in this connection the interests of the large number of British firms and individuals who have large investments in France.

If, however, the United States should see fit to ask France for repayment of the United States debt, it is probable, these officials say, Great Britain would make a similar request.

France's threatened penalties against Germany if Berlin does not recede from its position in the extradition of the former crown prince and the re-establishment of full allied military control in Germany are understood to be:

First—The seizure of more railroads east of the occupied area, which would probably include the eventual occupation of Frankfort by the French.

Second—Consolidation and extension of the Franco-Belgian military position on the Ruhr.

Third—The occupation of Hamburg and Bremen. (Paris despatches today said high officials of the French foreign office declared they knew nothing of any plan for French occupation of Hamburg, and the ground for this disclaimer would seem also to exclude Bremen.)

FRANCE STANDS FIRM.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Nov. 16.—Premier Poincare today replied in the Chamber of Deputies to Prime Minister Baldwin's censure of France in the House of Commons yesterday.

France could easily reach an agreement with Britain if she would pay the expense of such an agreement, he said, but she was resolved not to yield on the question of further reduction of the reparations due from Germany.

Three-fourths of the chamber was on its feet cheering him when, after an energetic review of the whole question, covering an hour and a quarter, he left the rostrum with the final declaration:

"We shall continue to negotiate in the friendliest way possible, but France cannot give way."

M. Poincare hastily decided to speak after indicating that he would not intervene in the chamber debate on foreign affairs before next week. His decision was inspired by Premier Baldwin's statement, and by the British press comment tending to hold France responsible for the failure of the allies to agree in execution of the treaty of Versailles.

Declaring that his utterances in the British parliament could not be allowed to pass, but must be answered immediately, M. Poincare said:

"I cannot let it be said that it is by our fault an agreement has not been reached. For several years we have not ceased to make concessions from our rights, and it is not on our side that the attitude is uncompromising."

CLASSIFICATION OF FREIGHT ENDS

Montreal Committee Finishes Labor Begun Seven Years Ago.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—After seven years of hard work by the Canadian freight classification committee, the new freight classification No. 17, is nearing completion, and will probably be formally approved by the board of railway commissioners before the end of the year. As compared with the present freight classification, which it will supersede and which has only 13 pages, the new list fills 300 pages and has been brought up to date to cover and classify every known article handled by the railways, while it also provides for modern packages and methods of shipping.

In all there are now in the new list about 8,000 separate articles. The work started seven years ago and during the last two years the committee in charge of the work has met delegations from every line of industry and commerce in Canada.

METHODIST MINISTERS ASSEMBLE AT SPARTA

District of St. Thomas Gathering Attended by Many Laymen.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sparta, Nov. 16.—The ministers and laymen of the St. Thomas district of the Methodist Church held their November meeting in the Yarmouth Center Methodist Church yesterday with morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session was taken up with general business.

By a resolution, the conference co-operating committee on church union is asked to assist the local churches where co-operation is being considered between the Presbyterian and Methodist churches until the union is fully recognized. The amounts asked from the various charges necessary to meet the expense of completing the union movement were discussed and adopted.

At noon the ladies of the local church provided dinner for the delegates.

The afternoon session was given over to the discussion of Sunday school and young people's work. Rev. Dr. Husser of Sparta spoke on the task of "The Sunday School Teacher." Rev. Fred. CLAIM PORT WINE WAS TOO STRONG

Grey County Hotelman Haled To Court—Manufacturers To Be Checked.

NEW "Y" SECRETARY

Special to The Advertiser.

Owen Sound, Nov. 16.—Two brands of port wine, one testing 26.52 and the other 22.30 per cent proof, was the reason for a charge laid against Sinclair H. Gibson, proprietor of the hotel at Holstein in the south of the county, of selling liquor contrary to Ontario temperance act. Gibson appeared in court today, and the case was adjourned until November 22. On that date two wine companies may each be charged with selling liquor and also with peddling it.

On October 31 License Inspector Beckett and Provincial Constable Jones took samples of what was being sold over the bar at the hotel. Action is based on the analysis.

Lengthy Illness.

Following an illness of about nine months, William J. Harrison died today. The late Mr. Harrison had been a resident of this city for over 25 years.

Howard M. Mandigo, new secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., arrived here this afternoon. He drove from Richford, Vermont, a distance of 600 miles.

The new official is a Canadian by birth, although educated at Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. College, from which he graduated in 1914. He was in boys' work at Athol, Mass.; Lansingburg, N.Y.; Vergennes, Vermont, and for the past six years at the provincial reformatory at Shawbridge, Que.

Mr. Mandigo will be a decided acquisition to athletic forces in the city, as he plays baseball, tennis, hockey etc.

Big "Gas" Shipment.

Imperial oil tanker Royalite is expected to arrive here tomorrow with half a million gallons of gasoline for the local depot.

William Brown, Ralph Irving and John McAuley are candidates in Owen Sound riding for the provincial boys' parliament. Great interest is being manifested in the election.

Mr. Chapman was president of the Goderich Bowling Club for two years and was missionary treasurer of Knox Church for some years.

Mrs. Chapman took an active part in the Women's Institute and Rebekah Lodge, and also in the Ladies' Aid and Women's Missionary Society of Knox Church. THREE-DEATHS THEORY DISCREDITED BY POLICE

Two Men Shot and Third Dies Mysteriously Near Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Two deaths by shooting and the mysterious death of a third man, a Canadian, all in or near this city, were disclosed today. The police believe that the cases are not connected.

The victims are Charles Austara and Joseph Dinieri, both of this city, and Jeremiah McCarthy of Queenstown, Ont. The latter's body was discovered on a mountain road near Lewiston, north of here. He had met death under circumstances which the authorities considered mysterious and they refused information as to the cause until further investigation could be conducted. Austara, a driver for a local baking company, was found dead in his delivery wagon in front of a customer's store. His horse had also been shot. Police believe revenge was the motive.

Dinieri's body was discovered at daybreak in his car on a country road near Wheatfield, east of here. Details of his death are being investigated, although no apparent reason for the shooting had been found.

THINK BALDWIN WILL BE WINNER IN ELECTIONS

"Tay Pay" O'Connor Expected To Be Returned by Acclamation.

RUINS DEMOCRACY

Associated Press Despatch.

London, England, Nov. 16.—T. P. O'Connor, father of the House of Commons, will likely get an acclamation in his old riding, the Scotland division of Liverpool, despite the hungry aspect in which the division is regarded by the Labor forces, who achieved some municipal successes among the Liverpool Irish recently.

"Tay Pay" O'Connor prophesied tonight that the government will return with a diminished majority, "which means, a stalemate and calamitous position for the country." Repeated elections form one of the most deadly foes to true democratic governments, adds "Tay Pay."

Hon. Esmond Harmsworth, Lord Rothermere's heir, was only 21 when he was elected four years ago to represent Thanet, where the family has an estate. Thanet is something of a general holiday resort, and its merits are consistently but judiciously puffed in the Rothermere newspapers. In the present election Harmsworth will be opposed by Reginald Rait of Surbiton, who is only 21 years of age.

H. G. Wells, the writer, will again contest the London University seat as a Labor candidate. He was defeated in the last general election by Sir Sydney Russell Wells, Conservative.

Council Grants Increases But Leaves Date of Start Open Until Next Meeting

Question To Be Determined Is Whether Adjustment Shall Be Retroactive to January 1 or April 1.

After last night's city council session the salary question, in one respect at least, remains "in statu quo"—whatever that is. Those employees who were recommended for increases at the last session will receive them as directed, but the question has yet to be determined as to whether the adjustment should be retroactive to April 1 or January 1.

This will not be decided until the next session—following the election—as a proposed amendment to the salary bylaw to change the date failed to pass the third reading.

City Clerk Sam Baker drew the attention of the council to the fact that the bylaw passed at the last session authorizing the increases was dated January 1 and not April 1, as supposed by some of the members. He desired a ruling.

The clerk also pointed out that they had not rescinded a bylaw passed July 22, when it was stipulated that all increases should date back to the first of the year.

Ald. Frank McKay and others held that they had been under the impression that their bylaw had read April 1. He favored reopening the salary question for a further consideration. He was not fearful as to the result, he said, as he was not ashamed of his action at the last session, although there were members who should be. The motion to reopen the question was lost, Ald. Shaw, Burdick, Drake and Wilson voting negative.

Rules Motion In Order.

When Ald. Hayden moved to amend the bylaw by changing January to April, Ald. Burdick objected, scenting "a move to throw the question on to 1924." Mayor Wenige, however, ruled the motion in order.

Ald. Wilson and Ald. Drake voted contrary, while both Ald. Douglass and Ald. John May declined to register an opinion, and were registered in the negative. Both explained that as they had voted against the passing of the original bylaw they could not place themselves in a false light by expressing any opinion whatever.

The bylaw as amended to read April 1 passed its first and second readings without trouble, but Ald. Douglass objected to the third reading, which necessitated a two-thirds vote of the council to enable passage before the next session.

It was impossible to obtain the two-thirds vote, as Ald. Wilson had Mayor Wenige then voted in the negative. January 1 now stands, until the next meeting at least, as the date, although City Treasurer Bell states that he cannot pay the increases to that date in the meanwhile, as the council failed to pass a resolution to tell him from whence would come the funds.

Funny Business.

Ald. Burdick was quite insistent during the proceedings that "it was all funny business," while Mayor Wenige frequently voiced his opinion that their recommendations from the preceding meeting were unfair to certain departments.

A communication was submitted from City Auditor H. B. Ashplant asking for a reconsideration of two of his clerks with four years' service who had not been quite fairly dealt with, he reasoned, in comparison with the remainder of the clerks. No action was taken, but it is understood that other amendments to the bylaw will be proposed at the final session to care for these and one or two other cases."

Ald. Colbert charged "passing the buck" on the part of somebody relative to the proposed granting of holidays for all city employees with at least one year's service. When Ald. Douglass explained that a report was forthcoming from City Engineer Near, now attending a convention in Georgia, Ald. Colbert characterized his address as a "lot of buck."

Waiting For Information.

Complimenting Ald. Colbert for his extensive vocabulary, Ald. Douglass stated that the engineer as well as the members of the board of works were sincere in their efforts and were only waiting to hear how a similar practice was working out in Hamilton and Toronto.

Ald. Colbert stated that he had been given to understand that while the engineer estimated for the council that the proposed change would cost more than $6,000 he had given his opinion "outside" that it could be effected with no additional cost. Ald. Douglass stated that he had heard of no such report.

Ald. John May gave notice of motion that at the final session he would move that provision be made in the city of London bill for certain sewer projects, at an aggregate cost of $200,000. Some of the aldermen voiced objection to this practice and urged a vote of the people.

Upon motion of Ald. May the council directed Engineer Near to instruct the street railway company not to use for repair work throughout the city, ties rejected on the Richmond street job. While heartily in accord with the move, Ald. McKay opposed, as he questioned if the council retained the right, under provisions of bylaw 916—to direct the city engineer in this respect. Ald. Watt also voted no.

West London's Car Service.

Ald. Wilson questioned if the company was doing anything about placing a switch on the Wharncliffe road, West London. Nobody knew and the suggestion was offered that it was too late in the season.

The council passed a resolution indorsing the stand taken by the G. W. V. A. regarding a charge appearing in "The Worker" denouncing those who participated in "tag days."

Ald. Colbert objected on the ground that resolutions only gave publicity to such people as Bruce. "This man went too far," he stated, "But this motion only gives him publicity. That's what he wants and I am not in favor of giving it to him."

Ald. George Burdick also voted in the negative, explaining that he was not fully conversant with the question at hand or the article in question, having never read it.

Dufing the meeting Ald. Wilson objected to members talking without rising while Ald. Watt urged strict observance of the procedure bylaw which provides for a time-limit upon all speakers.

INTER-UNION WAR IS FINALLY ENDED

Expect Old Country Boilermakers Will Resume Work Shortly.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Eng., Nov. 16. — Amid cheers and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," a settlement of the long drawn out shipyard dispute on overtime and night shift agreement was reached tonight between representatives of the boilermakers' union and the Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades and the terms of the settlement will be submitted to the boilermakers for a ballot thereon. It is said the agreement reaches the boilermakers' contention and it is expected that a resumption of work will follow the taking of the vote. Ten thousand boilermakers have been locked out since the end of April last as a result of the dispute.

The dispute was complicated by an inter-union quarrel. The Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades entered into an agreement with the employers on overtime and night shift working in federated shipyards and it was confirmed by a ballot vote of the members. The boilermakers' union, who were against the agreement, withdrew their representative from the negotiating committee and did not take part in the ballot but repudiated the federation.

BOYS ARE SENTENCED FOR OBSTRUCTING TRACK

Canadian Press Despatch.

Parry Sound, Nov. 16.—Two boys of Humphrey Township pleaded guilty today to a charge of placing obstructions on the C. P. R. track and were both placed in the Parry Sound shelter for 30 days, and their parents were called upon to furnish bonds for the boys' good behavior for three years and pay the costs of the court. Iron nuts were found bound on top of the rails with hay wire.

SIR WILLIAM MACKENZIE TAKES TURN FOR BETTER

RAIL PRESIDENTS OFFER SOLUTION

Toronto Considers Grade Separation Plans of Thornton and Beatty.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—After 15 years of discussion, demands and evasion on the subject of grade separation along Toronto's waterfront, the railways and the city got down to "brass tacks" today and discussed new proposals submitted by the railway chiefs, Sir Henry Thornton of the C. N. R., and E. W. Beatty of the C. P. R. These proposals contemplate construction of part of the viaduct as ordered by the Dominion Railway Board ten years ago, and the substitution of traffic bridges over the tracks for the other section of the viaduct. The viaduct scheme, it is estimated, would cost $32,000,000, but the combined viaduct and bridge scheme as now proposed would cost $20,000,000.

The railway chiefs promised that detailed plans of their scheme would be ready in a few days, and the representatives of the city assured the railway men that the scheme would be given consideration and an early reply returned as to whether that city would agree to the change or not.

PAY RENT FOR BAND QUARTERS

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, Nov. 16.—Announcement was made today that the department of militia and defence had taken over the lease of the quarters occupied by the North Waterloo Regiment band. For years the band has been paying for the rooms out of its own funds. Recently W. D. Euler took up the case, pointing out that the band was a militia unit, and entitled to have rent paid.

WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE.

Special to The Advertiser.

Dutton, Nov. 16.—It is rumored that Reeve Dromgole, warden of Elgin county, and Councillor W. W. Gow, both men who have sat on the Dunwich council for a number of years, will not seek re-election. Many new faces are expected in the Dunwich council this coming year and keen contests are expected. Deputy-Reeve Crawford is expected to run for reeve.

WILL ASK U.F.O. TO RETIRE FROM PARTY POLITICS

Resolutions Presented For Consideration At Annual Convention in December.

DRURY IS ATTACKED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Resolutions accepted by the U.F.O. executive for consideration at the annual convention scheduled for December 12 to 14 urge the withdrawal of the U.F.O. organization from political affairs.

Several resolutions deal with the question of political leadership, and some opposition is expressed to the selection of former U.F.O. Premier Hon. E. C. Drury to lead the party.

A frank opinion concerning Mr. Drury comes from Wellington County, and is to the effect that the York Riding Club, with John D. Dyson as secretary, "Is opposed to Mr. Drury's broadening out and forming a third party. Also, if he wants to lead a third party, let him do it without using the U.F.O. as a base. Also, we do not want him as leader of the U.F.O. in the local House."

Adhere To Principles.

From Thamesville come a resolution sponsored by J. C. Harris, secretary of zone No. 4, which urges the convention to adhere more firmly than ever to the original principles of the United Farmers of Ontario, and to settle once and for all the question of broadening out.

Allen Lindsay, secretary of the Kars Club, asks that "Politics be completely banished from the U.F.O. clubs of this province." James Kane of Westport follows with the resolution that "The U.F.O. go out of politics and that the central executive take no active part in political affairs." John Sharp, secretary of the Haileybury club, forwards the viewpoint of that local by declaring that each electoral riding should be entirely free to decide on the lines of its own political action. Therefore the suggestion is that the U. F. O. head office officials should not take sides in the discussion of political questions and that a clause to that effect be inserted in the constitution.

Drop Politics.

Out of ten resolutions dealing with the political future of the U. F. O., all but three call directly or indirectly for a cutting free from politics.

Among the general resolutions are many affecting the internal organization of the U. F. O. There is a call to cut the fee from a dollar to 50 cents; a demand for hydro extension until its advantages will be within the reach of agriculturists; a protest against the federal government policy of increasing immigration; an enlargement of the provincial bank and rural credit system, and a curtailment of highway expenditure until such time as the farmers are in a better financial position to meet their share of the cost.

Local clubs will discuss the resolutions and post their delegates as to the attitude to be adopted on them at the convention.

COUNTERFEIT CASE HAS STRANGE TURN

Find Law Does Not State What Coins Are Affected.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—Whether purposely or by mistake, a flaw was left in article 556 of the criminal code, and this section of the code dealing with the manufacture or disposal of spurious money omits to specify that coins of the Dominion of Canada must not be counterfeited. It was on the basis of this that counsel for Albert Cote, charged with counterfeiting, argued at some length before the court of king's bench here this afternoon.

Crown Prosecutor Robert L. Calder, K.C., declared that the English version of the criminal code is correct, but that the French version has not been properly translated. He thought the argument advanced was of the most "desperate" kind of technicality.

Mr. Justice Wilson said he regretted that his "shoulders are not strong enough for me to undertake the burden of decreeing that the money of my country may be counterfeited."

Evidence in the trial was concluded this afternoon. Cote claimed that he had thought the idea of the paraphernalia was to manufacture lockets, hatpins and other articles of ornament. On cross-examination, he declared that he had put on the articles the words "50 cents" because it is often done.

The case was adjourned until Monday.

GIVE MINSTREL SHOW.

Special to The Advertiser.

Wyoming, Nov. 16.—The Androck minstrels of Watford presented an excellent entertainment in Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Baptist Church choir. Mr. Connolly, the reeve of Watford, was interlocutor. Old-time plantation songs featured the program. The proceeds of the evening are divided and the Wire Works boys, who form the minstrel troupe, will use their share for their baseball club.

Hector Charlesworth Writes About The Married Woman and Her Music

Following Interesting Article Appeared in October Canadian Home Journal.

I was very much interested in a recent paragraph which recorded a discussion stimulated by Oolong on the question of why so many women who have been trained to play and sing, drop their music after marriage. Of course the superficial answer is "Babies,"—but I think it will be found that many women whose wealth in this respect is not so great as to preclude all other activities, do keep up their music. The mother who can play and sing finds her musical resources invaluable in amusing and delighting her youngsters. It is a grave mistake to assume that ennui is merely an adult affliction; it is sadly present in childhood, even when the mother has means to give her babies everything that her heart could desire for them, and for ennui, music is the most potent of all remedies.

The women who drop their music after marriage will as often as not be found to be those who have few family cares and seek recreation in other forms of amusement and excitement. There is perhaps an explanation that lies deeper still. Music, even in its cruder sentimental forms, is the language of dreams. The girl without a sweetheart, or compelled as most girls are to see that desirable person only at intervals, finds music in its many moods an expression of her dreams and longings. Once married she ceases to feel the need of its power in the evocation of tender reverie. I am not one of those males who boast of being a seer of the feminine temperament, but I think this diagnosis is fairly near to the truth. The young married woman who lets her music go, is however, making one of the great mistakes of her life. Most of those who have given thought to the practical uses of music advocate its study by girls as part of their general education, and not specifically as a professional accomplishment, the rewards of which must fall to the very few. When marriage comes, as it frequently does, despite the murmurings of those who shake their heads over the consequences of allowing modern girls to earn their own living, and when the natural sequel of babies transpires, then music assumes a value to the woman that it never previously possessed. It has its phases in the nursery, but its influence is continued all through the various stages of family life. I know of no more delightful sight than to see grown boys who danced in babyhood to their mother's music, singing around the piano with her when grown to budding manhood. There are doubtless many households in this broad land of ours where the young people of the household dance with their friends, while mother sets the tune. But we could well wish there were more of them. There would be fewer heartaches because the young folk wish to keep running out to the movies; or because they are "never home."

Even the childless woman finds her music a rather useful net for keeping her husband if his tastes are at all sympathetic toward its appeal. I suppose that the number of men who like what is known as "high-brow music" is comparatively limited, but there are few who do not like simple airs, whether sentimental or gay. No woman should consider herself illmated because her husband is not up to Debussy or Ravel—although no woman should needlessly let her taste for good music utterly disappear simply because her husband cannot follow her in appreciation of its intricacies. But she can easily find plenty of music that will interest him, without at the same time sacrificing her own artistic interests. Which brings one back to the original point that the woman who wilfully lets her music go is casting away something precious.

PARENTS AND MUSIC

Can a home be a real home without music? Oh, yes, of course—after a fashion. But take a glimpse into the best homes throughout the length and breadth of our land and you are almost sure to find music in some form or other. It may be only a phonograph or a player piano, but, in its way, it is music. Could there be stronger proof that music has, indeed, an almost universal appeal?

If parents only realize what an educational and cultural influence music is in the rearing of children, they would eagerly seize the opportunity to have them study music. Some of the happiest homes are those in which all the members of the family are engaged in the study of music. It affords a common interest, draws the various members of the family together in closer companionship, and provides one of the strongest safeguards against outside influences that tend to break up and destroy the home circle. In this way a small home orchestra is easily formed and, in addition to the endless amount of pleasure it affords, it gives each player practical orchestra experience which will be invaluable in a professional way.

MUSIC IS HUMAN ACTIVITY

The accomplishment of yesterday is going to be one of the most valuable educational factors of tomorrow. Great progress has already been made, but there is much land yet to be possessed.

We hear much talk at prize distributions, public dinners and the like—of the humanizing influence of music—but one often wonders whether those who use this expression really know what they mean. What is very clear is that the humanizing influence of music is to be found in a different way from that of which these worthy speakers dream. Music is a human activity and it is not to be approached in a spirit of mental idleness as a soporific; it is not a species of vapor bath in which our senses may wallow, but it is an art to be understood and appreciated by the alert use of our mind and the exercise of our intelligence. Let us see to it that the foundations of this true appreciation are laid securely at the time of all others when mind and heart are responsive to pure and healthy impressions—namely, in childhood.

Thus and only thus shall we be enabled to create a more serious regard for the art of music as a force in our national life, worthy of the exercise of the best of our mental powers, and also as a means by which those powers may in turn be developed, strengthened and enriched.

SOME SPEED HERE

When Rossini was 37 years old he had written 37 operas, or an opera for every year of his life. Naturally he must have done most of his work at lightning speed. Indeed, when his famous librettist, Tottola, brought him the words of the famous prayer from Moses in Egypt, he was inclined to boast that he had written it in one hour. "That is nothing," said Rossini, jumping out of bed. "I'll write the music in a quarter of an hour." He actually did it in ten minutes, if traditions are correct.

Writing at such a speed, Rossini managed to get to his credit only two operas out of 37 that stand out as masterpieces, "The Barber of Seville" and "William Tell." Occasionally, fragments of his other works are heard now and then, but many of them have remained unwritten as far as Rossini's fame is concerned.

BERTHA FARNER POSSESSOR OF RARE VOICE AS WELL AS PERSONALITY

While singing at the opera in Paris some few years ago Bertha Farner, who will appear here Thursday, the 29th, at the Grand Opera House, attracted the notice of the late celebrated composer, Jules Massenet. It is a well-known fact that this eminent Frenchman had an eye for good-looking women, but it was for something more than for Miss Farner's personal beauty, with which Nature has so richly endowed her, that Massenet sought an introduction to her and invited her to his studio. It was the rare beauty of her voice that had attracted him. He had been looking for just such a voice to sing his Thais, despite the triumphs of the late Sibyl Sanderson in the role. To Miss Farner Massenet himself taught the part of the penitent courtesan. All through the treasured score of Thais now in the possession of Miss Farner are the notations of the famous master, while numerous letters and photographs tell of his admiration for this gifted American singer. Miss Farner, who speaks French fluently as she does her native English, declared that no one whom she has ever met could pay homage to an artist more gracefully and wittily than could Massenet. Through Massenet Miss Farner met Saint Saens and other distinguished masters of the musical world in Paris.

The Farmer's Wife: The Family Pump Has Indigestion.

Ding, dong, bell,
The water's in the well,
We wish that we could get it out,
Ding, dong, bell.

They say that you never miss the water till the well runs dry but, as we have discovered in the past week, you miss it just as much when the pump is broken. Some days ago the pump developed some obscure ailment in its internal workings, and though the windmill has been doing its best it can only coax up a few drops of water at a time—enough for us to clean our teeth and have an occasional drink. Pump men are very elusive creatures so we engaged two different ones to come on the same day, knowing that we would be very lucky if either of them turned up. One of them did come, and in a businesslike manner took up the well cover, piled the boards neatly, then sat down on them and lighted his pipe. That was as far as his ministrations went, though he told us the life history of every other well in the neighborhood. He had fixed them all at different times and told us just which ones had old-fashioned wooden pumps, which ones had had foreign matter in them in the way of defunct dogs and cats, and of one well—here he gazed sternly at the children who were eagerly waiting to see him go down the ladder—into which a child had fallen while he had the cover off. He had evidently been quite a man in his day for he had jumped down that well without a rope or anything and had that child out quicker'n scat.

Truth Stayed Down.

They say truth lives at the bottom of a well. She surely didn't come to the top of ours that day, and the old man didn't go down to inquire into the truth either. He was afraid the air might be bad and he was sure there were tonds down there, and the light wasn't very good, and maybe he would come back next week if he hadn't anything else to do. So that was the last of him, and we have the rather doubtful honor of having the only well in the whole county that could beat him.

Country water systems aren't as simple as city ones by any means. In the city when you are warned that the water is going to be turned off all you have to do is to fill the bath and the basins, the laundry tubs, the wash boiler and all the jugs, even to the smallest cream pitcher, and then, ten minutes later when the water is turned on again, you empty them all. Nothing could be simpler than that. But with us it is different; when the water is turned off it is no ten-minute affair. Pump man No. 2 hasn't put in an appearance at all yet because it has been rainy, though I shouldn't think it would be much wetter down a well on that account. He sounds like the frog that caught cold in a rainstorm. However, the rain which has prevented his coming has provided us with plenty of soft water which, besides being good for many other things, is matchless for the complexion.

Seasons by Saints.

The two gala days of autumn are over now, the Halloween jack o' lanterns have been made into Thanksgiving pumpkin pies and the children's school paint boxes have been restocked with orange and black. I can almost tell the time of year by looking at their paints. At Christmas their art efforts are hard on the red and green, Valentine's Day uses every speck of red, St. Patrick's Day is equally rough on the green, while at this time of year the orange and black always fare badly.

The potatoes are all picked up and we haven't found one Indian relic. Isn't that disappointing? Last year I found two arrow heads within about three minutes of each other, but this year the Indians don't seem to have left them lying around as carelessly. We thought of sowing our modest collection of arrowheads along the rows to make the picking up process more interesting. But we did find lots of potatoes, which is more to the point, as there is a better market for them. We think of everything in terms of potatoes these days. It would take five bags to buy a pair of boots, ten bags to buy a bag of sugar, two tons to get a man's overcoat, and nearly seven tons to pay the taxes. Is it any wonder the young people all want to be movie stars and twinkle in California at several thousand dollars a week?

If any reader would like to have one of the new little pigs named in his or her honor, will he or she please send in his or her name promptly as there are only seven pigs. Only stout people need apply. If there are too many names submitted we will give the rest of them to the chickens, as there are 150 of them and all nameless, poor things.

RUSSIA DELAYS TRADE MISSION

No Word Received At Ottawa On Proposed Action With Soviets.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Commenting on a report from London that a Russian trade mission would come to Canada in two months' time, it was said at the department of trade and commerce tonight that no official communication to this effect has yet been received.

A trade mission from Russia was to have come over earlier this year, but it was decided by the Canadian government that certain of its proposed members were undesirable, as having a record against them in Canada. Canada, in this connection, is acting in accord with Great Britain, and it was announced at the last session of parliament that persons comprising such a Russian mission who were acceptable to Great Britain would also be acceptable to Canada. It was arranged that Russia should send a mission to Canada, and that Canada in return might send a delegation to the Soviet government, with a view to reviving commercial relations.

KING TOWNSHIP FARMER KILLED

Meets Death Near Bolger Lake When Accidentally Shot.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Parry Sound, Nov. 16.—A young farmer, J. Kerr, of King Township, near Aurora, was accidentally shot dead by a companion in the Bolger Lake district last night as they were returning to camp after a day's hunting.

The party of hunters sat down on a log for a rest, and when about to continue the walk to camp an old hunter of 30 years' experience lifted his rifle, and as he did so there was an explosion, and the bullet struck Mr. Kerr, who was only about four feet from the gun, in the middle of his back, pasing through the spine and coming out below the breast, killing him instantly.

Accidental death was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury here today. The body was taken home by his comrade tonight.

SCHOOL BOARD ASPIRANTS MAY MAKE NEW RECORD

RECORD NUMBER OF CANDIDATES ON SCHOOL BOARD

When nominations for the 1924 board of education open on Monday at the city hall a record list of candidates will be put forward to contest the six seats which will become vacant at the end of the year.

Some 18 names have already been mentioned in this connection and while it is not likely that all of them will consent to stand, nevertheless there will be no acclamation. Of those already mentioned, two are women and they have both signified their intention of entering the contests. These are Mrs. John Rose and Mrs. Crawford.

Rev. Roy D. Mess will also run, as will Bryden N. Campbell, retiring trustee. Dr. George Weir will also be in the field.

Of the other members of the present board who are retiring, Edwin Smith will not enter the contests and it is considered unlikely that either Thomas Rowe or A. E. Silverwood will be candidates. W. A. Casselman and J. B. Wright will in all probability run again.

Others that have been mentioned are: E. B. Smith, Roy Cunningham, W. R. Jarmain, R. Hessell, George F. Copeland, Clifford L. Gray, Professor Fred Landon, Dr. John Ferguson and Wendell Holmes.

Which of these will accept nomination is not known, but Tuesday night the field will probably be cut down to less than half a dozen candiates.

STEALS FAMILY FOOD, HOUSEWIFE WATCHES

East London Gray Squirrels So Tame That They Raid the Kitchen.

Many gray squirrels in the city have become so tame that they will steal food from under the very nose of the lady of the house, look up at her if she is but two feet distant, wink, and make away with the tid-bit to his winter lair. But when the family cat happened on the scene in the course of the rodent's depredations—that's different, as one London East woman now knows.

It happened in this manner: the mater familias was in the backyard looking over a consignment of walnuts which father had brought home from the country, when to her amusement there whisked into the picture a precocious gray squirrel obviously at peace with the world, and whose sole apparent intent was to add to his scanty store of food, in case winter came.

He made off with one of the largest of the nuts without batting an eyelash, and came back with a smile for more, just as though he were saying, "You know I look down and out, lady, and as a matter of fact I am hard up and all in, so please show a little charity and don't for the love of Mike, take these away until I get a few more. Just a few will do."

The lady didn't mind in the least, and looked on with a friendly eye as she saw her supply of nuts disappearing one by one.

Enter Maria, the family rat catcher and nocturnal yodeller par excellence. She came over the fence with a swish and a feline "woof"—but the squirrel saw her, did a Barney Oldfield for the mulberry tree in nothing flat, and was far up in the branches when the avenging shadow pulled up at the base.

He stayed there until the cat was chased away by the highly-amused human spectator, and then calmly descended, with no malice to anyone, cached another walnut and continued as before until the bagful was no more.

ISSUES DRASTIC ORDERS TO CHECK N. Y. CRIME WAVE

Commissioner Enright Places 2,000 Additional Men On the Streets.

SEARCH FOR BANDITS

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Nov. 17.—Asserting that the police have New York's crime wave in hand, Police Commissioner Enright sailed for Bermuda on a vacation today, leaving in effect one of the most drastic duty orders ever issued to members of the force.

Two thousand additional patrolmen went on the streets today, under the terms of the commissioner's order, while the working day of most of the force is extended to 16 hours, with all vacations, days off and lunch hours abolished.

With the largest number of men in the history of the city trailing the bandits who have made New York their playground for several days, arrests in the holdup cases are "practically certain" to be made through evidence already submitted to him, Commissioner Enright announced before his departure.

The police are centering their efforts on running down the bandits who last Wednesday held up and shot two bank messengers and escaped with $43,607, and the robbers who escaped with $50,000 worth of furs from a Fifth avenue shop after breaking in the windows early yesterday.

The first results of Commissioner Enright's orders to traffic policemen to halt and examine all suspicious looking cars came last night when officers arrested five men in an automobile which contained several weapons.

TO TRY SUSPENSION AS TRUANCY REMEDY

Central Collegiate Principal Wants Punitive Measure For Two Cases.

Truancy is regarded as an unnecessary sin calling for strict condemnation, in the opinion of the board of education. Therefore, as a means of stamping out this custom which they say, has become all too prevalent, the board has decided to make an example of two youthful deserters who on many occasions have failed to put in their appearance during school hours at the Central Collegiate.

Acting Principal McDonald reported to the board yesterday that several times he had had the two truants up on the mat and had threatened them with expulsion. He applied at the meeting of No. 3 committee of the board of education yesterday afternoon for permission to suspend the boys for a period of two weeks and then take them back only on condition they promised to abstain from further truancy.

It was also decided at yesterday's meeting of the board to co-operate with the city and allow the auditorium of the Central Collegiate to be used for election purposes.

News From City Churches

OVER $1,200 REALIZED.

In addition to subscribing during the past year the sum of nearly $500 for a new parish hall, the congregation of St. James' Anglican Church, South London, turned out splendidly last Thursday afternoon and evening in support of their annual bazaar, with the result that the proceeds amounted to something just over $1,200. With this and the generous support received in every way from the congregation, the members of the Guild and other departments which worked untiringly toward success expressed themselves as more than pleased. At the high tea alone 360 persons were served.

Red and white was the color scheme used throughout. Numerous plants made an effective background for many of the booths, and the color scheme was reflected in the flowers, which were prettily arranged on the dining and afternoon tea tables. Each booth had its own charm. The apron booth was gay with Chinese lanterns, flags of all nations made a colorful spot of the fanck work booth; the attractive display of Christmas gifts was arranged under a canopy formed of red and white streamers; the candy booth drew attention by means of a glittering Christmas tree, while standing at the northend of the hall, at an excellent point of vantage, the handkerchief booth with its dainty wares did a rushing business.

One of the busiest of all departments was that conducted by the Clover Leaf Club, under the direction of Mrs. Armitage. Here throughout afternoon and evening the girls were constantly rushed attending to the numerous visitors who sought to sample the wares of the fish-pond, the postoffice and "The Grub Shop."

To lend to the merriment, fortunetellers were on hand, and the future was revealed at the hands of gaily-dressed gypsies, in reality, Mrs. McArthur, Miss M. Raymond, Miss Marjorie Pennington and Miss Marjorie Dawson.

Arrangements were made under the general convenership of Mrs. C. B. Edwards with Mrs. Zoellner acting as secretary, and Mrs. Eliot as treasurer.

Goldsmith; tearoom, Mrs. Gloyne and Mrs. Ernest Premeer; decorations, Mrs. Earl Johnston. Lunch will be served from 11 to 2 o'clock and tea from 3 to 6 p.m. During the afternoon a musical program will be given by Mrs. Grant Harris and others.

TALBOT ST. BAZAAR

Dozens braved the disagreeable weather yesterday and attended the bazaar and home-cooking held at the home of Mrs. John Wainwright, 129 John St., by the Ladies' Aid Society of Taldot Street Baptist Church. The amount realized in this manner was most satisfactory. Receiving with Mrs. Wainwright, was the president of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Melville Dale, who convened the general preparations for the sale. Tea was served throughout the afternoon from tables prettily decorated with golden and bronze chryanthemums. Mrs. Peter Glen and Mrs. Fred Smith pounred tea, having as their assistants, Mrs. F. Bryant and Mrs. A. J. Clarke.

FEAR RESISTANCE OF RAILWAYMEN IF ROADS FAVORED

English Board Hears Evidence in Pay Revision Demand of Companies.

CLAIM MORE WORK

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 17.—The railway national wages board this week has been hearing evidence in connection with the demand of the railway companies for a revision of the rates of pay and the counter-demand of the employees for improved working conditions.

The railway companies maintain that if they reduce freight charges in order to assist in trade recovery they must first reduce their wage bills. The men reply that such sacrifice on their part is unnecessary since a reduction in freight charges would not increase unemployment or raise wages in other industries. It is admitted that if any demands of the companies are granted, wages still will be 100 per cent above the pre-war figure, while the cost of living is only 75 per cent higher. The men, however, contend that the last settlement they made with the companies was for all time.

On behalf of the locomotive engineers it is asserted that larger engines, bigger loads and greater speed have increased their work 140 per cent.

J. H. Thomas, M.P., the railwaymen's Labor leader, asserts that while the men are being asked to accept a reduction in wages there has been an amazing increase in the salaries of the railway staffs who had been receiving over $2,500 a year.

The inquiry is not yet finished.

It is feared in some quarters that if the board indorses the companies' claims the men will resist, and there will be grave consequences in connection with the working of the railways.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL IS HIGHLY PRAISED

Provincial Inspector Finds It "Unequalled Vocational Training Institution.

After a week in London where he carired out a complete inspection of the Technical School Dr. Sorceleil of Toronto, provincial inspector of vocational training, congratulated Principal H. B. Beale on the high standards maintained in the school, and the city of London on the possession of what he described as an unequalled vocational training institution.

"In every department," said Dr. Sorceleil before leaving London of the Technical School, work of a high order is being carried on in a manner that is complimentary to the principal. There is nothing that can add to the effiicency of the school unless it be the addition of a gym and an auditorium which I think are both desirable in retaining the social spirit of a technical school and holding the interest of both pupils and parents. I have spent a most enjoyable week here and am glad to be able to make such an excellent report on the school. It offers an exemplary vocational training in every way."

respond to the description of the jewelry taken from the Sparta store.

In the Harris car was found a quantity of jewelry and hardware, discovered in the back seat. None of the articles, which were removed to the police station, are of any great value, it is believed.

There were several watch chains and plated spoons in the car, as well as buttons, with picture of King George and Queen Mary on them. A razor sharpener and some cartridges made up the articles, while there was also two envelopes addressed to L. A. Moedinger & Son, Sparta, from East Alton, I.. There was also a copy of the Alton Daily Times in the tonneau of the car, dated August.

Inspector of Detectives Thomas Nickle stated that the Harris car had evidently been used to tow another car.

Sparta, Nov. 17.—Robbers broke into the hardware store of F. W. Moedlinger on the Sparta road here last night, getting away with $600 worth of jewelry.

Because it is sweet and pleasant to take and quickly relieves Coughs, Croup and Bronchitis

You do not have to coax, bribe or threaten children when you want them to use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

BAD COLD

Mrs. A. Harvey, 231 James St., Port Arthur, Ont., writes:—"My children were all suffering from bad colds and coughs that used to keep them awake at night. Mrs. Good Camps On Trail of Victorian Order Nurse

Little Crippled Boy and Aged Woman Are Among the Patients Visited.

ALWAYS ON THE JOB.

"The effect in sickness of beautiful objects, of variety of objects, and especially of brilliancy of color, is hardly at all appreciated. . . . . Variety of form and brilliancy of color in the objects presented to patients are actual means of recovery." —Florence Nightingale.

Mrs. Good was bustling about her bedroom, getting her husband's clothes together, preparatory to packing them in the open suitcase which stood ready on the window-seat. "Oh, no! I won't be lonely while you are away," she was saying. "That nice V. O. N. nurse is going to take me out through her district and show me something of the work the order is doing. I'm sorry she's still too busy to come to tea, but while we are drivng from case to case, I hope to get a lot of information from her."

Mr. Good went off that night for his three-day trip, and at 9 o'clock the next morning Mrs. Good was on her porch in the sunshine waiting for the V. O. N. car to pick her up. A sudden inspiration seized her, and she ran out into her little back garden and in a few minutes returned with her hands full of sweet peas, just as the V. O. N. car drew up to the curb.

"I thought someone might be glad of some flowers, so I picked these," she laughed, as she took her seat beside the nurse.

"What a lovely idea," exclaimed the latter. "They are just the thing for my little Harry. He is a surgical case, and I go to him the first thing in the morning for a dressing. He is a dear little lad, and so fond of flowers. The neighbors are as good as they can be to him, but not many have time to cultivate gardens, and sometimes for three or four days at a time he sees nothing but the four walls of his room. He broke his leg about three months ago, and it has never healed properly, and we are afraid he may be tubercular. Here we are——"

Visit Little Boy.

The little 8-year-old boy was alone, as his mother had gone out for a day's work. He greeted the nurse with a brave smile, though she knew he must be suffering a good deal.

"I've brought a kind lady with me, Harry," she said, as she quickly set out the things ready for the dressing, "and while I'm making you comfortable, you can have three guesses as to what she has for you."

Very soon the small boy was easier and looking much refreshed.

"You haven't guessed yet," said the nurse, "so we'll call Mrs. Good. Shut your eyes, and see what she brings you."

Mrs. Good, on hearing her name, came in, and softly put a huge bunch of the sweet flowers into the child's hands. The tears came to her eyes as she saw the look of joy on his face as he gazed at the mass of fragrance and gently touched some of the petals with his fingers.

"Say thank you to Mrs. Good, for we must be off," said the nurse, and Mrs. Good stooped and kissed the little face, and hearing the murmured "thank you," registered a vow that she would bring flowers often, if such a simple act could give so much pleasure.

"I'm afraid you will have to wait in the car at this next place," the nurse said, as they entered the car again. "A little girl is to have her tonsils and adenoids removed. The doctor is to be there at half-past ten, and there won't be anything that you can do. Yesterday afternoon I went in to see that everything was in readiness, so I won't be so very long this morning."

Bed-Ridden Six Years.

Three-quarters of an hour later the V. O. N. car started off on another errand of mercy, this time to an old lady who for over six years had been bedridden. The nurse bathed her, dressed her hair, made her comfortable in a fresh white nightdress and woolly jacket, and then brought Mrs. Good in to chat while she speedily made the small room straight and tidy. The old lady dearly loved news of the outside world, and enjoyed the few minutes' gossip.

"Gracious! It's nearly 12 now!" exclaimed Mrs. Good, as they drove away. "I had no idea it was so late. It's all been so interesting."

"I'm glad you found it so," answered the nurse. "If you are interested enough to go out again this afternoon, I'll call for you about half-past one, as I have to go away out on the Eastroad to see a woman who is to be confined next month. I usually do pre-natal instruction work in the afternoons. I'll drop you here, if you don't mind, as it is only a block from our house, and I can save time by going up this side street which gives onto the lane where our garage is. Goodbye till this afternoon, then!"

Women's Canadian Club Banquets London Writers

Opens Canadian Book Week by Doing Honor to Members of the Profession Residing in London.

Once again the Women's Canadian Club has banqueted the members of the writing profession in London. Nearly 30 guests as well as club members were present at Smallman & Ingram's dining-room last night, when the speakers of the occasion were John M. Gunn and Miss E. Yeates. The object of the banquet, this year as in years past, was to give encouragement to those who produce by means of the pen. And for this purpose, a night immediately preceding Canadian Book Week was chosen as the fitting time. Mrs. F. W. Hughes, president of the club, was in the chair. A very special guest from out of town was Peter MacArthur of Appin.

As an introduction to the main address of the evening on Canadian poetry, Miss Yeates explained the origin and purpose of the Canadian Book Week and the Canadian Authors' Association, which is but three years old. She pointed out that within the last few years the production of books in Canada had been on the increase. In 1917 but 26 books were published, in 1918 the record was 43, in 1920 as many as 70, while in 1921 there were 400 books published.

John Gunn Speaks.

Mr. Gunn gave a very attractive talk on the poetry which has been created in Canada by Canadians, quoting frequently from the most prominent Canadian writers of verse. He made special mention of Isabella Crawford, Pauline Johnston, the Scotts, Lampman, Campbell, Roberts and Carman, referring to the peculiar fact that all were born within the same three-year period, 1860 to 1862, thus establishing in Canada the theory that the great literature of the world has appeared in periods of special brilliancy.

The speaker dealt more especially with the London poets and poets associated with London. He mentioned Dr. Drummond as the poet, outside of London, who was most closely associated with the city. Peter McArthur of Appin and Miss Grace Blackburn, both present at the banquet, were referred to in glowing terms. Both appeared in John Garvin's book of Canadian poets, and none had a greater right to be there. Others who had written in London and were former classmates of Mr. Gunn, were Jesse Middleton and Arthur Stringer. Robert Norwood, too, was mentioned.

Guests of Honor.

The guests of honor at last night's banquet were announced to the assembled club members as follows: Mrs. J. W. Russell, writer of children's poems; Miss Grace Blackburn (Fan Fan), writer of poems, plays and descriptive newspaper articles; Miss Susan Blackburn, translations from the French and articles on Japan; John Stevenson, writer of poetry; Mrs. John Crawford, who assisted in compiling a guide to nature study; Mrs. D. C. MacGregor (Marion Keith), author of "Duncan Polite," "The Bells of St. Stephen's," who is now about to publish "A Gentleman Adventurer"; John M. Gunn, writer of a volume of poems and poems contributed to magazines; Dr. F. R. Miller, writer of valuable treatises on physiology; Dr. Hill, articles on public health and on bacteriology and pathology; Miss Jennie Fidlar, writer of poems and editor of London Life Journal; Miss R. Kennedy, Miss O. Hogg and Miss Brown, all engaged in journalistic work; Miss Beatrice Taylor, author of "The Story of Karthan," a Christmas story now in book form, writer of poetry and engaged in journalistic work; Miss Judith Pendergast, mercantile journalist; Miss McInnis, writer of articles for newspapers; Peter MacArthur of Appin, author of "In Pastures Green," "The Red Cow," and many newspaper articles; Mrs. John Thorburn (Amy Campbell), writer of poetry; S. R. Smith, editor of the Maple Leaf.

LOCH LOMOND CHAPTER.

The home of Mrs. J. Rogers, Quebec street, was the scene of an interesting event this week, when the Loch Lomond Chapter, I. O. D. E., entertained there at a euchre party in aid of the chapter funds. Mrs. George Eddie and Mr. Chivas were the prize winners, Mr. Chivas also winning the lone hand prize for gentlemen. The ladies' lone hand prize went to Mrs. Vine. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. James Hendry, regent of the chapter, Mrs. T. E. Waugh, Mrs. Eddie and Miss Robertson.

The chapter is planning a series of concerts to be put on during the winter at the Byron Sanatorium and Westminster Hospital, Mrs. Thomas Macdonald and Mrs. Robert Brown being the conveners. An autograph quilt is also another chapter undertaking.

BABY AND DOLL BOOTH.

The baby and doll booth will be one of the biggest attractions at the Sunshine Club of Trinity Chapter Bazaar to be held this month. Pink and blue is the color scheme, and the committee in charge has saved no effort to make the booth one of the prettiest of the whole bazaar. Mrs. Bright Chapman is convener, and will be assisted by Mrs. O. I. Cunningham, Mrs. W. A. McWilliams, Mrs. Waters, Mrs. Werry, Mrs. F. Ross, Mrs. Sid Jones, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Caughey, Mrs. Paul Doidge and Mrs. J. G. Gammage. Other interesting booths are the handkerchief booth, with Miss Laura Bayly in charge, the fish pond and orange tree convened by Miss Hazel Jones, and the candy stall convened by Miss Florence Wooton. Assistants will be Miss Ella Upshall, Miss Edith Jones, Miss Willa Gammage, Miss Greta Wilkins, Mrs. M. Barr and Mrs. F. Ballantyne.

LONDONERS VISIT INGERSOLL.

The Centennial Concert Orchestra of this city, under the direction of Theodore R. Gray, and the Centennial Ladies' Quartet visited Ingersoll this week and presented a delightful concert there in the Baptist Tabernacle. The program included orchestral numbers, which were received with great enthusiasm. The solo numbers, given by Dr. Kenneth MacLean, baritone; Miss Dorothy Cahill, violinist, and Miss Helen Clarke, elocutionist, were also given a splendid reception by the large audience in attendance.

WOMEN TEACHERS' GUILD.

Miss Grace Blackburn has promised to address the Women Teachers' Guild at their next meeting to be held on Monday, Nov. 26.

WAUKETA CLUB.

A successful rummage sale was held at 727 Dundas street, under the auspices of the Wauketa Club, proceeds of which will be devoted to Christmas baskets for poor families, proteges of the club.

SIMCOE CLUB BAZAAR.

Among those who were actively concerned in the Simcoe Mothers' Club bazaar, held at the school yesterday, was Mrs. Rowland Munroe, who assisted in the fancy work booth, and Mrs. Archie McCallum and Mrs. Harry Bradford, both assistants in the apron booth.

LAFLOT CLUB ELECTS.

Miss Lillian Sproule was elected treasurer of the Laflot Girls' Club at a recent meeting of the club held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Wooster, Colborne street. Miss Sproule succeeds Miss May Watts, who has just completed a most successful term of office. The meeting took the form of a social evening, Miss Birdie Spettigue presiding. Miss Helen Humeston, Emery street, is lending her home for the next meeting, to be held on November 26.

Dear Marie,
Guess again, old dear! It was the best prize ever. I told the girls that at first, so they all played like fury. I said it was something that would make them much more beautiful — something that would make their skin as smooth as a kitten's wrist — so they all breathlessly watched the lucky lady pull forth a huge bottle of Campana's Italian Balm
The result was as magic as Campana's itself. We are soon going to enter a Beauty Contest 'en masse'!!
Peggy.

VICTORIA MOTHERS' CLUB.

The Rev. G. G. Warner will address the members of the Victoria Mothers' Club at their regular meeting on Tuesday next, to be held in the school. The subject of his address will be "The Juvenile Court."

C. E. F. CHAPTER DANCE.

The members of the C. E. F. Chapter, I. O. D. E., are meeting at 2:30 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., King street, to make further plans for the dance which the chapter will hold in the Winter Gardens on the night of Dec. 11. The dance is to be of a decidedly different character from the usual charity dance, held in the Winter Gardens, in that the admission fee is to be very small, the aim of the chapter being to get thousands of people to attend the dance, and thus raise funds for relief among the returned soldiers' families of the city. Mrs. B. J. Dunlevy is regent of this energetic little body of women who are carrying on a splendid work in the city.

SICKENING HEADACHES ENDED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Effect was splendid when she tried this Fruit Medicine

East Ship Harbour, N.S.

"For years, I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches, and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicines seemed to help me and I was almost discouraged.

Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and the effect was splendid; and after taking one box, I can safely say I am well. I feel like a new person in every way and I am deeply thankful to have relief from those sickening headaches".

Mrs. MARTHA DE WOLFE.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Headaches due to Constipation because they act directly on the liver and cause the bowels to move regularly and naturally. This rids the system of impurities and keeps the blood pure and rich. "Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices combined with tonics, are pleasant to take and mild and gentle in action.

The Fall Weather Hard on Little Ones

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on the little ones. One day it is warm and bright, and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds, and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box, from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

Nanny Finally Consents To Go Near the Man-Bird In the Night

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

For several days the man-bird remained on the Green Meadows near Farmer Brown's corn field. Not once did it go up in the air. The aviator came down to it every day, and usually Farmer Brown's Boy came with him. They worked on the machine, and of course all the little people who saw them were very curious.

Now when you see a thing long enough you become used to it, and if you have been afraid of it you little by little lose that fear. It was this way with Nanny Meadow Mouse. As she grew less afraid of it she grew more curious about it. Finally she ventured to go over near it in the night with Danny Meadow Mouse. But she wouldn't climb up in it. She even tried to stop Danny from climbing up in it. But Danny had no fear of it, and in spite of all she could do he did climb up in it. When he came down again he brought her some delicious food, and he told her that there was plenty more up there if she would only come and get it. You see that aviator hadn't forgotten his little friend. He felt sure that Danny would return to the aeroplane, and so he always left food there.

Danny told Nanny all about the inside of that man-bird, and Nanny grew more and more curious. She just ached to go with Danny and see it. But she was too timid. She just couldn't trust herself in that man-bird even though it seemed so harmless. But she couldn't keep away from it. Even in the daytime she would steal over where she could look at that great man-bird and think about all the wonderful things that Danny had told her of his journey in it.

Danny came and went as he pleased. He had no fear at all. He was getting fat with the good living which he didn't have to work for. But do what he would he couldn't get Nanny to come up inside with him. Not even curiosity and the desire for good things to eat could overcome Nanny's timidness. She couldn't forget how Danny had been carried away. Even though he had been brought back, she couldn't bring herself to trust that man-bird.

Now all this time the aviator had been keeping a sharp watch. He knew, of course, that Danny had been making daily visits to that aeroplane. He knew it because the food kept disappearing. Once or twice he caught a glimpse of Danny scampering along one of his private little paths in the grass. Then one day he spied Nanny peeping out at him from a little clump of grass. He knew it wasn't Danny because Danny had just disappeared in another direction.

Finally she ventured to go over near it in the night with Danny Meadow Mouse.

That afternoon when he left, the aviator left some food on the ground under that aeroplane. That night Nanny had a feast. After that she looked for food there every day after the aviator and Farmer Brown's Boy had left, and never was she disappointed. She, too, began to grow fat.

SAFE FAT REDUCTION

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the over-fat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness; revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly, and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famously harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory, beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a box or sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets.—Advt.

The big Bakeries use STORED HEAT too

AFTER the fires under gigantic ovens in bakeries have been drawn, the bakers continue for hours to bake bread, pies and cakes.

Why? Because the bricks of the oven have retained the "flash" heat of the fire and "stored" it.

So, too, once McClary's Electric Oven has become thoroughly heated, the current may be turned "off" and the oven goes merrily along baking for hours.

The same principle operates in Tor-Red Protected Elements, found only on McClary's Electric Range.

Widowers Versus Bachelors as Husbands. The Lonesome Young Wife With a Clam-on-Ice Husband—The Girl Whose Fiance Is Several Sizes Too Small.

Dear Miss Dix,—Can a young girl hope for happiness if she marries a widower, or would she be happier if she married a young man of her own age? I have two offers of marriage, and am much perplexed about the situation. What would you advise me to do? TROUBLE.

Answer:

Marry the one you love the best, and who is most congenial to you. Nothing else really counts in marriage but that.

But so far as widowers are concerned, they are a preferred matrimonial risk, and, other things being equal, make better husbands than men who have never been married.

You see, a young man thinks that he knows all about women, and how to manage them, and he is set on being the head of the house, and being obeyed. He has figured out on paper just how much money it will take to live on. He thinks that a woman can do her own housework, and always keep her hands in a nice, squeezable condition, and wear pretty clothes, and meet him with a glad, sweet smile, and that she will spend her time telling him how grateful she is to him for having married her, and giving her a nice, easy job where she doesn't have anything to do but cook, and clean the house, and sew, and patch, and darn, etc.

And so, when the wife doesn't come up to the specifications of the young man's fancy, he gets grouchy and grumpy, and there are family scraps, and he knocks because the bills are big, and tells her she looks sloppy, and there is generally a pretty stormy time while the two are getting adjusted to each other.

But the widower has been through all of this preliminary training. He is house-broken. He has found out that it takes money to run a house, and he doesn't have a fit when the bills come in. He has lost his ambition to be the family boss and like Kipling's hero, he has "learned about women" from the one he has been married to, and has found out that the way to get along with one is to jolly her, and not try to drive her.

You will often hear people say how much better a man treats his second wife than he did his first. It is just because his matrimonial experience has made him wise, and given him patience, and sympathy, and understanding of women.

Of course, if a widower has children, that complicates the situation. It takes the wisdom of Solomon and the patience of Job to deal with stepchildren, and no young woman should undertake such a responsibility. But the childless widower makes the best of husbands, and lucky is the woman who is invited to step into No. 1's well-broken shoes.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am so unhappy. My husband is so cold and hard to me. He never shows me any affection, or tells me that he loves me, and when I try to make a fuss over him he pushes me away. I like to be petted. I am only twenty-one years old, and am pretty.

I know a young man who is very kind to me, and admires me very much, and I have been thinking of going with him. If I do not get any love and tenderness at home, have I not a right to get it elsewhere?

LONESOME WIFE.

Answer:

No, Lonesome Wife, you can't feed your starving heart on stolen love without having to pay the penalty for it. Because your husband doesn't make a fuss over you, you can't listen to other men's lovemaking without bringing tragedy into your life. Because your husband neglects you, you can't play around with other men without smirching your good name.

It is hard to be young and pretty, and to crave love, and tenderness, and admiration, and to be married to a dolt who never notices what you have on, or how you look, or makes you a nice speech, or shows you any affection, and it is a great temptation to have one's fling with the men who are always willing to give a good-looking married woman a good time. But it doesn't pay. It is better to be lonesome than it is to be the heroine of a scandal.

But I always wonder what these clams-on-ice husbands are thinking about when they leave a pretty young wife to her own devices, and if they haven't enough sense to know that when a man quits making love to his wife while she is still young and attractive, some other man begins.

And I also wonder if any man is vain enough to think that any pretty young woman, hungry for love, is satisfied just to sit up and think about him, when there are as many fascinating men in the world as there are.

And most of all, I wonder that men are so stingy with love talk when just a few tender words keep a wife satisfied and happy.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am in love with a man who is everything that a man should be, except that he is shorter of stature than I, and when we go out together I always imagine that people are laughing at us because he is smaller than I am. Do you think that in time I will get used to my friends joking me about marrying a little man? Is it foolish to give up a man you love because of his size? A READER.

Answer:

If a man has a small heart, or a narrow mind, or a little brain, it is a good reason for not marrying him, but his height has nothing to do with his desirability as a husband. Some of the biggest, finest-looking men are nothing but brutes who beat and bang their wives around, and who haven't intelligence enough to make a decent living, while there are plenty of little men who have great souls, and who are so strong, and steadfast, and dependable, that they make the best and tenderest of husbands.

Many of the greatest men in history have been little men. Many of the most successful businessmen are small men. In the days when a man defended his wife and family with his good right arm it was desirable to marry a giant. But now, when a man protects his own with his wits, it is the size of his brain, and not his biceps, that count.

Nobody but fools find anything humorous in a wife being taller than her husband. You can afford to ignore their cackle, so go along and marry the man you want without regarding his height.

WEDDINGS

BEAME—CAMBRIDGE.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was the scene of a pretty wedding this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, when Irene Cambridge, daughter of Mrs. O. W. Cambridge and the late O. W. Cambridge, was married to Cela Beame of Detroit, Mich. Elder Frank Gray performed the ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated with ferns, palms, 'mums and roses, and as the bridal party entered the wedding march was played by Mr. Albert Arnott. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ernest Cambridge, wore a graceful gown of ivory duchess satin, with an overdress of silk embroidered net and pearl trimmings. She wore the customary veil of silk net, heavily embroidered, and arranged with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Mary Cambridge was her sister's bridesmaid, and wore a gown of light blue georgette, heavily beaded, a silver lace hat, with streamers, and gray slippers and hose. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and white 'mums. Little Ronald Richardson, acted as ring-bearer, wearing a sailor suit, and carrying an anchor banked with pomponis. Mr. L. Rankin was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Floyd Cake and Nelson Ridley. During the signing of the register, Miss Grace Crouse sang "O Fair, O Sweet, O Holy."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of bride on Rectory street. The house was decorated with flowers, carrying out a color scheme in amber and coral.

Mr. and Mrs. Beame left later on a honeymoon to Chicago and other western cities. The bride donned for traveling a sunbeam blue panne velvet frock, with ermine trimmings, and caught at the side with long steel ornaments. She wore a French hat and a seal coat. Gray shoes and hose completed her costume. Upon their return they will reside in Detroit.

The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial check; to the bridesmaid and soloist, vanity cases; to the best man and organist, gold knives, and to the ring-bearer, an umbrella. Among the many gifts received by the bride was a check from her mother.

Drive For Arena, Only Two Days Old, Is Meeting With Success

Hockey Committee To Meet Tuesday or Wednesday Night

Chairman Jack Greer Returns From Trip With Program Ready.

Unofficial reports indicate that the civic organizations and social clubs of the city are making good progress on their drive to raise the remaining $10,000 for the new ice arena, and with Chairman Greer of the L. A. A. A. hockey committee returning to the city today, the hockey program which has been held up will be threshed out.

It is more than possible that with mayoralty complications, Chairman [illegible]er may feel that he will not have the time to devote to hockey. He has done a good deal of work on the hockey program, and the committee which will likely be called at the first of the week will have something definite to go on.

A hasty survey of some of the talent in the Manufacturers' League this year indicates that London is not going to be so badly off for intermediate material as was first supposed. In fact, there are more intermediate players in view than the city has had for some years, though only work-outs on the ice will reveal the city's real strength. One particularly good man from the West unfortunately arrived in the city several days after August 1, and will not be available, but he will be able to perform in the Manufacturers'.

The committee will discuss the advisability of getting a pro coach, and if anybody is considered in this connection it will undoubtedly be Goldie Prodger. However, there is a lot of building to be done in hockey in London, and the expense of a coach may not be undertaken for this year. Opinions seem to vary greatly on the proposition.

A meeting of the hockey committee early in the week should give the arena drive added impetus.

LONDON TO HAVE 4-TEAM CAGE GROUP IN 'WOSSA'

De La Salle Enters Cage Arena and Is Also Promoting Inter-Form League.

De La Salle as well as organizing for inter-form basketball, will enter a team in the "Wossa" series which will give London a four-team group in this competition. f hard competition to produce a winner in this group means anything, the local victor should be certain of the finals.

Central Collegiate, London South, London East and De La Salle are all working out hard for their cage campaign. London East have Bill Wanless, around whom will be built a fast team; London South is putting every effort forth on its team.

Central Collegiate lost their good team of last year by graduation and through other reasons. Barbour, Ken Murray, W. Logan, C. B. Chapman and C. Bice, however, provide some of the material out of which a team as good as that of last season may be expected.

Carrothers secretary of the society.

HAMILTON RIVALRY REACHES HIGH PEAK

Tigers-Rowing Club Battle Gives Promise of Action Every Minute.

BENGALS FAVORED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—The "big time" rugby for Eastern Canada tomorrow will be at Hamilton. That city has been put back on the football map in no uncertain manner when the redoubtable Tigers nosed Argos out for the championship of the Big Four and the Hamilton Rowing Club grabbed off the O. R. F. U. championship. Tomorrow they meet on Tigers' grounds to decide which team will play Queen's University in Kingston the following week in the semi-finals for the Dominion championship. The rivalry between the two Hamilton teams is exceedingly keen and tomorrow's game will be fought to the last minute. While Tigers are called to win the display, the Oarsmen's game against Parkdale here on Thanksgiving Day stamps them as a sturdy, resourceful team which may give the Bengals a surprise.

Of the exhibition games, that between Argonauts and Queen's here is the excitement in this city. With good weather it will draw one of the biggest "gates" this season. The tri-color team reached Toronto tonight all set to continue its unbroken string of victories.

It will probably be a close game, with the slow-moving but powerful Argo machine tested before the snappy, quick-thinking system that has not failed this season to bring success to the Tri-Color. The back field runs of the collegians, which have played no little part in their victories, will tomorrow be up against the Argo line, which has scarcely ever failed this season to smother similar plays by their opponents, but whether the line will be as successful against such a dazzling pair as Leadley and Batstone remains to be seen.

Conacher will not be on the Scullers' line-up. One report is that he could not leave Bellefonte Academy, and the other that the Argo players objected to bringing the former captain back for the game, at any rate the "Big Train" will not be in action.

HOPES TO REMAIN LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION.

Gene Tunney, holder of the United States light heavyweight title, will defend his crown against Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 10. It will be recalled that Tunney was a light heavyweight topnotcher in the United States army in France and that he began his comeback as a civilian fighter by getting the better of Charlie Weinert when they last met.

Fistic pyrotechnics will be the order of the night when Tunney meets Greb, as these two have become "bust 'im" friends since the former was given the decision over Greb in their last encounter.

Ringside fans who are in the know will come to the fight in their Sunday armor, as it is no secret that Tunney loves Greb like a good-looking girl loves smallpox, and that when the melee is over one, or possibly two, New York hospitals are going to have a ring fighter on the soup-arnica-cotton batting list for a few weeks.

Down the Line In All Sports

The careful way in which the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association is labelled "original" would seem to indicate that the L.O.B.A. thinks it needs a trade mark to make sure that it might not be taken for any other provincial girls' basketball association.

So far there is no clash between the aims of the two organizations in girls' basketball, unless a clash is wished on them.

The L.O.B.A., for the present at least, stands as the senior organization and will perhaps be credited with playing better basketball. This may not be the case several years hence. In any case, even this year, the winner of either association will have to prove the right to the title of Ontario girls' basketball champions.

However, as things stand now, the L.O.B.A. is tied to the policy of allowing but one representative team to each city or town, whereas the aim of the new association is to spread opportunity over a large number of teams and develop basketball. The aims of the two are widely separated and, therefore, there should not be any clash—except for the Ontario girls' basketball title.

The American League by mail vote has decided to do away with fighting in its parks—that is with gloves and for huge purses. Ball players will still continue to give away a handicap in the shape of the rules and fines to the umpires for fighting to obtain what they consider their rights.

Developments at the annual meeting of the United States Amateur Athletic Union, which convenes at Detroit on Monday, will be watched with interest on both sides of the international boundary. An amendment to the constitution will be offered providing for men who are professionals in one branch of sport to compete in other branches as amateurs. Delegates from Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit are expected to fight for the amendment, but it is altogether unlikely to carry. The adoption of such a regulation would have a serious effect on international competition between the United States and Canada.

ZEV FAVORED TO WIN AT CHURCHILL DOWNS

Followers Predict Conqueror of Papyrus Will Beat In Memoriam.

Associated Press Despatch.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—Kentucky, the home of the thoroughbred, becomes the center of racing interest tomorrow for the second time within two weeks, with Zev, winner of the Kentucky Derby and conqueror of Papyrus, meeting In Memoriam, which, a fortnight ago, surprised the racing world by defeating Zev by six lengths in a mile and three-quarters race.

The match race between these rival 3-year-olds will be at a mile and a quarter for a purse of $30,000, with the prospects of a 40,000 attendance at the historic Churchill Downs course, provided weather conditions are favorable. The test is expected to settle the argument that has been raging since In Memoriam triumphed over Zev and My Own in the Latonia championship stakes two weeks ago.

Turf experts figured tonight that Zev, which has won eight out of nine races since capturing the Kentucky Derby, losing only to In Memoriam, would go to the post tomorrow a 3 to 5 favorite, while the price on In Memoriam, it was estimated, probably would be 8 to 5.

Hildreth Sees Unlucky Omens

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—Sam Hildreth, trainer of Zev, which meets In Memoriam in a $25,000 match race at Churchill Downs tomorrow, is trying to shake off a "jinx" and its possible effect on the outcome of the contest.

Coming to Louisville yesterday his train hit an automobile in Ohio and killed four men. A few minutes later the waiter who served Hildreth his breakfast brought him two unlucky two-dollar bills in change out of a five.

"That was too much," the trainer said. "I threw the money out of the window."

STRIBLING TO MEET JOE EGAN DESPITE INJURY

Associated Press Despatch.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 16.—Although W. L. (Young) Stribling's back is in a plaster cast, it is announced he will meet Joe Egan in Boston, Mass., November 26. The fight was originally set for November 21.

GREBB BEATS WIGGINS.

Associated Press Despatch.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 16.—Harry Greb of Pittsburg defeated Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis in ten rounds here last night in the opinion of newspaper writers. Greb did most of the leading throughout the fight, but neither boxer scored many effective blows. Greb weighed 166 pounds and Wiggins 177.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE. BY AHERN.

Wetzel Is Signed As Pilot of Hams In 1924 Campaign

Johnny Carlin Has Asked For Transfer to Some Other Club.

Special to The Advertiser.

Hamilton, Nov. 17. — If Hamilton has professional baseball during the next two seasons, it will also have Mr. Wetzel.

The man who has won more pennants in the M.-O. League than any other manager was a visitor in Hamilton yesterday, and it did not take long for him to come to terms with Dick Press and Billy Carroll, the Hamilton club magnates.

The conference started at 1:45 yesterday afternoon, and lasted less than half an hour. Just what salary Wetzel asked was not announced, but it must have been satisfactory to the local club. He left Hamilton last evening, and will represent the club at the league meeting in Chicago.

When Johnny Carlin was appointed manager last season, after Pierce resigned, it was figured in some quarters that the appointment was a permanent one. In fact, it was hinted by some of the directors at the time that all Johnny had to do was to show something during the balance of the season and the job would be his again next year. But Johnny failed to get the club any higher up in the race than his predecessor, and his chances were spoiled as a result.

Carlin Agreeable.

The appointment of Wetzel was not made without Carlin being consulted. At the last league meeting at Flint, Dick Press had a long conference with Carlin, and informed him of what the intentions were. Carlin agreed that the job of manager was perhaps a little too big for him, and he said that he had been well treated by the Hamilton Club, and any move they might make was quite satisfactory to him. The only stipulation that Carlin made was that he be traded to some other club, and this will no doubt be done, as Wetzel has several youngsters in view for next year's team, and will weed out the veterans on the roster.

SPORT SNAPSHOTS

There are signs of a long and severe winter. A despatch from Sudbury, Mass., announces that Mrs. Babe Ruth is laying in a big supply of canned goods. This is taken as an indication that Babe Ruth is about to start his hibernation, and that he will remain in Sudbury for the duration of the snows.

Last winter, when it was announced that the Babe would go into hibernation there was considerable skepticism. Correspondents with their dog teams and on snowshoes and skiis penetrated to the farm of the Babe and found that he was keeping his word. As a result of his retirement from the region of the white lights the Babe had quite a successful year, and retrieved himself for the poor showing of the previous season.

The Babe's habits have become so regular that the country tells the time of the seasons by him. When the Babe starts his hibernation it is winter. When they prepare his tub at Hot Springs for the big boiling out it is spring in Arkansas and everywhere else. When they begin to say that he isn't hitting them as often as he used to it is summer. When he gets his world's series check it is fall.

OWNERS OF BLUENOSE OFFER TO ARBITRATE

Request Schooner Race Trophy Trustees To Consider Legality.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 16.—In a lengthy statement to the trustees of the international fishermen's trophy regarding the legal phases of the ruling made by the 1923 international race committee during the course of the races, and violation of which resulted in the disqualification of the Lunenburg schooner Bluenose in the second race, W. P. Potter, solicitor for the Bluenose Schooner Company, Limited, sets forth the following request:

"I am authorized by my clients to suggest that if you, as trustees of the trophy, after careful consideration of the foregoing, do not feel justified in awarding the trophy to the master of the Bluenose, that the whole matter of the legality of the new rules made by the sailing committee, and the question whether or not the Bluenose violated them, be submitted either to arbitration or to a judge of the supreme court."

PETROLIA JUNIORS ASK GAME FOR TOWN TITLE

Special to The Advertiser.

Petrolia, Nov. 16.—The Petrolia junior rugby squad has challenged the local high school Wossa champions for a sudden death game to decide the championship of Petrolia. The juniors, who have played only two games this year, are anxious for another tilt, while the students have played seven games and appear to have had enough rugby.

They have one game to play with the Sarnia Collegiate, and after that the team members intend to get down to work at their studies. The juniors and high school teams are evenly matched, with the juniors having an edge in age and weight, while the students are much faster.

ZEV'S TRAINER ACCEPTS CHALLENGE OF GRAYSON

Associated Press Despatch.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 16.—A challenge issued Wednesday by Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson to start My Own against Zev, in Memoriam or Home Stretch in a match race at Bowie after Nov. 24 was accepted was accepted here tonight by Samuel C. Hildreth, trainer of the Rancocas stable's crack three-year-old.

Mr. Hildreth said he would ship Zev to Bowie after his match here tomorrow with In Memoriam, and that he was willing to match the colt with My Own on a "pay or play" basis.

De La Salle and Saints Play-Off

De La Salle rugby squad, which evened up its series with St. Thomas here Thanksgiving Day, will meet the Saint gridders on neutral ground. The date hasn't been decided upon nor the locality chosen, but it will be before the snow descends and on neutral territory.

The rivalry between the two teams has become quite intense and deciding this highway conference game has become of extreme importance.

OPPOSES CHANGE.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Nov. 16.—John A. Heydler, president of the National League, announced he would appose any change in the rules to deprive second and third place clubs of their share of world's series money, and any play to place the umpires under the jurisdiction of the commissioner.

Windsor Will Enter New Girls' Provincial Cage Association

WILL HAVE CHANCE FOR ONTARIO TITLE

London Girls' Basketball Teams Take New Lease of Life.

GROUPING COMPACT

The new Provincial Girls' Basketball Association, according to President Duncan of the Toronto Girls' Basketball League, will have at least a two-team league in Niagara Falls, probably a four-team loop. Ottawa forms the eastern outpost of the association, and will probably have a four-team league.

In Western Ontario, St. Thomas has made inquiries, and so have Guelph, Woodstock and Brantford. Windsor will be in with a group. The inexpensive features of the new organization are still more pronounced in Western Ontario, where the towns are so closely grouped together.

The local girls' teams have taken on a new lease of life since the prospect of playing their way into a provincial competition has been opened up. All the girls' teams in the city, including the Manufacturers' League which starts at the "Y" Monday night, will be affiliated. Declaring a winner out of London alone will give the fans some interesting basketball.

Athenaeums of the Toronto City League have asked for a game with the Thistles a week from Saturday night, and this game may be staged. Thistles as well as all the other teams are working out several nights weekly.

QUEEN'S NOT ANXIOUS ABOUT PLAYING REGINA

Players Are Eager To Devote More Time To Class Work.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Kingston, Nov. 16. — The Queen's athletic board of control is not particular whether Regina rugby team, winners of the Western Canada championship, comes east to play for the Dominion title. It was learned at the university today that the Queen's players, if they defeat Hamilton in Kingston on Nov. 24, would be satisfied to forget rugby until 1924. They realize that they have put a great deal of time into rugby this year, and if they are going to pass the examinations they must get down to business. University authorities insist that the players as well as all other Queen's students pass their examinations, and they will not pass any students because they take part in athletics.

Last year when Queen's seniors played the Edmonton Eskimos at the Richardson stadium, there was a $4,300 gate, and $4,000 was handed to the western champions, leaving a balance of $300 to pay the referees, advertising and other expenses, which meant that Queens lost about $1,000.

Queen's authorities are not inclined to make any guarantee to bring the western players east.

AMATEUR CIRCLES RESENT PRO RAIDS

Northern Ontario Hockey Magnates Disturbed by Recent Offers.

GOOD INDUCEMENTS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Sudbury, Nov. 16.—Raids of professionals on hockey players of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association are causing great uneasiness to the amateur magnates, for while pros have yet claimed only "Red" Green, it is stated that offers have been made to at least two other Sudbury stars and to two or three Soo players. It is known that one N. H. L. club has made an offer of $4,000 and a job guaranteed for one year at $35 weekly for one of these men.

Representatives of one Western Canada League club are now in this territory, and it is known that they are after Phillips and Donnelly of the Greyhounds, while one N. L. L. representative has been making inquiries around Timmins and Iroquois Falls this week.

A motion will come up at the N. O. H. A. meeting in North Bay tomorrow to permit intermediates to play off with seniors for the championship at the end of the season. The professional raids have had a considerable effect in winning support for this motion. One prominent fan has gone so far as to say that two years more will see no more senior hockey in the north, but that there will be an evenly-balanced intermediate circuit. Sudbury will accept the offer of the Toronto Granites for exhibition games, but want a home-and-home series, and they will try also to secure one or two other Toronto teams on the same plan.

Sault Ste. Marie has gone on record as against games in Toronto with the Granites, but are challenging the Olympic contenders to games in the Soo.

OPPOSE HELPING WEAKER TEAMS

Eastern Baseball Men Disfavor Suggestion Made in Chicago.

CALL PLAN UNFAIR

By JOHN B. FOSTER.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

New York, Nov. 16.—Any proposal that the weaker clubs, as they are known in the major leagues, shall be favored by priority of choice in the selection of players meets with scant favor on the part of those who originally formed the rules of baseball government.

It is held by some eastern clubs that such an alignment of teams against other teams in the same league closes the field for a fair and equitable distribution of playing talent. It discriminates against managerial judgment, they argue, putting a premium on poor management and selection of players by giving the unsuccessful manager the advantage over the manager who not only knows what he needs, but has earned enough money for his club to be able to afford it.

It is also a matter of curiosity to those who have listened to the ideas originated in Chicago, as to just who should be the judge of whether a team is weak or strong. A team may become weak overnight by injuries to players. Would it continue to be called strong on the theory that the players some day would recover, although its immediate condition might cost it its chance of a championship?

Could Sell Players.

Still another point is made: Suppose the so-called weak club did get priority of selection. What would prevent it from turning around and selling a good and needed player to another club? Would it still be adjudged a weak team, or would it be classified as a team which had deliberately weakened itself and thus be branded before its patrons as a club that was not over-anxious to win a championship?

It was held in the days of baseball's earliest origin that the only fair way to regard the player situation was on the basis of a fair field and no favor, so that no critic could say that any kind of artificial law restrained a club owner from making good if he had the disposition and the cash to do so. In other words, if baseball were a sport, it should be handled so that the tyro, if he entered the national game, would have an open market and as good a right to get players as the man who had been fashioning players all his life.

Blocks Second Raters.

In the same manner, the man who could win championships by virtue of his superior knowledge of players was not to be restrained from exercising his ability and his intelligence. There are times when a team in the thick of a championship fight needs to move quickly. If it is unable to do so, the league of which it is a member has placed an arbitrary check upon it.

Even now the leagues decline to permit their clubs to transfer players after a certain date, to prevent championships being "bought," but it works both ways, for it prevents a second division team from moving out of the hole in which it has pegged itself.

NEW YORK GIANTS SIGN AINSMITH, VET. CATCHER

New York, Nov. 16. — The New York Giants made another move in their reconstruction campaign when they signed Eddie Ainsmith, veteran catcher, who was a free agent.

Ainsmith played most of last season with the St. Louis Cardinals. Released late in the summer he was signed by Brooklyn as an emergency backstop, but let out unconditionally at the end of the diamond year.

FEATHERWEIGHT MARVEL LOOMING

Ernie Coozeman, Coast Fighter, Has Wolgast Battling Style.

MAY MEET BURMAN

BY FAIR PLAY.
Copyright.

New York, Nov. 16.—At last there appears to be a real, roaring, tearing, ever-battling featherweight in sight. He is Ernie Goozeman of the Pacific Coast, who has been opening the eyes of the middle west fans of late. His real test the other night against Billie Levine in East Chicago is touted as a revelation by men who have no financial interest in the boy. They say he likes to fight, and the fans know it from bell to bell.

Westerners say that the nearest approach to this fighting fool was Ad Wolgast, the Cadillac wildcat. Efforts are now making to match him against Joe Burman, and if he gets by this encounter with flying colors he will set sail for New York, where it is predicted he will be as great a sensation as was Stan Ketchell.

Maxy Hoff of Philadelphia is named as the biggest contributor to the benefit fund for poor Al Lippe, who has gone to Arizona, suffering from two diseases, either one of them unusually deadly. Hoff came up with two thousand dollars. More than five thousand dollars has been collected, and Billy Gibson, Leo Flynn, Jimmy Rothwell and others who have been raising the money say six thousand will be enough. Jeff Smith was Lippe's leading boxer.

Billy Gibson should make much of Pal Moore, the "uncrowned champion." Gibson says he is going to keep Pal busy all through the winter, which will please the fans because no walloper goes better with the customers than Moore.

From all appearances Harry Greb is going to be weaker than ever when he makes the weight limit of the class of which he is champion. The Pittsburg windmill is getting to be a big guy.

Have Common Fight Legend

Special to The Advertiser.

Forest, Nov. 16.—James Sayers of Warwick Township, near here, and William Benjamin of Forest became acquainted recently, and by comparing notes find that Mr. Sayers is the nephew of Tom Sayers, who was once England's greatest heavyweight fighter, and that Mr. Benjamin is the son of Bill Benjamin, who twice fought Tom Sayers for the championship.

They fought in 1858 and 1859, both times for a purse of £200, a big purse for a championship fight then. The seventh round of the second match is described by critics as being one of the fiercest in British ring history. Tom Sayers fought one notable battle for a purse of £5—just the price of a fair ringside seat now.

STAKES WILL BE MILLION FRANCS

French Race Enthusiasts Plan Great International Match Next May.

ENTERS EPINARD

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Nov. 16.—The winner of tomorrow's match race at Churchill Downs between Zev and In Memoriam will be invited directly to participate in an international cup race at Longchamps May 3 next, it was announced tonight. The race, in which it is hoped to have representatives of the British, United States, Spanish, Italian, Belgian and French turfs, will be for stakes of 1,000,000 francs, and will be run over a distance of one mile and a quarter, the horses carrying 126 pounds.

The organizing committee, representing the Longchamp Racing Society and the newspaper Le Journal, acting under the auspices of the Jockey Club of France reached its decision today. With the exception of the United States, the invitation had been sent to the jockey clubs of the various countries, which will be asked to designate the best qualified horses of the breeding of 1920 as their representative.

Pierre Wertheimer, the owner of Epinard, outstanding French three-year-old, has definitely agreed to enter his horse, and is ready to make side bets with the United States and British owners, as owing to the depreciation of the franc, the amount of the stakes when converted into dollars or pounds would make less of an impression in the United States and Great Britain.

One million francs, however, is the largest stakes ever disputed for in France, the Grand Prix de Paris, the richest fixture of the French turf, never having exceeded 600,000 francs.

M. Wertheimer plans to said for New York on Dec. 1 to get into personal touch with either Harry F. Sinclair, the owner of Zev, or Karl Wiedemann, In Memoriam's owner, depending upon which horse wins tomorrow, so as to settle the question of side bets.

JUNIOR CUE CHAMPIONSHIP SCHEDULED FOR DETROIT

New York, Nov. 16. — A junior world's series championship, 18.2 balkline billiard tournament, open to players falling short of being able to make the regular world's professional 18.2 balkline tournament, will be held in Detroit, Nov. 18 to 28, it was announced tonight. The winner in this tournament, or rather the champion at the time the international entries close, will be eligible to play in the next world's championship 18.2 balkline tournament.

THE PANORAMA OF BASEBALL

A Pictorial History of the Growth of the Game.

BASEBALL AS IT WAS ONCE PLAYED.

In the recent world series there was a play of Meusel's which, had it not turned out successfully, would have cost his club some $50,000. In the 1912 series Fred Snodgrass of the Giants muffed a fly ball and because of that his club lost the pennant and $30,000 besides. In 1908 Fred Merkle failed to touch second base and his mstake cost the Giants $75,000 and each player about $2,500. These financial turns of the wheel of fortune in baseball show how complicated the game has become. By the side of it, baseball in its infancy was indeed an infant.

At the time the Knickerbockers of New York were established, there were two games of ball in vogue. New England would have nothing to do at first with ball as she was played in New York, and it was just as bitter vice versa. To the credit of the New York game it must be said that it was nearer the game as we know it today, though both in New York and in Boston they allowed some curious things to happen, like "soaking" and catching a ball on the bound.

The Massachusetts game was adopted by the New England Association of Baseball Players on April 7, 1860. Two years before this the rules were first drawn up to enable teams in different parts of New England to meet on a common basis with no room for material dispute. Before this there had been organized clubs in Massachusetts; as early as 1854 the Olympics of Boston were to the fore and in 1856 the Commons saw exciting contests between the Olympics and the Green Mountains. Then in 1857 there was a deluge of new clubs, like the Bay State, the Tri-Mountain, the Bunker Hill and the Winthrop. It might well be said that it was the healthy work of the Tri-Mountains that removed from Boston old-timers a consuming opposition to the game and it was this club also that first consented to try the New York game in an effort to standardize the game, regardless of locality.

What were some of the characteristics of the New England game of baseball Strange, indeed, does it sound that wooden stakes were needed for bases; that one or two men were allowed behind the catcher to field for him, so to speak, in case he allowed any ball to pass him. They did not use a diamond, but played in a square, and the bases were called bounds. To make the four bases was to make a round or tally, and the players at the bat took their "knocks." The wooden bases, or stakes, projected four feet from the ground, an instrument of torture for the modern player who wants a bag sufficiently inviting to break the fall when a slide is necessary. There were referees and tallymen, for a round of the bases counted as one tally and seventy tallies counted a game.

As in the New York game, however, there were indications that the New England game had possibilities for future development. The men who came to the bat in those days used to stall a game unmercifully. Pitchers served balls until the muscles of their pitching arms fairly quivered with pain. But the 1860 Massachusetts rules put a stop to this procedure; balls allowed to pass that were considered good were called strikes, and three of them meant "out." One of the sport writers of the day, having his curiosity aroused by the shape of the bat, said in an article, "the players have bats or sticks something of the form of a policeman's truncheon."

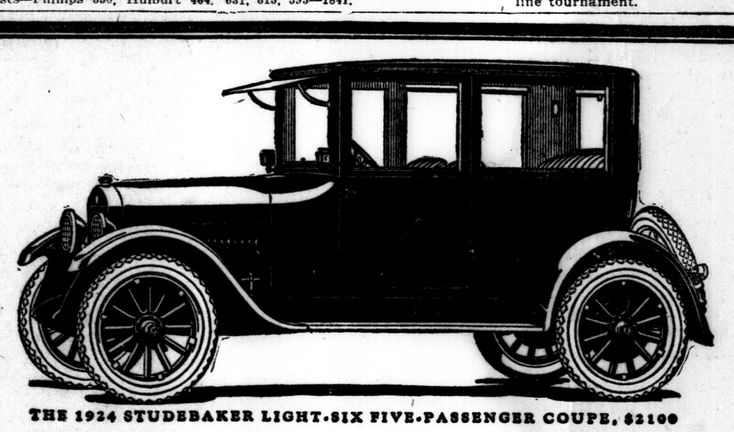

The fan of those days who witnessed a New York game or a Massachusetts game was treated to curious proceedings. Many was the time a base runner was carried from the field, the ball having soaked him in the ribs and left several broken. Many was the time a fielder whipped his cap from his head, thus catching the ball. Soak a man with a ball today and see what the umpire would say; resort to cap catching and hear the modern fan roar. The square field of the Massachusetts game was a relic of four-old cat or town ball.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1923.

Meeting of the W. F. O.

A number of resolutions await the annual gathering of the U. F. O. in Toronto, many of them urging that the organization leave the political arena.

The course of action taken will, of course, be a matter for the members of that society to decide. Some of the resolutions go so far as to state that they do not want Mr. Drury as leader, and that they are opposed to his ideas of broadening out.

The discussion will probably be pointed and frank, for the U. F. O. has never been noted for whispering when the members gather together to discuss their own business or politics.

There is one reasonable basis from which all the discussion could proceed, and that is that the U. F. O. in its political or business activity was an honest and sincere effort to better the conditions of the farming community. The measure of success or failure that attended these efforts will find its counterpart in the success or failure of any one of a dozen other political or business concerns.

There can be no charge that any of the members have made money out of the work; many of them have lost money.

Any great community like the farming industry in Ontario must by necessity and desire reach out for some plan that will give those engaged a central organization, or a district organization. The need for this comes because farmers feel that many times those from whom they purchase or to whom they sell are in a position of having the advantage by reason of a better organization.

The making of such a machine to suit the complex needs of thousands of farmers, widely separated, some dairying, others general farming, stock raising or in any of the special lines—it is not a simple matter, but it is a great chance.

Back of it all there is the driving force gathered from the fact that if the farmers do not look after their own business no one else will.

January or April.

An attempt was made at a meeting of city council on Friday night to reopen the salary question. There was doubt as to whether the increased pay dated from January 1, 1923, or April 1, 1923, as one date was in the bylaw and the other on the salary list—two separate documents.

An amending bylaw to put the date at April 1 failed to get a third reading and there were too many sitting tight to allow the handspike to be prodded into the old bylaw, so there it stands, and the date is from January 1, with an amending bylaw two-thirds of the way through to make the date April 1.

Now, if before any further action is taken on the amending bylaw, the city hall staff are all given back pay to January 1, what is going to be done with the amending bylaw, in case it ever passes?

These two dates should never have been before the council at all. There were some votes cast by aldermen on the understanding that salary increases were operative from April 1, because that date was on the salary list at the previous council meeting, and it was from that date that the reorganization of the assessment department dated.

There is no reason why any such dual dates should come into the consideration. An ordinary business concern would never trip over a loose plank in this way.

The City Finances.

The end of the fiscal year in London does not terminate with the close of the council life and the appeal to the people. True the council retains office until the end of the year, but the people elect the 1924 council a month before that time.

The matter of balancing receipts and expenses naturally comes up at election time. Will there be a surplus or a deficit on the year's operations? When the estimates were struck at the first of the year there were several items brought in of a windfall or emergency nature, in order to bring the tax rate as low as possible.

On page 10 of the estimates is an item $5,000, being profits over a period of time from the fish market. This was put in "for use only as guarantee to Western Fair." It has been used for that purpose. That course was open to question. There is need of new buildings on the market, and the natural thing would have been to have used money that was made from the market to improve the place.

On page 74 is another amount from the soldiers' dependents' fund. There was a surplus in that account, an accumulation from previous years, and $12,390 was put in with 1923 receipts, "to reduce tax rate of current year."

Also there was included in the estimates $15,000 which the city hoped to collect as school tax in the annexed area of the city. This has not been collected, but it has been spent by the city. These three amounts make $32,390 that the 1923 council had in the way of cash from unusual sources, two of which cannot be drawn on again, and the third has not yet been confirmed by court.

The next matter is whether the 1923 estimates have been lived up to or exceeded. The Western Fair grant went in the estimates as $5,000. The total amount paid the fair to make up for lowered admission fee was $9,504, making an excess of $4,504.

The Brittain report was not in the 1923 estimates, and the city share of that is $2,700. Juvenile court is a 1923 undertaking for which $2,500 must be provided. Grants to various organizations are about $1,000 over estimates. The advertising bill, including Old Home Week, Western Fair, etc., is $3,000 over the estimate, and getting out the voters' list will call for an extra $2,000, being the difference between the present price and the cost of doing it in the city clerk's office. The total of this is $15,700, and the only place where there may be revenue to offset it is in fines from the police court, which might possibly be enough over the estimated amount to take care of the cost of the juvenile court. The council may have some money up its sleeve, but it is not apparent yet. On the basis of the above figures it looks like an overdraft year of $15,000 in the above items, and $15,000 that was not collected from the annexed area, making $30,000 in all. We would like to see the figures work out otherwise, but these amounts are there and must be accounted for.

Have we increased the debt this year? This point was emphasized by Mayor Wenige in his campaign. It was No. 9 on his program, and said "A pay-as-you-go policy will be adhered to . . . . our debt must be reduced," etc. For the minute leave out the question of debt reduction, and let us take the business of keeping it at a fixed or given point. That would mean that each year we could incur as much new debt as we paid off on old accounts. The estimates show that the total debentures maturing this year, added to the yearly payment on term debentures, amounted to $263,011. If we were to keep our debt fixed—not allowing it to increase—we could have in the year 1923 issued $263,011 of new debentures.

The debentures issued in 1923 have amounted as follows:

Public schools	$266,100
Land for collegiate and public schools	20,500
Technical school	35,000
Registry office	75 000
Total issue 1923	$396,600
Maturing	263,011
Increase debt	$133,589

It may be argued that $321,000 of these debentures were for school purposes, and therefore out of control of the council. The council can refuse to sanction any expenditure, in which case the board of education could take the matter to the people. Neither was there a vote of the people on $75,000 for the new registry office. So that in 1923 there has been no vote on the spending of $396,600, which increased the debenture debt by $133,589.

The view is not urged that these expenditure were not needed, but it is a fact that in 1923 $396,600 debentures were issued on which the people did not vote, and as a result we are $133,589 away from a pay-as-you-go policy on the year's work.

It points to one thing only, and that is we must have sterner financing, because it is out of the question that we shall go on year after year piling up more than we pay off.

Note and Comment.

A cent off on a gallon of gas is more talked about than a mill chopped from the tax rate.

One writer claims that the chief difference between a pig and other critters is that the pig knows what he's squealing for.

Of course things might be better in this part of the country, but, in the words of Old Bill, "If you know a better 'ole 'op to it."

This apple a day idea is making folks so expert that they can go all around, behind and ahead of the worm, and never hit him.

To the Editor

TEN YEARS AGO AND NOW.

British Visitor In London Sees A Number of Changes, All Pointing to Americanization of Canada.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Ten years ago I was in the stores in London and other Ontario cities, and it was pleasant to the sight of an exile to see everywhere the evidences of British kindred; in the stores, about the street, and in the expressions of the people.

But my present visit shows a vast change. Not a British magazine or book in the stores; all replaced by American trash. Other stores with other wares, all pandering to Americanism.

From the expressions of the people, particularly the younger end, one gathers nothing but a blind admiration for all things south of the border.

Ridiculous shows, depicting the stupid absurdity of "Barney Google," are crowded to the sidewalks, while recently the "Dickens character" players in a nearby city played to almost an empty house.

The one was a contemptible absurdity, the other was educational; but the one was American, the other only British.

Here and there one meets the American "bull shooter" with his usual loud talk, ingratiating himself here by the simple process of sneers against Britain, a process that would have been sufficient to send him home ten years ago. But, indeed, he need not go to this trouble; he is met more than half way, for in the week or so I have been here, I have heard more suspicion and dislike against Britain than I heard in a full year in the United States.

It is an opinion, not very much conceded in the United States, that they do not want annexation now—they can exploit us quite easily without.

We, the people of the British Empire, are the victims of circumstances. We have come out poor—honorably poor—from the mighty part we played in the war, and perhaps it is natural for the younger set to look with some admiration and envy on the only nation that made money out of the conflict, but it is a feeling that showed he fought against.

One's hope lies in a line or so from Dickens: "It is well for an unsound hobby to be ridden hard; it is ridden the sooner to its death."

We will, no doubt, recover, and in the years to come look back with shame and anger on the subservience in which we now appear to glory.

MUD ON SIDEWALKS.

Builders of New Houses Asked To See That Sidewalks Are Kept Free of Mud.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Whose business is it to see that sidewalks are kept free from mud, especially where new houses are being erected. I live in the east end of the city, but went to Ryerson School on Friday night to the pageant being put on there. With some friends I walked along Victoria to Richmond, and on that street are a number of new houses being built. There is mud all over the sidewalks at many places and there was no chance of going around it, so the only thing to do was to walk through it.

We like to see new houses going up, but would it be very much work for the builders or owners to see that the sidewalks are kept clean enough for people to walk on in wet weather?

EAST END.

HE WENT AWAY.

Correspondent Got More and Spent More and Likens His Case to That of Irish Arrival.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,— have seen recently two letters appearing in your correspondence column on the subject of immigration. One stated that the wages paid in some of the factories was as high as $15 per week; that statement was hardly true as I have just been laid off a job where the wages were $13.25 per week.

With nothing but poverty staring at me, I went to the States and got a job at $28 a week. The cost of living is higher and even this wage is nothing to boast about, but I am the same as the Irishman who landed in New York and started to complain about the cost of everything and what he could buy in the old country for a dollar.

When asked why he did not stay there, he replied, "Yes, but from whom was I going to get the dollar?"

Yours Truly,

HENRY DUBB WRITES.

Puzzled About Immigration, When One Class Wants to Get 'Em to Come and Another to Keep 'Em Away.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—It is with regret that I am compelled to write you on the subject of immigration. I have read that Hon. J. A. Robb has two urgent conferences in being on the subject—one to get 'em out, and the other to make 'em stay.

Speaking at the first conference, he states that he objects to glowing accounts being given to new arrivals of their prospects of making a living, and further that "they cannot expect to become prime ministers, captains of industry, or leading editorial writers—if the latter is meant as a compliment to the press, it was not stated—but they can become owners of their homes" which would seem intended to convey the impression that it was fairly easy to obtain a good living.

A few weeks ago the mayor of this city advised the workless of other cities who were heading this way 'to keep going' and at the same time started to make provision for the unemployed during the coming winter.

It is to be presumed that the situation in London can be taken as a criterion of the conditions existing in other cities. The answer to the Hon. J. A. Robb's second conference would then appear to be perfectly obvious, namely, that as work in this country is limited and wages low, they seek better opportunities, with a higher scale of living than the Canadian employers are willing to offer.

Yours truly,

HENRY DUBB.

BLAMES WARD SYSTEM.

Thinks It Would Be Better To Have Aldermen of London Elected By General Vote of Ratepayers.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—There is something wrong with the London aldermen, and the cause of it is the ward elections. The mayor is the only member representing the whole city, and the councillors represent only various corners of the city.

This makes for ward grabbing, pulling different ways, dissension and deadlocks.

The remedy would be to have ward councillors nominated as usual, but voted on by the whole city electorate.

Then if any ward representatives were too local, hoggish or obstructive, the people of the rest of the city would at the next election get other men in the field and put the undesirables on the shelf.

There would be nothing to prevent voters outside of the ward using their influence to get suitable residents of that ward to run for aldermen. In any event the whole city should have a say in the election of every alderman, and if this were done I am satisfied that the bickering and wire pulling would soon come to an end.

There are two things that hurt any board of aldermen—namely, ward grabbing and politics, and if these could be eliminated we might have a representative business council.

WISE RETICENCE.

A time to keep silence, and a time to speak.—Ecclesiastes iii., 7.

America has a stupid habit of criticizing her public men for faults that are really virtues.

President Coolidge, called suddenly to the highest office in the land by the lamented death of President Harding, has been ridiculed for his reticence.

The cartoonist (in spite of evident natural difficulties) has depicted him as the Sphinx; and the interviewer has complained that he will not talk.

Well, suppose he is not inclined to talk much. May it not be that he wishes to think more?

Fluent speech is not the most valuable quality in the leader of a great republic.

Careful consideration, clear judgment, and resolute courage are worth a great deal more than easy oratory.

I should say to both parties:

Let us give the president time to make up his mind.

Let us discount the chatter of men whose minds were made up before they began to think.

Then let us listen with consideration to what the president has to say about our present problems.

DENNY BROOKS

A STORY OF COURAGE

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XX

Denny In High Life.

To Denny, the campus with its stirring color, the excited rush of the new term, might have been the planet of Mars. Outwardly he was part of its spirited young endeavor; he was one of its time-pressed students hurrying from ivy covered library to red brick hall. Inwardly, he was lonelier, more bewildered and disheartened than he had ever been in his life. He was an alien.

Young men in bulging corduroys and disreputable hats lounged on the steps of old North Hall or sprawled on the bench in front of the campus store, drawing lazily on their pipes, enjoying the sun and the gossiping; girls in white skirts and pretty waists trouped down the paths. They smiled brightly to the young men and the young men nodded with supreme indifference. Denny noted all this with awe and a shrinking heart. If any girl had bowed brightly to him!

Everyone else seemed to be surrounded with friends; to be dashing from one engagement to another; to possess inside tips on the right professors, the best courses, the shortcuts to knowledge and fun. In the midst of all this youth and vivid activity, Denny was a chill and isolated unit.

"Oh, well—" He squared his shoulders, walked with a little swagger into the store and over to the huge ink well where one might fill a fountain pen. Two girls behind him began to talk.

"Get your bid for Friday, Lou?"

"Yes."

"Who?"

"Pesky, of course."

"Well—Pesky's all right—"

"Suppose so. Oh, dear—" A rustle of papers, the girl's books clattered to Denny's feet. He picked them up, glanced hastily into the flurried brown eyes of the girl, Lou; noted her wonderful gold hair.

"Yours?" he asked, handing her the books.

"Oh, thank you." She must have liked the winning light in Denny's eyes, the eagerness in his boyish, fighting chin. "Yes—thank you so much."

Such a trifle! Those contemptuous fellows sprawled on the bench wouldn't have noted it—wouldn't have stooped, perhaps, to pick up the books. They weren't starved for young companionship as Denny was. He went out of the store with buoyant, singing heart.

Lucky Pesky! But Lou had smiled at him.

He wondered what courses she might be taking; if he'd pass her again; if she'd bow. Two or three times when he saw before him the flutter of light hair he quickened his pace, stole a glance at the face. It was never Lou.

He began to think he was doomed to loneliness. He looked down a blank four years without friends, without pleasures, and there were times when he mocked the folly that had brought him to Berkeley—the conceit that had made him rate himself above the grocery clerk, above the plasterer.

In his courses he spoke to the men sitting near him, compared problems and notes. There was one tall fellow with flashing teeth and quick, impulsive eyes who saluted Denny with a pleasant "Hello, there, Brooks!" This was Stephen Adams. But aside from these occasional greetings he went to his classes, to lunch, to his home—alone.

Not for a fortune would he have admitted his depression to Katy. He came whistling into the barn at night, pretending to be thrilled with college; trying to cultivate the magnificent arrogance of other young students, but to himself thankful to

For Katy these first days flew—heaven that another day was over and he was here in this big, delightful room with a table set for dinner and Katy following him with worshipping, happy eyes. Here he counted: here he was somebody.

For Katy these first days kew—there were so many joys in this new home: so many tasks. It was such a problem to know whether the crazy quilt suited the couch in the great room where Denny slept or if it were better on her own bed.

Katy had a little space that was all sun and air, partitioned off in the north corner, pink matting on the floor; pink china bowl and wash basin—a rare treasure from Old Lady Traynor in the corner—and all over the wire screen that made the side wall, a joyous scarlet rambler splashed its roses

Here, in the long August afternoons, Katy sat on the bed sewing, reading, making beautiful Irish crochet jabots that were very much the style then and that Katy hoped she might sell. Why not—they were so smart and Katy was clever with her quick, impatient fingers.

Then there was the kitchen, and each day the great problem of dinner. Would Denny like this? would he like that? She went over all the menus Aunt Josie had taught her, discarded tripe, codfish, liver. They'd never eat these again—not much! But plenty of apple pie, round steak, sliced tomatoes—well for Denny that he did the shopping himself or Katy, in her wish to please, would have made him a bankrupt.

He came home toward the end of the first week, his arms filled with books and bundles; his face sparkling with suppressed excitement. A great thing had happened. Denny had made a friend.

Katy was sitting at the sink, peeling potatoes. Denny unwrapped his bundles, soused some lettuce in water, tore off the outer leaves vigorously.

At last it was out. Stephen Adams, the breezy fellow who sat next to him at chemistry, had invited him to a fraternity dance. Denny was ashamed of his joy, so he pretended to Katy that he wasn't sure whether to accept or not. But he was jubilant as a girl: excitement ran into his voice:

"You know, of course, I've got to find a job over here and I didn't come to dance, but then it's on Friday night and a fellow ought to have some friends What would you do, Katy?"

Katy, whose feet would have been wings, dropped the potato:

"What would I do? I'd just run there! I'd make myself a dress right out of those scarlet ramblers and flame into the room. Oh, wouldn't I love it, though!" The wanton beauty that was Queenie Brooks flashed a moment over Katy's winsome face, stabbed Denny, and he whispered a sudden:

"Gee—aw, gee. Gee, it's tough for you, Katy. Wish you could go."

"Some day—look how fine I can stand now. I'm ever so much better. You're to go, Denny. Oh, you bet I'd go."

"I'd have to borrow Jimmy Foley's tux, I suppose."

"Well, didn't you give Jimmy that set of tools? He'll be glad to lend it—"

"Perhaps I don't dance well enough?"

"Oh, Violet said you did—you dance lovely."

So Denny allowed Katy to coax him into acceptance, not admitting even to her that college was a different world since Stephen Adams had offered his invitation.

He went to the city and got Jimmy's suit, brushed it, spread a damp cloth over it and pressed the creases stiff. There was a little tear at the pocket. Katy mended this, all but praying Denny would be the beau of the ball.

Such shaving, and brushing, and bathing. When he was ready, he stood at the mirror in Katy's room, pulling up his suspenders, making her say a dozen times whether just the right amount of heel showed. Then he looked at his own exuberant image and chuckled with satisfaction.

"Humph! Ain't I the cholly boy, Katy, kid? Now, honest, did you ever see such a handsome build before?" He grinned happily, struggled with the bow tie, and resigned the job to her. Katy's fingers fluttered with nervousness, as she pulled the bow deftly.

"I'll just die, Denny, if you come home a wallflower!"

"Pooh! I'll knock 'em dead, Katy, kid." He came back from the door. "Will you be afraid here alone?"

"Course not! I'll be in bed. But you wake me up the minute you get in. Cross your heart, now, you will!"

He promised, stepped out bravely. As he reached the great white fraternity house his confidence wavered. He was in the hall—a witching fairyland, flowers, softened lights, streamers of smilax, the strains of music, the fluttering in and out of girls with their hair in puffs, long trains swung gracefully over their arms. Denny had never seen such beauty, such color, such gayety.

He stood motionless a moment, and then was bitterly conscious of his shabby overcoat, the sleeves nearly two inches too short.

Denny had indulged in one extravagance—a tailor-made suit, with a fine chalk-line, at $35. He worried over this expenditure, deciding to do without an overcoat.

He shrugged it off quickly, looked anxiously for his friend Stephen, saw him across the hall scratching his name on a dance program, giving it back with some laughing remark to a midget of a girl in a puffy yellow dress.

Denny assumed a man of the world air—or this is what he meant to assume—walked casually toward Stephen. Girls, some shy as buttercups; others tall, cool as arrogant roses, swept by like queens. More than one looked archly into Denny's young glistening eyes. Gratitude swept through him, bringing a flareup of confidence.

Men were rushing up partners to groups of girls; the violins tuned for the first dance. Denny was flushed, but let anyone detect a quiver in his resolute calm! He knew that he wished like everything he was home with Katy. What a blind chump he was coming here—

"Hello, old fellow!" Stephen's vital tone; Stephen's impulsive hand; "Well, fixed up, are you? Suppose you know plenty of girls?"

This was too much for Denny's composure. He felt his face iron into a blank, then he laughed.

"Plenty—don't know a darned one!"

"Holy smoke! Babes in the wood! Come on!"

He took Denny's arm, edged through the crowd, rushed Denny into a group and demanded with an audacious ease:

"A dance, Mary?" took the girl's program, scratched Denny's name. Three times he did this. They were stopping before the fourth. Came a little exclamation of pleased surprise.

"Why you!" It was the gold hair and the flurried brown eyes of the girl who had dropped her books—Lou.

Proof positive

of the splendid returns from Mutual Life Insurance policies is given in these typical examples of Mutual Results.

Because the Mutual Life is a company of policy holders, there is no other expense than the cost of rendering mutual service, and thus Mutual protection, in the long run, is given at absolute cost price.

Mutual Life Assurance means insurance at a very low cost to profit participating policyholders, since Mutual Life profits cause the successive annual premiums to tend steadily to the vanishing point. In fact, in the final analysis, Mutual insurance profits (in all of which the policyholder shares) literally pay you interest on your investment.

In the end you receive back more money than you paid in, and your insurance all these years has cost you nothing—you have actually had protection at a profit!

BANDITS AT MONTREAL GET $10,000 PAYROLL

Paymasters of Lowney Company Are Held Up in Busy Part of City.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—Bandits this morning held up the paymasters of Lowneys Limited on Emilia street and robbed them of $10,000.

Two paymasters had just arrived at the main entrance of the plant of Walter M. Lowney & Co., cocoa manufacturers, when a touring car bearing a Rhode Island license drove up. Four men leaped out and thrust revolvers into the faces of the paymasters, seized a bag containing money they had secured from the bank and vanished in a blaze of cracking pistol shots.

The holdup was only a matter of seconds and the bandits would have escaped without a shot being fired but for the courage of a citizen standing on the opposite curb. Seeing the robbers in passing, he pulled a revolver and fired directly across the street at the bandits. The robbers returned the fire as they sped away. A horse attached to a delivery wagon standing on the street was wounded in the neck. The robbery was evidently carefully planned. For several minutes before the arrival of the paymasters the bandits' car was seen driving slowly up and down the street. The paymasters had returned from the bank in a car and the moment they descended from it the robbers pounced on them.

The firm will suffer no loss as the payrolls are covered by insurance.

Gogo Investigation Sheds Light On Business Relations Between Distilleries and Rum-Runners.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Light on the business relations existing between distilleries and rum-runners was shed in the police court this afternoon, when the men arrested on a charge of violating the O.T.A., following the police raid on the launch "Hattie C," on October 6, in which John Gogo was killed by police bullets, were placed on trial.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sudbury, Nov. 14.—"Jack" Miner, continent-famed bird lover, and naturalist of Kingsville, Ont., is camped north of here on his annual big game hunt, and also a rest from public life. This is the thirty-eighth year he has taken this outing. During the last twenty years he has always been accompanied by one of his sons and on a few occasions his wife has been with him.

This year his youngest son is with him and Tuesday he killed one of the largest bull moose ever killed in this district. The boy is only 12 years of age, and was placed on a side of a hill to watch a ravine, when along came this monarch of the forest and with the first shot from his thirty-three high power Winchester the animal dropped dead. It is a question which is the happiest and most proud, the son or the father.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Fort William, Nov. 16.—Grain shipments today totalled 2,839,000 bushels, which went out in thirteen vessels, of which five were big United States freighters, these carrying 1,796,000 of the day's shipments. Two full cargoes of oats went out for Goderich and Montreal.

The Homesmith took out with her cargo of other grain 3,250 tons of screenings, and the Lasalle is in port loading screenings, thus clearing up considerable space in the elevators for the storage of grain. The amount of dockage in the grain this year is occasioning delay, and boats are not getting as good despatch, owing to this factor of the situation. Cleaners are running 24 hours a day at most of the houses, and one elevator has in store a million bushels of grain, all of which has yet to be cleaned, prior to shipping. Elevator men are trying to devise some means of avoiding all this work, either by compelling the cleaning of grain at point of shipment in the west or by shipping as received, subject to dockage.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE BY ST. ANDREW'S CHOIR

An outstanding musical event will be the Thanksgiving service of praise to be given next Monday evening, Nov. 19, at 8 o'clock, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by the choir and soloists of the church, under the direction of Charles E. Wheeler, F.C.C.O. One of the assisting artists will be Fredericka Alden, dramatic soprano, of Detroit. Madam Alden not only possesses a magnificent voice, but a degree of interpretive ability that satisfies the most exacting critics. She appears four times on the program, and her selections include numbers that will give opportunity to use her fine voice to the best advantage.

Another program feature is the Hausch Quartet, an ensemble of ladies—violin, cello, flute and piano. Their selections will be of an artistic character and selected especially for the program.

The choir and soloists of the church have always had an important part on these occasions, and their contributions Monday evening next will be of the usual high order.

CHICAGO

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago Nov. 16.—Wheat underwent a fresh setback in price today, largely as a result of breaks in foreign exchange rates, together with talk of strained relations between Great Britain and France. The market closed nervous, ⅛c to ¼c to 1⅛c to 1¼c lower, with December $1.01¾ to $1.01⅞ and May $1.07¼ to $1.07⅜. Corn finished ⅛c to ⅝c down; oats a shade to ⅛c to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 25c higher.

Downturns in the value of wheat began at the opening, with confidence of holders disturbed by foreign political developments. There were predictions current that any advance in the United States import duty on wheat would be so late as to permit huge quantities of Canadian wheat to be unloaded beforehand in this country.

Declines in New York stock, market quotations, and indications of increased anxiety as to European tension as to German affairs, both economic and political, led to renewed weakness in wheat before the day ended, as did a bearish estimate of the Argentine exportable wheat surplus.

Corn was affected by indications of enlarged receipts, but late forecasts were that no big movement was to be expected for two weeks yet. Oats were easier, in sympathy with corn.

Provisions averaged higher, in response chiefly to scantiness of the warehouse stock of lard here.

Cash prices:

Wheat—No. 2 hard, $1.04½ to $1.05½; No. 3 hard, $1.02.

Corn—No. 3 mixed, 84c; No. 2 yellow, 97c to $1.

PRESENTING BRIGHT SNAPPY COLUMBIA BURLESQUE REVUES.

AT THE GRAND NEXT WEEK

PLAYING THE HIGHEST CLASS DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL PLAYS.

"SHUFFLE ALONG" AT GRAND ON THURSDAY

All Colored Organization Is Most Talked-Of Show in the World.

"Shuffle Along," the big colored musical comedy which set New Yorkers in a whirl of jazz and syncopation, comes to the Grand Opera House three days, starting Thursday, November 22, special matinee Saturday.

The cast is composed entirely of negroes, and is a wild riot of jazz, pep, tuneful melody, laughter and fun, of the style so peculiar to the Southern tradition.

The plot of the play is carried out as no other in musical comedy has been, in that it centers around a mayoralty contest by three office-seekers, two of whom are partners in a small grocery store, and the manner in which they conduct their campaigns and finance them are the signals for the gales of laughter that follow one another throughout the action of the bill.

The plot is not allowed to interfere with the syncopated action which comes in the form of ensemble numbers, solos, trios, duets, startling dances all the way from the classical to the jazzical, all of which is enhanced by a remarkable jazz orchestra, which features a baby at the traps that is a world beater when it comes to execution and manipulation. The famous "Bronze Beauty" chorus, noted for its effective pep and speed, is one of the features.

This certificate will be presented on Nov. 23, when the W. M. S. will hold a birthday party.

"THE WHIRL OF GIRLS" AT THE GRAND MONDAY

John G. Jerman's Big Columbia Revue One of the Snappiest Yet.

There is more than the ordinary number of worthwhile comedians, singers and dancers, to say nothing of general entertainers, in the noteworthy cast of John G. Jermon's big feminine revue, "Whirl of Girls," announced at the Grand for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Vic. Plant and Fred Binder are the featured comedians who promise a laugh every moment they are on the stage.

I. B. Hamp and Douglas Levitt have written an entertainment in two acts and twelve scenes that embodies all the essentials of musical revues. Hamp, by the way, will soon come this way as featured comedian in another Columbia burlesque, "Queens of Paris." George Wiest, leading man with "Whirl of Girls," and Ruby Cowan have provided lyrics and music, and the whole production was staged under the personal direction of Mr. Jermon, who has created scores of offerings in the many years he has been a producer of burlesque.

The presenting cast comprises an all-favorite aggregation of tried and popular burlesquers: Vic. Plant, Fred Binder, Ray Yearwood, George Wiest, Willie St. Clair, Willie and Reflow, Belle Rich, Willie Schuler, Flossie DeVere, Babe La Vetta and the pretty prima donna, June LeVeay. Specialties of song, dance or musical interruptions of various kinds will be offered by Willie St. Clair, Wiest and LeVeay and Hite and Reflow.

Special scenic incidents of more than ordinary beauty are promised in the scenes depicting "The Devil's Inn," "One Word Drama," "Martha's Wedding," "In Egypt," and a realistic scene on shipboard. Costly drapes and effective stage lightings will contribute brilliantly and with artistic effect to the changing pictures as the entertainment progresses.

Of course a show having the title of "Whirl of Girls" would necessarily have to go strong on its ensemble equipment, and the producers are said to have not overlooked this important portion of their entertainment. Not only have they secured an exceptionally good-looking aggregation of youthful maids, but also one whose members are symmetrical in physical proportions and brimming over with pep and the ability to execute the intricate mazes of the many dances as well as to sing with pleasing voices.

RESULT OF MINING PLUNGE FRUITFUL

Colonial Shaft At Cobalt Makes Return For Large Sum Spent.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Cobalt, Nov. 16.—An event of more than passing importance to Cobalt is the coming into regular production of the Colonial mine at Cobalt. The mining operations at this property involved one of the most adventurous plunges taken in the history of northern mining. A shaft was sunk to a depth of almost 1,000 feet through barren rock to get ore which it was thought might exist on the bottom side of the diabase sill. The venture has made good. In the past few days a very good amount of high-grade ore, averaging from 400 to 7,000 ounces to the ton has been shipped, a ton a day of similar ore has been shipped bagged, good sized shoots of milling rock have been developed, and the whole proposition put on a profitable basis.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water, and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means, have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advt.

An Awful Attack of Pimples All Over His Face

Pimples breaking out on the face and other parts of the body is a sure sign that the blood is not in proper shape.

While the skin is the object of the attack the real seat of the disease is in the blood on account of the entire circulation being poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually banishes pimples and all other skin diseases as it goes right to the root of the trouble by cleansing and enriching the blood.

Mr. Conrad Anderson, Kelfield, Sask., writes: "A year ago I had an awful attack of pimples. They broke out all over my face and I could not get rid of them in any way. One day a friend told me about your Burdock Blood Bitters and let me have a bottle he had to spare. After using it I noticed a change, so I bought three more bottles, and now I don't know there is such a thing as pimples."

PLAYING THE HIGHEST CLASS PICTURE FEATURES FROM THE FILM MART

AT LOEW'S NEXT WEEK

PRESENTING HIGH CLASS CLEAN, ENTERTAINING VAUDEVILLE OFFERINGS.

"LONG LIVE THE KING" AT LOEW'S THURSDAY

Jackie Coogan Starred in Feature Picture by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Jackie Coogan's first picture under the auspices of Metro Pictures Corporation is "Long Live the King," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, most successful of American women novelists, and which will be seen at Loew's Theatre Thursday next. Preparations are already under way at the Metro studios for the filming of the story.

C. Gardner Sullivan, recognized as the screen's leading scenarist, is at work upon the screen adaptation, by arrangement with Joseph M. Schenk, who recently retained Mr. Sullivan to provide stories for the stars under his direction. Collaborating with him is Eve Unsell, another prominent writer for the screen, loaned for the Coogan picture by B. P. Schulberg.

Edward Biby, former casting director for Mack Sennett, and notable also for having conducted the negotiations which resulted in Chaplin's engagement of Jackie Coogan for "The Kid," is the Coogans' studio manager. Frank Good, who photographed the Coogan production of "Daddy" and "Toby Tyler," will be the cameraman for "Long Live the King," assisted as heretofore by Robert Martin. Irene Morra, who edited the last five of Jackie pictures, has been retained to act in this capacity for the newly formed organization.

The story originally appeared as a serial in a leading national magazine, and later, when published in book form, became a best seller. Jackie will play the role of Prince Ferdinand William Otto; despite the Germanic cognomen the locale of the story is in one of those semi-mythical Balkan principalities. For the first time in his crowded, though short, career, Jackie will be seen in other than ragged clothes. Since "The Kid" every one of his pictures has shown the youthful star as a waif, and attired in accordance, with the exception of a few episodes in "Oliver Twist." In "Long Live the King," Jackie will wear the clothes naturally worn by the scion of a reigning house.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines."—Mrs. Ida M. Coffman, R.R. 2, Sidell, Ill.

NEW PARLIAMENT IN BRITAIN OPENS EARLY NEXT YEAR

Premier Baldwin Will Open New Campaign Under Adverse Auspices.

HEAR PROCLAMATION

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Eng., Parliament was formally dissolved today, and a royal proclamation printed in The Gazette tonight summons the new parliament to assemble January 8.

It was thought the new session would convene December 20, but the cabinet decided upon the later date.

Two prolonged cabinet meetings were held today, one ostensibly to draft the government's election manifesto, and the other to discuss election route. Rumor, however, has it that Premier Baldwin is having difficulties in holding his party and the government together.

The premier will begin his new campaign under adverse auspices. Not only has he had the greatest difficulty to prevent defections of colleagues with free trade beliefs, but he failed to consolidate his party by securing Lord Birkenhead and J. Austen Chamberlain as members of the government.

The inside story of the affair shows it was a revolt of the undersecretaries, led by Ronald MacNeill, of the foreign office, and W. Ormsby-Gore of the colonial office, which deferred the premier from taking Lord Birkenhead and Mr. Chamberlain into the cabinet.

A political surprise today was the announcement that Lord Robert Cecil had been raised to the peerage. The lord privy seal has held his present title of lord by reason of the fact that he is a son of the third Marquis of Salisbury. His elevation to the peerage is a clear indication of the difficulties Premier Baldwin is experiencing. Lord Robert is a stalwart free trader, and already had decided not to contest his seat in the House of Commons.

Explains Action.

The official explanation of his decision not to run is that Lord Robert's physician advised him to avoid great exertion until after Christmas. It adds that as Lord Robert has to attend a meeting of the council of the League of Nations during that period he will be unable to take part in the general elections.

As a peer Lord Robert can continue a member of the administration, having his seat in the House of Lords instead of in the House of Commons, but the incident is significant, and Lord Robert's actual resignation from the cabinet probably has been withheld only out of a desire not to embarrass the premier at a difficult moment.

There have been other defections, not of ministers, but of influential men of the rank and file of Conservatism, who are unable to approve the government's protectionist move. In fact, in the same ratio that Mr. Baldwin succeeded in welding together his opponents he seems at the same time to have been causing a disintegration of his own party, and although open ruptures have been avoided in most cases, the disagreements cannot be shielded from the public.

Speakers Lost.

The outcome of these various aspects is that owing to the lukewarmness displayed by considerable sections of the Conservative party for its new departure, the government is suffering the loss of many admirable speakers, while on the Liberal and Labor sides there is an abundance of oratorical talent.

Winston Spencer Churchill opened his campaign tonight in the famous free trade hall in Manchester. He declared a futile and inglorious parliament was terminating its brief existence by an attempted assassination of free trade, which was to be tried by drumhead courtmartial and shot at dawn. The government, Mr. Churchill declared, had blundered into a position of hopeless confusion and had decided to brazen it out in the hope of extricating itself by violence from the difficulties into which it had fallen through folly.

It was a fine thing, Mr. Churchill continued, to be honest; but it was very important for a prime minister to be right. He characterized Mr. Baldwin's conversion as a mystic and almost miraculous conversion, like that of Saul at Damascus.

Bo First Guest In Dutton Jail

Special to The Advertiser.

Dutton, Nov. 16. — That this town is free from crime is evidenced by the fact that the new jail cell in the community hall, which was erected a year ago, was never christened until last night, when a hobo, who hailed from nowhere, occupied the cell.

This cell was built at quite a cost to the community, and lately complaints were made as to this part of the building lying idle, but when it was at last occupied, even by a mere tramp, its usefulness is apparent.

HUNTLEY GORDON'S CAR COST HIM THREE HOURS

Star With Viola Dana at Loew's Monday Has Unmanageable "Flivver."

Huntly Gordon, who is appearing opposite Viola Dana in "Her Fatal Millions," the little Metro star's newest picture, recently purchased a Ford. He showed up one day at the studio three hours late—on foot—and explained that he had left his Ford leaning against a telephone pole on Hollywood boulevard.

"Her Fatal Millions," at Loew's Monday, was directed by William Beaudine and photographed by John Arnold. It was adapted by Arthur Statter from the story by William Dudley Pelley.

METHODIST GATHERING HEARS FINE ADDRESSES

Miss Helen Hardy Points Out Dangerous Age in Young People's Lives.

Three addresses of an inspirational nature formed the program yesterday afternoon at the November meeting of the London Methodist district, held in Ridout Street Church.

Of these, one dealt particularly with work among young people, that of Miss Helen Hardy, on "The Importance of Young People's Leagues." The period of from 18 to 24 years of age was given particular attention by Miss Hardy.

"This is the danger zone," she said. "At this period of life the intellect battles with the emotions. It is an age of rigorous questioning. In those young people who are going in for higher education especially, the element of doubt is a big thing. These young men and women need the guidance of a firm hand.

Addresses of an inspirational nature were given by Rev. J. T. C. Morris, pastor of the Askin Street Methodist Church, and by Rev. S. J. Thompson of Dorchester. Rev. W. E. Millson acted as chairman. During the afternoon also, reports on social service and evangelism were given from the various churches in the district.

The business at the morning session consisted largely of a review of work accomplished throughout the district.

NEW VENTILATING SYSTEM IS DECLARED NECESSARY

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Nov. 16.—At the regular committee meeting of the board of education tonight, it was pointed out that a new ventilating system would have to be installed in Myrtle street school before the heating system would work satisfactorily.

Mr. McCulley, a resident of St. George street, came before the committee and asked for $10 for medical attention for his boy who fell on some broken glass in the Hiawatha School basement. The board did not see how they could be held responsible, because the youngsters had been instructed not to play in the cellar.

The city council has not sanctioned the issuing of debentures, but the board decided to continue issuing checks anyway.

The registration in the night school classes are as follows: Auto construction, 25; mechanical drawing, 15; sign painting, 6; English and arithmetic, 12; millinery, 27; mathematics, 9; dressmaking, 67; household science, 37; woodwork, 26; commercial bookkeeping, 23; shorthand and typewriting, 42; mathematics, 11. A total of 300 pupils.

PARIS REPRESENTED BY MAYOR

Special to The Advertiser.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Mayor John M. Patterson, Deputy-Reeve William T. Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LIBERALS TO FINISH BALLOTTING TONIGHT

Members Vote For Candidates Seeking Positions in New Executive.

Forty per cent of the members of the Liberal Club registered their votes with the treasurer to elect a new executive last night. The balloting will continue this afternoon and tonight, when the votes will be counted and the names of those obtaining office announced.

President Webber, the new head of the club, was unanimously chosen for that position two weeks ago. Peter Cameron, first vice-president; John Griffith, second vice-president, and C. C. Ferguson, treasurer, are other new officers.

An arrangement by which the newly-elected executive will choose its own secretary without a vote from the members has been decided upon. The result of the balloting will not be officially announced until Monday morning. When the 1924 executive is installed a selection will be made of a secretary and the new slate will then be complete.

LABOR INDORSES CANDIDATES FOR COMING ELECTION

Members Chosen For Council, Public Utilities and Board of Education.

NO ONE FOR MAYOR

Candidates for election as aldermen in the four city wards, for the public utilites commission and the board of education were indorsed at last night's convention of the labor party.

The names recommended by the executive and later indorsed by the delegates are: Walter Ellis, ward 2; Ald. McKay, ex-Ald. J. Ashton and E. C. Depotie, ward 3; Ald. Colbert, ward 4; D. J. Tallant, public utilities commission; R. H. Hessell, board of education. Ward one nominations were left in the hands of the executive, to be decided at a meeting on Sunday, although one name was put forward and indorsed, that of Joseph Brown. It is hoped that one more may be prevailed on to contest this division.

No candidate will oppose Mayor George Wenige as far as the labor party is concerned. Neither will be indorsed by it. Vice-president Moule stated that the matter of the mayoralty would be left to the individual, to vote as he or she saw fit.

The feature of the evening was the return and acceptance into the fold of ex-Ald. J. Ashton, who was turned out last year, after having, in the opinion of the party, neglected and broken away from the party during the previous year, and when he sought election independently at the last election. When his name was read out as being recommended for aldermen, one of the delegates drew attention to this fact and asked Mr. Brown for an explanation, which was given. After a short discussion of the pros and cons of the case, a ballot was taken to decide whether he was acceptable to the convention or not. There were 17 ayes and 5 nays.

The board of education proved a difficulty until after much discussion Mr. Hessell tentatively accepted the nomination. He will give his decision on Sunday. He stated that there was a very real need for labor representation on this body to work for the insertion of the fair wage clause in all its contracts.

During the discussion concerning Mr. Ashton, several delegates expressed the opinion that ex-Mayor Cameron Wilson had double-crossed the labor party in 1922 after having pledged it his support.

ELECT NEW DIRECTORS FOR LONDON CHAMBER

Keen Interest Shown by Members in Selecting Officials.

Seven new directors for the London Chamber of Commerce were chosen by the members in the final election, which closed last evening. The election committee announced the names of the successful candidates as follows: Ray Lawson, E. S. Little, T. W. McFarland, Gerald F. Pearson and Jared Vining.

The vote cast was exceptionally large, a big majority of the members showing their interest in the future of the organization by exercising their right to select its leaders for the coming year.

The directors elected last night will serve for a two-year term, and with the seven other directors elected last year will comprise a directorate of 14 members, from which number the directors will elect the president and other officers at the next board meeting, probably on Wednesday of next week. The seven directors elected last year, and who remain for another year on the board are: Frank S. Asplant, Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, Arthur Ford, Gordon J. Ingram, John S. Moore, C. R. May and R. J. Webster.

The election committee, which under the chairmanship of Prof. E. H. Morrow, completed its task last night was comprised of the following members: W. F. Marshall, A. R. Douglas, M. Lerner, A. H. Murphy, R. T. Brymner, Stanley D. Baby, William Loveday and J. Birnie Smith.

WORK-WORN WOMEN

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women accept these visitations as part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple, and relief is at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill, she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother, more than any other woman, needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These enrich the blood, and through their use many weak, ailing wives and mothers have been benefited. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.—Advt.

"THE DEVIL'S DISCIPLE" PROVES GREAT TREAT FOR LONDON AUDIENCE

Splendid Acting of Basil Sydney in Shaw's Famous Play Is Source of Delight To Theatregoers.

From the heavy measure and sonorous development of the story of Andreyev's "He Who Gets Slapped" to the sprightly action and subtle lines of Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" is a far cry in art, both in presentation and in reception, and the sureness and entire fitness with which the Little Theatre Company portrayed the career of Dick Dudgeon, the Devil's Disciple, reflected the atmosphere of times of the story, and gave full value in living tones to the delicate shafts of Shaw, proved to the satisfaction of all those who were fortunate enough to be present last night at the Grand the really extraordinary versatility of this company.

Not only did the spirit of that entertaining rebel against the conventions live and gain in applications by the art of Basil Sydney and his company, but the story was treated as all Shaw's plays should be with just that necessary touch of insouciance which lends friendliness to that sharp tongue and robs teh dart of many a stabbing jest of its sting.

War of Independence.

The play, one of the earliest that Shaw wrote, is a page from the vivid colored chapters of the American War of Independence. Here in the brief three hours of the play you have the courage of the colonial, facing the domineering force and power of the troops of King George IV., in the course of the struggle for American Independence. Here you have the narrow, harsh view of the old Puritan contrasted with the man of the next generation who had rebelled against the stern laws of his fathers and adventured into life blessed only with his inherent strength of character and the regnant sense of freedom which dominated every colonial of that day.

Hardly could the laughing critic of modern society have chosen a more suitable vehicle to convey his thoughts on life and human nature to the onlooker than in "The Devil's Disciple." Displayed as it was last night with the artistry of the Little Theatre Company, deftly touched with certain skill, and etched in the vision of the audience with unerring lines and masterly color, no Shaw lover could resist its brilliant appeal.

Splendid Acting.

Basil Sydney and his cast stepped easily and without effort into the period of the war. The scarlet uniforms of the army of George IV., the sombre habilments of the old puritan stock and the manners of the time rested as naturally on their graceful shoulders as the dancing Puck-like fancy of the author flitted through the story.

As Dick Dudgeon, and one understands why Shaw should invent Dudgeon as the name of his hero, Basil Sydney, in the central figure of the play, the rebellious son of a stern, unrelenting mother, who blazes his own paths in life, who out of the latent nobility of his outlaw character rises to the heights of sublime self-sacrifice in order to save the life of a man who is nothing more to him than any other man, and who, through the vagaries of war and circumstances, escapes the gallows to re-enter life as the champion of love and content, graces a strange, intense character with all the consummate art with which he enshrouds every part in his plays. His Dick is as masterful as Shaw himself, and as much out of sympathy with the conventions of everyday usage as Shaw. In one man and under one man's facile features were Shaw and Dick Dudgeon, and Basil Sydney in last night's performance was both philosopher with Shaw and man of action with Dick. A very fine performance, indeed, played with so much enthusiasm that there seemed no effort or pose. Can there be higher praise?

Fine Type.

Croker King as "Gentlemanly Johnny," General Burgoyne, the English officer in charge of the troops, who together with their Prussian allies fought the colonials, presented a type of Englishman almost forgotten by most people in these cosmopolitan days. General Burgoyne was famous for his manners on all occasions. In every circumstance and in every disaster of the war he remained the somewhat cynical resigned entirely at ease old aristocrat. Croker King drew his picture with a full understanding of the type and with complete sympathy. His "Gentlemanly Johnny" was suave without loss of strength, and always sure of himself without being pompous. Never did he overshade or subdue the part and his General Burgoyne was one of the outstanding joys of the play.

Florence Auer, an old friend of London audiences, who has played here on several occasions, and who was so impressive on Thursday night as Zinida, the lion tamer, in "He Who Gets Slapped," played the part of Mrs. Annie Primrose Dudgeon, mother of Dick, and the puritanical, God-fearing woman of the house. Here in the role of an old woman a slave to past convention, bitter and soured by the harshness of her life and the sorrow brought on her by the fact that her brother was hanged as a rebel and by other misfortunes with her children, Miss Auer proves the versatility of her art and a complete surrender to the part she plays that has always been one of the chief delights of all theatre lovers who have watched her career. While she is on the stage she lives only in character, her own personality is never intruded, a compliment that cannot be paid to many of the modern school of players today.

Fine Delineation.

Herman Lieb, as Anthony Anderson, the minister of the village, whose life is saved by the sacrifice of Richard Dudgeon, gave a fine delineation of the brave minister who in the hour of need was able to change his cloth for a girdle and a brace of pistols, and had also the ability to use them successfully. In all his work there was a delicate sense of idealism that the part demanded, and both in the domestic scene in his house and in the transfiguration to the militant side of life he was vehement with the surging power of his righteous conviction, and showed in his graphic metamorphosis the determined spirit of the colonial of the time which resulted in the defeat of Burgoyne and Howe.

Romney Brent as Christy his wife, a dainty demure little village maiden with a heart of gold, Zeta Johan as Essie the forsaken child of the dead uncle Dudgeon, who had been hanged, and who reached happiness through the kindnesses of Dick, and Arthur Hughes as Titus Dudgeon the simpleton brother of Dick, all contributed generously to the success of the play, and the happy entertainment offered by the Little Theatre Players. With rich and artistic scenery, with an unusually fine cast that seems to take as much interest in the whole production as some enthusiastic amateur players, which is considerable, and not often present in the lesser parts of a company, "The Devil's Disciple," as played and produced last night was a rare treat to Londoners, and one that held undisputed sway in New York for many years. Londoners are exceedingly lucky in having the opportunity of seeing Basil Sydney and his exceptional company in this as in "He Who Gets Slapped." Today at a matinee and in the evening they will give "Peer Gynt," that wonderfully attractive and sumptuously staged poem of Henrik Ibsen, which holds its attraction surer and stronger with every performance.

HEART WAS SO BAD HAD TO SIT UP IN BED

Mrs. O. E. Fitzgerald, 106 Ross street, St. Thomas, Ont., writes: "In the fall of 1921 I was taken ill with my heart, but I did not pay much attention to it. I kept on with my household duties, but seemed to become worse and worse, and finally had to call in a doctor. He said I was all run down, and was a nervous wreck. I had a severe pain in my chest which would move over to my heart, and it became so bad I could not lie down, as when I did I had such a smothering feeling I would have to sit up in bed till it passed away.

"I tried several remedies, but with no good results. Finally, I was induced to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I took seven boxes, and I am now as well as I was 30 years ago, and I am now 65 years old."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box, at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Company Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Advt.
