Steamer City of Rome Crashes Into Submerged Craft 14 Miles East of Rock Island, R. I.—Ships Rush to Scene of Disaster, But Only Life Preserver Buoy Is Found—Was Sent Out on Practice Cruise in Atlantic.

THREE SURVIVORS BROUGHT TO BOSTON

Newport, R. I., Sept. 26.—A message received from the destroyed Putnam late this morning said that no trace of the submarine S-51 had been found. The Putnam was searching east of the spot where she is supposed to have gone down and the submarine S-1 was searching west.

New York, Sept. 26.—Thirty-four officers and men of the United States submarine S-51 apparently perished last night when the coastwise steamer City of Rome rammed and sank the submersible 14 miles east of Block Island, R. I. Only three men—Dewey Kile, M. Lira and A. Greer—are reported by naval communication to have been saved. Lieut. Rodney H. Dobson was commander of the submarine.

The first intimation of the disaster was the receipt early this morning by the submarine base at New London of a message from the City of Rome, bound from Savannah for Boston. The message said:

"Collided with sunken submarine S-51. Three men saved. Block Island lies in the Atlantic Ocean off Washington county, Rhode Island, and just east of the easternmost point of Long Island, N. Y.

U. S. SAYS FRENCH OFFER INADEQUATE

Preliminaries Over Conference Gets Down To Facts and Figures.

Washington, Sept. 25.—The Franco-American debt funding negotiations passed quite suddenly today from the buoyant stage of preliminary gestures and ceremonies, and became a sober battle with an array of cold facts and figures.

STORE BURGLAR GIVEN TWO YEARS

Harry Kaltenback Is Sent to Kingston For Robberies of Dope.

Harry Kaltenback, drug store burglar and dope addict who police claim entered as many as seven London pharmacies in the past two months and used his 12-year-old son as an accomplice in his quest for dope, was sentenced to two years in Kingston penitentiary by Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon this morning. Kaltenback confessed to entering the drug store of "Zane Wilkins, West" and, last week, stealing narcotic drugs, cigarettes and rubbing alcohol. The night he was arrested his small son was with him. He carried a heavy steel jimmy.

Kaltenback, admitting that he was a victim of narcotic drugs, pleaded to be sent to the reformatory or a hospital when he appeared in court this morning. A previous term which he had served at Kingston had given him a horror for prisons, and he asked the court to send him to any place but the penitentiary.

"That's a very nice place to send a man," Kaltenback replied with a grin as he was taken from the court. "Well, you've been there before," Mr. Graydon answered, referring to Kaltenback's long record of previous convictions. He has served terms in both the Ontario reformatory and the penitentiary and has been convicted under the narcotic drugs act and for theft six times in Magistrate Graydon's court.

Kaltenback's son, whom he used to climb through broken windows of drug stores and utilized in gaining entrance himself, is now in charge of the Children's Aid society. No criminal charge has been laid against him.

Tory Paper Hands Out "Unkindest Cut of All"

By Sublime Lack of Humor Local Conservative Organ Out-Brutes Brutus in the Passing of Its Once Lauded Caesar.

Gratitude is a fleeting thing, but the variety exhibited by the local Conservative paper in announcing the resignation of E. R. Dennis as president of the Western Ontario Conservative Association must be given all the prizes for its ingenuity to a devastating degree. Incidentally it takes the form of a bit of unconscious humor which is priceless because humor was certainly absent in the motive.

Here is a reproduction of the heading with which the London Free Press announced the passing of its chief—the man whom they have lauded to the skies for many years, praised for his unwearied campaign efforts, heralded as a future member of parliament. "Until yesterday. Yesterday Mr. Dennis resigned. The Free Press editor seized upon the news. 'Conservatives sure of success. E. R. Dennis resigns,' quoth he,

Bankers Warned To Watch For Fives and Twenties Issued By Counterfeiters

Bogus Bills Being Circulated, According to Word of Consular Authorities. COME FROM U. S. A.

Watch for the bogus bill. This is the advice handed out to the managers of local banks concerning spurious currency now in circulation. According to a warning issued by the United States consular authorities five and twenty-dollar denominations are being counterfeited. The first is a $5 bill of the Chase National bank, New York. It carries a picture of Benjamin Harrison done by photographic reproduction and retouched with inks. The numbering is in black ink instead of blue. Ink lines have been put in to represent silk fibers. At first glance the bill is deceptive, but close inspection will show the flaws, says the bulletin.

The second bill is on the Federal Reserve bank of New York. It is a $5 note carrying a portrait of Lincoln. It is poorly done zinc or copper plate etching. Ink lines represent the silk fibers. The seal is green instead of blue. The lines of the lathe work are badly done and disconnected.

The first $20 bill is on the Federal Reserve bank of New York. It carries a portrait of Grover Cleveland. The figures are irregular, and poorly finished. The printing has been done from badly executed etched plates. The portrait is poor. Silk fibre or imitations are lacking. The seal is indigo blue instead of light blue. By bleaching a bill of smaller denomination a $20 gold certificate has been imitated. It is a poorly executed photo-mechanical production. The face of the bill is printed with bronze ink instead of black. The backs of these bills show none of the fine lines of the real lathe work, and the bill should not deceive, says the communication.

Dr. G. E. Reaman Declares Too Much Molluscoiding Spoils Many Children.

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—The "babbling" of boys was deprecated by Dr. G. E. Reaman of the boys' training farm, Bowmanville, who last night addressed the delegates to the Canadian association of child protection officers at a dinner here.

Dr. Reaman urged the necessity of early putting the boy on his mettle and making a little man of him rather than molluscoiding him.

Dr. Reaman gave it as the result of his extensive experience that every boy had a code of ethics of his own, and that those in authority over them need to study this very carefully, each case from its strictly individual angle. In tendering a civic welcome, Mayor John P. Bathurst said: "With the possible exception of the Salvation Army, the churches and church associations in Canada are falling down on their knees as far as the care and welfare of young boys and girls are concerned."

LIBERALS HAVE BEST OF TIMBER

Strong Candidate Will Take Field For Local Seat in Federal Fight.

EXECUTIVE TO MEET James Gray, Jared Vining, W. J. Stevenson and E. S. Little Mentioned.

A meeting of the executive of the London Liberal association has been called for this evening in Hyman Hall to discuss nominations for the coming federal election, and to set a date for a nomination meeting, which will probably take place next week.

There has been considerable activity during the past few days among members of the Liberal party here who are desirous of seeing a strong candidate take the field. There are certain to be at least four candidates placed before the convention, any one of whom would make a strong bid for the local seat in the House of Commons. A large number of local Liberals have been urging James Gray, president of Gray's, Ltd., to accept nomination as a candidate. No man in London is better or more favorably known than "Jim" Gray. His work on the hospital trust, as president of the chamber of commerce, as a Rotarian, and in many other fields of public activity, have won him a place as a community leader, which would practically assure his election if he would accept nomination. There will be strong pressure brought to bear to have him take the field.

Jared Vining, well-known barrister of the firm of Jarvis & Vining, is another citizen whose many friends would like to see him enter the contest. Like Mr. Gray, he has a prominent record of public service as a member of the public utilities commission, as a director of the chamber of commerce, and as a prominent Rotarian. He is a fluent and convincing speaker and has the faculty of keen analysis of a situation which would make him a formidable opponent in a political contest.

Dr. W. J. Stevenson is also being urged to become a candidate. His personal popularity throughout the city, based on years of quiet but tremendously vital public service, would insure very strong support for him should he decide to run.

Among the businessmen of the city there are a number who would very much like to see E. S. Little enter the arena as a candidate in the present election. He is a businessman of sound judgment and wide experience both in business and public life and would make an admirable representative for London. He is an ex-mayor of the city, and has served as president of the chamber of commerce, besides giving valuable service in many other directions.

All four of the above men will receive strong support at the convention.

YOUNG WOMAN ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE IN CANAL

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Driven to desperation by want of money, food and friends, a young woman who gave her name as Margaret Bennett, aged 24 years, and her address as Montreal last night, was rescued by Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, who said that her husband had left her, taking their two children with him, and that she did not know where he was.

LOYD HARRIS, Brantford financier and well-known Conservative leader, who suffered a paralytic stroke yesterday afternoon, and whose condition is regarded as critical. He had agreed to accept the Conservative nomination, but his sudden illness will necessitate it is believed, the selection of another.

HARRIS' CONDITION REGARDED SERIOUS

Brant Conservatives Expected to Choose Another Candidate on Monday.

Canadian Press Despatch. Brantford, Sept. 26.—Mr. Lloyd Harris, who had agreed to accept the Conservative nomination for the riding of Brant, suffered a paralytic stroke yesterday afternoon and at 10:30 this morning had not rallied, still being unconscious. His condition is considered serious.

The Conservative party workers of the riding, following the postponement of the Conservative nominating convention from last night to Monday next, gathered and there are indications that the split in the party has been healed with the withdrawal definitely of Mr. Harris as a candidate. It is not thought here that Mr. Harris will be able to accept the nomination and the names of F. D. Reville and W. S. Brewster, K.C., are prominently to the fore.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN FARM WATER TANK

Mrs. William Longworth of West Oxford Had Been in Failing Health.

Special to The Advertiser. Ingersoll, Sept. 26.—At an early hour this morning the lifeless body of Mrs. Longworth, wife of William Longworth, of concession 6, West Oxford, was found in a water tank in the milk house. The discovery was made by her son William. Mrs. Longworth had not been in good health for several months. She remained on a lounge in the house last night when other members of the family retired, and she was not missed until about 5 o'clock this morning. She was in her 51st year. She is survived by her husband, one son, three brothers and one sister.

WILL FIGHT TO RETAIN OIL FIELD

Turks To Declare War If Disputed Mosul Area Is Entered.

150,000 ARE READY Head of Turkish Delegation at Geneva Issues Virtual Ultimatum.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Sept. 26.—Mosul is Turkish and always will remain Turkish, and the Turkish army, the peace strength of which is 150,000, is prepared to enforce this claim in warfare.

This statement is attributed to Ruchdi Bey, head of the Turkish delegation to the council of the League of Nations. The correspondent of the Daily Express in Geneva quotes the Turkish statesman as announcing that it is the determination of his country to possess this province in Mesopotamia, rich in oil lands, and to repudiate the British claim that it must be given to the kingdom of Iraq.

Ruchdi is said to have complained bitterly that Iraq troops recently made the incursions into Mosul across the so-called Brussels line of the frontier and thereby involved the loss of many lives. He considered that a sort of state of war already existed between Turkey and Great Britain the Turkish delegate replied vaguely: "Naturally, we will resist any invasion of Turkish territory, if you call that war."

Fear that the tense situation over Mosul might result in a clash of arms between Turkey and Great Britain frequently has been voiced here and at Geneva, especially since the council of the league of nations on Sept. 19 passed to the Hague court certain points involved in the dispute, thereby delaying a settlement of it for at least three months. The Iraq troops under British officers, are on one side of the frontier faced closely by Turkish troops on the other side. It seems that the local situation in Mosul has been heightened by charges and counter charges of the ill-treatment of natives. These charges already have been brought to the notice of the council of the league of nations at Geneva and are to be subject of investigation by a representative of the league.

WILL NOT BE WAR. Associated Press Despatch. London, Sept. 26.—Talk of a war between Great Britain and Turkey is not regarded seriously by government officials. There will be no fighting over Mosul, in their view. However excited a part of the press and some Turkish spokesmen may seem to be in anticipation of military activities it that part of the world.

CLACHAN RALLY OPENS KENT-ELGIN CONTESTS

Liberals Gather at Border To Support Sloggett and Rutherford.

McCOIG CAMPAIGNS

Kent Senator Prominent Speaker at Joint Meeting of Electors.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Clachan, Sept. 25.—The banner of Liberalism was unfolded here tonight when rousing campaign speeches marked the opening of contest for the election of Mayor George Sloggett as parliamentary member for Elgin and Dr. James Rutherford member for Kent.

Electors from the two counties gathered in the community hall here, men and women alike showing interest and enthusiasm in the campaign, the cause and the candidates. Senator Archie McColl of Chatham was the chief speaker, and other addresses of note were given at an attentive hearing.

Meet at Borders.
Kent's intensive campaign to place Dr. Rutherford in the Commons to succeed such representatives as Senator McColl and the easterly limit of the riding, Elgin's battle started at the western border. Senator McColl promised to keep his feet on both candidates, and he will appear shortly in St. Thomas and Port Stanley.

Kent, with substantial majorities for Liberal candidates for some years past, promises Liberal representation again. And in Elgin prospects are no less favorable with a strong Liberal candidate in the field in the person of Mayor G. H. Sloggett of St. Thomas, an outstanding labor man and a strong Liberal.

Mr. Sloggett was unable to be present tonight, but his supporters gave him a creditable record.

Robert E. Kerr, Liberal campaign chairman for Oxford, president, Ex-chairman of St. Thomas, Mayor E. A. Horton, of St. Thomas, and Albert Roberts, chairman of the St. Thomas board of water commissioners, spoke on behalf of Mayor Sloggett. James McLean, chairman for Rodney, was another Elgin speaker. Senator McColl came in with Dr. Rutherford, and both gave able addresses on political conditions.

William Polmie, Elgin's popular Liberal standard-bearer in other contests, spoke briefly.

Chases Shades of Ruin.
Shades of the notorious Imperial Oil Company bubble and "blue ruinism" of Arthur Meighen were chased by Senator McColl in a fighting speech. He deprecated the campaign utterances of the Conservative leader and showed clearly by convincing statements that conditions in Chatham, in Sarnia, and elsewhere in Canada, are much better than the Conservatives make out.

Mr. McColl issued a challenge to

DIRECTS IMMIGRATION.
J. Bruce Walker, who has been appointed as director of European emigration for Canada in London.

Arthur Meighen to prove depression which he had talked about in Chatham. In spite of the Conservative attempts to spoil trade and industry, the Maple City was improving. Similar conditions were evident elsewhere in Canada, and Canadians were returning from the United States, and American emigrants were numbered amongst newcomers to the Dominion.

Who has Arthur Meighen behind him? What members of the old Borden cabinet were standing by the prince of pessimism? Well, there was Bob Rogers, notorious Manitoba politician, the single member of the old Borden cabinet to support Meighen in the present campaign. Then there was Dewitt Foster, of war-horse fame, contesting the election in the maritimes.

Just how game was the Conservative candidate in Kent? Just so much present tonight, but his supporters gave him a creditable record.

Confidence in Sloggett.
Confidence in Mayor George Sloggett, Liberal candidate in Elgin, was vouched for by E. A. Horton, former mayor of St. Thomas. He called the election one for the people, in which citizens formed an even more important part than candidates. At the same time he was strong in his greeting that the candidate was no able to present.

"He is a nothing against him. He holds the confidence of the people of St. Thomas, and that is what counts. A man's neighbors know him—if any one does, and we all believe in Mayor Sloggett."

Mr. Horton deprecated the move to persistent attempt would wreck the fruits of confederation. Immigration and railroads formed the real key problems of the country. Coming fresh from organization work in standard-bearer in that riding, declared he had every expectation of the King administration's return. The King would come first, Dr. Rutherford declared, and he would not pledge blind faith to the Liberal government.

Tariff for Revenue.
"Tariff for revenue," is Dr. Rutherford's view of customs duties. He believes in going down the center of the road, offering the farmer as much protection as the manufacturer.

The candidate produced a letter from a prominent Detroit manufacturer made not to open a Canadian branch at Chatham, because of press reports. Such reports were caused largely by Arthur Meighen and his supporters, talking disparagingly of Canada, simply for campaign propaganda, improved greatly in Canada. The Canadian dollar is above par at New York. Statements credited to the Belfast chamber of commerce indicated the Dominion to be the richest country in the world in matter of exports, shipping a quarter as much produce as the United States.

Seeks Farm Settlers.
In the matter of immigration, Dr. Rutherford seeks farmer settlers, the last land available for homesteads to stay. Population, industrial and business expansion will follow.

The Dominion had been saddled with the National Railways, roads that had not paid dividends, which were operating at losses and for millions were paid. Leave Sir Henry Thornton alone, advocated Dr. Rutherford, and the national roads would be made to pay.

The viewpoint of the labor man and the Nationalist was expounded by Albert Roberts, chairman of the St. Thomas water commission. Mr. Roberts is a man of independent views, but he is offering strong support to Mayor Sloggett in the Elgin campaign, whom he believes can best represent the people of the constituency.

King Leaves for West.
Indications Point To Triumphal Tour As Prairies Swing To Liberal Side.

Special to The Advertiser by E. C. BUCHANAN.
Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Right Hon. Mackenzie King leaves tonight for what is the opinion of political observers, will prove a triumphal tour of the west. Reports which the government has been receiving from the prairies indicate a steady improvement in the outlook from the Liberal standpoint.

Before leaving for the west, Premier King further strengthened his cabinet by taking in former Premier Foster of New Brunswick in the place of Hon. A. C. Cope, who resigned. Mr. Cope has been given the remaining N. B. vacancy in the senate.

The cabinet was in session all afternoon and evening. A number of items of business were disposed of and the election situation discussed.

It was decided in agreement with Australia that the Australian trade treaty should be effective Oct. 1.

Those who returned from the prairies from the maritimes state that Conservative expectations in that section of the country are in the way of being seriously disappointed.

The Conservatives have been confidently counting on Nova Scotia and New Brunswick going the same way in recent provincial elections. In Nova Scotia, however, it is reported that a marked reaction has set in, Rhodes attempt to settle the mining trouble. The government, it is said, is likely to carry the majority of the Nova Scotia seats. It probably will hold Prince Edward Island and lose some in New Brunswick.

In Manitoba a strong Liberal swing is under way, and it will be surprising if the government does not win in the big majority of the 17 seats. To a lesser extent only the same movement is in progress in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

In Quebec, Patenaude is not proving the force he was reported to be. One opinion of the very Montreal origin today was that the Conservatives would not gain more than three seats in Montreal. They have been figuring on sweeping the city.

and thereby made nations there purchase more commodities, and the raising of the tariff had proven double-stupid.

The United States is heading for mass production and standardization in everything. Standardization, with tariff, would head to diminished purchasing power. Arthur Meighen knew that when he preached high tariff.

Confidence in the very thing on which business was built—it was worth more than gold. Pessimism was worse than the Fingal wolf.

Mr. Roberts hoped even for an eventual reciprocity treaty. He characterized the United States as to be an exporting trading nation, to succeed, Canada needed the United States for a market.

George's "back-to-the-land" scheme would cut off considerable market for the wheat of the Dominion.

"We cannot think straight today if we surround ourselves with a narrow shell. I've tried to get a little line on economics. My sympathies are with the ideas of the labor movement, but I can't agree with the labor's program. During the last 25 years the labor movement has been bleed of all its best leaders, and of the two paths left open to me I cannot follow the party of pessimism."

MANY APPEALS HEARD BY COURT OF REVISION
Court of revision sat Thursday at the city hall and received a large number of appeals against assessment. The majority of assessments criticized were confirmed by the court.

In several business assessments reductions were made because improvement had been put on buildings in order to rent them. One exemption from taxation was allowed on grounds of charity.

Newly-married couples had income assessment struck off when their present status was made known.

FOSTER IS NAMED TO KING CABINET,

Ex-Premier of Nova Scotia Becomes Secretary of State.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Hon. A. B. Cope, secretary of state, has resigned his portfolio and the government, and his resignation has been accepted. Mr. Cope was today appointed to the senate to fill the vacancy existing in New Brunswick. Hon. Walter Foster, former premier of the province of New Brunswick, has been appointed secretary of state in succession to Mr. Cope.

Official announcement to this effect was made this evening by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King. The prime minister stated that, following a meeting of the cabinet on Monday, Mr. Cope's resignation had been accepted and the appointment mentioned approved by the government.

While Hon. Walter Foster will take over the portfolio of secretary of state, it was stated that a rearrangement of portfolios in the cabinet is contemplated after the elections, should the government be returned to power.

Hon. Mr. Cope sat for the constituency of Westmoreland, N.B., in the last parliament, and he has represented in the house of commons since 1915.

Premier King declared that no appointment had as yet been made to the Manitoba vacancy in the senate, caused by the death of the late Senator George Bradbury of Selkirk. Mr. King was further intimated that announcement of the personnel of the new tariff advisory board would not likely be forthcoming until after the elections.

Bequests To Londoners Shown In Probated Will

Sir Adam Beck Leaves Many Minor Legacies to Employees.

ESTATE OVER $500,000

Probate of Sir Adam Beck's will, entered at the court house yesterday shows that his daughter, Mrs. Marian Hay, Toronto, receives outright a payment of $5,000, one month after her father's death, household goods, etc., to a value of $17,400, and the income from $539,076, the residue of the estate, which is being held in trust by the Royal Trust Company, Toronto.

The will, made July 14, last, but one month before the death of Sir Adam, further states that should Mrs. Hay die without leaving any residue, half the income from the residue goes to J. F. Beck, a brother, and at his death his half goes equally to his daughters, Miss Louise and Miss Helen Beck. Their children in turn will divide the income. The income from the other half of the residue, roughly $250,000, will go to a trust for the benefit of Mrs. Hay.

Other bequests are: George Kingstone, Montreal, $3,000; William Kingston, London, $3,000; Joseph Gleason, London, $1,500; Miss S. B. Venning, London, $1,500; M. McKee, London, $2,000; Dan Simpson, London, $1,500; Salvation Army, $1,000; Protestant Orphans' home, $1,000; Hope Orphans' home, $1,000; Victoria home, $2,000; London Health association, $1,000. This makes a total of $88,900, and the balance of the estate is left in trust to the Royal Trust Company to administer as it sees fit on behalf of Mrs. Hay.

The story of two brothers who lived on $9 a week

A BANK MANAGER may never intrude himself into the business affairs of a client, but when he is invited to act in an advisory capacity, frequently there is an inspiring story of achievement to be told as a result of the union of practical ability and expert financial direction.

Two brothers in their twenties, living in an eastern city, possessed a "Shoestring" of $1,500, a supply of Canadian pluck and a knowledge of the manufacture and sale of a certain commodity. They went into business for themselves, and were assisted by their father in the purchase of materials. Then they sought the best financial advice and co-operation and were directed to the Bank of Toronto.

Our manager immediately got down to brass tacks with these two boys. They put their cards on the table, face up. Their "strong suit" was their honesty, energy and willingness to sacrifice. They were drawing only $9 a week each from the business; every other cent made was going back into the business.

The Bank of Toronto manager enlisted the resources of the Bank in the interests of these young men. Reasonable advances were made; the financial standing of new accounts was carefully checked; fluctuations in prices of supplies and labor were carefully checked. And the young firm grew on the strongest of foundation stones.

The relationship continues to this day. The young men are now leaders in Canadian business, their names known and honored from coast to coast; they are worth $250,000 each, and the daily output of their factory runs into thousands of units of the commodity they are making.

While their development is almost entirely due to their own initiative and energy, good judgment in seeking sound financial co-operation from a bank that gave more than mechanical service played an important part in their success.

HIKERS WITH WHEELBARROW SET OUT FOR PACIFIC COAST

Mr. and Mrs. Le Roux Visit London on Journey Around Globe.

TWENTY MILES A DAY Make Distance From Ingersoll in Little Over Eight Hours.

Around the world on foot. This is the method used by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Le Roux, Kimberley, South Africa, who are touring the continents. The travellers were in London today. They left this morning on the first leg of their trip to Vancouver.

The visitors to London did not come unexpectedly. Letters reached friends here two months ago, stating that Mr. and Mrs. Le Roux were on their way to the Forest City. Three years ago, with a fortune that totalled exactly 12 cents, the two travellers set out with a wheelbarrow containing their belongings.

Since that time they have traversed South Africa, Portuguese East Africa, Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland and Canada from the Atlantic to London. The travellers are taking notes and photographs concerning the territory over which they travel for they intend to write a book on their travels after they have circled the globe.

In order to defray the expenses of the trip they sell picture post cards of themselves. Steamship companies have given them transportation for advertising carried on the wheelbarrow pushed by Mr. Le Roux. The couple average about 20 miles a day. They came from Ingersoll on Friday, making the distance in a little over eight hours. They have much praise for Canada, saying that they have enjoyed hospitality all along the route from Montreal where they arrived on June 26.

We, therefore, respectfully suggest that if given the mandate of government that they will immediately make this return in the senate—namely, that reduction from 26 members to 10, and the sessional indemnity be reduced from $4,000 to $2,000, and the latter sum must cover all their travelling and other expenses.

TURKS WILL DECLARE WAR IF MOSUL ENTERED

That their hands are clean, as far as the Mosul controversy is concerned. They point out that argument is between a great power and a small power. The great power offered to submit the question to the arbitration of the league of nations, which presumably is the protector of small nations and the guardian of their rights. Now the great power is unwilling to abide by the decisions of such an arbitrator. If any one inquires "what next?" Whichever simply shrugs its shoulders, indicates that nobody is losing sleep over the situation, and goes away for a week-end of peaceful golf.

Motor Passes Harmlessly Over Babe Asleep In Road

Sleeping peacefully in the middle of the road on the 15th concession of London township yesterday afternoon a little 2-year-old boy never winked an eyelid when a motor car driven by William Revington of Lucan passed over him, missing his tousled head by inches. The child was swinging round a curve. Mr. Revington noticed a prone object in the road. He swerved the car, but the wheels would not touch the back of the child. He stopped, walked back with his companion, Lawrence Noonan of Granton, to see what it

LYON NOT EDITOR OF TORONTO GLOBE

On Extended Leave of Absence—To Resign at End of Year.

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Sept. 26.—Though his name is carried on the top of the editorial page, Stewart Lyon is no longer editor of the Toronto Globe. He is believed to be in the United States with Captain W. L. Smith, of the Farmers' Sun and another boon companion. This is in accordance with plans made some time ago, and to which Mr. Lyon had looked forward with pleasant anticipation.

His leave of absence, which formerly had extended for a year or more, has, it is understood, been further extended to the end of this year. When Senator John Lewis, M. W. Rossie and Ross Munro, members of the Globe editorial staff, resigned recently, Mr. Lyon assumed the strenuous duties of editorship. On the appointment of Harry W. Anderson as acting editor, Mr. Lyon turned to his cherished plans for his next trip and the restoration of his health.

Very considerable stir has been caused, both in conservative and Liberal circles in the city, by the resignation yesterday of E. R. Dennis as president of the Western Ontario Conservative association. Throughout the city this morning there were many speculations as to the real facts behind the resignation of one who has given devoted service to the Conservative cause in Western Ontario over a long period of years.

Increasing business pressure was the reason given by Mr. Dennis in his letter to the association, but several businessmen in close touch with the situation expressed skepticism this morning that this was the only cause behind the resignation. "Where there is a much smoke there must be some fire," said a prominent Liberal leader. "Personally I am very sorry for Mr. Dennis. I don't think his Conservative friends have treated him at all fairly in the past, and it would not be surprising if he is resentful. He has spent a great deal of time and energy in the past, and has a number of times stifled personal ambitions for the good of the party as a whole. He has stood aside as a candidate when his personal popularity was great enough to insure his election, and my personal belief is that he has now been asked to do what he does not feel like making."

DELEGATES TO ROCHESTER REPORT ON CONVENTION

O. O. H. and P. Thebes Sanctorum No. 26 opened their annual convention last evening. Plans were made for an entertainment for the members and their friends to be held next month. The delegates who recently attended the supreme office at Rochester, N. Y., gave complete reports of the sessions of that body.

The members of the continuing organization were enthusiastically of the opinion that optimism was justified as to the future of the order. The present O. O. H. and P. is comprised of the membership of the original organization, which has made several other bodies who adopted the designation, "United order of splendor and perfection," the ancient and mystic order of Samaritans."

It was decided to hold an open house in January next, to which all members of the order are invited. Thebes Sanctorum was accorded a signal honor in the election of Perry Rogers to the office of supreme sheriff of the supreme office. R. R. Whitehead was appointed district deputy supreme monarch for Western Ontario.

WOULD USE PAPERS TO AID TRAFFIC RULES

Ex-Alderman Towe Thinks the Regulations For Motor Control Need Publicity.

The use of more newspaper space in the form of paid advertising was advocated this morning by ex-ald. Alan Towe as a decided help in the control of traffic on London's streets. "If each newspaper were properly advertised to do this," he said, "it would be a great help in enforcing it." He said, "If on holidays, when motor cars were to be kept off certain streets and to use certain others, by advertisements in the papers, they would be certain to comply."

As an instance of the value of publicity, he noted the trimming of a certain hedge which had been a menace to motorists the day after the article advocating such action appeared in The Advertiser. "If the hedge were to be cut, it would be sure to break up any traffic regulations," he said. "If the hedge were to be cut, it would be sure to break up any traffic regulations," he said.

Secretary Jackson of the Western Fair is busy making checks as to the recent exhibition. Capt. Lily Clark and Capt. E. Bradford of Norwich will be given new appointments. It is not known whether or not these officers will be attached.

"Who knows better than the policeman what regulations are working properly and what are just nuisance laws?" he asked. "Working more fitted to deal with traffic problems than policemen who are charged with the regulating of that traffic?"

Ham-Sandwich Bass Jump At Lure of London Anglers

Fishermen Take Big Catch Off St. Williams, If Story Is True.

SEA DOGS TO RESCUE Special to The Advertiser. St. Williams, Sept. 26.—The quiet fishing village of St. Williams is agog over the exploits of that expert wielder of the fish rod, Scott McPherson of London, and his equally famous companion of many fishing jaunts, Alf (Fishy) Muddock, who closed the fishing season here a few days ago.

Most fishing stories are hard to believe, but the following tale is vouchered for by Art Akers of this village, who took the London party in his launch on the last trip of the year. Among other Londoners in the party were George Arthur, "Jigger" Durham, George Chantler and the Bill Durans, junior and senior.

According to Mr. Akers, the big bass would not even sniff at minnows, while angle worms and dew worms meant nothing to their fishy existence. The party as not having much fun until Scotty McPherson, who will be re-hired to fish the river Thames two years ago, decided that he would sacrifice one of his precious ham sandwiches and was chucked to a dozen big-mouthed bass fighting for the bait. A four-pounder proved to be the winner and he was soon lying in the fish box. George Chantler broke a line trying to land the next one, which fell prey to the ham and egg sandwich on the line.

The excitement that followed the success of Mr. McPherson's experiment, someone kicked over the extra can of gasoline. The boat was towed to the shore almost to the water's edge when the engine expected to start sputtered and the gang were stranded with their record catch.

Mr. McPherson, however, is a man of close shaves. You will know this if you visit him at his place of business on Richmond street. He has had his hair cut in tight places before, and so has his friend Muddock. "Stuttering Gaelic at a mile a minute, both anglers stuck out a clarion voice, both anglers stuck out a clarion voice, both anglers stuck out a clarion voice, both anglers stuck out a clarion voice."

When seen this morning by The Advertiser, Messrs. McPherson and Muddock both admitted that they had recently been fishing at St. Williams.

Mr. Hopkins' claim that the bottle contained liniment and not liquor was substantiated at the station, and he was at once freed.

Mr. Meighen's Dangerous Plan.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, in convention at Toronto, favored the idea of keeping the Canadian National Railways out of politics.

Some correspondence took place between the Brotherhood and Mr. Meighen regarding the Conservative leader's statement at Wingham that, if returned to power, he would enforce drastic cuts in current expenditure on the National Railways.

Mr. Meighen's explanation tones down his first utterance, which was probably meant for general consumption, but his speeches in the maritimes cannot be explained in any such manner.

If that is not the doctrine of plain political interference, then what is it?

No matter if experienced railroad men, who have no other object than making the Canadian National a success, decided that it was better to centralize executive offices and simplify direction.

The resignation of E. R. Dennis, president of the Western Ontario Conservative Association, comes at an inopportune time for that party.

His resignation was the choice of a sensible businessman who sees opportunities for the extension of his factory.

It is a strange coincidence that the same cause is the only barrier that may keep Frank White, M.P., from again contesting for the London seat.

When London conference of the United church was discussing the raising of money, Colonel Beattie favored going directly to the men who had money and placing the case before them.

Dr. Beattie's view is as forceful as it is unique. Men with money cannot take it with them when they leave this world.

A correspondent writing to a weekly paper says: "Already the old parties are after the money, trying to sell membership in their political clubs to raise money to fight an election."

Official figures on the operation of the Canadian National roads for the first eight months of 1925 make interesting reading.

at issue in an election. The way to give expression to them is to seek the election of candidates holding one or the other of these views.

If it is not done, then the candidate is left to finance as best he can. If he wants to stay in the race, and he generally does, he has to use his own money or get it from others.

Tickets were given at the stores with purchases and presumably with payments for accounts. These were numbered and at the close of the contest would be the drawing for prizes.

It is small wonder if the public mind is somewhat confused as to what is a lottery and what is not.

Comparing the two cases, the Chatham plan seems fairer for those who play at the game.

Beware

I followed strange advice and grew a Roman nose upon my face, and my friends they pass me by, a stranger in my native place.

I read about a scheme just out whereby folks simply looked and chose, and picked the style they wished to wear, a Roman or a Grecian nose.

The snout I've wore for sixty years was never pleasin' to the eye, it's barred me out these three score years from lookin' like a handsome guy.

I slumbered in a paris east and spent my evening time at home, determined I should have a beak to decorate anew my dome.

When I got through that course I went and gazed upon the lookin'-glass, bein' much surprised to see in there the changes that had come to pass.

A National Policy

Protection Plan of 1879 Does Not Fit a Greater Canada's Needs in 1925—Neither High Protection Nor Free Trade, But Moderate Tariff Is Truly National Policy Today—Moderate Tariff Means Stability.

This article has been written for The Advertiser by Senator John Lewis, formerly editor of The Toronto Globe. It is the second of a short series which will appear in The Advertiser.

When Your Income Stops

THE wage-earner or the salaried man does not usually have a surplus to invest. He, himself, is his sole capital, his earnings, his only income.

Think! When you stop, your income stops. What is going to happen then? You are not one of a company in business. You hold no stock. You stand alone. Who will pay an income to your family when you cease doing so?

The Mutual Life of Canada will. The Mutual Life was organized for just such men as you. Mutuality lends the strength of each to the strength of all and the strength of all to meet the needs of each.

Write to us today for "The Mutual Book". THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA: Waterloo, Ontario. Branch Office, 204-5 Royal Bank Building, London, Ontario.

Assurance of Stability. Bear in mind also that a moderate tariff is the only assurance of stability. If extremists have their way, there will be constant agitation for change. Our tariff policy must be National and Rational.

On the one side we have a policy of cheapening production, enlarging markets, and careful consideration of tariff changes by a representative commission; on the other side we have a vague, crude proposal for higher duties.

THURSDAY MILITARY NIGHT AT MARCHETA PERFORMANCE

Complete Cast of Spectacular Musical Comedy Now Announced.

COLLEGIATE NIGHT

Thursday will be military night at the Grand Theatre, when the Municipal chapter, I. O. D. E., will present a musical comedy, "The Marcheta," with its intriguing Spanish setting. Gen. W. B. King has granted permission to officers and men to appear in the uniform on that occasion, and the boxes will be hung with flags to carry out the military idea.

An entire change in atmosphere will take place on Friday, which will probably be university night at the theatre, and the boxes will be decorated with the variety colors. Saturday is to be college night, when the theatre will be resplendent with the colors of the three different high schools of the city.

Marcheta is a delightful musical comedy, which is laid in a village in Spain, where a young Canadian engineer has been prospecting and inducing the people to invest in the theatre. The story, which has a bogus duke and other interesting characters.

Should the Mother of a Girl of Fifteen Allow Her Daughter to Have Dates?—The Jobless Fiance.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a daughter 15 years old. She is very large and mature looking for her age. No one believes that she is under 17.

Here is my problem. She wants to go around with the boys and girls of her set, and the boys beg for dates with her. She still has two more years of high school and four years of college ahead of her. Would she stay more contented through these six years of school if I let her have company occasionally or never permit her to? I want to do everything to make her happy, but it breaks my heart to see my baby become a young lady so soon. She confides all her little secrets to me and I fear that she may grow away from me if I permit her to begin going with boys.

A PERPLEXED MOTHER.

Answer: On the contrary, that is your only chance of holding her confidence. If you act the stern parent and deprive her of what she considers the rightful pleasure of her time of life, she will ring down the curtain of silence between you and you will never be able to lift it again or have another peep into her heart.

We tell our secrets only to those who will sympathize with us, who will enter into our plans and help us carry them out, and who will see things from our point of view. The reason that daughters so seldom confide in their mothers is because most mothers feel it their duty to take a superior attitude and criticize and rebuke on everything the girl wants to do.

Of course, 15 is young for a girl to start having dates, and that is why it is a good thing, when parents can manage it, to send a girl away from home to a girls' boarding school, where the boy proposition is more or less eliminated for a year or two.

However, this is not always possible, and then the parents should recognize that they cannot keep their own daughter from doing what all the other girls in her community are doing without making her feel that she is a persecuted martyr and alienating her from them.

Also, they may be very sure of this, that watch her as they may, she will do it, and that if they do not let her have dates openly she will have them on the sly. If they do not let boys come to the house she will meet them on the streets, and that the more they try to keep her away from boys the keener craver she will be.

But if mother will be reasonable, the girl will be reasonable. If the girl is permitted to have dates at the

Grace Detracted by Short Skirts

Noted Dancers Wear Them Within Ten Inches of Floor.

By AILEEN LAMONT. Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Sept. 25.—Extremely short dresses for dancing are notable for their absence at present. American professional ballroom dances abroad, who are known as among the best dressed women of Paris, London and Vienna, have given them their conge. They declare that the short skirts detract from the grace of movement the dancer wishes to emphasize.

One dance frock just imported here as light as possible from neck line to hips. The skirt falls within about ten inches of the ground, is very full and weighted at the hem with a band of metal or ostrich feathers to give it the desired swing. The upper part of the sleeves is very tight, but from the elbow down the light material flares and billows.

For waistcoats are very smart when worn with tailored suits at present. Chinchilla, ermine or mole are fur so used, and the garments are edged and trimmed with bands of metal colored leather or fine braid.

One would scarcely go to a blacksmith shop for a smart fall hat, but that is where a Parisian milliner finds that where a Parisian milliner finds the ornaments for one of her newest creations. She has taken a black panne velvet hat and posed a great cloud of ostrich feathers to fall over the right ear, points down. This is fastened to the hat by a curved feather of black wrought iron.

Evening bandeaux have become more popular than ever now that they are worn as a part of the dress. The newest examples are of silver cloth bordered with pearls and are worn almost over one eye. With them goes a scarf of chiffon and tulle, edged with metal which is tied around the throat in a great bow which meets the bandeau at the left ear.

For according to your own statement you leave him to spend most of his evenings alone, while you are enjoying yourself with your own friends in your own way. Do you never think of that, and that it must be pretty dull and drab to a man to come home after a long day's work to empty rooms and to a solitary dinner, and to have no company save his own thoughts? Business and golf are well enough in their way, but a man wants something more than that.

Don't try to break off your father's marriage. Give him your blessing. You certainly owe him that for all his goodness to you.

Unc' Billy Possum Gives Peter a Hint Toward Finding the Nest

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.
Peter Rabbit had stopped near the foot of Unc' Billy Possum's hollow tree. Unc' Billy happened to be sitting in his doorway. At sight of him Peter had a sudden thought. "I popped into his head that Unc' Billy himself was from the Sunny South and that he and Old Mistah Buzzard had long been the best of friends. Of course, Unc' Billy would know what kind of a place Old Mistah Buzzard would choose for a nest. Peter wasted no time.

"Good morning, Unc' Billy," said he. "You are looking fine this morning. I don't think I have ever seen you looking finer."

Unc' Billy grinned down at Peter. "Ah certainly feel fine, Brer Rabbit," said he. "Ah felt any finer Ah wouldn't know what to do with myself. Now, yo' all, Brer Rabbit, look a bit thin to me. Yes, suh, yo' look thin to me. 'Pears like yo' must be running around too much."

It was Peter's turn to grin. "I have been running around considerably, Unc' Billy," he said. "I've been looking for the nest of Old Mistah Buzzard. And I've looked and looked and looked until my legs ache and my neck aches."

"And haven't yo' found that nest, Brer Rabbit?" inquired Unc' Billy.

Peter shook his head. "No," he confessed. "No, Unc' Billy. What is more, no one else has, and if there is any tree top in all the Green Forest that hasn't been looked through for a nest I'd like to know where that tree is."

Unc' Billy chuckled. He chuckled and he chuckled. He chuckled so long that Peter began to get suspicious. "What is the joke?" demanded Peter.

"Is there a joke?" asked Unc' Billy, pretending to look very much surprised.

"If there isn't, what are you chuckling over?" demanded Peter.

Again Unc' Billy began to chuckle. "Brer Rabbit," said he, "yo' all certainly do tickle my risibilities. Where else besides the tree tops have yo' all been a-looking?"

"Nowhere else," replied Peter.
"Where else should we look?" said he. "Ah felt any finer Ah wouldn't know what to do with myself. Now, yo' all, Brer Rabbit, look a bit thin to me. Yes, suh, yo' look thin to me. 'Pears like yo' must be running around too much."

RAILWAYMEN AGAIN CHOOSE A. MOSHER

Ottawa Man Unanimously Re-elected President of Canadian Brotherhood.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Ont., Sept. 25.—A. R. Mosher, of Ottawa, was re-elected by unanimous vote as president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees at the brotherhood convention this evening.

Murdoch McLeod, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., was re-elected vice-president out of a field of three. C. H. Minchin, of Calgary, and Wm. Allen, Halifax, were elected to the executive board out of seven candidates nominated. The second name required several ballots before being declared. M. M. MacLean, of Ottawa, was re-elected by acclamation as secretary-treasurer. The election of the board of trustees was proceeding at midnight.

Mr. Mosher, commencing his eighteenth year as president of the Brotherhood, having been elected at the inaugural meeting in Moncton, on October 12, 1908. The membership of the Brotherhood at that time was 237. Today the membership is 15,000. On only two occasions have other candidates stood for office against Mr. Mosher.

The sessions of the convention during the day were taken up in consideration of amendments to the constitution, principal among which was a change in the number of officers of the Grand division. The offices of the three regional vice-presidents were eliminated, and were replaced by the addition of two members to the executive board. The convention, it is expected, will conclude its work Saturday evening.

Here is an excellent recipe for chutney sauce, as it is made by Mrs. Ed. Pellow. No Better Medicine For Little Ones

Is What Thousands of Mothers Say of Baby's Own Tablets.

A medicine for the baby, or growing child—one that the mother can feel assured is absolutely safe as well as efficient—is found in Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are praised by thousands of mothers throughout the country. These mothers have found by actual experience that there is no other medicine for little ones to equal them. Once a mother has had them for her children, she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Charles Hutt, Tancoek Island, N. S., writes: "I have ten children, the baby being just six months old. I have used Baby's Own Tablets for them for the past 29 years and can truthfully say that I know of no better medicine for little ones. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so."

Cameron Matthews and English Comedy Company in Big Stage Success.

A notable New York success will be presented by the Cameron Matthews English Comedy company at the Grand opera house twice today, matinee and night. The title of this offering is The Dover Road, which was first produced at the Bijou theatre in New York, where it ran for one entire year. The Dover Road is a comedy from the pen of A. A. Milne, the noted English author of Mr. Pin Passes By and other successes. This attraction will be one of the most important to be presented at the Grand opera house during the current season. The Dover Road chronicles the rather unusual happenings in a house on the famous road from London to Dover, in which various persons are forced to seek refuge and thereupon find themselves subjects of some trying experiments on the part of one Mr. Latimer, a wealthy and somewhat eccentric bachelor. It is a brilliant comedy and one which received the enthusiastic endorsement of every newspaper in New York, with the result that it was one of the pre-eminent Broadway attractions of last season in Gotham.

More mysterious than The Bat, more thrilling than The Cat and the Canary—that's The Mystic, which is coming to Loew's on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, starring Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle.

"Tod Browning Week" At Loew's

Tod Browning, a native of Louisville, Kentucky, and director of both pictures appearing at Loew's theatre next week, is recognized in the film world as an authority on crook plays.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday The Mystic will be presented, which is a production of his own book, and starring Aileen Pringle and Conway Tearle. The Mystic is the most thrilling, baffling and sensational motion picture you've ever seen. It is the first big production with spirit, spooks, table-tapping and seances as its central theme. It will give to you answers to a hundred and one spiritual questions.

The action of the world's greatest character actor, portrays the leading role in The Unholy Three, coming on the last half of Tod Browning Week, that of Echo, the side show ventriloquist. In The Hunchback you loved him, and in The Unholy Three, he ever put into one picture. Matt Moore and Mae Busch are in support.

These two productions, The Mystic and The Unholy Three, are both directed by that master director and author, Tod Browning, and are pictures that will stand through the ages as glorious productions.

The playgoers of this city should be very grateful to the Messrs. Shubert for the presentation of so exquisite a musical offering as Blossom Time, which is booked at the Grand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, and Saturday matinee, Oct. 8, 9, and 10, under the direction of the Messrs. Shubert.

Blossom Time is one of the greatest musical successes of the decade. It has been on view at the Ambassador theatre, New York, for two years. This operetta, with Franz Schubert music, is undoubtedly one of the most delightful musical entertainments of the kind ever staged. With a score consisting entirely of the famous composer's loveliest melodies, which are delicately woven into a story of Schubert's life, it represents the most distinguished musical production of the past few years.

The action of the play takes place in Vienna in 1828, when Schubert was unknown save to a few friends who believed in his genius. He falls in love with Miti Kranz, daughter of the crown jeweler, to whom he has been giving music lessons, and as their intimacy develops he composes a love song in her honor. Too self-conscious of his awkward appearance to sing it to her himself, he asks his devoted friend, Baron von Schobert, to do it for him. Meanwhile Miti, who has already fallen very much in love with her inarticulate suitor, is led to believe by a jealous prima donna, bent on avenging herself on the baron, that Schubert is a rake, and when the baron sings the most tragic incident in Schubert's life.

Weekly Farm Notes

Ground in Excellent Condition For Plowing After Recent Rains—Wool Prospects Are Poor, Buyers Declining To Take Chances in Unsettled Market—Apple Crop in Ontario Expected To Exceed Million Barrels.

The recent heavy rains, while doing a certain amount of damage, were welcome in almost every section of Ontario. The ground is in excellent condition for fall plowing, and wheat already seeded is well away to a good start, is the provincial government report. In many sections corn was brought in by the storm, and in others the bean and tomato crops were injured, but upon the whole the advantage was greater than the damage.

Corn is turning out an excellent crop and silo-filling is well under way in many districts. In Western Ontario counties, where the drought caused a shortage of hay, the corn yield is particularly welcome.

Many people have the idea that when the corn crop goes into the silo the value of the grain is lost. Experiments do not sustain this opinion. Work done recently at the Ohio experimental station shows that all the nutritive value of the grain thought the feed value of the silage, and unless these silages are lost by weathering or drainage all the nourishment contained in the grain reaches the animal.

Edward Brown, president of the international association of poultry instructors, and investigators, has been in Canada for several weeks in connection with the arrangements for the congress to be held here in 1927. Mr. Brown is much impressed by the successful operation of the Canadian poultry and thinks that some such system is needed in Britain. "I was very dubious about the scheme in early days," he admits, "but that there is proper instruction by qualified men and a careful check of the records, there can be no doubts whatever as to the improvement of stock generally throughout the country."

The Canadian R. O. P. for poultry is now commencing its sixth year. To qualify birds must lay over 150 two-ounce eggs in the year, and get into the higher class over 225 eggs. The steady growth of the eggs each year is worthy of mention. New entries have not yet come in, and officials report that over 100,000 birds, against 57,000 in 1924, were entered at the same date last year.

WOOL PROSPECTS POOR. The rapid advance in wool prices of a year ago was followed by a rapid decline, and as far as the wool market is concerned, there is not much seen at present. Improvement for some likelihood of improvement for some time. The market is unsettled, and wool traders who were pinched early in the slump at the English sales, are now under test, and only a few are expected to be smaller than in either E. or W. The number of cows involved is much larger than in either of the other two restricted areas. The first area, Carmen, Manitoba, contained about 20,000 cows, and the second, the counties of West, August, Chateaugay and Huntingdon, Quebec, about 60,000. Prince Edward Island has 115,000.

HORSE PULLING CONTESTS. Ontario farmers will have a real opportunity to test their horses' strength at the coming provincial plowing match at Brockville, Oct. 13 to 16, inclusive. Managing Director L. L. Wilson has arranged with the Massey-Harris Company to have a dynamometer on the grounds which will accurately measure the pulling power of the teams entered. Three classes are provided, one for teams from Leeds and Grenville counties, one for teams weighing takeplace, one for teams weighing 3,000 pounds or under, and one for pair running over 3,000 pounds. These pulling contests have proven big attractions at western agricultural gatherings and also where small tests have been tried out in a few ways at a few in the province this year. A new feature at the plowing match will be a competitive class for men plowing with oxen. It is hoped to make the competition an international affair this year, as many entries are expected from Ontario, States plowmen across the St. Lawrence in New York state.

The general introduction of sweet clover throughout the three prairie provinces is rapidly resulting in a revolution of agricultural methods in that part of the country. Exclusive grain farming in the past few years has not been altogether profitable, and many places the more wheat sown the heavier the annual losses. Sweet clover is now being drilled in with the wheat, the legume providing excellent fall pasturage, after the grain is harvested. Weeds are choked out and nitrogen is added to the soil. Summer fallowing, which many agriculturists consider a rather wasteful practice, is replaced by sweet clover hay or pasture the second season. This new method of farming allows the farmer to produce bigger crops of grain than was the case under the old system, and at the same time enough feed is grown to carry a good string of cows or sheep.

BIG APPLE CROP IN ONTARIO. While the other apple provinces of Canada report a smaller crop than usual, Ontario will have a big yield, and what is still more important, one of the cleanest harvests in years. Close to a million barrels of No. 1 fruit is being picked this month and next. The next big job will be to market this output. Fruit authorities are a trifle anxious on this point. Much of the present crop, says Percy Hodgetts, of the Ontario fruit branch, "will be from new plantations where the very best factor is the Ontario grower. Furthermore, the big grain harvest in the west will mean that more money is available there to purchase apples. On the other hand, Ontario apples, as a result of dishonest packs, have got rather a bad name in the west, but it is hoped that good packing this fall will overcome this reputation.

In a few weeks at most frost will cut down the flowers in the garden, and a few blooms will again be the precursors of bulbs bridge over the gap between fall and early summer. Tulips, hyacinths and narcissus are used for this purpose. They may now, for early spring blooming, or put in pots in the house, for flowering through the winter months. The Ontario horticulturist, however, gives some timely advice on handling bulbs. He advises early purchase of these, as they should be planted as soon as they arrive from Holland as possible. The larger bulbs should be secured, as these will produce the largest flowers. They should be planted from three to five inches apart and from four to six inches deep, although the Darwin variety of tulips, when planted in the open garden, should be put down to twelve inches in average soil, and other flowers may be planted over them for summer display. Smaller bulbs, such as snowdrops, crocuses and squills may be planted two inches apart and two to three inches deep. When planting in the open garden place in the bottom of the pots for drainage some chips or broken crockery and leave in a dark corner of the cellar from any light. Keep well watered, and after the flowers come out, do not let the hot room be too hot. More house flowers are killed by overheating than by cool temperatures.

EAST LAMBTON LIBERALS CHOOSE SHAUGHNESSY

Convention Chooses Reeve of Petrolia As Party Candidate.

THREE-SIDED FIGHT Rally To Stirring Call of 83-Year-Old Liberal Worker.

Special to The Advertiser. Alvinston, Sept. 25.—East Lambton Liberals, at an enthusiastic convention held here this afternoon, reached a unanimous decision to place a candidate in the field in the forthcoming federal election and nominated E. A. Shaughnessy, reeve of Petrolia, as a prominent barrister of that town, as their candidate.

Mr. Shaughnessy, who is an overseas man with an enviable record in the Canadian engineers, was assured the hearty support of all the Liberals in the riding in what now becomes a three-cornered contest, the Conservatives having previously nominated J. E. Armstrong and the Progressives Burt W. Fansher, present member for East Lambton.

The riding was considerably enlarged at the last redistribution and this and other factors give assurance that the Liberals will have a good chance in the election. In 1921 there was no Liberal candidate in the field, Liberal support going largely to the Progressive candidate, Burt W. Fansher of Florence, who defeated J. E. Armstrong by a majority of 395.

There was some difference of opinion as to whether or not it would be well to support the Progressive nominee, Duncan White, making a strong plea on behalf of those who did not favor such action was, however, abandoned after James Peat, an 83-year-old veteran of the Scottish fighting stock, made a vigorous address, urging the nomination of a candidate.

"The people of this country were fooled in 1911 by the Conservative leaders and the big interests," Mr. Peat said, "and they were fooled again in 1917, but I don't believe they'll be fooled this time. I believe they'll go back in opposition, and I sincerely hope that Mr. Meighen will go back with a bigger King than he has had if he hopes to accomplish anything. I think that under all the circumstances, the present government has done nobly and well."

Veteran Leads. Mr. Peat's vigorous fighting speech aroused much enthusiasm and the decision to place a candidate in the field was made unanimous. When nominations were called the following names were placed before the convention: J. Greenizen, Petrolia, retiring president of the East Lambton Liberal association; Duncan McEachern, Dr. Axford, D. G. Sturgis, W. G. Connelly, E. A. Shaughnessy, Duncan White, Hector Cowan and William Annett. All withdrew, with the exception of Mr. Shaughnessy and Mr. Sturgis, whose names in the matter could not be ascertained. The former at first asked time to consider the matter, but before the meeting closed gave assurance that he would allow his name to stand. His decision was received with great enthusiasm.

Elect Executive. Election of the executive resulted in the selection as president of the association of D. G. Sturgis of Dresden to succeed the retiring president, I. Greenizen. Malcolm McAlpine was appointed first vice-president, and E. A. Shaughnessy second vice-president. Mr. R. K. Clark was reappointed secretary-treasurer, his work in that capacity during the past four years being highly commended. Mr. Greenizen presided in capable fashion at the convention. A strong committee representative of every district in the riding was appointed to assist Mr. Shaughnessy in his campaign. The meeting closed with three hearty cheers for the candidate and for Premier Mackenzie King and his government.

Riding Enlarged. The riding was considerably enlarged at the last redistribution and this and other factors give assurance that the Liberals will have a good chance in the election. In 1921 there was no Liberal candidate in the field, Liberal support going largely to the Progressive candidate, Burt W. Fansher of Florence, who defeated J. E. Armstrong by a majority of 395.

Canada's Well On Way To Win the Butter Market In Britain

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Satisfaction with this year's quality and improved grading of Canadian butter is expressed by prominent importers in Britain, one of the most important distributing centers of Canadian butter in the United Kingdom, according to advices received by the department of trade and commerce of Canada from Trade Commissioner Douglas S. Cole, Bristol.

The letter adds that if Canada keeps on shipping good fresh butter, in time it will have an effect on the English market, to the detriment of other sources of supply. Mr. Cole states that "increased quantities of western Canadian butter are coming into that market, and this new source of supply upholds the high reputation the Canadian product has won in the trade."

One notable change in the situation, he states, is the elimination of Irish butter supplies. The Irish exporters were formerly the chief competitors of the Canadian produce in the west to England.

Historic White Oak Church Arrives At Golden Jubilee

Two Former Pastors, Now in London, Will Preach at Sunday Services. CONCERT ON MONDAY Union Ideals Predominated in Rural Church in the Late 80's.

Golden jubilee services will be held Sunday by the United church at White Oak, formerly the Methodist church. The celebration will be continued until Monday evening. Looking back over the years and making a brief summary of those who have passed through this particular church, one is seized with this fact of the importance of these churches placed in strategic positions throughout rural districts. The White Oak church is no exception during the past 50 years. Eighteen successive ministers have served this church, besides 23 probationers for the ministry, serving one year each, and in a few cases two years.

This church has been until 1913, one church of six composing what has been always known as the Westminster circuit.

Under Bible Christians. Prior to the year 1844 the community was served by the Bible Christian church, this appointment being attached to Lambeth. Prior to the time when Bible Christians took over the spiritual supervision of the community for many years, this was called the Union appointment, being supplied by Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist ministers. On Monday night the land upon which the church was built, and Geary Bros. of London were the contractors. The structure was of frame and stood until the year 1914, serving the community with new appearance being bricked in and renovated within. It now is a comfortable and creditable church, of which the congregation is justly proud.

Pastors Come Back. The services on Sunday promise to be very interesting in that two former pastors will be present to preach. Rev. W. E. Milson, in the afternoon, with music by a double mixed quartet from London, and in the evening, Rev. G. N. Hazen of London. Centennial church will preach, and Lambeth double mixed quartet will provide the music. At both of these services, Master Ross Bowen of Elgin will still play. On Monday night the ladies of the church are preparing a Jiggs supper, with a splendid concert following.

Already letters of greetings and congratulation are pouring in from past members of this church in response to invitations sent them to be present at these services.

Rev. M. C. Parr entered the pastorate last June, successor to Rev. T. A. Steadman, now of Byron.

WEST MIDDLESEX TORIES PUT TOM ELLIOTT IN FIELD

Nominate Candidate in Hope of Spoiling Chances of Liberal Candidate. SOME ARE OPPOSED "Stormy Petrel" of Middlesex Council Accepts After Others Refuse.

Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, Sept. 25.—Tom Elliott, reeve of West Williams, the stormy petrel of the county council, was the choice of a Conservative convention held here today, after all other nominees had refused to stand.

Some 100 delegates were present, mainly from the south of the riding. When the question of putting a candidate in the field for the coming federal election came up for discussion, a considerable number, led by John A. McIntyre, West Williams, were opposed, being personally committed to J. C. Elliott, the Liberal nominee. The other body of opinion was varied by James Peters, Caradoc, and D. J. Matheson, Komoka, who thought this was a wonderful opportunity to win an election. Archie Walker, Caradoc, said the real business of Conservatives was to defeat the King government. J. C. Elliott is a supporter of Mr. A. McIntyre, U. P. C., or whatever he calls himself, will be harmless, as there will be only 10 or 12 such in the house. A vote was taken and carried that a candidate should be put in, none of those opposed voting against it.

Robert McKellar, Glenora, called for nominations, and Robert McKellar, Glenora; George Lewis, Stratford; Gen. Elliott, West Williams; D. J. Matheson, Komoka, and Dr. Racey, Parkhill, were nominated. Dr. Racey wouldn't allow his name to be committed to the other man and was going to vote for him.

Upon suggestion of Archie Walker the candidates were all withdrawn, except Tom Elliott, who thus became the choice.

George Spotton, Conservative candidate for the riding, and George Elliott, M.L.A., Parkhill, addressed the delegates.

The new executive which was elected is: Robert McKellar, Glenora, president; Fred Laughton, Parkhill, vice-president; Mrs. Ed. Dege, second vice-president; James Clock, Ailsa Craig, secretary-treasurer.

MEIGHEN SCORES BOARD ON TARIFF Declares Country Should Expect Little From Proposed Safety Plan.

Canadian Press Despatch. Kingston, Sept. 25.—Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, made his first appearance on an Ontario platform since his last provincial election when he addressed a large audience in the Grand Opera house here this evening in support of Dr. A. E. Ross, Conservative candidate in the riding of Ottawa.

The speech of the Conservative leader was a condemnation of the tariff business, and a plea for the government for its fiscal policy, and also for what he claimed the "death" of the tariff business, and a plea for transportation and immigration.

Mr. Meighen warned his audience that little was to be expected from a tariff bill which should be next in the hands of parliament, in its membership. The tariff was the creation of parliament, in the opinion of our orators, and the approval of schedules must have the approval of parliament.

On the railway problem, Mr. Meighen warned the government for discharging the former board of the Canadian National system which, he claimed, was composed of political business men, and replacing it with a board on which "there was a goodly number of political appointments." Such conduct meant the "death" of independent control of the system.

He asserted that while the prime minister was going through the country promising that there must be no interference with the national railways, his Quebec lieutenant, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, was promising the "death" of the railway in that province in order to elect a Liberal candidate.

HEARING WAIVED IN DEATH TRIAL M. McAlpine and R. Robbette Will Face Manslaughter Charge.

Canham, Sept. 25.—Martin McAlpine, of Walkerville, and Russell Robbette, of Toronto, charged with manslaughter, arising out of a fatal accident which occurred on the provincial highway near Kent Bridge some weeks ago, today waived preliminary examination, and consented to a trial. They agreed that evidence adduced at the inquest over Clifford Knight, the accident victim, be evidence of the preliminary trial. The accused were released on bail of $2,000 each, to appear for trial at the spring assizes, and a truck driven by Robbette, crashed on the highway, Knight, who was riding in the truck, suffering injuries which proved fatal two days later.

Tunney Victor Over Madden Associated Press Despatch. Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25.—Gene Tunney, New York heavy weight, established himself as the Dempsey's crown when he knocked out Bartley Madden, heavyweight trial horse, in the third round of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight.

The end came after a little more than two minutes of fighting in the third round, when Tunney backed Madden into a corner, gained his right foot, and with a crashing right to Madden's jaw, toppling over on his back, Madden was barely able to rise. The count of nine, and a short left hook again sprang him on the floor, face downward, where he strove ineffectually to rise before he was counted out.

SENATORS BANKING ON RIGHT-HANDERS

Harris Looks To Johnson, Covelisk and Marberry To Cop Honors.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Sept. 25.—Now that the outcome of the National and American league pennant races has become mathematical certainty, Pittsburgh and Washington, the rival world series contenders, are free to concentrate their efforts upon preparation for the annual baseball classic, which starts at Pittsburgh on Wednesday, Oct. 7. There may be a little less master-minding than usual in this year's series, with John McGraw of the Giants missing from the picture for the first time in five years.

McGraw's processes may be given a counterpart by Fred Clarke, veteran adviser to the Pittsburgh forces. Clarke, who was winning pennants with the old Pirates as when McGraw first took control of the Giants, is credited with having done much of the deep thinking for the new National league champion. In this matching of wits, however, Clarke and Bill McKechnie, manager of the Pirates, will have a number of opponents in Bucky Harris, who has established himself as a strategist of the first rank since his youth and accumulative experience.

Harris figures that if his club beat the Pirates it will be done with right-hand pitchers, a view which also speaks with authority on the merits of the three mathematical pennant contenders.

Walter Johnson and Stanley Coveleski are the pitching aces upon whom Harris will place his main reliance, but a few hot bats also resting on Alex Ferguson, veteran acquired from Boston, and Fred Marberry, rescued in-chief of the Washington series.

COMMISSION TAKES UP RATE ORDER TUESDAY

Sixteen Separate Applications Will Be Considered by Board.

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Sixteen separate applications will come before the board of railway commissioners on Tuesday, when they will take up the question of rescinding or continuing the order reducing export grain rates to the Pacific coast.

The first application which reached the commission came from the Montreal Corn exchange association, which asked that the order reducing the rates should be rescinded, and that the whole question should be reconsidered as a part of the equalization rate case.

Twelve of the other applicants before the commission make representations along the same lines as the Montreal corn exchange.

The board, in addition to the export grain rate case, will have before it an application by millers for the issuing of tariffs on Canadian railways to meet American competition in the carriage of the flour.

The Dominion Millers' association of Toronto, already has a case before the board, in which it is charged that existing rates discriminate in favor of Chicago and other American cities.

WILLOW DRILL IMPROVES BATTING EYES OF SENIORS

Confident of Reaching Finals Through Today's Game in Preston.

SPECIAL RATES

Although the special train was called off, there is every indication that the London seniors who meet Niagara Falls in Preston this afternoon will have plenty of support. Special rates will be obtainable both over the C. P. R. and C. N. R. for parties of four up to ten at 1:25 will reach Preston via Galt in plenty of time for the game and the same is true of the C. N. R. connections through Kitchener.

Last night Coach Forgas had his crew concentrate almost entirely on batting practice. They were served everything by the regular volunteer lineups who did the heaving to the plate, and Mister Bova should not be so deceptive as he was on his home lot. Bova has a good assortment of stuff and pace and he fooled the London batters pretty consistently last time out.

The Londoners last night were confident they would come out of the series as finalists. They had a comfortable edge the first game and feel that they were rather below their standard at the Falls rather than the Cataract crew being as good as the figures of the game made them look.

If the locals win today they will meet the Toronto-Kingston winners in Wednesday and Saturday games. With good weather the hits should attract record crowds regardless of what cities engage in the intercounty centers so accessible should just about set a mark for the play-offs in this end of the province.

Bova, it is expected, will start again, his third start in the series. He had a long rest between the first and second games so the task sounds harder than it really is. Bova is not particularly hard on himself as a pitcher, so the fact that the Londoners have more and better reserve pitching strength is not a whole of an advantage.

sadly lacking in class and numbers for the very reason that of the 28 eligible to start but few are on the ground and ready to run.

The field which will go postward will hardly number more than a half-dozen, namely, the Greentree stable's Stirrup Cup, the Belair stud's Aga Khan, Gifford A. Cochran's Dangerous, the Lilane stable's Sunshl, Lee Rosenberg's Sun Pal and Harry Payne Whitney's Overall.

Aga Khan will in all probability be the ruling favorite. The Belair stud star's last effort in the Edgemere handicap of last Saturday was too poor to be true, especially coming on top of his brilliant performance in back of Altawood in the Jockey Club gold cup. Stirrup Cup has been a rank disappointment throughout the year. So has Dangerous, and the same goes for the others. None of them has shown anything worth while, and as a racing spectacle Aqueduct does not give promise of anything to enthuse over. Supporting the Aqueduct will be Junior Champion, the first event of the year, in which two-year-olds are asked to travel a mile. Like the Aqueduct, the Junior Champion will suffer in a lack of really high-class two-year-olds and numbers.

Gifford A. Cochran's Little Asbestos, Robert L. Gerry's Samaticus,

Walter M. Jefford's Mars, William Zelgler's Espino, the Goodstone stable's Silver Lane, John E. Madden's Rocky Lane, the Ranocosa stable's Sabine and F. F. Joyce's Bucky Harris will just about constitute the field.

Three times since then the Giants have led the league in batting, although in 1923, the Pirates came within a fraction of their mark.

This year the Giants, who once were second, seem likely to drop to a sad seventh in hitting when the final averages are compiled. Previously, all through the duels with Pittsburgh, the differences were always slight, and this tumble emphasizes the terrific drop of the New Yorkers.

The Pirates, too, have fielded better than the Giants this year, and their pitching has been equally as good. In fact, had the Pittsburghs had anything like the start they anticipated at the beginning of the season, they would have won the pennant by more than 100 victories. Their real strength as a team, however, dated from the middle of May. Their poor work in April might have knocked them out had they not possessed great rallying power.

The Pittsburgh players who will meet Washington at the world's series are: Earl Smith, Gooch and Spencer, catchers; Aldridge, Adams, Meadows, Kremer, Yde, Morrison, pitchers; O'Ghan and Culloton, Wright, Traynor, Rawlings, Thompson and Ens, infielders; Carey, Cuyler, Higbee, Barhart and Haas, outfielders; William McKechnie, manager, and Jack Onslow, coach.

Of these players, Smith, Adams and McInnis have had experience in the world's series. So, too, has Fred Clark, who has been an advisory committee of one to McKechnie, though he is not eligible for the series "divvy." He has no contract to show, as it has been stated since he rejoined the Pirates he is not an active member of the club in any way. The fact he has not been named among the eligibles carries out that statement, but he may be allowed to act from the bench as an adviser when the series begins.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.

Dodge Brothers have never had an "off year" or an "off car." This is because they have never used the public as a testing ground for "new models" or lowered the quality of their product in the slightest degree. Every change has been an improvement on the original design.

Dodge Brothers pioneered in building the first all-steel open car and the first all-steel closed car. These epochal developments have saved Dodge Brothers owners many millions of dollars by materially prolonging motor car life and by effecting marked economies in manufacture. This construction has also reduced incalculably the danger from accident and fire.

Dodge Brothers sell directly through their dealers to the purchaser. There are no sectional distributing agencies to increase the cost of distribution and the cost of the car.

Dodge Brothers have never given so-called "free service." The car is sold at a fair and honest price. Nothing is added to this original purchase price to pay for service that the owner may never need.

Dodge Brothers Dealers were pioneers in unanimously adopting the flat rate service system. By this system, the owner knows in advance what any service job will cost. There are no unpleasant surprises in his bills.

The sturdiness and long life of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is reflected in its resale value. Comparatively few Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are advertised in the resale columns of the newspapers. The values they bring testify unanswerably to their goodness—and the public's belief in their goodness.

The purchase of an automobile is a serious and important business. The time has passed when transient novelties can lead a thoughtful buyer to overlook the great essentials of motor car worth.

A few of these essentials are clearly outlined above. They go far to explain why Dodge Brothers name is accepted, the world over, as the hall mark of dollar-for-dollar value.

"As Big a Gamble as Marriage"

Ontario Fruit Grower Has to Gamble With Nature, With Weather and Time, and Worst of All With the Market—He Must Get What He Can For His Crop, and Quickly

By F. G. GRIFFIN

FRUIT growing is essentially a gambling game. It comes down to that—gambling with nature, gambling with the weather, gambling with time, and in the end gambling with the market, which is the worst gamble of all. That, at least, is the impression one brings back from a visit to the Grimsby district, towards the end of the peach season.

It was a visit paid just the day after the big storm last week. On all sides in the orchards under the trees lying in the mud were hundreds of baskets of Elbertas. And in some places peach trees had been split in two by the wind. Not that the loss was as great as might appear on the surface, for some of the fruit might be retrieved and sold; but it was a striking illustration of how nature with a flip arrogance can at any moment upset the applecart.

Even if nature behaved throughout the season with beneficence—rain and sunshine in the right doses at the right seasons—so that every tree would produce a groaning maximum, then the market would probably be glutted and the fruit scarcely worth gathering from the growers' standpoint!

Of course, when he is gambling in futures that may never eventuate, the fruit grower does not differ greatly from fellow farmers. But it does seem as if most of the fruit crops were more fragile, perishable, problematical, and, from a marketing point of view, charged with chance than grain, vegetables or cattle.

In a few hours a sudden weather condition may overthrow the patience and work of months and ruin a crop on the verge of picking. A man at Stoney Creek a few years ago had many acres of beautiful grapes ready to harvest when a hail storm beat them to pulp—and sent him to an asylum. A big windstorm overnight has frequently sent nine-tenths of a peach crop to the ground.

A farmer had started his pickers harvesting a magnificent crop of cherries (Montmorencies) when a little shower fell. In its wake the sun came out—a warm west wind sprung up and the mercury shot to ninety degrees. That farmer actually saw the cherries in the west half of his orchard spoil before his eyes. Before the sun went down they were black, burnt and useless. Five hundred baskets, half the orchard's yield, had been destroyed.

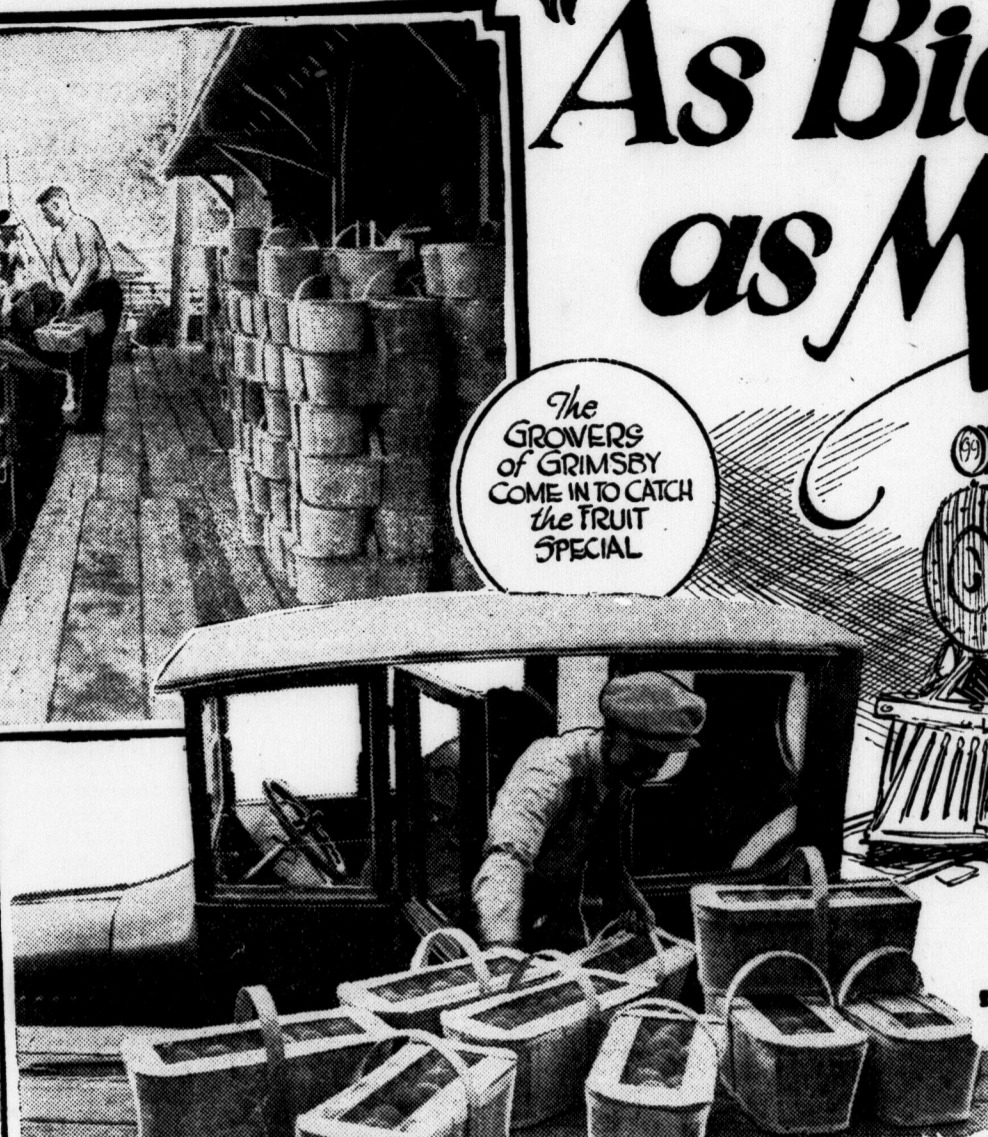

Great To-day and Spoiled To-morrow

ONE man related how a friend showed him one Friday in 1922 the finest crop of Bing cherries he had ever seen. They were hanging in heavy clusters, ripe for the picking. That very day the weather turned "muggy." Humid heat continued Saturday and Sunday. On Sunday the owner asked him to come over again and look at the beautiful cherries. He went, and he found over 50 per cent. of them rotten—in fact, the grower lost two-thirds of the crop. The weather had over-ripened the fruit. The cherries in the heart of each cluster had burst and the syrup, running out, had caused most of the rest to spoil.

It is a gamble sure enough. Even on Blossom Sunday, when the trees of the Niagara peninsula are glorious with their promise of a future harvest, the individual grower has not the least idea whether he will garner from each tree one basket or a hundred. Perhaps when the blooms are setting a cold wind springs up which prevents the insects working—with the result that the "set" is very small and the resultant crop poor.

This year both green gages and Crawford peaches promised big crops. But, at the moment of gathering, they split badly. The cause? The long spell of sticky weather. The air was charged endlessly with moisture. The roots absorbed it and kept pumping it up the tree. The tree sent the surplus into the fruit. And when a hot spell followed something had to give—and the fruit cracked.

One could go on endlessly giving examples of nature's cruelly whimsical way of stepping in and spilling the juice for the fruit grower. But these will suffice. "It's as big a gamble as marriage," said one of the biggest fruit men in the Grimsby district. "It's a gamble from the moment you plant the tree." And yet he maintained the game was all right if it was played right. You needed to know the game to succeed—it was a highly scientific one—and in it were too many misfits who did not know the first principles of the game.

So much for that. A visit to the Niagara fruit district reveals the fact that the industry is not getting what it should out of its crops and its efforts because its system of marketing is lacking in cohesion and co-ordination from the viewpoint of the grower, so that the individual is at the mercy of market conditions over which he has no control. For one thing, the Niagara fruit grower has not so far adopted legally recognized grades and standards as have his fellows of British Columbia and the Maritime provinces, not to mention California and Oregon. The Niagara man has not yet come to the point where he recognizes that this would help him in the long run instead of hindering him, for it would enable the buyer at a distance to order from him at a definite price an article of recognized and guaranteed value, instead of, at present, having to order blindly and pay on arrival a low price for something that was not up to the quality sought. The question of co-operation will be touched on later.

Industry Lacks System

UNTIL you get uniform grading and a standard article you'll never get the fruit industry on a business basis," remarked one of the biggest Grimsby growers. "As long as the wholesale trade does not order what it wants from the producing districts at prices set definitely in advance—as long as it depends on what comes to it without system from all over—there'll always be these gluts. It is not the fault of the wholesalers so much as the fault of the industry itself. Under the conditions fruit growing will always be a wild gamble in which the producer comes off second best.

"Without standards, as at present, where goods have to be seen before a value can be put on them, there are bound to be big losses to all concerned. If, on the other hand, there were standard grades, the wholesaler could quote prices in advance.

"Here everything goes in the basket and away it goes. The closeness of the market proves its curse to the producer. It enables him to get something for rubbish. The rubbish goes in with the good stuff and destroys the reputation of the fruit generally.

"The fruit business is one of the most disjointed, haphazard and unbusinesslike businesses in the country. At that, co-operation is difficult because weather controls individual advantage over all else, and he is urged in self-interest to take individual action. For another thing, the perishable fruits, plums, peaches and berries, must be moved direct to the market at once. They can't stand being held and bashed around.

"The real difficulty is that the fruit industry has grown up from small beginnings and has never been properly organized. It has an accidental sort of flavor to it even yet. The grower is not a co-operator naturally; he is an individualist. We tried co-operation here and found that it does more good to the man who stays out than the man who stays in. The outsider gets the benefits of the co-operators' work without any of the expense."

When you drive through the Grimsby district it seems a veritable Eden of wealth and plenty. Some of the homes are magnificent. Many of the farmers have big cars. On the roads you see good-looking, well-dressed people. It seems on the face of it as favored a place to live in as Ontario can show. And yet, apparently, it cannot be quite judged by surface appearances. One man declared he had a seventy-acre farm, with up-to-date equipment, which he ran on the strictest business principles—in fact, he had been in big business before he went fruit farming. And yet, in spite of that, in only one year during the eleven in which he had been growing fruit, had he made money. He said if he was not doing a little dealing as well he could not live.

Overhead is Enormous

ONE cause of the trouble, he admitted, was the tremendous overhead. His farm represented an investment of $100,000. For some of his land he had paid the huge price of $1,350 an acre; the rest had averaged $600. One found that these tremendous values, anything from $600 to well over $1,000 an acre, were the vogue all over the district. Many farmers had much money sunk in very fine homes as well, from which they could not possibly expect a dividend. Under such inflated conditions big returns were necessary to leave any sort of surplus after carrying the investment and caring for the overhead.

Allowing for this angle of the fruit farmers' grievances, there is the more serious one still of marketing. Here apparently is a gamble indeed. It might be mentioned that the system of marketing differs in the Grimsby district (or, rather, in the district between Hamilton and St. Catharines) from that in the section beyond that which goes to the Niagara river. In the first district are twenty-seven dealers who pay the grower straight cash, by way of voucher, for the fruit delivered on the station platform. So that the Grimsby district grower knows exactly where he stands in regard to a shipment when he sends it off. And such shipments do not go to Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, but to more definite markets in the smaller Ontario centres and to more distant markets in the western provinces and down east.

Every day through this district run special fruit trains, manned by special crews, which stop at every station from St. Catharines to Hamilton and load the shipments for the nearer points; while each night refrigerator cars depart for the more distant places. This is all pretty definite for the Grimsby grower.

But for the grower beyond St. Catharines, as far as Queenston, the system is different. He ships in the main by boat to Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa and sells on commission. For these three places are commission markets and the grower who ships to them in this way is entirely at the mercy of the market that exists when his fruit gets there. Here is the gamble. He may send a consignment of the finest peaches or plums he has ever grown and actually find in the long run that he has been paid next to nothing for them; in fact, on occasion even lost money on them and has to make up a deficit.

Surplus fruit in the Grimsby district which the dealer has not contracted for in advance is thus also sold on commission. And the grower-dealer mentioned above said that in nine cases out of ten he loses money on it. He is under obligation to buy from the grower who is his customer. He gives him a definite price on delivery, but his own ultimate return is very indefinite indeed. All he can do is shoot the fruit in question forward to a commission man in the hopes of salvaging some of the money he paid for it.

He related several cases. On a recent Wednesday four cars of imported Bartlett pears arrived in Montreal and two in Toronto. They retailed in Montreal around $4.50 a box and in Toronto about $3.25. About the same time this man shipped a hundred baskets of pears which he declared were as good as these imported Bartletts, and all he got for them in Toronto was 27½ cents. His actual loss per basket on the shipment was 35 cents. No wonder that the Niagara fruit grower complains of the lack of "patriotism" of the Canadian buyer who will give fancy prices for imported stuff that is not one whit better than the home-grown article costing a whole lot less.

Losing Money on Peaches

"LAST year," he went on, "I sold a car of apples in Toronto for $1,010.10. This consisted of 518 boxes of Northern Spies, selected, wrapped and packed as well as you'd want to see. And I sold them, storage paid, at $1.90 a box. At the same time B.C. Spies were fetching $3 and you couldn't buy Jonathans at less than $3.15. A little later still I shipped a half-car to Toronto and got considerably less than $2 for them. And at that very same time B.C. and Oregon Spies had advanced to $3.50."

He pointed to a number of baskets of under-grade peaches on the Grimsby platform which he had just bought from a farmer whom he had paid by voucher. He had given twenty dollars for them and he had to send them forward so that they might be sold on commission. "I'll be lucky," he added, "if I get ten dollars back."

"I couldn't tell you offhand," he added, "of one case this season where I have made money selling on commission. Once or twice I got back two or three cents, but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred I lost three, five or ten cents a basket."

The gamble was fierce, he said. If the weather was good, everybody had a good crop, but nobody got good prices. But if prices were high, nobody had the fruit to sell. This year he has had two hundred bushels of apples three weeks and could not sell them. Why? Everybody else had the same thing. He was offering car loads of fall apples to the trade at eighty cents a bushel and couldn't find a buyer because of the glut.

The only man, he said, who could make money growing fruit was the little fellow farming (ten or twelve acres which he could farm without help. And all he could make was a laborer's wage out of it—which he argued he could make with less risk in other ways.

On the other hand, as against this pessimistic picture, might be placed the boast of another grower that he had in the past made as much as a thousand dollars from a single acre of damson plums. But it is in the mass and over a season that the fruit growers' returns must be viewed.

You see, handling a perishable commodity, the dealer and the grower must take what he can get, quickly. There is no cohesion or co-operation, so prices are slashed and the market gorged. And it is not as if the consumer really benefited. Nobody apparently argues that he does to the extent he might. This year, for example, Niagara looked for big returns from the western markets. But these have been demoralized. Every one has been quoting a different price and the west has been holding the peninsula up and sending prices crashing.

"Lack of faith in one another," is what one dealer called the trouble.

Co-operation a Failure

INDEED, the story of the attempt made by the Niagara fruit growers to co-operate is a peculiar one. In the years 1918, 1919 and 1920 money was plentiful and the growers got good prices. The following year, 1921, was a favorable one, too, with the crops moderate and prices high, and that was the year the Niagara Peninsula Growers, Limited, was formed on a co-operative basis. That year the gross sales amounted to $1,494,770 and the members' credits to $1,019,498.

As the result of that first year's success the membership increased from 656 to 810, which was nearly 90 per cent. of the total number of farmers. And expansion was decided on in their enthusiasm, during which it was decided to engage a general manager and set up an elaborate all-the-year-round organization with a tremendous overhead. Growers were to try it for three years, but as a matter of fact they did not stick for six months. That year, 1922, saw the biggest crop the Niagara peninsula ever produced. But this, together with the fact that a general trade depression had set in, resulted in very poor prices. By the end of the year scores of members were withdrawing and the scheme in its form was doomed.

But before this the general manager who had been engaged had pointed out that the organization was too elaborate—and had told them that the overhead must be cut right down. This was done, but the peak membership of 810 in 1922 had fallen to 373 in 1923 and further to 286 in 1924. Only 199 members had stayed throughout and shipped during the whole four years.

And yet, unsatisfactory as was the support given by the farmers, the organization showed results. It obtained substantial improvement in transportation at shipping points, substantial improvements in handling fruits at their destination, notably Montreal, and an adequate cart supply so that no fruit has remained in the peninsula because of any car shortage. In addition, it steadily widened the distribution with such success that in 1924 Niagara fruit went to points between Newfoundland to the western boundary of Alberta and grapes went into Vancouver.

These co-operators, who are still carrying on with success, avoiding the pitfalls that beset the individual grower, have established standardized grading. Indeed, they have asked the government to enforce laws in regard to grading. The government, though, has laid down the condition that it will not do so until the growers themselves by resolution demand them. So far the fruit growers' associations have refused to pass such resolutions, the individual grower not being convinced that it would be to his best advantage. But there is a belief that this winter the resolution will pass and that next year grading will be established. And in the opinion of many of the Niagara fruit men this will be a big step to putting the industry on a basis that will remove it from the extreme gambling that it is at present and from the losses that it entails through haphazard marketing.

Sandy Grey, Expert Logger We Can All Lengthen and Enrich Our Lives By Re-arranging Our Twenty-Four Daily Hours

'Twould Take Dynamite to Break That Log Jam, Said the Boss, But Sandy Knew Better and Proves It

By DOROTHY STACEY

SOME ten miles inland from Go Home Bay, on the route to Bala, lies Flat Rock lake, a long, peaceful, much-indented stretch of water which seems to invite the dipping paddle of the canoeist. At its extreme eastern end the Muskosh river empties itself down a rocky, curving drop of sixteen feet, and this is called Sandy Gray Falls.

Sandy Gray! It seemed an odd name for this turbulent, angry water, boiling with tremendous force over black, weathered rocks. So we plucked up our courage and asked one of a party of surveyors who were encamped on the spot whether a gray was a peculiar geographical phenomenon or if perhaps a man of that name had had some intimate connection with the spot. And this is the story we heard.

In 1887 a big drive of logs came down the Muskosh in charge of a hard-drinking, horny fisted and expert crew of lumberjacks. But of all that wild crew the wildest and the best logger was a certain Scotchman, Sandy Gray. On a late Saturday afternoon they reached the sixteen-foot fall and here the logs jammed. With each moment the tangle became worse, and when night fell there was as pretty a jam as had ever been seen on the river.

Sandy Gray was a first-class logger and a jam was a slur on his pride . . . he looked the jam over and his expert's eye saw a way out.

Now Sandy Gray was a first-class logger, and a jam was a slur on his pride, so on Sunday morning before breakfast he looked the jam over and his expert eye saw a way out—a hard way and a dangerous one, but still a way. Running back to camp, he shouted:

"Say, boys, I've seen a way to break that jam. Are ye with me? Who's got the guts to help?"

But hard men as they were, that hideous tangle of logs in the rocks and white water had put fear into them, and the only answer was, "You're mad, Sandy; there's nothing on God's earth short of dynamite will break that!"

"Dynamite will it be!" roared Sandy. "And ye callin' yerselves loggers. I tell ye I'll break it myself or if I don't it's breakfastin' in Hell I'll be!"

His fellows looked at each other as he dashed out. The jam was fast—any fool could see that. Sandy must be mad.

"Drunk again!" said the boss, with a philosophical shrug.

But hardly were the words out when from the river came a grinding and a jarring and with a roar like that of an avalanche the logs began to move.

"He's got the key log!" shouted someone, and as the whole camp rushed to the river the jam heaved and broke and the logs rushed forward, leaping down the rough incline, smashing against rocks at the curve, and finally tumbling to the cauldron beneath.

Yes, the jam was free, but where was Sandy? Battered and broken, somewhere under those tons of logs or on the bottom of the lake. For hours they searched without result, but at last something that looked like a log was seen half out of water on the farther shore. It was all that was left of Sandy Gray, and stamped forever on his face was a wild look of triumph. He had broken the jam, but as to the other part of his promise, who knows?

Below the falls, half-way down the lake, runs

"ALL adults may be divided into three classes.

"First, those who are very keen on the work by which they earn their living, who run to this work as the bridegroom to the bride, and leave it with even more reluctance than the bridegroom leaves the bride," writes Mr. Arnold Bennett, the well-known novelist, in the London Sunday Pictorial. "Second, those who are not keen on their work, starting it with reluctance and quitting it with a sigh of relief. Third, those who do not have to work regularly for a living—a large class.

"The first, concentrating on their master-passion, devote spare time and become narrow through over-concentration. The second class have usually plenty of spare time, but usually fritter it away as spendthrifts fritter away money. The third class are often the busiest and the most rushed of the three, and find it the most difficult to organize—simply because they have had no discipline.

"But all three classes are alike in the excellent desire to live more calmly and more fully. And all three classes should treat themselves in the same way, for all three will cry out with the same voice: 'I have no time to live, widening my life. I cannot make time.'

"Well, of course, we cannot any of us make time. Time is a fixed quantity.

"There is, however, more time at our disposal than we generally suppose.

"The problem is not to make time, but to arrange time. Bad time-habits must be broken. They can only be broken by ruthless methods, out a beautifully wooded point, and here at the foot of a slim white birch they buried him. On the bark his friends carved their names and above the grave they nailed a board and wrote on it

SANDY GRAY, 1887

The mound is still clearly defined as is the way of the graves of those who die with their boots on and are not buried in coffins. The tree has grown so much that the names carved on the bark are now indecipherable, but that on the weather-beaten board was deeply carved and is easily read.

"Soon, probably," said our surveyor friend, "the grave and the falls and all will be gone, for if our work here comes up to expectations we're going to raise the lake's level sixteen feet and build a powerhouse where the falls is now."

"Vandal!" said we, and left him.

Arnold Bennett

Arnold Bennett Has a Plan for Clearing Away Rubbish of Time—To Save Seven Hours a Week Would Be Great Addition to Life

For it is far easier to break a good habit than a bad one. The members of the first class must ruthlessly limit the exactions of their master-passion—a difficult undertaking, but they have the immense advantage of self-discipline already acquired.

"The spare time of the second class is encumbered with a litter of disconnected trifles which must be ruthlessly swept up to make a clear space for some regular activity. They have some self-discipline to help them.

"The whole life of the third class is a horrid mess of time-extravagance and waste. They have rich resources of time, but lack the self-discipline to utilize those resources.

"The greatest danger of all three classes is—to wait. We all say: 'When I have drawn level, when I have put everything into order, then I will make a start.' Ridiculous, because not ruthless!

"Chop, uproot, sweep away—something, anything, no matter what, at once; but make a space! Something must go, something must suffer; in every life there is, as a rule, only one thing that is important; and of the others it doesn't matter much which is ruthlessly sentenced to the rubbish heap.

"A maxim is ruthlessness. Let us not be too ambitious in clearing a space. We are apt to say sadly: 'Ah! Unless I could get two clear hours every day I could do nothing.' Not so. With a little space here and a little space there, one can do a lot. Also, cross out the phrase 'Every day,' and insert 'every week.'

"Seven hours a week is the equivalent of one hour a day, and is easier to manage. The hazards of dalliance may ruin any given day, and if the self-imposed rule has been 'every day,' one is thereby morally damaged. But a week affords opportunity for recovery without shame.

"And now you complain: 'But he has not said a word about employing the time which we are to arrange for!' Of course I have not. Everybody has private ambitions towards a wider and fuller life. And no two ambitions are quite alike.

"Some want to acquire knowledge, some wisdom, some skill, some improved health. Each must search his own mind. The choice is vast. Some things are better than others; but none is bad."

GOOD HEALTH DEPENDS LARGELY ON EYESIGHT

Proper Lenses, Correctly Mounted, Remedy Many Human Ailments.

How few of us ever stop to think of the relation between good eyes and good health? We would part with almost any member of the body rather than our eyes, yet we abuse and neglect our eyesight more than any other human organ. Eye-strain is responsible for many things, especially headaches and "nerves." For all other ailments we run to the doctor on the slightest provocation. We are even learning to make regular visits to the dentist. Why do we not as regularly have our eyes examined by competent authority? We are living at a fearful pace as compared with our ancestors. Even a few centuries back, the strain falls on us to live as did our ancestors in the stone age, out in the green fields, among the trees, where the light is soft and diffused.

Instead we crowd together in big cities, and our eyes suffer because of unnatural glare from stone buildings, sidewalks and the like. Close work demanded by modern conditions in office and factory have produced a degree of eye-strain unheard of a few years ago. Worse still, we have turned night into day, and allowed our eyes to be tortured unnecessarily by artificial light.

Home Owners Profit by Knowing Proper Type to Use.

"Our furnace uses up far more fuel than it should, and I can't account for it, as it is comparatively new and is in good working order," is a complaint commonly heard, but one which would be obviated if particular care were taken to install a furnace particularly suited to the home in question.

High Heels Condemned As Cause of Many Ills

Affect Muscles of Limbs and Displace Bones, Causing Flat Feet and Many Other Abnormal Pedal Conditions.

By DR. LEROY V. HILES
Graduate of the Illinois College of Chiropractic, Chicago.

For many centuries the human foot was allowed to go naked and our aboriginal ancestors never knew what foot covering of any type meant. Much the same as with the rest of the body, unaided, nature was allowed to minister to the needs of the pedal extremities. Just as the body adapted itself to nature and the elements, so that it could withstand extreme heat or cold, so the foot also adapted itself to nature. The skin on the soles became so toughened that it caused no discomfort to walk on stones or rough surfaces.

In aboriginal man muscular action of the foot was developed to its maximum. The muscles of the foot were under such perfect control that objects could be lifted with the toes much the same as with the fingers. As time went on, and man became more civilized, covering for the feet was gradually adopted, and from that time to the present the foot has undergone changes and has been subjected to the human race to resort to treatments for foot ailments and deformities.

The first style of foot covering was the sandal, after which an evolution of footgear followed, until with civilization came vanity in foot dress, and finally the modern shoe, the result of which is that today slight injury or irritation cause many disturbances of the foot, such as the common corn and ingrowing toenails.

The modern shoe as compared to the normal foot is worthy of special consideration. As a rule, men who build shoes have from time immemorial been pure commercialists. They have attempted to create styles that would sell, and the foot as a whole was treated by them much the same as a hat manufacturer considers a head while building a hat covering. No consideration was given to the natural beauty of the foot, so much appreciated by the ancient Greeks. The need for conserving the functions of the small bones of the foot, so that their articulations would not be disturbed caused them no pause.

Let us take one feature of the modern shoe as a sample of this painful style—the high heel so common on women's shoes is a pure conceit. It is responsible for many of the foot troubles that are met in wearing these high-heeled shoes. It is necessary to tilt the body forward in order to keep an erect position. This is accomplished in the knees, hips and spine. The abdomen necessarily must be thrust forward, and this naturally interferes with the abdominal organs and is directly responsible for a great many diseases common to women. The high heel also affects the muscles of the limbs and displaces the bones of the limbs and other abnormal conditions.

We might also consider the effects of leather out leathers used in shoes on the feet. As an illustration, let us consider the sudoriferous or sweat glands. These glands are for the elimination of liquid wastes in the form of perspiration from the body and are functioning continually. As the fluids are brought to the surface by ducts evaporation takes place immediately under normal conditions.

When the foot is enclosed in a shoe, such as silk or lisle, this evaporation is retarded to a greater or lesser degree of which the shoe is made. Vici kid is the most porous of all leathers, and therefore is best. Calfskin is next best, and both these are superior to patent leather or coltskin. The stocking should be of a material that will absorb moisture, and cotton or woolen hose is best for this purpose.

Again, the nails of the toes, and especially those of the big toes, are often affected by the modern shoe. The toe box of the average shoe is made of a stiff, unyielding material, which is that today slight injury or irritation cause many disturbances of the foot, such as the common corn and ingrowing toenails.

EAMES SHOP REPORTS BUSINESS DOUBLED

Has Yet To Receive Complaint After Two Years in Business.

During the past two years customers of the V. L. Eames shop at Wharnciffe and Pipe Line roads have grown to realize that all work done in this establishment is always satisfactory. And this is the main reason why the volume of business handled by this shop has nearly doubled in the past twelve months.

Mr. Eames, who has had fifteen years' experience in the trade, is an expert in all phases of tailoring, pressing, repairing and cleaning garments.

"We always take particular care," he says, "to follow in every detail all instructions given to us by customers. When we started here we did very little business, but as soon as the people in different parts of the city began to have others recommend our work to them then our trade gradually began to mount."

All pressing handled in the Eames shop is done on a special steam outfit, which today is recognized as the most efficient system. It is far superior to the antiquated flatiron, in that with it the natural body shape is retained in clothes of every style and every color, gives garments a fresh, new, clean appearance and makes them last longer.

"In the two years in which we have been in business," said Mr. Eames, "we have yet to receive a complaint. This may seem strange, but nevertheless it is true. It may be attributed to the fact that we make it a standing rule never to let a piece of goods leave here unless it is O. K. goods. Another reason for this might be that the people of London have learned to realize that by sending their clothes to us they are assured of first-class work which costs them no more than ordinary work would."

Velvets the Vogue For Fall and Winter

According to persistent rumors, a great deal of velvet, either the plain chiffon finish or the exquisite brocade on transparent georgettes are to be leaders in fashions this winter. The softness and flexibility gain additional attractiveness from the great variety of new colors in which they are being made. Through the mists and fogs of winter they will continue the vogue of color.

All hold complete sway here after first appearances in Paris. Some of the outstanding pieces are in these color combinations—royal blue with Roman gold, marine blue with fez red, jade with old lavender, champagne with Kabistan, black with rosewood, gray with orchid; also a fine selection in solid colors including pond lily yellow, Madeira tan, poinsettia red, fuchsia, black, ivory, sunset. All are yard wide. On display at Silk Section.

To-day I saw

As I was sauntering through the Furniture Department today I saw the most luxurious chesterfield! In the lovely rich brown tones, with just a hint of rose, with the seat of jacquard velvet, while the back and arms of diamond-cut mohair made a most attractive resting-place. I was about to pass on, when the salesman asked me if I wouldn't like to have it demonstrated. On agreeing, he lifted the center cushion, gave a sudden pull, and presto—a full-sized bed appeared before me! The cushions are reversed, and slipped back to fill the space where the bedding can be stored; and the coil springs in the cushions, and the upholstered front make a perfect bed. This attractive chesterfield is the full size and the cushions the regulation number of inches. It looks exactly what it is, an excellent chesterfield, and yet it is a bed! The salesman would be pleased at any time to demonstrate it to you, and our Furniture Department is on the Third Floor.

Several interesting types of new collars varying from the long shawl to the novelty crush variety and sleeves from the flare cuff to those closely banded at the wrist.

Extreme styles showing fastidious smartness appear to have lost their appeal to favor among women of discriminating taste.
