ST. LOUIS WANTS CASH

But the Reports of Bank Troubles Are Exaggerated.

New York, Oct. 28 .- St. Louis continues to make demands on this censent by telegraphic transfers from the sub-treasury this morning and direct shipments of about the same amount were made by local banks last night. No definite news regarding the situation in St. Louis is obtained in authoritative quarters, but bankers profess to believe that reports have been much exaggerated. Private advices received by stock exchange houses agree that the substantial interests of St. Louis have the situation well in hand. Chicago and New Orleans also drew moderately on the sub-treasury this morning for "crop" money.

RACE ENDS IN DEATH

Engine Chased by Runaway Cars la Derailed.

Denver, Col., Oct. 29. - Chased by fifteen heavily laden ore cars, Samuel Brown, an engineer on the Rio Grande, Monday night raced for life down Marshall Pass, only to die after the danger was past: His engine and one car jumped the track and Brown, with Fireman Simon and Brakeman Mulcahey, met instant death. The train parted just after leaving the summit, and Brown saw that he must outrun the rear section or be overwhelmed. He opened the throttle, warned his fireman, and with death before and behind him plunged down the grade. Five miles from the summit the runaway cars jumped the track and were totally wrecked. Three miles further on the engine with its three occupants was derailed.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Attitude.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, voicing the public disappointment over the boundary award, expressed the opinion that Cauada should have wider powers in the making of treaties. Some Tory papers in London profess to read in his speech a hint at separation from the mother country, but stupidity in the English press in regard to Canadian sentiment and Canadian affairs, is no Some longer a source of surprise. Conservative papers in this country, but not all, are raising the loyalty cry, but they know they are talking buncombe. True imperialism cannot be identified with the sickly, servile spirit which denounces the idea of tendering a banquet to Mr. Aylesworth on the ground that it would be disloyal. It her debut yet?

The general impression is that the case will go to the jury not later than tomorrow and possibly this evening. Just what line of defense Parks' lawyers will adopt is a matter of conjecture, but judging from the questions asked of the talesmen by Mr. Osborne, it is not likely that Parks will go on the stand as a witness in his own behalf, and the defense may go to the jury without producing any witnesses. When court opened at 10 o'clock the able was covered with recovered revolvers and knives, and after the pleas were made the case against Weaver and Brener, of receiving stolen goods, was proceeded with. The goods were first recognized by the clerk in Mr. Westman's store. Mr. Black. Then to his surprise, Donohue was put into the hox, but was not willing to implicate his companions. He said they had all been drinking the day after Thanksgiving Day. He told about inviting them to go with him, and get some guns, and of giving them the stolen goods, but he would not say whether ne told where he got them.

Robert A. Jones was an important He lives next door to the prisoner Donohue, and heard a conversation between the three men, when Donohue had gone upstairs and thrown the three revolvers out of the window. One statement he heard was that made by Brener: "You fellows must have made a good haul."

Other witnesses were called to make the evidence certain against the men, among them P. C. Down, who had arrested Brener, the latter having taken the constable to his father's place and secured some of the stolen goods which e had hidden.

The defense was that the prisoner Donohue told the other two that he had some guns he would give them if they would go to his place, and that ing had been mentioned about their being stolen, and that as they drunk they did not think of where Donohue got them. The weight of evidence, however, was against both of the men and they were found guilty of taking from Donohue goods that they knew were stolen.

In the other case there was no evidence to show that Brener was in the attempt to steal, and the case against him was dismissed. Weaver, however, was shown to have been with Donohue on the expedition the second night following the Westman burglary, and was found guilty.

The magistrate did not say anything to Weaver and Brener, waiting until next week, when he will sentence them. But to Donohue he said that he thought heavy sentence would be better for He would then be away from temptation and away from drink. He would have an opportunity to learn a good trad and would come out of the penitentiary much better than he went in. Donohue smiled as the sentence of

And Carries Them Six Hundred Miles in That Way.

Piqua, Ohio, Oct. 29.-James H. Bagby, Northview, Mo., arrived here last night and with him his four orphan children, the eldest not four years old and the twins not four weeks old. Bagby's wife died after the birth of the twins, and the father made a rough box about 30 inches long by 18 wide, placed the babes in it and started on his 600 mile journey to Piqua. Five years ago, Bagby, who is the son of a farmer near here, started for Missouri, locating at Northview, where he purchased some land and started work. Shortly after he married a neighbor's daughter. Times had not been prosperous for Bagby, and as soon as his wife had peen laid to rest he disposed of his farm, and with his four babes made the long journey to his relatives here. Neither of the twins weighs five pounds. Bagby has taken entire care of them since their birth. He is now at he home of his brother-in-law. Philip Sellenberger, near Piqua.

GREAT BRITAIN'S GRANARY

Mr. Wyndham Says Chamberlain Will Make Canada So.

London, Oct. 29. - Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Wyndham, Speaking at Dover last night said that unless England was prepared to lose her prestige she could not afford to see Canada dominated by American capital. With fiscal reform as proposed by Mr. Chamberlain, said Mr. Wyndham, Canada could become the granary of Great Britain. He strongly urged the linking of Canada directly with the mother country. This, he said, must be done, whether it be accomplished by Mr. Chamberlain's method or by some other.

Pandora Range

Hot-air Flues.

If the hot air flues in a range are not properly constructed, much of the heat from the fire-box will be wasted up the chimney, and the oven will not bake uniformly.

Flues in the "Pandora" range have been given special attention, and are so contructed that all the heat travels around the oven twice and passes directly under all the pot holes before escaping up the chimney.

Result is the oven bakes uniformly at top, bottom and sides, and with very little fuel.

Every feature in the Pandora has been given the same careful attention as the flues and all combine to make a perfect working and economical range.

LOCAL MARKET. London, Thursday, Oct. 29. The attendance at today's market was a decided improvement over Tuesday's market. The various lines of farm produce were well represented, and sales

Grain-There were 20 loads of oats offered, and prices were unchanged, at 85c to 88c per cental. Wheat sold at $1.30 per and sales were brisk for choice loads, at $850 to $9 per ton; for the inferior timated tomorrow, 24,000 hogs. loads there was a slow sale, at $650 to $7 50 per ton. Butter and Eggs—Butter was in good demand and the supply was only fair; prices ranged from 18c to 20c for crocks and 20c to 21c for pound rolls in basket Eggs were more plentiful; still, prices are firm, at 19c to 21c per dozen, wholesale.

Fruits—With the exception of apples there was very little other fruit offered; sales were made at $125 to $150 per barrel, and 75c per bag for hand-picked; inferior grades sold at 50c to 60c per bag, or 30c to 40c per bushel. Pears sold at $1 per bushel. wholesale.

Vegetables and Roots-There were over a dozen large loads of potatoes and a number of small loads; prices were easier at 80c to 85c per bag; only an odd bag sold at 90c. There was plenty of other vegetables, and prices were about as quoted. Poultry-There was quite a large supply offered; dealers say that they have been paying more for poultry here than on the Toronto market; the price of turkeys dropped from 1c to 2c per pound today, and sales were made at 11½c for mixed lots of dressed turkeys, and 12½c for nice lots of hen turkeys; several lots of dressed geese sold at 7c to 71/2c per pound; it is rather early in the season to market this fowl; ducks, dressed, sold at 75c to 90c per pair, or 9c per pound; chickens, dressed, went at 60c to 75c per pair; alive at 45c to 60c, according to size.

Dressed Hogs-There were about 50 or 60 carcases offered; prices were a shade lower, at $730 to $775 per 100 pounds, mostly at $7 50. Live Hogs—The price for Monday will be about $5 15 per 100 pounds. Butchers' Meats—Sales were rather draggy for what was offered; there was no change in prices from those quoted.

THE TRUST UNAMINOUS.

Quite a little discussion took place, but the trust was unanimous in the opinion that the board of health should not seek to saddle on to the trust the cost of dealing with the present epidemic of scarlet fever and diphtheria. Trustee Purdom said that it would be better for the board of health to year. He was opposed to any further positions in the hospital. accommodation being made at Victoria A letter from the Pr Hospital for contagious patients. Already it seemed to him in providing accommodation for contagious patients at the hospital the trust has done more harm than good, for it was said that patients suffering from scarlet fever had gone into the Victoria Hospital and had there contracted diphtheria. It might be as well if they were left in different parts of the city instead of being huddled together at the hospital.

In view of the cost the equipment and maintenance of the tents would entail, Mayor Beck was in favor of sending the reference of the board of health back to that body.

The resignation of Chairman Bayly was then read and it was very brief. No explanation whatever was given, and the trust lost no time over it.

It was merely decided that the council must deal with the resignation, and the secretary will notify the council that Mr. Bayly has resigned and that

Superintendent Heard announced that Dr. McGregor, the newly-appointed pathologist, has commenced his duties at the hospital today, and the trust empowered Mr. Heard to draw up a scale of fees for clinical tests in the laboratory, and which will be charged in the future. Foremost among these was the big -four-poster which occupied a large space at my right. I had never seen its like in ity. e before, and I was greatly attracted by its size and the air of mystery imparted to it by its closely drawn curtains of faded brocade. In fact, this bed, whether from its appearance or some occult influence inherent in it, had a fascination for me. I hesitated to approach it, yet could not forbear surveying it long and earnestly, Could it be possible that those curtains concealed some one hiding behind them? Strange to say I did not feel quite ready to lay hand on them and see. A dressing table laden with woman's fixings and various articles of the toilet, all of an unexpected value and richness, occupied the space between the two windows: and on the floor, immediately in front of a high mahogany mantel, there lay, amid a number of empty boxes, an overturned chair. This chair and the conjectures its position awakened led me to look up at the mantel with which it seemed to hanging on the wall above it. Why this picture, which was a totally uninteresting sketch of a simpering girl face, should have held my eye after now. It had no beauty even of the if sentimental kind, and very little, best, were nearly obliterated and in but which were so fine as to call for some places quite faded out. Yet there was no apover me, nor could I account in any which I found standing half-open at making my head move slowly around with shrinking backward looks as that swaying shutter creaked or some of crushed and battered out of all shape the fitful noises, which grow out of on the blackened boards.

To all appearance there was less here than below to affect a man's courage. No inanimate body with the mark of the slayer upon it lent horror to these walls; yet sensations which I had easily overcome in the library below clung with strange insistence to me here, making it an effort for me to move, and giving to the unexpected reflection of my own image in the mirror I chanced to pass, a power to shock my nerves which has never been repeated in my experience.

It may seem both unnecessary and out of character for a man of my calling to acknowledge these chance sensations, but only by doing so can I account for the minutes which elapsed before I summoned sufficient self-possession to draw aside the closed curtains of the bed and take the quick look inside which my present doubtful position demanded. But once I had Reuben Draper's Gravel Cured by Had the mare fallen into other hands, broken the spell and taken the look just mentioned, I found my manhood return and with it my old ardor for The bed held no gaping, chattering criminal; yet was it not quite empty. Shortly after the pain ribbons to the lesser clusters which came back and I tried another doctor hung from it, I recalled with conceivhorror the use to which a similar ribbon had been put in the room below. In the shudder called up by this coincidence I forgot to speculate how a bouquet carried by the bride could have found its way back to this upstairs room when, as all accounts agree, she fled from the parlor below without speaking or staying foot the moment she was told of the catastrophe which had taken place in the library. That her wrap should be lying here was not strange, but that the

But it became an established fact when in my further modations. course about the room I chanced on a handkerchief with the name Veronica embroidered in one corner.

This handkerchief had an interest apart from the name on it. It was of dainty texture and quite in keeping, so far as value went, with the other belongings of its fastidious owner. But it was not clean. Indeed it was strangely soiled, and this soil was of a na ture I did not really understand. A woman would doubtless have comprehended immediately the cause of the brown streaks I found on it, but it took me/several minutes to realize that this bit of cambric, delicate as a cobweb, had been used to remove dust. To remove dust! Dust from what? From the mantel-shelf probably, upon one end of which I found it. But no! one looking along the polished boards convinced me that whatever else had been dusted in this room this shelf had not. The accumulation of days, if not save where the handkerchief had lain, and-the greatest discovery yet-where five clear spots just to the left of the center showed where some man's finger-tips could have caused just the

Wonderful! but what did it all mean

Why should a man rest his finger-tips on this out-of-the-way shelf? Had he done so in an effort to balance himself for a look up the chimney? No for then the marks made by the fingers would have extended to the edge of the shelf, whereas these were in the middle of it. > A FINE ORGANIZATION. The London Male Quartet assisted at a concert given in the city hall, Stratford, on Tuesday evening, and delighted a large audience. The Herald says: "It may safely be said, that without a doubt, the London Male Quartet is one of the finest groups of singers of its kind that has ever been heard in this city. The perfect lending of their voices, and the splendid fullness of their tones in their first number, "March of the Guard," immediately brought them in favor with the audience who heartily encored them." The Herald also says Mr. Arthur Garthwaite, who is a member of the quartet, is one of the best bass vocalists heard in Stratferd for a long time.

A DESPICABLE ACT

Valuable Bulldeg Cashed in the Neck With an Axe.

One of the most despicable acts yet brought to the attention of the local police, is now being investigated. Mr. Frank Reid, of the firm of W. J. Reid & Co., is the owner of a splendid Boston bulldog. The canine had a kindly disposition, and the household were greatly attached to him. Several days ago he was missed, and it was surmised that he was stolen, as he never strayed from the house. Three days after he disappeared, however, he came back, with an ugly gash on the neck, so deep that it was supposed was no chance of saving the dog's life. Apparently some vandal had struck the animal with an axe and then turned it loose. A veterinary was ummoned and through his efforts it s thought the animal will be saved. Mr. Reid notified the police and he vill give a large reward for informa-
