ingular and deplorable affair, which may result fataly, occurred here about five o'clock Saturday afternoon. It appears that Glen Tyler, driver of Butler Bros. delivery wagon, antered an outhouse in the rear of the Centre street terrace, at the Ross street crossing, which is on the premises of a family named Hulbert. The mistress of the place, probably, annoyed by what seemed to her a case of traspass, picked up a pail of boiling water, walked through the yard, opened the door and emptied the contents upon the unfortunate young man. His agonizing cries brought the neighbors to the scene, who did everything possible to relieve the sufferer. He was frightfully burned around the abdomen and down the legs, the flesh falling in pieces from the body. After the doctors had cut away his clothes, he was conveyed to his father's residriver of Butler Bros. delivery wagon, the doctors had cut away his clothes, he was conveyed to his father's residence, No. 31 Forest, avenue, where he now lies in aprecarious condition. Mrs. Hulbert was immediately arrested and lodged in jail. She has five children and a husband. The latter is a farm laborer, at present employed by M. Penhale, Yarmouth. Young Tyler is a son of Emery Tyler, Michigan Central engineer.

London, Aug. 27 .- Lord Roberts has left Pretoria for the first time in several weeks, and sends a despatch from Wonderfontein, 112 miles east of the capital, describing the progress made by French and Pole-Carew in pressing back Botha's army. The good impression produced by this information yesterday was somewhat damp-ened by a later message from the commander-in-chief, stating that ancommander-in-cener, stating, that an other little mishap had occurred to a part of General Buller's force engaged with another of Botha's commandoes, on Thursday. By some mistake two companies of a British infantry, regi-ment advanced far beyond the firing line after an engagement was suppos-ed to have ceased, and were surrounded by the Boers, losing nearly 100 killed, wounded and prison The affair was unimportant, except as showing the continued activity and alertness of the Boers in this quarter.

MORE RACE RIOTS.

Shooting in New York Leads to

New York, Aug. 27 .- A number of inipient race riots between blacks and whites broke out here yesterday, the direct cause being the shooting on Saturday night of John Brennan, a Saturday night of John Brennan, a messenger boy, aged 20, by John Davis, alias "Lamp Lighter," a negro. Brennan was one of a crowd of whites who taunted Davis, and bullets from the black's revolver lodged in his stomach and chest. He is in a hospital and likely to die. The shooting was done at 62nd street, and, becoming noised about, the rough white element began to search out negroes. Several were almost beaten to death without cause. Some arrests were Thirty Thousand Boxers Said to be Anxious Therefor.

Are Advancing on Pekin—Danger of a Famine at Tien Tsin.

London, Monday, Aug. 27, 4 a, m.—
The latest news from Pekin indicates that the situation there is unchanged. The imperial city is still invested, but has not yet been occupied. The allies when the last report left were still refraining from aggressive action pending instruction from their governments. At a conference of ministers and general's held at Taku Friday ters and generals held at Taku Friday t was decided, according to the Daily Telegraph, to refer the fate of the Telegraph, to refer the fate of the forbidden city to Europe. An attack forbidden city to Europe. An attack from 30,000 Boxers was anticipated, and to meet this the whole American force and the British' artillery, ac-cording to a despatch to the Morning Post from Pekin, dated Aug. 18, were moved to the outer city wall. The Boxers were reported coming from the south.

outh. Gen. Dorward, in his report of the engagement outside Tien Tsion, Aug.

19, when the British, Americans and Japanese signally defeated a large force of Boxers, killing over 300, says, in a despatch, dated Aug. 25:—The lines of communication near Tien Tsin are now free from danger. The enemy had been treating the villagers badly. Several decapitated bodies were found Several decapitated bodies were found near their camp. The villagers are now flocking to Tien Tsin at the rate of about 1,000 a day. As there is not more than a month's food supply, there is every prospect a famine is imminent in consequence of the inadequacy of provisions for the hordes of refugees at Tien Tsin, add a new element of peril to the situation. Shanghai advices say that the report of the capture of Emperor Kwang-Su, by the Japanese, was erroneous. It was a case of mistaken identity.

It is entitled "Bry an's attitude towards the Philippines," and is made public by the Republican national committee.

CORDUA DIED

Walked Fearlessly to the Scene of His Execution and Declared He-Was Ready.

London, Aug. 27.—A special from Pretoria gives details of the execution on Friday of Lieut. Cordua, of the Transvaal Artillery, convicted by court-martial of breaking his parole in plotting to abduct Lord Roberts and kill British officers. Cordua walked fearlessly to the garden be-hind the jail. At his own request he was not bound, and sat in a chair with folded arms. He told Capt. Barchard, commanding the firing party, that he was ready, and ten bullets struck him. The body was buried near the spotwhere the lieutement fell.

Bob Fitzsimmons Once More-The Date Not Yet Settled.

New York, Aug. 27 .- Bob Fitzsimmons has challenged Champion Jim Jeffries for a fight to take place August 31, and has posted $2,500 as a forfeit. Fitz says that Jeffries must meet him on that date or admit he is afraid of him. Jeffries, who was at Derby, Conn., during the day, was seen there, and said, relative to the challenge: there, and said, relative to the challenge:
"I have defeated Fitzsimmons decisively, once and think I can do it again, but I think it would be poor policy to fight right away, for the fight-going public need a rest. Still I shall allow no engagements to interfere with my championship battle, but I reserve the right to set aside time to train."

W. A. Brady, manager of Champion Jeffries, said in regard to Fitzsimmons challenge to Jeffries: "I have covered Fitzsimmons deposit of $2,500 to make a match with Jeffries for the championship, and will with Jeffries for the championship, and will meet Fitzsimmons to day to decide on the time and place of meeting."

DAILY AND WEEKLY Chatham, Ont

NO ELECTIONS UNTIL SPRING.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail says: The impression is gaining ground here, however, that the elections will not take place at as early a date as has been anticipated. One reason for this is said to be that the Government wishes to appoint all the enumerators and other officers who will be necessary for the taking of the census. There will be several thousand appointments to be made, and the advantage of the Government in delaying the elections until these appointments can be made is evident, as it would simply be turning loose so many thousand election agents for; the different Government candidates! in every constituency in the Dominion. This would delay the elections until March or April, or they may be even later. It is said that the matter will be decided by council in a few days.

CHINA'S TRADE.

China's foreign trade amounts to about $333,000,000 per annum, and 63 per cent. of it is with the United Kingdom, while the share of the United States amounted to $44,000,000 last year and has been rapidly increasing during the last three or four years. As regards geographical situation, Canada is more favorably located for trade with China than either England or the United States, and the market will be worth looking after in the future. Mr. John Barrett, formerly United States Minister is Siam, predicts in the North Am- take leave of his senses. There are mighty waterways, rivers and canals to be improved, dredged and bridged; coal, iron, gold, copper, tin and silver mines to be developed; numberless cities to be provided with waterworks, sewerage systems, electric lights, and street railways: telegraphs and telephones to be extended, roads to be built, and countless increasing millions supplied with food, clothes and other growing wants of the peoples coming into contact with the outer world.

It is hardly likely that the foreign trade of the Chinese will be as great per capita as that of the enterprising Japanese, for many years to come, but that' there will be a greater expansion of trade after peace and order are fully restored may be regarded as certain, and Canadians should have a

DIAN.

The son of Hon. Thomas Chase Casgrain, of Montreal, accompanied his parents on a trip to the Maritime Provinces and was greatly impressed with that section of Canada, "Next year I will take him out west," said Mr. Casgrain after describing the trip, "for I want him to know what it means, and what an honor it is to be a Canadian.

The words of this eminent French-Canadian are well worthy of consideration. What does it mean to be a Canadian ?

. It means to feel full ownership in a Dominion extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, a Dominion that has the most magnificent harbors on the sea-coast, the finest system of internal waterways and the greatest fisheries of any country in the world, a Dominion with broad areas of fertile agricultural and grazing lands, immense tracts of timber, and rich stores of coal, iron, copper, nickel, gold, silver and all the precious metals, a Dominion of bright skies and clear, health-giving, invigorating atmosphere, a Dominion where freedom reigns from sea to sea and liberty is universal, but law and order everywhere prevail and crime of all kinds meets punishment sure and swift.

The young men of Canada should he taught to know, and love their country. Before they see the cities of the United States they should see the cities of Canada. They should visit St. John, Halifax and Syndey, Quebec and Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Chatham, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The Canadian cities are not as big as those of the United States, but they have equal natural advantages and must have greater development in the future, offering finer opportunities for young men to get on in the world. .

It is, indeed, a great honor to be a Cantdian, and every young man should know it.

Of mistresses of the White House one of the most popular was Mrs. James K. Folk. Like Mrs. Cleveland she was a brunette, and of ine pres ence: it was often remarked that not a trowned head in Europe could queen it more reyally than the wife of the republican President. Mrs. Thomas Jefferson was remarkable for her beauty. Her complexion was brilliant; her large, expressive eyes of "the richest tinge of auburn." A little above medium weight, she was slightly and delicately formed. She danced, sang, played the spinnet and harpsichord and rode with great skill.

Mrs. James Madison was a pretty, buxom woman, with a smile and a pleasant word for every one. She had regular features and sparkling eyes. Mrs. Zachary Taylor was a quiet woman, but had great strength of character and the true spirit of the American heroine, enduring patiently pri-vation incident to life on the frontier, where her husband, as Major Taylor, was stationed. How Congress Spring Was Named When John Taylor Gilman, a member of Congress, visited the log houses which chiefly constituted Saratoga in its early history, he was accompan-ied one day on a hunting ramble by a young son of the woodsman with whom he boarded. When they returned to the cabin the boy enthusiastically shouted, "Oh, ma, we've found a new spring!" "Who found it?" he was asked. Turning to the distinguished lawmaker the little fellow admiringly exclaimed: "Why, the Congress!" And to this day the name has clung to one of the most celebrated of the springs which made the place a sanitary resort long before it became ie seat of summer fashion.-Ladies' Home Journal.

TO A ROBIN IN ALASKA.

O varied thrush! O robin strange!
Behold my mute surprise.
Thy form and flight I long have But not this new disguise.

I do not know thy slaty coat, Nor vest with darker zone; I'm puzzled by thy recluse ways

I left thee 'mid my orchard's bloom, When May had crowned the year; Thy nest was on the apple bough, Where rose thy carol clear.

Thou lurest now through fragrant Where hoary spruces grow; Where floor of moss infolds the foot Like depths of fallen snow.

Loquacious ravens clack and croak, Nor heed me in my quest; The purple grosbeaks perch and sing Upon the cedar's cres

But thou art doomed to shun the day A captive of the shade; I only catch thy stealthy flight Athwart the forest glade.

Thy voice is like a hermit's reed That solitude beguiles; Again 'tis like a silver bell' Adrift in forest aisles. Throw off, throw off this masquerade

And don thy ruddy vest, And let me find thee as of old, Beside thy orchard nest.

IN A TIGHT PLACE. Hew B Company Held 800 Boers

in Check

At Zand Diver-Rest Description o the Battle Yet Written Home,

We have seen no better account of the part the First Canadian Contingent took in the battle of Zand River during the advance on Pretoria than that written by Sergeant Geo. Sippi, of London. This is the fight in which Corp. Burrell, of the Chatham boys,. was wounded: Thursday, May 10th, I was in one of the warmest places I have struck on this trip. Wednesday evening we arrived three miles from Zand River, camping for the night. The Boers were very heavily entrenched, with an eight-mile frontage. We started out the first thing in the morning for the attack. Our position was on the extreme right of the Boers. Our orders were to advance until we were fired on, then drop and keep them from forcing their way through for the safety of our guns. "B" Company was in front as usual. We got with-in 1,200 yards before they fired. Our captain was anxious to get closer, and took us within 800 yards of the river. Then it started in earnest at seven o'clock. The ground we were lying on was sloping towards the river, so on was sloping towards the river, so they had a perfect view of every man of us. The grass was dried up by the sun, not giving us a bit of cover. The right half went about 50 yards in advance of our left half com-pany, so that half of the men could not fire for fear of hitting our fellows in front Hamily I was on the right. not fire for fear of hitting our lenows in front. Happily I was on the right, where six of us could fire to the right of our men. We started with volleys, and kept the Boer fire down for a couple of hours, when the boys in front ran out of ammunition, so my fellows kept up firing until we got short of ammunition. The Boers took advantage of our silence, and more than poured bullets at us. This kept up for three hours before they were found out. While lying waiting for ammunition McLean in my section got hit in the legs. He arose to take off hit in the legs. He arose to take off some equipment, and got another shot through the back. He stood it well and asked what was the best thing to do. We called stretcher-bearers, who came very quickly. I will never forget the shower of bullets that came at those fellows. They were directly behind, me, about 10 yards, and had to drop. Some would hit the ground all around, the rest went high, and it sounded like a nest of angry horners. After like a nest of angry hornets. After some time they got McLean away, but some time they got McLean away, but not without more trouble, for he got hit on the finger while on the stretcher. Shortly after this I heard a most dreadful shriek, and upon looking to my right, I saw Leonard, another man of my section writhing in pain. He got hit in the shoulder, the bullet passing down through his chest, stopping to his stormach. It came within passing down through its class, supplied in his stomach. It came within a quarter of ah inch of his heart. It was no use calling for stretcher-bearers, for we could see that in such a fire it would mean three being hit instead of one if they came. You could not ease your position without hearing a few extra bullets come uncom-fortably close. We were at a loss what to do for Leonard, as there was what to do for Leonard, as there was not one but what would risk taking him back, but it was clear to all we would be courting death to attempt it, so I asked him if he had strength to crawl back slowly, which he tried, and succeeded in doing. When next seeing him he was very low. The doctor said he could not recover. We have had no official report of his death yet, and hope he is getting better. Poor Floyd was killed in this fight. He got shot in the shoulder, and suffered terribly, but was put out of pain by another shot in the head. About 2 p. m. we got a splendid crack at the enemy. As they were return-About 2 p. m. we got a splendid crack at the enemy. As they were returning they had to pass up a narrow ridge, which kept them bunched for a while. We did not do anything with them then but get our revenge. At 3 p. m. they had all retired, and we withdrew from a place we will remember for all time to come. We camped on the other side of the river that night, thinking we would have a rest, instead of which our company that night, thinking we would have a rest, instead of which our company was sent to help transports across the drift, not seeing bed until 3 a.m., and getting up at 5 a.m., marching 42 miles during the two following days, reaching Kroonstad without opposition. Gen. Hamilton told Col. Buchan that we held 800 Boers from trossing the tiver who were trying to

Dr. Attias is described in his passports as of medium height and fair complexion, grey eyes, high forehead, and regular features, but these particulars give no hint of the extraordinary intellectual and physical powers contained within. His muscles are like bars of steel, and his mental activity is almost bewildering to minds accustomed to proceed at an ordinary

Although the English is, he says, the least familiar to him of the twelve languages which he speaks, he pours forth in it a perfect torrent of ideas, speaking much more rapidly than the majority of English people. In an account of his career, Dr. At-tias said he was born at Alexandria, Egypt, of Greek parents, on May 29, 1872. From his early youth the determined to be an explorer, and his father, a wealthy Greek merchant and broker, did not discourage the inclination. He was educated in Paris clination. He was educated in Paris and took the B₁ A) degree by special license, when a mere boy. Subse-quently, at the University of Geneva, he took his doctor's degree in geo-graphical science. At the age of 21 the sudden death of his father threw young Attias entirely upon his own

FALL OF A GOOD MAN.

Moral Disinfectant,

"What's become of Primble! Why, didn't you hear about it? Well, well! It was odd enough, to be sure, and quite a tragedy in a limited way. Poor Primble! You remember how circumspect he was in his conduct, and how thoroughly he looked it? Well, when Filkins got into the paper as the man who was seen in Newark two days before the sale of the bottle-holder that figured in the poisoning case, Filkins began to get rattled about it, and to think he needed moral support, and he finally went to Primble and offered him two dollars and a half to walk up town with him afternoons. Primble saw no harm in taking him up, and was seen with him almost daily for a month.

"So when Jeroloman's wife disappeared, leaving a note saying to drag the East river, it put Jeroloman under a cloud for awhile, during which time he bargained with Primble to walk with him on Fifth avenue three times a week, from 4 to 5, at $3 for each appearance. Primble was building up quite a business as a moral disinfectant, when suddenly his engagement to Miss Strait was broken, on the ground that he kept bad company, and immeddately afterward he lost his job in Stringham's bank for the same reason. "After that he had no reputation that it would have paid any one to hire, and I don't know where he went -to the Klondyke, or Cuba, or some place. It was too bad, for I think the whole thing began in good nature, and, barring his greed, which was really due to his haste to be married, he hadn't a vice in the world.

Will he ever come back? Oh, I dare say. All he needs is to grow wicked enough to learn the need of showing a proper regard for appearances. He'll be forgotten in three months, and, if he has a good summer in the Klondyke (if that's where he is), very likely Miss Strait will take him on again. A New York man ought not to be permanently affected by a little business reverse of that Everybody's proud of this sort of Grandpa, and he's proud of himself; proud of his clear brain and active body. There are other kinds of grandparents that we can't be proud of. Weak of body and feeble of mind, we can only site them. pity them. They no more live; they only exist. What makes the difference between these two classes of old men? A sound stomach and a plentiful supply of pure, rich blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strength ens the stomach, purifies the blood and increases the activity of the blood making glands. It won't make old men young, but it will enable old men to assimilate the food they eat, and so strengthen them for a life of reasonable exertion.

"I suffered for six years with constipction and indigestion, during which time I employed several physicians, but they could not reach my case." writes Mr. G. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Ark. "I felt that there was no help for me; could not retain food on my stomach; had vertigo and would fall helpless to the floor. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pellets,' and improved from the start. After taking twelve bottles of the 'Discovery' I was able to do light work, and have been improving ever since. I am now in good health for one of my age—60 years. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's medicines."

McCORMICK CORN HARVESTERS GIVE PERFECT SATISFACTION.

This is to certify that we witnessed the operation of one of your Corn Harvesters on the farm of Mr. James Holmes, and are pleased to say that it is one of the most perfect pieces of machinery that we ever saw for cutting and handling corn, and in point of making an even but and tying. The sheaf carrier works to perfection, there not being any ears knocked off. It is very easy draft, has no side draft, and two horses haul it with ease.

Suddenly to Joseph S. Butler. the Well Known Photographer.

Stricken Down in His Own Home Without a Moment's Warning on Saturday Evening.

The Boers are-making a determined stand. They have a large number of guns, the country is difficult and well suited for their tactics and is less favorable than any we have yet worked over. The enemy evidently intends to contest stubbornly the ground between here and Machadodorp.

Joseph S. Butler, the well-known photographer, died suddenly on Saturday aftermoon at his residence on Head street. Mr. Butler had been suffering from heart trouble for the past two years but of late he appeared to be enjoying good health. He went to the office on Saturday and tween here and Machadodorp. seemed to be as bright and energetic as usual. On returning home he told his wife that he felt dizzy on King street and if it hadn't been for the support furnished by a convenient pile of bricks that he would have fallen. However, at that time he appeared to have entirely recovered. He sat down to read the evening papers and shortly before six o'clock again complained of feeling dizzy and said he thought that he would take a Seidlitz powder. He got the powder and was walking across the room when he stopped suddenly and would have fallen had not Mrs. Butler caught him and supported his body to the floor. Life must have fled on the instant for the deceased never appeared to breath afterwards.

After residing in Chatham for a number of years, he and his brother went to Baltimore, where they conducted a photograph business. Later and gray, sizes 22 to 30, specially good value at $1.98 ame the head of a nice trade.

The kind manner and obliging dispo sition of Mr. Butler wort for him many friends, but his warmest admirers and those who will miss him most are among the poorer and unfortunate classes. For these he always had a warm spot in his heart and a generous hand. At Christmas time, one of his first acts was to pay an early morning visit to the Home of the Friendless and the jail. He was a regular visitor to these institutions throughout the year, but on special occasions, he always carried a baskett in which wer delicacies and other presents to brighten the day for the aged and unfortun-ate. These are the people who will miss him, and who will long cherish his memory.

Besides Mrs. Butler, three children from five to twenty, Miss Flossie, Oswald, and Roger, survive. The funeral is taking place at four o'clock this

They Slaughter Eleven Harmless Whites and are Still at Large.

San Francisco, Aug. 27-An outbreak of latent savagery in two aboriginal blacks, who had lived for years in close association with whites, is reported from Sydney, N. S. W., by the steamer Mariposa. The outbreak resulted in the slaughter of eleven persons. At Breelong, in New South Wales, the Marabry familiy offended Wales, the Marabry familiy offended two natives, known as Governor and underwood, who in revenge broke into the Mawabry house, armed with tomahawks and war clubs. In the house were Mrs. Marabry, her two daughters, Grace and Hilda, her niece, Elsie Clark, Miss Kerse, who was a school teacher, and three boys—Percet, aged 13, George, 12, and Albert, 9. Of these only the youngest two boys escaped by hiding. After butchering these defenseless people, the boys escaped by hading: After butchering these defenseless people, the blacks fled across the country to the Queensland Mountains. At Gulong they killed Alex McKay and his wife; Mrs. O'Brien and her young child at Meruwa, and Kerrin Fitzpatrick, an old man, at Mudgee. The police are unable to effect their capture.

Now that the citizens have ceased to kickabout the quality of the brick to be used for the King street pavebut too late to restore her to conscious-ness. A Roman Catholic priest among the passengers performed the burial service over the remains, assisted by a number of other priests and huns who were on board the steamer, and the body was committed to the sea. A passenger on board said that the de-ceased was to main in a Roman Catho-be irectivation in France and was disment, many of them have turned their attention to discussing the ability of the King street bottom to hold up the pavement, and the heavy traffic Although Overseer Stockton, says that King street is as hard as any het has ever yet worked on, there are missed for some reason, which he did not learn. On the voyage she brooded over troubles and became demented, which caused her to commit suicide. During the voyage Miss Minehan had confided to some of her fellow passen-gers that the had been a nun, but her plenty to be found who are unwilling to accept the opinion of the expert. "Why," said Ald, John Liddy this morning, "in four or five years that pavement will be broken through in a dozen places. TORONIO'S ALL CANADA EXHIBITION.

"Educational and entertaining, Aggressive and progressive," are the very appropriate watch-words adopted by the Toronto Industrial Exhibition this year, which will be held from August 27th to September 8th. This is the twenty-second successive year of Canada's great Exposition at Toronto, and each year has not only seen an improvement in the arrangements as compared with the years that have gone, but the quality of the stock is very farahead of what it was at the beginning, thus proving the inestivery farahead of what it was at the beginning, thus proving the inestimable value of Fairs such as that held annually at Toronto. It is an old story to say that the exhibition immediately approaching will be superior to all its predecessors, but it can safely be said that arrrangements have been made, and negotiations are conding that warrangt the statement. pending, that warrant the statement that the Toronto Fair of 1900 will fully maintain the reputation it has gained of being the best of all that are annu-ally held. A good deal of the space has ally held. A good deal of the space has already been taken up, and a number of entries have been made, but there are so many divisions comprised in the prize list, with its 131 classes and $35,000 in premiums, that there is ample provision for all; and, talking of those divisions, it is interesting to note that there are no fewer than 55 in class 198 knitting shirts, amilts. those divisions, it is interesting to note that there are no fewer than 55 in class 128, knitting, shirts, quilts, cloths, etc.; 354 in class 54, poultry; and an average of 16 or 17 in each of the two dozen classes devoted to horses and cattle. This will give some idea not only of the scope of Toronto's Great Exposition, but also of the opportunities offered to secure a prize. It is a little early to refer to what is promised in the way of entertainment, but when it is stated that $30,000 is spent annually on this department, visitors have ample guarantee that they will be abundantly provided for, and the admission to the Toronto Exhibition with its myriads of attractions is only 25c. Entries close on August 4th, and prize lists can be had by addressing H. J. Hill, Manager Industrial Exhibition, Toronto. As last year, so this, the exhibition will be inaugurated on Tuesday evening. August 28th, with a brilliant Military Tattoo. Reduced rates will be given and excursions held on all lines of travel.

MILES' PROMOTION.

A 'NATURAL CONSEQUENCE OF THE INCREASE IN THE ARMY.

he Regular Army Note Sumbers 68,006 Men-The Revival of the Grade of Lieu-

When Major-Nelson A. Miles was promoted to the lieutenant-generalcy of the United States Army it was a natural consequence of the increase in the number of men in the American army. No other military power, not even the smallest, places a major-general in command of more than ten thousand men, yet we have had a major-general commanding an army of one hundred thousand men, solely because his commission as such antedated the commission of his colleague, who were his military equals in title. The history of the rank of the commanding general of our army from the earliest times shows that whenever the strength of the army was increased beyond a certain point the rank of the commander has invariably been advanced. The following table shows the rank of commanding generals of the United States army and the time served in that capacity by each since the adoption of the Federal Constitution:

3, 19004 An official report supplies the information that "the rank of commandmajor-general until March, 1797, when the strength of the army was reduced the commander-in-chief (former com-mander Major-General Wayne having12c lb, died in 1796) was reduced to that of brigadier-general. Later, by act of May 28, 1798, a war with France seeming imminent, the military establishment was increased, and Washington was appointed lieutenant-general and commander of the army. March 2, 1799, Congress abolished the office. During the war of 1812 there were two major and four brigadier-generals. "The war with Mexico caused a temporary increase in the army, which was Park St., East supplemented by a volunteer force, but upon the termination of the war the volunteer force was mustered out and the regular army reduced to 10,000 men in round numbers, under command of a major-general, urtil 1855. In that year by act of March 3 the army was increased to 13,000 men, with one major-general and three brigadiergenerals. February 15, 1855, Major-General Scott, then commanding the army, was advanced to the rank of lieutenant-general by brevet rank, and pay to date back to 1847. Lieut.-Gen. Scott being on the retired list) Congress revived the grade of lieutenant-general, to which Major-General Grant was advanced, and afterward, in further recognition of his service and responsibilities, the grade of general was, in 1866, revived, and the President appointed Lieutenant-General Grant a general and also promoted Major-General Sherman to be lieutenant-general, vice Grant, promot-ed. The peace establishment, as fixed at that time, comprised 54,000 men, he could be sure not to which was deemed an appropriate command for an officer of the grade of general. "In 1869 General Grant, becoming President, resigned the office of general commanding the army and promoted Lieutenant-General Sherman thereto at the same time promoting Major-General Sheridan to be lieutengeneral, the army then numbering 35,

"In 1370, by the act of July 15 of that year, Congress limited the off e of general and lieutenant-general to those then holding the same, and delaring that, whenever a vacancy occurred in either or both, all laws or parts of laws creating said offices shall become inoperative and void, and be held to be repealed. Upon the retirement of General Sherman the grade of general on the active list ceased to exist, and the command of the army was held by Lieutenant-General Sher-

"In summary it may be said that whenever the regular force has been 1,000 or less the command has been neld by a brigadier-general, and when ncreased to 10,000 by a major-general Above that number the office of Leuenant-general has existed."

The regular army now numbers 63, 96 men, and the addition of volun teers in actual service makes a total of the ofce of 100,000. The revival of the grade of lieutenant-general, therefor eemed necessary .- Albany Argus.

Newspaper Profession.
The unfamiliar rustle of silker skirts started the woman editor and she looked up to see a girl coming between the littered desks of the city room toward her.

"Good morning!" Her voice ros like a bell above the click of the typewriters. The city editor started to scowl, but thought better of it. The first copyreader forgot the word he needed for the top line of a scare head and began anew. The woman editor acknowledged her salutation and motioned her to a chair.

"I came," she said, with a smile of most engaging confidence, "to ask you is a method by which any patient boy question. You won't mind, will you? You are sure? And you will answer?"

"I will if I can." "Oh, you can. You see, I am going to enter the newspaper profession, and I want you to tell me how to begin." "Angels and ministers of grace defend us!" the newspaper woman exclaimed.

"Huh?" "I didn't speak-that is, I didn'tsay anything. I couldn't, you know. What makes you think you want to be a newspaper worker?"

"Oh, it's so lovely!" "Um-m! Is it? What do you want to do? Space or local work?"

"Huh? Oh, I don't know. Apything. I'd just as soon write the dramatic notices so I could go to the theatres all the time." "That's modest to begin with. Have you ever written anything for publication?" "No; but I could. I can write lovely letters. Jack says " She paused in sweet confusion. An inspiration setzed the woman editor. She knew that the way into newspaperdom was harder to travel than the traditional Jordan road, but she hadn't the heart to discourage this confident young aspirant to the throne of the dramatic critic. "I'll tell you," she said, with a side glance at the unsuspecting young chief of the local staff, "you write a nice letter to the city editor. He is too busy to see you now, for the first edition is just going to press; but you write a nice letter-the kind Jack likes-and maybe he will find a place for you."

"Thank you so much. It's so sweet of you. Which is the city editor? That one! Oh, isn't he handsome! Good-

She fluttered out. The typewriters stopped their wild chatter for a moment, and the first copy began counting letters over again for a six head. It was six months before she came into the office again. But then it was

GITO ANKIND first began to note the passage of time thousands of years ago, before the age of clocks, and the original thinker noticed that when the or branch of a tree cast its shadow at a certain spot the day was half over; and then watching the passage of the shadow and marking the places over which it passed, he was able to divide the day first into halves. then into quarters, and at last into twelfths, thus getting the hours. Although we have clocks and watches to-day, it is interesting to retrace these steps in meausing time, and here can make his own sun dial, so that he can know the hour without calling to

The cane-brakes on the borders of the southern rivers are beautiful. Little folks never go there to play-there are too many snakes! But canes are brought up, in one way and another, for the children. We always had them to play with, writes Martha Young in Little Folks.

Long ago, before the gentle softvoiced Indians, the Choctaws, left our State, wandering westward, we looked for them every spring to come into our villages, and out to the plantations, bringing their wares to sell They brought very beautiful baskets made of brightly-dyed and woven For the little boys they brought blow-guns and arrows. The gun was a long straight cane carefully hollowed out, the tough fibre at the joints burned through with red-hot wires. Some of those marvellous guns were three yards long! The arrows were short wires, with a wisp of cotton firmly bound about one end and round and round was the cotton tightly bound until the arrow looked like a cat-tail growing by the brook. The arrow was put into the long hands as if it were a trumpet, andblew! How the arrow flew It was wonderful how expert at target-shooting we children became-we little girls used to shoot with these long slender blow-guns, as well as our brothers! Then again we used to think, we isttle girls as well as our brothers, that nothing made so good a fishing-pole as the long lithe cane-how those natural rods would spring to the nibble of a fish! And oh, the music we children used to get from our cane flute! They were the true Indian flutes-the mild Choctaws used to bring them about to They looked simple; but we sell. knew by experience that it was not easy to make a can flute that would "play;" though it was just a section of cane, with a mouth-hole cut near the fibrous joint, the pith extracted and small notches cut where the fing-ers might start and stop the breathing melody. What little souhern girl has not worked for many a sunny hour, with her slow, patient little pocketknife, trying to make a flute that would "sound."

Oh, the cool, waving, murmuring, rustling, green cane-brake! It is one of the dearest of all my childhood's out-door pictures! But it will not be very long now, before all the rich old. river-bottoms will be cleared up for the growing of cotton crops and corn Then good-by to reed baskets, and to blow-guns, and to cane fishing-yoles and to Indian flutes! The little south-ern children of the next generation will not know them!

The Art of whing

Breathing is an art. We ought to take in 'fourteen piats of air per minute. At the usual rate of breathing we do so. But if we get into a rarefie atmosphere we take in, at the usua rate of breathing, less than the fourteen pints. Sedentary people can get all the advantages to health of a long walk or other exercise by simply increasing the rate of breathing during one or two hours a day, thus adding to the amount of oxygen that enters the lungs.

Dear Sirs:—The Columbia Corn Harvester I purchased from you last season gave me splendid satisfaction and I am well pleased with it in every particular.

It has number of good features that are not on any other Corn Harvester I have seen (and I think I have seen all that is offered for sale in this locality). One thing that especially commended it to me was the way you can change the sizes of the sheafs and this enables the farmer to make a great saving in twine. The draft is not heavy and the maceine is easily handled. In fact it pleases me well. Yours, etc.,

COSTLY DOORPLATES.

Many Were of Silver and Went Over the Hundred Dollar Mark. "People who get about town much must have noticed one change that has taken place in the past few years," said the man with the red mustache, "and that is the abolition of doorplates for all except business purposes. There was a time, and not so very long ago either, when everybody that aspired to any kind of social prominence decorated his front door with a plate on which his name was engraved. These plates were made of all kinds of metal, ranging from plain tin to solid silver, according to the prosperity of the owner. Some of them were very expensive. happened to be in the engraving business when the doorplate craze was raging in its most virulent form, and I know for a fact that we turned out any number of plates that mounted up to and even beyond the hundred dollar mark. "One of the most expensive plates we ever made was for a man who lived over on East Twenty-second street This man was a Russian who had embraced American customs, and he had a name about seven feet long. I can't remember now what it was, but I do know that it used up about all the plate we had in the shop to fit him out and that when we were finally through with him his front door resembled nothing so much as the billboard of a vaudeville show. There was a peculiar thing about another block over in that part of the city. There were 40 houses in that block. Each was ornamented with a doorplate, and on 31 of those houses the name was 'Green.' I went over to that neighborhood the other day out of curiosity. There are no doorplates there now, and I had no means of ascertaining whether the Green colony still sticks to its old haunts. "In one way these doorplates were a mighty fine thing. They gave a stranger within our gates invaluable assistance in sizing up the nomenclature of the city, but they savored too much of self advertising to suit the quiet tastes of the more conservative element, and gradually the custom went out of fashion, until now a private house that sports a doorplate is a curiosity."-

Might Have Shot Custer,

Major Thomas Lawson, a prominent ex-Confederate of this city, tells an interesting story of General George A. Custer, the dashing Federal commander, who afterward fell in the massacre of the Little Big Horn. Major Lawson served with the Virginia troops. He was in Pickett's charge at Gettysburg and, although still hale and hearty, bears the marks of three serious

"During the Virginia campaigns," said Major Lawson, "our forces made a night attack. Our regiment charged into Custer's camp and stampeded the Yankees. Chance sent us in the direction of the general's headquarters. In the midst of the rout I saw a handsome man rush from a tent a few feet from me. He was only half dressed, and from his long hair I recognized him even in the dim light as Custer. He had no arms of any sort, and the Confederates were in almost complete possession; but, hastily pulling a bridle over his horse's head and without waiting to saddle up, he jumped on the animal and galloped off, without arms, to attempt to rally his routed men. He was within ten feet of me for more than a minute, and I drew my revolver to shoot him, but I could not kill so brave a man when he had no means of defense himself. It would have been too much like murder. "I have always been glad that I did not fire op the gallant Custer that

They Drink Blood. "The fire eaters are dying out, but the blood drinkers are on the increase," says a New Orleans physician in The Times-Democrat of that city. "Go down to the slaughter pens near the barracks any morning, and you'll see a crowd of them waiting for their daily draft fresh from the animals' veins Most of the drinkers are people who show plainly the ravages of tuberculosis, but others are merely run down and debilitated and take the blood as a tonic. There are always women and children in the gathering, and, while all classes of society are represented, it is one place at least where there are no caste distinctions. Their afflictions and the curious treatment they are taking give them a common meeting ground, and it is singular to see how they fraternize. You will find wealthy business men chatting confidentially with hoboes and society women swapping symptoms with women in ragged calico. It's a queer sight."

Street Car Riding For Insomnta. One of the most prominent physiclans in the city is recommending a new remedy for insomnia, a cheap and pleasant remedy, which is at least worth trying. Two hours before bed-time, says he, put on your most comfortable clothes, your easiest shoes and your least choky collar. Then walk over to the nearest car line, take a front seat in the first open car that comes along and sit there till time to go to bed, riding from one end of the line to the other with the cool night wind blowing in your face. An hour's street car riding, he says, scarcely ever fails to bring on a feeling of drowsiness, and he has actually been able to bring sleep to the most nerve wrecked of insomniacs by his simple device .-Washington Post.

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURED

About three years ago my husband's legs, from the knee down to his toes, were red and itching with Eczema. He had no rest day or night, and would scratch all the time, so his legs would be raw. He had a good many doctors. They told him there was nothing wrong with his blood, and they gave him salve and other things to rub on. He had about a peck of bottles and boxes of salve and none of them did him any good. He worned that way about one year, and gave the doctors quite a lot of money. I told him one day the trouble was all in his blood, and told him to try Curicura remedies. He went that try Curicuna remedies. He went that instant and got Cuticura Soap, Cuticura (ointment), and Cuticura Resolvent. That night he rested well, and kept gotting better until he was cured, and it has not returned since.

Made Its Own Funeral Toilet.

There are certain insects that have such a respect for Mrs. Grundy and are endowed with such an innate love of neatness and order that not even death, or rather decapitation, can prevent them from making one grand final toilet, which is clearly designed to give them a sedate and respectable appearance after death.

Dr. Ballion, a skilled entomologist, discovered this remarkable fact. "During one of my recent horseback rides," he says, "I frequently caught one of those large files which annoy cattle and borses so much, and I promptly got rid of it by crushing its head. One day, instead of throwing the mutilated insect away, I placed it on the back of my hand and indolently watched it. For some seconds the insect re mained motionless, but then, to my unbounded surprise, it moved its front legs forward to the place where the head should have been, and, after it had rubbed them nervously together, apparently in anguish, it began to brush its body and to smooth its wings with its hind legs. Under the gentle pressure of these limbs the body gradually became extended and the extremity curved, while the wings gradually changed their natural position and left the upper part of the body exposed. Meanwhile the hind legs continued to brush each other from time to time.

ordinary sight with great interest, and, in order to see the finale. I took the insect into my study, where it lived an entire day, spending the time at the ungrateful task of making its own funeral toilet."

Couldn't Resist. An eccentric clergyman in Cornwall had been much annoyed by the way the members of the congregation had of looking around to see late comers. After enduring it for some time he said on entering the reading desk one day: "Brethren, I regret to see that your attention is called away from your religious duties by your very natural desire to see who comes in behind you. I propose henceforth to save you the trouble by naming each person who may come late."

He then began, "Dearly beloved," but paused half way to interpolate, "Mr. S., with his wife and daughter." Mr. S. looked rather surprised, but the minister, with perfect gravity, resumed. Presently he again paused "Mr. C. and William D."

eyes studiously bent on their books. The service proceeded in the most orderly manner, the parson interrupting himself every now and then to name some newcomer. At last he said, still with the same perfect gravity:

"Mrs. S. in a new bonnet." In a moment every feminine head in the congregation had turned around .-

A Mystery of the Sea.

One of the most curious finds ever made from the sea was that which came to the Azores in 1858. The iswo was then in the posses sion of two runaway British sailors. One morning there drifted ashore a craft which had evidently been frozen in the ice for a long time. It was an ancient and battered brig, without masts, bulwark or name, but the hatches were on, the cabin doors, fast, and the hulk was buoyant. She had little cargo, and that consisted of skins and furs in prime condition. No papers were found in the cabin, but it was figured that she was a sealer or trader, carrying a crew of 10 or 12, and that she had been provisioned for a year. The flour was spoiled, but the beef was perfectly preserved. She had been abandoned when frozen in an iceberg and drifted for years. The date of the letter found in the forecastle showed that the brig had been abandoned nearly half a century before. The two sailors got out the furs, which eventually brought them $4,000, and two barrels of beef and then set fire to the wreck. No trace was ever found of its name or owners.

The Atmospheric Ocean

The atmospheric ocean surrounding the earth is frequently disturbed by gigantic waves, which are invisible except when they carry parts of the air charged with moisture up into a colder atmospheric stratum, where sudden condensation occurs. In this manner long, parallel lines of clouds sometimes make their appearance at a great height, marking the crests of a ripple of air waves running miles above our

A NEW WEED PEST.

The farmers are threatened with another weed, which, if allowed to gain the same ground that thistles, rag burdock, golden rod, wild oats, and the later sweet clover have obtained, will prove a great detriment to farmers. This is common chicory, and the professors at the Agricultural College have been asked how it can be eradihave been asked how it can be cradi-cated. They recommend the following treatment where grain fields are in-fested: Plough some time in August; cultivate two or three times and late in the fall rib up as for turnips. The following year but in some hoed crap, and thorough cultivation will mater-ially reduce the number of plants, and in a few years in all probability the in a few years in all probability the country will be free from this pest. MADE A BIG SEIZURE.

The D. G. S. Petrel, Capt. E. Dunn, came into the Eau Friday night, after making a good haul of tug, men, gill nets and fish at 3 p. m. Thursday near Long Point Cut Light. The North-Western in Asia. A very handy thing to have "abou these days is the Chicago and North-Western's official map of China and Asia, which, though outside of the territory traversed by it, is most expeditiously reached by its admirable double daily fast train service to the Pacific coast. The map, from official sources, shows on one side not only the entire continent of Asia, with the Trans-S berian Railway and other modern improvements up to date, but modern improvements up to date, but on the other, a Mecator projection of the world, enabling the traveller, student and casual reader to obtain instantly an idea of the relative po-sition of places, which is often of so much greater consequence than the absolute point itself. Northeastern China, the scene of the present hos-tilities, and Korea, are also shown noon a very much larger scale, nearly upon a very much larger scale, nearly every important point which is men-tioned in the daily papers being found while another portion of the sheet con tains historical and statistical infor mation regarding the empire of China.
The entire work is appropriately surrounded by modest and truthful statements of the North-Western System, which, in its construction, operation, and equipment, as well as in its litera-ture, is a standard of excellence and a full realization of its motto, "The best of everything."
