OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE THOMPSON

In Belleville yesterday afternoon, at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. C. Atkins, Albert street, there passed away an estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Annie Thompson. Born in Madoc, Ont., she removed with her parents to Belleville when very young. In the year 1891 she was married to Nelson Thompson, who predeceased her nine years ago. She was a member of Bridge Street Methodist Church and of Quinte Rebekah Lodge of Belleville. Possessed of a bright, lovable disposition, seeing only the best in everyone and everything, she will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. Her long illness was borne with true Christian fortitude. She is survived by one step-son, Henry G. Thompson of this city, and the following brothers: John, Samuel and Jasper Nelson, of Detroit, William of Sault Ste. Marie, and two sisters: Mrs. Stephen Gilles, of Madoc, Ont., and Mrs. C. C. Atkins, of this city. An aged mother passed away several weeks ago. The sympathy of many friends is extended to those left to mourn the loss of a loving mother and sister.

Belleville, born Jan. 18th, 1894 in Province of Sparta, Greece. All these appeared before Judge Deroche. Other names of applicants were Michael DiLolla, Leo Cori and Tony Petro, but they were not present, and their applications were not read.

Col. E. D. O'Flynn spoke in favor of Carl Wagner. His wife was an English lady. He had patents on shrapnel, which he offered the British Government during the war. He is held in the highest repute by the authorities.

Judge Deroche told the applicants that he would hear anything in favor or against them. Their cases would be dealt with by the Secretary of State.

Mr. F. W. Clayton and daughter, Phyllis, of Kingston, attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Mary A. Watson.

Mrs. W. J. Craig, New Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leech and daughter, Hilma, are visiting Mr. Craig's mother, Elizabeth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Yorke, Corbyville, left today for Calgary and Edmonton where they will visit friends for two or three months.

Messrs. Ernest, George and Robert Watson and Elmer Pringle have returned to Toronto after attending the funeral of their grandmother, Mrs. Mary Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Watson, of Toronto, Mr. T. G. Watson, Kingston, and Mrs. L. Pringle, Lechlin, were in the city attending the funeral of their mother, the late Mrs. Mary A. Watson.

Natural Tread Shoe Factory is showing great activity these days; more than a car load of machinery has just arrived.

Although strikes and embargoes have been handicapping deliveries seriously, Mr. Taplin is quite enthused over conditions as they are now, and looks for an early start in factory operation.

A miscellaneous shower was given last evening by Mrs. E. Britton and Mrs. Charles Dalrymple, at the home of Mrs. Johnson, 163 Pinnacle street, in honor of Miss Mabel Bethman.

A large number of friends surprised the bride-to-be, presenting her with many useful and valuable gifts. The evening was opened in games and before parting refreshments in plenty were served.

Last evening about thirty friends of Miss Ada Gay, Sidney, surprised her at her home with a miscellaneous shower in honor of her marriage which takes place this afternoon. The shower was arranged by Mrs. Arthur Wells and comprised silver, cut-glass and other ware. The members of Holloway Street Employment League, of which Miss Gay was past secretary, were present.

IN MEMORY.
ROES—In sad but loving memory of my dear Mother, Mrs. Ross, who died at Belleville Hospital June 9th, 1919.

Often times my thoughts do wander To a grave so far away, Where I laid my dearest "Mother" One year ago today.

When God, in His mercy called her from all pain, I miss you and mourn you in silence Unseen;

I dwell on the memories of days that have been, Though gone and forgotten by others may be, The grave that contain you is sacred to me.

Your loving daughter, Joey Hunter, New York, N.Y.

CARD OF THANKS
The family of the late Mrs. Mary A. Watson, 238 Ann street, wish to thank their many friends for the kindness shown during their recent bereavement.

Unveiling of Monument

Memory of Fallen Frankford and Sidney Soldiers Honored Today

Today at Frankford an event of historical interest is taking place—the dedication and unveiling of a monument in memory of the fallen heroes of Frankford and vicinity. The Rev. J. D. P. Knox was the chairman of the proceedings. The function was attended by large numbers from all parts of the country. Among those who were to speak were Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, Gen. Ross, Col. Bywater, Col. Vanderwater, D.S.O., Major J. H. Sills, E. Guss Porter, M.P., W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. and R. J. Graham. Flag drills and choruses were given by the school children and the G.W.V.A. band of Belleville supplied the musical program. A guard of honor was composed of veterans, who fired the salute in tribute to their fallen comrades.

The American Decoration Day

Editor Ontario.—

The term "Decoration Day" is so inclusive in its American application, or rather as applied in the United States, that one finds its meaning as incomprehensible and as confusing as American politics. Travelling by railway from Battle Creek, Michigan, to Chicago, Ill., I had an opportunity to obtain in various towns and cities, passing glimpses of gathering crowds as with holiday intent they planned and carried out their plans, for celebrating the country's greatest memorial day; and also heard loudly and forcibly expressed, varied opinions regarding national politics, community economics, presidential prospects, as great conventions are being organized.

I arrived in Chicago at three o'clock in the afternoon and in passing along Washburn Ave., I beheld a crowd of people gathered on Monument Hill, and round "The General Grant Monument." I made bold to speak to a large, important looking gentleman, asking him what the excitement. His answer was most genial, with a most decided Irish brogue, he said "O, we can get up the biggest thing on earth. Look at that"—as he pointed to thousands of three war heroes parading, forming a vast pageant of veterans, war workers and nurses, marching to martial music of several bands.

My new acquaintance said: "I wonder if boys over in France feels at all honoured by such goings on? Sure this isn't all of it! We have banquets and balls and dances, yacht races and other races, all in honor of the dear fellows that breathed in pain, suffered and died overseas for us. O, and sure we can get off a bigger thing yet, than all this. We are to have a great convention, the senators and congressmen and political heelers are gathering to nominate a great man for this great country, and we are going to elect the biggest and greatest man on earth for president, and spend millions of dollars, sure what do we care for the high cost of living?"

Thus he kept talking as I watched the great procession pass along. Before leaving the crowd I got in conversation with one of a different spirit. He pointed with pride to the colonels and captains on their prancing chargers, as they led the hosts with silken American flags and banners.

He spoke of white-haired veterans of '61, the veterans of '98 and those of 1917, and with genuine enthusiasm characteristic of this country said: "We saved the world! The bands played the old war tunes, 'The Girl I Left Behind Me.' 'There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight,' 'Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching.' There's a pretty incident of the march reported as follows: 'A Canadian veteran stood on the curbstone. His temples were touched with gray. With him was a nurse who had served overseas. She looked undecided. The marching Spanish war veterans came to a halt. The order 'at ease' was given. One of the leaders looked about him; his eyes met those of the Canadian. 'Bill, is it you?' 'God, it's Jack.' They had been comrades in '98. 'We'll march with you,' said the Canadian soldier as he and the nurse stepped into line with the Spanish war veterans." The American legion were followed by other allied veterans. First came Canadians, headed by a baggage band, they came a contingent of French, wearing the blue of France. These were followed by an Italian unit. These allied contingents brought hearty cheers from the thousands that lined the sidewalks from Ninth street to Chicago Ave.

I am now domiciled at the lovely home of Doctor Donald G. Colp, on the shore of Crystal Lake, Robbinsdale, Minn., where I am delighted to receive The Daily Ontario, giving news of beautiful Belleville, and of the many dear friends there.

Gratefully yours, A. M. Hubly, June 3rd, 1920.

RCUS DRAWS BIG CROWD

The Hagenbeck-Wallace Aggregation Here—The Street Parade

A circus parade that was bright, sparkling and span throughout, was that of the Hagenbeck-Wallace show, seen in Belleville today. As a forerunner of what was later seen under the big tent in the old Dufferin avenue show grounds, it was a real criterion and was favorably commented upon by all who saw it.

Bands were plentiful, clowns were everywhere, and there were more beautiful horses in the line than, perhaps, have ever been seen together in this section of the country. Fine horses appear to be one of the specialties of the show. There were about 600 of them in line and every one of them seemed more of a personal pet than a beast of burden.

Although only a portion of the menagerie is taken out for street exhibition, enough animals were in the line of march today to give an inkling of what was later to be seen in the zoo. There were elephants, tigers, lions, acrobats, iguanas, hyenas, monkeys, pumas, dromsary deer, polar bear, black, cinnamon and other kinds of bear, kangaroo, mountain lions, otters, several large snakes, and in fact too many creatures to permit of an accurate record being made.

This afternoon's show opened with a large crowd in attendance and up to time of going to press the audience was notably expressing its appreciation of each of the 200 acts as they were performed. The lion act, one of the most terrifying of the many thrills, came in for a very generous share of applause, as did the young girl and her "highest jumping horse in the world." This horse, a beautiful black, carried her over hurdles which would seem impossible, at first glance. It was a very pretty act. The aerial work was of a high character, but there were so many acts that a hasty description would fail to do them justice.

One thing may be said of the performance. It faithfully adhered to the advertisements, as practically everybody who attended this afternoon can vouch for. "Another show will be given tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock, with the doors opening an hour earlier, in order that all holders of tickets may remain for a visit in the menagerie before passing on into the big tent where the show is given."

Divorce Granted

On the 11th of May, 1920, the Divorce Committee of the Senate of Canada, granted a decree of divorce absolute to Jean Mary Sandford from her husband, Arthur George Sandford, an ex-member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. E. Guss Porter, K.C., appeared for Mrs. Sandford.

FIVE-YEAR OLD BOY KILLED BY MOTOR BUS

Son of Walter A. Patterson Stepped in Front of Aselstine's Bus at Noon Today—Death Almost Instantaneous.

Walter Ormond Patterson, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Patterson, 41 Victoria Ave., was fatally injured at 12.50 p.m. today in front of his home and died a few minutes later as a result of being run over by an automobile. The tragedy was witnessed by quite a number of people.

Mr. James Cook, a young chauffeur, was driving the Aselstine motor bus, (permit No. 125238) up Victoria Ave. hill with a load of passengers for the show grounds, to attend the circus. As he was about half way up the hill between Pinnacle and Church streets, the Patterson boy stepped off the south walk and ran directly in front of the bus. The car was meeting an auto, which was coming down the hill and Mr. Cook did not see the little boy until the right wheel was up to him. The wheel passed over his head apparently.

Joseph Boldestar was riding on the rear of the bus taking fares and feeling the jolt, stepped off. He found the boy lying helpless at his feet. The unfortunate little fellow had made an outcry when struck. When picked up he was just breathing. An effort was made to get into several doctor's offices, but finally Mr. Boldestar succeeded in getting Dr. Boyce in. By this time the boy was dead. He was removed to Tickell and Sons' morgue to await an inquest.

Police Constable White had Cook go to the police station, where he was detained for a time to see what developments might be forthcoming. Mr. Cook has always been considered a careful driver.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson have the deepest sympathy in the tragedy which has befallen their home. The boy was very bright and he will be keenly missed.

There is a rumor that his attention was called by another boy, this being supposed to have caused him to divert his attention from the traffic on the road.

Sergeant Napkin and Constable White have secured evidence of the occurrence.

Not long ago a boy was killed on Victoria avenue by sleigh-riding into an automobile.

THE COUNCIL RATIFIED AGREEMENT WITH THE GRAND TRUNK

Only Two Members Opposed Pinnacle Street Bylaw on Ground of Indemnity—$70,000 Bonds Sold Locally—Amusement Grounds Problem—Housing Bylaw Carried.

The city council last evening ratified the agreement made between Vice-President Robb of the Grand Trunk Railway and Mayor Riggs and Aldermen Bone and Hanna at Montreal on June 1st. By this agreement, Pinnacle street will have the railway track in the centre of the street. A bylaw was passed through its various stages, embodying the ratification of the agreement.

Council was unanimous with the exceptions of Ald. Wensley and Woodley in its approval of the agreement. These two did not oppose the moving of the tracks but they opposed the liability clause. The rest of the council thought it a minor matter.

City Solicitor Masson had written the council as follows:—

City Solicitor's Report.

"The resolution prepared by the council is somewhat indefinite as to what they wish my approval of, as it states that the agreement be ratified and confirmed provided the city solicitor approve of same from a legal standpoint. Generally speaking that would mean, was the form of agreement adopted satisfactory from a legal standpoint? But what I gathered from a conversation with Alderman Ponton was that liability would be the city incur by adopting the agreement. If I am right in that supposition I would suggest that the damages which might arise from the entering into of such agreement can be better estimated by an engineer than by a solicitor.

"However there are a few items which occur to me as might be covered by the indemnity that the Grand Trunk asked the city to indemnify them against.

- 1. Damages which might occur during the changing of the track.
2. The west side of Pinnacle street from Campbell street to near the north side of Bridge street has just an embankment along the level of the sidewalk which the railway tracks are moved to the centre of the street and a driveway established on the west side of the tracks, there is a liability of rigs, etc., being upset down the embankment, unless a proper guard were put up and if a proper guard is erected, then the question of damages to the property owners might arise.

- 3. If the track is moved to the centre of the street in winters of severe snow falls the railway company will try to keep their tracks clear so their engine and trains can run over them, but by so doing they will throw the snow to each side of their track and this render the traffic more dangerous.
4. If the railway company do not keep their portion of the road between their rails and for the eighteen inches outside in good condition, accidents might happen by reason thereof and no doubt the railway company would this claim indemnity setting up the damage was due to the increased hazard occasioned by the moving of the tracks. In fact it is hard to conceive of any damage that might be occasioned upon the highway that the company would not say was by reason of the increased hazard.

The damage to property of course would be covered and the city would be responsible for that. It does not appear to me, however, that there would be any large amount of damages to the property of owners, by reason of moving the track, but that is a matter that your engineer would be better able to speak of than myself.

"There is also the question for the council to consider if the tracks are moved into the centre of the street, will they not come right over the present sewer, and if repairs have to be made to the sewer under the track damages might arise by reason of the making of such repairs and this would also be covered by the city indemnity to the Railway Company.

"It is a question for the city council to decide whether they are willing to assume the burden contemplated by the agreement or not. In my opinion all things I have pointed out and interest, bearing 6%, and that the Treasurer is hereby authorized to receive offers for same.

"That bonds of the city bearing 6% interest to the value of about $100,000, covering the paving of Bridge street east and other streets be offered to the Standard Paving Company in payment for paving of streets at 98 and accrued interest. Said bonds to be delivered to them when the contracts have been completed. Failing their acceptance of this offer by the 24th inst., said paving to be discontinued.

"That the city Treasurer be authorized to pay one half (1/2) of one per cent. to legitimate brokers as commission on bona fide sales of the city bonds to citizens or others but only to authorized persons and only covering the issue of about $70,000 which will be ready for delivery about 1st July."

Cheese Board Request.

Acting Treasurer E. P. Frederick brought to the council's attention the need of assistance in the treasurer's department for several months. The request was granted on motion of Ald. Ponton.

The Belleville Cheese Board, through their secretary, Mr. Frank J. Knight, requested the council to allow them the use of the council chamber for their meetings. The present old court room is too small and the city hall is so large that bidding cannot be held there.

The council offered them the city hall, with the suggestion that the board congregate near the platform.

Wants a Spur Line.

Mr. J. L. Walsley wrote the council stating that his firm desired a railway siding or spur to his property on Pinnacle street.

The matter was referred to the committee.

Buys Harbor Lot.

The Imperial Oil Co. agreed to pay $2,000 for a lot on the harbor adjacent to their property. Ald. Ostrom thought it unwise to sell the only bit of waterfront the city possesses. Ald. Bone said the property would put up $30,000 in buildings making this a distributing centre.

The council decided to have the solicitor close the deal.

Fire Protection for Rolling Mills. Mr. J. A. Higgs, of the Steel Co. of Canada, wrote the council asking for improvement to the hydrant system. Recently there was a fire which might have had disastrous consequences.

Ald. Woodley said that the expenditure could not be taken out of the waterworks department and spent on private property.

Ald. Bone moved that the council undertake the work as a general expense.

Ald. Ponton suggested a meeting of Mr. Higgs and the solicitor with the council on Thursday as there was the possibility of further development of that district. A scheme of fire protection and water service may have to be decided upon.

Ald. Ponton's suggestion was adopted. A report from the waterworks manager will be presented.

It was moved by Ald. Hanna, seconded by Ald. Ostrom, "That Alderman Bone be granted leave of absence for one month from June 14, and that Alderman Ostrom be appointed to sign cheques and otherwise take up his duties during his absence."—Carried.

Ald. Woodley moved, seconded by Ald. Wensley:—

"That the Board of Education be requested to sign the petition for granolithic walk on the south side of Catherine street from Isabelle street to Octavia street so that the same can be constructed this year and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the said board.

Housing Bylaw.

Mr. Masson wrote the council as follows in the matter of the housing bylaw:—

"Enclosed I send you two draft copies of bylaw to appoint two new commissioners, one in place of F. D. Denke, whose term has expired and the other in place of George Walton, who, I understand, has resigned, and his resignation accepted.

"At the suggestion of the Mayor and Mr. Frederick I inserted a clause in the bylaw providing that the commissioners may from among themselves appoint a secretary of said commission and for payment of salary to said secretary. I am not sure that this is authorized by the Act. The Act does authorize members of the commission to be paid such salary or other remuneration as the council may think proper. That would ordinarily apply to all the members of the commission being paid alike.

"There is nothing in the Act that I have been able to find authorizing the appointment of a secretary for the commission, and it would appear that the Act does not contemplate such an appointment as by sub-section 9 of section 5 of the Act of 1920 it says 'The clerk, assessment commissioners, assessor, treasurer, architect, engineer, etc., of the municipality shall at the request of the commission do and perform all such duties under the Act as they would do and perform for the council in the case of the carrying out of the provisions of this Act had been conferred on the council.'

"If the council decide not to grant this privilege to the commissioners, they can strike out clause three as inserted in the said bylaw. If, on the other hand, they decide to leave it in, they can fill in the blank with the amount of salary they propose to pay the secretary.

"I also enclose you draft bylaw in duplicate to make the Municipal Housing Act 1920 apply to this municipality."

Bylaws were passed in accordance with the above and the secretary's salary was set at $600 per annum.

Ald. Doyle said that he had 15 applications for houses to be built and City Clerk Holmes stated that he had secured 6 applications.

Ald. Ostrom opposed the housing scheme as unnecessary. Why should the city go into the business for thirty years? He would support any private concern undertaking building.

Ald. Doyle said there were 18 or 20 names ahead in people wanting houses.

Ald. Bone thought the council should encourage the housing scheme to make landlords improve their houses.

Ald. Doyle said the people from the outside complain that some people are charging several prices for houses here.

Residents of Elm street petitioned for a concrete walk.

Albion street residents are asking for water service, said Ald. Doyle.

Ald. Bone asked that the Albert College bylaw be "dug up" for the next committee meeting.

Ald. Doyle said that he believed cars were taxed for using the market square on June 3rd.

Ald. Ostrom thought this council should not allow the market lessee to levy toll on cars using the city market.

The chairman of market and city property will consult the solicitor about it.

Ald. Wensley moved that the police force be instructed to see that Dufferin avenue, south of Pine street is kept open for traffic when circus and other attractions are showing here, and that the roadway be not allowed to be obstructed with refreshment booths as has been the custom in the past.—Carried.

Ald. Woodley moved, seconded by Ald. Ostrom, that a committee consisting of Mayor Riggs, Ald. Hanna, and Ponton to work in conjunction with similar committees from the Chamber of Commerce and the Agricultural Society and to wait upon Albert College Board to see if arrangements can be made whereby the city will have the use of the agricultural grounds in conjunction with Albert College.—Carried.

The city desires to have use of grounds for big events such as the G. W. V. A. demonstration.

Poles Launch Attack and Drive Back Reds in Panic

WARSAW, June 8.—Bolshevik forces have been driven back in panic along the front between the Dvina and the Beresina rivers, according to an official statement issued at Polish army headquarters here.

Poles launched an attack against the town of Glibokoi, 45 miles north of Minsk, which broke through the Soviet lines and resulted in the capture of eight hundred prisoners and a large amount of booty. The Bolsheviks, who had crossed the Beresina, have been driven back it is declared.

Turkish Nationalists Defeat Govt. Forces

PARIS, June 8.—Turkish Nationalist forces have defeated the government troops and have advanced up to within about five and a half miles of Ismid, according to a Constantinople despatch received by newspapers here.

H. C. of L. Takes Big Slump in France

PARIS, June 8.—Decreased cost of the necessities of life, which is general throughout France, is outlined by several newspapers this morning, all of which declare that France is getting back to work and that a fine harvest is in prospect. BUSINESS GIRLS AND TEACHERS

Sanfer From Overtaxed Nerves and Often a Complete Breakdown.

Thousands of earnest, intelligent young women who earn their livelihood away from home, in the school room, in public offices and in large business establishments, are almost suffering victims of over-taxed nerves and deficiency of strength. Weak, breathless and nervous, they work against time, with never a rest when headaches and backaches make every hour seem like a day. Little wonder their cheeks lose the glow of health and grow pale and thin; their eyes are dull and shrunken and beauty slowly but surely fades. Business women and girls because of their work and worry look older than their years. What they need is the frequent help of a true, strengthening remedy to carry them through the day. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are like actual food to the starved nerves and tired brain of the business girl. By making rich, red blood they supply just the kind of help girls need, and their good looks, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills bring bright eyes, rosy cheeks, high spirits and thus make the day's duties lighter.

Miss Mary H. Hunt says: "Many people think of the life of a school teacher as one of comparative ease, with short hours and holidays plentiful. But the reverse is the case. When one has to stand day after day, year in and year out, with the worries great and small, from handling children, it begins to tell upon even the strongest and especially upon the nerves. I had been teaching about five years and was then located at Springfield, Ont., when I found I was far from having the vitality I started out with. Before my term was out I had a complete nervous breakdown. I tried doctor's medicine and it helped, but only for a while. I then tried osteopathic treatment but with no better results. I suffered from loss of appetite, sleep, poorly was nervous and troubled with severe headaches. Holidays came and I tried a change of schools, but got into a harder place where I had to get fifty pupils under my care. There were days when it seemed impossible for me to carry on my work. At this stage my sister, who had acted as a teacher, strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took the advice, and by the time I had finished my second box, I felt that the pills were helping me. I was on my ninth box when I decided there was no necessity for continuing the treatment, as I had never felt better, and had gained twelve pounds in weight. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, with plenty of fresh air, work and wonders in my case and I should advise the use of them to any other run down teacher."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS. TORONTO, June 8.—With around 3800 cattle on the Union Yards yesterday we had an active market for weight steers and this class was hard to get to advantage. The best demand was shown for the good and choice butcher cattle of handy weights and good quality.

Good butcher cows were wanted and sold early at good prices. For milk cows and springers there was a good demand for the better classes of cows and springers. With a fair run of calves, around 600, the market was stronger for the choice veal, which sold at from 16 1/4 to 17 1/4; good calves 15 1/4 to 16 1/4; medium, 13 to 15; and grassers and common, from 7 1/2 to 10. With a fair run of sheep and lambs, the trade was called by the classes, except the nice light sheep and yearlings, and these were selling at from 10 1/4 to 12c per lb.; heavy fat sheep from 7 1/2 to 8 1/2c. The hog market is unsettled in a way, but the packers are quoting 18c to the farmer, 13 1/2c f.o.b., and 19c fed and watered, and from their firm attitude it looks as though the price will settle around this basis.

ROW OVER ALAND ISLANDS

PARIS, June 8.—A new war seems brewing between Sweden and Finland in the north. The bone of contention is the ownership of the Aland Islands, located midway between the two countries in the Baltic Sea, at the entrance to the Gulf of Bothnia. Each is equally covetous of gaining possession of the group of islands and both have made claims, although the Alands were neutralized by the Treaty of Paris, in 1809. Only the fact that Sweden is a member of the League of Nations, it is believed, is preventing an open conflict at the present time.

London, Ont., is threatened with another street railway strike.

CIRCUS DAY

As one gets older the appearance of a circus naturally causes our thoughts to go back to the days long ago when a circus meant all the world to the average youngster of this city, and as I watched the Spark's Bros. show on its visit here last Monday, and noted the eager faces of the small children, and the general comparative indifference displayed to the fact that it cost most of the young people in the neighborhood a dollar and a half to get a reserved seat, my mind travelled back in fancy to boyhood days when our ambition was to save fifty cents and then have the circus out our mercy, as we believed it to be.

You see in the olden days, money was not near as plentiful as it is today. And the small chap who could save up twenty-five cents was at least sure of a seat. Of course, it wasn't a reserved seat, but what the dence did he care about it being reserved or not so long as he was able to see P. T. Barnum's immense show, or the great Forepaugh aggregations, both of which were undoubtedly far ahead of any of the circus organizations of to-day, especially in their educational influences as given through the splendid menageries or collection of animals, which accompanied them. The fact that there were no moving picture shows thirty years ago and no opera houses, made the appearance of a circus the great feature of the year to the small boy and a sort of a general public holiday to both town and district.

As I said, twenty-five or fifty cents was a mighty big sum in those days, when we boys used to be very content indeed if we were allowed ten cents a week spending money. That meagre allowance, of course, simply meant planning ahead for the circus, and when the date was announced many and varied were the schemes we used to have to concoct in order to try and raise fifty cents so that we might take in the circus, one of the side shows, and have a glass of the pink lemonade which was always the accompaniment of a circus, and without which and one or two other eccentrics, no circus day was complete. I remember well how hard we used to work to get that extra money.

Atlas, when the days that one can appreciate a circus are over. I'm afraid that the young people of today never get anything like the real enjoyment out of the circus that we used to do when we had to work so hard in order to get to see at least the side show. Ah, well, circus days pass like everything else and young people, like the circusers, are bound to change with the times. They will, however, never get quite the same value for their money as we used to do, because they don't have to work quite so hard for it. Money is more plentiful and as a result the young boy or girl is able to extract it more easily from dad's pocket—Guelph Herald.

TEN YEARS OLD!

The Post will be ten years old with next issue. It is now under its third management. When started there were those who said it couldn't last and pointed to a previous newspaper failure as a precedent. Today it is financially stronger than ever. Over four thousand dollars are tied up in machinery and plant. The advertising patronage of the past year has been greater than in any previous year. The subscription list holds fast against the encroachments of the philanthropists of Napanee and Picton and the Belleville millionaires. The editor has much to be thankful for, and he tenders those thanks to everyone who has done anything towards The Post's progress.—Deseronto Post.

PUBLICATION OF ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

To remove or lessen the dissatisfaction which is every year becoming more apparent, and pronounced, several towns are publishing their assessment rolls. The Assessment Act provides a basis of assessment and as long as all are assessed equitably there can be no complaint, but where a $20,000 property is assessed for $10,000 and a $1,000 place for $900, the owner of the latter is justified in protesting. Reversed conditions entitle the former owner to exercise his right of appealing. As high this year an equitable assessment is of the utmost importance, and if in former years, they should now be adjusted. The publication of the rolls will give every person an opportunity of comparing and judging the fairness of the figures for themselves.—Midland Free Press.

JOY AND GLADNESS FOR THE CHILDREN

Every child—whether it be poor or rich is entitled to joy and gladness. Health is the birthright of all and there is absolutely no doubt that the healthy baby is a happy baby. It is the baby's nature to be happy—not cross. Only the sickly baby is cross. The well child is a joy to the home—it is laughing, gurgling, happy little piece of humanity which drives dull care from the household. The sickly baby is the opposite—he is cross and peevish; cries a great deal and is a source of constant worry to the mother. But mothers there is no need of your little ones being sickly. Regulate the baby's bowels and sweeten his stomach with a gentle but thorough laxative and baby will soon be well and happy again. Thousands of mothers have proved this through their use of Baby's Own Tablets—there is a smile in every dose of the Tablets. Give them to your baby and make him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Though the bush fire exploded the dynamite, a ton of it in all, not a soul was injured. The fire which destroyed a large area, started north of Matschewas Gold Mines and travelled to the lake in three hours. It frightened the Indians who assisted the Hudson Bay factor to bury the fur in stock and the whole lot fled down the river to Elk Lake. It turned out that the port escaped and the fire died out when the wind changed.

The steamer Cataract arrived at the Kingston wharf of the Montreal Transportation Company on Friday minus one of the members of the crew, due to the visit of a detective working for the Ontario License Board, who made an arrest. When the steamer was going through the Welland Canal, it is stated that the detective, who was evidently pat wise that there was some "wet stuff" on board the steamer, got in touch with a member of the crew, and offered him $6 for a bottle of liquor. It is stated that the man who had the bottle refused to accept the $6 so the detective raised the price to $8, which was accepted. Later one of the members of the crew was arrested, and placed in the "lock-up." He will now face a very serious charge, that of selling liquor on a steamboat.

Has Canada really gained substantial and abiding strength as the result of the great war? This is the question which Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, asked Sunday night in the course of an eloquent and striking address at the evening service of the Methodist Conference held at Kempenville, Ont. He reviewed the great efforts which had been made by the Dominion during the war, the military achievements showing how tremendously the country had developed as compared with pre-war conditions, but later declared that it was the strangest thing of all that women who had thrived up with their self-denial during the war were now falling back into pleasure as the supreme end of life.

Here the horse broke away from the wagon and continued its run up the street, preferring the concrete walk to the road and pedestrians scattered in all directions.

Not Always to the Strong

The rain was coming down in sheets, and the wind took me off my balance as I turned the corner of Alexander road. Some one ran against me as I righted myself. It was George King. "Where are you going?" he growled. "To Hardy's." I answered gruffly. "Same as you!" There were a dozen Hardy's in Sheerness, but he knew that I meant old Hardy, the pilot.

His cutter had gone down in the afternoon, and they said that the old man would go that evening. He had been sinking for a long time.

We walked to their house in silence. There was bad blood between us on account of Jessie Hardy, Jessie's aunt, who kept house for them, opened the door and let us in. The tears were rolling down her wrinkled old cheeks, and her apron was crumpled with wiping her eyes.

"He's been taking on awful," she told us. "He'd feel it," I said, "about the cutter."

"The cutter? No, no, lad. We haven't told him of that. It's about Jessie. Lying gossip as nobody else wouldn't take notice of; but you know what he's like when he gets a thing into his head."

"Who's been saying things about Jessie?" I asked, fiercely. This old woman stared at me.

"You don't mean that you ain't heard?" she cried.

"Folks as have anything to say against Jessie aren't likely to say it to me," I told her.

"For me," said George.

"You know as she left Russell's shop sudden, a little before he got his berth on the lightship at the Nore, and gave up. They've set it about that she sent her away for taking things."

"Who says it?" I shouted; and George clenched his fists. He wasn't one for words.

"She!" he raised her hand. "You'll wake her. Cried herself to sleep, poor girl. The things he'd said to her! Always suspicious, big was, and ready to take anyone's word against his own flesh and blood."

"I suppose," George said, "the old man wouldn't listen to us?"

"Not if you was angels dragged from the sky! There's only one as he'd believe, he says, and that's Russell himself."

"We looked at one another and shook our heads. Russell was on duty aboard the lightship."

"If it wasn't for the gale," George muttered, "I'd fetch a line from him; but no boat couldn't do it."

I went home, put on a waterproof, and stole out quietly for fear my mother should ask questions.

As I was untying my boat a man in oilskins passed under the lamp. It was George King. I knew that he was going to his boat.

I hauled the dingy down the slope, fastened the mast in its place and put up the smaller jib and the mainsail with all the reefs in. Then I pulled and pushed the dingy over the shingle.

She gave a lurch and shipped a sea before I got hold of the tiller.

We were certain to be swamped when we got into the full force of the storm, I thought, and I had almost made up my mind to turn back when I saw King's boat to leeward.

So I decided to go on. King's was a larger boat than mine, with watertight compartments at the head and stern, and a center-board, and he was a seaman by profession, while I was only an amateur.

The wind lulled for a moment and I got the boat steady. Then a gust came and the jib broke loose.

Crash! I caught wildly at something—the keel of my upturned boat.

Another wave almost tore me off. Suddenly the boat was whirled away from me. I tried vainly to swim in my heavy clothes, but swallowed the water in great gulps.

I was almost unconscious when a hand seized me and pulled me up. I clung to the gunwale of King's boat, and he hailed me in.

I laid helplessly on the deck bow till he got a bottle of rum from his seat and gave me a drink.

Then the moon came out and showed the lightship straining at her moorings close by. We found a little shelter under her lee, and hauled. Some one looked over the side and threw a rope. King caught it, made it fast and climbed by it.

When he had reached the deck I followed. I found Russell below talking to King. He started when he saw me. "Newman! You're here, too!" He glanced at George. "You didn't tell me he was with you."

"I came on my own," I explained. "My boat went down, and he picked me up. You'll write as it's a lie?" "In course it's a lie! Any one but him would have known, without word of mine, the old— Well, well! He's dying."

"She left me because I couldn't afford to pay any one. The business wasn't doing anything, and that's why I come here."

He took a pen and wrote rapidly. Then he sealed the paper in an envelope and gave it to George, who put it in an inner pocket and buttoned up carefully. "Good night!" He ran up the companion, I followed him; but he waved me fiercely back.

"Let me come, too," I begged, "for the love of heaven!" The wind was so fierce that I had to shout in his ear.

"I'll have no one to come between me and her!" he declared with a snarl. "You can't do no good, Jack," said Russell. "Yes, yes! I know how it is!"

He put his mouth to my ear. "He'll go down, and you'll have her."

He always liked me. "In course," he turned to George—"you'll tell her as Newman came, too?"

George laughed hoarsely. "In course," he said, "I won't."

He seized the rope and slid down into the boat. Before they could stop me I followed him.

When I was half way down he saw me and took out his knife. He gashed through two of the three strands, but I tumbled on top of him as the rope parted and the boat dashed away with a jerk and a swirl. A big wave broke over the sea, and almost covered us as we grappled with one another.

"Let go, you fool!" I shouted. "If we go down, what's the use of your letter?"

He let go and rose. "Promise me you'll not see her tonight," he hissed.

I struggled to get free, but he held the knife close to my throat. "Promise!"

"No!" I shouted furiously. He raised the knife and I closed my eyes. Then he let me go.

"Get up," he said. "I give you your life a second time."

"What do you want me to do?" I asked at last.

"Stay away from her tonight."

"Let her think you've dashed what I haven't?"

"Yes!"

"It isn't fighting fair."

"We fought fair and I won."

I clenched my fists angrily. "I wouldn't want her if she had some one else best."

"Mate," he said, "I don't like taking it. I'll think it of myself all my life for taking it; but I'm going to do it if you let me. You'd be a damn man if it weren't for me."

"I give you the choice," I said. "I fight for it, my life, mind, and money; and it wipens off me I owe you."

"Aye— Well! run in under the breakwater yonder."

It was almost calm underneath, and we ran softly on to the shingle. It was pitch dark on the beach; but the lamp was afloat on the wall, some 40 yards away.

A group stood under it. One of them was a woman. My heart gave a jump. "It is Jessie!" I called under my breath.

"You promised," he reminded me sharply.

"We promised— For God's sake take her away from here."

"I'll take her home," he said. Then he ran up the beach, and I stayed behind in the shadow. Before he was half way to the wall she ran to meet him.

"Jack!" she cried, "is it you?" There was silence for a moment.

Then he spoke. "Jack's down by the boat," he said, "and I'm here."

And she came flying down the shingle into my arms!

MANY USES FOR PATCHOULI

Employed to impart distinctive odor to Indian Shawls—Highly Popular Throughout India.

A few years ago real Indian shawls were distinguished by their odor. In fact, they are perfumed with patchouli. The French manufacturers had for some time successfully imitated the Indian fabric, but could not impart the odor. At length they discovered the secret and began to import this plant to perfume articles of their own make. From this origin the perfume has been brought to this use.

The powdered leaves are put into muslin bags to prevent odor being attacked by moths. The leaf is largely imported by Messrs. merchants. It is used in India as an ingredient in tobacco for smoking and for scenting the hair of women, and the essential oil is in common use among the superior classes of natives for imparting the peculiar fragrance of the leaf to clothes.

The Arab merchants buy it chiefly, employing it for stuffing mattresses and pillows, asserting that it is very efficacious in preventing contagion and in prolonging life.

One of the most remarkable of the many cases on record of singular legacies is that of a Louisville husband, who bequeathed his bathrobe to his widow in these words: "Inasmuch as she has deprived me so often of the comfort and convenience of the garment that was bought for my own personal use, by wearing the afore-said bathrobe at times when I desired and needed it most, I bequeath it to her with all my love, and hope she will ever find it the same tried and faithful servant, even though Providence should bless her with another husband, who may have a bathrobe to spare."

MAJORITY SOCIALISTS RUNNING STRONG IN GERMAN ELECTIONS

Count Bernstorff Goes Down to Defeat—Independent Socialists and People's Party Also Carry Many Seats.

BERLIN, June 7.—Among the elections of individual candidates, it is known that Count von Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States, running as a German Nationalist, is defeated.

The German election was held under the proportional voting system, under which sixty thousand votes cast by any party gives it one member of the Reichstag. There is no definite number of seats in the Reichstag under this arrangement, and there are various complications providing for the uniting of election districts and other groupings which make the result difficult of compilation.

Majority Socialists have been elected to thirty-four seats in the first Reichstag, according to latest reports. From the canvass of the vote yesterday, Independent Socialists will hold twenty-four seats, the German People's party 26, Democrat 16. It is indicated that Matthias Erzberger, former vice-chancellor and minister of finance, has been elected from Wurtemberg, and the election of Dr. Carl Heffrich at Hamburg is assured.

St. Michael's Wins Game For Last Year's Champions of T.V.I.

While the G.T.R. sentors were facing Cobourg the local intermediate team took the Tweed team into camp on their own lot and won a hard fought battle, 7-4 after Tweed had led the parade for the first 7 innings. In the eighth with the score tied, Clapper drove out a home run with two on, winning the game. This Babe Ruth stunt was much appreciated by Mr. Jerry Murphy, who until this time was very nervous of the outcome. Smith and Smith as battery did great work and look better than ever. Bill Green, in the field, kept the outfield working just right, and they ate up everything. Capt. Jeff Lynch was also satisfied with the day's performance. Walter Gerow is coaching the boys and contemplates having a real team as soon as they learn a little of the inside game. Ed Thomas, of Belleville, behind the plate and Soanes of Tweed on bases handled the game.

CAN YOU SWIM?

Every boy should know how to swim. Instruction in swimming and life-saving should be a part of every Canadian boy's education; first, from the point of view of safety, and second, because it is an ideal form of physical exercise. A good swimmer is most times a splendid type of boy physically.

Thousands of lives are lost annually by drowning and at least a goodly proportion of these losses would be prevented if the knowledge of this great art of swimming and life-saving were more generally known. Every boy owes it to himself and to his country to be ready and capable of rendering aid in case of drowning. One never knows when he may be called upon to put his courage and heroism to the supreme test of rescuing another. To save a human life from drowning is one of the greatest acts that any boy can perform. Therefore, do not fail to make the most of every opportunity to learn to swim or to improve your strokes. It is also very much easier to learn to swim when you are young than at any other time. A few well-directed lessons will, most times give you the necessary start. Boys who can swim should feel a responsibility for teaching those who cannot.

The aquatic tests in C.S.E.T. are arranged so that you may earn credits from the time you really begin to swim, but do not be content until you have completed the entire test. You can then render invaluable service by aiding in giving the tests to other boys in your own or some other group.

Mr. J. C. Strickland, of Lakeside, has received word that a grant of $2,000, has been given the Lakeside Community Hall by the Ontario Legislature. This will help to complete the building. Tenders for the completion of the hall were opened on Monday evening, but as none of them can be accepted until after a vote of the people for the necessary funds, they are at present held in abeyance.

A sad drowning occurred in "Sophasburg" on Monday when Stewart Leverage, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Demill fell into a well and was drowned. The well was about ten feet deep with only about a foot of water in it and is used for cooling the milk. The little lad had apparently been attracted by the rope hanging over the well and toppled into the opening.

Train No. 599 was running west on the westbound track and No. 620 was backing down the eastbound main line tender first. After the latter train, which was in charge of Conductor F. Eaman, of Montreal, with E. Peacock, of Brockville, as engineer, had passed, the flagman at the crossing noticed the children lying on the track.

Miss Anna Sullivan, of Georgetown, a student at the Guelph Business College, Friday forenoon established a new record in typewriting from dictation. Miss Sullivan wrote at the rate of 145 words a minute, or 1450 words in 10 minutes. The matter which she wrote was special test matter, so that it cannot be claimed it was prepared especially for her by the college. This record constitutes a world's record, the old record being 133 words a minute. The work of Miss Sullivan speaks well for the training she has received at the Guelph Business College.

Talk of the Town and of the Country

What is believed to be the largest salary contract ever offered a theatre organist has just been signed in Boston. The contracting parties were Nathan H. Gordon, proprietor of the great chain of Gordon houses, and Arthur Martell, an organist well known in music circles. The figures to which Mr. Gordon and Mr. Martell have affixed their signatures are $100,000 and under the terms the organist is engaged to play for the theatres of the Gordon circuit for the coming ten years at an annual salary of $10,000.

It might be of interest to our readers to learn that Mr. Martell played piano at the Bowdoin Square theatre, Boston, when too short in the legs to reach the pedals; played in company with Prof. Meredith at Keeley's round dance hall at Sallsbury Beach, (near Newburyport); played theatre, concert and dance etc., for Prof. Meredith season of 1903-4; was at that time considered one of the best pianists in that locality. From $2.40 for a night from 8 to 12 concert and dance in 1903 to $10,000 a year in 1920 is enough to induce more aspiring ones to study piano.

The officials at the Portsmouth penitentiary who were involved in the recent suspensions claim that they should not be punished for the conditions that have prevailed at the institution for a long time. They state that laxity in respect to discipline was not due to subordinate officials, but to failure to appoint efficient heads. They point out that in the hospital there was no regular surgeon and the work lacked the continuity of oversight that it should have had. There were no less than six persons filling the position of warden within a period of 8 years and this, it is urged was a condition that was destructive of many years hard work in building up efficiency in a staff. The position of deputy warden, the chief disciplinary officer, was permitted to be vacant, as well as that of the chief keeper, so that there was no real executive head to the place.

For the first time in 60 years the Gannoque Reporter appears this week without a Britton at the director of its news and views, says the Brockville Recorder and Times. Byron O. Britton, the present editor and proprietor, has vacated the editorial chair temporarily because of ill health and has been succeeded by J. Baldwin Bryant, late of the Ottawa Reformer and formerly engaged in newspaper work in Toronto, Hamilton, Belleville and Parrie.

With the passing of the late Martin Oran Kellogg, one of the links with past history of Canada, disappears. He was born in Canada, ninety-two years ago, was of U. E. Loyalist descent and received upon the death of his father the family estate that consisted of a seigniorial in Ottawa valley situated near L'Orignal. His wife, who was Lucy Clarke of Lachute, Que., predeceased him many years ago and there were no children. Of late years Mr. Kellogg resided in Kingston township. He is survived by two nephews, Harold E. Flynn and L. A. Flynn both of Kingston.

The female impersonator at the Circus in Kingston, on Thursday, pulled off a good "stunt" on a well-known young Kingston man. As the young man was about to purchase his ticket, the supposed young lady stepped up to him and putting her hand on his shoulder said: "Please, Ron O. Britton, the present editor and proprietor, has vacated the editorial chair temporarily because of ill health and has been succeeded by J. Baldwin Bryant, late of the Ottawa Reformer and formerly engaged in newspaper work in Toronto, Hamilton, Belleville and Parrie.

reply, and the young man was good as his word, and instead of buying one pasteboard he got two. The couple made their way into the big tent, and once inside the show the supposed lady gave the joke away, and there was much laughter from many who witnessed the incident. The young fellow who had been "stung" also took the matter good naturedly.

It is learned that the Benson Electric Company, of Superior, Wis., has made an offer to C. A. Massey for the Continental building and adjoining property in Odgensburg for the purpose of opening a factory. The company is now fulfilling a number of large contracts in the States including the overhauling of the electric equipment on a number of former German liners turned over to the U.S. Government. Other interests are said to be after the building for the purpose of opening a pulp mill.

The W.C.T.U. held their convention here at King Street Church, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week much was learned and it is to be hoped that the undertakings of the society in the future will be met with success and shall prove to be a betterment to our country, and that the rising generations will by far excel the generations of the past, and strong drink and all other evils which exist in this beautiful land which God has given us to enjoy, and in which to glorify His Holy name, may be put to flight, and pure clean wholesome living may take the place of all this evil which is so appalling, ruining both body and soul. God did not intend that such should be the case. Let us not be discouraged, but put forth every effort in God's name to put the evils out of our land.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

On June 1st, 1920, there was a joyous gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Jackman, Stirling, Ont., on the occasion of the celebration of their golden wedding.

Mr. Jackman was united in marriage to Miss Alaina Hubble at the Burnbrae Presbyterian manse June 1st, 1869, the late Rev. Dr. Nell being the officiating minister, hence this occasion was their fifty-first anniversary.

Two children, (Mr. Elgin Jackman and Mrs. Chas. Draup, of Harold) four grand children, and three great grandchildren were present, (one granddaughter being absent) together with other friends and neighbors were present. Everything was informal.

The young-old couple were, as usual, most genial hosts. An address was presented, graciously referring to a long and happy marriage and to the appreciation of the gathering there to do honor to the "fifty-one years ago" bride and groom.

Miss Kathleen Jackman, on behalf of those present, presented them with a purse of gold, while Master Burton presented Mrs. Jackman with a bouquet of carnations on behalf of the grand children.

Mr. Jackman responded in a few choice words, being reminiscent and interesting and was not ashamed to express his thanks. After singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," others spoke congratulatory words, hoping that their lives might be spared to enjoy many more years of wedded life, so ended an evening most pleasantly spent. May heaven continue to smile upon them.

SPIRITUALISM

Mr. Robinson Answers Mr. Bice's Letter of May 17.

Editor Ontario:— In answering Mr. Bice's first paragraph in your issue of May 17, must say that his letter is four inches longer than mine of May 17, with which he finds fault on account of it being so lengthy. Consistency, thou art a Jewell. He says it was "a long, unprofitable tirade on what Mr. Bice did not say." It is quite true that Mr. Bice said very little to the point, but a good deal not pertinent to the subject under debate.

Mr. Bice accuses me of quoting from obscure commentators. This cannot be true for the reason that I have not consulted the works of even one commentator in connection with this whole discussion. Neither have I gathered information from books, pamphlets or tracts, other than the Scriptures and Young's concordance. Nevertheless it is quite true that I have quoted a few (perhaps half a dozen) short footnotes that I have found in some of the quite modern critical translations and versions of the Bible. The writer of this is seeking after truth, and is willing to receive it, no matter as to the locality or personality of the source, even though that source should happen to be Charles M. Bice, lawyer, of Denver, Colorado.

The only party to this debate who can truthfully be accused of quoting from obscure commentators—and that very extensively—is Mr. Bice, and his quotations have a strong tendency towards the destruction of the authenticity of the whole Bible as we have it. On the other hand, Mr.

Robinson has a strong desire to maintain the credibility of the Bible as being the inspired Word of God, with the exception of interpolations and mis-translations.

I see from Mr. Bice's quotations from "Higher Criticisms" it is claimed that "the story of the Crucifixion" is not pure truth, but is mixed with doubtful legend, including "the incident of Barabbas and the two thieves and are all picturesque assertions of more than doubtful authenticity." Now I shall quote a footnote which I find in the Emphatic Diaglott, New Testament, which appears to accord with the above from the higher critics:

"This verse (Luke 23:43) was wanting in the copies of Marcion and other reputed heretics; and in some of the older copies in the time of Origen; nor is it cited by Justin, Irenaeus, or Tertullian; though the two former have quoted almost every text in Luke which relates to the crucifixion; and Tertullian wrote concerning the intermediate state. See Evanson's Diss. P. 28. Imp. Ver. note."

The word "paradise" is not Greek but is of Asiatic origin. In Arabic and Persian it signifies a garden, a vineyard. The Septuagint renders Gen. 2:8 thus: "God planted a paradise in Eden." The word only occurs in two other places in the New Testament—II. Cor. 12:4, and Rev. 2:7. It is claimed that the tomb in which Jesus was buried was in a garden or paradise. If this is correct it might be claimed that Jesus was in a paradise while in the tomb.

But Mr. Bice returns once more to the thief on the cross, and claims that "for anyone to assert that the comma was misplaced by these eminent forty-seven Divines (translators of King James Version) in the declaration of Jesus to the converted thief on the cross, is the height of assurance, and audacity." This is quite a heavy blow from my highly esteemed opponent. But we shall survive, I trust.

The case as I put it in my letter (in The Ontario of May 3), with the endorsement of Rotherham's rendering and punctuation included, as found in his Emphatic New Testament, third edition, cannot successfully be refuted. Rotherham reads: "Verily I say unto thee this day: With me shalt thou be in Paradise." For similar construction see Dent. 30:13 and Acts 20:26, Revised Version.

Any intelligent, unprejudiced person who will examine the passage closely with the context, must conclude that the above rendering and punctuation gives the proper sense. But Mr. Bice says, "give me the good old St. James Version of the Bible presented by forty-seven Divines, the most eminent and learned men to be found, experts in all the old languages, and who, to say the least, knew where to place the comma."

Relative to the above I quote the following facts of which my opponent is not apparently cognizant: "Although the King James Version was perhaps the best that could be made at the time, it has been convicted of containing over twenty thousand errors, consisting of numerous interpolations, obsolete words, uncouth phrases, bad grammar and punctuation," etc.—Diaglott.

The King James translators labored at a great disadvantage as compared with more modern translators, for they had only eight manuscripts, none of which were earlier than the tenth century, whereas in the nineteenth century there were known to be about seven hundred, some of which were written as early as the fourth and fifth centuries; and it will be admitted by all intelligent people that the nearer to the time of Christ the manuscripts were written, the more authentic they are likely to be.

Now the question arises, why go to the trouble of producing the Revised Version if the authorized version is so perfect as my opponent, for a special purpose, would have us believe? Is it not reasonable to suppose that, the more recent the translation the greater chance it has of being pure, especially as to interpolations; and discoveries throwing light on the Bible are being made frequently as time passes, one of which I mentioned in my last letter. Prof. Moffatt's translation of the New Testament, in relation to Christ preaching to the spirits in prison. In that translation the name "Enoch" appears as the one who preached to the spirits in prison instead of "Christ."

The account of this mission is evidently an interpolation, transferred from the book of Enoch, an apocryphal book and therefore of no value in this connection. The whole story is inserted in parenthesis, indicating that it does not belong to the text of I. Peter 3, and a footnote confirms this by saying that "the story of this mission is told in the book of Enoch."

In my opponent's last production I see that he now advances the idea that Jesus "descended into hell" (which he indicates means the grave here) and during the three days preached to those in the same place (the grave). "So says the text," says Mr. Bice.

Now, Mr. Bice, I should like to see this text, so I wish you would be kind enough to quote it. I cannot understand how Jesus could preach to the dead in their graves, seeing that God's Word says "The dead know not anything." In going into the grave they "go down into silence." They cannot even think there. (Ecc. 9:5-6, Ps. 115:17, 144:4.) So it appears to me that would be useless to preach to people in their graves.

But Mr. Bice cannot see any point against Spiritualism in God taking Enoch up bodily. Neither can he see any point to the necessity of Moses having to ascend a mountain in order to get a view of the promised land before he died. The "point" against "Spiritualism here" is that if Moses had been possessed of a spirit entity that would survive the death of the body in an active state, and which was the real Moses according to Spiritualism, he could have seen the land of promise after death as well as before, and in that case the necessity of the view before death would be inconsistent and unnecessary.

The fact that in order to get a view of the land, Moses had to see it before he died, proves to my mind that he could not see it after death, and therefore no survival of a soul entity in the case of Moses at least. As to the translation of Enoch, the fact of his being taken bodily leaves the inference that he could not be taken any other way; and we have no account of individuals ever being taken any other way. Even the Lord Jesus ascended bodily, and His dead body was spoken of as "the Lord."

To my mind, the fact that individuals ascended bodily precludes the idea that they could be taken in any other way. It can be abundantly proven from the Bible that the body is the person; therefore in order to take the person he must go bodily. Of course I can only present the Bible proofs and point out briefly the bearings they have on the subject of this discussion, but I am sorry that I am unable to give my opponent the ability to see a point when it is made.

Notwithstanding the fact that a lot of respectable matter has been applied to the Bible in this debate, I shall adhere to it as being the proper source of evidence on the subject of Spiritualism. Accordingly, we shall now inquire briefly as to what this great Book of books has to say as to the nature of the soul: "The first man, Adam, was made a living (not immortal) soul." Here Paul quotes "living soul" as the equivalent of "natural body"—I. Cor. 15; Gen. 2:7. The soul of man can die, therefore not immortal. See Gen. 12:11-13; 19:20; Num. 23:10; (see marginal reading); Lev. 23:30; Job 7:15; Ezek. 18:4, 20, 27. James says that "he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death." These souls are evidently not the "never-dying" kind that we used to sing about. But we are reminded that the "dust returns to the earth as it was and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it."

This "spirit" cannot mean an intelligent entity, for no person's spirit remembers of being with God before coming into this life. But if the spirit in this case belongs to the class that Spiritualists tell us about, it should remember this, for it returns, therefore it has been with God before He "gave it."

It will be observed that there is no reservation in this case to the spirits of the ungodly, for the language is general in its application—the dust returns to the earth as it was and the spirit shall return to God who gave it. This is illustrated in the account of the creation of Adam, by some account. God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and the man became a living soul or being. "Thou (God) takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust"—Psa. 104. The word translated "spirit" in the passage under consideration is rendered "breath" in twenty-eight places, so that it seems reasonable to conclude that the word "spirit" in Eccl. 12:7 means breath. In Eccl. 3:21 we also read of the beast having a spirit, the original word (ruach) being the same as in Eccl. 12:7.

But "what becomes of the responsible being called 'man'?" "Man," we read, "shall turn again into dust."—Job 34. In like manner what was known as Stephen was carried to his burial, and the spirit of (pneuma, translated "life" in Rev. 13:16) returned to God—Acts 7:8. The word "pneuma" is translated "breath" in a marginal note on James 2:26, so that it seems to be proper to translate the word pneuma either life or breath. But notwithstanding the fact that "none can keep alive his own soul" (Psa. 22:29) there is a future eternal life ahead for those who seek for it by a patient continuance in well-doing—Rom. 2:7.

If Spiritualism is true, this language is nonsense. Why seek for something that we already possess by way of a soul that survives the death of the body and lives on forever as an active entity?

Talk of the Town And of the Country

Mr. Charles Holdsworth while ploughing on the farm of his brother, Mr. R. L. Holdsworth, Hamilton township, met with a very painful accident. Mr. Holdsworth had the reins fastened over his waist when the horses took fright and Mr. Holdsworth was pulled across the plough and dragged a considerable distance. His right leg was broken in two places above the ankle and he received a severe shaking up.

A bicycle was found yesterday hidden in weeds and grass at the rear of the "Betty Brown" candy shop. The wheel's owner is not known. The front has been brazed, there having evidently been a break in the joint above the forks. The police are holding the bicycle.

During the week end a river driver was picked up in Lindsay in an intoxicated condition by Constable Parkes, of that town and lodged in the lockup. Monday morning before Magistrate Bradford he was fined $10 and costs of $16.90. The man told a straight story when interrogated by the police.

Later—the same party who was fined Monday morning for drunkenness, was recaptured by the Chief at noon and fined $206.70 for having a bottle of liquor in his possession.

The Kingston City Council held its last regular meeting of the session Monday evening. There may be a few special meetings called by the Mayor, but the council will not meet in what is called a regular session until the middle of October next.

Henry Reid MacCallum, B.A., of Queen's University, has been selected as the Ontario Rhodes scholar for 1920, and is the second Queen's man to receive that honor this year.

Mr. MacCallum, who is a son of the Rev. F. W. MacCallum, a missionary in Turkey, who is at present in charge of the Globe Armenian relief work, lives with his mother and sister, 531 Brock street, Kingston, and is at present teaching in the Soldier's Vocational School. Mr. Reid MacCallum was born at Marash, in Turkey, and when thirteen years old came to Canada and entered Kings College, Collegiate in 1910. After spending a year in Pickering College, he entered Queen's in 1913 with senior matriculation. In 1915 he enlisted in the Queen's hospital reinforcements to go to Cairo, but by the time he reached England the hospital was in France. In May, 1918, he transferred to the Queen's Ambulance Corps and entered Mons on Armistice Day. He returned to Kingston with Queen's Hospital (No. 7) in July, 1919, and resumed his studies in honor philosophy and English at the university there.

The honor which has been conferred on him entitled him to three years' study at Oxford University. This honor is awarded for proficiency in studies, good sportsmanship and popularity with one's fellow-students.

Human nature is a curious thing. A French general has found it necessary to protest against the holding of dances on a battlefield where over two thousand French and over three thousand German soldiers, died and lie buried. "This ground, so drenched with noble blood," the French general says, "is a place where tears should fall and heads be uncovered to a place for thoughtless people." The French general is right, of course, but the astonishing thing is that there should have been any occasion for such a protest. It was thoughtless of course; but how could anybody be so thoughtless as to use a battleground, on which the blood has scarcely had time to dry as a place for dancing!

The region lying from fifteen to forty miles north of Kingston supplies a large portion of the feldspar used in porcelain and glass in the United States and Canada. Owing to its nearness to New York and other Eastern States, American manufacturers find it much cheaper to mine feldspar in the Kingston region than to ship it from the Southern States, Quebec Province, or Norway and Sweden. Last year about 80,000 tons of feldspar was shipped from mines in Frontenac and Addington Counties, Osgoosburg and Charlotte,

N.Y., being the chief ports of entry to the United States. There are ten or more feldspar mines north of Kingston, several of them having been opened within the past year or so. Nearly all of them are developed by American capital. The whole output of the O'Brien and Fowler mine at Perth road goes to Wheeling, West Virginia. The Dominion Feldspar Company at Tichborne ships to Toledo, Ohio; the Verona Mining Company at Bird's Creek to Pennsylvania; and the Eureka Company at Verona, to Trenton, New Jersey. There is only one grinding plant in Canada, that one being at Tichborne, and this turns out five to ten tons a day. "There is a grinding mill at Rochester, N.Y., for Canadian feldspar, supplying material for United States porcelain manufacturers. Feldspar rock enters the United States free of duty, and for that reason little grinding is done on this side of the border. The U.S. duty on ground feldspar is twenty per cent."

It has been proven, according to American Consul P. S. Johnson, of Kingston, that the feldspar in the Kingston region is the best in the world. It is purer than any other. Two kinds are found in Frontenac county, the grey, which contains soda that makes Bon Ami and other cleansers, and the pink which contains potash and is commonly used in porcelain.

The present outlook is for very largely increased shipments of feldspar from Kingston to the United States by water during the season of navigation.

The Lilac Tea at Christ Church parish hall Tuesday evening was a very successful affair. The function was under the auspices of the Parish Guild. The decorations were mainly lilacs and the effect was very pretty. An abundance of home cooking was disposed of and about $75 was realized from the sale.

PROTESTANT TEACHER FOR

"I've an idea," cried Suzanne Melrose, banging the table with the handle of her knife to attract attention. "I say, people, let's take the ski jump at midnight. There's no moon, so it will be fairly dark. How about it?"

"Here—here things—came a chorus of voices. "The thing's jolly good sport!" "All settled, then," said Suzanne, and returned placidly to her consumption of Maryland chicken.

Of all the merry, care-free crowd gathered for the winter sports at Agawam Lodge on Lake Adirondack, Suzanne was the most daredevil and the most persistent in her pursuit of pleasure. Lithe, glowing with health, she was the life of the party—quite too much to suit Cameron Stuart, whose one pursuit was Suzanne herself. He would have preferred a little less greenness on Sue's part and more of an inclination to spend some time alone with him.

But his pleadings had effected nothing more than a peremptory stamp of the girl's expensively shod foot. "Some day I'll settle down," she had declared, "and do nothing but boss the servants and say 'How do things' at old ladies' musicales, but now, right now, I am going to have my fling and play the game for all there is in it." Cameron, watching the play of expression across the girl's piquant features, loved her more than ever. The nine years' difference in their ages made him more tolerant of her youthful egotism than a younger man might have been.

Sue's parents, feeling the urge of the sunny Florida regions more potent than the call of the north, had dispatched the girl and her fifteen-year-old brother to the Lodge, under the wings of various dignitaries already forgotten there. Dwight was really not strong enough to engage in the energetic sports of the season. A constitutional tendency to feel fatigue quickly and a slight heart weakness quickly barred him from strenuous activities, much to his disgust. His one great friend was Cameron Stuart, and after dinner Cameron sought out the boy and begged him not to make one of the party taking the jump. "Are you going?" asked Dwight.

"Of course," said Cameron. "You know I play watchdog for your sister." "She needs one," returned the boy frankly. "But he did not say he would not go. Just at the age when a boy most feels himself a man, he resented, even from Cameron Stuart, any implication that he was not perfectly well able to handle his own with the rest."

Eleven o'clock saw a laughing, mischievous crowd with waving scarves and woolly tams set out across the snow-blanketed grounds of the Lodge. Past the lead chute for the toboggans, across the blackness of the lake, into the shadowy forest they tramped, skirts slung across their shoulders.

At the jump itself the crowd were carefully strapped on and tested. Suzanne herself led off, sailing gracefully into the air and landing triumphantly on the snowy stretch a hundred and thirty feet below. One by one they took the leap, and by the time Suzanne had regained the earth, only Cameron and Dwight remained.

Dwight had never attempted it before, being satisfied with the lesser jumps near the lodge. And Sue could not recall having seen Cameron take it either. As she approached Cameron stood on the brink as if irresolute, gazing down into the darkness below. Suddenly he turned, stepped down to unstrap the skis, and remarked quietly, "I guess I'll not take it after all."

Suzanne stared at him in disbelief. Cameron Stuart a coward! She hardly noticed that Dwight was talking of his skis. She was merely thankful that the rest of the crowd, plodding slowly up the slope, had not witnessed Cameron's act. "Cameron Stuart," she said with cutting emphasis, "never never ask me to marry you again."

Her head high, she moved away. And Cameron little knew the pain in her heart—only the great emptiness in his. Some nights later Cameron sat gazing soberly into the smoldering depths of the huge fireplace in the heavy-beamed living room at the Lodge. The crowd had gone sleighing, but he had chosen to stay here alone. What use, he mused bitterly, to tantalize himself watching Sue flit with first one and then another of the men in the party, to catch glimpses of her profile as she talked to some man beside her, and hear what messages he knew not with her starry eyes. No, he did not care to go. What was more, he would leave the Lodge tomorrow. Sue thought he was a coward. Since the day when he had not taken the jump she had avoided any chance encounter with him.

Some one opened the door. Cameron looked quickly up. There stood the girl who had been in his thoughts, a glorious picture in soft brown mink, with a furry toque perched jauntily askew on her tawny hair. "Oh," she said slowly, ruminating. "Home—where it is safe!"

Cameron sprang to his feet. "Suzanne!" he thundered, "don't dare use those words to me, or that tone. You come with me." The girl, stunned, stood still. In all her life none had ever spoken to her like that. Cameron, snatching up mackinaw and cap from a settle, grasped her arm and led her scurrying to the door. Taking down her skis from the rack in the outer hall, still without a word, Cameron drode rapidly over the snow, Suzanne following meekly, like one hypnotized. Arrived at the spot where Cameron had shown the white feather, according to Sue, the man buckled on the skis, took the start, and leaped off. Presently he was back. Again he jumped, Suzanne ready to take back all she had ever said, was silenced by the look on his face when he returned. Again he leaped. This time he did not come back so quickly—in fact, he did not come back at all. Sue waited—waited—choked, fearing she knew not what ran quickly down the slope, in and out through the trees. What was that dark object on the snow—prostrate? Not Cameron!

But it was Cameron—Cameron with one foot badly twisted. "It's nothing," he managed, "choking, fearing she knew not what ran quickly down the slope, in and out through the trees. What was that dark object on the snow—prostrate? Not Cameron!

Roy Shaw, a well known farmer living near Hickman, Ky. took 200 pounds of wool to Hickman the other day, which he sold for 30 cents a pound, or for $60. Then he purchased a suit of clothes for his son, and found that the money he received for the wool was just enough to pay for the suit. He says there are about four pounds of wool in a suit of clothes, and on that basis the wool he sold will make 50 suits, which if sold at $60 a suit, would bring the seller $3,000. Allowing one-half for labor and other materials going into the suit, somebody will get a profit of $1,500 on a $60 investment, he figures.

Bread has gone up 2 cents a 3-lb. loaf the price now being 25 cents. In Campbellford, with staple articles of food like bread at 26 cents, potatoes at 7 cents a lb. sugar at 22 cents, the dollar bill disappears like snow before a July sun.

However as it was frightening the horses badly, out onto the road he was sent and there he waited until the cows were lead down the road to pasture. Again the moose was denied admittance and for two hours passed the time by walking between the pasture and the house. But an auto coming from one direction and a wagon from the other were too much for him and, after standing his ground till they were quite near he cleared the fence and soon disappeared.

He also says that the new menace to China is the materialism and worldliness of which Japan is trying to convert her. The responsibility rests with those who are true and earnest Christians, and who have a far sighted view of this world at large.

Promise of Abundant Life

By Rev. W. Harris Wallace

I am come that they might have life, that they might have it more abundantly.—John 10: 10.

This is springtime. It would keep in touch with this beautiful season of the year we must move along with it. It is true that every season has its lesson for each of us; if we were more thoughtful and observant we would learn more lessons from Nature. Winter seems to speak of death, or sleep, if we prefer that suggestive idea. Spring, on the other hand, speaks of life! We see it in the grass, flowers, budding trees, singing birds, purpling brooks, and flowing river. If we would be partakers of the exuberant life we must wake up. Let us hear the call of the lover: "Rise my loved one, come away, the winter is past, the singing of birds is heard in the land."

The pent-up life has been freed from its prison by the sun that shineth in his strength. In the springtime we have the promise of the beautiful, the joyful, the useful and abundant life. We are just beginning to witness the first flowers that bloom, the promise of more that we have had the joy of seeing the return of birds, and we have heard them calling to one another in the dawning of the morning. We are watching the swelling buds all about us; soon we shall find utility as well as beauty in the trees of our city when we seek their shade from the heat and their shelter from the rain and storm. We shall rejoice in the harvest when we come to gather the abundant fruit from the field and in trees and bush, all of which spring give a sure pledge. So Jesus came, as the Son of Righteousness to awake us from the slumber of sin and death. He came to the World as the light and life of men; and wherever He shines the darkness disappears and the true light shineth. He alone can turn from moral darkness into light those who now sit in darkness and in the shadow of death. Where Jesus is now revealed the true light shineth; and life is manifested by those who know Jesus as Saviour and Lord. Henceforth the truth of our text becomes a matter of experience. "I am come that they might have life, that they might have it more abundantly."

Abundant Life Through Jesus Christ.

(1) We see that Jesus adds an adjective to the word life. He came not only to give life but abundant life. Jesus word for life is large, in the sense He uses it, for it implies the greatest in quality and quantity. The allotted span for the life of Man on this earth is three score years and ten, with much labour and sorrow. But the gift of life brought by Jesus Christ is Divine and Eternal. The Christian is a partaker of the Divine Nature—the life of God—by being born again, of the word of life and the Spirit. It becomes a fact of experience and Knowledge. "And this is life eternal, that they should know Thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent."

And this knowledge and experience does not come by simply declaring that we believe the gospel, that Jesus died for Me; but we must trust and obey Christ, as our Saviour and Lord. After we do that we then with confidence can accept the declaration of the apostle John. "These things have I written unto you that believe have I written unto you that believe that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the Name of the son of God." John invites us to test our faith by love of the brethren whom we can see as an evidence of our love of God whom we cannot see. Let us test ourselves.

"Abundant life" implies energy. The true Christian has an unseen presence and power in his life, illness of prolonged duration. Deceasing in Him to will or to do of God's good pleasure. We can believe that the man who trusts and obeys Christ is moved to say and do things he otherwise could not say or do. In this we see the difference between the mere professor and the true Christian. With the one it is only a profession;—he has, and he knows he has. On the one hand, life is straightened, narrow and empty, an artificial life.—a make believe; the other is free, full, natural and true. One is compromising, aiming at the impossible,—trying to serve God and Mammon; the other lives a life of faith in the son of God knowing he is redeemed by Him who died for him. In this way God honours the true and faithful followers of Jesus, according to the promise, the Holy Spirit is given to all who obey Jesus Christ as Lord. In olden times the spirit moved upon holy men at diverse times; in and with all true followers of Christ. To be filled with the Spirit means life, abundant life, the life Jesus has promised. It is one thing to believe in the Truths of the Bible; its another thing to put them in practice in daily life. This is what gives energy and power, and makes a man always abound in the work of the Lord.

(3) The "More abundant" life is the promise of our Lord for the future. We have "abundant" hereafter. Here we have first the blade, then the ear; then it will be the full corn in the ear. "The Christian life has not its full expression here. It will bloom out into full maturity in a summer clime. "It doth not now appear what we shall be, but we know that when He shall appear we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is. Just be patient in hope, the husbandman waiteth for the harvest. Then he that soweth and he that reapeth shall rejoice together. The followers of Jesus know the best is yet to be. The life that we now live by faith in the son of God is largely one of promise and hope. The Holy Spirit within us is not only the witness of Jesus merit and power for us, but the earnest of our fuller life. So the life that now is must be one of probation; we have not yet been received into full fellowship. That is something to look forward to. "We shall be satisfied when we awake in his likeness."

What should be our attitude in view of the "More abundant" life Jesus has promised? Let us not rest satisfied with being saved from the curse of sin, and having life by faith in Christ Jesus, but by God's grace press on the fullness of life, and all that is true for us in Christ here and now. Think of all it might mean to us and others, and the honour of Christ our Lord, if we sought more earnestly to produce the fruit of the Spirit—"Love, joy, peace, longsuffering, goodness, gentleness, faith, meekness, self control; against such there is no law." May we starve in ourselves personally to anticipate here in a daily living what we expect hereafter. When we come to the end of this earthly life we shall find we have our fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

Then we shall be like the tree, Planted by the river, Which in its season yields its fruit, And its leaf fadeth never.

PROBLEM SATISFACTORILY SOLVED

The Pinnacle Street Railway problem has been satisfactorily solved. The Ontario desires to compliment and congratulate all concerned. The special deputation from the City Council that visited Montreal yesterday did one of the best day's work for this city that has been accomplished in many years.

It will be recalled that the campaign for a better Pinnacle street was inaugurated by The Ontario last October. The proposal to have the Grand Trunk track moved to the center of the street seemed so reasonable and beneficial that it proved immediately popular and soon had substantial backing. There were, however, a number who opposed the scheme largely because it was feared the opportunity for unloading freight cars along the street might be further restricted or withdrawn. But good sense and the public interest prevailed and the Council was finally persuaded to enter the campaign in a whole-hearted way.

Where so many have assisted in promoting the good cause, it may prove invidious to select any one for special distinction, but The Ontario does wish to thank Mr. William Thompson, president of the Thompson Furniture Company, who circulated a petition and secured so many signatures as an indication of public opinion in this important matter.

In addition to the members of the special deputation to Montreal, composed of His Worship, Mayor Riggs, and Ald. Bone and Ald. Hanna, we feel that we ought also to acknowledge the good work for this cause that has been done both in and out of the Council by Aldermen Ostrom, Ponton, Demarsh, Woodley, Doyle and Adams. Once convinced the proposal was right, they went ahead and have been forces in bringing about the present favorable outcome.

The Ontario wishes also to acknowledge the kindness and courtesy of local officials of the Grand Trunk Company, Mr. MacMillan, Mr. Coppin and others.

We feel, however, that success would never have been attained had not Belleville had so good a friend at headquarters as Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President of the Grand Trunk. Mr. Robb, from his long residence in Belleville, had no other desire than to meet the wishes of his former fellow-citizens as far as could reasonably be done.

The Ontario regards the agreement reached as fair to all concerned. No large expense will be imposed upon the city, and the railway corporation generously agrees to pay the cost of paving between the rails.

We would, however, prefer to see some firmer and more durable paving material than the Tarvia mixture. That is fairly good, but vitrified brick or asphaltic concrete would be very much better, even though a little more expensive, and the finished job would look far more uniform and presentable. But, after all, that is a mere detail, that can be remedied later.

Apparently, through an oversight, the agreement does not cover the section of street north of Victoria Avenue. The track should be moved to the center along there as well. We presume the Council will have no difficulty in securing that additional amendment.

This is easily one of the most important questions, affecting the city's interest, that has come up in recent years. It not only brings about the emancipation of the property-holders along the street from an intolerable condition but it presents our city with two parallel main thoroughfares instead of one. The extreme congestion of traffic along Front street, especially on Saturday, will now be relieved, and we may expect to see Pinnacle street gradually evolve into a first-class business street.

To have gone ahead and paved a narrow strip along the side, as was originally planned, would have been a crime against Belleville's future. Anyone looking at the excavation for the pavement on Pinnacle street at the present time can see at a glance how foolish and inadequate it would have been to proceed farther with that design.

The Council is now building wisely and well and in a few months the citizens will be able to realize how important this change will be to our future development and prosperity.

HANDICAPPING THE LEAGUE

Written for The Ontario by
Chas. M. Bice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Asquith makes an urgent plea for the abolition of the supreme council of the peace conference and trusting of all father international questions to the league of nations. He intimates, and bolder critics plainly charge that Premier Lloyd George is seeking to maintain his conspicuous position as an arbiter of European affairs by perpetrating machinery that has served its purpose. Whatever justice there may be in this view, there is much to be said for an early transfer of the supreme council's authority in the league. Obviously, the latter cannot function freely as long as it is embarrassed by the existence of other bodies with the right to advise and initiate policies in the international sphere. The danger of conflict with the supreme council or with a conference of premiers imposes a necessity for caution and a limitation of power that operate as serious handicaps.

Journalistic defenders of the premier argue that the league has not yet completed its organization, and that until it does the supreme council must continue. But, aside from the establishing of the permanent court of international justice, the organization is complete in all essential particulars, and plans are under way for the court. If by incompleteness is meant the fact that the United States, Germany and Russia are as yet not included in the league membership, the argument, it seems to me, is without force. Desirable as it is that the league should be fully inclusive, it is obvious that it cannot wait for those countries which either are not yet of a mind to join it or are not yet eligible for admission to membership. It must go on with its work. Only so can it hope to justify itself in the eyes of the skeptical and to develop that vigor of existence which will assure permanence.

The supreme council represents only the allied victors in the war. So far as the dictation of terms of peace was concerned, it was right that this work should be exclusively that of the victors. But the peace treaties now are completed. Turkey, last of the conquered to be dealt with, has received sentence. The broader work of international reconstruction, of establishing order and maintaining peace, is the duty of neutrals, as well as of the victorious belligerents, and hence of the league, in which the former are represented.

The British Liberal leader instances the Polish situation as one which might well engage the attention of the league. Great as is our sympathy with the Poles in their determination to establish a reunited land on a secure foundation, we cannot dismiss without apprehension the indications that a powerful element in Poland is reaching out after territory to which, on a population basis, Poland has no legal or proper claim. From a fear of Russian attack and aggression Poland has passed to the position of attacker and aggressor, and the final settlement of the Russian problem may be compromised seriously by Polish claims based on victory over the Bolsheviks. The situation is big enough for the league. It seems to be too big for the supreme council.

Talk of the Town and of the Country

Most business places which have been in the habit of observing Wednesday half-holiday are closed today although a circus is in town.

Joseph Mahers, a member of the Sparks Circus playing in Belleville today, was drowned in Small Pond, Guelph, on Monday while bathing. He was unable to swim and got beyond his depth. He joined the circus at Hamilton, and had served overseas with the 102nd Battalion.

Mr. William Pepper, while riding a bicycle this morning, was struck by an automobile and knocked off the wheel. The bike was damaged and Mr. Pepper's clothes also suffered. Fortunately he escaped without much injury.

A small fire last night was discovered by some boys in the plankton on the lower bridge. Sergt. Naphin hurried to the scene and without calling for the fire department, carried water from the Chinese laundry near the bridge and extinguished the blaze.

Mr. C. C. St. Charles and Mr. C. T. Dolan will spend the holiday in Toronto.

A very heavy shower of rain passed across Hastings county yesterday embracing the townships of Mar-mora, Madoc, Elzevir and Northern Hungertford. The shower was badly needed by the growing crops.

The Ontario is asked to state that $1006 represented the gate receipts at Stirling's Victoria Day celebration. The gross receipts were considerably in excess of that amount and left the net receipts almost as great as the entire sum taken in at the gate.

Mr. T. Blackburn, Commercial street, showed to The Ontario this morning the largest lemon we have ever seen and, strangely enough, this lemon was grown and produced in Belleville. Some years ago the seed was planted and the tree has now come into bearing and will this season produce several large specimens. They do not all ripen at once, but at different times, the tree bearing blossoms and ripened fruit at one and the same time. The specimen Mr. Blackburn exhibited was 11 1/2 inches in circumference and had a thin, smooth skin.

The former McCarthy brewery just west of Prescott on the river bank, whence, prior to September, 1916, there were wont to issue daily hundreds of kegs of foaming "brown October," is being put up for sale by tender and in its stead it is proposed that the buildings should be converted into a pulp and paper mill or some other form of industrial enterprise. The sale is to take place under the Winding-Up Act.

The property consists of eleven acres on the Brockville-Prescott road with storehouses, warehouses, malt house, malt kiln, engine house, ice house, office building, dwelling etc. There is also a dock with sufficient water for river vessels.

"The buildings easily adapt themselves for manufacturing of any kind, elevator or pulp and paper mills," reads a notice, "and the site would be ideal for a drydock. Being at the foot of the Great Lakes navigation, it will have an additional potential value on the completion of the Welland canal."

The bush fires are on the job at Cobalt extra early this spring and two are reported raging. One is about half way between Cobalt and North Bay, an area that escaped last year and the other is a couple of miles west of Cobalt. Neither fire threatens any settlement although there has been a stiff wind blowing steadily and a good acreage of valuable timber is being destroyed by each fire. The cause of the fires is unknown.

Another necessity of life took a jump in price in Kingston on Monday morning when it was announced that bread had joined the aviation corps and had risen to 14 cents a loaf, an increase of from a cent and a half. The big increase in flour, announced a few days ago, is directly responsible for the increase in the bread. Practically all the bakers Monday morning announced the increase, though a few remained at the old price.

A delegation of five students of the Faculty of Education at Queen's three men and two ladies, went to Toronto Monday afternoon to wait on the Minister of Education, and

For the past two months two wolves have been loitering in the vicinity of McDonald's Corners, Watson's Corners, Hopetown, Middleville and Poland, says the Lanark Era. Several have seen the animals at a distance, either on the road or by the edge of the bush, but paid little heed to them until of late when they became very bold and were daily attacking the residents' sheep and young cattle.

The community which was molested most was around Watson's Corners and St. James. The Schools were affected, as the children were not safe in travelling the road and many would not go. During the past week many attempts were made by hunting parties to capture the beasts, but it seemed of no avail.

However, on Friday morning, a party started out with hounds and at noon a large female wolf was chased with the result that it came Andrew Buchanan's way, and with steady nerve he captured the prize. The animal was shot through the head. It was a fine specimen of wolf, light grey in color, fleshy and heavy limbed.

When the news spread throughout the country that the capture was made, it was a great relief to many. It is thought that there is still another wolf, the mate, in the vicinity. The dead wolf measured five feet in length, stood thirty-one inches in height, its front legs were twenty-two inches long and its hind legs twenty-three inches.

The Ottawa Railway Company will pay at least $3.75 for each linear foot of paving between their roads where new pavements are put down, according to a tentative agreement reached Thursday night between the Board of Works and officials of the railway company. Judge Layell, of Kingston, who held Division Court in Denbigh the latter part of last week, saw many forest fires burning in that district. One fire seemed nearly a mile wide. It is situated on Mechanic Street, just north of McDowell and Morris' warehouse. It has a sixty-foot frontage on Mechanic street and is one hundred feet deep.

The firm will erect a one storey building 48 by 96 feet, the building operations are to commence some time during the month of June.

Desperate cases of dope-taking came before the attention of the police today. Thomas Burns, aged 23 years, giving Michigan as his birthplace, secured a prescription for a drug for his wife. He went to McKeown's drug store to get it filled and there stole a safety razor outfit. The razor was missed and Burns left the shop to return in five minutes for the medicine. Meanwhile the police had been notified and Sergt. Harman was in readiness for Burns when he returned. The razor was found on him and he was taken to the lockup. Later the sergeant arrested Maud Burns living as a hotel. Burns had previously given three names — McWilliams, Boyle and Doyle. Burns was in a desperate shape, and besought the police for the tablets which were taken from him. His companion admitted being a morphine addict, while Burns confessed to being a cocaine user. His broken down state showed the effects of the drug and his body was covered with eruptions from the use of the "snow." Magistrate Mason allowed them to go to get out of the country.

The clerks in other banks, which have not yet increased the salaries, are eagerly awaiting word from head office.

EUREKA LODGE ENTERTAINED CAMPBELLFORD BRETHREN

Great Crowd Assembled at Masonic Hall on Wednesday Night to Welcome Golden Rule Lodge, Campbellford—A Notable Banquet.

The accommodation was much too limited at the Masonic hall on Wednesday night to receive all who sought admission. It was the occasion of a fraternal visit paid to Eureka Lodge No. 233 by the officers and members of Golden Rule Lodge, No. 128, Campbellford.

The visitors came by motor cars, fifty strong, and there were many visitors in addition, from Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston, Harrowsmith, Stirling, Ivanhoe, West Huntingdon and other surrounding points.

The officers of Golden Rule Lodge exemplified the work of the First degree in Masonry in an impressive and proficient manner and were capably assisted by the Eureka choir, which led in the musical part of the ritual.

Those Who Did the Work

The officers taking part were, W. M. R. J. Allan, S. W. W. Bro. N. Stone, J. W. Geo. Atwell, S. D. F. Long, J. D. G. A. Kingston, S. S. W. Ross, J. S. C. Williams, I. G. P. Stephens, Dr. Watson, Past District Deputy, and Past Masters Bonycastle and Harris assisted in the work.

After the closing of the lodge the brethren repaired to the dining-room where a banquet was held. The capacity of the banquet hall would easily require to have been doubled to accommodate all who presented themselves. Those unable to gain admission were served in the rooms adjoining.

A Lively Program

The post-prandial program, for sustained interest, dignity of tone, sprightliness and vivacity, has probably never been surpassed at any previous Masonic gathering in this city. Those taking part in the speaking were brethren holding high positions in the craft or else prominent in the public life of the district.

After the formal toast to "The King" had been honored in a fitting manner, the toastmaster called upon R. W. Bro. Chas. J. Symons, the present district deputy grand master, to propose a toast to the "Grand Lodge and Grand Lodge Officers." This Bro. Symons did in a lively address in which he expressed fine appreciation of the past district deputy grand masters he called upon to respond. R. W. Bro. Dr. Watson, an enthusiastic Mason from Campbellford, R. W. Bro. Lt.-Col. S. S. Lasher, one of the two surviving charter members of Eureka Lodge, R. W. Bro. H. F. Ketcheson, a former mayor of Belleville, and R. W. Bro. John Newton, chief of Belleville's police department, responded in brief addresses, in which humor, reminiscence and anecdote prominently figured.

Four Remarkable Addresses

The toast of the evening, "Canada and the Empire," had associated with it four addresses that for power, eloquence, beauty of diction and magnificence of thought would be difficult to equal anywhere. The toast was proposed by Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott, pastor of Bridge in nursing an injury. Get the safety habit.

Ten boys from Kingston and two from Port Hope are at the Kingston Armouries trying the Entrance examinations to R.M.C. The class is not as large as in some years. The class is under the presidency of Lt.-Col. E. Sansom, O.C.C.P.M.G. Brigade.

Public indignation against high prices may have gone to lengths of hysteria, as some people believe; but it does act as a sharp warning to profiteering concerns to stop, look and listen.

Mr. Pat Jennings, of Trenton, was a visitor in the city yesterday.

Mr. R. S. Bell, of the Kingston Standard was in the city yesterday.

Mr. George Root, of Napanee, spent the holiday in the city yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Simmons and daughter of Tweed spent the 3rd in town.

Messrs. Samuel, Robert and William Shaw, of Ivanhoe, and Jas. W. Haggarty of West Huntingdon were among those who attended Eureka Street Church and district chaplain of the A.F. & M. The responses were by Revs. H. B. Kenny and C. E. Clarke of Campbellford and Bro. Geo. A. Kingston, B.A., editor and publisher of The Campbellford Herald. Each speaker seemed to vie with the other to produce a masterpiece of after-dinner oratory.

"Golden Rule" Toasted

The toast to "Golden Rule Lodge and The Visiting Brethren" was proposed by R.W. Bro. F. E. O'Flynn who gave eloquent expression to the spirit of hospitality and comradeship so strikingly characteristic of brethren in Masonry.

The responses were equally happy in tone and manner. Unfortunately the lateness of the hour forbade more than a few brief addresses. Those replying were W. Bro. R. J. Allan, master of Golden Rule Lodge, W. Bro. Bonycastle, secretary of Golden Rule, W. Bro. Geates, Stirling Lodge, W. Bro. Harris, Golden Rule Lodge, W. Bro. Stafford, Lake Lodge, Ameliasburg, and Bros. Humphries and Maynard of Golden Rule.

Candidate Served with Gen. Allenby

Bro. W. B. Deacon proposed a toast to the "Newly Initiated Candidate" in which he paid a deserved compliment to a gallant young man who had spent three and a half years overseas and had had the pleasing experience of entering Jerusalem with Gen. Allenby.

Bro. Dr. Diamond was heartily applauded as he made a brief and appreciative response. On behalf of the visitors, R.W. Bro. Dr. Watson proposed a toast to "Eureka Lodge" in which he gracefully acknowledged the hospitality and the cordial welcome they had received.

The Eureka Orchestra

Instrumental music of rare quality was furnished by a fifteen-piece orchestra that has come to be known as the Eureka orchestra. The organization was under the personal leadership of Bro. Frank Robinson, Belleville's star violinist, and he was assisted by such veteran artists as Bro. Reg. Hinchey, leader of the famous 21st Overseas Battalion band, and others who marched into Germany to witness the final round-up of Kaiserism. It is to be hoped that Eureka orchestra will become a permanent feature of Belleville's musical life for, as it is now composed and organized, it is qualified to travel in metropolitan company. Bro. Jimmy Booth, who is rapidly rising into fame as a vocalist, contributed two much appreciated solos and was roundly encored.

Bro. Harry Mackay sang with compelling expression and feeling that exquisite lyric by Rudyard Kipling, "Mother o' Mine." "Anld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought to an end a notable night in the annals of Masonry in Belleville.

lodge on Wednesday night, on the occasion of the fraternal visit of Golden Rule lodge, Campbellford.

Miss Illa Giles, Frankford, has received her M.A. degree at Toronto University.

Miss Dorothy Grant, Belleville spent the holiday with Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Sparks, Kingston.

Miss Mildred Brown, of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Helen Sulman, 154 Bridge St. E. for a few days.

Mr. Ernest Lockey and his friend, Mr. Bisbee, of Prince Edward, were in the city yesterday seeing the sights.

Captain Garnett, of Toronto, and his assistant, flew to Belleville on Thursday evening. Yesterday afternoon he flew about the Agricultural grounds.

Mr. John J. Dolan, son of Mr. Frank Dolan, is in the city after many years. He is a resident of Vancouver. Mr. Dolan will spend the summer in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fisher, of Belleville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Spooner of Hastings on Tuesday.

A BELATED BLUFF

A last-minute attempt has suddenly been inaugurated by certain intertists in the city to prevent the carrying out of the will of the people in reference to the removal of the Grand Trunk tracks on Pinnacle street.

These particular interests, or, more properly, this particular interest, has developed a rare faculty this past two or three years of getting in on the wrong side of every public question.

It advances no argument. It does not deal in reason. Its entire stock-in-trade is suspicion and distrust. If it can undermine confidence in Belleville's future and scatter suspicion in reference to those who are trying to build wisely and well for a greater future for our city, and to excite distrust of every contemplated movement for better conditions, it imagines it has done a good day's work. Its efforts to transform Belleville into Punkville are carried along with continuity and zeal and are prevented from the attainment of success only by the determination of enterprising and discriminating citizens not to be fooled by bluster or held to inaction by baseless bluff.

Let us examine briefly what is proposed in this Pinnacle street matter, in order that we may see how senseless is all the clamor.

When the town council of Belleville, on July 30, 1873, passed a by-law granting to the Grand Junction Railway Company authority of an almost unrestricted nature to construct its lines along certain streets of the town, it committed one of the worst blunders in the history of Belleville.

The railway has been there ever since, very little used, but a constant impediment to progress, an eyecore to the residents along the street and an effectual preventive of business development and reasonable traffic upon the thoroughfares traversed.

At last the City Council, backed by the almost unanimous wishes of our citizens, requested the Grand Trunk Company to have the track moved to the centre of the street where it could be embedded in the new pavement and the perpetual obstruction to traffic removed.

The Grand Trunk, because of the dominant personal influence at headquarters of W. D. Robb, the vice-president of the railway, and a strong friend of Belleville, agreed to the request. We had no power to compel action on the part of the Company. Consent upon their part was purely voluntary.

The consent was very properly protected by a clause in the subsequent agreement that if there was any "increased hazard" due to the change of location of the track the responsibility for the increase of hazard should be borne by the city. Nothing could be fairer.

But upon that inconsequential clause has been built up a fabric of opposition, consisting mainly of noise and humbug.

For more than forty-five years the railway companies which have owned the Pinnacle street tracks have had to carry, not the "increased hazard," but the full hazard of taking their trains up and down Pinnacle street, over the street intersections and past all the danger points. In all that forty-five years, and carrying the full hazard, how many damage actions have been preferred against the Company? There has been just one, due to a crossing accident, and that action was settled out of court.

As we have just stated, the railway has for that forty-five years been carrying the full liability. The new agreement does not by any means propose to relieve the railway of its liability, but merely to assume responsibility for a possible "increased hazard" that might or might not result from the change.

As far as it is possible to foresee the proposed change would diminish rather than increase the risk. This would be particularly true at street intersections, where a more extended view would be possible. The city is every day carrying a thousand times bigger risks by the operation of public works' services and even because it owns sidewalks and highways. There is not a day passes but the city is exposed to the hazard of damage action from possible injury to people on our streets. But that fact does not deter us from building sidewalks, constructing pavements, or engaging in public works. The only way to evade all risk and responsibility is to do nothing, to own nothing and to be nothing. In other words, to realise the Punkville ideal.

The town of Oshawa has over five miles of railway, passing right along the centre of its busiest streets. Freight cars, by the dozen, are passed over the lines to the various factories every day. The lines are really a great asset and convenience to the town and they offer no impediment to traffic because the rails are paved in and the railway is thus practically out of the way. But the point for us to consider just now is this—the town of Oshawa has been for years carrying the full hazard for possible damage actions because of the presence of that railway on its streets. Up to date no action for damages has been presented.

Belleville is not asked to assume a heavy responsibility but a remote, infinitesimal responsibility such as must be assumed by any individual or corporation who takes any action whatsoever.

Is Belleville to be prevented from the realisation of a great aim because of a remote and trifling possibility that would mean little or nothing even if possibility became actuality? Let us also remember that the Grand trunk has also most generously agreed to pay the cost of paving between the rails, something that no part of the old agreement compelled it to do.

June Wedding

SERRIE—BARRETT

One of Belleville's most popular young ladies, Miss Hilda M. Barrett, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Barrett, was united in marriage at St. Michael's Church this morning to Mr. Randolph Serrie, of Chapleau, Ont. Rev. Father Killen celebrated the nuptial mass in the presence of many friends of the contracting parties. The bride wore a lawn tailored suit with navy blue taffeta hat and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by Miss Helen Foltz as bridesmaid, dressed in blue taffeta silk. Mr. Maurice Serrie, brother of the groom, was best man. Gonnod's "Ave Maria" was sung by Mr. Harold Barrett, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, 295 John street, where a reception was held and wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Serrie left this afternoon for the west on their honeymoon. They will make their home at Chapleau.

The popularity of the bride was evinced by many wedding presents from her friends in the city and out-of-town. The groom's gift to the bride was a substantial cheque, to the bridesmaid a bar-pin and to the groomsmen cuff links.

The best wishes of hosts of friends will follow the bride to her new home.

PEARCE—CALLERY

On Friday morning, June 4, at the residence of the bride's parents, Ganfion, Ont., Norma Helene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Callery, was united in marriage to Norman C. Pearce, M.C., eldest son of Mr. Richard Pearce, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. B. Kenny, assisted by Rev. S. McMullen.

The bride wore a travelling suit of navy blue tricot with black moiré hair hat and corsage bouquet of sweethearts and lilies of the valley. Miss Annie Callery was her sister's bridesmaid while the groom was supported by Mr. Edgar Evans of Toronto.

The wedding music was played by Miss Wynida Palmer. During the signing of the register Miss Helen Simpkins sang very sweetly "April Morn'."

After a wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Pearce left for a short trip to New York City and points of interest on the Atlantic coast. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Queen Alexandra Champions

Last week wound up the Public School's Baseball League after a season of the cleanest, snappiest brand of ball ever served up since the League's beginning. The coveted trophy, a beautifully designed silver cup, presented originally by the merchants of Belleville for perpetual competition, and which has been held the previous year by Queen Mary school, will now, with all due ceremony, be conveyed to Ann St. and adorn the interior of Queen Alexandra School for the ensuing year.

The Ann street lads deserve their victory, as they have worked hard, and consistently played a clean, manly game at all times and conducted themselves like real sports and playing the game to the limit for the game's sake alone.

They are a team of heavy sluggers, all contributing a good share to the victory. Any particular star can hardly be picked, unless it be the excellent work of Charlie Jeffery and Cecil Pickle, Pickle, the smallest and the best short stop in the League, also leads his team in run-getting. Charlie is without a peer among junior pitchers of the city. He won every game he started in and has averaged ten strike-outs a contest. Merriam at first base, also did excellent work. The whole school and section congratulates the team and fully appreciate the honor done Queen Alexandra. Line up:—

Secy. Treasurer—Frank Knight. Auditors—Alex. Moore, George Nicholson. Mr. John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank, stated in answer to an inquiry, that the Cheese Board Red Cross and Patriotic Fund stood at about $1,700.

The auditor's report read by Mr. Nicholson, showed a balance of $6205 on hand.

Mr. W. R. McCreary moved, seconded by Mr. Chas. A. Hess, that the annual membership fee be raised to $1.50 instead of $1.00. This would, he said, permit of the one hundred dollars taken from the patriotic fund being restored. The resolution lost.

In assuming the presidency, Mr. Mitchell declared his appreciation of the honor shown him. He promised impartial treatment of the buyers in recording bids, and stated that they had one and all served him fairly and squarely.

"I think the presidents in this locality are as a whole well satisfied with the buyers," he said. The new first vice president, Mr. Hall, thanked the board for honoring him. "I am glad to see so much cheese boarded," he said, "it is beginning to come back to where it was some years ago. The co-operative system was an untried plan."

The second vice president, Mr. Chas. A. Hess, after thanking the board, stated—"I believe we have as good a bunch of buyers as any board in Ontario." He urged the salesmen to board their cheese.

Mr. Frank Knight, secretary treasurer, was the next speaker. "I think the prospects of the board being filled up look better than for several years past. A good deal of benefit is derived by the cheese board holding together."

Belleville board represented an annual output of a million dollars. Mr. J. A. Kerr moved, seconded by Mr. T. H. Thompson, a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Mr. Mounck acknowledged the resolution.

Biddings started at 28c and rose rapidly to 29 3-16 and then step by step until 29 3-8 and 29 7-16 were reached. The colored cheese brought the latter figure and the white 29 3-8. The purchasers were Messrs. Free, Sprague, Thompson, Cook & Son and Morton.

Economic Perversions

Written for The Ontario by
Chas. M. Bice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

The policy of "Ca' Canny" has penetrated the world by a kind of common instinct. Japanese economists tell us that the drastic financial conditions of that country are due in large part to the policy adopted by workers of "go slow" policy or its equivalent in Japanese. It appeared as a visitation. It was a telepathic communication. From one end of the land to the other workers reduced production. In Japan trade unionism is banned by law; but this did not make any difference. The new idea spread with remarkable dispatch. "Ca' Canny" was to bring labor's millennium. The government sought to intervene without success. It was willing to make concessions undreamed of before the war in order to get rid of the virus of discontent. Other means not in the governmental catalogue came into play, and one morning Japan had an awakening. The ancient laws reasserted themselves.

"Produce more. What for?" The call is for greater production to meet war's losses. That seems natural does it not? Ever since the tragedy of the Serpent there is no specific for production but hard work. "Sweat or starve" is the blunt way of putting it.

President James H. Maurer, of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor cannot see it in that light and he is an influential factor in the labor world and has a number of followers in and out of the State.

"Produce more. What for?" he demands to know. "Speed up; work like blazes, produce more. What for? Manufacturers big and little, and Politicians, from the president down to the ward heeler, are dining into the ears of the workers the "necessity" for greater production. They tell us workers that the trouble is that we aren't producing enough, that the world needs our goods, and that to solve the problem of greater production we must speed up. Let us examine the facts. For the fiscal year ending June 30 1919, the total excess of exports over imports of all commodities was $13,351,966, 082. This means that the workers of the U. S. supported themselves, supported the unemployed within their ranks, supported the entire military forces within the confines of the country, supported the vast body of useless political functionaries and investigation committees, supported the capitalistic class and all their lackeys, and on top all this produced enough food, clothing, shelter, fuel and other commodities to export nearly thirteen and a half billions worth more in one year than was imported. . . . Increase production? Produce more commodities? What for? The problem for the worker is not increased consumption. Not how to produce more but how to consume more."

The trouble with the above is that the figures are not correct or exact. In fact he is given to gross exaggeration. The official figures of American foreign commerce give the balance of trade in our favor for the period at a little over four billions instead of over 13 billions, a matter of 9 billions off.

But in his argument Mr. Maurer is as isolated as Senator Johnson in his discussion of international questions. Evidently the former would have this country produce up to the limit of its internal need and stop there. He finds fault with labor because it produces more than is required for home consumption. He would close the gates to foreign commerce. Federal labor authorities estimate the production of commodities in this country for the fiscal year at 70 billion dollars. The excess of exports over imports was therefore about 6 per cent of the whole production. This is vastly different from the exaggerated figures of Mr. Maurer, and what the 6 per cent amounts to is the difference between good times and bad times. If the United States were to close down upon foreign trade and build a wall around it, the whole agricultural, industrial and labor fabric would have to be readjusted.

We had a brief experience of this, forced on us, in the fall of 1914. For several months trade with the European belligerents ceased and for a much longer period in this country trade was upset. Factories and mills and mines were closed and labor was unemployed. When the seas were opened again the United States, entered upon an era of strained prosperity never known before in economic annals.

But the quoted article is typical of the agitation which is deranging industry and threatening the destruction of world civilization. A little learning is a dangerous thing. Mr. Maurer, although he would the assertion is ventured, they lived up to the traditions of their forebears. Could they do more?

Here let me render to the women some advice: Be sure to hold fast to the customs of the grand Anglo-Saxon homes in which you were nurtured and reared. Let not ideas that made Frange almost a second-rate power, or those that have turned Russia upside down; find place in your minds. Sell not the home-love for water-gates, motoring, bridge, etc. Look over history and realize what you have done, who have mothered our poets, statesmen, preachers, scientists, generals, admirals, explorers, engineers, artists, architects and captains of industry, besides the noble men and women too, who won the great war? These are your laurels, say what they may. Women hold the destiny of Canada and the Empire. It is their's to build up or tear down. What nation can afford to lose its homes? Least of all Canada and the Empire to which we belong.

"No matter who owns the capital, so long as it is employed in production for the public market, it is devoted to the common welfare," writes a political economist of the new school. There is a normal balance between accumulation of capital and the average wage. They must go together.

War suspended the fundamental laws of political economy. It is now a question of restoring them and in what manner? Gradually as by a sudden awakening?

Old Belleville Boy Tenders Good Advice

Dr. Thomas Wickett, of Hamilton sends letter of what Belleville has done and tells what he hopes Belleville may do:

Editor Ontario:— Being an old Belleville boy, and having received the foundation of any education that is my lot in its schools, besides having assisted in the erection of homes, churches, factories, government buildings, meeting-works in town and surrounding country, also having been on the engineering staff that constructed the Bay Bridge, connecting the city with that beautiful and wealthy county, Prince Edward,—let this suffice as an apology for trespassing in your columns.

The writer had the pleasure recently of visiting Belleville and adjacent country after an absence of a few years, and a rare pleasure it was, and one not soon to be forgotten. In the first place, what a beautiful and rich location for a city, on the shores of the Bay of Quinte (and where can be found such another?)—a waterway of the Great Lakes system, which by the way, is engaging the best thought and highest engineering skill of our Dominion at the present time. Such a location assures the City of Belleville a foremost place in the year's to come; but beauty and a waterway of the inland seas will scarcely make a city all it ought to be.

However this fair city has much more to offer to make her position secure as a commercial centre. A farming country perhaps unrivalled lies round about her. (The counties of Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward and Addington, having many excellent roads no mean factor) pay her tribute. And what counties they are, rich in farm and dairy products, having abundant material for their many roads, lumber to some extent, mines, quarries, fisheries, water-powers, many of which are developed and supply the district with light and power for manufacturing purposes. And no doubt there are other natural assets round about not mentioned here.

Belleville is nothing more or less than a highway of commerce. Nature has designed it so. Her future as a foremost city cannot be denied.

Besides, there are at least—one or two other phases which a city needs to place it on the map of commerce and trade. One is the citizens that measures their potentiality—what they will undertake. Of these, there is no lack. The names of Demoon, Graham, Marsh, Ackerman, Sinclair, Symons, with others on the Board of Commerce and the surrounding country, are a sufficient guarantee that the Belleville district will receive every attention by way of development—in farming and its allied interests, in manufacturing linked up with home and foreign markets, in mines and their output, smelting, etc.; etc.

But this is not all. Women cannot and must not be overlooked at such a time, and what could be said of the women of those four counties? In the past they did their full share in helping to make this section of the province what it is; in clearing up the land, in assisting in farm work, and helping to build homes in towns, villages and country sides. In this they were unsurpassed, and if the fields, stone piles, and stump fences could speak, many of the noble women of these fair counties would be so proud. We are enjoying to-day the work of their hands and heart, so to speak, and so far have failed to give them credit for it. During the war,

Speaks Right Out and To The Point

MISS LADERONT SAYS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS HELPED HER KIDNEY DISEASE.

Bigwood Lady Points the Way to Health to the Weak, Wary, Nervous, Run-down Women of Canada.

Bigwood, Ont., June 7th. (Special)—"Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me of kidney disease." That is the statement of Miss Laurance Laderont, a highly esteemed lady living here. It is short and to the point. There can be no misunderstanding of its meaning. It is clear and a ringing message to women all over Canada. It tells them where they, too, may find relief.

For ninety per cent. of the ills from which women suffer come from weak or diseased kidneys. They are the organs that strain all the impurities, all the seeds of disease out of the blood. If they fail in this work and are deposited all over the body, the results show themselves in weakness, weariness, nervousness, headaches, backache, dropsy and rheumatism.

Ask your neighbor if all these diseases cannot be avoided by using Dodd's Kidney Pills to strengthen the kidneys.

CANNIFTON.

At the last official board of the Cannifton Circuit a most encouraging report of the progress and state of the work was received.

About fifty new members had been received into the church. The Circuit contributions to the General Missionary Society had risen in three years from $425 to $847 and the W. M. S. from $383 to $630 in the same time, and the other Conventional Funds were all on time.

A unanimous invitation was extended to the Rev. J. S. McMullen to return to the circuit as long as Conference could send him.

The salary which was advanced last year to $1350 was paid in full and an additional $150 bonus was also paid.

J. H. BRENTON, Rec. Steward. Cannifton, June 4, 1920.

Rev. M. L. Hinton, Campbellford, has accepted a call to Hastings after the present conference year. The acceptance is subject to the approval of the stationing committee of the Bay of Quinte Methodist conference.

The Pan-American Rubber Co. of Watertown, Wis., which is establishing a branch of its business in Canada, has decided to locate in Gananoque, and has purchased the W. J. Miss Muriel Simpson, who served as war nurse in Horton Hospital, Surrey, England, during the war, has arrived in Belleville accompanied by her sister, Miss Jessie Fulker. Both ladies are guests of their brother, Bert Fulker. Mrs. Simpson married a Canadian soldier, a patient under her care at Horton Hospital, and she is on her way to Saskatoon, where he resides.

On Monday the twenty-three cases of liquor belonging to Mr. W. F. McCook, of Cobourg, which was seized several months ago by License Inspector Goodrich, were returned to Mr. McCook on the order of the police magistrate and Board of License Commissioners. In Port Hope some months ago License Inspector Goodrich seized a consignment of whiskey because it was addressed to a place where it was contrary to have it, and the authorities took good care not to return any of it. By ringing the changes on customers' payments, Sydney Grodick, chief accountant of customers' accounts for the Toronto and Niagara Power Company, managed between May 25th, 1918, and January, 1920, to convert to his own uses $6,571,94. He pleaded guilty at the sessions and was sentenced to three years in penitentiary.

Miss Hazel Leonard, of Napanee, was the hostess for a week and house party, her guests being Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Graham, Miss Grace Graham, Miss Kathleen Thompson and Mr. Hoyt Thompson, of Belleville; and Miss Helen Tricker, Mr. Jack Williams, and Mr. Renton, of Kingston. A number of town guests were included in a jolly hay rack party on Saturday evening last.

While inspecting a large steam boiler, a foreman fitter, Thomas Roebuck, 38, married, of the Lutton, J. B., Corporation Electricity Works, was scalded to death as the result of a wrong valve being turned on inadvertently. Roebuck, with the object of remedying a leakage, entered the boiler after the latter had been allowed to cool down. While carrying out his investigations he requested that a valve should be turned on, in order to liberate some water which remained. Another valve however was accidentally turned, resulting in a cloud of steam being liberated into the boiler from an adjoining chamber. Before the mishap could be rectified, the man was scalded from head to foot. He was rescued as quickly as possible and removed to hospital, where he died the following morning.

On the British coast 400,000 tons of seaweed are collected every year. From the kelp into which it is burned chemists manufacture iodine and bromine, besides valuable chlorides and silicates. Thousands of Japanese and Chinese almost live on seaweed. France collects eight million pounds yearly, which is used in the manufacture of mattresses. The Irish convert seaweed into valuable jellies, and make other useful foods out of it. All along the coast of Nova Scotia the farmers collect what is known as Nova Scotia eel grass, which is shipped daily to Boston, to be used in the wadding of airtight noiseless floors, besides making the finest of filling for upholstery and serving other useful purposes. Thousands of farmers make money out of collecting the grasses and marine substances that grow along the shores. By a wise provision of the law, nobody is allowed to fence it in, at least below high water mark.

Mr. M. E. Maybee, reeve of Murray township and Warden of the United Counties, has decided to follow the majority of warden's during the last ten years in giving his fellow councillors and the press and others an excursion outing to Rochester on Wednesday next, June 8th. The excursion is of course open to everybody who has $2.05 and wishes to enjoy a day on the lake and a night in the Flower City.

On Thursday last Chief Ruse, of Cobourg, went to Lindsay and brought back K. T. Cole and G. E. Emond, who were wanted on a charge of beating a board bill of $21 at the British Hotel in the early part of June. Cole and Emond were arrested at Wilberforce, in Haliburton County, 35 miles north of Lindsay, after they had beat a Hveryman at Gooderham out of a livery bill of $25. Through a clipping from the Sentinel-Star, copied by the Lindsay Post, Constable Dovel, of Gooderham, found they were wanted here, and he accordingly notified Chief Ruse. They came up in police court on Monday, and in addition to the $21 board bill here, had to face a $54 unpaid bill in Belleville. Emond had $100 wired him, and he paid his half of the $75 board bill and $83.38 costs, and will endeavor to raise the balance and get Cole out.

George Fench, who was serving two months at Ottawa on a charge of theft, escaped from the counties jail there on Monday morning and the criminal investigation with Chief Burke Brockville, requesting assistance in the search being made for him. ## Teach the Children to Save Habits are acquired early in life. Children, who are taught the value of money and the habit of saving, grow up into good business men and capable women.

The easiest way to teach children to save, is to start a Savings Account for each child ($1.00 each is sufficient). After a child has saved another dollar to make an additional deposit, he or she will have a better appreciation of just what a dollar stands for, and how much work and self-denial it represents.

Sir Sam Hughes Turns Sod For Soldiers' Home

Unique Function at Riverside Park on King's Birthday—Mayor Extends Greetings—Address by the General.

The first sod was turned in preparation for the erection of the G. W. V. A. Memorial Home in Belleville on the King's birthday. No more fitting occasion could have been chosen, and added interest was given in the presence of the Hon. Lieutenant General Sir Sam Hughes, former Minister of Militia, who officiated at the ceremony. Sir Sam was among friends again, for he holds a warm spot in his heart for the city of the bay and Belleville has many who are dear friends of his.

Riverside Park south of Bridge Street was the scene of the ceremonial. Under the shade of the trees a large crowd of citizens gathered at eleven o'clock to witness a unique event in the City's history—the beginning of the hall to be sacred to the memory of those soldiers who will not return to Belleville.

At ten thirty o'clock a big parade left the city market headed by Mr. J. B. Flint as marshal. Then came the G. W. V. A. band under Lieut. E. R. Hinchey, Mayor Riggs, and the City Council and Chamber of Commerce in decorated cars, Col. Lazier and the Lieut. General Sir Sam Hughes, the Veterans' Association, the G. W. V. A. in command of President C. F. Wallbridge, the Officers and members of the Argyll Light Infantry, Lieut. Col. Vandewater, D. S. O. Officer commanding; Cadet Corps and scholars of the city. Queen Mary school having more than three hundred in line, all bearing flags, the Boy Scouts, decorated floats, Ritchie's, Industrial Alcohol Co. Ltd., Judge Jones Milling, L. B. Cooper, E. D. Flankle, Quinte Battery, and the Belleville Fire Department and many others. The parade was by way of Front Street and return across lower bridge to Riverside Park. Thousands of people witnessed the turnout.

Inside the cordons at the site of the new home, were the soldiers, veterans, clergy, the school children, City Council, Chamber of Commerce and Daughters of the Empire, while the following occupied seats on the platform, which was decorated with flags: Sir Sam Hughes, Col. Lazier, President C. F. Wallbridge, Mayor Riggs, Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott, and others. Major Wallbridge presided.

Dr. Scott asked a blessing upon the ceremony, which was to honor the memory of those who have given their lives, those who had been inspired to do and die. Their deeds have given the world larger liberties.

Mayor Riggs extended the welcome of the city and its freedom to Sir Sam Hughes in the following words: "It is indeed a very great pleasure for the citizens of Belleville to have with us today as our distinguished guest, Lieut.-Gen., the Hon. Sir Sam Hughes."

"We welcome Sir Sam to our fair city with special pleasure because of his very great service to our country as the Minister of Militia who raised the first voluntary army of 35,000 Canadian soldiers in the great war. "When the impartial history of the past—and we trust, please God, the last great war—comes to be written by the historian, the name of Sir Sam Hughes will stand out conspicuously as the redoubtable leader who organized and inspired our brave Canadian boys to go and fight the Hun."

"On this spot where we now stand Sir Sam has kindly consented to turn the first sod of the Memorial Home of the G. W. V. A. After much careful thought and consideration we have selected this site as being very central and eminently suitable in every way for all the social and fraternal needs of these brave boys, and we trust that the presence of Sir Sam here today will prove to be a happy augury for a very prosperous future."

funds would be raised. Too good a building could not be erected to the memory of the fallen.

Mayor W. B. Riggs extended the welcome of the city and its freedom to Sir Sam Hughes.

"The Maple Leaf" was sung by the school children.

The band struck up "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," the gathering singing the words, as Sir Sam stepped forward.

"Ladies and gentlemen and comrades," said Sir Sam. "You can hardly appreciate how proud I am in being called upon to officiate at this ceremony today. The occasion is one long to be remembered in Belleville. We are here to erect a memorial to the lads who gave their lives in the war at the front. Free men all up and down the Dominion, let me say, with more spirit than the men from this city and district with its population built upon U.E.L. and British stock, whence comes our splendid spirit of liberty."

The spirit of Belleville and Hastings has always been noteworthy, and our boys distinguished themselves at the front. Sir Sam bowed the name of every living and fallen soldier from Belleville would be inscribed on the walls of this hall of fame, that those to come may know of their gallant deeds.

There are only two kinds of government—autocracy and democracy—Germany, the type of the one, the Allied nations the type of the other.

At St. Julien Canadian lads defeated ten or twenty times their number of Huns. These lads gave their service to democracy, and their ideals will build up the community.

The war is past. Will the soldiers remain a separate organization from the great citizenship of the country? "I trust not," said the speaker, "but I hope you will give such service as citizens as you did as soldiers."

Sir Sam expressed his pleasure at the honor bestowed upon him. He was delighted to see young and old meet, to see the comrades, and expressed sympathy for those whose memory would not return—to whose memory the hall is to be erected.

Little Isabelle Wallbridge, daughter of Pres. C. F. Wallbridge, presented Sir Sam Hughes with a silver spade with which he performed the ceremony. The spade of silver bore the following inscription: "Presented to the Hon. Lieut.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, K.C.M.G., on turning the first sod for the G.W.V.A. Memorial Home, Belleville, Ont., June 8th, 1920."

The function closed with cheers for the King, the General, and with the National Anthem.

Kindly Appreciation From Mr. Sinclair

Editor Ontario—After reading in this evening's paper the splendid report of the dedication to Montreal re. the removal of the G. T. R. track to the centre of Pinnacle street and the assured prospect of having this street made over into a "Thing of beauty and a joy forever" instead of an eyesore, as it has been for nearly half a century, and noticing the credit you so generously give everybody else for bringing this desired change about, I could not help but feel that to you, as Editor of The Ontario, is due the full credit for what has now been accomplished.

Every reader of The Ontario knows perfectly well that had it not been for the heroic efforts you made and continued to make against strong opposition, Pinnacle street would have to this date have been rebuilt on the old lines and continued forever to spoil this splendid street.

And now while I both congratulate and thank you on behalf of all who are interested in a more beautiful Belleville, I would just add that this one splendid service you have so ably rendered, will forever place our citizens in your debt and demonstrate what one man can do, when possessed with an ideal that is worth fighting for.

Local Artists Pack Theatre

G.W.V.A. Vaudeville Program was Unique

Griffin's theatre was packed last evening for the vaudeville de luxe under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. A more appreciative gathering could not have been assembled together.

The performance was a credit to the local artists, showing once again that Belleville talent in the line of entertaining and art is second to none. The program was a varied one. Lieut. E. R. Hinchey and the G.W.V.A. band gave a splendid series of numbers with all the triumph of skilled artists. The Veterans' Band is an organization of which Belleville may well be proud not only for its own intrinsic musical merits but for its record of service in the Great War. The first number was a "grand military tattoo" (Mackenzie Rogan) by the band.

A chorus of soldiers sang billets, a series of war songs, dear to the soldier's heart. Miss Kathleen Thompson sang "Keep on Smiling" and was accompanied in a dance by the Misses Wallbridge, Collins, Kerr, Allore, Mikal, McCullough, Milne, Rose, Ketcheson and Thompson.

Irresistible and never failing Ab. Wheeler, drew down the house. Samsunlike with his monologue of "Troubles," Albert specialized in a song and dance to the content of the audience.

An instrumental trio composed of Miss Joy Higgs, violin, Mr. Glen W. Elliott, (cello) and Ernest W. Wheatley, (piano) rendered Widor's "Serenade" and Offenbach's "Barcarolle." These numbers were interpreted in a very fine manner by the artists, who were encored.

"The Bells of St. Mary's" was the title of a sketch in which Mr. James Booth, as the groom, sang very effectively the song of that name. Miss Margaret Thompson appeared as the bride, Miss Thyra Ketcheson as bridesmaid, Misses Kerr, McCullough, Wallbridge, Milne, Rose, and Collins. This number was very pleasing.

"Butterfly and Sunbeams," was a ballet, the following giving an excellent performance—Miss Alice Evans as the butterfly; Miss A. Modeland as the sun and Misses Kerr, Collins, McCullough, Rose, Allore and Milne as the sunbeams.

Mrs. A. P. Allen took part in the sketch, "An Old-Fashioned Garden" with the following, Mr. Harold Barrett, Misses Louise Wallbridge and Mary Day and Masters Clement Allen and Jack Cook. This sketch provided an excellent opportunity for Mrs. Allan and Mr. Barrett, who did full justice.

The program closed with a band number, "Squire's Songs with Chime Obligate."

The affair was produced under the direction of Mrs. (Col.) Allen, Sergt. D. G. Sinclair, D.C.M., M.M., acted as stage manager, Mr. J. Blaind, as electrical manager, Mr. J. Herman Wenger, G. Powell, Belleville, supplied the gowns, Ritchie's Ltd., the hats and the Thompson Co. Ltd., the furnishings. Johnstone's and Bennett's dancing academies were the scenes of dancing after the performance at this theatre, many taking part. This was held under G.W.V.A. auspices.

Generous Road Grants for North Hastings

Mr. Robert Cooke, M. P. P., was in Bancroft on Monday and held a conference with the Reeves of the northern municipalities as to the allocation of the legislation grants for colonization roads in North Hastings.

The grants are very generous in amount and total nearly $30,000. This amount is additional and entirely separate from the special grant of $50,000 for the main trunk road being built as a provincial country highway between Belleville and Maynooth.

The grants for the various municipalities have been apportioned as follows, and will be expended under the authority of Mr. Walter Wiggins, Reeve of Danzannon and local superintendent of colonization roads: Wollaston Township . . . $1700.00 Tudor and Cashel . . . 1300.00 Rawdon . . . 800.00 Montague and Herschel . . . 400.00 Mayo . . . 2750.00 Marmora . . . 2250.00 Madoc . . . 1400.00 Limerick . . . 950.00 Faraday . . . 2900.00 Elzevir . . . 3400.00 Danzannon . . . 4300.50 Carlow . . . 2575.00 Bangor, Wicklow McClure . . . 1700.00

FINE RACES AT KING'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Big Crowd at Fair Grounds Yesterday—The Races and Baseball—Other Features

Seven or eight thousand people crowded into the fair grounds yesterday afternoon for the program of sports held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. The grand stand and bleachers, fences and tops of cattle sheds were crowded with spectators who witnessed the baseball match between Belleville and Ottawa.

The day was fairly cool and very comfortable but the weather militated somewhat against the sale of refreshments.

The G.W.V.A. band rendered a fine program of music during the afternoon.

M. Bouret performed several tight wire stunts before the grand stand.

An aeroplane took up a number of people at ten dollars a trip. The plane flew over the grounds.

Speeding Events

The horse races proved the most successful meet held in Belleville for a long time. Never was a finer string of equines on the local turf. The time made was good, and the races were unique in the close contests resulting. The 2.18 class was decided in three straight heats, while the 2.30 required four and the free-for-all five heats before the winner was decided. The free-for-all closed sensationally with the win of Dayton Springs, the well-known Belleville horse. Romala, the winner of the first heat in the free-for-all never got into the lead again. In the fourth heat she fell. A few minor spills without serious results occurred on the track.

M. St. Vincent, of Montreal was the starter. He handled the large field of horses well and announced the results in English and French. The purses were $500 on each event, the summary being as follows:

Starter, W. St. Vincent, Montreal. Timekeepers, J. Mackie, J. A. Roy. The baseball match between the Ottawa Senators and the G.T.R. proved again the superiority of the Grand Trunk Railway baseball team, the locals defeating the visitors by 6 to 3 after an excellent exhibition of ball, witnessed by several thousand people. Belleville's new battery worked out for six innings, Parker as pitcher and Frank Goyer as catcher. W. Mills and Freddy Goyer resting up for Saturday's game in Cobourg. Parker pitched a good game and held the visitors down to two runs. His pitching was steady and he had a number of strike-outs to his credit. Frank Goyer made good as catcher. Senators scored in the first and third one each and it was not until the "lucky fifth" when Belleville's G.T.R. got busy. Sate hitting filled three bags another followed and two ran home. This was repeated and the fifth closed 4 to 2. In the sixth

An Action on Chattel Mortgage

One Mortgagor not of Age—Interesting County Court Case.

Frost vs Bryer—This was an action brought by George Frost of Trenton against George Bryer, Ellen Bryer, Arthur Bryer, and James Richard Bryer for the balance due on a Chattel Mortgage. Defendants claimed that they were not indebted to plaintiff at time of the Chattel Mortgage, that the mortgage was only given as security for an unascertained indebtedness and that plaintiff owed defendants a considerable sum of money. The trial took place before His Honor Judge DeRoche May 19th when judgement was given for plaintiff for $452.62 with interest and costs against all defendants except James Richard Bryer who was an infant when he signed the Chattel Mortgage, and was dismissed as against him without costs. W. C. Mikal, K.C., for plaintiff; A. Abbott and W. Carnaw for defendants.

How Railway Ties Are Made Durable

(Canadian Lumberman.)

One of the greatest developments of recent years in prolonging the life, service and strength of ties have been the establishing of treating plants. Much has been published in the columns of the "Canada Lumberman" on the creosote treatment of Jack pine and hemlock for cross-ties. Treated ties were first used in Canada about 1896. Since that date a small number have been used each year, but possibly not more than 10 per cent. of the annual consumption. These were all imported from the United States. The first commercial treating plant in eastern Canada was erected in Trenton in 1911 and is known as the Canadian Creosoting Company. It has a capacity of treating 4,000 ties per day. Since then other plants have sprung up and are located at Fort Frances, Ont., and Sydney, N.S., while in the west similar plants exist at Transcona, Vancouver and North Vancouver, and Winnipeg, Man.

Preservative Treatment of Ties. Much might be written on the wood preservative treatment of ties, and in a recent publication entitled "Creosote Treatment of Jack Pine and Hemlock for Cross-Ties," which is issued by the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior and compiled by W. Kynoch, B.Sc., F.E., and J. A. Codrre, B.A., F.E., one of two interesting statements are made. These gentlemen point out that by efficient preservatives, decay in ties can be prevented or greatly retarded and, consequently the life of tie in service can be increased.

Respecting some objections that have been raised to the treating process, they say: "In connection with mechanical wear the question of heaving of track and the consequent shimming, which necessitates the frequent drawing and redrawing of spikes, has frequently been brought forward as a serious objection to the use of treated ties in Eastern Canada. It has been claimed that where shimming is done ties are often spike-killed before they fall from decay, and that preservative treatment under these circumstances would be merely a waste of money. A point of the greatest importance is that heaving does not necessarily entail shimming. Shimming is only necessitated at certain points where unsatisfactory drainage conditions, combined with the presence in the sub-grade of heavy clay or other soil with high water-holding capacity, cause unequal heaving of a marked character which renders the track unsafe. These points are practically the same every year and are, therefore, in most cases known beforehand from previous experience. Only a relatively small proportion of the total number of ties in track is subject to shimming. Further, trouble from this source is being gradually eliminated owing to improvements in drainage."

One of the veterans connected with the tie industry in Canada is Mr. A. R. Thompson, of Belleville, who has been associated with the Grand Trunk Railway for a number of years, and has held the position of chief tie and timber inspector of the system for a long period. Mr. Thompson has a wide acquaintance with forest products, men in all parts of the country, and previous to the railways dealing with contractors for their supplies, which system was instituted a few years ago, he bought large quantities of railway timber from sawmill men and woodmen in all parts of the country. Mr. Thompson has stated that about half of the ties now used by the G.T.R. system undergo preservative treatment, and that the principal native timber for the purposes in eastern Canada at the present time is Jack pine, which comes first. A considerable quantity of hardwood is used, the principal varieties being our own native woods, birch, maple and beech.

Ald. Wensley thought track going down the street would cause a decrease of accidents. He see a reason for removal to the centre of the street.

Ald. Adams was in agreement, saying he amount to anything.

Ald. Bone spoke in agreement. The increase any, would be slight. He understood the clause was not such as to call had to be agreed to or where it is at present thing to talk in Council ent thing to make an agreement with the G.T.R. officials. Mr. to remove the track, in with the hazardous agreement.

Ald. Ponton did not delay for this matter.

COUNCIL RATIFIES AGREEMENT WITH G. T. R.

Also Decides to Sell $70,000 Worth of Debentures Locally.

The city council on Wednesday evening decided after little discussion to ratify the agreement between the special committee of Mayor Riggs, Ald. Bone and Ald. Hanna, representing the city and Vice-President W. D. Robb of the Grand Trunk as to the moving of Pinnacle street track to the centre of the street.

A motion prevailed that the agreement be ratified, provided the City Solicitor approves from a legal standpoint. It was also decided to have a bylaw covering the matter for submission to the next Council meeting on Monday evening next.

The members present were Mayor Riggs, Aldermen Woodley, Ostrom, Hanna, Bone, Ponton, Wensley, DeMarsh and Adams.

Ald. Hanna said personally he thought the agreement was all right and he could see no reason why it should not be ratified.

Ald. Wensley—Will the agreement not saddle the city with extra expense with a hazard clause in it?

Ald. Woodley—What is the advantage to be gained by moving the track?

Ald. DeMarsh—When the city grows Pinnacle street would be a business street, and it could not be so used with the track where it is at present.

Ald. Bone—It will give us the use of the whole street when the track is in the centre of the street.

Ald. Ponton moved seconded by Ald. Adams, that the memorandum of agreement signed by Mayor Riggs on behalf of the municipality of the city of Belleville, and Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada be ratified and confirmed, provided the City Solicitor approves of same from a legal standpoint, and that the City Solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw embodying the terms of the said agreement to be submitted at the next meeting of the Council.

The motion was adopted.

Ald. Bone said it was necessary to get busy and sell $70,000 worth of bonds locally. These bonds would yield the investor slightly better than 6 1/2 per cent on the investment. Ald. Woodley endorsed the remarks of Ald. Bone. It was decided to leave the matter with the members of the Council to see what they could do towards getting investors and to report at next meeting of Council.

The G. T. R. Agreement

The agreement reached between the deputation from the City Council and the Grand Trunk Railway as published in Wednesday's Ontario is perfectly reasonable and fair to both parties. The City Council was amply justified in ratifying the agreement subject to a favorable report upon any legal technicalities that may be detected by the city solicitor.

There is a good deal of misapprehension on the part of certain citizens in regard to one clause of the agreement in which the city agrees to assume liability due to any "increased hazard to vehicles" and any property damages that might be sustained because of "the change of location of this track."

It is difficult to see how anything fairer in the way of an agreement could be devised.

The city does not assume full liability for damages to vehicles or to property, as some have assumed, or professed to believe, but only such damages as might result from the "increased" hazard due to the change of location.

This is so trifling a matter in reality that it would not be worthy of a thought were it not for the fact that a mountain is being made of it by those against the proposal and who would, if they could, at this late date destroy so beneficent an arrangement, reached after months of hard work.

The "increased" hazard as between running a train down the center of the street or running a train ten feet away from the center is so infinitesimal and remote that to all practical intents and purposes it can be entirely disregarded.

As to any "increased" liability due to property damage, it should be remembered that property holders on both sides have with practical unanimity signed the petition for the change. They signed the petition in the certain belief and knowledge that property, not on one side alone, but on both sides of the street will benefit and increase in value enormously because of having the full width of the street available for traffic use and the creation of a broad, beautiful thoroughfare, instead of a narrow impeded lane.

The Grand Trunk corporation is now the property of the people of Canada. W. D. Robb, its vice-president, is an old Belleville boy. To inquire that Mr. Robb, one of the best friends this city has anywhere, is trying to put something sinister across is to do an honorable gentleman a serious injustice.

The citizens will be well advised if they utterly disregard interested attempts at this late hour to seize hold of trifles and quibbles to prevent the accomplishment of one of the greatest benefits possible to achieve for the city.

Talk of the Town And of the Country

Some weeks ago Mayor Robinson and the members of the Napanee Town Council decided to hold a banquet for the citizens and business men of Napanee in order to promote the feeling of good fellowship and underlying it the "Get Together" idea to further the interests of the town and to organize a live Board of Commerce should the idea meet with the approval of the meeting. On Thursday evening of last week one hundred and ninety business men of Napanee met and formed the Napanee Board of Commerce with the following officers as the provisional officers of the Board for the purpose of organization and to call a subsequent meeting at which permanent officers will be elected, fees fixed, and the work of organization completed.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on May 24th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hicks, Tweed, when their eldest daughter, Mabel, became the bride of J. W. McCallum, Kingston. The bride was becomingly attired in a blue georgette, over a bodice of blue satin, and carried a huge bouquet of opelia roses and baby breath. The drawing room was tastefully decorated with apple blossoms, roses and carnations. An interesting feature of the wedding spread was the cutting of the cake by the bride with a small souvenir sword brought to her by the groom from France. # Wedding Bells

BRICKMAN—HALL

Seldom are young people more joyously ushered into wedded life than were Miss Ann F. Hall, who recently braved a long ocean voyage from her girlhood home in Scotland and her fortunate ex-soldier lover, Mr. Stanley Gerald Brickman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Brickman, of Bay View Farm, Rednersville, Ont.

That Canadians appreciate romance of the right kind was evidenced in the entire wedding festivities. Not alone the splendid preparations made by the family and friends of the groom, but by about eighty guests who were assembled to take part as witnesses and well-wishers when at 8.15 p.m. Wednesday, June 2nd, the bridal party took their places beneath a beautiful arch of evergreens trimmed with tartsans and wedding bells. Miss Bessie Sager playing the march, Rev. L. M. Sharpe tied the nuptial knot and congratulations followed heartily.

After the signing of the register to the appropriate accompaniment of Annie Laurie, a baptismal event took place during which Rev. Mr. Sharpe baptised two Belleville babies and two from Port Hope, all of whom were relatives of the groom.

The wedding supper did honour to Canadian skill and was a tribute to the style of Prince Edward County. But before the guests had left the tables the strain of approaching music still farther proved that the community spirit of this part of Ontario is truly alive, for the Rednersville brass band came with a cheerful serenade and were cordially welcomed.

The usual charivari with its jargon of bells, horns, whistles, etc., had its innings but the appearance of the newly married couple seemed to be the main thing that was being sought and so the evening quieted down to really social enjoyment.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white net with bands of ribbon and wore a heavy bridal veil, while Miss M. Gerow, of Belleville, who performed the duties of bridesmaid wore white voile and both she and the bride carried bouquets of carnations. Mr. Chas. Reid, of Rossmore, ably accompanied the bride in lieu of her father in the bridal procession and Mr. Wm. Baker, of Rednersville, assisted the groom.

The young couple will reside at Rednersville where the groom is a farmer and the entire community joins in wishing this after-war alliance every success in their wedded life.

Headquarters of G. W. V. A. Association Issues Statement

Ottawa, June 5.—In view of statements which have been made and are likely to be made regarding actions and motives of the G. W. V. A. in bringing to public notice grievances of returned men, Dominion Headquarters of the Association has issued a statement regarding its stand on the matter. It charges the parliamentary committee with persistently endeavoring to misinterpret and ridicule any endeavor on the part of the G. W. V. A. to present views of ex-service men. Its publication was the result of a clash yesterday afternoon before the parliamentary committee on re-establishment between Mr. Tweedie, M.P., and C.G. Magnell, Dominion Sec. The former took issue with Mr. McNeil for publishing evidence and complaints against soldiers settlement board before he brought such evidence before committee. The statement issued replies to charges of Mr. Tweedie and ends by saying that if the matter is left in its unfinished state, grievances will only be aggravated.

VIOLETS

"I think I love the violets best of all. Because of that hushed sweetness, fair and faint. As star-dust through the darkness dimly sown."

With the very first of spring's flowers in the garden come the violets, fragrant and blue, blooming shyly in some sheltered spot. How much more precious they seem than those we have had from the florists during the winter.

Under low-draping hawthorn trees, unafraid of the sun's shine sprinkled through the budded branches, are violets of rare blue, equally as shy as those of dark, wet places.

OUR OWN GREAT LITERATURE
"The story of English, not merely in its narrow scholastic sense," writes Miss Edith J. Morley, in the "Contemporary Review," "is bound up with the study of all that is best in our national life, and for English-speaking men and women there can be no more fruitful consideration of man as a member of human society than a real understanding of their own great language and literature.

"If our patriotism is to be anything more than mere sentimentalism, or the parrot cry of 'My Country, Right or Wrong,' it must be founded upon knowledge of what she may stand for in the present. That knowledge may be acquired most easily from intercourse with the great Englishmen who, century after century, have revealed in their writings, not only events that have taken place, not only the literal characteristics of our ancestors, but also those ideals and aspiration of their best moments, which, when the need arises, can turn a nation of shopkeepers into a people inspired to united action for the sake of principles and beliefs till then but half-expressed and dimly understood.

"Literature serves to illustrate history, or rather, it presents a side of history which is scarcely touched upon by the historian proper. It is not his business to set down all the common, matter-of-course trivialities and happenings which, for ordinary men and women in normal times comprise the more important part of life. But the case is different with the man of letters. He is supremely interested in little things: the table manners of Chaucer's Prioress, for instance; the soldiers' talk before Agincourt; the foibles of fops and of fashionable ladies, or the adventures that befall the traveller, or the man who walks on a rainy day in London in the eighteenth century; the simple talk of farmers' wives in Warwickshire, or of Wessex peasants, or of Cockney coachmen in the nineteenth century.

"These are typical of the details which you may find in literature and from which you may reconstruct that social history of England which no historian has ventured to compile, since if there are few traces in chronicles and serious records."

A Wall Street sugar merchant told the Lusk Committee that New York bankers were loaning huge sums to Cuba planters to enable them to hold the sugar from the market. He put the sums at $250,000,000. Other witnesses claimed that there were secret hoards of sugar being held in the States. Evidently if the banks restricted credit in this industry there would be a lot of sugar thrown on the market. If witnesses are correct some bankers would seem to be sharing in the profiteering in sugar in the United States.

Cobourg, after two weeks of Daylight Saving has decided to go back to standard time. The town council came to the conclusion that all the time that could be saved by D.S. didn't begin to pay for the inconvenience of missing trains and meals at hotels, losing farm trade, and getting children off to school an hour earlier. Cobourg, as the one daylight-saver between Toronto and Kingston felt lonesome and out of step. Therefore a petition signed by 622 citizens was presented to the town council praying for the restoration of the good old time that had for so long served town and country so well.

THE REAL RICH

The hand which does no lawful toil is very soft and white. And on its fingers jewels gleam, and sparkle day and night. But better far the weary hand, the calloused hand of care. For it has done more lovely things than idle hands can wear. The painted cheeks of women fair who meet at pleasure's shrine, May never show the trace of tears or trouble's lasting line. But sweeter far the gentle face which wears the marks of woe, For it has lived more loveliness than pleasure can bestow. The rippling voice of luxury is pleasant to the ear. But selfishness is in its speech and it is cold and drear. But let me hear the words of those who live with common things, For they've a knowledge of the world which is denied to kings.

"The story of English, not merely in its narrow scholastic sense," writes Miss Edith J. Morley, in the "Contemporary Review," "is bound up with the study of all that is best in our national life, and for English-speaking men and women there can be no more fruitful consideration of man as a member of human society than a real understanding of their own

Conditions of Prayer

BY REV. W. HARRIS WALLACE

"And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.—I. John 3: 22"

We never think of true prayer, or of answers to prayer, as a branch of Christian evidences. And yet, deep hidden in that sweetest of all human experiences the communion between the personal soul and God, there is an unrecognized logic which constitutes one of the strongest attestations of the Christian faith reason can desire so said Dr. Fitchett in his book, "The Unrealized Logic of Religion." In order to truly pray there must be a definite way of communion between the soul who prays and God. We know some years ago, so the story goes, Marconi set up on the American coast the first installation for wireless telegraphy; and on a point on the coast of England stood the corresponding installation. Between the two rolled the great Atlantic, a grey space with many winds. Could an electrical vibration carry a message from one mind to another across the vast interval? Marconi has told how he watched and listened to the faint and vagrant rapping of the instrument. A single letter, flung from the station on the English coast across the great ocean, was to be caught and registered on the American coast. We are told there came a moment when Marconi heard, or he thought he heard, the triple tick which was the agreed signal. Mind and Mind across many miles of space had touched. But no second signal came, or has ever come. The interval was too wide, the conditions too uncertain to be sure; and the world has since grown sceptical as to that alleged first signal. But we have no doubt about praying to and being heard by the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. The way of communication between earth and heaven has been made sure by the ascension of Jesus to the right hand of God, and the descent of the Spirit to abide with believers. Their alone makes true prayer possible. And only those who believe in Jesus, and have the Spirit of Christ can truly pray. Prayer is a large capital of religion; and we must take time to pray definitely, earnestly and often for great things from God. We recall the story in the early church when greatly hindered in spiritual work by temporal things, how they prayed and set apart deacons to attend to temporal things so that the apostles could give more time to prayer and the ministry of the world. It was then that a very great blessing came upon the church. Many were added to the number of the saved. We shall have to go back to first principles if we expect such times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. How shall we overcome the spiritual apathy that has fallen upon the church of Christ in our day? How can we stay the flood of worldliness that is finding its way into all the churches? What can we do in view of all the anxious cares and serious times that crowd upon us daily? We can do what Daniel did, what the apostles did, what the great reformers, Knox and Luther did, keep on praying. Prayer, in view of world's great need and churches' need, should be the chief business of life, we should order our daily life in order to pray. In true believing prayer, as many godly men and women know by the witness of their consciences, the soul of man and the very being of God touch. There is appeal and response, petition and answer, the cry of need and the swift coming of help. Prayer is simple and sublime; ask and receive that your joy may be full. Prayer is the christian's battlefield. "The devil trembles when he sees the weakest saint upon his knees." Mark the words the Bible gives as suggesting prayer: "wrestling," "striving," "longing," "fervently," "laboring," "fervent," "effectual," "strong crying and tears." These words may give us a conception of prayer we rarely ever realize in our experience.

But to truly pray, we can only do so as we pray in the spirit. And to pray in the spirit, we must also live in the spirit. We shall do well to go back to simple faith in Jesus, and to the witness of the spirit. This is the secret of all true praying. Prayer is the product of faith, holiness, and spiritual character. "And whatsoever we ask we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight." Good conduct and good praying go together.

The sea-cable which in 1865 was being laid between America and England had snapped at one stage of the process, and the broken end sank in the depth of the Atlantic. The broken cable lay there for nearly a year but the end at Valentia was still connected with the recording instrument. While the cable was being laid, intelligible messages between ship and shore ran incessantly. When the cable was broken, these ceased. Meanwhile ships were patiently groping in the dark sea depths for the cable. Suddenly along the lost and broken wire came to Valentia a message! The restless needle spelt out two words "Got it"—a verb without a subject. But sufficient, if in our experience the communion we had with heaven has been broken. We must see to having it adjusted as quickly as possible. We must believe in the God and Father that Jesus made known to us. Let us pray, "Lord, teach us to pray." And when we really pray the fact will become real in our experience—"This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him and delivered him out of all his troubles." Our need and God's desire to communicate with us should be sufficient. We know that God knows and cares for each of us his children, and He surely longs to bless us more than any earthly father. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him." How God must pity us now in our spiritual poverty! The Father of our childhood and weakness we can understand. This is seen in Mr. Patmore's poem. He had punished his little son and put him to bed, "his mother who was patient being dead." Sore himself he went to see the child, and found him asleep, with all the queer and trivial contents of a little boy's pocket set out beside him to comfort him. Mark the fatherly spirit. "So when that night I prayed to God, I wept, and said: Oh! When at last we lie with fringed breath, not remembering of what toys we made our joys. How weakly understood. The great commanded good—Then, Fatherly not less than I whom Thou has moulded from the clay, Thou wilt leave Thy wrath and say, I will be sorry for their childishness." We forget about the pity of God for His weak children. We must get back to our Bibles and to prayer, and give more time to think on the things of faith—the unseen and eternal.

Two men, a bottle of Scotch, a concrete floor, a shaking hand, a slip, between the cup and the lip, a crash, a moan a swear, a smoky smell, and a great thirst unmitigated. Such was a summer night's tragedy at a Belleville railway station recently, says the Port Hope Guide. Could anything be sadder, and it so dry?

A strong deputation representing various patriotic organizations, including the G. W. V. A. and I. O. O. E., also the Women's Institutes, of Picton, approached the Picton County Council for a grant of $15,000, to be devoted to erecting a war memorial.

Among the speakers supporting the deputation's request were: Judge E. H. McLean, Lieut. Col. M. K. Adams, H. H. Horsey (prospective Federal Liberal candidate), Clarence Mallory (Ex-Warden, and Secretary of U. F. O.) Rev. F. Louis Barber, and Mrs. Dods, (representing the Women's Institutes). Notwithstanding the eloquent appeals made on behalf of the proposed memorial, the County Council by unanimous vote rejected the deputation's overtures.

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of Rev. W. T. G. Brown, when Miss Mary Dickson, Kingston, cast in her lot with Robert Oliver, Foxboro, Ont. The happy couple left last night for Buffalo where they will reside. A host of friends wish them every happiness during the coming years. The groom is a returned soldier, having served in France with the 21st Battalion, which he joined on its formation.

When A. Ennis, of Cedar Grove, near Merrickville, was going to dinner a few days ago with three horses attached to a spring-tooth cultivator, the horses became unmanageable and bolted, doing considerable damage to the machine. Two of the horses escaped injury, but the third received internal injuries and died in a few hours.

Talk of the Town and of the Country

The Argyll Light Infantry and the veterans will parade tomorrow to St. Andrew's church, where the Rev. A. S. Kerr, pastor, will speak.

The Belleville Ministerial Association enjoyed themselves yesterday at an outing which took the form of a farewell to one of their number, Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott. The Association went down the bay in Mr. J. A. Higg's launch to Massasauga where games were indulged in to the hearts content of the members of the Association. Afterwards there was a trip around Big Bay. The party arrived home about 8 p. m.

Some rubber sections of a tire were found by Mr. Hutchinson, caretaker of parks.

The police are still working on the short of money from Foy & Irwin's bottling works which occurred on Thursday night. No clue has yet been discovered.

An automobile was wrecked on the Trent road near the railway crossing at Belleville cemetery. It upset into the ditch. No one was hurt.

At the annual meeting of the Medical Fraternity of Ontario in Toronto last week Dr. J. J. Farley, Trenton, was elected to the honorable position of 1st Vice-President. Dr. Farncomb, Trenton, was re-elected to the Provincial Committee. Dr. E. A. McQuade, who is also a member of the Ontario Medical Association was present at the gathering.

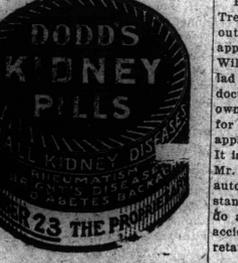

Friday evening, Quinton O'Hare, Trenton, a small boy 5 years old ran out on the street in front of an approaching car driven by Mr. Henry Williams. The car knocked the little lad down who was first taken to the doctors unconscious and then to his own home. He remained unconscious for about three days. He is now apparently on the road to recovery. It is to be hoped the example set by Mr. Williams will be copied by other automobilists under similar circumstances. Not only did Mr. Williams do all he could at the time of the accident to assist but since then has retained the services of a day and a night nurse to take care of the child. He has also had a specialist from Belleville in consultation.

A fatal accident occurred in Cramah township, whereby Donald Rouse the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rouse, lost his life. The boy was riding a bicycle on the main road, where there were many men and teams at work. He lost control of his wheel, and was thrown off it, thereby frightening a team, which with a heavy load ran over him, crushing his chest. He died shortly after.
