UNCERTAINTY.

The Canadian government is particulaily jealous of parting with any of its northern domain and even for hay raising insists upon merely leasing this valuable ground. This would not work nearly so great a hardship on the miners was the lease given by the government. a perfect one. Capital ever fights shy of insecurity and so it is reported by those in from the outside-when Alexander McDonald, in London, offered his vast holdings for seven million, the capitalists decided that if insecurity of title and rifice so enormously, it behooved them also to keep out.

There should be some way by which one could get his title guaranteed. A lease from the government, is only good so long as no one upsets it. That one can go back of that lease in looking for flaws in the title is an unwelcome fact, and yet, with the way the recording office has ever been conducted, it would be simply an encouragement to fraud to say that once a lease is granted there shall be no gainsaying it. Nevertheless it requires only half an eye to see that if an abstract, dating back to the government's lease to the staker, does not show title, it is little use inviting capital to profitless to the realm. Together in Death.

The last incident in the double tragedy of last Thursday, transpired on Wednesday afternoon, when the bodies of the victims received the last kindly offices of friends and were consigned to their final resting place side by side. Rev. Hetherington, of the Methodist church, conducted the services at the undertaking establishment of Jenkins & Barker, where a large number of friends were gathered, after which those who desired were afforded opportunity to have a final view of the faces. Through the efforts of friends, the body of Libbie White was garbed in a cream silk robe and was encased in a casket covered with rich black broadcloth

The mail-carrier, Mr. Klein says, was going about four miles a day. It is Mr. Klein's intention to go to Seattle at once and return about February 1st."

Among the clippings sent in by Mr. Klein is one from the Alaskan showing how private mail carriers from the inside are known to be abandoning their sacks of mail on the passes bawson in quality; and other places. One case is related by the proprietor of the White Pass house:

A day or two ago he concluded to investigate the contents of a package left by a stranger. What was his astonishment to find that it contained several hundred letters, some few of month at the Regina Glub, Hotel, them stamped, but the majority nustamped.

These letters were addressed to almost every ornamented with heavy silver mountings. The features were entirely free from the evidences of death.
