William E. McConackin, an electrician, Jersey City, is building an electric ship on entirely new lines, and expects to revolutionize the aerial navigation business in a very few months.
Mr. McConackin is an electrician, and used to reside in New York City. He was formerly a secret service detective, and was at one time rated the second best judge of counterfeit money in the country. Mr. McConackin's machine, which is a complete, will be worked with the legs, and is, according to the inventor, being built on the combined lines of safety bicycle and a bird. To a reporter, who wished to see the new machine, Mr. McConackin said: "You see, my discovery is as yet unappreciated by patents, and I cannot afford to show it to anybody. But I will draw a picture of what it will look like when in operation for you and explain how it works from that." And Mr. McConackin sat down and drew a picture of the machine. "I have given the subject years of thought," continued the inventor, "and have in a quiet way experimented in a careful manner. The result has been a most satisfactory one. About a month ago I decided to stop theorizing and to go to work. I started my flying machine, and since then there has been no stopping. It has been worked at it continually. It won't take long now before it will be complete and ready for use. I have tried to keep the fact that I was trying to solve this great problem a secret, but it was useless. Somebody told a horse man about it, and he ran in a few lines. Now I might as well come out and tell all about the machine. The reason of my desiring to keep the matter quiet is because I have a great deal of money invested in being called a crank. Inventors of flying machines are invariably looked upon as cranks, and people laugh at them. But I am not a crank. I have a horse man's belief, and believe that it is only a matter of time when aerial navigation will be common and air ships as numerous in the air as safety bicycles are on our public roads.

Mrs. Rachel Hunt, of St. John, was a victim of violent hysterics, dizziness, nervousness and general debility, the result of a violent attack of La Grippe. She thought her case hopeless, but Liebig's Nerve and Stomach Tonic restored her to health, hope and strength. She recommends it to all who suffer as she did.

Venerable brother, health and Apostolic benediction. The courteous letter received from you and our other venerable brethren your suffragans, on the occasion of the anniversary of our episcopal consecration, for your beautifully written and glowing evidence of the fidelity and respect which you bear towards us, as also of a will so much in accord with our own, that nothing could appear to be more so.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Catholic Notes.
The Students of the Gregorian University, Rome, have started a subscription for the erection of a bust of the late Father Liberator, the distinguished Jesuit theologian.
Mr. Eugene O'Connell, a young Catholic of California is accorded the highest place by music critics, among violinists of the Occident. They predict for him an international fame.
A Catholic club has been organized among the students of Harvard and made with the cordial approval of President Eliot. There are at present 250 Catholic students in the various departments of that University.
A movement is on foot to present a testimonial to the well-known Catholic novelist, Mrs. Anna Dorsey. The Most Rev. Archbishop Ireland and Rt. Rev. Bishop Keane of the Catholic University, head the list with a hundred dollar subscription each.
There will be four Catholics in the United States senate, the largest number, we believe, ever in that body at one time. They will be Hon. William N. Roach, from North Dakota; Hon. Edward Murphy, Jr., of New York; Hon. E. D. White, from Louisiana; and James Smith, Jr., of New Jersey.
The model of St. Peter's Church at Rome is shown in a small building in the Midway Plaisance, at Chicago. The model was begun in the sixteenth century and not completed 'till the eighteenth, and is valued at $500,000. It is made of carved wood and the minutest details in the original are reproduced. It is made on the scale of one-sixteenth. Portraits of 24 of the popes are shown in the same building.

Curiosity Gratified.
"Travel on this road party often" inquired the passenger with the long, slender, pointed nose.
"Yes," replied the sleepy looking passenger on the same seat.
"Come to town most every day, I reckon?"
"Yes."
"In business of some kind, like as you?"
"No, I work for another man."
"Dry goods business?"
"No. Wet goods."
"Saloon?"
"No. Fish market."
The inquisitive stranger was quiet a moment. Then he came at him.
"Find it cheaper to live out of the city?"
"No. Dearer."
"Rents are cheaper, ain't they?"
"Yes."
"Groceries and things don't cost any more, do they?"
"No. Cost less."
"Have to pay out too much for railroad fare?"
"Railroad fare doesn't cost me seventy-five dollars a year."
"Then what makes it dearer?"

Queen's Birthday Honors.
The Queen's Birthday Honor List contains one hundred and twenty-nine names, of these twenty-three being colonial. Chief Justice Strong, of the Supreme Court, Ottawa, is made a Knight Commander of St. George. Hon. James Robert Gowan, LL. D., Senator, and Mr. Collingwood Schrieber, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, are made Companions of St. Michael and St. George.
Everybody knows what a picnic is, but most folks would find it hard to say how it got that name, and yet it is simple enough when you come to learn it. When a picnic was being arranged for, the custom originally was that those who intended to be present should supply the eatables and drinkables. A list of those necessities having been drawn up, it was passed around, and each person picked out the article of food or drink that he or she was willing to furnish, and the name of the article was ticked off the list. The open air entertainments thus became known as "picnic and nick." The custom is said to have dated from 1802, so that the picnic is wholly an institution of the nineteenth century.

WHO ARE ALLOWED TO VOTE.

As it is possible a little uncertainty may exist in the minds of some of the electors regarding who have two votes, one vote or no vote at all in consequence of the acts passed at the last session of the Legislature, we deem it proper in the interests of our readers that a few words should be said on the question.

In the first place, the act respecting the Legislature after setting forth that each of the fifteen districts shall be represented by two members, states, in sections thirty and thirty-one, that one of those members shall be called a Councillor and shall be elected by voters who would be entitled to vote for a member of the Legislative Council, as constituted before the coming into force of this act, and the other member shall be styled an Assemblyman, to be elected by voters who would be entitled to vote for a member of the House of Assembly as heretofore constituted.

In Schedule A. of the same act the qualifications of voters are set forth. In the case of voters for Councillors they must own real estate, freehold or leasehold, or partly freehold and partly leasehold, of the value of three hundred and twenty-five dollars, and must have owned or been in possession of the same for a period of at least six months previous to the date of the writ of election. Now let it be borne in mind that an elector possessing this qualification possesses also the lesser qualification and is entitled to vote for an Assemblyman. That is to say he is entitled to give two votes at an election.

As regards the qualifications of voters for Assemblymen, they remain as before. That is to say such voter shall have possessed for six months previous to the date of the writ of election, the hold estate of the class yearly value of six dollars; or shall have performed his statutory labor, or paid his commutation money for the last year the same shall have become due next by the day of holding the said election, together with the overseer's certificate, and a twelve months' residence in the electoral division or holds a situation exempting from statute labor by statute; or, in the case of the city of Charlottetown and the town of Summerside, shall have paid poll tax to the amount of seventy-five cents.

What we particularly wish to call the attention of our readers to is the fact that those last named voters can give but one vote at any election. Under the law as heretofore existing, they were privileged to vote for two candidates, but the present so-called Liberal Government has so curtailed their rights as to deprive them of one of these votes. Thus, for instance, the father and son have hitherto been in the habit of going to the polls together and casting their votes for the two men of their choice; but hereafter, they may go the election together and the father may vote for any two candidates; but the son, no matter how much he may be interested in the honestest, unless he has in his name a part of the estate worth over three hundred and twenty-five dollars, must be content with one vote. Again, professional men, men engaged in our educational institutions, and having perhaps extensive landed interests, no matter how intelligent or accomplished, if they do not happen to have real estate to the value of three hundred and twenty-five dollars, have only one vote.

Now, a word about those who have been deprived of their votes altogether. These are our readers already know are the Dominion Officials. The act sets forth that it shall not be lawful for any person to vote at an election for a member of the House of Assembly or Legislative Council of this Province, who at any time within thirty days before the day of election was an employee of or in receipt of wages or emolument of any kind as such employee from any of the following Departments of the Government of Canada: Department of Railways and Canals; Department of Marine and Fisheries; Department of Customs; Department of Inland Revenue; Department of Justice; Department of Finance; the Dominion Government Savings Bank; the Department of Public Works and the Post Office Department. The following persons are exempted from the provisions of the act: anyone who may have contracted to furnish materials or to perform any other specific contract with or for any of the said Departments; all Postmasters who shall be in the receipt of less than $100 per annum in their salary; anyone employed by any of the said Departments temporarily by the day, and all who receive money for fishery bounty.

We trust we have made clear to any of our readers who may be in doubt, what our Liberal Government has done by way of curtailing our rights and liberties, and we trust when the day of the election comes, our electors will weigh these facts in mind and find with the Government according to its desire.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Prince Roland Bonaparte and suite arrived here on the steamer St. Lawrence Thursday evening. There was a large crowd of citizens on the wharf, eager to get a glimpse of the prince and his suite. He was met by Mr. Harrison Carvell, private secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor, and then proceeded to the Hotel Davine, where he had engaged a suite of rooms, in the Governor's carriage.

Prince Roland is a fine specimen of humanity, standing six feet one inch and weighing 227 pounds. He is tall, thin, with a high forehead and a keen intellect. He can converse in English, but makes no pretence to be able to deliver a speech in our own language.

The Prince is much interested in educational matters; and accordingly on Friday morning he visited the school at St. Dunstan's College and drove to the Hotel Davine, where he was entertained by the Prince Dams and the Notre Dame during the afternoon. At the last night of the Prince's visit, he entered the music hall, where the pupils had been massed, he was greeted with double applause and a large number of bouquets.

A BUILDING COLLAPSES.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Ford's old Opera House, on Tenth street, in which President Lincoln was assassinated, fell today. Over 200 government clerks were in the building at the time and scarcely one escaped uninjured.

The first floor collapsed through weakness caused by excavation of a cellar, and in its fall loosened the supports of the other three floors, which fell with hundreds of clerks. The dead and wounded were taken out rapidly, and it was at first feared that one hundred persons had been killed. Some jumped from the third floor.

The building has been condemned as unsafe and unusable for the purpose for which it was occupied, but sentiment kept it unchanged. The floors were heavily weighted with records of positions and the records of division of the war department. The clerks employed were all men. The excavations which were the immediate cause of the collapse were being made at the instance of the war department for the purpose of putting in an electric light plant. At the first sound of the collapse the clerks on the third floor, to the number of eighty or one hundred, rushed to the windows and jumped upon the roof of a small adjoining structure. Many escaped in this way. Geo. M. Arnold, a colored clerk, of Virginia, dropped from the third story window, struck on his head on the pavement and was instantly killed. A colored boy named Basil Lockwood, aged 19, climbed a telegraph pole as high as the third story and lashed a ladder to the pole, placing the other end in the window of the building. By this means 19 or 25 persons were rescued. There were 275 clerks in the building. A portion of them were employed in the same and in the printing office. Over 25 dead bodies have been taken from the ruins.

FARMERS COLUMN.

General Management of Farm Stock.

How much we may profit ourselves in the management of our farm stock is a matter which is of great importance to every farmer. It is not enough to have a good stock, but it is equally important to have it well managed. The farmer who neglects the general management of his stock is sure to lose money and to have his stock in a poor state of health.

OVER THE WIRES.

News in Brief.

A fire started in the business portion of Fargo, N. D., on Wednesday and spread for 24 hours. Insurance men estimate the loss on insured property at $2,500,000. Many lives were lost, and 5,000 are homeless.

The marine department has received a beautiful gold watch awarded by the Emperor of Germany to Capt. F. W. Gormley of the Nova Scotia volunteer force, in recognition of services rendered the Hamburg schooner Pollux on January of last year. The watch has the royal coat of arms of Germany engraved on the case and raised medallion of the Emperor. It is beautiful and costly.

Sir William Dawson will retire next week from the principalship of McGill university, and he will it is said, be given an annuity by the institution. If a McGill man is chosen it will probably be Vice-President Johnson, yet the new principal may be chosen outside the university.

After this year fifty-one bands of Indians in the territories at present exempt, will be required to observe the game laws. This action is necessary owing to the rapid depletion of game. The order applies to fifty-two bands of the treaty Indians.

The Government cutter Vigilant captured the United States schooner Lissa H. Giles, of Gloucester, while cruising down the Nova Scotia coast from Cape North on Saturday. The schooner was fishing within two miles of the shore. The vessel was taken to North Sydney.

A special from Pueblo, Mexico, says: The most disastrous storm that has ever visited that part of Mexico, is reported from the town of Pachmista. The entire town was destroyed Friday, every residence and building in the place being swept away by the terrific wind. The houses were blown down and 300 were injured. The storm also destroyed the crops of several sections.

Home State Bill. London, June 6.—In the house of commons today, J. G. Butler, conservative, moved to amend the home rule bill in such a manner as to prevent the Irish legislature from enacting conservative laws in reference to the crimes of conspiracy, combination, and sedition, rioting and crime against the person.

Irish Chief Secretary Morley said that nothing would be surer to promote friction between Great Britain and Ireland than the adoption of such an amendment. Mr. Butler's amendment was rejected by a vote of 318 to 276.

Sir Henry James, liberal unionist, offered a motion to the effect that among the power reserved from the Irish legislature should be the power of dealing with the amendment. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 304 to 255.

London, June 7.—In the House of Commons today Irish members of both factions took ground among further jockeying to the enemies of home rule. Sir John Broderick, financial secretary to the war office in Lord Salisbury's cabinet, offered an amendment to prevent the Irish Legislature from dealing with the question of immigration and the rights of aliens and to give the right to expel aliens from the country.

The Government finally accepted the amendment, Irish Chief Secretary Morley suggesting that it could be met by inserting the word "aliens" after "alienage" in section 3 of the bill.

Sir John Broderick assented to Mr. Morley's suggestion, whereupon Mr. Timothy Healy (Nationalist) earnestly protested. Mr. Healy said the proposed amendment might cause great trouble to the Irish Government.

For instance, the work house at Cork was constantly charged with pauper aliens from America. With the amendment about aliens adopted, the Irish Government could take no steps to abate the evil.

Mr. Thomas Sexton (Nationalist) spoke against the amendment. Mr. Gladstone appealed to the Irish members not to oppose the amendment, as it merely insured that Imperial obligations should be carried with in Imperial control.

The amendment carried by 318 to 139. The Irish Nationalists and many Liberals voted against the Government, while all the Conservatives and Liberal Unionists supported the Government.

The words "as such" were also inserted after some further discussion, so that the sub-section now provides that the Irish Legislature is debared from legislating in respect to "treason, treasonable conspiracy, aliens as such, or naturalization."

Mr. L. H. Courtney, Liberal Unionist, moved to expunge the trade and quarantine restriction in sub-section 7 of section 3.

Mr. Gladstone opposed the amendment. He admitted that there was a large demand in Ireland for the control of external trade, but the Irish members of Parliament accepted the change. Mr. Barnard had once mentioned the prospect of Ireland adopting the protective policy, but he withdrew that suggestion in accepting the home rule bill of 1886. Public opinion in Ireland endorsed his course.

"Mistake" To Lord Salisbury.

My lord, we hope your heart is glad. We've done our best to make it so.

To Herford's yard the sport began; We rubbed the rebels out pell-mell.

Of course, as we were late to one. And not very hard to do.

But there is news more cheering still. The best you've heard for some days.

And in Wales, flung by loyal men, Through Pagets' doors and windows.

Well, if some Pagets' heads we broke, Of you no mortal can complain.

With all respect, my lord, we think You would have liked to see our boys.

While swilling down the plumbed drink, Indulge their wit but simple joys.

And here, as they staggered home, Triumphant from each merry scene.

With all respect, my lord, we think You would have liked to see our boys.
