Strike Down the Enemy.

THE address of the Leader of the Opposition, Hon. D. Gordon, published in this issue, briefly and tersely sets forth some of the many reasons why the present Provincial Government should be removed from power on the 12th of December. As is plainly evident from the evidence furnished

Government have broken their pledges, falsified their promises and have consequently, forfeited the confidence of the electorate of this Province. They promised to reduce public expenditure; but the record shows they have largely increased it. In the strongest language possible they condemned a Provincial debt, yet in nine years they have added about $500,000 to the debt of the Province. They solemnly declared when they took office the day of taxation was far off, and have since then assured the electors they would receive an amount of money from Ottawa that would remove taxation for all time. In all these declarations they have most outrageously deceived the electorate; for in their nine years of office they have collected from the people $288,649 in taxes. This is what the people have for placing in power the present Government and keeping them there. They promised to make revenue and expenditure meet; but the public accounts show that the average annual deficit, since they assumed power, has been $39,543. When in opposition they never ceased to proclaim that there was no necessity for a Commissioner of Public Works and that the Land Office should be closed. But, in the face of this they have continued that office with its expenditures, although they have been in office over nine years. The financial policy of the Government has been simply ruinous, as any one can see by giving the matter a little thought. Although they extracted, in the shape of taxes, the sum of $288,649 from the pockets of the people, they ran behind in their accounts during their time in office, as we have already shown, to the tune of $355,888. Adding together these deficits and taxes we have the enormous sum of $644,537. This is the way the Government have carried out their promises and have made revenue and expenditure meet. In return for all this expenditure and taxation the people have received no substantial benefit. Our public road system, as carried on by the Government is simply a public scandal; a sink for absorbing the people's money, without any return in the shape of improved highways. The interest paid on the public debt, has been increased by the present Government to the extent of $16,378.07. This in itself should be enough to cause the people to set their face against the present Government and to send them about their business on the 12th of December. Our Province is without sources of public revenues, such as the valuable mineral and lumber areas of the other Provinces of the Dominion, and if the policy of going in debt is to be permitted much longer, the Island will be irretrievably mortgaged to the money lenders. This is no imaginary picture of our financial condition; but is such as any one can see who will take the trouble to give the matter serious consideration. It is not, therefore, time to call halt; to resign ourselves from our lethargy and make an effort to preserve our heritage, by removing the present Government from power on the 12th of December?

Premier Farquharson and His "Mission."

The Patriot of the 20th contains the following note:

"Premier Farquharson returned last evening from Ottawa. He expresses himself as being well pleased with his reception and with the result of his mission. In a short time he will lay before the public a statement showing what has been accomplished." In this connection it is well to consider the following facts. The Patriot of

July 3, 1891—Amount due banks - - - $53,442.21

June 2, 1900—Amount due banks and for debentures and loans $531,801.40

These are the amounts set forth in official statements, issued on the dates given, under the signature of Arthur Newbery, Deputy Provincial Secretary and Treasurer.

To the Electors of Prince Edward Island.

As the Government have issued their mandate for a general election on the 12th of December and you will be called upon to choose representatives to manage your affairs in the next parliament of this Province, it is fit and proper that a retrospect be taken and a true estimate formed of our position and financial standing as a Province.

The term of the Legislative Assembly, just dissolved, had many months remaining, and much surprise is expressed that the electors should have been put to trouble and annoyance at this unseasonable time.

However, it is evident that the Government are acting on the assumption that the present time is auspicious, owing to the result of the recent Dominion election. They hope, by this sharp movement, to obtain a snap verdict from the electorate in order to hold on to power for a further term.

A stronger reason for this unconstitutional appeal to the electorate at this time seems to be a desire to secure the vote before the people have had time to examine the public accounts showing how rapidly the debt of the Province has been rolled up.

Previous to the election of 1897, attention had been directed to the reckless and wasteful extravagance which obtained in the public service, and it was hoped that better methods would be adopted. On the contrary, notwithstanding the promises of the Government to make revenue and expenditure meet, it is found that the debt has increased enormously, by leaps and bounds, the balance against the Province being many thousands of dollars greater than a year ago. It will be found, when the accounts are before the public,

True Economy

The difference of cost between a good and a poor baking powder would not amount for a family's supply to one dollar a year. The poor powder would cost many times the amount of the good.

Royal Baking Powder may cost a little more per can, but it insures perfect, wholesome food. In fact, it is more economical in the end, because it goes further in leavening and never spoils the food.

Royal Baking Powder used always in making the biscuit and cake saves both health and money.

You cannot, if you value good health, afford to use cheap, low-grade, alum baking powders. They are apt to spoil the food; they do endanger the health. All physicians will tell you that alum in food is poisonous.

the 19th contained the following telegraphic news:

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—Sir Louis Davies and Hon. Mr. Fielding arrived here on Saturday, along with them was Premier Farquharson.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is taking a few days quiet at Arthabaskaville. By these despatches it will be seen that Mr. Farquharson reached Ottawa on the 17th, which was Saturday and reached home on return Monday night. His stay in Ottawa must have been very brief and must have been part of Saturday and part of Sunday, as one cannot come from Ottawa in a day. While he was there Sir Wilfrid Laurier was taking a "few days quiet at Arthabaskaville" therefore Mr. Farquharson did not see him. It will therefore be interesting to know who encouraged him in his "mission" and on what date the "mission" was "accomplished."

The term of the Legislative Assembly, just dissolved, had many months remaining, and much surprise is expressed that the electors should have been put to trouble and annoyance at this unseasonable time.

However, it is evident that the Government are acting on the assumption that the present time is auspicious, owing to the result of the recent Dominion election. They hope, by this sharp movement, to obtain a snap verdict from the electorate in order to hold on to power for a further term.

A stronger reason for this unconstitutional appeal to the electorate at this time seems to be a desire to secure the vote before the people have had time to examine the public accounts showing how rapidly the debt of the Province has been rolled up.

Previous to the election of 1897, attention had been directed to the reckless and wasteful extravagance which obtained in the public service, and it was hoped that better methods would be adopted. On the contrary, notwithstanding the promises of the Government to make revenue and expenditure meet, it is found that the debt has increased enormously, by leaps and bounds, the balance against the Province being many thousands of dollars greater than a year ago. It will be found, when the accounts are before the public, that the property holders will have good cause for serious alarm.

The electors looked for great improvements from the party in power. This party asserted that they would manage affairs better than any previous administration. They solemnly declared that "taxation was a long way off," and promised that they would reduce the public expenditure. They denounced the idea of a Provincial debt. The system of borrowing at the banks was severely condemned.

They promised the electors that the claims of the province against the Dominion government would be speedily settled, failing which the matter in question would be submitted to arbitration.

It is not possible to enumerate all the promises given and pledges broken within the compass of this brief address. Suffice to say, that the people have been deceived and disappointed.

The public service has been degraded; the system of expending the money granted for road service without competition, has become a public scandal, and the people have decided that the money shall be applied to the purpose for which it was voted, and not to government officials and their favorites.

It may be asked—What is the policy of the Opposition?

The Opposition hold that the government should adopt measures to recover all moneys due this province from the Dominion.

That the financial position of the province shall be ascertained exactly, and means devised for making revenue and expenditure meet for the future.

They assert that the whole Road System is corrupt and inefficient and requires to be re-modelled.

They demand that the law which now permits absolute representation be so amended as to prevent a repetition of the recent abuses.

They condemn the mismanagement of the Stock Farm, and the failure of the government to give proper encouragement to agriculture and fruit-growing.

They insist that no public money shall be expended in excess of the votes of the legislature, unless in case of urgent necessity.

Provision will be made for a quarterly publication of revenue and expenditure.

A radical change will be made in the administration of the Public Works Department so that the money now misapplied, shall be used for the purpose intended, and not for the benefit of private individuals as is now the custom.

Economy will be carried out in every department.

Taxation will be arranged upon a more equitable basis and kept down to the lowest limit consistent with the needs of the public service.

ently with the needs of the public service.

The resources of the Province will be safeguarded and husbanded by every legitimate means that can be devised.

With these assurances and holding those views, the Liberal-Conservative party appeal to you, the electorate of the whole Province for your approval and support, firmly convinced that upon due consideration a right conclusion will be arrived at, and that the present Government will meet, as it deserves, your condemnation at the polls on the 12th day of December.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,
D. GORDON.

THE ART OF STUDY.

(By B. A. Hinsdale. The American Book Co.)

Nowadays the study of psychology is part of the training necessary to acquire even the rudiments of the science of teaching. The relation between teacher and pupil proved the wisdom of studying the nature of the child before attempting to draw forth its latent powers. Professor Hinsdale, who occupies the pedagogical chair in the University of Michigan, has done much toward the training of teachers in his works addressed especially to them; and his latest book, "The Art of Study," will serve to emphasize his previous efforts toward outlining the position of instructor and of student. To the list of reference books recommended by Mr. Hinsdale we would add the volume on psychology in the Stoneyhurst series, a new edition of which has just appeared; also "The Child," by Mgr. Dapsaloup, and Bishop Spalding's essays on Education.—Ave Maria.

The will of the late Marquis of Bute contains the following ecclesiastical bequests: £10,000, the income of which shall be applied for the upkeep of daily Catholic Cathedral services at Oban in the church to be built there, any surplus to be devoted towards educating any of the chorists at any of the Scottish Universities; £40,000 for the purpose of erecting and completing a Catholic church at Oban and a Catholic church or monastery at Whithorn; to the Catholic Bishop of Argyll and his successors in office the sum of £200 per annum; to the Catholic Bishop of Galloway and his successors in office the sum of £100 per annum. One thousand pounds is bequeathed to the Catholic Archbishop of St. Andrews of Edinburgh, and a like sum to the Jewish rabbi of Sco land to be mortgaged, and the annual proceeds applied by each of them to the maintenance of students at St. Andrews University. An annuity of £100 for Monsignor Thomas J. Capel is also provided for.

The Holy Father, whose poetic inspiration appears to suffer no interruption during the busy days of the "Ann S' n' n," has composed some masterly verses on the occasion of the solemn festivities in honor of St. Augustine which took place at Paris on the 9th ultimo, the "S' n' n" being represented by the Eminence Cardinal Crosti.

The Government and the People.

As intimated in a recent issue, the Farquharson Government have ordered a general election for this Province, to take place on Wednesday, December 12th.

It is not responsible for all the debt; that there was a provincial debt of $1,225,000, which they must be judged.

Having scandalously deceived the people and falsified all the promises of economy made in 1898, the Government found it necessary to invent a new shibboleth when they again appealed to the electors in 1897.

Majority for McKinnon..... 7 It is probable that the matter may yet come before the higher courts of appeal.

Mr. Tarte's Boast.

It is impossible for Mr. Tarte's or any man to restrain his emotions over the prospective triumph of his party in the provincial elections.

RETIREMENT OF SIR LOUIS DAVIES

A story is going the rounds of the press to the effect that Sir Louis Davies is about to retire from political life to accept a position on the Supreme Court bench at Ottawa.

The Prices.

The recount of the ballots in East Queens which began before Judge McDonald on Friday, concluded yesterday afternoon, with the result that Mr. McKinnon was awarded the seat by a majority of seven votes.

The Annual St. Andrew's Dinner under the auspices of the Caledonian Club, was held at the Queen Hotel on Thursday evening last. A large attendance was present, and full justice was accorded the splendid menu. The toast list was a long one, and was honored in due style. The songs and speeches were of a high order, and were kept up till the "was sma' hours." "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

The death occurred in Montreal on Sunday of the Very Rev. James M. Quinan, D. D., Vicar-General of the diocese of Antigonish. He had been in ill health for a long time. Some time ago he went to Montreal for treatment, and strong hopes were entertained for his recovery till about a week ago, when he rapidly got worse and passed away Sunday morning, in the 54th year of his age. He was a native of Ballisay, and his death will be a great loss to his diocese. R. I. P.

A BAD fire occurred at Heatherdale on Friday night by which Mr. Alex. McPherson loses his barn containing his whole crop of hay, straw and oats, his farm implements, six cows and a horse. There was no insurance. The proceeds of a concert, which was being held at Caledonia last night, amounting to $40, which were intended for the Caledonia Hall, were voted towards Mr. McPherson's loss when the calamity became known. Such action is highly commendable.

In a report received by the department of agriculture from their agent at Bristol, who is looking into the condition in which Canadian products are landed in Great Britain, he says: "Consignment of eggs landed in good shape, boxes in fine condition, and breakage of eggs very light. If covers could be fastened similar to those on butter boxes, it would save a certain amount of breakage of covers, as several are opened by the customs officers on landing, before being allowed to go forward. As the covers are now nailed on, they are badly broken in being removed for inspection, and it is difficult to replace same for re-shipment."

The Summerside correspondent of the Guardian states that Mr. Alex. Gallant, (Shediac), now of Summerside, was officially notified on Saturday of the recent death of a relative in the United States of a fortune variously and officially estimated at $30,000 and under to himself the said Mr. Alex. Gallant and a number of brothers and sisters. The necessary documents have been signed and forwarded, and it is expected that in the very near future the fortune whether in the shape of a title to an estate or cash will be transferred to the fortunate but mourning relative. Mr. Gallant is, and was until Saturday a laborer, and in no period of his life has been in such circumstances that even a small part of the above would be unwelcome.

A BAD fatality occurred at Malpique on night last week. Two young men, James McArthur, son of Captain McArthur, of the schooner St. Louis, and James Pilon, of St. Francis, left the wharf in a small boat to go aboard the schooner Corporal Trim, to which Mr. McArthur belonged. A stiff gale was blowing, and as it was very dark they arranged that they should shout to their companions when near the schooner. The men on the wharf heard them shouting and supposed that they had reached the vessel in safety. The shouts were probably the cries of the men in distress, their boat probably having capsized. All the shores and islands in Richmond Bay were searched in hope of finding their bodies, but without success. On Thursday dragging was resorted to with the result that Pilon's body was found on Friday near the spot where the schooner was anchored, and McArthur's was found on Saturday. The boat was found on the opposite shore uninjured.

DEWEY ARCH BEING TORN DOWN
 In another week all that is reminiscent of the Dewey arch will be a pile of timbers and boards. The destruction has been ordered by Deputy Commissioner Shannon of highways, and the workmen are busy. The work of removal is necessarily slow, and will be done in the day time. In the meantime Fifth avenue, between 23rd and 24th streets is closed to vehicles and pedestrians. As soon as the figures are taken down and purposely broken that they may be more readily moved, the mass will be thrown into a heap on a North river dock, and there men-to-gatherers may help themselves.

His plan is to include two prominent supporters who are especially conversant with the details of the Reid contract, with a view to action on the measure, if necessary, during the coming session of the legislature. It is assumed that Mr. Chamberlain will offer no objection.

On removal to the hospital it was found that Geoffroin, in addition to being badly bruised, had also received internal injuries, and may not recover. Neelan's left leg was fractured above the ankle.

COME HERE

If You Want to Get Fleeced.

Come to Paton & Co. Not many stores will come out in plain print and say they'll fleece you—but many of them will do so and not say a word—let you find it out for yourself. There are more ways than one to fleece a man, however—one way you lose—our way you win. We'll fleece you with genuine heavy weight, fleeced lined underwear for 50c a garment—$1.00 a suit. Nobody else sells this quality for less than 60c a garment, $1.20 a suit—and then they don't fleece you out of a cent in money—they simply charge you what these goods are worth. There ARE stores in this city that charge 75c a garment—5c more for one garment than we charge for a whole suit—for no better quality—and they FLEECE you in every sense and cents of the word. We carry many kinds of fleeced underwear—up to pink and blue with fleeced lining, and heavy weight lamb's wool underwear, which we sell for 90c. and $1.00 a garment, fully a third under the next lowest price in the city. If you want to get fleeced—come here—or if you don't want fleeced—we carry every sort of good underwear that a good store ought to carry.

If You Want to Get Skinned

Some Stores Skin You

We skin our customers with the Best Astrican Skins made up into Ladies Black Fur Coats. Some stores skin you with high prices on an Astrican Jacket with a tag to its name. Watch you don't get skinned, we mean your "purse" by paying $59.50 for a Fur Jacket that ought to be sold and sold well at $29.50, but then it has a tag to its tail and the only Fur shop on this little Island claims it as its "own little child."

Constipation Cured.

THE SILENT MARCH.

When the march begins in the morning, And the heart and the foot are light, When the flags are all a-duster, And the world is in gay and bright, When the bugles lead the column, And the drums are proud in the van, It's shoulder to shoulder, forward, march; Ah! let him lag who can!

For it's easy to march to music, With your comrades all in line, And you don't get tired, you feel inspired, And life is a draught divine. When the march drags on at evening, And the color-bearer's gone, When the merry strains are silent, That piped to brave, at dawn, When you miss the drum of fellows Who started out with you, When it's stubborn and starchy, forward, march, Though the ragged lines are few.

Then it's hard to march in silence, And the road has become grown, A life is a bitter cup to drink; But the soldier must not moan. And this is the task before us, A task we may never shirk, In the gay time and the sorrowful time We must march and do our work. We must march when the music cheers us, March when the strains are dumb, Plucky and valiant, forward, march, And smile, whatever may come.

Treasure Island

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

PART II. THE SEA COOK.

COUNCIL OF WAR. "Now, captain," said the squire, you were right and I was wrong. I own myself an ass, and I await your orders. "No more an ass than I, sir," returned the captain. "I never heard of a crew that meant to mutiny but what showed signs before, for any man that had an eye in his head to see the mischief and take steps according. But this crew, he added, "beats me."

"Captain," said the doctor, "with your permission, that Silver's a very remarkable man. "He'd look remarkably well from a yard-arm, sir," returned the captain. "But this is talk; this don't lead to anything. I see three or four points, and with Mr. Trelawney's permission I'll name them."

"You, sir, are the captain. It is for you to speak," said Mr. Trelawney, grandly. "First point, began Mr. Smollett, "we must go on because we can't turn back. If I give the word to turn back they would rise at once. Second point, we have time before us—at least until this treasure's found. Third point, there are faithful hands. Now, sir, it's got to come to blows sooner or later, and what I propose is to take time by the forelock, as the saying is, and come to blows some fine day when they least expect it. We can count, I take it, on your own home servants, Mr. Trelawney?"

"As upon myself," declared the squire. "Three," reckoned the squire; ourselves make seven, counting Hawkins here. Now about the honest hands?" "Most likely Trelawney's own men," said the doctor; those he picked up for himself before he lit on Silver.

"Nay," replied the squire, "Hands was one of mine." "I did think I could have trusted Hands," added the captain. "And to think that they are all Englishmen!" broke out the squire. "Sir, I could find it in my heart to blow the ship up."

"Well, gentlemen," said the captain, "the best I can say is not much. We must lay to, if you please, and keep a bright lookout. It's trying on a man, I know. It would be pleasanter to come to blows. But there's no help for it till we know our men. Lay to and whistle for a wind; that's my view."

"Jim, here," said the doctor, "can help me more than anyone. The men are not shy with him and Jim is a noticing lad." "Hawkins, I put prestigious faith in you," added the squire. I began to feel pretty desperate at this, for I felt altogether helpless, and yet, by an odd train of circumstances, it was indeed through me that safety came. In the meantime, talk as we pleased, there was only seven out of the twenty-six on whom we knew we could rely, and out of these seven one was a boy, so that the grown men on our side were six to their nineteen.

PART III. My Shore Adventure.

CHAPTER XIII.

HOW I BEGAN MY SHORE ADVENTURE.

The appearance of the I-land when I came on deck next morning was altogether changed. Although the breeze had now utterly failed we had made a great deal of way during the night and were now lying becalmed half a mile to the southeast of the low eastern coast. Gray-colored woods covered a large part of the surface. This even tint was indeed broken up by the streaks of yellow sward in the lower lands, and by many tall trees of the pine family, out-topping the others—some singly, some in clumps; but the general coloring was uniform and sad. The hills ran up clear above the vegetation in spires of naked rock. All were strangely shaped, and the spires, which was by three or four hundred feet the tallest on the island, was likewise the strangest in configuration, running up sheer from almost every side, and then suddenly cut off at the top like a pedestal to put a statue on.

The Hispanics was rolling souper under in the ocean swell. The booms were tearing at the blocks, the rudder was banging to and fro, and the whole ship creaking, groaning and jumping like a manufactory. I had to cling tight to the backstay and the world turned giddily before my eyes, for though I was a good enough sailor when there was way on this, standing still and being rolled about like a bottle was a thing I never learned to stand without a quail or so, and above all in the morning, on an empty stomach.

Perhaps it was this, perhaps it was the look of the island, with its gray, melancholy woods, and wild stone spires, and the surf that we could both see and hear foaming and thundering on the steep beach—at least, although the sun shone bright and hot, and the shore birds were fishing and crying all around us, and you would have thought anyone would have been glad to get to land after being so long at sea, my heart sank, as the saying is, into my boots, and from that first look onward I hated the very thought of Treasure Island.

We had a dreary morning's work before us, for there was no sign of any wind, and the boats had to be got out and manned and the ship worked three or four miles round the corner of the island and up the narrow passage to the haven behind Skeleton Island. I volunteered for one of the boats, where I had of course no business. The heat was sweltering and the men grumbled fiercely over their work. Anderson was in command of my boat, and instead of keeping the crew in order he grumbled as loud as the worst. "Well," he said, with an oath, "it's not forever."

I thought this was a very bad sign, for, up to that day, the men had gone briskly and willingly about their business, but the very sight of the island had relaxed the cords of discipline. All the way in Long John stood by the steersman, and coned the ship. He knew the passage like the palm of his hand; and though the man in the chains got everywhere more water than was down in the chart, John never hesitated once. "There's a strong scour with the ebb," he said, "and this here passage has been dug out, in a manner of speaking, with a spade."

We brought up just where the anchor was in the chart, about a third of a mile from either shore, the mainland on one side and Skeleton Island on the other. The bottom was clean sand. The plunge of our anchor sent up clouds of birds wheeling and crying over the woods, but in less than a minute they were all down again, and it was once more silent.

The place was entirely land-locked, buried in woods, the trees coming right down to high-water mark, the shores mostly flat, and the hills-tops standing round at a distance in a sort of amphitheatre, one here, one there. Two little rivers, or rather two swamps, emptied out into this pond, as you might call it; and the foliage round that part of the shore had a kind of poisonous brightness. From the ship we could see nothing of the house or stockade, for they were quite buried among trees; and if it had not been for the chart on the companion, we might have been the first that had ever anchored there since the island arose out of the seas.

There was not a breath of air moving, nor a sound but that of the surf booming half a mile away along the beaches and against the rocks outside. A peculiar stagnant smell hung over the anchorage—a smell of sodden leaves and rotten tree-trunks. I observed the doctor sniffing and sniffing, like someone tasting a bad egg. "I don't know about treasure," he said, "but I'll stake my wig there's fever here."

If the conduct of the men had been alarming in the boat, it became truly threatening when they had come aboard. They lay about the deck, growing together in talk. The slightest order was received with a black look, and grudgingly and carelessly obeyed. Even the honest hands must have caught the infection, for there was not one man aboard to mend another. Mutiny, it was plain, hung over us like a thunder-cloud. And it was not only we of the cabin party who perceived the danger. Long John was hard at work going from group to group, spending himself in good advice, and as for example no man could have shown better. He fairly outstripped himself in willingness and civility; he was all smiles to every one. If an order was given, John would be on his crutch in an instant, with the cheeriest "Ay, ay, sir!" in the world; and when there was nothing else to do, he kept up one song after another, as if to conceal the discontent of the rest.

Of all the gloomy features of that gloomy afternoon, this obvious anxiety on the part of Long John appeared the worst. We held a council in the cabin. "Sir," said the captain, "if I risk another order, the whole ship'll come about our ears by the run. You see, sir, here it is. I get a rough answer, do I not? Well, if I speak back, pikes will be going in two shakes; if I don't, Silver will see there's something under that, and the game's up. Now, we've only one man to rely on."

"And who is that?" asked the squire. "Silver, sir," returned the captain; "he's as anxious as you and I to smother things up. This is a tip; he'd soon talk 'em out of it if he had the chance, and what I propose to do is to give him the chance. Let's allow the men an afternoon ashore. If they'll go, why, we'll fight the ship. If none of them go, well, then, we hold the cabin, and God defend the right. If some go, you mark my words, sir, Silver'll bring 'em aboard again as mild as lambs."

It was so decided; loaded pistols were served out to all the sane men. Hunter, Joyce and Redruth were taken into our confidence, and received the news with less surprise and a better spirit than we had looked for, and then the captain went on deck and addressed the crew.

"My lads," said he, "we've had a hot day, and are all tired and out of sorts. A turn ashore'll hurt nobody; the boats are still in the water; you can take the gigs, and as many as please can go ashore for the afternoon. I'll fire a gun half an hour before sundown."

I believe the silly fellows must have thought they would break their skins over the treasure as soon as they were landed; for they all came out of their sulks in a moment, and gave a cheer that started the ebb in a far-away bill, and sent the birds once more flying and equaling around the anchorage.

The captain was too bright to be in the way. He whipped out of eight in a moment, leaving Silver to arrange the party, and I fancy it was well he did so. Had he been on deck he could no longer so much as have pretended not to understand the situation. It was as plain as daylight. Silver was the captain, and a mighty rebellious crew he had of it. The honest hands—and I was soon to see it proved that there were such on board—must have been very "upid fellows. Or, rather, I suppose the truth was this: that all hands were disaffected by the example of the ring-leaders—only some more, some less; and a few, being good fellows in the main, could neither be led nor driven any farther. It is one thing to be idle and skulk, and quite another to take a ship and murder a number of innocent men.

A Terrible Cough.

If people would only treat coughs and colds in time with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, there would be fewer homes desolate. The severest coughs and colds, bronchitis and croup, and the first stages of consumption, yield readily to this powerful, lung-healing remedy. Read what Mrs. Carter, Northport, Ont., says: "I caught a severe cold, which settled on my throat and lungs, so that I could scarcely speak above a whisper. I also had a terrible cough which my friends thought would send me to my grave. I tried different remedies but all failed to do me any good until I took Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and the contents of one bottle completely cured me."

At last, however, the party was made up. Six fellows were to stay on board, and the remaining thirteen, including Silver, began to embark.

Then it was that there came into my head the first of the mad notions that contributed much to save our lives. If six men were left by Silver, it was plain our party could not take and fight the ship; and since only six were left, it was equally plain that the cabin party had no present need of my assistance. It occurred to me at once to go ashore. In a jiffy I had slipped over the side and curled up in the foreheads of the nearest boat, and almost at the same moment she shoved off.

No one took notice of me, only the bow or saying, "Is that you, Jim! Keep your head down." But Silver, from the other boat, looked sharply over and called out to know if that were me; and from that moment I began to regret what I had done. The crews raced for the beach, but the boat I was in, having some start, and being at once the lighter and the better manned, shot far ahead of her consort, and the bow had struck among the shore-side trees, and I had caught a branch and swung myself out, and plunged into the nearest thicket, while Silver and the rest were still a hundred yards behind.

"Jim, Jim!" I heard him shouting. But you may suppose I paid no heed; jumping, dacking and breaking through, I ran straight before my nose, till I could run no longer. (To be continued.)

What Would You Give To be cured of Catarrh? If you or your friends have this disease, you know how disagreeable it is. Its symptoms are inflamed eyes, throbbing temples, ringing noises in the ears, headache, capricious appetite, and constant discharge of mucus. Fortunately its cure is not a question of what you will give, but what you will take. If you will take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great constitutional remedy, which thoroughly purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, you may expect to be completely and permanently cured. The good blood which Hood's Sarsaparilla makes, reaching the delicate passages of the mucous membrane, soothes and rebuilds the tissues and ultimately cures all symptoms of catarrh.

Business Men's Backs.

Too much rush and bustle, work and worry lead to that sea of the average business man. Kidneys can't stand it; they fail to filter the poisons from the blood properly. Urinary troubles, general languor and pain in the back are the natural results. A man can't attend to business properly if his back aches—no use trying. Only one sure remedy that never fails—DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS. Take a hint from business men who have used them: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at the Medical Hall here, for rheumatism and pains in the small of my back, which I have been afflicted with for the past six years. They did me so much good that I heartily recommend them as an excellent medicine for rheumatic troubles and headache." CHAS. C. FERRY, dealer in agricultural implements, Orillia, Ont. "Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache, lumbago or weak back, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, gravel, sediment in the urine, too frequent risings at night, rheumatism, and weakness of the kidneys in children and old people. Remember the name, Doan's, and refuse all others. The Doan Kidney Pills Co., Rochester, N.Y."

These pills have done her a world of good, restoring strong, healthy action of her heart, improving her general health and giving her physical strength beyond our expectations. 13 Running Sores.

Mr. Stephen Wescott, Freeport, N.S., gives the following experience with Burdock Blood Bitters. I was very much run down in health and employed our local physician who attended me three months; finally my leg broke out in running sores with fearful burning. I had thirteen running sores at one time from my knee to the top of my foot. All the medicine I took did me no good, so I threw it aside and tried B.B.B. When one-half the bottle was gone I noticed a change for the better and by the time I had finished two bottles my leg was perfectly healed and my health greatly improved.

Why Scott's

EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil? There are others; why SCOTT'S?

The good one is SCOTT'S. It's nearly 30 years old; it is used by intelligent people all over the world; and approved by physicians all over the world.

When anyone says "Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," he means SCOTT'S. No other is famous. SCOTT'S EMULSION is made in a certain way; of certain things; it keeps; it is always alike; it does what it does.

The others—nobody knows what they are or do. There wouldn't be any others but for the goodness of SCOTT'S—there wouldn't be any counterfeit money but for the true.

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other. If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto. 50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
