CHAPTER XXXV.
SYDNEY DRIVES A BARGAIN.

"Our taking it," he answered huskily, "could make no real difference to your happiness, Miss Alwyn. It would destroy all chance of mine. Will you let that have some small weight with you? Spend your wealth with him who will soon claim you. Forget, though I shall not, that you ever made this generous offer."

She hung her head. "No one will claim me," she said, with a wondrous soft distinctness, "I suppose. It—that was all a mistake of Miss Jean's."

At this an ungovernable exclamation escaped him. He started violently. Out from their hiding-place dropped the withered flowers.

Sydney had them in an instant. "You have only lost all come worthless rosebuds. Mr. Hurst, I will fling them away."

"They are mine, Miss Alwyn. Give them to me," with hand extended in desperate earnest for his treasure.

"Let me gather you fresh ones. No, no; those, if you please. I must have them."

"You shall not," she said, "till you promise to take that money."

"Then rob me, if you choose," he cried, worked into all but frenzy by passionate pain, "but I will not rob you."

"You need not rob me at all," she said, just loud enough for him to hear; "take—me—too!"

There was a long minute's pause. Gilbert Hurst fell back, then stood at bay. Sydney stole to him as only a true woman would have dared. He put his hand out to repel her. She took it, clasped it softly in her own.

"I did something else, the most wicked of all," she whispered, "but I am not sorry for that. I was by the window a little while before I spoke. I saw you—I heard you."

He gave a sigh that was grievous. "And would marry me—God forbid—for pity!"

"No, Gilbert," she said, with a splendid boldness that bade his soul be comforted, "for love, only for love!"

And when his arms were about her, his heart to hers, her sweet kiss answered his, he believed at last, with such a deep rejoicing as made the hour sacred to both forever.

CHAPTER XXXVI.
"SHAKE HANDS ALL ROUND, GOOD FRIENDS."

The whole business was a very bitter pill to Mrs. Alwyn, restoring as it did her younger daughter to the precise position she herself had abdicated, with such ill-grace and in such singular ill-odor.

But that last lamentable fiasco with Leonora had thrown her into very real illness. Sydney, hurrying to Paris, had nursed her mother, with self-denial scarcely appreciated—for did she not know some one on the other side of the Channel counted every day a week till she was by him?—and common recognition of the tender zeal she might have died for lack of left to poor Leonora only, tied Mrs. Alwyn's tongue on subjects impossible to be agreed upon by her and her attendant.

"I presume any attempt on my part to persuade you from throwing yourself away as you propose doing would be useless, Sydney," was her nearest approach to argument on this topic.

"Perfectly useless, mamma," Sydney answered gently, and Mrs. Alwyn, weak and disarmed at this stage of her convalescence, bowed to the inevitable, though in aftertime and better health she was not sparing of hints among her acquaintances that her life had been greatly hampered, her income (by some mysterious reckoning of her own) much narrowed, by the doings of a daughter who, "with some admirable points, never knew what it was to submit to a mother, never could bear to be guided!" and on that score she secured a good deal of sympathy from a new circle of intimates.

Her one parent being unequal to the exertion of superintending a wedding, Sydney was married in early autumn from the Draytons, the Dacles coming down to Grandville for the double pleasure of the event and a delighted inspection of their daughter's new domain. And there, self-elected groomsman, came Sydney's old fellow-schoolmate, charmed with all brought about by these late changes, especially their new watches (not silver); and these two people to whom he had been drawn as kinsfolk in spirit though not in blood, and from whose union he went back to his parish acknowledgment, as he does at every parting from them since, that he who directs men's lives planned well their separate sorrows, which now are merged in mutual happiness so full and true.

The Babbingtons being in full possession of Wynstone, where, however, "ample room," Horatio says, was at the disposal of Mrs. Babbington's brother till September, Gilbert Hurst and his wife, unfettered by house or establishment, went further and further south, till they wintered on another continent and there saw the seasons round before returning to England.

During their absence Mrs. Alwyn took up residence in a tiny London house on the skirts of a fashionable square, and with perseverance worthy of a better cause began sweeping the matrimonial seas once more for Leonora's behoof.

The labor was shortened unexpectedly. Mr. Rupert Villiers came dutifully to pay his respects to his aunt, his compliments to his cousin, about Leonora's broken engagement the major had withheld all particulars. He was not a man to gossip even with his son over a woman's disappointment. The ladies soon found to their relief that nothing of the pseudo Mr. Morecombe-Wood's history was known to any one likely to retail it.

"The man was unworthy of my Leonora! never name him to me. Only help her to forget him," Mrs. Alwyn begged, and Mr. Rupert obeyed very literally.

He found the cultivation of cynicism, slow for a lengthened period. Mrs. Alwyn's "stratagem means" (she kept Sydney's supplementing hundreds strictly to herself) were not contemptible, taken in conjunction with a stock of valuable furniture.

CHAPTER I.

Iris rode on, with a sigh of relief. She didn't dislike Clarence, Lord Montacute, by any means, and she would have liked him very much if he hadn't been so obviously and palpably in love with her. She had been dreading all the time they had stood talking, that he would ask permission to accompany her, and even as she rode away she feared that he would follow in pursuit, and it was not until she had reached the confines of the heath, and had got into a pretty lane, that she felt quite safe.

The Holt, to which she had told Lord Montacute that she was going, was one of the outlying farms—of course belonging to the manor—and was in the occupation of an old nurse of her father's. Iris often rode or drove over to see her, and was received as a young goddess, deigning to bless the earth by alighting on it for a few short hours.

She was so pleased at having escaped Lord Montacute, that, looking round first to see that she was quite alone, she began to sing; and it was just as if a nightingale had mistaken the sun for the moon and had burst into song. Snow, who knew his beloved mistress' ways, dropped into a walk, the reins fell loosely upon his neck, and Iris, forgetting everything, glided unconsciously from song to song. Now it was an old English ballad, then an Italian barcarolle, and again the soft, plaintive chant, which she could remember the sweet and gentle-voiced nuns singing at vespers.

Suddenly, so suddenly that the song died upon her lips as if smitten by a blow, and Snow, started and got on his hind legs, there came upon the air the sound of a huge, voluminous bell.

Iris smiled and patted the horse. "You stupid!" she said. "It is only the old bell!"

But the following increased and grew so furious, that, more to pacify the horse than to satisfy her own curiosity, she rode up to the hedge and looked over. The smile that still lingered on her lips vanished suddenly, and in place of it came an expression of alarm and disquietude.

She was looking over into a large meadow surrounded by a high hedge, having a four-barred gate at the corner. Near the gate was a big and particularly purracious-looking bull, and just below her stood a young man.

The man and the animal stood looking at each other steadily, the latter evidently working himself up into a bovine fury, striking the ground with his front feet, fashing his tail and waving his head; the former as evidently wondering how he was to get to the gate, and how long before the bull came dashing across the meadow at him.

Iris looked from the bull to the man; he was young and straight as an arrow—for he had drawn himself up in an unconscious attitude of defiance and readiness; his bare head—his live worn and battered hat—lay on the ground—above his head was a golden halo, and a head of brown hair touched with gold can albat; his suit—leggings and shooting jacket both—bore evidences of time and stress of weather, and his hands—as was the back of his neck—were tanned by the sun.

In the first momentary glance Iris knew that he was a gentleman. Presently, without seeing her, he turned his head, and she saw that he was handsome.

There was a suggestion of a smile in his dark brown eyes, and about the lips half hidden by a golden mustache which certainly indicated anything but fear, as if he found the situation rather amusing than otherwise; and Iris reflected the smile. But it was only for a second, for she knew the bull and realized the danger.

A word of warning rose to her lips, but for some reason which she did not analyze she remained silent and simply waited.

The bull set his head down and uttered another series of bellows, struck at the ground with increased viciousness, and, with the cunning of a brute who wants to make sure of his prey, moved slowly toward the spot where the young fellow stood.

He waited a second, then began slowly and steadily to meet the animal, keeping his gaze fixed upon the small eyes of his foe, and tightly grasping a short and serviceable oak stick.

Iris sat immovable, her lips apart, her brows contracted with anxiety and suspense. Snow watched the scene with pointed ears and calm, observant eyes, and it is probable that he was, being a horse, mentally laying heavy odds on his friend the bull.

Slowly the two combatants approached each other. Iris wondered if it could be possible that the young man thought he could meet in fair fight and hope to overcome that huge brute with a sliver of walking stick.

But whatever his thoughts and hopes were, he went, as it seemed, to his doom, and, undisturbedly, he proceedings on the part of his foe were so unexpected that the bull stopped as if astounded for a moment, then, as if enraged by the audacity of the man, he uttered a louder roar than any that had preceded it, and came tearing upon him.

THE ACCIDENT. Oh, jings, how sick a driver feels, when he looks down and sees a voter tangled in his wheels, with his legs and arms hanging down through the spokes of the wheels.

At most times he's a thoughtful cuss, who scans the road with care, as he propels his foaming bus across the thoroughfare. But now a neighbor with him rides, and he would show her speed, and open wide the throttle slides, and she saws wood, indeed. She madly rips around a curve, and there the voter stands; it is too late, alas, to swerve, and on his frame she lands. The poor pedestrian lies flat upon the dusty sea; the rules of his Sunday hat are pitiful to see. The crown is dented here and there, the brim is badly torn, and never on a Sabbath fair, can it again be worn. The voter, borne upon a door; is taken to the town, and babbles of the hat he wore, when he was stricken down. Oh, never, my pray, and never, may your glided wain run down some helpless Jay. Leave black remorse to tither chaps, nor know the pangs they feel, and never let your caution lapse when you are at the wheel.

Money in Sharks. VICTORIA, B.C., Sept.—(Canadian Press Limited)—Sharks in the waters along the British Columbia coast are to be turned into leather, liver oil, fertilizer, jewellery, and finally dollars, according to plans of Sidney Buckle, head of the Consolidated Whaling Company, who has resigned to launch the new industry. Organisation of the new company has been completed, and the reducing plant will be erected on the Alberni Canal.

Shark fishing, like whaling, is to be carried on along the west coast of Vancouver Island, where, Mr. Buck says, examination has shown that the huge sun sharks, some of them weighing two thousand pounds, race up and down in schools of thousands. Recently one of the coasting steamers reported running into a solid mass of these big fellows. Flaming for the sharks will be carried on after the fashion of whaling with harpoons shot from guns. Livers of some of the big sun sharks, which are 60 to 65 per cent. oil, yield up to twenty gallons of the finest shark oil. It is used for medicinal purposes and lubrication of delicate mechanisms. Livers of the smaller mud sharks, found in the waters between the island and the mainland, yield about ten gallons of oil. Teeth of sharks are in great demand for the manufacture of necklaces. It is stated, owing to a new find in neck ornament which somewhat developed.

These fins are almost pure gelatin. They are cured and sold to Orientals, who use them in preparation of table delicacies. Membranes and intestines are turned into gloves, glue and gut, blood and flesh into chicken food and fertilizers. The head is a solid mass of cartilage glue. The most valuable part of the fish is the skin, which has the toughness of vulcanized rubber. The outer surface is as rough as sandpaper. This is taken off by acid treatment, and the skin is tanned.

Rural Route No. 1, Mascouche, Que. The Minards Liniment People.

Sir,—I feel that I should be doing a wrong if I neglected to write you. I have had four tumors growing on my head for years. I had them cut off by a surgeon about fifteen years ago but they grew again till about three months ago I had one as large and shaped like a lady's thumb, on the very place where my hair should be parted, and it was getting so embarrassing in public that it was a constant worry to me. About three months ago I got a bottle of your Minard's Liniment for another purpose and saw on the label good for tumors. Well I tried it and kept at it for exactly two months, with the result that it has entirely removed all trace of the tumor, and were it not that I had been cut fifteen years ago, no mark would be seen. I have not been asked for this testimonial, and you can use it as you see fit.

(Signed) FRED C. ROBINSON. P.S.—I am a farmer and intend using Minard's Liniment on a mare for a strained tendon, and am hoping for some results. FRED C. R.

WORK. You don't fancy work and the dreariness of it. There's nothing about it can make you to love it. You hate it, you tell me, it's ugly and trying. And sets you to fretting and grumbling and sighing. You work, not because you are eager and hot. But merely because you know well that you've got to.

Just suppose that an ugly old man came and told you: "If in my arms now and then I may hold you, I'll leave you my fortune. If you will walk my way, I am ugly and churlish and not very tender. But if you will love me I'll crown you with splendor."

Now suppose that that ugly old man often bored you. Yet always at night was the first to reward you. And showed you the way how to rise far above him. And helped you to win. Would you hate him or love him? Well, work is the ugly old friend of this story. Who gives us our chance both for riches and glory.

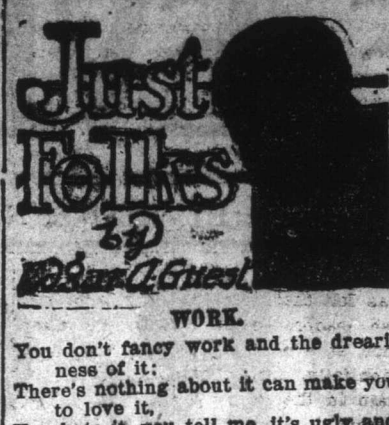

If the point of your amber knitting needle breaks off, dip the needle in hot water for a few minutes, then shape to a point and smooth with sandpaper.

Fashion Plates. A PLEASING MODEL FOR HOUSE OR PORCH WEAR.

Pattern 3766 was employed to make this style. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size will require 6 yards of 36 inch material. Percale, calico, gingham, chambray, dannel, gabardine and linen may be used for this design. The width at lower edge of skirt is about 2 1/2 yards. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

A POPULAR STYLE OF SUIT FOR A SMALL BOY. Pattern 3730 was used for this model. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. A 4 year size will require 2 1/2 yards of 27 inch material. Gingham, galles, serge, twill, corduroy and velvet may be used for this model. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

NOTE—Owing to the continual advance in price of paper, water, etc., we are compelled to advance the price of patterns to 15c.

The "America's" Ghost.

(From the New York Herald.) When the famous old schooner yacht "America" sails through the waters of the port of New York late this month she will be moored somewhere on the waterfront long enough to have a brass plate bearing the seal of the city inserted in her rail to commemorate her passing from private to government ownership. Those who witness the scene will be looking at a faded ghost of the world renowned yacht that won in 1851 the cup which bears its name. For of all the fabric that swept by the finish the Isle of Wight on that occasion is told on the authority of a Dorset East yachting historian that the portion remaining is the original story of the jack-knife that had the new blades and two new handles. The story is still the same knife. The ghostly thing about the old yacht is not what she is, but what she represents.

Now suppose that that ugly old man often bored you. Yet always at night was the first to reward you. And showed you the way how to rise far above him. And helped you to win. Would you hate him or love him? Well, work is the ugly old friend of this story. Who gives us our chance both for riches and glory.

If the point of your amber knitting needle breaks off, dip the needle in hot water for a few minutes, then shape to a point and smooth with sandpaper.

Irish Leader Accepts Govt's Invitation.

Every Possibility of Settlement Will Be Explored -- Five British Killed By Soudanese Tribesmen -- Burgenland Proclaims Its Independence.

DE VALERA ACCEPTS.

LONDON, Sept. 30. — Eamon De Valera, to-day, sent a communication to Mr. Lloyd George, accepting the invitation to a Conference in London on October 12th, with a view to settling the Irish question. The old leader of the Gaelic League, who has been in London since his arrival there, received your letter of invitation to a Conference in London on October 12th, with a view to settling the Irish question. 35-cents buys a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store. After one application you can not find a particle of dandruff or a falling hair. Besides, every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and abundance.

SOUDANESE REVOLT.

KHARTOUM, Eastern Soudan, Sept. 30. — Five British, including a member of the Soudan Civil Service and Capt. Chown, were killed when a party of Messalit Tribesmen made an unsuccessful attack on Nyalla on Monday.

ANOTHER INDEPENDENT STATE.

VIENNA, Sept. 30. — Burgenland, known here as West Hungary, to-day, proclaimed itself an independent State. The Hungarians, who had seized the territory in defiance of a decree of the Allied Ambassadors at Paris, have despaired of securing possession of the disputed strip of territory, which lies between Austria and Hungary for Hungary, and have declared themselves independent.

THE MOPLAH REVOLT.

LONDON, Sept. 30. — It is officially announced that the military authorities at Madras take a serious view of the resistance of the Moplahs in India, which may entail more vigorous prosecution of the campaign to suppress the revolt.

PROHIBITION IN U.S.A.

LONDON, Sept. 30. — "Suppression of the saloon is an achievement for which the people of the United States cannot be too thankful," says the joint report of Charles S. Stinch and John E. Davis, Labor members of Parliament, who recently visited the United States. "Prohibition, however, as we in this country were led to believe it prevailed, does not exist," the report continues. It notes the development of some brewing and illicit liquor traffic.

BALEINE REACHED.

HALIFAX, Sept. 30. — The Leonard Fisheries steam trawler Baleine, which struck a rock near Sand Point, Capre St. John, early this morning, and began sinking rapidly, has been beached at Cape Argos. Her crew have safely come ashore and are standing by the vessel, according to information received here.

UNEMPLOYMENT DISORDERS.

LEICESTER, Sept. 30. — A dozen men were injured and many arrested after a clash here to-day between the police and six hundred unemployed men, who smashed the windows of the Board of Guardians offices. The fight lasted only a few minutes.

PEACE NOW RATIFIED.

HALIFAX, Sept. 30. — The Reichstag to-day passed the Bill ratifying the Treaty of Peace with the United States.

POLAND'S REPLY TO RUSSIA.

WARSAW, Sept. 30. — Poland's reply to the request of the Soviet Government for an extension of the ultimatum threatening severance of diplomatic relations from October 1 to October 5, was received here to-day. The reply is so mild that it is thought here relations will not be severed.

STRIKES IN U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. — There are 69 reported strikes in the United States at this time, a greater number than existed simultaneously at any time since the war, Secretary of Labor Davis said to-day.

RAIN AND WIND STORMS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 30. — A terrific rain and wind storm struck Ontario and Quebec and New York State this afternoon. Telegraph and telephone connections were interrupted for a number of hours.

Members asked to come along in large numbers as the Pastor has something of importance to say after the regular session. Visitors will be gladly received. Entrance to Class Room on Buchanan Street.
Cochrane St.—Sunday School Annual Rally Service will be held in the afternoon. A full attendance is desired and new scholars will be especially welcome.

Potato Harvest.

Many of the farmers have started digging their potatoes, and if the weather remains fine during next week harvesting will be general. The crop this year, although not as good as that of last year, will be an average one. They are selling at about $4.00 per barrel. The fodder crop has all been harvested and with a good crop of hay, farmers will not need to buy forage for their cattle. Very few oats have been grown owing to the difficulty of getting them threshed.

To keep in good health through this trying, changeable season is difficult, unless you are taking a good tonic. A course of CARNOL

now, will help you through the rigors of the winter. Many prominent doctors prescribe CARNOL as a body-builder and strength-giver. ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR CARNOL

SUCCESS

Recently an important insurance official made the statement that "the ONTARIO EQUITABLE is the most talked-of insurance company in Canada to-day."

People like to discuss successful enterprises. Success encourages confidence; it stands as an example; and our accomplishment has been so marked that our progress has been followed with unusual interest.

We have already written over $4,500,000 of insurance—all issued at low, non-participating rates.

We have given, on the average, over $200 more immediate protection than is given for the premium charged for each $1,000 of insurance by any participating company in Canada.

We have introduced the Double Disability Clause providing the insured, if permanently disabled from any cause, with $20.00 a month for every $1,000 of insurance.

We have made available the Double Indemnity Benefit providing for payment of twice the sum insured if the policyholder is drowned or accidentally killed.

We have extended our organization into Quebec, the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, and are preparing to enter Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

By our success in cheapening the cost of insurance protection, while broadening its scope, we have justified the growing confidence the insuring public has placed in us.

"The Old Road to Placentia."

Now that the Government has asked for tenders to rebuild the road from Salmoner to South East Placentia,
the following few extracts taken from an article published in one of our magazines some few years ago, and
written by the Hon. F. J. Morris, K.C., entitled "The Old Road to Placentia,"
will be read with interest.

To most of your readers this old road is probably unknown, but to those of us it brings back many pleasant memories of happy days, and occasions. From a journal of the assembly published nearly three quarters of a century ago, I get the following extracts from a report signed
"James Douglas."—"The completion of the road from Holyrood to Salmoner
will be effected for £1000. From all the information I can obtain, and from calculations I have made, it will require £2000 to perfect the road from Salmoner to Placentia. This sum is exclusive of any cost that may be incurred from the building of bridges at Colinet and Rocky River. Some time in the fifties the Colinet and Rocky River bridges were built and the road

put through to Placentia.

I first travelled over this road in 1875 with the late Edward Sinnott, one of Placentia's foremost citizens. Our journey was pleasant and very interesting. Leaving the town of Placentia
you drive up the "Blackhouse Hill Road," on the top of which, a perfect
panorama is unfolded to your gaze,
extending some five miles up the beautiful South East A. to the "Head." It has been my good fortune to have seen
many choice spots and lovely scenery
both here and in the Old Country, and a trip from Glasgow to Inverness will reveal to the tourist as he steams
through the "Kyles of Dute," Ben

Nevis and Ben Lomond, famous in song and poetry:

"On the steep, steep side of Ben Lomond,
Where in purple hue
The Highland hills we view,
And the moon glints out in the gloom."

or as he drives or rides through the
wooded glen, over mossy road, with a glimpse, here and there, of the ivy-covered "Macross Abbey," up through the "Gap of Dunlow" and views the scene from the top of "Purple Mountain," with the many lovely Bays and Inlets that fringe the famous "Lakes
of Killarney."

"Castle Lough and Glens Bay,
Mountain Toro and Eagle's Nest;
Still at Macross you must pray
That the monks are now at rest."

Unsurpassed Scenery.

But none of these fair scenes, in my opinion, can surpass the beauties of the South East and North East Arms
of Placentia—dear old familiar spots.
Of course one could not pass without dropping in to have a word with the genial Michael Kelly at "The Head." It was here I met for the first time the affable wife of my friend, Mr. Edward Fulford, proprietor of the "Fulford Hotel," the Salmon Pools on the South East River and the "Beaver Ponds" are considered by sportsmen as amongst the best salmon runs in the country. Just above the "Four Mile Pool" is the "Connaughtman's Pond,"
called after that stalwart Irishman
"Connaught Ranter," who established his kingdom here long before "Ye Ancient Colony" was visited by our present brave ally—the French. A very large run of fish is often taken
from this pond, but most especially is
the fishing good, (as my friend Kelly
informed me) upon a moonlight night
with a balmy seephy and if the disciple
of the gentle "Isaac" is fortunate, he may be beguiled by the dulcet strains
of the "Rakes of Malloy" or "The Cruiskeen Lawn" emitted by the melodious voice of this ancient Iberian
as he keeps watch and ward over his preserve. The next stop was at "The Mountains" and here the late Mr. Croke,
father of my friend, the famous sports-
man Pat, managed a large and productive farm. Whilst partaking of refreshments (for man and beast) our host entertained us with many stories

of the goings and comings of past
times and named some noted person-
ages who had visited his mountain home. Amongst others he mentioned
how the late Bishop Fleming, eighty years ago, accompanied by Father Nolan, walked from Placentia to "The Mountain," spending the night with him, and the next day he accompanied
the Bishop to Salmoner; the road at this time being merely a track worn
by the feet of pedestrians.

Why the Bridge Fell.

Bidding our host good-bye, we started
for Colinet and on this stage of our journey we drove over the "Calanact Bridge," which spans a very deep ravine
with waterfalls rushing down its steep
incline. The Bridge and the Rock
where the cataract fell, and so on until you arrived at the famous "Rocky River Bridge." This bridge was then a huge wooden structure, having three steel beams spanning a distance of one hundred and fifteen feet from concrete abutments on either side. The scenery around is most picturesque, and the fall of one hundred feet of foaming
rushing water under the bridge, reminds one of Niagara. Its sound is heard some two miles distant by the residents of the peaceful little village
of Colinet where the river mingles with the waters of St. Mary's Bay. Unfortunately this bridge was carried away
about twenty-five years ago; the cause assigned being the rafting of ice
on the river. Some years ago, while sailing at "Turly Hole" on the North Harbour River, our well known guide,

ered "the real reason why the bridge fell down." When the steel beams for
the bridge were about to be ordered,
the Chairman of the Board of Works
with a friend drove over from St.
John's to get the correct measurements of the span, which was accomplished by the aid of a bank fishing
line. On the way home, the Chair-
man's carriage met with an accident,
and the cabman used about four or five
feet of this line to tie up his broken shafts. The manipulation did not become known until the beams were put in position, when it was found they had only a resting place of about half
a foot on either side of the concrete abutments. Be this as it may, whether the accident to the Chairman's carriage or the rafting of the ice, caused
the loss of this once fine structure, the absence of a bridge across Rocky River is the chief reason why the old
road to Placentia has been abandoned.
The large suspension bridge across Colinet River has been well maintained and is in good condition. Colinet River, North Harbour River and Bar-
chois River contain many choice and rich fishing pools. On the Salmon-er River you have many fine salmon
pools, the famous ones being "Placent's," "Murphy's" and "Butler's."

Salmoner to Placentia.

Last Summer I drove over the road
from Salmoner to the Mountain with Mr. Edward Butler, Holyrood. Mr.
Patrick Croke started from Placentia
and joined us at the Mountain. Both these gentlemen made a thorough inspection of the road, the bridges and cross drains along their respective sections, and have already drawn up a detailed report of the probable cost of putting the road from Salmoner to Placentia in a fit condition for the use of both motor and carriage. This report is now in the hands of the Minister of Public Works, who I may say,
has assured me of his hearty co-operation in any joint effort that may be made by citizens and the Public Works Department to rescue from obliteration this
once great thoroughfare, which in bygone
days connected the Old Capital with the New. The distance from St. John's to Placentia is about eighty-four miles.
Only a few hours leisurely motoring
for the family week-end, picnicing, or fishing party. The very best accommodation can be had along the whole line.
I know of no portion of our Dominion
that affords so many attractive opportunities for the sportsman, the sight-
seer or the motorist than along this old road, and the object of this contribution is to awaken the interest of the newly formed Motor Association in its possibilities.

In the near future when the terrible strife and struggle now convulsing the world will have ceased, and peace and tranquillity shall once again reign supreme, I sincerely hope an endeavour will be made which may be successful in rebuilding and rehabilitating the now forgotten and forsaken portions of this
erst-while famous old highway."

Mother! Move Child's Bowels With California Fig Syrup

Hurry mother! Even a sick child
loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. It is constipated, bilious, fretful, restless, has cold, colic, or
if stomach is sour, tongue coated,
breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine
"California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get
an imitation fig syrup.

Execution of Major Andre.

On Monday, October 2, 1783, John
Andre, a major in the British Army,
was put to death by the European settlers in what is now known as the United States of America. It was during the war by which they were striving to win that independence from the British Government that they have since possessed. Andre offered his services to General Benedict Arnold,
who proposed to surrender one post of great importance, the fortress of West Point, to General George Clinton, who was Governor of New York State from 1777 till 1810, and afterwards Vice-President of the United States, when they became independent. Andre was taken prisoner by the "rebels," but
being found within their lines in disguise he was tried and hung as a spy.
On going to the place of execution his fortitude excited the admiration and met the hearts of the spectators. When asked if he had anything to say, he replied, "Nothing but that you will witness to the world that I die like a brave man." A monument to him was afterwards erected in Westminster Abbey.

Dried fruits and vegetables must be thoroughly washed before using. Shaking in a screw-top jar with water is advisable.

The Enchanted Garden.

A DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

The dancing extravaganza, "The En-
 charmed Garden," which was produced at the Casino last night by Mrs.
 Cleary's pupils was a delightful entertainment. The stage presented a picturesque appearance and the graceful, rhythmic movements of the beautifully dressed and dainty dancers,
 all went to the making up of a pleasing performance. The costumes of the dancers represented various flowers
 and were designed by Mrs. Cleary.
 That the production pleased the audience was shown in no uncertain
 manner by the tremendous amount of applause which was showered upon
 the petite artistes, who ranged in years from five to sixteen. Over 60
 children took part in the performance, which will be repeated this afternoon so that those who were unable to attend yesterday may have an opportunity of seeing it. The principals in the various dances were:
 Miss K. Campbell, Wild Rose; Miss
 Marjorie Campbell, Pansy; Miss Brenda Watson, Will-o-the-Wisp; Miss Anita Kearney, Mignonette; Miss Mary
 Rossiter, Lily; Miss Mary Halley,
 Princess Butterfly; Miss K. Cotter,
 Daffodil; Miss Margaret Graham,

 those who took part in the various
 dances were Misses M. Kearney, C.

 Prince's Park, and was attended by over 1,200 people who enjoyed the splendid programme provided for their entertainment to the full. The floor
 thanks to the right management, was
 in excellent condition, being thoroughly cleaned and was in every way
 a big improvement on the previous nights. Over 500 persons participated in the various dancing numbers,
 and each item was encored. The concert selections were also very pleasing, and the band is to be complimented on their efforts to cater to the public. These Promenade Concerts have been very popular amongst
 those of the public who are fond of music.

Alter the Standard.

The poultry exhibition this year
 promises to be a greater success than ever, owing perhaps to the addition of side lines to the exhibits. It may be noted, however, that a large number of enthusiasts who went in for exhibition breeds, have now turned
 their attention to utility fowl, particularly favoring the leghorns, which are considered more profitable. It is a pity that the exhibition could not give more attention to egg laying strains, and as far as this country is concerned seeing that we do not exhibit outside, it could be easily done
 by altering the present standard
 which does not take into consideration laying qualities. Come, gentlemen, eggs are now selling at 75c.
 per dozen and scarce at that.

The Jewish New Year.

The Jewish New Year, better known
 by its Hebrew designation, Rosh Hashanah, occurs this year on Monday,
 October 3rd.

According to the practice of the Synagogue, it will be observed as a holy
 day from Sunday evening, October 2nd,
 until the evening of the following day.
 Among orthodox Jews, a second day of Rosh Hashanah is also observed, in addition, on October 4th.

Rosh Hashanah shares with the Day
 of Atonement, which occurs ten days
 later, the distinction of being one of the two most solemn and inspiring
 holy days of the Synagogue. Its Biblical basis is found in Leviticus 23-24: "In the seventh month (of the Hebrew
 calendar) on the first day of the month,
 shall be solemn rest unto you, a memorial proclaimed with blast of horns,
 a holy convocation."

The New-Year's Day, as observed by
 the Synagogue, is not a day of rejoicing,
 merely, such as is in vogue at the beginning of the secular year. This New-Year is a Day of Memorial or a
 "Day of Remembrance," on which the Jew is reminded of his duty and responsibility as a citizen and a member of the human family. His affiliation
 with his community binds him to do
 his share towards the promotion of the cultural and constructive endeavors of mankind.

The legend that represents the Jewish New-Year as marking the anniversary of the creation of the world would compute the ensuing year as the 5682nd year since the world was created. According to rabbinical tradition, however, the New-Year marks
 the anniversary of the creation of
 man. All humanity has, therefore, an equal share in the common heritage of a universal birthday.

The symbolism of the ritual service,
 such as the sounding of the Shofar, or
 ram's horn, is utilized to arouse the conscience of the worshipper in a sense of his obligations to his fellow
 man, as well as to admonish of individual shortcomings.

Among orthodox Jews, elaborate
 preparation is made for the reception
 of the great holidays. During a period of four weeks, at least, penitential
 prayer, called Selihoth, are recited.
 This continues until the eve of the Day of Atonement. There is a practice of uncertain origin, called Tash-
 lekh, in accordance with which the members of congregations gather near a
 running stream or other body of water,
 on the afternoon of the second day
 of the holiday, and symbolically cast their sins into the depths.

Among American Jews, New-Year's Day is dignified by a high spiritual message, enjoying greater devotion to God and country, expressed in public worship. It is, also, used as an occasion to exchange greetings between

members of a family and friends in the home, in which the hope is voiced that they be enrolled and inscribed for prosperity, happiness, and service in the ensuing year.

Tram Hits Motor.

Street car No. 7 collided with a motor car driven by ex-Mayor Gosling on Water Street yesterday afternoon, and damaged it considerably. Mr. Gosling was proceeding west and slowed
 down to pass an express cart which was drawn up near the Royal Stores.
 As he did so, the tram which was also bound west, collided with the car, smashing both front and rear
 wheels on the right side, buckling
 up the running board and damaging
 the body. The motor car was taken to a garage where repairs, which will take some time, will be effected.

Cheaper Meat.

There was quite a lot of cattle offered for sale during the past week, and
 as a consequence prices have considerably declined. It would be a great relief to householders if the butchers
 would give them the benefit of lower prices. It may be said, however, that some are already selling at reduced prices.

Germany's Man of Iron.

Hugo Stinnes is Germany's man of iron in the literal sense, he inheriting from his father in 1916 iron mines, engineering works and other property valued at seven million pounds, and which with business daring and commercial sagacity he has increased until to-day he is more than a multi-millionaire. One who knows him writing in the Review of Reviews, says that he is the most powerful and ambitious figure in Europe, "a German Napoleon of the coal pit and the newspaper press, who is endeavoring to prove that in the reconstruction of Europe the man who has the money and the grip on industry is the man who can pull the strings." That is the Stinnes policy, and he has both the money and the grip on industry, and how well he is pulling the strings will become apparent very speedily, when German manufacturers again flood the markets of the world. For that is the ambition—may the obsession—of Hugo Stinnes. He is a firm believer in the bloodless but none the less effective conquest of the world by German industries, and all his vast wealth, all his tremendous influence is being turned in that direction. His is a menacing figure in the world of commerce to-day. As "Deutschland über alles" was the motto of German militarism so Stinnes has adopted the same slogan, and is out to make it good in the marts of two hemispheres.

Stinnes sprang into prominence but recently. Before 1917 he was known only as a hard-working and ruthless business man. Since that year he has been buying up German newspapers, and through the influence of his press has become the controlling power in the German People's Party. The writer from whose article we have already quoted, says that "since the peace, and particularly since the Spa Conference, Stinnes has been considered by the Allies as the evil spirit in the German political situation." And the modern man of iron is quite willing and capable of playing that role. He is no sentimentalist, but the "perfect incarnation" of the Prussian Junker, with it is said more unscrupulousness than Bismarck, who is his model, because he has set himself the aim of restoring the Fatherland to its former night and grandeur. Another writer says that "unless some unforeseen incident stops him in his rising career, he will in a few years become one with whom the whole of the world will find itself compelled to reckon. He is relentless, like fate itself, implacable as few have been, and apart from all this he is clever—keenly, terribly clever—and though not at all cultured in the sense which we attach to the word, yet he has acquired more knowledge of mankind than is suspected, and he has also learned how to use this knowledge to his own personal advantage."

and for the furtherance of his own schemes."

Such is a brief character sketch of the man of Germany's future destiny: the man who has to be reckoned with in politics, in trade, in commerce: the man who is more unscrupulous than Bismarck, and who will get his way in everything. History has told us of the craftiness of the "man of blood and iron," but the historians of the present are only beginning to learn Hugo Stinnes, the billionaire industrial ruler of Germany, who plans to send German goods into all the seaports of the world in German bottoms, and has already thrown down the gauntlet in challenge of industrial superiority. Not war of the cannon and bayonet is the object of Stinnes, but the more insidious war of industry, with all that its waging implies, and the resources at his command to carry on commercial hostility. Stinnes allows nothing to stand in the way of his chosen policy. He never hesitates to bribe people of whom he thinks he may stand in need some day. His secret agents are legion, and permeate all the countries with which he desires to open up trade. His ambitious project of restoring Germany's pre-war might and grandeur may well supply food for thought to the statesmen of allied countries, and they will do well if they learn the lesson, and heed the warnings that have been uttered. Stinnes rules Germany. His unlimited means furnish him with the power and authority to be obeyed, and with all the resources of his country at his command he will prove a formidable antagonist and one with whom the commercial men of other countries will have to reckon, and that shortly.

Wrongful Arrest.

"A worse exhibition of cruelty and injustice I have never seen" said Judge Morris this morning in dismissing the case against Mary Brennan who was arrested yesterday on a charge of larceny. The arrest was made at the instance of the woman's employer, who had missed some clothing and accused her domestic of taking. In spite of the fact that she and her husband had searched Brennan's boxes, and found nothing, yet they swore out a warrant for her arrest. The Judge told the accused that she could take an action for wrongful arrest if she so wished.

And the Deaf Heard.

An amusing case, in which a man sued his half-sister for assault, was heard before Judge Morris this morning. The plaintiff, when giving evidence, appeared to have great difficulty in hearing questions put to him, but when the defendant was making her statement his hearing seemed to improve, for he interrupted in the midst of it and asserted that her evidence was false. The accused was fined $1 and costs.

On the two indictments King vs. Peter Hiscob and King vs. Albert Ryall, the Chief Justice addressed the jury which retired at 11.15 a.m. At 1 p.m. the Grand Jury returned to court and returned a true bill in the indictment of King vs. Peter Hiscob, King vs. Albert Ryall. Deputy Minister of Justice Summers, K.C., moves for arraignment on Monday next at 11 a.m. In the matter of the estate of Stanley Taafé, Mr. Fenelon, on behalf of Henrietta Taafé, made application ex parte for the appointment of Stanley Taafé as executor. The Chief Justice made the plea known to the Grand Jury, and after stating that there was no further business to occupy their attention at present, they were allowed to withdraw until called upon.

Unbounded Public Confidence.

The old Apple Merchant, when his customers asked for a "moderately sweet" apple and he did not have them in stock, was in the habit of allowing the prospective buyer to taste of a decidedly sour apple, immediately after which he would hand him one that was considerably less sour yet far from being "moderately sweet." To his customer, however, with a mouthful of sour juice, the less sour apple actually tasted sweet—and the sale was made—one barrel—one dozen: as the case may be.

Unless we are able to produce what our customers ask for (or something better—and which better feature we are able to honestly point out), we do not make the sale. Deception is the parent of distrust while fair dealing wins confidence.

Public confidence is given to the Royal Stores—we believe—in a fuller measure than to any other store. Mail Orders—a sure sign of confidence—stream in day after day from all over the country, while scores of new names are continually being added to our books.

The reason for this expression of confidence lies in the absolute reliability of this firm—the fine quality of all merchandise, the low prices asked for it and above all the practical courtesy extended to our customers—expressed in our wish that they will return anything bought here should they feel the slightest disappointment with their purchases—so that we may exchange the goods or refund the money in full. For "Satisfaction or Money Back" is our policy at the Royal Stores—always.

LABRADOR DECLINES.—The price of Labrador fish is likely to show a decline during the next week. Several merchants have ceased buying, although many are taking from their dealers and paying $4.60 in trade. Four twenty-five is probably the best cash price that can be obtained.

Wheat Prices Show a Steady Decline.

Many Consider That Low-Water Mark Has Been Reached.

There has been a steady decline in the price of wheat since the middle of the summer, and the millers have reduced their price of flour every few days. There has been no slacking of prices and nothing to create a panic, but just a continued ebb of the tide. As we all know the tide will turn, and very many consider we are very near the low-water mark for this year. No body wishes to buy on a declining market, but just wait for a little reaction and see how quick the demand for flour will send prices up a dollar a barrel.

The stocks of flour are very low all over the country, and there has been some distress calls from several sections. We strongly recommend all not to let their stocks get too low, as we feel certain there will be a sudden jolt one of these days. We all read the Canadian papers and see good flour offered at $10.00 and $11.00 per barrel, and we think we should be able to buy at the same price. We must remember that the steamers running between Montreal and here are still demanding one dollar per barrel freight whereas formerly it was thirty cents per barrel. Our benevolent Government insist on every man paying eighty cents duty for every barrel required, whereas in Sir William Whitway's time flour was admitted as free of duty as the air we breathe.

It is these iniquitous charges that brings the price of flour so high for us all. The choicest Manitoba Patents are now arriving in large quantities, and we are safe in saying that the quality of the highest grades of flour made from new wheat was never better than it is this year.—Trade Review.

30,000 Brls. Herring Shipped to Halifax.

TRADE DONE DIRECT FROM OUT-PORTS.

This season since April, about 30,000 barrels of herring have been exported direct to Halifax chiefly from Notre Dame Bay, and practically none came to St. John's. This is a sign of the times that trade might well take notice of. All our herring trade will soon be taken out of our hands by the Halifax dealers who make a good profitable business of sending herring to the West Indies, Montreal and the Southern States. St. John's seems to be doomed to lose trade in codfish and herring this season.

The Trade Review asked a prominent fish dealer of the city what he thought was the cause of this, and he had no hesitation in saying that it was the high cost of labor in St. John's, insisted on by the Unions, that was keeping the trade away from the city and that unless labor would become more reasonable in its demands conditions would become much worse and there would be plenty of vacant houses in St. John's by 1923.—Trade Review.

ARTICLE VI.
THE STORY OF ONE OF THE CROSSES BY THE WAYSIDE.
To write the story of all these Crosses, to which we referred in our last article, would make a volume replete with tragedy and pathos. Of the many stories which the writer has learned in connection with these Crosses, none seem more pathetic than this one which we now publish. It is the story of two brothers; who, in their haste to return home after an absence in foreign parts, were overtaken in a snow storm, and fell victims to its severity. The cross, which marks the scene of this tragedy, is erected near the Southern Shore road, and for nearly fifty years it has silently told its sad tale. The young men, as we have said, were brothers, and they decided to go abroad for the summer, as a change from the fisheries, and to seek employment at Boston. This they did, and were fairly successful, and worked until near Christmas time, when they packed their trunk and turned towards home. During their absence they wrote several letters to their parents, who were greatly rejoiced that the boys were so fortunate as to get constant employment, and fairly good pay, which at that date was about two dollars per day. Leaving Boston, the brothers came to Halifax by the Inter-Colonial Railway, and from Halifax to St. John's by the S.S. "Delta," which ship was one of the Cunard line, which at that time had the contract of running the mails and passengers between St. John's and Halifax. The Cunard Company were the first to run a line of ships across the Atlantic, but they were superseded in the local service by the Allan Line, which has since given way to the Furness Withy Company. The "Delta" made the usual passage of three days, and arrived in good time, and berthed at Baine Johnston's wharf, which firm were agents for the Cunard Line. The two brothers were stowage passengers, and paid the sum of four dollars each for their passage; this sum being the current rate between St. John's and Halifax at that period. The ship arrived in the afternoon, and the brothers with eagerness were looking over the rail, when much to their delight, they saw lying at the wharf, a boat from their own harbor. With haste, they disembarked, and made arrangements to take passage by the boat to their home, on the Southern Shore. They at once removed their luggage from the ship, and transferred it to the boat, and then had a look around the city. They were delighted to learn from the boat's crew that their parents and all at home were well, and were expecting them along for Christmas. There was not much in the town to delay the young men personally, hence they were eager to start for home; and so it came about, that the boat being delayed a little longer than was expected, they decided to go overland. They accordingly informed the skipper of the boat of their purpose, and the next morning they began their journey. The weather was fairly fine, and the chances for good travelling seemed favourable. Near Bay Bulls' Big Pond they put up at Fizzells; and having refreshed themselves they resumed their journey; but a few hours later a snow-storm burst upon them.

UNDIVIDED IN DEATH.

A day or two after the storm the boat sailed for home, well laden with supplies for the winter, and carrying also the trunk containing the effects of the two brothers. On the boat's arrival, the skipper and his crew, were alarmed to find that the brothers had not yet reached home, and immediately inquiries were begun, and search parties set out to find the whereabouts of the young men. At that time, there were no telegraph lines, and very few lighthouses, and communication and intercourse was very slow; and it then took days to accomplish what is now done in hours. The good people of the Harbor, while fearful for the safety of the young men, still indulged the hope that they had taken shelter in some house along the road; but their hopes were shattered, for, in their search, they found the frozen forms of the brothers, quite near the road in question. The sight was truly a sad one, for there in the snow lay still and cold, the manly hearts that had beaten so high, and that had hoped so soon to be in the shelter of home, and the embrace of their loved ones. How many hours the brothers had wandered and suffered is not known, but the spot was marked by the erection of a Cross, and, no doubt, many who may read this article have seen it in their travels. The sorrow of the parents was indescribable, and when after awhile their grief had somewhat subsided, and the trunk of the brothers was opened, there was found amongst its contents the few letters which they had received during their absence, and also a present marked "Mother" and one for "Sister." With tender hands and burning tears the presents were taken from the trunk, and ever after treasured, as a keepsake from the dear ones that had selected them in a strange city.

It is such acts as these that touch the heart, and though the facts of this story are long past, they yet tell us of the fidelity and endurance of our people. Thousands of our sons and daughters have since left their homes to seek employment in other countries, and many a tragedy has occurred—some known and some unknown; but the plain wooden Cross by the roadside on the southern Shore, is an eloquent, though silent reminder, of the two strong men, who faced duty, and fulfilled their part in the industrial world, and then turned homeward, but reached it not. Those brothers paid the price, which so often seems strangely to fall to the sons and daughters of men.

This story may not be generally known; but the few facts which we gleaned about this Cross have always impressed us as being very pathetic; inasmuch as they contain the story of the tragedy of honest, industrious men, and loving and dutiful sons. Such men are truly empire builders, and are a country's best asset; and little presents which those brothers had in their trunk told their own tale of the tale of their affection. They told that in the big city, with all its temptations and its many snares, the boys did not forget their home—did not forget mother, did not forget sister; hence, did not forget themselves. Their hearts beat true; and thus, we say, their death was pathetic as well as tragic. Such then is the story of one of "The Crosses by the Wayside."

MY COLUMN

(By the CUB-EDITOR)

TOO TIRED.

I am most awfully sorry to have to disappoint my vast concourse of readers but I am really too tired to write to-day. After the manner in which the Editor has been overworking me and my staff, it is doubtful if I shall be over able to write another article for this column. Poor old Horace is quite done up and has actually fallen asleep over "Hawkeye, the Indian Chief" and the office cat is curled up on an apology for a mat before an imaginary fire. And as they say sleep is infectious, I'm going to hit the "downy" too. Bye—e—e—e.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES.

STILL TIRED.
I am so tired to-day I find I cannot even write a verse.
For writing prose is bad enough
But scalded poetry is worse.

OTHER PEOPLE'S WIT.

The Harder the Freshers—Girls, beware of the hard-boiled egg. He will go fresh.—Minnesota Star.

The Movable Hearststone—Home nowadays is where the family auto may happen to be parked.—The Pacific Legion.

Changed Roles—"Pa, what is meant by spirit control?" "Formerly the butler, now the physician."—Boston Globe.

Pathos Up-to-Date—There is nothing more pathetic in life than the spectacle of a sturdy Boy Scout begging his mother not to smoke.—The Perscope.

The Drawbacks—It is now proposed to deport alien violators of the Volstead act. But why send so much money out of the country?—Peoria Transcript.

Honors Are Even—A woman doesn't make much headway driving a nail, but did you ever see a man try to wrap up a bundle of laundry?—Akron Times.

Improved Grammar—T.S. Wants to know how to keep the rising generation from saying "I seen" so extensively. Get them to say "I lamped."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Appropriate—"I have decided to call my homebrew 'frog,'" remarked Nutt.
"Why?" asked Bolt.
"Because it has plenty of hops, but not much kick," replied Nutt.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Wrong Name—"Is this an accommodation train?" asked the traveling man.

"Only in a technical sense," replied Mr. Crosslots. "As a matter of fact it's one of the most disobliging trains I ever rode on."—Washington Star.

A Beginning—The Theosophist—"Does your husband believe that his soul leaves his body while he sleeps?" The Materialist: "I'm not certain; but he's got a suspicion that his money leaves his pockets."—The Bulletin.

Things to Preach About—A newspaper gives a few sermon subjects which some ministers advertise as their Sunday themes:—"Slip, Slip, and Slippers," "Wobbling," "Swat the fly," "The Honeymoon," "My Mother-in-Law," "The Ace Tied at the Door Without," "Lop-sided Polka," "The Sentimental Journey," "Three White Mice," "Pulling Out a Plum," "A Big Hug," "Psychometric Readings," "Street-car Ventilation," "A Joke on the Conductor," "Hallowe'en Tricks and Pranks," "The Doll-makers of Nuremberg," "A Congregationalist in Columbus announced, 'A man with his Nose Out of Joint,' A Methodist minister in Dayton perpetrated, 'The Devil-Man's Life, Death and Funeral, in Five Acts.' A minister in California announced, 'Two Looks at Another Man's Wife.'—Christian Register.

Going Up—An Englishman went to a baseball game, and both sides made one run each during the first inning. The Englishman watched the scoreboard intently, as each team failed to make a run in the next inning. The game had gone sixteen innings, and the figure one and the zeros following had left the impression on the mind of the Englishman. Going down the street after the game, a small boy stopped him and asked what the score was. "Oh," said the Englishman, "I lost all track of the game; it's way up in the millions."—The Argonaut, San Francisco.

Breaking It Gently—A New York silk merchant went to the bank to get his note renewed.

"I am sorry," said the banker, "but it will be absolutely impossible for me to renew your note."

The silk merchant's face paled. After a moment of thought he looked up at the banker and asked:

"Were you ever in the silk business?"

"Why of course not," answered the banker.

"Well, you're in it now," said the silk merchant as he picked up his hat and went out.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HOUSEKEEPERS!

Molasses advanced in price over $15.00 per puncheon since last month but sugar hasn't started to go up yet.

Perhaps your Grocer will sell you a case of Lantic (100 lbs.) in 2 pound or 5 pound yellow packages. Full weight guaranteed.

The present price of raw sugar stock in Cuba is about $1.50 per 100 pounds, it costs $3.50 when it reaches the Refineries.

Cost of refining, packages, labor, etc., make it worth about $4.75 when delivered at terminal for export.

Freight, insurance, duty and other charges bring the value to about $12.25 on the wharf at St. John's.

With cartage, labor, interest, etc., it costs your Grocer about $12.75, and the cartage from your grocer's shop to your house will cost 50 cents or $1.00.

Now it's up to you to figure up what the price is likely to be next month and govern yourself accordingly.

When you buy Lantic Sugar in packages you get the purest, finest, cleanest, sweetest sugar that can be made. If this isn't so we shall pay you one hundred dollars.

Side Talks
by Ruth Cameron*THE WHITE WOMAN'S BURDEN.

Just to be able to come and go without a rest rushing about to leave things in order during my absence, not to have the thought of the forgotten order for the butcher or an ice chest that ought to be in the window—all that in itself was a task.

That is the way a friend of mine described a little vacation which she took recently from her household as a homemaker and holder of three children.

The place to which she had not a grand place, and did not have any luxuries or exciting amusements and yet she said she had a wonderful time and a glorious rest for the reasons she describes so aptly above.

The Infinite Petty Detail.
Can you understand how she left? I most emphatically can.

And I feel sure that there is not a busy housewife who reads this who does not thoroughly understand and appreciate what that woman means. It isn't the fact that housework is so hard that makes things so much as the fact that it is so full of petty exacting, mustn't be forgotten details.

The actual foot pounds of energy expended in it is far less these days than it was in the days of our grandmothers, but I sometimes think the infinite detail of it has grown more complicated.

Easier to Give Up Than Play.

The man of the house, visions his wife as having so much free time but while she may have a good deal of time which is not occupied by actual definite work, she is tied to her job by the constant need of her oversight, her guiding hand. The smallest outing means so much arranging to the busy woman without domestic help that she often stays home simply because her tired mind revolts from the thought of making

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrup, and saves about $1. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant, and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membrane, to rest and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for whooping, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable expectorant compound of genuine Pinus strobus extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex, with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guarantee to give complete satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

The Limpets Wonderful Tongue.

At the seaside you cannot help noticing the humble limpet, whose existence seems to be one of the most monotonous in the whole world.

To remain glued tightly all one's life to the same stone seems a horrible fate; but as a matter of fact the limpet does not remain permanently in his place. He is able to get about quite well, and he moves good deal when the tide rises and covers him.

He is a wonderful stickler; no matter how hard you try you cannot pull him away, and if you try to prise him off, you will break his shell before you loosen his hold.

Sticking Into Rock.
You can catch him snapping sometimes if you approach quietly and give him a sudden sharp blow sideways with a stick. This will usually dislodge him, and when he is knocked off his perch you may be surprised to find that he was not holding on to the flat surface of the rock, but that he had a little hollow to rest in. This hollow, which exactly fits his shell, the limpet made. If he is a big, old fellow, his hole may be a quarter of an inch deep.

Now how did such a soft-bodied creature manage to hollow out the rock in this way? He did it by means of his tongue! Like all snails—for the limpet is a snail—he has a long, ribbon-like tongue which is armed with thousands of tiny teeth as sharp as razors and as hard as flint.

This tongue is used in the ordinary way for feeding purposes. It is passed like a file up and down over the seaweeds which he eats, and by its action it scrapes off tiny fragments which are conveyed to the mouth. When he is sitting on his rock the tongue, with its myriads of teeth, moves up and down over the hard surface of the stone and scrapes at the hollow which is its owner's home.

The Crow Tribe.

Many people are unable to tell the difference between a rook, a crow, and a jackdaw.

The rook, when a year old, has a bare face, and its plumage is shiny black; the hooded crow is when gray with a black head; while the carrion, though the same size as the rook, has a steel-blue shimmer on its plumage, and its wings are by no means so long as those of the rook.

The jackdaw can be distinguished easily from any of the other three, first because it is smaller—being only about fourteen inches long—secondly, because it has purplish plumage and a grey neck.

The middle between the members of the crow tribe is not, however, so strange as that between the weasel and the stoat.

The stoat is nearly three times as big as the weasel, and three times as heavy, and while the stoat has a long black-tufted tail, the weasel has hardly any tail at all. In both stoat and weasel the female is very much larger than the male.

The reason why the confusion between the two creatures matters is that the stoat is a poacher and poultry murderer, while the weasel is a useful creature that lives almost entirely upon mice, and so should be carefully protected.

Household Notes.

A very good marmalade can be made with apples, raisins, candied ginger, almonds and lemon juice.

If your white window shades become soiled, try painting them white on one side and green on the other.

If apples are baked until just beginning to soften and then canned in syrup they will be nice for winter use.

Old flower wreaths may be painted with water-colors, shellaced with white and used for another season.

The boycott of Belfast by the rest of Ireland still continues, says the commissioner, in spite of the truce, although not in such a drastic form. A large number of Belfast distributing houses have been badly hit, but the manufacturers in the linen, shipbuilding, and engineering industries, whose trade is with the whole world, have not suffered, their present depression being due to world conditions.

An early improvement in the linen industry is looked for, however.

Fashions and Fads.

A frock of white silk lajease is made midly style with a pleated skirt and a belt embroidered in blue.

Combinations of heama and black, jade green and taupe and brown and tan are seen in French veillings.

A black satin hat adorned with golden yellow paradise is worn with a black-and-gold brocade gown.

Many of the new coats button up close to the throat, but are quite loose and inclined to flare toward the hem.

One wrap has an inner sleeve of black lamb under its outer sleeve, which is heavily embroidered.

Over a black satin slip is worn a negligee of black Georgette marked in squares of silver and silver roses at intersections.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

MONTREAL IN STORM GRIP.

MONTREAL, Sept. 30. The windows of a number of great stores on the city main streets were crashed in, thousands of cellars were flooded, many shade trees were uprooted, or their branches wrenched off, and blown through the streets. The temperature which had been muggy, fell fourteen degrees immediately, and almost an inch of rain fell within ten minutes. The wind attained a velocity of seventy miles an hour, the highest ever recorded by McGill University. Mortality among horses was great, these animals being struck by falling debris. Fires were started in various sections.

IN OTHER PLACES.

TORONTO, Sept. 30. Very few towns and cities in Ontario escaped severe damages, and in some places fatalities were reported by the hurricane, to-day. Unrooted houses and collapsed buildings resulted in Hamilton, Kingston and Kitchener, each report the death of a school boy.

PREMIER SQUIRES AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, Sept. 30. Sir Richard Squires, Premier of Newfoundland, in an appreciative address of the work of the Halifax School for the Blind, for the blind of Newfoundland, pledged a grant of $500 from his Government for the institution. The address was given at a banquet in connection with the present campaign to raise $50,000 in Halifax and Dartmouth for the Halifax School. An appeal will be made later to the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland. In an interview here to-day Sir Richard stated that while the fish market was glutted last year, conditions were much improved, and indications were that this year's catch in Newfoundland would be disposed of, new Tariff Bill, he said, not Ntd. The Ntd. Premier and party will leave Halifax to-morrow morning for Sydney en route to home.

THE EYES HAVE IT.

EYE STRAIN DULLS THE BRIGHTEST CHILD.

It is far more than an inconvenience or discomfort—and you wouldn't knowingly subject your child to these—it is the all too common cause of sickness of body and slowness of mind.

"Watery" eyes, red-edged lids, pus deposits, particularly on rising—these are but outward signs and not always existent. Nervousness, indigestion, facial twitching, general irritability and inability to concentrate, these are other danger signals which, if neglected, often lead to permanent ill health and stunted intellect.

Happily, many visual defects of childhood yield readily to skilled treatment if applied in time. Now that school time is here, when the eyes will be in constant requisition, you should be doubly sure that your child is fit for the daily tasks.

The school, the clothing, the books, etc., are all cared for, of course—but most important of all—remember the eyes.

Special attention given to children every Saturday morning.

BOEL.

On Sept. 29th, a son to Mr. and Mrs. A. Dwyer, 30 Prince of Wales St.

DIED.

Yesterday morning, after a tedious illness, Minnie (Hynes), beloved wife of John Lunnigan, aged 48 years, leaving a husband, 3 daughters and 1 son to mourn their loss. Funeral on Sunday at 2.30 p.m., from 213 Theatre Hill. Friends please attend without further notice. Stamford, Conn., papers please copy—R.I.P.

IN SAD BUT LOVING MEMORY

of my loving husband, William Maher, who departed this life five years ago, October 2, 1916. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on his soul.

Just five years ago to-day, But oh, it seems so long; Since our darling father left us To join the heavenly throng.

Friends may think we have forgot you, When at times they see us smile; But they little know the sorrow, Which the smile hides all the while.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of my dear son, Albert Spire, who died October 1, 1919.

Oh, how we wished that he could stay To accompany us o'er the way. It is just two years ago to-day, Since the Infinite God called him away.

He suffered much and bore it all, Willing to obey the call; He peacefully resigned his stay And then we saw him pass away.

When we behold the vacant chair, of him we loved and valued dear, In fervent prayer we truly say, Then art gone, but not forgotten.

Thy memory still is fresh today, He died in the prime of life, God knoweth what is best; May his soul rest with others, In perfect happiness. R.I.P.

Interred by his loving Mother and Sister.

This Woman Says She Had Suffered Ever Since a Child

New Brunswick Resident Feels Like A Different Person Since Taking Tanlac.

"I began to have stomach trouble when I was a child and never was able to get any real relief until I began taking Tanlac," said Mrs. Sandy F. Flewelling, Clifton, N.B.

"I had every symptom of indigestion that anybody ever had; gas on the stomach, pains through my chest, choking and smothering spells and palpitation of the heart. At other times there was an awful burning through my chest and throat and a terrible gnawing sensation in the pit of my stomach. Awful headaches came on me regularly, I had spells, too, and often would lie awake nearly all night long."

"I'm absolutely like a different woman since taking Tanlac and haven't a sign of any of my old troubles. I eat anything I want, my digestion is perfect, and I sleep as sound as a baby all night long. I never have a headache now and have gained ten pounds in weight, too."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

It is far more than an inconvenience or discomfort—and you wouldn't knowingly subject your child to these—it is the all too common cause of sickness of body and slowness of mind.

"Watery" eyes, red-edged lids, pus deposits, particularly on rising—these are but outward signs and not always existent. Nervousness, indigestion, facial twitching, general irritability and inability to concentrate, these are other danger signals which, if neglected, often lead to permanent ill health and stunted intellect.

Happily, many visual defects of childhood yield readily to skilled treatment if applied in time. Now that school time is here, when the eyes will be in constant requisition, you should be doubly sure that your child is fit for the daily tasks.

The school, the clothing, the books, etc., are all cared for, of course—but most important of all—remember the eyes.

Special attention given to children every Saturday morning.

BOEL.

On Sept. 29th, a son to Mr. and Mrs. A. Dwyer, 30 Prince of Wales St.

DIED.

Yesterday morning, after a tedious illness, Minnie (Hynes), beloved wife of John Lunnigan, aged 48 years, leaving a husband, 3 daughters and 1 son to mourn their loss. Funeral on Sunday at 2.30 p.m., from 213 Theatre Hill. Friends please attend without further notice. Stamford, Conn., papers please copy—R.I.P.

IN SAD BUT LOVING MEMORY

of my loving husband, William Maher, who departed this life five years ago, October 2, 1916. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus have mercy on his soul.

Just five years ago to-day, But oh, it seems so long; Since our darling father left us To join the heavenly throng.

Friends may think we have forgot you, When at times they see us smile; But they little know the sorrow, Which the smile hides all the while.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of my dear son, Albert Spire, who died October 1, 1919.

Oh, how we wished that he could stay To accompany us o'er the way. It is just two years ago to-day, Since the Infinite God called him away.

He suffered much and bore it all, Willing to obey the call; He peacefully resigned his stay And then we saw him pass away.

When we behold the vacant chair, of him we loved and valued dear, In fervent prayer we truly say, Then art gone, but not forgotten.

Thy memory still is fresh today, He died in the prime of life, God knoweth what is best; May his soul rest with others, In perfect happiness. R.I.P.

Interred by his loving Mother and Sister.

HECLA

Pipeless Furnace.

COMFORT AND HEALTH

Without a single pipe—without tearing up floors and walls, you can enjoy in your home on winter's coldest day 70 degrees of happy, healthful warmth and comfort.

WHAT IS A PIPELESS FURNACE?

A Pipeless Furnace is a heating system which, instead of using pipes as a means of carrying heat, uses one centre register. The idea on which it is designed is the scientific fact that warm air rises and cold air falls.

A MORE COMFORTABLE HOME IN EVERY WAY.

The advantages of a good Pipeless Furnace are numberless. You will be amazed at the difference it will make to your home. From cellar to attic it will mean a home more comfortable, more convenient, more pleasant.

EVERY HOME A BETTER HOME.

With very few exceptions every home would be a better home with a "Hecla" Pipeless Furnace.

A better home because of the proper ventilation with moist warm air.

A better home because of the extraordinary economy of the "Hecla" Pipeless Furnace.

A better home because free from gas and dust.

Start now to make sure next winter will be a happy, healthy, comfortable one in your home. Give your family the greatest benefit you can offer.

SCHOOLS, CHURCHES, HALLS.

In one-roomed schools, in churches and halls and stores—the "Hecla" Pipeless Furnace is the ideal heating system. Easy to tend. Sure and satisfactory service. Low cost. What more could you desire?

ATHLETES AT NORTH SYDNEY.

Manager Goodland wires that he and his charges arrived at North Sydney yesterday morning all well. They spent a beautiful day at Truro on the Thomas Farm, being the guests of Mr. Douglas Thomas, formerly of St. John's. Coming back they met the Premier, Sir Richard Squires, who is returning with them. At North Sydney they are under the paternal wing of Mr. A. W. Shano whose kindness to Newfoundland travellers is proverbial. They will cross the Gulf on Monday's express. They will detain at Donovan's where they will be entertained to luncheon by leading citizens. The triumphal entry to town will be made at 7.30 in the evening when the big citizens' demonstration will take place, and the official welcome of Mayor Morris will be extended. Owners of business houses are asked to display banners on Monday in honor of our athletes' prowess.

TELEGRAM FROM PREMIER.

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 30.
G. W. B. Ayre, Chairman National Sports Committee, Renout Building. I am very much obliged for your night letter giving particulars of programme. I appreciate your invitation to be present at luncheon at Donovan's on Monday and have much pleasure in accepting. Our boys have established a splendid record for themselves and Newfoundland and are well worthy of the able and patriotic manner in which your committee proposes to receive and entertain them. I will be glad if your committee would accept from me a contribution towards defraying expenses incurred.

R. A. SQUIRES.

SPORTS LUNCHEON.

Members and guests attending the luncheon at Donovan's in honor of our Track Team will leave at 11.30 a.m. sharp, Monday. Car owners are asked to assemble in front of the Court House on Duckworth Street. Those not having cars will meet at Mr. Ayre's office, Renout Building. As it is manifestly desirable that everyone should be at Donovan's before the arrival of the train and as some little time will be required to see that everybody is accommodated, it is hoped no one will be late.

NATIONAL SPORTS COMMITTEE.

Oh, had I Homers gifted pen, to court the muses mine.
'Tis then a golden lay I'd weave around your brows to twine.
But knowing fate won't grant it, to her mandate I must bow.
With my humble lyre I'll weave one, for to deck each brave youths brow.

We are told that in her palmy days, Greece got the whole world's praise, Contestants in Olympic games, they crowned with laurel bays, And though to-day thy glory, in these games of days long gone, Yet youths like you would grace I ween, a Greeks proud-marchion.

The blood that courses through your veins, 'tis Saxon and 'tis Celt, Whose prowess both on sea and land their foes have oft-times felt. Though other climes may boast of art they deem both rich and rare, But for courage and good fellowship we're not excelled elsewhere.

The proudest gift within our reach, it is what we will bestow, And that's the love we bear you, which on Monday we will show. The watchword will be Unity amongst every class and creed.

And who dare say that this is not the grandest gift indeed.

We sent you from your native Isle, the land we love the best, To tread upon Canadian soil where you had to contest With athletes from Halifax and round the Province too. Who did their best, but failed, my lads to put it over you.

Now our future sons and daughters when their love libations pour In praise of home, they'll praise you, as we praised our sons of yore. And when gathered round the fireside they with loving hearts will tell Of Phelan and of Butler and of Skirring and Jack Bell.

NATIVE.

FOOTBALL.

St. Pierre vs. Grand Bank. The Football Committee of the French Colony has forwarded "The Evening Telegram" the referee's official account of the football game played by their team at Grand Bank against an "All Newfoundland" one on August 23, in which the latter were victors by a score of 1 to 0. It appears that for three years St. Pierre had been the victors, having a nice well balanced team, but in their last clash our gallant Allies went down to defeat under conditions which evidently were not pleasing to them. Judging from the referee's official report (which we give below) the play was fast and furious, and it is apparent that the game got out of control at times. The referee for its publication in Newfoundland's greatest sporting paper is signed by L. Claireaux, acting Pres., H. Humbert, Capt., A. Yvon, Sec.-Treas., and T. Anestoy, L. Bouvier, J. LeGasse, committee, and they particularly ask that it be printed textually.

REFEREE'S REPORT.

At three p.m. opening of the match, upon arriving on the field I noticed that same was in a very poor condition. 2nd, that the regulation goal posts were not in place although they are compulsory in an international match. 3rd, that on the whole length of the most wide of the field the limit line was not traced which might be the cause of trouble at time of throw-ins. I called the attention of the captain of the Grand Bank team on the very poor condition of the field and then informed the captain of the St. Pierre team of my observations. The latter answered: "All this is very annoying but I nevertheless accept the match in the present conditions."

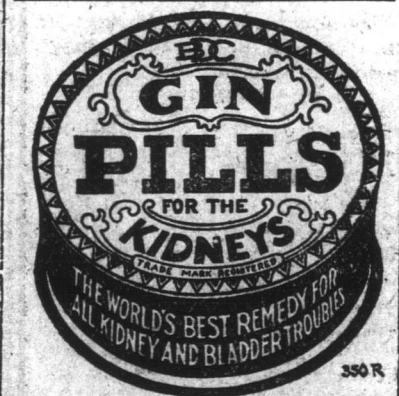

The kick-off was given by the St. Pierre team. I immediately noticed that the Grand Bank team was playing a very rough game. I reprimanded their left wing who impudently answered: "We lost in St. Pierre we must win in Grand Bank no matter the means we use to do it." My duty then as referee was to expel from the field this uncivil and rude player yet I did not do so. A few minutes later the right wing made the following remark: "Never mind the referee's reprimand and keep playing." Still and again I showed myself tolerant towards this other no less uncivil and rude player. A few minutes before the first half the St. Pierre left wing was shooting a corner kick. I had to make him begin it over again three times on account of the same right wing, breaking the rules of the game by running every time towards the left wing before the latter had kicked the ball. At this moment my duty was to grant a penalty kick to the St. Pierre team; I did not do it however showing once great indulgence in favor of the Grand

Bankers. I beg to point out that on several occasions and in spite of my repeated warnings the Grand Bank goal judges behaved very wrongly by encouraging their players. This is formally forbidden by article No. 3 of the football regulations which article in such a case gives to the referee the absolute right of expelling the line and goal judges. During the second half time the Grand Bankers paying no heed whatsoever to my observations kept up their rough and unfair way of playing with unabated fury. At a certain moment I heard them shouting: "PENALTY! PENALTY!" Having noticed no fault justifying a penalty kick I let the game go on and when immediately after the ball went out of limits I then whistled. Without waiting for my decision the Grand Bankers took their positions to shoot a penalty kick; I whistled again and motioned to them to send the ball to the side line in order to be thrown in. None of them moving from their initial position I whistled again and once more indicated the side line. Seeing then that their left and right wing showed themselves more than ever very rude and uncivil towards me, I noticed at that moment that these players were in an unusual condition of excitement. I threatened to expel them from the game if they kept behaving in such a manner. I also declared that I was desirous to discuss but with the captain of their team only and no other. I must remark in passing that unlike most of his co-players the said captain kept very calm and behaved very decently throughout the whole game. He came up to me discussed for a while and then yielded to my decision. Being a Frenchman I did not wish to make use of my rights and once more was as lenient towards the Grand Bank players as I had been since the start of the game. Let it be known that if I noted very generously and showed great indulgence towards the Grand Bank players it was for the following reasons:—1st. French by birth I was referee in a foreign country. 2nd. I knew that the French team was by far superior, especially in science to the Grand Bank team, this being proved by the results of the different matches played during the past three years. 3rd. I was afraid that by putting a stop to the match at a moment when the team and even the main part of the public of Grand Bank were shouting themselves anything but sympathetic to the St. Pierre team it would have been the cause of a very unpleasant incident. The match ended with a score of 1 to 0 in favor of the Grand Bank team. Making use of my rights and character as referee I hereby disqualify their left and right wing players as well as against or participate in any way whatsoever in a game where a French team shall be in action.

I certify the present report to be true and sincere in every respect.

L. CLAIREAUX, Referee.

It is a shocking experience to see the numerous blind people
moving along the streets.
Each of us gives a quick, sympathetic thought to those unfortunate and each of us goes hurriedly on our way, overlooking entirely the unconscious message these sightless humans
have for us.

If you asked them they would tell you that your eyes are your
most priceless possession—once
gone, the wealth of an empire
could not restore them.
Little eye troubles lead to big-

Headstones —AND— Monuments.

Waits the marble in the quarry,
In the mountain's rugged breast:
Waits to tell of fame and glory—
Waits to tell where loved ones rest.

We have ready for quick delivery a splendid selection of Headstones and Monuments at reasonable prices.

We will forward our catalogue of photographic designs and styles to any address on request; also price
list and our mail order form, which makes ordering by mail easy.

Write now and avoid disappointment.

NOTICE

The St. John's Gas Light
Company has established a Complaints Department. It invites complaints and will
remedy them if at all possible. A satisfied customer and efficient service are the watchwords of the Company.

It has also resumed its Fittings Department so that customers' requirements
may be attended to promptly.
