h are manufactured by the most approved modern machinery, from a superior clay, thoroughly mixed with sand; have smooth surfaces, square edges, and ARE GUARANTEED TO STAND THE WEATHER. Our selected stock brick will look as well in the front of a building as some of the so-called face or repress brick, nor are they liable to chip or split with the frost. So far as tested they have not shown any of the WHITE SUBSTANCE, which so disfigures some brick buildings, and we believe them to be entirely free from this ingredient. We aim to keep on hand a large quantity, so that the trade can always rely upon being supplied with good brick.

The Rev. J. E. Warner, Rector, of Middleton, says:

"For more than twenty years I have been afflicted with Chronic Constipation. Have been treated by several physicians here and in the States, and have tried many of the cures advertised through the press without receiving any permanent benefit.

In consequence of the complications arising from this disease I have been obliged to undergo a painful surgical operation, and was compelled last year to give up work. About six months ago I consulted Dr. Miller, who gave me a box of his DINNER PILLS, and I can cheerfully testify that their effect in my case has been little less than magical. Since then I have recommended them to some of my friends, who have experienced me their warmest thanks, and I confidently give them a public recommendation, as I have found them, by far, the best medicine I have ever used."

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 28, 1893. Poetry.

Upon the water cast thy bread, And after many days,
It will return again to thee,
In God's mysterious ways.
Hand in hand, and side by side, The wheat grows with the tares, And so amidst life's soiling dust,

Come angel unawares. Upon the water cast thy bread, Be it word or deed, It will return a thing to bless,
In some sad hour of need.
Be the giving e'er so small,
E'en to the mid will. E'en to the widow's mite Send it forth with hep; and trust, 'I'is precious to His sight.

Upon the water cast thy bread, To those who stand or fall Beneath some dark and fatal stain,
His love is over all.
And thou shalt harvest golden shear
From every seed that's sown And scattered on the yeiding earth. Or, mid the rocks and stone

Upon the water cast thy bread,
And God shall measure mete,
Full, unto the overflowing,
Perfect and complete.
If only given, in touch or look,
Hath he not said to thee:
"It shall return—"tis not forgot,
Since it were done for me."

I used to laugh when they told how he rode into the villages at the head of thirty or forty men, took what he wanted, carried away half a dozen gals or so, and went on his way to the chaparral without anyone striking a blow. But that needn't surprise anyone, when I know that the Navajoes and Comanches ride through the Northern States of Mexico just as they like, and no one says ag'inst it. I was stopping at a tavern close to the wharves, and Ben Goddard was with me. He's a chicken, is Ben, six foot two in hi nocassins, deadly with the rifle, sure every red on over the plain, and in my desperation use a bowie right lively. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 28th, 1893.

The Liberal Convention which met in Ottawa last week seems to have been large in point of numbers, and the deliberations were marked by a large measure of harmony and enthusiasm. No action was taken upon the Manitoba school question, and the various other matters, the discussion of which were likely to lead to a difference of opinion, were carefully avoided. Some able speeches were delivered, and a series of resolutions were passed touching the various questions at issue between the two great political parties in the dominion. Of these, that portion relating to the tariff is of the greatest interest. Upon this question the liberal party has placed itself squarely on record as being in favor of a tariff for revenue only. This of course means that the sole and only object of a tariff is for the purpose of raising This of course means that the sole and only object of a tariff is for the purpose of raising a revenue, such as the necessities of the country require, without regard to the effect such a tariff may have upon the industries of a country. Upon this question then we have a clear-cut line of demarkation between the two parties, the tariff of the party now

This result was not wholly unexpected, for This result was not wholly unexpected, for while at the outset of the investigation there appeared to be a strong chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused, most of this failed to materialize when the real test came, and the various witnesses subponed by the crown, came to be examined under oath. Nevertheless, we do not believe that those acting on behalf of the crown have anything to regret in connection with the case. The startling stories told concerning the death of Cameron by those who should have known the facts of the case, and the evidence given at the crooner's inquest, rendered the most searching investigation necessary. Those who are responsible for the proper administration of justice in this county would have been remiss in their duty had they failed to use every means at their disposal in ascertaining the whole truth concerning the death of our late fellow-citizen. Nothing less than this would have satisfied the public mind. In some of the western states human life is while at the outset of the investigation there In some of the western states human life is held very cheap. There lynching, murders and violent deaths are things of common and violent deaths are things of common occurrence, and frequently no notice whatever is taken of them by the authorities.

—The patrons of husbandry of Ontario are beginning to raise serious objections to the conditions under which premier Mowat's plebiscite upon the question of prohibition plebiscite upon the question of prohibition is to be taken. They object, among other things, to having the cost of the vote saddled upon the various municipalities. In view of the fact that the local legislature of Ontario, which authorized this plebiscite, has no power to enact a prohibitory liquor law, even should the people declare in its favor, it is difficult to understand what benefit such a vote is likely to lead to, or where the people of Ontario are going to get value for the money they spent in taking the voice of the people upon the question. The courts have clearly decided that while our provinhave clearly decided that while our provincial legislatures have power to regulate and restrict the liquor traffic, a prohibitory law equally as good. We want the best to be trouble to attend. alone. So, after the people have declared that they are ready and anxious for prohibition, the Ontario parliament is utterly his fact the Ontario grangers are very forcibly, we think, asking why the municipalities are to be compelled to pay the expense of the coming plebiscite. spraying for the curculio is not so effective in repelling the ravages of that insect as in the case of the codlin worms. The reason we think is obvious. With the codlin worms the moth deposits its eggs in the calyx which points upward and readily receives and retains the liquid poison. With plums and cherries the curculio is as likely to puncture the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and the fruit and the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under the fruit and the fruit cherries the curculio is as likely to puncture the fruit and deposit its eggs upon the under side as anywhere, which prevents the direct application of the poison upon the point where the egg is deposited. Spreading a sheet arranged for the purpose beneath the branches as large in diameter as the limbs spread and jarring the trees with a smart rap from a mallet which dislodges the insect, dropping them upon the sheet, is the most effective method known to repel the curculio.

the two parties, the tariff of the party now in power being based upon the protective principle. The convention also abandoned the unrestricted reciprocity plank in the party's platform, and declared itself in favor of a "fair and liberal reciprocity treaty" which would include not only natural products, but a "well considered list of manufactured articles" as well.

If we might venture to express an opinion, we think the convention acted wisely in omitting unrestricted reciprocity from its platform. It seems rather an anomaly for a great political party of one country to adopt a policy, the fulfilment of which depends almost wholly upon another nation, and one which has not always shown itself to be very friendly, or even neighborly at that. Unlike unrestricted reciprocity, which appeals largely to the unthinking, a policy of a revenue tariff commands the sympathy and respect of the educated, the student of political economy especially. Upon the whole we think the liberal party has greatly strengthened itself throughout the dominion by this convention.

End of the Crisp-Curry Case.

End of the Crisp-Curry Case. The Methodist conference, at Moncton, went into secret council on Friday night, on the Crisp-Currie case and remained in ses-sion until four o'clock Saturday motning. After a long discussion the following reso-lution was carried:

"Whereas this 'ministerial session has rea the evidence taken at the said trial and he fully considered the same, therefore resolve (1st), that the appeal be not allowed, and (2nd that the conference expresses its opinion the while the evidence is damaging, it is not sufficiently clear to prove that he is guilty of the charges, yet it does seriously affect his mini-terial reputation." Stick to the Right.

In cases of diarrhea, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it.

We have much pleasure in reproducing the following article from the Montreal Witness, relative to the success in Great Britain of a well known Canadian firm. We have done business with the firm in question for a number of years and can heartily endorse what the Witness says concerning their honorable business methods, and the care exercised in the publication of the articles appearing in the press relative to their preappearing in the press relative to their pre-These cases are always written paration. "The phase, British pluck" has become an adage, and not without good reason, for wherever enterprise, courage or "bull-dog tenacity" is required to sweep away or sur-mount opposing obstacles in order that the pinnacle of success may be reached, your true Briton never fliuches, and facing all obstacles works until success has been achieved. This same "British pluck" is a characteristic of the native born Canadian, and there are very few walks in life in which and there are try in discussions as the reward. This much by way of prelude to what bears every indication of being a successful venture on the part of a well-known Canadian house. When it was announced a few months ago that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, intended establishing a branch of their business in the motherland, branch of their business in the motherisate, there were not a few who were inclined to be skeptical as to the success of the venture, while some boldly predicted failure. "There would be an objection," they urged, "to taking up a colonial remedy," "their business methods differed from those prevailing in Canada;" "the field was already crowded with proprietory remedies long established and well advertised. These and many other will policitions were urged as reasons why the objections that might be raised. They had unbounded confidence in the merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defrand you and should be avoided.

The various of their taus or even plowing if necessary, and or even plowing if necessary, and or even plowing if necessary, and thus to eliminate disease from the propositions, and thus to eliminate disease from the propositions, and thus to eliminate disease from the activity in the performance of their taus or even plowing if necessary, and trashy spots. Cut away all briers and brambles if any exist. A little manure spread upon thin places, followed by a sprinkling of grass seed will help to make the pasture even and consequently more profitable.

Mow the weeds constantly and so encourage the growth of good grasses.

Do not think, because it is merely a pasturing too early or too late, and thus to eliminate disease from the constant the proposition. and the pluck to back up their confidence with their cash. This latter is well known to Cana lian newspaper men, who know that less than three years ago the company first put upon the market in the form of Pink Pills a prescription which had previously only been used in private practice, and with a skill and audacity that has not been sur-passed in the annals of Canadian advertising, passed in the annals of Canadian advertising, pushing it in the van of all competitors. Of course, the remedy had to have merit, or this could not have been done, and it was the company's sincere belief in the merit of their remedy that endowed them with the pluck to place their capital behind it. It was this same conviction that merit, skilfully advocated, will command success that induced them to venture into competition with advocated, will command success that induced them to venture into competition with the long-established remedies of the motherland. And we are glad to know—indeed we believe that all Canadians will be glad to learn—that short as is the time the Dr.
Williams' Company has been in that field, their success has been rapid and ever increasing. As an instance of this success the Chemist and Druggist, the leading drug creasing. As an instance of this success the Chemist and Druggist, the leading drug journal of the world—and probably the most conservative—in a recent issue states that the success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills nto such rapid prominence in England, it is the merit of the preparation that keeps it there and makes it popular with the people. In consequence of the gossip, which has been in circulation with regard to this case, a local reporter called upon Mr. Watson, at his bright little house, situated at No. 19 Mount pleasant, Whitemore Road, Old Basford, and made inquiries as to the curious circumstances alleged. The visitor was met by Mrs. Watson, but Mr. Watson himself immediately afterwards entered the room, looking very little like the victim of sudden paralysis. He told the story of his life's health as follows: In boyhood he was prostrated by a severe attack of rheumatic fever, which, after his slow recovery, left behind a permanent weakness, and uncertainty of action in the heart and he had always been debilitated and more or less feeble. On giving up his work at Messrs. interest in the case of this unfortunate man, and is acquainted with the circumstances from almost first to last. A week or two ago Mr. Watson began to astonish all his neighbors by the sudden improvement in his apper arnor and capacity. He is able to walk a out, and his right arm, which was formerly perfectly incapable of motion, is now moved almost as readily as the other, though the fingers have not yet recovered their usual delicate touch. Perhaps the most striking circumstance, however, is the great improvement in the personal aspect of the man. The deformity of feature caused by the paralysis is entirely removed. His speech is restored, and the right leg, the displacement of which kept him to his bed or chair, has now recovered its function so completely.

Questioned as to the cause of this remark-that he is about to take some out-door work in Basford and Nottingham.

Questioned as to the cause of this remarkable improvement in a case universally regarded as incurable by the medical profession, Mrs. Watson, wife of the patient, unhesitatingly attributed her husband's miraculous recovery to the use of a medicine called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale Paonle and prought jute gonsiderable prom. called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and brought into considerable prominence by the publication of some remarkable cures effected by their means in Canada and elsewhere. Since I have taken Dr. Williams' Pin asid Mr. Watson, "I been better not only than I was been he stroke of paralysis seized me, but that I have been at any time since my boyhood," a statement confirmed Mrs. Watson, who said the appearance for husband now was proof of the enorms improvement in his health. "The disa" she said, "seem not only to have cured the paralysis of the face and leg, but to have effected a most remarkable change in his general health."

Mr. Watson was always remarkably pallid and of a sickly appearance, but the ruddy glow of the patient's face confirmed Mrs. Wa son's words. Attention is drawn to the circumstance that every fact in the above remarkable history is vouched for by independent evidence which it would be morally impossible to doubt. It is shown by conclusively attested evidence that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the ordinary sense, but a scientific preparation, from a formula long used in regular practice. They are shown to positively and unfailingly cure all diseases arising from impoverished blood, such as pale and sallow complexion, general muscular weakness, loss of appetite,

Pasture Lands

The care of pasture lands is a matter that receives too little attention from farmers in eneral, although upon this depends in a onsiderable measure the profit that we may expect to receive from growing stock. Our pasture fields are usually selected from the lands for which we think will least repay us the labor of cultivation; and so, because they are comparatively valueless, we think it will not pay to give them the care necessary to make them of greater value. The stock is turned into these fields, to pick up what it may. If the stock is kept from starvation by the voluntary growth of the cure all diseases arising from impoverished blood, such as pale and sallow complexion, general muscular weakness, loss of appetite, depression of spirits, ansemis, green sickness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pain in the back, nervous headache, dizziness, loss of memory, early decay, all forms of female weakness, hysteria, paralysis, locomotor ataxy, rheumatism, sciatica, all diseases depending on vitiated humors in the blood, causing sorofula, rickets, hip joint diseases, chronic erysipelas, catarrh, consumption of the bowels and lungs, and also invigorates the blood and system when broken down by overwork, worry, diseases. These pills are not a purgative medicine. They contain nothing that could injure the most delicate system. They act directly on the blood, supplying to the blood its life. In this way the blood becoming built up' and being supplied with its lacking constitutents, becomes rich and red, nourishes the various organs, stimulates them to activity in the performance of their funcpastures we are apt to consider ourselves

A pasture in which cattle are ompelled to travel all day in order to seure sufficient food to satisfy hunger, will not do much good in the way of putting on tinually in fertility and productiveness, and consequently in its capacity for carrying stock. To accomplish this you must give attention to minor details. One of these is to scatter the droppings of the cattle, so that the full fertilizing value may be availed of. There should be a variety of grasses, so as to give a long season of succulent herbage. Upon a natural pasture such a variety will the ways of nature and use a mixture of the seeds of the most nutritious grasses. Now pasture with good stock. Do not think because the field is poor, that you who have not read of the cures, that to say the least, border on the marvellous, brought about by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and already we see by the English papers that the same results are being achieved there. Is it any wonder then that Pink Pills are popular wherever introduced: We have done business with this firm for a number of years. We have found them honorable and reliable, and worthy of credence in all that they claim for their remedy. How to Cool a Cellar. A great mistake is sometimes made in entilating cellars and milk houses. The object of ventilation is to keep the cellars cool and dry, but this object often fails of being accomplished by a common mistake, and instead the cellar is made both warm and damp. A cool place should never be ventilated, unless the air admitted is cooler than the air within, or is at least as cool as and then asked whether he could not go to hat or a very little warmer. The warmer the air the more moisture it holds in suspen. sion. Necessarily, the cooler the air the said the porter, "I'll make up your berth." more this moisture is condensed and precipitated. When a cool cellar is aired on a warm day, the entering air being in motion appears cool, but as it fills the cellar the cooler air with which its becomes mixed chills it, the moisture is condensed, and dew is deposited on the cold walls, and may often be seen running down them in streams. Then the cellar is damp and soon becomes mouldy. To avoid this, the windows should only be opened at night, and late, the last thing before retiring. There is no need to fear that the night air is unhealthful; it is as pure as the air of rush for his berth. midday, and is really drier. The cool air enters the apartment during the night and and we could see the snow melting on his irculates through it. The windows should be closed before sunrise in the morning, and tains and remained silent for a few seconds. kept shaded through the day.
