ment, which would give home rule. If there had been no divorce revelations that home rule would have meant making Mr. Parnell the constitutional ruler of Ireland; but after the revelations the Liberals considered whether they would still place the constitutional leadership in Mr. Parnell's hands, and they decided that they would not do it. (Prolonged cheering.) That was the conviction of the Liberal party in December, and their conviction is now even more strongly held. (Cheers.) That is final. We are ready to face defeat, exclusion from power and political misfortune, but we will not create a constitutional leadership for Ireland under such guidance. (Cheers.) they have the proud satisfaction of knowing they almost extinguished the previous large majority in one of the worst gerrymandered constituencies in the Dominion. be plainly HEARD ABOVE THE BOARING OF THE GALE. The sea was so heavy that the boats of the rescuers could not with safety approach the wreck, so they were compelled to lie to leeward where they picked up the people as they were swept from the decks. As the Utopia's bows settled a terrible scene was witnessed from the boats. Those still As the Utopia's bows settled a terrible scene was witnessed from the boats. Those still on board the sinking steamer made a sudden rush en masse to the fore-rigging, struggling for their lives and vainly seeking places of refuge. Twenty minutes later the forecastle was submerged and a large number of persons gathered there who had not dared to leap overboard with the hope of being rescued by the boats, and who had failed in their efforts to ascend the rigging, were carried away by the waves. The rescuers, blinded by the wind and rain, saw nothing but entangled with wreckage. A steam pinnace rescued all those who had taken refuge in the main rigging, but the last ones were not taken off until 11 o'clock at night. They were so exhausted that they could do nothing for themselves. The blue jackets clambered into the shrouds and passed the helpless people to the rescuers in the boats. Both the British and Swedish sailors did plucky and vigorous work. While a steam pinnace belonging to the British ironclad Immortalite was engaged in the work of rescue her serew fouled, and she becan. helpless and drifted on the rocks. In try-

Divers who have examined the wreck report there are hundreds of bodies in the steerage and between decks. During the day the bodies of 28 men and one woman were recovered here, while at various other points along the coast the bodies of six men, eighteen women, seven boys and one girl were washed ashore. One of the dead women had her arms locked around the corpse of her child. The authorities and the inhabitants are essisting to their utmost in the work of mitigating the distress of the poor people. A private fund has also been started for the shipwrecked passengers. Two other saloon passengers besides Signor Colbron were saved.

THE SAVED.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The agents here of the Anchor Line have received the following report regarding the disaster to the steamer Utopia: The list of the saved embraces two cabin passengers, 290 steerage passengers and 25 of the crew. Fifteen of the crew and 475 passengers were lost. The ship was not insured. The cargo was valued at $300,000 and the steamship at $400,000. The passengers saved will be brought over on the steamship Assyria, of the same line, which was at Genoa at the time of the accident and has been ordered to Gibraltar. By this delay the Utopia's passengers will not arrive here until after the new law "that no immigrant without personal effects shall be permitted to land" goes into effect. Col. Weber said to-day that the survivors of the Utopia would probably be examined at Gibraltar, and the destitute, sick and crippled be left behind, only those with baggage and able to take care of themselves being brought. The Anchor Line was notified by Col. Weber of these facts.

Prince Napoleon's Death.

LONDON, March 18.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News, says:

'Prince Napoleon went to Rome to counsel King Humbert on the dangers of the Driebund to the House of Savoy, and to advocate the plan of Duchess D'Uzes to have the Prince of Naples marry Princess Helena of Orleans instead of Princesa. Letia, whom the duchess destined for the Duc D'Orleans. Prince Napoleon's memoirs establish by written evidence the fact that he never disagreed with Napoleon III.

The Chronicle's Rome correspondent and the Fanfula both declare that Prince Napoleon was unconscious when the sacrament of extreme unction was administered to him.

The Abbe Pujoe, in an interview, said he gave the sacrament to Prince Napoleon at burial of his 7-year-old girl, Saturday. He was very excited, and told the undertaker

that while he was at the back of the farm and his wife was at a neighbor's, some man had outraged his little daughter, and then poured coal oil on the floor and bed and set fire to them. The fire was first discovered by the mother, who found the house nearly consumed. The child was burned so hadly that she died in great agony.

The argument upon the uninitialed balls took place. Mr. Guillet's counsel, M. Holland, used all the arguments he cot think of to induce Judge Benson to rejuthese ballots. Judge Benson, hower firmly refused to accede to the arguments of Mr. Holland, but followed the Supreme Court decision and his own precedent made in the East Northumberland re-count in 1888. The uninitialed ballots were allowed and five of the defaced ballots were disallowed, the net result bein that Guillet just held his own on his ballot and Mr. Hargraft gained one on his, in covered by the flower of the hold was burned so badly that she died in great agony.

She told her mother that a man came, and after assaulting her, started the fire as above stated. She was so near dead that she could not give any further description of the man. Sheriff Kane took the coroner and a doctor and drove to the scene and carefully investigated the matter, but was unable to learn more than a repetition of the above facts.

The house is burned with all its contents, and the little sufferer is dead. No one saw anyone come or go from the house, and unless some new developments occur the fiend will never be known. Some think she set fire to the house herselt and that the story of the assault is untrue, yet if that had been the case she could have escaped out of the house and saved her life. Some Foolish People

RAILWAY PROBLEMS

Disturb the Civic Legislators Peace of Mind.

The Payment of the C. P. R. Bonus Again Sat Back.

Petitioned to for the Legislation Necessary for the Lease or Transfer of the L and P. S. R. Stock.

The City Council met Tuesday night for the purpose of disposing of unfinished business. Ald. James Fitzgeraid was the only absentee. The most urgent matter was the clause of the Finance Committee's report dealing with the securing of the necessary legislation for the sale or re-lease of the London and Port Stanley Railroad. At Monday evening's meeting consideration of the report had been deferred for a week, and it took over an hour's wrangling before the committee's report could be introduced. The difficulty arose over the feeling prevalent that the members of the Finance Committee wanted to force the clause relating to salaries before the Council, and consequently objection was made to everything.

The subject was introduced by Ald.

The subject was introduced by Ald.

No. 1 Committee a passed on the preceding evening be resscinded. The railway

Ald. O'Meara objected to the motion. It was altogether too sweeping. He had always had faith in the Finance Committee, but his faith had been greatly shaken by some of the resent proceedings.

Ald. Spencer defended the action of the committee as quite in despire in had been functions. The salary question had been referred to the committee and: their report had been presented accordingly.

Ald. W. W. Fitzgerald objected to the Montion on much the same grounds as Ald. M. O'Meara. He prefaced his remarks with the assurance that he did not wish to find fault with the members of the Finance Committee or with Mayor Taylor, and then proceeded to deprecate their methods of conducting the city's affairs. The report, he said, could be admitted only on a two-thirds vote.

port, he said, could be admitted only on a two-thirds vote.

Ald. Judd said that as he had neglected to attend the last meeting of the Finance Committee he had no knowledge of the matters deait with. In consequence he would not, unless compelled to, give any vote upon the clause of the report fixing the salaries of the civic officials.

Ald. Taylor reiterated the objections of Aldermen O'Meara and W. W. Fizzgerald. There should be a reasonable time allowed for the consideration of such important questions as those dealt with by the report, and such time had not been allowed. He would favor the discussion of the railway matters, but with respect to the salaries he did not think it just to force the discussion of that clause upon the Council.

The mayor thereupon dropped into the red cushion again and Ald. Thomas shouted after the retrexting company, "No; he has no."

4. That application be made to the Dominion Logislature for power to lease or sell the London and Port Stanley Railway and other powers re said railway.

Ald. Ivey objected to the passage of this clause. "The matter resolves itself into a question as the justice or injustice of the Ontario Legislature. It is a reflection upon that body such as I shall not allow to pass unchallenged. I think that the remark is unjust and should be withdrawn. The city has heretofore always recognized the jurisdiction of the Ontario Legislature over the road, and there should be no question of that jurisdiction now. THAN WAR! That dread disease, whose ruthless Withers the beauty's transient flower."

De Quincey said of consumption that De Quincey said of consumption that it was the "Murderer of the children of hope." This dread disease is the greatest calamity that afflicts the children of men. It is worse than war. War is a mere outburst of passion which, when it has glutted itself with blood, lets the world grow beautiwith blood, lets the wind a soli it has made. Consumption knows no pause, but marches on, dealing death silently but more fatally than all the armaments of the world. That cough, that hectic flush; that eye that is far too bright; the form that is becoming so shrunken—these are sad and tatal signs.

PRIVATE LETTERS ON PUBLIC

QUESTIONS.

The City Council has resolved to apply to the Dominion Government for the necessary legislation to deal with the London and Port Stanley Railway, the lease of which to the Grand Trunk Railway expires

A good deal was said in committee and at the meeting of the Council Tuesday night about the advice which Mr. W. R. Merclith tendered on the subject. Though Mr. Meredith is presumably city solictor, and though the London and Port Stanley Railprivate letter to his brother, Mr. T. G.

We can scarcely say that we admire this treatment of public matters in a private way. It is notorious that when the Lonion and Port Stanley line was leased the public interest was subordinated to private considerations, and the citizens of London were great losers by the deal.

There should be no private letters, semiprivate insinuations or private dealings about civic affairs. If the city solicitor has anything to say to those whom he serves it should be presented in a formal document and put on record as such. If a contrary programme is to be observed, the majority of the citisens will assume that the objectors to the dividing of the work of the city solicitor were right when they took exception to Mr. W. R. Meredith remaining the adviser of the Council now that he has his professional interests in a rival city.

-The present intention of the Canada Pacific Railway Company is to build its southern extension from Woodstock to the Niagara River in a straight line, thus Hamilton. If that city wishes connection, it will have to get it by the agency of a spur line getting off the mountain west of the city limits, and ascending again in the neighborhood of Stoney Creek. The Hamiltonians do not like the loop idea, but have they not the T. H. and B.?

A GOOD PROGRAMME.

Mr. Gladstone's journey to and recept in the ancient town of Hastings was a comin the hearts of the British populace.

ich a wonder of physical endurance as Gladstone. Here we have a man who has spent a lifetime in the service of his country, now in his 82nd year, yet able to go forth in the rigors of a winter such as has forth in the rigors of a winter such as has not been experienced during the century to enlighten his fellow-countrymen on the public questions of the day and to lay down an ambitions programme of pro-gressive legislation for their acceptance. There is no halfway halting about Gladstone. He does not stop to conjure up lions in the pathway of his political friends. He sees grievances to be remedied, the wrongs of the weak to be removed, the inequalities perpetuated by class legislation of former years to be activity. His not to reason on how the set right. His not to reason on how the advocacy of these reforms will affect his own political fortunes. His not to seek office at the sacrifice of principle. Enough office at the sacrifice of principle. Lidouga that he is convinced that there are wrongs requiring righting.

On the question of doing justice to Ire-land, the Liberal leader leaves nothing an-land, the Liberal leader leaves nothing ansaid. Parnells can come and go, but fair play for the Irish people can and will be obtained by the party which Gladstone leads. The shortcomings and ambitions of one man may hinder but they cannot defeat the clearly expressed wishes of the electorate.

But the British Liberal programme, a nunciated by Gladstone, comprehends many reforms for all parts of the country. Chief mong its points is the declaration against the class system of voting now prevalent. The Liberals demand such a trenchant re-form of the laws affecting registration and the apportionment of seats as shall put an end to plural voting and the unequal diswho is the owner of 72 drinking places. tribution of power among the constituencies. Every man, say the Liberals, should have one vote, and one vote only, and that vote should possess exactly the same weight in all parts of the United Kingdom. At present a very different state of affairs exists. In some boroughs one man's vote counts five, ten, nay, fifteen times as much as it would in others. We have "one man, one vote and residential suffrage" in Ontario Provincial elections, and no one can deny that it is a pre-eminently fair system of ascertaining the voice of the people. For one thing, it saves an immense amount of trouble and expense in getting in the "outside vote," which is incident to the other system.

The existing social and economical arrangements in the motherland are not all that they should be, and another section of the Liberal programme is intended to sup-ply a remedy. Mr. Gladstone insists that elementary education everywhere shall be absolutely free, a condition of things which by no means exists to-day in England. As regards the amendments of the labor laws desired by the trade unionists, he does not go so far as to promise a legal eight-hour day, but he will assist workingmen to secure for them-selves a curtailment of the hours of labor, in all trades that will admit of it, by stampcontrolle. Nothing would so electoral contests. Nothing electoral contests. Nothing electoral contests. Nothing duty, not a chattel.

The duty, not a chattel.

The discourse of the law of conspiracy. He also pledges himself to bring about an extension and improvement of the factory laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting rural laborers to acquire small patches in grural laborers to acquire small patches.

The discourse of the law of conspiracy. He also pledges himself to bring on the loss caused to the community while of the loss caused to the community while to be a constant of the loss caused to the community while to be a constant of the last very laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws a last year $700,000,000, to say nothing of the loss caused to the community while to be a constant of the last very laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws a last year $700,000,000, to say nothing of the loss caused to the community while to be a constant of the last very laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws affecting children, and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting laws affecting children and women were incapacitated for work by liquor or by diseases directly traceable to indulgence in it.

Sometimes we hear it urged, as a reason and the last very laws affecting children and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting the last very laws affecting children and also to frame a measure for the purpose of assisting the last very laws affecting the last very laws a of land. The latter promise has in Mr. Gladstone's mouth a definite significance. It means that he will do for the English rural worker precisely what Mr. Balfour is now professing to do for the small Irish occupier—namely, advance Government money in order to transform him into an owner of the land he tills. A reform in the system of collecting the taxes is also promised. The necessity for equalizing the incidence of taxation, so that incomes which are the earnings of hard work shall be burdened far less heavily than the incomes resulting from invested capital is insisted on. In the same direction is the declaration that the legacy duties require such readjustment that they who inherit great fortunes shall be mulcted for the benefit of the community far more everely than they are now. If, as is believed, the Conservative Government has resolved to go to the country in the fall of this year, the Liberals will be able to present an attractive programme, sufficiently radical to meet the desires of the more advanced men in the Liberal

OBLIGATORY VOTING. Advocates of obligatory voting are some times told that the suggested penalty of striking the delinquent's name from the next opportunity of voting, or for a stated term, would not be much of a punishment.

We are inclined to think it would. Nothing arouses more feeling than disfranchisement through fraud or the operais valued, and the fear of losing it through inexcusable neglect would give it a new value. Then the very fact that the law recognized the exercise of the franchise as duty, would have a considerable effect in placing the elector's obligation in a new light before law-abiding people.

What a boon it would be to candidates

Yet enemies, continues to have a warm corner the weight of argument appears to us to be against encouraging funerals on Sunday. Few countries in the world can produce The clergymen are protty busy already of that day. Then you cannot have Sunday funerals without causing a considerable funerals without causing a constraint amount of otherwise unnecessary work to a large number of persons who are not clergy-men. It is true a crowd can oftener be got on Sunday than on any other day, but after all is a big crowd necessary?—does it neces-sarily imply more respect or more grief than a band of mourners smaller numerically but more sincere? It may be said there are special cases where speedy Sunday interment is necessary. Such special cases are provided for on certificate of the health officer.

One must have a policy on such a matter. Your trend must be in the direction of encouraging or of discouraging Sunday of encouraging or of discouraging Sunday funerals. If your policy were to encourage them, presently the interments which ordinarily take place on the Saturday or the Monday would mass themselves on the Sunday, and you would be over-run with Sunday funerals. You must have one policy or the other, and the Advertiser considers that the wisest policy is that of considers that the wisest policy is that of encouraging as far as possible interments on the Saturday or the Monday rather than on the Sunday.

BRITAIN'S DRINK TRADE. Some remarkable facts are brought out in a blue book issued by the Imperial Government, a summary of which has been cabled to us. It appears that 152 peers of the realm, members of the hereditary House of Lords, are the owners of places in which intoxicating drink is sold. The number of drink shops ewned by these peers is 1,539. Next comes the Duke of Bedford with 48 drink sheps to his credit; then the Duke of Devonshire with 47; the Earl of Cawdor, 39; Duke of Rutland, 37; Earl of Dudley, 35; Duke of Northumberland, 34, and Duke of Portland, 32. the sale of intoxicating liquors. The motherland is ahead of us in things, but certainly not in the inculcation things, but certainly not in the inculcation of temperance principles. Judging by the steady progress of the belief that liquor-drinking is wholly unnecessary and highly detrimental to the welfare of the commun-ity, Canada is destined to keep in the van of the temperance movement, and we are of the temperance movement, and we are never likely to see such a woeful condition of affairs as is set forth in the British official returns from which we have quoted.

Great Britain is a free trade country, and mmercial freedom has bestowed countless blessings on her people. What she needs now as much as anything is emancipation from the liquor traffic.

Few people stop to think how much noney is squandered by the British people in intoxicating liquors. The national debt, at the close of the last financial year, amounted to $3,424,770,750, on which the nnual interest of $126,133,800 was paid. But the British bill for intoxicating liquor why prohibition is not feasible, that the ountry could not stand the loss of revenue arising from the cessation of the liquor traffic. Here we have absolute proof that if the British people were to cease drinking intoxicating liquors for five years they could clear off their entire national debt and have a luckpenny to the good. With the removal of the national debt would go by far the greater tax burden of the British peo ple and an era of unprecedented prosperity would be inaugurated.

A NEEDED PRECAUTION.

Mr. Wood, the member for North Brant, has introduced into the Legislature a bill declaring that the provisions respecting noxious weeds and diseases of fruit trees extended to include smut, which he fears will become prevalent in Ontario by the feeding of Northwest wheat unless neasures are taken to prevent it. This is a very necessary precaution. Unfortu-nately these laws for the protection of the ranks. It supplies groundwork for legisla-tion for the benefit of the people in all through local laxity in their enportions of the ancient realm, and shows that the Liberals, while determined to ties fail in their duty the trouble is way lease is a public matter, he is said to settle the Irish question are ready and hard to meet. But the intelligent taxpayer willing to remedy inequalities wherever should be just as anxious about putting down the noxions weeds and diseases that rob him of his fruit trees as he is about the suppression of thieving. He is a loser in either case if he does not take heed.

> PERSONAL AND GENERAL. —Important information is given in the Dominion Postal Guide for 1891, just issued. Special attention is directed to the follow ing changes: Insufficiently prepaid regis-tered matter addressed to Canada and the United States may be forwarded. Scaled cans of staple articles of use or consumption may be sent at fifth-class rate. Insufficiently paid matter of all classes, except transient newspapers, may be forwarded conditionally. Newspapers containing lettery advertisements are refused delivery to the United States. Blank forms and printed stationery may pass at the rate of 1 cent. per two ounces.

—Switzerland has recently made great progress in the higher education of women. Between 400 and 500 women studied at the Swiss universities last year; 229 of them Swiss universities last year; 229 of them were regularly matriculated, and were preparing themselves to take degrees; 146 of them came from Russie, 26 from Switzerland, 21 from Germany. 12 from Bulgaria and 5 from the United States; 156 of them aspire to diplomas in medicine, 6 are in the legal departments, and 67 are trying to become doctors of philosophy. Switzerland is about the only country on the continent The question of Sunday funerals seems to that has not taken pains to keep women as be causing discussion. It would perhaps be incorrect to assert that there is nothing to the number of women attendants has been increased. Ten years ago the number was only 50; five years ago, 127.

OTHER NEWSPAPERS.

Buffalo Express.

It would be better for both Canada and the United States if our northern neighbor should become an independent republic. The United States would be glad to extend the right hand of fellowship to such a government and our relations with it could and would be the most friendly.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE AND RECIPEOCITY.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE AS VICTORIA, B. C., Times. Rov. Mr. McLood attributes the slow development of Vancouver Island to the absence of a Sunday law. From this proposition we shall not dissent, but had he added "reciprocity" we should be compelled to admit that he is as sound politically as he is religiously.

Detroit Free Press.

The appeal of Parnell to the American people comes with a poor grace from the man who is himself responsible for the wreck of the Irish cause in Great Britain, as in the world at large. There may be differences of opinion as to the wisdom of the policy of Gladstone or that of Parnell, but there will be none as to the comparative reliability and usefulness of the men. It is not that Parnell is morally discredited, for the cause is greater than the man, and It is not that Parnell is morally discredited, for the cause is greater than the man, and even the morally discredited may do good. It is, rather, that he has forced himself upon an unwilling and a disapproving world, and has hazarded an interest which he claims to hold dear for the vindication of his own vanity. f his own vanity.

British Emigration.

London, March 18.—In its final report the Parliamentary Committee on Colonization does not advise a general extension of the system of state-aided emigration except in the case of congested districts in Scotland and Ireland. The committee suggests that the provisions of the Irish Land Act dealing with the question of congested districts be also applied to Scotland. They advise that the experiment of sending 100 crofter families to America be postponed,

This celebrated medicine will relieve pain, cleanse and purify the blood, and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying many cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying many remedies, and having suffered for years. Is it not conclusive proof that if you are a sufferer you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? a sufferer you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures?

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

The great source of disease originates in the BLOOD, and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagmant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY will renew the Blood, NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY will renew the Blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

The conviction is, in the public mind as well as the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the VEGETABLE KINGDOM are more safe and more effectual in the cure of disease than mineral medicines. The Vegetable Discovery is composed of the juice of most remarkable roots, barks and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give an infant. Allow us to ask you a candid question:—Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it. All druggists have it for sale.

Still, as a lie can never overtake the truth, and as in this case the lie had a week's start, these exponents of the ethics of American journalism had reason to feel moderately well satisfied. It would be prudent, however, to let the matter "simmer" now; and there were other reasons, too; so Mr. Abrams was recalled from his mission to Central City, and set to work at the foundations of the character of a gentleman just spoken of in connection with the coming municipal elections. He had hitherto borne an unimpeachable name in the community, but his friends had committed the grevious offense of speaking of him for mayor before the Palladium had been consulted, and it therefore became the Palladium's duty to pull his props from under him.

Contenting himself for the time-being Contenting himself for the time-being authorities at division and army headquarters had expressed their deep sense of obligation to the Palladium for having brought to light the scandalous condition of affairs at Fort Ryan, and that it had received their assurances that as the result of its efforts Lieutenant Hearn would be brought to trial by court-martial, this public-spirited journal wisely turned its attention elsewhere. Other papers, of course, kept up the hue and cry, but, the Pioneer's columns having warned them that their martyr was, after all, only acamp, and their victim a young officer with a bouleversement by pitching into military to prepare the public mind for such a bouleversement by pitching into military courts in general as "Star Chamber" affairs, organized only to convict privates and whitewash officers; one journal going so far as to announce that a "court-martial for Lieutenant Hearn meant simply that a body of men, each and every one of whom was in the daily habit of violating every rule of deceny and humanity, was to sit in judgment on his case and declare him innocent."

All this, of course, came duly marked and with pencil comment to Mr. Hearn from scores of anonymous senders, as he sat dazed and disheartened in his cheerless room, but this was not all. Nearly two weeks had elapsed now since the first assault and the home letters, for which he had looked with mingled fear and longing, had begun to come. The first he opened was from his mother. She had received the marked copies of the Palladium of the first three or four days, sent no one knew by whom, and they were quickly followed by others. THOR OF "THE COLOXEL'S DAUGHTER,"

—The concert given by the ladies of the Enworth League in the Colborne Street Church the other evening was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. The following contributed to the evening's programme: Miss Bugler, Miss L. Jury, Miss Bissell, Miss Mary Bryant, Miss Mabel Pratt, the Harmony Band, Rev. E. B. Lanceley, and Messrs. Forsythe, J. Jury and P. J. Edmunds. Miss Webb, one of the members who is about to leave the city for Toronto, presented the league with a piece of fancy work in the shape of a painting on velvet.

—Willie Leslie and John Brennan, two precocious children aged 10 and 11 years respectively, are not imbued with that love of home which is ascribed to good little boys. The police have more than once given them a brief residence in the cells, but it did not at all affect them. They were arrested again yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock at the G. T. R. station. When questioned, Leslie said his father was in the hospital and that his mother "fired him out." Brennan, who made an extended visit at the Seventh camp, Port Stanley, last summer, gave as an excuse that his father was sick. The magistrate dismissed the boys and told them to go home.

So tal at St. James.

The ladies' Aid Society of St. James' Presbyterian Church gave another of their very popular and enjoyable socials last evening in the lecture hall of the church. An interesting programme of music, etc., rendered by the following well-known talent, requires no comment: Misses Phillips, Mutch, Horton, Allen, Summers, E. Summers, Cannell and Messrs. Webster, Crone and Wright. Miss E. Summers, acompanist, and Rev. M. P. Talling, pastor, in the chair, as usual acquitted themselves most creditably. During the evening a bountiful supply of refreshments was served and a handsome collection taken up. All were glad to be present.

W. P. Elliott's Death. ocial at St. James

London, March 18.—A stormy scene occurred at the County Council last night. It was occasioned by Mr. Davies asking the council to suspend the opening of Waterloo Park by the Prince of Wales, pending the outcome of the baccarat case. The request was met with cries of "Order!" "Sit down!" otc.

During the uproar Councilman Burns was heard to exclaim: "He would be better employed there than in gambling."

The chairman declined to interfere. W. P. Elliotts Death.

Under the directorship of Mr. W. J. Birks, the programme was up to his usual standard of excellence. Miss May Donnelly, of Detroit, is ever welcome to a London gathering, and she was recalled for every selection. Mr. Fred Warrington took the audience by storm. He has a magnificent baritone with a natural ring and splendid volume, while his enunciation is remarkably clear. It was with good nature that he responded to persistent encores, which did not appear to tax his powerful voice. Mr. James Beloher's bass was shown to full advantage in "Kitty of Coleraine" and in the quartet numbers. Master Geo. Angus is well known as a promising young violinist and showed unmistakable talent. Messrs. Carroll, Southcott, Soper and Belcher, the male quartet, fully sustained their reputation and were warmly applauded. "She Wore a Wreath of Roses" was given a good rendition by Mr. Percy Carroll. Mr. W. J. Birks presided at the piano.

Irishmen are loyal to whatever smacks of the old sod, and the evening of March 17 generally sees the Grand Opera House filled to overflowing. Tuesday night was no exception, and the dress circle, pit and galleries presented a spectacle of happy humanity and fluttering green programmes. The performance as usual was first-class, and had the genuine Irish ring about it. The Seventh band was out in full force, under the leadership of Bandmaster Hiscott, rendering the soul-stirring old airs with a vim. The Falcon Guitar Club also sent forth the sweet melody for which it is noted. Individual numbers were exceedingly well taken. Dr. Sippi seldom appears in public, and his magnificent tenor is always doubly welcome. He was in the best of voice last night. Mr. C. W. Davis gave "Kathleen Mavourneen" in his fine tenor voice. Miss Hiscott's sweet alto was highly appreciated, as was the solo and harp selections of Miss Eva Malone. Mr. Bert Leys did justice to "The Wild Creeping Flower." Father Tiernan, with his rich voice, showed himself to be an elocutionist of merit, and bowed acknowledgements to a recall. The dancing of Miss Alice Galbraith and the jigs of Master Tiny and Mr. Martin Morkin were very pleasing variations and were greatly applauded. Misses Leech and Dibbs and Messrs. Miller and Leech, as a quartet, were well fitted to each other and deserve praise, while Messrs. Miller, Thorn, Davis and Connors also made an excellent quartet. Mrs. Cruickshanks, organist of St. Peters, was accompanist. The cathedral choir added materially to the musical efficiency of the programme. Miss Ella Murray and Mr. W. P. Reynolds were to have appeared but were prevented from being present. St. Patrick's Concert at the Grand.
