SHEPHERD ON 100-MILE FRONT FINDS BRITISH FULL OF "PEP"

An Advertiser Correspondent Says Poisonous Gases Being Thrown From 17-Inch
Guns—Infantry Battering
Is Terrific.

[By Wm. G. Shepherd, copyrighted
1915, by United Press. Copyrighted in Great Britain.]

Field Headquarters of British Army in Northern France, April 27.—Via London, April 28.—Germans now employ new method of hurling their poisonous gas. It is by means of shells from their seventeen-inch guns, one of which fell just outside of Toperinghe tonight.

As details of the action of the gas utilized by the Germans in their attacks are received, high headquarters officials unite in characterizing the use of vapor as a complete violation of all rules of civilized warfare.

Brings on Pneumonia.

Some of the victims taken to the hospital have died after thirty or forty hours of quick pneumonia. All of the victims suffer greatly from pain in their throats and lungs, and respiration sometimes runs as high as fifty a minute in the vain gasping for breath.

This afternoon I was permitted to witness from the cover of a trench along a hill the further progress of the battle which began with artillery and ended with terrific rifle fire. Rifle exchanges lasted for twenty minutes, and the sound was an indescribable roar, sharper than thunder, and like the continuous boom of the big guns.

In a 100-mile auto ride along the battle front today, I found British forces divided into two sections. The front line was devoted to terrific fighting from a series of trenches, and the rear to ammunition and bathing. I counted twelve football games and nine groups of men marching to the bathhouse, mostly in the zone of shell fire.

The British troops were certainly "full of pep."

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN
Germans Driven Back One
Kilometer In Heights of Meuse.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, April 28.—2:23 p.m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out an official report on the progress of the hostilities reading as follows:

"To the north of Ypres we have continued to make progress. This is particularly so on our left, where we took six machine guns, two bomb-throwers and much war material, at the same time making several hundred prisoners including a number of officers.

"The losses of the enemy were heavy.
At a single point on the front not far from the canal, we counted over 600 bodies of German soldiers.

"On the heights of the Meuse, along the front of Les Eparges-Saint Remy, the trench of Calonne, we continued to gain ground, advancing about one kilometre (3-3 of a mile) inflicting very heavy losses on the enemy and destroying a German battery."

The latest known position of the Canadian forces would indicate that they are in the midst of the successful advance on French left, north of Ypres.

BELGIANS HELPED.

London, April 28.—12:20 p.m.—An official announcement has been given out from Belgian army headquarters on the continent which reads as follows:

"The situation on April 27 at 6:00 p.m., showed that the German artillery was evidencing little activity on the front held by the Belgian army.

"The French, aided by the Belgian artillery and infantry, have taken Li-berne and several German trenches in the direction of Het Sas. More than 100 dead were counted on the battlefield.
The booty comprises six quick-firing guns and 200 prisoners. The attack continues."

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.

Fog was the highest and lowest temperatures recorded in London during the 24 hours previous to 8 o'clock last night: Highest, 54; lowest, 50.
The official temperatures for the 12 hours previous to 5 a.m. today were:
Highest, 74; lowest, 58.

MAYORS AND LEADERS IN WESTERN ONTARIO ARE AGAINST AN ELECTION

Advertiser Poll Brings Opinion That While the War Lasts Canadians Should Be United—Those Who Speak For People Denounce Vote With One Voice.

In view of the possibility, not to say probability, of the Dominion Government deciding to hold an election in the near future, with a view to ascertaining views of the country on the proposal, The Advertiser sent to each mayor of towns and cities, wardens of counties, and reeves of villages in Western Ontario the following telegram:

"Should Federal elections be put off as long as possible during progress of war? Telegraph your opinion."

We made no inquiry regarding political affiliations of the mayors, reeves and wardens addressed. The message was forwarded to all from an alphabetical list, and replies are printed herewith in form and in order of receipt. These replies speak for themselves:

Galt is Against It.

GALT.—I am sure we all realize the present is a very crucial period in our Empire, and in consequence it should be the duty of every citizen to introduce nothing of contentious character. For that reason and many others, the present is a most important time for the holding of federal elections, and should be discussed and put off as long as possible. (Signed) A. E. BUCHANAN, Mayor.

FERGUS—Most decidedly no election should occur during progress of the war. (Signed) T. N. WANSBOROUGH.

CHATHAM—Most decidedly, yes.
(Signed) ED. WANLESS, Mayor.

OMEMEE—The holding of an election at present is not a popular idea.
(Signed) R. J. MULLIGAN.

WEST LORNE—My opinion is there should be no federal election during progress of war. (Signed) ALEX. McCOLL.

Not While War Lasts.

LEAMINGTON—To my mind no other agitation to divide minds of people should exist so long as war lasts. (Signed) LEWIS WIGLE, Mayor.

THOROLD—The federal elections should be put off until the war is over, or as long as possible during its progress. (Signed) JOSEPH BATTLE, Mayor.

WYOMING—Yes, by all means (Signed) M. J. Wilson.

UXBRIDGE—It would be a grave mistake to hold federal election during the progress of war. Let Canadians stand as one man till our empire has won victory. (Signed) T. C.
Nichols, Mayor.

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont.—My opinion is federal elections should be put off as long as war continues.
(Signed) P. A. Smith, Mayor.

BRUSSELS—To bring on federal elections at present time, or until the war is over is exceedingly unwise, if not criminal. Bad policy in every respect. (Signed) J. L.
Eckle, Reeve.

CALEDONIA—My opinion federal elections should be put off. (Signed)
R. Aldridge.

PERTH—Federal elections
should be put off as long as possible, the electorate has too much to think of until this terrible war is over.
(Signed) A. Grant, Mayor.

LONDON.—Let us finish the war
first and then talk elections—H. A.
Stevenson.

In addition to the above scores of others replied to the same effect.

American Pa pers Loud in Praises of Our Troops

The Advertiser has been making a collection of headlines from American papers, and Canadians certainly have no reason to complain of the tributes bestowed by the newspaper men who handle the war news. It is apparent where the sympathy of the average American telegraph editor lies.

Some of the headlines clipped out are as follows:

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

CANADIANS PROVE BRAVE FIGHTERS.

[Detroit Journal.]

BRILLIANT CHARGE BY CAN-ADIANS SAVES ALLIES;
RECOVER HEAVY GUNS.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

CANADIANS, CUT UP, BEAT-EN, COME BACK AND RETAKE GUNS.

[Detroit Free Press.]

ALL ENGLAND PRAISES DASH
OF CANADIANS.

[New York Herald.]

GALLANT CANADIANS HAD TO FIGHT THE PRUS-SIAN GUARDS.

NO REPORT YET.—The delegation of members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, who some days ago waited on the Grand Trunk officials at Montreal to ask for better conditions and an increase in wages, have not as yet made a report on the outcome of their meeting.

THREE MORE LONDONERS HURT IN RECENT HEAVY ENGAGEMENT WHERE CANADIANS HEROICALLY UPHELD THEIR COUNTRY'S HONOR

City Homes Plunged Into Very Heart of the Battlefield by Ominous Telegrams From Adjutant-General at Ottawa —Wrote Country's Name in Blood and Glory.

THREE PRIVATES AND CAPTAIN HILLIAN ARE ALL RENDERED HORS DE COMBAT

Last week's terrific battle at Langemarck, where the Canadians, fighting back to back, wrote their country's name in blood and glory in the history of the big war, is coming ever closer to the hearts and homes of Londoners.
For more than a year before he left for the front, the Londoner who today plunged into the very heart of the battlefield by the ominous telegram from the adjutant-general: "I regret to inform you that ... has been wounded."

The latest casualty list, as it affects London is:

Pte. John David Cook, 22, 205 Central avenue,
Pte. Alfred Holmes, 19, 18 Childers street,
Pte. Thomas R. Murray, 19, 43 Oxford street, West London.

Captain E. W. Hillian, of Vancouver, wife at 742 Waterloo street.

The first three left London with the 7th Regiment detachment, and were in the 1st Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, first contingent. Capt.
E. W. Hillian was of the 5th Battalion, and his wife is now staying with Henry Wallace, 742 Waterloo street.

So far as can be learned from the meagre information contained in the official notifications, Capt. Hillian is the only one seriously wounded.

PTE. ALFRED HOLMES
RESIDED HERE YEAR.

THREE DROWNINGS OCCUR IN DISTRICT; 2 ADULTS AND BABE

Two Cases of Seeking Relief From Heat—Galt and Chatham—Florence Dootor Finds Little Son Drowned in Well.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CHATHAM, April 27.—While the firemen were dragging the river for the body of R. Crone, who was drowned at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Dr. W. R. Hall received a message asking him to rush the city lungmotor to Florence, where Dr. Kelly's little boy had been taken from the water, and where an effort was being made to resuscitate him.

BABY BOY SLIPS INTO OPEN WELL.

FLORENCE, April 27.—The three-year-old son of Dr. W. A. E. Kelly was drowned in a well this afternoon. The sad discovery was made by the father, who had gone out to look for his tottering child. The little boy had been playing in the yard, and wandered to a neighboring property. Evidently he dropped into the well through a space at the side of the curbing, where the ground had caved in. The father, in looking for his boy, asked some workmen and neighbors if they had seen the little fellow, and learned that he had been seen near the well. Looking down he saw the body floating.

COULD NOT SWIM; GETS INTO HOLE.

GALT, April 27.—The Grand River claimed its annual toll of life this afternoon when James Galt, a young man of 25 years, a resident of Preston and a native of Falkirk, Scotland, and employed at the Waterloo Golf and Country Club links, was drowned in the channel at the rear of the golf links. The unfortunate young man could not swim, but with three other workmen at the links, went in the water to cool off. None of the party could swim, but Tanner ventured to cross the narrow channel and went down about three-quarters way across in a deep hole. Word was sent to town and assistance was soon on the scene, but it was some time before swimmers recovered the body.

JUST BEFORE BATTLE INGERSOLL BOY WRITES

INGERSOLL, April 27.—An interesting letter from Edgar Beene, formerly of Ingersoll, who went to the front with the first contingent, has just been received by Harold Henderson, of the postoffice staff. The letter was written in France under date of April 31, and in it the writer predicted another big battle, which may have been the battle in which the Canadian figured so prominently in the vicinity of Ypres.

ARCHDEACON CODY THRILLS INGERSOLL

INGERSOLL, April 27.—The largest meeting of the Canadian Club since its inception, and the final one for the season was held tonight in the Ingersoll Inn, when the guest was the Ven. Archdeacon Cody, of Toronto, who, on coming back to his native county, was tendered a cordial reception. The reputation of the archdeacon as an orator was justified in the masterly address he gave on a subject suitable to present conditions: "Are We Worth Fighting For?" He showed that Germany purely was responsible for the war, and contrasted "culture" and its barbarity with British justice and freedom. He was tendered a hearty vote of thanks on motion of J. C. Norsworthy and William Colyer.

Labor Unionists, Contractors and Alleged Trusts Charged With Law Violation.

Chicago, April 28.—The eighteen officials of labor unions, eight-two contractors or contracting firms and two alleged trusts named in indictments returned in the United States District Court yesterday, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act and interstate commerce law were expected to appear today to give bond in the sum of $10,000 for each indictment in which their names appear.

Restraint of Trade. If those indicted do not respond within a few days, it was announced by the court, subpoenas will be issued. The charges in each of the eight indictments are conspiracy to restrain trade, combination in restraint of trade, interfering with interstate commerce and restraining interstate commerce. The labor leaders were charged with having prevented union workmen from unloading or handling goods which had been shipped from outside the state, because of alleged disputes with the contractors, which the goods were consigned to.

As a Canadian by birth, I am proud of what they have done and are doing, but it is with heartfelt sympathy that I think of the sadness with which their deeds at the front have filled so many Canadian homes."

STATE NOT NATION IN GERMAN BELIEF

Viscount Bryce Says Enemy Has Theory of Non-Moral State.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 28.—Viscount Bryce, speaking at a lecture on "German Theories of State," said to Britons and to Americans the state was the nation under another name, and consisted of the people who formed the nation. To the Germans the state was a mythical being, much wiser and much more powerful than the people, and with the singular attribute of being entirely exempt from moral consciousness and moral sanction. He could not help feeling that we should never have peace until the Germans had been induced to abandon their theory of an omnipotent, non-moral state. He hoped that after the fallacies, dangers and misconceptions which the experience of the past few months had shown to be due to the conceptions which the Germans had formed of their non-moral state, they would see that no state would flout the dictates of morality and humanity with the challenge to moral sentiment of the world.

THE REAL CAUSE OF MOST BAD COMPLEXIONS

It is a stern fact that no truly beautiful complexion ever came out of jars or bottles; the longer one uses the worse the complexion becomes. Skin, to be healthy, must be kept clean, cool, and moist. The pores, its share of the body's effort material. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering with the normal breathing. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary milk instead of cosmetics, they would have natural, healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unguers the pores. Reveal the freshness of the skin. It is permitted to breathe and to show itself. An exquisite cream, drawing pain, and giving a free from any appearance of artificiality. Get an ounce and try it. Apply at your drugist's and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or so, washing it off mornings.

THE EASIEST WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp, and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

roses and fern. Miss Prudence Hays, of London, acted as bridesmaid, and wore champagne silk and carried pink roses and carnations. Gordon Guest, brother of the groom, acted as groomsmen. During the signing of the register, Miss Guest sang "To have, to hold, to love," with Mrs. W. H. F. Willoughby as accompanist. Friends were present from Chatham, Stratford, Grantham, Thorncliffe and London.

Mr. and Mrs. Guest will take up residence at Hyde Park.

How To Prevent Acid Stomachs AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist. As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyperacidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach, causing that full, bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation in a little warm or cold water, which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. CANADIANS STILL ON THE OFFENSIVE

Fighting Desperately Along
Five-Mile Front—Make Good Progress.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]
LONDON, April 23.—According to reports received in London during the early hours this morning, the Canadians still are fighting desperately over a battle line extending over five miles, from Pike as far as Furies, on the Ypres Canal.

In connection with a number of English regiments, they have taken a vigorous offensive to the north of Ypres, and are reported to have made good progress. "An ingenious German reconnaissance has just been thwarted by the alertness of Canadian gunners," says one correspondent. "Three British aeroplanes were observed to be hovering over the lines. They were being fired at by Germans, but Canadian artillerymen remarked that either German gunners had become woefully bad shots, or else they were not really trying to hit them. He reported this, and orders were given to fire on the suspicious aircraft. One was brought down. It was a British model, but mounted by two Germans. Immediately after this incident the enemy attacked."

AILSA CF-IG.
AILSA CRAFT, April 23.—The future crops are suffering considerably in the district for the want of spring rains. Water also is getting scarce. Gardening is in full swing in the village.

at Close Range.

PETROGRAD, April 27, via London.
April 28.—1:10 a.m.—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued tonight:

"Near Ossowetz (Poland) there has been an intermittent artillery duel. On the left bank of the Vistula, south-west of Radoscice, skirmishes on April 25 ended in our favor."

"In the Carpathians, on the 25th, the enemy, after long artillery preparation, assaulted the heights to the northeast of Oroszpatka. The storming parties got as far as the barbed wire entanglements, where they were mowed down by our fire. On the night of April 25-26, the enemy delivered fruitless attacks in the region to the northwest and northeast of Uzak Pass."

"In the direction of Strý stubborn fighting continues. A complete Austrian battalion surrendered yesterday."

"Our aircraft dropped bombs on German aeroplanes at an aerodrome near the village of Samnik. During the day we damaged and captured two German and Austrian aeroplanes."

VIENNA, April 27, via Amsterdam to London, April 28.—1:15 a.m.—The following official communication was issued today:

WEEK BEFORE ALL CASUALTIES KNOWN

One Hundred and Thirty Officers Killed Or Wounded,
Now Reported.

STILL MORE EXPECTED

Names of Privates and Non-Commissioned Officers Begin To Arrive.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
OTTAWA, April 27.—The list of Canadians killed and wounded continues to grow. Six more dead and 24 wounded officers are reported tonight. They fell in the battle which raged north of Ypres, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. This lengthens the list of Canadian officers' casualties in this fight to 130. More are expected.

The names of privates, corporals and sergeants killed or wounded in the fight are only beginning to arrive. Not for a week will the list be complete.

Throughout Canada there is most anxious suspense among people who have relatives in the ranks under officers reported killed or wounded.

The Berlin statement that the Germans had a thousand Canadian prisoners was at first accepted as possible, in view of the nature of the fighting reported.

However, there are now doubts as to the accuracy of this report. General Hughes tonight said that so far only 32 officers and men had been reported as missing from the Canadian division.

As the division was withdrawn from the trenches on Monday, and has been assembled at the rest box for 24 hours, it would seem that any large number of men missing would have been reported by this time.

The news from all parts of Canada is that recruiting has been greatly stimulated by news from the front. Men can be enlisted to fill all the ships to be obtained to carry them to the battle fields.

Already the first, second and third divisions are complete, and the fourth is almost full.

The list tonight follows:

LONDON, April 28.—2:38 a.m.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from the north of France says that a Zeppelin visited Calais Monday and dropped numerous new type bombs of greatly increased power. The casualties included 30 civilians. A fleet of aeroplanes visited Amiens without serious damage.

The Germans, the dispatch adds, have renewed their activity to the south of the most recent battleground, a tremendous artillery duel being in progress near Neuve Chapelle.

DESPICABLE.

The Canadians who gave their lives for their country afford a lesson to the politicians who withheld from the empire a contribution of ships—From a Conservative paper of Tuesday, April 27.

THE PAPER that printed the above paragraph is a despicable creature. At a time when the country is mourning the loss of a brave son, it publishes a paragraph of this kind.

A Liberal paper might claim that the principle of Borden ships, applied to the present crisis, would have meant empty uniforms and empty boots and rifles, but not one man fighting in France. But this is not the time to indulge in controversy or contentious discussion. Canada is a house of mourning. The journal that made the above comment suggests a nasty person at a funeral taking advantage of the occasion to pass some scandal, and endeavoring to make a bulleye in gossip out of a bereavement.

THE SHELL GAME.

THE New York Literary Digest prints the picture of an American manufacturer who refuses to make ammunition for the Allies. He represents himself, and no doubt that is why his portrait should be printed, as a friend of peace.

The war will go on, even if no ammunition came from the United States. Only it will be pushed to a speedier close and a complete victory for the Allies if adequate material is supplied from America to supplement the output of Britain, France and Russia.

Butcherer of a PARAGRAPH.

A MOST important communication to the Outlook again reveals Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, Germany's outstanding spokesman in the United States, in a role of shameless mendacity. Dr. Dernburg has learned the trick of splitting a sentence, and fortunately has been caught at it. A reader of the Outlook, Frank Hunter Potts, is the instrument of the champion liar-bugler's latest undoing.

In an article in the Saturday Evening Post last autumn Dr. Dernburg asserted that Germany had not infringed the neutrality of Belgium, because that neutrality was no longer under the guarantee of the famous treaty of 1823, which created it. At the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war, in 1870, new treaties were made between Britain and France and Britain and the North German confederation, which guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium during the war and for twelve months, and twelve months after the ratification of a treaty of peace.

Dr. Dernburg argued that these treaties abrogated the treaty of 1823, and that therefore in 1914 Germany had a right to invade Belgium since that country was no longer protected by treaty (as though any country had a right to invade any other peaceful country without cause in any event).

The paragraph in the Outlook of 1870 to which Dr. Dernburg refers reads as follows:

"Article III.—This treaty shall be binding on the high contracting parties during the continuance of the present war between the North German Confederation and France, and for twelve months after the ratification of any treaty of peace concluded between those parties."

This paragraph as it stands would appear to support Dr. Dernburg's contention. But as a matter of fact the treaty in the very same paragraph and after the semicolon which stands at the end of the above quotation, goes on to say:

"and on the expiration of that time the independence and neutrality of Belgium will, so far as the high contracting parties are concerned, continue to rest as before on the first article of the quadruple treaty of the 19th of April, 1829."

It is perfectly clear that Dr. Dernburg is using a treaty the terms of which were absolutely contrary to his claim, and that he suppressed that part of the paragraph essential to honest reading of it, and falsely advanced only the half of it which he knew was a disgraceful thing to do, even though diplomatic, according to the German view. Mr. Potter asks for the Outlook's opinion of the ethical side of the paragraph, and the Outlook says: "Germany is not to be very difficult on which Dr. Dernburg is so much more than most Americans."

statement that the German representative makes upon the subject." Dr. Dernburg might be a secret ally of our cause, considering the sentiment he is constantly creating against his own country. There are few men who have such skill at falsehood, and his crudity turns it altogether to the advantage of Belgium, Britain, France, Russia and Serbia. "Bernhard the Bugler" is the right term.

DRIVING IT HOME.

ON THE back of a street car they were discussing the splendid feat of the Canadians at Ypres. Said one youth: "I wish I had been there to lend the boys a hand." There was no brag about it, just a healthy masculine desire to share in the glory, and a wish to be beside his own as they fought their way out of the ring of an implacable foe. We believe that every Canadian who carries a drop of red blood felt that way when the news came of Canada's saving the day at Ypres. From coast to coast, the Dominion was thrilled by the most spectacular achievement of the war. To be thrilled in this way is excellent. It acts as a tonic, setting us a-tingle. It is bracing and uplifting, stirring stagnant emotions. Above all, it spurs us to definite, determined action. We want to get into the fight, and at the moment, that is the best result of the heroic struggle in that hell's corner of Flanders. The fighting will shift back and forth around Ypres. Ground now held will be lost and regained, probably many times, but the battle of last Friday has set a mark that cannot be wiped out, as it has driven home to Canadians, as could nothing else, the stupendousness of this conflict in which we are spending our men and our millions.

Nobody save the most stupid can fail to realize now that this is a fight to a finish between the British Empire and the mightiest, most resourceful and relentless foe it has ever faced. And as never before were we so much a part of the empire as we are today, it is certain that if the Allies go under, we go with them. Canada is in this fight up to the hilt, and should Germany triumph—and let us not try to dodge this possibility—Germany will see to it that Canada gets her full share of humiliation.

Many of us have followed the war with but mild interest. It has seemed more of a spectacle than a life and death struggle between the great nations of Europe. We felt that somehow the mother country would "muddle through." It was a false patriotic thing to do, of course, to offer and send the contingents, but not an absolute necessity. Now, we know the truth, because the fight of the Canadians at Ypres has brought close to us the size and frightfulness of this conflict, which makes of it a national peril. An excerpt from a letter of Lord Caccia Beresford to a friend of this paper, pictures tersely and clearly the seriousness of the task which the Empire has taken on itself. He says:

The war goes on its terrible course, and though we are more than holding our own, the wastage is awful in life, limb and health. We shall win in the end, as right must beat might. We shall destroy militarism, protect the rights of small nations, and maintain the public law of Europe against the most barbarous and cruel enemy that has ever been let loose against freedom and civilization.

Undoubtedly there will be no trouble hereafter in filling up the ranks in Canada. If it has been the case at times that recruiting lagged, it has been through failure to appreciate the fact that the Empire is going through the greatest crisis of its existence. It has not been cowardice that has kept thousands of Canadians of fighting age from the fighting lines. They simply didn't know how badly they were needed. Now, thanks to that heroic encounter at Ypres, we have all been shocked and thrilled into seeing things as they are, grim and terrible. The result will be a steady stream of the best and truest Canadian soldiers flowing to the help of Kitchener and his allies until Prussianism is completely crushed.

WAS NEITZSCHE FOR PEACE?

SO MUCH has been said of late as to the influence of the German philosopher, Nietzsche, in stimulating the arrogance of his fellow countrymen by preaching the doctrine of the superman—the man who disregards pity and humility, and thinks only of himself and his own aggrandizement—as the best and highest type of humanity, that many will be surprised to have him held up to view as a champion of peace, and an enemy of war. Dr. Washington Gladden seems to be disposed to whitewash the philosopher, and declares in the New York Times that "Nietzsche has given the clearest statement of the Christian attitude towards war which the church in all centuries has so treacherously failed to maintain."

He makes several quotations to prove his assertion, of which the following is perhaps the most emphatic:

"The so-called armed peace that prevails at present in all countries is a sign of a belated disposition, of a disposition that trusts neither itself nor its neighbor; and partly from hate, partly from fear, refuses to lay down its weapons. Better perish than to hate and fear, and twice as far better to perish than to make oneself hated and feared—this must some day become the supreme maxim of every political community."

We are disposed to think that many quotations of this kind will fail to change the popular verdict, that has been recorded against the somewhat erratic—and, in his latter days, lunatic—philosopher. The sentiments quoted above are taken from the book, "Human All Too Human." This belongs to the earlier period of Nietzsche's philosophy; what may be termed the aesthetic period. In this period he was artistic, sentimental, philosophic. His influence then was confined to the artistic classes; it is doubtful if it had much effect on the general public. It was in his later years that he developed into a preacher of selfishness. It is in "Good and Evil," "The Genealogy of Morals," and especially in "The Will to Power," that we have to look for his matured views. It is here that the doctrine of the superman stands out in all its cold and selfish and cruel paganism. Here he defines the supreme good as "all that increases the feeling of power, the will to power, power itself in man." Here it is that he preaches the negation of Christian virtues, and declares that "all that is weak and imperfect must perish." And it is possible that here he diagnoses correctly the mental conditions of his own countrymen when he asserts that "nothing has grown more alien to us than that 'peace of the soul' which is the aim of Christianity."

And it was in this period of his life and teaching that he enunciated his doctrines of good and evil. For him there are two standards of morals; good and evil mean different things to the aristocrat and the servant. For the former good embraces everything that furthers the will of the individual; all that he does, all that he likes, all that he wishes, everything else is evil. In other words, for the ruling class the supreme good is selfishness. For the lower class, however, the servant, the slave, there is another standard. Meekness, sympathy, humility, obedience, these constitute the good; anything that attempts to emulate the conduct of the aristocrat is bad.

For about fifteen years before he died, these were the teachings of Nietzsche. And these were the doctrines that have helped to influence German thought and mold the character of militant, autocratic Germany. Whatever he may have written in his younger days has been overlooked, or forgotten—it may be forgotten even by himself; disregarded by his disciples as the ebullitions of youthful poetic sentiment. His enduring influence comes from his work as the prophet of selfish, brute strength; a cold, unfeeling strength of body and mind; the strength of the ruling class beneath which the serving classes must humbly bow, and for which they must labor and suffer and die. And German governing society seems to have been thoroughly imbued with these ideas which pander to its own supremacy. How far the underlying democratic element in that country has been impressed with the gospel of obedience, and how long it will be submissive and tame, are questions whose solution will have much to do with the future of the nation over which the Kaiser now rules by divine right.

KAISER AND SULTAN.

THE following is an extract from a sermon preached in the City Temple, London, by the late Joseph Parker, on April 25, 1899:

"When I heard that the Kaiser went to the east, and after a dinner—here this, for there is no more solemn word in the speech of Christianity—when I heard that the Kaiser went to a dinner, and in an after-dinner speech said, 'My friend, the Sultan, I was astonished, I could have sat down in humiliation and terror. The great assassin had been the Kaiser's friend, he was not yours, he was not mine, he was not God's. Down with such speaking! And let every man's voice be heard on this matter; then the Liberals may come back to power. So long as any man can say, 'My friend, the Sultan, I wish to have no commerce of friendship with that man. The Sultan drenched the lands with blood, cut up men, women and children, spared none, ripped up the world, bayoneted the babe, and did all manner of hellish iniquity. He may have been the Kaiser's friend, but in the name of God, in the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost, I wish to have no commerce of friendship with that man. The Sultan drenched the lands with blood, cut up men, women and children, spared none, ripped up the world, bayoneted the babe, and did all manner of hellish iniquity. He may have been the Kaiser's friend, but in the name of God, in the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost, I wish to have no commerce of friendship with that man. LONDONER NOW IN EUROPE TELLS OF ATTITUDE OF CONTINENTAL NEUTRALS TO THE GREAT WAR

When Will the War End, Is Discussed by Mr. W. J. McIntosh.

FOR A SPEEDY TRIUMPH

Entrance of Italy, Roumania and Bulgaria Would Help Allies Achieve Success.

(Special Correspondence of The Advertiser by W. J. McIntosh, of This City.)
Bern, Switzerland, April 7. — This little republic in the heart of Europe, with war—either actual or imminent—on every side of it, and with frontiers protected against all-comers by a bristling fringe of 400,000 bayonets, is a peculiarly well-situated place for the observation of the great conflict for world-mastery. Newspapers of all nationalities circulate freely here, and the journals of Switzerland, France, Germany and Italy each furnish their own special quota of news, more or less colored, of course, by their respective national sympathies, but which, when taken together, furnish a truer view of the European situation than it is possible to gather from the English papers. Although continental newspapers, generally speaking, are far inferior in size, enterprise and reliability to the leading journals of England, yet, at this particular juncture, they are my chief source of information, not only because the others are quite out-of-date before they arrive here, but because the foreign papers contain a mass of news, correspondence and editorial comment bearing on the war of a character that I do not find in the English journals.

Italy, Roumania and Bulgaria.
At present, for example, when the war game seems to be pretty nearly a "draw," much space is being given in the foreign press to the possible action of Italy, Roumania and Bulgaria. It seems strange that so little is being said by the English press as to what these countries may or may not do in the present circumstances. I searched a copy of the London Times in vain for any reference to them. Yet it seems more than probable that they will all be ranged on the side of the Allies, possibly before you receive this, but in any event at no distant date. It is needless to say that their help would be of immense service, and it might even prove sufficient to bring victory with unexpected suddenness. But it does not follow that the British Government is not fully alive to these issues, and it is known that interviews are frequently held at the British legation office between Earl Grey and the representatives of the three neutrals in question. From all I have been able to gather, I judge that the entry of one of these powers upon the theatre of war before many weeks, if not of all three, is a moral certainty. It is reported that some 200,000 German and Austrian troops are now moving into position on the Roumanian frontier, which is clear evidence that hostile action by Roumania is expected in the immediate future.

The Roumanian Situation.
The late King Charles of Roumania, who died some months ago, was a Hohenzollern, and was so firmly bound by personal engagements to the rulers of Germany and Austria that he blocked all movements in his country in favor of the triple entente, although there was a very strong feeling in favor of armed intervention. His son and successor, King Ferdinand, however, appears to have yielded to the popular will, and, while no open declaration of hostility to Austria-Germany has yet been made by the Roumanian Government, the army has been put on a war footing.

NO NEED TO WORRY FOR WATER SUPPLY IN CITY OF LONDONUnderground River Discovered With an Unlimited Supply of H₂O.

IS FED FROM SPRINGS

Egerton Street Storm Sewer Work Responsible For Finding of the Stream.

It's only a comparatively few years ago—about eight, to be exact—that water schemes were hurriedly "flooded" London.

Experts and more experts were still hunting all over the city trying to discover water that could be used to bolster up the Springbank supply. It was "water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink" with a vengeance. At that time the city was endeavoring to find fresh supplies. Now the city, or rather one of its contractors, is working with reverse English, with the same end in view. He is endeavoring to cork up a supply of water, and is doing so by the use of the dual trunk sanitary and storm sewer duct.

From springs and what is supposed by engineers to be an underground river, approximately 1,000,000 gallons of water a day is flowing into the trench dug on Egerton street to accommodate the dual trunk sanitary and storm sewer duct.

So great has this volume become that it was necessary to stop the work south of the Grand Trunk tracks while the pumps were being forwarded here to cope with the influx of water. Contractor Nicholson then started work on the trench, and again he struck water. Five big pumps, with a combined capacity of 1,100 gallons per minute, are now at work drawing the water from the trenches, and even with this battery of pumps it is only possible to keep the water down to such a level that the concrete tunnel, which is being built into the greatest water holes I ever saw," declares Engineer McGregor, the resident engineer from the City of London, who is in charge of the work.

The board of works last night voted the withdrawal of Ald. James Donnelly's resignation as chairman of the board of works, and as a result of a declaration made at a previous meeting by W. W. Gammage, that the chairman was not fit to continue in the office, the board decided to ask the resignation of the chairman.
