

ALL BIG SYSTEMS WOULD USE PORT STANLEY LINE IF IT WAS NOT ELECTRIFIED

Grand Trunk, C. P. R., Canadian Northern, Michigan Central and Pere Marquette Roads To Make Offer for Road.

WOULD BE BIG THING FOR THIS CITY

The Grand Trunk.
The Canadian Pacific.
The Canadian Northern.
The Michigan Central.
The Wabash Railway.
The Pere Marquette.

It can be said with a practical assurance of truth that everyone of the above-mentioned companies is willing to run over the London and Port Stanley Railway if it remains a steam railway.

It is said that each railway is ready to make an offer, and that the offer would have been received some time ago had it not been for some mysterious influence that has been held over their hands.

Grand Trunk Plans.
If the Grand Trunk does not secure running rights over the road, as a steam road, or a lease of it, which it is prepared to take, it is believed that its road to Port Stanley will be undertaken immediately and that 60 per cent of the coal handled over the London and Port Stanley Railway will be diverted to the Port Stanley well line.

The Canadian Northern will not bring its main line to London unless it secures the London and Port Stanley road. It will come to the city probably, but its main line will not come here. Just as the Canada Southern was lost to the city so may the Canadian Northern be lost.

There is some doubt as to whether the Canadian Pacific desires running rights over the line or not. In some quarters it is stated that this line is fearful lest the road be secured by the Grand Trunk, in other quarters it is said that the C. P. R. would eagerly grasp at the opportunity to secure a downtown entrance to the city.

The London and Port Stanley Railway offers to London a splendid opportunity for railroad development. The coming of the C. N. R. to London alone would revolutionize railway conditions here.

An electrified road offers nothing that cannot be secured with steam. It involves a large expenditure, from which there cannot possibly be a fair return.

London needs to protect its present railway interests. If a million dollars were voted for an unnecessary scheme it will be difficult to secure money for the advancement of a constructive radial program, which would do more, it has been demonstrated, to bring people to London than any other influence.

Man of 98 Grows Prize Potatoes

Detroit Detective Dodges Question

Would Not Talk of Hunt for Alleged White Slaver—After Witnesses to Testify Against a Dip, He Says.

No arrest has yet been made by the Toronto and Detroit detectives said to have been in London for several days with a warrant for the arrest of a conductor on a charge of a breach of the Mann act.

It is alleged that the man was instrumental in sending two Owen Sound girls, who were employed in Guelph, to the United States in contravention of the Mann act.

Detective J. F. Foley, of Detroit, arrived in the city early Thursday evening, and registered at the Griggs House. A short time after his arrival he held a conference with Superintendent W. R. Davidson, of the Grand Trunk. Mr. Davidson left the city early this morning on his way to Port Colborne, and could not be located.

Foley's Mission.
An effort was made to locate Mr. Foley

Thursday night, but he could not be found. He was seen at the Grand Trunk depot this morning prior to leaving for Detroit, and said that he was here to see Mr. T. H. Haddine and another witness to appear against Paul Battiste, an alleged "dip," who was arrested some time ago while trying to pick Mr. Haddine's pocket on the platform of the Grand Trunk depot, Detroit. Mr. Haddine put up such a battle with the "dip" that he was arrested.

Asked if he was interested in the alleged charge against the conductor, Mr. Foley was non-committal. "Oh, there is such a charge against a man is there?" he queried. "Well, the man is very foolish if he has been doing anything like that."

Mr. Foley refused to make any further statement.

WESTERN GROWERS WANT DUTY ON AMERICAN WHEAT REMOVED

Plan To Take Full Advantage of the New Wilson Tariff and Sell Huge Quantities of Grain to United States—Aggressive Campaign Will Be Started.

[Canadian Press.]
Calgary, Alta., Sept. 26.—The Calgary industrial bureau has started a campaign for the removal of the duty on American wheat, so that Western Canada may take full advantage of the new Wilson tariff, the passage of which through Congress is now assured, and in which there is a provision for the free entry of Canadian wheat into the United States, provided the Canadian Government removes its present duty on American wheat.

LEGAL ACTION IS ORDERED AGAINST STREET RAILWAY

Works Board Maintains That Company Is Not Living Up to Franchise.

PAVEMENTS NOT READY

Under Agreement City Is Empowered to Finish Work and Charge to Company.

Legal action to compel the London Street Railway to live up to the terms of its franchise agreement with the city in maintaining the proper right of ways on all its tracks, and more especially as it affects the pavement of the track allowance on Horton street, was ordered by the board of works last night.

Chairman Bennett brought the question to the board in explaining the laxity of the company in preparing the pavement of Horton street. The asphalt gangs arrived in the city yesterday to lay the surface dressing on Horton street and were held up because the street car track allowance was not ready. The work of laying the concrete between the rails only started yesterday morning, and until this was completed the asphaltic contractors were, practically speaking, powerless to go on with the work.

Company Notified.
On motion of Ald. Sanders, a communication was sent to Vice-President J. Smallman of the company, calling on him to see that the work was expeditiously carried out. The entire question was then enlarged, and a discussion on the proper maintenance of track allowances all over the city in different sections where rails were eight inches above the street level and where filling was badly needed. It was estimated that over 600 cords of gravel would be required to make the necessary "fills" on the main roads of the city.

Fire Chief John Aitken, who was present at the meeting, declared that tracks in many cases were dangerous to the fire apparatus, while the statement was made that for eight weeks the residents on Horton street had been prevented from securing fuel deliveries because of the blockade of the street.

The decision to force the company to live up to its agreement, and if it failed to do so the work of paving the track allowances and charging it against the street railway, was the natural sequel of the discussion. Under the agreement, if the company fails to carry out the direction of the council after the specified notices, the council is empowered to go ahead with the work and levy the charge against the railway.

ARREST GIRL FOR KILLING

Delia Bertrand Held in Connection With Recent Ottawa Murder.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Delia Bertrand, who came here from Ottawa three days ago, and has been employed at a local hotel, was today arrested by the police on advice from Ottawa in connection with the murder of Abe Rubenstein, the Brooklyn bookmaker, whose body was found in the cellar of a vacant store at Ottawa.

Strike Spreading; 700 Are Now Out

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Sept. 26.—With some seven hundred garment workers from three clothing factories in the city on strike, the United Garment Workers of America, Local No. 209, have issued a statement threatening a strike of all their members in Montreal as a demonstration of sympathy with the men now out.

The firms affected at present are H. Vineberg, which has four hundred men out; Messrs. J. Elkins & Co., with two hundred out; and Shulman & Co., whose hundred men struck today because some of the work of the Vineberg factory was given to them to do.

An open-air meeting for the strikers and sympathizers has been arranged for Saturday afternoon next on the Champ de Mars, when the speakers will include Mr. Will Thorne, M. P., James Simpson, Toronto, and several of the labor leaders now attending the trades congress here.

LIKE A COBALT WILDCAT

Do you think, Mr. Ratepayer, that the businessmen occupying that fine block of wholesale houses on Richmond street would oppose electrification if they thought it was a good thing for their businesses and the city?

Do you think that they would come out so strongly against the proposal if they thought there was the shadow of a doubt that it would pay, and that their shipping facilities would be thrown out?

Every man of them would be anxious to seize any reasonable proposition that would advance their progress and the progress of the city.

Such men as the late Col. Little, Col. T. S. Hobbs and Mr. R. C. Struthers, have had faith in London, and all have fine monuments to their faith in it.

If you sought their advice on a mining deal or an industrial investment, and they told you it was no good, would you invest your money in it?

Electrification is in a class with Cobalt wildcats, according to the unbiased, fair judgment of every one of these men.

MOTHER AND EIGHT CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN HOUSE

The Flames Spread Through Frame Tenement in Quebec City So Quickly That Rescuers Had No Chance To Reach Sleepers in Midnight Blaze.

[Canadian Press.]
Quebec, Sept. 26.—Lucienne, Yvonne, Alice, Therese, Charles, Alphonse, Jules and Jean Paul Trudell, whose range from 2 to 16 years, are the names of the eight children, who, with their mother, were cremated as they slept last night in the fire which occurred in a wooden building situated at 482 St. Francis street, while the father of the children and another son are inmates of the Hotel Dieu Hospital suffering from burns.

It was about midnight when flames were seen to issue from the three-story wooden house occupied by the family. Mrs. Trudell, the mother, after suffering terribly, died this afternoon.

LABOR CONGRESS DOES NOT WANT TO BE POLITICAL

Members Not at All in Favor of Forming a Dominion Organization.

AN UNFAIR WAGE SCALE

Hon. Frank Cochrane Scored for Hiring Cheap Carpenters on New Canal.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Sept. 26.—Reliable indications that the working class in Canada is not, on the whole, in favor of the formation of a Dominion political organization similar to that in existence in Great Britain, were disclosed at today's meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress.

The subject was brought before the meeting in the discussion on a proposal to appoint a joint committee to study the various provincial legislatures, while the resolution committee agreed not to endorse the suggestion that the Socialist party be considered the parliamentary organization of labor.

Object to Militia.
Congress, by passing the resolution of the Brandon trades council disapproving of union men joining the militia, paved the way for a resolution in favor of the establishment of a legal minimum living wage law for all industries to which the Government gave a bounty or subsidy, or which was protected by a tariff, were as follows:

Wages Are Low.
"In the iron, steel and coal industries, the basis rate of wages was such that it did not provide the workers with the bare necessities of life, that English-speaking workers could not compete with foreign-speaking people in these trades because of the low wages; and because these industries could not be organized."

The motion giving expression to the sentiment of the workers was carried. Continued on Page Eleven.

ASKS $10,000 DAMAGES FOR DEATH OF SON

Claims It Was Due to Negligence of the City and Water Board.

Ten thousand dollars damages is the compensation which Mr. Edmund A. Pocock asks of the Corporation of the City of London and the Water Commissioners for the death of his 12-year-old son, Herman, who was electrocuted on Sunday afternoon, March 30, when he grasped a dangling guy-wire in St. Peter's school yard.

The case was entered for trial this morning, and was placed on the jury list for the coming assizes. The Corporation of the City of London and the Water Commissioners are sued jointly in behalf of Mr. E. A. Pocock and also his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Pocock.

Negligence Charged.
Negligence on the part of the defendants, in five counts, is charged in the plaintiff's statement of claim. First, that they created and maintained within the yard a pole carrying high voltage wires arranged in a dangerous manner with relation to the guy-wire; second, that the guy-wire was unsafely fastened when it was made fast to a tree; third, the wires were improperly insulated, and no inspection was made to find out their defects; fourth, no inspection was made to discover if any wires had fallen and if they failed to remove the wire for ten days after it had fallen, and for four days after receiving notice that it was down.

Claim of Defence.
The defence states that no notice was received that the guy wire was down, and denies the right of the plaintiff to enlarge his case to include his wife. The acts complained of they claim to be lawful acts, authorized by the London waterworks act, 1872, London waterworks amendment, 1878, City of London bill, 1909, and City of London bill, 1910. No notice in writing of the intended action was given them, they claim, as required by the provisions of the London waterworks act of 1872 and the City of London act of 1909.

Negligence on the part of Herman Pocock is also charged. The defence claims that the exercise of due care and diligence on his part, Mr. C. H. Ivey is representing the plaintiffs and Mr. T. G. Meredith, city solicitor, is appearing for the defence.

ANOTHER WAR THREATENS; GREEKS ARE MOBILIZING

King Constantine Hurrying Home From London—All Officers Have Been Recalled For Active Service—Fear Big Fight With Turks.

[Canadian Press.]
London, Sept. 26.—King Constantine of Greece made preparations today for a hurried return to Athens, where the Balkan situation is regarded by the Hellenic Government as very disquieting.

The king has decided to cut short his visit to the seaside resort of Eastbourne, on the south coast of England, whence he will come to London tomorrow for a special conference with Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary.

All Greek officers have been recalled for active service with their commands, and many of the regiments disbanded after the conclusion of the campaign against Turkey are now being remobilized.

Canada increased by $775,007. Current loans in Canada declined by $406,456. There was a falling off of $1,683,879 in Dominion notes held by the banks, and a decrease of $523,723 in gold and other currency held by the banks.

Bank Deposits Decrease Slightly

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Sept. 26.—The statement of Canadian chartered banks shows that on Aug. 31 savings deposits had decreased by $2,314,541. During the same period demand deposits had shown an increase of $1,756,729.

Call loans in Canada declined by $757,272, while call loans outside of Canada increased by $1,000,000.

BRITISH EMPLOYERS PLAN UNION TO FIGHT STRIKES

Many Regard the Proposed Defence League as a New Challenge to Organized Labor, But Leaders Claim That No Attack Is Intended by Move.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Sept. 26.—A London cable says: The announcement that all the strikes in Great Britain had been settled yesterday was followed by much discussion both among employers and workers regarding the formation of a United Kingdom Employers' Defence Union to consolidate the resources of the employers and maintain the right to bargain either with the trade unions or with free workers.

Opinion on the subject is not unanimous on either side. Many employers believe the proposed union is a challenge to organized labor, while others are in favor of the most thorough organization of both employers and employees.

TERMINALS FIRST AMONG THE EXPERT SINS OF OMISSION

No Provision Made for Handling the People and Cost of the Scheme Would Go Up.

M. C. R. LIKELY TO TAKE UP OPTION IT HOLDS

London and Port Stanley Railway Will Be Left in Difficult Position at Burwell Street.

CANNOT RUN OVER G. T. R.

The Big System Will Not Permit Electric Wires To Be Strung Through Its Yards.

I would suggest a terminal be provided at or near the corner of Bathurst and Richmond streets, and that this terminal be so constructed that passenger cars arriving in London would unload passengers to the north and outgoing passengers would board the car from the south side.

The London terminal should be so arranged as to provide general offices for the company on the second floor. The location of the London terminal at this point will not only land passengers at a convenient point in London, etc.

Although requested to report upon the prospective revenue of the line, I would strongly endorse the adoption of some such plan of increased terminal facilities as is suggested in Mr. Eastman's report. Adequate and convenient terminals is one of the most important features of transportation. Suitable and ample terminal facilities mean good service, economy in operation and increased traffic without them it is difficult and costly to provide an efficient service, and service is the prime transportation factor today.

These two clauses from two of the expert reports on electrification are the only provision made for terminal facilities for an electrified London and Port Stanley Railway. It is this, and a number of other things, which lead the solid section of ratepayers to make the claim that the scheme will cost not $700,000, or $890,000, but more than a million dollars.

A List of Omissions.
When ten cars are parked where forty are needed for excursions; when the matter of freight cars is ignored while roads like the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto, doing a small freight business have to own cars and pay $40,000 a year for borrowed cars; when car rentals are left out of the question, save by one expert, and when incidentals are thought of, the ratepayer who is true to his city cannot but conclude that the whole scheme is a disaster.

The Mayor's Excuse.
It is easy for an expert in Toronto and another in Windsor to say that terminals should be built at Bathurst and Richmond streets. It is also easy for the people to see that this suggestion was merely given them by a certain gentleman of Ross rifle fame. When it was discovered by The Advertiser that the terminals, which the experts proposed to use, the mayor blandly said that the corner of Bathurst and Richmond streets could be used.

An Estimate of $250,000.
If the mayor could confer with certain Canadian Northern officials he would discover that their engineers had reported that to come from Burwell street (the end of the London and Port Stanley line), to Richmond street by any route, and to build ample terminals would cost in the neighborhood of $250,000.

The Michigan Central is practically certain to exercise its option on the London and Southern Railway, and the M. C. R. station, and the city of London would be left at Burwell street, its passengers to be conveyed across a dangerous crossing, and no car service for most parts of the city within three blocks.

Electric Wires.
The Grand Trunk The Advertiser is assured on the best of authority, will use permit electric trains to operate over its line, through its yard or in its station. The Grand Trunk owns all the land to the south of the track as far as Bathurst street, and no other tracks will be laid there under any consideration. As to stringing electric wires through the yards the idea is considered absurd by every employee of the road in London.

No Freight Terminals.
Terminals for freight is another big problem which has not been considered by the experts. If the city expects to handle most of the freight, where is it to be stored, and how will the city give shippers sidings for cars? If there are to be heavy interswitching, changes who will absorb them, as they are absorbed now by the railway companies, who are working in competitive business?

Almost from any standpoint from which it is considered the electrification scheme is a "half-baked" scheme, to use the vernacular. It will not stand the test of fair argument from any standpoint.

IN PRECARIOUS POSITION.

Priest Denies He Wrote Love Letter

[Canadian Press.]
Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 25.—Charged with criminal libel for "maliciously and without legal right," publishing a circular defamatory to the reputation of Rev. Alfonso Markiewicz, priest at the independent Polish Catholic Mission on Burrows avenue, Mandy Olszansky has been arrested. She was released on $2,000 bail shortly after, $1,000 on her own recognizance and two sureties of $500 each.

Mrs. Olszansky, a telephone operator, published a circular, written in the Polish language, and containing an open letter to the public, in which she made charges against the priest, and quoting a love letter alleged to have been written to her by Rev. Mr. Markiewicz.

This circular she had distributed at the mission door last Sunday, and it was also posted on telephone poles nearby. The priest denies the authorship of the letter quoted, and claims that ever since he has been here the Olszanskys' family have tried to persecute him.

Money For Crops Will End Stringency

[Canadian Press.]
Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—Confidence that a great improvement in the financial situation would be noticed as soon as money started coming in for the crops was expressed by the leading bankers of the Dominion who arrived in this city last night to attend the 14th annual meeting of the Canadian Bankers' Association today. These men are in close touch with the situation in Western Canada, and feel sure that not only will the West soon feel easier money, but that the whole of Canada will also be relieved.

Canada, they pointed out, was not the only country affected, and as the foreign money markets became settled Canada, naturally, would feel the benefit. Western Canada would, however, be in good shape as soon as returns from the great wheat crop started to come in. The movement of wheat has so far been enormous, but the actual cash has not yet reached the producers. As soon as it does, the situation will be greatly relieved.

Good Memory Was Fatal For Thief

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Windsor, Sept. 25.—Peter McKellar, 127 Goyeau street, was responsible for the conviction of Louis Martin, in police court, today, on a charge of larceny.

McKellar, who is a fireman at the Windsor waterworks, left his coat with $45 in a pocket in a locker on Sept. 2, Martin, according to the evidence, sneaked into the room later and carried away the money. He was arrested the same night.

McKellar remembered the denomination of every bill. He had four five-dollar Canadian Bank of Commerce notes, three Home Bank notes and the remainder in notes of the Royal Bank. He remembered a tear in one which the magistrate was unable to detect with the naked eye. Martin was remanded until Monday, when he will be sentenced.

Mother Found Her Child Drowned

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Lockport, Sept. 25.—Little Margaret Bogues, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bogues, of this town, lost her life this morning by drowning. The little tot, who was only 2½ years of age, was playing on the bridge over the house and must have fallen into the river unnoticed. Her mother found her some time after. Drs. Elliott and Spence applied artificial respiration for two hours without success.

Forest Fair Was a Fine Success

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Forest, Sept. 26.—The Forest fair, held yesterday and today was a big success. The exhibits in all classes were large, live stock and fruit making an extra good showing.

The ideal weather brought out a big crowd today, and grounds and buildings were thronged. The receipts amounted to over $500, being considerably in excess of last year.

Cartage Service To Be Continued

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Sept. 25.—It is understood that the Canadian railways have agreed to continue their freight cartage service until Dec. 31 if they are allowed to raise the rate from 2½ to 3 cents per hundred, and the minimum rate from 20 to 25 cents. This will tide over the busy season this year.

AMUSEMENTS

A Massive Production.
"The Garden of Allah," which is playing at the Grand the balance of this week, is one of the most massive and wonderful productions ever presented upon a local stage. In this presentation the Liebler Company have given the theatregoers a faithful replica of desert life with its camels, the dancing girls in Beni-Mora, their brilliant Arab lovers, the bleating goats and kindred sounds of Oriental life that strike the ear, combined with nine marvellous settings, make it a masterpiece of stagecraft. The famous garden of Count Antoni, with its massive palms stretching in aisles to the sunset, and the desert, its crimson exotics and scarlet blooms—the zenith in short of the entire spectacle elicits unbounded admiration, beautiful as the rest of it is. Even character of the piece seems true to life, and almost every one of the beautiful written lines fly to climaxes where the real art of the superb company of players is brought forth.

Employers Reject Offers To Settle

Dublin, Sept. 25.—The lord mayor's proposals for the settlement of the strike do not seem to commend themselves to the employers, who are not inclined to discuss the situation with James Larkin and the officials of the Transport Workers' Union. Yesterday the lord mayor issued a memorandum outlining a plan for the appointment of a special conciliation committee, comprising six members nominated by the employers, and six by the transport workers, with Sir George Askeith as chairman.

There was practically no change in the situation today, except that military sentries were sent to the relief of the overworked police. A relief ship with food supplies for the strikers has left Manchester.

Big Increase in Trade Returns

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Canada's trade figures announced today show striking increases, the total for August being $97,742,581, or $7,719,577 more than August last year. For the first five months of the year the total is $456,233,167, an increase of $37,564,919 over the same period of 1912. It is expected that the total for the year will exceed that of 1912 by about two hundred million.

Exports for August were $13,176,343, an increase of $4,572,500. Of these exports Canadian manufactures represented $4,911,478.

FR. BROPHY DEAD

Stroke of Paralysis Proved Fatal to Kingston Priest.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Kingston, Sept. 26.—Rev. Father Brophy died yesterday at St. Mary's-on-the-Lake Orphanage. Deceased was 84 years of age. He spent his earlier days at Peterboro. After concluding his elementary studies he went to Rome, where he studied and was ordained as priest. Returning to Canada, he became parish priest at Read, where he spent the greater part of his life. About two years ago he was transferred to Kingston, and lived in retirement at St. Mary's-on-the-Lake. A few days ago he had a stroke of paralysis. The remains will be sent to Peterboro for interment.

A Message From the Clothing Store to the Men of London

During the next few weeks every man in this city who has any thought for comfort and good appearance will buy his new fall clothing—and, whoever it is that has given and now gives the largest value and largest service for every dollar, that is the store that should get the largest share of that new business. WE STAND UPON OUR MERIT.

This store has grown for over a third of a century—growing not like a mushroom, but as the sturdy oak from the little acorn. The clothing store is a new branch of that great tree, which is stretching out and developing into one of its strongest branches.

We are now ready with our opening of Men's and Young Men's Fall and Winter Suits, and would say that we are prepared for the coming months to give larger, better and sounder values in clothing than at any time before, and sounder value, we believe, than can be had elsewhere, now or at any time. If you are ready only to find out what the new fashions are, and how the prices compare, here is the place for you to see. Then when you are ready to buy you will know this is the place to come.

50 Men's Black Serge Suits to Sell Saturday at $15.00

These Suits are made from fine imported English serges; extra quality and best of trimmings. Suits worth $18 to $22. An opportunity to secure a high-grade black suit at a very low price. We ask you only to see these Suits. Sizes 34 to 46. Special $15.00

Businessmen's Suits, $10.00 and $15.00

Limited,
LONDON, FRIDAY, SEPT. 26.
WHY SPEND $700,000?
We are told that the London and Port Stanley Railway must be rebuilt in any event. This is urged in support of electrification.
The run-down condition of the road, which is very recent, would not have happened if there had been any certainty of the renewal of the lease. No railroad could be blamed for not spending more than was necessary in repairs and maintenance when its tenure was drawing to a close. The Pere Marquette is not responsible if the rails are lighter than the experts say they ought to be. The rails are still sound, and if the ties were renewed, the road would be equal to many branch lines in the province.
As the cost of rehabilitating the L. and P. S. R. would be assumed by any new lessee, why should the taxpayers of London load themselves with a burden of $700,000 for electrification? Our local contemporary answers that the lessees would deduct from the rental enough to recoup them for rebuilding.
But a rental would be pure profit,
while the electrification scheme, accepting the experts' reports, would plunge the city into annual deficits, besides straining its borrowing powers and credit to a dangerous degree. And a much larger rental than the present one could be secured, on terms which would give London shippers differential rates to and from Port Stanley, excellent train and steamship service,
and all the advantages of the lake port that are promised by the electrification advocates. All this is within the city's reach without adding a cent to the city's debt. If the city decided upon municipal control, giving all the steam roads running rights at a rental, the hundreds of thousands of dollars required for electrical equipment, cars and locomotives could be saved, and an annual profit assured. This would reassure local shippers, who are keenly concerned lest electrification should militate against the city's steam road facilities.
Properly handled, the L. and P. S. R.
is a municipal asset. The electrification project will turn it into a municipal liability.
ANTIDOTES TO BAD BLOOD.
The popular monthly magazines of the United States—and there are a great many creditable ones now—contain increasing evidence of the renewal of real brotherhood between the United States and Great Britain.
It is a big spirit they exhibit when they do not pick all their heroes for stories of adventure from their own country. It is a bigger spirit when they allow English writers to bear testimony to the prowess of Tommy Atkins and the genius of the Anglo-Saxon for conquest.
It is not remarkable that the magazine writers should seek for the best in popular literature, and that we should see the names of Arnold Bennett, Rudyard Kipling, Gilbert Parker, H. G. Wells and a host of others almost more frequently in American journals than in the English magazines, but it is remarkable that we should pick up a McClure's and read a splendid, stirring story on tradition in the British army. It is a "corking" story, if we may sketch it briefly. It told of the tradition of an old regiment of cuirassiers, who, in view of military development, had come to be looked upon by the khaki-clad infantrymen and practical gunners, as mere lay-figures for review purposes.
Consequently when they were attached to an important brigade, they were the sport of the camp. Their breastplates flashed a warning like heliographs to the enemy miles away. The jingling of their accoutrements could be heard almost as far as the near-noiseless rifles. They were sent to the rear and kept inactive all through the campaign—until a certain day. On that day a desperate attack by the British upon a high position beyond a river had been repelled. The modern Tommies were going down like straws.
Every regiment but the show troop had been cut to pieces. Then in a hopeless effort to prevent full rout the cu-irassiers were called from the rear.
With their white plumes streaming and cuirasses jangling they were sent to storm the position. They did it, in the face of impossibilities, and the story said it was traditional that they had never been beaten in all their generations of battling. The story was a clear trumpet-note of salute to British courage.
Then there are Talbot Mundy's stories of the Indian Mutiny—wonderful tales they are, and all given their first telling in Yankee periodicals.
These things make for international good-feeling and wider horizons. The illustrious Canadian reader of these stories is likely to get the impression that his American cousins are broader-minded than some of their assailants.

HARCOURT VS. BORDEN.
Mr. Borden assured his Halifax audience that Canada was not going to pay tribute to Great Britain in entering upon a policy of contribution, because she is to have representation in the Committee of Imperial Defence,
"one of the most remarkable governing bodies of modern times," he says.
Well, what will the representation amount to? About the same thing as the representation of the old royalist and Napoleonist parties in the French House of Deputies, or of the "Labor party" in the present Ontario Legislature.
But the main point is that Mr. Borden knows very well the actual status of the Committee of Imperial Defence while he knew very well also that his Halifax audience mostly knew nothing definite about the matter. He made his first blunder in the House of Commons about Imperial representation on Dec. 5, 1912. Six days later, by way of answer to Mr. Borden's talk, Mr. Harcourt, British colonial minister, wrote in a dispatch to the government-general of the self-governing dominions that "the Committee of Defence is a purely advisory body, and is not, and cannot under any circumstances become a body deciding on policy, which is and must remain the sole prerogative of the (British) cabinet, subject to the support of the House of Commons."
In other words, the Committee of Imperial Defence is a serviceable animal, working for the British cabinet and parliament, which alone formulates and carries out imperial policy.
"The powers of empire cannot be shared," Mr. Asquith had similarly said, in 1911.
Mr. Borden would have these official declarations of Messrs. Asquith and Harcourt in his mind while speaking to his Halifax audience, but he trusted that the people were a lot of know-nothings, as far as real politics are concerned. The motto of Liberalism has been for a long time, "Trust the people." Mr. Borden finds a good motto for his party, "Trust the people not to know." A cruder application of the same principle was made by Mr.
Crothers, the Farmers' Bank specialist, when he told a Rodney audience a few months ago that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had himself admitted on the floor of the House that Mr. Borden's contribution policy had been an issue in the 1911 election. Mr. Crothers was speaking with his master's voice, as near as he could get to it.
If Mr. Borden had kept his pledge there would be no by-elections, but a general election.
A contemporary complains of the Liberal plan of campaign in East Middlesex. It will have further reason to complain on election night.
The American market will help Canada to pay its debts to other countries by selling more foodstuffs at its doors, instead of paying freight on them to the ends of the earth.
The story from Ottawa that Hon.
Mr. Crothers will resign as a result of labor attacks, may not be true. Mr.
Crothers is not a man of retiring disposition.
Hon. Mr. White is coming to East Middlesex in support of Mr. Glass, who fought the move to have Mr.
White nominated for the riding two years ago. It is pleasant to note that Mr. Glass has forgiven Mr. White, and vice versa.
A campaign has been begun in the west for the removal of the Canadian duty on wheat in order to give Canadian wheat free entrance to the United States market. But the present Canadian Government cannot grant this boon without destroying its 1911 campaign arguments.
Our local contemporary persists in putting the cost of electrification as follows:
Overhead construction.....$111,274.79 Electric substation and battery-room.....81,029.75
Total.....$192,304.54
Would this electrified road have no cars or locomotives?
PLAYING WITH FIRE.
[Dundas Banner.]
The obvious truth about all this "disloyalty" twaddle is that those who so foolishly indulged in it are deliberately engendering a feeling of bitterness and discord for which there should not be the slightest excuse in this country.
CURRENT CHIVALRY.
[Montreal Herald.]
A Montreal girl has been arrested in Toronto for "masquerading" in boy's clothing which she wore because she had a better chance to earn her own living if her employer thought her a boy. Does it seem quite a fair deal to make women work and then penalize them for being women?
NOT STRONG.
[Washington Herald.]
"Cholly and Algy participated in a disastrous affair in a cafe." "Any body hurt?" "No." "Then what was disastrous about it?" "Why a couple of waitresses held 'em apart."
VINCENT'S SNAP.
[Ottawa Citizen.]
Stated plainly, the interest which Vincent Astor receives yearly, the interest on eighty millions, represents what his estate is able to take every year of the earnings of others. And he will, along with scores of others, continue to do so legally until legislation is introduced whereby the government is enabled to take the rental values of what rightfully belongs to the people as a whole. Although the great bulk of the Astor real estate holdings is in New York City the claim is applicable to every city and town and village on the continent. Why should the people of New York, or of any other community, pay tribute to the Astors, or anybody else, for the privilege of having access to the natural resources of the country?

NATURALLY.
[Detroit Free Press.]
"How gracefully that man seems to eat the corn" on the corn. "Yes, but he ought to. 'He's a piccolo player.'" HINT TO GO.
[Toronto Telegram.]
It is time that this province had a minister of education courageous enough to grapple with the bilingual question instead of nervously sparring for the wind.
NOT ALL ALIENS.
[Toronto Globe.]
That "jealous rubbish" about British decadence against which Lord Northcliffe warned a Montreal audience does not all originate in Germany and the United States. There are some pro-motors of the "decadence" idea working overtime in Toronto who every now and again tell us with glee about millions of unemployed and semi-starving people in Britain.
WHILE YOU WAIT.
[Puck.] Owner—"What'll it cost to repair
this car of mine?"
Garage Proprietor—"What ails it?"
Owner—"I don't know."
Garage Proprietor—"Thirty-four dollars and sixty-five cents." THE RISING GENERATION.
[Life.]
Little Girl—"Why did your mamma spank you?"
Boston Child—"Because she is too untutored and ignorant to devise a more modern reformatory method of punishment."
MANITOBA'S NEED.
[Winnipeg Free Press.]
What Manitoba needs most of all:
A school for every child; and every child in school.
NO BILINGUAL SCHOOLS IN ALBERTA.
[Hon. J. R. Boyle, Alberta Minister of Education.]
In Alberta we have no bilingual schools. There is no need for any such, in my opinion. Where they have been established in Canada and the United States they have proven failures. The key to success in educational work is in having the schools manned with efficient, well-trained teachers. To an intelligent teacher the fact that the native tongue of the majority of the pupils of the school is other than English is not a serious problem at all. English can be taught to foreign children very satisfactorily
by any intelligent English teacher.
The only language permitted to be used as the medium of instruction in our schools. In this province we have only one standard for teachers and it is the same for both separate and public schools. All our teachers are required to be educated to a high standard and to pass a test examination in evidence of the fact. Then they are required to take a course of professional training at one of our normal schools.
STRONG IN FAITH.
[Buffalo Express.]
"Is Jinks credulous?" Yes; he believes in himself."
WANTED.
[Life.]
"Did the doctor tell you what you had?"
"No. He took what I had without telling me."
THE TRUSTS.
[Washington Star.]
"You used to say 'competition is the life of trade.'"
"So it is," replied Mr. Comrox.
"Only instead of competing to sell things the idea now is to corner 'em up and get people competing for a chance to buy."
WHICH?
[Toronto Star.]
"Let me see." Sir James Whitney probably said this morning as he put his knightly garments on. "What day is today? Must I do something today to please the Orange vote, or is it the turn of the French vote?"
ANOTHER TRIUMPH OVER PAIN.
[Vancouver Sun.]
By inserting a tube into the windpipe of a person undergoing a serious operation, Dr. Chas. H. Peck, M.D., reports in the Journal of the American Medical Association that continuous insufflation of air into the lungs will sustain life when all respiratory movements have ceased. Dr. Peck presents records of 412 cases treated by this method in the Roosevelt Hospital, following the method invented by Dr.
Meitzer and Dr. Auer, of the Rockefeller Institute. He finds that the intubation diminishes the surgical shock, and permits more perfect and gentle control of the anaesthesia, so that very old or weak patients are especially benefited by its use.
JUST AN AVERAGE GIRL.
[Minneapolis Journal.]
A demand has arisen for a nice, good, wholesomely homely girl on a periodical cover.

University will open on Sept. 30. Registration of students will proceed on the morning of that day and lectures will prospects are for a better enrollment than ever before. A number of citizens are taking advantage of special courses in languages, history and philosophy.

REVERE—WESTOVER Pretty Aylmer Girl Becomes Bride of Young Sarnia Man.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Aylmer, Sept. 26.—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Revere, St. George street, on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, when their daughter, Ida, was married to Frank Westover, of Sarnia, a former highly esteemed Aylmer young man.
Rev. Mr. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist Church, performed the ceremony, in the presence of near relatives.
Mrs. Westover was a valued member of the Methodist choir.
Mr. and Mrs. Westover will reside in Sarnia.

2,000,000 Bugs
Loose in Chicago
[Canadian Press.]
Chicago, Sept. 26.—About two million lady-bugs are flying around Chicago today throughout the carelessness of an employee of the International Refrigeration Exposition at the stock yards amphitheatre.
The frozen insects were packed in an icebound case with glass top. When an attendant filled the refrigerator he forgot to close it, and before long the bugs were revived by the warm air and flew away.
The lady-bugs were shipped from California, where they are used to fight the fruit scale.
Between seasons they are put on ice and frozen. The management ordered another shipment at the cost of several thousand dollars.

Hot Fight Is On
in Chateauguay
[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Sept. 26.—The fight in Chateauguay, where a successor for the late J. P. Brown, M.P., is to be elected, is waxing warm. The Conservatives, who yesterday nominated John Morris, who was only 40 votes behind Mr. Brown in the general election of 1911, are perfecting their organization and beginning a vigorous campaign.
The Liberals have not yet selected a candidate, though the popular choice seems to rest on Edouard McEwen, who, however, does not want the honor, if Mr. McEwen cannot be persuaded to run. Mr. Edouard Brown, a son of the deceased member, may be invited to stand. Either gentleman would make a strong candidate.

Aylmer, Sept. 26.—The funeral took place this afternoon to Luton Cemetery of Adolph Dennis, aged 62 years, one of the best-known residents

Gave His Life to Save Little Ones
[Canadian Press.]
New York, Sept. 26.—Edward Scully, a foreman in the street cleaning department, sacrificed his life today to save a crowd of school children from a runaway horse. The horse, attached to a street cleaning cart, was headed toward a corner in Brooklyn occupied by two public schools. On the sidewalk were some 300 children.
Scully dashed out of his office, seized the animal's bridle and brought it to a stop at the curb. But after he had checked the runaway he lost his grip and fell under the horse's hoofs. His skull was fractured and he died in a few minutes.

Girls! Girls! You Must Try This!
DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR
For 25 Cents You Can Make Your Hair Lustrous, Fluffy and Abundant.
Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderline hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderline and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time.
This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle, or thin.
Besides beautifying the hair, Danderline dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp.
If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderline from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

CAROLINE COE.

This is a proper way to mix blacking: Cut the cake of blacking into small pieces, put it in a saucer and pour over enough sweet milk to make it into a rather thick cream. Blacking mixed in this way helps to prevent the leather from cracking.

Minicement, after being stored in glass jars, should have the cover removed occasionally and the minicement stirred. This will prevent it from becoming hard. If a little extra brandy is added occasionally minicement can be kept fresh for about one year.

Never starch linen that is to be stored for a long time. It is apt to crack and if left for many years will rot. Rinse the articles quite free from starch, dry and fold away, if possible, in blue paper. The blue paper always keeps them from turning yellow.

Frail stains on tablecloths can usually be removed by stretching the stained part across a basin and pouring boiling water, to which a little borax has been added, directly on it. Then wring it out, reverse the piece, and pour the same water on the other side. This plan is most effective.

After using a silver fork for fish, especially anything strong smelling, like herrings, the odor often clings to the silver even after washing. To prevent this, directly after the fork has been used wash it with water and then stand it in a basin of tea leaves for a few minutes. This will remove the taste and smell.

Boots and shoes are apt to get hardened when not in use. To make them recover their original softness, wash them over in warm water and then rub castor oil well into them. After a little while the leather will become more pliable, and then if the boots are cleaned and polished in the usual way they will be easy to wear.

A good way to clean gas mantles or gas burners that are blackened by carbon deposits is to sprinkle sodium chloride or "salt" upon them while burning. This causes the carbon to blow away and prolongs the life of the mantle and increases the efficiency of the light or burner.

Steam is an excellent thing for removing creases from gowns or coats that have been packed away. Fix up a line in the bathroom, hang the creased clothes on it close to the window, then let the hot-water tap run until the room is full of steam, leave for an hour or two, then dry the clothes in the open air and press on the wringing side with a warm iron.

How many both men and women, are bothered with that saw-like roughness at the edge of collars after being laundered several times. A complete cure may be effected by merely rubbing the collar with a piece of ordinary paraffin wax. Thus the collars do not soil so readily and the material lasts much longer, for the wax in a wonderful way fills up the roughness of the edges and greatly enhances the comfort of the wearer.

Fruit tarts have a nasty habit of bubbling over and making a mess in the oven, even though a small hole be made in the top of the crust. This is no doubt due to the hole closing, as it frequently does when the pastry puffs up and the steam cannot escape. To obviate this difficulty insert a short piece of uncooked macaroni in the top of the crust. The steam will then be able to escape and the juice will not boil over. Of course, the macaroni should be withdrawn before the tart is served.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

IF WE WOULD BE WELL

A Great Heidelberg surgeon and an audacious use of them, you shorten authority on that dreadful malady, cancer, has written the following seven rules to be followed if one would be physically and mentally well:

1. Look after both mind and body in a rational way; divide the day reasonably between labor and recreation; eat healthy food; observe all rules of cleanliness and live in a dry, sunny, well-ventilated house.
2. Work eight hours at your calling, take eight hours for recreation, exercise and self-improvement, put eight hours for sleep. One gets the best rest when asleep between two hours before and two hours after mid-night. In the other eight hours you may count two for the three meals a day, two for art or reading, two for family intercourse, or for public importance, but to the world of people or sports, walking, climbing, riding, in which we live, we should all be rowing, swimming, or gymnastics. Very careful follow so simple and easily digested. You should not consume more than a pint of food the modern life of women is not easily and drink at each of the three meals. Anything more than that overloads the stomach. Therefore observe moderation.
3. You must not be a slave of unhealthy and good, but how can one joyment. Alcohol, coffee, tea, tobacco pick and choose at hospitable boards, have no nutritive qualities, but through or even at one's own table, without the usages of generations they have become almost necessities, and are not bedrooms, where are they to be had easily replaced. They are all poison—except by the fortunate? We must eat, but through customary use have sleep where we can and make the most of their dangers. By in-bes of it and trust to Providence!

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Has Thirst For Knowledge.
Dear Miss Grey—I was delighted to have my queries answered, and since you invited me to call, I come with more questions.

1. Where are Presidents Lincoln and McKinley buried?
2. Who were Princess Victoria of Hohenzollern's bridesmaids?
3. Who was the Queen of Francis Joseph of Austria before her marriage?
4. When did Michael Angelo die?
5. I had a dispute lately with a friend over the religion of Marconi, and as we couldn't settle it between us, I bring it to your settlement.
6. Who invented the microscope.

Now, dear Miss Grey, I do hope you will not grow weary of answering questions for me. Mamma says the next thing I'll want to know is when I'll die and where will I be buried. So, with many thanks for your trouble and time, I remain, HELEN.

A—Well, Helen, your letter is enough to make one's head whirl, you ask so many questions all at once. If you would just go up to the free library and read about the things and people you ask me, you would get much more information than I can give you in limited space. However, I cheerfully do the best I can to answer you.

1. President Lincoln, who was shot in Washington in April, 1865, is buried at Springfield, Illinois; President McKinley, who was also assassinated in September, 1901, lies in a handsome mausoleum in Canton, Ohio.

2. Any dispatches that I can find regarding the marriage festivities, while giving the names of a number of royal personages who were present, do not state the names of the bride's attendants.

3. Francis II. of Austria had four wives: first, Elizabeth of Wurttemberg; then upon her death in 1788 married his first cousin, Marie Theresa, daughter of Ferdinand, King of Naples; one year after her decease in 1807, Maria Beatrix of Este became his third wife, and when she died he married Carolina Augusta of Bavaria in 1816.

4. 156 February, 1563.
5. Sorry I cannot settle this dispute for you just now, as I can get no light upon the "Wizard's" reason. From his nationality and early education, one would fancy him a Roman Catholic, but I am not sure of this.

6. All the instruments you name are of ancient origin, especially the last two, for if you read the history of any ancient people, you will find that the violin, figured harp, figured lute, and feasts and various forms of entertainment and worship. The microscope was in use in a crude form for many hundred years ago, and during the past two centuries, inventors have been constantly adding improvements until it has now reached an almost perfect condition. Perhaps the first men to produce the most noteworthy improvements (in 1590) were two Frenchmen, brothers, V. and C. Chevalier, by name.

The present-day piano-forte has evolved from an ancient instrument called the clavichord used in the time of Queen Elizabeth. This was followed by the spinet, and in 1709 Bartolomeo Cristofori, a harpsichord maker, of Padua, introduced a new device into the mechanism of the instrument, and termed it a pianoforte. Since that time, of course, new and improved ideas have been added continually.

The modern violin had its antecedents, in an ancient bowed instrument, and reached the highest state of perfection at the hand of the great Italian masters, in the 17th and 18th centuries. Andreas Amati, of Cremona, invented what might be termed the first modern violin, and Antonio Stradivari, who lived 1644-1737, finally made the finished article. The violins of today are finished on similar lines, of great antiquity, being used by Egyptians, Hebrews, Greeks and Romans, and by the old Celtic tribes of Briton. The modern named Pleyel, credited to a German named Pleyel, introduced it in 1834, and it was improved upon in 1903 by Gustav Lyon, also a German.

Questions of Grammar.
Dear Miss Grey—Would be pleased if you will answer the following questions: 1. Who are the proper uses of "shall" and "will"?

2. How should a letter of thanks be written?

3. What do you think of my writing?

4. Can a girl whose father is in the military business consider it as his standing as one whose father is a merchant?

5. Would like to train for a nurse in general hospital, Toronto, but I have no idea of who I should write to or what kind of a letter to write. Could you enlighten me any?

6. What are the proper uses of "to, too, two"?

Thanking you, I am, JANET.

Answer.—1. Use "shall" in the first person, and "will" in the second and third persons, in speaking simply in a sense of futurity. Thus: "I shall go tomorrow." "You will go tomorrow." "He will go tomorrow." But when expressing determination, just reverse the order, and use "will" in the first person and "shall" in the second and third. Thus: "I will go tomorrow." "You shall go tomorrow." "He shall go tomorrow." expressing in these last three sentences a determination in the face of opposition.

2. Make it brief and sincere as if it came right from the heart. I cannot give you a printed form to follow, not knowing the circumstances. If the letter is for a gift which you have received you might write something like this: "The morning's delivery brought me your delightful birthday remembrance. How kind it was of you to think of me in such a charming way. I shall value the locket immensely, not only because of its beauty, but in memory of the giver, and am wearing it tonight to the club dance."

3. It is fair.

4. Yes. It is not so much a matter of what you do (providing, of course, that it is an honest business), as what you are, that really counts.

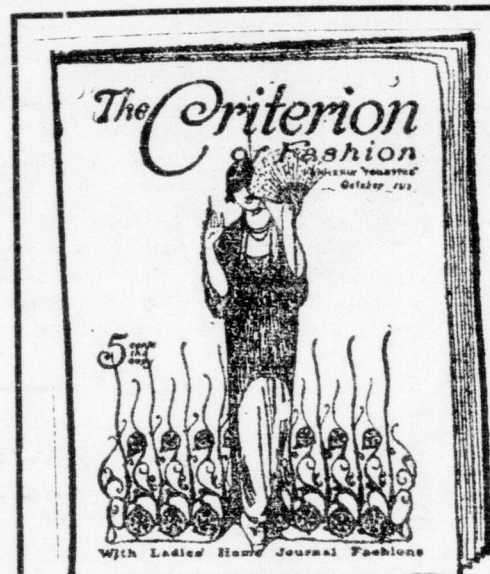

5. Write to the lady superintendent of the hospital, simply stating your desire to be a nurse, whether you have had any experience at nursing, and ask for particulars.

6. "To" is a preposition denoting motion towards—"We are driving to the farm." "Two" is an adverb, meaning more than enough, also—"She ate too much candy." "We are going, too." "Two" signifies one and one—"Two of the brothers said." The sentence containing the three words is: "Two of the girls were only too willing to motor with us."

Tea-Table Talk

That much-enduring person, Cynthia Grey, is so busy this week that I have undertaken to give some hints regarding an evening's entertainment for members of a young people's society, a request for which reached this office the other morning.

Idea for Social Evening.
A rather pleasing idea for opening the evening's amusement, and one very effective in breaking the ice, is a game called "Famous Buildings." As the guests arrive, pin upon each a picture of a celebrity cut out from magazine, advertisement or newspaper, whispering to each one the name of the personage he or she represents. Each has, of course, to guess the name of the picture worn by the other people present. If desired, simple tally cards can be presented to each one, a cross made upon guessing properly, and a simple prize awarded to the one having the largest number of guesses. But in any case the contest is sure to help people become acquainted. In the pictures might be included portraits of kings, authors, statesmen, actresses, celebrities, and familiar faces cut from well-known advertisements, etc.

This game might be followed up by a contest in guessing names of famous buildings. Have guests a dozen or fifteen of these cut out and posted on good-sized pieces of stiff paper or thin cardboard, and pinned about the walls. Provide each guest with a slip of paper, numbered to correspond with the cards on the wall, upon which to write the names guessed, pinned about the walls.

For famous buildings, the following are mentioned at random: Learning tower of Pisa, St. Peter's at Rome, Westminster Abbey, the Acropolis, Windsor Castle, Citadel, Quebec, Toronto University, churches or public buildings of local fame, such as Exhibition Hall at Western Fair, or the "comfort station" on the market. Postal cards often help one in selecting scenes.

A game of musical chairs, or twirl the platter, or even "drop the handkerchief," might be welcome after these mental activities, or if you prefer to carry out the "celebrity" idea, have the company choose up sides and conduct a spelling match of names of famous men and women.

For refreshment, a nice variation to the regulation sandwiches and cake would be buttered rolls, doughnuts, mince pie, and cocoa. The hall might be decorated with little trouble with autumn leaves, and large vases of late-blooming flowers.

Some instrumental and vocal solos, and singing of some familiar songs, finishing up with "Auld Lang Syne" would make a pleasant wind-up to the evening's fun.

THE BELL

AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

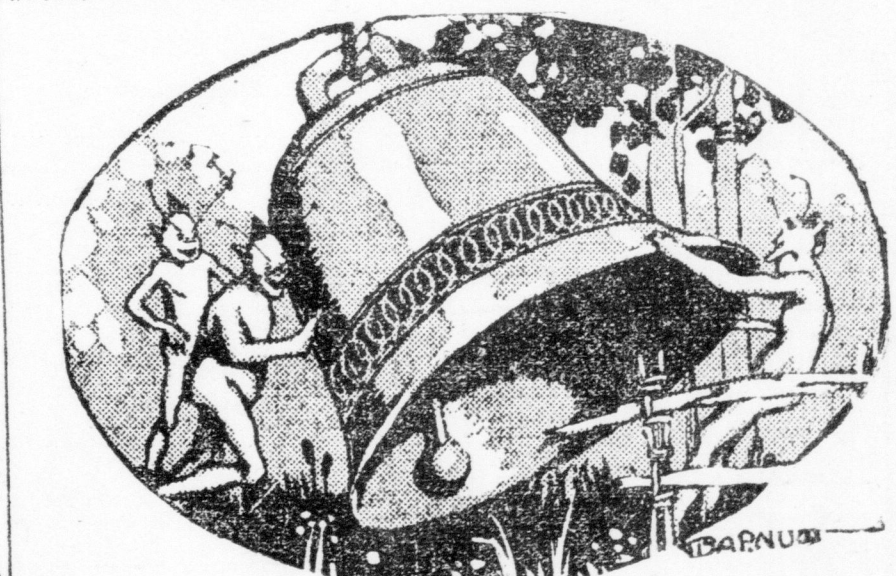

Chapter III.
All the next day they tramped and tramped until their feet were sore and their hearts weary.

Where could the bell be? They inquired of the fishes in the stream. They stopped to chat about the strange bell with the nightingale and the sweet anemones.

All had heard the bell. Surely they had. Though none could tell from whence its sound came.

Into its heart.
The three children reached it first. They rushed, laughing, happy, and almost breathless, down its narrow, winding way, into the deep, deep dell. The bell was still pealing out its glad-some tones. On and on into the dell they scampered until the overshadowing vines made the way almost an impossible to see.

"Look," cried one of the three children as they came to a standstill in front of a strange trellised tower that

The Poet's Corner

LEISURE.

What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare?

No time to stand beneath the boughs
And stare as long as sheep or cows;

No time to see when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass;

No time to see when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass;

No time to see, in broad daylight,
Streams full of stars, like skies at night;

No time to turn at beauty's glance,
And watch her feet, how they can dance;

No time to wait till her mouth can Enrich that smile her eyes began?

A poor life this if, full of care,

—Wm. H. Davies.

At last, almost discouraged to the point of turning back, the little party decided to divide up, each going in a different direction. They bid farewell to each other and started off alone.

Strange animals they had never seen before, frightened the children. Almost impassable brambles tried the patience of the king's son. Still they all kept on in the direction they had chosen, each wondering what the other had found or seen.

The day waned. The shadows lengthened. The silvery moon slipped noiselessly over the highest mountain top. And then the bell rang out as of old.

They all heard it, though they were all in a different locality.

At last it seemed as if they could tell which way the sound came. They all turned toward it at the same moment and hurried forward as fast as they could run.

It was in a dell, half hidden by twining vines and sweet-scented flowers. The dell was between two tall hills and there seemed to be only one road seemed to rise up into the sky. "S-h-h!" cried another. "Someone is ringing the big bell inside."

They all looked, and what do you think they saw?

Why, they saw a great, great bell, THE bell swinging to and fro in an enclosed space inside the tower door. They crept up closer and peeped in fearfully.

Whom do you think they saw? A great, strong man. A monster, with four heads?

No, just a group of the busiest, cutest, queerest pigmies of fairyland you could imagine. They were the mysterious ringers. This was the secret.

Why was the bell there? Why did the pigmies ring it every night? Why had no one ever found it before? Because it was a device of the fairies to help the children to remember to go home at folks had always looked for it before. But when the children sought it they found it, because it was for them.

NEW MARKET WILL BE BOON

Grand Opening at Sarnia Saturday Marks New Progressive Step.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Sept. 26.—Big things are expected of the town market, which will be opened with much ceremony on Saturday next. Much has been said about it, and here are some of the reasons why the businessmen of the town are among its heartiest supporters.

The farmers who come in and exhibit their wares on the market will be paid cash for them by the citizens. These farmers will in turn pay cash for purchases from the local merchants. This will keep money in circulation.

As an advertising feature the market is invaluable. Manufacturers in looking for a site to locate always consider the cost of living, a big item for their employees. Where there is a market the cost of living is cheaper.

The market will bring farmers from 20 miles around into Sarnia and will make that many more new customers for the merchants here.

Hon. W. J. Hanna and F. F. Pardee, M. P., are the two principal speakers at the opening on Saturday.

Society Man Alleged to Have Passed Worthless Checks. [Canadian Press.]

Regina, Sept. 26.—Fred J. Doody, believed to be a leading citizen of St. John, N. B., was arrested in this city for passing worthless checks, on information furnished by the Winnipeg police. During his stay in Regina Doody stayed at one of the leading hotels appeared prosperous and was supposed to have been employed by the Consolidated Rubber Company.

Doody was prominent in society circles in the east, and was a member of leading clubs of the city of St. John.

FOR PRESBYTERIAN MISSION FIELDS

One Hundred and Thirty-Five Men Have Been Secured by the Church.

Home Missions Grants For Last Quarter Totalled Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Reports received from the district superintendents at the meeting of the executive of the Presbyterian Church in Canada which has been sitting for the past two days were of the most cheering character. Through the presbyteries of the church east and west there has come a large demand for the opening up of new fields, both in the cities and in the rural districts, among Anglo-Saxons and among non-Anglo-Saxons. Assistance was also asked from many quarters for the erection of buildings, both churches and manse, these applications totalling nearly $75,000. The grants asked for from the different fields receiving assistance from the Home Mission Board for the last quarter totalled over $100,000 for maintenance.

The executive was presided over by the superintendent, Dr. A. S. Grant, and there were present the ten district superintendents, the conveners of synods and among the lay delegates were Dr. Kelly, of Montreal; Mr. Alexander, of London; Col. McRae, of Guelph, and Judge Farrell, of Moose Jaw.

The work of the missionaries during the summer has been most satisfactory and of the number who have been laboring (412) will return to their colleges to pursue their studies. This has left a great gap to be filled, and this is one of the greatest problems of the church.

Appointments Made.
Notwithstanding the fact that the colleges take back the majority of the men, 135 men have been secured for the coming year, as follows:

SPLENDID WHEAT GREW 800 MILES FROM EDMONTON

Number One Hard and Prize Vegetables From the Arctic Circle.

YIELD WAS MAGNIFICENT

Country as Big as Manitoba Wants Settlement in the McKenzie Valley.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—Number one hard wheat, grown 800 miles north of Edmonton, prize vegetables raised on the Arctic circle, and spruce trees six feet in diameter, are some of the wonders of the northern territories, which Mr. Henry A. Conroy, Inspector of Indian Agencies, saw on a northern inspection tour from which he has just returned.

Helping Indians.
Known officially as "Treaty No. 8," the territory over which Mr. Conroy exercises supervision is inhabited by about 8,000 Indians. Once a year Inspector Conroy visits the eighteen agencies located in treaty No. 8, and distributes to the Indians about $35,000 in money and several thousand dollars' worth of food, ammunition, fishing nets, and other necessities of aboriginal life.

Grew Fine Wheat.
Mr. Conroy is evidently proud of the achievement of the agency at Fort Simpson. This is 800 miles north of Edmonton. "Our agent there last year, Mr. Card, experimented with three varieties of wheat, the yields from which were taken down to Edmonton and graded No. 1 hard. He grew also 300 bushels of oats, a sample bag of which I took out with me. They weighed 38 pounds to the bushel. Rye and barley were also successfully grown. This year when I was there, in July, the grain crops and vegetables looked well, although the weather had been dry."

"Fort Good Hope, still further north, within the Arctic Circle, the very best gardens I saw on the whole route are there. On the upper MacKenzie Valley there is a country as large as Manitoba, and every bit of it fit for settlement."

Around the City Hall

Not Yet.
It is now four weeks and more since the city officials were ordered to vacate the old Richmond street city hall, by Mayor C. M. B. Graham. In spite of the intervening month the offices in the Spencer block are not yet all ready. Carpenters and painters are still at work in the various departments, and it will be some time yet before everything is completed.

What About the Bell?
Now anxious inquiries are being made about the hall as to what is to be done about the old city hall. This is now the property of the bank that purchased the Richmond street city hall building, and since the vacation of the city officials from the structure the bell has never been rung. Some of the officials who wanted the bell taken down and stored till it could be placed in a museum in the new city hall, are anxious that something definite should be done to settle the bell's future.

No Lights for Asylum.
Residents of Petersburg are objecting to the fact that the private lights, formerly strung along the Asylum sidewalk, have now been taken down and that the city lights to replace them have not yet been erected. A resident of the vicinity claims that the lights should be installed at once, as the traffic is constantly increasing on the street and should be given some protection.

COUNCIL SELECTS OCTOBER 22 FOR THE BYLAW VOTE

A Special Meeting on Thursday Night Put the Date Forward.

THE FIRST WAS ILLEGAL

Rumor That October 18 Would Be Selected Caused Much Opposition.

[Canadian Press.]

After repealing its bylaws of the night before, fixing Oct. 16 as the date for the special electrification, storm sewer, West London breakwater, and board of control vote, the city council last night selected Wednesday, Oct. 22, as the polling day. The special meeting, necessitated by the fact that City Solicitor T. G. Meredith rendered an opinion holding that Oct. 16 would be an illegal date, the three weeks' notice, required by law not having been given by the decision arrived at on Sept. 24, was a short one.

No Discussion.
There was no discussion nor any change in the bylaws, save the amendment of the dates fixed for voting, the swearing in of scrutineers, and the final summing up of the vote. In the original bylaws these dates were fixed at Oct. 16, 14 and 17, respectively. In the amendments put through last night they will be Oct. 22, 17 and 23, respectively.

The selection of Oct. 22 came as somewhat of a surprise, it having been generally conceded during Thursday, when the unexpected development of the illegal date dropped out, that Saturday, Oct. 18, would be selected. Some opposition from many quarters against a Saturday polling day resulted from the announcement that Oct. 18 would in all probability be the date selected and the date was transferred to the first available day—the 22. Monday, Oct. 20, is Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 21 is the election in East Middlesex to fill the Federal riding made vacant through the death of Peter Elson, M. P. making Oct. 22 the first "open" date.

Water Commission in the Offices of that body caused some little discussion at the meeting of the commissioners yesterday. The commissioners objected to allowing this former officer the privilege of using part of the offices for his own private work.

No Valves Included.
The fact that no valves have been included in the heating equipment of the new city hall, and that every repair made to any of the radiators necessitates the letting out of the boiler fires, was the interesting fact brought out at the meeting of the board of works Thursday night. The promise was made that the defect would be remedied.

Directory at Last.
An office directory has at last made its appearance at the new city hall. This is the property of the water commission and is placed at the foot of the stairs leading to the offices of General Manager Glauzitz, the assistant general manager, electrical engineer and distribution superintendent. The city has yet to follow the example of the commissioners, who have led the council by "a mile" in fitting out their new quarters. One is badly needed.

Congratulating "Jimmy" Bell.
Congratulations are being showered on City Treasurer James S. Bell this morning for the splendid showing he made in the quoiting tournament. In spite of his final defeat by Sabine, of Woodstock, the London city treasurer made the most remarkable showing of the entire tournament, having entered it without a day's cases for copying.

At Knox College.
The committee appointed at the General Assembly for the revision of the Book of Praise has been in convocation for several days. The work of the committee is extending over a period of many years, and their results will not be presented for some time yet. Dr. Dey, of Simcoe, is the convener of the committee, and the secretary, Rev. Alex. McMillan. Other present are: Dr. W. G. Kirk, of Ottawa; Principal Scrimmer, of Montreal; Prof. Kent, Dr. Macgillivray, Kingston; Dr. Thomson, Rev. S. Harper, Gray, Mr. H. Matheson, Rev. T. E. Robinson, Dr. W. G. Kirk, Dr. Somerville, Rev. Mr. Helme, Mr. T. L. Fraser, N. S., and Mr. A. T. Cringan.

Cars Being Hurried.
According to Manager C. R. King, of the London street railway, who was at Preston Wednesday to hurry along the work on the new rolling stock of the company, the pay-as-you-enter cars will be here within ten days. There is considerable work to be done on the new cars, but the work is being rushed through as speedily as possible.

Bread Feeling Popular.
Bakers aren't the only ones who use their hands to "knead" the bread, according to Dr. T. V. Hutchinson, M. H. O., who has completed a canvas of the city bakers, asking their cooperation in using loaves to handle the bread in a more sanitary manner. From the statement of the bakers, it is a common practice for the men to "feel" the bread, to ascertain if it is too soft or too hard to meet their families' "feeling" practice for the loaf as sanitary as the driver's handling.

Going to Build Garage.
A garage for the city-owned automobiles will be constructed at the rear of the new city hall, if the old construction will not alter the insurance rate on the main building. At the meeting of the council last night, the question of the construction of the garage was brought up. The insurance rate question having been brought up, it was decided to leave it to City Engineer J. H. B. Bennett, of the board of works, to deal with.

ONE HYMN BOOK FOR THREE DENOMINATIONS

Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists May Unite on Hymnal.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—After three days of hard work the hymnal committee appointed by the Methodist Conference finished its labors yesterday. The result of the committee's deliberations will be presented to the conference, which will in all probability accept the work.

In the near future there may be a joint hymnal for the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists. The Methodists last year nominated a committee of four to confer with the other bodies, with a view to bringing about this desirable end. A prominent Methodist stated that if the Methodists and Presbyterians could agree upon a joint hymnal the Congregationalists would in all probability agree to such a compilation. Of course, years must elapse before anything definite can be carried out. The compilation of the new Methodist book for instance, will entail the writing of thousands of letters to authors of hymns, tunes and chants for permission and in other cases for copying.

MUSHROOM SEASON IS HERE AGAIN

Hunters of the Delectable Root Find Many in Vicinity of London.

Many Inquiries at the Public Library For Books on the Subject.

"Why don't you publish a mushroom story?" asked Public Librarian W. O. Carson this morning when a reporter inquired what was doing. "We get inquiries every day for books on mushrooms, now that the mushroom season is here again. We have some very good books on the subject, too, and they are being used to good advantage. One man who had gathered several baskets the other morning out at Pond Mills came in to look up a variety he had found, but was not sure whether it was edible. When he found out it was good to eat he jumped on his bicycle and went back to gather those he had left growing."

Mushroom Types.
It so happened that Prof. James H. Bowman, of the Western University, who is well known as a botanical authority, was in the library. "Mushrooms," said Prof. Bowman, "are divided into four main classes: black spored, white spored, brown spored and purple spored. Nearly all the poisonous varieties are white spored and care should be taken in gathering any of these. But among the white-spored mushrooms are the Lepiota, a family of four or five varieties, all edible. The color of the spores is shown under the gills."

Some Are Poisonous.
"Of the white-spored mushrooms the Amanitas are the most poisonous. One good-sized Amanita will kill four men. There are three or four species growing here, some in the fields and some in the woods. Outside of the Amanitas all poisonous mushrooms are tough and would suggest indigestibility."

"The best mushrooms for the table are probably the common field mushroom and the horse-mushroom. Both are pink-gilled and have rosy or brown spores. There are no poisonous mushrooms like these, but care must be taken that they are fresh, for mushrooms, like fish and some other articles of food, in decaying produce ptomaines, which are very poisonous. Of these, the field mushroom has the more delicate flavor. The horse-mushroom has a strong mushroom flavor. It is much larger than the field mushroom, and is usually found near stables."

Puffballs Are Edible.
"Besides the edible mushrooms which grow in this vicinity, after a good rain plenty of puffballs will be found growing in the fields. All puffballs are edible and are very fine food."

Puffballs should only be eaten while they are white when broken. The large field puff ball is common these fine days. Cut into slices, it is fried like pancakes, and is delectable. There is no more enjoyable autumn pastime than mushroom hunting or puff-ball hunting. Puffballs vary in size from eight to ten inches in diameter to the size of a small walnut.

"Some of the best mushrooms belong to the black-spored families. The shaggy-maned mushroom grows in troops along the country roads. It is six to eight inches in height. It is tall, white and conical in shape. At first the gills are white, then turn to pink, and then to black. The old mushroom, become moist and lanky on the ends of the gills and drop away. This will indicate their identity. At Delmonico's and other fashionable New York restaurants, they are a favorite and expensive dish."

Fine For Catnip.

"The lily catnip, also found here, grows in bunches, and is five or six inches high. In England, mushroom catnip is made from this variety. It may be found growing here at Meadow Lily Mills, along the banks of the river. The micaceous coprinus grows at the base of stumps and is used to flavor soups. The most common of the ring mushroom grows in rings, varying in diameter from three or four to thirty feet. They were supposed to spring up out of the footprints of fairies who danced in the moonlight. They are yellowish white with white gills. They are among the best edible mushrooms, and are highly thought of in Europe. They can be dried, and are strung on strings and kept until wanted for use. Soaked in water, they become quite fresh again. They are dried and grated in France, and used for soups."

"The coral mushroom grows in swamps. There are three species of it. It has long coral-like, twining stems, and is furnished with little white teeth which give it the appearance of carved coral."

The coral is not so common as some other varieties of mushroom, but Prof. Bowman added that the coral is in company with Prof. John Dearness, he had found a rare species of the coral mushroom. It is an interesting mushroom that is worth looking for.

Had a Stroke Of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailments may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

COMMENCE AT ONCE ON THE NEW THEATRE PLANS

Representative of Magnate Has Interview With Building Inspector.

Building Inspector Piper was interviewed this week by the son of John Griffin, the theatrical magnate, who will erect the new theatre on Wellington street, and by an architect who accompanied Mr. Griffin.

The blue print has been taken to Buffalo, and the work upon the architect's plans will commence at once. Although no figures in regard to the lease from Mr. William Bernard of the property have been given out, it is stated that the sum of $3,600 a year is to be received yearly for the property. Mr. Griffin to erect the building.

In some quarters it has been stated that the theatre will not be erected, but so far as Mr. Bernard is concerned it must go through, as he has the papers signed, sealed and delivered.

CAPT. COLLINS EXPLAINS FIRST AID TO INJURED

Demonstrations of St. John's Ambulance Corps Made at Hyman Hall.

Captain Collins, inspector of St. John's Ambulance Corps for Canada, lectured on the work of the corps before a large audience at Hyman Hall Thursday evening.

The lecture was preceded by an inspection of four ambulance teams chosen from the two corps existing in this city. They put on a most interesting exhibition of first-aid work. Four "patients" suffering from numerous fractures and other injuries were taken in charge by the teams. Deftly and quickly they applied splints and bandages, stopped the flow of blood from supposedly dangerous wounds, and in a few moments carried their subjects off on stretchers.

Exhibitions of bandaging and of carrying wounded when no stretchers were available were also given, as well as demonstrations in the art of artificial respiration. The work was watched with the keenest interest by the spectators.

Work Is Eulogized.

Following the practical demonstrations, Captain Collins proceeded with his lecture, being introduced by the Right Rev. Dean Davis, who eulogized the work being done by St. John's Ambulance Corps as being calculated to do a great amount of good in relieving human suffering.

Captain Collins' lecture contained much of interest, and was illustrated by a splendid series of lantern slides. He traced the history of the St. John's Ambulance Corps from its inception in 1818, and although it had passed through many vicissitudes, its aims and objects were still the same.

The speaker gave many instances in which the work of the corps had been of great value, and urged the better equipment of the corps existing in this city, which was the first to be formed in Canada. The Duke and Duchess of Connaught were keenly interested in first-aid work, he said, both holding first certificates in first aid, as well as a medalion. Princess Patricia was also preparing herself for the examination necessary to receive a medalion.

At the close of the lecture, Captain Collins imparted to the teams some useful information in regard to the coming competition for the championship of Canada in Ottawa. It is probable that London will send a team to try for the medalion.

APPEALING ADDRESS BY MR. COLEGROVE
Evangelist Presents Gospel to Another Record Crowd at City Mission.

A record crowd assembled in the City Mission on Thursday night to hear Evangelist Colegrove on the subject, "Second Coming." Large crowds have gathered during the past week to hear the speaker, but this particular subject is of special interest, and consequently the audience were disappointed when the evangelist announced that he had been postponed until Friday evening.

Paul's Letter.
The theme of Mr. Colegrove's address for the evening was taken from Hebrews, II, 3: "How shall we escape?" The conditions and circumstances connected with the writing of the letter by Paul were discussed by the speaker. It was written at a time when the Jews were in doubt as to Christianity, and its purpose was to stimulate the religious spirit and to dispel all doubts and misgivings. Christianity is the only religion which has a salvation, the speaker declared, better further demonstrated the fallacy of other beliefs.

Limitations of Science.
That science with all its cunning and mastery over many things is unable to fashion and give life to even a fly, was discussed at some length by the evangelist. We can accomplish triumphs of engineering and seemingly impossible feats, but all of man's powers are of no avail when the creating of life is attempted. It is impossible to comprehend the infinite greatness of God's great universe, the speaker asserted. We gaze into the sky and view the myriads of stars, we can discern with the naked eye worlds in the process of evolution, and with the aid of a powerful telescope, the entire solar system can be outlined. But beyond the power of eyes and glass alike, countless worlds are revolving through space, fiery meteors are moving in obedience to some fixed law of the Creator, which marks out their courses and times their movements to the smallest fraction of a degree.

God's Sacrifice.

The "Dowler 3" Overcoats

These Coats are drawn from life. Three styles, designed especially for our young men's trade—the smartest garments ever shown in London. The public is fast waking up to the fact that there are distinct standards of tailoring in ready-to-wear clothing. "I have heard so much praise of 20th Century Clothing from my friends," said a new customer this week, "that I HAVE DECIDED I WANT TO WEAR IT." Twenty distinct styles by this make is shown only by

Ready-to-Measure Suits and Overcoats

Our Made-to-Measure Department is turning out the smartest tailoring in Canada. We personally guarantee every Suit to retain its shape in any strain of wear or weather. We have a selection of over 600 cloths.

Evening Dress Suits by Experts

Our Evening Dress Suits are distinctly in a class by themselves. We invite comparison by any made or shown elsewhere. Come in and try them on. Bring your friends along.

SUITS $28, $32, $35

When you buy DOWLER CLOTHES you do not have to "guess" what kind of cloths you are getting; you SEE the style and you KNOW the satisfaction is guaranteed.

The Great Advantage of Buying at Dowlers'

Our buying facilities are greater than any other Clothing Store in Western Ontario. We buy in larger quantities, and we buy every dollar's worth for spot cash, taking our discounts as well as special price advantages. TWELVE LARGE FACTORIES, MAKING FOR OVER 350 STORES, and who control, in many cases, the whole output of mills, is the source of our supply, and enables us to sell you Clothes at 10 to 20 per cent less, quality for quality, than small makers manufacturing for a few stores. As well might the farmer of a few acres try to compare with the man of several hundred acres—his house (or factory) expenses would be too much for his production; besides, we have THE GREAT ADVANTAGE of the open market with every good maker competing for a slice of our business. ALL THESE ADVANTAGES STAND OUT PROMINENTLY in the class and quality of our Clothing.

A Whole Army of Overcoats

We have specialized in Young Men's Swagger Overcoats this season.

A young New York actor when purchasing one of our $30.00 Chinchilla 20th Century Coats last Saturday, remarked: "This Coat would cost $65.00 in a high-class store in New York." He was delighted with the graceful fit and hang, so different from what he had tried on elsewhere.

22 Distinct Styles

The Stafford, the Saxon, the Varsity and the Three Dowler Specials, as shown in the cut, all Young Men's Coats, shown only by this store; shawl collar and belted, short, medium and long lengths.

The Chesterfield, the Churchill, the Renick, the Speedway, for the men of more conservative taste.

A WHOLE CATALOGUE OF COLORINGS AND CLOTHS—Chinchillas, Brushes, Whitneys, Cheviots, Friezes and Meltons, blues, browns, grays, black and fancies.

OVERCOATS—$6.80 up to $20.00, and then on to $28.00.

The Fur-Lined Overcoat is tabooed for Style—The cloth maker has far outstripped it for comfort and style combined in our Coats at $30, $35, $45 and $50, in English and Canadian tailoring.

Strathroy Man Died in Alberta

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Strathroy, Sept. 26.—The death of Robert H. Coutts occurred last Tuesday at Strathcona, Alta. Mr. Coutts had been ill for some time, and his death was not unexpected, although it was rumored that his condition was improving. Mr. Coutts resided in Strathroy for many years, being at one time a member of the firm of Hamblin & Coutts, marble dealers. The remains will arrive here on Saturday morning and will be interred in the Strathroy Cemetery.

Strathroy At Home Greatly Enjoyed

Strathroy, Sept. 26.—Capt. F. W. Strathroy and officers of G. Company, Twenty-sixth Middlesex Light Infantry, gave an "At Home" in the Armory last evening. The Strathroy Orchestra furnished the musical program. The patronesses were Mrs. F. W. Orr, Mrs. (Rev.) S. F. Robinson, Mrs. O. L. Berdan and Mrs. R. M. Pincombe.

TWO BETTER THAN ONE.
An amusing story is told of Dr. Chavasse, the bishop of Liverpool. Dr. Chavasse is the father of two sets of twins, and soon after Mrs.

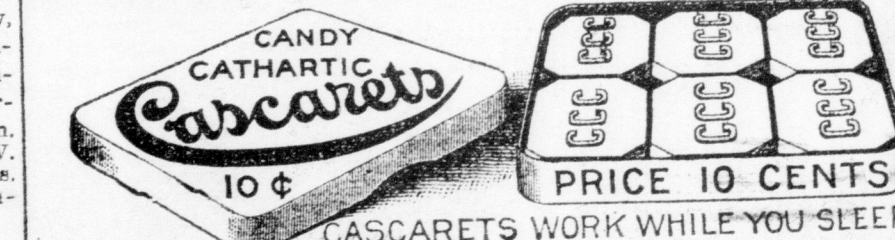

Chavasse had had twins for the second time a curate from a neighboring parish was asked to preach the Sunday morning sermon in Dr. Chavasse's church. By an extraordinary coincidence he chose as his text the words, "Two are better than one." A quite audible giggle came from one or two members of the congregation, and the curate, ignorant of the cause of his hearers' amusement the curate gazed at them in shocked surprise. Then, fearing that there might be some thing amiss with his surplice he tried to examine himself. Finding nothing amiss he looked sternly at the congregation and repeated his text in a loud, clear voice, "Two are better than one." As he now seemed to be calling attention to his little joke, the entire congregation quivered with suppressed mirth.

CITY GAS COMPANY

NEAR RIOT WHEN NEW LIQUOR BILL WAS CONSIDERED

All Sections Were Carried on a Close Vote of Tennessee Legislature.

INTIMIDATION CHARGED

Open Fight Was Feared as Gunmen Were Among the Spectators.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 25. — After another exciting day in the Legislature, in which the leaders of the political factions have bandied charges that "gunmen" were being used to intimidate legislators, an agreement was reached late this afternoon to clear the Capitol of all spectators. The State Senate was not in session, and members of that body, city detectives, policemen and state officials not present on official business were included in the "request" to leave the Capitol and the State House grounds.

A Wise Precaution.

This action was taken as a precaution against a threatened open clash between the factions that are fighting over the so-called liquor law enforcement bills. The agreement to disperse the "gunmen" was reached soon after the afternoon session was called to order, when it was stated that a number of plain-clothesmen and police had been placed in the corridors. A committee was named to clear the State House in accordance with the agreement. Mr. McFarland, one of the members of the committee, assembled the spectators in the corridors and addressed them, stating that the steps decided upon were for the preservation of peace.

All Bills Passed.

Several spectators declined to leave unless assured that city detectives and other armed men obeyed the request. All the partisans of the opposing factions finally left the building and the House was a calm called to order. The regulars today continued their filibuster against the law enforcement bills. The bills, three in number, are designed to strengthen the state-wide prohibition laws. They prohibit the shipment of liquor into the state, prohibit its shipment within the borders of the state, and provide for action in criminal or civil courts to declare saloons public nuisances upon petition of ten taxpayers. All three of the measures passed the Senate by a close vote.

A Serious Charge.

At the morning session Rep. Bejach introduced a resolution censure John Yeatman, deputy game warden, to appear before the House for contempt. It being alleged that he had drawn a revolver yesterday when the House adjourned in an uproar. Late in the afternoon the resolution was voted down.

Representative McDade then presented a petition signed by fifty members urging Speaker Stanton to let the law enforcement bills come to a vote. The petition was spread on the journal. At 5:30 o'clock the House adjourned until 8 p.m., when local bills were taken up.

Bandits Hold Up Southern Express

[Canadian Press.]

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 25. — Alabama's great southern train, No. 7, from Birmingham to New Orleans, was held up and robbed at Bibbville Station, three miles south of Woodstock, Ala., at midnight.

Engineer Daniels had stopped the train for a "red block," when robbers climbed in and ordered the fireman to uncouple the express car, which was carrying some distance down the track. After dynamiting the safe, the robbers reported to have been two masked men—ran the engine down the track several miles, putting the fireman off. Express Messenger Kelly was covered before he knew what was happening, and could not say what the losses would be, but thought they would be light.

LEADER BREAKING DOWN

In Poor Health, and Nearly Collapsed at Meeting in Ulster.

London, Sept. 26.—The Under-Secretary of the Board of Trade, J. M. Robertson, speaking at Newcastle last night, said that Sir Edward Carson's provisional government was an economic blunder and a practical impossibility, which could be ended by the British postoffice cutting it off from the rest of the world.

The under-secretary declared that Sir Edward Carson was not prosecuted for the reason that "the Government did not wish to make King Carson a Saint Carson."

Ignored In England.

Canon Founden and Rev. Dr. Wright are elected chaplains to the provisional government. A frank, unbiased review of the present situation brings the following conclusion:

While travellers who have recently been in Ulster declare that the temper of the Unionists there is unmistakably calmer and determined, there is in England not yet the faintest sign of general excitement. Everybody appears to have a vague impression that something or other will happen to straighten things out. Nobody attempts to say what it will be, but there are some months yet before even the parliamentary machine at Westminster is to get going again, let alone before home rule goes into the mill for the first time, and all sorts of unexpected things might turn up.

Affecting Labor.

Regarding Sir Edward Carson's present tour of speech-making, Fred Maddison, the labor member, writes the Times, declaring that Carson's elements are having a serious effect on labor opinion. The Times editorially agrees with Maddison, but adds that Carson's campaign is an unfortunate but unavoidable necessity in the circumstances of the case, adding after further reflection: "Carson and the Ulster Unionists have not yet resorted to violence."

This is exactly what the great bulk of the English public appear to have noted for themselves, and, therefore, they still observe the columns of print about present doings in Ulster with perfect equanimity. Not a single large public meeting in connection with the Ulster agitation has yet been arranged in England, and leading politicians on both sides are making holiday all over the world.

Sir Edward Ill.

The central authority called a private meeting at Ulster Hall, over which Lord Londonderry, in the absence of Sir Edward Carson, presided. Sir Edward, who is the leader of the Ulster Unionists, is ill, and last night nearly collapsed from the heavy strain under which he has been working for some time. The doctors ordered him to remain in bed for 48 hours to prevent a complete breakdown. Sir Edward's health has been poor for some time, and his recent activities exhausted him. He is now resting at Craigavon, but he declares he intends to attend the parade of the Belfast volunteers on Saturday.

MEETING DISCUSSES NEW I. O. F. RATES

Increases Are Attacked, and Defended by Toronto Members.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—About one hundred members of the Independent Order of Foresters met at Euclid Avenue Methodist Church last night to protest against the increase in rates, which go into effect on Oct. 1.

The meeting was very lively, due chiefly to the fact that none of the protesters knew exactly what they wanted, or intended doing, while another section desired to support the action of the chief executive. After nearly three hours' discussion, the meeting adjourned without any definite action being taken. Another meeting will be held on a date to be fixed by the chairman, Mr. Murray P. Watson, of Court Lisgar.

Many Objections.

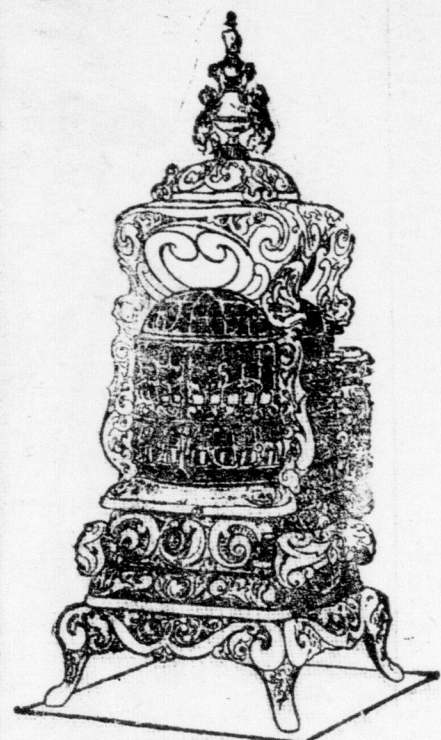

Mr. Watson, who convened the meeting, was not permitted to take the chair until other aspirants for the position had been rejected. After a number of members had voiced their objections to the increase and pointed out the hardships that would be inflicted upon many of the older members, Dr. D. A. Clark, assistant supreme physician, was given a hearing.

Defends High Rates.

Dr. Clark warmly defended the policy of the executive. He said they had been told by the Dominion Government that the department, by the Government of 26 states in the Union, and by a committee of the British Board of Trade that the order was actually insolvent, that for the protection of the present members of the order and in the interests of new members, an increase of rates was absolutely necessary. In 1908 there was a deficiency of $55,000,000, which by an increase of rates had been reduced to $23,000,000. Notwithstanding this increase in rates the deficiency had increased within the past five years to $26,000,000. Now the Government from whom the order got its license to do business insisted that the financial condition of the order be brought up to the standard demanded by the act.

Governments Take Action.

These governments had sent them notice, 1, 1917, to reach 90 per cent of actuarial solvency. Unless they could show a clear 5 per cent progress towards that goal annually the governments would refuse to renew the license. To show that it was possible to meet the governments' demands, he said, 16,159 members held policies of the face value of $21,957,021, which would mature in ten years. Under the present rates the policyholders would pay in $3,268,618 during that period. The order would have to pay out $16,687,335, or $13,418,717 more than was received. Shortage of Meat in England Also

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, Sept. 26. — Shortage of meat supply in England, as in the United States, is due to a considerable extent to the butchering of breeding stock, according to G. A. Bell, assistant chief of the division of animal husbandry of the department of agriculture, who has just returned from four months' trip through Europe studying live stock conditions. Mr. Bell expressed the opinion that after Argentina, now the meat supply house of England and some other countries, had begun to fence her ranges and restrict the cattle territory, the world supply would shift to Africa.

LADY CHURCHILL AS A STORY TELLER

Winston's Remarkable Mother Has Keen Sense of Humor
—Reply to "G.B.S."

A CLEVER CANVASSER

In Elections She Is Irresistible—Popular With Balfour and Other Politicians.

Lady Randolph Churchill is one of those remarkable women who never grows old. Her energies have never greatly diminished, but to bear again the name that saw her through manifold enterprises inspires her afresh. She is the Lady Randolph who at any moment may do the great and surprising thing. And it is felt that some particular event will mark the resumption of a style that classes her with men of action, among them one, at any rate (the First Lord of the Navy), who learned the art of action at her knee.

Miss Jennie Jerome was well known in New York for beauty and a character before she adopted England as her own. And although she adopted England with more heartiness and conviction than do many imported Americans, she kept, and keeps, something of the States both in her mind and manner. It was only an American member of the family who would have dared or cared to go round Blenheim for the fun of overhearing the remarks of the tourists. But set an American to catch American, Lady Randolph disguised with an old cloak and a baedeker, did do the tour of the picture galleries in the company of unwitting compatriots. "My, what poppy eyes these Churchill's have got," she heard a young woman from the west exclaim, after going the round of the family portraits.

The Flowing Tongue.

As a hostess at innumerable dinners, she is a story-teller whose anecdotes generally hover round the board. It was at table, for instance, that she found out the real Disraeli. Once when she and he were discussing their departed friends, Lord Randolph mentioned as an instance of Disraeli's flowery language his refusal of more wine after the departure of the ladies. "My dear Randolph," he said, "I have sampled your excellent champagne, I have quenched my thirst with your good claret, I have sipped your sherry, I have tasted your delicious port; I will have no more." But Lady Randolph had sat next the great man, and noticed that he took nothing but weak brandy-and-water.

To another century, or nearly so, belongs her story of Mr. Bernard Shaw. She had asked him to lunch; at the last moment his refusal came by telegram. "Certainly not. What have I done to provoke such an attack on my well-known name?" To which the lady answered, in another telegram: "Know nothing of your habits. Hope they are not as bad as your manners." That was five minutes before lunch; and Lady Randolph enjoyed her entree all the more for having hit back. She enjoyed, too, the receipt the next morning of a long letter of explanation, a long humble letter in the neat spider-leg script that looks apologetic even when, as is more often the case, it carries messages of assault and battery. "G. B. S.," explained that his habit was to eat at home, because at other people's houses he was always offered "unfortunate dead animals and things," and was so forced to leave the table hungry.

A Drop in the Field.

If Lady Randolph's best stories are old, she herself is to blame. Even her book contains a few of them—her book which, if it followed the ordinary rule of reminiscences, would contain none of the things worth telling. "Why should I not tell all that I can?" she asked in her preface; and although "all that can" be told by a living writer of living people must amount to very little, she ably manages to avoid the inmates that fill the pages of some books of society recollections that we know. And she is amusing. She herself is responsible for the story of her accident in the hunting field, when she disappeared in a ditch, and seemed to the riders behind to have fallen under her horse. Among them happened to be her husband, but we must allow her to finish the anecdote in her own words: "Randolph, coming up and thinking I was badly hurt, seized my flask and, in the excitement of the moment, emptied it. The joke was that I had the fall, and he the whiskey."

Anybody who has watched at close quarters an election that meant much to Lady Randolph knows her power. In Northwest Manchester the man with a vote soon learned that he had to cope, not first of all with the speeches of this or that candidate, but with a most notorious canvasser. It was a case, if ever there was one, of votes for a woman, and her irresistible persuasions. All parties and persons have known her strength, private and public. And if Mr. Balfour goes to the promenade concerts in her company, it is because he respects her musical opinions, no less than her political. The "Ring" she has done in the company of the elect; and the little gold pig on her watch-chain is the somewhat unexpected token of King Edward's respect.—London Sketch.

Sez the Office Grouch

From Girls Who Giggle on Receiving Postcards, from Unripe Cherries, Bull Fiddles and Fried Tripe, from Bow-legged Tightrope Walkers and Suburban Sidewalk, from the Odor of New Gliding and the Caresses of Kids Who Are Gnawing Peanut Goober, from Hand-Sewn Mottos in Hotel Bedrooms, from Skye Terriers, from Great Pigs and Black Upper Decks on Tan Shoes, from Neighborhood Gossips Who Kiss in the Spotlight and from Geezers and Geezerines Who Think They Can Dash Off "Something On the Order of O. Henry" "GREAT GUNS, DELIVER US!"

ONE MAN DID HIS DUTY.

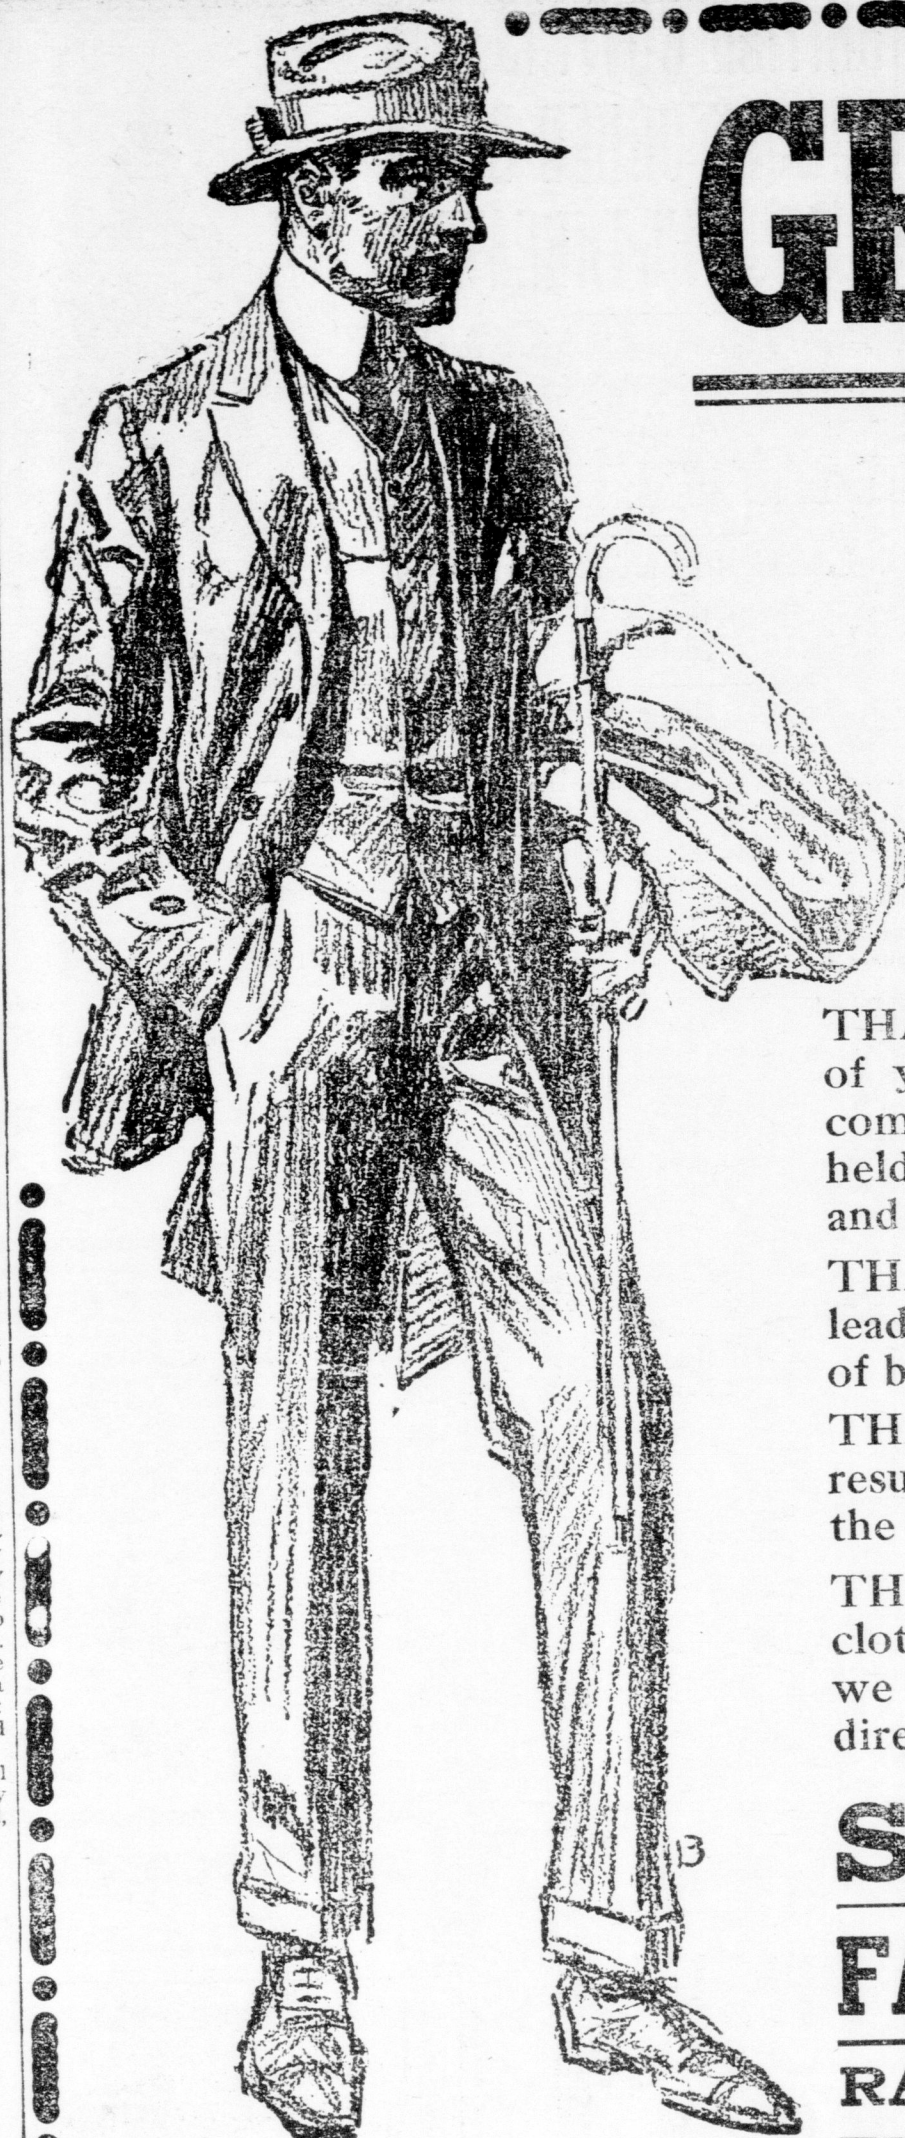

Though Mr. Winston Churchill could hardly be described as a humorous speaker, he possesses a very keen sense of humor. He tells the story of a speaker who did his best to be funny, but who was quite unable to provoke a smile amongst his audience. He was very disappointed at this state of affairs, and after an attempt at a facetious remark he paused and said: "I had hoped you would have laughed at that."

The silence was broken by a small and lonely voice, crying plaintively from the back of the hall: "I laughed, guv'nor."

LORD BALLYROT IN ENGLAND

Being desirous of sending a wireless message of importance to a friend at sea I applied at the office for the dispatching of such telegraphic cables. On explaining the extremity of the situation to the operative, you know, he reassured me in the following words: "Just a jiff and I'll play you a radio rag that will set the sound waves doing the chicken dip from here to Halifax. Any old time you want to slip a wad of wireless chatter through the climate, just put me to, and I'll scout a string of stutters along Biplane Alley. I'm the kid that can chip your initials out of the horizon with a few wriggles of the wrist, and I can fire a row of dots and dashes like the stitches in a new raglan. Watch me splutter, kid; watch me splutter!" MY WORD!

The Business Man or College Chap Who Is About To Invest In FALL CLOTHING Should Know:

THAT this is the Sixtieth Fall and Winter Season we've announced our readiness to supply the men and young men of Canada with the BEST Clothing made.

THAT during all this long stretch of years we've met all sorts of competition and have not only held our own, but forged ahead and actually outdistanced all rivals.

THAT today our clothing store leads the entire country in volume of business.

THAT this great success is the result of selling better clothing for the money than any other store.

THAT we can provide better clothing for the money because we make it ourselves and sell it directly to the wearer, with but one profit added to the cost of production.

THAT every garment sold by Grafton's is up to the last tick of the clock in style and is guaranteed for satisfactory service.

THAT anyone can have his money back for any garment that does not turn out right.

THAT at all other stores two profits must be paid—the manufacturer's and the retailer's—and this doubling-up of profits means an increase of 25 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent in price of the clothing.

BRUCEFIELD.

Brucefield, Sept. 26.—Mr. Alex. Mustard, who has been in the West visiting his brother William for the past month, has returned home.
Mr. Thomas Clarke, Michigan, is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. A. Magee, Mill road.
Mrs. John McKenzie, of this village, has returned, after a three weeks' stay in Buffalo.
Mr. John Walker, of the Walker House, has been awarded the rural mail contract from this office.
Mrs. Diehl attended the Zurich fair and visited her sister there.
Quite a number from here attended the Seaford fair, held last Friday.
The farmers are busy taking in their beans, and quite a few have finished. Silo-filling has commenced a little earlier than usual, owing to the frosts.

THAMESFORD.

Thamesford, Sept. 26.—The Thamesford Branch Bible Society will hold its annual meeting in the Methodist Church on Monday evening, when Mr. Trivett will give an address illustrating his lecture with limelight views of Central Africa.
Rally day is to be observed in the different Sunday schools and Young People's Societies on Sunday, when special preparation is being made.
Mrs. John Calder, of Kintore, who has been in St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment during the past month, returned to her home yesterday.
Miss Lizzie Mower, of Smith's Falls, who has been visiting friends here recently, returned to her home yesterday.
Mrs. James Mower, who is attending her mother, Mrs. Freeman, is still away. Her mother is not much improved in health.
Mr. and Mrs. M. Meseari, of London, are visiting with their parents and relatives.
Mr. H. Willis and men have completed the cement sidewalks.

Mrs. Alex. Ross, of Woodstock, visited recently with Miss Scellan.
Another week of good weather will complete the cement dam being built in connection with Castor's floor mill, and will be a thing of durability, and will add to the appearance of the property.
The Mission Band in connection with St. Andrew's Church will meet on Saturday at the home of Mrs. W. W. McLeod.

FOREST.

Forest, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Bolton, of Toronto, is spending a few days with her sisters, Mrs. D. Kemp and Mrs. Richardson.
Wm. Portwood, of Detroit, is visiting his aunt, Mrs. F. W. Hall.
Mr. D. McGee, of Winnipeg, for $2.50 per barrel for No. 2 apples.
R. H. McColl, of Chicago, is visiting friends in Forest.
Charles Steer, of Plympton, has rented the house now occupied by W. J. Skinner, and will move there when Mr. Skinner moves to his new residence on Main street, which will soon be completed.
Gilbert Frayn has returned from Port Arthur, and is spending a few days with his father before leaving for Toronto to resume his course at the Ontario Veterinary College.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.
Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

OLD FOLKS FIND CROXONE RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away; Few Doses Relieve Backache and Bladder Disorders.

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.
Crozone relieves all such disorders because it reaches the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys' new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Crozone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. There is nothing else like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.
An original package costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Crozone should fail in a single case.

LITERARY SOUTH AMERICA.

Not the least of the results growing out of the opening of the Panama Canal will be the literary discovery of South America. Commerce has ever paved the way for letters, and it is inevitable that the approaching union of the two oceans, with its consequent stimulus to trade and international comity, should be reflected in the emergence of new continents in literature. Of course, South America has occupied anything but a negligible place in our literature before this. Prescott and Bancroft, among historians; Humboldt, Bates, and Wallace, amongst scientists; Smollett and Kingsley, among writers of fiction, have contributed books on Latin America of lasting excellence. But, outside their classic volumes, little else of real and enduring worth has been written on the subject, says the New York Times.

A CANCELLED PRAYER.

Rev. R. E. Knowles, of Galt, the well-known Presbyterian clergyman and author, officiates at many of the weddings that take place in and about Galt. Recently a couple quite strange to Mr. Knowles came for him to perform the marriage ceremony over them. As was his custom, he offered a fervent prayer, invoking the divine blessing upon them. As they seemed to be worthy folk and not overburdened with this world's goods, he prayed, among other things, for their material prosperity, and besought the Lord to greatly increase the man's business, laying much stress on this point. In filling out the blanks it became necessary to ask the man his business, and to the minister's horror, he said, "I keep a saloon."

REV. R. E. KNOWLES.

In telling the story to his wife afterwards, Mr. Knowles said that as he wrote down the occasion he whispered, "Lord, you needn't answer that prayer."

MARY AND HER LITTLE MOTHS.

[By Herbert Corey.]

Her name is Mary. She wrote a nice little note from Haverford, Pa., to the Bureau of Entomology at the Department of Agriculture. "I enclose three funny moths I caught the other day," wrote Mary. "Will you kindly tell me what they are?"

Whereupon the Bureau of Entomology rose from its several chairs and began to move in circles. Mary had found the brown tail moth in Pennsylvania, where the brown tail had never been heard of before. A brown tail moth is as destructive to elm trees as a forest fire, no one knows how many millions of dollars have been spent in fighting him. If moths have sleeves, the brown tail is giggling up his.

"Got!" said the centurions of the bureau. "Beat it to Pennsylvania and find out all about this dreadful thing."

So that a squad of entomologists swarmed to Haverford next morning. Other bug connoisseurs heard the dreadful news and they came to Haverford. For a week young men stumbled through its streets, their eyes fixed on the tops of trees. The pockets of the young men bulged with butterfly nets and poison bottles. They hunted frenziedly, but they could find no moths. At last they looked up Mary.

"Oh," said Mary. "I brought them home with me from Maine."

KING'S CAMP BED.

King George always includes in his luggage when he goes shooting a little folding-up camp-bed. For years he used to endure sleeping in the historic "four-poster," especially reserved for him in the royal suite in great mansions, because it had been occupied centuries ago by one of his sovereign forbears. The King at last kicked against the unhygienic distinction with its feather tick and curtains. After domestic morality George V.

makes a fetish of hygiene. Even at home in the various palaces he favors the small bed with the hard mattress and insists on his sons doing likewise. When in the spring he was visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, an old-fashioned housekeeper, who has been in the Ward family for years, thought she would make his majesty more than usually comfortable, and without saying anything to anyone, piled on his bed two feather ticks. She was amazed when a few hours before the King's valet arrived with his luggage and fixed up in the gorgeous room a bed from her point of view so comfortable that she promptly came to the conclusion it was intended for some attendant. "A poor sort of bed," she said, "for a royal servant. Were I to offer it to one of mine he'd be out of the house in the twinkling of an eye."

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

A hungry diner in a restaurant ordered a chicken pie. When it was brought he raised the paste and sat looking at the contents intently for a while. Then he called the waiter. "Look here, sir," he said. "What did I order?"

"Chicken pie, sir."

"And what have you brought me?"

"Chicken pie, sir."

"Chicken pie!" the customer exclaimed. "Chicken pie! Why, there's not a piece of chicken in it, and never was."

"That's right, sir. There ain't no chicken in it."

"Then why do you call it chicken pie? I never heard of such a thing."

"That's all right. There don't have to be chicken in a chicken pie. There ain't no dog in a dog biscuit, is there?"

"And there ain't a college in college puddin' as I know of."

UNSELFISH PIONEER.

Charles S. Mellen, the well-known railroad man, grazed at dinner in Boston, the pioneers of American railroads. "These men were unselfish," he said. "They worked solely for the people's need. They risked their fortunes and their lives without seeming to notice it. They resembled, in fact, Pat Collins." "Pat worked on the roof of an old eight-story building, beginning the work of demolition. His position on the roof was very dangerous. As he threw down slates and rubbish he was in continual peril of falling down himself.

"But his sole care seemed to be the people below, who insisted on standing in the street and looking up at him on his precarious perch. He shouted to these people again and again to stand back. Finally, exasperated, he roared:

"'Bead, if I drop on the heads of some of yez, I bet yez'll wish y'd kept out of the road!'"

QUEER TIME FOR BOASTING.

"Two men sat on a pier, fishing. One had a bite, and in the excitement he fell into the water. The other man watched him struggle, but did nothing to aid him.

"I can't swim!" shouted the man in the water. He went under, and when he came up he shouted again: "I can't swim!"

"Well, my friend," commented the man on the pier, "this is a queer time to be boasting of it!"

HE KNEW HIS WAYS.

Lieutenant-General Sir James Willocks, whose name is being mentioned as the probable successor to General Sir O'Moore Creagh, V. C., as Commander-in-Chief in India next spring, has had much experience in hill fighting in the Dependency. Upon one occasion, when leading a column through one of the passes, his force was seriously annoyed by a single "sniper," who day after day picked men off regularly. This was rather getting on the nerves of the column, and a native soldier volunteered in turn to stalk the stalker. General Willocks consented, and a few days later was astonished to find the soldier approach him bearing the head of the sniper. The general looked at the grim trophy in disgust and asked the man how he had managed it. "It was quite easy, sir," was the startling reply of the unmoved native. "He was my father, and I knew his ways!"

WINNING THE CLOCK.

At some sports held in a Scottish village last season, an open hundred-yards' handicap was one of the items. Several Edinburgh "peds" entered, and duly put in an appearance. Whilst dressing for the spring a local competitor, who looked rather green, vouchsafed the information that the starter invariably fired the pistol the moment he asked the question, "Are you ready?" The man from Auld Reekie made use of their knowledge. "Are you ready?" asked the starter.

and off went the runners, except the local man, who stood in position. "Come back!" shouted the starter. "I ain't fired the pistol yet; and all bar the man in the blue jersey'll have us forfeit a yard for starting too soon." Again the Edinburgh men tried to poach a bit, and again they were detected, and suffered another yard penalty; but the local man in the blue jersey kept his original start. At the third asking the local was heard to remark to the starter: "You can let her bang this time, father; I guess Ah can win that clock now." And he did.

HE WAS INTERESTED.

The professional photographer forced his way into the office of the big millionaire, and in his most polished manner said: "Pardon me, sir, but I have been taking some moving pictures of life on your country estate, and thought you might be interested to view the films in our studio." "Is that a fact?" asked the millionaire. "And did you catch my men at work?" "Yes, indeed, made a whole film of them." "Well," replied the millionaire, "your camera is cleverer than I am—I've never been able to."

MOUNTAIN SCENERY.
"After years spent as a teacher and traveler I still find it next to impossible to faithfully interpret the feelings I experience every time I visit the Canadian Rockies, to a person who has never gazed upon their grandeur and magnificence. To be appreciated they must be seen. These are the words of one of Canada's greatest travelers and geographers. Words are very feeble mediums when one endeavors to describe a trip through the "Alps of America," as the Canadian Rockies have been justly termed.

To enable more Canadians to take in this wonderful sight, the Canadian Pacific Railway is running excursions to the Pacific Coast daily from now till Oct. 10, at the exceedingly low rate of $16.30. Liberal stop-over privileges en route.

The "All-Canadian Route" has its many advantages. First, there is convenience of changing cars obviated by the running of through sleepers right from Toronto to Vancouver; secondly, the traveler is given the opportunity to see the great Canadian West, at its best, during the season, and thirdly, the greatest of our own Province of Ontario is brought home to the traveler, as he travels for about thirty-six hours within its boundaries, experiencing thrills at every turn at its natural resources.

6 p.m., and holidays according to the following numbers, telling Bell Central that only the number asked for will do:

3670—Business Department.

3671—Editors.

3672—Reporters.

3673—Job Printing Department.

If you do not receive an answer to 3671, 3672 or 3673, call 3670, and you can always get an answer before 9 p.m.

From 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., any day

but holidays, ask for 3670, and The Advertiser Central will give you the department or person wanted.

Jubilee Services — Harvest Thanksgiving and jubilee services will be held in Christ Church Sunday next,

the 28th inst., at which the sermons

will be preached by the Rev. R. J. M.

Perkins, M. A., of Ingersoll, and special music for the occasion will be furnished by the choir. Christ Church was opened for worship in 1883, the late Dean G. M. Innes being its first rector.

—Mothers' Club Elects.—Chesley

Avenue Mothers' Club elected officers

on Thursday night, Mrs. James E.

McLean, of 87 Chesley avenue, was elected president, and Mrs. A. E. Tut

the retiring president, was honored with the vice-presidency. The other officers elected were: Mrs. James Collier, secretary; Mrs. Otto F. Hilbert, treasurer; and Mrs. Alvin Dugate, organist. Extremely satisfactory reports of the past year's work were presented.

The elections were conducted and an address on social centre work was given by Chairman E. R. Dennis, of the board of education.

Induction Service of

Rev. J. W. Crawford

In the presence of a large congregation at First Presbyterian Church,

Westminster, Thursday afternoon, the Rev. J. W. M. Crawford, recently of Windsor, N. S., was inducted by the Presbytery of London as successor to

Dr. D. L. McCrae, now of the

Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church of this city. Rev. W. L. Nichol presided, and inducted; Rev. W. J. Knox preached a very able sermon. Dr. Mc-

Crae narrated the steps leading to the call. Mr. MacGillivray, of St. Thomas, gave the charge to the minister and

Mr. Bremner addressed the people. In the evening a reception was held for

Rev. Mr. Crawford and his family. A bountiful supper was served from 6 to 8. At the public meeting held in the church Dr. McCrae presided, and addresses of welcome were made by

Rev. Messrs. Ballantyne and Sowers, former pastors; John H. Elliott, Adam

Nichol, W. S. Laidlaw and W. E.

Grieve. Mr. J. C. Nichol and the choir of the church furnished appropriate music. Mr. Crawford made a very favorable impression, and it is felt that he will prove a worthy successor of the able man who preceded him.

HURON EXECUTIVE

SHOWS PROGRESS

Evidences of Prosperity in Both

Spiritual and Financial Matters.

The May Campaign To Be Held

the Second Sunday in the Month.

At the meeting of the Diocese of Huron executive held on Thursday in Cronyn Hall, the report of the Huron College Jubilee fund received much favorable comment from the large number of members present.

Favorable comment was made on the work of Rev. A. A. Bice, the agent, whose efforts were responsible for the splendid progress made. Other reports were also presented, and all showed excellent progress in the work of the diocese. The meeting was dismissed at 1 o'clock.

Following the adoption of the minutes of the preceding meeting, a resolution was passed to appoint a committee to prepare a minute in regard to the death of the late Rev. C. B. Ward,

M. A. of Essex. The bishop appointed

Revs. T. G. Wright and Arthur Carlisle.

Financial Reports.

Financial reports and that of the lands and investments committee were presented and evoked much favorable criticism from the members. During the reading of the lands and investments reports Dean Davis spoke of the excellent securities held by the diocese on both its investments in the west and in Ontario. The report touched briefly on the disposal of the Champlain glee and the allocation of shares to the churches along that city. The amended report, putting the management and allocation of shares in the hands of a committee, consisting of Judges Holt, Barron and Roby, was adopted.

Jubilee Fund.

The report of the Huron College

Jubilee fund committee was adopted.

The bishop drew the attention of the meeting to the question of the Dublin charge, which was being looked after by Rev. T. B. Charlton, of Mitchell, and a grant of $75 was made to meet the necessary expenses incurred. A grant was also made to the Muney Indian Reserve, where valuable work is being carried on by Rev.

Mr. Rickard.

An application, which was made for leave to sell certain lands in Eg-

phrasia, was granted under the condition that the proceeds would be placed at the disposal of the secretary-treasurer.

Tower for Grace Church.

The committee expressed approval of a memorial in regard to the building of a tower to Grace Church,

Brantford, and also of a request for the exchange of certain lands within the municipality.

An application for a loan to mortgage the new church at Shelbourne to the amount of $4,000, was granted.

An application made for the superannuation of Rural Dean T. A. Wright of Brantford, was regrettably received.

It was authorized under the canon.

The executive was dismissed at 1
