DEATH'S CALL

The demise of Mrs. N. C. Fisher, relict of the late Stephen Fisher, who died on 22nd Feb. 1900, was not unexpected, and took place this morning at four o'clock at the residence of her son-in-law, James Innes, King street west. The deceased was born in Montgomery County, Indiana, on 28th March, 1830, and was married on 22nd Feb. 1849. Seven children survive, being Mrs. R. M. McNeil, South Dakota; W. E. Fisher, London, G. F. Fisher, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Frank Dumire, El Paso, Ill.; J. G. Fisher, city; E. N. Fisher, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Jas. Innes, in 1888 Mr. and Mrs. Fisher moved to Toronto, where Mr. S. Fisher entered the firm of the Smead-Dow Furnace Co., and one of the first pieces of work the firm did in Canada was to heat the Collegiate Institute building in this city, and it was at that time Mr. Fisher, then a member of the firm, decided to locate in this county, and purchased part of the McKellar farm on the banks of the Thames, in Raleigh, and erected a handsome home, that was sold after his death. The deceased lady was a zealous member of William street Baptist church and always took a great deal of interest in works of charity. At the time of her death she was surrounded by nearly all the members of her family and her end was peaceful. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

TO RUN OVER THE L. E. & D. R.

Connecting Link With Flint & P. M.—Slipdock at Sarnia Nearly Ready.

The Michigan Road Will Run Over the E. & H. Line to Rondeau.

Sarnia, Ont., July 13.—Workmen are putting the finishing touches to work on the slipdock here, which will give the Pere Marquette Railway a connecting link with the East by way of the Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway. Officials of both railways have been in Sarnia this week superintending the completion of the work and preparing the details incidental to the placing of the car ferry international in commission between Port Huron and Sarnia. It is expected that by the end of next week the docks and switches will be completed and the ferrying of cars across the river will be commenced immediately after.

The Pere Marquette will have running powers over the Erie & Huron branch of the Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway and, at Rondeau, the cars will be ferried across Lake Erie by the transfer Shenago, which connects at Conneaut, O., with the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railway, controlled by the Carnegie interests. By this means, freight from the upper peninsula can be carried into the eastern states over the Pere Marquette Railway as speedily as over any other lines now doing business between the west and east.

The distance between Sarnia and Conneaut, O., is about 150 miles, half by land and half by water. The Shenago is capable of carrying from 25 to 28 loaded cars at a trip and can make 12 round trips in a week, so that she will carry an immense amount of freight across the lake in a season. She is also supplied with cabins and staterooms for the accommodation of passengers, whose transportation reached large proportions during the past year. It is estimated that a train of freight cars leaving Sarnia at 7 o'clock in the morning will be in Conneaut 24 hours later and ready to be sent on to the sea coast. In all probability other transfers will be added as soon as the business demands it.

The completion of the line has again revived the story that the Pere Marquette intends purchasing the interests of the Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway in order to secure a permanent outlet to the east. At the last session of the Dominion Parliament, the L. E. & D. R. R. was granted an extension of time in which to commence and complete its line from St. Thomas to Niagara Falls, and that this will be the ultimate terminus of the line none of the officials of the road deny. With the facilities offered, the Pere Marquette would be able to handle a vast amount of business now going to other lines and the officials of the two roads have held several conferences, but the price demanded by the Walkers for their road is too high for the Pere Marquette people. However, negotiations have not been entirely broken off and the sale of the L. E. & D. R. R. may be announced at any time.

Miss Marie McKellar, bookkeeper at The Ark, is spending her holidays at her home in Poplar Hill. Miss Minnie, of Watford, a graduate of the C. B. C., is acting as bookkeeper during Miss McKellar's absence.

HE GAVE ALL THE CREDIT TO THE RANK AND FILE

Kitchener's Manly Speech in Response to Address of Welcome at Southampton—Also Thanked Those Who Had Looked After Friends and Relatives of the Soldiers—Splendid Reception by King and People.

Southampton, July 12.—The Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer Orontava, which left Cape Town June 23 with Lord Kitchener and staff on board, arrived here at half-past eight o'clock this morning. Owing to the fact that Major Gordon, who also was a passenger on the steamer, has been stricken with small-pox, Lord Kitchener and his staff only were allowed to land. The Orontava has been placed in quarantine.

A MAGNIFICENT WELCOME.

Later—Lord Kitchener landed at 9.15 a. m. He was accorded a magnificent welcome from a huge throng of people. After a brief official reception at the docks, the General was driven through the decorated and crowded streets to Hartley Hall, where he received an address from the Chamber of Commerce, expressing admiration of the generalship, resource and skill which he had shown in South Africa, and hoping that the peace which he had secured would be lasting, and mark the beginning of a new epoch of prosperity and commercial development throughout the Empire.

DUE TO THE RANK AND FILE.

In reply, Lord Kitchener declared that whatever success had been achieved was due to the rank and file of the army. He thanked those who had looked after the friends and relatives of those left behind in South Africa.

FRENCH AND HAMILTON SPEAK.

In response to clamorous calls for General French and General Ian Hamilton they also spoke, the former remarking that they had throughout been inspired by the example of their chiefs.

THE EX-SIRDAR HONORED.

The freedom of the borough was conferred on Lord Kitchener, and the party was then obliged to hurry away in order to meet their London engagements. The progress of Lord Kitchener and his companions to the railroad station was marked by scenes of remarkable enthusiasm.

ARRIVAL AT THE PALACE.

London, July 12.—Lord Kitchener arrived at Paddington Railroad station at 12.48 p. m., and was greeted by cheering crowds. He was welcomed by the Prince of Wales and an address was presented to him. The latter shortly afterward started for St. James' Palace, where he arrived at 1.27 p. m.

A MEMORABLE OCCASION.

Lord Kitchener's progress through the metropolis, after three years' absence at the Boer war, was one of the most memorable of the many remarkable events of the past three years. The small procession of carriages containing the General and his staff, in simple, serviceable, void dress, lacked spectacular features, but evidently the crowd was there in its thousands to see the man of the hour, and not a pageant. From the moment he set foot in London, to the time of his disappearance beneath the portal of St. James Palace, he was the object of such an outburst of popular enthusiasm as to quite overshadow the demonstrations on previous and similar occasions. The platform at Paddington Railway station, when Kitchener arrived, looked more like a reception room of the War Office or India Office than a railroad station. It was covered with red carpets, and decorated with a profusion of flowers and palms, while rows of decorated stands, crowded with spectators, had been erected at all parts from which a view of the returning General could be obtained; the platform itself was crowded with including Indian Princes, in resplendent costume, generals and other officers in full uniform, and many ladies in beautiful summer dresses. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of Cambridge (who is now very infirm), Lord Roberts, the Commander-in-Chief, Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary; Mr. Brodrick, the War Secretary; the Duchess of Somerset, Lady Roberts, Lady French, Major-General Sir Francis R. Wingate, who succeeded Kitchener as Sirdar of the Egyptian Army and Governor-General of the Sudan, and Major-General Stain Pacha, British Inspector-General of the Sudan, were among those who assembled to greet the General. When Lord Kitchener's train arrived, punctual to the minute, a tremendous cheer greeted the latest hero as he emerged from his car and shook hands with the Prince of Wales. He stood head and shoulders above directed to the King's sick chamber, and His Majesty from his couch, extended a warm welcome to him, and personally expressed his thanks for the termination of hostilities. The King then presented Lord Kitchener with the decoration of the New Order of Merit. The General next saw the Queen, after which he drove to Lord Roberts' residence in Portland Place. Lord Kitchener will visit Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, Monday.

Donald Guthrie, K. C., of Guelph, spent Saturday in the city inspecting the registry office. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the management of the office and was emphatic in pronouncing it most satisfactory. He stated that a change for better preservation of the title deeds is absolutely necessary, as the vault is damp and the present method of storing the documents will ere long seriously injure them and entail incalculable loss on the real estate owners of this county.

Principal Plewes, of the Central school, promised his entrance pupils that he would treat them if they all got through. If any failed, however, the successful ones were to treat him. All passed and Mr. Plewes is confronted with a matter of finance. He doesn't seem to mind it, however.

FARMERS LOST OVER TWO MILLION DOLLARS

Last year the sales of Canadian butter were $2,074,366 less than during the previous twelve months and to that extent Canadian farmers were the sufferers. Had Hon. Sydney Fisher, the person who fills the responsible position of Minister of Agriculture, been alive to the possibilities of the British market, as an outlet for our dairy produce, there is no reason why we could not have had an increase in our butter sales equal to if not greater than the disastrous decrease. We are told that the Government has spent large sums of money in providing cold storage on steamship lines running from Canada, and their intention was to encourage the exportation of perishable goods. The falling off in the value of our butter sales alone of over two millions in a single year shows the necessity for a change in the Agricultural Department. Mr. Fisher, instead of looking after the markets available for the produce of the farm, devoted months of hard work to a useless investigation of the census of 1891, merely to gratify his vanity and endeavor to cover up his dire failure which cost the country half a million dollars more than it should. The department of agriculture is one of the worst managed branches at Ottawa. It needs brains and a man of broad instincts to infuse new life into its stagnant policy. Mr. Fisher is apparently unable to even realize that he is at the head of a branch that is years behind the times; but the results of his labors, one of which is herein recorded, establishes beyond doubt that the farmer needs a new man to guard and further his interests.—St. Catharines Star.

THIS AND THAT.

The following sound sense is from the Windsor Record:
How cable despatches are colored to suit the tastes of United States readers is made apparent daily. In the cable giving an account of the Henley regatta races on the day Titus, from the States, and the Argonauts were defeated, the agent of the Associated Press, commenting upon the races, said: "Titus was beaten by R. S. Kelly of Balliol college, Oxford. His loss of the heat was the surprise of the day." Titus was the American who beat Scholes, of Toronto, in the single sculls and over whom our neighbors did so much crowing. Now comes the report of the "Titus race." Titus was rowed to a standstill. The Oxonian led the way from the start and was three lengths ahead of Fawley Court. He maintained this distance and paddled home an easy victor.

The plain facts are that the American, Titus, was never really in the race from start to finish.

Now here is the comments upon the eight oared crew, the Argonauts, of Toronto: "The defeat of the Ar-

General Debility
Day in and out there is that feeling of weakness that makes a burden of itself. Food does not strengthen. Sleep does not refresh. It is hard to do, hard to bear, what should be easy.—vitality is on the ebb, and the whole system suffers. For this condition take gonauts had been anticipated. Englishmen never rated the crew high. Now here is the report of the race: "The Argonauts lost to Third Trinity in a race that was close and exciting to Fawley Court. The Argonauts led to that point (half the distance), when Third Trinity caught up, took command and finished in the splendid time of 7.11. The Canadians, even when they were passed, hung on in the most spirited fashion and spurred time after time. But they were handicapped by the fact that they held the Berks side. The time for the half mile was 2.27. Fawley Court was passed in 3.21. The Argonauts were loudly cheered at the finish."

With Titus, who was really never in the race, his defeat was a "surprise," but with the Argonauts, who led half the distance against a remarkably fast crew, the American agent of the Associated Press says: "Englishmen never rated the crew high."

It is not very often we get native Americans pitted against native Canadians in any kind of athletic sports, but when we do we are not often anxious about the result. We have shown our ability to defeat them in nine trials out of every ten. Taking the whole range of amateur athletic sports the Canadians can beat the world. Our neighbors prefer buying a seat in the grand stand and paying professional ball players to furnish them sport. When it comes to bluff and bluster we have to admit that Canadians are not in it with our neighbors.

BREEDY DAIRYMEN.
Montreal Gazette.
Complain is made from Bristol that Canadian cheese is arriving there in an inferior condition, having evidently been shipped before it was properly cured. The greedy factory-man has been exposed and warned, time and again, but he still remains the great enemy of a great industry.

PRAYED FOR THE KING.
London Chronicle.
"Some of the Indian troops now quartered at Hampton court found their way early on Wednesday morning to the Roman Catholic Chapel of St. Raphael, at Kingston-on-Thames, and begged in Broken English to be allowed to enter. The visitors, whose communities founded by St. Francis Xavier, were admitted by the caretaker. They had brought votive candles with them, which were lit and set up before the altar, and led by one of their number, they prayed fervently for the King in their own language."

AN IMPOSSIBLE TASK.
Hamilton Times.
Buller has at last given out copies of the much-talked-of heliograms to Sir George White. They add little to the information already in possession of the public, save to show that Buller recognized that the task the War Office had set him was an impossible one under the circumstances, a fact supported by Lord Roberts' course when he arrived on the scene and set about co-operation by a detour. The "cavalry surrender part of the heliograms is the instruction that "what-ever happens" Sir George is to burn cipher books and messages, rather than let them fall into the hands of the Boers. The re-opening of the matter, while distinctly improving Buller's position, will give Isaac N. Ford and his following of Buller-baiters a new excuse for further abuse of the brave general whom they so heartily dislike.

A NATURAL SEQUENCE.
Montreal Gazette.
With admirers' descriptions of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as the biggest man in the London colonial conference, come predictions that nothing remarkable will come from the conference's conferring. The two statements are in fair agreement. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is always greater in the pose than in the performance, and where he is the biggest thing the smallest will be of little account.

HOT TIME IN STORE.
Pearson's Weekly.
A well-known and highly respected fire-works manufacturer died recently in the north of England, and his wife ordered a very expensive tombstone to be erected to his memory. She was very much perturbed, for no epitaph submitted to her did she consider suitable. After a prolonged and diligent search she discovered one she thought to be appropriate on the tombstone of a prominent musician in a Manchester cemetery. Now, on the memorial stone of this noted fire-works manufacturer it is stated, so that he who runs may read, that "He has gone to the one place where his works are excelled!"

Miss Battisby and R. L. Brackin returned to the city after a short visit with Miss Harper.

Mrs. Mr. and Miss B. Wall, of Cleveland, are the guests of W. W. Scane.

Mr. Harper has his yacht in commission for the summer and the Vela and Bantess were seen on the harbor on Sunday for the first time.

Mr. Harper believes in the old adage, "the better the day," etc.

Miss Leo Vester, of Detroit, is a guest at "Winnona cottage."

Mrs. Moore, of the Store, is suffering from a severe cold through doing a rushing business.

The very latest thing in hats is a charming creation of paper-Crepe and tissue—which is seen in every shade and color this summer on the bar.

Nothing prettier can be had than these dainty articles of headgear, and for the summer girl they are chic.

The "Winkie" was launched Friday under the supervision of Capt. Bert Jones, and made her trial trip in fine style this evening.

Mrs. James Dunkley, of Chatham, is the guest of Mrs. E. B. Jones, at "Llangollen Lodge."

Miss Fia Surbey was the guest of Mrs. J. W. Mann yesterday at "Solid Comfort."

Miss Jessie Harper succeeded in landing a ten pound pike this week. This is a record breaker, although the pike appreciated the honor of being handled by so fair an angler.

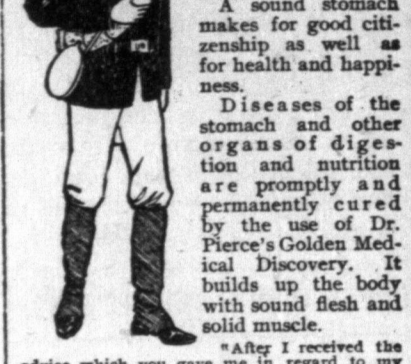

The water is higher now than it has been for a long time. The Celery farm and Peat Fuel Co. are kept pumping night and day.

The Bonne Belle and Baden Powell took out several large parties on Sunday to enjoy a sail.

The fish were biting in fine style all day as the many followers of Sir Isaac Walton can testify.

PATRIOTISM

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware.

"After I received the advice which you gave me in regard to my treatment," writes Geo. Dorner, Esq., of 297 Palace Street, Baltimore, Maryland.

"I used your Golden Medical Discovery" according to directions. After using four bottles I considered myself cured.

"I had tried almost all remedies that I heard of that were good for dyspepsia, but without relief. Finally, I became discouraged, and wrote to you for advice, with the above result."

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Taste in Dress. It is a mark of weakness to be eccentric in dress, and to devote to it so much time and thought that the pursuit dwarfs the mind and takes from the opportunity for culture and for spiritual growth is worse than weak; it is wicked.

One may, however, especially in these days of artistic excess in dress, select the mode, the jewelry, the shapes, fabrics and colors best suited to one's personality and in a manner adapt a style of her own.

The dress for the street and promenade should have an appropriate relation to its uses; the business dress should be trim, tidy and unobtrusive; the home dress should be that for occasions of ceremony, ornate, tasteful, elegant and "costly as the purse can buy."

The Sweetest Girl of All. I've sung of the girls that play at golf, the rescue of the girl who was not afraid to pose in her bathing suit.

I've sung of the girl who needs a duke and lives in a palace hall, and the footlight maids, with their lights and shades.

I've sung of them one and all, but now I will sing in a soft refrain of the girl you would like to know—The girl who can cook without paper or book.

The girl who can darn and sew; Of the girl who never went far from home.

Who is void of all social schemes, Who is homely and neat, old fashioned and sweet.

The girl whom you see in your dreams, —Woman's Home Companion.

The Starch Atrocity. Do think of poor baby's feelings just one little bit before putting her into a starched bonnet, with starched, rasping strings, a starched petticoat that scratches arms and neck, drawers with starched frills that torture her poor little legs, a starched white frock and starched collars that attack and reddens all the unprotected bits of baby at once!

Order of Washing Dishes. The order of washing dishes is of some importance. Glass should be taken first, then silver, then china. After the dishes are done carefully scald, rinse and dry dishcloths and towels. If they can be dried in the open air, so much the better.

LIBRARY HOSPITALS

A QUIET CORNER WHERE MAILED AND AGED BOOKS ARE DOCTORED. Delicate Operations Are Often Necessary For Injured Volumes and Much Ingenuity is Required at Times—How Book Surgeons Work.

In every up to date public library there is a quiet corner used as a book hospital, where worn, aged and maimed volumes are sent for treatment and often surgical operations. The women and children of the library—that is, the novels and juveniles—are found in the hospital the most frequently, and often they are beyond cure.

But the skillful library worker has all sorts of devices for making broken down books appear fresh and new again, and often a remarkable cure is effected.

If a book were cast aside the minute its back was broken or were not given proper treatment when a leaf became loose, the library would soon find itself doubling expenses for duplicates of old volumes, and losing money for new works. Careful treatment, on the other hand, will add years to the life of a book and will materially lessen the expenses of a public library.

This hospital is fitted up in a very simple manner. There are shelves upon which the invalid books are placed until treatment can be given them. Then there are other shelves where they are placed to convalesce and sometimes to regain consciousness after a serious surgical operation. There are operating tables and neat little boxes in which there are rolls of black percale and yards of white percale, sheets of paraffin paper, long strips of thin but the quality paper, narrow rolls of gummed paper, bundles of grass cloth, balls of string, sandpaper, coarse thread and white mull.

In snug little compartments is the medicine, consisting of glue and paste. The surgical instruments in a little case consist of a pair of forceps, a small wooden paddle, a thin wooden board and papers of needles. Then there is an instrument of torture—a heavy press which is generally applied at the close of an operation.

There are all sorts of complaints among the books, and the most prevalent is the broken back. This comes from the book assuming an unhealthy position, such as leaning up lazily against other books, resting on its front edges or lying flat on its side. A vigorous use of paste and glue often cures this complaint, but in some cases a delicate operation is resorted to.

Then the cover is stripped entirely off the back, and the title is carefully cut out. Next the paper back of the book is peeled off. A piece of grass cloth is then applied and firmly glued into its place. The old cover, with the exception of the title, is pasted on the inside, and then the book is tied up with strings and left on the shelf to recover a little. When strong enough, a black percale back is carefully fitted over the old back, and the old title is pasted on the outside.

Small fingers injure the complexion of the books greatly, and sandpaper is used a great deal on juvenile fiction invalids. The edges of the book are rubbed with this rough paper, taking off the dirt and the yellow appearance. Rough edges of leaves are frequent also in this branch of literature. These leaves are carefully trimmed off, and a thin strip of nice quality paper is pasted on to make a clean, regular edge.

"Butting" is a method of operating that is not used by all book surgeons. This consists in placing with the wooden mangle a thin line of glue on the edges of a torn leaf and then pressing down tightly together. It has been demonstrated thoroughly that this butting holds the torn leaf just as firmly as and is much more satisfactory than the old method of pasting gummed transparent paper over the torn places.

The loose leaves are a frequent source of annoyance to the book doctor. The remedy for these bothersome leaves is a hinge of percale or paper, which holds the unruly page in place after the heavy press has been brought to bear on the book. In such cases the thin board is always used to slip into the volume, so that it will keep its shape properly.

The operation which requires the most skill is the sewing of the signature or division of a book back into place. The needle and coarse thread are pushed in and out of the holes in the signature and the binding, and when it becomes awkward to use the fingers the slender forceps are used to draw the needle in and out.

It is part of the work of every public library employee to take a hand in the hospital department, and ingenuity supplies means to remedy every complaint that is conjured up by even the most erratic book. The book doctor trusts wholly to her own wit and skillful fingers to effect a cure, and there are few cases that are hopeless.—New York Mail and Express.

Cut Off. "Poor child!" exclaimed Mrs. Goodart, who had been touched by the appeal to the extent of a quarter. "And how did this accident happen to your father?"

"Why," replied the bright little girl, "he begged so much money one day that he got drunk and was sent to jail."

"But you told me his arms were cut off."

"Oh no ma'am! I said 'alma.'"

By Their Creeds. Perhaps. She—So you have crossed the ocean sixty-four times. You must be getting used to it.

He—Yes, considerably. I have lately got so that I recognize over half the waves we meet.—Town and Country.

LOSS OF APPETITE

UNIQUE CASE

Re Brisco vs. Shamblean, an action against the defendant as endorser of a promissory note. This case involves a very interesting point of mercantile law. The defendant endorsed a note plaintiff before it was endorsed by Brisco. Brisco subsequently endorsed it, writing his name under the defendant's. The defence is that the note being endorsed by the payee at the time the defendant endorsed it, was not complete and regular and that the defendant's liability is limited by the statute to a holder in due course, of a note complete and regular.

The plaintiff argues that the defendant is liable, although the endorsement was irregular, on the ground that the evidence at the trial showed that he intended to become liable. Judgment was reserved. Judge Woods thanked the lawyers for the interesting manner in which they had argued this unique point of law. W. G. Richards for Plaintiff, J. G. Kerr, contra.

BINDER TWINE CO.

J. B. Rankin, K. C. has received the following letter from Aylesworth & Co. inclosing the order made on Saturday:—

Toronto, July 12, 1902.

Dear Sir,—Re McGarvin vs. Chatham Binder Twine Co. we have now issued order dismissing this motion, and we send you the same enclosed.

The following is the order:—

Before the Master in Chambers, between George McGarvin, plaintiff, and the Chatham Binder Twine Co. defendant. Upon motion made by Counsel for the plaintiff, in the presence of Counsel for the defendant, for an order that the plaintiff be awarded judgment in this action for the amount endorsed on the writ with interest and costs, and upon hearing read the affidavits (2) George McGarvin and H. S. Pritchard, filed in support of the motion, and the affidavits of J. J. Ross, J. B. Rankin (4), in answer, and the affidavits of H. S. Pritchard and M. J. Wilson, and the affidavits and papers filed in the suit of the Chatham Binder Twine Co. vs. Ross et al. and upon hearing what was alleged by Counsel for the plaintiff and defendant, judgment having been reserved. It is ordered that the said motion be and the same is hereby dismissed, and that the costs thereof be costs in the cause to the successful party.

Shipbuilding Possibilities.

Very soon Capr Breton will be importing from Newfoundland, 1,000,000 tons of iron ore each year. Nova Scotia transports to St. Lawrence, 1,000,000 tons of coal annually; to Boston 1,000,000 tons; to various ports in the Maritime Provinces 500,000 tons, and in five years it will be sending annually 1,000,000 tons of coal, and 400,000 tons of steels across the Atlantic.

The ocean carrying trade will give employment to 130 steamers of 5,000 tons capacity each, and at that rate it is expected, will be built in Nova Scotia and manned in Nova Scotia. Then there is the great grain carrying trade and the various coast lines, to say nothing of the steamships which will be required for the projected fast Atlantic line. It is a rosy picture, indeed, which these Nova Scotians have painted about the future of their province, and which is being substantiated by the granting of substantial aid to the shipbuilding enterprise in Canada. — Buffalo Express.

A Giant Marguerite.

A Gannaque correspondent of The Globe sends word of what he thinks is perhaps the largest marguerite known and which is growing in his kitchen. The plant is seven feet five inches tall, width is six feet two inches, stem four inches in diameter, one large root. This plant will drink two gallons of water each day and has been in flower for two years and ten months continuously and has had as many as 1,100 flowers on at one time. The plant is now six years old and is the admiration of many people.

Music and Animals.

An eminent violinist, Herr Baker, tested the sensitiveness to music of each of the animals in the zoological gardens in Germany. The influence of the violin was the greatest on the puma whose moods changed rapidly as the nature of the music changed, becoming very much excited and nervous when quicksteps were played. Wolves showed an appreciative interest, lions and hyenas were terrified, leopards were unconcerned and monkeys curious.

ROLFF HOUSE

BY H. H. BENEDICT

If these lines ever come to your eyes, my dear Claude, I will have been long at rest in my grave, and you will have been duly informed of my plans to carry out the arrangements herein described.

And now, my dear Claude, you can understand why a cloud has always rested over Rolff House and its inmates, and which has shadowed your young life.

But you will live, my dear boy, to be a wise and good man. You will use the wealth left you to do good deeds.

After finishing the reading of the manuscript, Claude leaned back in his chair and gave himself up to reflection. A light had been thrown on the mystery that had rested over Rolff House.

A whirl of thoughts crowded on his mind. What did the old man contain? Would it yield up him a princely fortune? If so, what use could it be to him now, that he was thwarted in the chief object of his happiness?

Claude did not find that old Carl appeared much astonished when he commu- nicated to him the strange facts he had derived from his aunt's written statement, or even after he had been allowed to read the paper.

"Well, well," he said, "I am glad this thing has ended up so speedily. I never quite liked having that old priest in the house with his hands in those money chests, and particularly since the old lady died; but of course it was no business of mine.

"The last sum due on account of the bequest of brother Maximus (otherwise known as Rolff Van Buysen) to the order of which he was a member, having been taken, according to due arrangement, by me, I hereby make note of the fact. And herewith I make a statement of the amounts I have taken, and the times at which they were taken, in order that it may appear that the trust confided in me has not been abused, and that the wishes of our deceased brother have been strictly fulfilled.

"I leave my blessing on this house. I will pray always, and my brethren with me, that peace, prosperity and the blessing of Heaven may abide ever within these walls. I sign myself, JUSTINUS. "Faith, a magnanimous spirit," said old Carl. "Is not every one who would have been so discreet, considering the opportunity he had. I must confess that the old man seems to have had a full share of honesty and piety, and it is well he did.

But the young man did not halt his good fortune with the joy it once would have afforded him. He sought suggestions of old Carl as to what course to pursue for the security of his treasures, and followed his advice implicitly.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The treaty of Ghent in 1814 brought peace again to the country. On the disbanding of the army, Claude Rolff returned to his native village. He had passed unscathed through two campaigns, and rendered his country brave and faithful services.

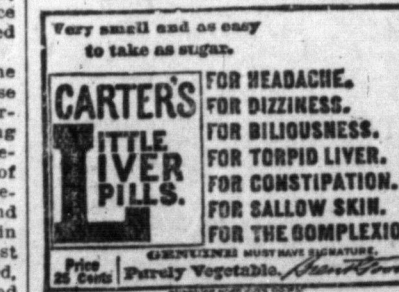

Old Carl still remained at his post at Rolff House, and was as fat and as vigorous as ever; but the aged Margaret had passed away. Her health had long been feeble, and she had never recovered from the shock that Leb Sack- ing had caused her, and she sank to rest at a good old age.

Claude did not find that old Carl appeared much astonished when he commu- nicated to him the strange facts he had derived from his aunt's written statement, or even after he had been allowed to read the paper.

proceedings, was apparently in no hurry to dispose of the property, as he was being constantly urged to do by his father's letters. In truth, Anthony Saybrook, in his voluntary banishment, began to realize what it is to educate a child to cold-blooded villainy and selfishness.

Then Claude, spite of a personal dislike, proceeded to open the inner vault door. Within this door, the vault was divided into a number of compartments, each of which had its separate door, which was locked.

On opening the doors of these receptacles, they were found filled with bags of coin, and valuable papers of various kinds; and although Claude was not able to make any estimate of the value of the contents of the old vault, he felt satisfied that it was considerable, and that his aunt's intuition that he would be left in the possession of wealth was realized.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Don't wipe out the coffee-pot with the dishcloth. Don't let the breakfast grounds stand half a day.

Put worn-out pie tins in the sink cupboard and use them to set crockery kettles in.

Did you ever try brick dust to clean agate ware? It is less expensive than other articles sold for such purposes and far more effective.

To clean a kettle in which onions or other rank vegetables have been cooked rub with a cloth dipped in hot, strong soda water; then wash in soapy water.

The smell of onions may be removed from a sauceman if it is filled with cold water and into it is put a slice of bread—a stale crust will answer the purpose. Boil the water and bread together for half an hour.

To clean greasy kettles warm the pot or kettle, then throw in a handful of cornmeal and rub well. You will find the meal will absorb all the fat so that soap and water will make your kettle perfectly clean.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

The Ruffian's Comment.
"It isn't much of a supper," she said, "but you didn't leave me any money this morning, and I can't make bricks without straw."
"Aw, I don't know. You did pretty well," said the ruffian, as he lifted one of the biscuits from the plate.

He Held Her.
With flirting and foolishness now she was done,
For she meant to be wed to this chap.
"My race for a husband," she said, "is near won;
I believe I am on my last lap."

True Genius.
"I tell you that poet is a genius."
"A genius? Why, his stuff is the worst I ever read."
"But why do you call him a genius?"
"Because he succeeds in selling it."

Now.
The lark's a-wing the robin aways
Upon the highest budding bough.
Who cares to sing of other days
Or give the buried ages praise?
The greatest time of all is now.

Because you haven't used Catarrh-zone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the Catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrh-zone is a scientific cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says:—"Catarrh-zone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other Catarrh remedy sold in the city." To Whiten One's Hands.
Pour some lemon juice into an equal quantity of glycerin and rub your hands with the mixture before going to bed. If you don't mind sleeping with gloves on, that is better still and helps considerably in the task of whitening your hands. In the morning wash your hands thoroughly the warm water and apply the juice again pure, but only a few drops this time. You must not keep this up too long or your hands will show such a dazzling whiteness as to make all the other young ladies in the vicinity jealous.

Serving Anchovies.
An effective way of serving anchovies is as follows: Cut twelve rounds of crumb of bread slightly larger than silver half dollars and fry these in butter. Drain them and lay on each round a thin slice of cucumber previously marinated in oil and vinegar and seasoned with salt and cayenne pepper. In the middle of the cucumber place, with the cut side downward, half a stoned olive and curl round it a fillet of anchovy. Decorate the dish with tomatoes and endive.

Pineapples.
To take the "eyes" out of a pineapple if the proper utensil is not at hand it will be found that slicing the fruit first greatly facilitates the operation. It is easy afterward to cut off the skin if the pine is to be served in slices, and, obviously, still less difficult if to cut the fruit into dice is intended.

Stewed Bacon.
If you wish a good dish of stewed bacon, wash and scrape the bacon, put in a steamer over boiling water and cook forty minutes or until tender. Pick off the thick outside skin when cool, season well and sprinkle with browned breadcrumbs. Put into the oven for a few minutes.

Carpet Patterns.
A carpet of small pattern is much more economical than a floor covering with a large, sprawling design. It can be mended, turned over and the small figure matched very easily, while the large pattern is a very terror to the contriving housekeeper.

Out of the Shadow

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you willing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes, by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you buy one Ferreroze, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferreroze. Sold by McCall & Co.

A Fashionable Necessity.

Once upon a time the economical woman chose a black gown because she said "it would answer for either weddings or funerals." Perhaps that would not be as applicable to the gayer festivity today. The black gown is still, however, a standby, and black net especially has acquired a new lease of fashionable life, until the summer wardrobe will hardly be complete without one frock of this effective and becoming material. Relieved by adornments of ecru lace, draped of a color, or accented by colored trimmings, this old time favorite has made its reappearance of the most correctly dressed. One of the axioms of the well-gowned woman seems to be "When in doubt, wear black net." It is certain that no other gown fits so many occasions as does the black net robe.

COMPLEXION AND FOOD

Malt Breakfast Food

Promotes Healthy Circulation. Perfect Digestion and a Clear Complexion.

Complexion—a good complexion—largely depends upon the character of food used from day to day. Some foodstuffs used at the morning meal produce roughness and redness of the skin, as well as unsightly eruptions. Some foods act upon the blood in such a way that malnutrition becomes pronounced, and the eyes lose luster and brightness.

The use of Malt Breakfast Food guarantees a clear, clean and healthy complexion, with sparkling eyes, perfect digestion and circulation. Thousands have given up the use of blood-heating oatmeal, and by using Malt Breakfast Food, have secured pure, life-giving blood and a good complexion. Prove it for yourself, Grocers everywhere.

THE FAST TRAINS TO CHICAGO.

New York Central's Express Service Added to.

George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent of the New York Central Road, talking yesterday of the company's fast train service, said that, in addition to the new twenty-hour train, there are now four twenty-four-hour trains to Chicago, and two Empire State expresses daily.

The Twentieth Century Limited, twenty-hour train, leaves New York every day at 2:45 p. m. and arrives at Chicago the next morning at 9:45. The Lake Shore Limited leaves New York at 5:30 every afternoon, arriving in Chicago the next afternoon at 4 p. m. The Fast Mail, a nine twenty-four-hour train, leaves New York at 8:45 a. m. every day, reaching Chicago the next morning at 7:50, by both the Lake Shore and the Michigan Central. The noonday Chicago Limited leaves New York at 1 p. m., reaching Chicago by the Lake Shore the next morning at 11:30, a twenty-four-hour train, really twenty-three hours and fifty minutes. The Detroit and Chicago Limited leaves New York at 4 p. m., reaching Chicago the next afternoon at a fourth twenty-four-hour train—From the New York Times.

Note.—The New York Central also has 15 trains a day between New York and Buffalo and Niagara Falls; 5 trains a day between New York and St. Louis and Cincinnati; 4 trains a day between New York and Montreal; and by its Boston and Albany Division 4 trains a day between New York and Boston via Springfield.

LION STALKING.

Tracking the Monarch of the Jungle. Dangerous—No Time to Lose. Judge by the stories below.

In "A Tale of Several Lions," by Hercules D. Wilson, in the June Era, the author writes:

"Van Aardt came to me and suggested a little lion hunting. Now, I knew lions as well as he, deliberate hunting for a lion who mounds a murdered mate was a proceeding so temerarious that the most foolhardy of professional hunters would not dare the conflict. But in the near neighborhood of the spot where Madame Lioness had been killed there was one lion with an earthquake voice whose rumblings fascinated the fiery spirit of Van Aardt.

"I am going," he said.

I could not let him go alone, for we had fought too often side by side. We started off, my reckless comrade laying out, in calmest confidence, the territory to be hunted. The black gown is that tumultuous bell of wrath incarnate and of blowing a few lethal holes in it with his Mauser.

As we came nearer, the roars ceased. The lion, weary with his imprecations of the night, had gone away from the scene of his bereavement for rest and sleep. But we found in the jungle's depths the footway he had trod; in a sentry post of 20 feet he had stalked back and forth for twelve hours, calling aloud for vengeance.

Kristiansen, who had looked upon Van Aardt as a hot-headed madman for a time, decided he would use the morning for a peaceful springbok hunt, and took his Kaffir boy along. He went in the direction opposite to ours. After half an hour's close tracking, the Kaffir, who had been in advance, appeared at his elbow with impish suddenness, and in a whispered word:

"Baas, a lion!"

Kristiansen started ahead of him. There in a tiny clearing not 30 yards away, the monarch stood, his mane quivering with the intensity of his attention, and his brilliant eyeballs gleaming in the effort to penetrate the single veil of cover that hid the hunter from his view. The Kaffir had a faith in his master that was sublime.

"Shoot, Baas, shoot!"

Kristiansen knew that death stood waiting for him in the clearing beyond. The chances were all against a first fatal shot. The wounded lion held his head high, and mangled flesh before he could have time to fly.

Step by step, his very breath pent up, he made the slow retreat. The Kaffir, fancying all his master need to do was to fire a single shot, accompanied him with an expression of disdain. For 10 good minutes, Kristiansen paced backwards, and then came swiftly to the camp again upon the chance of making a coup party whose numbers would mean safety in a concerted attack. But the majority of us were away, and that lion, with all the others among the spouses of Fannie's honoree, went unmissed from that day forth.

I was in Pretoria a little later and saw a sight that told me how wise Kristiansen was. The oldest lion hunter of the Transvaal shook me by the hand—and used his left hand for the greeting. The other arm hung, withered and helpless, at his side. Only half his face was left to speak to me. The other half went into a lion's maw a few months earlier.

He was hunting springbok with his son, and carried an ancient muzzle loader. A dead shot, the old man decied a buck not 50 feet away, and kneeling, fired. The crack of the rifle was answered by the snarling roar of a wounded lion. The bullet, passing through the buck, had struck the mighty beast as he was about to spring. And it had no more than wounded him.

He leaped for the smoke, coming on in flying bounds, while my old friend fumbled wildly with his powder horn. He was too slow. The bullet had not dropped into the barrel before the lion was upon him. One crunch of his tremendous jaws, and an arm was stripped to the bone. Another, and the side of his face had vanished. The cavernous throat above the prostrate man roared once more, before the teeth should clash together, when the son, running up, put his rifle barrel to the lion's side, and drove a half-ounce bullet through his heart.

The chances are in favor of the lion when accident brings him and man together.

LORD SALISBURY RESIGNS THE PREMIERSHIP OF BRITAIN

Resignation Was Tendered Friday and Mr. Balfour Promptly Appointed his Successor—Speculation as the Personnel of the New Cabinet.

London, July 13.—The Marquis of Salisbury has resigned the Premiership of Great Britain, and Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, the First Lord of the Treasury and Government leader in the House of Commons, has been appointed to succeed him.

THE NEW CABINET. The liveliest speculation is rife as to the personnel of the new cabinet. The most discussed feature of the pending changes is the position of Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, who in many quarters, has been regarded as the most promising candidate for the premiership.

AT THE CLUBS. At the political clubs to-night various opinions were expressed regarding Lord Salisbury's retirement and Mr. Balfour's accession.

LORD SALISBURY.

minier; but a small section of both Conservatives and Liberals were in no way reconciled to the idea of the "perpetuation of the Hotel Ex-Cecl," as the change from Lord Salisbury to Mr. Balfour is called, and only regretted that Mr. Chamberlain had not been appointed, or a compromise found in the appointment of the Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council.

AN IRISH NATIONALIST M. P.'S VIEWS. Thomas Power O'Connor, M. P., in an interview had with him by a press representative to-night, summed up the situation in connection with the resignation of Lord Salisbury and the appointment of Mr. Balfour, as follows: "The resignation of Lord Salisbury was expected with the coronation of King Edward, but when the coronation did not take place, there grew up an idea that perhaps the Premier's resignation was indefinitely postponed. Old men cling to power, and it was not supposed that Lord Salisbury was free from the weakness of so many others. This prospect did not quite satisfy his colleagues. Lord Salisbury's health has been notoriously indifferent, especially since the death of his wife. His extreme obesity is, of course, inconsistent with activity, either of mind or body."

Mr. O'Connor, "could be more adverse than is Lord Salisbury to a supreme power being in the hands of so impulsive, restless and arrogant a politician as the Colonial Secretary. Though they had been made political bedfellows by necessity, Lord Salisbury and Mr. Chamberlain remained apart and were secretly hostile to each other."

He is well under restraint, and he has all the instincts of a gentleman. I regard the condition as beneficial to Ireland in the long run. Mr. Balfour has had much experience of Ireland, and though he is not yet a home ruler, all of his old animosity has disappeared, and he is just the man to propose a solution to the long-outstanding difficulty. But Mr. Balfour does not come into office at a very happy moment. The Education Bill, which he is piloting through the House of Commons, arouses tremendous religious passions on both sides, and it is doubtful if he will be able to carry it through without such concessions to his political opponents as will exasperate some of his own political friends.

WHAT THE TIMES SAYS. The Times says that Lord Salisbury's resignation was not caused by any political differences with his colleagues in the cabinet, and says: "We understand that the King was very anxious to mark in some special manner his high sense of the great services Lord Salisbury has rendered to the state, and expressed a desire to bestow upon the retiring minister some conspicuous promotion or decoration; but Lord Salisbury begged that he should be allowed to decline the proposed honor. There is reason to believe that the King sought Lord Salisbury's advice, as to his successor, and that the retiring prime minister suggested Mr. Balfour. A message was thereupon sent from the Palace to Mr. Balfour, at the House of Commons. Then, feeling that it was impossible to respond to the King's wishes with success, without having secured the concurrence and support of Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Balfour immediately drove to the Colonial secretary's house and saw him in his sick room. We are in a position to state that he was met in the most cordial manner, and that Mr. Chamberlain realized that Mr. Balfour was the natural successor to the premiership, and assured him of his entire support."

THE NEW PREMIER. The Right Hon. Arthur James Balfour, the new Prime Minister of Great Britain, was born in 1848, and first entered the House of Commons in 1874 as a Conservative, joining the "fourth party," under the leadership of the late Lord Randolph Churchill. In 1885 he accepted office under Lord Salisbury (his uncle), and in 1887 he assumed the office of Chief Secretary for Ireland. Since the advent of the present Unionist Government, Mr. Balfour has been First Lord of the Treasury and Government leader in the House of Commons. Amongst his literary works is a "Defence of Doubt."

A Bountiful Harvest Greeted the Energetic Farmers—Weather Did Little Damage.

A drive through the country at this season of the year is delightful. It gives one an idea of the crops and what the harvest will be. If the rains of the past month have done nothing else they have at least kept down the dust and the roads; are splendid. Saturday afternoon P. D. Mackellar drove down to his farms on the Tilbury plains and, by invitation, a Planet representative went with him.

Mr. Mackellar spent his boyhood down the river and nearly every spot along the River road suggested reminiscences of the past, so that the Registrar proved a very agreeable and pleasant companion.

We had scarcely left the precincts of the city, when through the fringe of trees that border the road at the Dolson property, the ripe wheat fields on Robert Smith's farms showed bright in the afternoon sun. Men were engaged harvesting the golden grain. We were surprised, as we thought none of the spring wheat was ripe yet. Scarcely any of the hay has been put away and everywhere fields of timothy and clover were seen still growing. In several places the farmers were already harvesting their wheat, while in others they were putting away the hay. The hay is very heavy crop, and one place, down on the plains, men were making hay in a field where the yield must have been three tons to the acre.

The spring grains, oats, barley and wheat all look well and apparently, are not affected by the heavy rains. These grains are all standing up well. This was a matter of surprise considering the discouraging reports that have been heard in regard to the way the wheat is lying down. Considerable of the winter wheat is down and tangled but the damage is not serious. Outside a little extra trouble in harvesting it, the grain will not be injured. In some fields the corn crop gave excellent promise, the stalks being three feet high and better. In other fields, the grain was practically killed. With continued warm weather even this may come on and make good feed.

Down on the Raleigh and Tilbury plains, where the crops would be expected to be seriously affected by the weather, they are the best. Beans are doing well and some of them are very far advanced. Quite a large number of the farmers are raising sugar beets. The plants seem to be all doing well and some of them look splendid. "Fruit of all kinds will be very plentiful this year and every orchard shows all its trees heavily laden."

AN APPEAL

In connection with the Salvation Army excursion to Walpole Island on Tuesday next, July 22nd. The officer in charge of the local corps is very anxious to give a number of the city poor an outing on that day, as the Army are acquainted with a number of poor people, as well as children, who never have the privilege of others who are more favored, and it is for this class that we make this appeal, and should it meet with approval of the citizens and friends who read this paper, will you kindly send along a donation to the officer in charge of the local corps, who will see that the money contributed will be applied to the above.

The local corps will take the responsibility of feeding free on that day all the poor who are sent. Remember the words of the Master, "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done unto Me."

The minute man may get to be the man of the hour.
