

400,000 men, had, in 1855, an army of 600,000 men, and a fleet of 1200 ships of war, with an armament of 17,000 guns.

Obituary Notice.

Mrs. RACHAEL REED who departed this life about a month since, was a member of the Methodist Church for many years.

For statistics we refer our readers to the "Minutes" themselves. They will rise, we think, from their personal impression that we in America may adopt the language of the British Conference.

Correspondence.

We lay before our readers with very great pleasure, the accompanying document from an old and highly esteemed friend—one who we know is still remembered in the prayers of God's people here.

VICTORIA, VANCOUVER ISLAND, June 18th, 1859.

To the Ministers of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Eastern British America:—

REV. AND DEAR BRETHREN,

A few months ago, I said to a friend in Canada, that if my life was spared I should endeavor to make arrangements to get my pulpit supplied, and steam down the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence to renew my intercourse for a few days with many of you, and with my much beloved friends in Charlottetown, during your Conference session.

A few days afterward, a pressing request reached me from the Missionary Board of the Wesleyan Church in Canada, to take the superintendence of Missions about to be introduced into Vancouver's Island, British Columbia.

The Mission in which we are embarked is felt to involve vast interests, and to devolve heavy responsibility. The islands and the main land are soon to be the home of thousands of our fellow subjects, who must be taught to seek a treasure more precious than "gold which perishes."

It is highly honorable to the Wesleyan Church in Canada, in connection with the British Conference, that her Missionary Society has been the first to send, and pledge herself to aid in the maintenance of a band of evangelist ministers, to lay the foundations of truth and right, to inaugurate the organization of social and political institutions.

My former and agreeable connection with you, dear brethren, has suggested the desire that you should have the opportunity in some way to associate yourselves with your brethren in Canada in this Colonial Missionary enterprise.

I am desirous that all the members of the Canada Conference, and of your own, should take some part in raising a building fund for the erection of the first Wesleyan church in these regions, and it may be of others that may be commenced during the present year.

I have appealed to friends in Canada and elsewhere for aid, and have requested each of the ministers of our church in Canada to put $5 into the pioneer church in Vancouver's Island I extend the same request, brethren beloved, to you, and have requested our mutual friend, George H. Starr, Esq. of Halifax, to receive and transmit to the profits of your love.

Praying that God may greatly prosper your year's respective spheres of labor, and believing that we shall meet at last where toil and suffering are unknown,

I am, Rev'd and dear brethren, Yours, most affectionately, EPHRAIM EVANS.

P. S.—Less or more than the sum proposed will be thankfully received, as also the donations of lay friends who may be pleased to contribute.

To the Editor of the Provincial Wesleyan. DEAR SIR,—As one of the readers of your interesting paper I am pleased that you intend republishing "Anna Clayton" and "The Editor of the Christian Messenger."

is due to the members of the great Pedit Baptist family who are in the way of progress. The whole enterprise is at best but a vast lottery. One man hazards a few hundred pounds and realizes a respectable fortune; another involves the same amount, draws a blank and is ruined.

The article in the Christian Messenger of the 20th inst., headed "A Good Sign," and called forth by a simple notice in the P. W. to your own readers and agents of your intention to republish the work alluded to, surpasses in impudence anything I recollect to have seen in religious journalism.

General Williams of Kars has been honouring our Colony with a visit; and our friends at Harvey have been treating the illustrious General with an abundance of what they know he sets no little value upon—good British gunpowder.

The application to our Legislature for a division of the Protestant Educational grant, which we noticed in a previous letter, has been eagerly desired by the members of the House of Assembly, and is now before the House of Assembly.

While on the subject of the Labrador, we may state that the event so long anticipated, the arrival of the steamer "The Enterprise," preparatory to the establishment of a Wesleyan mission has been accomplished, and with the Divine blessing, we have no doubt will terminate successfully.

The person entrusted with the responsible duty of superintending the mission in every sense adequate to the task. Accompanied by Pioneer life and duties; robust in health, and energetic in action, we may confidently expect on his return a faithful and cheering report of success and prospect.

A new steamer has been ordered and supplied by the Green Bay, which will probably be designated by the name of the most important locality there—Exploit. Various other changes have been submitted to the Conference for its sanction, some of which will require additional supplies.

The attempt to ridicule a Methodist minister administering baptism is flat in the extreme. It will not even excite a laugh among men of his own stamp.

The Editor of the C. M. may continue to repeat the charge of "misrepresentation" for his own readers the subject of Baptism, and twist the Scriptures to support his own dogma.

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

While as in duty bound we would breathe the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

into account the loss of time, wear and tear of property, &c. incident to the voyage. The whole enterprise is at best but a vast lottery. One man hazards a few hundred pounds and realizes a respectable fortune; another involves the same amount, draws a blank and is ruined.

The article in the Christian Messenger of the 20th inst., headed "A Good Sign," and called forth by a simple notice in the P. W. to your own readers and agents of your intention to republish the work alluded to, surpasses in impudence anything I recollect to have seen in religious journalism.

General Williams of Kars has been honouring our Colony with a visit; and our friends at Harvey have been treating the illustrious General with an abundance of what they know he sets no little value upon—good British gunpowder.

The application to our Legislature for a division of the Protestant Educational grant, which we noticed in a previous letter, has been eagerly desired by the members of the House of Assembly, and is now before the House of Assembly.

While on the subject of the Labrador, we may state that the event so long anticipated, the arrival of the steamer "The Enterprise," preparatory to the establishment of a Wesleyan mission has been accomplished, and with the Divine blessing, we have no doubt will terminate successfully.

The person entrusted with the responsible duty of superintending the mission in every sense adequate to the task. Accompanied by Pioneer life and duties; robust in health, and energetic in action, we may confidently expect on his return a faithful and cheering report of success and prospect.

A new steamer has been ordered and supplied by the Green Bay, which will probably be designated by the name of the most important locality there—Exploit. Various other changes have been submitted to the Conference for its sanction, some of which will require additional supplies.

The attempt to ridicule a Methodist minister administering baptism is flat in the extreme. It will not even excite a laugh among men of his own stamp.

The Editor of the C. M. may continue to repeat the charge of "misrepresentation" for his own readers the subject of Baptism, and twist the Scriptures to support his own dogma.

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

There are fortuitous events connected with the existence of every individual for whom the spirit of Christian charity—towards the spirit of our Lord Jesus Christ, and strive to act upon the maxim—"The friends of all the enemies of none," and keep before our minds our glorious calling, as a people, "To spread scriptural holiness through the land."

These disabilities for more than twenty-two years, in several parts of the Circuit; but however slow our progressive improvement it seldom happens that the field of labor is abandoned, or that the plant withers or dies; however incongenial the soil. In this station we have more than ordinary diligence to contend with, and have had some encouragement during the past year. Thirty were added to the Church, and several since the district-meeting. Ten adults were baptized with water, and not a few parents have been added to the Saviour's injunction—"Suffer little children to come unto me," and have consecrated their loved ones to Jesus in the ordinance of holy Baptism.

We are finishing the Creek Chapel at an expense of about £110. It will be opened about the first of September.

Mr. Peter McClellan, a member of our Church, is building a first class Chapel at Hopewell Corner 50x37 with a tower and steeple; the outside will be finished this fall. A vestry is also to be built 28x18.

Our friends at Harvey have resolved to put their Church under the management of a better state by presenting the Church and putting up fences, gates, &c.

Our friends at the Hill, and in Hillsborough have been talking of building, I hope the present generation will not be allowed to pass away, before they carry their resolves into effect.

Last Sabbath was an interesting day with us. In the morning Bro. Allen preached for us, much to the edification of our people; and after the sermon the Lord's supper was administered, in which Judge Wilton, Bro. Alcorn and several others were present.

I am Dear Sir, truly yours, JAMES BUCKLEY, Hopewell, 18th July, 1859.

Woodstock Camp Meeting. To the Editor of the Provincial Wesleyan:—

DEAR BROTHER,—The third Camp Meeting of the Woodstock (N. B.) Circuit, was brought to a close yesterday afternoon. It was a most successful and profitable one.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

watery clouds overspread all the sky.—When the hour for preaching was come, an immense crowd had assembled. Brother McKewen preached from Genesis vii. 18: "And the waters prevailed exceeding upon the earth; and all the high hills that were under the whole heaven were covered." The preacher evidently felt his deep responsibility. He entered the pulpit with eyes filled with tears. Many prayers were offered for him. The God of Israel was with him. The sermon was eloquent, faithful, and results that shall last as eternity.

At 2 o'clock Dr. Pickard occupied the pulpit, and took for his text the words—"Have faith in God." Almost immediately after the announcement of the text, distant thunder and peals of lightning were heard, and the rain came down upon us. Many fled for shelter, and the Doctor hastily concluded his plain, pointed, solemn, and earnest appeals to the conscience and the heart.

In the evening the weather was more propitious, and brother Morse preached from the words of the servants of Naaman: "If the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldst thou not have done it?" The closing exercises of the day in the tents were hallowed seasons.

Monday morning's sun rose upon us in all his glory. The morning services were accompanied with the preciousunction.—At half-past ten o'clock brother Prince delivered a solemn and affectionate farewell address to the people of his charge, among whom he had gone for three years, preaching the kingdom of God, and the way of life. He was warmly and affectionately commended by the people, and he was accompanied by a large number of persons, of all ages, crowded the place for special prayer, and many were made happy in the pardoning love of God.

On Tuesday morning Brother Morse preached from the words: "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord—a most appropriate and profitable discourse. Again the places for special prayer were thronged with penitent seekers. The glorious Word of the Church seemed to be visiting every heart. He had kept the best vigil until the last. The prayers seemed full of faith and hope.

The multitude sang with all the powers of heart and soul. The glorious melody rose up most delightfully amid the spreading branches and the quivering leaves. Heaven seemed to be very near. Many felt, as Jacob once felt, that we were just in the gateway, and that the grove in which we were was the house of God. At 2 p. m. we assembled for the closing exercises. It was a solemn, loving, and earnest—were delivered by Brothers Reed, Watson, and Smith, who were now about to part from those among whom they had successfully labored for the last two years.

After a season of prayer and praise these most interesting and profitable services were closed.

It was highly encouraging to perceive the deep seriousness manifested by nearly all present from day to day, and the uniform good order maintained throughout. Our well-tried and most efficient committee of the Circuit, and their brethren, who were present, were most judiciously and wisely chosen, and their labors were most successful.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

obtained at the vestry room of the church, and from the members of the congregation."

There, Christian reader, what think you of that? Under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church are to be introduced the lowest and most debasing of games—games which are at this day the most degraded class of Englishmen at horse-races—and then but sold to the lowest part of the sports is really had when the others are intolerable! If these so-called amusements are too gross to be tolerated in Ireland, surely they should not be permitted here, and it is the duty of our city authorities to prevent the indecent exhibition. Permit this to come off, and next year there will still worse; for instead of triars running races in sacks, or smoking or eating against each other, we may expect to see introduced the gross games practiced in the semi-barbarous South American States. What a fearful account will the men who claim to be the religious instructors of the people, the only true disciples of the Lord, have to render at the last day! God be with our people, and save them from the training of such pleasure-loving divines!—N. Y. Christian Advocate and Journal.

General Intelligence.

Colonial. Domestic. Joseph D. Everitt, Esquire, M. A. has been appointed to the vacant Professorship of Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, and Astronomy, in King's College, Windsor. Mr. Everitt is very highly spoken of, and will, no doubt, be a valuable acquisition to the College.

Direct attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column, respecting the prepayment of the postage on letters to be forwarded by the English mails.

The New Brunswick states that a new coal mine has been discovered in the County of Cumberland, Nova Scotia, the coal from which, possesses some excellent qualities—General Williams, the Commander in Chief of the Forces, arrived in this City on Friday evening, from Windsor.—We are glad to learn, from the Woodstock Journal, that the works on the Saint Andrews and Quebec Railroad, which have been suspended for some time, "despite all sorts of difficulties, obstructions, appointments and reverses, the road creeps on."

The line, too, is being located through Richmond, which shows that the company does not intend to "give it up."

The Mexican Government has formally confiscated the entire property of the Roman Catholic Church in that country, for the use and benefit of the State. The degree of confiscation, as signed by all the Ministers of Justice, N. B. Church Times.

Canada. WESTERN EXTENSION.—We have long been firmly of opinion that the turning point in the destinies of Canada will have been gained when her commercial position as the port of the great West shall have become fairly understood. We have always looked upon the Northern Railway as a valuable link in the chain of intercourse between the States, and see it both a lucrative and a profitable investment, with its double track and its wealthy termini at Toronto and Collingwood. The construction of the Salt Lake Railway, another important step westward; and thus already for some years we have had the land half crossed by steam-conductions on the continent of the Red River and Saskatchewan navigation, just announced in the American papers, which opens another long and fertile field for enterprise.

It was highly encouraging to perceive the deep seriousness manifested by nearly all present from day to day, and the uniform good order maintained throughout. Our well-tried and most efficient committee of the Circuit, and their brethren, who were present, were most judiciously and wisely chosen, and their labors were most successful.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

The services of the day closed with deep interest for some intelligence from the camp ground; and having been requested to furnish such intelligence for your journal, I hasten to forward you a brief account of the proceedings, hoping a place will be found for it in your issue of the 20th inst.

Several ministerial brethren of our Conference, with Rev. Brother Morse of the East Maine Conference, and a numerous concourse of people assembled on the grounds at the appointed time, Thursday afternoon, the 12th of July.

premises. The work turning out of the state that afforded by the enable them to Thorold articles sent per American mail to lowest American rates of having been the part of the work of the present, the York. Enlarge able them to give the Canada enterprise that Natty and W. showing that facilities for manufacturing

The Cause.—There is the farmers of exception of the state that afforded by the enable them to Thorold articles sent per American mail to lowest American rates of having been the part of the work of the present, the York. Enlarge able them to give the Canada enterprise that Natty and W. showing that facilities for manufacturing

There is the farmers of exception of the state that afforded by the enable them to Thorold articles sent per American mail to lowest American rates of having been the part of the work of the present, the York. Enlarge able them to give the Canada enterprise that Natty and W. showing that facilities for manufacturing

There is the farmers of exception of the state that afforded by the enable them to Thorold articles sent per American mail to lowest American rates of having been the part of the work of the present, the York. Enlarge able them to give the Canada enterprise that Natty and W. showing that facilities for manufacturing

