

THE WEEKLY ONTARIO

AND BAY OF QUINTE CHRONICLE

ESTABLISHED 1841

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1919.

MORTON & HERITY, PROPRIETORS

STARTLING EVENTS WILL WAKE BELLEVILLE TO REALIZATION

Secret Plans by Victory Loaners Will be Interesting Entertainment—Don't be Surprised.

Do not be surprised if Belleville is some night bombarded by a bombing aeroplane, or the usual Front Street evening is aroused by a screaming pack of masked night-riders. Possibly you may be startled by a husky voice whispering in your ear as you sit entranced with Mary Pickford at a movie. No, do not be startled, it will simply be the energetic efforts of the Hastings County workers of the Victory Loan 1919, trying to make you realize that the war is not over so far as its expenses are concerned and also that you are a chump and a pinhead not to realize what a splendid investment opportunity you are missing.

Belleville and Hastings County is so to be treated to a strenuous campaigning this year for great preparations are being made to surpass the County's success last year. Optimism prevails among the workers who are silently stowing away enthusiasm and stunts which will burst upon our unsuspecting citizens next Monday morning when the campaign opens. They have been fortified by good news from bank managers who say their deposits are much greater than before the Loan last year, in some cases being increased threefold.

Under the able leadership of Mr. W. B. Deacon, who launched the two former Victory Loans in Hastings County, a splendid organization has been built up as follows:

County Chairman—W. B. Deacon
Vice-Chairman—W. H. DeBlois
Tweed; S. E. Wright, Delora; C. S.

Collins, Goshill; Wm. H. Matthews, Trenton.
Secretary—H. W. Ackerman.
Chairman of Committees:
Honorary—Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C.
Executive—W. B. Deacon.
Finance—W. B. Deacon.
Publicity—W. L. Doyle.
Canadian Press Association for County—J. O. Herity.
Sales—H. F. Ketcheson.
Names—Mark Sprague.
Employees—J. A. Higgs.
Special subscriptions—Ald. Jamieson Bone.
Transportation—W. J. Carter.
County organizer—W. B. Evans.
Publicity organizer—A. C. H. Andrews.

To-day a big publicity and canvassers' conference was held. Members of the publicity committee and the county canvassers met at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Y.M.C.A. followed at 1 o'clock by a dinner at the Hotel Quinte, the canvassers from Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington Counties also attending. Mr. W. B. Deacon acted as chairman and addresses were made by prominent members of the organization, among them being Mr. E. B. Thompson, Toronto, Divisional Organizer for the Bay of Quinte Division to which Hastings County belongs; with Frontenac, Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward. "Pop" dominated everywhere and some interesting events are under way which are a secret at present. If all plans are carried through, Belleville will be treated to some novel entertainment.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST HASTINGS:

Now that the fight is over and the smoke of battle has cleared away I wish to thank my many friends for the loyal support and warm sympathy they gave to me in the recent contest. It was only at the earnest request of my friends that I consented to contest the riding, and it is a gratifying thing to me that so many of my own citizens stood by me in the contest and gave me such a handsome majority. I wish to thank my many friends in Trenton who in the face of strong local influence rallied to my support and gave me their assistance. I also wish to thank my Sidney friends of whom I have so many who did not forget me in the contest. My warmest thanks are due to the committees, scrutineers and friends who, on election day, untiringly rallied to my support and never wavered.

I endeavored throughout the while contest not to allow any personalities to be introduced, but put up a clean square fight as I have always tried to do.

I feel grateful for the esteem and affection of those in my own city where I was born and have always lived and although a number felt they were forced to vote against me

I believe outside of the political arena, I have their friendship and respect.
I wish especially to thank Messrs. Morton & Herity, the publishers of The Ontario for the magnificent assistance they rendered me in the contest, the high tone of the editorials in their paper, the truthfulness with which they dealt with the current questions of the day and the entire absence of misrepresentation, innuendoes or other objectionable tactics. I consider myself fortunate to have so able an editor and so splendid a paper as The Ontario at my back.
I sincerely hope that our city, the electoral district and the province will go forward to better and brighter days and that while it is not my privilege to represent them in the Legislature that I will be able as a private individual to do what I can in the reconstruction.

I sincerely hope that any of my English friends who were misled by the statements made during the last days of the contest will recognize that they were misled and not forget that I am always ready as I have been to do what I can to help the soldier and his family or the soldier's widow and her children.
E. D. O'FLYNN.

Sir Adam Beck May be Premier of Ontario

(Special 4 p.m. Despatch from Canadian Press Ltd.)

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Ontario provincial situation seems that Hartley Dewart, leader of the Liberals in the new Ontario Legislature, will not be called on to form the provincial government but that Hon. Adam Beck, defeated Independent Conservative in London and chairman of the provincial hydro commissions, will be the next premier of Ontario. This seems to be the most popular opinion here today among fairly well informed people discussing the much-mixed political situation in this province.

This is assuming that Sir William Hearst whose government was defeated on Monday and who is meeting with his cabinet today decides to hand in resignations of himself and ministers to Lieut-Governor Sir John Hendrie this action is naturally expected as the position of the government has grown worse in the matter of supporters during the last twenty-four hours by news of reversal in South Grey, where it is now conceded that Hon. Dr. Jamieson, speaker in the last house has been defeated by G. M. Leeson, the United Farmers' candidate according to completed figures. This gives the U.F.O. 45 straight members in the house of 111 seats and if they combine with the labor delegation of 11 members and one soldier and one independent, Liberal farmers' coalition would have a majority of 59 over all others in-house. However it is conceded generally today that the Lieut-Governor constitutionally would have the right to call on Hartley Dewart, leader of the last official opposition in the house to form new government, although his Liberal following in the newly elected house is second to U.F.O. in numbers.

In an interview today Sir John Hendrie, Lieut-Governor in reply to a question regarding his intention in reference to statement made by Sir John yesterday said: "Why should Mr. Dewart think he is not the man I will call on to form a government. The government has to be carried on however by somebody at present outside elected house, if he cannot be found among the already elected members.

Unless Mr. Dewart can form coalition which hardly seems likely, Lieut-Governor will then probably call on leader of United Farmers, and it would be no surprise to many people if farmers at their convention here this afternoon chose as their leader Sir Adam Beck.

The situation regarding U.F.O. as far as could be gathered from conversation with U.F.O. delegates before they met today in convention seemed to favor creation of a coalition government with the U.F.O. in control under a strong leader to be chosen probably this afternoon. Leaders of Farmers today stated that conferences had been held with Sir Adam Beck on subject and their report was to be made to the convention this afternoon.

DEWART CHALLENGES CROWN ON PUBLISHED STATEMENT

Rebukes Lieutenant-Governor For Commenting Upon His Probable Action in Dealing With Present Unprecedented Provincial Situation.

The Liberal leader, Mr. H. Hartley Dewart, K.C., made the following statement Tuesday afternoon:

The election returns clearly demonstrate that the people of the province of Ontario will no longer tolerate the Hearst administration and its autocratic abuse of power. My advice is that there will be a larger Liberal contingent of members than in the last legislature. With the United Farmers numerically in the lead, it is quite apparent that the conservatives will not have as many members as the Liberals, and therefore have no right to continue to control the business of the country.

When the house dissolved there were just two parties in the house. The Hearst administration has been overwhelmingly beaten and the principles of the Liberal party has fought for have been vindicated by

THE ELECTIONS

Personally defeated, his party shattered, Sir William Hearst went down yesterday beneath a storm of popular disapproval. The majority against his government is overwhelming and decisive and was expressed everywhere by the election of opposition candidates of various groups by majorities generally of tremendous proportions. Where Conservatives were elected at all it was by majorities that were only a shadow of the colossal figures of June, 1914.

That the Ontario Temperance Act was a factor contributing very largely to the Conservative defeat, as claimed by the premier is to be doubted. The government probably gained far more than it lost by the Temperance Act. The decisive vote in favor of the Act showed that it was an exceedingly popular measure, meeting a real demand on the part of the people. While Sir William would lose a certain element that resented his action in introducing the O.T.A. it is equally certain that he gained a great force of temperance support as indicated by the course taken by such an influential journal as The Toronto Daily Star and The Christian Guardian, the official organ of the Methodist church. Large numbers of temperance Liberals supported Hearst candidates out of gratitude for the beneficent measure he had brought into being.

The defeat is more to be attributed to inertia on the part of the government than to sins of commission. The government of the Seven Sleepers did not appeal to popular imagination, especially when we have reached a time that requires strong initiative, high courage and forceful executive ability.

With the premier there went down also four members of his cabinet. That Howard Ferguson the least desirable of them all should save his seat, is one of the ironies of popular caprice.

There will be general regret because of the defeat of Sir Adam Beck at London. Sir Adam was regarded as the strongest constructive factor of the government and a man of strict honor and integrity. His defeat is a public loss.

The personal victory of Mr. H. Hartley Dewar over so doughty an opponent as George Gooderham, the whiskey king, is notable and significant. The flood of vishnick evidently failed to do the work expected of it. There are few men in public life today who are personally as popular as Mr. Dewar and there are few more capable. He put up an aggressive fight and has been a fighter ever since he entered the legislature. There are few who do not admire a fighter in the popular interest.

If Mr. Dewar should be called upon, as seems probable, to form a cabinet, he will, we have no doubt, manifest in his capacity as premier, the same progressive vigor and keenness of vision that he has exhibited in his leadership of the opposition.

Developments will be eagerly awaited.

WEST HASTINGS

Col. O'Flynn has performed the impossible. He has obtained a real Liberal majority in Belleville. One has to go back to the days of W. H. Biggar to find such a similar phenomenon but even then Mr. Biggar was an independent Liberal.

Col. O'Flynn let the people know right where he stood on Liberalism and temperance and all the issues before the electorate. His very frankness won him popular support.

Col. O'Flynn's surprisingly large majority in Belleville was also brought about to a great extent by the tactlessness and stupidity of his opposition. Not having learned anything from three decisive defeats, his journalistic critic, during the three days prior to the election launched attacks of the most offensively personal nature against Col. O'Flynn and the result was the fourth and much the greatest majority against their candidate. The tactics of the federal member for West Hastings were this equally blundering and futile. His unjustifiable Barleycorn's chief strongholds in Ontario.

insinuations against Col. O'Flynn's military record aroused general indignation among the returned men who hotly resented the aspersions against their gallant comrade. After a day of feverish activity by Mr. Porter in poll No. 14, Murney Ward, that onetime stronghold of Conservatism gave the Liberal candidate a majority of 49.

Notwithstanding all this provocation, Col. O'Flynn never retorted in kind. He might have descended to personalities but he chose the better way. He fought clean and open and above-board. The support that came to him from the men and women of both parties in his native town, the place where everybody knew him from his childhood, is one of the finest tributes that a man could receive. As Col. O'Flynn very fittingly said in his brief address last night, "I would rather win in Belleville and be defeated in the constituency than to win the constituency and be defeated at home."

Some of the means that were employed in Belleville to bring about the defeat of the Liberal candidate are likely to land the perpetrators in very serious trouble. A certain group here has been pursuing methods, very clumsily indeed, but with a boldness, openness and assurance that have been inspired by long immunity from punishment. There is probability that measures will be taken to see if it is not possible to make some examples so that we may see if we cannot conduct elections in West Hastings with a reasonable amount of decency.

EAST HASTINGS

In the general slaughter of government candidates yesterday, Sandy Grant did not escape. The U.F.O. sweep was too strong and his majority of nearly a thousand in 1914 was all swept away and turned into a majority of several hundreds.

Mr. Grant, as a representative, was handicapped by an entire lack of speaking ability or of essential gifts as a parliamentary representative. But he was personally a most likeable man and honorable and straight.

Mr. Henry K. Denyes, who won the constituency as a United Farmer candidate, should make an excellent representative for this agricultural constituency. Mr. Denyes is one of the most successful farmers in the county and one of the best judges of live stock. His farm in Thurlow is a model of good tillage and skilful management. Mr. Denyes is a clear thinker and has the faculty of forcible and convincing expression. While he has been classed as a Conservative he has a mind of his own and was never a slave to partyism. In 1914 he supported the temperance candidate in East Hastings against the regular nominee of his party.

Mr. Denyes is honest and straightforward and will never allow himself to be manipulated by any machine. In securing a gentleman of his character and qualifications East Hastings will be well represented.

PRINCE EDWARD

One of the most popular and best deserved victories in the province will be that magnificent triumph scored yesterday by Nelson Parliament in Prince Edward. Mr. Parliament has defeated and smashed the machine, that sought to rule Prince Edward, by perhaps the largest majority ever scored in that county of surprises in a straight political fight.

Mr. Parliament, the past week, has had opposed to him all the power and influence of General Hepburn, M.P., just back from overseas, and all the old brigade of never-sweats and die-hards who put up a campaign that far exceeded anything ever seen in Prince Edward for spectacular effects. There was no lack of money nor workers to help bring about the defeat of the invincible Nelson. But Mr. Parliament's record was such that he had won a place in the respect and affection of his constituents that no combination or machine could displace.

This self-made man and worthy representative has received a fitting testimonial and acknowledgment of his services by yesterday's splendid popular endorsement.

THE DEATH-KNELL OF BOOZE

Yesterday the men and women electors of the Province of Ontario sounded the death-knell of booze by a majority that will not leave a kick in its miserable carcass. This is the greatest victory for business efficiency, decent citizenship and moral righteousness ever achieved in this province.

To the everlasting credit be it spoken of whiskey millionaires, high-placed Liberty Leaguers and diverse interests, she actually entered the drossed the Ontario Temperance Act

Particularly gratifying is that splendid majority of over 2,000 rolled up in Belleville. Here this city was, a few years ago, one of John that the government reconsider its decision was licensed to the limit with hotel bars, shops and a club and, for good measure, had a brewery and neighboring distillery thrown in. It was backed by wealth and powerful business and social interests. In January, 1916, the people here showed by a majority of 306 that they were tired of the waste and disorders and general cussedness of whiskey. Yesterday they expressed their desire for permanent emancipation by a majority far more decisive.

Now that the people have emphatically registered their will in the "No" column and the business of making drunkards has received a perpetual winding-up order, society should resolutely set itself to conditions of permanence.

The first condition that should be brought about is rigid enforcement. The carrying out of the law the past few months has been anything but satisfactory. There has been altogether too much public drunkenness, bootlegging and other forms of illicit dealing in liquor. All this is quite unnecessary and can be speedily brought to an end. All that is needed is determination. If we have any police constable who is not doing his full duty in looking after infractions of the law, let him be discharged without ceremony. If we have any inspectors or other officials who are not displaying proper zeal in their work and plainly tolerating lawbreakers and law breaking, let them be asked to look for other jobs.

The Ontario Temperance Act is like any other law. It can be made a joke by the laxity of officials who will not firmly carry out its provisions or it can be made to do what was intended of it by fearless, earnest men who will honestly carry out their duties.

THE UNITED FARMER SWEEP

The greatest surprise of all, in yesterday's contest, was the remarkable vitality shown by the United Farmers' movement. The head office of the U. F. O. in Toronto predicted that their organization would carry 30 seats in Ontario. The most sanguine of them did not look for more. It now seems probable they will have a total 43 seats and will therefore be considerably the most powerful group in the legislature.

As there is no group in the legislature that controls an absolute majority of members it will be necessary to hold a new election or for some of the groups already elected to form an alliance and carry on a coalition form of government. The forming of a coalition is what is likely to happen.

As the platforms of the Liberal, U.F.O. and Labor groups are practically identical, nothing could be more natural than that these should unite for the purposes of government. They have very little in common with the Conservative group which is hostile and reactionary.

Will the United Farmer movement be but a brief episode, like the career of the Patrons of Industry that ran its brief course, twenty-five years ago, or will it be a permanent development?

Only time can tell. But the Farmers have now better leaders than ever before. Some of the men associated with the Canadian Council of Agriculture are among the ablest public men in the dominion. Farmers are also better organized. Their clubs form a combination of business and social intercourse that make an appeal to a double interest.

There is no reason in the world why the farming interest, which is the most important of all in Canada, should be practically unrepresented both at Toronto and Ottawa.

The continuance of the Agrarian political movement will depend very much upon the success with which those members at present elected meet the difficult problems immediately before them.

LLOYD GEORGE AND THE MINERS

The statement of Lloyd George that his government will not reconsider its decision not to adopt the recommendations in the Sankey Commission report regarding the nationalization of mines undoubtedly creates a serious situation. The government has already adopted a policy embodying the essential features of the first Sankey report; a policy which makes very substantial concessions to the miners and goes a long way in the direction of the nationalization of the mines. This is the saving fact of the situation, and one that places upon the miners the onus of any untoward developments in the future. So far as can be judged from the cable report of the conference the premier did not take issue with the principle involved in the miners' proposal; he appears to have simply affirmed the impracticability of the government already overburdened with difficulties, assuming at the present time the additional burden of State ownership and operation of the mines. The next move lies with the miners. At the recent session of the Trade Union Congress representing about 5,000,000 workers they put through a resolution demanding that the government reconsider its decision not to nationalize the mines, and instructing the parliamentary committee of the Congress to formally ask the premier to change his mind, and, in event of his refusal to do so, to call a special meeting of the Congress to decide on a further course of action. In order that the parliamentary committee might be persuaded to act with promptitude on its instructions, they also put through a resolution censuring this committee for not calling a special meeting of the Congress last summer to consider the question of calling a general strike to force the government to withdraw troops from Russia. It is not likely that the Parliamentary Committee will risk another vote of censure, and it may be expected to call a special meeting of the Trade Union Congress as soon as possible. That meeting will certainly be momentous. A very powerful section of the miners are evidently in favor of a strike with the object of forcing the government to nationalize the mines, and if they can persuade the Congress to support them in this, Britain will face a general strike on a scale hitherto unknown in the world. What the government could do in the face of a strike of 5,000,000 workers or even a quarter of that number, it is impossible to even conjecture; the nation would be paralyzed—the situation would be impossible. Unfortunately there are a great many workers in Great Britain who are in an ugly and reckless temper. They have been angered by profiteering, and their indignation is ready to vent itself against the government. This was shown at the Congress which rejected by a large majority a resolution condemning direct action. And since the Congress met there has been a notable evidence of this dangerous feeling; Mr. Bunting who presided over the deliberations of the Congress and spoke strongly against direct action has been turned down by his own Union the Postal Employes, and is not for the moment eligible as a delegate to the Congress.

However, the situation is not hopeless. When the Congress meets again the moderates may prevail. Unless the miners can carry the Congress with them they are hardly likely to force the issue on their own responsibility; the railway strike was not without a lesson which is not likely to be lost upon them. At a time when Britain needs industrial peace to rebuild her industries the other big unions may think twice before they are drawn into a disastrous conflict on behalf of the miners who already have achieved a favored position.

During the war and since, we have heard much about the ingenuity of the Germans in creating new products out of pulp. Now the Winnipeg Telegram reports George Bury, general manager of the Whalen Pulp and Paper Companies, as saying that Canadian ladies are wearing "silk" stockings on their slim limbs which were one day a stout spruce tree in the forest primeval.

HIGHWAYS OF HARMONY

(To a Young Musician)
 Thou maker of sweet melodies divine,
 So richly dowered with gracious gifts and rare,
 What heights celestial are thy soul's abode?
 What fragrant ether is thine atmosphere?
 Thy fragile, flower-like beauty makes us glad;
 But more we love thy strong, sweet soul to-night
 With raptured hearts we rise and follow thee
 Through echoing aisles and pathways of delight.
 We dance with thee along the sunny ways,
 Or kneel at worship in the cloister dim,
 Where the old masters, long and long ago,
 Their rapt devotions breathed in chant and hymn.
 We hear the lark's song in the rainwashed skies,
 The sigh of zephyrs in the murmuring wood,
 And hush of leaves, and chime of flower-bells,
 And strange, low sounds but dimly understood.
 We start at thunders of the cataract,
 And crash of tempest, echoing peal on peal.
 They faint, they die; and soft along the land
 The lyric notes of fairy pipers steal.
 On waves of dreamy melody we drift
 Along the shimmering shores of Lotus Land
 Where toil and war and grief are things remote
 No echoes float to this enchanted strand.
 We wake to poignant pain, and strong desires,
 And throbbing hopes that through life's brimming cup.
 Mid music's rhapsody, with strengthened hands,
 Each separate cross again is lifted up.
 Our thanks, our love to thee, Virginia!
 Thy gracious beckoning was not in vain.
 In dreamy solitudes we oft shall tread
 Highways of harmony with thee again.

LET US KNOW THE TRUTH Written for The Ontario by Chas. M. Bice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

A few months ago Dr. John B. Frazer, of Toronto, published an article describing extensive experiments which he had made to determine if germs really cause disease or not. His conclusion was that they did not. He ended by challenging the medical profession to make similar experiments to test the germ theory. The matter was taken up by Dr. H. W. Hill of Minneapolis, who challenged Dr. Frazer to submit himself as the subject of the experiments. Dr. Frazer being then on his vacation, the challenge was accepted by Dr. H. A. Zettel of St. Paul, who suggested that both he and Dr. Hill should submit to inoculation with the germs of typhoid, tuberculosis, diphtheria, meningitis, smallpox and leprosy. Dr. Zettel was to rely on diet and general hygiene for protection against these diseases, while Dr. Hill would use antitoxins and vaccinations. Dr. Hill, however, did not accept the challenge and the "duel" still hangs fire. Legal experts say that if the plan were carried out and one of the doctors should die the other would be guilty of murder. This is more than doubtful as a necessary ingredient of that crime is wanting. But while the circumstances of this "germ duel" are rather amusing, it brings up a subject of vital importance, viz: the correctness of the germ theory of diseases, according to a physician. As a result of the lack of success of the medical profession in trying to prevent and cure disease by treatments based on the germ theory, the number of people who depend on drugless healing is increasing. In an article in a medical magazine, Ely G. Jones, M. D., of Buffalo recently said: "As physicians we have failed in our duty to the sick; we have failed to find a definite treatment for the diseases common to our country. As a result of this sad state of things there are thirty-five million of people in the United States that depend upon some form of drugless healing when they are sick. It is said that the average mortality from disease in this country (U. S.) would not be over 7 per cent without any medical treatment. The mortality under the treatment of some physicians is 12 per cent. From this it will be seen that the public would be better off without them. If we as physicians are to be of any real benefit to the public the mortality under our treatment must be below 7 per cent. It might be mentioned in connection with the above statement that the mortality from the "flu" during the epidemic was from 10 to 20 per cent when treated by the regular methods, whereas it is claimed the drugless methods of treatment resulted in a mortality of less than 1 per cent. It would seem that more conclusive proof of the germ theory is required than has yet been produced. For the benefit of humanity as well as in the interest of science the medical profession should perform experiments similar to those of Dr. Frazer, and those made by the government last winter when unsuccessful attempts were made to cause the "flu" by inoculation and voluntary exposure to contagion. If the germ theory is right the results of such experiments will prove it. And if it is wrong the sooner the world knows it the better. We confess an inclination to the germ theory, but we are open to conviction if the proofs establish the opposite theory. It is surpassing strange that scientific experts on these lines are so diametrically at variance with one another; a subject of the utmost importance to all should not be left in doubt any longer.

AVIATION AFTER THE WAR Written for The Ontario by Chas. M. Bice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

We are the "Children of a larger growth" says the poet. In order to interest us so that we may not begrudge the needful money for aviation purposes and to give us ocular demonstration of the gains made in aeronautics during the war, a large number of machines are in the air flying back and forth from the two coasts. Our attention has to be kept keyed by such exhibitions. So many machines started eastward, so many westward, doing things in the air not dreamed of before 1914, when a new page in history was opened. The undertaking is in a sense international; it is not confined to American flyers. Owners of engines and planes are interested, naturally, for the advertising gained, but the main end is to stimulate interest in the new means of locomotion, the latest to be employed, yet the fastest known to mankind. Speeds not possible on earth are obtained. In the air, and science tells us we are just on the threshold. In time space will be annihilated in a manner that would have been declared impossible when the war began. This nation the first to produce planes. An admiral of the British fleet—the greatest since Nelson, the man who prepared the navy for 1814. In his autobiography just published solemnly asserts that before the next war, which will be as soon as Germany can get ready, the surface of the ocean will be bare of ships. The strides already made in the air will make this certain, to say nothing of what is coming in a few years. An American naval officer declared a few days ago that the service had designs for airships that would make a surface navy useless. The next war will be fought from the air and undersea. Apart from war, development of aeronautics in this country as a part of business is an essential. The government must lead the way; private enterprise, in his day of "The State," is slow and hesitating.

Nut Krust Bread Co. Starting Here

Manufacture by Electricity and in Full View of Public Peterboro, Oct. 20.—The Nut Krust Bread Company have completed arrangements with the City Trust to take over the lease for the store now occupied by Spencer's barber shop.

Mr. Williams, their representative in the city recently completing arrangements and stated that they intended to commence work here by Nov. 1st.

This company have three or four branches in the city of Toronto, and their bread has been so appreciated there that they decided to extend their business to this city. They manufacture their bread solely by electricity and in full sight of the public. In Toronto they have one of their bakeries operating in the window of their store at all times, and undoubtedly they will adopt the same plan here.

This is a rather modern method of baking bread, but it has proved so efficient that it is spreading very rapidly. Peterboro is to be congratulated on receiving this company, and this store in the most central part of our business section will add considerably to the appearance of that section.

ADAM'S APPLE

Man's badge of beauty and brains is his Adam's apple, that projection in the fore-part of the neck which has been so called, from the notion that it was caused by a bite of the forbidden fruit, which stuck in Adam's throat. Scientists have many theories on the subject, and have told a long story of the evolution of the apple—how man came by long descent from ill-formed apes, things that came into life by chemical action. They got fish, which, as soon as they got backbones began to develop something like Adam's apples. From the primitive forms of the ancient seas are believed to have come the mammals from which sprang the human race.

BOY LIVES WITH BULLET IN BRAIN

New Britain, Conn., Oct. 20.—For two weeks past Robert Hopkins, 14 years old, has been living with a bullet lodged in his brain. The boy was accidentally shot in the temple by a playmate about a fortnight ago, and at the time no hope was held out for his recovery. Last late night the bullet was located by surgeons. Any attempt to remove it would cause instant death, the doctors claim. Hopkins talked rationally with the surgeons last night and they feel that he may live without any detriment to his mentality.

CANNED LOBSTER

Is the tide of producing enterprise about to turn? The Department of Marine and Fisheries has decided to order the lobster canning syndicate in the Maritime Provinces to put not less than 14 ounces of dried lobster meat in what is commonly regarded as a pound can. Last session, much solemn discussion took place in the House, with the approval of the Government, to show the people of Canada why the canners should be allowed to put only 12 ounces of dried meat in pound size can. It seemed possible that next year the canners' proposition would be that 10 ounces made a convenient round figure for a pound. But something has happened. Last year's short-weight politics has been dropped; and, according to the statute, the public will at least be entitled to 14 ounces of lobster in a pound size can.—Ottawa Citizen.

Super-chickens and eggs, two or three times their present size at a cost not much greater than present prices, was predicted by Alton E. Briggs, President of the National Poultry Association, in session at Cleveland.

CARRIED BY THE CARDS Packs of cards have been used for conveying some secret message. One of the most interesting cases happened not so very long ago. Mr. X lived in a very fine house on a hill not far from the East Coast of England. He was an inhabitant and naturalized. He lived with his wife and daughter just outside one of the prohibited areas. He developed a liking for playing patience and bridge. His liking developed into a passion and he was continually buying new packs. Three-handed bridge is not much fun and the thing struck the patriotic servant as peculiar. She noticed the packs never remained in the house long, but were sent off to an address right on the coast. One evening she watched through the keyhole. She then noticed that no bridge was played, but something was done to the pack and very wisely she informed the police. The truth was then revealed that the man was sending information abroad by playing-card cipher. The pack which should be new, was arranged in a knowing order. It was then held tightly together and series of small figures written on side. The pack was then well shuffled, packed up and despatched.

THE PERSONAL METHOD

The highest form of conveying information is the personal method. It is impossible however, for an individual to carry all that he may be told him in his memory, but it is also of the highest importance that nothing shall be omitted and that nothing incriminating shall be found on him if he is searched. Therefore, an aid to memory of some sort must be evolved. For some time at the commencement of the war the following simple method was employed—until it was found out. Words dates numbers etc. were written on the man's flesh in ink. This could not be seen when the man stripped, but when the skin was warmed, and fine graphite powder sprinkled on the part it adhered to the writing, and could be read even a fortnight after it was written. But of course he must not wash for that period. These are just a few of the many methods of secret writing employed. To record them all in detail would take up two or three thick volumes.

AN ADAM'S APPLE

Man's badge of beauty and brains is his Adam's apple, that projection in the fore-part of the neck which has been so called, from the notion that it was caused by a bite of the forbidden fruit, which stuck in Adam's throat. Scientists have many theories on the subject, and have told a long story of the evolution of the apple—how man came by long descent from ill-formed apes, things that came into life by chemical action. They got fish, which, as soon as they got backbones began to develop something like Adam's apples. From the primitive forms of the ancient seas are believed to have come the mammals from which sprang the human race.

It is a long story but the fact remains that as the human race developed and became more civilized the Adam's apple in men became more prominent. The ancient Greek depicted their strong heroes and highest types of beauty with prominent "apples" although modern artists and sculptors rather ignore it in their works. As a matter of fact, the wearing of high stocks and collars would seem to point to the fact that man is not altogether proud of displaying his badge of beauty.—Tit-Bits.

NELSON PARLIAMENT SWEEPS PRINCE EDWARD BY 1012 MAJ.

Popular Liberal Member Retains Hold on Affections of People and Greatly Increases His Lead. Prince Edward did a great day's work yesterday. It re-elected Nelson Parliament by the decisive majority of 1012 and it voted itself almost unanimously Dry. Mr. Parliament's victory over a wily and resourceful opponent, backed by the prestige of General B. R. Hepburn was a striking evidence of the hold he has obtained upon the respect and affections of the electorate. The popular Liberal candidate obtained majorities in all municipalities except three and was defeated by very small majorities in the others. "Prince Edward didn't do a thing" to whiskey but made the decision for drought, almost unanimous.

Three Celebrated Artists to Give Concert

The city of Belleville is very fortunate in being able to have the celebrated artists, which are to give a concert in the City Hall, Friday evening, Oct. 24, through the influence of Mrs. Ada Lingham-Wagner, as she is directing their tour through Canada. These artists are holding concerts in Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal and other large cities. The Grand Rapids Michigan Herald says: "Miss Melba Goodwin has a wonderful soprano voice. She is young, petite and her poise and interpretation are wonderful. The perfection of her voice won the admiration of the audience and she was the ideal of all. Her voice is comparable to Gull-Curet in its quality. She is entirely unaffected and at perfect ease. Several enthusiastic encores brought her back smiling and won her audience in a perfect bond of human harmony." Le Tents, Paris, France says: "Mr. Tracey Kingman is an exceptionally fine artist." El Razon, Buenos Aires, Argentine, says: "It is a pleasure to hear him, and hope it will be often repeated. He sang in such a manner, he charmed." New York Sun says: "He has a baritone voice of good quality, and plenty of dramatic experience as well as pleasing presence." Dorothy Bell, the young harpist of exceptional ability, and with great experience has travelled extensively through the Middle Western States, in Lyceum, Oratorio and concert work; and in 1917-18 was manager of the trio. She was studied under celebrated artists. She was a favorite in the army cantonments where she gave 22 concerts in one week. Her theory work was done at a fine art school in Kansas City, under the noted theorist and composer, Charles Sanford.

PETROGRAD AT STAKE

Some of the most desperate fighting of Russia's civil war is taking place for the possession of Petrograd, and it is easily understood why the Reds are anxious to hold and the anti-Bolshevist forces to occupy the city. Today Petrograd is no great prize from a material point of view, but its possession means a moral advantage of tremendous value. The Russian capital has been paralyzed industrially many months. Half its normal population in order to escape outlawry and starvation has left, and there is little in the way of wealth of foodstuffs to reward the attacking armies if they are successful. But Trotzky knows well that if he loses Petrograd it will be a heavy blow to his cause. While Moscow is today the capital, the entire world considers Petrograd the centre of all things Russian. To see it in possession of the anti-Reds would increase the Soviet Government's enemies abroad and at the same time injure its propaganda by weakening the morale of agents and friends. We can realize something of this if we picture the gloom that would have spread through Allied lands had the Germans taken Paris. Officially France would have been centered at some other point and the war would have continued, but the moral effect of Paris' fall would have been immense advantage to the Huns because of the effect on neutral opinion and the morale of the Allies.

As well, too, Lenin and Trotzky fear the effect on the home folks of the re-establishment of law and order at Petrograd which would almost certainly follow its capture. With industry and commerce back to the old status, and personal safety assured, tens of thousands of the moderate Bolsheviks who are weary of the dreadful reign of anarchy, would desert to the enemy. Petrograd restored to decency and decorum would make a too spectacular contrast to the terror of Lenin, which has produced nothing but demoralization and misery. That is why the Red chiefs are fighting so hard to retain Petrograd. The possession of many another place, small and obscure, is of greater importance militarily than the possession of the ancient capital and mighty metropolis of Russia, but to lose Petrograd means a moral defeat that would outweigh many military successes elsewhere. It would not be at all surprising to see a sudden crumbling of the whole Red cause should the anti-Bolshevist forces capture Petrograd. The struggle for Petrograd is heavy with import for Russia and the world at large.

THE WAR LORD'S EXPLANATIONS

Most of the War Lords of Germany are busy offering explanations of why they failed to carry out their plan of world domination. Characteristically, each seeks to vindicate his own part in the brutal business, and to cast the blame for failure upon others. General von Falkenhayn is the latest to enter the lists. Falkenhayn believed in concentrating the main German strength on the Western front, and the failure of his own formidable assault on Verdun, apparently did not change his views. While Chief of Staff he remained an advocate of the "On to Paris and the Channel port" school, though Hindenburg and Ludendorff were then directing their thoughts and energies towards winning victories and forcing a decision in the East. Falkenhayn protested against the launching of the Austrian offensive into Venetia in 1916. Like Ludendorff, he speaks disparagingly of the Austrians. The former likened Austria to a corpse, to which Germany had the misfortune to be tied; Falkenhayn remarks that the Austrians had little offensive or resisting powers, and unless stifened by German troops, marched to defeats or mis-carriages. Which is somewhat ungracious, and not calculated to promote good relations between Germany and her late "gallant and faithful Ally."

Falkenhayn condemns Berlin for not sooner commencing peace negotiations with Russia. He argues that if Germany had made peace with Russia before Bolshevik ideas spread in the East and penetrated the German Camps, German armies might have been flung on the western front with every hope of forcing a decision favorable to the Central Empires. But the fact is that when Ludendorff freed from active opposition on the Eastern Front attempted to break through to Paris he met with a more complete disaster than Falkenhayn had done before Verdun.

Both Falkenhayn and Ludendorff assert that if their advice had been taken sooner or adhered to more tenaciously all would have been well for Germany. But both assume conditions that could not have been stale, or predicate consequences that appear doubtful. Both, for instance, assert that if the "ruthless submarine" warfare had been undertaken sooner, it would have won the war. But had Germany earlier a sufficient number of boats to make the ruthless submarine warfare effective? Was the sailor any more likely to be frightened sooner than he was later? And might not America have been brought into the war earlier?

In any case when the leaders or the great German armies have to blame the pitiable German navy for not winning the war, they are evidently hard put to it to find an excuse for their colossal failure.

MONEY A VITAL FORCE.

Surplus profits or earnings may be made a living force or a dead and stagnant one according to the way they are applied. Money invested in Victory Bonds in the past has proven a vital instrument in building up Canada's trade and thereby showering the benefits of prosperity on everyone. It has done a great deal more than that: it has enabled Canada to make a military effort that has covered her name with immortal glory: it has enabled her to deal with the returned soldiers during demobilization on a scale of generosity unequalled anywhere. If this money had been hoarded or wasted there would be no such story to tell.

In offering the 1919 Victory Loan to the people of Canada, the Government and the multitude of salesmen who will be enlisted in the cause, can point to an investment that will serve as a living—indeed a moral force: conferring great benefits on the community at large, and yielding a handsome return for the thrift of the investor. It will be used to complete the re-establishment of the soldiers along lines that will make him an asset to the country; and also to finance great purchases of Canada's products by Great Britain and European countries. It will keep Canada in the forefront of the world's progress and contribute to national happiness and contentment.

That remarkable majority for prohibition in Belleville was not the result of chance but was due to a thorough campaign of education, coupled with one of the most perfect organizations ever brought about in this city. Where all did so well for the cause and gave so freely of their time and effort it is perhaps not well to single out individuals for commendation but we feel that the work by Dr. H. A. Yeomans, the local chairman and of Rev. Dr. Scott for his effective counsel and advice should be specially acknowledged. All the other workers will find their best reward in the splendid vote for decency and good citizenship in this one-time stronghold of the booze interests.

WAITIN' AT THE DOOR

It's a mighty soothin' feelin' at the closin' of the day, When I finish out the furrow and I put the plow away, And I turne the tired horses out in the meadow lot to rest, And I walk across the stubble to the place I love the best, I forget the sweat and labor and I ain't so lame and sore, 'Cause I know my wife and children are a-waitin' at the door. I could talk about your glory and your rapture and your bliss, But I tell you they ain't patchin' side of Lucy's lovin' kiss, And you'd sure think I was honey jest 'acozin' from the hive, When the children 'gin a-swarmin' like they'd eat me up alive, Tell you, man, there's pleasure livin' that I never felt before I had a wife and children waitin' at the door. When we gather round the table ready for our evenin' meal, While my Lucy asks a blessin', in my heart I sort of steal A humble little prayer to Him a-watchin' up above— To keep our feet a-ploddin' in the pathway of His love— It will seem that He could hear me and He leaves the golden shore, And shares the meal with me and them that's waitin' at the door. —Herbert Flansborough.

Wedding Bells

A very pleasant and interesting event took place at Ivanhoe on Wednesday evening Sept. 24th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reid, when the latter's sister Miss Earla J. Post, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Post, of Fuller, became the bride of Earnest Roy Moore, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore, of Rimington. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Frederick, Pastor of Ivanhoe Methodist church.

A beautiful arch of lattice work white lace and pink natural flowers complete with a large wedding bell was arranged across one corner of the large drawing room and formed a fitting background for the nuptial party. While Miss Margaret Post, cousin of the bride softly played the wedding march the bridal party took their places proceeded by three little flower girls with lovely baskets of casters and smilax. Miss Helena McCoy and Miss Kate Smith were charmingly dressed in white crepe de chene trimmed with applique edgings and Miss Edna Green of Fuller looked very dainty in white silk trimmed with georgette crepe and ribbon all three girls wore a tiny gold locket and chain the gift of the groom.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white silk with crepe de chene and baby Irish lace trimmings and the veil in Juliet cap style with natural flowers for a wreath was very becoming. She carried a lovely bouquet of fern and rose and her only ornament was a gold Lavalier set with pearls with an emerald drop, the gift of the groom.

After the signing of the register the guests numbering over ninety repaired to the large dining hall which was beautifully decorated with evergreens and flowers. The splendid repast provided reflected great credit on the host and hostess.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way and about midnight the wedding party motored to Belleville enroute for a post nuptial tour by auto to Peterboro and other places. The brides travelling gown was a Bergundy serge tailored suit with hat to match.

Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm at Rimington. The array of wedding gifts amply testified to the popularity of the bride and groom as they were beautiful, costly and numerous.

Guests were present from Toronto Belleville, Marmora, Rimington, Madoc and Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will be at home to their friends after Nov. 1st.

RECEPTION AT RIMINGTON.

On the evening of Sept. 29th a pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. J. C. Moore, it being the reception for his son Earnest and his bride (nee Earla Post). The guests numbering fifty or more represented the married folks of the neighborhood and the bride's parents, brothers and sisters. About 9.30 o'clock all sat down to very dainty and sumptuous tea for the tables truly justified their beautiful appearance and the guests did full justice to the good things provided.

Rev. and Mrs. He, from Eldorado, were present and helped considerably to make the evening pass pleasantly for all concerned.

The gifts were beautiful and again proved the esteem in which the young people were held.

A small charivari party arrived and with bells and gams made their presence known. They came they said to put on the finishing touch as it would have been incomplete without them—Madoc Review.

WALSH-DALEY

At the church of St. Charles Borromeo, Read, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Monday, Oct. 13, at 9 o'clock when Miss Nellie G. Daley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Daley, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Walsh, Read, by Rev. Father McCarthy.

The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother Joseph, who gave her away to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Rosalyn Hart, Deseronto, cousin of both the bride and groom. The bride looked very beautiful in a suit of Royal Blue Broadcloth with hat of silk velour to match and wore a canary Georgette blouse heavily beaded. Her furs, the gift of her brother, were Australian fox. The bridesmaid, Miss Moreen Doran, cousin of the bride, wore a cape of blue tricotine and a cape coat of fur of white fox and large black velvet hat ornamented with ostrich. Mr. Michael Walsh, Campbellford, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cameo and pearl necklace, to the bridesmaid an emerald pendant and chain, to the groomsmen a pair of gold cuff links and to the organist a gold pin.

After the marriage ceremony, the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's parents where a delicious dinner was served to the immediate friends of bride and groom. On Monday evening a reception was tendered the young couple at the bride's parental home, at which over two hundred and fifty guests were present. The many beautiful and useful gifts showed the high esteem in which the young couple are held. Many substantial cheques were in evidence, especially one of five hundred dollars presented by the bride's parents. The groom was the recipient of a beautiful diamond tie pin from the groom's brother.

The happy couple left amidst blessings and farewells for their home on Tuesday to begin life in all its earnestness. Their many friends wish them a long and prosperous wedded life.

BRIDGE BETWEEN WAR AND PEACE

Prince of Wales Strikes Expressive Phrase Describing Loan.

With his gift for finding expressive and happy phrases the Prince of Wales has remarked that the Victory Loan 1919 is for Canada "the bridge between war and peace."

Most assuredly the loan is that. When first told of the Victory Loan, and the part it would play in reconstruction, His Royal Highness quickly consented to the use of his coat of arms on an honor flag to be given to cities, districts and industrial organizations exceeding their quota in the loan campaign.

A Prince of Wales' crest—the familiar three plumes—will be added to the flag for each 25 per cent. of excess to the quota achieved by a district.

Handsome, and striking, the design of the Prince of Wales' flag is much more beautiful than the honor flag used in other campaigns. It will be a worthy souvenir of the visit of a most charming and popular prince.

Automobile Accident

Mr. George Latimer, of Toronto, met with a very unfortunate accident while motoring east on the Cobourg Road. When near the school house Mr. Latimer was seized with a weak spell and before he could shut off the power the car swerved to the ditch and overturned. The wind shield and top of the car was badly smashed and the radius rods and axle were also damaged. Mr. Latimer was badly shaken up and received several nasty cuts about the head by coming in contact with the broken wind shield. His face was also severely cut.—Port Hope Guide.

Obituary

At Belleville on Sunday morning, Oct. 13, at the home of Lorne Crandall, there passed to his heavenly reward Stephen D. Crandall. Deceased was born in Hillier 80 years ago, and was the son of James and Fannie Crandall, of Prince Edward County.

Fifty-five years ago he was married to Frances Spencer, who preceded him to the tomb. Two sons, Lorne, of Belleville and Blake, of Woodstock and one daughter, Elda, of Cleveland Ohio, are left to mourn the loss of a loving father. Always being an old-time Methodist he readily conformed to the views of the Standard Church of which he was a faithful member up to the time of his death.

To visit him during his illness would convince anyone of the reality of real religion, for his words continually were, "Not my will but God's will be done. To live would be Christ but to die would be gain." The funeral was held at Belleville on Monday, October 14th under the auspices of the Standard Church, Rev. F. Dolin officiating assisted by Rev. A. L. Carson.

The text used for the occasion was "Death is swallowed up in Victory. Oh Death where is thy sting? Oh grave where is thy victory?" 1 Cor. 5:55.

During the service the good old hymn "The Sweet By and By" which was a favorite of the deceased was ably rendered by Mrs. Elsie Crandall of Woodstock.

Interment took place in Glenwood Cemetery, Picton, there to await the resurrection morn, when the dead in Christ shall rise first.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FRANKFORD

October 21st, 1919.

Mrs. Harry Nugent is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. Weeks in Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Badgley also Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Badgley.

Mrs. Graham and son of Trenton were the guests of Mrs. and Miss Bowen on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Baker of Stirling were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Johnston on Sunday.

Pte. Harold Gunter has returned from overseas and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Gunter in town. Frank McCauley of Oshawa spent Monday in town with his parents, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Smith.

The voting on the Referendum on Monday was very lively and we are more than pleased to see the stand so many of our citizens took in regard to liquor. We hope it is stamped out for good, never to return again. The ladies were especially interested as was shown by the numbers who were out looking after voters.

MOUNT ZION

October 21, 1919.

Some from this vicinity were at the fowl supper at Wooler on Monday evening of last week. All report a large crowd and a good time. On Monday evening following, Evangelist G. M. Sharpe gave a very interesting and impressive address on prohibition to a very attentive audience, urging people to vote for what was right, to help banish liquor from our land by their emphatic "Noes" then the Rev. Clarke of King street Methodist church, Trenton spoke for a few brief moments explaining to the people as how to vote so as not to make any mistake whatever. We hope every one did their duty in this respect and liquor will be put down and out forever.

Lovely weather has again been our, such a splendid time for the farmers to finish up the fall work. On Thursday of last week the Women's Institute of Stockdale held their meeting at the home of Mrs. G. Way of this neighborhood, of which she is a member. A goodly number were present. The meeting was opened by Mrs. R. McMurter. Auld Lang Syne was sung and then prayer was offered up for help in their work, after which they proceeded with the business part of the meeting. About 4 o'clock the meeting closed with God save the King, then dainty lunch was served by the hostess, and all departed, feeling they had enjoyed themselves.

Apple pickers are busy in this vicinity.

Our good roads will soon be gone for the fall rains are coming and Jack Frost and between the two our good roads will be spoiled.

There was Sunday School and church at Mount Zion on Sunday as usual.

The Rev. J. Barnes filled the pulpit on Sunday and he chose as his theme: temperance, taking his text from Prov. 20-1. "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

On Sunday next, Oct. 26th the Rev. Mr. Whattam of Colborne will preach to us.

Mr. Wellington Crews kept his car busy on Monday last carrying aged and other people to the polls. Mrs. D. Mallory's sister is visiting her and attended service at the church with them on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Brundage and son Graham, accompanied by the former's mother, Mrs. Brundage sr., were Sunday evening guests at the home of Mr. Harvey Datoe.

The recent rain will prepare the ground for plowing better as it was getting pretty dry in places.

OAK HILLS.

Miss Mildred Clarke spent over Sunday with her mother.

Mr. Raymond Chambers returned on Saturday after two months' pleasant sojourn in the North West. Mr. John Cook wears a smile. It is a son.

Miss Annie Stapley, of Beaverton, is spending a couple of days under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scales visited at Harry Stapley's on Thursday evening.

We are sorry to report Mrs. Jack Galvin on the sick list.

Mrs. Finnegan is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Galvin.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lansing, Mr. Nathan Eggleton and others attended Norwood Fair on Wednesday.

TRENTON

Mr. and Mrs. R. Curry, of Toronto were in town over the week-end.

The funeral of the late Irwin Galna, was held at St. George's Church on Tuesday afternoon, Canon Armstrong officiating. The late Mr. Galna is an uncle of Mr. I. Galna, of Trenton.

Trenton has once more succeeded in being the "home-town" of the member of Parliament. Mayor William Ireland had a majority of over four hundred. On the referendum, Trenton had a majority of 1500 on the four questions, making an average of 385 majority on each question. The workers were most untiring in their efforts, from the opening of the poll to the closing of the streets were lined with loaded cars. Never was the result of any election waited for with such eagerness. When it was finally given, the cheering could be heard for blocks.

Mayor Ireland thanked his supporters from the balcony of the Gilbert House. The thanks given the supporters of the referendum comes from the hearts of the wives, mothers and children of the drunkards homes throughout Ontario. The struggle for right has ended in victory.

Mr. Harry Bryant, of Oshawa was in town for a few days, visiting his mother on Henry St.

On Sunday morning, Mr. Escot Minaker, who owns a milk route in Trenton, was bringing milk from the Gunter Settlement and while coming down-grade, one of the front wheels came off the heavily loaded car. The car started for a deep ditch, caught on a telephone pole and turned turtle. Mr. Minaker escaped with minor injuries, and is on his route again.

On Tuesday evening a well filled opera house greeted Major Foster, mobilizer for the Canadian City Bureau. Mayors and Captains have been appointed. It was decided to make a canvass of the town for membership. This organization, when formed stands for a "Bigger and Better Trenton."

ROD AND GUN

The cover painting on the October issue of Rod and Gun in Canada is bound to evoke the admiration of all lovers of the great out of doors who have seen a partridge in its native haunts. To accompany this wonderful painting, F. V. Williams the artist has written a graphic story entitled "When Leaves Turn Brown"

A beautiful nature story, "Under Canvas with Moses" by J. Livingston tells of Moses Missabi, an Objib-way guide in the Timigami Reserve and his cheerful Indian philosophy. "Mortimer and Coy" is the title of H. Mortimer Batten's latest tale of the prairie foothills. Other interesting stories and articles in this issue are "The Kejmikjuk Monster" by Phil. H. Moore; "The Sea Serpent" written by A. E. Jay; "Dredging Within The One Hundred Fathom Line" by Bonnycastle Dale; and "Wild Life Sanctuaries by J. E. Harkin, Commissioner of Dominion Parks. THE SINN FEIN RECORD

Written for The Ontario by
Chas. M. Rice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

The record of the Sinn Fein during the war is now known and should cause every patriotic Briton to blush with shame that such exhibitions of traitorous conduct could take place on British soil, for as published from time to time in the public press, that record is disloyal to the core and pro-German, anti-Allies and anti-Americans as well as anti-British.

When early in the war, British-Irish Democracy was making every effort to transform itself from a peace-loving people into a huge war machine to assist the Belgians and the French to resist the German onslaught upon civilization, the Sinn Feiners started an insurrection in Dublin which of course was speedily quelled. The Sinn Fein object, however, was accomplished, viz: that insurrection necessitated the retention in Ireland of a large number of troops urgently needed to reinforce the greatly outnumbered Belgians, French and British armies then desperately fighting to drive back the Huns on the west front. By such insurrection, therefore, the Sinn Feiners aided Germany and weakened the allies.

When Mr. Remond and thousands of the other patriotic Irishmen were fighting and dying at the front to defeat German military autocracy, and "to make the world safe for democracy," the Sinn Feiners were intriguing with the German government through the notorious Sir Roger Casement, with a view to an attack on Britain from the rear thru Ireland. Simultaneously the American Sinn Feiners were affiliating with the American Germans whose actual and attempted treachery to this country was detected and exposed by the American government and published in the American press.

When thousands of men of Irish birth or descent in democratic Canada, Australia and America were voluntarily enlisting or being willingly drafted, and America was raising and sending millions of men to Europe for service against the common enemy of mankind—German military autocracy—eligible Sinn Feiners in Ireland abstained from voluntary enlistment and successfully opposed conscription to such an extent that Ireland furnished a much less percentage of men, according to population, than the island of Great Britain. The Sinn Feiners to that extent again aided Germany in her murderous work and weakened the allies. But these traitors "backed the wrong horse"—Germany was defeated, and the allies convened a conference in Paris to dictate the terms of peace and to remake the map of Europe.

In the face of this Sinn Fein pro-German, anti-Allies record, a bunch of American Irish, practically all Sinn Feiners—the "prize agitator" Frank P. Walsh, estab.—with characteristic "gall" went to Paris with the impudent and foolish notion that they could induce the allies' representatives to look at matters through the distorted lenses of Sinn Fein spectacles. By the courtesy of the British government they were allowed to visit Ireland, and while there, repaid that courtesy by making "im-temperate speeches," thereby aggravating a local situation already delicate and difficult. No wonder they were unable to get a hearing before the peace conference.

Since then the Sinn Feiners could in Ireland, misconstrue or presume on the forbearance and leniency of the British government, increase the number of murders and outrages rendering necessary and further drastic measures to secure law-abiding people freedom and protection. Defeated Germany would be only too pleased if the Sinn Feiners could accomplish their object among the allies.

It would be grossly unjust to the great majority of the people of Ireland and the people of Irish birth and descent the world over to judge them by the "blind hysterics" and malodorous record of the Sinn Fein minority in and out of Ireland. These poor misguided souls are deluded and made just ignorant enough through a well known influence that has been around them from their youth up, to parade through the land calling themselves "champions of freedom," and demanding the recognition of a mythical Irish Republic. Did they fight for a liberty they are raving about? Not one of them can produce such a redeeming record. The largest Irish society in America—the Ancient Order of Hibernians—put themselves on record at Washington, D.C. in the early days of the war, "so that Ireland could get her freedom"; also for their freedom if the Hun had won. But such is Sinn Fein stupidity which others can see, if they cannot.

A Tonic for The Nerves

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

"If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing which the specialist spoke of is the nervous run-down condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, morose, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches, neuritis and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctors of the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich, red blood. Therefore to cure nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills actually make new, rich blood, which strengthens the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin curing yourself today by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GLEN ROES

We were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Perry Palmer on Saturday, after an illness of only a few weeks. Mr. Palmer and the brothers and sisters have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. Miss H. Irwin returned to her home in Madoc on Sunday, after spending a pleasant week in this vicinity.

measure able to control the animal, and a broncho at that, until she was landed out on the ground. She scarcely knows how, comparatively safe. The horse then broke loose from the buggy and ran home. Fortunately for Mrs. Anderson her sister Mrs. A. Green and daughter, Gladys, happened along just in time to witness the accident, and they at once took her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Reddick of Rochester were recent visitors in our village.

Mr. Ronald McKee spent Thanksgiving with his uncle, Mr. L. Gerow.

Mrs. Allan Herrington still continues very poorly at the hospital.

Mrs. Clapp, of Belleville, called on her sister, Mrs. Frank Belnap, on Wednesday last.

In Memory of late Frank Reddick So sad and so true, we cannot tell why, the best are the first that are called to die.

It is with the deepest regret that we record the death of the late Frank Reddick, which took place in Belleville hospital on Oct. 14th. The late Mr. Reddick had many friends who regret his early demise. He was a young man of fine character and sterling quality, and his death has cast a gloom over our community. He was one of the Trustees of the church here and was true to his home and to his church, and to his God. Too much can't be said of the late Mr. Reddick and the sympathy of the community goes to the young widow and son who are left to mourn. Besides his wife and son, he leaves a father and mother, two sisters and one brother. The funeral service was conducted in Rossmore church, where the Rev. Mr. Elliott of Belleville preached a very impressive sermon to a large assembly of relatives and friends. The floral tributes were very beautiful. Interment took place at Albany.

He is not dead, he is just away with a cheery smile and the clasp of a hand, he's just passed into an unknown land.

Nelson Day Money Will Make Sailors

Canadians Will Have to Depend More than ever on the Mercantile Marine.

"Canadians must sail the Seas," is a slogan of the "Nelson Day" campaign to raise $500,000 on Oct. 21, 22, and 23. This money is required by the Navy League of Canada for the maintenance of the Sailors' Institutes at Canadian Ports and for the training of Canadian boys for service on the sea.

Every nation in the world today realizes that its foreign trade is dependent upon its possession of adequate merchant marine and is straining every nerve to gain its place as a maritime power. The United States, France, Italy, Japan and our old enemy Germany are all in the race. Now is the time for Canada to claim her share in maintaining the maritime supremacy of the Empire.

To keep the blood of commerce flowing in our Empire's veins, the British merchant fleet must maintain its supremacy. There is no unit of the Empire more dependent upon foreign trade and therefore, upon a strong fleet of Canada's continued prosperity is absolutely dependent upon Foreign Trade and now that the world markets are starved, and call for her goods at the time for Canada to build up a Mercantile Marine which will give her her rightful place in world commerce. The Navy League of Canada is doing a great work in educating the people upon these lines and its naval brigades are training many young men to become qualified sailors.

Big Wreck At Reaboro

Turned Rail, the Cause—Engineer Golden Hurled Through Cab Window—Conductor McElroy Received Few Bruises.

One of the worst tie-ups in the experience of the Grand Trunk Railway on the Midland Division took place Monday morning at 4.30 o'clock at the main crossing at Reaboro, when one of the big compound moguls, No. 1231, left the rails, taking with her six cars which were loaded with coal. The coal was being delivered from Port Hope to Lindsay, being heavy steam coal for the company.

Fireman B. Watson, of Halliburton a returned man, was the most seriously hurt, and was immediately rushed to hospital at Lindsay. He was unfortunate in being buried between the boiler and the coal car, and was badly scalded about the left arm and leg by escaping hot water from the boiler. He also had his shoulder dislocated.

Engineer Chas. Golden, of Lindsay, had a marvellous escape. He was hurled out of the cab window and escaped unhurt with the exception of a few bruises and cuts.

Conductor Jas. McElroy was riding in the caboose and was thrown to the top of the cabin, but beyond a few cuts about the head is none the worse for the accident.

Brakeman Ed. Slater of Lindsay, and T. Shuttleworth of Burnt River, were unhurt.

Dr. White, railroad physician, of Lindsay, was rushed to the scene of the accident and was there to render medical assistance to the painfully scalded fireman and others of the crew.

The accident occurred just west of the Reaboro station, and is said to have been caused by a turned rail. It means a big tie-up, as no less than three trains had to be flagged or flared, all of which were standing idle on the line Sunday, blocking all traffic.

A Comedy of Errors

He looks for a gas leak with a match; and found it. He lighted a match to see if his gasoline tank was empty; it was not. He smoked while filling his auto tank; but will do so no more. He smoked in bed, so did the bed clothes.

He threw matches into the waste paper basket. He is wiser now. He threw a cigarette stub into some rubbish; it went on burning. He saved his oily rage and waste and they destroyed his shop. He washed his hand with gasoline near the stove. The nurse washes them now.

He allowed dangerous conditions to remain because "he never had a fire." He no longer boasts of that record.

He did not worry about fire because he had "plenty of insurance," but he forgot the safety of his wife and children.

He used a torch to thaw out frozen water pipes and set the house on fire.

She cleaned her clothes with gaso line and saved fifteen cents, but paid the doctor and druggist fifteen dollars.

She poured coal oil on a sluggish fire to brighten it. It did. She poured coal oil into the lamp while the wick was burning.

She put gasoline into the wash boiler on the stove to make washing easier. She did no more washing that week.

She dried clothes too near the fire. She used the wrong oil can. She used the woodbox back of the range as a waste paper basket.

She gave matches to her children to go out and burn leaves in the yard. The cotton dresses burned easier than the leaves.

She looked for a dress in the clothes closet with a candle. She was "coming right back" so left the electric current right on her iron.

She swung the gas bracket too close to the curtains.

She fixed up a fine tissue paper made shade for the lamp. She filled the tank of her gasoline stove while one burner was on. The comedies were turned to tragedies, the scenes of action are in ashes, and many of the actors are maimed or overlastingly asleep. Others continue to follow their example and over 250 persons are annually burned to death in Canada. Why not take care!

Belleville Votes Four "Drys" By Very Large Majorities Yesterday

William H. Ireland Carried Riding of West Hastings by 448 Over Col. E. D. O'Flynn—5240 Votes Polled in Belleville—O'Flynn Had 466 Majority in Belleville But Lost in Trenton and Sidney.

Mayor William H. Ireland, of Trenton will represent the riding of West Hastings in the Provincial Legislature, having defeated the Liberal candidate, Col. E. D. O'Flynn in yesterday's election by a majority of about 450 votes. Belleville went overwhelmingly on record as favoring a dry province with 2,088 majority against the repeal of the O.T.A. and 1,274 majority against government control of booze.

Col. O'Flynn made a great run in Belleville with a majority of between four and five hundred votes over his opponent, Sidney went Tory and handed out Mayor Ireland a majority of about 180. It was in Trenton that Mr. Ireland made his biggest haul, having 731 majority over his opponent.

It was the biggest voting day in history. About 5,200 ballots were cast in the election out of a possible 7,000 in Belleville. It is thought that in the entire riding the ballots used totalled over 9,000. Twenty-seven polling stations were necessary in Belleville.

The exercise of the franchise by the women introduced an uncertain element and made predictions risky. The defeat of the Ontario Government was the great surprise for all. Col. O'Flynn had secured the city hall for the receipt of the provincial returns. The accommodation was taxed to the uttermost to contain the crowd of his supporters. The returns were announced by Col. Wilson and were greeted with applause particularly when labor candidates were reported as elected.

When the election of Mr. Ireland was assured, Col. E. D. O'Flynn went to the platform and announced that the riding had gone Tory. The colonel was greeted with round after round of applause and it was some time before he could be heard, so warm was the applause of the candidate who had put up such a gallant fight against the forces of Toryism.

"I would rather get a majority in Belleville and be defeated in the riding than be defeated in my home town and win in the riding," he said as he thanked the electors for their noble support in Belleville which netted him such a fine majority. "We put up a square fight. I hope possibly at some future date we may be able to give them a trimming in this riding."

The crowd stayed until eleven o'clock at the hall when the operator left the operating instrument. By this time the constitution of the legislature was known.

Mr. Ireland made his speech from his club room window after 11 p.m. and thanked his friends for their support. He was apparently deeply affected by the slaughter of the Conservatives whom he expected to sit with in the Legislature. He promised to stand by the electors of West Hastings and do everything in their interest possible.

Mr. Vanner was rendered unconscious for a while.

Warning to People, Says H. H. Dewar

When at 10 o'clock in the evening Mr. H. H. Dewar, K.C., M.P.P., victor by the huge majority of 5500 over Mr. George H. Gooderham, M.P.P., in Southwest Toronto, appeared at a newspaper office window downtown he was greeted by the rousing cheers of several thousand men and women. Every sentence of the brief address he made was punctuated by the crowd's cheers. He said: "This victory for our cause is a demonstration of the feeling of the people of Ontario that I represent the true democratic cause. Right thinking Conservatives as well as Liberals helped to produce this great victory. It has also been demonstrated that the day of machine nominations is over. This landslide against the Government is a warning to those holding the reins of power that they must serve the people and not themselves."

A Winnipeg Man Shot and Killed

Storekeeper Shot Through the Heart After He Left His Store

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 18—W. J. DeForge, 657 Maryland St., was found murdered at 2 o'clock a.m. (Saturday). He was attached to the Military Intelligence Department during the war, and was shot through the heart outside of 689 Maryland Street at that hour. The police state clearly he is a victim of murder. He was 25 years of age, married, and since severing his connection with the military, had conducted a confectionery store at the corner of Maryland and Wellington streets. He left the store shortly after 1 a.m., and though he had $200 or more on him, the murderer did not get it. The shot alarmed the neighborhood in Kenwood Apartments, who rushed out and found DeForge lying dead on the sidewalk. A widow and a son, three years old, survive. There is no trace of the murderer. The city is infested with daring gangs of automobile bandits.

Obituary

MRS. LOTTIE B. WIGGINS

After about two months' illness with Bright's Disease, Mrs. George Wiggins passed away in Nichol's Hospital, Peterboro, on Oct. 9th, at the age of 36 years. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy and was born at Cordova and lived there all her life. She was very highly esteemed by the whole community and her kindness and ready sympathy won her many warm friends. She is survived by her parents, two brothers and one sister, besides her husband. The funeral took place on Saturday and proceeded from her late residence, Cordova to the Methodist church, Marmora, for service, after which the remains were interred in Marmora cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. N. Loveless, of Cordova. —Marmora Herald

Late Mrs. Homan

The funeral of the late Mrs. Homan took place from her late residence to Carmel Church on Saturday afternoon, where, Rev. Mr. McMullen officiated. Interment was made in Elmwood Cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. Albert Jones, J. Rummels, Oliver Mather, F. Hicks, J. Patterson and H. Gerow.

GREAT MAJORITY FOR U. F. O. CANDIDATE IN EAST HASTINGS

Sandy Grant Ex-M. P. P. Goes Down to Defeat Before Henry K. Denyes for the United Farmers—Reported Majority for Mr. Denyes 470.

Sandy Grant went down to defeat in yesterday's U. F. O. cyclone. The full majority in East Hastings for Henry K. Denyes is reported to be 470 but owing to storm conditions this morning The Ontario has been unable to get complete returns from Tyendinaga. The majority in that township for Denyes will be very large, partial returns giving him 219.

Mr. Denyes is to be congratulated on the splendid vote he received at the home poll at Zion and in his native township of Thurlow. Mr. Grant's majority of more than 300 shows that he too stood high in the estimation of his neighbors.

Both sides put up a good, clean fight in East Hastings and both sides fought well. Thurlow Majorities

HEARST GOVERNMENT SWAMPED BY COMBINATION OF FARMERS AND LIBERALS IN PROVINCE

Premier Hearst Goes Down to Defeat With Large Majority of His Ministers—No Party in Itself Has Working Majority—Labor Candidates Do Well.

With the Liberals and Conservatives practically on even terms, the United Farmers, having over forty seats, and with Labor making a good showing, the Hearst administration was fairly swamped in the Ontario provincial elections yesterday, the premier himself going down to defeat by a substantial majority and taking four of his cabinet ministers with him. Messrs. McGarry, McPherson, Macdunnald and Lucas. The latter had never expressed over-confidence regarding winning his own seat in Centre Grey, but his fellow-ministers who met such a rebuff at the hands of the people were known to be as sanguine over their chances as they were optimistic over the general success of the party.

Night Industrial Classes at Belleville

An excellent beginning has been made in industrial night school work in Belleville. The attendance, while not large, is very creditable, considering the adverse conditions of last autumn.

The instruction given is satisfactory, and in quality quite up to the average of that of older schools. The policy of the committee in taking care that no instructor shall have too great a number of students is showing its effect.

In the classes in men's work, the proportion of tradesmen and workmen from the shops is particularly noticeable and the intention that nearly all of them express of following up the school work next winter speaks well for the quality of the instruction and the type of men.

In women's work the dressmaking class is now of good size and the cooking class will be large when the benefits to be derived by attending are understood by the women of the city.

The organization and supervision are of the best. If the principal had the time at his disposal to show his capacity for doing "outside work" as well as work in the school, one of the best industrial night schools in the Province would be developed.

The accommodation and equipment are very fair for present needs. Accommodation for the drawing class should be improved and no pains should be spared to make the lighting for drawing and sewing the best possible.

Suggestions:
1. The committee is showing lively interest in the work. It is urged that a systematic plan for assisting the principal in bringing home to every workman in Belleville the benefits to be derived from attending the classes be worked out and adhered to.
2. It is suggested that the committee form a plan of having members visit the school and every class in it at short intervals and thus show the students the deep interest they are taking in the work.
3. So many earnest, steady men from the shops are attending this winter that the classes in men's work should be much larger next year. (a) The men at present in the drawing class should form a class next year in more advanced drawing and design with the necessary mathematics added to it. (b) The men at present taking fractions and decimals should form a mechanical drawing and shop mathematics class next year. (c) The question of a separate school class for apprentices and learners should have a careful consideration.
4. The class in cooking should be readily developed. A class in millinery might well be started and a class in home nursing, taught by a physician or a nurse, would be a very valuable addition to the women's work.

On the evening of inspection, 19 were present in the typewriting and shorthand class and 11 in the bookkeeping.

In my opinion, satisfactory instruction is being given and very good progress made. The teachers are thorough in their work so that the ground covered marks real progress.

The equipment including typewriters is ample.

VICTORIA

Church next Sunday will be held at 10.30. A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. Harry Sager on Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, when over one hundred friends and neighbors gathered there for a prayer meeting. After singing a few hymns and saying a few prayers, the meeting was turned into a surprise party, which all had gathered for with well filled baskets. The evening was spent in music, games and readings. The address follows: Victoria, Oct. 14, 1919. To Mrs. Margaret Sager and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sager. It seems peculiarly fitting that a scene such as we find ourselves connected with this evening should have been ushered in by a community prayer meeting, hot that we are wishing to be unduly solemn or seeking to be more than ordinarily religious, but that we may ask and expect the Divine Seal upon the future, yours and ours. We have had so many things in common interest, arms, endeavours and enterprises that in this place, your home for so long, we truly feel of one accord. We are reminded of the heartiness with which the patriarch of this family, now gone on, entered into and pursued the way of sacrifice in order that our "little church in the wildwood" just across the way, might be built and established and maintained. And with what gratitude do you and we recall the times of triumph and the rich blessing that have come to us in various ways as we have continued in its support and communion and now that you are about to leave us, we feel that you will be encouraged and strengthened in the defence of right and in lives of righteousness by letting you know that we have not failed to notice and appreciate your many kind attentions and faithful efforts.

In choosing tokens as mementoes of our friendship and best Christian wishes, we believe that the mother heart will continue to find most comfort and blessing in the Book of Truth and the Hymns of Praise and adoration that you, Mrs. Sager, accept these copies and may you use them long, joyously and successfully, and to you, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sager, who will often sit with your worthy mother and glad in the Light which comes because of the experience of happy age, in order that you all may share and enjoy together evening after evening. We tender this electric lamp. We do not need to sermonize upon the source of its future brightness, but just simply pray that you may each keep up a close connection with the great Power House and origin of all true light and that we may all have a glorious past and a re-union in eternity.

I have arrested five of them and the sixth is under observation and will be secured shortly."

The Drunkard's Child

(Reprinted by Request) In the crowded street I met her As the twilight veiled the sky. Never, never to forget her And the teardrops in her eye.

Father, father spoke she mildly, Mother prayed you would not stay. Father, father cried she wildly, Come, oh come with me away!

Hush thy tongue, the father uttered For the drumshop door was nigh, And her heart with terror fluttered When he bade her homeward fly.

Sad and faint and broken-hearted, Turned that little child away To the home from whence she started, Where her starving mother lay.

All night long with grief and sorrow Watched, they prayed, they hoped in vain Till the daydawn of the morrow Brought the drunkard home again.

Sore and cross the wretch beheld him Wanting even a crust to eat Like two beasts the fiend expelled him From the hovel to the street.

Bitter, bitter days that bore it, Grief the world may never know, Till the bier with sable o'er it Eased their burden here below.

Side by side the two are sleeping Withered stalk, and faded rose, 'Neath the silent willow weeping O'er the grave of many woes.

Oh, my God, is this a story Or a sight for every day? This is part of human glory, Let the tongue of ages say.

What of courts and what of battles, What of deeds beyond the grave, When beside our hearthside rattles All the pageant of the grave.

Dim the eye and cold the embers Pale the cheek and dark the sky Oh, what joy the soul remembers Gives to grief a darker eye.

Slogan of Victory Loan Representatives

Great Gathering in City Yesterday of Men Who Will Put the Third and Last Victory Loan Over the Top—Inspiring Addresses by Leading Citizens of District.

"Come on and Finish the Job" was the slogan of a great gathering of canvassers and leading citizens who met in this city yesterday to organize to put the third and last Victory loan over the top. Even greater enthusiasm and determination was displayed than in former years to make this final effort the most successful of all. Insurance and canvassing specialists and men of affairs from Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Hastings county and Belleville gathered at the Y.M.C.A. in the morning to receive instructions from the county organizers. After a couple of hours profitably spent in this way, the various county units met at Hotel Quinte, where luncheon was served. The dining room was enlivened by jolly choruses rendered by the company.

No Uncertainty Now
After the customary toast to His Majesty had been patriotically honored, Mr. W. B. Deacon, district chairman took charge of the speaking program. "A year ago, Mr. Deacon said, there was an air of uncertainty about our position. There is no uncertainty today. We know where we are, thanks to our soldier boys. They have finished their job. It is up to us now to finish ours. The government requires about $400,000,000 to finish paying the bills. We mustn't fall down. Canada never fell down on anything. Our boys never lost a gun. We will not lose now with financial victory in sight."

Prosperity Must Continue
Mr. E. B. Thompson, district organizer, in an excellent address, went over the ground showing the necessity for this final loan. The notable results last year, said Mr. Thompson, reflected great credit upon all those who had to do with the canvass and with putting over the loan. The publicity this year was on a bigger scale than ever. It would greatly help in the canvass. Mr. Thompson went over the various items in expenditure for demobilization, gratuities, etc., the past year, showing that it was all essential and every dollar had been spent in Canada. The unexampled prosperity of Canada the past two years was primarily due to the success of the two Victory loans. We wanted that prosperity to continue. These Victory loans had taught the people the lesson of thrift and the habit of saving. The bankers at first looked upon the loans with some misgivings. They now welcomed and supported them. They were behind the people in making the loans. The loans in Canada were, on the testimony of financial authorities in New York, the best handled of any country in the world. Our bonds always sold at a premium. Mr. Thompson read figures showing that Canada's financial position was exceptionally sound as compared with other countries. "There was this difference, this year, that bonds were taxable as regards income, but this was only fair as the war was now over. Canvassers should not let the men who said they had no money but who had property. They should be pressed to borrow money and lend it to Canada. If the war had not been won they would have no assets. Take no subscriptions for smaller amounts than last year. "Get 150 per cent. of your team's objective." He predicted that the Victory bonds would, in a few years, go to 185 per cent.

The Man Who Works 25 Hours a Day
Mr. Robert Davidson of the Bristol Company, Picton, was introduced as the man who worked 25 hours a day during the Victory Loan campaigns. Mr. Davidson in explaining the factors that contribute to success said that in Picton they had two laymen to speak on the Victory loan at the church on Sunday. Their county had gone ten to one in favor of prohibition, and intended to establish a new record on this Victory loan. The Patriotism of Peace
Mr. H. H. Horsey, vice-chairman for Prince Edward, gave a rousing speech that was heartily applauded. This was not a time for rhetoric but a time for business, said Mr. Horsey. The canvassers had just finished themselves by their success. "It's the men you have before you who will likely get again; but try to get the new men. Try to ascertain the financial standing of the man. At noon or in the evening is the best time for canvassing in the rural districts. Tell them that a critical time faced the people a year ago. Tell them how the high prices for grain and farm products have been due

MR. W. B. DEACON, District Chairman, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington Victory Loan Committee.

Mr. U. M. Wilson, county crown attorney for Lennox and Addington and chairman for those counties, gave an inspiring address. "We are still full of punch and prepared to stay on the job," he said, "until it is properly done. You men will not feel that you are true Canadians unless you do wind the job up properly. You are all posted as to the reason for this loan—demobilisation expenses, advances to other countries so that they may buy our goods and maintain our prosperity. The boys who went overseas stayed on the job every day. They set the example. It is up to us to carry on."

He predicted that Lennox and Addington would go over the top and would again beat their rivals in Prince Edward.

Come on and Finish the Job
Nelson Parliament, the member elect for Prince Edward, was last speaker and was accorded a hearty reception. "There's only one slogan for the canvassers, 'Come on and Finish the Job,'" said Mr. Parliament. "We can congratulate ourselves that this young nation finished the job at Mons on the day that peace was declared. Let us now finish the job at home."

AMELIASBURG
Miss M. Mitchellson, of Belleville, spent Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. Egerton Wannamaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parliament spent a recent Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lont. Mr. Will Reddick and wife were in Wellington on Sunday with his brother, Mr. Austin Reddick. Mrs. Thos. Purteile, of Picton, spent the week with Mrs. M. Dolan. Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, of Mountain View, were guests of Mr. Chas. Sager and family on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wannamaker were in Belleville on Friday. Mr. Will Cross and wife, of Belleville spent Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cross. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hall, of Sidney were guests of the latter's brother, Mr. Lewis Lont, on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Parliament of Oshawa were guests of Mr. Chas. Carriker and family recently. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sager and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Price were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kemp on Sunday. Mrs. Hattie Bowers, of Oshawa, was the guest of Mrs. Chas. Ferguson on Sunday.

Mr. H. H. Horsey, vice-chairman for Prince Edward, gave a rousing speech that was heartily applauded. This was not a time for rhetoric but a time for business, said Mr. Horsey. The canvassers had just finished themselves by their success. "It's the men you have before you who will likely get again; but try to get the new men. AVIATION AFTER THE WAR

Chas. M. Bice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

We are the "Children of a larger growth" says the poet. In order to interest us so that we may not begrudge the heedful money for aviation purposes and to give us ocular demonstration of the gains made in aeronautics during the war, a large number of machines are in the air flying back and forth from the two coasts. Our attention has to be kept keyed by such exhibitions. So many machines started eastward, so many westward, doing things in the air not dreamed of before 1914, when a new page in history was opened. The undertaking is in a sense international; it is not confined to American flyers. Owners of engines and planes are interested, naturally, for the advertising gained, but the main end is to stimulate interest in the new means of locomotion, the latest to be employed, yet the fastest known to mankind. Speeds not possible on earth are obtained in the air, and science tells us we are just on the threshold. In time space will be annihilated in a manner that would have been declared impossible when the war began.

This nation, the first to produce the heavier than air machine ought to have been in the vanguard in aviation, but in the rear, its record governmentally is deplorable. Commercially we have nothing to speak of compared to Europe. During the war we were dependent on our associates for machines. After the war we fell into the rut, whereas Europe began at once the application of flight to everyday purposes, commercial and pleasurable. Mail and passenger services are common across the ocean. Dirigibles and heavier than air machines are in hourly use. An Atlantic daily service is in the immediate future.

Army men and aeronautic experts outside the army are beseeching Congress to do something worth while to restore American reputation for inventiveness and daring. It is proposed to have an independent director of aviation, named by the national executive, to keep the service free from red tape. If something is not done like this we will be in the position we were in five years ago when a punitive army was sent across the border and had to beg a foreign government for the loan of a set of airplanes.

An admiral of the British fleet—the greatest since Nelson, the man who prepared the navy for 1914, in his autobiography just published solemnly asserts that before the next war, which will be as soon as Germany can get ready, the surface of the ocean will be bare of ships. The strides already made in the air will make this certain, to say nothing of what is coming in a few years. An American naval officer, declared a few days ago that the service had designs for airships that would make a surface navy useless.

The next war will be fought from the air and undersea. Apart from war, development of aeronautics in this country as a part of business is an essential. The government must lead the way; private enterprise, in this day of "The State," is slow and hesitating.

The Medical Profession

Shall I Study to be a Doctor?

During many years in association with the practice of medicine in city and village, opportunities have very often been presented wherein discerning, ambitious and scholarly young men have sought my advice or opinion, in regard to all the essential interests required in matriculation and other incidents by our own universities in their curricula. Many of—In fact all those who thus have sought my views and counsel were public school teachers, and some were possessors of the B.A. degree, or had passed the necessary examination for matriculation conducted by our high schools.

In pleasing memory I have preserved the names of thirty-two men—public school teachers; of four men, each holding the B.A. degree—high school teachers; and eight young men of the most advanced high school qualifications. These forty-two men, I know full well their education, their virtues and honorable characters, encouraged, and recommended as worthy, and they in due time graduated with marked distinction, obtaining the double qualifications of M.D. and C.M. (Chirurgiae Magister, i.e., Master of Surgery).

Trinity University became the Alma Mater of most of the graduates. Next in order was Queen's University, Toronto and McGill graduated the least number.

As this subject is of much worthy consideration, not only by those who intend to become M.D.'s, but by the parents or guardians of the same, in brief, I present a summary, or rather a condensation of my views, such as I have always given, in many instances, to those applicants or prospective medical students; and to their parents or guardians; and in this paper I am not to be considered partial to any medical school, for the two universities of which I am a graduate as M.D., C.M., are affiliated with the University of Toronto, and even in this last named my name appears in its register as a graduate, by affiliation rights.

I write as one with the authority of age and association, and as one who has studied the faces and qualifications of some nine hundred applicants for the doctor's degree of a provincial university, and of applicants seeking the license of our College of Physicians and Surgeons, the opportunity being presented to me as examiner during six sessions for the university, and eight sessions for the last named.

I present, as follows, some of the most essential considerations which are of much interest as regards early studies and preparation for the university, and in association therewith other interests are introduced as relate to the active practice. I introduce John, who calls to talk with me about medical colleges:

Well, John, I am pleased you have come to consult with me in reference to your proposed course in Medicine, for I am of the opinion that you, a member of an highly honored, and educated family, have an adaptability or genius for the art of Medicine. Your character and life are faultless; your judgment is sound; you possess mildness and boldness in character, and yet are full of sympathy. You are studious, altruistic, patient, self-possessed, honorably so. You are inventive and markedly resourceful, and such are the essentials as named by Hippocrates nearly 2,400 years ago. You fully believe "lofty ideals lift all life." You, too, fully believe that Medicine in its history, has among its medical records the names of gods, demigods, and exalted divinities; that the fundamental principles of a successful life in Medicine are singleness of purpose, devotion to duty, and an unflinching effort. In fact, as Oslor said, our work is Work! Work! Work!!!; for Medicine is a jealous mistress, and suitably she accepts none but who are very scholarly, knowing well, as fundamental studies, "the classics of Greece and Rome."

No one can enter the study of Medicine without a thorough schooling in classics, mathematics, logic and philosophy. It is well to learn "the medical profession is, and always has been, a willing slave to nothing but its own high and ancient ideals." And it is well and necessary to learn your hopes by the study of the fathers in Medicine. ("Veterum volvens monumenta vitrorum, et spes dicite vestras," as Virgil tells us.) Remember, too, physicians (as Gladstone says) will become the future leaders of nations, and with Horace, "Doctrina sed vim promovet instans, factaque cultus pectora roborant."—Carm. IV., 4, 33. Our studies give us new life and lead us to higher worth.

It is well to remember that the backbone of our profession is the general practitioner, and that no other profession can boast, said Sir Dr. Wm. Osler, of the same unbroken continuity of methods and ideals. Remember, medicus in omne aevum nobilis, that in every age the physician is noble, and among scholars "the most scholarly—chief among equals—in fact, as a Doctus Omnifariam, erudite in all knowledge—a polymath."

No profession presents the same inducements for hard study as Medicine does, and the Regius Professor in Medicine of Cambridge University has well said: "In these days of medical and surgical triumphs, never before was there a time when the study of Medicine offered such visions of success and reward—social, scientific, and beneficent—as at present; and they who have bared their breasts for the endless studies and struggles in researches, they the auctores maxime sapientiae, they shall see and bring the glory and honor of the nations into it—yes, in teaching future periods, glorious with visions of the fairest success."

The B.A. or B.Sc. is required by five U.S. universities for matriculation, and our own schools are not demanding such standings, even if Oxford and Cambridge, several centuries ago, had similar rulings for inception to medical studies and the exalted degree of Doctor.

When I commenced my medical studies, I had the advantages for study by attending the university as a student in the arts, faculty, and became familiar with the senior classes in an advanced standing. Such studies to me were of great help, and have since, as an avocation—especially of late years—been pleasing in study as they were decidedly essential in medical studies and in practice.

For several years I have urged our universities and College of Physicians and Surgeons to exact the B.A. or B.Sc. degree for matriculation, but blending either of these degrees in the medical course is, to me, and to many, very objectionable. As every university in Ontario is of equal standing as regards requirements for M.D., with that those requirements of the two other universities, I am of the opinion that the smaller schools are better in every respect, and should be chosen by medical students. The professors of Queen's and Western University are in every respect the equals of Toronto University men, and Queen's, to me, is the Oxford of Ontario; for it grants no other but the old and well-known degrees, and is not fabricating any new or needless diplomas for the degree-crazed mob.

The most learned and distinguished author of many medical books, Dr. George M. Gould, Philadelphia, in his article, "Vocation and Avocation," says: "Every one who must influence a young man beginning the study of Medicine should do his best to keep him out of the big medical college and to guide him into the small one. The greater the student body, the worse the teaching. The more pompous the professor, the more he should be laid aside." / Dr. Gould also says: "For preparational education and medical progress one small medical college, especially if located in a little, instead of a large city, is worth any two big medical colleges. As a rule the greater the size of the classes, the more famous the professors, then the more untrue the teaching, the more immoral the teachers and taught. Success, ambition, politics, greed, conservatism, the worse kind—the dirty kind—are more certain to rule the minds and kill the hearts of the men in control of huge institutions than those of the smaller ones." Many men and many minds, yet much truth in Dr. Gould's words.

It is for you, John, to name your university, for no college or school in Canada has ever granted the M.D. degree—such is the work only of our universities. Six years of the most intense study and an expenditure of three or four thousand dollars, including loss of time, etc., leads you to the M.B. degree (Bachelor of Medicine) Toronto, or the higher, yet equivalent, M.D., C.M. degree of Queen's, McGill, Western or Laval. M.D. is obtained at Toronto a few years after the grant of M.B., provided you certify to several years of practice, write an approved thesis, and pay twenty or more dollars for the Doctor's degree.

I think the M.B. degree should be preserved, as a memory, nothing more; although it is a chronicle that the Bachelor knows it all, and the Doctor once knew it all, and especially has forgotten it, and learned things that were and are useful, for knowledge is not all unless blended with wisdom, and such unity comes by careful and continuous study. Knowledge and wisdom have often no connection. Knowledge comes from books, and wisdom from age, self study, and experience.

Having secured the Bachelor's, or better, the Doctor's degree, the College of Physicians and Surgeons exacts a tedious examination and one hundred dollars in fees for the Provincial License, which, being secured, and you wish the Dominion Medical Council License, such, by examination during the first ten years after the Provincial License, and the payment of one hundred dollars in fees, can be obtained. The Dominion License, without examination, and payment of one hundred dollars, is secured after ten years in practice; yet wherever you settle, one hundred dollars will be required by every province, except Ontario. To practice in every province and obtain the licenses thereof costs $300, and yet someone foolishly said "Canada is for Canadians."

One naturally asks: "Where do the young doctors locate?" Having before me the Year Book and Calendar of Trinity University of 1913 (nine years after federation with Toronto University and no longer a university), I find Trinity had 1,566 living graduates as M.D., C.M., and 370 of these were residents of the U.S. Other universities have similar showings. These 370 men, self-extriated Canadians, I know well secured U.S. licenses at least at one-half less expense than any one province demands.

You ask why does the Dominion Medical Council not give the Ontario licentiate his license, within the first ten years, without examination? I do not know, unless it is to put candidates to more trouble and expense and even to drive them from Canada. Without the Dominion License the young M.D., no matter if he has his province's certificate, must pass examinations and pay $100 in order to qualify himself for practice in another province.

Dr. T. G. Roddick secured the "Sir" and "K.C.B." from King Edward for his organization of the Dominion Licensing body. Dr. R. W. Powell, Ottawa, is Secretary of this Medical Council of Canada, whose necessity may form a study for young M.D.'s and for those who wish to know what are its objects, and if it supplies a want.

These are "thoughts of thoughts which thought but tenderly touches" and of a few interests among many that every medical student should know early in his course, thereby saving much expense, time, and heartaches; and learning if "Canada is for Canadians," especially for those most deserving, the best educated, and ambitious, who want to study six years and spend several thousands of dollars to become the commonwealth's guides, as Doctors, when damnable cults are not molested or banished.

SARAH SIDDONS

Characteristics of the Greatest of English Actresses

The recent sale at Messrs. Christie's when the Duke of Westminster put up for auction the noble portrait by Sir Joshua Reynolds, of Mrs. Siddons as the Tragic Muse—a picture styled by Sir Thomas Lawrence as indisputably the finest female portrait in the world—is an interesting reminder of the greatest tragedienne that the English stage has produced, and of the family of talented actors and actresses Roger Kemble's children, of whom Sarah Siddons was the most distinguished.

To the work of that family as a whole—and especially to Sarah and John Philip—we owe, after Dayid Garrick, much of the new dignity and seriousness of purpose, expressed largely in a revived interest in Shakespeare, that was characteristic of the English stage from the last quarter of the 18th century into the first of the 19th.

For his father, no doubt, deserves as much credit as the children. Had Roger Kemble not given to Sarah and John something that very few strolling players of those days did give, namely, the very best education he could afford, neither the one nor the other might have won for their names, or for their profession the honor that posterity accords them today. Following upon the licentious times of the Restoration, when, and for many years after it, the average strolling actor was no better than a vagabond, a mountebank, picking up subsistence as best he might, Sarah and John Kemble took themselves and their art seriously.

The lives of these two, and especially Sarah, as related by Percy Fitzgerald and others, are as fascinating as any romance may be.

Both brothers and sisters begin at once to reveal themselves and the stage ways of their day. Very quaint those ways are, as seen through modern eyes.

Sarah, for example, playing with her company at the charming little town, Brecon, set among the Welsh hills, received from her fellow actor and future husband, one Siddons, an offer of marriage, accompanied by the same reminder—not unusual at the time—that Gretta Green was within easy reach. Sarah, properly and characteristically, declined.

Siddons was dismissed from the company, but, being accorded the compliment of a benefit, and, moreover, realizing that the Brecon affair was cognizant of, and took a sympathetic interest in, his love affair, ardently seized the opportunity to take the female portion of the audience into his confidence in a manner most characteristic of the player of that day. When the moment came, he advanced to the foot lights, and thus began:

Ye ladies of Brecon, whose hearts ever feel For wrong like to this I'm about to reveal: Excuse the first product, nor pass unregarded The complaints of poor Colin, a lover discarded.

Colin then proceeded, in many doggerel rhymes, to unfold to them "the stages of his attachment," a reprisal which, in 1919, would certainly have put an end, once and for all, to his chances with any young lady whomsoever. In this case the rhymester and his doggerel were magnanimously forgiven and Sarah Kemble goes down in history as Mrs. Siddons.

That was about 1771. She did not then dream, nor did her suitor, of the advancement that awaited her. Hers was no precocious genius, to be swept in a moment into fame upon the floodtide of a histrionic passion. Ignorant, equally, as yet, of the scope of her talent and of its limitation, she was to work her way step by step, from mere success to ultimate triumph. Slow maturity was characteristic of the Kembles.

Her first appearances at Drury Lane were comparative failures. Garrick, perhaps, realized the abilities, or possibilities, of Sarah Siddons, but, being near the end of his management, did not care to encourage them. He dismissed her. She took to the road, again made a name for herself, at Bath, then the leading provincial theatre; and in 1782, invited back to Drury Lane—by Sheridan, not by Garrick—she atoned completely for the last failure, and took London by storm.

The coming of a tragedy queen was everywhere acknowledged. Lord Byron, some years later, when he had seen Cooke, John Kemble and Kean, gave as his opinion that "Mrs. Siddons is worth them all together." If posterity has not absolutely endorsed that verdict, it has not seriously challenged it. Among tragic actresses she certainly stands alone.

Yet her deficiencies were many—more and greater than she was aware of. Mrs. Siddons' stage costumes, for example, were usually an becoming, and occasionally grotesque. She possessed little sense of humor—a failing which her brother shared—she was "a partonable actress," as Hazlitt phrases it, too hard, too studied, too statuesque, lacking in light and in shade and in tenderness; nevertheless her tall and imposing figure, her commanding presence, her compelling and arresting glance, her stately movements, her magnificent gesture, her expressive silences, her quiet dignity, her "inhorn idealism, her intensity and cumulative emotional power, gave to her acting a breadth, a depth, a majesty, and a tragic grandeur unmatched as yet in the annals of the stage.

Men did not pay court to her—"one would as soon thought of making love to the archbishop of Canterbury," said one who knew, but to see and hear her in Lady MacBeth was to bring your homage to her feet, so consciously were you in the presence of greatness.

Her scarcely less famous brother, John Philip, a solemn "Black Jack" studied, dignified, clerical almost had much of her quality, though less of her genius. Both were of the conventional classical school, artificial and pompous, no doubt, to our way of thinking, relying much upon sheer industry and calculated artifice for their effects. Kemble, however, after Sarah's retirement in 1812, continued to hold an unequalled place at the head of his profession, until time brought to London a natural romantic actor of extraordinary genius, before whose dazzling light the star of the Kembles was to wane. In 1814 Edmund Kean played Shylock at Old Drury—London corr., Christian Science Monitor.

Calgary, Oct. 20.—Resolutions asking that second offenses for bootlegging be punishable by jail sentences, that equal parental rights be established in the province, that widows be given greater power under the Dower Act, that a living wage be incorporated in the Factories Act, that hotels and lodging houses be licensed to bring them under police regulation, and that marriage licenses be issued only from the Court House by responsible parties, and the lists published every day, were passed by the Provincial Executive of the National Council of Women.

BOY LIVES WITH BULLET IN BRAIN

New Britain, Conn., Oct. 20.—For two weeks past Robert Hopkins, 14 years old, has been lying with a bullet lodged in his brain. The boy was accidentally shot in the temple by a playmate about a fortnight ago, and at the time no hope was held out for his recovery. Late last night the bullet was located by surgeons. Any attempt to remove it would cause instant death, the doctors claim. Hopkins talked rationally with the surgeons last night and they feel that he may live without any detriment to his mentality.

Manufacture by Electricity and in Full View of Public
Peterboro, Oct. 20.—The Nut Krust Bread Company have completed arrangements with the City Trust to take over the lease for the store now occupied by Spencer's barber shop.
Mr. Williams, their representative was in the city recently completing arrangements and stated that they intended to commence work here by Nov. 1st.
This company have three or four branches in the city of Toronto, and their bread has been so appreciated there that they decided to extend their business to this city. They manufacture their bread solely by electricity and in full sight of the public. In Toronto they have one of their bakeries operating in the window of their store at all times, and undoubtedly they will adopt the same plan here.
This is a rather modern method of baking bread, but it has proved so efficient that it is spreading very rapidly. Peterboro is to be congratulated on receiving this company.

FROM STRASBOURG TO CUPAR AND FORT QU'APPELLE

A Metrical Description of a Journey of 75 Miles in Saskatchewan in June, 1919, Written Especially for The Ontario by Matilda Blakely Arthur, Trenton, Ontario

Fort Qu'Appelle is now a resort in summer for hundreds of people of the West, owing to its beauty of scenery and situation and its beautiful lake and river. Its name is closely connected with the early settlement of the country. Its name is the Indian word for "who calls", and the legend or story is beautifully told by Pauline Johnson in one of her poems.

Come, friends, rise up quickly and let us away! Hasten we are eager, so do not delay! Eager to roam o'er the long winding way The way that leads over to Cupar.

'Tis a year last October since o'er it we went, 'Twas the eighth of the month that so gaily they sent Their fine new McLaughlin o'er hill, vale and bent To take us away into Cupar.

On this evening in June, with hearts all aglow, We started at six with a car not too slow— 'Twas a fine new Chevrolet, and the speed was not low, That took us away into Cupar.

Over the mountain road travelling east, On the well graded track 'twas a veritable feast To see the sun gradually sinking to rest O'er the hills as we went to Cupar.

The mountain was gay in its lovely green dress; The birds were singing a carol of rest; Round many a slough wound the road at its best, The road that led over to Cupar.

The little car moved very swiftly along As we turned to the south, and sang its low song; Our hearts beat in tune—the way seemed not long, That led us true into Cupar.

We came to a spot in a clear little dell— There were trees on the sides, and we rested a spell; We lunched in the shade, and drank from the well Of a farmer, as we went to Cupar.

Long since we had passed by the town of Earl Grey, And now into Southey we wandered our way; Then on to Mark Inch, and then we can say It's not very far into Cupar.

Then on into Cupar we came about nine— The streets were all lined up with autos so fine— Then another half mile and out on the line, We reached Hubbs, a short way from Cupar.

How cheery and bright streamed the light from the door; How sweet to meet friends when a journey is o'er; There's a right hearty welcome always in store For us from our friends out at Cupar.

We slept soundly that night on a soft feather bed— It brought back sweet thoughts of friends long since dead— Brought back the old home, and our mind then was led To Prince Edward, so far off from Cupar.

Then early next morning our friends to us spoke: "If you'll stay till tomorrow, we'll tell you a joke; We'll go to the Fort and you'll then quickly note That Qu'Appelle is much nicer than Cupar."

There's the lakes and the river, for it's "who calls" you know; There's the long winding way, where you have to go slow; For you'll meet many autos wherever you go— Round Qu'Appelle, so we started from Cupar.

How waved the green wheat on the wide open plain!— "They've had no drought here, there's been plenty of rain"— And it cheered our lone hearts to think of the grain— Would be theirs in the fall around Cupar.

The banks of the river at first met our view; There were deep rounded hills where the waves had passed through— Rising high in the sky, with a lake calm and blue That shimmered and gleamed in the sunshine.

Beyond the blue lake—Qu'Appelle could be seen With its dwellings and spires nestled close in the green, And the little Qu'Appelle flowing swiftly between The high hills that surrounded the valley.

'Tis a beautiful spot, with the river banks green, And trees of all kinds growing there could be seen; With cottages nestled so close in the green The sun could scarce pierce through the foliage.

Many relics of old-time still linger here— An ancient stone church, once to worshippers dear; 'Twas built for the Stou and there was no fear Of an enemy here in the valley.

If the heart of the town stands a monument white, A token that Britain would always do right, And treat the poor Indian with justice, not might, If they'd give up their lands around Cupar.

So we chose out a spot where the wild flowers grew And enjoyed a rich feast, as only a few; Know how to prepare from a basket we knew Was filled with the dainties of Cupar.

Then good-bye, Fort Qu'Appelle—in our dreams we shall see Thy beautiful lake, church, river and trees; And though thy great beauty we never more see, We'll oft think of thee and of Cupar.

Good-bye! to the plains that to Cupar are near— We have seen thee in beauty, two times of the year, When thy plains were all golden and autumn was near, And in June again, this time, in Cupar.

Good-bye, our dear friends, we may not meet again, Nor enjoy the fine drives about Cupar plains; But memory will linger o'er pleasure we gained From our visits to thee out at Cupar.

Obituary

MRS. MARY ANN HOMAN

Mary Ann Homan, widow of the late John Homan and daughter of the late John Frederick, died last night at Corbyville at the age of 93 years. She was born in Corbyville and had lived there all her life. Mrs. Homan was a member of the Methodist Church. Three sons, James of Winnipeg, Fred of Chicago and Burley of Belleville, survive besides one aged brother, Alonzo Frederick of California. Interment takes place in the Reid burying ground at Corbyville.

GIRLS' TRAGIC DEATH

Takes Poison at Watertown Because She Disliked School.

Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Dorothy Estella Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyon, aged 15 years, died of Paris green poisoning last Thursday afternoon taken to all appearance because she refused to return to school and teased the truant officer, who had paid frequent visits to the Lyon residence in an attempt to get her to return to her studies.

She was an unusually well developed girl for her years, and was five feet seven inches in height. She attended school regularly at Cooper street school until the spring term which ended in June. She had never worked except about the house. She disliked studying and while not a backward child, did not progress in school as well as some of her playmates.

Late F. Reddick

The obsequies of the late Frank Reddick was held on Thursday from to Rosemore home, Rev. Mr. Elliott officiating. Interment was made in Albany cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. C. Post, R. Anderson, C. Mos, G. Duke and G. Babcock.

NAVY LEAGUE HAS MADE BIG STRIDES

Importance of its Work is Recognized Throughout the Dominion. Remarkable growth has been recorded by the Ontario Division of the Navy League of Canada in the brief two years of its existence. It was at a meeting presided over by the Lieutenant Governor, Sir John Hendrie, that the Ontario Division came into being on October 2, 1919. In its first year it grew to 30 branches with 25,000 members. At the present time it has 113 branches approximately 55,000 members covering all the principal centres of the province and doing a most useful work. Its administration is in the hands of capable people well known in the community. The important posts are filled with men and women accustomed to large personal affairs who are absolutely giving their time and service to its work without any remuneration, while of those who receive salaries the large portion are working for small compensation.

The Ontario division is called upon to raise $225,000, including $125,000 for Toronto in the Nelson Day Dominion Campaign for $500,000 covering October 21, 22, 23. The money is to be spent on the Naval Brigades for the very necessary work of training Canadian Merchant Sailors and on Institutions for Sailors at Canadian Ports.

BIRTH

VANDERVOORT — At Belleville General Hospital on Sept. 29th to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vandervoort—a daughter, Gladys Belle.

On Friday morning the Rev. A. E. Smart, of Tweed, received a cablegram announcing the death of his youngest sister in Bristol, England. Mrs. John Rimington, Madoc, who has spent the past few weeks the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Emerson, Fort St., returned home Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by Master Kenneth Emerson.

Board of Trade Activities

The following six resolutions have been proposed by the Secretary, Col. W. N. Ponton, for the agenda of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade at the annual meeting to be held in Toronto on November 30th. It is of interest to know that all the Boards of Trade of Ontario were drawn together through the united efforts of the Toronto and Belleville Boards and that the Secretary of the Belleville Board is Honorary President and the Treasurer of the Belleville Board is Vice-President of all the Boards of the province. If our Board is not appreciated by the narrower vision of local critics it certainly is by their fellow-workers throughout Ontario.

The following are the resolutions submitted:—

(1) That the Provincial and Dominion Government be memorialized and urged to prepare and publish immediately a reliable and up-to-date general report upon minerals and metals in Ontario, their distribution, quantity and quality, and especially with regard to iron, the foundation of one of Canada's basic industries.

(2) That the Government of the Province of Ontario be asked to take into immediate consideration the annual apportionment of taxes on departmental stores, mail order houses, and public utilities, so that municipalities where the business is carried on and where money is expended may receive a fair return for value given and franchise used.

(3) That railway freight and express rates on coal, wood and food products be reduced to the minimum of costs on all nationally controlled lines as a factor in the reduction of the high cost of living, and that the rates of all business and commercial telegraphs and cables be fixed at the lowest possible figure in order to encourage, develop and accelerate inter-provincial and inter-imperial trade.

(4) That every encouragement be given to the establishment and universal adoption of an Empire trade mark and standard; and that the immigration of British citizens between Great Britain and her Dominion overseas be facilitated in every way possible and if thought advisable, subsidized, so that British commerce and British men and women—the assets of the Empire—may be fostered and retained under the flag.

(5) That every possible encouragement by subsidy or otherwise be given to aviation for commercial and postal purposes by the Governments of Ontario and of the Dominion.

(6) That the Government of the Province of Ontario be urged to conduct a special publicity campaign both in the United States and Great Britain setting forth the productive advantages and substantive attractions of all parts of Ontario, the present period of transition and the establishment of branches of foreign and British industries in Canada affording an appropriate present opportunity for such a setting forth of the manifold attractions of the province to investors of capital, skill and industry.

Canada's Trade Cycle Starts With Farmer

Then It Travels to City Man and Both Are Responsible for Industrial Prosperity.

The city man who has never had the pleasure of an extended holiday at the farm has only a slight idea of how much he is dependent on agriculture. He would be the first to grumble if there was a scarcity of bread, milk, butter, beef, mutton and potatoes on his table; but he has never troubled to think of the great and well organized industry to which he is indebted not only for his foodstuffs but for the trade which results from the expenditure of money on Canada's manufactured products by the farmer.

With the money from the sale of his foodstuffs and other products the farmer encourages other industries by purchasing agricultural implements, gasoline engines, tractors, wagons, seed, wire fences, fertilizers, milk cans, building material, roofing, furniture, carpets, furnishings, stores, clothing, boots and shoes, groceries, drugs, pianos, gramophones, automobiles and scores of other things.

The city man makes these goods and his wages are spent in his local stores and, therefore, starting with the farmer the cycle of trade travels through every class of the community. Moreover, the future of Canadian agriculture rests upon holding and extending the export trade of Canada's surplus wheat and other farm products. A part of the money raised by the Victory Loan 1919, will be utilized to provide credits to Great Britain and our European Allies to enable these countries to continue to buy these surplus products. The city man and the farmer must, therefore, see to it that the Loan is oversubscribed if they wish Canada's prosperity to continue.

Canadians Rights to the Lloyd Loom Have Been Sold

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 17.—Canadian rights to the Lloyd Loom, the only machine ever invented which weaves wickers for baby carriages, furniture or baskets, were sold today by the inventor, Marshall B. Lloyd, to a group of American capitalists, J. W. Wells and F. A. Spies, millionaire lumbermen in this city who are interested in the deal. Intimated the plant would be located at Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal or Hamilton.

Neither Mr. Lloyd nor the purchasers would give out the price paid but it is said to run into six figures. Last summer Mr. Lloyd refused $1,000,000 for American rights after Australia paid $250,000 to use the loom for employment of crippled warriors. Since then a million dollar corporation organized here and the largest baby carriage factory in the world is near completion.

The development of Mr. Lloyd from a poor fish peddler to a wealthy inventor is more like an Arabian Night story than modern facts. Sixty years ago he was born in St. Paul, Minn., but spent his boyhood at Meaford, Ontario. Family needs compelled him to quit school and work, his first job consisting of selling fish from a wheelbarrow. While young his inventive mind created several articles, among them being a clothes hamper, one of which he traded to a farmer for a side of bacon. Forty years later Mr. Lloyd visited the farm and found it still busy.

Mr. Lloyd was a farm hand, sold jewelry on Toronto streets, yelling his wares from a soap box platform, waiter in a hotel, factory hand, small manufacturer and finally head of the largest baby carriage plant in the world. From The Rowell News Service, Menominee, Michigan.

Crawls Through Wilderness in Grim Race with Death

Cobalt, Oct. 12.—A race with death in which the principal travelled on his hands and knees through nine miles of wilderness, was the terrible experience of R. H. C. Browne, former editor of the Nugget and former police magistrate of Cobalt. Mr. Browne is now in Halden Hospital suffering from weakness from the loss of blood and his experiences. He is 55 years of age, but his ruggedness and outdoor life, it is believed, will enable him to pull through.

His is a story of adventure seldom equalled in the tales of the North. In his nine miles of travel to try and reach help and a doctor he was forced to drag one leg along, it being entirely useless as a result of an accident. His trip was through brush and over rocks, in an area where he had never been before. It appears that Browne set out alone in the bush some time ago to inspect some mining properties in which he was interested, and which were located in the Matachewan region. After having crossed four portages he reached the fifth, on the evening of Sunday, October 5th, and decided to camp there for the night, as it was late. Accordingly he pitched his tent at the portage.

Severs an Artery

At 7 o'clock the next morning, while splitting some wood for a fire his axe glanced off the log, striking his ankle and inflicting a deep gash. It had been his custom to keep his axe well sharpened, and it had a razor edge. One of the arteries in the ankle was severed and within a few moments he saw that his condition was becoming serious, as the wound was bleeding profusely. With what must be endeavored to stop the flow, but it was not until 16 hours later that the bleeding ceased, an improvised tourniquet having been used to advantage. In the meantime the weather became threatening, and a storm broke with wind and snow. A high wind rose and the tent was carried away by it, so that the man was obliged to crawl after it and fix it up again as well as he could.

Sets Out for Landing

On Tuesday morning he was weak from loss of blood, although not suffering any severe pain. The weather was becoming colder, and he was alone in the midst of a country which was comparatively strange to him, so that he realized that death would be the only outcome if he remained. Although dubious of his ability to find his way back again so as to reach Otisse Landing, the nearest objective, he decided that the attempt must be made, and determined to risk the journey. With great difficulty he got into his canoe and started off to make as much of the journey by water as possible.

Upset From Canoe

Sitting in the stern of the canoe, his balance was unstable, and, after having paddled a short distance he felt himself growing weaker from the exercise and a sudden feeling of faintness came over him. The result was that in an instant the canoe upset and he was precipitated into the water. The man's position was precarious, but he was not far from the shore, and encumbered as he was he managed to reach land, there to fall exhausted while the canoe drifted away.

Although tempted to give up the struggle, the idea of dying there in the bush by a slow process of starvation, was abhorrent to him and he summoned all his energies together in an attempt to cross the intervening wilderness between himself and safety. For well over a full day he staggered, stumbled and crawled on hands and knees through one of the roughest sections of bush in Northern Ontario.

Experienced prospectors and bush men who know something of the district say that they would hesitate to undertake the journey alone even if they thought they were physically capable of doing it. His clothing was partially frozen after his plunge in the icy water and it was only the fact that he had undoubtedly iron constitution which enabled him to press on toward his goal. About half way on the slow nine-mile travel he undid the bandage on his leg, having almost decided to give up the struggle, but seeing that it had not bled in the meantime he got fresh courage and went ahead.

Heard Whistle Blow

Later when he had practically given up all hope of reaching the landing, as he did not know whether he had taken the right direction or not, the whistle of the Otisse Mine blew for six o'clock. The sound told him that he had almost won, and again he proceeded, with the result that two hours later he crawled painfully to the landing. From there an Indian took him by canoe to Long Rapids and thence he went to Elk Lake. His difficulties were not ended however, as the nearest doctor was at Charlton. Reaching the latter place, the physician saw that his condition was serious and advised him to go to the hospital at Halden. The man is at present confined in Providence Hospital, where he will likely be for some time, and although not yet completely out of danger, his rugged health will undoubtedly pull him through. The surprising fact is that he is well on in years.

Smash Plate Glass and Steal Jewels Gananogue, Oct. 18.—Some time after 2 o'clock Tuesday morning when Chief of Police Chevis made his rounds, the show window of W. S. Abbott's jewelry store was smashed by a person of persons as yet unknown and rings to the value of upwards of $150 were taken. The store was not entered, the heavy plate glass being broken by some heavy instrument, which permitted the thief to thrust in his hands the window. The front door of Charles Brothers "Palace of Sweets" was also pried open with a "jimmy" and the store entered. What was taken there cannot be estimated at present. The police on discovery of the raid were at once notified and have the matter well in hand. No arrests have, however, yet been made.

Daring Thief Was Caught

TOGETHER WITH TWO OTHERS ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN TRAVELLER'S SAMPLES.

Other Cases Before Magistrate Fared This Morning

Kingston, Oct. 16.—The work of P. C. Mullinger and P. C. Naylon foiled an attempt to carry off the samples of a dry-goods traveller from a sample room in the Randolph hotel Monday. A pair of three young men from Toronto tried to do the trick, and though two got away, the other was caught almost red-handed.

Last evening the police received notification of a car which was stolen from Toronto. The car was on Sydenham street, and it had been reported from Toronto that three men stole it. P. C. Mullinger and Naylon watched the car, and after two hours' wait, they were rewarded when a young man named Peter F. Pyburn, of Toronto, came up and got in the car. He was arrested and told the constables that the other two men were in the Randolph hotel laneway. Pyburn was taken to the station, and when searched was found to have a quantity of dry-goods on his person. He told the police that other goods stolen were in the laneway, and the police, on investigation, found a quantity of mufflers, sweaters, and other dry-goods. The goods were the property of Alfred Osborne, a commercial traveller, and one of his trunks had been broken into.

This morning Pyburn stated in court that he worked in Toronto, and came down to Kingston with two other men, whom he only knew as "Jimmie" and "Dick". However, his memory about the trip down wasn't very accurate, and he was remanded for a week.

A citizen was charged with being intoxicated and told the magistrate that all he drank was two per cent. beer. He said he only had two or three drinks, but his story wasn't a very strong one and he was remanded for a day.

Leo Gallagher was charged with driving his car faster than twenty miles an hour, he pleaded guilty, and thought that some provision should be allowed to let taxi-drivers drive a little faster, when it was in the pursuit of their business. He was fined $5 and costs. P. C. Naylon stated that the car went the distance of 140 feet in three seconds, which was better than thirty miles an hour.

A citizen was charged by his wife with assault. He pleaded "guilty to all the crimes," and then pleaded not guilty. In court he exhibited a piece of rope, with which he said his wife and daughter were going to hang him. He was remanded for a week, his wife stating that he had slapped her face, and the prisoner denying the charge. In the meantime the mental condition of the prisoner will be examined.

Wm. Savage was charged with obstructing a side walk with a ladder. He pleaded guilty and said that there had been men at the foot of the ladder at all times while his men were working painting the side of a building. He was fined $2 and costs.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Emma White

On Monday afternoon, Sept. 22, 1919, Mrs. Emma White accompanied her husband, Mr. Burley White, to Belleville, and while there did her own shopping and chatted away with friends she met. She returned home in the evening, apparently feeling no worse than usual, and ate a hearty tea and had just sat back from the table when she was stricken with a paralytic stroke. Two of the best physicians and a nurse were called and everything was done that could be done, but without regaining consciousness she passed away on Wednesday morning at 8.10 o'clock, at her home in the second concession of Sidney.

She was well known and respected by all who knew her. She will be greatly missed, as she was the sunshine of the home, performing her duty as a faithful wife and a kind and affectionate mother. She was a member of Centenary Church.

Deceased spent most of her life in Rawdon, where she was born, living seven years in Shirling and the last twelve years of her life in Sidney.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. Dr. Marvin, a former pastor, and Rev. Mr. Mutton, pastor of the circuit, at her residence in the second concession of Sidney, and was held to rest in Belleville cemetery. The funeral was largely attended, the pallbearers being Messrs. Arthur Bunnell, Roy Duffin, Charlie Moon, B. D. Westover, Sayer Barker and Robt. Francis.

Mrs. White is survived by her husband, two daughters: Mrs. Will Bush of the second concession of Sidney, and Miss Carrie at home; one son, Percy, at home; also one sister, Mrs. Wm. Sharpe of Madoc, and one brother, Mr. James Radford of the third of Sidney. Among the contributions of flowers were the following: The family, a pillow; Mr. and Mrs. Will Bush, anchor; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher, cross; Mr. and Mrs. Lore Brekman and Andrea, cross; Mr. Jay White and family, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Francis and family, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. A. Gordianer, spray; Mr. and Mrs. C. Ashley, spray; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Radford, and family, cross; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Aylea, spray.

Potato digging is the order of the day. The potatoes are of a great size this fall.

Miss Ursella McGurn with Mrs. Carmel Hunt spent a very pleasant day.

Miss Loretta Boothe was knocked down and injured at the corner of Dublin and George streets at noon Wed. She stepped off the car at the corner and as she stepped toward the sidewalk, after the car had commenced to move, it appears a car driven by Mr. Bruce Fitzgerald came along, and the fender hit Miss Boothe, hurling her to the pavement. She was taken to the store on the corner and a doctor summoned, who stated that he did not consider her injuries very serious although she was suffering greatly from fright. She was then removed in an automobile to her home on Water street.

PRINCE HAS BOUGHT RANCH IN WEST

Has Caught Western Spirit and Will Live There Part of Time.

Winnipeg, Oct. 17.—"I shall not say good-bye to Western Canada but only 'au revoir'."

The Prince of Wales closed his tour of Western Canada on Saturday with these words at the end of a luncheon, at which he entertained 230 guests, from all parts of the West.

In his simple speech the Prince expressed his affection for Western Canada and its power, his admiration for the spirit of the land and his determination to come again when the circumstances should permit. Simplicity and earnestness were in the Prince's words, and when he sat down his guests broke out in a great roar of applause and encouragement.

"I think this western spirit must be very catching," the Prince had said in the course of his speech, "at least I know I've caught it badly. I feel so much at home here by this time that I want to have a permanent home amongst the people of the West a place where I can come sometimes and live for a while. To this end I recently purchased a small ranch in Southern Alberta, and I shall look forward to developing it and making it my own."

R. N. Sulman Desires to Locate His Brother and Sister

Anyone Who Knows the Whereabouts of George Sulman or Mrs. Terry Should Inform Chief Thompson.

Peterboro, Oct. 16.—The following letter was received by Chief Thompson Wednesday—

Dear Sir:—Would it be possible for you to give me any information in regards to the whereabouts of George Sulman or Mrs. William Terry. They are brother and sister to me and used to live in Peterborough some years ago, but I have lost track of them and it seems impossible to find them. I am quite sure they are in Canada some where. Any information you can give me would be greatly appreciated.

Auto Bandits Busy On Kingston Front

Postoffice at Cataract Entered and Safe Robbed of Contents.

Kingston, Oct. 16.—A band of robbers travelling in an auto are at work in this district. At three o'clock yesterday morning the postoffice of Cataract, kept by J. Wise, was entered and the safe opened and robbed of its contents $30. The thieves also made a big haul of jewelry and dry goods. They gained entrance by cutting the plate glass window with a diamond. An attempt was also made to rob the postoffice on the Bath road, but after breaking a window the robbers were frightened off.

A report from Gananoque says a jewelry store was robbed there last night by thieves cutting a window with a diamond.

CONFESSIONS TO THEFT. Peter F. Pyburn who says he lives at 64 Collier street, Toronto, is under arrest charged with stealing the samples of Alfred Osborne, a Toronto traveller. He confessed to the police who recovered a pile of shirts, sweaters, caps and scarfs hidden under a shed. The accused was caught in an automobile claimed to have been stolen from Toronto. Two other youths implicated got away. One pulled a revolver when a constable was about to arrest him.

Eagle Boats En Route Down River

Three Ogdensburg Pilots Are Engaged Taking Craft Through the Rapids.

Ogdensburg, Oct. 16.—Captain James Norman, Captain Fred Lovell and Captain George P. Fleming are engaged in piloting the coast Eagle boats Nos. 24, 36 and 59, Captain John Martin and Captain Joseph Goben are piloting down the river the United States Shipping Board steamers, Lake Elwell and Lake Gazette.

The natives are very often paralyzed owing to the lack of vegetable nourishment.

Orphanage homes are built and the orphans cared for.

Boats have been furnished Dr. Grenfell by Princeton, Harvard and Yale and other individuals and colleges. The "Strathcona" is the first boat. It has been running for about twenty years and is now being repaired.

The dogs are the only means of transportation. They stand about two feet eight inches in height and weight about 100 pounds. They are hitched to sledges very light in weight.

The women weave mats and sell them for pin-money, as Dr. Grenfell says.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell Addressed Women's Canadian Club

Gave Interesting Lecture on Labrador—Illustrated Lecture by Lantern Slides.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, of the Labrador Medical Mission, addressed a very large audience in Y.M.C.A. Assembly Hall last night. It was the opening meeting of the Women's Canadian Club. Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. G. Gorman, Miss Fraeclik introduced Dr. Grenfell. His name, which has become a household word, is known to almost everyone.

Dr. Grenfell first went to Labrador in 1892. He went with the fishermen in their schooners, which were practically too large for the boat used by Cabot in earlier history, and cruised along the coast.

He found many people dying, because no one had ever been there to teach them how to take proper care of themselves. It was very hard to get them to understand that he would help them banish the prevalent diseases, teach them Christianity and raise their ideals of human nature. No doctor had ever been there before. He found many men deaf and blind, some with arms and legs off, others with tubercular trouble. After he had done for these all he could, he sent some to British Columbia and some north of Alberta so they could trap animals and live by selling furs. But home was home to these people and they eventually all came back to their homeland. They could not acclimatize themselves to a different region. Science has proven we are individuals and so are our bodies, for instance, in transfusion of blood from one person to another, their nearest kin is always chosen and just so, an Eskimo could not live in Southern Canada or New York as he would die in two or three months.

When the war broke out, every village gave its sons, built boats and served with the rest of the patriotic workers.

Sheldon Jackson introduced reindeer, manufacturers, schools in Alaska, and made it blossom like a roof.

Dr. Grenfell and others did the same for Labrador. School teachers were sent in, hospitals built and churches erected. The main industry, of course, was fishing, but within the last year a pulp mill was built and the trees, such as fir, and spruce are made into pulp wood.

Labrador has wonderful lakes, and Dr. Grenfell says the heating and lighting power in the future is in the hands of Labrador. There is one falls in Labrador, Labrador twice as high as Niagara.

The people were taught how to sell their fish instead of bartering it away. A co-operative store was built at Flowers Cove, and from here the fish were sent directly to the Eastern countries. The people of that store made over a quarter of a million last year.

Some men formed a body and called Dr. Grenfell and his followers "The Red Cross". The Government sent these men down to investigate. These men were surprised themselves the heroic sacrifice Dr. Grenfell was making and they became his best friends.

Many inhabitants died of the "flu" last year. Dr. Grenfell has one main hospital at St. Anthony, where there are surgical doctors, nurses and the hospital is modernly equipped. Then about every fifty miles there are nursing stations, where they stay until they can be moved to St. Anthony or other hospitals. St. Anthony's hospital has the very best of surgical doctors. To show the efficiency of the hospital, in one year five times as many people came from St. Anthony, as from Newfoundland to the province of Newfoundland to the Johns where they were treated free.

The air is very cold and bracing, with evergreen trees, cliffs jut out over the ocean. Tall icebergs are seen of pure whiteness, lit up by blues, greens and often a golden colour.

There are institutes built at the seaports for the fishermen for recreation purposes.

The good fish are as tall as an average man. Their heads are as large and in Labrador one cod-fish of that size sells for five cents. It would be wise to introduce them into Belleville. The cod fish, which is the natural fish of Labrador, is spread in a fish and has the appearance of our haddock, in process of curing.

The natives are very often paralyzed owing to the lack of vegetable nourishment.

Orphanage homes are built and the orphans cared for.

A TERRIBLE AWAKENING

Written for The Ontario by Chas. M. Blee, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado.

Soon after his return from Europe Herbert Hoover was given a complimentary dinner by members of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, of which he is a member. It was notable for the number of distinguished men who were present, but more notable for the incomparable response from Mr. Hoover. We do not dwell on his services to humanity in the five years of the great war. He is an idealist who, realized the "stratum of America," and saved out from starvation vast areas of Europe.

No one has had better opportunity of judging conditions in Europe following the war than Mr. Hoover. He organized Central Europe in order to save it from famine and was thereby brought into close contact with leaders, radicals and reactionaries. He has an exceptionally clear intellect, not obstructed by preconceived notions. He has wide sympathy for mankind and a royal altruism of America.

The message which he brought back from Europe, contained in the striking address which he delivered to his fellow-workers in world endeavor, is that the experiments in revolution were necessary to clear the atmosphere and convince the millions that there can be no road to the millennium. Now the great task before the people is to get back to earth again and make up for the devastation of war.

Socialism came with the war; it stayed after the war, and was encouraged during the war—that is State Socialism such as the autocratic governments employed—to make the nations fighting the menace more effective; but that which was useful under abnormal conditions, backed as it was by spirit of patriotism, has been detrimental to a degree in the reaction after the war.

Masses of humanity had been groping for a way out from under the pressing burden before the war. They were pinning their faith to Marxism, Socialism, as the quickest way to relieve them of their increasing loads. The war seemed to open the way to them to secure their emancipation. In Russia, overnight, the millions reached out from under an industry to a full-fledged Communism. Next day they were lords and masters of the earth, the revolution. In other countries the revolution was less acute.

An Unusual Visitor

On Sunday morning the 12th inst., about 7 a.m., a fox was in Mr. John Riddell's hen yard, 550 Homewood avenue, Peterboro. It jumped the fence into Mr. Borland's lot and in a leisurely way passed close to his house on its way to Weller street.

Oil House Burned

A small oil house and contents belonging to the Canadian Stewart Co. was destroyed by fire about 6 o'clock Monday night. The loss is not known but it is not believed to be large. There was considerable delay in sending in the alarm and the firemen arrived empty-handed. The fire company had the fire almost extinguished—Oshawa Reporter.

Almost a Collision

Ferry Ontario No. 1 almost rammed a scow that was being towed by a tug early Sunday morning. No. 1 left here about 6 o'clock and when out about eight miles ran into a scow bank. Coming out of the fog bank the scow was seen a little to the east. The tug answered his ferry's whistle and slowed up, allowing the tow line to slacken enough for the big boat to pass over it. Co-hour Star.

Gave Interesting Lecture

The scout headquarters in the basement of the former George Street Methodist Church was comfortably filled last evening for the lecture given by W. A. Proctor, Ottawa, scoutmaster of the 22nd Troop Boy Scouts. The lecture included a talk on Jack Cornwall, V.C., hero of the Jutland battle, and on scouting in general. It was most interesting to the large audience and the lecturer was warmly applauded. A series of views showing scouting in Great Britain, Ottawa and Brockville, together with views of Ottawa and the Island City were thrown on the screen. During the evening the Scouts orchestra played and songs were given by Jack Garrett and Golden Christopher, assisted by Milton Buel and K. Hawken.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

More Than 2 1/2 Per Cent. in This Drink

Harold Milligan pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated before Acting Magistrate Rush and Adams at Police Court this morning.

When asked what he got drunk on, the prisoner replied, beef, iron and wine. He had drunk two bottles of wine, causing him to be in a very intoxicated condition. Chief Thompson stated that "this was the second awakening and reaching out to achieve the impossible in a day? To bring continents, containing many millions of humans to the very border of starvation is the only truthful answer. Lack of production is everywhere, due to the reaction to socialism in its various guises. Production of coal in European nations, leaving out Russia, for a six-month period after peace, had fallen from a rate of 600,000,000 tons to 450,000,000 tons per annum; and coal is at the base of industry; without it all else suffers accordingly.

In Russia before the war the population, with the exception of a very small minority, was well fed, warmly clothed and comfortably housed, despite political conditions. Its production permitted Russia to export more foodstuffs than any other nation. Socialism came overnight, dictated by certain would-be intellectuals, but real criminals, and a tyranny was established more horrible than the old. Today two-thirds of the railroads are in operation and the population is starving. People are dying by the hundreds of thousands from starvation and disease. Streets are running with blood.

Socialism, declares Mr. Hoover, is an economic and spiritual fallacy. But it was necessary for the world to have the demonstration.

"The whole of these various sorts of socialism are based on one primary conception, and that is that the productivity of the human being can be maintained under the impulse of altruism and that the selection of the particular human being most productive performance can be made by some supprressed bureaucracy." Mr. Hoover holds "their weakness is the disregard of the normal day-to-day primary impulse of the human animal, that is, self-interest for himself or for his family and home, with a certain addition of altruism varying with his racial instinct and his degree of intelligence. They fail to take into account, also, that there is but one sufficiently selective agent for human abilities in that infinite specialization of mind and body necessary to maintain the output of the intricate machinery of production, and that is the primary school of competition." My emphatic conclusion is, therefore, that socialism as a philosophy of possible human application is interrupted.

THE GREAT NATURAL WONDERS OF ARIZONA

Mr. S. A. Gardner formerly of Belleville, tells of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, the Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert

Editor Ontario.—The traveller from the far east on his first visit to Arizona and the Great South-West, will find himself constantly facing surprises. Nearly everything that he meets with is so different from what he has seen, been accustomed to, or experienced that for the moment he is led to wonder if he is still in Uncle Sam's domains or has suddenly awakened in some distant country.

Arizona with its numerous mountain all groups, its broad upland valleys, wide stretches of treeless hills, and level plains covered with sage-brush offers a great contrast to the rolling prairies of the middle West. One of the first things that awakens the wonder of the visitor is the numerous mountain ranges or groups, scattered over the 113,000 square miles embraced in Arizona's territory. No matter in what direction he may travel he finds that he is never out of sight of mountains and some times he will find himself apparently shut in by them and begin to wonder how he will find his way out. Owing to atmospheric conditions strange optical illusions are frequent.

Like the baseless fabric of a vision, Left not a wreck behind. Mountain ranges sometimes appear quite near and others distant, so that it is hazardous to calculate distances. On a trip to Tombstone, some one in the car pointing to the Huachuca Mountains asked how far they were away. The opinion was seven or eight miles, but the surprise came, when they were informed that they were between thirty or forty miles away. Things in the west seem to be built on a large scale especially in Arizona where there are great ranges of mountains there are corresponding by great upland valleys twenty to thirty miles broad and three times that in length.

Another wonder is a large tract of country known as the Painted Desert so called from the variety of color found there. Color in the bright head bands worn by the young men and girls of the Navajo Color, in the plush shirts, in the blankets, in the beads, color in the blood-red sand hills, in the yellow rocks and in the sand and stone buttes, which cluster over the surface and from which has been derived the material which forms the color of the sandy plain. Not less wonderful is great natural bridge the meteor mountain, the Shattuck crystal cave, 800 feet under ground.

Hunting Season Does Not Open Until Nov. 5th

Every Simrod Will Be Allowed to Kill Only One Deer Instead of Two Last in 1919—Partridge Must Not Be Shot. Despite the fact that Mr. H. C. O'Leary is still with us the Ontario Government has decided that this year the deer hunters will have to go back to the old rule of one deer per one deer. Last year, as a "war measure" and to ensure the public a little meat in Ontario, the law was changed to allow two deer per hunter.

There have been reports that there was a large slaughter of deer last year, but many an old hunter will tell you that last year was the first of many that he didn't get his count and many didn't even get one deer. This was accounted for because the wolves were bad in the northern hunting grounds of Ontario, and the deer were chased down to the southern portions of the hunter's paradise. Those who hunted these got their count as usual.

DATE IS CHANGED. Another change that has been made this year is that deer hunting does not start until November 5th, instead of November 1st. Many hunters are rather opposed to this, but the majority are satisfied. They can't get their fifteen days' shooting just the same, as the season does not close to November 20th.

in Ontario or not, must take out a license before he can go after deer. Non-resident licenses for deer and moose are $5, while resident licenses are $3 for deer and $5 for moose. DON'T WASTE MEAT. There was a time when dealers could sell wild duck and wild fowl, but new regulations have been made during the past two years which forbid this sale. The bag allowed for a duck hunter is 200 ducks a season but hunter must remember before they take this amount that there is a game law which says: "No person who has taken or killed any bird or animal suitable for food shall allow the flesh thereof to be destroyed or spoiled."

GREEN POINT. Mr. and Mrs. John Parks entertained company from Belleville on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Anderson spent Sunday with their daughter Mrs. Sidney Parks, Napanee. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hamley, took dinner at Mr. F. McCabe on Sunday last. Rev. E. B. Cook a former pastor of the circuit preached a Thanksgiving sermon on Sunday at Mt. Carmel as usual pastor Rev. J. J. Mallor was doing his work at Newburg.

LATE THOMAS FLANNERY. The funeral of the late Thomas Flannery took place this morning from his residence, College street, to St. Michael's Church, where Father Killeen celebrated requiem mass, which was attended by a large body of friends of the deceased. Many spiritual and floral offerings had been made to the memory of the deceased. The interment was in St. James Cemetery.

Hotel Purchased. The Murray Hill Hotel, located on Murray Isle, midway between Clayton and Thousand Island Park, has been sold to New York parties, including a wealthy New York and Chicago brewer. The consideration is unknown. The deal was consummated last Friday night by Max Stabins, who secured an option on the property about August 15, and who has since been negotiating with the New York parties. The property was bid in on August 19 by George N. Brown, a real estate dealer of this city, for $329,91 at a tax sale. Mr. Stabins acted as a factor between Mr. Brown and the New York investors.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Paid Official Visit. Malcolm Sincclair of Toronto, Grand Chief Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Ontario, paid an official visit to Brock Enfranchisement Monday evening. The patriarchal degree was conferred upon several candidates, following which a banquet was tendered the Grand Chief Patriarch and other visitors. Among those who spoke were the Grand Chief Patriarch, Past D.D.G.M. D. S. Clow, Malloytown; Past D.D.G.M. W. J. Nute, Past D.D.G.M. Fred Clow and D.D.G.M. W. P. Carswell, Brockville.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Women Voters Organize. The meeting of lady supporters of the candidature of Dr. D. McAlpine held in the ladies' assembly room, Victoria building, last evening, was attended by between 75 and 100, and much preliminary organization work was accomplished. Mrs. A. C. Hardy was elected president and Miss Emily McLeod secretary. Ward committees were formed with convener in each ward and considerable work done. W. A. Lewis, A. C. Hardy and J. J. Vannoy spoke briefly.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Robbed Freight Train While It Was Moving. The police are looking for a man who pulled off an unusual stunt in broad daylight on Monday. He boarded a freight train near Napanee, and while it was on the way to Kingston, he robbed a car of wearing apparel, and when he jumped off the train near Kingston he had almost enough for a new outfit. Railway men caught him jump off the train, but as yet he has kept clear of the law.

Killed by Train. Struck by Grand Trunk passenger train No. 48, Conductor Lemay, engineer Johnston, at Dorval station yesterday morning at 11.45 o'clock, Miss Nora Ryan, aged 23, employed at the Forest and Stream Club, Dorval, was almost instantly killed. Her body was taken to the station to meet her sister who was about to arrive on another train, and is said to have crossed the tracks in spite of the fact that the gates were down. Dr. Edgar, Dorval, was called but could do nothing for the young woman, who was thrown into the ditch by the train. The body was removed to the Pontreac morgue.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Erected Big Flagpole. Grand Trunk workmen yesterday afternoon successfully raised a large flagpole which had been constructed by members of the bridge and building department to be placed in the grounds just east of the union station. The task, one of considerable difficulty, was accomplished without a hitch by means of a winch and block and tackle. The flagpole, constructed of steel stands 70 feet above the ground.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Had Fingers Injured. While employed as a trackman on the Grand Trunk Railway at Gananoque Junction yesterday morning, Fred Smith, aged 34, of Brockville, had the ends of two fingers of the right hand badly jammed while pulling rails. Smith slipped and allowed a rail which he was helping to move to fall on his fingers. Dr. C. H. Bird, Gananoque, was called and dressed the injured fingers, following which Smith returned to his home here.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Male Inmates Escaped. A report received at police headquarters yesterday stated that two male inmates had escaped from the Ontario Hospital. One Bryan Hargess is described as being 41 years of age, five feet and seven inches in height, clean shaven and fair complexion. The other patient, whose name is Black, is about six-foot tall and was dressed in gray clothes.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Capt. J. E. Tait, V. C.

HE WAS THE IDOL OF THE 78TH BATTALION. Went Back to the Trenches Time After Time After Being Wounded, and Was Killed the Day After Winning Victoria Cross—"Tait's Troughs" Made Life Miserable for the Hun.

Lieut. James E. Tait, 78th Battalion, for conspicuous bravery and initiative in attack. An advance having been checked in intense machine gun fire, Tait rallied his company and led it forward with consummate skill and dash under a hail of bullets. A concealed machine gun, however, continued to cause many casualties. Taking a rifle and bayonet, Tait dashed forward alone and killed the enemy gunner. Inspired by his example, his men rushed the position, capturing twelve machine-guns and twenty prisoners. His valorous action cleared the way for his battalion to advance. Later, when the enemy counter-attacked, this gallant officer displayed outstanding courage and leadership, and, though mortally wounded by shell fire, continued to direct and aid his men until death intervened.—From Official Gazette.

The echo of Britain's call to war in August, 1914, touched Canada's shores and was re-echoed back almost instantaneously. But into the interior of the northland that call took longer to penetrate. There on the Kettle river, a gang of men were heaving out the way for the Hudson Bay railroad. The late fall mail deliveries brought the news that the world was at war. James Edward Tait threw down his engineer's tools and started for Winnipeg.

Tait was a Scotsman. He was born in Dumfriesshire in 1888. He was the second son of the late James B. Tait, of Maxwellton. He attended Laurierknock school and Dumfries Academy, successively. Later he served for five years in the Imperial Yeomanry. Three of Tait's brothers have been active service in this war. Two in France and one in Mesopotamia. After coming to Canada in 1911, the future V. C., started in at his profession of architect, which he had learned under his father's direction, in Scotland. But the call of the wild lured him to the barren tracts of the new land, and he joined a survey party for the Hudson Bay railroad.

On his arrival in Winnipeg, Tait received a commission in the 100th Regiment, Winnipeg Grenadiers, and was attached to the 100th Battalion. While training, both in Canada and England, he received big commendations as an officer. His early training and natural bent made him an athlete of many parts. At Seaforth camp he won the revolver championship. Before he left Canada he did much recruiting, speaking at many public meetings. His forceful earnestness won many recruits to the army. His many-sided character included an aptitude for such diverse arts as boxing and poetry and music. He not only spoke at recruiting meetings, but wrote many articles on the war, which were printed in various magazines.

After reaching England he was transferred to the 78th Battalion, and was with that unit during his two years and a half of active service. He was wounded four times in a year, but was back at it again as soon as he could get his discharge from a hospital. He was in the engagements at St. Etienne, Ypres, the Somme and Passchendaele. He organized and trained a picked section of sharpshooters from his battalion, for sniping, bomb and bayonet work and scouting. They were called "Tait's Troughs," and many of the daring successes of the 78th were due to their courage and skill.

Those who knew Lieut. Tait best, the men who served beside him in the trenches, said that his daring was beyond belief. It is said that on one occasion Tait went out alone at night. He had told his comrades that he was going to bring back a Hun, preferably alive. Creeping to the German parapet he dropped over captured his man and put him over into No Man's Land. Then the spear-thrower was thrown on, and Tait and his prize dropped into a shell hole. The shower of bullets poured down. When at last Tait dropped over the Canadian parapet again, his Hun was dead.

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

The Wonderful Medicine, Made From Fruit Juices and Valuable Tonics.

29 St. Rose St., Montreal. "I am writing you to tell you that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives'. This medicine relieved me when I had given up hope of ever being well. I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia—had suffered for years; and nothing I took did me any good. I read about 'Fruit-a-tives'; and tried them. After taking a few boxes, I am now entirely well. You have my permission to publish this letter, as I hope it will persuade other sufferers from Dyspepsia to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and get well!" MADAME ROSINA FOISIZ.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made from fruit. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all Dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. Early in the assault he was wounded, and all the other officers killed or wounded but he led his company with great fearlessness and determination through intense fire to the objective, and although unable to walk, supervised its consolidation, finally crawling back alone to leave for others the four bearings of the objective. Back in the front at Passchendaele Lieut. Tait again distinguished himself. It was after this engagement that he was recommended for a bar to his Military Cross and promoted to the rank of captain. With his rare gift of imagery, Capt. Tait described the night before Passchendaele in one of his letters. He tells of the men of the Canadian battalion digging themselves trenches, in the brilliant moonlight. The men worked quietly and steadily. Every once and again one of them would roll over, hit by a German sniper who was stationed in a blasted tree, in spite of the cold and the other discomforts of the place. Capt. Tait said that "there was no other place in God's fair world" where he would rather be. The same gift of description is shown in an article which he wrote after Vimy, and which was published in an English magazine.

During last summer, when the leaders of our army were making their heroic and successful efforts to bring victory and peace, Capt. Tait took part in all the big engagements. On the morning of August 10, his commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Kirkcaldie, gave him a company to command. His colonel in describing the engagement says: "He came out of the first day's engagement unhurt and made a splendid reputation for his company. When he was held up by the ever-troublesome machine-guns, he rallied his men and led them forward with consummate skill and dash under a hail of bullets." Then a concealed machine gun continued to harass his company. Tait, with revolver and bayonet, rushed forward alone and killed the German gunner. His company followed and captured 12 machine guns and 20 prisoners.

It was the next day that Tait was killed. The conquered territory of Havelock, Oct. 13. A terrible tragedy occurred at the C. P. the day before formed a spur which was very difficult to defend. The German counter-attacked and gave the 78th a hard time of it. Capt. Tait led the attack and was saying to one of his gunners, "That's the stuff to give 'em boys," when a shell fell near, and he fell, his spirit freed, but not conquered. In recognition of his great service and his dauntless courage the British Government conferred its highest military honor, the Victoria Cross, for this deed, but it was the young widow, who lives in Winnipeg, who received the bronze symbol of her husband's valor. Even that honor cannot outshine the tribute paid his memory by brother officers. "He was the idol of the 78th Battalion. His men would follow him anywhere."

In the drawing room of Government House, Winnipeg, December 13, the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, Sir James Aikens, presented to Mrs. Tait the Victoria Cross won so dearly by her husband on the field of honor.—Carolyn Cornell.

Death of Former Resident of Tweed

The death occurred at Tamworth on Fri. last of a former resident of Tweed in the person of Mr. Levi Bradshaw in the 58th year of his age. The deceased had been under the doctors care for some months but was not taken down to bed until about two weeks prior to his demise and notwithstanding the best medical aid and care he grew gradually worse until death relieved him of his sufferings.

Prior to going to Tamworth, where he purchased the Queens Hotel eight months ago he was a resident of Tweed having conducted the Victoria Hotel here for about 15 years. Besides his widow two daughters and one son survive, namely, Misses Irene and Lizette and Laurence. The funeral was held on Monday. Requiem Mass being celebrated at Erinsville church by Rev. Father McEgan after which the remains were laid to rest in the Erinsville cemetery.

The sympathy of the community goes out to those who have been bereft. May his soul rest in peace.—Tweed Advocate

Harold Fontaine, Windsor, was arrested by the Detroit police on a charge of smuggling Chinamen into the U.S.

New Testament Conversion

A Recent Sermon Delivered by Rev. I. W. Harris Wallace, Pastor Victoria Avenue Baptist Church

Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. — Matt. 18:3.

There are different types of Christians, and each differ in their spiritual experience. There is no difficulty with the Bible, and the accounts we have of certain conversions are easily understood. But when we go outside the Bible and fix on the Bryan-type, or any other type, and expect others to be converted just in the same way we find trouble right here. We put wrong notions into the minds of many children and young people and lead them to expect things the Bible does not teach. The noted Henry Clay once said, "I am not a Christian. I wish I were. Some time I hope I shall be." He was evidently waiting for something special to happen in his spiritual experience, and all things were ready. What is the New Testament idea of conversion?

Take the words of Jesus: "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." The word "convert" means to turn around, to change the purpose. We use it in common life. Here is a dry goods box; it is changed into a dog-house, or a chicken coop. It has been converted. During the war, especially on the battle front, we know many things were changed from purposes of peace to that of war, according to necessity.

Consider some of the well-known cases Jesus dealt with: John 3:3—Jesus said, "Except a man be born from above he cannot see the Kingdom of God." We have here a man who was a ruler of the Jews. He came to see Jesus by night because not satisfied with himself or the Old Testament way of salvation. The law could not perfect him; in fact, it condemned him. So he came to Jesus for help, as he needed to be born again of the truth of the Spirit.

The woman at the well had different treatment. She wondered at Jesus the Jew asking water to drink from a sinful woman, and a Samaritan! Jesus had to create spiritual thirst in that woman's soul. So He said, "If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith unto thee, give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked, and He would have given thee living water." But before that woman can be converted Jesus had to bring home to her conscience the fact of her sinful life and make her long for the change. "He whom thou now hast is not thy husband." That was the turning point. She went and told others. "Come see a man that told me all things that ever I did. Is not this the Christ?" She turned to Jesus and led many others to turn also.

Zacchaeus was a different type. We recall the man little of stature, who climbed the tree to see Jesus. We can see the Saviour halt and look up, and hear Him say, "Zacchaeus, make haste and come down for today I must abide at thy house." With what joy that man received Jesus to his heart and his home. The crowd said of Jesus, "He was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner." The man said, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have cheated any man I restore him fourfold." That is splendid evidence of conversion. Jesus said, "This day is salvation come to this house."

Now, what about children brought up in a Christian home? They certainly cannot have the experience of those who have gone into the far country. God forbid they should. Many cannot tell when they were converted; they simply grew up in a favorable atmosphere to know and love Jesus. If they can say, "I love Jesus, because He loved me and gave Himself for me"; if such desire to follow Jesus in baptism, who shall hinder them? Surely not the Christian parents. But we might expect those who are not in fellowship with Jesus to be indifferent and even criticize. See that you offend not one of these little ones. Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye cannot enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

a husband worth courting. He writes: "When I get married I shall, I hope, agree with my wife. I shall keep trying to get more knowledge of my work, then I should get better positions in my trade, and that mean more money. I think that the more money you get the better it will be for the wife. If I had any children I should try to cultivate a hobby for them. I should give them a money-box each, and allow them something per week to put in their boxes. When they had got enough they could buy what they wanted, provided it was sensible, such as a camera, fretwork or foreign stamps, or any other hobby. I should build a shed and put them a punch-ball and a few other things in, and make it like a little 'gym' for them. Then I would put a hammock in one end of it for wife to lie in and watch her little sonnies learn to 'play the game'."

"If I had any girls I should bring them up with the boys. They could go with them on their madcap adventures, but still I should like them to cultivate that quiet dignity so characteristic of real ladies."

Interest, her heart and soul are with the girls with whom she comes in contact and all feel that she is real genuine. I had little to occupy my time, so observed, listened and it is very gratifying to tell you that not once did I hear an utterance that was not complimentary and appreciative. The wholesome, home-like atmosphere sustains and encourages the woman who is deprived of the joy of her own home.

You are very fortunate in securing the services of such excellent women; they are fortunate in having a board that co-operates and encourages, for without co-operation there is no harmony, and without harmony there is no success.

It is pleasant to know that such a place as the Y. W. C. A. in Bisbee exists and I am more than glad to tell you that the efforts made are appreciated and fruitful.

Most sincerely,
CLARA ZENTMIRE.

Gold Medal Contest In Trenton R. T. of T.

Mr. Arthur Blakely came up from Queen's University to stay over Sunday with his mother, Mrs. W. E. Blakely.

The political meeting held in Weller's Opera House on Thursday evening was well attended. On the platform were Col. A. E. Bywater, as chairman, Mr. Herrington, K. C. of Napanee, our popular candidate, Mr. E. D. O'Flynn, and others. Their speeches were well received.

Miss Jean Pelky, who has been in the Toronto General Hospital, is home again, much improved in health. The third silver medal contest under the auspices of the Royal Templars of Temperance was held in the Presbyterian church parlors on Tuesday evening. The contestants were Misses Nina Asselstine and Kathleen Summers, and Messrs. Asselstine and McDougall. The selections were all well given and well received. The judges were Rev. Cranston, A. Shurle and E. Fraser. The contestant winning the medal was Mr. McDougall. A fourth contest will be held in the near future; then the four silver medalists will compete for a gold medal. Much credit is due Mr. Kay.

Rev. G. E. and Mrs. Ross of Peterborough spent a few days in town, renewing old acquaintances. We were all pleased to see them.

Mrs. (Dr.) Jacques and friend, Miss Taylor, who have been spending some time in town, have returned to Goderich.

Canon Armstrong is paying a visit to friends near Cobecoc.

Mr. Hansplant of the new chemical plant, and wife, were in town one day this week. Looks like business!

Mrs. Harry Palmer and little daughter, Marion, have returned from the south, where they spent an enjoyable time with her mother and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Foster, who have spent some time in the West with their daughter, Mrs. Davis, are expected home before the twentieth.

Late Mrs. C. Boyle

The funeral of the late Mrs. Catherine Jane Boyle, took place on Saturday afternoon from her late residence, 157 Charles Street, Rev. D. C. Ramsay conducting the last sad rites. Interment was made in Belleville Cemetery, the bearers being Messrs. F. Bennett, R. Vivian, J. W. Verden, W. B. Howie, G. Kerr and F. H. Chesher. The obsequies were very largely attended and many beautiful floral tributes marked the high esteem in which she was held.

Late A. Latta

The funeral of the late Archibald Latta took place from his residence, Great St. James Street, where Ven. Archdeacon Beemish conducted the impressive service of the Church of England, the deceased being a member of St. Thomas Church. The remains were then taken to Plainfield Methodist Church where the Rev. Mr. Sharpe held service. Interment was in Plainfield Cemetery, the bearers being Messrs. G. Westover, S. Barker, J. Cook, W. Jones, B. Hogie and C. Harley.

Miss Clara Wood, nurse-in-training, Kingston is spending a few days visiting relatives in the city.

Miss Coral Graham of Owen Sound has been spending two weeks with Edith Latta, of Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley, Church street have returned home after spending two weeks with friends and relatives at Forboro.

Dr. Gibson left for New York yesterday to attend the Clinical Congress of American Surgeons, of which he has been nominated Senatorial Representative for the Province of Ontario.

Human Junk Heap Has a Hardware Store Inside Him

Boston, Oct. 18.—Discovery of a "human junk heap" was announced by officers of the House of Correction at Deer Island, yesterday, Chas. W. Buzzel, of Montreal, serving a sentence of one year for forgery, complained of indigestion. A surgical operation resulted in the recovery of two pounds of miscellaneous articles from his stomach. The collection Dr. L. C. Rockwell said included parts of a dog chain, two feet long; a safety razor blade, nearly whole; a suspenders buckle, and 173 fragments of pieces of glass, wire, staples, nails and screws. Relieved of these substances Buzzel has almost entirely recovered.

AN UNKNOWN MAN KILLER BY TRAIN AT COLLINS BAY.

Kingston, Oct. 18.—The body of a man was found alongside the railway tracks at Collins Bay on Thursday. He had been hit by a train but by which one is not yet known. The remains were brought to Kingston Junction and taken from there to James Reid's undertaking parlors, where they were examined by Dr. D. E. Mandell, coroner, who found it necessary to hold an inquest which will take place tonight at 8 o'clock in Jas. Reid's parlors.

There were some identification marks on the body, being a tattoo mark "E. L." on the left forearm, and a gunshot wound, healed up, in the left side. The body had military underwear and it is thought that in view of the wound the deceased was a returned soldier.

Grier Street School Wins Honors Again

Congratulations are due the pupils and the teachers of Grier Street School upon their recent success in winning another magnificent picture offered for competition among the various schools of our city in the Thrift Stamp Campaign.

Grier Street Public School is the smallest of our city schools, but in May last they were awarded a "leaving Quebec" for having won the campaign at that time. A few days ago, Mr. D. V. Sinclair, accompanied by Mr. W. R. McCree, the school chairman, presented to the school a very fine panoramic view, "The Montreal Harbour" for being the successful competitors in the recent Thrift Stamp Campaign. These beautiful pictures besides having an educational value, will be much appreciated additions to the pictures owned by the school, and are worthy of a prominent place on the walls of the proposed new school to be erected in Coleman ward next year.

Since last March two of the teachers have sold over one thousand dollars worth of these stamps, which is an average of over five dollars per pupil. Much pleasure is experienced by the pupils in owning "A Penny Saved is a Penny Earned" is being realized by these youthful citizens, who are proud to claim that Grier Street School also possesses a Victory Bond and a small bank account.

Recently it was my good fortune to live in the Y. W. C. A. at Bisbee, for a limited time. I am so pleased with the management of the institution and with the wholesome spirit which prevails that I wish to express my appreciation to the board.

You are certainly to be congratulated upon having Mrs. Cummings at the head of affairs. Her entire ke journeyed to a dredge in the harbor, where the liquor was "planted." They seized the consignment and arrested Smith. They were met on the shore by F. C. Downey, who took the beatings stolidly and said she hoped the white boy would not be like that.

The squaw man died and Howard Wilson was adopted into the Nez Perce tribe. The adoption entitled the tribe to draw government rations for him. When the old woman died the boy received all her property and built over her grave a tombstone such as never was seen before at the Indian cemetery at Lapwai Ferry.

Mrs. Denley took up the case with government agents at the reservation. They traced the story of the lost white boy and found it was her son. They told the young man about it. He was doubtful, for he didn't know what a white mother would be like.

The night of July 12, Mrs. Denley met her boy. Soon he will be living with her, for now, he is convinced that she is his mother and it is better for him to live as a white man than as an Indian.

C. N. R. Train Leaves Tracks

As the Result of a Spreading Rail Near Murvale Station.

Kingston Oct. 18.—As a result of a rail spreading, on dead-head locomotive, one passenger coach, one box car and the express car, on the Canadian Northern train which left Kingston on Thursday evening at six o'clock left the tracks about one mile from Murvale station.

It is only a miracle that some of the passengers were not killed when the coach in which they were riding turned over on its side, but none were injured.

It is thought that the weight of the locomotive was the cause of the trouble. This locomotive was just completed at the locomotive works here and was being taken to the main line to be turned over.

The passengers were put on a special train and transferred at Hartwood Smith onto the different trains for Toronto and Ottawa. No one was hurt.

Workmen were busy all night clearing the track and the line was open at ten o'clock.

STOLEN FROM CRIB BESIDE MOTHER'S BED 24 YEARS AGO.

Strange Romance of Former Life in Idaho.

San Francisco, Oct. 4.—One night twenty-four years ago, when Idaho was a frontier and romances still lived in the forests and hills, a six-month-old baby was stolen from his crib beside his mother's bed in a little log cabin in the mountains, the San Francisco Chronicle states.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Erick E. Denley of the Oakland apartments, Oakland, Cal., found her boy at Lapwai Ferry, Idaho. He was living on an Indian reservation as Howard Wilson, adopted son of a squaw man and an old Indian woman, both now dead, and lawful member of the tribe of Nez Perce.

A soldier from Idaho came to the Presidio last January and related at a party in Oakland, a strange traditional story of a white baby that had been stolen from a cabin near a military reservation one June night in 1895. Mrs. Denley heard of the story and at the end of the trail to which it led she found her son. Her husband died eleven years ago after thirteen years vain search for their son.

Will Sell His Indian Lands. As soon as Howard Wilson can sell the lands and cattle left to him by the old Indian woman who mothered him for years he will go to his mother's home in Oakland and become Robert Denley, a man of the cities.

Mrs. Denley was born in Vermont and her mother died when the daughter was one year old. Her father went to Idaho to seek wealth in the mines. Years after, when the girl was fifteen, he became seriously ill.

The daughter and the son of the father's partner were called to the bedside and there they were married. A year or so later Robert Denley was born.

That day in June, 1895, the young husband was forced to go to a near by settlement for supplies. His wife laughed at his fears for her safety. But while the mother slept, the baby was stolen from his crib that night.

Indians Confirm Story. Howard Wilson who will be Robert Denley, has heard from the Nez Perce Indians the story of his life.

A white man and two white women appeared among the Indians at Lapwai in June, 1895, and asked the Indians to care for a baby boy. The Indians refused and the white persons went away, leaving the infant on a pier.

A young Indian mother took the baby for her own. When the Indian went away on a hunting trip the child was left with white persons and when the Indians returned the baby again was missing.

It developed that Wilson, a squaw man, had a cow he didn't want. He 40TH ANNUAL MEETING OF W. C. A.

The 40th annual meeting of the Women's Christian Association was held in the council chamber, Tuesday afternoon, October 14th. Reports were given from all departments, which will be published in full in the annual report, also complete list of committees. The following are the reports of the President, Recording Secretary and Treasurer, of the W.C.A.

Reports
President—Mrs. W. C. Mikel.
Vice-Presidents—1st, Mrs. J. C. Moynes, 2nd, Mrs. R. J. Bell, 3rd, Mrs. U. J. Gibson.
Recording Secy.—Miss Helen E. Wallbridge.
Corresponding Secy.—Mrs. J. F. Wills.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. B. Smith.
Custodian—Mrs. U. J. Gibson.
Committees
Hospital Board of Management—Mrs. J. C. Moynes, chairman.
Hospital Board Auxiliary—Miss Jessie Anderson, convener.
Home Board of Management—Mrs. S. F. Stewart, convener.
Indigent—Miss Mary Yeomans, chairman. Miss Helena Lynch, assistant.

The President's Report.
 The Women's Christian Association has reached another milestone. We are 40 years old today. Looking over the work of the 40th year of the Association, we are thankful, happy and a little bit proud but not at all satisfied. We have accomplished much but there is so much more that we would like to do.

The Home for the Friendless is too small. The old building is not worth enlarging and so far we have not felt we could afford to build a new home. The indigent department is doing a great work for the very poor. The workers have dreams of a much larger work with the aid of a paid social worker. At the Hospital, the whole third floor has been remodeled and will be ready for use in a few weeks. This gives us a new modern maternity ward and clean, comfortable and pleasant quarters for the maids. We have not yet been able to put in the much needed X-ray equipment.

Before retiring from the position of president of this Association, I wish to thank all the officers and workers who have helped make my five years as president so very pleasant. I have enjoyed the work and will ever look back on these years with pleasure. As a matter of interest, let me compare the figures of five years ago with the figures of today. The history of the Association from the first has been one of progress, with never a backward step, but the last five years have been unusual years. During the years 1914-15 there were 822 patients treated in the Hospital. During the year just ending, 1264 patients have been treated. The revenue from the Hospital in 1913-14 was $13,153; the revenue from the Hospital for the year just ending is $27,861.00—more than double what it was five years ago. On the other hand the expenditure has more than doubled. During 1913-14 the expenditure for the Home was $745.04. The last year the expenditure for the Home has been $1,860.99. During 1913-14 the expenditure for the Hospital was $13,038.00. For the year ending now the expenditure for the Hospital has been $40,499.00.

All this means increased work when we look at these figures and realize that during the last five years of war and stress, we have been able to meet our added responsibilities and still advance. I am sure you are not surprised when I say we are thankful, happy and a little bit proud. B. E. Deroche, Pres. of W.C.A.

Recording-Secretary's Report.
 Madam President, Officers and Members of the Women's Christian Association:
 Once again, I have the honor of presenting to you, the annual report of the W.C.A. This year is the 40th anniversary of the birth of the Association, and one cannot but wonder if the Association as it now stands reaches the limit of, or surpasses the ideals of the founder and charter members. Did they in their vision see us as we are today, or did they dream of higher aims, and nobler results? In our endeavors to carry on the work of the sturdy foundation of 40 years we are often faint hearted, but the thought of their courage, faith and ideals keys us to further efforts.

In considering the work undertaken at the Hospital during the past year all the faith possible was needed by the members for the conception and carrying out of the same. It would be difficult not only to enumerate, but also to convey to you any adequate idea of the extent of the improvements undertaken this year, by the hospital board with Mrs. Moynes as their chairman. The figures ran into many thousands, and we can only ask all members and friends to visit the Hospital, and form for themselves some idea of the work undertaken, and so near completion. The third floor of the extension has been converted into a maternity wing with 11 wards, bathroom, linen closets, nursery, etc., accommodating 15 patients. This wing is being fitted up as entirely modern and up-to-date maternity wing. The third floor of the old wing has been made into very comfortable and modern quarters for maids, also 3 electric wiring for patients. "I Hope Every City and District Will Win My Flag"

When Edward, Prince of Wales—eager, bright eyed, smiling and sincere—arrived in Canada in August, and when he voiced his great admiration of the wonderful achievements of Canadians, on the fields of battle and at home, once again we were thrilled with joyous pride. He asked concerning Canada's reconstruction programme, and when he was told of the Victory Loan 1919, he graciously consented to the use of his Coat of Arms on a flag, which is to be the prize of honour for districts achieving their quota in the loan.

In dedicating "The Prince's Flag" at Ottawa on Labor Day, His Royal Highness said in part—
 "It is a great joy to me to be associated with the loan, which is the bridge between war and peace, and which is finishing off the job."

"I hope every city and district will win my flag." Striking and beautiful in design, this flag will form not only an unique memento of Victory Year, but a lasting and outstanding souvenir of the visit of His Royal Highness—a visit which will remain as one of the most memorable events in Canada's history.

The reproduction above shows the design of the flag. The body is white, the edge red; in the upper left hand corner is the Union Jack, and in the lower right hand corner the Prince of Wales' Coat of Arms. The flag is made in two sizes, 4 feet 6 inches by 9 feet for small cities, towns and villages, and 7 feet by 13 feet 6 inches for cities of over 10,000 population.

Canada has been divided into canvassing districts by the Victory Loan Organization. Each city forms one district. Other districts have been determined according to population.

Each of these canvassing districts has been allotted a certain amount in Victory Bonds to sell. To win the Prince's Flag, therefore, a district has to sell its allotment. That is the one and simple condition.

Anticipating that many districts will buy far beyond their allotment, the organization decided that for each twenty-five per cent. excess of the quota one Prince of Wales' Crest be awarded. Thus the workers in a district doubling its quota will be the proud winners of four small crests for their Honour Flag. These crests will be sewn to the flag. The Prince's Crest—the three ostrich plumes—is shown at the top of the coat of arms.

To every organization with fifty or more employees, where seventy-five per cent. of the enrollment invests a total of ten per cent. of the annual payroll in Victory Bonds; a supplementary Prince of Wales Flag in smaller form—48 inches by 34 inches—will be awarded.

The allotment for each district has been carefully considered, and is based on a conservative estimate of the purchasing power of the district.

Your district can sell its allotment and thus win the Prince's Flag, provided each person does his or her share. You will gladly do your part and encourage your neighbour to do his. Remember YOUR purchase may be the one that decides whether or not your district is to be the proud possessor of the Prince's Flag.

The Prince's Motto is "I Serve"
 Will You also Serve?

Ten Commandments

1. Have all flues and chimneys properly cleaned before attempting to use them.
2. Look very carefully at the chimney or flue, at the point just above the peak of the roof where the chimney goes through, as the lower part may have settled and the upper portion, being held up by the roof timbers, may have pulled away, leaving an open space or break in the chimney that will permit sparks slipping through into the attic or concealed space.
3. Be sure that all flue holes that are not to be used this year have good metal stops, as innumerable fires are caused by sparks through papering over unused pipe holes in chimneys.

4. Clean the ventilating coils around all flues, removing all lint, cobwebs and dust, leaving nothing in the ventilator, in this way permitting the air to cool the pipe where it goes through.
5. Be careful that the supply of kindling wood, is not piled up in the yard in such manner as to carry fire to your house, in case your neighbor's house should burn.
6. It is best to keep all light wood, kindlings and boxes in sheds, stables or basements, in orderly piles and not to have paper or excelsior mixed with it.
7. Extra caution should be used in the handling of gasoline. In the winter months all windows and doors are closed, eliminating the possibility of the air blowing the inflammable vapours away.
8. Never use gasoline inside the house for cleaning and when compelled to use it for any other purpose setting type. The make-up of the do not forget that you are handling a powerful explosive which may endanger your life and property.
9. Remove all dry grass and leaves from your premises before some one carelessly throws a match.
10. Do not dry clothing or inflammable materials above or near the chimney that will permit sparks slipping through into the attic or concealed space.

If you will obey the above ten commandments you can prevent many fires and much loss of life and property. Try it! It is worth while.

Can Now Dispense With Typesetters

Magazine is Published in New York by Means of Photograph. In Process.
 New York, Oct. 17.—The possibilities of publishing a magazine without the use of typesetters became apparent to-day when a copy of the Oct. 15 issue of the Literary Digest, which has just come off the press, was exhibited. The whole magazine, comprising eighty pages, is printed from plates made by photographing the original typewritten copy. The new form in which the Literary Digest appears is the result of an attempt to print a magazine dispensing entirely with the need of setting type. The make-up of the magazine is changed in no way the only difference being that the style of type is that used on typewriters, and is uniform in all the readings matter throughout the number. Moreover the right-hand side of each column is irregular, as in an ordinary typewritten copy. Each page is in effect a photograph copy of the original article as written on the typewriter. In their introductory note the publishers intimate that this method may supplant the old method entirely.

Wedding Bells

M. ALPINE — COSTELLO

A very pretty autumn wedding was celebrated on September 19th at St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, when Marguerite Mary, youngest daughter of Mrs. Paul Costello of Ennismore, became the bride of John A. McAlpine of Picton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. (Captain) Costello, brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Father McAuley. The bride looked very charming in a gown of duchess satin and georgette with pearl trimmings and wore a white hat with willow plumes. She was assisted by Miss Katie McAlpine, sister of the groom, who was arrayed in a gown of cream satin. The groom was assisted by W. L. Costello, of St. Michael's College, Toronto. After the ceremony, the bridal party proceeded to The Maples, the home of the bride's mother, where about eighty guests partook of a sumptuous wedding dinner. The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue serge with hat to match and white fox fur. The guests included the following clergy: Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore, Rev. Fathers McGuire, O'Brien and Kelly of Peterboro, Rev. Father Galvin of Downeyville, Rev. Father Powers of Victoria Road, and Rev. (Capt.) Costello. Those from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. James McAlpine, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McAlpine and Miss J. Gannon of Picton, Mr. Frank McAlpine of Maynooth, Mr. W. J. Fitzgerald and John Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. McAlpine will take up their residence in Picton. — Bancroft Times.

YOUNG — WANNAMAKER

On Wednesday, October 8, at 2.30 a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. Gordon Wannamaker, Hartsmere, when their daughter, Laura Muri, was united in marriage to Earl Young, a returned soldier who "did his bit" overseas. The bride who looked lovely in a dress of taupe satin, was given away by her father and was ably assisted by Miss Mary Tenyson, who performed the duties of bridesmaid, while the groom found assistance in Willis Lot as groomsmen. The marriage was performed by Rev. M. E. Wilson, M.A., Bancroft, in the presence of about fifty guests. The community where the young couple are so well and favorably known extend their best wishes for a long and happy wedded life. — Bancroft Times.

Crookston was the scene of a pretty wedding at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Isabella Mitts, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 16th at 7.30 when Lillian Ryan, only daughter of Mrs. Emm. Ryan, became the bride of William Messier. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Frederick, a former pastor of Ivanhoe Methodist church in the presence of about sixty friends. The happy couple left amid best wishes and showers of confetti for their honeymoon at Niagara Falls and New York. After their return they will reside in Tweed.

Training Canadians for Service on Sea

Work for Which the Navy League Requires Half a Million Dollars

"The people are all with us and they will cheerfully give us the money," remarked A. M. Hobblerlin, Chairman for Ontario in the Nelson Day Campaign to raise $500,000 in the Dominion for the work of the Navy League of Canada. Ontario's quota is 225,000 of which Toronto will give $125,000. Mr. Hobblerlin pointed out that the aims of the Navy League are to emphasize Canada's opportunities and responsibilities on the sea. The funds being sought now are urgently required to build and maintain sailors' homes in our ports and to train boys and young men for service on merchant ships through the organization of Boys' Naval Brigades. The latter work is of the utmost importance in connection with the overseas trade which means so much to the future of Canada. Prosperity in the Dominion hinges largely on maintaining and increasing export business. The work being accomplished by the Navy League of Canada will do much to foster it. The Nelson Day Drive takes place October 21, 22, 23.

Hunter Street Bridge Progress

Temporary Structure Will Soon be Ready.

Peterboro, Oct. 20.—The abutments under the old Hunter street bridge will soon be removed, and a gang of men are constructing temporary wooden abutments further out in the stream. The present abutments interfere with the construction of the spans of the new bridge.

The roadway approaching the temporary bridge, which will soon be constructed at a point directly north of Riverside Park to the end of Simcoe street, is now nearly completed. It reaches Burnham street, just east of the brewery, and cuts directly in front of the ticket office at Riverside Park.

The temporary woodwork has been completed on one of the spans in the bridge approach, and a high tower has been built to drop cement on the top. The retaining wall reaching from Burnham street to the old McAllister mill is now smooth with the rubbed finish. A granite crusher is busy at work preparing the granite for the bridge proper when it is built.

The Gas Manager

Editor Ontario.

I crave space in your valuable paper to express my views in reference to the trouble now existing between the city council and the manager of the gas department. As you are aware, I filled the honorable position of chairman of this department in the council for the years 1917 and 1918, therefore I feel that I am to some extent qualified to give some information and tender some advice that may be of some use to the present council and, if adopted, of considerable value to the overburdened city taxpayers.

It appears that on account of some changes that have recently been made by the council as regards the management of the gas department, Mr. Gardner, the manager, has resigned the position and the council has accepted his resignation. I also notice that the council proposes to amalgamate the offices of the waterworks and gas department. This is to my mind a move in the right direction and is a measure I tried to induce the council to adopt both in 1917 and 1918 when I was a member of that honorable body.

Now from what I know of Mr. Gardner, I believe him to be a proper person to fill the two positions mentioned. At the time I proposed the amalgamation of the two offices I questioned Mr. Gardner as to his qualifications as to the management of the waterworks department and he informed me that he had done work along this line before he came to Belleville. This being the case why not make an effort to have him withdraw his resignation and take charge of both departments?

Now, Mr. Editor, with your permission, I will say a few words in accordance with my experience when associated with Mr. Gardner as chairman of the gas department committee.

I found that he had a grasp of the whole situation, including manufacture of the gas, the mechanical department, the installing of the mains and individual service pipes and general construction on the streets as related to the gas department. He always had a splendid business connection with mines where coal could be bought at the lowest figures, and he looked after the purchasing department closely in other respects, particularly as to requirements and prices. I believe Mr. Gardner to be honest, as far as handling money is concerned and thoroughly reliable in other respects as well. I think from what I have seen that he was usually on the job at 8 o'clock in the morning and remained until six in the evening.

The council I think should bear in mind that when Mr. Gardner took hold of the management of the gas department it was in a chaotic state, financially and otherwise. But he has by practicing strict economy and judicious management not only got it on a sound basis but has also paid off a very large amount of debenture debt, and the latter is being paid regularly as the debentures mature. So that if this kind of management should be continued this indebtedness of the city will be cleared off entirely and that on time. Last year the department paid expenses and I think $7,000 of debenture debt and had $300.00 surplus, notwithstanding the fact that wages and all kinds of material required were very high. The previous year there was some loss, but this was the case with nearly every municipal gas plant in the country. So it will be seen that Mr. Gardner has had an uphill fight and has been handicapped pretty much all along the line. There has been some friction lately that I think could have been avoided had the council carried out the recommendations of the expert who came here to investigate last spring.

Now, under the circumstances set forth in the foregoing I feel that the council would be acting in the best interest of the ratepayers if they were to make some arrangement to continue Mr. Gardner as manager of the gas department. We know Mr. Gardner but we do not know what a change in managers would do for us.

INCLAIR'S

The New Wool Frocks

—have many pleasant new features of design. Nearly all are trimmed with braid and buttons, and some have a silk cord with tasselled ends draped about the waist. Blue is still the favorite, though Brown and Black are also very popular. Prices from $15.00 upward.

Jersey Cloth

The fashionable Jersey Cloth is proving very popular on account of its wearing qualities, and its softness which makes it drape so beautifully when made up. Its width, 56 inches, makes it quite economical. Shown in Black, Navy, Pekin, Peacock, Taupe and Reddeer, and priced $5.50 per yd.

Warm Crib Rugs

These are made of a very soft thick, warm flannelette, in Blue and White and Pink and White. Size 42 by 60 inches, and just the thing for a crib or carriage. Price $1.50 each.

Cotton Eiderdown

This material is very suitable for Children's Kimonos, being soft and warm. In combinations of Pink, Blue, Gray and White in small designs; 27 inches wide—65" yard.

Smart Autumn Suits

Never has a Fall offered such smart materials, so heavy and warm, in fashionable Suits. Suits of Velours and Suedé-Cloth are wholly in accord with the weather now and later on. Nearly all styles are belted, some with very narrow cross belts, which are almost straps. Braiding and buttons effect the necessary trimming. In all popular shades, priced from $30.00 to $125.00.

Woolen Underwear

Excellent qualities are shown in Pure Wool Underwear in two-piece suits and combinations, by such well known makers as Penman's and Watson's. At lower prices—there are also the heavy weights in cotton Underwear.

Corsets

To have a perfect fitting gown, one must first have correct Corsets. Every woman can be correctly fitted with comfortable Corsets in D&A, CC-la-Grace, or Kabo makes.

Coating Cloths

Many colors and cloths are shown in this season's Coating Materials for Home Sewers. Fluda, Heather Mixtures and plain colors are here in Whitney, Chinchilla, Velours and other warm materials. These Coatings are sure to give good wearing satisfaction. From 54 to 58 inches wide, priced from $2.50 up.

Table Linens

PURE LINEN Tabling is still obtainable in good qualities. There are several patterns in Bleached Linen, two yds wide, at $2, and others as low as $1.50. In Unbleached Linen prices range from $1.00 yd.

Bath Towels

These Towels are the qualities which put real warmth into a good rub after the bath. They are in Grey and Red mixtures and White, from 60c to $1.00. There is an especially good one in Grey, at 75c each.
