The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XXXI.

"Another long ramble, Basil?" she said one morning, as he passed her in the hall. "I am afraid we shall have rain."

"It looks like it," returned Sir Basil; but he did not offer to regain at home.

"I will go with you to the park gates," she said, gently.

She always looked beautiful in the one-fashioned broad-brimmed garden hat that threw a softened shade on her face. Her dress of pale amber trailing over the green grass became her admirably.

"They will be the handsomest couple in England," the duchess remarked, as she caught sight of them from the conservatory.

"You worship beauty, duchess," said the general, laughing at her enthusiasm.

"When I see it," she replied.

Leah and Sir Basil went through the grounds to the gates of the park.

"Shall you be long, Basil?" she asked, wistfully.

He noticed that she did not ask where he was going.

"No, I am going to Southwood, Leah," he replied. "The fact is, I have made the acquaintance of a famous old politician there, and his arguments interest me."

The words conveyed no meaning to her. That the old politician should be her father, Martin Ray, never occurred to her. Never were two persons so near a truth without revealing it; never did the points of two lives meet so closely, and then diverge. If she had merely said, "What politician?" or "Who is he?" he would have answered, "Martin Ray," and who can tell how different many lives would have been? She was engrossed in her lover and in everything concerning him; but she was not curious, and was not given to questioning him. She knew that he was greatly interested in the political struggles of the day; she knew also that he hoped in time to become a statesman; and that an old politician should instruct and amuse him seemed to her quite natural. It was a strange decree of fate that the man whom she loved with all her heart should have met and have grown interested in the father she had renounced.

"Basil," she said gayly, "I shall take to politics. When you are a great statesman, chancellor of the exchequer, or prime minister, you will want a political wife. I shall give grand dinner-parties, and enjole everybody into telling me his secrets."

"You will have to be very clever to do that, Leah," he rejoined, laughing.

"I shall manage it. You will see that I shall learn all the plans of the various parties for you. I am sure that I shall make an excellent wife for a statesman." They had reached the park gates, and she continued: "If I had anything but a garden-hat on, I would accompany you, Basil. The house is dull to me when you are out of it. Make haste home again, dear."

How she loved him! How grateful he ought to have been for such love! How happy he ought to have been!

Yet he sighed as he climbed the hill, and caught sight of the restless sea; and his face when Martin Ray saw him, was not the face of a happy man.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Two more weeks passed, and by that time Martin Ray had grown warmly attached to the man whom he would call "young Glen." Martin himself was ill—his health was fast failing; and he clung to this younger man, so full of health, strength, and vitality—only a chance acquaintance, but one of the few ties that bound him to the outer world. Men had forgotten him; he said bitterly that they had not even waited until he was dead. Now that his health and strength had left him, now that his grand, sonorous voice could no longer declaim his magnificent denunciations, now that the inner fire had burned up, and in the sunken eyes the light of enthusiasm shone no more, he was forgotten by the thousands whom he had led; not one cared what had become of him, and but for the faithful love and service of his daughter, he must have died. In these days much of his pride had left him, and there were times when his eyes ached for one glimpse of Leah. Then, sitting moodily watching the sea, he would ask himself if he had really cursed her, and if Heaven had heard his evil wish.

One day Sir Basil, coming earlier than usual in the morning, found him sitting by the ivy-covered wall, his face buried in his hands. When he raised it to greet him, the baronet saw plainly the traces of tears.

As usual, Martin was cynical, even about himself.

"I am a very rueful-looking patriot this morning," he said. "I have been ill all night, and I am alone."

Sir Basil glanced round.

"Where is Miss Ray?" he asked.

"My daughter is always bustled about something or other; she has not much time to give to me. It was different once."

Sir Basil felt indignant. He knew that, no matter where Hettie might be, she was working for him and for no one else.

"I think," he said, quietly, "that Miss Ray gives you all her time. I have never seen a daughter so devoted."

"She is very good," he allowed; and then he added, abruptly, "I had another daughter once."

It seemed as though some irresponsible power forced him to talk of Leah. It was the first time he had spoken of her since the day she had left him, and, like pent-up waters suddenly let loose, his thoughts and feelings at once found vent. He rose from his seat and stretched his arms out toward the great heaving ocean.

"I have never pretended to be what people call tender-hearted, but my love for that girl was deeper than the sea," he cried—"deeper and wider than yonder sea!"

Sir Basil thought to himself that he looked like one of the grand heroes of old, with his tall figure and massive head, his arms outstretched in appealing despair.

"I made two idols," he continued. "The first was my wife—she died; the other was my daughter."

"Dying she die also!" said Sir Basil, pityingly.

"No, she is worse than dead—a thousand times worse than dead. If I could weep over some green grave containing her I should be happier."

"Not dead!" said Sir Basil, wondering.

"No; she deserted me; she cast me off, much as you would throw away your old gloves. I swore that I would never mention her name; but, if I do not speak, my heart will break. I have thought of her all night against my will—against my will."

"It is only natural that you should think of her," rejoined the baronet.

"No; you do not know what she did. I had these two daughters, Hettie and another. Hettie is a loving, gentle girl; the other was a genius, a bright, beautiful, gifted girl, who would have been a prophetess among the people. My heart was wrapped up in her. People say that a father should make no difference in the love that he bears his children. How can he help it? To me one was as a magnificent imperial eagle, the other like a gentle white dove. I loved the eagle best. I wanted to make her a heroine, to teach her to go among the people, to teach as I taught. She was so beautiful, so full of fire and spirit, a grand soul shining in her eyes! I told her what I wanted. I asked her for her life's service. What is the service of a life when one loves a cause? On the very day that I unfolded my plans to her a stranger came among us—a man related to my wife. He was rich—bah, how I hate to speak of him!—and he wanted to adopt my children; I refused his offer; he appealed to them. Ah! Heaven, when I think of the scene! She, the daughter whom I loved best, left me, and went up to him, this stranger, and clung to him. 'Take me away,' she cried. 'I have been praying to Heaven to send me a deliverer from this furnace of fire!' She went away with him, and I cursed her."

As he finished Martin Ray's arms fell nervously by his side, and his gray head drooped upon his breast.

"And the other—Hettie—what did she do?"

"Ah! good, faithful Hettie! She came to me. I see the picture now. Glen. She put her arms round my neck. 'I will love you, and serve you, and be true to you until I die,' she said. And so we four stood looking at each other. Then the other two went away. Hettie and I have been alone ever since; we have never uttered her sister's name since the day she left us, and we never shall."

TRUCE EXTENDED TO WEDNESDAY.

DUBLIN, May 5.—The Daily Eireann met to-day a resolution was received from the Peace Committee saying it might be able to report on Saturday. Daily thereupon adjourned until Wednesday. Meanwhile the truce between the rival factions was to expire Monday but has been extended until Wednesday.

REDUCING WAGES IN BUILDING TRADES.

MONTREAL, May 5.—The Builders Exchange to-day decided that wage reductions in the building trades ranging from 10 to 30 per cent. should be enforced.

WU IN CONTROL.

LONDON, May 5.—The forces of General Chang Tso lin, the Manchurian leader, have been completely driven from the Peking region, and General Wu Pei Fu is in control of the situation. Chang's authority in Peking was eliminated with the disarmament of his guard inside the capital and General Wu, recognized by the Peking Government, having assumed control. It is understood President Hsu Shih Chang will remain in office, but Premier Liang Ship Vi, a supporter of Gen. Chang will be automatically eliminated.

THE GERMAN BUDGET.

BERLIN, May 5.—The budget for 1922 has been amended to comply with the Reparations Commission's stipulation regarding allowances for the depreciation of the Reichsmark and allocated 141,900,000,000 marks as corresponding to 720,000,000 gold marks fixed by the Treaty of Versailles, and the addition of the reparations obligations to the national budget now amounts to 100,000,000,000 paper marks. Calculations proceed of the compulsory issue of 70 billion paper marks, there besides the taxation comprising a sum of 139 billion marks unpaid. The debt on the entire budget including the reparations clauses, amounts to 1,000 billion marks. An official report will see how it would be possible to meet the bank note issue. The currency increase during the last week in 1921 was 7,782,000,000 marks.

SCHOONER LOST.

TURKISH ISLAND, May 5.—The British schooner "B. A. Tower," bound from Demerara, for British Guiana in ballast, was totally wrecked at midnight on a reef north east of the island. The crew were rescued.

Spring.

Now the cold winter is over,
And summer's at last on the way;
The snow and ice have vanished
Before bright and genial May.

And the Robin again is with us,
So gay with his breast of red;
First herald of our northern spring
As he gaily carols o'er head.

Over the valleys and hill-tops,
We hear his joyful song;
And the notes of sweetest music
Brighten the day along.

All summer he stays to cheer us,
And with sorrow we see him depart;
From the happy haunts of Newfoundland
But his song ever lives in the heart.

Terrible Weeping Eczema.

For the year 1909, I suffered with weeping eczema on my hands which caused me very much pain and worry for I could not use my hands for but very few things. I tried many remedies but they all failed to give me any relief and I was obliged to give up my work and came south at the same time continuing to use any preparation recommended to me but my hands continued to get worse until I was told to try D.D.D. Prescription also stop, which I at once did and the first two or three applications gave me the greatest relief and when I had used but half a dollar bottle my hands were healed. I am indeed very thankful for your splendid prescription and may it fame spread world wide, is the wish of MRS. E. HAYES.

A CUP OF TEA.

Nellie made a cup of tea,
Made and poured it out for me,
And above the steaming brew
Smiled and asked me: "One or two?"
Sincerely she tossed her head,
"Make it sweet for me," I said.

Two sweet lumps of sugar fell
Into that small china well,
But I knew the while I drained
Every drop the cup contained,
More than sugar in the tea,
Made the beverage sweet for me.

This to her I tried to say
In that golden yesterday—
Life is like a cup of tea
Which Time poureth endlessly,
Brewed by trial's constant heat,
Needing love to make it sweet.

Then I caught her looking up,
And I held my dainty cup
Out to her and bravely said:
"Here is all that lies ahead,
Here is all my life to be—
Will you make it sweet for me?"

That was years ago, and now
There is silver in her brow;
We have sorrowed, we have smiled,
We've been hurt and reconciled—
But whatever had to be,
She has made it sweet for me.

Curious Mining.

The increasing depth to which it is necessary to go in following the vein of kaolin, or potter's clay, mined near the House on the river in Connecticut some time ago caused the introduction of a novel method of mining. Wells from 50 to nearly 200 feet in depth are driven, and two pipes, the outer four inches and the inner two inches in diameter, are introduced. Water at a pressure of 40 pounds per square inch is forced down through the smaller pipe and rises through the larger one, bringing with it about 5 per cent. of solid matter, of which 75 per cent. is pure kaolin.

$301,000 Royalty on Eskimo Pie Weekly.

Royalties amounting to probably $30,000 a week, it was learned to-day, are being paid by the manufacturers of "Eskimo Pie," the little oblong block of ice cream covered with chocolate, to its inventor, C. K. Nelson, son of the "village confectioner" of Ottawa, Ill., and associates, who have backed him in marketing a product which went begging for almost four years. Probably no innovation of recent years, designed to meet the cravings of a sweet tooth, has met with such instantaneous success in New York, Chicago and other cities.

The consumption of "Eskimo Pie" slices it was placed on the market last January has encouraged its sponsors to believe that the gross income from royalties may amount to $1,600,000 in the next 12 months. The chocolate-covered cake of ice cream is being

Famine Peak Not Passed in Russia.

DESPATCH FROM MOSCOW IS CONTRADICTED BY LORD WEARDALE.

Ottawa, April 14, (Associated Press)—Colonel Mackie, of the Canadian Save the Children Fund, has received a cable from the headquarters of the British relief organization, concerning the famine has been passed in Russia, as was indicated in a press despatch from Moscow. This despatch stated that the ex-Governor Goodrich of Indiana, was leaving that city to report to Herbert Hoover that the peak of the famine had been passed. The Canadian committee of the Save the Children Fund immediately cabled Minard's Lintment Co., Limited.

Sirs,—I have used your Minard's Lintment for the past 25 years and whilst I have occasionally used other liniments I can safely say that I have never used any to equal yours. If rubbed between the hands and inhaled frequently, it will never fail to relieve cold in the head in 24 hours. It is also the best for bruises, sprains, etc.

Yours truly,
J. G. Lezlie.

French Fishery At St. Pierre.

The fishing fleet at St. Pierre during 1922 will be quite small in comparison to that of 1921. Last year there were 32 French trawlers engaged there. They caught about 300,000 quintals at the value of 80 to 90 francs per quintal, which was only half the price of 1920. The shore fishery was poor in 1921 and averaged only 120 quintals per day. A big cold storage plant erected by the French Government at a cost of ten million francs, is still idle.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Government's Refusal to Aid the Blind.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir.—It is apparent from the remarks made in the House on Tuesday by Mr. Bennett and Sir Michael Cashin that, unless the government can be induced to change its mind in that respect, the small sum asked by the Newfoundland Blind Institution will not be forthcoming. If I am correctly informed, this will mean in turn that Mr. Weir, after three years of self-sacrificing devotion to a cause which ought to be the government's sole concern and duty, will return to Canada, a disappointed and disillusioned man; the five hundred blind of the country, after having their hopes raised, will have them dashed again; Sir Edgar Bowring's generous gift of Waterford Hall will be in effect, if not in fact, cancelled; and we shall have one more record, as a people, to be ashamed of. I am asking the favor of your space to make a last appeal, to those who have it in their power, not to allow this to happen.

Mr. Weir came, or rather returned, to Newfoundland three years ago, inspired with the purpose of obtaining for his fellow countrymen and fellow sufferers some of the inestimable benefits, of comfort, relief and independence, which he and others similarly afflicted had been able to enjoy at and through the Halifax School for the Blind. This institution is the same in most essential respects as others that exist in Canada and the United States and, I think I am safe in saying, in all other countries worthy of the name. It gives the blind a home, trains and equates them and makes them independent. There was no institution here; Mr. Weir's object was to establish one. Two years ago he obtained the incorporation of the Newfoundland Training and Employment Institute for the Blind. Funds had to be found for the erection and equipping of a suitable building and for its regular maintenance. The government was approached and agreed to contribute $25,000 when twice that amount should be obtained from the public; also to vote $10,000 yearly for the maintenance of such smaller sum as should be found necessary. Unfortunately the appeal to the public came at a time when business depression was beginning to be felt; and only a small part of the initial sum required could be raised. Then, last year, Sir Edgar Bowring, with characteristic generosity, presented Waterford Hall to the Institute, a gift which, with the amount already obtained, easily fulfilled the Institute's side of the bargain. The government refused to perform its own. It is now asked, I understand for $10,000 only (the amount estimated to be necessary to fit the Hall for the purposes of the Institute) and the agreed sum for maintenance. This, as I said at the beginning, has also been refused, not to the Institute or Mr. Weir, but to the helpless blind of the country. And with it, of course, is refused Waterford Hall also.

The reason is given obvious enough: the country cannot afford even this sum; retrenchment is imperative; etc. Let us pass over the plain duty of the Government to afford it, and examine this excuse alone. It certainly did not apply two years ago, when there seemed to be money enough and to spare. It only apparently applies to-day. Someone has to support and pay for the blind of this country, and a good deal of the cost of that support is borne indirectly by the country. At the worst, all that the establishment of an institution could do is to shift the direct burden from the shoulders of private individuals, most of them poor persons, onto the country at large. And that cost, with the contribution and organization of the institute, would undoubtedly be less in the aggregate than it is now. This is leaving out the whole purpose of the Institute, which is to fit these unfortunate citizens for a place in the world and society, and to make them self-supporting and thus to reduce that cost of maintenance to a minimum, possibly to vanishing point. We need not consider the effect upon the inmates themselves, as not being likely to affect the government, which is only concerned with spiritual things like finances. I will not trespass further on your space. I trust that these few words may have some effect in securing the passage of this paltry vote, and in sparing us the humiliation of having it said of us that Newfoundland devalues even this tiny measure of assistance to her own afflicted sons and daughters. Yours very truly, HUMANITY. May 5, 1922.

Pearson's Fresh Air Fund

Editor Evening Telegram Dear Sir.—For many years past you have kindly published in the columns of "The St. John's Telegram" an appeal from my father, the late Sir Arthur Pearson, for the Fresh Air Fund, which he founded thirty years ago. I am making every endeavour to ensure the continuance of his work, as I feel sure that his dearest wish would be that the poor children that live in the dark places of our large towns and cities, should not be deprived of the good health and enjoyment which he dispensed to them with the help of kindly sympathizers all over the world. For grown up men and women great poverty is a misfortune, but for little children a tragedy, a sin against civilization. During the past thirty years the Fresh Air Fund has given 4,359,660 poor children living in unfavorable surroundings a day in the country—over four million units of happiness cannot abolish the miseries of the underworld of poverty, but they can at least help to assuage them. Since 1908, 67,944 poor children have been the guests of the Fresh Air Fund for a fortnight at the seaside or in some health-giving rural retreat. During the past few years many of the children who have enjoyed this fortnight's holiday have been the orphaned little ones of our soldiers and sailors. There is no charity in the case of which so little buys so much. Fifteen pence pays for a day's holiday for a child. £1 defrays the cost of a fortnight's holiday by the sea or in the country for another child. £13 pays for 200 poor children to have a day's outing, with the necessary attendants to look after them, and for this sum the day can be known by what- ever name the donor wishes. Most of us have memory of someone who has gone, someone to whom we would like to show honor. There would be no better memorial in the world than to give a day's happiness to 200 of these little ones. The Fresh Air Fund is not a conspicuous charity. Quietly and steadily it does the work in places where the sunshine of life is seldom, if ever, felt. Every penny subscribed goes to the children; all the expenses of management being defrayed by the promoters. There are no barriers of class or creed; the only passport to a Fresh Air Fund holiday in the use of the child, it is with deep and grateful recognition of the splendid aid rendered by your readers to the Fresh Air Fund in the past that I am again appealing to them for assistance. Subscriptions, however small, will be thankfully received and acknowledged by Mr. Ernest Kessell, Hon. Sec. of the Fresh Air Fund, 17a, Henrietta Street, London, W. C. 1. Yours faithfully, NEVILLE PEARSON. April 12, 1922.

Crescents Crack Team Likely to Run At St. John's.

LOCALS WILL BE REPRESENTED BY FINE AGGREGATION SHOULD THEY MAKE TRIP TO OLD COLONY.

Crescents Athletic club will probably send a track and field team to St. John's, Newfoundland, this summer. The locals were invited by the St. John's officials last fall to make the trip after the winning of the Halifax championship, in which the Crescents scored 59 points. Although the trip is not definitely decided, some of the locals are preparing and the Crescents are now in a position to send a team to St. John's that would be sure to create a fine impression.

Erin Smith, regarded as one of the leading sprinters of the east; Grant Holmes, Maritime 440 and one mile champion; Harold Lapierre, who ran second to Lawrence at Montreal in the Olympic team trials; Billy Moonery, Maritime half mile champion are mentioned as some of the men the Crescents would send over to the old Colony.—Halifax Mail.

CHAFE-PENNEY.

The wedding of Miss Isabel Chafe, daughter of Mr. J. W. Chafe, 140 Campbell St., to Mr. J. W. Penney, son of Mr. J. Penney, 34 Mullock Street, was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, South Side, on Wednesday, April 26th. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, B.A. The bride was given away by her father and was attired in navy blue travelling costume with cream Georgette hat, and white fox fur, the gift of the groom; and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and maiden hair fern. She was attended by Miss Thirza Ruby, cousin of the bride, who was attired in a navy blue costume and gray georgette hat, and carried a bouquet of white carnations, tulips and maiden hair fern. The groom was supported by Mr. Cyril Clark, of the bride. The groom's best man was the bride's best man, both of whom were the best man and girl of the bride. The ceremony of the bride party where the wedding breakfast was held, after which the happy couple by the morning train for the home of the bride's sister, the honeymoon was spent. Some useful presents were received.

Prohibition and Tourist Traffic.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir—Of recent days the anti-liquor activities of the police have called public attention very particularly to the whole prohibition question and its many bearings on the public and private life of our citizens. I think I am pretty safe in saying that prohibition became the law of the country and in its present form because in their optimistic enthusiasm supporters of the movement either misinterpreted its effects or overlooked certain difficulties and hardships that were certain to arise as soon as the principle of prohibition became embodied in the laws of the country. That is an aspect of the question that I do not propose to discuss in this letter. I know that there will be very little contradiction when I state that all but a very few of its supporters are sadly disappointed with prohibition as we have it in Newfoundland. The vast majority of our people are disenchanted with the workings of the prohibition law. Outside St. John's where the disadvantages and drawbacks of the regime are felt most particularly and peculiarly because of the law are regarded with general and great disfavor and I am certain, a referendum on this question would result in the defeat of the present system of prohibition by a greater majority than was accorded when it was submitted to the country as a plebiscite. Right here let me state that I am not advocating a return to the liquor trade as it was conducted in the days before the prohibition law was enforced. I do not believe in the open saloon or bar and I am not in favor of the indiscriminate sale of intoxicating liquors. But a certain and rigid law such as is on the Newfoundland Statute Book is certain to make more enemies than friends for prohibition in this country. A very little inquiry around the streets and offices of this city or in the outports will prove the correctness of that contention. The only proper laws for a country are those that are capable of being applied to the life of the people of the country. An elastic law is an impossible one. In this country a prohibition law could only be generally and fairly enforced if it were elastic, because in one part of the country it must meet a totally different set of conditions from those which obtain in another part. Either that or the use of alcohol in any form must be totally and definitely prohibited. But the law itself admits the desirability of having alcohol available for medicinal purposes. Therefore, total prohibition cannot reasonably be proposed. But a medicine is of value only when it is obtainable expeditiously in time of need. That is the case of St. John's where the Controller's office is in within reach of every person's home. It is the case of a good many outports where doctors are stationed. But there are hundreds of miles of coast-

What is the Motive?

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Why this sudden activity in relation to Prohibition? Speeches in the Assembly, doctors arrested, druggists fined and smuggler's apprehended—all within a fortnight. Quite unlike the usual arresting of back lane moonshiners and bootleggers. What does it all foreshadow? When we know that all of this could have been done anytime within the past fifty weeks, we are driven to ask ourselves what it all means. Does it mean that there is a real attempt to be made to alter, amend or enforce the Prohibition law, or is it only a move to ensure the passing of the vote for the horse-police. Let us wait and see.

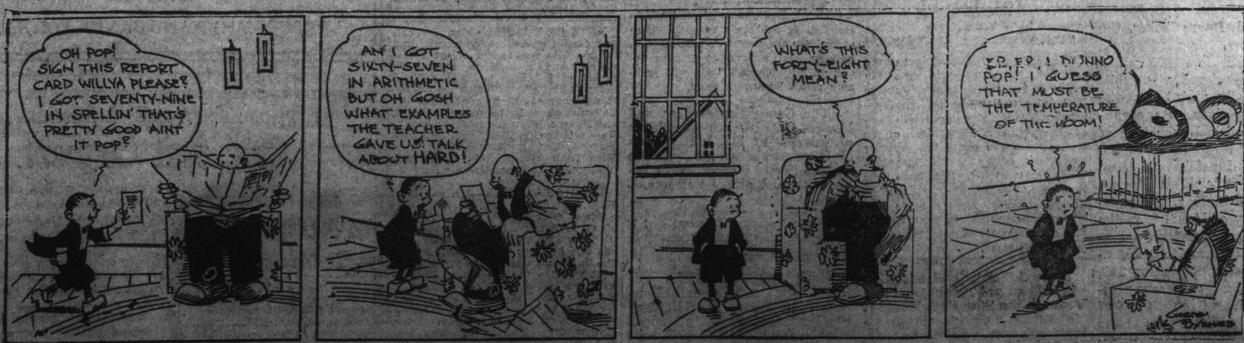

Yours truly, WARWICK SMITH. May 6th, 1922.

A Golden Opportunity.

Newfoundland has been in direct communication with Brazil for over three hundred years, and our commercial associations with that country have ever been of a most cordial nature. Brazil has a population estimated at twenty millions of people, and the supplying of only a portion of this number with Newfoundland codfish would be a potential source of wealth to this Colony. So far, however, exporters do not appear to be disposed to turn their attention to the exploiting of a larger Brazilian market than they have been serving. Rather have cargoes for sale in that country been reduced, instead of increased. Why this is so the exporters themselves alone can explain. But it is wise to neglect any opportunities that offer to create new phases of our export fish trade? Is it conserving the future of Newfoundland and tending to increase production if competitors are permitted to oust us from a market held by this Colony for so long? Have not our exporting merchants been invariably well treated by their Brazilian correspondents and consignees in their trade relations, and has not every satisfaction been received from customers at Pernambuco, Bahia, and the other ports to which fish cargoes have been shipped?

Brazil is this year celebrating the centenary of its independence. Discovered by the Portuguese in the year 1500, and by them was named Terra da Vera Cruz (The Land of the True Cross.) Its present name was derived from Brazil, the term applied to the hard wood which grows so plentifully. Its official title to-day is Republica dos Estados Unidos do Brazil (Republic of the United States of Brazil). The country was claimed by Portugal and remained in its possession, excepting for a few years, 1580-1661, when it was annexed by Spain, and from 1624 to 1661 when a large portion of it was held by the Dutch, till 1822 when it declared its independence and became the Empire of Brazil, Dom Pedro of the Portuguese Royal House being the first Emperor. His son Pedro II was deposed in 1889 when Brazil was declared a Republic being officially styled by the title already given. Its constitution is modelled upon that of the United States of America. The present President is Senhor Epitacio da Silva Pessoa, who acceded in 1919. The legislative power of Brazil is in the hands of two chambers, a separate of 63 members and a Chamber of Deputies numbering 212. The President and vice-president are elected for a term of four years by direct vote of the people. Brazil produces three-fourths of all the coffee of the world, the export of this article amounting to $35,000,000 worth annually.

In commemoration of its hundred years of independence Brazil is holding a National Exhibition, which will be inaugurated on September 7th next and continued till the 31st March, 1923. We are indebted to John Fenelon, Esq., Vice-Consul for an official programme of the Exhibition, containing much valuable information, and also for a complete set of Exhibition stamps, the designs of which have previously been described in the Telegram. The recent writings of our valued contributor, Mr. H. F. Shortis, have directed attention to the purpose of the Brazilian Exhibition, and have as well shown that a great opportunity is offered to Newfoundland to regain the trade, which once was one of magnitude, with this great South American Republic. By tables of exports and lists of vessels employed and firms dealing with Brazil, Mr. Shortis has been more than painstaking in his efforts to show just where we stand and just what we should do. He has pointed the way and has devoted much valuable time and patience in preparing all the information available of our past commercial relations with a one-time valuable market, and one which though we have not yet entirely lost, yet we are making no special effort to retain. Prosperity depends not alone on continuing to hold those markets which we have, but in the opening up of new avenues of trade, and making new connections with other South American fish consuming peoples. The National Exhibition of 1922, to be held at Rio de Janeiro, should be a rallying point for Newfoundland produce, and efforts should be made to arrange for an exhibit from the Colony in charge of a capable and qualified member of the Board of Trade.

Speeding Up Production

FREE SEED AND SEED POTATOES. In order to encourage the raising of all the produce possible and thus help along the serious condition which seems almost unavoidable here, the Agricultural Department has sent to the various districts in the island for statistics of the number of people who are unable to purchase seed. It is the intention of the Government to give free seed and seed potatoes to those who are unable to purchase them, so that production may be speeded up. The seed potatoes are local grown from seed imported two springs ago.

Reducing Labrador Service.

THREE STEAMERS LAID UP. The Government has practically decided that the Labrador service this year would be considerably reduced and that the Senec and Sebasteop which sailed this route last year should be placed out of commission. It is also intended not to run the Watchful, so that the three boats will be moored for the summer alongside S. Lobelia until some work to pay for their upkeep can be found. So far they have not been able to pay for the fuel they burn.

Personal.

Mr. A. B. Walker, of Charlton Street recently received word that his niece, Miss Victoria Walker, who is only 15 years of age, has passed her fourth exam. at the Royal College of Music and the Oxford preliminary at her college. She played before 600 people including the King and Queen, the Duke of York and Princess Mary at Balmoral Castle and was complimented by their majesties who shook hands with her and gave her their autographs.

Death of Mrs. C. P. Ayre.

We regret to learn of the passing of Mrs. Ayre, wife of Mrs. Charles P. Ayre at her home, "Burn Brae" last night (Friday). The deceased lady was a native of Scotland and a daughter of Rev. Thomas Stevenson of Edinburgh. The funeral takes place on Monday next.

The Murray Street Murder.

Interest in the sensational murders of the three Chinamen in the Murray Street Laundry has apparently subsided. There has been no further developments and efforts by the Press to obtain the accused's statement from the police have proved futile. Wo Fen King continues to improve at the hospital and is under constant police surveillance. Hong Wing is now practically out of danger and will be an important witness when the trial of Wo Fen King is held.

As soon as the accused is well enough to be removed from hospital the preliminary hearing will be held. Curiously continues to attract a large number of citizens to J. T. Martin's mortuary rooms, where the murdered Chinamen were removed from the morgue. The funeral will take place tomorrow and the service at the graveside will be conducted by Rev. W. B. Bugden, Pastor of Wesley Church. Interment will be in General Protestant Cemetery.

Have you booked for "As You Like It"? If not, why not? The seats are going fast.

Oldest Flag.

Our Royal Standard, in which some changes will possibly be made as a result of Ireland's new status, is not so venerable as the Danish Royal Standard—the oldest national flag in existence. The white cross on a white ground of the Danebor is traditionally traced to a vision seen in the sky by a Danish king, Valdemar the Victorious, when leading his army against the Ethopians near Reval in 1219. According to one version of the legend, the blood-red flag fell from heaven into the Danish ranks. There is no doubt that about the date of this battle it was adopted as the Danish flag and that it had the religious associations which belonged to most national standards in medieval times.

TRINITY.

STORY OF TRINITY EAST—
CONTINUED.

... of the land in Pease Cove, owned by Joseph Newell, was sold to others on the place developed. For instance, now owned by the family was sold by Thomas Peckham to Patrick Brine. Brine was a cooper with Pease Cove. Robert Brine married one of his daughters and thus inherited the property.

... Costa, who is buried in Old St. John's Churchyard, and of whom there are written several times, owned the property now in possession of the Peckhams. Costa, carried on an extensive business, and old Mr. Peckham bought the property when he bought a piece of land situated between Peckham's and Newell's property, belonged to a Mr. Graham. It was bought from his sons by Joseph, and is still owned by the family. Some of the property that Mr. Peckham bought, was by him to his sister Mrs. Fowell, and her descendants occupy it.

... place called to the north of the property, known as "the hill," belonged originally to Garth. It was bought from Garland by John Andrews, and later, it was bought from Andrews by Richard Peckham and Charles Tholeman. John Peckham was the agent for Garland Peckham, and conducted their business at Brown's Cove, Trinity, where the Government wharf is situated. There was a well-equipped room in connection with the business, and Jimmy Hogarth came to the Harbor, and had charge of it for several years.

... few statements are but the facts of the history of what is known then as a part of the side of Trinity. It is a pity, with the passing of the people represented the last century, that reliable history has passed away for ever. It is interesting to note that, whilst in the year 1880 Robert Jones and Mary Peckham "plighted their troth either to and at that time were the witnesses at Trinity East—today are about eighty descendants living in and around the Jones estate in Pease Cove, and all carry the honored name. Mary Peckham, daughter of Jonas and Mary Peckham, married George Lockyer, of the mother and father of the Lockyer, who to-day is the son of that family living.

... there is no race suicide among the Jones, and whilst it is evident that some Jones will not die out for 70 years to come, yet the name will have all but disappeared from the earth. On Captain Cook's chart of the coast, made many years ago, there are markings to indicate five or six miles on Newell's Point, at the entrance to God's Cove. That is where Newell first settled; and as S. Snap—on which Robert Jones was a midshipman—wintered near point, it is not difficult to understand how the (Robert Jones) got associated with Mary Newell, who some years afterwards became his wife.

... this point of land—though no one lived on it for years—is still known as Newell's Point; and this, like with the names in the old Registers, and the name as it appears on a Mural Tablet in the Holy Chapel—which reads as follows:—
"Thomas Lambert, Pillager of the Sea, and his wife, these are the only remainders of the name Newell in Trinity today." The name has still survived at Trinity. Sixty years ago, when the bells of the Church of England Trinity East came over to Old St. John's, Trinity, for public worship, buried their dead in the old buryard, they placed their Mural Tablet in the Church here. Of those now in the Mortuary Chapel, bears the following inscription:

In Memory of
John Peckham, who died
— 1850 —
Aged 84 years
and John Peckham his son
— 1852 —
deceased by Martin Peckham
son of John Peckham, Sr.
I am aware of the fact that much of this kind of local history is not very interesting to the general public; but at the same time I know from the letters that I receive every week, from Trinitarians at home and abroad, that it is all deeply interesting to them, and it is for them, to a great extent, that I write it. They have my thanks for their many kind letters, so full of gratitude and appreciation.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY AT IRELAND'S EYE.

The dwelling houses there indicate prosperity and good taste. The people are members of the Church of England, and Ireland's Eye is a part of Trinity Parish. The Church, the S.U.F. Hall and the School House, are fine buildings on the highest points to the rear of the village, and as such they are effective and silent witnesses to the careful provision made by the people for their spiritual, social and mental education. In common with the fisheries of Newfoundland, Sunday is to them a day for worship, and rest of mind and body. The Sunday, however, of my visit was in several senses, "a high day," for it was also St. George's Day, and St. George is not only the patron Saint of England, but also the patron Saint of Ireland's Eye; their Church is dedicated to St. George, and the S.U.F. is represented there by St. George's Lodge.

Kidney Trouble

Is Usually Due to Constipation. When you are constipated, there is not enough lubricant produced by your system to keep the food waste soft. Doctors prescribe Nujol because its action is so close to this natural lubricant. Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grip. Try it today.

The Joy of Living.

When you wake with no appetite, a dread of the day's work and your head heavy, your digestive organs are probably calling for just the help which Mother's Best's Syrup can give them. The medicinal extracts of more than 20 different roots, herbs and leaves restore the natural healthy action of liver and stomach. Meals are enjoyed, that tired feeling disappears, and you know the joy of living. Sold in 50c. and $1.00 bottles at drug stores.

PILE

Do not suffer another day with itching, burning, or smarting Piles. No matter how long they have been there, they will disappear if you use the Pile Ointment. It will soothe the inflamed and swollen tissue, and soothe you to sleep.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY AT IRELAND'S EYE.

Though born and brought up within fifteen miles of Ireland's Eye, I had to wait for sixty-five years before I was privileged to see it and to spend a day there. That privilege was extended to me a fortnight ago; and the invitation to spend Sunday there, and to conduct the Sunday Services, was given in such a whole-hearted way, that, with my love for those services anywhere, and my personal admiration of the people who had invited me, I gladly accepted the invitation, and was landed there on Saturday afternoon.

THE LADIES OF ST. PAUL'S CONGREGATION

The Ladies of St. Paul's congregation who had been working during Lent for Queen's College, held a concert, and sale of work in the Parish Hall on the evening of April 24th, and thereby added some fifty dollars to the fund. The entertainment in connection with it was delightfully informal. The "Japanese Ladies" brought down the house; but the offerings of the day were handed to the priest who conducted the service, and he in turn handed them over to the Queen's College fund of the parish.

The "Japanese Ladies" brought down the house; but the offerings of the day were handed to the priest who conducted the service, and he in turn handed them over to the Queen's College fund of the parish.

THE DWELLING HOUSES THERE

The dwelling houses there indicate prosperity and good taste. The people are members of the Church of England, and Ireland's Eye is a part of Trinity Parish. The Church, the S.U.F. Hall and the School House, are fine buildings on the highest points to the rear of the village, and as such they are effective and silent witnesses to the careful provision made by the people for their spiritual, social and mental education. In common with the fisheries of Newfoundland, Sunday is to them a day for worship, and rest of mind and body. The Sunday, however, of my visit was in several senses, "a high day," for it was also St. George's Day, and St. George is not only the patron Saint of England, but also the patron Saint of Ireland's Eye; their Church is dedicated to St. George, and the S.U.F. is represented there by St. George's Lodge.

THE LADIES OF ST. PAUL'S CONGREGATION

The Ladies of St. Paul's congregation who had been working during Lent for Queen's College, held a concert, and sale of work in the Parish Hall on the evening of April 24th, and thereby added some fifty dollars to the fund. The entertainment in connection with it was delightfully informal. The "Japanese Ladies" brought down the house; but the offerings of the day were handed to the priest who conducted the service, and he in turn handed them over to the Queen's College fund of the parish.

the place of residence was the Bar on solo by the Doctor.
Some day when the wind would be blowing a half a gale from the S.S. West, fifty years ago, poor old John Murphy would say to his father:—"Oh, Jarge, what a fine time it would be to St. John's to-day." "But John," my father would say, "but the wind is absolutely dead ahead blowing right in the Narrows." "Ah yes, Jarge," John would say, "I know, but when you'd get away off Jarge what a fine time you'd have going in." How one could get "away off" with such a wind, never entered into John's calculations; and he repeated the remark every time the wind blew a gale from the South—all the end.

Presentation to Miss Rachel Fowell, Telegraph Operator, Trinity.
A few evenings ago, after office hours, some ten or twelve of our citizens waited on Miss Fowell, presented her with an address, and asked her to accept a copy of the Universalist Dictionary, for reasons as given in the address. The address, which was beautifully printed in colours, and illuminated was read by Canon Lockyer, and was as follows:—
"To Miss Rachel Fowell, Telegraph Operator, Trinity.
Dear Miss Fowell—Some one has said, that in the spring, the young man's thoughts turn to love. Those of us, however—or at least the majority of us here this evening—not being young men, are not consciously affected in that way. Our spring thoughts of 1922, turn to grateful feelings towards you, and we have come here to express those feelings in a tangible way. Those grateful feelings that we desire to express, and to assure you of, are due to you for the many acts of unselfish kindness and courtesy that you (in your position as the person in charge of this Telegraph office) have always shown to us as individuals, and particularly so during the past winter and the present spring. In our anxiety to know what is going on out in the big world, we have come, and we still come day by day, to your office, and to you for that information. We know how formal and exacting you might be at all times in connection with the limited privileges that we are entitled to in your office; and we also know from experience that, without in any way on your part, violating the rules of the Company, that you so faithfully and so intelligently represent, you have been very kind to us in connection with the public news, and in supplying us with many little bits of helpful public information, such as (if so disposed) you might not have troubled yourself about. We ask you to accept this copy of The Universalist Dictionary, as a slight token of our grateful feelings for, and our appreciation of these acts of courtesy and unselfish kindness on your part. May every Easter joy be yours."
The address was signed by Canon Lockyer, Rev. Charles M. Stickleton, Messrs. E. J. Ryan, Walter N. White, F. Somerton, W. W. White, Eric B. Rankin, William S. Lockyer, John Green, George W. Gent, Edwin G. Grant, George Hoskins, Fred T. Morris, A. E. Erikson.
This was planned and carried out as a surprise to Miss Fowell, but she was equal to the occasion and quietly and feeling assured the donors, of her appreciation of their kindness, and thanked them for their kind references to her actions in the performance of her daily duties. The members of the presentation respectively endorsed the general sentiments of the address, by references to acts of kindness and courtesy shown to them individually by Miss Fowell, in connection with their business, and social dealings with her in her official capacity. The person who read the address reminded Miss Fowell, that, although the address was intended to convey to her the sentiments of a few of her friends, he was quite sure that the general public, to a man, would have signed it, if it had been intended as such, and if they had been asked to do so they all sang—"For She's a jolly good fellow, and bowed themselves out, thoroughly well pleased with themselves and their action.
Correction—In my items (Easter Eve) on fame earned by modern Newfoundland Legislators—the "amusing campaign literature" that I credited to Mr. James Murray, appeared to the credit (?) of Sir James Winter.

A couple of women in a small Ohio town were one day discoursing in rather a philosophical strain, when one observed:
"How true is it that one-half of the world, doesn't know how the other half lives."
"That may be true of the world in general," replied the other, who was a native of the town in question, "but it doesn't apply to this town"—Portland Oregonian.

SOLE FOOD OF GREEK REFUGEES.
CONSTANTINOPLE—(Associated Press)—Living for sixteen days on mixed sea and fresh water and limited bread rations, 800 children and 3,000 adult Greeks have arrived here on the Greek steamer Michael Archangel from Novorossiisk, Russia with no food or water on board. Suffering from cholera and other epidemic diseases, many of the refugees were ill and two had died at sea. Greek military authorities and delegates of the Greek High Commission inspected the ship, supplied medical aid and arranged for emergency food supplies to last the vessel until she reached Saloniki, where the able-bodied will be debarked for transportation to the tobacco farms and road camps in the vicinity of Kavala. These refugees were recruited from among more than 20,000 Greeks who were driven from their homes by the Bolsheviki and who have been waiting two years for repatriation. The condition of the others is said to be serious, with from 25 to 30 dying daily of hunger.

Carries Heart On Right Side.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., (Canadian Press)—A rare instance of anatomical misplacement was disclosed by an X-ray photograph here recently, which showed the heart of Mrs. D. R. Latrelle of this city, on the opposite side to that where normal people keep the seat of their affections. While this is a rare thing, local physicians state that occasionally the heart is displaced by some affection of the lungs and cases have been known in which the heart was situated on the right side and the appendix on the left in persons who seemed otherwise quite normal. Mrs. Latrelle states she has never felt the slightest inconvenience from her abnormal condition; and, though she has a family of children she does not think that any of them have inherited the peculiarity. Mrs. Latrelle brought a strong protest from one of her school-age children not long ago when she placed her hand upon her right side when complaining of a heart-pain. "Why, mother," exclaimed the child, "you ought to be old enough to know where your heart is." Later, however, the X-ray in a local hospital revealed that mother was quite correct.

Soy Bean Rivals Silk As Chinese Export.

Cultivation of the soy bean has developed in China to such an extent that it now represents the principal agricultural industry of that country. Immense areas of the great plains of southern Manchuria are devoted to this crop. The world's demand for soy beans is steadily increasing and China's export of them bids fair soon to surpass in value that of its silk output. There are more than 1000 varieties of soy beans, from which an experiment station at Kung-chu-ling, in southern Manchuria, has chosen one as the best of all. It is nearly spherical, yellow in colour and of the bigness of a small pea. A yield of 22 percent of oil is extracted from the soy bean yields milk and butter (or products equivalent for table use), as well as a great variety of other edibles, including a famous sauce. Taken all in all, the five ounce bean is one of our most versatile vegetables.

Face to Face With Japan.

It might be hard to promise that the 1922 Fox News is going to be still bigger and better than it was in 1921, but that is our promise and to begin the year right, it started off last night at the Majestic with a tremendously important series of pictures entitled "Face to Face With Japan." For seventy years Japan has slowly but surely and persistently climbed into a high place among the great powers of the world. The question is constantly asked "Is there a Japanese peril?" or "Will there be war with Japan?" Another very interesting and unusual item in the Fox News to-day at the Majestic is "His Holiness Pope Pius XI" bestowing his blessing upon the thousands immediately after his election as Pope. Both these pictures are most unusual and should not be missed.

To Save Eyes of Children

(Canadian Press.)
 St. John, N. B., April 21.—At a meeting of the New Brunswick government this morning a regulation of the health department was passed requiring physicians, nurses and midwives to instill a solution of silver into the eyes of babies at birth to prevent blindness.

Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts, the Minister of Health, explained that about 50 percent of blindness occurring during birth was due to infection and it was to combat this that the regulation was passed. The practice was already being carried out by a large percentage of doctors. He announced that the department of health would supply physicians and others attending birth with the preparation.

Britain's Debtors.

During recent months a great deal has been said and written about what Britain owes the United States. Not much has been said about what the world owes Britain. Yet, according to figures just made public, the little old United Kingdom is the great creditor nation. Against the $561,000,000 that Britain owes the United States, stands the fact the world owes Britain $1,947,000,000 as follows:

Russia	2,581,400,000
France	537,000,000
Italy	476,800,000
Belgium	103,400,000

Stone Age But Recent in B.C.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL DISCOVERIES REVEAL EXISTENCE.

VICTORIA, B. C. (By Canadian Press.)—The stone age which, after making the cave man famous, came to an end in Western Europe about 1700 B. C., was carried on for more than three thousand years later, and its most characteristic form existed in British Columbia up until as late as a century ago in some districts, according to findings of archaeologists who have been exploring some of the old community sites, mounds and oblong graves along the coast and in the interior of the province. The stone age in British Columbia has for some years been the study of scientists of note, who have been working the field in an effort to build up the story of the evolution of the prehistoric civilization as exemplified in the tribes of human beings who worked out their existence between the Rockies and the Coast. Valuable collections have been obtained. It is only recently British Columbia has, in an effective way, turned its attention to the past. Under Premier Oliver the Provincial Museum has been practically rebuilt and the collections put on exhibition.

TOBACCO MUCH USED.

The aboriginal occupants of this country belonged to the neolithic, or new stone age, according to the specimens. The specimens come from old village sites and burying places. Stone and bone tools were in common use when the first white explorers reached the North Pacific, although iron and copper in small quantities were also found nearly everywhere. In some instances the native races had developed a degree of art. One of the feature objects in the exhibit is a copy of a human figure seated holding a bowl. It was chipped out of a solid block of stone and then polished off smoothly. There are two of these specimens very much alike. One was discovered near Departure Bay, Nanaimo, and the other in North Saanich, on Vancouver Island. Perhaps most characteristic of the stone age are the stone axes and hammers discovered in many places. They are almost identical with the tools of the neolithic man found in Europe. The stone weapons include daggers and war clubs. There are many examples of stone dishes, hewn out of small boulders. Of what appear to be rolling pins of a somewhat angular design the prehistoric woman of this coast seems to have been well supplied. These instruments made of solid stone have been found in many places. Primitive man in British Columbia apparently did a little smoking once in a while. Old shell mounds on the Thompson and Fraser rivers have yielded what appear to be stone pipes. The early explorers found that the native races were using a true tobacco, Nicotina attenuata which grows wild in the Thompson river country and was smoked along with grease and kinnikinnick.

Nations File Claims.

MEXICO CITY.—Nine nations have filed through their diplomatic agents 331 claims against the Mexican government for loss of property by expropriation under the federal agrarian laws. Spain with 144 heads the list. American citizens have filed 19 claims: British, 11; French, 5; Japanese, Swiss and Italian two each; and Dutch and Cuban one each. Spain is said to have 15 additional cases under preparation for filing.

Coal $6.00 at Sydney.

According to advice received by the Sydney Post from an official of the Dominion Coal Company the price of coal in the yards at Sydney and Glace Bay has been reduced by 50 cents a gross ton. The price henceforth will be $6 a ton, effective the 25th of the month. Reductions in the price of coal since the first of the year total one dollar.

Keep the Cold Out!

Cold and draft come in around your windows and doors, not through them. Install Ceco Metal Weatherstrips and actually save one-third of your fuel costs. At the present price of coal this means a substantial saving in dollars and cents.

Ceco Metal Weatherstrips are the most simple, most practical weatherstrips on the market. No weather conditions affect them; self-adjusting with the shrinking or expanding of the sash. They keep out dust, dirt, soot and draft, deaden outside noises, stop any rattle, and last as long as the window or door.

For new houses or old. Easily installed. First cost is only cost.

Obituary.

JOHN BURKE.

Fortified by the rites of Holy Church there passed peacefully away, at his residence, Bond Street, this morning, a highly esteemed and respected citizen in the person of Mr. John Burke of H.M. Customs. Mr. Burke had been ill for some time and death was not unexpected. He was a well known figure in the community and will be missed by a large circle of friends, particularly by his seafaring associates, for he was of a kind and lovable disposition, always manly and straightforward in his dealings with his fellowman. He leaves a wife and three sons, William J. of Garsneau, Ltd., Joseph residing in Rochester, N.Y., and John in Pittsburgh, Pa. The Telegram extends an expression of deep sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

Personal.

Mr. George Thorne has resigned from the staff of the North Sydney Herald, according to information received by the Sydney Post. Mr. Thorne was for many years Editor and business manager of the paper, succeeding Mr. Bertram on the latter's death. Under his direction the Herald enjoyed a wide popularity and in the weekly had attained a fine circulation. It is understood that Mr. Thorne has been offered several positions in his home town, some of which he has so far accepted.

Edgar Guest's First

Book of Prose.

"Making the House a Home" is the title of the first book of prose from the pen of Edgar A. Guest, the poet of the plain people. In this little story Mr. Guest tells how much living was necessary to make a home of the house that Mrs. Guest and he had built. It's a story of the aspirations, the sympathies, the hopes, and the affections of the commonality of man. It's a story that every young couple should read. It reflects Eddie Guest's wonderful philosophy of life—cheerful, happy and helpful. The Telegram, acknowledges with thanks, receipt of a copy of this most interesting little volume, from the publishers, Messrs. Reilly and Lee, Chicago.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

COUNTRY FOLKS AND SUMMER VISITORS.

A woman who goes every year to a small country town to spend her Summer wants me to answer, or get some of my readers to answer, a question which has always puzzled her.

"Why is it," she asks, "that the country people seem to resent the presence of the city people? I have been to several country villages and in all of them it is the same. They have the air of just putting up with us, and yet in everyone of those towns, about half the money comes from Summer people. One of them really hadn't another industry, and people tell me that 20 years ago before the Summer people began to come everything was going to wrack and ruin. Now there's half a dozen flourishing stores where there used to be one half-dead one. Several families make all their living from boarders and a lot more women make their spending money taking in a few. The people who stop at the Inn spend money freely in all sorts of ways.

If They Stayed Away.

There must be a hundred thousand a year of city money spent there and the village people have fixed up their houses and bought automobiles and victrolas and up-to-date clothes. And then they act as if we were intruders and they wish we'd stay away. I wonder how they would like it if we did stay away. I guess if we stayed away a year or two they would be mighty glad to see us back. If a boycott like that were possible

I wonder how it would work. I don't suppose there is anyone who has gone into the country from the city who has not sometimes felt that resentment on the part of the country people.

Many Cordial Country Folks.

"Yes, we'll take your money as a special favor to you," they seem to say, "but we wish you were in Kalamazoo all the same and we don't mind letting you see it."

Of course I don't mean that all the country people act that way. On the contrary! But I think we have all met some who do.

I remember a man who kept a boarding house in the country where I once stayed. Once in an unwonted mood of good humor he asked me if there was anything I would like improved about the place. "I'd like a tennis court," I said. "Oh, thunder no!" he answered. "Why, if I should get a tennis court I'd be just overrun with boarders." And keeping boarders was his daily bread. (I will admit I always had an idea he got his butter the same way he got that unwanted mood of good humor).

The Other Side.

Of course I realize that I am writing this from the viewpoint of the city born, for though I have spent a good deal of time in the country, my birthplace was the suburb of a large city. And I have no doubt there is a great deal to be said on the other side of the matter. Perhaps some of the country folk who have suffered from the patronage of the unreasonable, or the whatever-it-isness that makes the city boarder an annoying source of revenue, will present the other side for my readers. I'd love to have them.

Tarvia Prevents Dust; Tarvia Preserves Roads.

In the United States and Canada Tarvia is the standard by which all other road-binders and preservatives are judged.

Tarvia is made in three grades—"Tarvia X" for road construction, "Tarvia B" for preservation of road surface and "Tarvia K" for repaving roads. "Tarvia B" and "Tarvia K" have been used in St. John's Municipal works for several years.

"Tarvia B" actually enters the road surface, acts as a cement and resists the wear and tear of traffic. By cementing together the dust particles "Tarvia B" prevents the formation of dust.

After the application of "Tarvia B" to a road surface a thin layer of sand should be applied to take care of the excess liquid and to prevent tracking. This layer of sand will prevent horses from slipping and Automobiles from skidding and will prolong the life of the road surface. Broken stone is not as satisfactory or as economical as sand for this purpose.

A road after being treated with "Tarvia B" does not become muddy in rainy weather, but sheds the water and dries off quickly after the rain, leaving the road in admirable condition while untreated roads are still deep with mud.

"Tarvia B" surfacing should be applied annually but only when roads are in good condition and free from surplus dust. All holes and depressions should be repaired with fine broken stone and "Tarvia K-P."

When "Tarvia B" is applied by mechanical sprinker, care should be taken to have men with brooms and hand sprinklers go over the ground so that excess "Tarvia B" may be brushed out and not allowed to run waste and so that bare spots be treated and the entire road surface secured.

A loose, "happy-go-lucky" application in sheer waste of time and money. "Whatever is worth doing, is worth doing well."

"Tarvia B" is admirably adapted to the treatment of sidewalks and walks in parks, hospital grounds and cemeteries. Wooden plankings of bridges will last longer if treated with "Tarvia B." Fence posts, sills and houses etc., will be greatly benefited by treatment with "Tarvia B."

Further particulars will be gladly given upon application to COLIN CAMPBELL, LTD. may 2, 1922

Latest Sealing News.

THEY'VE HAD 4,000.

A message received last night from Capt. Winsor of S.S. Thetis stated that the ship's crew had shot 4,000 seals during the day. The Thetis has 4,000. It is understood that a number of men are suffering from ice blindness, and as the supply of ammunition is running low, the ship will shortly bear up for home. S.S. Seal, which arrived at Harbor Grace yesterday forenoon, started discharging during the evening. She has about 1700 old seals.

Mr. Alexander Read Died at Sydney.

Widespread regret has been occasioned by the death of Mr. Alexander Read, which occurred at Sydney on Sunday at three o'clock. For some time past he had been falling in health but, despite that fact, he would not give in and up to within a short time of his death went to the office when he was able to attend to his duties as telegraph operator, to which work he gave his life.

On the advice of the doctor and his many friends he went to Sydney to enter the hospital for treatment. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Whitaker, and his brother, the Rev. H. J. Read, R. D. joined him at Channel. Mrs. Read being indisposed was unable to go, and without doubt everything was done that could be done for him.

The news of his death was a heavy blow to his wife and family, the sad intelligence of which was broken by the Rector. As soon as the news became known blinds were drawn and flags hoisted halfmast. His loss will be felt by his many friends, for there is hardly a part of Newfoundland, it would be safe to say, where he was not known. It will be difficult for them to realize that he has passed away and that they will know him no more.

As an operator he was one of the most efficient in the country. Of happy disposition, genial, and a very obliging official, he gave of his best and the country is poorer by reason of his death.

He was a regular attendant at the Parish church of St. Mary's, and was secretary-treasurer of the parish finance Committee, a position he filled with great ability. Anything that was attempted for the welfare of the Parish had his keen and ungrudging support. He was a communicant of the Church and on the morning before he left for Sydney he received the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ, together with those who were near and dear to him, for the last time. To the deceased wife, sons and daughter who survive him, the greatest sympathy is extended to them and to other members of the family in the great loss they have sustained. Let our last thoughts be those as we knew him—a good father and a kind friend. Eternal rest grant unto him, O God, and let perpetual light shine upon him.

On opening Court on Monday morning the Magistrate made a touching reference to the demise of Mr. Read, who was for many years a valuable Civil Service official, also expressing deep sympathy for the widow and other relatives.—Western Star, May 3.

SUGGESTION OF A LATE EXAGGERATED STATEMENTS AND STORIES.

Some of the Canadian and United States papers, I observe, have recently been publishing grossly exaggerated statements and stories about "the conditions of affairs in Newfoundland." Matters here are bad enough, in all conscience, yet, perhaps, not much worse than they are in other parts of the Empire. But what annoys us more than all in this connection is that our troubles are due almost entirely to party politics. However, deliberate falsehood, whether connected with politics or anything else, sets on a pinnacle directly opposite to truth; while a truth is great in proportion to its natural dimensions, a falsehood diminishes in value according as it increases in size. True, distance gives a "tall lie" some advantage in this particular, or rather the lie takes advantage of the distance and the author's ignorance.

THE FALSEHOOD THAT DOES HARM.

But apart from the circumstance just mentioned, it is not the bigoted and exaggerated lie that generally does harm—that is a pest to society—that causes mischief and leads astray. Oh, no! It is the smooth, credible and plausible lie that does harm—the lie that looks as much like the truth that none but its manufacturer can distinguish the difference. We are all familiar with the falsehoods that have been so long and so perseveringly circulated about our island home, and it is almost time that we know the authors, too. Some of them, I think, can be easily located, if it be true, as stated that they occupy high official positions. The falsehoods about the fishery, about the "supplying" merchants, about the climate, about mining, about the devil fishes, and about the remarkable fights between swordfish and sea-serpents! These falsehoods have done more harm to the country in their reactionary effects than all the Labrador starvation stories told by Dr. Grenfell or that can possibly be telegraphed from now to doomsday. It is perhaps fortunate that such falsehoods as the latter—of abnormal size—should direct public attention to the subject of Newfoundland falsehoods in general, especially to the particular and particularly dangerous falsehoods I have just specified.

hoods have done more harm to the country in their reactionary effects than all the Labrador starvation stories told by Dr. Grenfell or that can possibly be telegraphed from now to doomsday. ## THE LATEST "WONDERFUL ICE-BERG STORY"

To further explain what I mean by "tall stories," let me quote the following from the London Graphic of the 22nd ultimo:—"In the late spring and early summer the bergs become very unstable, owing to the corrosive action of the sea on their submerged portions, and the action of the sun upon their upper parts. Large chunks of ice are continually falling off, and while frequently the entire bergs roll over and over again, and are thus constantly changing formation. The collapse of an iceberg is dangerous on account of the sudden waves it sets up." So far so good, but now mark the sequel. Here it is:

"TWO BOYS IN A BOAT."

"Two seasons ago a large berg anchored itself outside the entrance to the harbor of St. John's Newfoundland. Two boys in a rowboat pulled through the bottle-neck approach of the Narrows and brought up close to the glittering ice. Then the "pinnacle slid apart and fell tumbling into the sea. The waves which were raised tore the boats from their moorings. The boys did not return, and friends set out with little hope of finding even a fragment of the boat, and returned in mourning. The following day a fisherman, leaving the harbor thought he heard a shout high up on the face of Signal Point, and looking up, saw a waving arm. Away up there they found "boat and boys, and a man had to be let down the face of the cliff by a rope to take the leads to safety. The waves that had crested such havoc within the harbor had lifted the boat and deposited it high and dry on a ledge of the 500 feet cliff!"

A STRANGE NOTION ABOUT CRIMINALS.

While in conversation with one of our city clerks the other day, it occurred to me that he seemed inclined to father the notion that criminals are a separate race of humans who, by reason of backsliding, or the influence, good or evil, of one's great-grandfather, are born to take life in the same barbarous manner as our ancestors, of centuries and centuries ago, and simply follow a natural law. It is not a cheerful notion. One would like to think that nature mercifully lets the dead past bury its dead. Instead of stirring up one's great-grandfather and causing the dry bones to live again. Welcome, then, to my genial friends Judge Morris's suggestion, which lets at least that old man sleep in peace with only his own self-chosen sins to answer for, and which bleaches much of the horror of crime, whether it be theft from one's benefactor, the betrayal of one's trust, or even a breach of the Prohibition Act, making it as innocent as the vagaries of the dreamer's brain.

CRIME THE RESULT OF SELF-HYPNOTISM.

By the way, we sometimes hear people talk of a "cold-blooded, deliberate homicide." According to the hypothesis of one of the greatest criminalists of the day, the "deliberation" paradoxical as it may seem, may be used as a plea in the criminal's favor, for crime is simply the result of self-hypnotism, and man has become hypnotized by the evil suggestion that on a sudden flashed into his brain and hung there, and hung there, and hung there, till, staring at it fixedly with his mental eyes, he became a moral cataleptic, and was forced to obey the suggestion. In his normal condition he had no more desire to commit an act of homicide than to eat "fallow candies." "Deliberation," therefore, comes to mean nothing more or less than slow self-hypnotism, and "cold-blooded" would express merely the absence of all feeling, as demonstrated by Professor So-and-So, where he begins to stich his subject's tongue to the cheek. The "cold force" theory of hypnotism being thrashed out, and the discovery having been made that you may put yourself into a cataleptic state by simply staring steadily and fixedly upon some bright particular object, the suggestion of moral hypnotism is as logical as any, and an infinitely more comforting one than the idea that "criminals are a separate race." One of the prisoners at the Penitentiary in St. John's a few months since, could assume a cataleptic condition at will. The prison surgeon, Dr. Keegan, examined him several times while in that condition and can vouch for the accuracy of this statement: Other similar cases have come under my notice from time to time.

HOPE IN THE THEORY MENTIONED.

We are not all of us, thank Heaven, hypnotic subjects, but we can readily understand how the weak-minded among us obey the command of their master-hypnotist, self, and "concentrate the thought" upon some glittering temptation—waking out of their

Oh yes, it is!

COPY OF BETTY'S LETTER

Mr. Simpson looked a harden. A NICE CHAP PLEAS- ED TO HELP HER. She related to him as he was a stranger. But after talking two blocks she was tired out. THEN SHE THOUGHT BETTY'S SIMPLE MONSTER FOR REFUSING HIS HELP. She finally resolved that she would not take the money. She didn't like it a bit. She felt very blue. IN FACT AT HER DINNER SHE ATE A VERY LITTLE. She fought with her room mate. IN A FIT OF JEALOUSY OR ANGER SHE LEFT. However before going home she bought a new dress and a pair of shoes. Over all this she didn't think. SO SHE TOOK IT TO SMITHS ALTERATION ROOM FOR CHANGES. Even then it didn't fit, and she wouldn't keep it. SO APPLYING FOR REFUND SHE GOT HER MONEY BACK. What was the result? For home. Isn't that an interesting story? Betty, Betty.

THE ART OF CHEWING.
 Your whole system depends for its health and strength on the stomach. The stomach, in turn, depends on the teeth. The very foundation of health is therefore laid at the first step in food conversion—the act of chewing. Food improperly chewed enters the stomach in a wrong condition, and it brings about a wrong fermentation which causes first indigestion, then kindred ailments. The proper chewing of the food will prevent these things. Chew your food plentifully.

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY REV. E. W. FORBES IN GOWER ST. CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

In connection with the Boy's Week programme inaugurated by the Rotary Club, Rev. E. W. Forbes delivered a splendid address in the Lecture Hall of Gower St. Church last evening on the above subject. Included in the audience were His Worship Mayor Cook and Mr. H. E. Cowan, President of the Rotary Club. Opening his address the Rev. Lecturer spoke of the recognition of Boy Scouts at the King's Garden Party for war workers; 100 Boy Scouts and 50 Girl Guides were present and were the only juvenile organizations invited. Boy Scouts were first to volunteer for war service in 1914 and in peace were first to celebrate. On the signing of peace a Jamboree was held in Hyde Park, over 15,000 scouts being present from all over the world. In the United States President Wilson recognized the value of the scout work to such an extent that he instituted a Scout Week. The lecturer then gave a brief description of Major-General Baden-Powell, the hero of Mafeking, the organizer of the scout movement. During the war he offered to go to France but was requested by the King to remain in England and supervise the Boy Scout movement; 10,000 boys at Olympia made him Chief Scout of the world, which title he now holds. Organized in 1908 for the purpose of training of boys for citizenship, the Boy Scout movement has spread throughout the civilized world and has a membership of nearly a million. Men, boys of all nationalities, creeds, and colours, commanding the respect of parents and boys alike. Several prominent officials from all over the world have pronounced their regard for the organization and their appreciation of the benefits it shares with the youth of the land.

A graphic description of the routine of a Scout's work, his exams, knowledge he must have and tests he must pass, was given. The Scout laws were explained together with many interesting facts. Not the least of the merits of the Scout movement is the inculcation of a high standard of morality, happiness and good fellowship into the lives of young boys. A lantern picture of Baden-Powell was shown on the screen and a phonographic address by the great Scout was heard with deep attention. Following this some excellent views of local troops in camp, views of the city and suburbs and also of Nova Scotia completed the evening's programme, and the gathering closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The Cartwright Mission.
 REV. C. A. MOULTON WILL LECTURE.

"The Cartwright Mission" will form the subject of a lecture by Rev. C. A. Moulton of St. Thomas's parish, in the Presbyterian Hall, Monday night. The lecture is under the joint auspices of the St. Andrew's W.M.S. and Society of Christian Endeavour. The splendid work accomplished at the Labrador Public School is known to many, it should be known to all. Cartwright Gordon will ever and welcome in the hearts and homes and halls of the city. As he has not an alms in his disposal, to emulate the example of Major Cotton is out of the question, but in Mr. Moulton he has an eye-witness whose knowledge of the Mission and its educational work is unequalled by any except those actually engaged in its direction. The confident hope is that the Presbyterian Hall will be filled on Monday night. Those who go, if they are Newfoundlanders by birth or adoption, will spend a pleasant and profitable time.

Miss Betty Donn
Scores Again.

The reception tendered Miss Betty Donn, at the Crescent last night was simply wonderful. Her rendition of "The Sheik" was faultlessly delivered by the gifted artist, who gave life to the song by appearing in original dress. This is the first time this new song hit has been rendered to a St. John's audience and patrons of this theatre have had the first opportunity of hearing it. It has all the swing and life in it that when sung by such an accomplished vocalist as Miss Donn it immediately grips the listener. "Live Sparks" with J. Warren Kerrigan in the leading role is a live comedy drama by the well-known magazine writer, Caroline Sayre. The part of the irresponsible young millionaire, Neil Sparks, his Kerrigan like a glove. Throughout the play Sparks is seen in one wild escapade after another. The picture is replete with excitement and spectacular. In one scene a $75,000 oil well is sent up in smoke; in another over a thousand oil workers and deputy sheriffs engage in a thrilling melee.

CABLE HISTORY REVIEWED.

Mr. Halcyard was in reminiscent mood yesterday afternoon and took advantage of the Cable Resolutions to review the whole history of the Trans-Atlantic cables. Those present whose education had been neglected in this important detail listened attentively to the Minister's story and others were hoping that he would conclude with a song. The Resolutions refer to a 15-year agreement between the Government and the Commercial Cable Company. Consideration was deferred.

On motion of the member for St. George's, select committees will be appointed to consider the Colony's agricultural policy and the herring fishery. The Customs Bonds resolutions which do away with the practice of giving bonds for duties, was given the support of both sides of the House.

The Prime Minister told Sir Michael Gashin, during question-time, that no reduction in railway rates would be considered. The Postal Resolutions passed committee and were introduced in the form of a Bill. No change was made. Adjournment was taken until Monday next.

Tides of Fundy.

Extraordinary stories are sometimes told of the immense tides in the Bay of Fundy. The scientific facts in regard to them have been published by the Canadian geological survey. The bay is about 145 miles long and gradually narrows and becomes shallower as it penetrates the land. The upper part divides into two main branches, and several small tide bays exist. The highest tides at the mouth of the main bay reach 18 feet. Going up the bay they increase in height. At Digby Neck they attain 22 ft., and at St. John, 22 ft. at Petitcodiac river 46 ft., and at Noel river, in Cobequid bay, 53 ft., the maximum. Some branch bays are left empty at ebb tide.—Washington Star.

Weighing a Pencil Mark.

Scales are now made which are so nicely adjusted that they will weigh even the smallest hair plucked from the eyebrow. They are triumphs of mechanism, and are enclosed in glass cases, as the slightest breath of air would impair their records.
 The glass cases have a sliding door, and as soon as the weight is placed in the balance, the door slides down. The balances are cleared again, and made ready for further use by the pressing of a button which slightly raises the beams. Two pieces of paper of equal weight can be placed in the scales, and an autograph written in pencil on either will cause the other balance to ascend and the needle, which indicates the weight to less than a millionth part of a pound, will move from its perpendicular. One signature containing nine letters, upon being weighed, was found to be exactly two milligrams, or the fifteen thousand five hundredth part of an ounce in Troy weight.

Mass Meeting in Bannerman Park.

UNEMPLOYED DEMAND IMMEDIATE WORK—PRIME MINISTER PROMISES CONSIDERATION.

The unemployed of St. John's to the number of six or seven hundred assembled in Bannerman Park yesterday afternoon for the purpose of hearing the result of an interview which a deputation of their number had with the Prime Minister during the forenoon. Chairman Power from the Band Stand announced to the gathering that as a result of their conference, the Prime Minister would immediately give his attention to the labor problem and that, within the course of a few days, work would be provided. He had informed the deputation that relief work would not be continued in the ordinary course of events much longer than the first or second week of May. The amount per man expended during the winter was about $130, and amongst those who received relief were a number of farmers and quite a percentage of fishermen. The time had now come when the farmers should get back to their land and the fishermen to their avocation. The government had arranged for the distribution of seed and seed potatoes to help the farmers. Although it was decided to close down relief works the government, so the Prime Minister had informed him, had taken this step sooner than was intended through the force of public opinion and the action of the Board of Trade. He also informed the deputation that when the farmers, fishermen and others who could possibly find work were weeded out, employment for the others would be found.

URGENT PEACEABLE METHODS.

Following the Chairman Mr. Cahill spoke somewhat along the same lines and urged his hearers not to violate the law until they were driven to it. He did not blame the government for the closing down of the work, but by what the Prime Minister had said it was due to the action of the Board of Trade. If what they had been told was true it was time to make the mercantile people open up work.

Mr. J. Seaton urged his auditors not to violate the law in any action they would take, and thereby have them called hooligans. He asked that the gathering would make suggestions as to the line of action that the Committee should adopt.

Seaman Grey one of the unemployed suggested that the Board of Trade should be seen at once. He did not see why they should wait until all the fishermen and others were weeded out before getting work. Many were already down and out and most could not wait another two or three weeks.

Mr. Bennett said that according to the Prime Minister if they needed work they would have to line up. He gave the committee a promise that as far as he was concerned, work would be found in a day or two as the money was there. The work had been closed down by the government in order to weed out independent men, who were talking advantage of the relief work.

NOT WORKABLE PROPOSITION.
A proposition to empower the committee to ascertain the attitude of the Board of Trade in reference to government relief work for those in need was not carried owing to the delay the negotiations would cause. It was subsequently resolved that the committee should again interview the Prime Minister and tell him that work was needed immediately. Before the close of the meeting Caleb Robins endeavoured to introduce politics but he was ruled out as it appeared to many that he had been sent to the meeting on purpose. He advised the meeting to put a motion on the Opposition and put a motion on them. The greatest obstacle they had was the House of Assembly. It was filled with men who said they were honourable but he called them scoundrels. Work should be provided supposing they had to auction the House of Assembly. Before closing his harangue, Mr. Robins informed the gathering that the Telegram was responsible for a lot of the bad feeling at present existing. Needless to say his remarks were laughed at.

A vote of thanks was passed by the meeting to Mayor Cook and Councilors for the use of the park to hold the meeting in. A large number of those present were tradesmen and clerks, who no doubt must be forced by the most pressing need to subject themselves to the humiliation of having to seek for relief, and the matter should be given immediate attention.

CARTER'S TESTED SEEDS

GROW GOOD CROPS.
Why risk your time, your land, and your fertilizer by planting seeds of inferior quality?
To assure your success in the flower or vegetable garden use Carter's Tested Seeds.
By planting them you do not "guess"—you know.
NOW IS THE TIME TO ORDER.

Kelly-Springfield Tire.

This is a new one which we are informed, is a good purchase just now.

It has had a checkered history from a High of $164 three years ago to $68 in 1920, and from $152 then to $32 last year. It is now around $52 and soon expected to resume dividends which were suspended in February, 1921.

This issue might very easily register a ten-point advance.

We trade on margin at $10 per Share.
