REPORT.

In resigning to the members of the Institute the trust reposed in them at the last annual meeting, your Committee beg to submit the following Report of their proceedings during the past year :

Amongst the numerous modern agencies, calculated to direct and develop the moral and intellectual energies of the industrial classes of society, Mechanics' Institutes hold a proud and prominent position. Indeed, it is difficult to form a proper estimate of their genial influences, and it is perhaps the misfortune of these useful institutions that their beneficial results are not placed more prominently before the public eye. Individuals must be improved by their connection with these institutions, for no one can read such books as their libraries contain, or listen to the public lectures, or peruse the choice periodical works of the day, or avail themselves of the many other advantages they offer, without increasing their store of knowledge.

As the cause of education advances and gains new friends every day, it is impossible that such institutions will not make progress with it. While our city is rapidly increasing in population and material prosperity, and new societies of an educational, literary, and scientific character are springing into existence, it is most gratifying to your Committee to be able to report that the past year has been one of unprecedented success to the Institute.

As respects the growth of the Institute, a most favorable result is shewn, by comparing the year 1846—the year after the building now occupied was erected—with the present year; a period of eleven years.

1846.....	20,600 .....	120 .....	800
1857.....	50,000 .....	755 .....	3,650

It will be seen by this statement, that while the population of the City has more than doubled, the number of members in the Institute has increased more than six times, and the books in the Library over four times.

THE LIBRARY.

Being convinced of the paramount importance of the Library as the medium of conferring the largest amount of benefit, and accomplishing the great objects of the Institute, your Committee have given special attention to its requirements.

During the past year, 541 volumes, many of them valuable standard works, have been added to the Library, which now contains 3,650 volumes. The number of members who avail themselves of this department is 625, being an increase of 125 during the year,—and the number of volumes issued amounted to 13,736, being 4,450 more than were issued during the previous year. The remarkable advance in the number of books read, is no doubt in part attributable to the extensive additions made during the last two years; the Library having been nearly doubled in extent during that period.

This early recognition by the members of the more extended advantages afforded, supplies a gratifying inducement for the future application of the same judicious system of extension, as far as is consistent with the financial position of the Society.

Your Committee desire to tender their acknowledgments to the donors, for the following gratuitous additions to the Library:—To Rev. Dr. Ryerson, Chief Superintendent of Education, for "Report of Schools in Canada," for 1855; to Provincial Board of Agriculture, for the 1st volume of its transactions; to the Legislative Assembly, for "Canada at the Universal Exhibition of 1855;" to G. P. Ure, Esq., for "Prize Essay of Anti-Liquor Alliance;" to Thomas Hodgins, Esq., for the "Canada Educational Directory;" to Mr. J. Rordans,

THE READING ROOM.

In this department also, your Committee have pleasure in announcing a largely increased patronage. The number of members who availed themselves of its advantages increased to such an extent, that inconvenience sometimes arose from the crowded state of the room. To remedy this as much as the contracted building now occupied would admit, the room has been enlarged, and the hours during which members can have access to it have been extended. The room is now open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., and is supplied with about sixty periodicals and newspapers, including the standard British Reviews; the principal Scientific, Commercial, and other Magazines and Journals; some of the leading newspapers of Great Britain and the United States; and a fair selection from the newspaper literature of Canada.

The Institute is indebted for the following gratuitous contributions to the Reading Room,—to Mr. J. E. Pell, for the New York Albion, Hamilton Spectator, Toronto Christian Guardian, and Echo, and the Evangelical Witness, London, C. W.; to Mr. John Harrington for the Streetsville Review; to Mr. M. Sweetnam, for the Albany Prohibitionist; to Mr. J. Wickson, for the Herald of Peace, and Anti-Slavery Reporter; to Mr. H. W. Jackson, for the Alliance Weekly News (Temperance), and to their respective proprietors, for the

THE LECTURES.

In pursuance of the opinion recorded in the last Report, and adopted by the members at the annual meeting, viz.: that the time had arrived when a change in the system of giving isolated lectures was desirable,—the serious attention of your Committee was early directed to this subject, with a view to the organization of connected courses of lectures on subjects of interest and practical importance. It affords your Committee no small degree of pleasure to be able to state, that the inauguration of the new system has been attended with complete success.

Being favoured as the seat of several great educational establishments, Toronto is fortunate in possessing within itself men whose lives have been devoted to philosophical studies and scientific research; and among these your Committee were happy in securing the services of four gentlemen of acknowledged eloquence, learning, and ability, to deliver the lectures of the past season, which were as follows:—

Four Lectures on “The Primitive Sources of Historical Truth," by Dr. Daniel Wilson, University College.

Four on Chemistry, by Professor Croft, University College.

Two on Chemistry, and two on "The Mineral Wealth of Canada," by Professor Hind, Trinity College:

And four on "Natural Philosophy," by the Reverend William Ormiston, Provincial Normal School.

Confident that such a course would attract larger numbers than their present building could accommodate, the St. Lawrence Hall—the most spacious room in the city at present—was engaged for the lectures, and was generally well filled with attentive audiences.

Notwithstanding the doubts entertained by many sincere friends of the Institute, the lectures, in a financial point of view, may be considered satisfactory. In past years the printing, lighting, heating and other expenses, formed a considerable item in the general expenditure; and in view of the increased outlay attending their delivery in the St. Lawrence Hall, and the remuneration to the lecturers, your Committee appropriated the sum of forty pounds, from the general funds, to aid in carrying out the new arrangement. They are, however, glad to be able to state, that the lectures were in every respect self-sustaining, and that instead of the appropriation being required, a small balance remained in favour of the Institute, after payment of all expenses. With the experience now acquired, your Committee have no doubt that in future greater advantages in this respect may be anticipated.

Being without the requisite accommodation in the present building for the efficient organization of classes, the attention of your Committee in this department was confined to the adoption of an arrangement with Mr. E. Nugent, by which members of the Institute were admitted to his classes in mechanical drawing, practical mathematics, &c., at half his usual charge. Your Committee have been informed that the progress of the pupils under Mr. Nugent's superintendence has been marked and satisfactory.

The accompanying statement of the receipts and expenditure of the Institute for the past year contains sufficient evidence that its finances are in a sound and promising condition. The receipts from all sources amounted to £843 15s. 2d., and the expenditure to £814 18s. 4½d., the balance in the hands of the Treasurer being £28 16s. 9½d.

It is with sincere regret that your Committee announce that the Treasurer of the Institute, John Harrington, Esq., has signified his intention not to resume the duties of the office which he has so ably filled for the last eleven years. The disinterested and valuable services he has rendered the Institute during that time, merit the warmest acknowledgments of his fellow members.

Your Committee regret to have to record the loss, by death, of one of the earliest friends of the Institute, the late John Ewart, Esq., who, in the early period of its existence, took an active part in advancing its interests, and during more than one term occupied the Presidential Chair.

That the prosperity which has marked the progress of the Institute during the past few years, will be sustained and accelerated, your Committee have every reason to hope and believe. Taking into account the comparatively small proportion which the number of members bears to those of the population who might beneficially avail themselves of the advantages the Institute supplies, it is evident there is still great room for further advancement; and your Committee fondly indulge the expectation that when the time arrives that the members shall be called to occupy their commodious new Hall, the increased advantages and facilities, added to the greatly extended membership, will mark a new era in the history of this Institution, alike creditable to the Institute and the city.
