Special Committee Appointed To Revise Rules Of House Reports—No Very Drastic Reforms Suggested.

Ottawa, April 25.—The report of the special committee of the House of Commons appointed to revise the rules of the House, was presented this morning by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It is proposed to amend the rules in several places.

Two time saving clauses in the amendments have reference to the presentation of petitions and to the mode of answering questions. As to petitions it is provided that hereafter they may be filed with the clerk of the House and printed in the proceedings after the adjournment, but that in certain cases members, if they so desire, shall have the right to present petitions from their places in the House.

As to questions, the English practice will be adopted. There shall be no oral answers, except to questions marked with asterisks. All others will be printed in the votes, proceedings and replies shall be handed by the ministers to the clerk for publication in Hansard.

Questions approved for oral answer must receive the approval of the Speaker before being so started. Motions for papers upon which it is not intended to take any discussion shall also be marked with an asterisk and be placed upon the order paper ahead of "notices of motions," under the title of "Notices of motions for the production of papers."

The rule as regards double elections is proposed to be amended to read: "All members who are returned for two or more electoral districts shall make their election for which of the districts they will serve within 20 days after it shall appear that there is no question upon the return for either district."

The discussion of the proposals will take place on Friday next. OFFICE WORKERS NEED BUT LITTLE EXERCISE So At All Events Declares Distinguished London Physician In Interesting Paper—System Attunes Itself.

London, April 25.—A distinguished London physician, Dr. Alexander Bryce, has started a discussion by asserting that office workers should not take exercise after their day's work. He says: "The root reason is that though head work is not exercise in the sense that it develops the body, it most decidedly is exercise in that it quickly induces 'fat' and physical lassitude. So it is almost pathetic for a man to expect any good to come from taking more exercise when the exercise involved in the day's work has already tired him out."

"One takes it that young people have had sufficient outdoor exercise to reasonably develop their frames before beginning office work. So when once they have started in the office in earnest it is much better for them to realize at once that their days of hard physical strain are over and done with and that henceforth they must confine these efforts to week-ends and holidays. They can follow this advice calmly enough for it does not mean at all that they are going to deteriorate suddenly into wrecks."

"The body and system easily attune themselves to circumstances, even to overcivilized and consequently rather unnatural circumstances, and indoor head workers will soon find that a very decent state of health can be maintained with little or no apparent exercise."

"For all people living under the undoubted inconvenience of earning a livelihood a most excellent rule of thumb in regard to this much misunderstood question of work and exercise is the following: Never try to mix the two, and stop exercising at once if you do not find that it gives you real enjoyment."

"And I need only add," he concluded, "that the rational way home after a day's work in the office is by train, tram or omnibus, not walking, and that the proper time for real exercise is when no thought of work need intervene for at least forty-eight hours after the exercise has stopped."

KING EDWARD AND THE ENGLISH CRISIS

His Majesty Blames Lords for Forcing Situation—Fears for Future of Hereditary Principle as Embodied in the Upper House—Indiscretions of Prince of Wales Commented On.

London, April 25.—King Edward will return to England from Biarritz next Wednesday and there is keen anxiety on the part of those who know the alarming reports which have been current about his health to see for themselves whether his continental sojourn appears to have done him much good or not.

It is considered particularly unfortunate that the crown should have been dragged into the arena of party politics at such a time. Both sides are wrangling as to which of them is responsible. The King himself, it is deeply regretted, has no question in his mind that he lays the blame on the Lords.

From the outset of the strife over the budget he has strongly deprecated the action by the House of Lords, which has brought about the present situation. It was on his representations that Lord Rosebery refused to vote for the rejection of the budget and he had inveighed against with all his eloquence. The royal provisions of fear have been realized to an extent which suggests the possibility that, as an on-looker, he may have been far-sighted.

Fears for Security of Throne. King Edward's dread that, if once the hereditary principle as embodied in the House of Lords were attacked, the next step would be an onslaught on that same principle as represented by the Crown has not yet come to be true, and so long as the present monarch sits on the throne, it probably never will be true. But King Edward looks further ahead than that.

In the course of time, when the present Prince of Wales succeeds him, there are, in the opinion of his father, likely to be events and complications that may undermine the British monarchy. King Edward has a proper sense of his own duty and ability to preserve with dignity the attitude of a constitutional sovereign, and, although it is well known among his immediate entourage that his political sympathies are with the radicals, he has never departed by a hair's breadth from the strict impartiality by which, as a constitutional monarch set above parties, he has been guided in all his public acts.

This correct attitude will in a measure safeguard the crown in the event of it being dragged into the prospective fight between the English political parties. Although the side is even now seeking to create the impression that the King will stand with it in the future battle, neither can point to any public act of the King to justify such an assertion. Nor can either point to what might be termed an indiscretion on the part of King Edward.

Indiscretions of the Prince of Wales. In the case of the Prince of Wales, the boot is very much on the other leg. He is strongly Tory, and makes no concealment of the fact, notwithstanding his father's frequent objections. There are countless instances in the past of the Prince expressing in mixed political circles views which could be pleasing only to one section of his hearers.

London at the present moment is buzzing with the story of an incident which occurred a couple of Saturdays ago, when the Prince attended a university football match at the Queen's Club. During an interval in the game he was noticed to be talking somewhat emphatically and excitedly on some subject. What that subject was speedily became apparent, for the Prince, in the heat of discussion, raised his voice to a shout at a pitch that it was heard by scores of persons in his neighborhood. He was loudly denouncing David Lloyd-George and "his gutter band."

It is patent that unless the Prince of Wales learns greater discretion when he succeeds King Edward VII, there are possibilities of serious trouble between him and those of his constitutional advisers, with whose politics he may not be in agreement.

During the stormy separation of the boat with two comrades, was in a boat off the high cliffs, when a breaker overturned them into the water. The boat was smashed to pieces and Pelham's leg was broken near the hip. He and his comrades reached the shore, Pelham's leg was bandaged in a box and he was taken to a hospital. The boat was lowered in a crane and the crew were rescued. The boat was damaged to pieces in the descent.

When the schooner got back to London after an extensive trip in his own country, he emphatically declares that the predictions of Mr. Redmond's ultimate downfall are well founded, and a Dublin correspondent who for weeks past has been closely studying the situation writes as follows: "Irish politics are, at present, in a state of flux. The movement is not violently apparent. It is, perhaps, best described as an undercurrent or series of undercurrents. The Home Rule goal is still nominally the objective of all the political sections. That is to say, in theory, it is still a cry to conjure with, to rouse a cheer of enthusiasm from the platform. But in reality the majority of the educated and thinking men of Ireland regard Home Rule as impossible and even undesirable if it were possible."

"This, of course, applies to home rule in Ireland. The movement is not so apparent in the South of Ireland. Tim Healy himself in the House of Commons on Monday night, on the occasion of the wrangle between William O'Brien and David Lloyd-George, gave voice to his opinion, when he referred to a possible scheme of home rule which would weigh down the farmers of the country with the loss of their land. There is no doubt in the minds of the population as large as to what the separation of Ireland would mean; and when they flood home rule loudest they pray the hardest that they will not get it."

Continued from page 1. Also Mr. MacDonnell's report to change the clause relating to the finding of delinquents. The bill provides that if persons have been reported by a board of civic housecleaning that they shall be liable to a fine of $1,000 a day if they continue the offence beyond a certain time to be set by the board. Mr. MacDonnell's proposal was to try such persons before a judge alone—before a jury.

Not so, said Mr. King, they are already found guilty of the offence. He added that the prosecutors must prove the case against the report of the board being proof only that the report had been made.

Greatly exhilarated at this, the house fell upon the insurance bill. The protective piece of legislation did not know itself when it found itself slipping through at the rate of a dozen clauses per hour. The second reading occupied five minutes; just a few minutes more when it found its way to the principal amendments made by the Senate. They were: "The gain and loss exhibit" is not required, except when the superintendent of insurance deems necessary. At first it was to be part of the annual statement.

The Polley holders must exercise their votes in the annual meeting of the proxy being withdrawn in advance between agent and company. Directors may be elected every one, two or three years, according to the by-laws of the company; last year's bill made the election annual. Last year's bill allowed fire insurance in foreign unlicensed companies on payment of a 15 per cent. tax; this bill allows such insurance but prevents such companies from sending agents into Canada to solicit business.

Militia Charges. In committee there was a slight discussion on the rates charged militia men called out on active service. Col. Worthington and Major Currie desired a limit put on them, but the committee took the ground that contracts cannot be interfered with. "Explosion insurance" makes its appearance for the first time. Major Currie raised the question of marine insurance; the regulations he had been told were sending all insurance of this class to little Ontario state companies, which he said were with Lloyd's on commission. No complaints to this effect have been received said Mr. Fielding.

Major Currie also wished to refuse to accept from foreign companies securities guaranteed by the home government. United States steel bonds might be made, to the prejudice of Canadian securities. Mr. Fielding declined to accept this, saying that the treasury board accepted only national or state government bonds. Incidentally he said that Ontario government securities are used by the companies for deposit purposes.

SEARCH BACK FOR SOOTH

Another Unprofitable Trip Reported By Nova Scotia Fisherman Returned From Southern Sealing Grounds.

Special to The Standard. Halifax, April 25.—After eight months' absence from port and after encountering innumerable dangers and many adventures, the sealing schooner Beatrice L. Corkum, arrived in port today. Although the ship left Capt. Town on January 28th, it was not until Wednesday that the coast of Nova Scotia was reached.

Then within sight of land a most extensive series of gales and fogs kept her so that it was not till today that she arrived in port. It was August 17, 1909 when the vessel sailed from port for the Indian Ocean sealing grounds. The trip was fairly uneventful. Gough Island in the South Atlantic, was touched at the Cape of Good Hope. No seals were seen there and the ship proceeded to Prince Edward Island. Here five men were put ashore with supplies and two boats.

The Crozets. Having landed these men the Crozet proceeded to the Crozets, experiencing rough weather and catching very few seals. During his sojourn on the island James Pelham met with an accident. He in company with two comrades, was in a boat off the high cliffs, when a breaker overturned them into the water. The boat was smashed to pieces and Pelham's leg was broken near the hip. He and his comrades reached the shore, Pelham's leg was bandaged in a box and he was taken to a hospital. The boat was lowered in a crane and the crew were rescued. IRISH MAY MODIFY HOME RULE CRY

Growing Belief in the Country That It Is Undesirable As Well As Impossible—Prediction of Redmond's Ultimate Downfall Well Founded—O'Brien's League Popular.

London, April 25.—In the British political situation, with its array of confused issues, its splitting of immaturity, its sham cries of danger to the throne and the Constitution, there is one feature of real importance. This is the question of what is going to happen to the Irish Parliamentary Party. The Nationalists were much in evidence at Westminster last week. The encounter between William O'Brien and David Lloyd-George produced no dramatic surprises, but it deepened the unfavorable impression of John Redmond's policy which his Cork dissidents had created throughout Ireland. Even among the members of the Irish Parliamentary Party there is an uneasy feeling that they have been cajoled by the Premier.

The budget was reintroduced on Monday and Mr. Redmond announced that his party would vote against it, explaining that any objections to the budget were trivial compared with the importance of abolishing the Lords' veto. This was the first necessary step to Home Rule.

Already there are rumors of a compromise between the Lords and the government, and even if no actual agreement be possible the situation changes so radically from week to week that he would be a bold prophet who would predict that the veto bill will become a statute within a given time. Until then Home Rule will not be advanced one iota.

An Irishman with long experience of affairs and allied to none of the political camps has just arrived in London after an extensive trip in his own country. He emphatically declares that the predictions of Mr. Redmond's ultimate downfall are well founded, and a Dublin correspondent who for weeks past has been closely studying the situation writes as follows: "Irish politics are, at present, in a state of flux. U.S. ROAD BOILT SUCCESS

Mr. C. K. Howard Well Known Throughout Province Writes Of Aroostook County's Electric Railway

Fredericton, April 25.—Mr. Charles K. Howard, formerly C. P. R. station agent here and who later resigned his position as travelling freight agent for the C. P. R., is proving highly successful as manager of the Aroostook Valley Railway, the electrical railway in Aroostook county, Me. "The railway is also proving a pleasure addition to the transportation facilities of what is probably the most enterprising section of the state of Maine. The road is now being ballasted and put in first class condition, the contract for this work having been awarded to Messrs. W. E. and W. Trites, of Salisbury, N. B., both well known here."

Mr. Howard in a letter to a friend here under recent date, writes as follows regarding the work of the railway: "We have delivered to connecting lines from Washburn and Crouseville about fifteen cars of potatoes for New England points, and have received from them about thirty cars of fertilizer for points on our line. We have also hauled some loads of freight, both carloads and way freight. Our engine is 300 horsepower, and has handled a train of ten cars of fertilizer, which would be worth $70 tons—a tonnage that a 100 per cent steam engine could not handle on the same track. The track is not ballasted nor rails bonded, and, of course, we lose considerable power owing to these conditions."

"I must tell you that the people of Aroostook County are very enthusiastic over the electric road, and are out in crowds to watch us handle freight, the carloads into Washburn, quite a large crowd met the train, and one old gentleman threw his hat into the air and gave three cheers for the electric railroad and Gould, and said: 'That is the electric monkey they have been talking about! Well, I guess they will find out it has quite a tail!'"

"The contract has been let for ballasting, and we also have gangs out bending the rails, ditching, etc., and expect to have the road in first class condition by June 1."

Maple Leaf Milling Company Plan To Operate The Best Located Flour Mill in Canada. Toronto, April 25.—The incorporation of the Maple Leaf Milling Company and the addition of new capital is to be marked by the erection of a $1,000,000 flour mill and elevator at Port Colborne.

The plant will include an elevator capacity of storing 1,000,000 bushels of wheat—milling machinery with a capacity of 6,000 barrels of flour a day—and storage capacity for 250,000 bags of flour.

The entire equipment will be the most modern of its kind in Canada, and fully equal to that of any other mill in the world. The site, experts say, will make the Maple Leaf Milling Company a most important factor in the country's flour trade from the moment the mill is in operation. Its geographical position is such that the new company will be able to lay flour at all Atlantic seaports and on the British and foreign markets, considerably cheaper than can be done by any other milling company.

The completion of the Port Colborne mill will give the Maple Leaf Milling Company a total daily capacity from their six mills of 12,800 barrels of flour, and to supply the wheat they will have by next fall, 50 elevators in operation in western Canada.

HOUSE FLY A FACTOR IN TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. Thos. Walker Addresses Life Underwriters on Causes of Disease—Rev. Mr. Boyd Urges Co-operation.

Rev. T. Hunter Boyd addressed a meeting of the life underwriters in the board of trade rooms last evening dealing with the subject of tuberculosis and the means of fighting it.

In opening, Rev. Mr. Boyd referred to the importance of banding together to combat the great scourge of tuberculosis. In future, he said, the civilization of a nation will be judged not by its standing in commercial life, but by its death rate as it will be taken as an indication of the care given to protect the lives of the people.

He then referred in general terms to the cause of the disease and pointed out that it was not hereditary. Dr. Walker said that the common house fly was a very potent factor in carrying the tuberculosis germs to persons not directly affected with it. He urged an observance of the laws of sanitation and hygiene as the best means of preventing the spread of the disease.

One of the most important things to be considered was the ventilation of public buildings and in this connection he said none of the public buildings in the city were ventilated properly.

Dr. H. S. Bridges spoke briefly, expressing his sympathy with the objects of the work and the meeting adjourned.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Chicago Stock Company opened the third week of their engagement at the Opera House last night with an excellent scene in the comedy of the Royal Box, which was of such quality as to delight the large audience in attendance.

The leading role in the piece as taken by Mr. Dorente was particularly well done. His big scene was in the fourth act, when the setting represented the stage of the Drury Lane theatre during a production of Romeo and Juliet.

For his excellent work in this act, Mr. Dorente received a well merited curtain call. Miss Clara Prætorie as Celia, played an excellent opposite to Mr. Dorente and her work was excellent. The other members of the company were well up to their work, several of them being in difficult supporting roles.

Taken altogether the Chicago Stock Company may be fairly said to be the best of this city has had since the days of the first Valentine Stock Company. It has presented a high class of dramatic attractions in almost a metropolitan style, and it is gratifying to know that their efforts have been rewarded with continually increasing patronage.

The bill for tonight will be the Little Grey Lady which will also be given at the matinee. This play is a delicious comedy-drama from the pen of Channing Pollock, who is also the author of "Clothes," "Such a Little Queen" and other recent successes. It is a clean, delightful play from the first rise of the curtain until its final fall.

The story is laid in Washington, D. C., and tells of the trials of a young society girl who tries to shield a young man from discovery who possesses a counterfeit bill of large denomination. Laughable comedy is intermingled with exciting situations and three hours of genuine entertainment may be anticipated.

TENDERS AWARDED FOR WORK ON EXHIBITION BUILDINGS

Safety Board Accepts Offer of W. A. Munroe With Some Reservations—Dog Catcher Much Wanted—Police Uniforms Again Under Discussion—Much Other Business Under Discussion.

At the monthly meeting of the Safety Board last evening it was decided to ask the new mayor to appoint a dog catcher, give Chief Clark a gold-braided uniform, and extend the time for making the policemen's clothes to two months. Tenders for work on the exhibition building were received, and considerable business was transacted.

For painting—James H. Pullen, $50; James Huey, $54; Wm. Johnston, $57. W. A. Munroe asked that the rent on the lot at the end of Elliot Row, which has been leased from the city be reduced from $20 to $10. He said that he understood the rent was to be $10, but for some reason $20 had been inserted in the lease. He declared he had spent a considerable amount of money, filling in the lot, and constructing a sewer through it.

The board decided to grant his request. Exhibition Tenders. The following tenders for painting, carpenter and mason work on the exhibition building were received:

For painting—James H. Pullen, $50; James Huey, $54; Wm. Johnston, $57. Carpenter, galvanized iron work and repairs to roof—H. J. Pratt, $615; Charles P. Stevens, $750; Harry P. Williams, $698; A. E. Hamilton, $600. Mason work—W. F. Sproul, $100; R. C. Clark, $325; H. C. Taylor, $200.

W. A. Munroe sent in a tender agreeing to find all the material, and do all the work required on the building for $1072. Ald. Potts said it was a great mistake to have the repairs to the roof done by tender.

The director said he had recommended the repairs be done by day's work. Some work done on the building last year by tender was very unsatisfactory.

Ald. Potts moved that the board recommend that Mr. Munroe's tender be accepted if it included everything, otherwise that the lowest tenders for masonry work and painting be accepted.

Ald. Hayes moved in amendment that the latter part of the motion be amended to include the acceptance of the lowest tender for carpenter work. The amendment was lost and the motion was carried. Ald. Sproul and Scully supporting Ald. Potts.

On motion of Ald. Potts it was decided to recommend that the director be instructed to proceed with the carpenter work on the buildings by tender, the expenditure to be limited to the amount of the lowest tender.

Tenders Not Accepted. Tenders were received to take down the chimney of the North End electric station as follows: H. S. Wetmore, $150; Samuel Johnson, $50.

Neither tender was accepted, the director being instructed to make what arrangements he could to have the chimney demolished.

A complaint was received from J. E. Wilson that his bill for repairs on the market building had been turned down. Ald. Potts said he had recommended that the bill be paid.

Austin A. Power applied for a lease of lots Nos. 370, 371, 372, at the lower end of the lot. The application was laid on the table.

The application of Frederick Fullerton, for lot No. 38 on Tower street, West, was granted $20 per year.

Applications were received from John S. Tobin and David Wells for lot No. 11 on Malapanoy road, Lancaster. They proposed to put up buildings customary to the district and pay $20 a year. The application was granted.

John Sime's application for a renewal of his lease in Lancaster was granted for one year. The order-in-council referring the matter to the council was passed.

WILL LIKELY REMOVE DORCHESTER BATTERY

Exhibition Executive Seeking to Acquire More Space in Grounds—Plan of Buildings to Be Prepared.

The executive of the exhibition association met last evening and considered a number of matters of importance to the big fair. It is quite probable that in order to make more ground room, the old military battery known as Dorchester battery will be removed, although this is not yet decided upon.

Divisional Engineer Lieut. Hill has sent a recommendation to Ottawa on the matter and it is probable that permission will be given to remove the battery.

The David Craig Company, of Boston which promised to erect a concrete building to house the art exhibit has notified the association that they are not able to guarantee this, owing to an unexpected activity in their business. The art show will, however, go on under other arrangements and promises to be a big feature of the fair.

The executive adopted the design for the window hangers and decided to have plans of the floors and of the buildings and grounds drawn for the convenience of exhibitors.

The new prize lists for the exhibition were issued yesterday and already are in general demand.

matter of placing an electric light in the old burial ground was taken up. The director recommended the installation of an arc light.

Ald. Potts moved that the recommendation be carried out, and the expense charged up to the board of works.

Ald. Scully asked when the lights were going to be installed on the West Side.

The chairman—"On May 1st." Dr. J. D. Maher was heard in reference to his offer to take over the building at 527 Main street which he now occupies. He valued it at $3000.

The motion of Ald. Potts it was decided to accept the offer, provided Mr. Maher could make arrangements with the Government to allow the city to take the building over.

Policeman McNamee wrote asking for a new pair of pants. His old ones had suffered serious damage while arrested on James Mackie and Henry Graham on Brussels street. The pants were granted.

Policeman Finley wrote claiming a reward of $100 alleged to be offered for the capture of false coin. The communication was laid over till the next meeting.

Policeman J. L. Jones was granted half pay for 6 days through sickness. Policeman McCollum was granted half pay for 14 days for the same reason.

W. S. Ramsey and W. O. Staples asked for a lease of the room now occupied by the Every Day Club in the Carleton City Hall. The matter was referred to the director and chairman with power to act.

A motion of Ald. Sproul it was decided to renew the leases of the wholesale racks in the market.

Mr. Hopkins' Protest. G. A. Stanley Hopkins wrote protesting against the action of Ald. Potts in ignoring his bid for the market tolls, and selling them to his son, Roy L. Potts.

Ald. Potts said he had not heard Mr. Hopkins make any bid. The chairman said he attended the sale and though he stood between Ald. Potts and Mr. Hopkins he had not heard the latter make any bid. The director made a similar statement.

The communication was filed. John A. Adams was named appraiser of the new mayor on the casting vote of the chairman.

Ald. Kelley moved that the director be authorized to give every man in the permanent employ of the fire department 14 days holidays at the convenience of the chief, and that the same privilege be granted the same privilege. This was carried.

Ald. Kelley moved that the engine be allowed one day off in seven. Carried.

Ald. Hayes complained that there were too many dogs running round the town. The chairman said that was a matter that came under the jurisdiction of the new mayor.

Ald. Potts said dogs should not be allowed to run loose. In Upper Canada the dogs were biting people; the same epidemic might strike St. John any time.

Ald. Hayes moved that the mayor be asked to appoint a dog catcher and have the law enforced before dog days. This was passed.

The common clerk stated that Scovell Bros. were not prepared to furnish the police uniforms by May 21.

Chief Clark said the policemen were not in such a hurry as they had been a few ago; but Mr. Scovell wanted to buy the clothes to suit each individual, and not the head of the police force.

Ald. Hayes moved that the time limit be extended to June 30, and if Mr. Scovell did not buy the uniforms by that date he be given to Henderson and Hunt. This was carried.

Ald. Kelley moved that the janitor of City Hall be provided with a cap and uniform. This was carried.

Ald. Scully said he had been informed that there was only one man in St. John qualified to survey lumber. The meeting then adjourned.

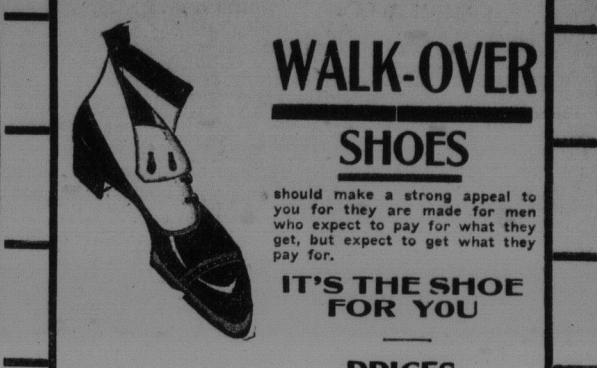

Appreciation of Rev. A. B. Cohoe

At the weekly meeting of the Baptist ministers yesterday afternoon, a resolution was passed on record the appreciation of Rev. A. B. Cohoe was unanimously adopted. Reference was made to his keen insight, careful discrimination and intellectual ability of Mr. Cohoe as shown in the papers he had read at the meetings and to the kindly relations which had always existed in his work with his brother ministers. The resolution concluded: "In Mr. Cohoe's removal to the First Baptist church of Halifax, while we regret the loss of his fellowship and co-operation this will mean to us, yet we rejoice because of the larger field of service which has come to him affording greater opportunities to the fostering kingdom."

In the Police Court. In the police court yesterday Robert Hickey pleaded not guilty to a charge of stealing two Chinese silk nightdresses and other articles from the S. Victorian and was remanded until this morning. William McArthur, Jr., pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and not guilty to a charge of assaulting his father. He was remanded. Patrick Donahue was fined $5 for drunkenness $8 for using profane language and $20 for giving Antone di Bonadetto a black eye on Saturday night. Wilbur Graham, charged with selling liquor to Jacob Noffel, an interdict, proved an alibi and was acquitted.

NOTIONS OF THE ATHLETES

Ketchel and Langford Both Predict a Knockout -- Fans Agog Over First Meeting of Rivals.

New York, N. Y., April 25.—Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel will meet at the National A. C. of Philadelphia next Wednesday night in a six round fight that is attracting the attention of sporting men all over the country. Langford says he will win by a knockout in two rounds, while Ketchel declares he will land a sleep wallop before three rounds have elapsed. If these terrific punchers mean what they say the fight will be one of the most sensational in ring history. There is no bitter feeling on the part of either pugilist, but there is plenty of genuine rivalry and not a little professional jealousy. A knockout means the windup of one or the other as a firstclass fighter at middleweight. A victory secured in this way will clearly define which has the better claim on the middleweight championship of the world, even though they do not make the 158 pound limit.

Ketchel is recognized as the middleweight champion at present, but in Langford he will meet the most dangerous pugilist of his weight and inches in the world. Langford can make 158 pounds any time, he says, but his best fighting weight is about 165. Ketchel too can scale at 158, but he prefers to be heavier, and at 160 or 162 he thinks he is invincible. As a result a Ketchel-Langford fight has been talked of for more than a year, and though several battles seemed imminent the arrangements fell through until the big Quaker club clinched matters with a fine offer.

Langford Share.

It is generally understood that Ketchel will receive $10,000, win, lose or draw, for his services. Just what Langford's share will be nobody knows, but it is safe to say that the amount will not be less than $5,000. It is expected that the house will amount to more than $20,000, which means that the promoters will not put on this attractive scrap for the fun of it. New Yorkers who have hankered for a mix between these men for a long time are ready to pay fancy prices for ringside seats, expecting to see a slam bang, knock down and drag out affair. They are going over to Philly in a special train and will probably be divided in opinion as to which man is the better fighter. Last year when there was a talk of a fight Ketchel accepted an alleged offer of $20,000 to fight Langford in Nevada, but that was no match because Langford learned that he would not receive a dollar more than $5,000 no matter how the mill resulted. Then suddenly the Foxmont A. C. of the Bronx signed the men to a guarantee of $25,000, split equally, it is said. This affair was called off two days before the time by the club who would cause of interference by Gov. Hughes. All sorts of rumors were quickly in circulation, one of them being that Ketchel's friends and relatives who are jealous of the Bronx club had used underground wires to have the bout prevented. This was vigorously denied by Ketchel and his manager, Willis Britt, and for that matter it was not generally believed.

Widespread Comment.

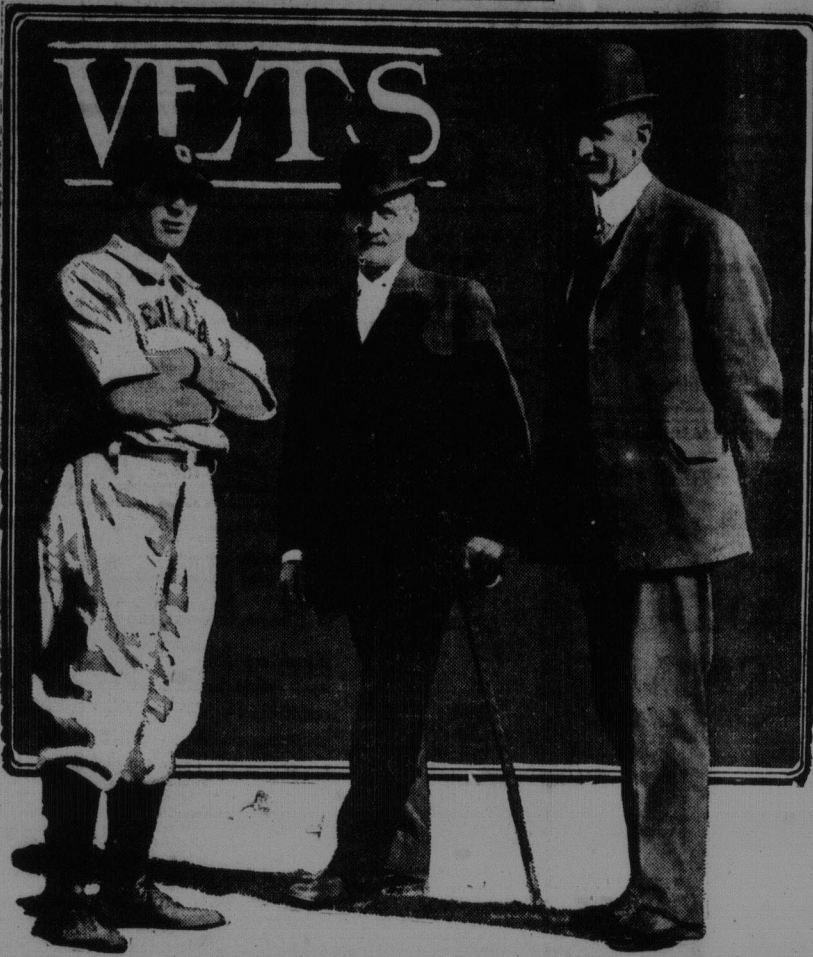

The fight in Philadelphia therefore is causing widespread comment and will be awaited with unusual interest. Ketchel has been in fine fettle up at Woodlawn for more than three weeks and looks both strong and fast. His hands are tough and his wind is good, while he possesses a wonderful confidence in himself, as usual. He does not fear Langford, even though the latter is regarded as a scientific marvel and a tremendous hitter. Ketchel, also a great puncher, does not believe Langford has gameness enough to stand up under real punishment, and for that reason he says he intends to mix it up as soon as he comes out of his corner.

Langford, who has whipped Jim Flynn and Jim Barry by the knockout route within the last six weeks, has come East in splendid condition. He is stronger and better fitted for a hard battle than ever before, he declares, and has planned to make a rushing fight from the start. There seems to be no doubt that he possesses more natural ring science than Ketchel and has also had more experience inside the ropes, which cannot help being in his favor. His best quality is in fighting, and he has a knockout hook or jolt in either hand. If Langford wins decisively he will force Jack Johnson into a fight should the latter whip Jeffries. If Ketchel is victorious he will probably take on Papke again or go to London for a punch with Tom Thomas, the British middleweight champion. It is predicted that if the bout is a draw the men will meet again in a forty-five round fight a few days preceding the Jeffries-Johnson mill. If there is any betting at the ringside in Philadelphia, Langford will probably rule favorite at 10 to 8.

Jeff 10 to 8 Favorite.

In Philadelphia's leading sporting resorts Jeffries is quoted as a 10 to 8 favorite over Johnson, with thousands of dollars offered on the bullmaker. It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Jeffries will rule favorite up to the moment he steps into the ring at Emeryville on July 4. In fact, many sporting men believe he will receive a world of backing at 2-1 or 3 to 1 at the last moment. If these odds are quoted it is the opinion of many that Jeffries' popularity will be the sole reason. The widespread desire to see the white man win will be backed by unlimited money. But regardless of his color Johnson will surely find supporters among the speculators who make it a business to take the short end of

Reunion of Three Veterans At Opening Game In Detroit

JIM MCGUIRE, CHARLIE BENNETT AND SAM THOMPSON.

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—Opening day of the 1910 American league season in Detroit was marked by a reunion of veterans, two of them great stars of other days and the third still in the game, and to all appearance, as young as ever.

The old timers were Jim McGuire, manager; Charlie Bennett, one of the greatest backstops the game has produced and Sam Thompson, whose last regular engagement was with Philadelphia.

The trio played together and went to Detroit with the Indianapolis team in 1885. McGuire recalled with much interest the trick Sam Thompson worked on the Indianapolis fans one day when he was in his prime as a slugger.

"Sam has four brothers, each one bigger than he is," said the "Deacon."

"They all showed up in Indianapolis one day to see Sam play. In those days Thompson was hitting a home run almost daily, and before he went to the game he arranged with the brothers to throw money at him if he made a home run.

"Sam was meeting them on the nose that day, and if I am not mistaken he made three home runs. Every time he trotted home his brothers stood up and threw silver dollars at him yelling like Indians. It worked all right, for the fans fell in with the scheme and showered money at Sam who gathered up a hankie-chieftain full before the game ended.

"I'll try to make a sneak with this money and my brothers will worry for fear they won't get their back," Sam told me in the ninth. But he didn't get far, for those big brothers were right on his heels and they not only got back their $12, but enough more to pay their expenses for the round trip from Evansville.

Charley Bennett, whose career was ended when he lost both legs beneath the wheels of a membership of the fixed financially and earns a steady income painting china. Thompson owns considerable real estate and plays semi-professional ball.

Thompson helped Detroit win its only world's series. That was in 1887, when Detroit won the National League pennant and then defeated Conkey's St. Louis Browns, champions of the American association.

Thompson went from Detroit to Philadelphia with McGuire in 1889. He was always one of the greatest sluggers in the game and a good right fielder. Thompson is 50.

In the feet at the present time, and the club numbers a membership of over 500. The first cruise will be held on May 24th and it is expected that Commodore Thompson who is at present visiting in the Holy Land, will arrive home in time to be in command of the club which will be held Tuesday in May when many important matters will be dealt with. A schedule will be drawn up for the season and arrangements will be made for the annual cruise which will start this summer on July 22.

Another important matter to be decided will be the holding of races in the harbor during exhibition. This is strongly urged by many of the members and if arranged would no doubt be successful and prove a great attraction to visitors.

The Y. M. C. A. Harrier as well as St. John citizens in general, will unite today to show their appreciation of Fred Cameron, the crack Amateur runner, by winning the classic Boston Marathon, has placed another laurel in his country's athletic hall of fame.

The successful runner will arrive here on the Boston express at 12:45 and will be here only an hour, as he will leave directly for his home on the Montreal express. The Y. M. C. A. Harriers will be present at the depot in force and a Y. M. C. A. pennant will be presented to Cameron. An address will be read by Mr. Frank White and Piper Willis will render the Cameron march.

It is also quite probable that Cameron will be driven around the city before leaving. As Cameron has performed here on more than one occasion and several have had the pleasure of meeting the "great little" runner. It is hoped that citizens generally will join in the demonstration to fittingly celebrate his great victory in Boston.

At every point throughout the provinces hundreds will be present at the stations to get a glance of and show their appreciation of the youth, who perhaps more than any other athlete, has given a greater boost to sport in the Maritime Provinces, by winning the Boston Marathon.

McAdam a grand demonstration will be given in his honor, a feature of which will be selections on the bagpipes by Piper McLaren, of this city.

THE OUTLOOK FOR YACHTING

Millidgeville a Bee Hive of Industry at Present -- Busy Season Ahead for the Yachtsmen.

From present indications it looks as if the coming season would be the busiest and most successful ever enjoyed by the R. Y. C. Millidgeville is a regular bee hive of industry just at present, and resembles a Newcastle-on-Tyne on a small scale. Hundreds of yachting men are busily engaged preparing their boats for the summer in joyful anticipation of the sport. It is expected that a large number of gasoline yachts and launches will be added to the fleet this summer and it is said that some surprises are in store along the speed lines. Although it is not probable that any new sailing craft will be added to the fleet, it is said that several well known boats will be in charge of new owners.

Some veteran ring followers will tell you that all glove fights between hard hitters are even money propositions and that odds should never be allowed to go begging. These sharps will also inform you that many ringside favorites in big fights have been defeated. John L. Sullivan was favorite when Jim Corbett beat him and Corbett had a call in the odds when Fitzsimmons put him away. Then Fitz was a strong choice when Jeffries stopped him at Coney Island. Burns was a favorite when Johnson beat him in Australia. McGovern was in overwhelming favor when Young Corbett knocked him out in Hartford. Jack Dempsey had the greater amount of backing when Fitzsimmons stowed him away. Walcott had the odds on Laing, who trimmed him in the great fight at Maspath. Tommy Ryan was the favorite over McCoy, who put him to sleep at the same club. Many other fights in which favorites were bowled over could be enumerated here to illustrate the argument that nothing is sure in the prize ring.

Rolling a championship game, the M. R. A. team administered whitewash aplenty to the C. P. R. quintette on Black's Alleys last evening. The dry goods men simply rolled a grand ball, their score in the last session being dangerously near the record of the City League. The C. P. M.R.A. THE WINNERS IN BOWLING

Rolling a championship game, the M. R. A. team administered whitewash aplenty to the C. P. R. quintette on Black's Alleys last evening. The dry goods men simply rolled a grand ball, their score in the last session being dangerously near the record of the City League. The C. P. R. team were away off in their shooting and made a sorry showing.

The scores follow:

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE NINES MEET TONIGHT

A meeting of the representatives of the Commercial Baseball League teams will be held tomorrow evening to formulate plans and draw up a schedule of games for the coming season. Arrangements have been completed with the executive of the Every Day Club grounds, whereby the teams will have the use of the grounds two evenings a week.

The several teams will start in practicing immediately and it is hoped to get the league under way before May 15th. Teams from Macaulay Bros. Manchester's, Vassie and Co., and Brock and Patterson's, will again compose the league, and judging from the class of ball played by these teams at the close of the league last year, some classy exhibitions can be looked for during the coming summer.

AGE LIMIT FIXED FOR JUNIORS

A meeting of the Junior Baseball League was held in the Y. M. C. A. last evening. E. R. Robertson, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. presided, and there were representatives present from Pirates, Business Boys, High School, Y. M. B. C. Scouts, and Douglas Avenues. It was agreed that the teams should be composed of players of 18 years and under, one player of 19 years to be allowed upon each team. A series of 15 games will

WALL ST. PLANS TO ATEND MILL. New York April 25.—A large part is making its vacation plans with Oakland Calif on July 4 as the principal stopping place. The "street" has the fight fever to an unprecedented extent, and today it was roughly figured that 1,000 reservations of berth for the Pacific Coast, expected to be made within the next three weeks, at least a third would be taken by men in the financial district who plan to see the Jeffries-Johnson battle.

Many clubs are arranging for special cars to take delegations of their members west, while larger organizations are planning to charter whole trains to the scene of the big "mill."

SUMMER WEATHER ALL OF A SUDDEN

Mercury Took a Climb to 67 Yesterday—Not a Record But Near It—Last Year it Was 24.

Well maybe it wasn't hot yesterday. For an April day it certainly had the man accustomed to the ordinary St. John weather considerably mired.

On Sunday the warm weather commenced when the thermometer registered as high as 62, just to show that it had been thawed out after the winter months.

James B. Day Another Victim of Carbolic

Determined Suicide of Baker Near His Mother's Home in City Road Last Evening—Brother Burned in Struggle to Prevent His Taking Fatal Dose.

Bereaved of his wife and three children, his home and everything which life holds dear, Jas. B. Day, an employe of H. C. Rankine and Sons, took matters in his own hands and ended it all by drinking carbolic acid in the vicinity of his mother's home, 112 City Road, about 8 o'clock last evening.

Two years ago James Day had a comfortable home in Lombard street with wife and three children to make it happy. One by one the little ones thickened and died and a year ago his wife also passed away.

He has been boarding at the Prince Rupert hotel on Mill street, but often visited his mother and brothers on City Road. Last evening he took supper at his brother's, William Day, 49 Rock street, and the latter says the unfortunate man appeared as usual although fretting over the loss of his family.

About 7 o'clock he went up to his mother's house in City Road and spent some time there. Later he visited the drug store and returned with the bottle of carbolic acid. His mother was the first to divine his intention and she ran up to him at once in an attempt to get the bottle. He was determined to end his life and succeeded in availing her grasp.

His younger brother who lives at home, then ran out of the house and tried to seize him of the bottle. In the scuffle the liquid was split over the younger brother's hand and a bad burn resulted. James Day, however, had swallowed enough of the deadly acid to serve his purpose and was carried into the house suffering terribly.

Dr. G. O. Baxter and Dr. W. J. Broderick were hastily summoned and arrived to find the man still living but beyond any hope of recovery. He expired in half an hour's time. Dr. D. E. Berryman, the coroner, was notified. He viewed the body and gave permission for Geo. A. Chamberlain, the undertaker, to take charge, pending his decision as to whether an inquest will be held.

David Barker, clerk in Short's drug store, was early on the scene in the attempt to save the unfortunate man. "About 9 o'clock," he told a Standard reporter "a man ran into the drug store and asked me to telephone to Dr. Baxter saying that Mr. Day had taken acid. The doctor told me to take down eight ounces of whiskey and administer to him. I hurried down to the house with the whiskey but found the man unconscious and to my mind dying. I gave him the whiskey and the doctor arrived soon afterwards but could do nothing and the man passed away at 9:30 o'clock."

James Day is survived by his mother, three brothers and one sister, Mrs. James Linkletter. He had been in the employ of the Messrs. Rankine for a number of years.

The newspaper reports about the formation of a trust, having for its object the control of the fishing industry of the Maritime Provinces are like the previous report of Mark Twain's death—very much exaggerated," said H. B. Short of Digby to a Standard reporter yesterday.

"The so-called trust is simply an amalgamation for business purposes of four going concerns, Anderson and Short of Digby, and Whitman and Alice of Canso. Our purpose is merely to improve our commercial relations with Upper and Western Canada and develop our business generally.

"In the past little systematic effort has been made to develop the market for fish in Canada. The facilities for reaching the western markets are fairly good; the C. P. R. has hundreds of refrigerator cars, and the I. C. R. a few. We have no intention of building or purchasing refrigerator cars for our own exclusive use. That is unnecessary, and besides, we couldn't afford to bring them back empty.

"Cold Storage Depot at Digby. At present where we have a large supply of fish on hand, we frequently have to dispose of it at a loss, and sometimes a portion of the stock may go bad before we can sell it. But with cold storage depots at both Digby and Canso, enabling us to keep fish in stock for some time, and a business office in Montreal, which will keep us informed regarding the condition of the western markets, we hope to be able to regulate our shipments so as to keep a continuous supply upon the market. We will be able to avoid the losses incident to our present unsystematic method of operation, and the consumer will also benefit.

"Trade Will Rapidly Develop. "We will give special attention to the development of the fish haddock business. Shipments from Digby will be of course through St. John, and we believe the volume of shipments will develop rapidly. Our business manager in Montreal will get in touch with fish dealers and grocers throughout Quebec, Ontario and the middle west, and we feel confident that we can by systematic effort greatly increase our sales in Canada, and show the other fellows that the possibilities of the Canadian market are much greater than they have suspected.

"No, there are no Halifax firms in the merger, as you call it. None of the Halifax firms carry on a fresh fish business of much importance, or are much interested in the class of business we wish to develop.
