

45TH YEAR NO. 19371

THE ADVERTISER, LONDON, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1908—TEN PAGES

PRICE TWO CENTS.

MR. McEVY TO THE ELECTORS TWO MEETINGS IN SOUTH END

The Liberal Candidate and Others Given a Good Reception in the Southern Part of the City—Whitney and Beck Scored.

Two more highly successful outdoor meetings were held last night by Mr. J. M. McEvoy, the Liberal candidate. The meetings were well attended and excellent order prevailed. Mr. McEvoy addressed both gatherings, and was given a cordial hearing.

The southeast meeting was held at the corner of Adelaide and Ottawa avenues. There was a large crowd in attendance. Mr. W. R. McKay was chairman.

In introducing the candidate, Mr. McKay paid a tribute to the splendid abilities of Mr. McEvoy. He was a man of whom the Liberals of London should well be proud. (Cheers.) Mr. McEvoy was not afraid to take a stand on any question, and had been frank and open in his criticism.

Candidate Cheered.

Mr. McEvoy was given a great reception on rising. He thanked the audience for its hearty approval and it augured well for the success of the Liberal party on June 8. (Cheers.)

The speaker then entered into a criticism of Mr. Beck on the tuberculosis hospital. In this matter, the people of London had given their approval to the scheme.

The county council had passed a bylaw granting $4,000 to this object. It was necessary to have the sanction of the Legislature on the question, and the bylaws were sent to the Legislature.

Mr. Beck, however, declared that he would oppose this hospital, and when the county bill came before the private bills committee, it was quietly killed, and the whole project went by the board.

In this Mr. Beck had gone directly (Continued on Page Ten.)

Labor Men Repudiate Mr. Compton The St. Thomas Labor Politician

Who Was Prominent in a Beck Meeting in the East End.

The presence of Mr. E. N. Compton, president of the St. Thomas Trades and Labor Council, on the platform of Mr. Beck's East London meeting, and his speech in favor of Mr. Beck and the Whitney Government, have not met with the approval of the London Trades and Labor Council.

Last night the council held its regular meeting and introduced the following resolution, which was carried: "That the daily papers be requested to announce that organized labor in London is taking no part whatever in the present local election to elect a representative to the Ontario Legislature, and that no outsider has any authority whatever to come into this city and appear on the public platform of either the Conservative or Liberal party in the name of organized labor."

"J. E. SECKER, President.
"CHAS. M. PEARSE, Secretary."

LIBERAL MEETING TONIGHT.

A mass meeting will be held this evening in the interests of Mr. J. M. McEvoy, at Clark's Bridge.

Addresses will be delivered by the candidate, Mr. McEvoy, Ald. Ferguson, Jared Vining, C. G. Jarvis, J. H. Fowler and others.

The out-door meetings held by Mr. McEvoy have been highly successful so far, and it is expected that this meeting will be one of the best of the series.

Everybody is welcome.

U. S. Gov't Is On a Hunt For Opium

As a result of the discoveries of opium tins in a Dundas street store occupied by Chinese, and the actions of a party of them in trying to obtain trunks with false bottoms in them, the American Government officers are conducting an investigation with a view to finding out if opium is being smuggled from this city into the United States.

A close watch is being kept on all trunks, but none have been discovered. The authorities suspect, however, that the Chinese, if they are engaged in smuggling opium, have obtained the services of a white man to take the trunks to the station and check them through.

The officials at Port Huron and other points have been notified to keep a very sharp lookout for trunks of this nature.

12,000 Troops for Quebec Pageant

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 4. — The militia department is arranging for the mobilization of about 12,000 troops at Quebec during the last week of July. The troops will be representative of both permanent and militia corps throughout the Dominion from Halifax to Victoria.

Cheap Fares for London Old Boys

These are busy days for Mr. B. C. McCann, secretary of the Old Boys' Association, and he is fast getting the details of the great celebration mapped out.

One of the most important announcements yet made is that cheap fares have been secured on all railways east of Port Arthur.

This is a most encouraging announcement, and is causing the secretary to feel very pleasant.

The Old Boys in the far west are endeavoring to obtain a low rate, and the prospect for success are very bright. The Guelph Old Boys are joining with the London Old Boys in making the request.

Where the fare does not exceed $2.50 no certificate is required.

When the single fare exceeds that sum a standard certificate must be secured from the agent when purchasing the ticket. This can be exchanged for a return coupon on the payment of 25 cents.

The procession committee of the association will meet tonight to make arrangements. It is expected that in addition to the veteran firemen and fraternal societies, many societies will join the procession.

The committee intends offering special prizes for best-decorated tandem, single and double turnouts, pony rigs, children's saddles and the like.

Prizes will also be offered for the best turnout of visiting Old Boys.

The other arrangements for the reunion are progressing very favorably.

STEAMERS ARRIVED.

At Philadelphia—Carthagenian, from Liverpool.

At Liverpool—Lake Manitoba, from Montreal.

At Plymouth—Deutschland, from New York; Majestic, from New York.

At Antwerp—Zeeland, from New York.

At Father Point—Orthis, from Glasgow; Andoni, from Barbados; Manchester Importer, from Manchester.

ATTEMPT MADE TO KILL DREYFUS

Was Wounded By Revolver Shot While Attending Honoring of Zola's Body.

Paris, June 4.—At the conclusion of the ceremony this morning in connection with the placing of the body of M. Emile Zola in the Pantheon and while the procession was emerging from the portico to France Militaire, who gave his name as Gregori, fired two shots point blank at Major Alfred Dreyfus. The latter, however, was only once struck in the hand. His assailant was arrested. Dreyfus' injury is only a slight one. The attempt on the life of Major Dreyfus was made at the foot of the catafalque.

DR. MEARNS HOLDS TO HIS STORY

Insists That Mr. Beck Told Him Power Scheme Was in Peril.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Woodstock, June 4. — Ald. Dr. Mearns was not mistaken in his assertion that Hon. Adam Beck told him there was trouble in the cabinet over the Niagara power scheme. The story that has been published is absolutely correct.

Dr. Mearns repeats it, and it would be hard to convince Woodstock people who know Dr. Mearns that his statement is not to be taken at its face value.

Dr. Mearns is a man of sterling integrity, and his statement is implicitly believed.

His statement came as an explanation of his attitude when there was published in London a private letter of his to Hon. Adam Beck, expressing the hope that he would be re-elected.

Dr. Mearns, when seen by The Advertiser, explained the circumstances under which the letter had been written. On April 2, while returning on the train from Toronto he had a conversation with Hon. Adam Beck, chiefly about Niagara power. Mr. Beck appeared to be a good deal worried. He told Dr. Mearns that he was going home for the first night's sleep in six weeks. Then came this significant statement: "At any time during the past three months he didn't know the moment when the whole affair might be in the air, because of the attitude of certain members of the Government."

"I was convinced from this conversation, as well as from other causes," says Dr. Mearns, "that with Mr. Beck there would be, so far as the Whitney Government is concerned, no power proposal. That is the impression Mr. Beck left on me."

TOWN OF DUNDAS UNDER ARREST

Sheriff's Officer Seizes Entire Place Over a Judgment Against Council.

Hamilton, Ont., June 4. — The town of Dundas, population 4,600, was seized this morning by an invading force of one man. He was Robert Stewart, sheriff's officer, and his pocket was crammed with all sorts of formidable legal documents. He went to Mayor Moss and served the papers on him, telling him that henceforth his little burg was seized. The town clerk came in for the same treatment, while the town hall was adorned with all kinds of legal papers, informing all and threatening dire things to any and every person who should remove the posters. The sheriff's officer also visited the chief of police. The Dundas police force consists of the chief and one man. These "two of the finest" were allowed their liberty, but all the documents in the chief's office, in fact, all the furniture and documents in the entire town hall, were seized. For fear of a fire the chief was allowed to keep the keys of the fire station and to feed the horses. The reason of it all is that Mrs. Sutton secured judgment against the town for the death of her husband, who was electrocuted by a live wire trailing on the sidewalk. The town official paid no heed to the judgment, endeavoring to make an electric people responsible. It was because they paid no attention to the judgment that the little burg was stolen away today. The councilors are naturally hurt over the spectacular turn things have taken, and will hold a special meeting this afternoon to arrive at a settlement.

Rifle for Competition.

Following their usual custom, the Daughters of the Empire, will donate a handsome rifle for competition among the London Collegiate Cadets. The cadets are engaged in the competition for high marksmanship each evening after school, and it is expected that the match will be finished by next Wednesday evening.

INVITATION TO SHRINERS FROM RAMESES TEMPLE

To Attend the Twenty-first Anniversary of the Temple on June 30th—London Shriners Will Go To Detroit Tomorrow To Attend Anniversary of Moslem Temple.

Mr. A. L. Davis, illustrious potentate of Mocha Temple, has received a very beautiful invitation from Illustrations Potentate James Glanville, of Ramesses Temple, Toronto, to attend the 21st anniversary of that temple on June 30.

The invitation is a very elaborate one, and is a work of art. It is all hand-painted. The cover is in the form of a crescent with scimitar above, entwined with maple leaves. The invitation proper is on the inside page, and is a splendid piece of work.

Illustrious Potentate Davis and a number of the nobles will attend the ceremonial session.

Go To Detroit.

Tomorrow a number of the nobles will go to Detroit to attend the 28th anniversary of the Moslem Temple of that city. The Detroit nobles have made elaborate preparations to escort the visitors over the hot sands, and it will be one of the most splendid affairs of the kind ever held in the City of the Struts.

A Banquet.

A banquet will be served to 1,250 nobles at 8 o'clock. After the banquet a parade will be held, after which the ceremonial session will be held in the Light Guards Armory. The degree of Muisafer Nabi will be conferred on all visitors.

The ceremonies will conclude with a vaudeville performance at 11 o'clock.

Illustrious Potentate A. L. Davis and many nobles from the city will attend. A special car will be attached to the 2:20 Grand Trunk train. Mr. Davis instructs all those who desire to attend to be at the train at 2 o'clock. Special rates have been arranged.

On arriving the local nobles will be met with a band and escorted up town.

Forty-Hour Battle With Mad Dogs Dr. Grenfell's Fight for Life

Puerile Attack Upon Mr. McEvoy Refuted By the Public Accounts

His Charges in Gamey Case Lower Than Those of Other Counsel.

One of the silliest lines of attack on Mr. J. M. McEvoy, the Liberal candidate, is the attempt to find something to his discredit in the fact that he was paid the sum of $2,950 as junior counsel in the Gamey investigation.

The payment of this money was sanctioned by Mr. Whitney and his party, including Mr. Beck.

Had there been anything wrong with the bill, Mr. Beck, as member for London, should have objected to it.

As a matter of fact, Mr. McEvoy was the lowest paid of any of the counsel employed, and was the only lawyer who was compelled to leave his own practice. All the other lawyers lived in Toronto, and were able to carry on their business as well as look after this case. Mr. McEvoy was absent from the city fully three months.

The Conservative party at the time of the investigation made the plea that Mr. Gamey had not enough money to conduct his own case, and asked that the Government meet the expenses. This was granted by the Ross Government. Mr. Whitney then asked that Mr. Gamey be allowed to appoint his own counsel. This request was also granted.

Now the total fees paid out in connection with this case as taken from the public accounts of 1902 are as follows:

E. F. B. Johnston, senior counsel, $5,749.90.

W. R. Riddell, senior counsel, $4,250.

Hon. S. H. Blake and C. H. Ritchie, Gamey's counsel, $1,600.

W. D. McPherson, services as junior counsel, $3,000; disbursements in connection with the case, $3,723.13.

J. M. McEvoy, services as junior counsel, $2,950; stenographer, $75.

In this connection it should be observed that Mr. W. D. McPherson, the junior counsel for Mr. Gamey, received more than Mr. McEvoy. It is well to observe also that Mr. McPherson is a Conservative candidate in Toronto in this election, and so far Mr. Beck or any newspaper has made no complaint that Mr. McPherson was paid at too high a figure for his services.

Let Mr. Beck give the reason why he supported the granting of this money to Mr. McEvoy. If there is anything wrong with the account.

Death of Mrs. Mason.

Mrs. Jeannette Mason, relict of the late Thomas Mason, died this morning after a brief illness at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Elwood Robinson, 656 Waterloo street. Mrs. Mason was in her 80th year and came here from Hamilton five years ago. She was greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends. Three daughters—Mrs. C. A. Whitlam, of 651 Talbot street, Mrs. Elwood Robinson, of 656 Waterloo street, and Mrs. R. Blandford, of this city—survive. The remains will be sent to Hamilton and the funeral will be held there on Saturday.

PREMIER WHITNEY AT PRINCESS RINK

Was Greeted By a Large Audience Last Night.

HON. ADAM BECK ALSO SPOKE

Leader and Himself Put Up Defense of Government Since It Attained Power.

Premier Whitney and Hon. Adam Beck addressed electors of London at the Princess Rink last night.

The rink at the outset was almost completely filled by a crowd which was enthusiastic and orderly. Many ladies were present.

Mr. Beck spoke first, and whether he took up too much time or whether the Premier was a disappointment, the crowd left in hundreds before Mr. Whitney had spoken five minutes. By the time he had concluded, the audience was reduced considerably.

Those on the platform included William Gray, E. Meredith, K. C., C. M. R. Graham, Dr. A. V. Beecher, E. J. MacRobert, P. H. Bartlett, John Labatt, S. F. Glass, Henry Macklin, Dr. W. H. Moorhouse, Wm. Wyatt, Ald. R. Booth, Dr. Roome, ex-M. P.; T. G. Meredith, K. C.; James Egan, T. H. Smalman, Adam McMahon, Major Beattie, M. P.; Wm. Bernard and others.

Mr. Whitney was escorted to the rink by the Seventh Regiment Band, and a procession of the faithful.

SMALL FIRE ON RICHMOND STREET

Firemen Called to Residence of Mr. A. S. Blackburn.

The fire brigade had a run to the residence of Mr. A. S. Blackburn, at 780 Richmond street at 11:45 this morning.

The blaze was caused by some person dropping a match in some clothing in the laundry room.

There was no damage.

BRIDEGROOM SUICIDES AT HOUR OF WEDDING

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Winnipeg, June 4.—Alex. Scott, the young foreman of the Winnipeg Paint and Glass Company, failed to turn up at his wedding, timed for 8 o'clock last night. Friends of the bride, Miss Jeanie Sullivan, hunted for him, and discovered him lying dead with his throat cut, having committed suicide. He left a note saying he was unwell. Financial worries are believed to have unbalanced his mind.

BOY WHILE AT PLAY WOUNDS FRIEND

Revolver Shot Entered Left Lung and Victim May Not Recover.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Ont., June 4. — George Miller, aged 15, was shot through the left lung at 336 Queen street east this morning by a 4-year-old Clarence Gildner. The youngster was playing with a 22-caliber revolver. The wounded lad was hurried to the hospital, bleeding profusely, and is not likely to recover. It is supposed Miller was showing the little fellow the revolver, and the latter innocently pulled the trigger. Clarence, who had just returned from the country, was very fond of his older companion, and eager to see him. He wept piteously when he understood he had killed his friend.

So Says General Manager Hays of the Grand Trunk.

NO BRIDGE FOR EGERTON STREET

As Yet, Matter Must Be Taken Up When Other Points Are Discussed.

General Manager Charles M. Hays, of the Grand Trunk, accompanied by his wife, daughter, and his father, Third Vice-President FitzHugh, Manager Brownlee, Superintendent Gillen and Chief Engineer Loud, arrived in the city last night from Port Huron in a special train made up of the private cars, Ontario, Canada, Algonquin, St. Clair and St. Lawrence.

The party spent the night in the city leaving early this morning for Stratford.

Mr. Hays put in over an hour in going about the city streets, accompanied by his wife and daughter and to an Advertiser reporter stated that he was particularly interested in this city on account of the elevation of the tracks to the west.

No Improvements.

"Will there be any improvements in London this year?" he was asked. "Well, there is no thought of any so far, but when we do start our work in London is one of the first places on the list," said Mr. Hays. "It all depends on the attitude of the citizens now."

"If London had accepted our proposals it would have had elevated tracks and a new station long ago."

"That question is not dead by any means, but under existing financial conditions, it is unlikely that anything will be done for some time."

"It was too bad the citizens did not see their way clear to accept our proposals before."

"Both the Grand Trunk and the city were in the humor for doing business then and money was more easily obtained then than it will be for some time."

"We are always ready to deal with the city and any time they are ready to enter negotiations we shall only be too pleased to do so."

Half the Cost.

"It is usual in other places for the city desiring elevated tracks to bear one-half the expense, and I think it would be only fair that when London is ready to deal that that should be understood."

"We know as well as anybody that this city should have a better station but when we start any more improvements here, we want to go right ahead with them and do all that there is to do."

"The new station will be one of the first matters to deal with when the time comes."

"We are extremely well pleased with the results of the work west of the city and find that it is saving us a lot of money every year, besides very greatly facilitating the handling of all traffic."

Sarnia Tunnel.

"The improvements at Sarnia tunnel are also proving of great benefit. Things in general are improving all over the country, but there is lots of room for improvement yet before they will be back where they were before."

"The general outlook is that there will be little money devoted to improvements by the company this year."

"Only work that is absolutely necessary will be gone on with, if, as present prospects indicate, there is a record-breaking crop and towards the end of the year things are improved, it is likely that something may be planned for next year, and when the work commences London is one of the first places we want to settle with."

Mr. McGuigan.

"Is Mr. McGuigan coming back with the Grand Trunk?" Mr. Hays was asked.

"There has been nothing done so far regarding Mr. McGuigan," he replied, "and I do not know that there will be."

"In regard to level crossings you have noticed that Toronto is making a big effort to have them done away with," Mr. Hays remarked, "especially in the business districts."

"I understand there is somewhat of an agitation on in London regarding some of the crossings."

"There will be nothing done in Toronto this year I think, and as far as London is concerned it will be a matter to take up with the rest of the improvements."

EVANS—IRVINE.

Hamilton, June 3. — St. Thomas Church was the scene of a pretty wedding this afternoon, when Miss Elsie Nene Irvine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Irvine, was married to Dr. R. Augustus Evans, of London, the ceremony being performed by the rector, Rev. E. J. Etherington. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers, and the knot was tied in the presence of a large number of guests from London, Detroit, Toronto, Elmsvale, Glencoe, Saskatoon, N. B. and Belleville.

ROOSEVELT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Presidents' Horse Rears and With Rider Topples Ten Feet Into Creek.

Washington, June 3. — President Roosevelt late yesterday afternoon had an exceedingly narrow escape from a serious accident while horseback riding in Rock Creek Park. Mrs. Roosevelt was with the President, and the rumors of the affair, which gained currency last night, were denied at the White House at the time, as neither the President nor Mrs. Roosevelt spoke of the affair upon their return. The reports came from the occupants of several carriages who saw the accident.

The President was riding a new horse, a young animal. The party rode down through a cut in a bank, forded a creek, and were ascending the bank on the other side. The President's horse reared, the President leaned forward in the saddle and threw the reins down in loops so as to avoid pulling the horse backward. Again on reaching the top of the bank the horse reared a second time, and the President leaned forward again, but the animal stood up straight on its hind legs and then fell over backward into the creek with the President. Feeling that he was going backward Mr. Roosevelt slipped from the saddle, and as luck would have it, fell into the creek close beside the horse, which landed on its back.

The horse fell on the down stream side of the President, who realizing that he would be in danger from the animal's feet should the horse turn towards him, got out of the way as rapidly as possible. The horse, however, turned over from the President and got up. He was captured at once, the President remounted and rode for an hour and a half before returning to the White House.

The fall from the horse's back to the stream bed was a distance of more than 10 feet. The stream was about two feet deep with an exceedingly rocky bed. Neither the President nor the horse received the slightest injury.

Mr. Roosevelt was dressed in khaki, and the fact that he got thoroughly wet did not become apparent to those who saw him after the accident.

PLAYED WITH DYNAMITE.

Brookville, June 2.—George Lennox, aged 4 years, while playing near where blasting operations were conducted during the day, found a stick of dynamite which had been left in a pile. The child dropped it on a rock and the explosion which followed completely destroyed the sight of both eyes, besides lacerating his face in a terrible manner. The doctors have hopes of his recovery.

Mrs. J. A. Laliberte, of 34 Artillerie St., Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For six years I have been doctoring for female weakness, heart and nerves, liver and kidney trouble, but in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I can safely say I have found a cure."

"I was continually bothered with the most distressing backaches, headaches, and bearing-down pains, and I kept growing more and more nervous."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of all these distressing symptoms and made me a well woman. I would advise all suffering women, young or old, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

WHY GODERICH GETS THE CAMP

Area for Target Practice and Other Conditions Better Than Here.

Ottawa, June 3.—This morning in the House of Commons, the member for Centre Toronto (Mr. Bristol) had a number of questions to ask the Government regarding the reasons for taking the No. 1 district militia camp away from London. He inquired: "Is it the case that the camp for military district No. 1 is to be held at Goderich this summer?"

"If so, what superiority does this camp possess over London?"

"Was the change made on recommendation of the military authorities? Will accommodation for target practice be sufficient to enable troops assembled to complete their practice during continuation of the camp?"

Sir Frederick Borden said the camp was moved to Goderich, because target area and better facilities are available there. The area for long distance targets at Goderich and sufficient miniature targets will be provided. Mr. Bristol's other questions were answered in the affirmative.

In reply to question by Mr. Elson (East Middlesex) Hon. Mr. Graham said that the chief engineer of the railway commission states that the recently erected at the interlocking plant near London are equipped with iron ladders to the full height of the semaphores, and employees climb them to light the lamps. These ladders are high and narrow, but are not regarded as dangerous, the chief engineer having tested them personally.

PROBATIONERS GIVEN A CALL

Methodist Conference Passes on Group of Aspirants To Ministry.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Exeter, June 3.—The ministerial session of the twenty-fifth annual gathering of the London Conference began its morning session at 8:45. The president, Rev. W. J. Ford, LL.B., in the chair.

The singing for the conference is under the direction of Rev. W. E. Milson, of Kingsville. The first morning address was given by Rev. Walter Russell, B.A., evangelist, who took as his subject the Sermon on the Mount, in which he spoke with great power, on the importance of the address dealing with the multitude, the mountain, the Master and the message. Mr. Russell gave a series of messages a few years ago, and the members of the London Conference were glad to see him again.

The roll called, and 90 ministers answered to their names.

Some Transfers.—The following transfers have been made, touching the London Conference: George Dewey, from Toronto to London; H. W. Locke, from London to Toronto; H. T. Ferguson, from Toronto to London; J. W. Wougl, Ph.D., from Hamilton to London; Mr. J. Wilson, M.A., from London to Hamilton; I. B. Walwyn, B.A., from London to Toronto. Transfers made in the interim: Thomas Mason and W. A. Gifford out of the conference.

Ministers recommended for superannuation: Benjamin L. Hutton, Stephen Bond, Benjamin Clement, John H. Kirkland, G. A. Gifford, Ph.D., T. R. Fyfe, Geo. H. Thompson, Thomas Griffith, Ph.D., C. W. Vothick.

No Charges Made.—

In answer to the question: "Are there any charges preferred against any of our ministers?" None.

Herman C. Beer, B.A., on account of ill-health, has resigned.

R. E. Mitchell, who labored on the Florence circuit for a part of the year, was dropped in silence on account of leaving the work irregularly during the year.

Probationers.—

Probationers to be received into full connection and ordained: Morley D. Madden, B.A., W. L. Hiles, B.A., Chas. W. Down, B.A., David Wren, B.A., Clark F. Logan, B.A., A. S. Whitehall, S.T.L., W. J. Kilpatrick, B.A., W. G. Conolly, B.A., who was specially ordained.

The conference adjourned at noon.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock, with the president, Rev. W. J. Ford, LL.B., presiding. The matter of the continuation of probationers for the ministry on trial was further taken up, and the following names in addition were passed: David Hicks, Thomas J. Allen, E. J. Matthews, A. R. Johnson, C. W. Coulter, Burton H. Robinson, John W. Johnson, Kenneth J. Beaton, F. H. Longford, James A. Spenceley, B.A., Arthur E. Doan, C. W. McKenzie, W. R. Osborne, H. Williams, J. R. Peters, F. J. Grant, W. B. Midford, Hugh F. Hazelwood.

R. J. Currie, who was specially ordained one year ago, was recommended to be received into full connection.

For College.—

The following probationers are recommended to be sent to college: G. C. Gifford, A. R. Kellam, A. V. Walden, F. E. Clydesdale, E. K. Simpson, W. E. James, R. J. Allen, A. Roy Johnson, A. S. Matthews, A. K. Johnston.

The following were recommended as candidates for the ministry: Joseph L. Rutledge, B.A., Frank Burgess, Russell Caldwell, Arthur Sinclair.

The evening session, the educational work of the church was the subject for consideration, and Rev. C. F. Wells, B.A., of Granton, and Professor McLaughlin, of Victoria College, addressed the ministers.

SEEKING BALSDEN.

Detroit, Mich., June 4.—The local police have received a letter from St. Thomas, Ont., asking them to locate George Richards Balsden, whose father died a short time ago in the Canadian city without leaving a will. It is necessary to find Balsden before the estate can be settled. When last heard from Balsden was working on a boat near Detroit.

The telephoto attachment has proved a splendid addition to the use of a camera. It was designed to enable the photographer to obtain magnified pictures of scenery and buildings at a considerable distance.

Stop That Scratching!

Just as long as you have dandruff your head will itch. It's the little microbes that are gnawing down into the hair roots. It may take a long time for these persistent pests to get down to the vital part but when they do, they will destroy the life of the hair in a very short time. My hair was falling out rapidly and becoming gray when I heard of your guaranteed hair restorer, and after using one bottle my hair stopped turning gray. The first application removed the itching, my hair stopped falling out and I now have a new growth of hair, and it is soft, glossy and pliable. Carrie Williams, 344 Clinton avenue, South, Rochester, N. Y.

Parisian Sage, the delightful French Hair Restorer is guaranteed by W. T. Strong to stop falling hair, to cure dandruff and all diseases of the scalp or money back. It is the most refreshing hair dressing in the world. Ladies use it extensively because it makes the hair soft, pliable, soft and luxuriant—50 cents a bottle. W. T. Strong, or by express from Giroux Manufacturing Company, Fort Erie, Ont.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JUNE 4.

MR. WHITNEY'S USELESS DENIAL

Mr. Whitney last night declared that "so far as the cabinet is concerned there has never been one moment of time since the enactment of the power bill when there has been anything like dissension or trouble in the cabinet, or anything but the harmony which becomes men of business."

This is a guarded statement, which excludes the stormy period before the Government enacted the power bill in response to the agitation led by Mr. Beck. The power bill was introduced on May 7, 1906. It was about this time that Mr. Whitney and Mr.
Beck had their famous altercation.
The story got into the newspapers and Mr. Whitney gave it a vehement contradiction, although Mr. Beck had divulged it at the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, in a moment of anger, directly after the row. The confidants of Mr. Beck were amazed at Mr. Whitney's denial and have now no faith in his boasted veracity.

Last night Mr. Whitney took notice of the Mearns episode, which has attracted great attention throughout the province. Dr. Mearns, of Woodstock, has stated that in April last he was told by Mr. Beck that for three months previous to that time "he had not known the moment the power business would go up in the air, owing to the attitude of certain members of the cabinet." Mr. Whitney described this, in his elegant way, as "an inconsequential lie." Mr. Beck made no reference to it at all. The Advertiser believes that Dr. Mearns told the truth. Otherwise Mr. Beck would surely have taken advantage of last night's opportunity to corroborate his own leader and set the Government right. The question resolves itself into one of veracity between Mr. Whitney and Mr. Beck. The Advertiser believes that Mr. Beck was not lying when he told Dr. Mearns of the wrangle in the cabinet. His disclosure merely confirmed the public impression that the Government is not a unit on the power project, and that Mr. Whitney is personally unfavorable to it.

MORE DISCRIMINATION AGAINST LONDON.

No friend of education will begrudge liberal provincial aid to Toronto University, but the Whitney Government's method of financing that institution is amateurish and haphazard, like its school legislation.
The policy of the Ross Government was to deal with Toronto University as with all other public institutions and with all other public expenditures—that is, to ask the Legislature annually to vote the moneys necessary for maintenance. Each session estimates were presented to the House showing the proposed expenditure for the incoming year. This gave the members on both sides an opportunity of freely discussing the various items in committee of supply, the Minister of Education being in his place to explain and justify expenditures before they were approved.
This was the proper way, and according to British parliamentary practice.

In the session of 1906 this plan was abolished by the present Government which amended the university act by providing that "there shall be paid to the board of governors out of the consolidated revenue of the Province yearly and every year a sum equal to 50 per centum of the average yearly gross receipts of the Province from succession duties." This is arranged on a three-year basis, and means that if half the gross receipts under the succession duties act for the present and two following years shall be respectively $500,000, $600,000 and $700,000, then in 1911 Toronto University will receive $600,000.

This change in the law was vigorously opposed by the Liberals, and during the last session the Opposition brought in vain to secure the repeal of this act, and for the return to the old system, whereby the people's representatives were enabled to scrutinize and criticize the annual expenditures of the university. Among those who voiced against the motion to repeal was, of course, the Hon. Adam Beck.

This is a matter of especial importance to London and Middlesex, in view of the fact that this city and county contribute largely in succession duties, and that we have here a university that has for years been struggling for existence. In the years

Teachers' Salaries---The Government's Arbitrary and Blundering Course.

Both parties agree that it is desirable to encourage, and, if possible, obtain permanency in the teaching profession.

But when to that end the Minister of Education suggested that the salaries of rural school teachers should be fixed according to the assessment of the school sections, the Liberal party strongly opposed this, and suggested that, instead, if the minister desired to encourage the employment of senior as against junior teachers, and experienced as against inexperienced teachers, he ought to give a general grant to all the sections, but might give a small additional grant to those sections which would employ experienced or senior teachers.

By doing this the Liberals argued that he would be co-operating with the rural school trustees and not playing the role of dictator as he did.

Besides, the Liberals opposed this on the ground that it was class legislation, inasmuch as it applied to the townships, but no such principle was established with reference to village, town or city.

The discussion of this clause of the public school act was adjourned after strong opposition by the Liberals, and the clause was modified.

The Minister of Education, however, absolutely refused to allow the clause to stand for a year until it was discussed by the public generally.

An absolutely unfair and untruthful attempt is made to prove that the Liberal leader, Hon. A. G. MacKay, supported this clause simply because in a later clause of the act, and after the Government had adopted the principle of minimum salaries, he suggested that if they desired the law carried out it was manifestly unfair to penalize teachers who broke it and to allow trustees to go scot-free, but while making that suggestion he made it abundantly clear that he was opposed entirely to minimum salaries, arguing, as he did, that the farmers of the Province of Ontario as a class were as anxious to give a good education to their children as was any other class

1906 and 1907 succession duties collected from estates in Middlesex, including London, were as follows:

	1906.
C. Alexander	$ 161 16
A. W. Bailey	2,424 24
H. C. Burrows	742 30
Joseph Campbell	438 07
Malcolm Campbell	470 01
A. D. Gillies	58 00
John Gilmour	259 46
Wm. McDonough	3,898 62

C. A. Morley	315 74
S. S. Ogden	57 90
T. G. Purford	1,164 08
S. Stewart	4,640 14
N. Tackaberry	1,146 00
M. Timmis	82 33
Hugh Wiley	1,386 70
Total	$19,939 97

	1907.
Amos Cutler	$ 537 52
Benjamin Higgins	553 87
William E. Johnson	21 62

Thomas McCormick	1,500 00
Mary A. Pope	567 93
Albert Smith	562 13
F. Whetter	587 91
J. S. N. Whiting	418 20
Cecil Wray	322 78
Total	$5,090 48

Surely a county which in two years contributed over $25,000 towards a fund, of which half goes to one university, is entitled to some share of it for purposes of higher education.
Yet it has been found impossible to extract a promise from the Government of such aid. Everything must go to Toronto.

But Middlesex is not the only Western Ontario county from which succession duties are collected, and which is deeply interested in the success of the Western University. It may not be wide of the mark to say that this western peninsula, which would benefit by the placing of the Western University on a firm financial basis, contributes $200,000 annually in such duties. It is unfair that the ratepayers of London should have to bear the whole burden of a "civic university" while taxes on London and Western Ontario estates go to support another seat of learning.

THE PREMIER'S EVASION.
Shame, Mr. Whitney! Last night he declared, for the third or fourth time since the campaign opened, that Mr.
Pense, member of the Opposition for Kingston, had asserted that he had been advised by Mr. MacKay not to oppose the Canadian Northern guarantee.

Both Mr. MacKay and Mr. Pense gave the statement an emphatic and categorical denial. Their joint contradiction was published in the Toronto press, and must have come under Mr.
Whitney's eye. Yet he and his ministers reiterate the falsehood.

Mr. Whitney last night refused to candidly face this question. He made no attempt to meet the point that the first mortgage, which he claims was defective, was taken out and signed by his own Provincial Treasurer. The statute of 1904, passed by the Ross Government, plainly provided for the inclusion of the terms in the Government's security for the bond guarantee. If the terms were omitted in the mortgage, the omission was the fault of the Whitney Government, which took out the mortgage on July 12, 1905, eighteen months after assumping office.

Mr. Whitney's treatment of this matter last night was as lame and insincere as his first statement to the Legislature.

Mr. McEvoy is making a hit.

Mr. Whitney's reference to the power question confirms Duncan Ross's charge that it is bold enough to be dishonest.

Toronto is putting on cosmopolitan as well as metropolitan airs. One of the Legislature candidates bears the classic name of Luigi del Negon and another James Lindella.

Mr. Whitney still points to the Methodist and Presbyterian churches

as precedents for the three-fifths clause. Why not quote the Christian Guardian on that point, too?

The scratch-my-back performance at the Princess Rink last night was ridiculous. Mr. Beck referred to Mr.
Whitney as "the greatest Premier Ontario ever had," which was untrue as Mr. Whitney's assertion that he loved Mr. Beck.

The Beck organ declares that the McClary Company will take 500-horsepower of Niagara energy. The Mc-Clary Company, like any other business firm, will take the cheapest power it can get. Nobody knows, at present, what Niagara power could be sold for on a 10-hour or a meter basis.

Mr. Whitney's only defense of the gerrymander was that the Liberals did worse, and that he might have stolen more seats from his opponents.
He is not excused by what the Liberals did, but has any reason to complain of a distribution of constituencies which gave him forty majority when, on the basis of the popular vote, he was entitled to ten?

LOYALTY BEGETS LOYALTY.

[The Album.]
Men stand together, and women frequently stand by men; but it women only loyal to one another such loyalty would benefit the whole sex. If no woman allowed man to speak slightly of women, men would cease to be contemptuous, for they usually take their cue from women.

CATERER WAS WISE.

[Philadelphia Press.]
"Here, waiter," cried the guest in the cheap restaurant, "this food is simply vile, and I don't propose to pay for it."
Where's the proprietor?
"He's gone home to lunch, sir," replied the waiter.

SOMETHING IN A NAME.

[Clums.]
Wantanno—Why do you call that boy of yours "Flannel"?
Dunno—Because he just naturally shrinks from washing.

REAL MONEY.

[Town and Country.]
"Mr. Heavyweight," said the minister,
"a willing to subscribe $10,000 for a new church, providing we can get other subscribers making up the same amount."
"You seem disappointed," said his wife.
"Yes, I was in hopes he would give $100 in cash."

ONCE.

[Philadelphia Press.]
Miss Bute—He told me once that I was quite pretty.
Miss Chillus—Yes, also told me that you were quite pretty—once.

ACCORDING TO CUSTOM.

[Judge.]
Brown—Yes, sir, Dr. Jones cured me.
Minister—No, my friend, Providence cured you, not the doctor.
Brown—Well, he did, but the doctor will charge for it.

TIN VS. WOOD.

[Toledo News-Be.]
Visitor to the Farm—And have you an old oak bucket?
Suburban Farmer—No; but you'll find a tin growler behind the kitchen door.

ENTITLED TO THE BEST.

[Exchange.]
"Tipping is admitted to be a bad habit, but it is firmly established. A young fellow who took his best girl to supper felt that he must conform to custom and handed out his coin with liberality, so that no one in the restaurant was overlooked. After they had been swung through the revolving door she said:
"Did you give that man at the door anything?"
"No. Why?"
"He ought to have had the most. He let us out."

UNEXPECTED RESULTS.

[Cleveland Leader.]
"Advertising always brings results."
"Yes, but not always the ones you want."
"What do you mean?"
"Well, young Barnes was shaky on his college examinations, and he advertised for a coach."
"Did he get one?"
"No; but the next morning thirty-six cabs were standing in front of the house."

HIS OLD COLLEGE CHUMS.

[Washington (Kansas) News.]
A conductor sent a new brakeman to put some trunks on the train; they were riding in a box car. The brakeman dropped into the car and said: "Where are you fellows going?" "To Atchison,"
"Well, you can't go to Atchison on this train, so get off." "You get?" came the reply, and as the brakeman was looking into the business end of a gun he took the advice given him and "got." He went back to the caboose and the conductor asked him if he had put the fellows off. "No," he answered, "I did not have the heart to put them off. They want to go to Atchison, and, besides, they are old schoolmates of mine." The conductor used some very strong language, and then said he would put them off himself. He went over to the car and met with the same experience as the brakeman. When he got back to the caboose the brakeman said, "Well, did you put them off?" "Naw, they're schoolmates of mine, too."

MAN AND WIFE COUNT TEN.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]
"But, remember, my dear, that you and I are one."
She looked at him scornfully. "One!"
she echoed. "Nonsense! We are 10. I'm the one and you are the cipher."

THE DIDACTIC POET.

[T. P.'s Weekly.]
The modern poet is mainly lyrical; he is seldom didactic. Lyricism and didacticism do not easily mingle. Wordsworth could be both lyric and didactic; so, occasionally, could Shelley. Landor, Tennyson, Browning; but we seem to have changed nowadays. Mr. Swinburne, the greatest of our poets, was never didactic in his life.

TAKING NO RISKS.

[Harper's Weekly.]
"The sexton of a 'swell colored church'" in Richmond was closing the windows one service when he was beckoned to the side of a woman, the widow of a certain Thomas.
"Why is yo' shuttin' dose winders, Mr. Jones?" she demanded in a hoarse whisper. "De air in dis church is suffocatin' de way de air in yo' house."
"It's de minister's orders," replied the sexton, obstinately. "It's a cold day, Miss Thomas, but I shan't go in to shut 'em. I have no chance on losin' any o' de lambs of dis fold while dere's a big debt oberhangin' dis church."

THE WELL-BRED CHICKS.

[Harper's Weekly.]
Effie, on her first visit to the country, saw a number of chickens from the front porch of a farmhouse. The child watched the fowls for some time as they industri-ously scratched around. Finally she turned and ran to her mother. "Oh, mother," she cried, excitedly, "come out on the porch and see the chickens wiping their feet on the grass."

PRACTICAL TOMMY.

[Punch.] Mother—Just run upstairs, Tommy, and fetch baby's nightgown.
Tommy—Don't want to.
Mother—Oh, well, if you're going to be so unkind to your new little sister, she'll put on her wings and fly back to heaven.
Tommy—Then let her put on her wings and fetch her nightgown!

SLUMP IN HOUSES.

[The Gentlewoman.]
There is a veritable "slump" in London houses just now. Everywhere you go—at all events in the west end—houses are put up notifying that mansions or bijou residences, as the case may be, are awaiting tenants that do not seem at all inclined to come.

FOOD FOR MAN AND BEAST.

[Cassell's Saturday Journal.]
Lady (after tendering a shilling for fare)
And here are two buns you can have,
my man.
Cabbie—Thank you kindly, lady. I suppose you don't 'appen to 'ave a wisp of hay for the horse?

WHEN COAL DISAPPEARS.

[New York Sun.]
Knicker—We shall eventually have to burn the sun and the moon.
Bocker—Think what energy would be conserved if we could use our hot air.

SOCIETY WOMEN

UP IN BALLOONS

Enjoy a Thirty-Mile Aerial Race in the Skies Above England.
London, June 3.—Society women of England and France were passengers in several of the 31 balloons participating in the international aeronautic contest which started from Hurlingham, and was won by the Valkyrie, a British entry, with C. F. Pollock as pilot, this afternoon. To well-known women occupants of the winning balloons' car.

Among the women who enjoyed the 30-mile ride amid the clouds were Lady Shelley, the Hon. Mrs. Ashton
Y. Harbord, Mrs. and Miss Brabazon, Mrs. Capper, wife of C. C. Capper, and several fashionable French women who crossed the channel purposely to enjoy the sport.

Women Show Great Bravery.
Great bravery was shown by the society aeronauts, and not even a little shriek was heard as the balloons slipped and anchor and sailed in the air. After the race Lady Shelley declared it the grandest of sports and said she intended to have a balloon ready for the next race, with the intention of piloting it herself. Miss Brabazon likewise was enthusiastic and intends to take every advantage of sailing the skies, she asserts.

Hurlingham, which has been the center of amusements, such as pigeon shooting, and polo, will now be more popular with society as an ideal starting place for balloon races. In the crowd which watched the ascensions today were members of the royal and noble families of Great Britain, and following the pleasant experience of the ladies who made the trip today, it is expected that at least one princess of the royal family may venture on an aerial journey when the next contest takes place.

Five Countries Are Represented.

In the race were twelve British, thirteen French, three German, two Belgian, and one Swiss balloon. It was agreed to have what is known as a point to point race, and Maiden Head was fixed upon as the destination. As each balloon rose in the air the royal Horse Guards Band played the National Anthem of the country which it represented.

The weather being hazy and the air light made conditions not exactly to the liking of the aeronauts and called for their utmost skill in finding helpful currents. The British competitors, with their knowledge of local conditions, had an advantage on this account.

Belgian Balloon Strikes Tree.

As one of the Belgian balloons was set free it struck a tree in the grounds.

SHAW'S INK BOTTLE WAS CRITIC DRUNK
Furious Dramatist Exchanges
Scathing Letters With Noble Editor.

London, June 3.—Interest in all the events of the past week has been subordinated to the caustic correspondence now raging between George Bernard Shaw and Lord Alfred Douglas, editor of Academy, a weekly publication of importance. Shaw seems to have lost his temper. Angered by the Academy's criticism of "Getting Married," Shaw's latest play, the eccentric Irishman demands a retraction of the article with a set of libel suits as the alternative for a refusal.

The correspondence between the author and the editor fairly sizzles with bitter insinuations and the incident has caused a widespread sensation.
The public is enjoying it all the more in view of the fact that the dramatic offering under discussion was intended by Shaw to be a fling at the critics.
All the communications between the two men have been prefaced with the word "dear." In his opening letter Shaw says:

Was the Critic Drunk?
"Who on earth have you been handing over your dramatic criticism to. Your man must have been frightfully drunk at the time to have achieved the following startling libel:
"The waiter, disguised as a butler, told us among other things that his mother was very fond of men and had the habit of bringing them home at night with her."

"What actually does happen is that the green-rocker, who is in charge of the wedding breakfast, describes certain escapades of his sister-in-law, who, he says, ran away from home several times, adding that the men brought her home the same night and there was no harm done."
"It is conceivable that a critic, very drunk, might possibly have muddled this honestly in the way your critic has done, but you can see how the gross carelessness of the blunder would affect a jury if the case came into court. Can you not manage to volunteer in your next issue a withdrawal of the article?"

Nobleman Replies Hotly.
Shaw then paints a terrible picture of Douglas having to pay $12,500 to each of the several individuals libeled in case he fails to persuade them to be pacified by a withdrawal of the article. Douglas wrote the criticism himself and in his replies to Shaw says sarcastic emphasis on his opinion of the clever Irishman's mental equipment.

"I strongly resent your accusation that I was drunk," says Lord Douglas. "It seems to me characteristic of the feminine quality of your intellect to make an outrageous suggestion. The part of the play I heard simply teems with indecencies and I should be delighted to go into the witness box of any court and say so."
"You have had nothing but praise from the Academy, but on the first occasion that I find fault with you you resort to the men expedient of asking me to throw over the supposed contributor. I refer you to my solicitors for further satisfaction. I have yet to learn the smooth and oily art of volunteering under threat."

Public Behind Editor.
Shaw is not made to appear in a credible light in the article in question, and Lord Douglas's courage is generally acclaimed, especially in view of his last appearance in the witness box in the Oscar Wilde case.

That Shaw's latest play does contain questionable suggestions and observations is undeniable. In fact, the association between the name chosen for her professed idiosyncrasies in relation to marriage has been ignored because it is too unclear to hint at.

It has almost been decided to tear out the Chicago Auditorium Theater, said to be the finest on the continent, and remodel the entire building for hotel or office purposes. The theater doesn't pay.

You Blame
The Stomach

BUT CHRONIC INDIG

ORANGE JUICE AND HEALTH FOR STOMACH AND SKIN.

Few of us realize what an important part the skin plays in keeping us well or making us ill.

The millions of tiny glands, or pores, are intended to rid the system of waste matter, which the blood brings to the skin. It is a well-known medical fact that the healthy skin carries off more urea or waste matter than the kidneys. Think how much poison remains in the system when there is any skin trouble.

The skin and stomach are intimately associated. Find a person with a dry, harsh skin and you will find one who suffers with indigestion or constipation, and both, usually.

Both may be relieved by a judicious use of orange juice. Both can be cured by taking the juice of an orange every morning before breakfast, and taking "Fruit-a-tives" at night. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. The fresh juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are separated from the pulp and then combined in such a way that the medicinal action is intensified.

Orange juice alone will not cure skin, stomach or bowel troubles. But when taken in connection with "Fruit-a-tives" a positive cure results. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers or will be sent on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa.

SOMETHING CAN BE DONE

To Stop the Increase of Catarrh in London.

Catarrhal troubles are increasing, not only in London but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease and to cure it, germ life in the nose, throat and lungs must be destroyed, and this can be done only by breathing Hyomel.

There is no dangerous stomach druging when Hyomel is used; no tablet or liquid mixtures whereby the digestion is often destroyed.

Breathed through the heat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its healing balsams penetrate the most remote air cells, destroying the catarrhal germs so that quick recovery follows. The complete outfit costs but $1, and W. T. Strong agrees to refund the money should Hyomel fail to do all that is claimed for it.

THE CRIMSON BLIND

BY FRED M. WHITE

Apparently the hint was not lost on Merritt, for dinner found him in a chastened mood. His natural audacity was depressed by the splendor and luxury around him; the moral atmosphere held him down. There were so many knives and forks and glasses on the table, such a deal of food that was absolutely strange to him. The butler behind made him shiver. Hitherto in Merritt's investigations into great houses he had fought particularly shy of butlers and coachmen and upper servants of that kind. The butler's sniff and his cold suggestion as to how Merritt should eat, the combative spirit. And the champagne was poor, thin stuff after all. A forum of gin and water, or a mug of beer, was what Merritt's soul longed for.

And what a lot of plate there was on the table and sideboard! Some of it gold, too. Merritt's greedy professional eye appraised the collection at some hundreds of pounds—hundreds of pounds—that is, after the stuff had been disposed of. In imagination he had already dragged the butler and was stuffing the plate into his bag.

Henson said very little. He was too busily engaged in watching his confederate. He wished from the bottom of his heart now that Chris had never seen Merritt. She was smiling at him now and apparently hanging on his fifth glass of champagne, but his eye looked lovingly and longingly in the direction of a silver spirit-stand on the sideboard.

The dinner came to an end at length, to Henson's great relief, and presently the whole party wandered out to the terrace. Bell dropped behind with Chris.

"Now is your time," he whispered. "Henson dare not lose sight of Merritt before he goes to bed, and I'll keep the latter but here for a good long spell. I've muffled the striker of the telephone so that the bell will make no noise when you get your call back."

Advertiser Patterns

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN

A PRACTICAL OUTFIT FOR THE BUSY WOMAN—851.

The busy housekeeper will not fail to recognize in the accompanying illustration, a most attractive and practical outfit, consisting of apron, cap and gloves. It will afford protection to the hair neat and tidy even after a busy morning's work. The front is cut in Princess style, and fits close to the figure. A pretty-shaped bib extends over the shoulders in a manner very becoming. Gingham was used for the making, but percale, linen and Holland are suggested. The medium size will require 4½ yards of 36-inch material for the apron with 1½ yards extra for the cap and sleeves. Ladies' Apron, Sleeve Protector and Cap—No. 851—SIZES for small, medium and large.

A pattern of the above illustration will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

from Brighton, so that you must be near enough to the instrument to hear the click of the striker. Make haste."

Chris dropped back to the library and rapidly fluttered over the leaves of the "Telephone Directory." She found what she wanted at length and asked to be put on to Brighton. Then she sat down in an armchair in the darkness close under the telephone, prepared to wait patiently. She could just see the men on the terrace, could catch the dull red glow of their cigars.

Her patience was not unduly tried. At the end of a quarter of an hour the striker clicked furiously. Chris reached for the receiver and lay back comfortably in her chair with the diaphragm to her ear. "Are you there?" she asked, quietly. "Is that you, Mr. Steel?"

To her great relief the answering voice was Steel's own. He seemed to be a little puzzled as to who his questioner was.

"Can't you guess?" Chris replied. "This is not the first time I have had you called. You have not forgotten 218, Brunswick Square, yet?"

Chris smiled as she heard Steel's sudden exclamation.

"So you are my fair friend whom I saw in the dark?" he said. "Yes, I recognize your voice now. You are Miss Chris—well, I won't mention the name aloud, because people might ask what a well-regulated people meant by rousing respectable people up at midnight. I hope you are not going to get me into trouble again."

"No, but I am going to ask your advice and assistance. I want you to be so good as to give me the plot of a story after I have told you the details. And you are to scheme the thing out at once, please, because delay is dangerous. Dr. Bell—"

"What's that?" Will you tell me where you are speaking from?"

"I am at present located at Littlemore Castle. Yes, Dr. Bell is here. Do you want him?"

"I should think so," Steel exclaimed. "Please tell him that once the man who was found here half-dead—just know the man I mean—got up and dressed himself in the absence of the nurse and walked out of the hospital this morning. Since then he has not been seen or heard of. I have been looking up Bell everywhere, but I can't find him this at once? I'll go into your matter afterwards. Don't be afraid; I'll tell the telephone people not to cut off my bill I ring. Please go at once."

The voice was urgent, not to say imperative. Chris dropped the receiver into its space and crept into the darkness in the direction of the terrace.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

A Little Fiction.

Bell seemed to know, by intuition, that Chris required him, or perhaps he caught a glimpse of her white dress from the terrace. Anyway, he strolled leisurely in her direction.

"Something has happened?" he whispered, as he came up.

"Well, yes," Chris replied, "though I should like to know how you guessed that. I had no difficulty in getting Mr. Steel on the telephone, but he would say nothing direct, a nervous thing. We were here beyond a nervous thing. I'll tell the telephone people not to cut off my bill I ring. Please go at once."

"Gone?" Bell echoed, blankly. "What do you mean by that?"

"He has disappeared from the hospital at Brighton today. Will you think they were extra busy, or something of that kind. Anyway, Van Sneek got up and dressed himself and left the hospital without being observed. It seems extraordinary to me."

"And yet quite possible," Bell said, thoughtfully. "Van Sneek had practically recovered from the flesh wound; it was the injury to his head that was the worst part. He resembled an irresponsible lunatic more than anything else. Steel wants me, of course."

"He suggests that you should go down to Brighton without delay."

"All right, I'll make some excuse to take the first train in the morning. We have got a fine start of Henson, and that's a good thing. If Van Sneek comes within his net we shall have permission to operate on Van Sneek, and relied upon him to solve the mystery. And now you had better go back to your telephone."

Chris hurried back again. A whispered word satisfied her that Steel was still at the other end. She was still at the other end. She was still at the other end. She was still at the other end.

"Dr. Bell starts as early as possible tomorrow," she said. "If you will brief me carefully I'll give you a brief outline of all that has happened since I have been here."

Chris proceeded to tell her story.

PUNY CHILDREN NEED VINOL

IT BUILDS THEM UP AND MAKES THEM STRONG AND ROBUST.

Rapid growth, overstudy, insufficient nourishment, convalescence after children's diseases, and rundown conditions make children thin and delicate and stops development.

Because Vinol contains all the medicinal, bone, tissue and body-building elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cod's livers, the useless oil eliminated and peptonate of iron added, it quickly restores robust health and children love it.

Mrs. C. W. Stump, of Canton, Ohio, writes: "I wish I could induce every mother who has a weak, wicky child to try that delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it restored health and strength to our daughter after all else had failed."

We have never sold a medicine in our store equal to Vinol for delicate, ailing children, weak old people, or sickly women and children, and we return money if it fails to benefit.

succinctly and briefly. From little sounds and signs she could tell that Steel was greatly interested. The story of the man with the thumb fascination. It appealed to his professional instincts.

"And what do you want to do with him?" Steel asked.

"Well, you see, I have him in my power," Chris explained. "We can get the other Rembrandt any time we like now, but that is quite a minor consideration. What I want is for Merritt to know that I can have him arrested at any time for stealing my star. It's Enid's star, as a matter of fact; but that is a detail."

"An important one, surely," Steel's voice came thin and clear. "Suppose that our dear friend chances to recognize it? . . . No, don't ring off yet."

"I'm not. Oh, you are speaking to the Exchange people. Yes, yes, we shall be a long time yet. Are you there? Well, Henson has never seen the star. Enid bought it just before the great trouble came, and afterwards she never had the heart to wear it."

"I understand. You want Merritt to know this?"

"Well, I do and I don't," Chris explained. "I am anxious not to frighten the man. I want to get him in my power, and I want to prove to him that it would be to his advantage for him to come over to my side. Suppose that Enid gave it out that the star had been stolen?"

"You would have made an excellent novelist yourself," David said, admiringly. "Give me five minutes. Are you there? I fancy I have it. Can't you hear me? That's better. I'll see morning and get her to go over to the London and see your sister. Confound it, don't cut us off yet. What does it matter so long as the messages are paid for? Nobody else wants the line. Well, I may for an hour more."

WANTS FOREMEN TO BE WORKMEN

Tilt in the County Council Over Wages and Methods of Good Roads System.

Business was light at yesterday afternoon's session of the county council—so light in fact that Councilor Glass proposed that the council adjourn until Tuesday next when the elections and the circus will be out of the way. This proposition, however, was vetoed by a number of the other councillors, and the London Township representative did not press his plan. It was expected that the finance committee would make its fire report, but the only report tenders was that of a special committee composed of Councilor Glass as chairman, Warden Graham and County Clerk Robson, which has been appointed to draft a resolution of condolence to the wife and family of the late Mr. James Gilmour, Esq., ex-M. P. and ex-warden of this city.

"As a councillor he always commanded the admiration and respect of his associates. His conscientious devotion to the interests of the people whom he served, whether in the township council, the county council, or the Parliament of Canada, forces us to realize more profoundly the great loss that has been occasioned by his removal from amongst us."

"We deeply deplore and mourn the death of one who ever bore himself as a public man without reproach, trusted alike by friends and opponents, his wise counsel ripened by years of experience, was always at the command of the people whom he delighted to serve in private life (with wife and family) a devoted husband and affectionate father, he has left to them the heritage of an untarnished name. We pray that heavenly consolation may be imparted to them in this time of their great sorrow."

Tilt Over Wages.

Councillors Gilmour and Hodgins engaged in a brief skirmish when the much-discussed question of the wages to be paid foremen under the good roads system was revived.

Councilor Gilmour believed in good pay, but asked that the foremen get off their coats and do their share of the work. "My friend, Mr. Hodgins," said he, "is doing work under the system along the Front of Line road, and he is tearing up the road in lumps which cause travelers over the road to say all manner of things about him. Of course he is working under instructions, but I for one cannot see what is going to become of all the dirt he is excavating."

"If Mr. Gilmour says I am not doing my work right, he states what is untrue," declared Councilor Hodgins. "And when the job is done I don't want a cent unless it is satisfactory."

"Mr. Hodgins had a nice gun and he shot well," retorted Mr. Gilmour, good-naturedly, "but he had no target. I was not criticising him in any way. I merely mentioned that he threw out so much dirt in a day that passersby found difficulty at present in getting through."

After some discussion as to how much more a foreman was worth than a workman it was decided, upon motion of Councilors Glass and Gilmour, that foremen employed in supervising work under the good roads system should in every case be efficient and capable at all times, and he expected to perform manual labor. And that the remuneration be adequate for the service required.

The matter will be further discussed by the board of road directors.

Grants to the Sick.

Considerable discussion ensued over the question of grants to sick or insane people in the county who were not suitable patients for the insane asylum or the house of refuge.

Some of the councillors were in favor of the township supporting such patients, while others argued that according to the law the county was compelled to look after them. The matter was finally left to the house of refuge committee.

An adjournment was taken at 4 o'clock the council meeting again today at 2 p.m.

Child Badly Burned
By Flat Iron

Mrs. Thos. Allen, of 156 Water street, St. Marys, Ont., says: "My little daughter Mildred, 4 years old, was severely burned a few months since by sitting on a hot flat iron. She received three burns in all, one on her thigh, another on her head and a third on her instep. At the time of the accident I used oils and then one preparation after another, yet nothing seemed to take out the inflammation or heal up the open wounds. Finally we heard of Zam-Buk and obtained a box. I began applying this balm and was agreeably surprised when in the course of a few days the wounds were not so inflamed and the child rested easier. I persevered in using and gradually the sores on head and instep healed over, but the wound on thigh took a much longer time. However new skin formed over this as soon as all inflammation and soreness was drawn out. Now only a small mark remains to show where the burns had been."

Zam-Buk is healing, soothing and antiseptic. It is the home "first aid," and no mother or home should be without it. Of all druggists and stores, sell at 50 cents a box.

Councillors Gilmour and Hodgins engaged in a brief skirmish when the much-discussed question of the wages to be paid foremen under the good roads system was revived.

Councilor Gilmour believed in good pay, but asked that the foremen get off their coats and do their share of the work. "My friend, Mr. Hodgins," said he, "is doing work under the system along the Front of Line road, and he is tearing up the road in lumps which cause travelers over the road to say all manner of things about him. Of course he is working under instructions, but I for one cannot see what is going to become of all the dirt he is excavating."

"If Mr. Gilmour says I am not doing my work right, he states what is untrue," declared Councilor Hodgins. "And when the job is done I don't want a cent unless it is satisfactory."

and the cheers of the audience appeared to be regulated by pauses in his utterances.

All the old-time bitterness was there, however. Mr. Whitney says bitter things and then prides himself on being frank. He began by eulogizing Mr. Beck, and then in plain words accused Dr. Meares, of Woodstock, although he mentioned no names, of falsehood. He referred to the statement that Mr. Beck had said things about dissections in the cabinet re Niagara power as "a little incoherent lie."

The Gerrymander.

Next Mr. Whitney reiterated his famous remarks that if the Government had cared to do it, it could have gerrymandered Ontario until the Grits could not have elected ten representatives. And there was the veiled threat that if the Grits meddle with Mr. Whitney or his friends, this is what will be done if they are returned to power.

The Horse Deal.

In regard to the horse deal, Mr. Whitney didn't mince words. He admitted that over $1,700 had been paid to send the Beck horses to England, and he made no fine distinction between the Beck stables and Mr. Beck, as the latter has done. The money had been paid and it had resulted in much advertising for the province, he said.

Hon. Mr. Beck.

Mr. Beck made a vigorous speech, in which he strove to draw sympathy to himself by stating that his family had been attacked by his opponent.

He talked about everything in connection with Niagara power but the price, and when an elector shouted to him, "What will it cost?" there was no reply, although Mr. Beck declared he was glad the question had been asked.

Mr. Beck also made the statement that the hydro-electric commission is carrying on negotiations for machinery etc., although no tenders have been called for this business as yet.

One again, Mr. Beck hid behind the farmers on the tuberculosis hospital matter, alleging that it was not his, but the farmers on the municipal committee of the House, that blocked the issuing of debentures.

"They were all farmers there that day," he said, "and you know what they are."

Mr. Adam McMahan, president of the Conservative Association, sided and opened the meeting with a brief address.

Mr. Beck's Speech.

Mr. Beck was cheered when he began his speech. He was pleased to see such a large audience. He was very grateful for the tributes to the greatest premier the Province of Ontario ever had. Mr. Beck was proud of the work that had been accomplished by Mr. Whitney during the past three and a half years. The Conservatives had an honest and efficient administration.

The speaker dealt with the criticism of the Opposition, and charged that this criticism was made out of the House, not in the House, as it should have been. He declared that he himself was an issue of the local campaign, not the Conservative party nor its record. He regretted the campaign of personalities in London.

Lamented the Bitterness.

The power question, the horse deal, his family and his business had all been dragged into the campaign. He lamented at considerable length the fact that elections in London should be so bitter, and that there should be so much hard feeling. This he regretted very much. He begged that his family and his business be left alone in this contest, and that the issues at stake be discussed.

Whitney's Record.

The speaker dealt also with the legislation enacted by the Whitney Government during the four years of its control. The Government had vastly increased the receipts from mining. The Government had taken away pulpwood concessions and restored them to the people. The Government had sold lumber in a businesslike manner and had increased the revenue greatly from that source. The Government had placed the asylums and reformatories on a better basis, and had given these institutions a better administration.

Niagara Power.

Mr. Beck then drifted into the Niagara power question, and gave his customary exposition of the question. He kept religiously away from the figures of either Mr. McEvoy or Mr. Jewell, the city auditor.

"I tell you power will be brought here at cost," said Mr. Beck. "We will keep our promises and bring the great white coal here at actual cost. Our work is done. It is up to the municipalities to do the rest."

He did not state what the cost price would be. He declared that if the Electrical Development Company had been bought, power would have cost $3.32 per horsepower more than the Government was paying for it at present.

What Will It Cost?

"My opponent says I cannot deliver power at the price I say," continued Mr. Beck. "I am going to deliver power at cost."

"What is the cost?" asked a man in the audience.

Mr. Beck noted the interruption but did not reply to it.

"The city of London asked for figures for power for 10,000 horsepower," said Mr. Beck. "The price was given at from $17.50 to $20.80. Then they came along and asked for the price of 6,000 horsepower. We told them the price would be from $17.50 to $23.50. The figures were embodied in the bylaw passed over a year ago. They are not our figures, but are the figures of our engineers. These figures are given by the best men we can get."

Mr. McClary's Position.

"Mr. McClary knows the value of this power," declared Mr. Beck. "He knows that his expenses will be reduced if this power is brought to London. He will then be able to compete with the other industries of the Province. If there is money saved, the wages of McClary's men will go up."

"We do not want any interference from the Laurier Government in this matter," said Mr. Beck. "We believe in provincial rights. We will look after our business. We will set them a pace. I was going to say that we would make them look like a mule as compared to a horse."

Mr. Beck spoke of the hygienic institute. He declared that he did not promise the institute to the city, but got it nevertheless. The Government bought the institute and then gave $5,000 a year to run it. The Government did not dump the institute here and then make the city run it.

He also denied that he had knifed the tuberculosis hospital, blaming the farmers for killing the bill in the Legislature.

He asked for the support of the people of London, and was confident he would get it.

The Premier.

Hon. J. P. Whitney was given a good reception. He was delighted at the great outpouring of the citizens of London to greet him, in his first appearance in London as Premier of Ontario. It was a tribute which he appreciated. He declared that his object in coming to London was to testify to the great value of the great service rendered to the Province by the member for London. He declared that while he was not present to enter into any fulsome eulogium of Mr. Beck, nevertheless it was his opinion that no public man in Canada today deserved more at the hands of the people than Adam Beck.

The Premier declared that dissensions in the cabinet had never existed that all had been harmonious since first the Government took office.

Passes the Lie.

"There is a little inconsequential lie being circulated at present," said Mr. Whitney, "and it purports to say that Mr. Beck is said to have said regarding differences in the cabinet on this power question. This lie is of a piece with the rest."

He accused Hon. A. G. MacKay of being a producer gas man. Mr. MacKay apparently had no policy on Niagara power at all. Mr. Whitney promised that power would be given at the cheapest cost price. He made it very plain that the hydro-electric commission had done all that it was going to do on this matter, and that it was now up to the municipalities to do the rest.

The Horse Deal.

Mr. Whitney dealt with the famous Beck horse deal at some length. He accused Mr. MacKay of misstating the facts when he said that the Horse Breeders' Association was not in favor of the grant of $2,000 to exhibit horses in England. The breeders did favor the grant, and he himself urged Mr. Beck to send horses to England to do the horse show. Mr. Beck did so, and the result was that Canada had received a great deal of advertising more and better advertising than for four times the money ($1,700) had been spent in any other way.

Mr. Whitney devoted not a little time to the Globe, and accused that journal of introducing political ruffianism into the present campaign. He quoted the Christian Guardian to show that the Globe had started ruffianism in this election.

The License Question.

He also dealt with the license question at some length. He declared that the Whitney Government had made one mistake, and that was to allow License Inspector Hastings, of Toronto, to remain in office one minute after the Government had taken control of affairs. Mr. Whitney said that the hotels in Toronto were in a disgraceful condition when the Government came into power. Since that time they had been vastly improved, and the law was rigidly and fairly enforced.

Three-Fifths Clause.

Regarding the three-fifths clause, Mr. Whitney declared there was not a title of the complaint there was a year ago. He declared that under the Ross administration there was not a majority vote. The local option law was hedged about so that there was constant difficulty with the law. If the local bylaw is now carried by 60 per cent, then the law must be enforced. He defended the three-fifths clause by stating that both the Methodists and Presbyterians made use of the three-fifths vote in their internal economy. He also said that nearly every province in Canada and other countries refused to have a majority vote when the liquor question was involved. Mr. Whitney also pledged his Government to do all it could to put an end to the ravages of the drink habit.

The Last Awful Week.

The C. N. R. guarantee was a piece of legislation of which Mr. Whitney extremely proud. He declared it to be a great benefit to the people of Ontario. He declared that the new guarantee of $2,500,000 was placed on the terminals and the extension of the C. N. R. to the Hutton Iron mine, one of the richest in America, and thus the whole railway, which had lessened in value because of the competition of the C. P. R., had increased greatly in value because of the new guarantee, which enabled the company to build terminals and make extensions that made the proposition a paying one.

The La Rose Deal.

Mr. Whitney was also proud of the La Rose deal. He traced the trouble that had existed between the La Rose group and the O'Brien people since the La Rose people came to the Government and complained of the award that had given the mine to the O'Brien. The Government decided to enter suit on behalf of the people of Ontario to recover the mine. This was done, and the result was that the O'Brien gave the Government 25 per cent of the output, which had amounted to $240,000 last year. The La Rose people had spent $30,000 in securing evidence on the matter, and the Government gave them $100,000 on account of the assistance rendered and the evidence they had secured.

Educational Policy.

The educational policy of the Government was approved of by Mr. Whitney, and he declared that all the legislation to improve the educational conditions of the Province had resulted in bettering conditions a great deal.

Mr. Whitney also took credit for the legislation involving mining, and said that the revenue from mining had increased from $46,000 in 1904 to $1,730,000 in 1907.

The Government had also cut the price of school books in half, said Mr. Whitney, and if the new issue was not given at a reasonable price the Government would print its own books.

The Gerrymander.

The gerrymander was dealt with at some little length. Mr. Whitney took the ground that it could have been much worse. He marveled at the moderation of the Government that it did not wipe out Mr. MacKay's constituency, which had been gerrymandered by the Liberals to give Mr. MacKay a seat in the Liberal Government, and to drive Mr. Creighton, the Conservative member out of public life. He referred to the election process instituted by Mr. MacKay when he defeated Mr. Creighton, and accused him of introducing the "little crosses" on the ballots in that election.

The Threat Again.

The desire of the Government was to equalize the population in the several constituencies, said Mr. Whitney, following county boundaries as much as possible. The result had been very satisfactory, he declared.

"Had we wanted to do so, we could have instituted a gerrymander against which no fair-minded man could find objection," said Mr. Whitney. "One that would not give the Liberals ten seats in the House. If we had simply confined ourselves with undoing former inequities there would not be enough Liberals elected to form a corporation's guard. We only touched a few constituencies at this time, but after the general census has been taken we will again redistribute the seats of the Province of Ontario."

Mr. Whitney then paid considerable attention to the financial question, and declared that the enormous increase of the revenue was due to the splendid business management of the Conservative Government.

The meeting broke up with cheers for Mr. Beck, Hon. J. P. Whitney and the King.

In order to obtain the best results in musical work it is essential to have a piano of fine tone, quality and responsive action as a means for correct pianistic expression, or to give proper support to the voice. In this respect the Goulay piano satisfies the most critical musician, either for purely instrumental use or accompaniment.

While the fire was raging in Chelsea, Mass., four young men gathered around a piano at a street corner and sang "We Won't Go Home Till Morning," a fifth playing the accompaniment. All were homeless and were trying to keep their courage up.

LARGE FIELDS, FAST GOING MARK THE OPENING MATINEE

Charley K. and Wilkesteel, the McCormick Entries, Carry Off the Honors in Classes One and Two, Pierpont and Fair Hazel Making Good Seconds.

Large fields and fast going made the second matinee races of the season at Queen's Park yesterday a big success in every way.

Classes 1 and 2 were annexed by President George G. McCormick, who with Charley K. and Wilkesteel bids fair to clean up a major portion of the ribbons during the summer. However, in the second class he had a strong contender in Pierpont, driven by Dr. Fred Woods.

Fast Heats.

Class 3 was especially well contested, and the heats were divided up in great style. W. E. Robinson's Pearl Carter, eventually won, but not until she had been challenged several times by Mr. Bert Wilcox's Wauwata, Mr. William Collins' George N. and Mr. J. MacPherson's Ruby K.

Class 4 brought out but two starters, and Mr. J. Darch's fast Billy D.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN BUSY EAST LONDON.

BIG OFFICIALS INSPECT GRAND TRUNK YARDS

And Buildings of the Company in the East End.

The party of Grand Trunk officials who arrived in the city last night on their special train, this morning made an inspection of the company's yards and buildings in the East End.

They were shown over the roundhouse by Locomotive Foreman Hay, and found everything in good shape.

They were also escorted through the carshops and other buildings.

The party included General Manager C. M. Hays, Manager Brownlee, Third Vice-President Fitzhugh, Superintendent Gillen and Chief Engineer Loud.

BRIGHT LITTLE GIRL HAS PASSED AWAY

Death of Esther Maude Chittenden of Rectory Street.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Chittenden, of 123 Rectory street, will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in the death of their daughter Esther Maude which occurred this morning after an illness of about eight weeks, with heart trouble.

The little girl was 10 years old, and a general favorite with all who knew her.

Besides her parents, she is survived by two sisters, Eva and Nellie.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

EAST END PLAYERS WANT NEW UMPIRE

Some Men Want Umpire O'Hagan Dismissed.

Umpire O'Hagan, of the East End Baseball League, is the cause of much trouble in the league, but whether the trouble is real or imaginary is not known.

Several teams threaten to drop out if a new umpire is not secured.

To many people the umpire seems all right, while to others he "is the limit."

It is said that the original Anchor team will not play another game with O'Hagan as umpire.

It is not known if this will have any effect upon the executive.

WORK PROGRESSING ON RECTORY STREET SEWER.

's Being Put Down Satisfactorily by Day Labor.

Work on the Rectory street sewer is progressing very rapidly.

It is being done by day labor.

The men have been at work but a comparatively short time and have already laid several hundred feet.

The trench is dry and sand is very easy to work in.

But one cave-in has occurred.

MISS IDA TEART BECOMES MRS. McHARG

Pretty Wedding in the East End Last Night.

A pretty June wedding was solemnized by Rev. James Rollins at the manse of the King Street Presbyterian Church last night, when Miss Ida May Teart, of Hensall, was married to David R. McHarg, son of former G. T. R. Station Master McHarg, of Horton street.

The bride and groom were unattended.

They will take up their residence on Horton street.

WORK BEGUN ON WALK MUCH NEEDED.

Lovett Street Will Be Greatly Improved By It.

Work was begun today on the new sidewalk on the north side of Lovett street, between Rectory street and Chesley avenue.

It will be a big improvement to the street, as there was formerly but a beaten path there.

OTTAWA AVENUE CAR JUMPED THE TRACKS.

Are Prone To Wander Off the Track on Rectory Street.

An Ottawa avenue car jumped the track at the deraill north of the Grand Trunk tracks on Rectory street at noon.

Cars frequently wander off the tracks at this point, the switch point being much lower than the rail.

EVA STREET PEOPLE WORRIED ABOUT SEWER

Do Not Know When Work Will Be Commenced.

When the sewer is to be laid on Eva street is causing the residents of the street no little worry.

They fear that the sewer, which is to be laid between Mary and Florence streets, will be put off until next year, which means another winter's work with a pump and a bucket in the cellar.

The sewer is badly needed on the street and should be given the preference.

EAST END NOTES.

The water has been turned off all hydrants on Ontario street north of Dundas street, while repairs are being made.

The appearance of Dundas street east has been much improved. The pavement was cleaned and swept early this morning.

Miss Cora Sinclair, of Charlotte street, has left on a trip for Montreal. She will also visit Toronto and the Thousand Islands. She will return in September.

Brakeman Crugan Killed at St. Marys

St. Marys, June 4.—James Crugan, a brakeman on the Grand Trunk and Western Ontario Railway, was killed here at 12:30 (noon) today while shunting cars near the new subway. "Crugan" came here recently from London. An inquest will be held.

The name is not in the city directory, much one Grand Trunk office state that they have no brakeman of that name running out of London. Superintendent Nixon states that no man by the name of Crugan was employed on the Grand Trunk here.

"Tag Day" for Playgrounds Fund

The London Playgrounds Association at a meeting held last evening, decided to inaugurate a novel scheme in this city for the purpose of raising funds for new apparatus for the playgrounds near the Victoria bridge.

The new scheme is called the "tag system," and has been successfully tried in Philadelphia and other American cities. The idea is to sell tags labeled "I am tagged," at 10 cents each, or as much more as the individual purchaser will give for them, and use the proceeds for buying new apparatus for the playgrounds.

The tags will be placed on sale at the various local stores tomorrow, and it is the hope of the Playgrounds Association in its praiseworthy work that no man, woman or child will by Saturday be tagged.

The advertiser is in receipt of the following letter from Mr. Thomas Martindale, a prominent Philadelphia merchant and philanthropist, who is a former Londoner:

"There was a great time in Philadelphia yesterday, when 'Tag Day,' and almost every store in town was selling tags, while thousands of children were on the streets, doing the same thing. In the evening a public meeting was held in the Academy of Music.

"I mail you a check for thousands of which were put in store windows and nailed up on sign boards. It was a great success. You might try the idea for London."

Apparatus Installed.

Meetings have been held nightly during the past week by the playgrounds committee of arrangements, and much of the apparatus so far donated for the playgrounds has been installed.

The remainder will be placed by Saturday at 2 o'clock, when the opening of the grounds takes place.

Among the novelties provided for the "kiddies" is a "hopscootch," consisting of a cement platform laid out for playing hopscootch, and a teeter board.

Lack of funds alone prevents the establishing of swimming ponds, and to do this is one of the ambitions of those having the work in charge.

A prominent local instructor has offered to give swimming lessons to the children free of charge if the ponds are established, and it is felt that they would be very popular among the children.

Local Items

—Sapper Reid, of Wolseley Barracks, left this morning for Petawawa, where he will attend the annual camp.

—Mr. Wright W. Goodwin left this morning for Sturgeon Lake, where he will spend the summer months.

—General Superintendent Murphy, of the C. P. R., formerly of this city, now of Toronto, passed through the city at noon en route for Detroit.

—Mrs. Clarence Reid and baby boy of Montreal, have arrived in London to spend the vacation with the family.

—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bartlett, of Dufferin avenue.

—Edward Price, the young lad who was shot in the breast on Victoria day, while shooting, was discharged from the hospital yesterday. The bullet is still wandering around his person, but he feels no ill-effects from it as yet.

—Rev. W. Gladstone Colgrove, formerly of this city, but for the last two years pastor of the First Methodist Church at Ayer, Mass., has received his appointment to Swampscott. Mr. Colgrove was successful in obtaining his master's degree at the University of the Western University, in this city. His London friends wish him every prosperity in his new pastorate.

Acting Mayor.

Ald. Armstrong was acting mayor today. Mayor Stevely has not yet returned from Cleveland.

Infant Son Dead.

Kenneth, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens, died this morning after a short illness at the family residence, 26 Walnut street. The funeral was held this afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

A Civic Action.

An action for $157 has been entered by Mr. Lui Paladino, tailor, against Mr. Bryce Salinsburg, a London manufacturer of men's clothing. The case is set down for hearing before a jury at the general sessions of the peace next Tuesday.

Died in Toronto.

The death occurred in Toronto on Wednesday, of George Summers, formerly of Parkhill. Mr. Summers was in his 74th year, and moved to Toronto several years ago. The funeral will be held from the residence of his daughter on Friday afternoon.

Still No Money.

The salaries of postoffice employees are still being held up as a result of the action of the Conservatives in blocking the estimates, and the men are discussing the matter freely and trying to arrive at some means of getting their money. No little dissatisfaction is expressed at the action of the Conservatives in holding up the estimates, as many of the employees are put to much inconvenience. So far no word has been received from Ottawa as to when they will get any money.

SODA CYLINDER BURST

Shelburne Merchant Succumbs to Injuries and Boy May Die.

Shelburne, June 4.—Mr. R. J. East, who was injured at 4:30 p.m. yesterday, through the explosion of the cylinder of his soda fountain, succumbed to his injuries at 7:55 p.m., never having regained consciousness. The boy Anderson, who was also injured, was taken to the General Hospital, Toronto, on this morning's train. His injuries are most serious, one of his arms being so badly broken that amputation may be necessary. It was thought best to send him to the hospital so that the X-rays might be used on his injured arm.

The accident occurred in a shed at the back of the store, where the cylinder was being charged from the supply tank. When the explosion took place Mr. East was blown out the door, head first, about fifteen feet from where he was standing.

On top of some salt barrels. One of Mr. East's children had been with his father, and he evidently was afraid something would happen, as he had just escorted her out of the shed a few minutes before the explosion took place. Mr. East leaves a wife and three small children, and had only been in possession of the store a couple of weeks, having bought out L. H. Love. He originally lived at Damascus, in Luther Township.

NEW MODERATOR REV. DR. DUVAL

A Winnipeg Divine Selected By The Presbyterian General Assembly.

Winnipeg, June 2.—The thirty-fourth general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada opened at Knox Church tonight, the retiring moderator, Rev. Dr. Robert Campbell, of Montreal, presiding. About 450 delegates, including approximately one in eight of the Presbyterian clergy of the Dominion, were present at the opening services, and the remaining space in the church was filled to overflowing by the Presbyterian laymen and women of Winnipeg.

The meeting was opened by an invocation by the moderator, a hymn by the whole congregation, and the moderator's prayer, which was of wonderful eloquence and strength.

After a selection from the choir came the feature of the evening, Dr. Campbell's sermon, his text being: "To this end have I been born and to this end have I come into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Everyone that is of the truth, hearken unto his voice."

After his sermon Dr. Campbell announced that it was now the duty of the assembly to elect his successor. He thanked the assembled ministers and elders for the honor they had conferred upon him at Montreal last year. He stated the past year had been a most prosperous one.

Prof. Bryce, of Winnipeg, and Judge Forbes, of New Brunswick, nominated Rev. Dr. F. B. Duval, D.D., pastor of Knox Church, Winnipeg, as moderator for the ensuing year.

There being no other nominations, the election of Dr. Duval was declared unanimous, and was the occasion of spontaneous hand-clapping and subdued murmurs of assent and pleasure.

The assembly adjourned shortly after 10 o'clock. Tomorrow will be Home Missions day, and Friday, Foreign Missions day.

Protect Shrubs From Insects

It's a shame to let insects destroy the beauty of fruit-bearing or flowering shrubs and vines, when it is so easy to prevent it. This is the season when the pests operate.

SPRAY

Your rose bushes and other plants with proper materials, and the destructive insects will die or depart. We can furnish everything needed.

been postponed because the water supply at present was doubtful, and that at Portage La Prairie because the camp grounds were under water. These three, he thought, were the only changes. Later in the day he hoped to make definite announcement. To another question he replied that he hoped to be able to make a definite statement on Monday, as to arrangements being made by General Otter to secure attendance at Quebec tercentenary of considerable number of troops.

Dr. Daniel, of St. John, then put himself in the way of the House getting into committee of supply, by making a speech of representation from the Maritime Provinces, protesting against the engagement of Quebec, and the engagement of the unit of representation.

Blocks Trout Shipments

Uncle Sam Puts Up the Bars on Fish Coming From Canada.

Albany, N. Y., June 4.—Under the provisions of the fish and game laws as revised this year, trout taken in this state cannot be sold or offered for sale, according to a statement given out by the State Forest, Fish and Game Commission relative to the interpretation of the new laws on the subject.

"The only exception to this," continues the statement, "is in New York City, where trout taken on Long Island may be sold during the legal open season. It is also illegal to ship trout unless they are accompanied by the actual owner, and the law provides that no person shall take or transport at any one time more than ten pounds of brook trout. The effect of this law is to prevent shipments of brook trout from Canada or points outside of the state into New York State.

Tribesmen Coming.

A large number of the tribesmen of the Orient Order of Humility and Perfection, of St. Thomas, will come to London in a special train on June 5, for the purpose of conferring the perfection degree upon a number of candidates in the Oddfellows' Hall here.

The Oriental Order is to the Oddfellows what the Shriners are to the Masons. The first degree only may be conferred by the lodges, the perfection degree coming within the province of the grand lodge.

Fall Lecture Course.

The London Froebel Society has recently completed the arrangements for a course of six lectures by Prof. Earl Barnes on "The History of Civilization." The lectures will be given in St. Andrew's Hall on six successive Thursdays, from Oct. 15 to Nov. 19.

Mr. Barnes returned from England a year ago, after a three years' residence there, much of the time being spent in research work in the British Museum. He has at present a press work on "The History of Civilization," and another on "European History." The Froebel Society feel that this is one of the most valuable courses they have ever undertaken. Course tickets will be issued in September.

CIRCUS DAY SHOW TOMORROW

Preparations Completed and the Special Trains Arrive Early.

Early tomorrow morning Cole Brothers' World Famous Shows will arrive here, and circus day will be realized to the very fullest extent. For two weeks flaming posters both in town and in the country have been announcing this event, which, when coupled to the excellent reputation, both for merit and magnitude, this aggregation possesses, makes it safe to presume that many strangers will be within the city's gates.

Over a quarter of a century ago it was organized, and prior to its trip around the world, was admitted to be the leading tented show in this country. Since its trip abroad it has been augmented before the good housewife and its former self and since its return has resumed its place on the very top of the amusement ladder.

Three long trains of double-length cars will bring the aggregation here and at daylight the busy and interesting scene of unloading will commence. So perfect and expeditious are the methods with the Cole Bros. that the work of unloading and erection of the huge tents will be accomplished before the good housewife has disposed of her first meal of the day. While the hour will be early it will be none too early for hundreds who will be on hand to speculate as to what every wagon and every box contains as they are taken from the cars. By 9 o'clock the 700 and more employees of the show will have breakfasted, the hundreds of horses and animals fed and watered, preparatory to forming the street parade which will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock.

Two performances will be given tomorrow at 2 and 8 p.m. Doors to the menagerie, promenade concert and ethnological congress will open at 1 and 7 p.m., thus giving an hour in which to visit the various departments.

All the tents are absolutely rain and sun proof, and every seat is provided with comfortable back and foot rests.

Queries Answered.

TILE DRAIN—A has an open ditch running across his farm; said ditch coming out of B's farm, draining part of his property, all in open ditch. A desires to tile his portion. A part of A's ditch runs through wood lot, leaves and sticks from which would obstruct tiles. B does not wish to tile the said portion? 2. If not, can A compel B to fix boxes or other contrivances to keep sticks and leaves from entering into and obstructing tiles? 3. Can A compel B to pay difference in price occasioned by the use of larger tile needed in order to carry water off B's property?

ANS.—Upon the facts stated, and assuming that this open ditch properly carries off all the water, A cannot compel B to tile his part, nor to fix boxes to prevent obstructions, nor to pay for larger tile on A's property. If, however, the present open ditch does not effectively drain the properties of all concerned, the whole matter can be referred to the township engineer to make an award under the ditches and watercourses act, which awards will define the kind of ditch and apportion the cost between the parties. You had perhaps better employ a solicitor and against the expressed will of the people of London, and opposed a scheme both worthy and necessary simply because it was not his scheme. (Cheers.)

The Power Scheme.
Mr. McEvoy subjected the power scheme to a severe criticism, and showed how manifestly unfair it was to London, as compared with the other cities, especially Hamilton and Toronto. He had challenged Mr. Beck to discuss the figures of that contract, but Mr. Beck had refused to do so. Mr. Beck will only say that the power will be delivered in London at cost, but would not commit himself, or the commission, to what the cost of the power will be. If Mr. McEvoy's figures were wrong, why did not Mr. Beck show them to be wrong? Why did he not criticise them, and show the mistakes, if any, that had been made. He would not do that. The municipalities were committed as soon as the contract was signed to take power from the commission for thirty years at cost price, no matter what happened. The contract was unfair and Mr. Beck knew it.

Mr. Jared Vining and Ald. Armstrong also spoke. They dealt with the issues of the campaign. The Whitney administration was criticised because of the iniquitous gerrymandering, which could not be defended on any grounds whatever save that of political expediency, and also on its temperance legislation. The three-fifths clause was an unfair handicap, and was not worthy of any government. The action of the council in regard to Niagara power was also dealt with.

The meeting broke up with cheers for Mr. McEvoy, Hon. A. G. MacKay and the King.

The Second Meeting.
At the meeting held at the corner of Horton and Waterloo streets, another large crowd was present.

Mr. Alex. Stuart, K.C., was chairman, and introduced Mr. C. G. Jarvis. The latter dealt with political questions in a splendid manner. He subjected the Whitney Government to a scathing criticism on its record of broken pledges. Mr. Whitney had promised many things, but had failed to keep many of those promises. (Cheers.)

The surplus of which Mr. Whitney boasted so much was due to the splendid financial legislation inaugurated by the Liberal governments preceding it. Mr. Whitney had placed no constructive financial legislation on the statute books, and had merely collected the taxes on the acts made by the Liberals.

Mr. Whitney's vilification of public men was also unfavorably commented on. Mr. Whitney had called men "chiselers" who had served the Province just as long and just as unselfishly as Mr. Whitney. (Cheers.)

Ald. Ferguson followed, and gave a strong criticism of the Conservative party. It had failed to enact the legislation it had promised, and in the gerrymander it had shown that it was unworthy of the name of a government.

The Beck horse deal was also condemned. Ald. Ferguson showed that Mr. Beck and Mr. Whitney did not offer the same explanation of this famous deal. Mr. Whitney put the whole transaction up to Mr. Beck, while Mr. Beck put it onto others.

Mr. McEvoy followed and was given an ovation. He dealt with the tuberculosis hospital and the power question at considerable length, and made a convincing speech on these matters.

The meeting broke up with cheers for the candidate, Mr. McEvoy, Hon. A. G. MacKay and the King.

ICE IN THE ADIRONDACKS.

Malone, N. Y., June 3.—A heavy frost did considerable damage among the northern foothills of the Adirondacks Tuesday night. At Kempton ice formed off small pools, and in some instances frost destroyed early vegetables. At Saranac Lake, Paul Smiths and McCulloms it was particularly severe. North of Malone no damage resulted.
