The yacht Dinah is in 30 feet of water off Long Point, and her owner Mr. P. J. Watt, and his crew, consisting of Mr. Alex. Harvey, skipper; Robert Watt, of this city, and a young lad named Harry Dowding, had a narrow escape from drowning off the Point during a heavy blow Monday night. The crew consider their escape from drowning most fortunate.

Mr. Watt went down to Hamilton Saturday night to bring his yacht from that city, where it had been left during the winter, to Port Stanley, to be sailed during the summer. With his crew he left Monday, and sailed along well until the evening, when a strong, northeast blow came up. The Dinah, sailing like a bird, made great time for 43 miles, until off Long Point.

About 1 e'clock in the morning, the wind grew fresher, and Mr. Watt will be through there in a few days, decided to "come about." As he did so, the wind veered suddenly, carrying and will come here at once. away all his sail.

The boat driften about, when another gust of wind smashed the rudder, leaving the vatch at the mercy of the waves. Thus she drifted in the darkness for a couple of hours, until Mr. Watt discovered that he was near the south lighthouse.

The wind was blowing at a great rate, and a very high sea was running, making the position of those on the yacht most perilous.

When Bob Watt found their exact location, he took Harry Dowding ashore in the dinghy, leaving Mr. Watt and Mr. Harvey in the storm-tossed or any other company desiring to boat. After a heavy struggle he landed the boy, and came back after the BOAT OVERTURNED.

When Bob Watt had got them all aboard he started to row towards shore. A heavy sea struck them and overturned the boat. Mr. P. J. Watt stuck to the dinghy for a time, while the others struck out to swim ashore in the darkness

It was a long swim, but they managed to get safely on land. Mr. P. J. Watt held on for some time, and he, too, struck out for land. He also managed to reach there in safety.

The party continued their search for a place of shelter, and at 3:30 in the morning reached a dwelling, where they remained until morning. All were tired and wet, but most happy to be safe on shore.

A BAD STORM.

"It was a bad storm," said Mr. Watt. "When our sail was carried away, we were helpless. We drifted about for a couple of hours in the darkness, and finally decided to make shore. Bob took the young lad, Harry Dowding, couple of fellows and three girls beand finally decided to make shore. Bot took the young lad, Harry bowling, came quarrelsome, and one of the men to shore in the dinghy, and landed safely. He then came back for us, but struck him in the mouth. we got in, the boat was struck by a heavy sea and capsized. It was a case then of every man for himself. We had life preservers on, but it was were all going to jump on him Percival quite a swim. We managed to get to shore all right."

YACHT SANK. On Tuesday morning the Government ship, the Vigilant, came along and attempted to draw the Dinah off the reef, where she had drifted. The yacht, however, filled with water and sank in thirty feet of water off Long

Mr. Watt has not decided whether or not he will make an effort to raise her. He fears she is too badly damaged.

FISHERIES TREATY SHUT OUT YANKEES

Sir James Winter Argues the Case for Newfoundland at The Hague.

London, July 6 .- Speaking before The Hague fisheries tribunal, Sir Jas. S. Winter, on behalf of Newfoundland, endeavored to show the hollowness of ex-Senator Turner's argument for the United States that the legislation on the Newfoundland fisheries favored Newfoundland fishermen at the expense of Americans. With regard to the herring fishery regulations, counsel observed they could not affect American fishermen, because this kind of fishing is carried out on bays, harbors, and creeks of territorial waters, which Americans are not allowed to enter by the treaty of 1818. In addition, he cooks through an Advertiser said, Newfoundland is not opposed to Help Wanted Ad. They are the guide a modification of any regulations

Americans. He argued that Newfoundland did ot infringe on the treaty of 1818 by forbidding Americans in 1905 and 1906 to buy herring in Newfoundland as bait for codfishing, and from engaging the inhabitants of Newfoundland to nets, etc., even if American criticism justified it, which the speaker denied, that is no proof that the United States had the right to veto Newfoundland fisheries legislation which affected vital interests, and, he said, Newfoundland intended to prevent Americans from abusing their privilege by destroying the fisheries. He then showed that the treaty of

SIR WILFRID'S TOUR.

Wilfrid Laurier leaves tomorrow west. He will open his tour nearly every day for two will have a royal reception from Lake come that will overleap party lines. Westerners of all nationalities will unite in honoring the first citizen of the Dominion. Already a formidable array of municipal audresses awaits It is a courageous undertaking for a man of his years, and his followers take it as a proof that he is in excellent physical condition.

Sir Wilfrid accompanied the Duke of Cornwall, now King George, to the Pacific Coast in 1901, and journeyed to Regina in 1905 to attend the ceremonies at the formal birth of the new Province of Saskatchewan, but for the first time since he became Premier he will now see all parts of the west, and get into personal touch with a host of western people. The contact will be mutually profitable. Sir Wilfrid as a ground, and will hear distinctly what service commission, which paved the the West is saying. CITY STONE CRUSHER AT SPRINGBANK PARK

The city council may establish a stone cra r at Springbank when Niagara power is delivered there. Some of the aldermen have been considering the problem, and are of the opinion that the city can crush river gravel, and get a class of broken stone that would make excellent roads in the city. It is pointed out that in the agreement with the London street railway the company agrees to carry ten cords of broken stone for $1 anywhere on its lines. With the quantity of stone available in that section the city could deliver enough stone to last for years, and the citizens would save a great deal

"The proposition is a good one," said an alderman today. "The cost of running the machine would be practically nothing, as the power would be furnished at no cost to the city. The company could deliver the stone at 10 cents a cord, and that would bring the cost down to a reasonable figure." Some action will be taken on the matter shortly.

You may wear as much jewelry as you wish and still not be overloaded, according to the dictates of the summer fashions. Shirtwaist pins now come in sets for the fronts and cuffs of blouses. THE MESSAGE BY LOUIS TRACY,

Author of "The Wings of the Morning,"
"The Wheels of Fortune."

"I am inclined to believe you have knocked the bottom out of the whole bally business," said Colville jubilantly. "They are scared to death of you, Warden. You are the first man who had the opportunity to bust up the Oku ju-ju, and, by Jove, didn't you take it?"

But Colville was wrong. The weird hoot of an owl came from the bush, a drum tapped cut a signal, and instantly the forest became alive with vivid jets of light. The negroes had begun their drum tapped cut a signal, and instantly the forest became alive with vivid jets of light. The negroes had begun their fusillade again, and this time they meant to kill, not to frighten. Bullets whistled past the house, imbedded themselves in the stout timbers, tore huge splinters from beams, and hurled shingles from the roof. It seemed to be a miracle that not struck instantly, but the opening volley sent the Hausas to cover beaton the verandah, where they were told to lie flat on the ground behind the protecting supports. To rely to the enemy's fire would be merely a waste of preclous ammunition, and the men carried only a small quantity in their bandollers. The time to fire was when every shot would be effective. Rarely will untrained savages press home an attack when their foremost warriors fall. The Hausas negroes themselves, had been taught this in many a bush skirmish, and they had absolute confidence in their white leaders, for, by this time, the rumor had ing was the well-known deputy commissioner of the Brass River, under whom protectorate.

A queer choking cry came from the girl's parched throat.

"Then I am not mad?" she murmured. "He is really there! And he heard what I said—when—when I offered to go to Figuero?"

"Yes, of course he heard. It seemed to me it was on your account that he made himself known to the chief. But I do not yet understand exactly what happened. I only know that when first he spoke to Colville he used Arabic."

I do not yet understand exactly what happened. I only know that when first he spoke to Colville he used Arabic."

"Yes, by Gad," put in Fairholme, finding an opening at last. "I thought he was a beastly native, an' I cut in like a bloomin' ass. Just my usual luck, Evelyn. The favorite got up in the last stride an' pipped the outsider by a short head, eh, what?"

The earl's happy-go-lucky method of expressing himself was singularly out of tune with his surroundings. Hume had closed the door, and the windows were already shuttered, so the darkness was now that of Pharaoh's Egypt when Moses stretched forth his hand towards heaven. From without came the incessant crackling of musketry, and the maniacal howless of negroes inspiring each other for the ultimate hand-to-hand fight; within, one heard the hysterical sobbing of Mrs. Hume, the mutterings of the Foulah servant, and the patter of small debris from walls and roof as the building sheet of Hume, the muttering of the Foulah servant, and the patter of small debris from walls and roof as the building shook under the sledge-hammer blows of bullets travelling at a high velocity. Luckily, as Warden pointed out, the front of the mission house faced the river, and there was no firing from that quarter as yet. The verandah was approached by a double staircase which mounted from each side and met at a small landing, whence half a dozen steps led to the level of the upper floor. As both sections of the stairs projected beyond the line of the building, their comparatively thin boards were being constantly ripped and split by the leaden missiles that hurtled in from both flanks.

It was spinning a coin with death for any one to descend either to right or left, yet that is what Evelyn did when Lord Fairholme's bizarre explanation brought her back to the world which she had already quitted in imagination.

But it was a fitting outcome of the madness that had fallen on the quiet mission station that she should be blithely heedless of the mortal peril which both she and her lover had escaped. Warden was at the door when some one sprang after him. In the growing light of the burning buildings he recognized Colville's companion in the launch. "I suppose I can count for one in the scrum, said the stranger. "Evelyn promised to be my sister, old chap, an' before we all go under I'll d—n well down a or two for the sake of the family. Can you spare a gun? I'm a good man at driven birds, an' these black jokers are several sizes bigger than blackcock—eh. what?"

CHAPTER XVI.

Fairhome was soon equipped with a rifle. He was crouching behind a wooden pillar close to Warden and Colville, when Hausa, who had incautiously exposed a Hausa, who had incautiously exposed himself, uttered a queer cough and pitched forward on his face, shot through the lungs. The earl took the man's gun and bandolier, but noticed that none of the others were firing, though a number of black forms were dimly visible through the murk created by the smoke of blazing huts.

Warden was watching him.
"You will soon get busy," he said.
"They are preparing for a rush. Pick out the leaders, the fellows wearing the gaudiest feathers, or carrying a leopard-skin slung across their shoulders."
"You"re a funny leading him a representation. "You're a funny lookin' bird yourself," chuckled Fairholme. "What price you for the Kingdom Come stakes when the niggers spot you? Every black son of of a gun will want to add you to the bag."
"That's right, Warden," put in Colville anxiously. "Chuck away that burnous, and stick on poor Toomba's cap.

A slackening in the fusillade and terrific outburst of yells showed that the enemy were breaking cover in force. It an instant the compound seemed to be come alive with armed negroes, many of whom had already discarded their mod-ern rifles for the more familiar matches sioner of the Brass River, under whom some of them had fought in the sister protectorate.

Hume, who was cool as any soldier, seized Evelyn's arm the instant that the first bullet crashed into the woodwork. Fairholme, too, who and recovered from the stuperying suddenness of what was, to him, a wholly unexpected sequel to a wearisome trip up a fever-laden river, ran forward to help, and the two men half carried the girl to the protection of the house.

But she had no thought of danger. Though it was dark inside the main living-room, she held them fast when they would have released her, and tried to read their very souls by a look.

"Did you hear?" she gasped. "That man—the Arab—who is he?. The other called him Warden. Why should he do that? Was jot not cruel of him? And why, why, did it seem to me that I heard Arthur's voice?" "Calm yourself, Miss Dane," said the missionary quietly. "Providence at the some of the through the done, brother-in-law!" he cried. "Well done, brother-in stand the summer?

That's the real test for durability

When your furnace is not in use, the cool, damp air in the cellar, coming into contact with the steel or iron dome and radiator, causes the metal to "sweat." This "sweat," or moisture, attacks the metal and quickly makes it rust. It's an actual fact that most furnaces would give TWICE as many years of service if they did not have their long summer vacations but were in use continually.

However, the Sunshine furnace is now equipped with a Nickelled Steel Dome and Radiator. Nickelled Steel is an exclusive McClary invention. It has been subjected to the most severe tests and has demonstrated it is absolutely rust-proof. It does not gather rust during the "idle" summer. The Sunshine is built to give you lasting service.

You pay no more for the durable Sunhine than for an ordinary furnace. Besides, the Sunshine is guaranteed by us. Phone or call on our agent in your locality and get further interesting information.

Indeed, exceptions to this rule are distinctly rare.

One, however, there is in a bride of this month, Miss Mildred Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ridgley Carter, who, when she first made her debute in society, was given $500 by her father on condition that she London Smart Crowd.

Rough Necks Call Johnson Names and One of Staff Retaliates.

Ogden, Utah, July 5 .- Jack Johnson was greeted by thousands of persons tonight when his train pulled into Ogden. Johnson appeared on the platform of his car in response to cheering

"Well, people, I turned the trick, and I'm going back to Chicago to my old mammy. I went out there determined to turn the trick, and I had no trouble doing it."

After shaking hands with a few friends, Johnson seated himself next to an open window beside his wife. Three young roughs walked to the open car window, and applying a vile epithet to Johnson in the presence of his wife, dared him to come to the platform. Johnson started to his feet. but one of his companions drew nim down again. The rowdies rushed to the rear platform, where one of them was met with a kick from one of Johnson's trainers, and a mouthful of tobacco juice in the eyes. Officers then forced back the crowd. The doors of the car were locked and the conductor waved the engineer

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New METHOD TREATENT for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the NEW METHOD TREATMENT for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish.

STARTS THURSDAY

First Stop at Port Arthur.

Ottawa, July 5 .- Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with Mr E M Macdonald MP and Senator William Gibson, will leave Ottawa on Thursday at noon for Port Arthur, where the first meeting of the western tour will be held on Saturday next. Hon. George P. Graham, who went to Brockville tonight, will be in Toronto on Thurslay morning, and with Mr. F. F. Pardee. M.P., will join Sir Wilfrid at North Bay on Friday. The special press car, with Maritime Provinces and New York Port Arthur. From there a special train ster of railways' special cars and the press car, will take the party to Winnipeg and through the remainder of th wo months' itinerary.

Sir Wilfrid is looking forward with great interest to the coming tour through It will be his first opportunity of seeing the greater part of the western half of the Dominion since his last west ern tour in 1892. The programme mapped out for the next sixty days means strenu ous work for the prime minister, with little opportunity for privacy or rest, but ne believes that the stimulus of the western air and the optimism and wonderful development will counterbalance the contant strain on his energies and strength For the past fourteen years he has had practically no real holiday or surcease from the cares of state. Since the last session of Parliament closed he has been almost constantly at his desk, and has taken no helidays. For the past month or so he has been also acting minister of four or five other departments of state. But notwithstanding the constant stress of his accumulated duties. Sir Wilfrid shows no signs of failing energy or health. On the western trip care will be taken to relieve him as much as possible of too insistent demands on his time, and the premier himself believes that he will return in September next in better physical condition for the work of next session, and with a better outlook on the needs of the new west, from the standpoint of the leader of the Government During his absence Sir Richard Cartwright will be acting premier. The other ministers who will remain in the capital during the greater part of July and August will be the Hon. Charles Murphy, Sir Frederick Borden, Hon. Mackenzie

DOCTORS' PRESIDENT ANSWERS CRITICS

Conterence of Trainmen and The First Gun in War Between Opposing Faction of the Medical Council.

Toronto, July 6 .- The first gun in the campaign which will be waged for the next few days between the opposing factions in the Ontario Medical Council was fired yesterday by Dr. E. A. P. Hardy, the retiring president, when he strongly criticised, without mentioning any names, the articles which have appeared from time to time in the Medical Journal. The president's address and the election of officers for the year were the two important items on the programme yesterday, and at 10 o'clock this morning as one of the doctors expressed it yesterday, "There will be doings."

The charges which have appeare in the Medical Journal were tha there had been unnecessary expenditure in connection with the Medical "Criticisms have appeared Council. from time to time in a few medical papers," said Dr. Hardy, "but so far as I can find out all the strictures passed on officials of this council by members have had one thing in common they have appeared in print a considerable time after the council had taken them into consideration had begun to draft reforms where they were needed." One request has been made to him said Dr. Hardy, for access to the books of the council, by a man not responsible and not connected with it, who wanted to "straighten things This request had been refused. Can't Be Dragooned.

"An editor of a certain paper did not see eye to eye with me," he continued, "but I am afraid that becoming an editor has had a deteriorating effect, and has made him lose his sense of proportion, and believe that the race is ever to the noisiest. Since my refusal of the editorial request the attacks have gone on merrily Most of the criticism was misleading inaccurate and full of charges of graft and utterings of threatened actions in the courts. I still refuse to be dragooned by the editor of a flamboyans journal. There the matter rests. The proper place to discuss such things is in the council meetings, and not in the public press. Dr. Hardy stated that the receipts of the council were not in accord with the expenditures. The balance present it amounts to only $41, 163 27. Some of the members jected to the figures being published before they were discussed Three Recommendations. The board of examiners, in its report, made three recommendations in connection with the intermediate examinations. Complaints Have Been Made to 194 Dundas Street (Directly Opposite the Police of London.

A great many complaints have been received from owners of automobiles lately regarding the action of boys in East, South and West London, who take great delight in hurling stones at passing cars. A number of occupants have had very close calls from being hit by stones, and several times the police have been notified. When the stones strike the autos they make dents in the painting, which it is impossible to eradicate. "We are going to keep a close watch for boys who throw stones at autos." said Sergt. Birrell to The Advertiser today, "and if they are caught they will be severely dealt with by Magistrate Love."

Many dope fiends contracted the drug habit in the cradle and lasting—one rub does the trick.

ALL DEALERS, 10c.

Certain dangerous drugs were given to them in their baby days in the form of "Soothing Syrups," "colic cures" and "infants' friends." The harmful effect of "soothers" containing opium, morphine, chloroform, chloral, etc., cannot be too strongly stated. Do not give baby a "soother" unless you positively must. Then give it and rest contented. Nyal's Soothing Syrup contains no opiates. It induces natural, healthy sleep-gives immediate relief to baby, calming the mother's tired nerves—does not put on soft, flabby flesh, making the little folks easy victims of childish diseases. We wouldn't think of recommending Nyal's Soothing Syrup if we were not certain of its beneficial effects.

Anything you with the name
