TOBACCO TRUST WILL OBEY COURT ORDER

Three Companies Are Being Formed to Take Over Business.

New York, Sept. 29.—Some of the details of the plan of disintegration of the American Tobacco Company by which the American Tobacco Company will obey the mandate of the supreme court were learned today.

There will be three companies, probably known as the American Tobacco Company, the Continental Tobacco Company, and the American Tobacco Company, which will operate separately and distinctly from each other.

The plan named was one of the chief constituents of the American Tobacco Company. Prior to the consolidation of the American Tobacco Company and the Consolidated Tobacco Company as the present American Tobacco Company, the Continental Tobacco Company was owned by the Consolidated.

Each of the new companies will issue bonds, preferred stock and common stock to be exchanged for the securities of the present American Tobacco Company. As to the treatment of the securities of the present American Tobacco Company, it is understood that it will be as follows:

American Tobacco preferred shares will receive in exchange par in equal proportions of the preferred stock of the three segregated companies. The new preferred stock will bear 6 1/2 per cent. dividends, as against 6 per cent. paid on the present preferred stock.

American Tobacco 4 per cent. bonds will receive in exchange $450 in cash per $1,000 bond and 50 per cent. of their par value in equal proportions of new 5 per cent. bonds to be issued by the three segregated companies.

American Tobacco 6 per cent. bonds will receive cash and bonds of the new companies in proportions which cannot be given at this time.

American Tobacco common stock, now selling at $400 per share on the New York Curb, will receive in exchange par in equal proportion of the common stock of the segregated companies.

Next, fifteen lower for appeal the lists be in poses.

their case before the Canadian Railway Commission.

Mr. R. H. Day, manager of transportation of the Detroit Board of Commerce, was most courteous and untiring in his help in supplying data gathered on this demurrage question.

The demurrage problem to the retail coal merchants is a serious matter, as is one of the items of expense in the cost of handling coal which is hard to regulate.

The railroad companies, under the existing law, have the matter entirely in their own hands, and often the cause for coal not being unloaded in the free time is the fault of the railroad in many different ways, and it is impossible to secure what the coal men consider fair treatment, with the result that the cost of handling coal is soaring, and the retail coal merchant is blamed for the higher price of the goods they have to merchandise.

STRATHCONA AT MONTREAL Says It Will Be No Difficult Matter to Secure His Successor.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—Interviewed this evening, Lord Strathcona, who arrived this morning, refused to discuss Canadian or imperial politics. He took an optimistic view of the European situation, expressing the opinion that the Turkish war would not be of long duration, and that other powers would not be embroiled. The Moroccan situation seems, he considers, to be settling itself satisfactorily.

The high commissioner said that he thought it would be no very difficult matter to secure a successor to occupy his office, saying that Canada seemed to have many able men.

Questioned as to the rumored scare in Scotland over the enormous emigration of young men to Canada, his lordship said that he did not think the immigration would hurt the Empire. Canada needed much British blood in the Northwest, so that that part of the Empire might develop into a great and loyal portion of the Empire.

Canada's destiny, he considers, is always to remain an integral part of the "greatest empire the world has ever seen."

The order was peremptory, and in view of that fact it was decided to rent a house for Governor Carter. The matter of a new residence will be taken up when the new council is elected.

"We can do nothing more than secure temporary quarters," said Ald. Eckert. "Dr. Smith makes it imperative that we do something at once. If we have a chance to build a new house we might do so. Now we can do nothing of that sort."

Some discussion followed as to the proportionate amount to be borne by each municipality, and it was decided that the cost should be equally divided.

He was surveyor-general of ordnance from 1906 to 1908, governor-general of Bombay, and governor-general of Australia from 1908 to 1910. He married the adopted daughter of Lord Mount Stephen.

Demand the Facts on the Piano Question Impressions Are Costly

Many people are often fooled by claims when they should insist on facts. Especially is this true in buying a Piano.

Let there be concrete evidence before you accept the claims as true. In the matter of prices, be sure that the price quoted you is not higher than someone else would pay for the same piano. Piano buying is too important, too serious a matter to be placed on mere mental impression.

We give you facts—we say our prices are the lowest, and we prove it; we declare that we have the greatest variety of best pianos, and we prove that, too; we insist that our

One Price, No Commission System Means the most economy and satisfaction—and that's the simplest question of them all for us to prove.

No matter where you buy your Piano, get the truth first. You are entitled to the facts and the truth. In buying from Mason & Risch, Limited, you know there is no guess work, you know there is only ONE PRICE quoted, and that the lowest; everybody gets it.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF BELTON COUPLE

Big Celebration Held at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paterson.

Belton, Sept. 29.—On Wednesday, Sept. 29, more than sixty of the relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paterson, of Belton, West Nisour, gathered at their home to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. The day was ideal and the afternoon was most pleasantly in renewing old acquaintanceship.

Supper was served at 5 o'clock in a large marquee on the lawn, and the service was done by all to a splendidly served repast. After supper the gathering was called to order by Rev. A. E. Hannahan, B.A., of Nisour, who congratulated the bride and groom on the success of the gathering, and conveying the warmest wishes for their future welfare, and wishing them many returns of the anniversary of their wedding day. All spoke in the highest terms of the kind qualities of Mr. and Mrs. Paterson as friends and neighbors through a test of half a century.

Pioneer Days.
Many most interesting reminiscences of pioneer life were related, and compared with modern life on the farm, nothing could more fully illustrate the great heroism and fortitude of our forefathers. Mr. and Mrs. Paterson have resided continuously where they now live since their marriage in 1861, and were among the first settlers in that district. They were blessed with a large family, six sons and four daughters, all of whom are living, and nearly all privileged to be present at the golden wedding of their parents. Thirteen grandchildren also were present. A telegram from absent members of the family in Vancouver, B. C., was read during the evening, which conveyed congratulations to the bride and groom. The guests were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Paterson, and the evening was a most successful one.

London Groomsmen.
An annual feature of golden weddings was the presence of the best man and best girl of 50 years ago, in the persons of Mr. John Dodds, of London, and Mrs. Thomas Hogg, of Thamesford, along with eight others who witnessed the original ceremony. Mr. Paterson responded at considerable length to all the expressions of good-will which had been conveyed to Mrs. Paterson and himself, assuring all present of the appreciation of the warm friendships of half a century and of the presence of so many old friends and neighbors at this time. Some of the guests favored the audience with some good music and songs, and a most delightful afternoon and evening was brought to a close by singing the Doxology.

COMMISSION OBJECTS TO DIRECT CURRENT

St. Thomas Given Until Nov. 1 to Make Necessary Changes.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Thomas, Sept. 29.—The hydro commission has refused to rectify the rates that the city is now charging to users of direct current, and has called upon the city to discontinue the use of the direct current and later than Nov. 1. The council decided originally to end this service on July 1st, but the customers, who number about 30, objected on the ground their meters would be practically rendered useless, so the council extended the time to the 1st of November.

The objection to the direct current is that about 60 per cent is lost in transforming so that the users pay for the 40 per cent of the power that the city receives from the commission. No. 5 committee will likely take up the question with the power users at an early date. Chairman Price is corresponding with a firm who may be willing to handle the direct current, but allowing them to purchase alternating current motors.

The Grosbeak authorities took charge of the case.

BARN COLLAPSED

Big Tobacco Building Near Bleinheim Is a Complete Wreck.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Blenheim, Sept. 29.—A big new tobacco barn, which was in the process of construction, and which was complete, except for the closing in of the ends and shingling, collapsed today. A large crop of tobacco was stored in the building. It is thought that the collapse was due to the wind causing the building to sway. A number of workmen had been inside the barn only a short time before.

REORGANIZATION OF GRAND TRUNK

Many Changes in Official Positions Announced.

FITZHUGH FOR THE C. V.
Hereafter There Will Be No Distinction Between Vice-Presidents.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—Announcement was yesterday made of the most complete reorganization of the executive domestic economy of the Grand Trunk Railway since Mr. C. M. Hays took charge of the road in 1895. Not only have the old offices of vice-presidents been altered, so that there are no longer first, second or third vice-presidents, each in charge of a particular department, but the whole economy of the railroad has been so changed as to enthrone the president, and thus take a good deal of the burden off the shoulders of Mr. Hays. This is following the lines of the New York Central and Great Northern, and the other big railways. Incidentally the officials on the Grand Trunk Pacific are also changed about, but not to the same extent as on the Grand Trunk. In all, nine of the principal officials are affected by the reorganization, and it is particularly marked in the case of the seven other English or Canadian born. Only one new man is introduced, Mr. H. R. Safford, who will come to the Grand Trunk from Chicago.

The New List.
According to the reorganization, the new official list will be as follows: Mr. E. H. Fitzhugh, formerly vice-president of the Grand Trunk, becomes president of the Central Vermont Transportation Company, Southern New England Railway Corporation, Southern New England Railway Company, and Montreal and Southern Counties Railway. He therefore relinquishes his former duties as vice-president of the Grand Trunk. Story is Denied.

The Advertiser received a special dispatch from Duluth, Minnesota, last night stating that no person by the name of Frank Gruber had been killed in that city. Relatives in this city have heard nothing of the matter.

Meredith (London), for the plaintiff, a divisional court of 5th January, 1911, dismissing an appeal from an order of Middleton, J., of 20th October, 1910, refusing to grant a bill of sale for a car, a continuation session in the Township of West Nissouri. The Passion Play.

The London Probel Society is fortunate in having secured Miss Ella F. Lewis to give her illustrated travel talk on the Passion Play, Miss Lewis, who witnessed this great event in Bavaria last year, is a most interesting speaker, and thoroughly knows the play, and is very official. No moving pictures have ever been taken of the Oberammergau Passion Play. Those which have been shown are French-made, without one Oberammergau actor taking part. Miss Lewis will make her first appearance in London on Oct. 20.

New Timetable.

The new Grand Trunk time table will go into effect on Saturday at midnight. There is little or no change in the time table on this division, and with the exception of No. 4, all the trains will run into and out of the city as formerly. Train No. 4, the through express from Chicago to New York, will be changed so that it will arrive in London at 3:43 a.m. and leave at 3:48 a.m. By the old arrangement No. 4 arrived in London at 4:23 a.m. and left here at 4:28 a.m., thus it will now run 40 minutes earlier than before.

A Sudden Death.

Death came very suddenly Friday morning to Mrs. Chas. A. Wagner, at the residence of her niece, Mrs. H. O. Dewar, 9 Argyle street, West London. The deceased was in her 83rd year, but had been apparently in good health up to the time of her death. She arose yesterday morning without feeling ill and was dressing herself when heart failure suddenly seized her, and she fell dead on the bed. Mrs. Dewar discovered her a few minutes later, and hastily called a physician, but life was extinct. The late Mrs. Wagner is survived by one sister, Mrs. John Going, of Port Stanley. She had resided in West London with her niece since the death of her husband, the late Charles A. Wagner, in 1904. The funeral will be held from her late residence, 9 Argyle street, West London, on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. at the house. It will be conducted by Rev. G. B. Sage, Interment at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

RIDING 10,000 MILES FOR $1,000 WAGER

Couple at Woodstock Tell a Good Story, and Are Coming to London.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review says:

Woodstock is being visited today by a couple of interesting itinerant bicyclists in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Miller, of Toronto, who, to win a wager of $1,000, are making a 10,000-mile tour, which, according to the terms of the wager, is to be completed within a year.

The subject of the wager is to make the trip without funds other than those secured from the sale of their photographs, a supply of which they are taking with them. Mr. and Mrs. Miller started from Toronto on the 3rd of June, and so far have completed 4,145 miles, or considerably over a third of the time allotted. They have visited Montreal, Quebec, New Brunswick, all the New England States, Washington, Buffalo, with intervening cities. From here they mean to go to Detroit, and thence on down through the States as far as Memphis, Tenn., returning through North and South Carolina. Mr. Miller told the Sentinel-Review that although they had had some hair-raising adventures, having been held up and robbed four times, nevertheless their treatment en route had not been of the best, and in fact had not been for the hospitality extended to them they should have had to relinquish the trip. They have with them a book in which is inscribed the names of the mayors and leading officials of the towns through which they have passed and proudly exhibit the names of many prominent officials in both Canada and the United States. They also have with them a letter signed by Mr. F. S. Spence, who was acting mayor of Toronto at the time of the commencement of their tour, vouching for them and bespeaking the kindness and courtesy of those with whom they come in contact. Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller are in excellent health, and Mrs. Miller, having gained six pounds in the course of her travels, and both are looking forward eagerly to their experience in the south.

The couple are coming to London.

Board of Education Asks Council to Issue Debentures.

The finance committee of the city council could not get a quorum yesterday afternoon, Ald. Eckert and Ald. Bennett being the only two members present.

Although it was only a minority meeting, some little business was transacted. A communication was received from City Solicitor Meredith to the effect that E. Leonard & Sons had complied with the agreement made with the city in reference to utilizing a portion of York street for their business. The committee filed the letter, and they decided to still further continue their investigations into the rights of the company.

A communication was received from the board of education, asking the council to issue debentures to the amount of $25,000 for the purchase of additional land for Victoria school. Ald. Eckert could see no objection to the proposal, and it was decided to prepare the necessary bylaw for Monday night.

The usual number of accounts were passed.

An Important Session of East Lambton Teachers Closes at Petrolia.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Petrolia, Sept. 29.—The East Lambton Teachers' Association closed here today, after one of the most important sessions in its history. The officers for the coming year are: Hon. President, N. McDougall, I. P. S.; hon. vice-presidents, Wm. Clyde, M. A., and L. J. Williams, B. A.; president, Richard Blake, O. U. Springs; vice-president, Miss Carruthers; secretary-treasurer, R. J. Campbell; executive committee, the officers are: W. H. Shrapnell, Miss May Smith, P. K. Smith, Miss Lett.

A Great County.

Echoes of the Ontario Educational Association class work were discussed at some length at the afternoon session, and the meeting closed with a paper by Mr. S. E. Todd, district representative for Lambton County of the Department of Agriculture, on the geographic, geologic, and climatic conditions in the county. Lambton, he showed, is favorably situated as the Niagara fruit district, and while Niagara averages a growing period of 202 days per annum, Lambton averages 214 days.

About four years ago the department began to study this district, and found that there are quite as good as that of the Niagara fruit district, and while Niagara averages a growing period of 202 days per annum, Lambton averages 214 days.

Anywhere from $50 to $500 per acre.

The need is for more money to be spent in rural education. There are 600,000 acres of land in Lambton, every acre of which is capable of development. One per cent has as yet been fully developed. There are five industries that will give the same returns for the money and brains invested as the farm, and he urged on the teachers to lend their aid in directing the energies of the rising generation toward the farm.

A notable feature of the meeting was the small percentage of male teachers, the proportion being about eight to one.

Interesting Papers.

Mr. Robertson, of the Stratford Normal School, was to have been the Government representative but was unable to attend, and Mr. Emery of the same school, attended and gave three addresses dealing with the advantages and methods of conducting nature study, and geography.

The vice-president's address dealt with the high ideals that should be kept before the mind of the teacher. On the subject of study and time-table were discussed at some length.

In the absence of Mr. Clyde, Inspector McDougall dealt with the subject of the nature and morals of pupils. Consideration for others was dwelt on as the keynote underlying good manners.

Miss Carruthers and Mr. Smith showed what teachers could do to improve the appearance of the school. The nature and morals of pupils. Consideration for others was dwelt on as the keynote underlying good manners.

MORE LAND FOR VICTORIA SCHOOL

Board of Education Asks Council to Issue Debentures.

The finance committee of the city council could not get a quorum yesterday afternoon, Ald. Eckert and Ald. Bennett being the only two members present.

Although it was only a minority meeting, some little business was transacted. A communication was received from City Solicitor Meredith to the effect that E. Leonard & Sons had complied with the agreement made with the city in reference to utilizing a portion of York street for their business. The committee filed the letter, and they decided to still further continue their investigations into the rights of the company.

A communication was received from the board of education, asking the council to issue debentures to the amount of $25,000 for the purchase of additional land for Victoria school. Ald. Eckert could see no objection to the proposal, and it was decided to prepare the necessary bylaw for Monday night.

The usual number of accounts were passed.

RAIN INTERFERED WITH PARKHILL FAIR

Exhibition, However, Was One of the Very Best Ever Held There.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Parkhill, Sept. 29.—Parkhill Fair was among the fall shows which suffered greatly on account of the unfavorable weather of yesterday. The gate receipts were approximately one-half those of previous years. On the other hand, the exhibits were even better than in the past, and in many classes the entries were larger in number. In live stock the fine showing of cattle was probably the best feature of the show, and the exhibits of horses, sheep and swine, while being to some extent affected by the threatening weather, were not far below the mark of other years.

The poultry exhibit was one of the best departments of the fair, and a great number of thoroughbred fowls were shown that would have done credit to a much larger fair. This exhibit was exceptionally large this year. The ladies' work exhibit was excellent, and in art and fancy work the competition was strong, and showing very satisfactory. Dairy produce and honey were quite up to the high standard always set by Parkhill Fair.

The programme of special attractions was largely interfered with by the weather, and the races had to be called off. Abundance of good music was provided, however, by the Parkhill Brass Band, and served to drown out the incessant monotone of the falling rain.

On the whole, the exhibits exceeded in quality and number those of last year, and only the weather man prevented Parkhill from having one of the best fairs in her history. The concert in the evening was well attended, and an excellent programme was rendered.

Over $275,000,000 Invested in Hotels in New York City

America has taught the world the science of hotel keeping, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. This is an accepted fact which is universally recognized. It is a statement containing no boast or vaunting. In an influencing way the example set on this side of the water is having its effect on the other side, to the comfort and pleasure of travellers abroad.

All this is rather enigmatical at first when it is considered that the hotels today are equipped with foreign servants, for the most part. What is really meant in placing American hotels ahead of those of any other country is that this country has shown the world how to properly house and care for hotel guests. In the structure, the adaptation for the purposes of a hotel, appointments, luxury of furnishing, decorative beauty, comfort, and every want of guests, sanitation and safety, American hotels are a revelation in perfection. The foreign idea became early to be set as far as housing is concerned it was only necessary to provide dining rooms, sleeping chambers, exits and entrances.

New York, the New World's metropolis, stands foremost in hotelkeeping. A hotel in this city is a city in itself. Under the same roof a guest can have every conceivable wish administered to and purchase everything wanted on tour.

The old world, however, taught the new country much in culinary and serving matters. This is the reason that one still sees so many in the kitchen and serving its creations who are of foreign extraction. Then, too, in the serving department our foremost hotels must have those who can speak nearly every living language.

A modern New York hotel has even its own silversmiths. If a little imperfection caused by service appears, instant it goes to the silversmith and emerges in just the same condition as it came from the shop. In the establishment the furniture is gone over, carpenter and machine shops are maintained, and all about are employed electricians, painters, and things is at first hand and reflects correctly the mode of the day. It is not the hotels alone that enjoy not only a permanent patronage but also a transient business as well. The restaurants of the city feed the city at night for homes elsewhere. Perhaps the famous cafes of the city have as much as anything to do in making New York the Mecca of the western world. Of the great splendour coupled with this is something new something is always being attempted to excite the fancy. They give origin to the "White Way," which suggests the brilliant, scintillating sparkle, and cheer. This is not a time for enjoyment of some edible especially irresistible, no matter how obscure, but rather atmosphere is sought. To have a good time, to see things and be seen largely control the choice.

A movement seems to be afoot to increase the importance of New York as a port of entry. If the freight discrimination against New York in favour of other cities to deflect business from this port is withdrawn by the Interstate Commerce Commission, as is expected, it will mean a great increase of that kind of traffic for the metropolitan district. Indeed plans are in their inception to at least five times a big way that will all tend to generate a larger volume of business here. This would mean a boon to the city hotels and restaurants.

It would be interesting to know the predictions of practical hotel men as to the future New York hotel-keeping. In the past century have been personal observations as to the hotel district, so to speak. Certain it is in localities, at least, even more changes. History of New York hotels takes one back to the Stadt Harbor, or City, which afterward became the Stadt House, or City Hall; its first one. It was built by the Dutch West India Company in 1612 and was located at Cortes Slip, East River, where Nos. 7 and 72 Pearl street now are. Then came the Province Arms, built by Edward Ward, in 1714, on the corner of the De La Haye. It afterward was known as the City Hotel, and today is the United States Realty Building.

Then Robert Todd opened the Black Horse Tavern on William street, between Pine and Cedar. In 1712 Cedar street was built, and the old Boston Road intersected Fifty-first street. But these have but a traditional interest.

In the fifteenth and broader aspect of life—they show the big tendencies of the world in their multifarious narratives and printing. But the real application must be brought home to the individual, and the lesson is that more criticism is not refuted in modern literature.

Now this means a really true gain. Criticism is an ingraining habit that now reaches fault-finding, and usually in criticism. And the habitual critic is one to be shunned, if you desire to preserve your peace of mind and your kind thoughts of your fellow-men.

Of course, we should always have the gossip-mongers. They are as inevitable as the measles and are not to be broken out of. They are children of disease, and the gossip-mongers are very bad children who grow old without growing up. But the all-time critics defeat themselves by overdoing. They do enough harm, it is true, but there is always a limit to their influence. On the other hand, the critic is a skilful executioner. "Clever criticism is barbed, and it leaves deep wounds; it raises ridicule; it is remembered and repeated."

So, in the new order of society, it is a happy riddance that drives the critic from his vantage and lets him know that in the world today is a kinder feeling, and that the man or woman who gives needless pain has a mean spirit, however brilliant may be the mind or polished the diction.

DAY OF THE CRITIC IS ON THE DECLINE

Literature—A Sign of Two-Thirds
Criticism—A Sign of Less Fault-Finding.

One of the strange signs of the times is the gradual disappearance of the critic. Once literature was two-thirds criticism, but today there are not a dozen good professional critics in the world, and the reviews of books have become either mere notices or expert reports of their contents. In newspaper and magazine offices the critic has lost his prestige, and in the drama criticism is seldom a criterion of the value of the production, says the Baltimore Star.

Our newspapers and our literature, present the larger and broader aspect of life—they show the big tendencies of the world in their multifarious narratives and printing. But the real application must be brought home to the individual, and the lesson is that more criticism is not refuted in modern literature.

Now this means a really true gain. Criticism is an ingraining habit that now reaches fault-finding, and usually in criticism. And the habitual critic is one to be shunned, if you desire to preserve your peace of mind and your kind thoughts of your fellow-men.

Of course, we should always have the gossip-mongers. They are as inevitable as the measles and are not to be broken out of. English Girl's Feats in Telepathy Cause Wonder

Professors Witness Card Game
Which She Plays While Deprived of Her Sight.

SOME interesting records of puzzling achievements in telepathy are contained in the private papers of a London Daily News representative who was permitted to see the late Mr. Edward Ward, one of the founders of the Manchester Microscopical Society.

Mr. Ward was a scientific man, and when an acquaintance, Mr. Bibby, spoke of the apparently wonderful powers possessed by his daughter Lillian, Mr. Ward expressed a willingness to see these powers tested.

Lillian Bibby was then eleven years of age. She stayed for some days at Mr. Ward's house, 219 Oxford road, Manchester, and one or two professors from the university and other men of science were occasionally present at the tests.

In the cases given the girl was blindfolded by the application to her eyes of two small linen bags filled with damp tea leaves, supported by a hand round her forehead. Over these a folded cloth or handkerchief was tied round her head, rendering her, beyond doubt, completely dark.

Mr. Ward's son stated that when playing cards Lillian, in addition to being blindfolded, often played the cards face downwards.

Results of Tests.

The following are extracts from Mr. Ward's diary:

"On the evening of the next day a semi-private exhibition took place in my drawing room, before a party of about thirty, comprising friends and some few members of the Microscopical Society and other scientific societies. Lillian had during the day been exceedingly happy and playful, and being herself fond of cards her father decided that the evening should be commenced by a game at which the other players being Mr. Hope, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Wilson, and Lillian was longer than usual in playing, took the cards from her hands and found that she had no cards of the suit asked for, and the play was such that an inexperienced player with normal sight would find it rather difficult to decide what to do."

"No hint, however, was given to her, and when she again received the cards she played what was considered the best game. A little later one of the players won a trick by trumping it, when Lillian at once laughingly said, 'He has trumped it.' The hand proceeded and it was found at the conclusion that the whole of her thirteen cards had been played without error."

The Letter Test.

Several instances of experiments with letters are given. A board with two letters, A and B, was placed in front of her, and she was told that the letter would be on the line of sight, would be placed on an stool on the table, and a member of the party would place letters on the topmost stool. The diary relates that:

"When the child had been taken out of the room for blindfolding, Professor Hutton Stuart selected the letters and arranged the word 'Lillian' on the top ledge of the stool, and the word 'Lillian' was placed before the card, Lillian quickly picked up the required letters and placed them in fairly good order upon the card, afterwards arranging them until they were an exact copy, and immediately under the word above."

Just as she had completed the word Professor Stuart substituted silently a 'y' for the 'i' converting the word 'Lillian' into 'Lillian', and as soon as it was pointed out to her that her word was not the same as they copy she took down the 'i' and then commenced searching in her way for a 'y'. At last she discovered one, and under some other letters, and snatching it up, she placed it at the end of the word, 'Lillian', and the word, 'Lillian', the success of the experiment eliciting great applause.

The Test of the Pin.

"A pin was silently placed in the bosom of Mrs. Hope's dress, and Lillian was now asked to find this pin. In all facts of finding an article the spectators are asked to look at it and think of it. Lillian now began to move slowly round the room until she nearly reached the spot where Mrs. Hope was standing, but a few feet from this spot Miss Watson was sitting, and it was noticed that the child gradually moved quite close to Miss Watson, and began to lift up her hand as though she would grasp the pin."

"It was now noted that Miss Watson was wearing a large-headed pin close to her collar. Miss Watson was silently motioned to remove this, which she did, and Lillian was informed that the pin she was to find was a plain one. She now moved to her former position until she was close to Mrs. Hope. In a few moments she reached out her hand and instantly grasped the head of the pin, and so completed this series of experiments."

SOME CURIOUS DRINKS

Pick-Me-Ups Indulged in by Workmen of Certain Trades.

SOME men boast of knowing the taste of every drink except water. They do not. One tipple they have never sampled is "acorn cup," or "acorn drink," the stuff in which hides are tanned into leather. Made from oak bark and acorns and acorn cups, it has a sharp, bitter taste that is anything but agreeable to the ordinary palate; but the men engaged in some tanneries habitually drink it in small quantities—a wine of the modern case of a healthy insured broker who on a fabled hunting trip stood bareheaded in a quagmire for hours and actually contracted a fatal pneumonia is matched in cleverness by one 600 years old.

The following facts are well vouched for, and indeed were never questioned, says the Green Bag. Sir William Hankford, a judge of the King's bench in the reigns of Edward III, Henry IV, Henry V, and Henry VI, and at the time of his death chief justice of England, was a man of melancholy temperament.

He seems to have contemplated suicide the greater part of his long life and during his later years the idea became a fixed purpose. The act was of peculiarly serious consequence in those days for the reason that the law treated it as a capital crime. The offender was buried at the cross roads, with a stake driven through his body, and all his goods and property were forfeited to the crown, to the utter ruin of his family.

Hankford made good use of his wits and succeeded in accomplishing his purpose without incurring either unpleasant penalty. He gave open instructions to his groom, who had been trained with poachers in the deer preserve, to challenge all trespassers in the future and to shoot to kill if they would not stand and give an account.

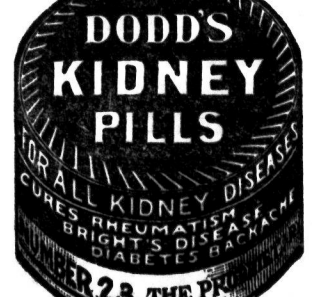

One dark night he purposely crossed the keeper's path and upon challenge made motions of resistance and escape. The faithful servant, failing to recognize his master, followed instructions to the letter, as was expected of him, and Sir William fell dead in his tracks. The whole truth

DIDDIKIES.

[Correspondence in the Spectator.]

"Diddie" is a Hampshire dialect word and means a creak, a gypsy kettie.

"Diddie" is a Roman word, and has a rather interesting derivation. It has been formed quite recently by the genuine English gypsy, who uses it to describe the half-bled traveller of the roads. The proper Roman word for a creak is "diddie," "diddie" being a pure-blooded gypsy

RICHARDS' PURE SOAP

IT'S THE BEST

Once you have used
PURITY FLOUR
you will readily pay the little more it may cost.

Until you have actually tried PURITY FLOUR you may demur at the trifle more it costs you than lower grade flours cost—but your first sack will show you why that seemingly higher price is a real economy for you

PURITY FLOUR

That trial sack (which you ought to order this very day) will teach you what Purity Flour is worth to you, as contrasted with an ordinary flour.

PURITY FLOUR is milled from only the kernels of the choicest Manitoba hard wheat—the world's wheat standard.

From the 84 grain elevators which we own and operate, we select the finest wheat of the year's crop. This, at our mills, is so treated that only the most richly-nourishing part of the wheat berry gets into a PURITY sack or a PURITY barrel.

The result is a flour so strong that it produces more bread for the quantity used than ordinary flour.

But bulk of product is not all you are to expect of PURITY FLOUR. You are to expect lighter, snowier bread; bread that has the nutlike, sweet, wholesome taste every housewife tries to put into the bread she bakes.

PURITY FLOUR, moreover, is not merely a bread flour. It is an every-purpose flour. It makes the kind of pastry you can be proud of—cake that invites praise—biscuits that suggest an encore.

Not only is PURITY the flour for economy's sake, you see, but the flour for quality baking. Thus, the few extra cents which it may cost you actually insures you against baking disappointments. PURITY FLOUR is the flour you will never be without, once you fully test its unusual merits.

Begin with a small trial sack, if you are dubious. Your grocer can supply you.

HIGH PLACE AND POWER
HELD BY MEN OF IRISH RACE

It is remarkable to what extent Irishmen hold high place and power in British public life today.

The begin with the army: There could hardly be found in the last 25 years a more brilliant trio than was formed by the late Sir William Buller, the man who could have saved the action from the Boer war had his voice of warning been listened to; Lord Roberts of Kandahar, and Kitchener of Khartoum—a man of steel, and the English Bismarck. Yet each of them inherited Irish blood in his veins, says a writer in the Springfield Republican. Sir William was the very embodiment of the Irish soldier. He was born and bred in Ireland, educated, like Redmond, by the Irish Jesuits of Kildare, and all his writings throughout his life breathed the "Irish spirit." Lord Roberts, who was "Who is little, but who's wise, and who's a terror for his size," as Kipling puts it—is also of Irish extraction, though to the man in the streets "Bobs" is synonymous with the British army, and many remember well how, during the black week of the South African war, the press kept the heart of the nation alive proclaiming, almost like a battle cry of reassurance, "Wait till 'Bobs' goes out." Yet he is Irish, while Kitchener it would be useless to argue in favor of a genius recognized by all Europe.

Then take the navy: Who so typical of the breezy popular English far as Lord Charles Bessborough? Yet what family has taken a greater part in Irish history than that from which, as second son of the fourth Marquis of Waterford, he takes his name? Entering as a cadet in 1859 and only retiring in 1909, when rear-admiral of the fleet, he has seen active service at the bombardment of Alexandria and in Egypt, while as an author ("The Break-up of China") and as a member of parliament, he has always been the foremost advocate of a strong and effective navy. In the sphere of law it would be hard to single out among the hosts of brilliant Irishmen one who can claim to be more efficient than the rest, but men like Sir Edward Carson and Giff, two of the leading English ("K. C.'s") may be mentioned, while as an author ("The Break-up of China") and as a member of parliament, he has always been the foremost advocate of a strong and effective navy.

SCHOOL LESSON

The Prophet Ezekiel a Watchman.
Ezek. iii.

Golden Text—Hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me. Ezek. iii. 17.

1. Verses 1-2—What is it that is to the soul like food is to the body.

2. Do men ever get in these special messages from God as Ezekiel did? If so, specify.

3. What is the immediate effect upon us of new knowledge as Ezekiel's?

4. Verses 4-7—Which are most susceptible to the claims of the gospel, a people who have rarely heard it, or those who are constantly hearing it? Give your reasons.

5. What is the effect of preaching the gospel upon those who reject it?

6. Verses 8-11—Is it always true that we have sufficient strength to do the work to which God appoints us? Give your reasons.

7. Does God know in advance, "whether they will hear or whether they will forbear," when he sends a message to a people? Why or why not?

8. If our hearts fall us in the difficulties of our God-appointed work, how much are we to be blamed?

9. Verses 12-14—When we are "bitter," or angry, or even sorry to carry out the work to which we are appointed, what attitude does God likely take to us?

10. May we make every work, no matter how hard or disagreeable, joy, or does God know and expect that we shall sometimes be sad?

11. When we are appointed by God to do a thing, should we sit around and wait for special inspiration, or start right at the work, and expect all essential help?

12. Verses 15-17—How can we justify God in making the salvation of a sinner depend upon the warning of a man?

13. What is the guilt, and what will be the punishment of a man whose failure to warn, is the means of a sinner dying in his sins?

14. If a Christian refuses, or neglects, to give to his utmost ability, to the missionary cause, will he be adjudged guilty before God for those who could have been converted through the influence of the money he might have given?

15. Verses 20-21—To what extent are we guilty for the backslidden state of so many members of the church?

16. How is it that some who were really earnest Christians, lapse into a sinful life?

17. Verses 22-27—Which person gets more revelations from God, the one that gives himself up to contemplation chiefly, or the one who is in the thick of the fight for God?

Lesson for Sunday, Oct. 8, 1911.

"I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for I have used it with perfect success," writes Mrs. M. L. Bancroft, Postville, Md. For sale by all dealers.

more known and respected in foreign universities than that of Sir William Thompson, the late Lord Kelvin. Yet he was an Irishman from Belfast, and during the whole of his life devoted a great part of his interests to the furthering of Irish education. Going on to the application of science to invention, Castlebar, in Ireland, can boast of her Louis Brennan, the originator of the celebrated torpedo, superintendent of a government factory, called after him, and the producer of the first of the modern torpedo boats.

Then there is Marconi, son of an Irish mother and married to an Irish wife.

The impractical Irishman is almost as much of a popular superstition as the incapable Irishman; yet here again we are met by the flat contradiction of fact. When that universal squire, the "man in the street," wants to speak of a great piece of common sense, he speaks of "a bit of Irish."

In the departments of literature, the names occur in their thousands; take them at random: Frankfort Moore, the novelist; "McCarthy," the poet; "McCarthy," the dramatist; and "McCarthy," the playwright and novelist as well.

De Vere Stacpoole, Bram Stoker, L. T. Meade, George Moore, and others.

But if it can be said of one man more than another that he, more than any of his contemporaries, has put the Irish race in the front of the English public and given their tastes the impress of his own, that man is Sir Arthur Conan Doyle—again an Irishman. As to the press—you will hear more of the brogue in Fleet street than in any other street in the empire, and there is no living journalist who is more typical of newspapers than "T. P." As the whip of the Irish party, P. O'Brien, member for Kerry, put it the other day, there is hardly a single journalist who ever chewed the end of a penholder who has not at one time or other looked forward to an introduction to "T. P."

P. O'Connor is, in fact, the Boswell of his times; society could not do without him; and as Punch says, "It is not a question of what 'T. P.' would do without the Lords, as what the Lords would do without 'T. P.'"

In music few men have so caught the popular ear as Sir Arthur Sullivan, the collaborator of Gilbert in those wonderful operas, which have put the name of Sullivan into the English-speaking world. He retained all the musical and amusing traditions of his race, and some of the somber melancholy as well, as his wonderful rendering of Adelaide Proctor's poem, "The Lost Chord," testifies.

Among living musicians, Sir Arthur Stanford is one of the most brilliant—another Irishman, and one whose first production was played, it is said, in the hall of the home of 1861, when he was hardly 12.

Many other instances could be cited in politics, art and music, where the Irish claim pre-eminence. To such an extent is this so in British public life that the writer pertinently asks, "Do the Irish rule the English?"

Canada in the Van.

There is abundant evidence that the movement has taken a firm hold in Canada. While the Maritime Provinces claim the honor of having been the pioneers in industrial education, the movement is well under way in Ontario. Hamilton has a technical school which would do credit to a much larger city. Toronto has under construction a technical school which will have few equals on the continent.

In Ontario a school which, though not industrial, has a definite vocational motive, was opened in September of this year, and is already overcrowded. The appointment of an educationalist of the energy and executive capacity of Dr. Merchant to be the director of industrial education for the province, is a progressive policy along vocational education lines. The west is also alive to the importance of the movement. Two large industrial schools are in course of construction in Winnipeg, and there are at present several educationalists from the western provinces attending Columbia University, who upon their return will suggest the best steps to be taken to vocationalize the school systems of the prairie provinces.

There is no simple solution of the industrial educational problem which can be said to meet all the varying local requirements. It is also true that the vocational system is a process, and that it is a process which is in progress on our educational system that it has ceased to impress pupils and parents, do not recognize that the demand for the change arises out of social and economic conditions, that did not obtain a decade ago. But the issue is now so clearly defined, and the need so pressing and imperative, that what will excuse us today will not excuse the next generation. The time has now arrived when no progressive industrial center can long afford to be without special or general industrial and trade schools, and when agricultural schools and colleges shall be so numerous that they will reach not the few, but all those who are to become tillers of the soil.

CRYING NEED IN ONTARIO

task of solving this great educational and economic problem. Many and varied are the solutions that have been offered, ranging from the introduction of manual training into the primary schools on the one hand, to the most specialized technical schools on the other.

Industrial, manual training, and agricultural high schools and high school departments, have been introduced. General and special industrial and trade schools of many types have met with great success. Almost every community presents special problems requiring specific treatment. But the almost universal result has been that wherever a change has been introduced tending to vocationalize the school systems it has met with a hearty response and has been found to meet a real want which hitherto was met in no other way.

It was specially gratifying to a Canadian to find that the work of Dr. John Sedth, superintendent of education of Ontario, has been so well known and highly esteemed in the United States. Not only was his valuable report on industrial education to be read at the annual meeting of the National Association of Industrial Arts in Columbia University, a department, which, with the possible exception of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, is perhaps the most powerful agent in directing the course of industrial education in the United States.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

The Advertiser much regrets that the design of a well-known Canadian publishing house to establish a Shakespearean Century Club has not met with the success it deserved. This will be a disappointment to Advertiser readers who entered the Shakespeare contest, but the Advertiser itself is even more keenly disappointed than the contestants.

Nearly two years ago the firm of publishers mentioned conceived the idea of preparing a series of "Shakespeare Sermons" for newspaper readers, as a stimulus to the study of Shakespeare and as the basis of a literary competition. They expected to interest a hundred newspapers, to be known as the Century Club; each newspaper to form a local club, composed of as many of its subscribers as cared to read all the sermons, and at the conclusion of the series answer a set of ten questions. The replies were to be examined by competent persons and $600 in cash distributed as prizes among all the contestants.

Many readers of The Advertiser announced their intention of entering the competition and the majority of them answered the questions submitted at the conclusion of the series of sermons last spring. But until the close of the series The Advertiser was not aware that the publishers, though putting forth every effort, had been unable to interest a sufficient number of newspapers to make the scheme practicable. In order not to wholly disappoint contestants The Advertiser has submitted their papers to a well-qualified educationalist whose report will be published in next Saturday's edition. The Advertiser will also pay a cash prize of $10 to the writer of the paper given first place; $5 for second place; $3 for third; $2 each for fourth and fifth; and $1 each for the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth. The examiner has picked out about thirty papers which deserve special mention. The writers of these will be entitled, like the prize-winners, to Shakespeare diplomas.

If the Century Club had been formed the cash prizes would have averaged only $6 for each newspaper. It will be seen that The Advertiser has tried to deal fairly by its own "club."

The London Advertiser
Ermaline
Paper Bag Cookery

These Cooking Bags are now available by mail or at The London Advertiser Office in quantity and at cost, as stated on coupon, which must be clipped out and presented or sent with order. A Paper Bag Cooking Coupon will be found in every issue of The London Advertiser as long as the bags are on sale.

Directions—How to Use Cooking Bags:

1. Select one that "fits" the food intended to be cooked.
2. Grease slightly the inside of the bag, except in the case of vegetables, or where water is to be added.
3. When the food has been prepared for the bag, place the same on the table, and lift the uppermost edge of the bag while you insert the contents.
4. Fold the mouth of the bag two or three times and fasten with a clip, or pins, or in any other way that will secure as nearly as possible a hermetic closing.
5. Should it ever happen that a bag leaks, simply transfer it with contents undisturbed to another bag.
6. The oven, any kind of which will do, should be kept clean, and if properly heated, as with the old style of cooking, results should satisfactorily follow
