ENGINE BOILER EXPLODES; ONE DEAD, ANOTHER DYING

Locomotive On a Fast Grand Trunk Freight Blows Up Near Princeton, Ontario.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Woodstock, Ont., July 21. — As the result of a locomotive explosion on the Grand Trunk Railway at Princeton late last night, Robert Hutchison, brakeman, of Sarnia, is dead; Duncan Martin, fireman, of Onondaga, is probably fatally injured; and David Strickland, engineer, is suffering from scalds and burns.

The explosion occurred while the engine was running 45 miles an hour. The train was the fastest freight on the line and was proceeding east. Without any indication to warn the crew, the boiler burst with terrific force, smashing both ends and the adjacent parts of the ironwork. Brakeman Hutchison, who was sitting on the front end of the tender, was struck in the chest by a massive piece of iron and killed instantly. Fireman Martin was standing in front of the fire-box, and was struck with such force as to hurl him out of the cab and clear across the north track, a distance of twenty feet. His injuries consist of many terrible burns from the escaping steam and bruises from the press of the wrecked tender. He is now at Dake's Hotel, Princeton, where his injuries are being attended to. Engineer Strickland was on his seat beside the boiler, and thereby escaped serious injuries.

Conductor McDonald gave as the cause of the accident lack of sufficient water in the boiler or weak crown-sheets. The examination by the expert will determine this point. The Hamilton auxiliary cleared the wreck. The engine, which is a new one of the 700 type, is almost a total wreck. There was little loss to rolling stock.

Hutchison, the brakeman who was killed, was 40 years of age and has a wife and family in Sarnia. The remains are being taken there for burial. Martin, the fireman, is unmarried. His home is in Brantford.

Balfour Caught in a Snap Division; Monday May See Govt.'s Resignation

London, July 20.—The Government was defeated in the House of Commons tonight by a vote of 119 to 96 on the motion to reduce the membership of the Irish land commission.

When the result was made known, the House immediately was in an uproar. The Nationalists and Liberals rose to their feet, waved their handkerchiefs, and their arms, threw hats in the air and cheered until the glass ceiling of the House rang and rang again.

It was some minutes before Sir Thomas Esmonde could announce the numbers, and then cheers broke out again, the utmost enthusiasm back of it all.

Campbell-Bannerman leaped to his feet and demanded of Lord Balfour whether or not he had any statement to make.

The Premier, with a smile, calmly replied he had not.

This brought John Redmond up with a fiery speech. He pointed out, amid vociferous applause, that the defeat had followed immediately on meeting the Unionists.

Balfour rose again and declared that, unless the Government were able to carry on the business of the country and the House with dignity, it would not attempt to carry it on at all.

He suggested it might be that the House would be asked to reconsider its decision, but he could not say definitely.

He would consult with his colleagues and give an answer to the House on Monday.

Redmond, backed by Asquith and Campbell - Bannerman, unsuccessfully attempted to get the Government to agree to an adjournment until Monday.

Unionist members attribute the defeat to the laxity of the Government supporters, and say there was no cross-voting.

The general opinion is that the Government will not resign, but will reintroduce the motion.

London, July 21. — The Unionist members of the House of Commons are busily signing a memorial to the Premier against the resignation of the Government or the dissolution of Parliament. In the Unionist centers like the Carlton Club it is confidently asserted that Mr. Balfour will stand or fall according to the outcome of Monday's motion of censure.

Will Balfour Resign?

London. July 21, 12:50 p.m. — The House of Commons sat barely half an hour today and then adjourned until Monday to await the Government's decision regarding its future course of action in view of the defeat of the ministry last night on John Redmond's motion to reduce the vote for the Irish land commission.

The House was packed in every part, much excitement was visible on all sides, and there was a disposition to view the defeat of the Government as more serious than it was generally regarded in the early hours this morning. Immediately after the House had assembled Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, moved its adjournment, declaring that it would be unseemly under the circumstances to proceed with business while the Government was considering its position.

Premier Balfour, however, declined to adjourn the House until the bill dealing with the differences of the Scottish United Free Church and the Free Church had been passed. This was quickly accomplished, the House rose and the excited members swarmed into the lobbies, eagerly discussing the probable decision of the cabinet, which has been summoned to meet this afternoon. The view that the Government will resign, however, is not held in circles generally well-informed of the Government's intentions, and it is reiterated that the resignation of the Balfour ministry is not likely.

DIPPED IN WELL AND FLOGGED; WHITE CAP AFFAIR IN ESSEX

Band of Eleven Masked Men Terribly Punish an Alleged Wifebeater Near Wheatley.

Chatham, Ont., July 20.—Last night near Wheatley the house of Thomas Dulmage was suddenly attacked by eleven masked men, who wore black slouch hats and black masks over their faces. They dragged him from his bed and pinioned him with ropes, and despite his vigorous protests, dragged him to a nearby well. Here a long, stout rope was tied around him, and he was lowered and soaked for over half an hour. The unfortunate man was sometimes immersed for half a minute at a time, then his head would be released to permit breathing, and then he was lowered again, despite his cries for mercy. During the whole time his body was in the water, and when he was finally raised he was almost numb and half-drowned.

Not content with this, the attackers then dragged him to a post some fifty yards away and thrashed him with a horsewhip, which tore his shirt to shreds and cut cruelly into his flesh. When he was finally released, the physician who examined him claimed he was half-dead with pain and exposure.

The alleged reason of the attack is that Dulmage was in the habit of drinking heavily, and then striking and abusing his wife, and it is said the neighbors have repeatedly warned him concerning this conduct. The case has been reported to the crown, and Crown Attorney Smith states that the case is being thoroughly investigated, and the guilty parties will be severely dealt with.

MAYOR WILL NOT SIGN THE CONTRACT FOR PAVING BETWEEN G. T. R. AND HORTON

Not Yet Officially Informed of Justice Teetzel's Decision.

Mayor Campbell has not been officially notified of the decision of Mr. Justice Teetzel, given at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, yesterday, declining to continue the injunction restraining his worship from signing the Warren contract for paving Richmond street, north and south, but he was informed over the telephone of the action of the court.

Mayor Campbell stated at noon that under no consideration would he sign the contract for the paving of the street between the Grand Trunk tracks and Horton street, owing to the intention of the railway to raise a number of the crossings in the city, one of which is Richmond street. Should the pavement be laid this year, it is altogether likely that next year it will only have to be torn up by the railway, and the mayor cannot see that anything is to be gained by having the work done this year.

Mayor Campbell will only sign the contract for the pavement between Fullarton and Oxford streets on two conditions. One is that the council instructs him to do so, and the other is that the Warren Company will give the city a guarantee against any loss that might be occasioned by lawsuits brought against the city in consequence of the pavement being laid at the contract price, instead of $2 20 a yard, which, many ratepayers claim, was to cover the cost of both the roadway, curb and gutter.

Mr. Justice Teetzel, in handing out his decision dismissing the application for a continuance of the injunction, said that an injunction was not the proper remedy in the matter, but that if the plaintiffs could prove their claim that the cost was misrepresented to them, they would be able to escape the payment of their portion of the pavement. Thus the mayor feels that unless the Warren Company will indemnify the city against any loss that might be occasioned by the ratepayers evading payment at the contract price, he should not sign the contract.

Appeal to the People, Say the Zemstvoists

Fiery Speech at Moscow Congress, in Which Government Is Condemned.

London, July 20.—The Moscow correspondent of the Times wires tonight regarding the meeting of the Russian Zemstvo there: "Today's congress marks the starting point of a new movement away from the throne and towards the people, and from words to deeds. The temper of the assembly was revealed in a speech by Ivan Petruntaviteh, who said that all hope of reform from above had vanished. A revolution was inevitable, and it was their duty to prevent, if possible, the accompaniment of bloodshed.

"These words were greeted with a storm of cheering. The congress had at the previous night's sitting declared a wish to boycott what is facetiously styled the Bouligane constitution. An organizing committee had proposed that the congress should take part in the elections under the Government's scheme, but the matter was compromised on the understanding that the question should be left open until the Bouligane measure had been promulgated, when the congress would be reconvened by telegraph.

"Today the committee introduced its own draft constitution, the text of which was published in the Russkiya Viedomosti, by the significant adaptation of the English parliamentary practice. The draft was passed on the first reading, the congress resolving that it should be submitted to the discussion of all the Zemstvos and Dumas before the second reading at the next congress.

"Princes Paul and Peter Dolgeroukoff introduced a resolution by which the congress definitely commits itself to an active propaganda among the people, both high and low. Another resolution denounced the outrages perpetrated by the administration upon the lives and liberties of the people.

"Tomorrow the congress will hear a paper from Prince Shakhovskoi on 'The National Assembly,' and another on 'Women's suffrage,' and will close with adopting an appeal to the nation."

A YANKEE SHIP RUN BY PIRATES

Crew Believed to Have Sold Vessel Which Is Cruising in Southern Seas.

San Francisco, July 21. — Sailing somewhere in the tropical seas is the American vessel Robert Center. At its mast floats unlawfully the flag of Spain.

Heavily laden with wines and rich in cargo on Jan. 7 last, the Robert Center, manned by Cubans, started from Tampa, Fla., consigned to Antonio P. Garcia, one of the wealthiest merchants in Cagua La Grande, Cuba.

Since that date, nothing has been seen or heard of either the crew or the vessel.

S. J. Hulse, the owner, has appealed to the federal authorities at Washington and they, in turn, have notified the local federal officers to try to locate the missing boat and bring its crew into the toils of the law. The Government has also issued orders to every port in the country to seize the ship upon sight.

For two days previous to the departure of the vessel from the Florida port the crew spent their nights in the winerooms and gambling dens of Tampa. Their money was all spent, and while spending it they made friends with several South American sailors, who, it is believed, induced them secretly to sell the ship.

It would be impossible to make this wrongful sale while in port, so it was apparently agreed to carry out the transaction on the high seas.

GRIEF CAUSES SUICIDE

Child Taken From Young Mother, She Hangs Herself.

Winnipeg, July 20. — Broken-hearted because her mother had taken her child, Mary Richardson, the pretty young wife of William Richardson, employed at the gas works, committed suicide by hanging today at her home, 152 Gladstone street. Richardson discovered the body of his wife when he came home to dinner. She had attached the rope to the knob of a door at the top of the stairs leading to the first floor of the house, and swung the rope around to the other side of the door and over the top of it, thus making the rope short enough to suspend her body about six inches from the floor. Mrs. Richardson was 18 years of age. She was in her nightdress when found dead.

On July 7, Mrs. Richardson was up before Magistrate McMicken for attempting suicide by drinking carbolic acid. Her release was procured, and her husband had her sent to stay for a few days with a friend, in the hope that she would take a brighter view of things.

A strange coincidence is that another woman, same name, Richardson, city employe, was found dead in bed today. The coroner has not yet solved either mystery.

HE'S SEVENTEEN BRIDE---WELL, 40!

And Though They Love One Another Dearly Callous Law May Part Them.

The cooing of turtle doves and the sighing of summer zephyrs would sound like a boiler factory in full operation when compared to the love breathings of a couple at the police court this morning.

Mrs. Walter Roselle was charged with bigamy, and the case proved to be the piece de resistance of the blotter.

Mrs. Roselle is a petite lady, somewhat on the farther side of 40, while her husband is not more than 17. They were married some time ago, in this city, and they appear more like mother and son than husband and wife.

Mrs. Roselle is said to have been married to Reuben Scott, of Newbury, Ont., in fact, this is not denied by her, but she claims that when the marriage was performed Scott had another wife living, and that therefore the marriage to her was not legal. At any event, Mrs. Roselle has three children by Mr. Scott.

The members of Roselle's family have not taken kindly to his marriage, owing to the great difference in the ages of the couple, and the fact that the groom is still under age and is only an apprentice in a local shop. The complainant in the case is Mrs. Stark, of this city, a sister of Roselle's, whose parents reside in the country.

Mr. H. S. Blackburn appeared for Mrs. Roselle, and he stated that although the defendant was married to Scott and had three children by him, she claimed that Scott had another wife and that consequently she was in law a single woman and had a right to marry a second time.

The case was adjourned for a week.

CHICAGO STRIKE ENDS

The Teamsters Now in Scramble for What Is Left.

Chicago, July 21. — After one of the most bitter struggles in the history of labor unions in Chicago, the teamsters' strike was officially declared off at midnight last night. During the day the department store drivers and the railway express drivers by an overwhelming majority registered their protest against prolonging the struggle, and when the result of the referendum vote was announced in the joint council meeting last night it was received with cheers. The truck drivers and the coal teamsters have not yet officially acted on the matter of ending the strike, but will do so on Sunday. It is known, however, that they will take the same stand as the express drivers and department store men, and will make terms with their employers.

No conditions are attached to the ending of the strike, and the men will make a grand scramble today for such positions as are left open. It is not expected that many will return before Monday.

A $15,000 BLAZE

Winnipeg Bag Works Badly Gutted in Midnight Fire.

Winnipeg, Man., July 21. — At 1 o'clock this morning flames burst out of the Winnipeg bag works premises on Alexander avenue. The east end front part of the building was badly scorched. The fire started in the basement at the foot of the elevator and spread to the machinery room, which suffered considerably. The stock, office fittings and books were destroyed. John Dick, Toronto, is president of the company. The total loss will be $15,000.

At Fannystelle, Man., the general store of F. J. Beatty was burned to the ground, nothing being saved.

BUILDING NEW MAIL CARS

Grand Trunk Force Turning Out Four in East London.

Mr. W. MacWood, of Montreal, superintendent of the Grand Trunk car department, Montreal, was in the city today and paid a visit to the works in East London.

The force at the carworks is not very busy at present, but this is not unusual during the summer season.

Four new mail cars are being built at the works, and will shortly be placed in service. Two of them are of the type which has been in use on the Grand Trunk for many years, one compartment being for the passengers who feel that a journey on the road without a smoke would be monotonous, while the other is for the use of the mail clerk.

Two of the new cars, however, are to be used for mail only. They are 50 feet in length, of the most up-to-date design, and are to be placed on the line between Toronto and North Bay, the growth of the far west having caused mails to become so heavy between these points that the old style car would not be sufficient to meet the demands of the service.

Italian Sailors Mutiny.

Paris, July 21.—The Eclair states that thirty non-commissioned officers of the Italian battleship Francesco Morosini mutinied at Spezzia, complaining of overwork. Admiral Marabello, the minister of marine, has placed the commander of the ship under arrest.

Chinese Boycott Is On.

Shanghai, July 21.—The boycott of American goods is now working, but it has been agreed that the completion of all running contracts for supplies will be allowed. Meanwhile all the Chinese shops refuse to sell American goods, including Standard Oil. All schools and colleges in this section have decided to discard all American books.

$14,000 Kicked About Stable.

Larchmont, July 21. — E. E. Smathers, the turfman, who had been on his yacht all day Monday with his wife, put into this town in the evening and hired a public hack to take him over to his home in White Plains. Jack Knevals, who works for Tom Harris, drove them over. Harris is a negro, and is said to be worth over $50,000.

Yesterday afternoon Smathers remembered that he had left a satchel in the wagon. He also remembered what the satchel contained and sent the captain of his yacht after it in a hurry.

Harris promptly turned over the satchel, which had been kicked about the stable. His eyes fairly bulged when the captain opened the satchel and showed Harris $12,000 worth of jewelry and $2,000 in gold.

French Horse Wins Sandown.

London, July 21. — At the Sandown Park Eclipse meeting today the Eclipse stakes of 10,000 sovereigns, about one mile and a quarter, was won by M. Blanc's Van D'Or, which defeated the Derby winner, Cicero. Danny Maher rode Cicero, Lord Rosebery's hitherto unbeaten colt, which started a warm favorite at 13 to 8 on. The French horse, however, won by half a length.

MURDERED WITH HAT PIN?

Death of Windsor Colored Man Causes Police Inquiry.

Windsor, Ont., July 20.—Crown Attorney Rodd and Detective Mahoney are investigating the death of Fred Montgomery, a colored resident of Sandwich, who is thought to have been murdered by his wife, an Indian squaw. The couple had a row about two weeks ago, and it is alleged that Montgomery was stabbed with a hatpin. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Detroit, where his death has just occurred. Little evidence of the fatality can be adduced, and the police authorities are only working on the ante-mortem statement of the wounded man. His wife received some money from a brother in Washington Territory and is said to have fled to that district.

WIVES SPLIT KING'S GOLD

Ruler O'Keefe of Yap Left $1,000,000 Estate and Two Families.

Honolulu, July 11, via San Francisco, July 21.—Advices from Yap, in the Caroline Islands, say that the contest over the $1,000,000 estate of King O'Keefe of the islands has been compromised, the estate being equally divided between the American and native wives. O'Keefe went to the Carolines in the sixties, amassed a fortune and gained great influence over the natives. He built schooners and on many islands was practically the ruler. He married a native woman, who bore him half a dozen children.

About five years ago he died while returning from Hong Kong to Yap. His fortune was taken by the widow and family in Yap, but it developed that O'Keefe had a wife in the United States, to whom he had sent regular remittances. She sent a lawyer from San Francisco to Yap to file the claim, and a compromise was reached when he presented his proofs.

TRIAL FOR BENNETT

Seven Nations Indian Charged With Murder of Betsy Jacob.

Brantford, July 20.—Joseph Bennett, charged with murdering Betsy Jacobs, a squaw, was this morning sent up to stand trial at the fall assizes in this city.

Bennett, who was not represented by legal counsel, pleaded "Not Guilty."

Only one important piece of new evidence was brought out when David Davis, the postman who found the body, said he had carefully measured the horse tracks at the Jacobs' homestead on the morning of the tragedy and compared them with those where Bennett was seen the night before.

Davis showed how he had done the measuring and said that the marks were unquestionably of the same horse. The remainder of the evidence was almost the same as that brought out before.

The prisoner took the greatest interest in all proceedings, and particularly when his late associate told of the rampages of the evening before the murder. The crown officials say they have not yet called in all the important witnesses.

MASONIC GRAND MASTER

R. M. Bro. Burritt Chosen at the Hamilton Convention.

Hamilton, July 20. — The honor of grand master of the Grand Masonic Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario was conferred upon R. W. Bro. J. H. Burritt, K.C., of Pembroke, at the closing session today. Nobody could have been selected to discharge the duties connected with the grand lodge with more dignity and satisfaction to the craft. For the office of deputy grand master, the stepping-stone to the grand mastership, R. W. Bro. A. T. Freed, inspector of weights and measures, Hamilton, was elected in one of the most heated contests in the history of the grand lodge. Voting began about noon and would not have been concluded at 6 o'clock had not R. W. Bros. Aubrey White, Toronto, and Judge MacWatt, Sarnia, declared their intentions of retiring, leaving the field to R. W. Bros. Freed, Wm. Roaf, K.C., Toronto, and Abraham Shaw, Kingston. The practice of advancing the deputy grand master to the grand mastership, without opposition, gave the election of a successor to the new grand master significance and made it the first item of interest in the grand lodge programme. Nearly 1,750 members voted on the first ballot, which is a record number at grand lodge, and was probably due to the expected contest of the deputy grand mastership.

Goldsberry was declared guilty, and sentenced to one year in jail at hard labor and to receive twenty lashes, ten lashes to be administered fifteen days after the beginning of the sentence and ten more fifteen days before the sentence expires.

ALIENS BILL PASSED

British House of Commons Gives Third Reading—Majority of 90.

London, July 21.—In the House of Commons Wednesday the aliens bill passed its third reading by a majority of 90.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, in winding up the debates on the bill, contended that the proposed restrictions were less severe than those imposed by any other nation. He referred to the American immigration laws, and asked whether anyone would assert that the Americans were indifferent to freedom or looked with unmoved eye on the suffering and the oppressed, yet their restrictions as well as the restrictions imposed by the British colonies were, he said, more severe than those imposed by "this moderate and reasonable bill."

CZAR SAILS TO MEET KAISER

Momentous Meeting About t Take Place in the Baltic Sea.

St. Petersburg, July 21.—The Cza will leave Peterhof today on boar the yacht Polar Star, ostensibly fo a tour of the coast. It is understoo his definite plan is to meet the Ger man Emperor in Swedish wate and that he will be absent fo four days. The expected meeting is re garded here as an event of momentou importance.

The decision of the Czar to go on yachting trip to confer with Emper William at the time when Russia awaiting his declaration upon the Mo cow programme has profoundly im pressed the reform leaders. Amon them it is believed that his immedia anxiety is rather to avoid facing constitution than to learn the natu of Japan's peace proposals. The pe simism that prevails regarding pea is based on a report that his reply the Japanese terms, if they involv the cession of Saghalien or the pay ment of an indemnity, will be th they only can be considered if accon panied by a Russo-Japanese alliance.

UNDER TRAIN, BUT LIVES

Railroad Man Has a Wonderful Escape From Terrible Death.

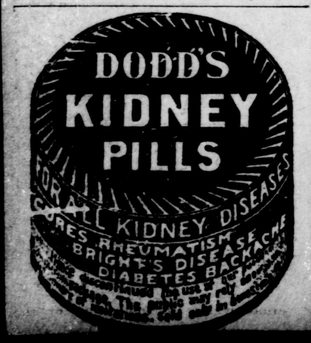

Kankakee, Ill., July 20.—John Flockhart, of South Chicago, was run over by a switch engine and five cars in the local yards of the Big Four Railroad, and still lives.

Flockhart, who was formerly employed here as a Big Four switchman, came to Kankakee on a picnic excursion. He was riding on the front end of a switch engine with two former fellow-employes, when his hat blew off. In trying to catch it he lost his balance and fell directly in front of the engine. The engine and five cars in the train passed over him. The crew hurried back, expecting to find the mangled corpse of his companion, but instead he was endeavoring to raise himself to a sitting posture. Examination showed that his injuries consisted of a crushed right arm and a few cuts about the head, while the heel of his right foot had been torn off. The injured man was removed to the emergency hospital in this city.

Local railroad men are unable to account for Flockhart's escape from instant death, as the firebox of the engine reaches almost to the ground. It is thought that after his arm was crushed by the engine he was rolled into the center of the tracks, clear of the wheels of the cars that followed.

CUCUMBERS AND MELONS are "forbidden fruit" to many persons so constituted that their indulgence is followed by attacks of cholera, dysentery, griping, etc. These persons are not aware that they can indulge to their heart's content if they had on hand a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, a medicine that will give immediate relief, and is a sure cure for all summer complaints.

This report that the Russians generally are in poor health is denied, although it is admitted that there is not a sound constitution in the empire.

MORTON COURTS INQUIRY

Has No Objection to Official State Insurance Investigation.

New York, July 20. — Paul Morton, chairman of the board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, made this statement today in regard to Governor Higgins' message:

"I do not object at all to an official investigation of the life insurance companies of the state. The more complete and searching the Legislature investigation is, the better it will suit me, and the better it will be for the Equitable.

"We hope the proposed investigation of all New York insurance companies will be as exhaustive as I propose to make the investigation of the affairs of the Equitable, which began over a month ago, by chartered accountants.

"No half-hearted investigation will restore the confidence of the public in the life insurance business. So far as the Equitable Society is concerned it is my intention that the policyholders, the trustees, the new directors and the chairman of the board, shall know the exact condition of its affairs from top to bottom."

A nerican Boat Leads Across Line in Seawanhaka Cup Races.

Montreal, July 20.—The first race for the Seawanhaka Cup on Lake St. Louis was sailed this afternoon between the American challenger Manchester, of the Manchester, Mass., Yacht Club, and the Alexandra, of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, and resulted in victory for the American boat.

The race was a beat windward and return of five miles, sailed three times. The challenger gained the lead from the start, and at the first buoy of the windward beat was a considerable distance in the lead.

She increased his distance at the other buoys of the course. The American boat was sailed well, and proved herself a fine boat.

The time was: Start, 2:20; first round, Manchester, 2.57.42; Alexandra, 2.59.04; second round, Manchester, 3.33.10; Alexandra, 3.35.30; finish, Manchester, 4.08.05; Alexandra, 4.11.05.

ENQUIST TELLS THE TALE OF RUSSIAN NAVAL ROUT

Story of the Great Fight Told for First Time by the Refugees at Manila.

Manila, July 20. — About the time that the sun was setting beyond the guardian island, Corregidor, which divides the channel at the entrance to Manila Bay, on the evening of June 4, the first fighting ships engaged in active warfare which have been in these waters since the memorable entrance of Dewey and his men steamed through the broad channel and anchored just off the merchant shipping in the front of the city.

They were as men exhausted with the horrors of a long chase, and when the anchors were dropped there was a feeling and hope among the crews that they would not be raised again for a long time. As a matter of fact the stokers of these Russian warships for the last 24 hours had been scraping and clearing the decks, and even some of the wardrooms and officers' cabins, which had been filled with coal in anticipation of a battle and the long steaming which might result.

The three ships which had reached a neutral port on such a small margin were the remnants of Admiral Enquist's squadron — the cruisers Oleg, Aurora and Zemtchug. They escaped from the Japanese after the battle of the Sea of Japan.

A few hours after Admiral Train had put to sea the day before with his squadron, consisting of the flagship Ohio, the battleships Wisconsin and Oregon, and the cruisers Raleigh and Cincinnati, Governor Wright received a message from one of the coast observers stating that three ships, which appeared to be cruisers, painted black, were in the vicinity of the Gulf of Lingayen. This news was sent to Admiral Train by wireless telegraphy. The fleet at that time was engaged in squadron maneuvers and in testing distances and the effective ranges of the wireless telegraphy apparatus, which has been recently installed. The Raleigh and Cincinnati were immediately instructed to watch for the vessels, and the squadron headed northward.

About 40 miles north of Subig Bay three vessels were discovered hugging the shore and steaming very slowly. They had not been observed by the scouts. They were well within the three-mile limit and apparently proceeding most cautiously. As the American squadron drew nearer they were made out to be Russians, and proper salutes were exchanged. Admiral Train continued northward at cruising speed, however, keeping a watch for the Russian vessels, which were still steaming slowly south along the coast. Suddenly they spurted, and before the squadron had turned and appreciated what they intended to do the Rusians had almost disappeared. The Raleigh and Cincinnati were immediately signaled to take up the chase and keep in touch with the Russians, to ascertain where they were going and whether or not they would put into any Philippine ports. The other vessels of the squadron followed at a lively rate. The chase really continued until about sundown, when the Russians turned in past Corregidor, running at 14 to 15 knots, closely followed by Train's vessels.

Watched by U. S. Cruisers.

At daybreak on Sunday morning the Ohio and the Wisconsin took positions at each end of the anchorage of the three Russian vessels, and shortly after the Wisconsin steamed over to her accustomed berth in Cavite and left the Ohio on guard.

Admirals Enquist and Train exchanged calls and it was explained that the vessels were a remnant of the Baltic fleet which had escaped in the thick of the fight when destruction seemed to be the fate of all vessels which remained. Enquist reported that he had lost 41 killed and that he now had on board his three vessels 138 wounded, including Prince Puteaten and two other officers. They needed coal, supplies, repairs and medical assistance.

Each of the cruisers shows punishment—the Oleg being the worst damaged, with ten large holes in the starboard side, three of which are immediately in line with the main battery; two shots having struck so close that the holes caused by their entrance were united. There were almost in line with the forward gun on the starboard side and must have killed the crew if it was serving the gun at the time. There are only two holes on the port side made by shells entering from that side. The Aurora has eight large holes on the starboard, one of which is of sufficient size to permit two men to crawl through at the same time, and two holes on the port side; one funnel is destroyed and another partly carried away. The fast cruiser Zemtchug shows no holes in her sides. The officers report that she is damaged below the water line. There are shell marks in her funnel and a number of small holes caused by a shell bursting on deck just beyond the big gun mounted on the after deck. This shell, which left very few marks beyond small jagged holes in the deck, is reported by the captain to have killed two officers and six men, and to have wounded six others.

Everywhere on board the cruisers are the marks of what would at first appear to be fire from machine guns and others of light caliber, but on closer examination it is clear that they were caused by jagged pieces of bursting shells of large size.

Carnage by Jap Shells.

Admiral Enquist and all of his officers who have been approached on the subject testify to the extraordinary explosive power of the Japanese ammunition, which causes the shells to separate into unusually small pieces, which have done far more damage in killing and wounding than the heavier shot. Below decks the Oleg and the Aurora are badly torn up. In several cases the shells passed clear through the ships, but probably the majority of the shells exploded immediately after contact, shattering everything in the vicinity. Apparently most of the hits were made with 12-inch, 8-inch and 6-inch guns. A piece of shell aboard the Oleg is of such size as to indicate beyond a doubt that it was fired from a 12-inch gun. This shell struck in the bathroom, near the officers' quarters, and tore out that whole section of the ship. None of the ships was hit by torpedoes.

The Russians admit very freely the extraordinary accuracy of the Japanese firing and its terrific suddenness and concentration.

"Shells came upon us like a cloudburst," declared one of the officers of the Aurora. "The detonating effect is almost as terrible as the breaking of shells into small pieces. Dense black fumes followed the explosions and prostrated the men, sometimes suffocating them when below decks, where the gases could not readily escape."

On the day of arrival the cruisers were in a filthy condition. Coal was everywhere; the men and officers were clothed in suits which may once have been white, but were then covered with soot and oil, so that they appeared almost black. Apparently very little had been done to clean the ships since the battle. There was evidence and plenty of it to show that officers and crews had passed through a terrible experience. They were mentally and physically prostrated. The sailors lay about the decks in groups, and the common impulse seemed to be to rest. As an officer stated, the night of their arrival in Manila Bay was the first chance they had to relax since the morning of the battle, a week before. The awful strain of seven days and nights of rushing from a foe which was expected to appear at almost any moment had broken the nerves of the strongest. They were ready to thank God that they had at last reached a haven where they would have no fear of the terrible Japanese.

On Sunday afternoon the crews commenced to clean the ships, wash clothes, and generally to return once more to the accustomed routine of naval ships. All day long launches crowded with sightseers were plying about the unfortunate vessels, studying the shell holes and gazing curiously at the sailors, some of whom hung over the sides silently looking about their new surroundings. The difference in language prevented any communication.

In the afternoon numbers of Filipinos in native boats rowed out to the Russians, and did a thriving business in fruits, tobacco and other small stuff. The Japanese consul was early on the scene with two or three of his countrymen, and they circled the ships a number of times, making careful notes of every hole in the sides.

As a rule, visitors were not allowed to go aboard the ships, although a great number of curiosity-sekers held to the gangways and did their best to pass the polite officers, who bowed, gesticulated and explained in Russian, French, and German, that it would be impossible to come aboard for two or three days. An officer was found aboard the flagship who spoke English fluently, and with the aid of him as interpreter, Admiral Enquist gave a brief description of the naval battle.

Story of the Battle.

He stated that the Japanese had first been sighted early on Saturday morning, the 27th, when four scouts were seen steaming to port and one far away on the starboard. The Russian ships opened fire at very long range, and soon the scouts disappeared. The fleet immediately went into battle formation in three lines, battleships on the left, colliers and transports in the middle and cruisers on the right. His flagship, at that time the Oleg, was leading the line of cruisers. The Zemtchug was detailed with the battleships to aid in repelling attacks from the Japanese torpedoes, which mission she was well equipped to carry out by reason of her great speed. The morning was misty, but the sea was running a little higher than is ordinary when the mist is low. The Japanese appeared on the port quarter, and opened fire at a range of 10,000 yards, gradually coming closer. Almost the entire fire was concentrated on the first and second Russian battleships, and so accurately were the shells placed that these two leaders were disabled in the first half hour. The Japanese suddenly disappeared again in the mist and the firing ceased. Their vessels were painted gray, so that sometimes shots were heard and hits were made while the ships could not be seen. Unfortunately for the Russians their ships were painted black and their funnels a whitish yellow, with black rims at the top, which made them stand out like actual targets at practice.

Enquist himself was not engaged until the second attack of the Japanese, when a detachment of the Japanese fleet appeared on his immediate front and commenced landing shells on the Oleg and Aurora. At the same time the heaviest Japanese ships reappeared and directed their fire against the third and fourth battleships of the Russian line, which had now taken the place of the first and second, crippled in the first attack. Up to this time the Japanese had been describing circles at a range of about 7,500 yards on the port side of the Russian fleet, which would be to the north and west of the general direction in which they were steaming through the Korean Straits. The third and fourth battleships were crippled in an incredibly short time, and one of them sank very suddenly, which gave rise to the impression that it was torpedoed, though no torpedo boats had been observed at close range.

The Circle of Death.

When the Japanese returned to the attack the third time, they steamed across the Russian bows, devoting attention to the heavily armored cruisers, driving the Oleg and the Aurora off the main course and causing them to lead the other vessels in an irregular formation, due to the confusion and appearance of Japanese on all sides, which finally took the form of a circle. The cruisers were outside and the transports and colliers huddled in the and the ultimate fate of the battleships was unknown.

The Japanese formed an outer circle, completely enveloping the Russians, who were almost helpless within, and destroyed them like sheep, coming as close as 4,000 yards. If this formation had been continued it is doubtful if any of the Russian ships would have escaped; but the Japanese broke their circle and penetrated the Russian circle, the latter's vessels fleeing in all directions. The fight lasted all through the afternoon, until darkness settled down.

About 8 o'clock Enquist found himself with the Oleg and the Aurora, to which he had transferred his flag when he feared the Oleg was sinking. With these remnants and the Zemtchug, he escaped under cover of darkness, fearig to go further north lest he encounter the Japanese fleet, which apparently had not suffered great loss. He succeeded in coming out of the zone of fire at 10 o'clock on Saturday night, headed for Shanghai, but was forced, on account of the heavy seas, to change his course to the southward, in which direction he continued until off the Island of Luzon, when he decided to take refuge in Manila Bay, as his coal was running short and his vessels were leaking. No ships had been seen except some merchant vessels since the night of his escape from the fight until he sighted the formidable squadron painted white a few hours north of Manila.

These, he was delighted to find, turned out to be Americans. His crews cheered with delight when they finally made out the American flag, and the rest of the story—how he entered the bay—is known.

Enquist was quite ignorant of all details of the battle, not having any idea of the fate of the remainder of the Baltic fleet until he received the news on Sunday morning following his arrival in Manila.

He did not know that the great naval battle had continued the next day after he had escaped, and he was prostrated at the news of Rojestvensky's reported serious condition. When told that of the four admirals who commanded the Baltic fleet probably he was the only survivor, he wearily remarked: "Then, indeed, I am the most unfortunate of all." He is an old man, worn and weak looking, far too old to be in active command of a fighting squadron, and his appearance commands the utmost pity and sympathy.

WOULD YOU HAVE A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION

How to Secure One and Enjoy the Best of Health in Nature's Way.

Healthy beauty is the only kind that charms. Of what avail is the sallow prettiness of an invalid? Artificial beauty obtained by the use of lotions, washes and powders containing lead, zinc and bismuth is but a travesty—easily seen through. It is the plumpness of flesh and pure blood that makes people attractive. You cannot have health, good looks, rosy cheeks and bright, snappy eyes unless your blood is pure, rich and red. You cannot have that symmetry of development, that radiance of beauty and that healthy glow to your skin which is a guarantee of a pure, vigorous blood supply unless your stomach, liver and bowels are working together right. If you are constipated, if you have dyspepsia indigestion or an occasional attack of biliousness, there is reason enough why you have a bad complexion, but that is no excuse for your using cosmetics to cover up defects. Better use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills to cleanse the blood of impurities, regulate the bowels and establish a normal condition of digestion and nutrition. Begin right and you will have no use for artificial beautifiers. Under the active influence of these wonderful little vegetable pills the blood is invigorated and enriched, the nerves are strengthened, the muscles take on new energy, the skin becomes rosy and red, showing the circulation is normal and active as Nature intended it should be. Try this plan, use Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills each night for two weeks and you will be astonished at the improvement. Depend upon it that these little pills will not only correct a bad complexion, but they always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. Price 25 cents at all dealers.

THE CENTER OF POPULATION

That If the U. S. Keeps Shifting Towards the Southwest.

Washington, July 21. — Already the experts in the Government census bureau are wondering how much further west than its present location in south central Indiana the center of American population will be found in 1910.

In 1790 this center was in Eastern Maryland, and a century later it was in Indiana, 20 miles from Columbus, a city 40 miles south of Indianapolis. In 1900 it had moved still further westward, though, owing to the marvelously rapid growth of the large eastern cities, the industrial awakening of the south, and the fact that most of the public domain available for immediate cultivation had been taken up prior to 1890, the distance covered was less than in any previous decade since 1810.

The present center of population is a few miles west of this same city of Columbus. The belief that 1910 will take the center toward the west boundary line of Indiana is based largely on the rapid growth in population of the southwest and the mountain country farther north.

As illustrations of the way this growth is progressing, it may be noted that from 1890 to 1900 the population of Oklahoma increased from 61,834 to 398,331, or more than 500 per cent; Arizona's population increased from 32,052 to 161,772.

The most of this increase has been due to immigration, which is still under way, and it is entirely probable that the census of 1910 will show in the localities named a growth which is almost as great as that between the years 1890 and 1900.

In proportion as this growth continues, the center of population will be affected. The great cities of the east continue to develop in population, owing for the most part to foreign immigration, and this will be their condition for many years to prevent the center of population from turning tail and moving eastward will be the continued growth of the country beyond the Mississippi and the Missouri.

In this connection it may be said that the rapid strides made by the Puget Sound country during the last census period contributed its full share to holding the center of population toward the west, and the same section will perform quite as important service in 1901.

And what is true of Puget Sound is true also of South California.

CYRIL DWIGHT-EDWARDS, BARI...

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

Tossed by the Bulls, and ripped by the Bears,
Harassed and worried by manifold cares,
With stocks on the whoop that he thought would go down,
And the up-stocks slumping, and all of the town
Roaring and slamming about his ears,
He grabbed his hat, and chased by his fears
That prodded him on with vicious punch,
He rushed away for his noon-time lunch.
He saw men lined at gilded bars,
But he knew that the Fiend of that Cup deals scars,
Smoothing the nerves for a time, perhaps,
But saving a knockout for misled chaps.
But he knew of a cup that has truly cheered,
And around the corner he briskly steered,
And took it brimming, and spicy, and hot,
From the pretty girl of the coffee-pot.
And his soul was soothed, he forgot his cares,
And was ready again for the Bulls and Bears.
Then over the rim of his cup he gazed
At the pretty girl as the draught he praised.
"How do you make it, my pretty maid?"
"Use CHASE & SANBORN'S — that's all!" she said.

MR. JUSTICE TEETZEL REFUSES TO CONTINUE THE INJUNCTION

Application of Richmond Street Ratepayers Disposed of at Osgoode Hall.

The application of the Richmond street ratepayers for the continuance of the injunction restraining Mayor Campbell from singing the contracts for the bitulithic pavements on Richmond street, between Horton street and the G. T. R., and between Fullarton and Oxford streets, was refused by Mr. Justice Teetzel at Toronto yesterday. The motion for the order was made in the morning and argument continued the greater part of the day.

The court held the continuance of the injunction would menace the city's interest seriously, since it would prevent the laying of the pavement for a year and the public would suffer in the meantime.

Mr. J. C. Judd appeared for the ratepayers and Mr. T. G. Meredith represented the city.

Mr. Judd argued that ratepayers who petitioned for bitulithic pavement did so owing to the price being misrepresented at public meetings, held to discuss the question. The price, $2 20 a square yard, was believed to include curb and gutter.

A letter of the city engineer stating that the price included these was put in.

Mr. Judd showed that the price put in by the Warren Company was 25 per cent higher than the Barber tender, and the latter was rejected.

"I hope Mr. Meredith does not defend that sort of thing," suggested the judge, with a smile.

The tenders, said Mr. Judd, called for Warren's cementing agent.

"That's where your tender may be weak," said his lordship.

The plaintiffs also claimed that the meeting of council of July 7 was not properly called. The mayor was not in the city and Ald. Stevely gave instructions to the clerk to call the meeting. A requisition for the meeting should be signed by a majority of members of the council. Ald. Stevely was not appointed acting mayor, except by the mayor, and the mayor had no authority.

"Then the mayors have been violating this rule very often," said the justice.

Another pointe was that the meeting was not competent to deal with the matter. The bylaws require that the objects of the special meeting must be "fully explained" on the notice calling it. There was no authority for the mayor to sign the contract, no bylaw of council gave authority, he claimed.

Concluding, Mr. Judd asked that the injunction be continued to Sept. 18, when the action will be tried.

The motion was refused.

JACQUES BONHOMME AND JOHN BULL

La Patrie Says the Two Are Natural Enemies and Cannot Unite.

Paris, July 20.—La Patrie prints the following:

"A dispatch from London refers to a rumor which circulates, it would appear, in the 'best informed' and 'most governmental' circles. The dispatch contains the following:

"'The meeting of the English and French fleets will hasten the realization of the project of alliance, offensive and defensive, between the two nations to which their respective diplomatists have been devoting their attention for some time. The meeting of the fleets, it would seem, was decided upon for the purpose of testing the posibility of this alliance.'

"This news no doubt is inaccurate, but bears the stamp of probability. It is evident anyhow, that it was the purpose in having a British squadron at Brest and in bringing the British officers to Paris to try the 'coup' of the Russian sailors landing at Toulon and coming later to be acclaimed in Paris. This time, however, the 'coup' has failed.

"In our Breton port there was not the slightest enthusiasm, and in Paris the officers were received with a silence that, though polite, was significant.

"At the Longchamps review and during the return by the Champs Elysees his majesty's officers did not inspire a single exclamation or wave of a hat.

"The antipathy of the French for the English is instinctive. There are races that attract; others that repel. The French and the Slavs fraternized immediately without even knowing why.

"On the other hand, Jacques Bonhomme never could 'stand' John Bull, without speaking of Jeanne d'Arc, whom our secular enemies burned; of Napoleon, whom they deported, or of all the perfidies recorded in history."

"The haughty and distinctly selfish character of the English is repugnant to the frank, generous and sentimental instincts of the French. This is, perhaps, because, as De Fontanes said, 'The English people are less desirable near than far.'

"It suffices only to come near them to immediately want to get further away. Sincere friendship between the two peoples is impossible, and still more so is an alliance.

"Furthermore, why engage one's self; why tie one's hands with England?

"The interest of England is to associate us with her cause, then declare war against Germany. In ths manner she will draw us in spite of ourselves into the great conflagration which she desires and which she is preparing."

FIFTEEN YEARS IN A MEXICAN PRISON

Carter Was in Charge of an Engine When Cable Broke, Killing Seven Mexicans.

Kansas City, July 20.—John C. Carter, a stationary engineer, who was born and raised in New York City, is here looking for work, not that there is anything unusual in men seeking employment, but Carter differs from others in being a man who says that last May he finished a term of fifteen years in a Mexican prison.

He was running an engine at Durango, Old Mexico, and was an employe of the American Development Company in its copper and gold mines near that place. For a little over three years he worked here. Then one day a cable attached to one of the cars in the mines broke, falling 40 feet and killing seven Mexicans. It was no fault of Carter's that the cable broke, but he was blamed with the accident because he was an American. He was arraigned before an alcalde, an officer similar to a justice of peace in this country, and sentenced to 21 years in the salt mines without the pretense of a trial to determine whether or not he was guilty. He served fifteen years and was released.

Mr. Carter's story of Mexico and what he has seen of it follows:

"When I arrived at Durango it was a number of miles off the railroad. We were transported to the company's holdings by burro trains. The route was across one of the most barren stretches of country I have ever seen. At the mines, which were located in the mountains, the country was a great deal better.

"On the morning of the accident I was lowering the workmen into the mines. The engine was some distance from the shaft, which was 1,100 feet deep. The man in charge of the cages was an American, and gave me the signal to hoist and lower them. One cage contained seven Mexicans. I had lowered them to the 700-foot level, as shown by the idicator, when I felt a jar and then the cable hung loose. The cable broke at the loop where it was fastened to the car, and the car, with its load, dropped the remaining 400 feet. As soon as the accident occurred the man in charge of the cages grabbed his coat and flew to the mountains. He had been there longer than I, and knew what to do. I remained to render what relief I could, and was arrested.

"Arraigned before an alcalde, I was simply asked if I was the engineer in charge. When I said yes, I was told that I was sentenced to twenty-one years in prison. No witnesses were examined. The alcalde had to sentence somebody, and I was as good as anyone. The cage tender knew this and escaped.

"For four days another American and myself, with the Mexicans, were marched across the desert to the salt mines, the Government prison on the western coast of Mexico. At the mines I was put to work as an engineer, and remained there for fifteen years to a day.

"There are no walls around this prison, as in this country, but a prisoner never escapes. Guards by hundreds are all around the mines. The guards are soldiers, and 70 per cent of the soldiery of Mexico are convicts. Whenever a Mexican commits an offense he is sentenced to serve so many years in the army. This gives the army the large percentage of convicts. The convict soldiers are distinguished from the regularly enlisted men by the cut of their uniforms and the number of their brass buttons.

"The prison bill of fare consists of black coffee, tortillas and frijoles, served three times a day. The coffee is something vile. Tortillas are nothing more nor less than corn, well cracked, mixed with water and made into cakes, like a pancake. The frijoles are native beans, and are served with red peppers and other hot stuff. White prisoners are furnished a house and beds to sleep on, while the Mexicans are given a blanket and sleep on the ground.

"As soon as I was notified that I was free I started for the United States again."

Most of the trains in Mexico are in charge of American crews, Mr. Carter says, and they will allow an Anglo-Saxon to ride with them anywhere. The majority of them there now are men who were in railroad strikes here and were blacklisted from all roads. They have found employment in Mexico.

"Whenever an engineer runs over a Mexican," said Mr. Carter, "if he has a complete American crew he will stop his engine, get down and place the body of the Mexican in the firebox, and say nothing about the matter. If there happens to be a Mexican in the crew he can't do this.

"If a Mexican happens to be one of the crew, the engineer stops at the first town he comes to, goes to the office of the alcalde, and swears out a complaint against the Mexican whom he ran over for trespassing on the railroad. The dead Mexican is then arrested."

VALENCAY TO WED AGAIN

An Unusual Social Event Amongst French Aristocrats.

Paris, July 21. — Another fashionable marriage, destined to create a sensation in Paris and New York, has been arranged. The Duke de Valencay, divorced husband of Levi P. Morton's daughter, is engaged to marry next to the youngest daughter of the Marquis de St. Sauveur.

The religious marriage with Miss Morton has not yet been annulled in Rome, but the annulment is expected soon, as the conditions of the marriage and traditions of the church. Mlle. St. Sauveur is one of the most beautiful girls in the French aristocracy.

Such a thing as the marriage of an aristocrat to a divorced nobleman has never before been known, for many French aristocrats do not believe marriage can ever be annulled by divorce. The engagement is certain to be denied until the day of the marriage.

AS WIFE DIES HE COURTS ANOTHER

Dr. Carlton Made Love to Second Girl With Spouse On Deathbed.

New York, July 19.—Astounding stories in connection with the Carlton mystery in Brooklyn were told before Coroner Flaherty, while a score of detectives, under Inspector Adam A. Cross were working like busy spiders to make a complete web of circumstantial evidence which will hold the man of many vocations, who, under a technical charge of larceny, is pacing his cell in the Raymond street jail.

The testimony before the coroner's court developed the fact that Frederick E. Carlton made love to another woman while his wife lay dying.

"She won't care," he is alleged to have told the woman. "She wants you to be her successor in my affections."

Miss Marie Breslin, of No. 150 Wyckoff street, who was maid of honor when Miss Mary Gorman married Carlton, gave the coroner this startling bit of information, and she added, "He came to me following his wife's death, with a letter purporting to bear her deathbed signature and proposed marriage to me."

Miss Breslin testified that she had since refused to have anything to do with the man, although he had called at her home.

Coroner Flaherty also attaches importance to the testimony given by Dr. De Lorme that, although Carlton's second Brooklyn wife was under treatment by him for six weeks, it was at the end of the second week that the husband came to him and stated that she was suffering from lockjaw. It was nearly four weeks afterward that actual symptoms of lockjaw developed.

Experts who have treated the disease in all its phases told the coroner that the medical books contained the history of no case in which the disease was of such long duration as to make it probable that Carlton had been right in his diagnosis at first.

"This testimony of the physician is very significant," said Coroner Flaherty, "when it is taken into consideration that the man's first wife had a few months previous died of lockjaw, and especially significant in view of the fact that her relatives were suspicious of foul play.

"Tetanus, I am told by experts, is fatal within two weeks after its development. Carlton, according to Dr. De Lorme's testimony, told him four weeks before his wife's death that her trouble was tetanus. The doctor asked him why he thought it tetanus, and he replied, 'Why, it's just the same thing my first wife died of.'"

The doctor admitted, now that he recalled everything, that Carlton's words and demeanor were suspicious in character

SAYS ZIEGLER WAS INSANE

Mother and Son In Fight for $30,000,000 Estate.

New York, July 21. — If William Ziegler, known as "The Baking Powder King," was insane at the time he made his last will, March 31, 1905, his actions were not such as to warrant this belief on the part of many of his neighbors at Noroton, Conn., where he had his summer home, and where he spent a great part of his time.

His widow, E. Matilda Ziegler, has brought an action to set aside that will, in which he left his entire estate, valued at upwards of $30,000,000, to his 14-year-old adopted son. She declares she has incontestable proof that at the time of making the will Mr. Ziegler was not in a mental condition to properly execute such a document.

Mrs. Ziegler's object is to handle the entire estate. Young Ziegler, who now is the sole owner of the estate, and which is held in trust for him, will be ably represented when the contest is called in the supreme court.

A reporter yesterday afternoon called on Mrs. Ziegler at the Ziegler home on Great Island, about 50 miles from New York. Mrs. Ziegler said that the proof of the insanity of her husband would be forthcoming in due time, but that for the present she could not enter into details.

Her affairs are being cared for by John M. Bowers, of the law firm of Bowers & Sands, No 31 Nassau street, and Mr. Bowers has gone to Cooperstown, N. Y., for several weeks' vacation.

Many neighbors of the Zieglers expressed surprise when they learned of the action of his widow, and not one who knew him could be found to say that he had ever shown any indications of insanity. The entire matter, it is alleged, is a family arrangement, whereby the widow may legally take charge of the estate instead of being held down to a pittance of $50,000 a year for life, and the town house at No. 624 Fifth avenue and the country place at Noroton.

Should her adopted son die before she does, the estate would be divided among the relatives of William Ziegler, a situation not to the liking of the widow.

While Mrs. Ziegler has but $50,000 a year from the estate, her adopted son's income is piling up at the rate of $1...

LONDON, FRIDAY, JULY 21.

The Pacific Cable Conference

The Pacific cable conference, which is now sitting in London, is attended by representatives of the Governments of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain. This imperial undertaking, about which so many roseate predictions were made, has not been a financial success. The actual cost of the cable, which runs some 8,000 nautical miles from Doubtless Bay, Queensland, to Bamfield Creek, British Columbia, was £1,795,000, which was met jointly by the Imperial and colonial governments. The purpose of the project was political—to link the mother country and the great self-governing colonies together by a cable system which touched only British soil—but the promoters were confident it would be a paying venture from the outset. The enterprise was completed against the powerful opposition of the Eastern Extension Cable Company, an English concern, which held a monopoly of cable communication with Australia. This company succeeded in greatly handicapping the Pacific cable by securing from the Government of New South Wales the privilege of using the land wires in that state—then a colony. The Government of New South Wales is justly accused of showing bad faith toward its partners in the Pacific cable project by allowing the Eastern monopoly to strengthen its grip on the cable business of Australia. In discussing the matter, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said in the House of Commons two years ago:

"We protested at the time, but when confederation of the Australian colonies came into effect it was too late to overcome the difficulty. The arrangement was made for an indefinite time, but the Government of Australia have since contemplated making an arrangement whereby the Eastern Telegraph Company would shorten the monopoly granted them to ten years, but it would be extended, not only over New South Wales, but over the whole Continent of Australia. We think that this last arrangement would be more detrimental than the first. It must be evident that if, during ten years, the Eastern Telegraph Company have power to establish telegraph stations all over Australia at the end of the time they will have a practical monopoly and retain control of the whole business, and thus come in conflict with the Pacific cable."

The offensive ten-years' concession to the Eastern monopoly was approved by the Australian House of Representatives, but has not yet been ratified by the senate. The conference at London is now dealing with the problem, and the British, Canadian and New Zealand delegates will bring pressure to bear on the Australian Government to reconsider its action.

The Ingersoll Shooting.

It is to be hoped the crown authorities will not be influenced by sentimental appeals for the release of Mrs. Kyle, who is in Woodstock jail, awaiting her preliminary examination for the killing of David Magee. Magee was a worthless character, and the woman claims she fired the revolver in defense of her honor, though with intent to frighten, not to kill or wound. Whether she aimed the weapon at Magee or not, no one but herself knows, but there can be no doubt that the ruffian terrorized her. The law, however, can take nothing for granted, and the machinery of justice must move in the regular way. It is better that one person should suffer for a short period than that the forms of law should be set aside, and the practice of using firearms or taking the law in one's own hands, even remotely countenanced. A word to the police would hove stopped Magee's visits, which were repeated, according to Mrs. Kyle, against the protests of herself and her husband. There was not much danger that bodily harm could come to her in broad daylight with neighbors within call. The use of the revolver was unnecessary, but allowance can be made for the impulse of fright and terror. The taking of human life, under any circumstances, is a serious thing, much more serious than the temporary discomfort of any person, however innocent. Let the regular procedure be followed and the facts inquired into.

Up-to-Date Celestials.

Trade unionists can extract some comfort from an episode in Windsor, which revealed the Chinese in a new light. Two almond-eyed washboard artists, Lee Fong and Lee Sing, were haled before the magistrate for pummeling a brother laundryman, Si Ching, whose offense consisted in cutting prices below the scale fixed by the Celestial colony. It was found that a cast-iron agreement existed, a penalty of $50 being attached to any violation, which sum Si Ching has been called upon to pay.

The Chinese are highly imitative, but the labor organizations object to them on the ground that they refuse to imitate the white man's standard of living. The Windsor Chinamen have shown an appreciation of trades union principles which indicates that the yellow men are not hopeless in this respect. With Japan a world power and China boycotting the United States, it may not always be possible to exclude the Asiatics from this continent as rigorously as at present. The labor organizations in self-defense may have to organize them into unions, as they did the Europeans who swarmed into the coal mines of Pennsylvania. The Windsor Chinamen have grasped the idea of combination, and if their countrymen in America are properly coached, the yellow peril may cease to terrify.

The Shipping Trust.

Uncle Sam prides himself, with some reason, on his superior shrewdness in driving a bargain, but in one case, at least, he was gold-bricked by John Bull. Two or three years ago Morgan's shipping trust was the bogey of many timid Britons, who saw in it the doom of British maritime supremacy. The American octupus had snatched Britannia's trident. Several of the oldest British trans-Atlantic steamship lines were absorbed in the Morgan merger, which represented $100,000,000 stock and $50,000,000 bonds. By and by the American people, who put up the money, realized that the promoters of the merger were the veriest land lubbers when it came to a deal in ships, and that the whole advantage of the bargain lay with the British shipowners who got three prices for their property. In the first year the trust managed to earn $355,000 over and above the interest on its bonds, but the statement for 1904 shows that the earnings fell $2,039,150 below the fixed charges. The British owners managed to unload their ships on the Morgan syndicate just as a period of prosperity was coming to a close. The ocean trade is now in an unprofitable condition, and the volume of new shipping holds out little prospect of near relief. All of which shows that experience is still an element in business success and that the British people have been in the shipping line a long time.

The Pacific cable, like the Intercolonial Railway, was a political project, with much the same financial result.

Wheat is heading out in the west, and the farmer chuckles, "Heads, I win."

Earl Grey gave the constitution a jolt by standing when he read the prorogation speech. Wouldn't it be fearful if there were no prorogation speech at all?

The British Government has been defeated again on a snap vote, but Premier Balfour shows true British pluck. He doesn't know when he's beaten.

The St. Petersburg Sviet declares that Russia is not yet defeated. Evidently the Japs will have to capture St. Petersburg before the Sviet gives in.

A thousand English girls are coming to Canada for domestic service. Perhaps they believe they will have more chance here of setting up housekeeping on their own account.

A deputation of Transvaal miners recently waited upon Lord Selbourne, the governor, and complained that the Chinese coolies were using bad language toward them. Lord Selbourne asked the deputation where the Chinese learned the objectionable language. Rather a poser, that!

The population of Fall River, the seat of the Massachusetts cotton industry, has dropped 6,000 in the past year, and there is a scarcity of skilled labor in these cotton mills. The explanation given is that many operatives have gone to Canada, and between 2,000 and 3,000 have been lured to England! This is turning the tables, sure enough.

At the Ribbon Counter.

[Washington Star.]

Customer—Have you any Japanese colors?

Salesman—What kind are they?

Customer—Colors that won't run.

Striking.

[Pick-Me-Up.]

She—I'm glad to see that young Mr. Noodle and Tilly Sharp are going to make a match of it. He's got no head at all, but she's very clever.

He—Well, that's all right. You can't expect a match to have two heads to it, anyway.

His Wife.

[Arthur Munby.]

This woman's soul and mine are one;
One spirit, one career;
Not only till the days are done
Of our communion here;

But after, though we singly brave
The passage perilous,
That small seclusion of the grave
Has room for both of us.

Both? We are as a single life—
And death itself shall spare
The dust of husband and of wife
That slowly mingles there.

One may go first, and one remain
To hail a second call;
But nothing now can make us twain,
Whatever may befall;

For we have long since passed the bounds
Of Self, of Time, of Space,
And felt the freedom that surrounds
Love's final dwelling place.

Maude Adams' Favorite Story.

[Boston Herald.]

This is said to be Maude Adams' favorite story: A colored "gemman," name unknown, but called "Culpepper Pete," who, being enamored of some dusky maiden, and not having the courage to "pop" face to face, called up the house where she worked and asked for her over the telephone. When he got the proper party on the line he asked, "Is dat Miss Johnsing?" "Ya-as." "Well, Miss Johnsing, I've got a most important question to ask you." "Ya-as." "Will you marry me?" "Ya-as. Who is it, please?"

Wearying.

[Browning's Magazine.]

"He says a clever thing very often."

"Yes. Too often."

"Certainly. One gets tired of hearing it."

Jumped at Conclusions.

[New York Sun.]

"I am always happiest when I am giving others happiness," she said.

"Is that why you have quit taking vocal lessons?" he asked.

The Blue Scarecrow.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

The farmer's scarecrows were all garbed in blue.

"A blue scarecrow," said the man, "does more good than ten ordinary ones, for birds hate and fear blue as you and I hate and fear typhoid and consumption. A professor pointed out to me that blue was the thing for birds. At first I was unbelieving, but I experimented and found that professor to be right."

Second Citizen—I don't wonder—he's dead.

Out and In.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

"Is Mr. Grapht in?" asked the visitor.

"He's out; but I guess he's in," replied the office boy.

"What do you mean?"

"He's left. Did he owe you money?"

"Yes."

"Well, you're left, too."

The Farmer's Mistake.

Farmer Foddershucks—Well, them actresses is pretty, an' they're certainly rigged out scandalous enough fer anybody, but I can't understand more'n half they say. They're all talkin' at oncet. What's the show about, anyhow?

His City Nephew—Sh-h! Why, uncle, the curtain hasn't gone up yet—you're looking at one of the boxes!

A Sorrowful Story.

[Philadelphia Record.]

A bachelor of forty grew tired of single life;
He looked round a little and then annexed a wife.
She was a type that's common, was very nice and prim,
And filled with an ambition to have things neat for him.

And so, soon after marriage, he found his things arranged;
From which it's very certain his mode of life was changed.
His clothes were put in order; he found his slippers, too,
With greatest ease at evening, when the repast was through.

Upon his varied garments the buttons soon appeared,
And with a frequent dusting his divers hats were cheered.
Oh, if I were to tell you the whole, 'twould take an age,
And make these simple verses just o'er the seventh page!

But did the man enjoy it? Ah, no, I grieve to say,
He peaked and pined most plainly, was very far from gay.
The strange, unheard-of neatness so wrought upon his mind,
He died at six one evening, and left it all behind.

But ere he died he murmured to parties standing near:
"I want this short inscription, and I want it chiseled clear:
'He had a wife whose goodness 'twas very hard to match,
And yet she killed her husband with neatness—and dispatch!'"

Grabbed Him.

[Cleveland Leader.]

Mr. Soashlist—Do you know anything about this co-operative housekeeping?"

Miss Elderleigh—Oh, John, this is so sudden!

Farmer Geehaw—Well, I'm glad to hear she's learnin' suthin' useful. Kin she make a furst-class pie yet?

An Oldtime Garden.

[Book News.]

O for a garden of the olden time,
Where none but long familiar flowers grow,
Where pebbled paths go winding to and fro,
And honeysuckles over arbors climb!
There would I have sweet mignonettes and thyme,
With hollyhocks and dahlias all a-row,
The hyacinth inscribed with words of woe,
The small bluebell that beats a dainty chime
For elfin ears—and daffodillies, too—
The sleepy poppy—and the marigold—
The peony, with petals manifold—
And ragged robins, pink and white and blue,
All these and more I'd have, and back of all
A thousand roses on a mossy wall!

"Impossible?"

"Ya-as; its mouth is bigger than its head. Haw, haw!"

AFTER A NEW TRUTH

Preacher Offers $100 for a New Theological Truth.

Louisville, July 20.—The Rev. T. T. Eaton, in the Western Recorder of this week, has offered a reward of $100 to any one who will produce a single new truth in theology that has been produced since 1850.

In the announcement of the offer Dr. Eaton gives the following explanation:

"We have been reading and hearing a great deal for some time past about the 'new truths' in theology that have recently been discovered. We are told to keep our minds open to new truths in religion. It is said that these 'new truths' require that we shall reconstruct our theological systems, so as to give these 'new truths' their proper place. And we have made an honest effort, stretching now through several years, to find out just what these 'new truths' are, but we have been utterly unable to get hold of a single one of them. We have written numerous letters of inquiry to many leaders of 'modern thought' who have much to say about these 'new truths,' but still we have not been able to elicit a single 'new truth' from any of them. We have read thousands of pages from authors full of talk about these 'new truths,' who descant of their value and importance, but somehow none of them ventures to name any of these alleged truths.

"Unwilling to abandon our search, though confessing to being somewhat discouraged, we have decided to adopt a new plan of procedure. So we hereby offer a reward of $100 to the one who will produce for us a single new truth in theology that has been discovered since, say, 1850. We will cheerfully give $100 to get hold of a new truth in theology, such as these writers delight to talk about, but which they are strangely unwilling to specify. We offer this reward in perfect good faith, and we will pay the money promptly on the presentation of the 'new truth' in theology, discovered since 1850."

WHITNEY MAY RESCIND BONUS

Objects to G. T. Pacific Grant in Northern Ontario Declaring It Unnecessary.

Toronto, July 21.—Hon. J. P. Whitney, in discussing yesterday the bill put through by the Provincial Government two years ago granting $400,000 and 1,200,000 acres of land to the Grand Trunk Pacific for the 200 miles of road west of Fort William, strongly hinted that the Government would rescind this legislation at next session.

This provincial bonus to the Grand Trunk Pacific was awarded with the view of enabling the road to build a branch from the Government line southeast to Fort William, a distance of 200 miles. The bill which passed the House granted the railway $2,000 in cash and 6,000 acres of land for every mile of road built in constructing this branch. The accompanying resolution declared that the land might be given along the line of railway or in such other localities within the Province as might be designated by the commissioner of crown lands, with the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor. This clause, it is now charged, was omitted from the statute, leaving the railroad the privilege of picking and choosing what lands they might desire either on the line of railroad or elsewhere.

It is agreed in the bill that "during the period of one year from the date of the filing in the department of crown lands of a map or plan showing the location of the line of railway, no lands shall be located, leased or sold within a distance of eighteen miles on either side of the railway until the said blocks of land hereinbefore referred to have been set apart and determined.

As a result of the latter clause it is now claimed that a district of 36 miles broad and 200 miles long is closed to colonists. On this 1,200,000 acres granted to the railroad, they have everything but the pine, minerals of all kinds and remaining timber. Until the company has definitely located their lands the opening up of a large tract is stayed.

Referring to this, Premier Whitney expressed strong opposition to the entire contract. He entertained the opinion that it was a wholesale frittering away of public land and money. For his own part he held that not one cent or an acre of land should have been granted, especially when the company would build a line through the district anyway.

PARADE BEFORE MARRIAGE

Bride Delayed the Latter in Order to See the Former.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 21.—Not even the prospects of an immediate marriage could keep Mrs. Charles Smith from seeing the parade of the wild west show. She said that the wedding could wait a few moments, but that the parade would go ahead, no matter how bad she wanted to see it.

Mrs. Smith was Mrs. Clara Rogusta Wednesday morning. Mrs. Rogusta and Mr. Smith went to the county clerk's office and called Justice Mills to perform a marriage ceremony. As they were standing in front of the justice and he had begun to pronounce the marriage vows, they heard the band in the parade.

"Can't this marriage be put off for a few moments? I want to see the parade," she asked, and at the same time stepped from her position and started for the door.

The groom put in an objection. "Why can't we be married right now and fix up the papers after the parade? I think we had better have the ceremony right now."

She replied, "No, Charlie, we will see the parade. Then we can get married. You don't see a wild west show every day and there is no use in letting this go by just to get married a minute sooner."

The prospective groom and the justice followed the woman to the steps of the court house and witnessed the parade. As the calliope was passing, Mrs. Rogusta said, "Now we will go back and have the ceremony finished."

TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Mrs. Mary Dimmick

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Her first letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter;

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice...

Thoroughly Satisfactory

is the way every women who has used the Imperial Oxford expresses her opinion.

The unanimous verdict of over forty thousand Canadian homes is that the

has the most perfect oven and is the most promptly obedient, most economical and most satisfactory range.

There is a constructional reason for each of the many good points found exclusively in this range. For instance the splendid oven, which perhaps more than any other one feature has made the Imperial Oxford such a favorite, is the result of our Patent Diffusive Oven Flue. No other range has it.

Everything that sixty years of experience in range building could teach has been brought to perfection in the Imperial Oxford Range. The weight is there. It has the most perfect arrangement of draft dampers and flues. It has an accurate oven thermometer. It has our patent draw-out Duplex Grate. It has everything that can contribute to range perfection.

SEE IT. If your dealer cannot show it, write us direct and we will send you full particulars and the name of the nearest dealer who can.

People who prefer a Steel Plate Range will find the Oxford Chancellor as perfect in every way as such a range can be made. 1102

NEWTON PASTOR GETS DAMAGES

Old Country People Pay Expenses and Also Small Cash Sum.

Stratford, July 21. — An action recently raised in the court of session, Edinburgh, Scotland, by James Munro, preacher and missionary to the congregation of the Presbyterian Church in Newton, Ont., against the moderator and clerk of the Synod of the Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland for £500 damages in respect of alleged slander, has been settled out of court.

The pursuer having emigrated to Canada in 1866 was invited by the residents of Newton to assume charge of the congregation they were then forming. Since that date he has, without payment, conducted the services at Newton. Mr. Munro averred that Rev. Alex Macrae, one of the defendants, acting as deputy of the Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland, appointed to visit the churches in Canada, attended in July, 1904, a meeting of the Newton congregation, which during the preceding year had erected a place of worship and had drawn up a constitution on independent lines. The pursuer declared that the Rev. Mr. Macrae had endeavored to prevail upon the congregation to accept a fresh constitution prepared by himself, thereby revealing his intention to not only induce the Newton congregation to join the Free Presbyterian Church of Scotland, but to oust the pursuer as preacher. Owing to the attitude of the congregation and their support of their pastor, Mr. Macrae's object was defeated.

As a result of his failure, Mr. Macrae, it was alleged on his return to Scotland, gave an untrue and garbled report of the affair in the Free Presbyterian Magazine and Monthly Record, its insertion being authorized by the moderator and clerk of the synod. In this report the pursuer was dubbed "a self-constituted functionary" and an "outsider," and the suspicion was expressed that "the title deeds of the church at Newton were written out according to ideas entertained by Mr. Munro," as he may possibly have had in view the appropriation of the building for his own use.

A minute accepted by the pursuer and which was practically the defendant's plea in court stated that the defender, Rev. Alex Macrae, in writing and the other defenders in printing and publishing the statements complained of by the pursuer had no intention of reflecting upon the pursuer's character in any way, and they denied that these statements were capable of the construction placed upon them by the pursuer, but if the statements were capable of such construction, apologies were proffered which they would undertake to publish in the first issues of the Free Presbyterian Magazine and Monthly Record. Under reservation of the whole rights and pleas they tendered to the pursuer £15 15s; with expenses, in full of all claims competent to him against them.

BIG SUN SPOTS

Astronomers See Them, Twelve Times as Wide as the Earth.

Boston, July 21. — Two sun spots are now exciting considerable interest among the Harvard astronomers on account of their size. They are close together, somewhat above the center and on the right side. Their diameter is estimated to be 100,000 miles, twelve times as big as the earth's. When they first appeared they were not easily visible, but now they can be plainly seen through smoked glass or even with the naked eye when the sun is low. Whether the hot weather is caused or affected by them is not known. William P. Gerrish, of the Harvard observatory, said:

"Sun spots are not unusual, but appear quite frequently. These are of interest for their size, which is large. Scientists are not agreed as to whether they have any effect upon the weather or not. They may have, but it cannot be demonstrated."

Each spot consists of an umbra, or dark center, surrounded by an outer fringe of lighter penumbra. The shape of the whole is irregularly oval. These spots are supposed to be collections of condensed gas containing solid matter, but scientists are not agreed, and some astronomers think that the spots are depressions in the surface of the sun or bodies moving from the earth to the sun. The spots on the sun at present are among the largest which have appeared in recent years, although they cannot compare with those which appeared in 1892.

KID M'COY EASY? PUTS 5 TO SLEEP

Bath Attendants Pitched On the "Dude," and All Went Down in a Heap.

New York, July 20. — Feeling the effects of the heat yesterday morning, "Kid" McCoy, the pugilist, made up his mind to take a dip in the sea before paying a visit to the Brighton Beach racetrack. He bought a ticket at the Brighton eBach bathing pavilion and hired a fine flannel suit, for which he paid an extra amount. When the bathing suit was handed to him the bath attendant gave him a ticket. This ticket is surrendered to a gatekeepr at the end of the bath as a voucher that the bathing suit has been returned.

After McCoy had enjoyed a good swim he returned to the bathhouse, dressed and started to leave the building. He had the ticket in his hand as he was passing one of the attendants, but forgot to give it to him. The gatekeeper, a burly man, accosted the "Kid" in this style:

"Say, you dude, where's your ticket?"

"Oh, here it is," was the "Kid's" reply, "I forgot it."

"Yes, you did," was the rejoinder; "what was you doing, trying to pinch that suit? I think you were. I've a good mind to take a crack at you, you dude."

"Well, it's up to you," said McCoy in a quiet manner; "I wouldn't do it, because I didn't mean any harm."

This apologetic tone was considered by the gate man as a sign of weakness and he shot his right fist out. It struck the air. The "Kid" had side-stepped, and much to the astonishment of the bathkeeper he got a blow in the face that knocked him heels over head. His cries for assistance brought four or five other bath attendants. As they rushed at McCoy he knocked them down like so many ninepins. When they were all in a heap someone recognized the "Kid," and the belligerent bath attendants made humble apologies and the impromptu "scrap" ended.

The spectators were so well pleased that they offered to take up a purse for the "Kid" or give him a complimentary supper, but he declined both.

KING LEOPOLD ADVISES MORGAN

Surrender of Concession in China Wedge for Ousting the White Race.

New York, July 20.—The London correspondent of the Herald cables: "I have had an opportunity today of speaking with a gentleman who is thoroughly acquainted with the matter of the American China Development Company. He said:

"'I have read the letter in the Herald signed "Behind the Scenes," and the extraordinarily and doubtless intentionally vague reply of Mr. Pierpont Morgan to the same. Mr. Morgan at once admits that the purported purpose of the King of the Belgians' visit to him—namely, the financing of a big scheme for the further development of the Belgian littoral — was not true.

"'But Mr. Morgan asks the Herald's readers to believe that King Leopold hurriedly came over from Ostend to Dover to see him, to talk over "a personal matter," and Mr. Morgan says "That's all I can say about it."

"'But I have absolute reason to know that the sole and only object of the King of the Belgians in thus steaming over the channel to see the American financier was to discuss and dissuade him from accepting the money offered by the Chinese to the American China Development Company to forfeit a concession which had been given for an all-important railroad between Hankow and Canton.'

"I am able to state further, and I challenge Mr. Morgan to deny it, that King Leopold drew his attention to the fact that such a railroad running in connection with a line of steamships from the United States would be of inestimable value to American commerce and that it was a fatal step, both from a financial and patriotic point of view, to abandon that concession under the scarce hidden intimidation of the Chinese.

"His majesty drew Mr. Morgan's attention to the fact that upon this particular point of annulment of the American Development Company's concession depended the whole future of the white race in China, and that its withdrawal was the first strong step toward the ousting of all the white men's commercial undertakings in the Celestial Empire.

"When Mr. Morgan says 'The king came to me on a personal matter,' the financier is technically correct, but that personal matter was nothing further than to put before Mr. Morgan in that very clear and precise manner which the King is master of, the inadvisability of taking the cash offered under such conditions and against national trade advantages, the future profits of which would be prodigious and almost unlimited.

"It may be that the manner in which the King placed the matter before Mr. Morgan may have made the financier feel, as he expressed it to the Herald's correspondent in London, a very personal matter.

"It was merely this—that the King asked the financier to forego the proffered indemnity offered by the subtle Chinaman, which meant the closing of the 'open door,' and to be guided by patriotism and national sentiment in preference to the temptations of cash down.

"King Leopold is, as everyone knows, an exceedingly well-informed man, with a business instinct perhaps not even excelled by that of Mr. Morgan.

"It is to be the highest interests of the white races to listen to the note of warning which the monarch of the Belgians has just sounded in the ears of America's greatest financier, in the hope that patriotism will stand supreme over the vulgar bait of cash which the Chinese hold out so temptingly, on the one side, with a threat; [illegible] Chinese [illegible] consequent augmented prospects of yellow races, boldly says to the American China Development Company, which has a contract which is valuable, valid and correctly drawn up, You shall take pay and get out. If you don't we will force you out."

"The action of China is quite illegal, and such was the substance of what King Leopold impressed upon Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan. Is Mr. Morgan going to allow himself to be paid off at the expense of the future trade of his country with China? Is President Roosevelt going calmly to admit of this flagrant closing of the promised 'open door?' Who shall say?

"One thing is perfectly certain, and that is that King Leopold, in his talk with Mr. Morgan, has drawn attention to one of the most important questions of modern times, and one which must be of the keenest, deepest interest, to the United States first, and afterward to all the great powers in general."

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR THE 400

Many Notables Will Testify in Coming Town Topics Investigation.

New York, July 21. — The probe of District Attorney Jerome is bringing to light some astonishing revelations in the "Town Topics" investigation. Today's inquiry developed that Mrs. C. P. Huntingdon, Senator Depew, John Jacob Astor, Clarence H. Mackay, Perry Belmont and many others among the New York "four hundred" had paid from $1,500 to $10,000 for subscriptions to "Fads and Fancies."

When Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Krotel first examined the books of the Town Topics Company in the case of the prosecution of Charles H. Ahle for attempted blackmail, he was refused permission to inspect some of the entries having to do with "Fads and Fancies." He learned, however, he said, that while the regular subscription price for the book was $1,500, several persons paid larger sums.

Among those was Mrs. Collis P. Huntingdon, widow of the multi-millionaire railroad promoter, who was credited with paying $10,000 for her subscription copy of the book.

Mr. Krotel said today that if it is possible to reach Mrs. Huntingdon, she will be asked to testify as to the condition under which she paid so much more than the regular subscription price.

That the district attorney is determined to question other prominent persons in addition to Mrs. Huntingdon with regard to the subscriptions for "Fads and Fancies," was shown today, when subpoenas were issued for Former Judge Elmer H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the United States Steel Corporation, and Giovanni Morosini, a wealthy banker.

A subpoena was served on Mr. Morosini, whose legal representative said that while Mr. Morosini was not at all well because of the heat, he expected to leave his house in a few days and would do al he could to assist the district attorney's office.

Announcement was made tonight that among the subscriptions to "Fads and Fancies" were those of John Jacob Astor, Clarence H. Mackay, and Senator Chauncey M. Depew, for $2,500 each, and Perry Belmont for $1,500.

Justice Deuel, of the court of special sessions, a director in the Town Topics Company, sent a letter to the district attorney's office today, in which he said he had no objection to Mr. Krotel, making a thorough examination of the company's books. He suggested that an interview with Edwin Lauterbauch, counsel for Town Topics. The partial examination of the books, which was made yesterday, was by consent of Mr. Lauterbauch.

SPENDS WEALTH ON DANCER

Alexis Takes Millions to Paris For His Revelry.

Berlin, July 20.—Grand Duke Alexis, the Czar's uncle and lord high mayor of the Russian fleet, with eighteen personal attendants and more than 700 packages of baggage, carried off millions to Paris to squander on Mlle. Cavalieri, the dancer. Another grand duke who has been traveling of late is Boris.

Quite a common incident of Boris' nightly orgies is champagne drinking from shoes. About a week ago in Berlin, with some of his companions, one of three women from a well-known vaudeville was voted queen of the feast and obliged forthwith to yield her shoes as vessels to convey champagne to the lips of the imperial roysterer. Grand Duke Cyril is in Coburg, where the attraction for him is the divorced Grand Duchess of Hesse.

Boris and Cyril, with their mother, the Grand Duchess Vladimir, have an income of about $1,500,000, chiefly derived from the forests and coal mines in the south of Russia. The 33 Russian grand dukes own 350 castles and palaces in Russia and abroad and support an army of about 20,000 servants. Quite one-fortieth of the best lands in European Russia belongs to these parasites. In these 33, 6, it is stated, have so little education that they can barely read and write.

JUDGES' SALARIES SAFE

Stipends From the Province Will Still Go On.

Toronto, July 21.—Now that the high court judges of Ontario have had their salaries increased $2,000 by the Dominion Government, the question has arisen whether the provincial indemnity of $1,000 per annum shall cease. In chapter 52, R. S. O., of 1897, section 1, it says that this annual indemnity of $1,000 shall be paid "until an addition to that sum is made to the judges' present salary by the Parliament of Canada; provided that in case of an addition being so made of a less sum than $1,000, there shall be paid to each of the said judges an annual sum equal to the difference between the sum so added to his present salary and the said sum of $1,000."

If something had not happened in 1902 the judges would be distinctly minus the provincial indemnity. But chapter 12, sec. 9, of the Ontario statutes of 1902, cancels this stumbling block and reads laconically: "Every judge of the supreme court of judicature of Ontario shall be paid out of the consolidated revenue of the Province the annual sum of $1,000." Thus the Province will continue to contribute to the salaries of the judges, and each judge will benefit to the full $2,000 by the recent advance. This change in the act was made by former Premier Ross and Hon. J. M. Gibson, upon the request of the barristers of the Province, who favored an increase in the salaries of the judges, and was approved of by Hon. J. P. Whitney.

Hay Fever Abolished

Medical Science Discovers a Cure for This Malady by Breathing Hyomei.

Among the important additions made to medical science in recent years, none is more notable than the positive announcement of a cure for hay fever. Exhaustive experiments with Hyomei prove that this treatment will prevent the attacks of hay fever if used for two or three weeks before the annual appearance of the disease, and it may be relied upon, if used faithfully after the sneezing and other annoying symptoms have appeared, to relieve at once and afford a permanent cure.

Stomach dosing cannot cure hay fever. A change of climate is the only treatment that gives any relief, and Hyomei, which medicates the air you breathe, acts upon this principle, giving in your own home a climate as healthy as that of the White Mountains or other health resorts.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1; extra bottles, 50 cents. W. T. Strong has seen the good effects following the use of Hyomei in so many cases of hay fever that he is willing to sell the treatment with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction

London, Friday, July 21.

Hay sold well at the market today; there were 16 loads on the stand; all were new hay; sales were made mostly at $7 per ton; a few loads which were not properly cured sold at $6 per ton.

One load of straw sold at $4.

About 10 loads of oats sold at $1 35 to $1 38 per cwt.

There will be a considerable quantity of raspberries brought in in the next couple of weeks. "I would not be surprised to see a drop in prices," was the remark made by a dealer. Several loads of raspberries were offered today; they sold at 10c and 11c per box by the load.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stock broker, next Free Press building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, July 21.—Noon. — The course of today's market was distinctly disappointing to the most who looked for higher prices. It has been hoped that the increased dividends in Union Pacific and Copper which were declared yesterday would stimulate speculatian, and it was surmised that the increase in copper would be considered an indication that the Standard Oil Trust interests were in favor of higher prices. The market at no time has been strong and there have been evidences that stocks are being continually sold. In Union Pacific liquidation took place around 128¾, and the support was light. It is said that there is a good short interest, both in U. P. and St. Paul, but on the other hand it is maintained that the borrowing of those two stocks is taking place with a view to concealing the origin of sales of long stocks. For the time being it looks as if the market would continue dull and might go lower. Sales to noon, 203,900.

KITCHEN ECONOMY

There is triple economy in using Strong's Baking Powder:

1. It costs less than other good powders.
2. It goes about twice as far.
3. It gives uniformly good results.

The amount of money lost in one "spoiled" baking, through the use of impure powder, would pay the entire cost of Strong's Baking Powder for several months. This powder is always pure, fresh and full of strength, hence you can always depend upon it producing uniform results. Price, 25c a pound.

MAN HAD NERVE

Was Perched High Up On Runaway Outfit, But Escaped Injury.

One of the drivers in the employ of the Hobbs Manufacturing Company had a narrow escape from injury, or possibly from death, this morning, by reason of his horse running away.

The man was driving south on Talbot street, in one of the high rigs used for delivering heavy hardware, when the bolt in one of the shafts became loose and fell out. The rear end of the shaft fell to the ground, and, bumping every instant against the horse's heels, frightened the animal. The horse was a large, powerful beast, and the way it dashed past the market square, swaying the wagon from side to side, looked as if there was trouble in store for the man on top.

Luckily the other shaft remained firm, allowing the driver to keep the horse in a straight-ahead course. If the infuriated animal had been able to turn and upset the high rig, the driver, being perched about twelve feet above the ground, might easily have fallen and broken his neck.

The narrowest squeak of all was when the runaway animal made straight for a rig which was standing by the roadside, and the crowd which had by this time gathered from all parts of the market, and the adjoining streets, expected to see a smash-up. The driver managed to swerve his horse a little to one side, avoiding a head-on collision with the standing rig, but smashing one of its shafts in two, as neatly as if it had been done by an axe.

The driver kept his nerve, thereby saving his bones, for he kept see-sawing the bit in a way that slackened the animal's speed a little, and, watching his opportunity, he turned the horse onto the sidewalk in front of Sussex's blacksmith shop. This was taking a long chance, but it was successful.

Finding itself confronted by a wall, the horse reared up, but it was quickly seized by some men standing near by, and the driver descended from his perch in safety. The man was pale as a ghost, knowing the terrible risk he had run.

Advertiser Correspondence

Decorations for Old Boys.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

For semi-centennial week I would suggest that Queen's avenue, Richmond to Adelaide, be decorated on both sides with rows of Chinese lanterns. It would make a most effective decoration to this beautiful avenue, with its grand rows of maples, beautiful lawns, and new pavement. By united effort by residents the effect would be enchanting—the expense slight.

Yours respectfully,
R. F. MATTHEWS.

LIVELY MIDNIGHT FIGHT

Burglars Enter Italian Admiral's Villa and Fierce Combat Ensues.

Naples, Italy, July 21. — Burglars broke into the villa of Admiral Mirabello on Monday night. One of them entered his bedroom and struck the sleeping admiral on the head with a bludgeon. He jumped out of bed and closed with his assailants, one of whom had attacked the admiral's wife. A severe struggle ensued. A valet who came hurrying up armed with a revolver received a dagger thrust in the arm. He shot one of the thieves in the breast. A maid-servant who came on the scene was wounded in the throat. The admiral was slightly injured, and his wife was severely wounded in the head. Five arrests were made.

RAILROADS BUILD CHURCH

Pennsylvania Lines to Erect $500,000 Buildings in New York.

New York, July 21.—Plans have been filed for the new church and parochial buildings to be erected by the Pennsylvania and New York and Long Island railroad companies to replace the old buildings of St. Michael's parish, at Ninth avenue and Thirty-first street, which were acquired for the Pennsylvania's Manhattan station. The new buildings will occupy a plot from 414 to 424 West Thirty-fourth street, and running through the block to 409-429 West Thirty-third street, and will consist of a three-story church and a five-story rectory and five-story convent facing on Thirty-fourth street, and a six-story school and three-story vestry facing on Thirty-third street.

The buildings are all to be of ornamental brick, trimmed with limestone, and the school is to be equipped with two floors for kindergartens for boys and girls. The group of buildings is to cost $500,000.

Honor for C. M. Hay

Montreal, July 21. — Mr. Charles M. Hays, second vice-president and general manager of the G. T. R. system, has received from Mr. A. Dubois, president of the Intercolonial Railway Congress, notifications of his appointment as a member of the permanent commission.

Mr. Dubois states: "The members of this commission have been in a position to appreciate the energy and close attention you have given to the fulfillment of your functions as a member of the local organization committee of the session which has just closed, and they wish me to advise you that it is a great satisfaction for them to receive you among them."

CASE OF INTEREST TO HOTEL MEN

Proprietor of Metropolitan Sold Cigars On Sunday—Charged With Violation of Law.

A case of considerable interest to hotelkeepers throughout the Province was tried at the police court this morning. Cyrus Stockton, of the Metropolitan, was charged with profanation of the Sabbath. The specific charge was selling cigars on Sunday. The facts were admitted by the defendants, and Lawyer Haverson consumed fifty golden minutes in an argument justifying the defendant. His argument was that an hotelkeeper was not a merchant and consequently did not come under the sttute. He further stated that tobacco was an incidental to the hotel business, and so no charge could be laid against Stockton.

Chief Williams contended that the hotelkeeper was a merchant, pure and simple, when he sold cigars for gain, as he was not compelled to do so by the license law or any other law. P. M. Love took the case under advisement and will give judgment a week from today.

Political, religious and business differences were the cause of a case of abusive language between two citizens this morning. The case was settled by the defendant apologizing and paying the costs of the court. He received a somewhat severe lecture for harboring his religious and political differences for such a time. The P. M. toasted to a turn religious and political bigots and fanatics.

Two citizens pastured their horses on the highway and paid $1 apiece for the hay.

A couple of breaches of bylaw were dismissed.

A young man named Lance Nichols is charged with stealing $2 50. He was bailed out until Monday next, when the case will be disposed of.

Walter Wilkins paid a dollar for allowing his peanut whistler to obstruct the sidewalk.

That "a fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind" was illustrated when the magistrate dismissed the case against a citizen for allowing his dog to run unmuzzled, because someone had stolen the muzzle off the dog. The P. M. had the same experience.

A couple of dog cases were disposed of by the magistrate. No finest yet.

A widow with seven children was charged with allowing a cow, two goats and a calf to run on the street. The case was dismissed.

Another neighbors' row, in which somewhat Billingsgate language was the feature, was settled by the parties interested shaking hands, and departing as friends.

LABOR IS SCARCE AT COUNTY JAIL

"Birds" Who Are Able to Do a Good Day's Work Are Few in Number.

The jail population is seriously lacking in workers these days. In other words, the number of able-bodied prisoners who are, by the nature of their offenses liable for manual labor, is below the average.

Women, old men, insane persons, those on remand, or in other words, those who, although convicted are to serve out their sentences in the Toronto or Kingston institutions, cannot be called upon to saw wood, break stones, cut grass, wash floors, and so on. Most of the work around the county buildings is therefore done by those who have only committed minor offenses, and are in for short terms, physical capabilities, of course, being given due consideration.

And it happens that just at present there are very few jail boarders who fulfill all the conditions necessary to their being open for hard labor.

Yesterday Provincial Bailiff English removed the following four stalwarts to the Central Prison: Walter Brenner, Jim Barrett, H. Donnelly and Al Smith. These are now putting in ten hours per day at the style of labor for which the Central is noted. The Central is always crowded, while there is generally lots of room to spare in the various county jails.

It has been remarked, therefore, that it would be sometimes convenient if the law would allow more prisoners to remain and work in the county jails. But on the other hand, the county institution does not possess the same facilities as the old Central for keeping a large crowd of men at work without any danger of their escape. The man who is sent down to Ridout street for a couple of weeks for being drunk or committing some trifling assault, has not much desire to break away and run the chance of being sent back for double the time, just for the sake of a couple of weeks' more freedom. This class of prisoner can be safely trusted around the county grounds with nothing to keep him from escaping except the fact that half of his coat and trousers is yellow, and that a turnkey is always hovering somewhere in the neighborhood. But the "jailbird" who has six months or one year to put in behind the bars would be very strongly tempted to take a long chance, forsake the lawn mower or the rake, and start off across country, "as per Texas."

DO NOT LOOK NICE

That's Why the C. I. S. Wants Sand and Gravel Removed.

The strip between the roadway and the walks on both sides of Queen's avenue, from Richmond to Maitland streets, presents anything but an attractive appearance, the contractors for the new pavement having left piles of sand and gravel at different points. The Civic Improvement Society has been attempting to have the street placed in a better condition, but so far it has failed. Today a member called on Mayor Campbell, and secured the promise of the chief magistrate to have the sand and gravel removed if the residents would have it raked up in piles. The city engineer was approached some time ago, it is said, but he only gave the information that his department had no intention of doing anything in the matter.

CONDENSED LOCAL NEWS

—Messrs. E. J. Rapsey and George Marriott, of this city, paddled down the Thames to Chatham, this week. The trip was a most enjoyable one.

—Mr. C. W. Bennett, of the Vaudeville Theater, leaves today for Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis and Minneapolis, where he will secure booking for his house for the season which commences on Sept. 4.

—Mr. M. O. Johnston, clerk of Goderich, was in the city today, and paid a visit to municipal headquarters. There is a move on foot to have a gas plant established at Goderich, and before the deal goes through the town council is ascertaining what gas companies are called upon to pay elsewhere for the privilege of doing business. Mr. Johnston was told that the local gas company had the free use of the streets for its mains.

—Kankakee, Ill., Gazette: Dr. A. F. Switzer, of Manteno, takes exception to a portion of the telegraphic news which appeared in the Gazette of July 13 in which it was stated that Canadian Orangemen, angered by a remark, had torn down the American flag at London, Ont. The doctor incloses a clipping from a London paper contradicting the story as absolutely without foundation except that a man under the influence of liquor reached up to the flag, whether to pull it down or straighten out its folds was not known. He was promptly knocked down and that was all there was to the incident. Dr. Switzer is a native of London and jealous of her fair reputation.

CONCERT TONIGHT.

The band of the Twenty-sixth Regiment will give a concert in Victoria Park this evening, under the leadership of Mr. Roselle Pococke.

DECORATE! DECORATE!

Mayor Campbell has ordered a proclamation to be issued calling upon citizens to trim boulevards, decorate their residences with flags, and to have their grounds illuminated with lanterns during the week of the Old Boys' reunion and semi-centennial.

MR. LATCHFORD IN THE CITY.

Mr. Frank Latchford, Attorney-General in the Ross cabinet, was in the city for a few hours today. "I have no news, and nothing to say," said Mr. Latchford to the reporter, with a smile that seemed to mean that its owner had compeltely severed his connection with public affairs. "I am only here between trains."

LADIES FORMED AUXILIARY.

Members of the Typographical Union and their wives spent a social evening at the residence of Mr. Frank Ryan, 486 Central avenue, last evening, and had a most enjoyable time. A ladies' auxiliary to the Typographical Union was formed, with the following officers: President, Mrs. Frank Ryan; vice-president, Mrs. B. Parkinson; secretary, Mrs. A. C. Flowers; treasurer, Mrs. ...

Trunk car works expect that the employes' excursion to Toronto tomorrow will be attended by fully three thousand persons. If the tickets were confined to the employes of the shops only the number of tickets would be greatly lessened, but the management of the road has granted to the members of the other departments the benefits of the 65-cent rate for themselves and their families. A good train service both going to and returning from Toronto will be provided.

DEATH OF MISS ANUNDSON.

Miss Etta Anundson, for several years a member of the public school teaching staff, died this morning at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. A. E. Bock, 450 Central avenue, after a long illness. Miss Anundson was the daughter of the late Christian Anundson, of Talbot street south, and she is survived by her sister, Mrs. Bock, and two brothers—Messrs. George and Alf Anundson, all of this city. Her death is the third in the family in a short time, Mr. and Mrs. Anundson having died within the past two years. Miss Anundson was one of the most active workers connected with the First Congregational Church and Sunday school, and she had a wide circle of friends, who will hear with the most sincere regret of her death.

THE PONIES' PARADE

Over Twenty Already Secured for the Old Boys' Procession.

Mr. W. T. Strong has been devoting considerable time of late towards securing a large turnout of ponies for the parade to be held during the week of the Old Boys' reunion and semi-centennial.

There is every prospect that the turnout of the ponies and decorated carts will far exceed that of two years ago, when it was one of the best features of the procession. Already the owners of over 20 ponies have offered to have their animals in the parade. Mr. Strong has not confined himself to the city in his effort to secure a large number for the occasion. Two ponies and carts are to be brought from Strathroy, others are to come from the surrounding country, and the balance from the city. Every rig is to be gaily decorated, while drivers, who for the most part will be little girls, will be attired as Japanese. Flowers, plumes and the like are to be used in decorating the carts and ponies. A large quantity of the material required has been donated by citizens.

CHAPTER I.

The scene is Sandford-on-Sea, the month October, the hour 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Sandford is not a fashionable watering-place; it consists of a few straggling houses, a church to which everybody goes on Sunday, and an hotel which is as deserted as Goldsmith's Village. An enterprising gentleman, blessed with a sanguine nature, had once endeavored to make something of Sandford, and had built a pier and constructed a parade, in the hope that the London visitor would, attracted by the beauty of the scenery, the big hotel, and the parade and pier, come down in shoals, and make Sandford "a second Brighton;" but the sea washed away the parade and pier, and the Londoners declined to take the six hours' journey which had to be gone through before Sandford could be reached.

At present, the houses were inhabited by quite a little colony of retired and half-pay officers, who considered Sandford their own special property, and regarded a stranger and newcomer just as people in an omnibus or railway carriage regard the pasengers who have the effrontery to get in after them.

They were poor — most of them — but proud; proud of their good birth and titled connections, proud of never having touched that dreadful thing, Trade, and prouder than all of being officers in her majesty's service. To belong to the army or navy was, in their eyes, to be one of the social elect, above suspicion, the equal of anyone, and much above shopkeepers and artists and authors "and that kind of people, you know," as porcelain is above common delf. Wasn't it Sydney Smith who remarked that there would have to be a special heaven for naval and military Christians?

Five o'clock on an October afternoon was not the best time to see Sandford, for the men were playing billiards at the club, and the ladies were sitting over the fire at afternoon tea; but a few minutes after the church clock had struck, a young man sauntered down the steep hill in front of the hotel, and, stopping short, looked round him with the evident air of a stranger.

It was not a bad kind of day for October, and it was anything but a bad view; the bay is a grand and open one, the cliffs to right and left of it are high and picturesque, and there was just enough sun to light up the green waves as they rolled in, and the greener grass of the meadows, common-meadows, which lay behind the beach.

The young man looked at it all for a minute or two, then nodded approvingly.

"Pretty, rather. I've seen worse places than this. But I could afford a great deal more admiration if I wasn't so confoundedly hungry."

Then he looked up at the hotel, and mechanically turned over two or three coins which reposed in the bottom of his trousers' pocket.

"Hem! I wonder whether it would run to a dinner? I'm afraid not. Looks just the kind of place where they feed you on electro-plated salvers and cruets, and charge you almost their weight in real silver. And yet I'm confoundedly hungry. I've a great mind to try it."

He mused for a minute or two, then shook his head.

"No; won't do. I must see if there isn't something less high and mighty than this barrack of a place," and, plunging his hands into the pockets of his thick coat, he walked on.

A stranger is so rare an animal in Sandford that one or two people he met turned to look after him, and there was something about the young fellow which attracted their attention over and above his being a stranger.

In the first place, he was tall and splendidly made, and although his clothes were old and worn, he had the unmistakable look of a gentleman.

He was young—eight-and-twenty—and handsome into the bargain, with a refined-looking face and dark-brown eyes; but there was a look about both face and eyes which seemed to indicate that a portion of the eight-and-twenty years had been "lived hard." There were one or two lines which one does not always see in youth, and there was an expression of mingled sadness and recklessness in the eyes which suggested that life had not been altogether beer-and-skittles to their owner. He looked rather older than his years in consequence of a beard and hair worn longer than is the fashion.

That he was in splendid health and of great strength could be seen by the brightness of his glance, and that peculiar air of self-reliance and consciousness of power which the strong man carries about with him.

He made his way along what ought to have been the parade for a time; but, getting rather tired of the sea, turned up into the principal road and began examining the shops. Presently he came to the baker's. There was a most entrancing smell of hot bread and cakes, and with a half-smile he stood and surveyed the contents of the window critically.

"Now, I wonder," he said to himself, "which would be considered the most filling at the price—half a quartern loaf, six buns, or a couple of slices of pound-cake; or, perhaps, three sausage rolls? George! it's worth being hungry to get such an appetite as this!" and with a short laugh at the Irishism, he took a step towards the door.

As he did so, a woman with two children clinging to her dress came dragging up to the window and stopped, as he had done. They were shockingly poorly clothed, and if they were not hungry, the look which they bestowed upon the contents of the window was a mockery and a snare. Neither the woman nor the children said a word; but after staring for a minute with wistful eyes, she caught hold of a hand of each and drew them gently away. Then one of the children, a girl, began to whimper; but without a word. The young man looked after them for a moment, then he followed and laid his hand on the child's shoulder.

"Hallo!" he said, cheerfully, and with that peculiar smile which children understand so well. "Would you like a bun, little 'un? You would, eh?" for both the children's faces flushed, and their eyes shone with the wild hope that sprang up in their hungry little bosoms. "Come on, then! You'd better come, too, and see that they don't eat too much," he added to the woman pleasantly.

The poor creature hung back a moment, murmuring something; but the young fellow took hold of the girl's hand and led her back to the shop, the others following.

"Just give my young friends a—a—oh, we'll help ourselves, miss," he said to the young lady behind the counter, who stared at the quartette in anything but an inviting fashion. "Here, try some of these, they look good; anyway, they'll do to start on!" and he leant over the window barrier and heaped up a plate with buns and tarts. "Better try one yourself, ma'am," he said, and thrust a plate into the woman's hand. Then he went to the end of the shop and became apparently deeply absorbed in a colored show-card recommending somebody's "two-shilling tea."

The woman and children ate ravenously; twice he filled up the plates; then, when it became evident that, for the present, the giant hunger was conquered, he took up a quartern loaf, and slipping it under the woman's shawl, playfully bundeled them out of the door, cutting short their poor attempts to express their gratitude with a curt laugh, and an assurance that they were quite welcome.

"I'm fond of children, and I'm fond of tarts, and it's a pity they should ever be separated. Don't you mention it, ma'am, and—good afternoon!"

Then he turned to the young lady and asked the important question, "How mush?"

She went through the fearful reckoning, "two of these, and four of that, and six buns, and a scotchbread, and a quartern loaf," and declared the total.

The young fellow pulled out his money and laid it on the counter. The change—exactly fivepence—represented the whole of his wealth.

He looked at it with a queer smile, then taking up a roll, laid down a penny and sauntered out. Watching three starved persons eat had not made him any the less hungry. But as he did not care to devour a penny roll on the High street of Sandford, he put it in his pocket and walked out, away from the sea and along a lane leading inland.

There were some pretty little houses, too large for cottages, not large enough for villas; and the lights from the windows seemed to the young fellow to make the October chilliness all the more complete. He made haste to get away from them, and not until he had reached a corner of the lane did he take the roll out of his pocket.

"I may as well have it comfortably," he said. "There will be no charge for a seat, I suppose?" and with a laugh he sat down under a tree and commenced his—dinner.

It was all very quiet. Although not yet dark the birds had gone to bed, and, excepting the tinkling of a piano in one of the houses he had passed, there was absolutely no sound.

He finished the roll all too quickly, and mechanically drew out a pipe; but he did not fill it, and, with a sigh, put it back again; he was out of tobacco.

Probably this depressed him more than his scanty meal, for he stopped the whistle which he had commenced, and leaning his head upon his hand, sat silently contemplating the last rays of the setting sun.

Presently a footstep, a light but firm one, broke the stillness; but the young fellow was so lost in thought that he did not hear it, and it was not until a young girl came almost up to him that he started and looked up.

It was so sudden and unexpected an interruption to his thoughts, and the girl herself had so beautiful a face, and was altogether such a graceful specimen of nature's handiwork, that he was guilty of staring at her; and it was rather for the sake of saying something that should explain away his rudeness than because he wanted the information, that, rising, he said:

"Can you tell me how far Thirle is from here?"

The girl stopped and looked at him, at first with a faint suggestion of fear, —it was growing dark, and the lane was a lonely one—but something in his voice reassured her, and with an accent that had a touch of pity in it—for he was pale under his tan as a man who had only eaten a penny roll during the last twenty-four hours might well be—she said:

"Thirle? It is three miles from here."

"Thank you," he said, and he just lifted his hat.

She may have mistaken the gesture for the familiar one of the professional tramp; but, anyway, after a second's pause, she took a shilling from her purse in her hand and held it out to him.

The young fellow did not start nor color, but he looked at her for a moment, a look straight into her eyes, then, holding out his hand, said:

"Thank you."

It was she who colored; but she let the shilling drop, and, without a word, passed on.

The young fellow stood with the coin lying in his open palm; but his eyes were fixed on the retreating figure.

"She took me for a tramp!" he murmured, and he caught his lips between his teeth. "A tramp! Great heavens—a tramp!" Then he looked at the shilling, and, with a faint smile, shrugged his shoulders. "Well, and what else am I? Desmond, my boy, don't let your pride make an idiot of you! You were going to be mean enough to run after her and give it her back. Oh, yes, you were; don't deny it now. And, just to save your own miserable pride, you'd wound that beautiful creature's feelings? But you don't do it, my friend. You'll put your pride in your pocket—and the shilling; that is what you'll do! and he suited the action to the word. "By George! what luck! But for that angel I should have had to spend the night in some loft or on the tramp! But I'll get a bed in on one of the little inns now! And I'll dream of her!"

The inspiration seemed to cheer him, for his handsome face brightened and looked five years younger.

"'Three miles to Thirle,' she said. What a beautiful voice! By Jove! I can hear her now! A lady's voice! [illegible] and clearness and one! Three miles! I'm tired, confoundedly tired! There must be some small inn in this place, I should think, as well as that ginger-bread hotel. Shall I go back and hunt for one, or walk on? My angel's shilling shall decide it!"

He took the shilling from his pocket and looked at it, almost as if it were something more than coin.

"Heads, I go back; tails, I go on!" he said, as he spun it in the air. "Heads!" he exclaimed. "I go back!" and he laughed.

But I think if he had known the importance of the question the shilling had decided for him, that laugh would have been left out.

DISTRICT HONORS TO GO TO GUELPH

Championship Cinched in a Game With Elora—Exeter Badly Beaten.

Guelph, Ont., July 20.—The lacrosse match between Elora and Guelph today resulted with a score of 4 to 2 in favor of Guelph. This victory practically gives the championship of the district to Guelph, as there are only three more games to play.

BRADFORD AN EASY WINNER.

Bradford, Ont., July 20. — The first match here in the intermediate series of the C. L. A. took place today, between the Newmarket and Bradford clubs. It was expected by the home team that they would have a pretty hard tussle to win, but when the result was shown they had run against the easiest game of the season, the score being 8 to 1 in favor of the home team. The game was free from extreme roughness. Mr. Waghorne refereed.

HOME TEAM WON.

Fergus, Ont., July 20.—In a junior championship C. L. A. match played here today between the Lornes of Mount Forest and Thistles of Fergus, the home team won by a score of 9 to 4. The Thistles were much lighter than their opponents and prospects are bright for winning their district. Kearns, of Arthur, refereed.

EXETER NOT IN CLINTON'S CLASS.

Clinton, Ont., July 20.—The lacrosse match played here this evening between Exeter and Clinton gives the later another victory, the score being 15 to 0 in favor of Clinton.

NOT ONE PLAYER PENALIZED.

Thornbury, Ont., July 20. — The Alerts of Thornbury-Clarksburg played the Meaford team an official game in the junior series, C. L. A., on the Clarksburg grounds today. The game was clean and free from all disturbance, not one man of either side being penalized. The Alerts were in splendid shape and put up one of the best games of the season. The Meaford team were not in it from the start. Score, Alerts 8, Meaford 1.

THE GUN.

A CORRECTION.

In the report of the Springwood Gun Club's shoot yesterday, Day was given credit for only 14 birds out of 25, whereas he made 24. He made the remarkable score of 48 out of 50 birds in the two shoots.

TRIAL OF MAGNATE GRIFFITH POSTPONED

Cleveland, O., July 20.—Judge Ford, of the common pleas court, today issued a temporary restraining order forbidding the trial of Howard C. Griffiths, of Jersey City, by a commission of baseball magnates, on a charge of trying to wreck the American League, and further forbade the publishing of any facts concerning the trial, should it already have taken place. The trial was to have started this morning in this city. The hearing in court will come up next Monday.

The national commission consists of Garry Herrmann, of Cincinnati, chairman; Ban Johnson and Harry Pulliam, as secretary. These are the four persons enjoined.

In order to avoid the legal complications that might be incurred under the injunction ob'ained by Howard C. Griffith today, the National baseball commission did not take up the charges preferred against him, but in a meeting this afternoon adopted a resolution calling on the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, on or before Aug. 15, to present to this commission satisfactory proof as to whether the statements and representations (if made) of certain of its officers, in an endeavor to disrupt organized baseball, was with the authority and consent of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and at the same time and place to inform this commission what action, if any, has been taken by the said National association to punish or discipline its said officers so charged with so flagrantly and publicly attempting to disrupt and injure organized baseball.

The resolution sets forth that unless the terms be complied with by the National association, that all rights guaranteed to it by the agreement of Sept. 11, 1903, shall at once cease and terminate

LONDONS WON CLOSE GAME FROM THISTLES

The Thistle Club bowlers visited the London Club bowlers and gave them a great race in an inter-club match. The Londons managed to win out by four shots in the closest game of the series. The scores:

RACING AT HIGHLAND PARK IS AT AN END

Windsor, July 20.—The Detroit University has purchased the north half of the Highland Park Association's race track for a new large school building, and racing at that track is at an end. What the club will do or whether they will be racing here after this year is not known. The association controls the Windsor track. It is quite possible that meetings will be held there.

WOODSTOCK HAS COMFORTABLE LEAD

Looks Like Winner of Western Ontario League—St. Thomas Tail-Ender.

Woodstock has a very comfortable lead in the Western Ontario Baseball League, having a percentage of .818, with nine games won and two lost. Ingersoll is the most dangerous competitor, standing well up in the race, with one victory less than Woodstock and two more losses. Third place is held by Brantford, while St. Thomas appears to be hopelessly out of the race. The Saints have played eleven games, ten of which have been lost. The standing:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Woodstock	9	2	.818
Ingersoll	8	4	.667
Brantford	4	6	.400
St. Thomas	1	10	.091

THE SAME OLD STORY.

St. Thomas was given its usual dose yesterday at Woodstock. The Saints were beaten by their own errors. McDonald was put out of the game for "sassing" Umpire Sharkey. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Woodstock	7	9	2
St. Thomas	3	8	5

Sullivan and Roche; Killingsworth and J. Steele.

GOOD GAME AT INGERSOLL.

Ingersoll and Brantford played a fine game of ball at Ingersoll yesterday. Plenty of hitting and fast fielding made it a very interesting match. "Knotty" Lee's bunch lost 9 to 5, with "Knotty" himself pitching. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Ingersoll	9	10	3
Brantford	3	6	3

Batteries—Taylor and Graham; Lee and Elliott. Umpire Stockton.

GAME AT CALEDONIA.

Caledonia, July 20. — The Caledonia ball team was defeated by Dunnville in the Haldimand League game here today by a score of 8 to 3. Batteries—Caledonia, Lawrence and Hawthorne; Dunnville, Schofield and Julius.

GAME POSTPONED.

The Strathroy-McClary game, which was to take place on Aug. 2, has been postponed until Aug. 16. The managers of the two teams met yesterday and arrived at that decision. It was thought that the attendance at the London-Rocket games might be affected if the first arrangement was carried out.

BELMONT MATINEE DREW A LARGE CROWD

A large crowd, numbering over 600, attended the matinee races at Belmont. The results were as follows:

Free-for-all, half-mile heats:

W. G. Sippi	1	3	1	1
H. Begg	2	1	2	2
P. O'Dell	4	2	3	3
J. Wilcox	3	4	5	5
A. Harkness	5	5	4	4

Time—1:21, 1:27, 1:23, 1:26.

Mr. Sippi finished first in the second heat, but was set back for driving wide in the stretch.

Green pace, half-mile heats:

Mr. Coughlin	5	1	1
A. Taylor	1	2	2
C. Daw	3	3	3
N. Thompson	2	4	4
William Taylor	4	5	dr

Time—1:45, 1:29, 1:35.

Mr. D. Thody was the starter.

The next matinee will be held Tuesday evening, Aug. 1.

TWO RACES WERE WON IN STRAIGHT HEATS

Good racing was furnished at the Windsor meeting yesterday. The track was fast. The summaries:

First race, 2:24 pace:

Red Nightingale, Springfield Stable	1	1	3	1
Sally Pointer, J. K. Wheat	2	2	1	2
Tommy Burns, W. H. McCarthy	3	3	2	3
College King, D. McLachlin	4	4	4	dr
Harry B., C. A. Valentine	5	dr

Time—2:10¾, 2:10¾, 2:13½.

Second race, 2:17 trot:

Danube, Eastview Stock Farm	1	1	1
Miss Rosedale, Balt Stock Farm	4	2	3
Marnut, Dich McMahon	2	3	5
Pat T., Rody Patterson	3	5	2

BRITT IS FAVORITE IN FIGHT AT 2 TO 1

San Francisco, July 21.—James E. Britt, of California, and "Kid" Sullivan, of Washington, will meet at Woodward's Pavilion tonight to battle for the lightweight championship of the world. The men will weigh in this evening at 133 pounds, and both will be nearly at weight. Britt is a 2 to 1 favorite and even with these odds the Sullivan money is not plentiful, his backers patiently waiting for a chance to bet when the odds drop a point or so, which it is considered likely to be before the morning. The little fighters are in the pink of condition and a lively battle is expected.

THE RING.

McLEOD DOWN AND OUT.

St. John, N. B., July 20.—In the sixth round of what was to have been a 10-round fight, Mike (Twin) Sullivan, of Boston, won from Beth McLeod, of St. John, before 2,000 people last night in Victoria Rink. It was an even thing in the earlier rounds, but Sullivan's continuous body blows had McLeod so weakened in the sixth that Referee Jack Power gave the victory to Sullivan.

HALL CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Chicago, July 21.—"Jim" Hall, formerly pugilist champion of Australia, who fought with Robert Fitzsimmons [illegible] for the circuit races, prize ring, was arrested yesterday on a charge of theft. It was asserted by the police that Hall was one of three men who is alleged to have picked the pockets of a passenger on a street car. Hall denies the charge.

LAWN BOWLING.

BLENHEIM WON.

Blenheim, July 20.—In a bowling match played here today between Ridgetown and Blenheim, the home team won by a majority of 49 points, the score being: Blenheim 96, Ridgetown 47. Three rinks played.

MITCHELL WON.

Mitchell, July 20. — Yesterday the St. Marys lawn bowling club played their initial game with the Mitchell club on the Mitchell green. The score was:

LACROSSE.

TIE WILL BE DECIDED HERE.

St. Thomas and Chatham are tie in district No. 1, of the C. L. A., and it has been decided to play the tie off in this city. Each team has scored a victory over the other. The deciding match will be worth attending. Lacrosse is somewhat dead in this city at present, and a good game might do much to revive the sport. A team could be placed in the C. L. A. next year, that would be a credit to the city. A large crowd of Londoners will witness the match.

THE WHEEL.

TWO RECORDS BROKEN.

Ogden, Utah, July 21.—Two world's bicycle records have been broken at the saucer track here. Jack Hume did the mile unpaced in 2:00 2-5, breaking the former record of 2:02 3-5 made by W. H. Wharenburger at New York, August, 1899. S. H. Wilcox lowered the three-quarter mile unpaced amateur record from 1:37 to 1:32 3-5. The previous record was made by B. F. Stowe at Springfield, Mass., October, 1894.

PACER GALLAGHER GOES TO ENGLAND

Bradford, Pa., July 20. — The Canadian pacer Gallagher was sold here yesterday for shipment to England. He will be campaigned across the water along with Prince Alert. Gallagher is the fastest harness horse ever raised in Canada. He is 7 years old, by Rysdick, 15½ hands high, and has a record of 2:03¾. Gallagher won at the Toronto horse show last spring, and was owned by Mr. McMillan, of Winnipeg. He paced a fast exhibition heat here on Saturday, and was in [illegible]

PRESSMEN TO TACKLE CITY HALL OFFICIALS

The city hall officials will be led like lambs to the chop mill next week, when the "pencil-pushers" of the local papers get them into a ball match. The press will "eat 'em alive" and enjoy themselves all the while. It has been brought to the ears of that most fearful body, the reporters, that Jimmy Bell and Clarence Robinson, et al., are lying in wait for the "news gatherers," and desire to entice them into a ball match. The press men hereby, sub judice, and with malice aforethought, all damages to be paid out of the sinking fund, do invite them to the shambles, and what the pencil-pushers will do to them! To show their sinister designs, have not the city hall men said they will put Police Magistrate Love behind the bat. What care the newspaper men, for the aforesaid police magistrate is now suffering with "charley-horse" on his left wrist, received while playing ball at a Sunday school picnic. Herewith find appended the defi:

"Acting City Clerk Robinson, City Hall:

"On behalf of the staffs of the two newspapers you are hereby challenged to play a game of baseball at Tecumseh Park any day next week. Nine men a side and Marquis of Queensbury rules to govern. (Signed), W. Laut, Free Press; H. Fowler, Advertiser.

TENNIS.

AMERICANS CHOSEN.

London, July 21.—Holcombe Ward and William A. Larned have been selected for the singles and Ward and Beals C. Wright for the doubles in the challenge round for the Davis International Tennis Trophy, play for which will be begun at Wimbledon today, but the right is retained to change these nominations at the last moment. The meet is looked forward to with great interest and practically every seat has already been booked.

THE TURF.

YESTERDAY'S WINNERS.

WON IN RUNAWAY STYLE.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 20. — John Ferriss' Apteryx won the steeplechase at Fort Erie in runaway style today. He was an odds-on choice and the ring laid 7 to 5 against the field. Apteryx went to the front after the first jump, and led to the finish by 40 lengths. Nesto and Maroma fell before they had made one turn of the field, but Mattocks and Gee were not hurt. Halifax won the 2-year-old race without an effort, but the other events were very keenly contested, and produced the closest kind of finishes. Outsiders, beginning with the 15 to 1 shot Itaska, furnished the first three in the opening event, and the second went to Lulu Young, backed from 15 down to 8 to 1. In this race Jockey W. Fischer struck Obert with his whip and was suspended for fifteen days.

WEDDED AT WINNIPEG

Miss Bert Lortie Becomes the Bride of Mr. H. G. Smith.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Parish in Winnipeg on Wednesday morning, July 19, when Mis "Bert" Lortie, one of London's most popular young ladies, became the bride of Mr. H. Gerald Smith, formerly traveler for D. S. Perrin & Co., here. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Father Cahill. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will remain in Winnipeg for the exhibition, after which they will leave on a short honeymoon to points west, and will be at home in Regina after Aug. 15.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents, amongst them being a cabinet of silver, the gift of the Hobbs' Hardware Company, where the bride has been employed as bookkeeper for the past six years.

Comfortable, commodious carriages for picnic parties. R. Hueston & Son.

SLIPPED ON A PEEL

Mrs. Dr. Harvey Meets With a Very Painful Accident.

The carelessness of some inconsiderate person in throwing a banana peeling on the sidewalk was responsible for a very painful accident last evening.

Mrs. (Dr.) Harvey, in company with her husband and daughter, were walking along Dundas street, near Maitland, when Mrs. Harvey stepped on a banana peel and fell against the iron fence in front of Major Beattie's property, sustaining a very severe gash on the forehead.

Dr. Harvey was very indignant over the accident, especially as he has always been an advocate of a bylaw to punish the people who throw peelings on the sidewalk. The doctor said that he counted no less than twelve peelings in one block on his way home last night, and believed that people sometimes throw peels on the sidewalk with malicious intent. A bylaw against peelings in his opinion is just as necessary for the public safety as any dog-muzzling ordinance.

MISS ROWED WEDDED

Mr. J. P. Cook, of St Thomas, Marries a London Girl.

At the Memorial Church on Wednesday afternoon, Miss Bessie, daughter of Mrs. W. A. Rowed, 356½ Princess avenue, became the bride of Mr. J. P. Cook, of St. Thomas. Rev. Dyson Hague conducted the ceremony, and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr. G. E. Rowed. Miss Moore played the wedding march.

The bride wore a gray pailette gown, and went away in a dress of chiffon broadcloth. Mr. and Mrs. Cook left for a honeymoon to the Atlantic Coast, after which they will live in St. Thomas.

A handsome gift of silverware and cut-glass was given the bride by the Memorial choir. The groom's present to the bride was a piano.

SYSONBY, AT 1 TO 30, WAS EASY STAKE-WINNER

New York, July 20.—Jas. R. Keene's great colt Sysonby scored an easy victory in the $7,500 Iroquois stakes at Brighton Beach today.

The victory was almost a walk-over, as Migraine and Pasadena, his opponents, never pushed the colt at any part of the journey. Sysonby was held at 1 to 30 and galloped the distance with 126 pounds up in 2:06 2-5. Migraine, receiving 16 pounds from the winner, was second.

Sysonby rushed into the lead in the first few strides, and passing the stand the first time led by two lengths from Migraine, a length and a half before Pasadena.

The favorite led by two lengths in the run down the back stretch. O'Neill, on Migraine, made an attempt to catch the leader, but Sysonby galloped along and won, hard held, by two lengths from Migraine, who was ten lengths in front of Pasadena.

Sue Smith, winner of the first race, was bid up to $4,500, an advance of $2,700 over her entered selling price. The stable bid the usual $5 and retained the horse. Sue Smith was backed from 5 to 1 to 5 to 2.

Three favorites won. In the third race Whimsical made a new record of 1:06 1-5 for 5½ furlongs.

STRATHCONA PRIZE TO RICHARDSON

Bisley, July 20.—In the St. George's, 500 yards, first stage, the following scores were put on: Elliott 29, Eastcott 26, Forest 29, Flowers 27, Jones 31, McConnel 35, Morrice 32, Phillips 28, Pugh 30, Russell 29, Simpson 32, Stuart 27, Boult 29, Brayshaw 31, Crowe 32, Kerr 33, Kelly 32, Moore 31, Richardson 31, Wilson 33.

There were very few bullseyes to be seen registered on the 100 yards score boards. Along the 600 yards range at the best there were many inners, magpies and outers, and quite a number of misses. The conditions were the same this afternoon as this morning. The tricky wind is mostly blamed.

Elmes, of the Thirteenth Regiment, Hamilton, is here unattached to the Canadian team, but is shooting in the King's prize. Got 351st place.

The garden party this afternoon was a great success. Lord Strathcona presented his own prize to the commandant, whom he asked to present it to the winner. He also gave the Canadian company's prize.

Richardson is the likely winner of the Strathcona prize, while Crowe and Morrice shoot off for the choice of the second prize.

CHINA PLANS REFORMS

Thorough Reorganization of Government Is Now Projected.

London, July 20. — The Pekin correspondent of the Telegraph says there are undoubted signs that at the close of the war sweeping measures of reform in the government of China are contemplated. Officials will be sent to all parts of the world to investigate the systems of constitutional government, after the manner of the mission of Prince Iwakura in reference to the restoration of Japan. Two officials will go to Japan. There also will be a secret mission regarding Manchuria. All will start a few weeks hence.

The correspondent outlines a reform scheme drafted by Viceroy Yuan Shih Kai, which, he says, is considerably favored by the throne. It includes a thorough reorganization of the Government, the abolition of the old system of appointing officials, the establishment of schools throughout the empire and the adoption of conscription.

The Tokio correspondent of the Telegraph says that four high Chinese officials have been ordered to go to Japan, Europe and America to investigate the systems of the constitutional governments, and, it is also believed, to endeavor to induce the powers to call an international conference on Far Eastern affairs.

MARRIED BELOW THEIR STATION

Morganatic Marriages Are On the Increase Amongst European Royalty.

London, July 20. — It is a well-known saying that "Cupid laughs at law," and it certainly appears to be justified in the case of royalties who marry for love rather state reasons. Certain it is, says Pearson's Weekly, that morganatic marriages are on the increase.

Take, for instance, the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, who was banished by the Czar to Tashkent, in Turkestan, because he fell in love with and married a daughter of the chief of police of Orenburg.

His sacrifice was a failure as far as happines was concerned, for his marriage was a disappointment, and the prince fretted after the fuller life he had formerly had, and on his recall by the present Czar his health was found to have suffered severely.

The Grand Duke Paul of Russia, who held the rank of lieutenant-general and adjutant-general to the Czar, was deprived of his offices and banished for ten years on the occasion of his marriage with the Baroness Pistolkoff, the beautiful but not altogether excellent wife of one of the Grand Duke Vladimir's suite, who divorced her.

This prince has recently been pardoned and summoned back to report to the Czar what Europe thinks of the Russian situation, but his wife was stopped at the frontier and had to return.

Perhaps one of the happiest morganatic unions is that of the Grand Duke Michael, uncle of the Czar, who followed the dictates of his heart in marrying a daughter of Prince Nicholas of Nassau by his morganatic wife, the Countess Meremberg, whose father was the great Russian poet, Pushkin.

He is now restored to favor, and his wife has been created Countess Torby; but the grand duke clings to his English home at Keele Hall, Staffordshire, where he lives in perfect harmony with his lovely wife and children, and has been the host of our own King and Queen, while he is beloved by the people in whose midst he lives and moves.

The imperial house of Austria furnishes many examples of such love-matches.

One of the most picturesque romances was that of the Archduke John, who is supposed to have been shipwrecked and drowned in 1890, but of whom report has it that he still lives.

He was out hunting one day, when he surprised a picnic party, of which Milly Stubel was one. This girl was only an opera dancer, but had an unblemished reputation, and so deeply did the archduke fall in love at first sight that he courted her under the name of Johann Orth, a Viennese engineer. All unsuspecting, Milly returned his affection, and only discovered his rank when she saw him reviewing the troops as an imperial field marshal.

In vain did he implore the Emperor to sanction his marriage with the girl, only a quarrel ensued, and he was dismissed from the army. After the death of his friend, the Crown Prince Rudolph, a reconciliation took place, but he asked permission to renounce all royal rights, and assumed the name of Johann Orth. Then he married his lady love and sailed away with his bride, only to encounter a storm, in which, it is believed by most people, his wife and his crew perished.

Recent, comparatively, is the decision of the Archduchess Stephanie to abandon her royal position in favor of her love for Count Lonyay. Her father-in-law, the Emperor of Austria, gave his consent; but her own father, the King of the Belgians, has never forgiven his daughter, and it will be remembered that at the deathbed of the late Queen Louise of Belgium the two passed each other without recognition.

Following the mother's example, the Archduchess Elizabeth of Austria fell in love with a young nobleman of ancient but not royal lineage, Prince Windischgratz, and, despite the protests of her royal grandfathers, insisted on marrying him and renouncing all claim to the Austrian Empire.

Yet another of Austria's imperial family, in the person of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, succumbed to Cupid's dart, and heir-presumptive to the crowns of Austria and Hungary though he was, married the Countess Sophie Chotek, renouncing on behalf of any children born to them all right of succession.

There are three or four more archdukes, since dead, who contracted alliances with commoners.

The Princess Marie of Reuss, a most ancient house, committed a mesalliance by wedding the Baron Guagnoni, while the Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria lost her heart and hand to a young lieutenant in the Bavarian army —Baron Siegfried by name.

The Duke Constantine of Oldenburg descended lower in the scale of society in search of a wife, since he married his former cook, now known by the title of Countess Zamnckan.

Quite recently has the Archduke Leopold of Tuscany renounced all claim to his title, and assumed the name of Leopold Wolfling, in order to marry the beautiful actress, Mme. Adamovitch. He has become a Swiss subject and made his home in Zug.

One of the Battenberg family, the late Prince Alexander, married a singer, Fraulein Loisinger, with whom he lived happily till his death.

Princess Frederica of Great Britain and Hanover married the Baron Pawel von Rammingen against the wishes of her family, but, if report speak truly, has had no cause to regret her decision after many years of wedded bliss.

It seems but a little while ago—time flies so rapidly—that our sympathies were stirred by the love story of Prince Oscar of Sweden, who fell in love with a charming commoner in the person of Miss Ebba Monck, and for her sake gave up the royal privileges and responsibilities. The happy pair chose England for their honeymoon, and, if memory serve aright, Bournemouth was the favored spot selected.

Though scarcely taking rank as a royal house, yet the princedom of Monaco is worthy of notice, and is remarkable for having been the first state of which the ruler selected an American girl for his bride. Miss Alice Heine, Princes of Monaco, found to her cost that the gilt sometimes wears off the gingerbread, and that her exalted position might be changed for the better, as far as happiness was concerned, by obtaining a divorce from her husband.

SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE RUBBED IN.—Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; pour a little in the hand, and applying it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The Oil will gradually penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.
