The Voice of UNB

The Return of the "Student" — Back for another "academic" year, this is Courtney, our young woodpecker friend who romps so playfully through the pages of the current edition of Up The Hill. Courtney boasts on the yearbook pages that he is "the only red and black woodpecker up the hill" and therefore aspires to becoming the official UNB mascot.

Law School Opens at Somerville House

For some thirty UNB students, the 1959-60 academic term is already a full week old. Lectures for the newly-housed UNB Law School began at Somerville House last Tuesday.

Dean William F. Ryan, commenting on the early start said that it was in keeping with a procedure adopted by law schools across Canada.

Dean Ryan went on to say that the move of the school from Saint John was initiated in order to allow for more thorough cooperation between the law faculty and those of the entire university. The new building is located on fashionable Waterloo Row overlooking the St. John River.

Faculty at the Law School consists of Prof. G. A. McAllister, Prof. G. V. LaForest, Dr. Joseph W. Sears, and Dean William F. Ryan. There will also be the following special lecturers from the Fredericton Bar Association: Ralph Limerick, Q.C., John Gray, William Hoyt, Ronald Stevenson and John McNair.

Ball. Semiformal dress.

Saturday, Sept. 26

JUDGEMENT DAY

2:00 (p.m.) Football game, UNB vs SAINT JOHN WANDERERS. Frosh must wear freshman dress to the game.

1600 EXPECTED

Enrolment at UNB was expected to jump another new record this year as students began filing through the registration lines this week. The anticipated figure is 1600.

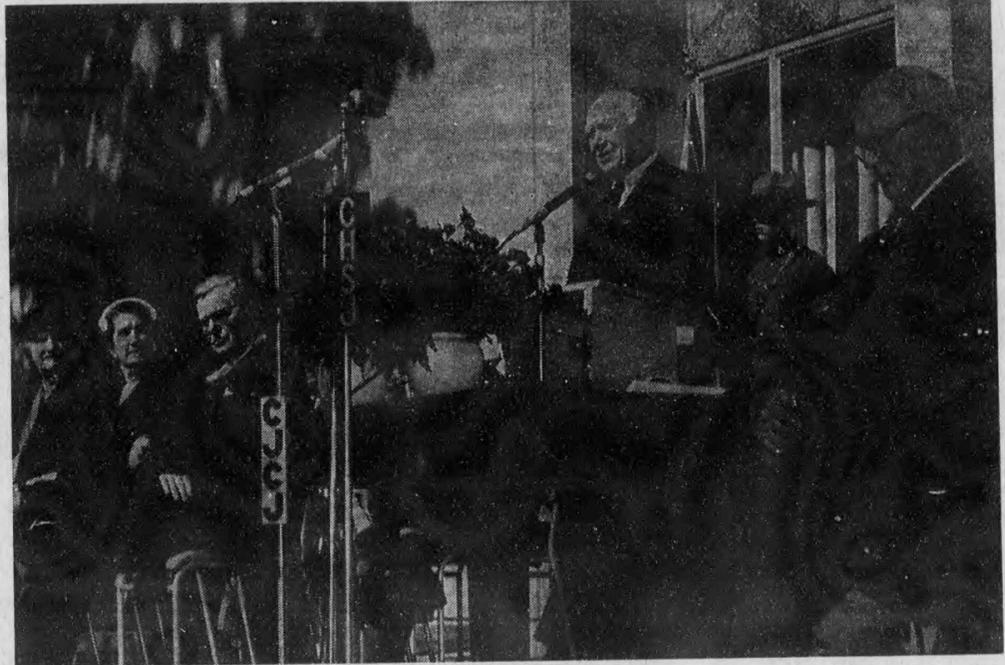

New students, some 500 in number, reported to the campus Saturday to participate in a program of College Ability Tests. Monday and Tuesday they undergo registration and counselling. Registration of former students is on Wednesday.

The record enrolment has also brought about a new high in the co-ed ranks. There will be more than 200 girls attending lectures up the hill this year. University authorities regard the rising enrolment as a "natural" trend which is evident at universities across the country.

The school of nursing, which opens this fall for the first time, has 14 students registered. These students come from Ontario, Quebec, Newfoundland, and New Brunswick. Nursing classes for the new school are to be held in the former Provincial Veterinary Laboratory building which was recently acquired by the university. The director of the new school is Miss Katherine E. MacLaggan.

Students returning for another year will find several changes on the campus: The UNB Law School, formerly situated in Saint John, is now in its new quarters, Somerville House, on Waterloo Row. Construction of the new physics and biology building is underway at the rear of the Memorial Student Centre. And the recent purchase of the former Dr. A. S. Cowie home at 806 George Street by the university has provided accommodation for 25 more women.

A recent development, and another step in the UNB building plans, was the calling for tenders for the construction of the new arts building. This building will be the second to be supported by funds collected in the building campaign. The first is the physics and biology building. The arts building, when completed, will be a three-storey building with two wings. One wing will contain classrooms, while the other will hold faculty offices. It is scheduled for completion by the fall of 1960.

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE LORD BEAVERBROOK,

Chancellor of the University of New Brunswick conferred to the people and the Province of New Brunswick the most generous and monumental gift of the benefactor's noted career last Wednesday afternoon, September 16, when he formally handed over the newly erected Beaverbrook Art Gallery together with its art treasures and its multi-million endowment fund for the edifice's maintenance.

The ceremony, held on the Gallery steps on the bank of the St. John River opposite the Provincial Parliament building, was a short dignified affair. Lord Beaverbrook, in his usual quick and witty manner, introduced Dr. W. G. Constable to perform the formal ceremony. In his introduction, the Chancellor stated, "Dr. Constable was a lecturer in Art at six universities, and now the University of New Brunswick hopes to make it seven."

In his address to the distinguished visitors and guests gathered outside the modern structure, Dr. Constable called the Gallery "incomparably the greatest" of the Chancellor's benefactions to the arts in Canada and the Maritimes. "To bring into being a gallery, together with a collection, is itself a remarkable achievement.

"The gallery is planned to play, and can play, an important part in the work of the University of New Brunswick, both as a source of pleasure and inspiration, and as a means of knowledge," he stated.

"The Collection is far more than an assemblage of works of art in that it has a distinctive pattern and significance, clearly revealed in the admirable arrangement. The Gallery, fine in proportions, attractive in materials and colors, excellently designed for its purpose and splendidly sited, needs no praise from me. One outstanding feature, however, calls for comment—the great window of the central gallery, the full size of the wall, opening upon the St. John River. No gallery that I know gives so magnificent a greeting to a visitor as he enters the door; no gallery is so effectively and spectacularly tied in with its setting.

"Lord Beaverbrook by his gift, his 'courage and example' has shown how to assist the creative artist in Canada."

The Gallery features many examples of European and Canadian styles of painting. Among contemporary exhibits of interest and importance, the new Gallery contains a collection of studies and sketches by Graham Sutherland while he was working on the controversial portrait of Sir Winston Churchill. Another of Sutherland's portraits on display, thought by many experts to be his masterpiece, is a study of Lord Beaverbrook himself.

In all, the exhibit has over three hundred paintings on display with over one hundred different donations to compliment the Chancellor's personal collection.

"MEMORIES ARE MADE OF THIS"

This week the wrought iron gates and ivy hung doors of universities and colleges all across the land swing open once again to begin another academic year. Here at the University of New Brunswick, this 174th year of academic teachings sees the enrollment reach the unprecedented peak of 1600 students.

For some of this number, this year is the beginning of a new experience. For others, it is another chapter in this experience. And for still others, alas, this year closes the book on the lessons of life to be learned in college.

College presents and means many things. It is here that the cloudy mists of your dreams get that chance to develop into something real. Your tools for the shaping of tomorrow's world lie in today's textbooks. Friendships are formed here also — friendships as lasting as the memories which will be associated with them in the years which lie ahead. And what about that college spirit? Where else but on a college gridiron does the "esprit de corps" flag fly so high? Where else is there an equal to that indefatigable spirit found among collegiate spectators at a collegiate sporting event? And what other song gets sung with as much gusto as a college song?

But college is also, in fact primarily, a place of work. In order for those dreams to attain reality, there must, and will be, long hours of study, late labs, and the frightening experience of writing college exams. All of this means a good deal of use for the lamp which holds the midnight oil.

But when it is all over and graduation day arrives, you are going to feel a little sad that you must at last bid farewell to the brick and mortar buildings and the green corridor paths of your college. For consolation, you are going to have some very wonderful memories to carry with you. You will remember many things about your college: The football weekends, the dances, the library huddles, the bull sessions which last into the morning, the professors, the winter carnivals. Perhaps there will be a memory or two of simpler things like an autumn afternoon stroll along the beautiful University Avenue or about the campus.

All of this is what your college will mean to you.

College life is like living real life in miniature. It's like the warmup before the big game. What you do now doesn't seem to matter. It will only show once that Big Game begins.

The Brunswickan Needs You—Do you aspire to the exciting world of college journalism? Do you want to be on the "inside" on all the BIG stories as they break across the campus? If you do, then the opportunity awaits you on the staff of Canada's oldest college paper, The Brunswickan.

Need a Friend? See "Libby"

Lonesome tonight? Looking for someone to play games with? Then stop looking for a date and look up Libby! Libby plays Blackjack and Tic-Tac-Toe and will help you with your math, physics or chemistry problems. Libby is no cheapskate either. (She's worth $70,000!)

Libby is well known to members of the Electrical Engineering faculty. They know what makes her tick (literally!) and they know her inside out. Libby is a new addition to the UNB campus this year, and besides showing off her talents she'll be a subject for study.

Local Profs. "Make Good"

Dr. A. G. Bailey, Dean of Arts and Head of the Department of History and Anthropology, and Dr. W. C. D. Pacey, Head of the Department of English at UNB are members of the six-man editorial board of the forthcoming Literary History of Canada.

Other members of the editorial board are Prof. Carl Klinck, professor of Canadian literature at the University of Western Ontario, Prof. Northrup Frye, of the English department at Victoria College, University of Toronto, Prof. Roy Daniels, of the English department at the University of British Columbia, and Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto. Prof. Klinck is editor-in-chief.

Four professors from UNB are writing chapters of the book. Besides Dr. Bailey, who is writing on pre-Loyalist and Loyalist literature, and Dr. Pacey, writing on fiction since World War I, Dr. Fred Cogswell and Prof. David Galloway, of the English Department, are writing chapters. Dr. Cogswell is writing on Maritime literature before 1880, while Prof. Galloway is doing the first section on the literature of the voyagers.

The deadline for contributors is September, 1960. Contributors are working on short term grants from the Canada Council and the Humanities Research Council of Canada.

Hi

Libby comes to UNB from Los Angeles and her full name is Librascope LGP 30. She's a digital computer — in case you're interested. UNB has shown one more sign of progress by becoming one of five Canadian Universities to acquire such a computer, the first of its kind in New Brunswick.

The LGP 30 (to use Libby's professional name) will do practically any mathematical calculation. It will do 450 additions or subtractions in one second, and 50 multiplications or divisions in the same length of time. And all this with nine digit figures!

Besides solving mathematical problems, the digital computer will perform a number of other functions. It will calculate a payroll and even print the pay cheques. The LGP 30 can be very helpful in scheduling classes and it will schedule exams too, thus enabling the faculty to spend more time drawing up hard papers and less time worrying about when they'll be written. Some universities have even used this model to keep track of students' marks (but, fortunately, not UNB—not yet, anyway.)

The LGP 30 will reproduce typewritten material — letters, essays, petitions, ransom notes, etc. — by means of a coded paper tape fed to it. The result is perfect, individually-typed reproductions.

The computer is an alpha-numeric machine, which means it will work with both numbers and letters. It has a memory with a capacity of 5,000 words.

The main difficulty in using the computer, says Dana Wasson, assistant professor of electrical engineering, is to feed the information to Libby in a form she will understand. But she will perform any numerical calculation clearly specified to her.

The computer was purchased by the University at a special price of approximately $40,000, considerably less than its commercial value of $70,000. It is to form the basis for a computation centre and its services are expected to be used by Federal and Provincial Government agencies, as well as commercial users.

Libby tires easily, though, and must be completely overhauled after 1000 hours use. To cover costs of this the University must charge a rental fee to outside users. Although fees have not been set, they will likely be about $3 per hour.

The device will be used both for training and research. Courses are to be offered to undergrads in Electrical Engineering and the University's extension department is to offer courses in its use.

In case you're wondering whether you'll be able to use the computer to solve your own problems (mathematical, of course) we are told that if a problem is sufficiently difficult, if approved by faculty members concerned, and if he has the ability to use the computer (or makes arrangements with someone who can), a student may be able to use it.

The computer, says Prof. Wasson, is more accurate but not as versatile as the human mind. In our opinion, although the LGP 30 has a definite edge over most students in that it is reliable and fast, it takes up too much space to be considered by students as a possible replacement.

BAND MEETS WED.

The UNB Concert and Marching Band, anxious to get in tune for a busy football season, has scheduled its first rehearsal period for Wednesday, September 23 at 7 p.m. The session will be held in Memorial Hall.

Band President George Bryson in announcing this first meeting extended a particular welcome to all freshmen and new students.

SUMMERTIME AT UNB

Campus Active During Vacation

Things were not quiet and peaceful on campus, as returning students might expect, during the summer. Spring examinations were finished, caps and gowns were put away till fall and the last train had pulled away with the winter students aboard. But this was not the end of campus activity. As the regular college students moved out, other students moved in to attend Summer School, various institutes, and conferences.

The first institute held under the new School of Nursing opened on June 1st and ended on June 12th. Miss Katherine MacLaggan, director of the UNB School of Nursing was in charge.

The Law School move into Somerville House from Saint John was completed on September 1st. Rt. Hon. Lord Beaverbrook, Chancellor of UNB recently donated Somerville House as a new home for the Law School.

Mr. J. C. Murray, Alumni Secretary, announced that the Alumni Prize for the highest average of marks in Freshman year was awarded to H. Robert Andrews, 19, a Science student from Marysville. His average was 94.4%.

Prof. W. Y. Smith, head of the Department of Economics and Political Science at UNB announced the winners of the six Ford Foundation fellowships for the academic year 1959-60. Three of the students, Hazen A. Marr, John L. Williamson and Joan Young are from UNB. The fellowships are valued at $1,500 each.

Rt. Hon. Lord Beaverbrook, Chancellor of UNB, has placed his special collection of the theological writings of John Calvin and John Knox in the Bonar Law-Bennett Library at the university.

The Canadian Association of University Business Officers held its annual conference at the University of New Brunswick from June 4th to June 6th. Approximately fifty to sixty delegates, representing 25 Canadian universities, attended.

Dr. Mackay announced during the summer vacation that the University Building Fund is approaching the $1,500,000 mark. The tender deadline for the construction of the new arts buildings on the campus was September 4th. The arts building, when completed, will be a three storey structure containing two wings.

Efforts were made this summer to encourage "summer theatre" in Fredericton. Prof. Trevor Lennam, lecturer in the department of English directed the two one-act performances. The plays, performed on an open-air stage in front of the Arts Building, included the trial scene from George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan, and a one-act play, Protest, by the young Canadian playwright, Norman Williams.

UNB Faculty Enlarged For Forthcoming Semester

Over twenty-five new appointments to the faculty of the University of New Brunswick have been announced during the summer months by UNB President, Dr. Colin B. Mackay. Five professors have been granted leaves of absence to pursue advanced research.

Those leaving UNB for further study include: Dr. Hugo R. Greiner, Assistant Professor of Geology, who plans to study at the Palaeontology Institute of Tubingen under an Alexander von Humboldt Society award; Dr. Stanley L. Pringle, Professor of Forestry, who will head a mission to British East Africa under the extended technical aid program of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the UN; Dr. Fred Cogswell, Associate Professor of English, who will be doing research on John Galt at the University of Edinburgh; Dr. Ralph A. Staal, Associate Professor of Mathematics, who will be doing research work in mathematical logic at the University of California; and Prof. Robert H. B. McLaughlin, Associate Professor of Civil Engineering, who will pursue graduate studies in Building Construction at MIT.

Professor Ira M. Beattie has been appointed as head of the department of Civil Engineering at UNB. Mr. Beattie, an Associate Professor of Civil Engineering, has been acting head of the department since the retirement of Dr. Earle O. Turner in 1957.

The largest addition of staff is in the Department of Mathematics, where three assistant professors have been named. These are: Dr. Helga H. Schirmer from the University College of South Wales, Cardiff; Dr. J. N. Whitely, visited the UNB campus during her recent Canadian tour. She is shown here arriving at the Lady Beaverbrook Residence for a private dinner given in her honor by the Provincial Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. J. Leonard O'Brien. Immediately behind Her Majesty are Prince Philip and Mrs. O'Brien. Hon. A. J. Brooks, minister of veterans affairs and New Brunswick's representative in the Federal Cabinet, is seen in the background. The Queen was in Fredericton last July 28.

H. M. QUEEN ELIZABETH

Sydney University, Australia; and William R. Knight, who is presently working on his Ph.D. at the University of Toronto. Prof. Knight specializes in statistics, and is the first regular statistician to be appointed to the faculty at UNB.

There have been three additional appointments to the faculty of Nursing. Miss Irene Leckie from Wayne University and Miss Margaret McPhedran from the University of Toronto have been named Associate Professors. Miss Phyllis Cutler, formerly Director of Nursing Institutes for the New Brunswick Association of Registered Nurses, has been appointed Assistant Professor.

Dr. W. F. N. Stewart from the University of Edinburgh and formerly of McGill has been appointed Professor of Philosophy and Head of the Department. Dr. Moris Engel has been named an Assistant Professor of Philosophy. He comes to UNB from the University of Manitoba.

Merrill A. Edwards, a B.Sc. in Arts graduate from UNB has been named an Assistant Professor of Physics. He is presently working on his Ph.D. in Biophysics at the University of Western Ontario. Dr. Deryck J. C. Laming, a graduate of the University of London and who for the past five years has been working in the oil industry in western Canada has been appointed Assistant Professor in Geology.

Oriol Pe-Sunger has been named Assistant Professor in Anthropology.

Dr. Gertrude Gunn, an Arts graduate of UNB and a Beaverbrook Overseas Scholar, has been appointed Head Librarian of the Bonar Law-Bennett Library on the university campus. Dr. Gunn has recently completed a course in library science at Simmons College, Boston.

John F. Earl has been named an Assistant Professor of Economics and Political Science. Mr. Earl expects to receive his M.A. from Clark University later this year. D. MacMurray Young, a B.A. Honours graduate from UNB has been appointed Associate Professor in History. Dr. Young has been engaged in post-doctorate research at Boston University.

Dr. Allan Piavie has been named Associate Professor of Psychology and Sociology. He comes to UNB from Cornell where he has been doing research work in Social Psychology. Dr. Murray Kinloch from University College, Wales, has been named an Associate Professor in English.

Mr. Leslie Sebestyen from Sopron Division, Faculty of Forestry at the University of British Columbia has been named an Assistant Professor of Forestry.

Donald G. Blanchard from the University of California and Gottfried Konecny from the Institute of Munich have been appointed as Assistant Professors in Civil Engineering. Dr. Khalid Bin Sayeed, who has been acting as a Research Associate at the Institute of Islamic studies at McGill has been named an Assistant Professor of Economics and Political Science. L. E. Torfason from the University of Saskatchewan has been named Lecturer in the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

André P. Langois from Laval and Chen-Chang Ting from the Taiwan Provincial Normal University have been appointed Associate Professors in the Department of Electrical Engineering.

Donald A. Georee, a former research assistant in the Research Laboratory for Electronics at MIT, has been named an Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Electrical Engineering. He has recently completed the requirements for his Ph.D. and plans to specialize in feedback control theory and communications.

FRESHMEN, MEET YOUR SRC . . .

Frosh Initiation Geared For Work

The incoming freshman crop this year will face an easier program of initiation and hazing, and a more thorough plan of orientation geared to settle the new class down to work earlier. This was announced this week by Doug Caldwell, First Vice-President of the SRC. This change is credited to the large size of the Freshman class, and falls in line with the current trend in Canadian colleges.

University President, Dr. Colin B. Mackay, felt that such an orientation scheme, by placing the freshman in the proper attitude for study, would help to cut down on the high failure rate prevalent at UNB and other Canadian Universities.

The new freshman program has been planned with this thought in mind. (See also Page 6). A Club Night has been arranged to replace the former Sports Night. Following the Freshman banquet Friday evening a Freshman Ball will be initiated, at which a Frosh Queen of the Ball will be crowned.

AFTER HOURS

The new student at UNB will find off-campus entertainment in Fredericton lacking in variety. Admittedly, there is often enough for the student to do, but he has little choice of where to do it.

There is a noticeable lack of "dining and dancing" in the city. One may eat and one may dance but never the twain shall meet. The most popular eateries for college students fall into four categories.

First, there are the restaurants where the students go for light snacks after the show. The most popular of these restaurants are the Paradise on Queen Street, the Imperial Restaurant on Carleton Street, and the Sun Grill on Regent Street.

Secondly, for a lunch counter with longer hours, many students frequent the Club 252 on the corner of Regent and Charlotte Streets, which remains open until 3.00 a.m.

Thirdly, there is the Flame Restaurant, 7 miles from the centre of the city on the Saint John highway. This is the closest one can get to dining and dancing in Fredericton, although the dancing must be done to recorded music. The Flame, open until 3.00 a.m. provides rustic atmosphere for a meal after a big dance.

For a different type of atmosphere, there is the Kent Inn on Waterloo Row. During the winter students rent the Kent Inn for parties.

The consumption of liquor in Fredericton, as in the rest of the province, is governed by the Intoxicating Liquor Act. According to this law, the distribution of liquor is controlled by the provincial government, which operates three outlets in Fredericton. One liquor store is situated on Queen Street, opposite the Lord Beaverbrook Hotel. There is another on the corner of Queen and Westmorland Streets, and adjacent to it is a beer store. The store hours are from 9.30 a.m. to 6.00 p.m. on weekdays, and from 9.30 a.m. to 1.00 p.m. on Saturdays. No permit is required to purchase liquor in the stores.

Liquor may not be sold to anyone under 21.

There is one radio station, CFNB, which broadcasts from Fredericton. It is affiliated with the CBC Trans-Canada Network. You can pick up CHSJ-TV from Saint John, Channel 4.

There are two motion picture houses in the capital city. The Gaiety Theatre is located on Queen Street and generally runs fairly current movies of a better quality. The Capitol, at the corner of King and Carleton Streets, usually runs western and horror films, often on double bills. Both theatres run one matinee and two evening shows. There are no movies on Sunday.

The New Brunswick hunting season opens October 1 and closes November 30. There is a closed season on moose and caribou UNB students from outside the province may purchase resident hunting licenses. These are sold at all sporting goods stores in the city.

. . . And This Is What It Does

In the massive outflow from student pocketbooks during this week's registration, a small portion in this flood of monetary exchange has been channeled towards the support of the Student Representative Council (SRC) for the coming year.

The SRC is the central organizing body of student activity at the University. It is entrusted by the students with the power to deal with all matters of general student interest. All student organizations on the campus are co-ordinated by and are ultimately responsible to this governing body rather than to the administration.

What happens to this $17.00 student levy is often asked by freshmen and new undergrads. The student pass, issued by the SRC to all college students at registration, entitles the holder to free admittance to any athletic or social event sponsored by this student organization.

It gives the student free entry to football, hockey and basketball games, as well as intramurals and other variety sports.

This SRC fee also grants free admission for all UNB students and their dates to the Fall Formal and the spring Conversazione, or "Con". The two major college publications, the "Brunswickan" and the yearbook "Up the Hill" are subsidized by the SRC and are distributed free to all students.

An early fall election will be held within five weeks of registration to pick two representatives for the freshman class on the council. Regular elections are held in March for the next college year.

The SRC at UNB has established a Campus Police force and a Student Discipline Committee (SDC). The SDC metes out punishment, when necessary, to students who conduct themselves in an unbecoming manner on the campus and at college functions.

The meetings of the SRC are open to all UNB students. Should any student want to discuss any issue, he may request the right to express his opinion from the SRC President. Mr. Ted Boswell, incoming prexy, has stated that he

Dave Fairbairn

THE HOTBED

Is the university administration aware of their painfully untrue statement in the university calendar that "the average rate for room and board is $18.00 a week"? It would be most interesting to know who thought up this ridiculous statement. One gentleman in town has the gall to ask $125.00 per month for a room that would be suitable for two students. Each student then would pay slightly over $15.00 a week. If they wish to keep within the "average" quoted by the university, they would have almost $3.00 with which to buy their food. Admittedly, this rent is exorbitant, but many of us have seen some of the places that charge $18.00 a week. We would hesitate to let a mongrel dog reside in some of the places, and we would positively prohibit it from eating in them.

This brings us to another rather annoying point. We have at UNB an accommodations service which publishes lists of homes in which the student might live (and the word "live" is used in a very loose sense). The unsuspecting student would at least assume that the houses on the list have been approved by the university authorities. It is difficult to believe that these homes have been inspected because surely no person could not be heartless enough to send fellow humans to some of them.

To give an example, the university offers the address of a furnished apartment for $45.00 per month. This apartment even has a sink—with no outlet, and believe it or not, no taps. This is easily solved by the purchase of two pails, one pail filled with clean water to pour into the sink, the other to catch the dirty water as it leaves. The pails can be dumped in a bathroom two floors below.

The person working in accommodations cannot be blamed. Obviously one person cannot inspect every home, but there is positively no reason why the university can't hire additional staff for this purpose.

Some Fredericton people do have nice homes that are financially reasonable. An apology must be made to these people for the use of such general statements. However, the number of good rooms is pitifully small, and inexpensive ones are virtually non-existent. If the university administration is going to continue to increase enrollment each year, they must do some very serious thinking about the appalling situation. For one thing, more residences should be built before new Arts and Biology buildings are even thought about. Even the new residences charge an approximate one dollar a day for room alone, leaving the student in the clutches of the Industrial Foods Cafeteria with their inferior meals and their wild and woolly prices. A student in residence would have to budget with meticulous care to remain within $18.00 a week. Meticulous care in this instance means near starvation.

However, students, welcome to UNB. Welcome to Fredericton, the town with the ghastly housing shortage. Welcome to Industrial Foods, the cafeteria with slow service, terrible food, and fantastic prices. Welcome to New Brunswick—and what ever happened to rent control? Clutch your bankroll in your hand as you gamely plod around the streets of Fredericton in search of a room that is conducive to study or even conducive to living.

sincerely hopes that this right will be freely and wisely used by the student body.

"Run, Run, Run" — Nelson

A pretty girl, an autumn day, and football.—The above picture reads like a recipe on how to make pleasant Saturday afternoons. The pretty girl is co-ed Elizabeth Newroth and in the background getting ready for what we all hope will be pleasant Saturdays, the Red Bombers. Opening game for the Bombers is Sept. 26 against Saint John Wanderers at College Field.

After three days of the most grueling training ever experienced by a Red Bomber football team, Coach Don Nelson had but one comment to make — "I am going to make sure that this team is the best conditioned one since I came to UNB four years ago. The boys are going to run and run and run and when they're finished they will run some more." When asked how he expected this year's squad to compare with the championship team of last year, he said, "They're going to be in better shape."

Coach Nelson has 30 lettermen returning from last year. For the first time since his initial year he is blessed with three quarterbacks. Doug Henderson from Trenton, Ontario, and John Courtice, who returns to the gridiron after a two year absence, are expected to give triple threat man Pete Rylander a run for his money. Seven key men are on the hook with supplemental exams and the outcome of these may play a major part in a championship hope.

Coach Nelson says that his basic offence will remain unchanged with the utilization of a dual fullback formation. It is expected that the air will be filled with footballs as all three quarterback candidates have reputations of being highly competent passers. When asked about this possibility, Nelson smiled evasively and said, "I expect to pass more this year".

Nelson's basic policy at the moment is to get the squad in shape. He is rigidly enforcing a no smoking, no late hours, training program combined with 6 hours of football and running each day.

Pool Open Evenings

The University swimming pool will be open for free swim this week on Thursday and Friday evenings between 8:00 and 9:00 and Saturday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:00. Next week the pool, located in the basement of the Lady Beaverbrook Residence, will be open for a free swim to UNB students only, every evening Monday through Friday from 8:00 to 9:00 and Saturday 3:30 to 5:00. The pool is supervised by Mr. Amby Legere of the Department of Physical Education.

THIS and THAT . . . Possible that Jerry Scarfe, all star guard of two years ago, might return to the wars. . . Heaviest men on the Bomber squad to date appear to be Ted Boswell at 245 and Sonny Clark at 240. . . expected that 800 feet of movies to be taken at each UNB home game . . . former UNB half Stirling McLean is reported to be working out with the Oromocto Lions . . . lots of depth in the halfback slots this year — 14 already in camp . . . big weakness is lack of depth in the line.
