Christianus mihi nomen est Catholicus vero Cognomen."—(Christian is-my Name, but Catholic my Surname)—St. Pacien, 4th Century.

The Catholic Record

LONDON, SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1917

NEVER ALONE

Fact and fantasy are so mingled in our daily experience that our powers sane thinking are sometimes strained to the utmost. "We live in dreams," says the poet, but the use and abuse of our imagination make up a large part of life's tragicomedy. Who can sound the abysses of memory or decide how it is related to that individuality which persists in spite of all circumstantial changes? At the slightest stimulus away our spirits go on the wings of reminiscence; we are with those from whom we parted long since. Though their bodily presence is withdrawn and they are under alien skies, we clasp them close and spiritually hold converse with them as inextricably bound in the same bundle of life.

MOULDSUS

Each of us has an innermost room. a study of imagination into which against the shocks of time and none may intrude without our con- earthly change. sent. It is no guest-house of common call, save where personality is unvalued, but a sanctum to? which only dearly-prized guests are welcomed, and they on terms. A sweet privacy pervades it, yet there? are ghosts that gain admittance, "dream-children,' who have never materialized, and disembodied friends remembered so well that nothing of life or death can separate them from us. Love knows no diminution when it fastens on what is indestructible and pure; it is only the material that is perishable and corruptible. Our customary dwelling-place catches something from us as years go on. The scene of our successes and failures, it savours of our habitual temper and outlook. Its arrangement reflects our growing mind or our moral declension. Its rooms are haunted by sad or happy recollections; they murmur echoes of voices gone silent, and raise pictures that weave themselves into our hourly experience with exhilarating or elevating effect. The aura of a home has a perceptible influence on a guest; it is delightful to inhale the fragrance of a beautifully-ordered circle, wherein kindmess and charity bear continual sway. Evil spirits shun such reserved enclosures : the holy water distilled there exorcises tempters and scoffers at ideals. As the incense of devotion lay turbulent passion to rest when men and women enter sacred precincts, so the same grace infects the house in which high aims and considerate tempers prevail.

OUR SAFEGUARD

those who seek each other's good.

world to-day. Never was it so full it expresses our meaning. This of spectral horrors; never so like a printed stuff is always represented graveyard in which the best and by the hired men of the publishers bravest lie buried. Grisly phantoms as instructive and timely and just the practical," and when he came flit across devastated cities and the thing for the immature and home to Ireland he left behind him provinces; gaunt spectres, creatures morbid minded who prefer to dress that were once men, women and their mind with rags and refuse than children, stalk about behind the with clean raiment. They suffer earth rocks with hellish outbreaks scribbler who goes to corruption for of destructive forces. "Can the end inspiration. of all things be near?" The weary, the bereaved, the homeless feel that they are only half alive; they echo the saying of Burke: shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue!" Happily, there is another side to this dread reality. All has not gone into the melting-not: indeed this latest, and perhaps last, demoniacal outburst from the pit of selfishness has released wondrous edness is judged and will be punished in due course. Meanwhile, Dives ambitions indulged? To day offers our own to save or destroy in the to him: Old." He finds the most pathetic of 1914.

signs of old age to be-not the loss of the eyes' lustre, nor the stiffening joints," and increasing weariness. These can be borne when the heart still lives and retains its clear outlook and generous sympathies. No: the curse wrought by profitless years lies heavily upon those who are haunted by memories of wasted opportunities and selfish aims that dry up the spirit. We age fast when deep in our hidden heart festers the dull remembrance of a change, but no emotion-none."

SAD

Can a sadder fate overtake man or woman than to be haunted by the sense of unfulfilled obligations, despised privileges, mercies scorned and moral death chosen before life? From such ghostly terrors may we be shielded, so that memory and hope may combine to open up horizons which prefigure the dawn of a new day, in the radiance of which we may discern our loved and vanished heroes transfigured by the grace of divine purpose and safe

A DANGER

Along with our material progress there seems to be a growing insensibility to the evil of sin. From the beginning the Church's fight has been against iniquity. She proclaims God's rights, death and the judgment. But many worldlings, after the fashion of their forbears the pagans, insist that there cannot be anything wrong, provided you don't hurt your fellowmen, in obeying the dictates of vanity, pride and selfishness. These people aim at decency; they garb sin in purple and fine linen. The greatest evil is poverty and the greatest happiness is to sit on moneybags and to exude bromides as to the achievement of success. There is no genuine human religion where there is no deep sense of sin. "It is not enough that we know God; we must know also our own wretchedness and unworthiness, our need of a mediator through whom we may draw nigh to God."

Knowing well that the attractions of human life are always tending to obscure eternal standards, the Church never ceases to proclaim that sin, despite pretence and pretext, is sin, and by her ministry and teaching to fight against it.

Living in an atmosphere of indifferentism we are prone, if not to forget this teaching, to minimize it. we expose ourselves to its influences thinking that a few maxims picked Even the ghosts of dead sins cannot out of books or off the lips of the recently returned. anently harass the souls of unthinking justify us or will ing. While we write this we have in mind some of the publications which in America. At all events, the pres The dead past lies heavily on the purity. This is a bald statement, but to Wyoming in 1879 and remained in thunder and lightning of war; the their souls to be pawed over by any

DEAD

Paris, July 19, 1917.-Many old pilgrims to Lourdes will learn with regret of the death of Dr. Boissarie, president of the Bureau of Medical Constatations at Lourdes. His colleagues extol his merit from the medical point of view and all the pilgrims of Lourdes know his devotion to the sick and his love for the recuperative powers-spiritual wick- Blessed Virgin and the Blessed Sacra-He had a very high idea of ment. his office and was obstinately scrupulous in determining the super and Lazarus are still with us. natural character of a cure, despite Would we banish evil memories, lay his joy in verifying a miracle, for he the ghost of duties shirked and evil felt that he had the honor of the for Ireland. And it was one of those Virgin of Lourdes to guard before a ambitions indulged? To day offers a fresh opportunity to better the pledged his reputation, the renown past. Let us be wise in this day of of the bureau and the honor of God retribution, else our mummied self and Our Lady on a cure, his confreres may threaten a day of wrath from which none can deliver. For we are undience with the Pope, Pius X. said "The word miracle must last resort. Judgment awaits each never be lightly pronounced," and he one, and the books are always open. never forgot that injunction. He

THE TEXT OF THE POPE'S APPEAL

By the Associated Press London, August 15.-The foreign office to night issued the French text of the letter from the Pope to the King enclosing a copy of his appeal the heads of the belligerent people.

"Your Majesty,

The Holy Father, anxious to do everything he can in order to put an end to the conflict which for the last three years has ravaged the civilized world, has decided to submit to the leaders of the belligerent peoples concrete peace proposals exposed in a document which I have the honor to attach to this letter.

May God grant that the words of whole of humanity.

"The Holy See, not having dip-lomatic relations with the French Government or with the Government of Italy or the United States, I very respectfully beg Your Majesty to be good enough to have handed a copy of His Holiness' appeal to the President of the French Republic, to His Majesty the King of Italy, and to the President of the United States. I also beg to add twelve other copies which I request Your Majesty to be good enough to hand to the leaders of the nations friendly to the Allies, with the exception, however, of Russia, Belgium and Brazil, to whom the document has been sent

"In expressing to Your Majesty m sincere thanks for this extreme kindness I am happy to take the opportunity to offer you the homage of sentiment, a very profound respect with which I have the honor to sign myself your majesty's very humble and devoted servant. (Signed)

PLUNKETT A ZEALOT IN IRELAND'S CAUSE

HIS SELECTION AS CHAIRMAN IMPARTS NEW VIGOR TO HOPES FOR THE CONVENTION

By Charles H. Grasty in New York Times London, July 26.-If I were asked mention the Britisher whom I regarded as most familiar and sympathetic with America and her institutions and traditions, I think the of Sir Horace Curzon Plunkett would come first into my mind.

I have happened to see something of him on both sides of the ocean. and he seems to me to be equally at home in Washington and London. He is a friend of President Wilson and an intimate of both Colonel House and Colonel Roosevelt. latter found in him a most helpful adviser on agricultural and conservation subjects, which he made important concerns of his Administration. When recovering from the In our ignorance and presumption injuries received in the Irish rebellion a year ago, Sir Horace went to a sanitarium in Michigan for the period of his canvalescence, and has but Sir Horace belongs to the family head. I believe that his father, the late Baron, had some cattle interests are subservient to the vice of im ent Sir Horace, a younger son, went America ten years. Wherever he gentle optimism and sturdy character, "the synthesis of the ideal and associations which he has continued to cherish.

His frequent visits to America have kept his friendships alive, and he has always felt the liveliest interest in all that concerned the great republic. Since the War broke out no other man has brought to bear a larger influence for confidence and under-NOTED PHYSICIAN OF LOURDES standing between the two branches of the English-speaking race. If out of this War there should arise differences. Horace Plunkett would be a mediator that both could trust, one

as much as the other. ARDENT WORKER FOR IRELAND

His unanimous selection as Chairman of the Irish Convention was a unique tribute, amid all the conflict of opinion, the Presidency went to Plunkett by common consent. certainly entitled to regard his choice as the crowning honor of a patriot that he is, he is an Irishman to his heart's core.

His life has been a labor of love rare instances in which high motive and practical success were combined. He came back from America in 1889, thirty-five years of age, with an irrepressible enthusiasm which had been molded into a grand purpose. It was to redeem Ireland from poverty to prosperity. With the pure zeal of a crusader he went about preaching co-operation, co-operation, co-operation — co-operation for the purchase of seed, so as to buy the One of the saddest of Matthew Arnold's poems is entitled "Growing International Eucharistic Congress"

Arnold's poems is entitled "Growing International Eucharistic Congress of fertilizer and for the growth of the process of the growth of the gr way of his race.

The work went slowly at first; only a pure zealot would have held on. Having finally made a start in building a co-operative machine. Plunkett went after legislation, and building a at last secured the passage of laws that gave tenants rights of purchase on favorable terms.

Today the Ireland that groaned under its hardships thirty years ago is one of the most prosperous sections of Great Britain. It is said that while in politics representatives of the different Irish sections will beat each other's brains out with shillalahs on sight, the same representatives will sit down together in agricultural meetings.

NEW HOPES OF SETTLEMENT

These facts will give some idea of His Holiness will this time produce the fitness of Sir Horace for the post the desired effect for the good of the to which he has been called and the nomentum that his selection imparts to the cause of a pacified and united Ireland. In the first flush of the enthusiasm which this act of the convention has generated, there are and strong hopes of settling problems hitherto regarded as insoluble. It is difficult to imagine any source more prolific of encourage ment for the allied cause than such a settlement. Every influence in America that can be brought to bear ought to be counted on, for the United States is now irrevocably committed to this War and it is a case of " one for all and all for one.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that one of Sir Horace Plunkett's cherished ambitions has been to serve America in respect to her agricultural interests. The subject is one about which he has written, but I know that he has stood ready to give some such personal leadership as he gave to Ireland, if desired. In the last year he has not been robust, and in such a cause as Irish reconciliation he will put the last ounce of his strength. May success bring him rejuvenation instead of

THE MOTHER OF THE KING

The bodily assumption of Our Lady into heaven after her death is not yet a defined dogma of Catholic Faith, but in the opinion of such eminent theologians as Melchior Cano, Suarez and Benedict XIV. it is so solidly grounded on Catholic tradition that it would be rashness to deny it. The heart of the Faithful has certainly not led them astray. During the centuries which have elapsed since the day of Our Lady's death, they have ever believed that if the virginal body which conceived and gave birth to the God-man was submitted like His to the sway of death, like His too it never felt the corruption of the grave. By His own power He rose from the dead. By His power and through His love He united the pure soul of His Mother to her sinless body and, crowning in its beauty and majesty, the double prerogative of motherhood and virginity bade His Angels bear it above the choirs of the blessed, the serried ranks of the angelic host, to the very throne of the Deity, where it is exalted above strengthen us in the hour of our test- of which the Lord Dunsanys are the every other creature in dignity and

It was a day of triumph such as the courts of Heaven alone can not but imagine that when matters the Lily of Israel, its bloom unwas transplanted from the earth, unworthy to preserve its fragrance, to the bowers of Paradise. "Who is same openly traitorous end. And this King of glory?" asked the because of this, we now say 'Who is He that cometh from Edom walking in the greatness of His strength ?" When the Queen of Angels and of men, the Mother of God was borne aloft above the clouds footstool, "Who is she that cometh forth as the morning rising, fair as the moon, bright as the sun, terrible as an army set in array!" they exclaimed, dazzled at her beauty. It is the Virgin foretold by Isaias, who bath conceived and brought forth the Bethlehem Babe of Bethlehem and the Redeemer of the World, the Woman of the Apocalypse whom St. John saw clothed with the sun, the Woman who has crushed the Serpent's head, the Judith whose maiden hands slew the enemy of her people and who exclaims to the watchmen on the heavenly battlements, "Open the life devoted to Ireland. For British gates, for God is with us who hath shown His power in Israel." It is who now "traverses the mansions of Heaven, passing through all the doors, into the court of the King." And a throne is set for the Mother of the King and she sits on His right hand.

liturgy says, we see virginity bearing a son, and a death that had no peer. The passing away of our Queen was no less wonderful than her childbearing had been joyful. If she marketing of the crop. All of this the way she goes to her God. She 2,690,848 pounds, or 8.7% during smile.—Edwin Carlile Litsey

Pat had done in the happy go lucky knew no corruption, no stain in life, young 1917. 171 storages report an she knew not of the degradation and increase of 9,157 pounds, or 0.1% the dissolution of the tomb. A supreme miracle of God's power in her Immaculate Conception, in the priceless gift of the Divine Maternity, the masterpiece of grace in her sin less life, she conquers the laws of nature in her death. She had surpassed all men in love, in faith, in purity, she is lifted above all created during June, 1917. 67 storages renatures by the undivided splendors port a decrease of 357,738 pounds, or of her reward.

On her glorious feast day, some faint echoes of her triumph reach our glory fills our souls. And our hearts are glad, and our lips are full of praise. For she is also our Mother amity in one of Sir Horace Plunkett's and our Queen. Through her it is easy to go to God, for it was through her that He chose to come to us He, and He alone is our Redeemer she is our Mediatrix with Him Through her shall we find favor with Him who loved her so tenderly, and who in the joyous mystery of the Assumption set the seal to the countless favors with which He had so lavishly crowned her.—America.

WE TOLD YOU SO!

"I told you so" is an unappreciated way of, to phrase it commonly, "rubbing it in." Still we are in-clined to say just that: "We told you so." It might be more consider ate to remain silent, and ordinarily we would, were the issue not so vital to the nation. We know that written without good cause. And America is all too likely to forget the moment is opportune for the entirely every lesson of history no matter how bitterly it was learned. So again we assert that we gave the warning, with us, of course, the tion to use the pulpit for a more whole of the Catholic press and worldly discourse. The Pontiff's press Catholics and all men of thought. Watson of Georgia has been in federal hands several times. These experiences served only to prove the to control, for Georgia has its rein shotgun barks. And we know, fessed and the government is certain son, who left off his un-American vituperation of the Church long enough to start an equally un-American propaganda against the draft. The same farmers who were once urged to arm against the threatened date have to face conditions similar to those of this moment. Will we way to work for the restoration of one and though he be silenced now, how long will it be before another seeks the coin that has been his. using identical methods? witness when the Rose of Sharon and have sunk into their ordinary channels at the end of the conflict, imwithered and its beauty unstained, munity will be granted to those who start on the course that Watson has followed, coming naturally to the warders of the heavenly gates on the that we have given the warnmorning of Our Lord's Ascension. ing repeatedly, a warning that was ignored. Anti-Catholic and antidraft propaganda are of the same species and each will strike at the opportune moment. The troubles States. The spectacle at the Pontifithe government is experiencing must cal Mass at which His Eminence, of opal and of gold that made her be emphasized, for they are of the Cardinal Begin, of Quebec, assisted, profitable lessons that history teaches. Perhaps if insisted upon they will be avoided. Perhaps! New marks the solemnity, and well-World Chicago.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

While various reasons are given for the high cost of living a report sent out by the Federal Department of Agriculture furnishes the interest-ing information that the cold storage plants are bursting with food. In one instance 173 warehouses report that the amount of butter held July 1 this year was almost seven times greater than on July 1 last year. Other items are as follows: 'Frozen beef: 243 storages report

His right hand.

The Feast of the Assumption is July 1, 1916, an increase 59.8%.

221 storages report an increase of decrease of 18,478,422 pounds, or

25.4% during June, 1916. "Cured beef: 268 storages report a total of 34,560,268 pounds. 202 storages report 31,342,078 pounds, as compared with 18,915,105 pounds on as if it would come in two, remember during June, 1916.

Frozen lamb and mutton: 121 storages report a total of 3,995,88 pounds. 81 storages report 3,143,744 pounds, as compared with 1,989,175 pounds on July 1, 1916, an increase of 62.1%. 107 storages report an increase of 730,486 pounds, or 22.4% 15.8% during June, 1916."

There is much to be said on the high cost of living, and something ears, some dim ray of her unclouded too on the cost of high living. The high cost of profiteers, greedy speculators and price manipulators is the most pressing question for the Government to settle.-America.

THE SUBJECT OF SERMONS

After thumbing through Monday morning's papers with their synopses of Sunday sermons in Protestant pulpits, one is thankful for the recent letter of the Holy Father to the letter of the Holy Father to the for 2,000 men. The islands were Bishops of the World. For in that communication Pope Benedict insists again upon the one sacred purpose of the pulpit and the necessity of safeguarding it from every misuse. From the pulpits, he warns, only one voice may be heard and that the voice of God: His Word preached by those best fitted and best trained.

A letter of such import is never Great problems agitate men's minds and stir their innermost natures. This might beget the tempta-force to about 1,500,000. and worldly discourse. The Pontiff's t. voice is quick with the warning against such dangerous practice.

But there is another motive, too, that we can imagine prompts clutch that Watson has on the Holy Father. Of what good are the citizens of Georgia, the state of pulpit orations that are the rule in citizens of Georgia, the state of lynchings and illiteracy, bigotry and —at present — anti-draft riots.

Then, too, the trials proved the truth the boast that no Georgia jury the boast t would ever convict Watson. But mat does not go to church to have Watson seems destined now to stand his policy outlined for him, nor the trial in a court that Georgia may not be able to control, or may not want cial matters. Nor will nations lay down their arms because a surpliced deeming element. The farmers of minister announces that he has found Georgia have armed and gathered, a common ground upon which all to voice their opposition to the draft | combatants can come to peace terms. respectable Georgians have con- for, nor the weaknesses of the Allies amended by the preachings in a boule that responsible for this armed resistance is none other than Wat pits of Christendom preaching again pits of Christendom preaching again that Christ died for us, repeating the Decalogue and the Sermon on the Mount, who can measure the effect ? We can appreciate the diplomat coming from the church after such a sermon with the realization that his invasion of America by the forces of | judgment is subordinate to a higher, the Vatican were recently advised to and the business man with the con refuse military service now when a sciousness of his responsibility to his real and immediate foe threatens us. Unless the world changes mater. And when men have come to a sinially with the coming of peace, a thing we are inclined to disbelieve, America will again at some future tions?

We have said before that the best suffer delay then again because of peace is individual right living. And our laxity in the times of peace? individual virtue is the fruit of the Watson's game has been a profitable pulpit that repeats the words of the

SAINT ANNE DE BEAUPRE

The feast of Saint Anne de Beaupre was celebrated this year at her national shrine with extraordinary splendor and devotion. According to the correspondent of the Soleil of July 26, the day of the feast, a throng of 12,000 pilgrims came to the little village on the St. Lawrence not only from the Province of Quebec, from every Province in Canada and from far-away districts in the United was deeply impressive. every year, some extraordinary favor authenticated cures attest the power of the mother of Our Lady. year, five such instances, as yet however not officially confirmed, have been reported. Among them the most striking perhaps is the cure of The Church is pro verbially slow to pronounce officially upon these facts, but there can scarcely be any doubt that the little Canadian village has been the scene of well-certified and extraordinary cures, which science can explain in no ordinary and natural way and which can be ascribed only to the power of God who in working them "Frozen beef: 243 storages report does honor to the mother of Our a total of 105,174,204 pounds. 171 Lady and rewards the faith of her storages report 88,078,061, as compared with 55,109,049 pounds on graces conferred through St. Anne on thousands who visit her shrine ally began work there, and it has cannot be reckoned. No one leaves the crowning jewel in our Mother's 4.642,361 pounds, or 4.6% during Beaupre without having his faith diadem. In this mystery, as an old June, 1917. 136 storages report a enkindled and his devotion and present Catholic population. All the piety deeply stirred.-America.

If your lot is hard, remember there

CATHOLIC NOTES

This year's Diocesan Eucharistic Congress of London, Ontario, will be held at St Joseph's Church, Stratford, on Tuesday, October 9th.

President Wilson recently nomin ated Constantine J. Smyth, of Nebraka, to be Chief Justice of the District of Columbia. Mr. Smyth is a native of Ireland and one of the leading Catholics of the West.

The general convention of the Knights of Columbus opened in Chicago, Aug. 7. The most impor-tant business before it is the promotion of the war work undertaken by the order. The million dollar fund that the Knights planned to raise has been over-subscribed, and at a meeting of the Supreme Council it was decided to extend the amount to $3,000,000.

The Jesuit Fathers of St. Louis University have turned over to the Government, for training stations, two large islands in Lake Beulah near Lake Michigan. Each island has buildings and equipment to care middle West for summer vacations for their students.

Figures from Washington show that the United States has more than 800,000 men ready for military service. and will soon reach above the million mark. In four months the army has grown from 150,000 to the present flgure, and the navy has increased almost as rapidly. The new National Army, composed of 688,000 conscripts will soon be in camp, and this addi-

Under the auspices of La Salle Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, Chicago, a shelter home for boys will be opened in that city Archbishop Mundelein, shortly after assuming charge of the archdiocese of Chicago, suggested this work to the Knights. Fifteen thousand dollars towards the fund was subscribed at a meeting and 3,000 members of the Fourth Degree in Cook County promised $100 each towards the home. Right Rev. Nicholas C. Matz, D. D., Bishop of Denver, died Thursday, August 9. The Right Rev. Nicholas Chrysostom Matz was born April 6, 1850, at Munster, Lorraine, France His native land later passed under German domination. He came as a young man to America, and studied in Ohio. He was ordained in Denver on May 31, 1874, by the Right Rev. Joseph Projectus Machebeuf, first bishop of Denver, whom he later succeeded.

The Holy Father's name-day-the feast of St. James, the Apostle, was quietly celebrated. Representatives of all the departments in the Vatican. the Pontifical court, and members of his family, tendered their congratu A private reception was held for the Cardinals now in Rome, and Cardinal Vannutelli, the dean of the Sacred College, expressed the felicitations of that body and their devo tion to the Sovereign Pontiff. On that day also the foundation-stone of a new museum was blessed and laid.

The lordly white people who believe that the only good Indian is a dead Indian are having coals of fire heaped on their memory by reason of the action of some of the Indian tribes Such patriotism as that shown by the Menominee Reservation braves is rare. They give their all to the cause of national honor. They give a huge sawmill and lumber plant at Neeopit. $100,000 in cash and their own persons to the United States as fighters. Not only the braves, but their squaws, so come forward. They are being instructed in Red Cross work and first aid. A noble retaliation for old-time wrongs

The first Colored order of religious women instituted in this country was the Oblate Sisters of Providence. From 1827 to 1917, these saintly heroines have struggled valiantly against odds and have won the crown of success. Poverty, distrust from their own, indifference from author ity, even personal violence from pigots, are only a few of the obstacles which made their naturally unpopular mission more difficult. Yet they have succeeded. These holy women deserve well of the charity of the Catholic people of the United States, not only for the lesson their lives teach, but also for the works of pure charity they are accomplishing.

Now that Alaska has risen to the dignity of a vicariate apostolic, in terest in its religious history is re awakened. Christianity was intro duced there more than one hundred years ago by Russian traders, and various missions were established. It was not the Catholic religion, how ever, but the Russian orthodox faith The Catholic missionaries eventu resulted in bringing into the Church 11.500 converts, who constitute the missions are in charge of Jesuit Fathers, to whom was assigned the difficult work of building up the Church among the natives. In 1916 Church among the natives. are others harder. If your back feels | there were 22 Jesuit priests, 10 Jesuit brothers and 57 nuns of different communities. The Sisters conduct 4 boarding schools, 5 day schools, 6 hospitals and 1 orphanage.

AMBITION'S CONTEST

BY CHRISTINE FABER CHAPTER XXI

ANOTHER PHASE OF WOMAN'S HEART

The harsh lines of Anne Flanagan's character were almost perceptibly softening under the influence of the pure and holy life of her young mis-Ellen's noble charity touched tress. her selfish feelings to the quick Ellen's calm acceptance of every trial was a reproof to her ill-natured endurance of sorrows created by her uncontrolled passions, Ellen's love of and kindness to herevinced in various ways, were springs which put into action every ender chord in her sour and crabbed nature.

One morning that she was abroad on some one of the charitable commissions which she frequently executed for her young mistress, suddenly encountered the Oriental looking stranger, whom she had once pursued in the streets of Florence. He was dressed in much the garb; the short, embroidered cloak depending from his shoulders; a strange, conical-shaped hat covering He showed by the expression of his swarthy face that he recognized her, and he attempted to convey, by something like a smile, that the recognition was not an unpleasant one to him. But the smile seemed only a mocking grin to Miss Flanagan, and it made her shrink with fear and dislike from him. He did not attempt to communicate with her; he even appeared to desire to leave her as rapidly as she could wish, for after a moment or two, he darted away in an opposite direction to that which she had been

But her curiosity had mastered her fear. Determined now that opportunity had again presented, to make another attempt to ascertain something about the strange creature, she turned and rapidly followed He looked back, grinning, the woman thought, more sardonically than ever, and he even slackened his pace as if to permit her to overtake him. Determined now to accost him, Anne quickened her steps; but when she arrived within speaking distance, the strange being raised his arms and motioned her back. The expression of his face also changed; it wore no longer the mocking semblance of a smile, but all the signs of displeasure and wrath. His forehead was gathered into ominous frowns, and his eyes shot glances fairly aflame with lent rage. Miss Flanagan was too frightened to ask the question she had intended, and she could only while her fear plainly betrayed itself to the stranger. He, apparently satisfied with the result of action, turned and resumed his

Again did the curiosity of the woman predominate over her fear. and a second time she began the pursuit, though more slowly, and with some hesitation in her manner. But she had not proceeded far, when the stranger turned and made wilder and more menacing motions than before.

Flanagan was too much appalled to attempt the pursuit a ird time, and disappointed, vexed, and still somewhat out of breath. scarcely recover sufficient calmness to perform the errand upon which had been dispatched, and when at length she arrived at home, it was he wanted me—it was not to return only to shut herself in her own room. and give vent to her feelings in her

Ellen, ever watchful and considerate for others, feared from the manner in which Anne secluded herself that the latter was ill, and she hastened to afford such relief as might be in her power. But the maid, without opening her door, answered to the kindly voice without only to be left alone, and as the day wore on and Anne still did not come forth, the tenderness of the young mistress could not be satisfied without frequent inquiries, and leaving at the door a little repast which she herself had prepared for the invalid she imagined Anne to be. The latter, when assured that Miss Courtney had departed, came softly forth and took into her room the tray of tempting delicacies which been left, and never, perhaps, was the perverted nature of the truly touched as when she tender charity of her young mistress. Tears, and tears that sprung from a kindlier feeling than any which had that day filled her heart, dimmed her

'If she knew." she murmured. "if she knew my heart, it is far, far from me she'd keep." And then, as if some bitter remembrance pressed heavily upon her mind, she clasped hes hands and ejaculated fervently; 'God forgive me !"

When Ellen again came to the door with her kind inquiry, Anne admitted her.

"Come in, Miss Courtney," she said, with a strange tremulousness of voice, and when Ellen had seated herself in the chair Anne drew forward, the latter resumed, with the same singular, quivering tones;

Your kindness has touched my heart. You have made me travel back overlong and wretched years till I stand again where I stood once, when happiness seemed within my You don't understand me, reach. seeing Ellen's bewildered look, " but you will when you have heard the story of my unhappy life. Listen passion more than mine does now. An orphan from my infancy, every wholly extinguished. attention I received was flung to me charity, and I was a pauper. allowed to forget that fact, I grew up imagining that one word comprise everything of hate and coldness-and that word charity. Neither admitted to the table of the relations with whom I dwelt, nor yet exactly degraded to the position of a menial domestic, my life became isolated, and morbid, and miserable. I had received some education; I occupied my spare moments in improving it, and my fancies filled the places of friends and companions. The relations with whom I had been compelled to make my home were proprietors of a large hotel, and my services were, in many ways useful. But once "-her voice sank to a low inexpressibly tender pitchthese services were brought into seized with sudden illness. No one knew him, and there was nothing about him to prove his identity. The being the most conveniently spared to nurse him. When he recovered, cheeks. his gratitude for my attentions seemed to know no bounds. He was unable for weeks to leave the hotel, and during that time the kind interest he evinced in my welfare drew me out as nothing had ever been able to do before. I told him been able to do before. all my lonely, unhappy life—I spoke to him as it would have been imposbe kept secret, even from Mrs. sible for me to speak to any one else. His sympathy was great, and I, my gratitude, could have fallen at his feet and kissed them. He promised to help me to a happier position, and when he was leaving he gave me this, with a request not to open it till he had gone.

She drew from her pocket the little curiously-wrought box at which it was her wont to look so frequently. and which Ellen remembered baving seen the day, when they were in Paris that she discovered Miss Flanagan in such strange grief.

"When I did open it," Anne continued, "I found it filled with pound notes, and a little missive lying on the top of them, which begged me to accept the gift as a trifling tribute to the kindness I had shown an utter stranger, and also to keep up my heart, for he might soon be able to do more to relieve my unhappy position.

She opened the box, and disclosed a time-stained letter lying carefully

'This is the letter." she resumed, 'and when I read it then, nearly twenty four years ago, my heart bounded with the sweetest joy it had ever known. I imagined I could already tell what he might be able to do to relieve my position. I knew observation and the not what he was, further than he had other a tall and remarkably handthe bearing, and manners, and education of a gentleman, and I did not question whether he might not be too far above me to think of me in the way of which I dreamed. I only and she had time to note and wonknew that I wildly, madly loved him, hear from him again. A letter came a few months, desiring me to join him at a certain place. I cannot gleamed as if it contained some describe what satisfaction, my independence, my joy were then, and I hastened to obey his directions only to find that I had made the saddest and most terrible mistake of my whole life. It was not for himself the wild affection which I burned to Then the strangely garbed individual pour forth, but to give me the posito marry. And then I found out who One so educated, so wealthy, so high in all this world's advantages. had I but known it before, I would never have dared to raise my thoughts to him. But now it was too late-I could not withdraw my heart, much as I would. I wanted to that she was not well, and desired reject his offer-to refuse the kind advances of his intended bride, whose sympathy he had enlisted in my behalf-out I could not. To know that I was near him-to hear his voice. to see him sometimes—was bliss which I would not forego, and I entered the lady's service. that my feelings were well concealed. I tried to study how to practice the most perfect deception. gentleman had a brother there, a keen eyed, sarcastic man. He penetrated my secret; and at times, when we were unobserved, he seemed to take a delight in torturing me with witnessed this fresh evidence of the his knowledge of it. I hated him. I grew to shiver at his presence; and very bad passion used to rise in my heart at his sight. But still I could not leave. I witnessed the marriage, and I hated the bride—I could have trampled on her in her gorgeous dress. I had never been so wicked. Before, in all my loneliness and unhappiness, I used still to try to be and to cling to my religious practices: but now everything like that was gone, and my heart was black with sin. "Owing to the interest in my case with which she had been inspired, I was soon treated more as a com-panion than a domestic by the newlynade wife; but the hate in my heart for her only flourished the more, till

I left her at last."

The woman had watched the consciousness slowly growing in Ellen's face—the expression which told how the latter was, dimly at first, but more and more clearly comprehend. ing how nearly the tale concerned with the kindliness with which you been out of heremployment"-Ellen's hear tales from the poor about you—listen with the pity which you have listen with the pity which you have for six for never soul needed com to six for never soul needed com disappeared. Sometimes they burn disappeared. Sometimes they burn

have they are never brightly, but they are never brightly, but they are never brightly, but they are never in the state of the st attention I received was flung to me as bones are flung to dogs. It was all their strength again and I thought sigh and a prayer she returned it but just to let you know that you Courtney!

Ellen was agitated by sundry conflicting feelings, without any voluntary act of her will. She had been, while the maid talked, linking all the strange circumstances and re-marks which she had at any time perceived about, or heard from Anne, with the singular story issuing from the latter's lips, and she was almost ready to be told that it was her own father to whom the woman had been thus unhappily attached; but the as she could wish. latter part of the tale compelled her to a different inference, and somestrange requisition. A gentleman any portion of Anne's statement, any putting up for the night there, was also relieved that it was not he any portion of Anne's statement, and mother for whom the woman still entertained such unhappy feelings, she answered in her own gentle, care of him devolved upon me, as pitying way, till the tears streamed afresh down her listener's sallow

> The woman seemed loth to end the conference, even when, owing to Ellen's kind efforts she had become calm and reassured; she appeared still as if she desired to say more. But she did not utter it, and when Ellen rose to leave her, she only be kept secret, even from Mrs. Courtney. The young girl assented, and when at length Anne Flanagan was alone, she muttered :

It's off my mind, anyway. I told her the badness that was in my

But despite her efforts to assure herself that she was quite relieved, her heart was not at rest, for she had concealed the truth from Ellen Courtney.

CHAPTER XXII THE STRANGERS

A few days after Anne Flanagan's singular burst of confidence. Ellen, returning from one of her charitable visits, was induced by the brightness of the afternoon to prolong her walk through the grounds of Ashland Manor. Turning her steps in a dir ection which she rarely approached she wandered on in a sort of pleasant dreaminess, inhaling the soft air and admiring the bright hue of the freshly-springing foliage. Suddenly she became aware that she was not the only stroller through the unfrequented grounds. Two forms emerged from an angle made by the wild shrubbery-one the strange - looking being with whom Miss Flanagan had recently so singular an encounter, and the some middle-aged man. Owing to the dark costume of Ellen, and the shade in which she stood, her pres ence was not immediately perceived, der at the singular dress of one of and I waited with feverish longing to the strangers—the short embroidered cloak, and the conical shaped hat from which depended a tassel that jewel. They paused after walking a mo ment in her direction, as if in obedi ence to a desire of the elder and handsome man, and the latter began to survey the scene with a counten ance expressive of deep interest. perceived Ellen, and, signifying that fact to his companion, they both rapidly approached her.

A flush of alarm dyed her cheeks and she looked sufficiently startled to be on the point of retiring, but the elder of the strangers said with graceful dignity

Am I in the presence of Miss Courtney ?'

The sound of the voice thrilled her, and an unaccountable feeling which she could neither understand nor describe, suddenly filled her heart-as if she had heard the voice. had seen the face before, had even known and loved the person. She bowed assent to his question, while her heart palpitated wildly, and her flush increased to a rich crimson.

He extended his hand. Will you deem it a liberty if I request to hold your hand in mine for a brief space—though unknown to you I take a deep, deep interest in your welfare.' Something over which she had no control impelled her to put instantly her hand in his grasp; his fingers closed upon it with a warm and lingering pressure, and his magnificent dark eyes dwelt with a peculiar upon her face. expression whole soul seemed to respond to that glance, so passionate, and yet so strangely tender.

After a moment or two of the intense and singular survey, he let her hand slip slowly from his grasp.

"Good-by, Miss Courtney, and in your prayers remember sometimes the stranger who has ventured to accost you."

He turned suddenly, and putting his arm through that of his strange companion, they both walked hastily away. She felt like pursuing, to ask his name, and to inquire how and what he knew of her to cause his "deep interest" in her welfare, but her trembling limbs refused to bear her; she leaned against a tree near which she stood, and endeavher own family, and she hastened to efface the impression.

leaf which here we compose herself. The singular emphasis with which he efface the impression.

"I left her at last," she continued. singular emphasis with which he had pronounced the word stranger Years have passed, and I have long in requesting her to pray for him, abruptness.

still lingered in her ears, as did the tones of his voice, so strange, yet so familiar. She could not understand it, and at length, when she had become somewhat composed, she strove to put all thoughts of the strange incident out of her mind, and with a slowly to the house. Fearing that an account of her were exercising your care and kindness on one who still bears the hate and unhappy love of her youth.

Fearing that an account of her singular interview might in some way alarm her mother, she forbore There, you have my story, Miss to mention it even to Mrs. Courtney, and Anne Flanagan, for private rea sons of her own, said nothing of he strange encounter. Perchance both mistress and maid watched, when they went abroad, for another sight of the remarkable strangers, but neither of the latter ever appeared. No tidings of Howard came to relieve his sister's suspense. Malverton sought no more to intrude upon her presence. And Ellen Courtney's life was soon as completely isolated

As the months wore on, Anne Flanagan's disposition seemed to grow less asperse, as if her very sympathy for a life so full of selfdenial and noble devotion as was that of her young mistress, preventness. Dick Monahan also continued to serve the young girl with all the faithfulness of a tried and trusted

Little attention as Ellen fancied she attracted, her name was fre quently mentioned, and interest and curiosity circled warmly about her Even the good-natured garculous-ness of such fond old creatures as Granny Cleary, who still dwelt in the lodge, found the goodness of "the young mistress" an inexhaustible

With Mrs. Courtney, as month after month and even year after year swept their heavy round, hope often gave way, and she was obliged to have frequent recourse to Howard's note in order to revive her fainting courage with the apparently com-forting meaning of its contents. Sometimes she thought of instituting inquiries through the colleges of Europe, imagining with Ellen that he might have entered one, but his request to have her make no search deterred her. But that which imposed the most severe and unnatural strain upon her heart was her resistance to its passionate yearning for her daughter's return. Once that yearning sent her to such desperate lengths that she even seized ner pen to recall Ellen; then the picture of Howard returning to his old ambition and remaining abroad, severed from all influence which might still reclaim him and the prey of dissolute companions, came vividly before her. She dropped the pen, and pushed the paper away on which she would have inscribed her request to Ellen to come home. Her breaking heart would still longer endure the agony of that bitter separa tion, since Howard had promised, in the event of his being swayed by his old passions, to return to his sister so, sternly shutting her sorrows into her own soul, she bore them in silence, not even seeking brother Fabian as had been her wont, for her griefs were too sore to endure his stern rebukes.

TO BE CONTINUED

"THE ROSE OF YESTERDAY'

"O gift of God, of perfect day, quoted Brenda Conover softly, taking in with the comprehensive gaze of the nature-lover the long line of mountains clearly outlined against the dazzling blue of the sky; nd escarnment, bathe in the splendor of the October sun, gave back gift for gift in wondrous light and shadow. Far to the north the misty purple of the mountains seemed merged in the gleaming blue of the ocean, the beautiful blue Pacific that nearer at hand was flinging its waves against dark cliffs and golden sands, its deep voice, softened by distance, a mellow bass to the treble of the nearer bird notes. No wonder that Brenda's heart was stirred as she walked along the path to the beach. This was the most delightful holiday she had ever had, and this village clustered on the strip of land between the mountains and the ocean seemed to her the fair est place on earth.

There's that lady again," she said, half alond "I wonder who she is. always by herself she seems so sad and lonely; but perhaps that is only imagination. Surely my could be sad long in such a place as this. It seems more beautiful every

Coming to the beach she made her way to her usual seat beneath the cliff and remained some time in watching the rollers come in. The grandeur, the majesty of the scene lifted her heart to higher things, from the creature to the Creator, holds the seas in the hollow of His Hand. Then almost involuntarily she began to sing the "Salve Regina," softly at first, then, responding to the beauty of the words poured forth her love to the dear Mother whose heart yearns over her banished children. As the last trembling note died away, she started up in surprise, for the lady who had so roused heart. "You have a beautiful and sympathetic voice, but is it right, think you, to sing in the open air and so close to the sea?" low and pleasant, and the smile she how bitter the cup that must be gave robbed the question of any drunk to the very dregs. In vain we

I should not, but I felt it all so, the aspirations as yonder mists beauty and the grandeur, that I could blotted out the hills."

not keep silence. The other sighed. "Once I was expression in song, and nowbroke off abruptly, and turned as if to go, but after taking a few returned and sat down beside

"I have noticed you on the beach every day for a week. Are you making a long stay?'

Only a month; I wish it could be longer; but I must get back to work. I suppose we wouldn't enjoy holidays we always had them, though, would we?

"Certainly not, and nothing is more wearisome than a perpetual vacation, nothing more hard to bear than an enforced idleness. I ought to know that. May I ask what your | self to break the silence first.

'Nothing very important, I fear. I I had rather overtaxed my strength, for, though she had never seen it I am sent down to recruit in this before, she felt sure the delicate delightful place." Yes, it is beautiful, but one almost like home. But tell me of yourself; are you a vocalist?"

Cottage" that evening, she felt that all would come right. As she paused very sanguine about it, but I love of the roses, whose abundance gave music above all-don't you?"

Forgive me," she murmured, and laid her strong, cool hand on the frail ones that were locked so tightly together. There was silence for a while, and then Brenda began to speak of the mountains, of all the beauty spots she had explored, and all she meant to explore in the coming weeks. That was the first of many meetings, and Brenda grew to love Rosemary Fortescue with a love she had felt for no one since her mother had died five years before. That there was some mystery about her she could not fail to note, but made no effort to force her confidence. Often it seemed that the wall of reserve would be broken down, but by a a golden future lay before me. I supreme effort she would regain her loved! I' was loved; all life was self-control.

It was the hour of sunset, the mountain ridge was like a line of gold, and overhead the soft rose hues still lingered in the cloud-masses, but on the mountain side the mists were gathering, veiling in their folds bleak rock and living green. alike On a fallen tree by the wayside sat Brenda, but not now were eyes or mind on the scene before her : earth had no share in the thoughts that clustered round the holy words as beads slipped through her fingers; the mysteries passed before her winning, wounding, gladdening. Even when she had finished the Rosary she still sat motionless, heart and mind full of joy in the glory of Mary in heaven, and she started as a hand was laid on hers.

"Did I frighten you? I did not mean to. I am sorry. But you were so lost in thought that you did not notice my coming. Oh, are you a Catholic ?

"I am, thanks be to God," replied Brenda, rising, for there was no mistaking the dismay in the other's tone, even if she failed to note how quickly the hand had been drawn back at the touch of the rosary.

"Do not be offended," pleaded Miss Fortescue. "I have felt so drawn to you in these days, and desirous of your friendship. I have never had always had an idea they were ignorant and superstitious. Now, I know you are not the first; have we not talked on books for many days and, young as you are, you are well read. "is certainly touched the rosary. superstitious. What can you want with a string of beads to say prayers the heart can go out to God without that? Then Brenda seeing that the other was in earnest, sat down again, and explained clearly and simply the mysteries, joyful, sorrowful and glorious, and how the recital of the blends vocal and mental rosary prayer. Then, gathering courage, she spoke of the Blessed Mother of God, given to us as Mother also, by those dear words on Calvary; of the love that fails not when earthly affections fail, making childhood purer and more blessed, strengthening the heart when temptations gather, giving courage and help when the fight is hard and bitter, and throwing its gentle light on the valley of the shadow.

She ceased; and in the silence came the everlasting thunder of the ocean, and nearer at hand the mourn ful cry of the night-bird, and the rustling of the leaves overhead Then Helen Fortescue spoke, slowly dreamily

"I never thought of anything as peautiful as that. I have rather shunned religion as something dark and gloomy that robs life of its sweetness, but as you speak of it it would be the light of life. Mys teries! I like that word, for are we not surrounded by mysteries, do we not walk begirt with them; and pass from one to another until the last great one of all enfolds us? Yes, yours is a living faith, no cold collec tion of hard dogmas and crude super stitions as I once thought. her curiosity was standing close and the note of passion thrilled in beside her, and the sadness of the her tone, "had I but a faith like that her tone, "had I but a faith like that beautiful dark eyes went to her to lean on, in the hour of darkness and despair, even this bitterness might have been sweet, and a ray of hope might have shone where all is now darkness. You are young, you do not realize how cruel life can be, drunk to the very dregs. In vain we seek to avoid sorrow; it steals upon

"I never thought of that; perhaps us and blots out our hopes and

"Look higher," cried Brenda, her voice vibrant with emotion, "over "over the same, all emotion had to find the earth the shadows may rest, but see the glory of the stars," and she pointed to where in the horizon the evening star gleamed in fitful splendor. A long, low cry broke from the other's lips, and ere Brendar could stop her she had gone.
Day after day, passed, and she had made no sign, and in a short time now all opportunity would be gone. In vain Brenda haunted the beach the slender, black robed figure never appeared, and it was with a sinking eart she turned homeward on her last evening. Tomorrow she would be back in the city and she longed to see her friend once more before leaving, yet she could not bring hershe entered the cottage where she "Nothing very important, I fear. I was staying, a note was handed to am only a musical student, and since her, and her heart bounded with joy, characteristic writing must be that of Miss Fortescue. She was not miswearies of everything. I have been here two years now, so that it is note asking her to call at "R "I hope to be, though I am not at the gate, she noted the fragrance the tiny cottage its name, and she lingered along the path, her hostess came to greet her.

"I fear I behaved very badly that evening and since; but you must pardon me, dear; I was more moved than I care to confess, and though have been trying to shut my heart against what you said I find I cannot Let us sit here on the veranda, I want to tell you about myself, and prefer the friendly darkness. "If you would rather not—" began Brenda "Ah, but I must, only very briefly though. I have eaten out my heart in silence too long. The profession you aspire to was mine. My voice was marvelous, so everyone said, and fair: then the mists fell, and all was blotted out. I listened to the malic ious gossip of one I deemed a friend listened and believed, and quarreled with Leonard. He left in anger, and I never saw him again, for he went to Western America, and died there I was miserable when he went away and grew careless. One night, or leaving the concert hall, I contracted a cold and, neglecting it, became seriously ill. My recovery was slow, and then the blow fell-my voice was gone; all my dreams of triumphs faded as utterly as my dreams love. I was persuaded to try a milder climate than that of Europe and came out to Australia some twelve years ago. Since then I have drifted from city to city, until I found this haven of peace. still a young woman, but hope is dead, for me life has nothing but though it was short enough, and you know how the poet says: Each morn a thousand roses brings weariness. I have had my you say. Yes, but where leaves the rose of yesterday?

The rose of yesterday, how truly that describes my hopes my self."

"Do you not think," said Brenda striving to find some means to bring comfort to this stricken heart, much to do with Catholics, but I your past is too bitterly sad? A good and learned friend of mine told me once to read two chapters of the 'Imitation' for every verse of his

"Maybe, you are right, but I love the bitterness, at least I did, But it seems to me this," and she since you spoke that evening I have been thinking mother's love, that I have never known, and when you spoke of Mary, our Mother: of help and strength and comfort, my heart cried out in its loneliness for all you had and I lacked. Your holiday is up soon Tomorrow! Well, at least you will write to me and tell me more of this beautiful faith that seems the branch of healing for every Marah. It is strange for a Christian to say, but I've never known God as you seem to know Him, and yet if I could know and love-"Ah, pray to the Sacred Heart of Our Dear Lord; He will help you. He will guide. See, I'll give y this Rosary; it was my mother's. will teach you how to say it and then say it every day, call every day on Him Who has said, 'Come unto me all ve that labor and are burdened.

It was some six weeks later that Brenda, on opening the usual weekly letter from her friend by the sea found only a few words written the sheet-"I was received into the Church today and I know now. God nothing is impossible, and bud and blossom may return even to the rose of yesterday.

"A letter in a strange hand from the South Coast," said Brenda one day, less than a month after; wonder has anything happened Rosemary." The smile faded as she read the note from the good priest she had known down there. Fortescue was dead, and Church had but gathered her into her arms to lay her in those of death She sent Brenda a last message with dimming eyes the girl read the uncertain characters-"Our faint. Dear Mother, Queen of the Rosary place at her feet for the 'rose of yesterday.' "-Australian Messenger.

The visible organic unity exhibited by the world-wide Church under the Roman primacy is the greatest moral force which has ever come into being.-Father Pesch, S. J.

Phone Main 6249. After Hours: Hillcrest 3313 Society of St. Vincent de Paul

Bureau of Information Special Attention Given to Employment 25 Shuter St.

AUTOMOBILES, LIVERY, GARAGE R. HUESTON & SONS Livery and Garage. Open Day and Night 479 to 483 Richmond St. 580 Wellington St Phone 423 Phone 441

FINANCIAL

THE ONTARIO LOAN & DEBENTURE CON Capital Paid Up. $1,750,000. Reserve $1,450,000 beposits received, Debenkures issued, East scale Loans made. John McClary, Pres. A. 4. Smart, Mgr. Offices: Dundas St., Cornel farket Lane, London

FOY, KNOX & MONAHAN BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, NOTARIES 84 Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., A.E.Knox, T. Louis Monobas E. L. Middleton George Keonge Cable Address: "Foy" Telephones (Main 794 Main 798 ices: Continental Life Buildin

H. L. O'ROURKE, B.A. (Also of Ontario Bar)
BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, NOTARY Money to Loan Suite 5, Board of Trade Building 231 Eighth Avenue Wes

CORNER BAY AND RICHMOND STREETS

CALGARY, ALBERT OHN T. LOFTUS

712 TEMPLE BUILDING

REILLY, LUNNEY & LANNAN Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries
Money to Loan
Clifford B. Reilly, B.A., Ll. B.,
Harry W. Lunney, B.A., B.C.L.,
Alphonsus Langan, LL.B.

Burns Block, Phone M. 5571 CALGARY, ALBERTA. P. O. Drawer 1800 pecial facilities for correspondence in French

DENTISTS

DR. BRUCE E. EAID Room 5, Dominion Bank Chambers Richmond and Dundas Sts Phone 166

Hotel St. Charles

NEWLIN-HAINES CO.

Atlantic City, N. J.

NORTH ST., AT DELAWARE AVE. BUFFALO, N.Y.

A modern, fireproof and distinctive hotel of 250 all outside rooms. Ideally located. Excels in equipment, cuisine and service.

Operated on the European Plan TARIFF: Room with privilege of Bath $1.50 per day Room with Private Bath $2.00 per day and upward Two Rooms with Private Bath $4.00 per day and upward

Funeral Directors

John Ferguson & Sons 180 KING ST. The Leading Undertakers & Emba Open Night and Day

E. C. Killingsworth FUNERAL DIRECTOR Open Day and Night

583 Richmond St. Phone 397

Telephone - House 373 Factory 64

WHAT MAY WE EXPECT AFTER THIS WAR?

SPECTATOR IN PITTSBURGH OBSERVER DISCUSSES PRESENT AND FUTURE & SITUATIONS WITH HIS FRIEND

We did not get excited, but were talking quietly about the War; how and when it it is likely to end. denly the Spectator's friend asked "what do you think? Is this war going to bring about a revival of religion in the world? Will men's thoughts turn away from the materialism and denial of God which brought about this awful war to the acceptance of religion and the Christian standards of living? What effect do you think it is going to have upon the people of the United States? What is the outlook for the future of religion, as you see it, in this country?'

The Spectator did not attempt the role of a prophet in his reply. He differed widely from his friend who entertains a rather gloomy view of the future of religion. The war has evidently had upon him as upon many others a depressing effect. The Spectator tried to cheer him up

Answering the broad question. "What is the outlook for religion?" the Spectator said that the reply largely depends upon the point of view of the observer.

There are the alarmists who say Christianity, as they know it, is dis-integrating into lifeless elements; that its creeds are being cast aside that church going is falling into disfavor. They point to the census of church attendance recently taken in New York and Chicago and say "that tells the tale"; they say that men women no longer believe the teaching; that science and modern scholarship have shown the Bible to be full of errors and myths; that many ministers of religion are avowed skeptics, preaching from Christian pulpits the principles of agnosticism and infidelity. This, the pessimists, clearly indicates the decline of vital religion; and one may easily predict, from such an outlook, the speedy decline of Chris-

There is another class of observers, the people who hold to the philosophy of hope and "the religion They are trustful the future, they are not so easily cast down, their look is upward, their faith is that of the poet's,

"That, somehow, good Will be the final goal of ill."

They look around for omens of the coming dawn and find them in abun-

And, there is yet a third class made up of earnest, sincere Christians, who are not troubling themselves too much "about the signs of the times," but are busy with the but are busy with the work of their own and others' salvation; those who are walking in the footsteps of the divine Master : who have an unshaken belief in promises of God that His kingdom on earth, the church of the living cannot fail; that however flerce the conflict between truth and error, between light and darkness. between virtue and vice, the victory ust be in the long run on the side of virtue, light and truth.

Their creed is this: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and for-ever." Every truth uttered by His lips; every heart conquered by His maintained by Christian generosity; love through the changing centuries; the proper observance of the Lord's struggle with temptation; every prayer in His name—these are the spirit of brotherhood and kindly the single notes in the great swell- feeling among the various denominahorns that echoes through the ever-living heart of humanity. to us is born a Savior, who is Christ ture of the future of religion. the Lord, and the love of Him is life | Lord God will, as He said, protect His outlook is assured.

the facts as they present themselves all the ruins thereof; and He will to these three different classes of make her desert as a place of pleasreligious observers. One thing is quite certain—that the religious Joy and gladness shall be found question, as always will be the case, at the present time under discussion the Spectator's answer to his inquirthroughout the world. Look at the ing friend as to the religious outlook amount of mental activity the topic calls forth. In constant succession newspapers, lecturers, books, contro versies and popular movements stir the public mind into ferment over this or that point of religion, the new theology, or modernism, the position of this or that religious leader. This shows how deep in human nature is the passion of religion; and is also evidence of the present bent of human thought.

It is quite evident that there is fessing Christians that was unknown even a generation ago. Men and from his plate. women no longer "hate one another for the love of God." Protestants for the love of God." Protestants and Catholics can be good neighbors dwell. The wife should deem her and the best of friends, even when they differ radically on points of doctrine. All this makes the outlook —not he for the house. She should for painting the future of a religion to heaven's glory. as seen by the three classes of per-assailed here and there by professing Christian ministers; a notable falling off in church attendance: the lowering of the tone of public morality; the revival of the spirit of paganism; the degradation of the stage; the alarming increase of crime, of suicides and divorces; the corruption of fashionable society. He will remind us of the words of the English poet, describing a state of society which, he says, is very like our own :

"Religion, blushing, veils her sacred

And unawares morality expires."

A Methodist bishop recently de-clared that "Fashionable society has a staggering load of sin to answer for, and I consider it the most dangerous foe that the church of Christ to combat. The leaders of society are all so polite, yet they are hand in hand leagued with the vilest

He has repeated this charge with added emphasis:

"I have no apology to offer," says he good bishop. "The facts in evithe good bishop. "The facts in evidence are too abundant. The frequent divorces in high life for immorality prove the trend of things."
Out of such facts and conditions

the pessimists paint the future of religion, and the outlook to them is, indeed, dark and discouraging.
But a better, brighter and truer picture of the future of religion can, I think, be drawn. The materials are quite at hand. Let us use the facts and tendencies noted by the alarmists for a background. They serve only to bring out more prominently the good that is in society at large, and the strength and vitality of religion. Never, I believe, was the outlook brighter. What are the facts? Confining the view to Amer ica, we find that the great body of the American people are Christian believers. The spirit of Christianity permeates our laws and institutions. Our civilization is Christian. Ninety five per cent, of our public men, from the president down to the village postmaster, are professing Christians. The bulk of the teachers in our schools, colleges and universities are sincere Christians.

MANY FIRM BELIEVERS

governors of the States, the United States senators, the heads of the army and navy, all of them are on record as being firm believers in Christianity. The members of the supreme court, the judges of our county benches, the vast majority of lawyers, doctors and business men believe in the teaching of Christ. Here then, is the answer to those who say that intelligent people are skeptical and no longer believe in Christianity. Nor is there a notable falling off in church attendance. Look right here in Pittsburgh. See the crowds that are coming and going every Lord's day from the churches of the town. Look at the splendid church edifices. Does that indicate a decadence of Christianity? A church census of all the families in Philadelphia show that only about 8% of the whole are non-religious. And what is true of Philadelphia will hold for most other places. The showing of atheists and agnostics, when put to a test, is piti-

REASON FOR ENCOURAGEMENT

Then, consider the growth and extension of Christian charity: the hospitals, orphanages and refuges day and the great Christian festivals; tions. Surely we have here more "Un- than enough material to paint a pic-Christ ture of the future of religion. The In such souls the religious Kingdom; against His Church the power of error and darkness cannot Let me note somewhat in detail prevail; He "will comfort Zion, and

HUSBANDS AND WIVES said so.

The husband will at first reluctantly absent himself from a distasteful the laws, institutions and spirit of home, then continue in weaning his the Catholic Church and with the heart from what has become repugnant but where naturally a smile should meet him and a kind word ent bent of human thought.

It is quite evident that there is a most profound interest in religion at the present time. It is no less evident that profound changes are going on in the religious world. As result of these changes there is a fuller understanding of what true afuller understanding of what true religion means; there is a spirit of make gracious. All the unfortunate brotherhood and charity among prohead of the house gets is a meal, and

Strife, then, should ever be absent husband as the subject of her best doctrine. All this makes the outlook brighter and more hopeful for true remember that love is of all things the very first-that with it a tent can Now, let me supply the material be a palace and a tallow dip a light

Many a wife standing on the grave as seen by the three classes of per-sons referred to. A very unlovely picture is that of the pessimist. He sees only what is dark and decadent seels, for herself, first, last and ever, sees only what is dark and decadent in religion and paints according to his view. This is what he observes: have of skepticism sweeping over the religious world; a gross and the religious world; a g ingly chop to pieces what should be happy days. Death would not come so soon, only suffering in silence bebeckoned the destroyer to hasten, in the hope the grave would bestow rest. Ingratitude made for him a hell that vas easy to leave. Then there are wives who seem the plaything of a husband's brutal power. Nothwithstanding all the tenderness of which the gentle sex is capable, despite all the solicitude that is ever looking beyond itself to his needs, all the consideration that would make light her husband's burdens even though her own were made heavier; all the amiable attractiveness of manner, gentleness of and sweetness of mind that only the Sacraments can beget, the gracious soul of home's and heaven's devotee gets nothing but a scowl. There is always a cloud around her and a nightmare in her thought and

All this is wrong; the wife cannot be truly happy if the husband is miserable; the husband cannot be glad if the wife is in tears. should be the right arm of the other and should feel maimed if it were lost. One should not be a bailiff to unroof the other's peace and joy. One should not be an example of in subordination and disobedience to children that should, on the contrary find it easy to obey where unity marks command. One should not be the reason why dread of death or the mad house would bring constant

If all this be true of Christian homes, how can we approach the subject of pagan domiciles? What a travesty on pleasure are they! The old Roman pagans had no word to express home, nor have our modern ones in their peculiar conduct. If the orchestra discourses sweet music what is it if there be no social harmony: if grandeur is the character of the furniture, what of it, if life is barren of virtue and heavenly hope if castellated towers rise to the sky, what a mockery are they if the soul never mounts thereto; if gold glitters in bursting coffers, what a hollow sham if the gold of virtue does not gleam and glisten in the chambers of Christian homes have tangible joys Their songs are the first notes of verses sung forever in Heaven; their harmonies of hearts are suggestive of eternal rhapsodies; their union of interests is indicative of the saints and angels who melodiously forevermore chorus the praises of Our Father above: their little sacrifices. for the sake of others, tell us of the beauty of Christ's Cross crimsoned with unselfishness.—Catholic Colum-

THE SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE

Recently the Anglican or Episcopal Church was disestablished as the state church in Wales. All the English Episcopalian bishops and churchmen opposed this separation of Church and State; just as they did in 1868, when the Church and State were separated in Ireland.

But would you therefore conclude that American Episcopalians are op-posed to separation of Church and State?

In Germany there is union of Church and State. The Lutheran church is established by law and enjoys State support. If the Socialists should seek to separate Church and State, in Germany, all the Lutheran pastors would denounce the move.

Lutheran vote in this country was therefore in favor of a union of Church and State?

In Catholic countries, like Spain and Italy, the Catholic clergy favor the present laws which provide for public support of the Catholic

But that does not prove that Catholic Americans want union of Church and State here, American Catholics, both clergy and laity, are very well satisfied with the present American status of separation of Church and State. This status harmonizes perfectly with the Catholic Church, and Catholic prelates have laws, institutions and spirit of our country. And we emphatically de clare there is no antagonism between them."-Pastoral of the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States assembled at the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore.

THEY OUGHT TO KNOW

where liberty of conscience is respected, and where the civil constitution holds over us the aegis of her is specially seen in the bonds of govprotection, without intermeddling ernment and the participation of the with ecclesiastical affairs. From my heart, I say: America, with all thy faults, I love thee still. Perhaps at this moment there is no nation on the face of the earth where the Church is less trammelled, and where she together by the ligaments of various has more liberty to carry out her sublime destiny than in these United

For my part, I much prefer the system which prevails in this country, where the temporal needs of the Church are supplied by voluntary contributions of the faithful, to the sensual materialism; a creedless religion; the truth of the Bible openly latchet to mercilessly and unmean-

Far more effective than Sticky Fly Catchers. Clean to handle. Sold by Druggists and Grocers everywhere.

wholesale confiscation of ecclesiastical property.

I do not wish to see the day when the Church will invoke or receive any government aid to build our churches or to pay the salary of our clergy, for the government may then begin to dictate to us what doctrines we ought to preach. In proportion as State patronage would increase, the sympathy and aid of the faithful would diminish."

Sometimes there is a question of divided allegiance," but it is, after all, very simple.

Americans owe a political allegiance both to their State and their Federal governments. These alle-giances, may, at times, seem to conflict: but, as a matter of fact, they find adjustment in the courts of final resort.

Church and State have come into conflict all through the ages over the limits of their respective jurisdictions. Even in "the ages of faith," so-called, our Catholic ances-"the ages of tors enacted mortmain, and other statutes, limiting the prerogatives or jurisdiction of the Church or its authorities.

What do we conclude out of all these varying assertions of claims and conflicts of jurisdictions? Let us be practical and derive our notion of what is the accepted status from the facts, as history has hammered them out. In the circumstances, and especially in a country like ours, consider with others on the cause of where Church and State are separate Bishop Schrembs, the present Catholic Bishop of Toledo, has put the matter in a nutshell:

"I am perfectly willing, yes, as a Catholic Bishop, I must subscribe to the following anathema: 'Cursed be he who says you owe the Church temporal allegiance.' I subscribe to that anathema with all my heart. So does every Catholic. And yet, no matter how often we deny it, invariably the old charge will be brought up again."

The real attitude of the Catholic Church with reference to Catholic loyalty and Catholic duty to country is expressed in the words of Rev. J. M. Molloy, of Ryan, Ia., (a Catholic priest) who recently answered the attacks of Moles, in which answer he said:

"When I stated that if the Pope were king of Italy and if war was proclaimed between Italy and the United States, I would be found under the Stars and Stripes, Boles was panic-

"I will now go farther and say in the words of another Catholic priest: If by an impossible supposition the Pope should man an army and fleet the rest in the exposition of the Holy to storm our coast, you would have Scriptures. Applying to these writ two million Catholics in the Ameri- ings the rules of Vincentius of Lerins. can army ready to die to resist the which I saw to be approved by the Pope's invasion. You would have most learned, I deduced what were thirteen million Catholics in their the points which had been everyhomes praying for their sons, brothers where, always, and perseveringly and fathers in the field. You would handed down, by the testimony of have forty-five thousand Catholic the ancients, and by the traces of nuns upon their knees before the them remaining to the present day tabernacles beseeching the God of I saw that these remained in that armies to strike the guns from the Church which is bound to the Roman emissaries. You would have seventeen thousand priests in the front ranks of the army fighting till they died for the constitution of the United States. We would be Catholics still, and we would say to the Pope, 'we shall render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's.' "-Catholic Columbian.

NOTED WRITER

SAYS HE FOUND THE MARKS OF DIVINITY ONLY IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

Hugo Grotius, in "Votum pro pace

" Nurtured from my youth in sacred literature, and taught by masters not holding the same opinions on divine things, it was easy for me to see the will of Christ, that all who desired to il of Baltimore.

And read what Cardinal Gibbons bear His name, and through Him attain blessednesss, should be one among themselves as He is one with Thank God we live in a country ere liberty of conscience is rected, and where the civil constitute of a communion which can be seen, and Sacraments. For the Church is one or ought to be, a certain Body (Rom. xii.; Ephes. i. 4, 5: Colos, i.); offices (Ephes. iv. 11); and individuals to be baptized in it, that they may become one body (I Cor., xii). And they are to feed on one consecrated Bread, that they may grow more and more unto each other and show them selves to be one Body (1 Cor. x, 17). I was strangely captivated by the beauty of that ancient Church, on whose Catholicity there is no controversy; when all Christians, save fragments torn off, and therefore easy was for this very reason that schisms and separations in that conspicuous body were severely interdicted (Rom. xvi, 17; I Cor. i. 10, 11: 3; xi, 18; xii, 25: Gal. v. 20); and that this was the special subject in the letters of Paul, and Clement of Rome to the Corinthians, and in many writings of Optatus of Milan, and Augustine against the Donatists. Moreover, I began to reflect that not only my ancestors, but those of many others, had been pious men, hating supersti-tion and wickedness; men who brought up their families well, in the worship of God and the love of their neighbor; whom I had ever deemed to have departed from this life in a state of salvation; nor had Francis Junius taught me otherwise—a man of such fair and mild opinions, that the more heated Protestants disliked and abused him. I was also aware from the reports of my elders, and the histories I had read, that men afterwards arose who were altogether for deserting the Church in which our ancestors had been; and who not only themselves deserted it-some even before they were excommunicated—but made new assemblies too, which were for calling churches, presbyteries in them taught and administered sacraments. and that in many places against the edicts of kings and bishops, and alleged, in defence of this, that they must obey God rather than man, just as if they had such a charge from heaven as the Apostles had Nor had they halted in their daring at this point; but traducing kings as idolaters and slaves of the Pope had stirred up the mob toarmed meetings. seditions against the magistrates, breaking of the images of saints, of holy tables and shrines and finally to civil war and open rebellion. I saw that much Christian blood had thus been everywhere shed that morals, looking generally, especially where they had prospered, had so far from improved, that long wars had made men savage, and the contact of for-eign vices infected them. My sorrow at these things increasing with my consider with others on the cause of calamities so great. The seceders, to cover their own deed, stoutly main-taimed that the doctrine of the Church united with the chief See had been corrupted by many heresies, and by idolatry. This was the occasion of my inquiring into the dogmas of that Church, of reading the books written on both sides, reading also what has been written of the present state and doctrine of the Church in

Greece, and of those joined to it in Asia and Egypt. I found that the East held the same dogmas which had been defined in the West by universal councils; and that their judgments agreed on the government of the Church, (save the controversies with the Pope), and on the rites of the Sacraments unbrokenly handed down. I went further, and chose to read the chief writers of ancient times, as well Greek as Latin among whom the Gauls and Africans; and those of the next three centuries I read both all and often; but the later ones, as much as my occupations and circumstances allowed, especially Chrysos tom and Jerome, because I saw that they were considered happier than

ASSUMPTION COLLEGE

SANDWICH, ONTARIO

A Boarding School for Young Men and Boys

Offering College or Arts Course High School Course Business Course and Preparatory Course for Younger Boys

WRITE FOR CATALOGUE

REV. T. V. MOYLAN, C. S. B. PRINCIPAL

St. Mary's College Halifax, N. S.

CONDUCTED BY THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS OF IRELAND

DAY PUPILS and BOARDERS THE FOLLOWING COURSES ARE GIVEN

PREPARATORY COMMERCIAL COLLEGIATE, ARTS AND PARTIAL COURSE IN ENGINEERING

The College Will Re-Open on Sept. 12th WRITE FOR PROSPECTUS

I often think how much misery not be avoided; it can not be swept Egypt from the British ocean to the there is in the world; and, even away all at once; for we are human, Euphrates, or beyond. I saw that it among very good people, little unwe are creatures, and as such we pleasant incidents occur. This can shall always be full of little faults.

University of Ottawa

A Catholic Institution Conducted by the Oblate Fathers Founded in 1848. Degree-Conferring Powers from Church and State

COMPLETE ENGLISH COURSES

Theological, Philosophical, Arts, Collegiate and Business Departments

OVER 50 PROFESSORS A'D INSTRUCTORS

Finest College Buildings and Finest Athletic Grounds in Canada. aseum, Laboratories and Modern Equipments. Private Rooms.

Studies Resumed Wed., Sept. 5

For Calendar and Particulars, apply to THE REV. RECTOR.

URSULINE COLLEGE

"The Pines", Chatham, Ontario

College, Preparatory, Commercial Domestic Science and Art Courses

SCHOOL OF MUSIC affiliated with TORONTO CONSERVATORY APPLY FOR PROSPECTUS TO THE REV. MOTHER SUPERIOR

Loretto Abbey College

Wellington St., Toronto, Ont.

This College is affiliated to the University of Toronto Through St. Michael's College

Departmental, Commercial, Academic and Preparatory Courses

Art Courses - Water Colors, Oils and China. Music Courses leading to A. T. C. M. and Bachelor of Music. For Terms, etc., apply to MOTHER SUPERIOR.

College and Academy of St. Joseph ST. ALBAN ST., TORONTO

St. Joseph's College is Affiliated to the University of Toronto through the Federated College of St. Michael College Course of four years, leading to Degrees. Also Academic, Collegiate, Commercial, and Preparatory Courses. For Prospectus, apply to THE MOTHER SUPERIOR.

St. Thomas College

Boarding and Day School Conducted by the Basilian Fathers

college, high school, commercial SCHOOL, PREPARATORY SCHOOL

The College is beautifully situated near the Miramichi River. Fine Athletic Field. Magnificent Skating Rink.

WRITE FOR OUR CATALOGUE

St. Francis Xavier University ANT GONISH, NOVA SCOTIA

Arts. Science, Engineering, Law

Modern and up-to-date buildings and equipment. Clerical and lay professors, graduates of leading Universities of FEES - $208.00 and upwards. Write the Registrar for Calendar.

St. Francis Xavier's High School

Prepares students of the last two years of the High School Course for FEES-$5.50 a week for board, tuition, etc.

ST. JEROME'S COLLEGE KITCHENER, ONT., CANADA

(FOUNDED 1864) Residential College for Boys and Young Men

Commercial, High School and Arts Courses

In charge of Professors holding European University Degrees New Buildings, with latest hygienic equipments. Large Gymnasium—Swimming Pool—Shower Baths—Auditorium.

Comfortable Private Sleeping Rooms—Substantial Board.

REV. A. L. ZINGER, C. R., President.

The Catholic Record

Frice of Subscription—$1.50 per annum. United States & Europe—$2.00 shisher and Proprietor, Thomas Coffey, LL. D. Beditors Rev. James T. Foley, B. A.
Thomas Coffey, LL. D.

Asseciate Editors { Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan H. F. Mackintosh.

Advartisements for teachers, situations wanted see. 60 cents each insertion. Remittance to secompany the order.

4-proved and recommended by Archbishops Falconio and Sbaretti, late Apostolic Delegates to Danada, the Archbishops of Toronto. Kingston, Utsuva and St. Boniface, the Fishops of London, Gamilton, Peterborough, and Ogdensburg, N. Y., and the clergy throughout the Dominion.

The following agents are authorized to receive subscriptions and canvas for the CATROLIC EXOGRAP.

General agents: M. J. Hagarty, Vincent S. Cox, and Miss Jessie Doyle, Resident agents: deorge B. Hewetson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. W. E. Smith, Halifax; Miss Bride Saunders, Bydney; Miss L. Heringer, Winnipeg; E. R. Oestello, 2256-8th sve West, Vancouver, B. C. Hiss Johnson, 211 Rochester st., Ottawa: Miss Aces McKeaney, 149 D'Aignillon street, Quebec, dirs. George E. Smith, 2393 St. Urbain street, Montreal, M. J. Marvin, Montreal, B. F. O'Toole, 1947 Montague St., Regins, Sask., and E. J. Murphy, Box 125, Saskatoon.
Obituary and marriage, notices, cannot be cribers changing residence will please give well as new address.

In St. John N. B., single copies may wrchased from Mrs. M. A. McGuire, 249 h treet, John J. Dwyer and The O'Neill harmacy, 108 Brussels street. In Montreal single copies may be purchased From J. Millov, 241 St. Catherine street, west.

LONDON, SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1917

THE POPE'S PEACE PROPOSAL

Despite the casual, even flippant admits: disposal on the part of a large section of the press of the Pope's proposal of a concrete basis for the plish its will. initiation of peace negotiations it claims the attention and will receive the entire world. There is probably not a single newspaper published anywhere in any language which has not already discussed the momentous question that stirs millions of hearts and homes with the hope that it may be the dawn of peace in this war-prevalent in Canada. The Toronto News, for instance, concludes thus

"It is regrettable that the Vatican would lend itself to an academic pro less of the inner meaning of the quarrel.

Others obsessed with the idea that the Pope is feverishly concerned about the integrity of Austria assume that the Holy Fathersis merely the medium through which the Central Powers are presenting their proposals. If these good people could get it into their heads that the boundaries of Austria concern the Catholic Church no more than the boundaries of Manitoba they might approach such questions with greater thing in recent times that Austria did as a Catholic power was to attempt to exercise the old privilege of the veto in the Papal election which followed the death of Leo XIII. The action of the Austrian Emperor was indignantly resented by the College of Cardinals, and Pius X's first public act of importance was to deny, peremptorily and forever, the right which Austria had assumed to interfere in the election of the Pope.

Let us examine with vision unimpaired by prejudice and judgment unwarped by traditional distrust the document which the Holy Father has issued for the consideration of the Christian world. The fact that he has done so is of tremendous significance. Without army or navy or material means of any kind Rome is one of the world's great powers. With traditions of diplomacy covering all the varying conditions of cance of the qualifying clause in the most capable and zealous teachers narrow, and leads to the supposition European civilization, accustomed to Pope's Letter when he speaks of on the continent. But the fact re- that taxation must bear even a deal with nations and groups and arbitration "according to the rules mains that comparatively few of our greater share of the burden. individuals in all parts of the earth, to be laid down and the penalties to boys go to High School or College. with an intimate knowledge of be imposed on a State which would with an intimate knowledge of he imposed on a State which would human nature, national tempera. That Christian religion has never ciently to allow of the pouring in of ment and racial characteristics, is it to arbitration or to accept its decifor one moment conceivable that the sion." venerable Court of Rome proposed a Out of the awful experience of this by Sisters our boys during the whole concrete basis for opening negotiations | War, it is plainly the Pope's desire | formative period of school life never | tically ignored, is well-known. The for peace at this time without first and suggestion, the principle of come under masculine influence at having ascertained what was the order and the means of enforcing it all. Up to ten or twelve years of naively in an article in our Presbycommon ground on which the war- which exist in every civilized coming nations could probably meet? munity shall be extended to the in-No; nothing is more certain than that ternational relations of the whole long and careful discussion of all the civilized world. In other words open diplomatic relations; there is sage which indicates the grounds for famous teaching order superadded. fell like a pall upon post-Reforma-

Government has been frequent if not history when the reign of real intercontinuous. To a question in the national law may be inaugurated: British House of Commons the other day the answer was that though times as not to see that the workers the Government had had no official of the world, the 'common people,' knowledge of the actual Letter just published they would not have been ssued from that source at any time during the last two or three months. Nor did it surprise any belligerent rovernment on either side.

Therefore, we repeat, the mere fact of the issuance of the Pope's Letter is of tremendous significance in itself.

Now let us consider for a moment the objection that peace on the bases proposed by the Pope would be a German victory.

There is little doubt at this time in the mind of any unprejudiced and thoughtful man that Germany's studied in that perspective which object in the War and her aim for at time alone can give, the appeal of defeated, utterly and absolutely de- most important influences inaugurmay be taken as typical of its class, moral force, not military power, will

"It is plain to the whole world Germany has failed to accom

If plain to the whole world is it remains the one great event that conceivable the German people will remain blind to so patent a fact? the ever-increasing consideration of Our object, it has been repeatedly stated, is to destroy Prussian militar ism, not to crush the German people; to make the world safe for democracy against the inordinate ambitions of autocratic rule. But Prussian militarism, class privilege and military domination can be destroyed utterly and effectively darkened world. The tone of the discussion in many of the papers only by the people concerned. Is it conceivable that the which come under the notice of our military idea discredited by defeat readers reveals more ignorant precan rehabilitate itself with a people judice than is pleasant to think of as who have gone through the horrors of this War and for generations must stagger under its legacy of crushing burdens not the least of which will be the intense dislike and distrust of posal plainly unacceptable to the legions of freedom and utterly heed- world commerce was carried on? Will England, will France or Canada the "economic penetration" of Germany? Will Austria-Hungary or Bulgaria or even Southern Germany again consent to be dragged at the chariot wheels of Prussian junkerdom in its mad race for military conquest? No, in spite of the suggestive influence of the parrot repetition that the War must go on and on until complete military victory on the field is achieved, we do not believe that it is necessary, sanity and balance. About the only or that Prussianism can be more effectively beaten than it will be when the Central Powers accept the bases proposed by the Pope for the opening of negotiations which, God grant, will bring peace to a war-worn and war-weary world.

In the course of an article on the subject The Globe notes but does not emphasize an important consideration:

"The Pope's pleas for the substitution of moral force for military might, for the reduction of armaments, for the rule of abitration in place of the sword, and for the penalizing of States which refuse to resort to arbitration tribunals or accept their verdict, will have the full weight of democratic approval, and are among the indispensable bases of an endur-

The Globe, typical of those papers which discuss the Letter in a more dignified and unprejudiced tone, possibilities and probabilities of the that international law should emerge that France was about to resume tion of the Pope's Letter is this pas- with the zeal and devotion of their joylessness and gloom of life which

"Are we so blind to the signs of the those that perish in the field and starve at home, are determined to have no more war, and will insist on surprised if some such document had their Government forming this League of Nations to establish peace. and declaring war on those social conditions which prevent them leading human lives? If, as everybody can recognize, all that we have suffered from three years of actual warfare and from many previous years of war preparations is to pay for the privilege of being unshackled by the moral law in their dealings with each other, surely the universal demand will be for a means by which this moral law can henceforth be made effective."

When the history of our times is least a generation preceding it, was the one great representative of moral world. In this object she has been nations may be seen to be one of the feated. This even The News, which ating a new era of civilization when govern the intercourse of nations.

> OF VITAL IMPORTANCE IN OUR EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

"At present, owing to the demands of the War, the number of men recruits is a negligible quantity. Many the teachers who have entered the Army will alas! never return. Others will no doubt take up more congenial and better paid oc-Unless salaries are substantially raised in the near future, the male teacher will become not only a rara avis in the schools but mere bird of passage, ready to flit into something more lucrative at the first opportunity. Personally one is in favour of women teachers in boys' schools up to the age of ten or eleven, but at the same time one views with the most unmitigated dismay a feminisation of English boys' schools, such as has taken place in America. The ideally brought-up child should come under the two in fluences-male and female-and the two disciplines that they respectively connote, if he is to be a well-balanced citizen in a well - balanced community. The respect for the male teacher is the respect felt or the United States again permit for the more masculine virtues, the the "economic penetration" of Ger. respect for the female teacher the cost of the War up to the end of 1917 respect for the more feminine ones. The male teacher by his example inculcates the male virtues of courage, self-respect, endurance, loyalty, juse female teacher incul by her example the virtue of kindliness, respect for others, forbearance, chivalry, mercy. A partial female in vasion of our schools would be a blessing, but to have the schools altogether overrun by women would be a disaster.'

> The foregoing is from an article in the Nineteenth Century reviewing recent public pronouncement of the phase of the question which we serious the case may be. It is perbad as it is with them.

And yet it is only in our Catholic schools that the difficult problem seems to overlook the great significan be solved. The Sisters are the of the Government is certainly The vast majority with us as with elementary course is completed. Thus where the schools are staffed age this is all right. But for the last terian contemporary on "Early two or three years the boys should be under the most earnest and virile land." "When the Assembly met teachers of their own sex. This in December, 1563," the writer tells object can be attained only by the us, "it met to begin with twice a situation with the official or un- from the chaotic and nebulous state development of the teaching orders of official representatives of all the into which it has sunk since the men. It is therefore with the keen- mas Day to thwart observance of it belligerent powers preceded the disruption of Christendom, and est pleasure that we note the large formulation of the Letter which the develop into real international number of candidates recently given purpose of creating the greatest Holy Father has just issued. Russia, law with a sanction for its en- the habit by the Christian Brothers possible gulf between the old re-Prussia, Bavaria and Austria have forcement. A law without a at their novitiate in Toronto. These ligion and the new was deliberate long had ministers at the Vatican. sanction is not really a law young men receiving the same edu- and persistent throughout. The England for the first time since the at all. It is on this sanction not cation and training as secular mere fact that a practice or usage England for the first time since the at all. It is on this sanction not religious revolt of the sixteenth on the word or faith of Honenzollern teachers, are receiving at the same was Catholic (not whether it was of them being of heavy calibre. The correspondent of a Milan paper, in the spirit of Blassed De la true or false) was deemed sufficient. century is now openly and officially or Hapsburg that a durable and just time the spirit of Blessed De la true or false) was deemed sufficient Canadian troops have organized and represented there. At various times peace must rest. In an article Salle and will bring to their work reason to banish it irrevocably from since the War it has been intimated written months before the publica- the efficiency of the trained teacher, the land. This accounts for the

no doubt at all that unofficial inter- hoping and believing that this is Catholics can not fail to see in the tion Scotland, and from which, in and one hundred and twenty, and the facts have shown that the course between Rome and the French precisely the point in the world's growth and development of the succeeding generations, not even the Ontario Christian Brothers one of natural gaiety of its people as evithe greatest and most consoling denced in other times has been able guarantees for the future of the to release it.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

LAST WEEK we gave a few figure to illustrate the enormous drain in the way of Army purchases which has been entailed upon Great Britain by the War. We propose this week to supplement these by other figures illustrating her financial resources price which the nations have elected and how it is she is able to not only pay her own share but to contribute very largely to the maintenance of the armies of her Allies. The confidence expressed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the financial ability of the Empire to see the War through is, in the light of these figures, evidently not displaced, huge beyond all precedent and prethe domination of Europe and the power in the world to the warring vision as are the expenditures with which he has to deal.

> THE CREDIT which the House of for the unprecedented sum of £650,-000,000, or about $3,160,000,000 in American currency. This brings the poses to date up to $25,719,000,000. War did not exceed $13,748,000,000, since July, 1916, the stupendous sum of $12,024,000,000, or not far short of the sum expended during the two preceding years. The figures themselves almost pass the comprehension of ordinary humanity, but from a mere devourer.

THESE FIGURES, however, stupendous as they are, do not represent the cost of the War to Great Britain to date. To ascertain this it is necessary to add the difference between the normal income from taxation, and This excess amounted, up to end of the last fiscal year, to $2,629,800,000, may be roughly estimated at close on $30,000,000,000. Up to July, 1916, the loans to Allies and to the Dominions are stated to have been $1,600,000,000. This sum, small as it is compared with the total cost of the War, furnishes some idea as to the enormous financial resources of an Empire which can without unduly disturbing the body politic, shoulder such a burden.

ANALYSIS OF the foregoing figures Minister of Education outlining con- shows that for 112 days the average templated educational reforms in the British expenditures have been some-British Isles. There is just one thing like $34,000,000 a day. How is this money provided? Without enterdesire again to direct attention. It ing into a maze of figures and calculis not new. Hundreds of thoughtful ations it may be said that out of educators and of others interested in current revenue has been provided new attack, with exception of a educational problems have adverted enough to pay for interest, sinking portion of the high ground won north to the fact and deplored its conse- fund and pensions, plus the ordinary quences. That the formation of expenses of the State. This has latest foe counter attacks, delivered future generations of men should be been the deliberate policy of the last night, in this neighborhood were almost entirely in the hands of Government throughout, and, in the smashed. Several guns and nearly women is something so recent in the opinion of the New York Journal of history of education that even those | Commerce, it is greatly to the credit who deplore existing conditions of the British people that they have most deeply hardly realize how willingly borne burdens calculated to the prisoners now total nearly meet a much larger proportion of haps worse in many of our Catholic this expenditure than any other of schools than it is in public schools, the belligerents have charged to withstood repeated attacks by the margin between the income of the heaped around Hill 70. people and the current expenditures

> THAT CHRISTMAS as a festival of been made much of in Presbyterian Scotland, that, indeed, it has until within quite recent years been pracreason for this comes out rather foe desires to do being to stand fast Moderators of the Church of Scotyear, and always on or about Christaccording to Roman usage." This

THE ATMOSPHERE of universal suspicion in which we are living in these stressful times is aptly illustrated by an incident which took place on the Atlantic seaboard lately and is being circulated as a good story against himself by a prominent New York merchant engaged in foreign trade.

THE MERCHANT in question had arranged to spend a week end with his wife at Atlantic City. Being unable to make plans far enough ahead he was obliged to wire to his wife, who was at their regular summer home on the Virginia coast. The curious mix-up which resulted ment, coupled with the statement of is thus related by a New York daily: "The first telegram was to the effect that he had failed to get accommodation at the Shelburne, but was trying to get it at the Traymore. The third read that he had failed to get accommodation and was leaving for Commons voted the other day was Virginia to spend the week end at home as usual. As chance would have it telegram Number Two was delivered after telegram Number amount appropriated for war pur- Three. The New Yorker's wife assumed that accommodation would fore many weeks.-Globe, Aug. 18. It is interesting to note that the be found and left for Atlantic City. credits for the first two years of the But the New Yorker left by boat for his Virginia home. In the meanso that there has been called for time, however, it had become known at the New York office of the firm that the principal's wife had gone to Atlantic City expecting to meet her husband there. The steamship company was got in touch with and arrangements were made to take the glance help us at least to realize New Yorker off the coast vessel at a that modern warfare is the great point reasonably convenient to Atlantic City. The unusual procedure of taking a passenger off the coast boat started a keen speculation among those on board and a rumor quickly spread that a German spy was being taken off. As the New Yorker left the vessel and sailed to the shore he was followed by the that collected in the last three years. riveted gaze of the passengers crowded like herrings against the rail and speculating upon the fate of the 'German spy.' '

ON THE BATTLE LINE

BRITISH AND FRENCH FORCES have smashed the German front lines on an area east and northeast of Ypres given by London reports as nine to eleven miles, and by Berlin as eighteen miles. Berlin, as usual, claims that the attacks of the Allies were shattered, only "local successes" being attained. This is apparently the agreed upon formula of the German reports now. In any event, it is the most generally used. The fighting however, continues, and at all but one point the British held all the ground gained, including the village Langemarck, where Canadians fought in the earlier months of the conflict. All the objectives for the day were gained and held in this struggle was waged all day. two thousand prisoners have already been counted, while in the Lens-Loos area, where the Canadians on the previous day made such a fine gain, thousand. The scene of the fighting is some thirty miles above Lens. where the Canadians have valiantly current revenue. But even so, the Prussian Guards, whose dead lie

SOME MILITARY critics have recently pointed out that a great aim of the Allies, apart from flanking the German positions on the coastline the Aubers Ridge and Lille positions, to the south, is to pierce the enemy line in the full sense of the meaning of that word. This would mean the Allied cavalry and an attack on the German rear lines and supports That, they contend, is one reason for the retirements of the Germans earlier in the year, the last thing the long enough to run the danger of such a piercing. So long as the Huns are compelled to retire, however, whatever may be the compelling motive, the gain is to the Allies. In the end the result, so far as the freeing of France and Belgium is concerned, is certain. There has been some lively fighting on the Champagne front.-Globe, Aug. 17.

FURTHER PROGRESS was made yesterday by French troops in the Ypres | the general discussion of the condiregion. The dermans ceased their counter attacks against the line held by Sir Douglas Haig, who announced that the Allied forces have captured twenty-four German guns, a number made secure the positions taken on English diplomat at Rome. This Thursday, and have made progress diplomat frankly confessed that at west of Lens. In the Loos-Lens sector the number of prisoners taken by

According to Reuter's correspondent the chief business of Friday lay in the consolidation of that Belgian ground most recently wrested from the invader.

IN AN EFFORT to divert French troops from their sorely pressed positions on the Belgian border the Germans made heavy attacks against French lines along the Aisne and the right bank of the Meuse River near Verdun. In none of these attacks did the enemy gain any success.

THE-REPORT from the Russian War Office vesterday makes more creditable the statement made by General Korniloff, the new Commander-inchief, that more striking force is being added to the Russo Roumanian armies operating on the Southern front. It was announced that enemy attacks in Southwestern Moldavia especially in the region of Fokshani, ere repulsed, and that in the region of Ocna the enemy was unable to This announce make any progress General Korniloff in an interview given at Petrograd, and with the notable utterance of Elihu Root at the public reception given him in New York city Wednesday occasion of the return of his Mission from Russia, gave cause for hope It is too much to say that another Russian offensive this year is im possible. The recent collapse of discipline will undoubtedly delay it but Korniloff and Root, and others in the best position to know, predict another effective stroke against the l'eutons in the Eastern theatre be

THE HOLY FATHER AND NEUTRALITY

Providence has cast the Pontificate of Benedict XV. in very perilous times and as a careful study of Church history shows us, Almighty God has raised to the See of Peter in every critical period in the life of the Church, a Pontiff who was peculiarly fitted by both nature and grace to meet the emergency and to steer the bark of Peter through the difficult storms that in every age of Christian history have apparently threatened to engulf it. Since the beginning of the present struggle we have witnessed nation after nation at first neutral, drawn into the vortex of war, but through it all the uncompromising and impartial neutrality of the Holy See which has its children in every warring land, has been rigidly maintained under the most trying circumstances and when the greatest pressure has been brought into play to commit the Vatican into a declaration for or against one or other belligerents. Even incidents like the Gerlach affair, unfortunate the political situation created in and had reached Germany by Dr. Erzberger, leader of the (Catholic) Center Party in the Reichstag, have been interpreted as proofs of the secret violation of the Holy See's neutrality. is sufficient to point out that the Italian Military Tribunal has completely exonerated the Vatican from any knowledge or participation in Monsignor Gerlach's contretemps and the Vatican itself has formally and officially announced that Dr. Erzberger's activities are purely national and political matters with which the Holy See has no association.

which the Holy Father as the

and nations finds himself, he has belief that it would protect him and because of his neutrality and some did not threaten him as he ap people have professed disappointment in him because he did not wounded. pronounce upon the moral issues involved in this struggle and openly arrange himself on the side of the he found that the hole went far into wisdom and prudence of the Holy the Dragon's Cave, still holding his Abbe d'Agnelli does in a recent work of "Benedict XV, and the European and that it was full of armed Ger Conflict." "By condemning," he says, formally the rulers on either side were officers, and under drawn upon himself universal en- priest, and that if there were any mity. Let us not forget that Benedict XV. from the time of his election has with his entire heart devoted Church. himself by vow to a task which he is better able to fulfil than any other asking what he was doing there and Prince, yet only on the express conwhat was going on outside. He in that he maintains a good understanding with the governments made a long advance over their of the belligerent nations. This heads and had crossed the crest, and eminently apostolic mission consists that they had better lay down their in mitigating as far as possible the manifest consequences of the war. The liberation and exchange of prisoners, and so many other beneits for which we are indebted to the Pontifical charity-how could they streaming down his face, said have been realized if the Pope, yieldad condemned the Kaiserour enemy, or the Czar our ally? Mainly by thus using with extreme patience hostilities Benedict XV. is reserving it to qualify himself for a more efficacious employment of it when tion peace comes on."

In connection also with this question of the Holy Father's neutrality, "The Month" quotes for us the state ment of Ernesto Vergesi, the Roman Father, but goes on to say that time Cursie's forces now total one thous. has vindicated the Pope's attitude German officers to disarm their men way taken by the Holy See is the best the Holy Father has done. has raised his voice for Belgian or for Poland as the Holy Father has done.) Fo one has labored so efficaciously against the ariel bom bardment of open cities as Benedict XV. Through his intervention we have had capital penalties suspended—de liverance from prison and from exile, news of prisoners of war and the alleviation of their sufferings in more hospitable lands. If the Pope ad betaken himself to methods intimidation and had broken with the Central Empires, who could have supplied his place in his highly humitarian labors?

These testimonies from the pens of men who as representatives of the Allies would have every interest in having the Holy Father their favor—if it was to their advan-tage, should set at rest any criticism of the Vatican's neutrality. There is no doubt the Supreme Pontiff of Christendom is doing more today for humanity and civilization, and will be in a better position to be a potent factor in the peace arrangements by remaining neutral—than if he, even for the sake of moral inluence should declare himself against any of the belligerents.-The Monitor

PRIEST CAPTOR OF GERMAN COMPANY

FATHER PY FOUND IT CUT OFF IN A CAVE AND NEGOTIATED SURRENDER

Correspondence of the Associated Press French Front, July 12.-The story of the capture of nearly a company of German troops who were trapped in the Dragon's Cave near the famous Chemin des Dames when the French troops stormed and carried German position along that historic road was told to The Associated Press correspondent the other day by Father Py, a Franciscan priest, who with a doctor, brought the prisoners into the French rear lines. Father Py was acting as stretcher bearer to one of the most celebrated regiments of the French Army, the 152d Infantry.

The Dragon's Cave is near the farm of Hurtebise-or what was a farm, for it has now become nothing but a heap of bricks, mud, and splintered timbers.

Father Py explained to the corre spondent how on the day of the battle he had been ordered to go out and tend the wounded, but not to advance beyond a certain trench, which was very near the most advanced French line. When he got there he found no one. The French soldiers had gone forward with one hound right in the track of the curtain fire put up by the artillery the German the trenches on the other side crest with miraculously slight losses. The priest and a companion looked about in search of wounded, but could find none. Then thinking that in the circumstances they were justified in disobeying orders, they imbed over the top of the trench and went further forward.

A little farther on they saw a German running about with his clothes aflame and uttering cries for help, at the same time pointing behind him to a hole in the ground where two other men were gesticulating. Notwithstanding these facts and The priest went on, thinking to find the extremely delicate position in some more wounded men-perhaps men of his own regiment-but soon Supreme Shepherd of Christendom he saw they were Germans. At once and the Spiritual Father of all races he raised his crucifix in the air in the been made the subject of criticism continued to advance. The Germans proached, and soon he saw they were

On arriving at the entrance to what he had believed was a dugout Allies. We could not defend the the side of the crest. He entered Father's attitude better than the crucifix before him and shouting 'Catholic!" Inside he found tha which he published under the title the hole spread out in all directions, man soldiers. Four or five of them the Sovereign Pontiff would have pression some of them at least would irritated all the world against him, understand French, he called out in understand French, he called out in and would in the long run have that language that he was a Catholic German wounded there he was pre pared to administer the rites of the

One of the officers spoke to him formed him that the French had arms, for they would either be killed or taken prisoners in any event.

The officers then held a discussion among themselves, at the end of one of them, with tears which supposed they must resign them ing to a movement of indignation, selves to their fate, but they could surrender only to an officer. Father Py scribbled on a piece of note to one of the French Captains, only his moral authority during the which was handed to his companion, who had remained outside the cave. While the note was being carried to the French officer, a German doctor in the cave showed the priest the resting place of several German wounded. Among them was a Jesuit priest who was serving in the German army as a soldier, with whom the French priest spoke in Latin. To the other wounded Germans Father Py gave the consolations of the Church.

Afterward, while awaiting the refirst he was disappointed in the Holy turn of his messenger with the Father, but goes on to say that time French officer, Father Py advised the misunderstanding. He, himself, superintended the operation, telling each soldier to discard every weapon he possessed, except small pocket

A little later, just when the process of disarmament was being completed, a French officer—a doctor—appeared the mouth of the cave, and the German officers surrendered their swords and revolvers to him.

Then began the exit of the prisonthrough the narrow entrance, and they were all marched through a communication trench back to French free men. regimental headquarters with an escort composed only of the priest, his stretcher bearing comrade and the French doctor. They were almost a company, and their arrival caused considerable surprise at headquarters. The little priest, who always was a favorite in the regiment with which he participates in all its hardships and in constant exposure to wounds and death, is now quite a hero. He never leaves the men to go on leave, and did not even go to Paris when a detachment of the regiment went there to receive the decoration of the knotted cord in the colors of the military medal which has been conferred on it for having been five times mentioned in general army orders for bravery. The One Hundred and Fifty-second is the only regiment in the French Army besides the Foreign Legion which has won

"THE CHURCH

"FRIEND OF WORKINGMAN"

Some well meaning people pretend to despise the discussion of social problems. But any one who places his finger on the popular pulse will soon cease to feel indifferent in the matter. "The signs of the time" are discontent and dissatisfaction. This is not the lament of a professional calamity howler, nor is there anything startling in the dis-Social unrest is one of the most obvious facts of modern life. Look at the trouble in Washington over the eight hour law; note the increasing number of strikes; observe the tremendous protest vote in the recent election; listen to the complaints of the disgruntled workers on streets corners. Grumbling, growling, is heard on all sides. We cannot ignore these signs; we cannot, in justice, turn a deaf ear to them. They are vital and must be reckoned Whence, we with sooner or later. ask, comes the discord? Who is responsible for such a state of affairs? Capital points an accusing finger at labor; labor, in turn, lays the blame apital. The Socialist will tell the system" is at fault. The on capital. reformer, perhaps, will hold our defective labor laws responsible. But these answers at best are onesided and end in no true solution of We must seek further for a satisfactory answer. boast of our progress, and rightly so. Our country is prosperous beyond precedent; but are we correspondingly happy? We have made rapid strides in science-inventions of every sort are at our service. We enjoy luxuries which a century ago money could not purchase; are we satisfied? We have political freedom, we have free schools, free libraries — yet we grumble. And why? It is because we are not mere animals with a physical and intellectual nature. We are above all moral Modern society seems to beings. forgotten this fact. cultivating the physical and intellec-tual side of man to the exclusion of the moral. Platitude, if you will, but there will be no real content-ment, no reasonable happiness until men, capitalist and labor, realize the value of the moral law and abide by it. Intellectual and physical progress, while very praiseworthy, do not make men deal thonestly and justly with their fellows. Man has a moral side and he must be convinced that he is responsible to God for its development if we are to hope for peace and harmony in the social

THE OFFICE OF THE CHURCH

The only agency that can enforce this morality is the Church. We all know how labor was despised when the Church started on her missions. Work was beneath the dignity of a Roman. The workingmen of those days were the slaves—who were so numerous that a distinctive dress was denied them for fear that they might realize their strength and rise in rebellion. Slaves had no standing in civil society; they were, in the eyes of the law, not persons but things.

Now, slavery was primarily a poli tical question, but the religious equality of man as taught by Christianity was the negation of slavery. Church insisted on the dignity and equality of men before God. She taught that the slave had a soul and that that soul was as precious in the sight of God as was the master's. You are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. . . There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free." Hence, no discrimination as to the social status of the faithful was made by the Church. Bond and free received the same sacraments. Slaves were raised to the priesthood. The very Chair of Peter was occupied by men of servile origin-Pius in the second century and Callistus in the third.

The Church treated slaves humane ly, she redeemed them out of her treasury when possible, she urged charity. She has been severely criticised for tolerating slavery at all; heavy burden on the backs of the

in order to avoid any possibility of misunderstanding. He, himself, tical question and the Church had to service organization, but she is fightaccept the fact, Revolution, physical force, is not the Church's way of doing things. Her weapon is moral force. She takes society as she finds it and little by little leavens the mass with her moral teachings. Thus with slavery—bit by bit pagan ideas began to fade and as Christian principles came into full play the ondition of the slave began to change for the better. It was only a matter of time before slaves were transformed into serfs and then into

WHEN THE CHURCH WAS STRONGEST We have seen how the Church was kindly disposed to the workingman when the Church was in her infancy, and now we come to that period in the Church's history which shows the Church at the height of her power. It is certainly no exaggeration to say that labor saw its happiest days under the Church. In the Middle Ages the whole man, physical, intellectual and moral, was considered.

The outlook of the mediaeval man was comprehensive, entire. All departments of life were related to one organic whole, whose basis was religion. Religion came into intimate contact with every line of human ctivity. No matter what branch of endeavor, whether art, philosophy, poetry, architecture or politics-reigion was the core. In like manner was labor connected with religion. The monastery was the center of inthe monk was "the man with the hoe."

Take, for example, the labor unions of the Middle Ages. Those guilds, as to do without God is the avowed aim they were called, had the welfare of the advance thinker of the day; the entire man at heart. The guilds and the view of marriage, as a civil owed their institution primarily to motives of trade, but the spiritual of the programme. side was given due prominence Each guild had its natron saint, took part in religious celebrations, provided Masses for deceased members. Temporal interests, as some have unjustly asserted, were not neglected. Legitimate ambition was not stifled. The keynote was honest living, not the piling up of worldly goods.

Who will say that the conditions of labor were not tolerable! True, the mediaeval laborers enjoyed less individual freedom than the modern workmen, but "their economic position was more secure and their future less uncertian." It is impossible to institute any general comparison that would be of value be-tween the welfare of the laborer then and now," says Dr. Ryan.
"This much," he continues, "may asserted with confidence; the poorest one tenth of the laboring population were probably better fed and clothed, if not better housed, than is the poorest one tenth to-day. Poorehouses were a novelty: the celebrated "army of the unemployed was unknown. The mediaeval laborer was well content, his wages fair, his home life happy.

THE GREAT UPHEAVAL Then came the "Reformation." Fatal event! Monasteries were confiscated, guilds were abolished as superstitious foundations. Industry was divorced from religion. The old mediaeval view of life was changed. Religion was made a private business and it has remained so private ever since that the moral side of man has been overshadowed. To-day art and architecture have comparatively little or no religious significance. Church and State are now separate. Religion has been thrown out of education. Ever in our own day men are doing their utmost to secu-We are larize charities. These are the logical outgrowths of revolt against the se evus nad four hundred years ago. The "Reformation" took religion out of man's daily life, and as a consequence, social unrest is staring us in the travel threatening, not because ' the system" is bad, but because men

> To-day we are striving to calm this social unrest by means of legis-lation, relief work and the like. But these while good and necessary, do not control the inner man. Laws do not make men better. Neither do the admonitions of George Ade's benevolent lady accomplish much When the Unfortunate Man comes Home this evening tell him a Kind and Beautiful Lady called and asked him please to stop Drinking, except a Glass of Claret at Dinner, and to be sure to read Eight or Ten Pages from the Encyclopedia Brittanica each night before retiring." In uplifting, "get underneath." Get to Get to the man's heart. Change men internally-there is your antidote for social unrest. Higher wages, shorter hours are good; but purer hearts are infinitely better. "Come to me all ye that labor and are burdened and I will refresh you" is the invitation of the Church, the workingman's truest friend. Socialists will tell you the Church is the representative of capital-that religion's chief aim is to hold the people in subjection—to make them satisfied with their unjust lot. Do not believe them! Where are their cre-dentials? What have they done for the workingman that can begin to compare with the record we have merely outlined? The Socialist's program is destructive; his gospel is discontent. Whoever heard Socialists recommend thrift, sobriety, virtue to their followers? The Church is the friend of law and order. She understands very well the conditions under which labor groams; she knows that unscrupulous men are laying a Even the brief experience at the In fact, Alexander Berkman held the the War as a pretext, is first among their emancipation as an act of under which labor groans; she knows service organization, but she is fight-ing for you. Her priests are just as solicitous for your welfare as ever, but you must remember, the Church is hampered. Her seeming inactivity is due to the break caused by the Reformation." Labor was happy under the Church and it is unhappy to day. The cause is the divorce of industry from religion. Men broke away from the Church-sadness and discontent is their lot. If they want peace, happiness, let them return. "If society is to be cured now," says Pope Leo, "in no other way can it be cured but by a return to Christian life and Christian institutions. When a society is perishing, the true advice to give to those who would restore it is to recall it to the principles from which it sprang. To fall away from primal constitu tion is disease; to get back to it is recovery."—Eugene J. Callahan, in

DIVORCE

By Rev. Morgan Dix (Protestant) The civil-contract theory of marriage is strictly in place in any system which banishes God from the world and human life. It is in order in rationalized communities, in societies which have ceased to be Christian, Some of us are re proached for not being in accord with the spirit of the age : how can we be, if the spirit of the age and its movements are practically atheistic To induce men to ignore God's word and reject His law, to show men how contract only, falls in with the rest

"Unfortunately we cannot stop at that. The truth must be told, how a sign of an infidel society, it is also an outgrowth from the principles which form the evil side of Protestantism. There can be no dou to the genesis of this abomination. I quote the language of a Protestant Bishop: 'Laxity of opinion and teachings on the sacredness of the marriage bond and on the question of divorce originated among the Protestants of Continental Europe in the sixteenth century. It soon began to appear in the legislation of Pro testant States on that continent, and nearly at the same time to affect the laws of New England. And from that time to the present it has proceeded from one degree to another in this country until, especially in New England and in States most directly affected by New England opinions and usages, the Christian conception of the nature and obliga tions of the marriage bond finds scarcely any recognition in legisla tion, or, as must thence be inferred. in the prevailing sentiment of the community. This is a heresy, born and bred of free thought as applied to religion; it is the outcome of the habit of interpreting according to man's private judgment, rejecting ecclesiastical authority and Catholic tradition.' "

RECREATION FOR OUR SOLDIERS

It was a veteran educator who said that three things were necessary to keep a college boy straight. The first was the Sacraments, the second, prayer, and the third a healthy interest in athletics. What the college boy requires is good for all people. We have long since found out that a list, carefully compiled, but consisting exclusively of "dont's" man has, to an alarming degree, lost is a poor way of keeping them up to sight of conscience and moral rethe mark. The boy ought never to sponsibility. Hence, the question of have an idle moment. He should along a straight line from face to day; and—note it well—it is school to home, and there employ himself in study and other useful occupations. But he won't. beth Anne likewise, should recur almost automatically, to her sampler and other household duties at the close of the school day. But she won't either, even though she be the prefect, without blame and without reproach, of the junior sodality. There is a good deal of the animal, the healthy growing animal in the oung, that must be reckoned with. It is not bad. It is only natural. It cannot be suppressed, and the attempt at repression only leads to disaster. All work and no play, says the proverb, makes Jack a dull boy, when the burden of the work is repression forces them into unhea'thful channels. It is common sense to study these energies, to discover how they may be used to best advantage and made a positive help, rather than a hindrance or an indifferent factor, in the life of the young. No doubt, the "teaching of play" has been made ridiculous by extremists. In itself, however, it is only the recognition of a very valuable truth in psychology and morals. We are now sending our "boys" by thousands into the training camps. In these grim schools of war, the regime will be sufficiently drastic; drastic, in fact, as to lead to a revulsion in the times allowed for axation and amusement. Next to the direct spiritual ministry among our soldiers, it is hard to conceive a higher work than that now taken in who propose to erect and supervise Mexican border was enough to prove rationalist's principle that he was a needless sacrifices.—New World.

the absolute need of ample facilities law unto himself. Of course he did for recreation of a proper kind for the military posts. We are con-fronted, apparently, with the alter-We are connative, that if we do not put suitable relaxation within easy reach of our soldiers, many will be led away to practices which ultimately mean uin of body and soul, and consequent uselessness as fighting units. Patriotism and religion alike call on every Catholic to cooperate with the Knights in this admirable work, to the extent of his ability.—America.

THE CARDINAL AT EIGHTY. THREE

Editorial From Baltimore Sun, July 25

Cardinal Gibbons has a right to feel well at eighty three and he has a right to the popularity he enjoys. He has been ascending to this venerable eminence on a pathway of good works and good will, and he is unburdened by the reproachful years which weigh down so many who prolong their journey as far as he has Inherited longevity plays a part doubtless, in the extension of the human time limit, but, as a rule, a healthy and serene old age depends largely upon a sane and temperate youth and middle age. One reaps in the autumn what he has sown in the spring. The Cardinal is cheerful and elastic now because he planted no crop of regrets in youth. This cannot be said of all, in or out of religious life in any denomiation, who have become exemplary and model figures after early worldly experi-Many a saint has sowed a large crop of wild oats before he took to cultivating the flowers of virtue. The moral of this particular birthday sermon is that it really pays not to indulge in diversified character forming if we wish to live until eightythree and feel, as the Cardinal expressed it Monday, that "life, is wonderful thing" and still worth living. However, we are inclined to think that nature gave the Cardinal some unfair advantages over the rest of us, and that he does not owe everything to grace. A calm and even temperament like his weathers safely storms which wreck or weaken those less well-balanced and well-ballasted and personality such as his disarms hostility even in dangerous waters, makes friends of enemies and lessens the friction of life. We think most Baltimoreans are glad that the Cardinal's lot has been cast among us, and are proud to count him among our most valuable and influential human In all things he has been a most wholesome example of moderation, a practical illustration of Christian charity and a "kindly light, softening the asperities of life and leading the way to higher things.

RATIONALISM AND PATRIOTISM

Professor Thomas C. Hall has been dismissed from Union Theological Seminary. For years he has been teaching rationalism at that institu tion. He was not dismissed for that Indeed, Union is considered broad enough to tolerate a rationalistic teacher. Its theology suffers of course, but Union seems to have strange ideas about that very strange science called Protestant theology. Professor Hall was forced to resign from Union, after the United State Government found him implicated in a plot that aimed at the destruction of the Government which protected him and his pupils in Union Seminary. His was a very poor return for government Still he was an up-to-date rationalist, whose Christianity was Christ less, but modern and a bit fashion able

Just about a year ago another product of Union, Bouck White, enlivened a Socialist meeting by burning the "Stars and Stripes." one is so foolish as to say that the erratic preacher learned flag-burning Union. He learned rationalism there surely, and the consistent rationalist is a law unto himself. What does the man who is a law unto himself care for the flag

Only a few weeks ago at Paterson, the police authorities interrupted a speech that was being de-Norman M. Thomas of livered by New York, who was denouncing con-scription. This young man a few years ago was licensed to preach by the New York Presbytery, although at the time of his examination his answers were unsatisfactory from "an evangelical standpoint." The a bad one. His play-energies must loyalty to country, but a good deal to have some kind of an outlet. Too do with loyalty to Christ. Old fash. ioned Protestantism would have been shocked at the disloyalty to Christ contained in the answers of this bright seminarian of a modern Protestant seminary. But old-fashioned Protestantism is as rare as a car in New York, or a crowded pew in summer at Grace or Trinity. Rationalism had convinced this young preacher that he was a law unto himself. He would preach a trained men were unnecessarily dim-Christ of his own making. But a Christ of his own making never said all authority comes from on high and that loyalty to the law of the land is than ever before. Such persons will a conscientious duty. The Christ of the Gospels said that. So when con- after its close. I, therefore, have no scription became law, this very splendid product of rationalism proceeded to decry it, for he was his own law. He was brilliantly logical sible on the usual basis." but the police did not follow hand by the Knights of Columbus, logic, so they put a period to his but needless sacrifice leads only to who propose to erect and supervise speech. He disagreed with the ultimate defeat, and depriving boys not call it rationalism but anarchy The strange thing is that the root principle of both is the same. Bring God down to the human level till finally there is no God, and you have rationalism in the schools, and anarchy in the State. It is a simple process but it spells the end of patriotism. For true patriotism means loyalty to God and to the ation's law as to the voice of God, sounding in human tones.—America.

BACK TO RELIGION

DEATH OF SON IN BATTLE TURNS HARRY LAUDER TO GOD

In H. G. Wells' great book, Mr. Britling finds God through the death of his sonon the battlefield. Through the same profound experience relig-ion has come to Harry Lauder, the mous singer of sweet Scottish ballads.

You may have seen, some months ago, a picture of "Harry Lauder and His Wife and Son;" it was printed everywhere, the face of the genial comedian beaming with in his son, just enlisted and going to the front, Lauder had lived for his boy, John. He had planned to buy him an estate in Scotland and give it to him on the day he should marry. The news of John's death came while Lauder was singing a comic song in a music hall in London. They handed him the telegram when he came off the stage, and he fell into a chair. In his agony be rushed over to France and saw the grave of his son, and heard there the story of how the boy had turned to God in the trenches, and of how bravely he died; and then Lauder hastened to comfort his wife in their Scottish home. There is a good old Scotch dominie went to console him. He found Lauder in an arm chair by the fire place.

"Ab, 'said Lauder, "the loss of my bonnie boy greeted me sore'' (greet is Scotch for grieve.) "We were pals my boy and I, and if you could have seen that little white cross in France you might imagine a little of the ache that came into my heart and the emptiness that came into my life. When a great blow like that hits a man he takes one of three roads. He may give way to despair, sour ou the world and become a grouch. He may try to drown his sorrow in drink and become a wreck, or he may turn to God. I have chosen my road. I have turned to God."-The Bulle-

FRENCH PRIESTS DECORATED

WAR CROSS AWARDED TO FOUR THOUSAND PRIESTS SINCE THE WAR BEGAN

M. Marcel Knecht, of the University of Nancy, France, a member of the French National Committee, in an address at the Catholic Summer Plattsburg, N. Y., recently recalled the fact that there are twenty-five thousand Catholic priests in the French army, of whom three hundred are regular chaplains with the title of captain; every colonel chooses a soldier-priest as assistant chaplain in each battalion. All the other priests mobilized are serving as fighting officers or privates. The courage, the devotion to the wounded and the wonderful patriotism shown by the young priests in the trenches are evidenced by the fact that three thousand seven hundred French priests have received the War Cross.

REPEATED ONCE MORE Insistance and repetition are neces sary even when the fact is witness to its own importance. For it is characteristically human to measure consequence by the force with which matter is brought home to us. So a reiteration of the danger of permitting the War to disrupt the educational program of the country is in It is only the busybodies order. with their own advertisment in view who consider depleting the schools that the army may be filled. Unfortunately, the War has revealed our preponderance of such who are always fussing about something and never doing anything. The menace of empty class rooms in the coming term is not an imaginary one. If its cause is not a shirking by parents of the financial obligations consequent to the education of youth, then it is a shirking by the students them

President Wilson is not now much given to idle discussion. But the danger of men below the draft age interrupting their education has called forth a solemn warning by our chief executive. President Wilson in a letter to Secretary Lane, says:

'It would, as you suggest, seriously impair America's prospects of success in this War if the supply of highly inished. There will be need for a larger number of persons expert in the various fields of applied science be needed both during the War and hesitation in urging colleges and technical schools to endeavor to maintain their courses as far as pos-

Sacrifice is essential for victory,

IRELAND

THE VERDICT OF THE JUDGES In spite of the general political unrest and the local disturbances caused in certain districts by hotly contested elections, the country is remarkably free from gross crimes. The Dublin Weekly Freeman quotes in support of this view the opinions of four prominent judges, who in opening the assizes made favorable comments on this happy condition of affairs. Before the King's County Assizes at Tullamore, Lord Chief and employed and among commercial Justice Campbell said that he was in competitors. Only in this way can a situation to congratulate the Grand Jury most sincerely on the peace and prosperity of the county. only was there no increase of any kind in serious crime, but the records of intemperance showed a very sub stantial decrease. In cases of the smaller or more insignificant breaches of the law, the figures had fallen from 1,975 in the previous year, to 1,647 this year. Addressing the Grand Jury at Wicklow Assizes, Lord Chief Justice Ronan said that there were only three bills to go before them. The county inspe had authorized him to say that the state of the county was quite peace ful and satisfactory. The specifically reported cases were only four, a remarkable decrease from last year when they were ten. Judge opening the Meath Assizes at Trim, paid substantially the same tribute to the county, and Judge Gibson, at Westmeath Assizes, passed similar verdict. This general verdict of the judges at the various Assizes, all testifying to the law-abiding qualities of the people and the practical freedom from the grosser forms of crime is one of the most telling tributes to their sterling virtue and an official refutation of the charge of reckless violation of the law so often brought against them.-America.

FRENCH COLORED TROOPS MAKE ACT OF CONSECRATION

C. P. A. Service)

Paris, Aug. 9.—Two very touching incidents have recently taken place in France in connection with her colonial colored troops. The first was the consecration on Sunday last at the Church of Notre Dame de Tables, Montpeilier, of a number of Catholic Tonkinois, Annamites, Cam bodgians and other natives who offered themselves to the Sacred Heart. The ceremony was performed by Pere Arvieu of the Foreign missions, their chaplain, who speaks all their dialects and has spent twenty years of missionary life amongst simple but affecting one. A little in the ruined streets of Rheims last week. He was bitterly cold, elbowed by soldiers of all kinds, and he felt suddenly lost and very far away from result is often unhappiness. the side door of a church. He was a distress. Catholic and here was a refuge. He had been saved and erected there out of the way of falling shells. The that he has all never dreamed of. Even the cathedral of Anatananarvio was dwarfed, the stranger. tered, the great windows were gaping, the wonderful carvings were defaced, the roof had fallen in The tree, the roof had fallen in T soldier wept, and then he fell to She would be insulted if she were thinking. Going up to the lady in approached on the street going to black, he offered her a twenty-sous her work. She surrounds herself piece, his savings, and summoning his with every possible protection. She best French he said simply, pointing to the ruin around them: "To mend it!" He felt that if all the soldiers 'To mend he had seen and all the men and women of France also offered the little that they had, perhaps all this beauty might yet be restored.

AFTER THE WAR

The fact that "the speedy adjust ment of industrial conditions after the War." the August intention for the League of the Sacred Heart, has been blessed and approved by the Holy Father should bring at les little comfort to the hearts of his numberless spiritual children. Whether Pope Benedict, from his watch-tower on the Vatican Hill, sees signs indicating that peace will soon be restored to the world, we do not know. It is clear, however, that he is eager to enlist the prayerful assistance of the Faithful in securing for the warring nations the light strength to solve wisely and quickly the knotty problems they must all face when the War is over. Once peace is made, the causes that have made capital and labor bitter enemies in the past will by no means disappear. But the heavy burden of taxation that must be borne by both while industry and commerce are being reorganized, is likely to be the source of graver difficulties still. Working men nevertheless will be entitled then, as now to wages that will enable them to maintain a family in decency and comfort, and laborers must not be exploited by grasping capitalists. A workman's health or morals should not be imperiled by the conditions under which he is forced to labor and on the other hand the demands of employees should not make it impossible for their employers to compete successfully with other #### tradesmen or manufacturers. More over, as fierce commercial rivalry had much to do, no doubt, with outbreak of the present War, if the coming peace is to be lasting, the policy of nations, like that o findividuals, must be governed by justice and equity.

However, harmonious relations be tween capital and labor, and lasting peace among nations cannot be preserved by legislation alone. There fore the Leaguers are asked to pray for an increase of the spirit of Christian charity between employers "a speedy adjustment of industrial conditions after the War," be brought to pass, and as God's bestowal of that grace will most probably depend on the fervor of the Leaguer's during this month, all who have at heart the return of peace without delay, and the establishment of desirable conditions in the industrial world, will cry to Heaven with faith, confidence and perseverance.-Amer ica.

CANNOT DAWN TOO SOON

The New Jersey Monitor expresses a conviction which all Catholics hope to see realized. It says: "The day to see realized. It says: is fast approaching when abuse and calumny as a vehicle of religious controversy will entirely disappear. They always offend and never convince. They alienate all fair-minded men from any cause which stoops to use them. It is unfortunate that in almost every community there re-mains still a small moiety of the people who are willing to excite and encourage bigotry by gross attack and calumnies on the Catholic Church. These are the moving spirits in bringing ex-priests and professional anti-Catholic lecturers into a town to embitter and disturb the people. More unfortunate still is it that much of this foul business is done under the guise of patriotism But a better day is dawning. The American people have a growing contempt for those who indulge in these calumnies and pander to ignoble prejudices. Religion needs no such aids and the cause which has recourse to them is already lost.

DANGEROUS VACATION FRIENDSHIPS

He who runs may read these days the awful tragedies that so frequent ly result from hasty friendships, says Boston Pilot. Time and again one has to ask the question, when a particularly notorious case is brought before the public, why will a young woman marry a man about who The second incident is a very knows practically nothing? For all she knows, he may have deceived tirailleur of Madagascar, a young other women, may have left a wife Kronte, stopped one pouring wet day and family in some other part of the country, may be the meanest kind of criminal, yet she puts aside all such possibilities, marries him and the his sunny home. Then he saw some he deserts her, and the whole misersoldiers following a lady in black into able romance ends in sorrow and

A prudent girl will beware of found an altar in a side chapel with strange men. The fact that a man's many soldiers kneeling before it. It manners are very nice, that he is manners are very nice, that he is. well dressed, that he is gallant, the qualities lady led the way afterwards into the of the hero of romance will ruined nave of Rheims cathedral not lead a sensible girl to put her and the little black soldier followed.

trust in him. She knows enough of the beheld such a church as he had the world, her innate modesty is warning enough, to be suspicious of > would not trust herself to the com pany of a chance stranger.

There is but one course for a girl to pursue; that is to be as careful in the picking up of friends on her varation as she is at home.

FATHER FRASER'S CHINESE MISSION

Taichowfu, China, Nov. 26, 1916 Dear Readers of CATHOLIC RECORD

That your charity towards my mission is approved by the highest ecclesiastical authorities of Canada let me quote from a letter from His Excellency, The Most Rev. Peregrins F. Stagni, O. S. M., D. D., Apostolie Delegate, Ottawa: watching with much interest the contributions to the Fund opened on behalf of your missions by the CATHOLIC RECORD. The success has been very gratifying and shows the deep interest which our Catholic people take in the work of the missionary in foreign lands. bless you most cordially and all your labors, as a pledge my earnest wishes for your greatest success in all your undertakings." I entreat you to continue the support of my struggling mission, assuring you a remembrance in my prayers and Masses.

Yours faithfully in Jesus and Mary,

| J. M.                    | FRASER   |    |
|--------------------------|----------|----|
| Previously acknowledged  | $11,447 | 25 |
| A. E. R                  |          | 00 |
| J. F. Copeland, Toronto  | 5        | 00 |
| Ben J. Grover, Canso     | 1        | 00 |
| In memory of Michael,    |          |    |
| P. E. I                  | 2        | 00 |
| M. G., Halifax           | 10       | 00 |
| Minnie McCart            | 1        | 00 |
| C. A. L                  | 2        | 00 |
| Mrs. C. Mulhern, Alexan- |          |    |
| dria                     | 2        | 00 |
| Thanksgiving in honor of |          |    |
| St. Anthony, Halifax     |          | 00 |

REV. F. P. HICKEY, O. S. B. THIRTEENTH SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

A TYPE OF OURSELVES

"There is no one found to return and give glory to God, but this stranger (Luke xvii. 18.)

We cannot afford, my dear brethren, to pass by the Gospel read today. It is a picture, in which we shall find ourselves. Which likeness is ours? That is just the question. Nine, that received God's mercy, disappointed our Blessed Lord; only one was grateful and was com

At the entrance of a certain town ten men, who were lepers, lifted up tion, his nervous system, his mental their voice, saying: "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." Whom when He saw He said: "Go, show yourselves to the priests." And it came to pass that as they went, they were made clean. And one of them, when he saw that he was made clean, went back, with a loud voice glorifying answer. Statistics cannot be relied God: and he fell on his face before His feet, giving thanks; and this was a Samaritan. And Jesus, answering, said: "Were not ten clean? and where are the There is no one found to return and give glory to God, but this stranger.'

My dear brethren, repeatedly in the Scripture leprosy is spoken of as the type of sin. So we must not be offended, when we are told that these ten lepers represent ourselves, for we are all sinners. Not once, but many a time, have we had cause to cry out: "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." And the mercy of God did not disdain us. The answer has always been: "Go, show your-selves to the priests." In the Sacrament of Penance, the priest has really power to forgive us our sins Law, they merely gave a certificate that the leper was made clean.

But what happened when they were made clean, that so hurt the Sacred Heart of our Lord that He complained? He freely cured them at a word. Yes, God's grace is given made our Blessed Saviour utter the

If ingratitude were not a common sin, this miracle would not have benumbed—and his failure to com-happened so. We must not say nine prehend it is one of the chief obungrateful out of ten, that were cured, is out of all proportion. If it were not true, our Blessed Lord the injury of indulgence. "The would not have drawn notice to it in effect of moderate doses differs from so marked a manner. Only one, the effect of large ones in degree, but and he a Samaritan, to return and not in kind. In large doses alcohol give glory to God.

the nine, or, happily, are we pictured nervous system, largely due by the grateful one? Let us test ourselves and see. Many pray a good deal, but is not Alcohol is in no sense a true stimuthe asking, begging, petitioning out lant to the circulation. If the dose of all proportion to the thanksgivis large enough to cause any appreci-In everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let in the nature of depression rather your petitions be made known to than stimulation. These results are your petitions be made known to than stimulation. These results are God." (Phil. iv. 6.) "Giving thanks obtained in the laboratory and at the always for all things, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ." (Eph. v. 20.) And how often is it the case, the heat in the body, for though in that those, who seem to have the its oxidation more heat is made than least to thank God for, are the most grateful? The old and the poor, whose life is a burden, and, one or lungs under its influence more would think, a misery to them, and than counterbalances any such gain. the bedridden and afflicted are often By its irritating effect upon the heard blessing and thanking God for mucous membrane of the mouth and little favors that others would take stomach it produces a sensation of spirit of thankfulness is this: is our used to excess the body temperature gratitude as fervent after confession falls. Being burned up in the body, and absolution, as our anxiety was in limited quantity, alcohol yields nere is an old say-'Eaten bread is soon forgotten. And God's favors, once received, are soon forgotten too.

The practice of being thankful has a good effect on our own heart. Selfishness naturally makes us hard. Gratitude takes us out of self, by referring the good we have received to the kindness of another. So the spirit of thankfulness makes our hearts kind and tender. A grateful heart is a joy to itself.

Such a heart receives and imbibes fresh graces from God. The graces Perhaps the least sentimental of do not run like thunder rain from all human sources of information parched ground; they sink in, and make it more and more fertile in

But the wonderful power of gratitude is over God. Yes, over the Almighty. Why, from the very first, did God demand sacrifices and holocausts to be offered Him? To make men thank Him. To show their mage, their dependence on Him,that all was His. And the Scriptures tell us how He delighted in sacrifices -Abel's, Melchisedek's, Abraham's when he was ready, at God's word, to sacrifice his only son. And there is one sacrifice that God never reiected. Sometimes He turned away His face from holocausts and burntofferings, but never from a contrite and humble heart, returning its love and thanks and devotedness to Him Who made it. And at no time can we feel gratitude more keenly than when sin has been forgiven. Lord, Thou wilt open my lips, and my mouth shall declare Thy praise. . . . A sacrifice to God is an afflicted spirit; a contrite and humble heart, O Lord, Thou wilt not despise." (Ps. 1. 17, 19.) Picture the prodigal's gratitude on his return, when he realized his father's love the father ! Being grateful makes our own hearts happy; pleases God, and causes Him to shower down His choicest blessings on our soul. We have not been sufficiently grateful and forgiveness. And what a wel-

FIVE MINUTE SERMON in the past; be humble, and afraid that we have actually been ungrate ful. Nine out of ten never thanked the good Saviour for their cure. The only price for fresh blessings is thankfulness and gratitude for past ones. After every blessing "return and give glory to God."

TEMPERANCE

WHAT A GLASS OF WHISKY DOES TO YOU

What are the facts regarding the action of alcohol? Precisely how does the normal individual react to a glass of whisky? What does it do to his blood, his digestion, his circula efficiency, and his physical endurance? In short in what degree, if at does a glass of whisky alter a man's reaction to the problems of life or business that he has at the moment to meet?

We must look to science for the upon in reaching any conclusions in this matter, because industrial, social and hygienic data are all more or less warped and twisted in the gathering, owing to the prejudices and preconceived ideas of the persons who make these compilations. our standard medical authors display this peculiar bias in their teaching about the therapeutic and drug action of alcohol. It is extremely difficult to separate sentiment from sense in dealing with this vital question. For instance, one of the foremost professors of therapeutics in America, describes alcohol in these words:

Alcohol never acts as a true stimulant to the brain, the spinal cord, or the nerves. On the contrary its dominant influence is depressant The increased activity of thought and stimulation, but to depression of the inhibitory nervous apparatus. The activity is, therefore, that caused by lack of control and is not a real increase of energy. It does not increase the vigor or depth of thought" (take notice, brain workers!). does it enable a man to work a probfreely; the only price is thanks. lem which is difficult. On the con-God loves to be thanked. It was the thanklessness of nine out of ten that of mental processes." This fact, of course, the subject himself fails to realize, owing to the very circumstance that his mental processes are stacles to be overcome in teaching the occasional or moderate drinker ve glory to God.

Are we classed by God amongst depression of the brain and lower impairment of sensation. This effect makes the drunken man fall. able change in the circulation, it is bedside. Respiration is not material-(Eph. v. ly affected. Achohol never increases the heat in the body, for though in when no alcohol is used, the increased warmth, and it warms the extrem And another way we can test our ities at the expense of the body. If energy. When taken in excess of the scribed body's oxidizing power it is eliminated by the lungs, skin, kidneys, and In other words, if an odor of alcohol can be detected on the breath that is direct evidence of an overdose, an excess which cannot possibly be utilized to produce energy, but which does produce definite depression of all the physical and mental faculties. Added in any amount to food in a test tube containing digestive fer-ments alcohol retards digestion."

upon alcohol is the life insurance corporation. A life insurance company takes a chance upon a human life with the same cold calculation a horse trader employs in buying a horse. The experience of American life insurance companies was recently analyzed in respect to the mortalty among three classes of policy holders, viz., abstainers, temperate or occasional drinkers, and moderate It was found that the death the rate among the temperate drinkamong the moderate or habitual drinkers. In the experience of one a death rate 40% lower than the genmortality rate. Thus it evident that the total abstainer is a asset to the individual, for premiums are less than the premiums his temperate drinking friends must pay.—William Brady, M. D., in Catho-lic Temperance Advocate. come that gratitude merited from

> Life is not so short but that there is always time for courtesy.—Emer

SAINT LOUIS

FEAST, AUGUST 25

Sir James Stephen, in his "Lectures on the History of France" In that long succession of eulogists on the Royal Saint, none have been more emphatic than Hume, and none more enthusiastic than Vol-taire. Yet it was impossible, even to their subtle intellects, as it had been difficult to many students in a far nobler school than theirs, trace the movements of that benignant Providence which planted and brought to a prolific maturity in the the seeds of an habitual holiness, and of a wisdom which was at once elevated and profound. The more diligently his life is studied, the more distinctly will it. I think, appear, that his natural dispositions received from the associates and teachers of his youth the training which rendered them fruitful of so many virtues. Exquisitely alive to every domestic affection - often oppressed with a constitutional melan choly, which laid bare to him the illusions of life, yet occasionally animated with a constitutional gaiety which enabled him for a while to cherish and play with those illusions—enamored of the beautiful, and revering the sublime - his temper though thus sympathetic, pensive, and imaginative, was allied (it is no common alliance) to a courage which rose and exulted in the presence of danger, and to a fortitude which was unshaken in the lowest depths of calamity.

" His mother, Blanche of Castile, watched over the royal boy (for he had not completed his thirteenth year when he ascended the throne of France) with all a mother's tenderness, united to a discipline more inflexible, and perhaps more stern, than most fathers have couragee to exercise. In Isabella France, his sister who had preferred the cloister to the imperial crown, he had another kinswoman who bestowed on him all the thoughts, the time, and the affection which she ventured to divert from the object of her almost ceaseless worship. In his eighteenth year he married Marguerite of Provence, who after having been the idol of the Troubadours of her native land, herself became almost an idolater of him, cleaving to him with the same constancy of love in their quiet home at Poissy, and amid his disasters at Massourah and Damietta.

" But the sagacity of Blanche fore saw that these filial, fraternal and conjugal affections might enervate even while they purified the spirit of her son, and she therefore selected for his tutor a man possessing, as she judged, the qualifications best adapted to counteract that danger. His name was Pacifico. He was an Italian gentleman, who, having been one of the first followers of St. Francis of Assisi, was animated by the profound and fervent devotion which characterized his master. He instructed his pupil in ancient and in more recent history, caused him to ride boldly in the chase, and required him to cultivate every martial exercise and courtly grace which was then regarded as indispensable in a gentleman and a cavalier. Nor did the lowliness of the Franciscan institute prevent the friar from instilling into the soul of Louis the loftiest conceptions of his own royal dignity.

"Other and far different associated contributed to form the character of the pupil of Pacifico. In the halls of the Louvre, then a fortress rather than a palace, veteran captains dethey had fought with Saladin, and the victories which had expelled the English from Normandy, Beneath counsellors of Philippe Auguste ex-plained to him the methods by which that prince had enlarged the domains and powers of the kings of France; and there, also, civic bail-iffs and provincial seneschals interpreted to their young sovereign the motives which had induced his an cestors to increase the number and to extend the franchises of the Com Thus imbibing from aged men the hereditary maxims of his house, he learned to adopt them as the laws by which his future reign was to be directed. " But the yet higher laws by which his own personal conduct was to be governed, seem to have been derived from a far more eminent teacher than any of these. St. Thomas Aquinas who had migrated from his native Italy into Northern or habitual users of alcohol. Of course the heavy drinker cannot be insured, so he is not included in the for the results of which he rate among the total abstainers was found utterance sometimes in acts 15% less than the rate among the of public or solitary worship and at occasional or temperate drinkers and other times in interpreting to mankind the mysteries and the duties of ers was 25% lower than the rate their relations to the Deity and to each other. To the inquiry of Bona venture as to the sources of his stucompany the total abstainers showed pendous learning, he answered by pointing to the crucifix which stood upon his table; and, when seated at the table of the king, or introduced distinctly longer lived individual into his closet, he still directed to than the temperate drinker, a better the same inexhaustible fountain of investment for the life insurance divine and human wisdom. From company. And teetotalism is an his intercourse with St. Thomas, his Louis seems to have acquired his acquaintance with that science which the devout Pacifico could not have taught-the sacred science of Christian morality, in all the amplitude and in all the minuteness of its application to the offices of a legisla-

> St. Louis occupies in history a place apart from that of all the other slowly sometimes, but they grind and a king.

peculiar praise to have combined in his own person the virtues which are apparently the most incompatible with each other, and with the state and trials of a king. Seated on the noblest of the thrones of Europe, and justly jealous of his high prerogatives, he was as meek and gentle as if he had been undistinguished from the meanest of his brethren of mankind. Endowed from his boyhood, by the lavish bounties of nature, with rank, wealth, power, health, and personal beauty he was as compassionate as if sorrow had been his daily companion from his youth. An enthusiast in music, architecture, and polite learning, he applied himself to all the details of public business with the assiduity of one who had no other means of subsistence. Surpassed by no monarch in modern Europe in the munificence of his bounties or in the splendor of his public works, those purest and most sumptuous of the luxuries of royalty were in no single instance defrayed people. Passionately attached to his kindred, he never enriched or exalted them at the public expense The heir of conquests and territorial acquisitions of which the responsibility rested with his grandfather, the inestimable advantages with himself, he restored to his rivals and his adversaries every fief and province which upon the strictest scrutiny by the most impartial umpires, appeared to have been added to the royal domain by unjust or even by unquestionable means.

THE CATHOLIC RECORD

What, then, was the basis of this sacred harmony in the character of Louis? I answer, or rather every page of his history answers, that it flowed from his constant devotion to that holy canon, and to that divine model in which every utterance and every action are harmonious. eye was continually turned to that eternal fountain of light with all the docility of childhood. He had early attained to that maturity of moral stature in which the abdication of self-will to the supreme will becomes at once a habit and a delight. In the service of his Creator he found and enjoyed a perfect freedom. It was a service often rendered in pain, in toil, in sickness, and in da but ever rendered with a heart full of cheerfulness and confidence and hope."-Sunday Visitor.

CHURCH HISTORY

THE JUSTICE OF GOD CLEARLY SEEN IN CHURCH HISTORY By Rev. H. C. Hengell, Madison, Wis.

A heart cold and indifferent to religion is often due to a head devoid of elementary religious knowledge. In such a case the remedy is to cultivate an interest in the acquisition of religious knowledge. Not to be interested in religious, although suffi ciently alert in other matters, indicates a narrow, one-sided mental development. Many university students are notoriously narrow minded because they neglect to cultivate an interest in anything except in their pleasures and the few studies that nable them to get a degree. Americans of our day seem to be very narrow minded. They pursue businessand pleasure and practical worldly knowledge with eager restlessness but very few of them penetrate beond that to the absorbingly interesting subject of religion. Some of them about progress and humanity and Service with a big S.

There are several ways by which a Catholic can arouse his interest in the acquisition of religious knowledge A good beginning can be made by ading and studying the history of the Church.

History has the advantage of dealing with the concrete. Its disadvantage is that it must be incom-History cannot present all the facts dealing with a single country during fifty years. The writer of history must select his facts and dis-In selecting and rejecting facts, the istorian applies some rule or some criterion of his own selection. That why all books on history are more or less partial. They cannot help it. There is no such thing as a complete and impartial presentation of history A man has some kind of a theory by which he selects or rejects facts. He selects what fits in with his theory and rejects what does not. Some-times he leaves the realm of facts entirely, in order to bolster up his theory which is only another word for prejudice. For example, those who want to bolster up a materialistic theory of history or sociology include mere guesses as to prehistoric man. Facts about prehistoric man they have none. We know nothing about so-called prehistoric man for the simple reason that he is pre-his-

Yet in spite of its disadvantages history gives a broad Catholic training to those who pursue its study as thoroughly as they can. Just as the study of American history tends to make us better patriots, so the study of Church history tends to make us better Catholics.

Church history deserves our warmest interest because it reveals so clearly the wisdom of Our Lord in guiding His Church. Even persecu tion and the conduct of an occasional Judas in the higher ranks of the clergy show how powerless they were to ruin the work of Christ. Church history shows forth the justice of Our Lord. His mills grind

DOCTOR'S GOOD ADVICE

To Go On Taking "Fruit-a-tives" Because They Did Her Good

ROCHON, P. Q., JAN. 14th, 1915. "I suffered for many years with ter-rible Indigestion and Constipation. I had frequent dizzy spells and became greatly run down. A neighbor advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives". I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve, and he advised me to go on with "Fruit-a-tives".

I consider that I owe my life to "Fruita-tives" and I want to say to those who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation or Headaches-'try Fruit-a-tives' and you willgetwell". CORINE GAUDREAU. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruita-tives Limited, Ottawa.

thoroughly too. In the end the good and faithful are rewarded and the wicked, both men and nations perish. The nations of the world are undergoing punishment most severe, just now, perhaps because they have offended grievously against the Church of God. Church history shows, too, how faithfully our Lord keeps His promise to be with His Churchalways. The gates of hell do not prevail against her. Indeed the Church is Our Lord's Bride, our spiritual mother and her history so glorious should be of the greatest interest to us. - Our Sunday Visitor.

From the Pontiff who is seated on Peter's throne, down to the child who makes his first Act of Faith, the belief is one and identical. That oneness of faith is a fact, forcing itself on the world's notice, and in-fluencing the lives of its people.— Father Gwynn, S. J.

Painful Swollen Veins Quickly Relieved and Reduced

Mrs. R. M. Remier, of Federal, Kansas, writes an interesting account of her success in reducing a severe case of enlarged veins that should be encouraging to others similarly afflicted. She suffered with badly swollen and inflamed veins (in fact one had broken), for more than seven years before she became acquainted with Absorbine, Jr., and used it. Absorbine, Jr., was faithfully applied for several weeks and, to quote from her letter, "The large knots in the veins left, it was all nicely healed, and has not bothered me since." Absorbine, Jr., is an antiseptic lini-

Absorbine, Jr., is an antiseptic liniment—healing, cooling, and soothing. Safe and pl-asant to use. $1.00 and $2.00 at your druggist's or postpaid. Liberal trial bottle postpaid for 10c. in W. F. Young, P. D. F. 299 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

HOTEL CUMBERLAND

from Grand Central Depot

New and Fireproof Strictly First-Class — Rates

$1.50 up Rooms with Private Bath $2.00 up Suites $4.00 up

10 Minutes Walk to 40 Theatres Send for Booklet

HARRY P. STIMSON Only New York Hotel Window-S Throughout

LIQUOR and TOBACCO HABITS

Minimize the Fire Peril

BY USING EDDY'S

Chemically Extinguishing "Silent 500s"

THE MATCHES WITH "NO AFTERGLOW

EDDY is the only Canadian maker of these Matches, every stick of which has been treated with a chemical solution which positively ensures the match becoming dead wood once it has been lighted and blown out.

Look for the words "Chemically self-extinguishing" on the

Approved by Thrifty House-wives, the "1900" Washer

proposition, mentioning type of machine which most interests you. Better address me personally

T. F. MORRIS, "1900" Washer Company 357 Yonge Street, Toronto

By all the tests to which a Boiler can be subjected, the King Boiler makes a record of almost one hundred per cent. The scientific construction of the water channels; the arrangement of the fire chamber and flues; the quickness with which heat is taken up by the water, lessening the amount of fuel required; the air tight joints, preventing waste of fuel by ungovernable drafts; the strength of the materials; the convenience of all parts; the ease of shaking and ash disposal; the dust-tight ash pan, and other points, all explained in our Booklet are reasons why you should insist on having ter Boiler.

Imperial Radiators

The latest improvements in our Radiators have doubled their power of quick and sustained heating. For graceful lines and beauty of pro-portion, Imperial Radiators are unticulars. Our Engineering Department is at your service and will cheerfully furnish full information as to the best method of heating your house, store, factory, warehouse or building of any size or description.

68 FRASER AVENUE, TORONTO

CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN

GOOD WORK OR NONE

It is a rule that a workman must follow his employer's orders, but no one has a right to make him do work that is discreditable to himself.

Judge N——, a well-known jurist. -, a well-known jurist, living near Cincinnati, loved to tell this anecdote of a young man who understood the risk of doing a shabby job, even when directed.

He had occasion to send to the village after a carpenter, and a sturdy young fellow appeared with his tools.
"I want this fence mended to keep out the cattle. There are some unplaned boards-use them. It is out take time to make a neat job. I will pay you only $1.50.

planing each board. Supposing that he was trying to make a costly job of it, the judge ordered him to them on at once, just as they were, and continued his walk. When he returned the boards were well planed and numbered ready for nailing.

I told you this fence was to be covered up with vines," he said angrily; "I do not care how it carefully measuring his work. When And she will be your Moti it was completed there was no part She'll not this day forget. of the fence so thorough in finish How much do you charge?" asked shouldering his tools.

A dollar and a half," said the man, Dear little child of God!

The judge started. "Why did you spend all that work on that job, if not for money?

For the job, sir." "Nobody would have seen the But I should have known it was No; I'll take only $1.50." And he took it and went away. Ten years afterward the judge had the contract to give for the building the lads, but one little fellow went of several magnificent buildings. at the problem with a will, and the master builders, but the face of one caught his eye.

It was my man of the fence," he said. "I knew we should have only good, genuine work from him. gave him the contract, and it made a rich man of him.

It is a pity that boys are not taught in their earliest years that the highest success belongs only to the man, be he carpenter, farmer, author, or artist, whose work is most sincerely and thoroughly done.-Living Age.

LOOKING FOR HAPPINESS

Lincoln said that "folks are usually about as happy as they make up their minds to be." The experience not outside, of us.

The great mass of people do not The great mass of people as a strict of the happiness possibile in their everyday life, largely "Well," seating himself by Mollie, turkey ible in their everyday life, largely because they were never trained to think of the normal sources of enjoyment. Their minds are blank, except for the little grooves which their sisters. "You know very well you daily routine has stamped in their are thinking more of what would of their possible mental resources as the early Indians were of the natural of the children. "It is difficult to resources of this continent. The decide on what would please our savages raised just enough barley to dear grandmother. You know her exist upon. They did not know how home for many years, or before she to feed, to clothe, or to enjoy them selves. Their minds were blank, and miles from here. We cannot invite they lived in wretchedness, while the her friends to come ten or eleven even before his death he was thorvast resources of the richest conti- miles, to see her, so we must do some nent in the world were all unknown

Ruskin said he was not so much what we lose, which might furnish James. infinite pleasure and satisfaction. a great deal about the enormous loss of our natural resources, the coal, the waterpower, worth living are very common, very ordinary and within the reach of all. How often we hear the poor berating the rich whom they envy, bemoaning the cruel fate that has kept about everything worth while away from them, but when we stop to take stock of life in the things that are really worth while, that count for most, we are pretty nearly all on an equal

The great Chemist Himself has mixed the atmosphere so that it is just adapted to create health, vigor, insted the atmosphere so that it is just adapted to create health, vigor, robustness of body and thought and exultant feeling for all alike. The sunlight with its marvelous chemistrum and the matter with mother, so many people who are otherwise sane and intelligent and versed, too, to a certain extent, in history, retain the impression that the so-called try performs millions of miracles every moment in root and rootlet, in every moment in root and rootlet, in plant and flower, in tree, in animal life, in human life, while painting pictures of marvelous colorings, in be a pleasure to her beloved grandpictures of marvelous colorings, in flower, in plant, in landscape.

time as the proudest monarch or the greatest money king. Andrew Carnegie said he would give $10,000,000 to have his life prolonged ten years; but all his wealth cannot purchase one instant of time. Nor has money power to purchase the best things in life-love, friendship, sympathy. The sweetest, the most desirable things we know are purchasable only with effort, with conduct, right thought, right effort. If, like Pollyanna in the story, we make a habit of looking for some thing to be glad about, we shall very soon master the secret of happiness. If we count our blessings, if we live for God, if we try to make others

The girls got their mother off in a like the make all arrangements for the trip." If, like Pollyanna in the story, we the meaning and object of life and see that we are here to prepare for ing a nap, and in a short time all the geo," whence our word "indulgence, resigned to the will of Divine Provi- were only five of grandmother's old dence, if we accept our sufferings in expiation for our sins, in union with Invitations the sufferings of Christ, if we live in the light of eternity knowing that we are here only for a short time and that our home is to be in the bliss of wraps so that they would not be cold, Heaven, every day will have sun-shine, every day will bring us good cheer, every day will find us happy.

—Catholic Columbian.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

THE CHILD ON FIRST COMMUNION DAY

The Little Infant Jesus Came down to earth one day To find a sweet and pretty place A little while to stay And so, He saw your heart, my child, And found a garden there,

The Babe was pleased to stay, He loves you much, but most of all On First Communion Day. Jesus will come again, my child. So keep the flowers bright, To be with children, good and true Is His one great delight.

"I do," said the carpenter, gruffly,
"I do," said the carpenter, gruffly, carefully measuring his work. When

And she will be your Mother, too, Your gentle Guardian Angel Who has watched each step you trod, Is very happy on this day,

> -Sentinel of the Blessed Sac BOUND TO FIGURE IT OUT

A school inspector, who was examining a class of boys in arithmetic, set the following question:
"If a cat fell into a bottomless pit, and climbed up two feet for every three it fell, how long would it take to get out ?"

This proved a regular puzzler to covered both sides of his slate with calculations. "Here!" exclaimed the inspector, as he noticed him hard at work. "Stop doing that. Haven't you the sense to see that the cat couldn't possibly get out?'

'Oh, yes, he could, sir," replied the boy, brightly. "If you'll only give me time, I'll bring him out at Aus-

THE BIRTHDAY

"Whose birthday are you talking bout?" said Jimmy Black as he entered the room where his brothers and sisters were talking.

"Did you hear us?" said Mollie.
"I did not know we were speaking so of many persons shows that the possibilities of happiness are inside, tell us what you think would be a

'let's have a big dinner—a turkey dinner."

"You greedy boy," said one of his thing to please her; we must do it all ourselves."

"Does grandmother talk much

When we ask her to tell us stories.' said Sarah, "she always tells some-thing about when she lived in Greenand the forests, but they are nothing wich, where she was born and where she lived all her life until she came wich, where she was born and where the possible resources of happiness here. She had five children, but all are dead except mother. Do you The things which really make life know that sometimes she calls ago? Mother says that she remembers the little girl and also that people used to say they looked enough alike to be sisters.' "Does grandmother talk much about any of her old friends who are now living in Greenwich?"

"O yes. Why it seems to me I know Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Lawrence, son (that's I) to take them back and The poorest, the humblest person on earth has the same amount of Greenwich at about half past eight, forth in an automobile. I can be at and back here in time to give grandmother a good old visit with her longtime friends.

"Why, Jimmy Black, you are the best boy I ever knew," said one sister, and the others crowded around him and hugged him and said so much in his praise that he could hardly get a chance to speak.

"There, there, that's enough," he said. "Now you must talk over matters with mother, and be sure corner, when grandmother was tak-

Invitations were sent to them and James's mother assured them her son would take good care of them. wraps so that they would not be cold, even if the day was chilly.

James seemed as happy as his mother when he started out for the visitors. Grandmother was delighted when the morning of her birthday came, for the girls insisted that sh must dress up, and that they would decorate the rooms with flowers

You ought to have seen grandmother's face when the company

'Why! What does this mean? How did you girls all get here? James laughed, and aside to his sisters: "They are young, giddy

But such a happy time as the dear old women had! They called each other by their first names and talked an automobile ride, with a young man to wait upon them, would never be forgotten

The whole family were happy to see dear grandmother enjoying herself like a child.—B. E. B. in Sunday

ARCHBISHOP GLENNON

ON MEANING OF INDULGENCES

Titus Oates, the notorious criminal who swore away the lives of so many innocent men during the reign of Charles II. of England, furnishes us with a very apt type of a class which since his day has played a prominent role as enemies of the Church. He understood for instance that the England of his day, especially among the ignorant and designing entertained the bitterest hostility against the Church. They were prepared to believe anything, no matter how far fetched it was, provided it made against the lives and properties of their Catholic fellow citizens. This prejudice was his first asset. Then what especially appealed to these prejudices was the testimony of those who claimed to have been once "Papists," but having seen the light, had abjured theirs and were now prepared to give testimony concerning the system they left be

Titus Oates was a Protestant min ister who was received into the Catholic Church and spent long enough in the Catholic colleges on the Continent to become acquainted with a few prominent Catholic names and a little Catholic theology, when he was expelled. Now comes his opportunity of making money. He will go back to England and promote the infamous plot that brought him money and notoriety; but that money was blood money and that notoriety is that which came from ingenius and persistent and successful lying. other things he charged was that the Pope had given a decree condemning his Majesty, King of England, and ordering his assassina and they who would accomplish this deed were to gain special indulgence." It is now two centuries and a half since Titus Oates started his conspiracy, and even before the trials of the Catholics were over, no sane man in England believed his story, so that oughly discredited; yet, there are, after all these years, people who believe that some of his charges were true - that the Pope may order a surprised at what we suffer as at about her old friends?" asked crime committed and that the Church is constantly granting indulgences, commit sin. Let me say again, as has been said a hundred thousand times, that an indulgence is not a license to commit never proclaimed such a doctrine. Let me say, furthermore, that it has not power to do so. Not even has it no power; but the Omnipotent God cannot grant a license to commit sin. Every Catholic knows that, and knows that a church that would dare to promulgate or practice such a doctrine would be in the act not a church of God, but of the devil. When I make these statements, I state nothing new; for they are the statements of all the councils, of all the decrees, of all the teachers of the

You may ask why, then, an idea to the contrary endures—why it is that 'indulgences" proclaimed by Catholic Church are in fact but so many concessions made unto the commission of crime. It suggests itself to me as a possible, though not a sufficient explanation, the current meaning that the word "indulgences" has among English-speaking peoples. We speak, for instance, of indulging a child, meaning that we give the child leeway, because it is a child; that we overlook and tolerate the violation of law, ethics, the doing of petty wrong even. We call the parents of such a child 'indulgent' par ents. Again, with the older people we refer to such and such a one as indulging in the worst passions. So that the idea of indulgence in the popular mind is somehow associated with sin and its toleration. Now Catholic terminology does not always follow modern meanings. It has been formed long ago; and the meaning of its terms do not change with The girls got their mother off in a the changing years. The original meaning of the Latin word "induleternity, if we train ourselves to be arrangements were made. There is simply to be kind; and consequent-

This Advertisement

may induce you to try the first packet of but we rely absolutely on the inimitable flavour and quality to make you a permanent customer. We will even offer to give this first trial free if you will drop us a postal to Toronto.

ly an indulgence was a kindness or to extend to the sinner who returns favor. Gradually it was applied to and repents.
the remission of a debt. Later, still, Hence, while the Church's door ment due to sin after sin is forgiven in the Sacrament of Penance. So you future; that it is not a license for a future act, but a condonation of a punishment due after the sin already committed is forgiven and that consequently the one guilty of it is truly repentant.

Catholic theology holds that mortal sin has in its sequence a two-fold punishment: one, the eterna!, and the other, a temporal punishment. The eternal punishment of sin is remitted in those truly repentant through the Sacrament of Penance. There yet remains the temporal punishment, which in the early ages of the Church was represented by "public penances," and it is this temporal punishment that is affected and remitted by what we call an indul-

I will admit that sometimes our pious writers and also pious magazines confuse in the public mind by their loose diction the correct idea of an indulgence. I can admit furthermore that the proclamation of indulgences and so-called sale amounted many times in the Church's history to abuse; and the abuses thereof were but slowly remedied; but never was the abhorrent teaching proclaimed, and never would the Catholic mind accept the monstrous teaching that an indulgence was a license to commit sin.

To fully understand this question it would be necessary to realize that in the Church of which the Blessed Saviour is the head, there are great treasures of grace and love and mercy, and that these treasures are for those who in contrite and humble heart seek them; that while the Church hates sin and condemns the sinner, yet, as with the prodigal son returning, there are the mercies of the Lord for the returning sinner, and there is joy among the elect. The indulgence is granted to such, and to such only, for an absolute condition to the gaining of any indulgence is to be free from mortal sin. For those, then, who, truly repentant seek God's mercy, which comes more abundantly than the rain in the April time, the after damages to the soul which remain even after the sins are forgiven, are removed by the grace of the indulgence. It is another phrasing of application for the superabundant merits of Christ

There be those who think that Catholic theology is cold and merciless; that it demands too much and that consequently it must fail; that that is amenable to love rather than that law is inexorable regarding sin to mean a release from slavery. In swings open for the sinner who re our theology it is meant to signify turns, its mandate in the confession about when they were children. The dinner and decorations were fine, but God, and in a special and technical sin no more. A forgiveness for the sense, indulgence is defined as the remission of the temporal punish- of Penance; and a remission of its we call an indulgence; but a license will see, first, an indulgence has to do with the past and not with the would be itself not a law, but a

> MARY-THE SWEETEST OF ALL FEMALE NAMES

> Mary, the sweetest of female names may not inappropriately stand at the head of our list. It is from the Hebrew and signifies exalted. Its French form is Marie. It is, we hardly need say, a famous name in both sacred and profane history. In all ages, from the time of Mary, the Mother of Jesus, to that of Mary, the mother of Washington, the name has literally been exalted. It has been linked with titles and power-with crowns and with coronets, and adorned by goodness and beauty. Mary has ever been a favorite name with the poets. Byron, as he assures us, felt an absolute passion for it. It is woven with some of his sweetest The peasant poet, Burns verses. ems to have been as much attached to it as the author of Childe Harold. It is still the theme of bards and bardlings unnumbered. We might fill a column or two here with songs sonnets and ballads, in the melody syllables are those which form the charming name of Mary. But where so much presents itself, we can quote We need quote nothing, nothing.

> "The very music of the name has Into our being."

> Let the motto, or the toast if you will, be the single line of Bryan Walter Proctor:

Here's a health to thee, Mary."

Sarah is almost as common a name as Mary, but it lacks the prestige which its historical and poetical associations throw latter. It is also from the Hebrew ; and signifies a princess. In poetry it takes the form of Sally, or Sallie and is found in many a love song and ballad. Sally is sometimes con-tracted to Sal, which is neither poetical nor euphonious.

Laughing, prattling sporting Sallie Now tell what shall be The tint of sky, sun lit or starry, To which I'll liken thee? The softest shades of heaven's blue Those lustrous eyes seem melting

SHELVE HIM

Such is the advice which the Cathto law. When viewed, however, in all its phases, it will be found that words: "When the only qualification a man has for public office is sin. Let me say that the Church has and the commission thereof; but that that he is a 'slick politician,' the it also has the mercy of the Sacred better plan is to put the aforesaid Heart of Christ and its infinite love slick one on the shelf.

This Up-to-Date Range

has a ventilated oven with walls of nickelled steel that roasts and bakes to a turn. The glass door enables you to watch the baking and the thermometer shows exact temperature. Our free booklet describes many other special features. Write for it.

McClary's PANDORA RANGE

"Silver

Canada's finest home Laundry Starch, for nearly 60 years. In 1 lb. packages and 6 lb. Fancy Enameled Tins. At all grocers.

MANUFACTURED BY THE CANADA STARCH CO. LIMITED, . MONTREAL.36

CAPITAL TRUST CORPORATION

Authorized Capital, $2,000,000

BOARD OF DIRECTORS President: M. J. O'Brien, Renfrew.
Vice-Presidents: Hon. S. N. Parent, Ottawa; Denis Murphy, Ottawa;
R. P. Gough, Toronto; A. E. Corrigan, Ottawa.

Edward Cass, Winnipeg
T. P. Phelan, Toronto
J. J. Lyons, Ottawa
Gordon Grant, C. E., Ottawa
Hon. C. P. Beaubien, K. C., Montreal

Managing Director: B. G. Connolly Assistant Manager: E. T. B. Pennefather

OFFICES : 10 METCALFE ST., OTTAWA, ONT.

NO MAN OAN FORSEE ACCIDENTS, which may occur to any one of us. If you appoint the Capital Trust Corporation the executor of your will, you provide for the efficient administration of your estate and guard against a change of executors through death, accident or sickness. Our Booklet entitled "THE WILL THAT REALLY PROVIDES," is instruc-

no longer courage to endure them, heavenward way

Bear the defects of others cheer- go before the Blessed Sacrament and fully for the love of God, and you beg our dear Lord to grant you forti-will become saints. When you have

Cathedral Decorating

C. B. SCANTLEBURY

BELLEVILLE, CANADA

ARCHITECT ON INTERIORS DESIGNER AND DECORATOR

Exclusive Church and Cathedral Fresco. Portrait and Mural Decorating. Stations of the Cross in Oil Colors, painted any size, with frames carved or plain.

Altars, Pulpits, Lecterns, Fonts CARVED OR PLAIN

Twenty years experience in exclusive Church Decorating and Designing enables this house to offer a superior service. Command our service ANYWHERE IN CANADA. Suggestions, Designs and Color Schemes furnished. Drop us a card today. Church decorating and remodelling should not be stayed because of war conditions.

C. B. SCANTLEBURY

CATHEDRAL DECORATING BELLEVILLE, ONT.

Western Fair LONDON, CANADA

SEPT. 7th TO 15th, 1917

1867—"A Half Century of Success"—1917

The Great Agricultural Exhibition of Western Ontario

$32,000.00 in Prizes and Attractions A very interesting Programme, including Military and other features - TWICE DAILY.

FIREWORKS EACH NIGHT TWO SPEED EVENTS DAILY REDUCED RAILWAY RATES

Prize Lists, Entry Forms and all information from the Secretary.

LIEUT.-COL. W. M. GARTSHORE,

President.

We Make a Specialty of Catholic Church Windows

RELIGIOUS RECEPTION

AT THE DE LA SALLE COLLEGE De La Salle College, Aurora, was ceremony on Tuesday evening, the 14th inst., when fifteen young men were received into the Order of the Brothers of the Christian Schools John Baptist De La Salle.

Rev. Brother T. Edward, Provincial of the Toronto Province of the Christian Brothers, presided and, in the name of the Superior General, admitted the postulants into the Institute.

The ceremony was private but nearly all the Brothers of Toronto were present and the function concluded with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament given by Rev. Father Lewis Drummond, S. J., of Brothers' Retreats.

in religion Brother Patrick; Almer C. Cooney, Aurora, in religion Brother Damian; Charles C. Cooney, London, in religion Brother William; Gerald Dillon, Calabogie, in religion Brother Michael; Bernard S. Duffy, Toronto, alty in religion Brother Bernard; John T. of 1 Eppler, Merritton, in religion Brother religion Brother Mark: Cornelius Kelly, Indian River, in religion Brother Peter; Victor C. Kelz, Toronto, in religion Brother Victor James P. McCarthy, London, in religion Brother Benedict; Philip J. Mc-Ginnis, London, in religion Brother Philip; Harold J. Meade, Port Dalhousie, in religion Brother Anselm; Edward J. Orendorff, London, in religion Brother Edward; Allen E. Quinlan, Barrie, in religion Brother Walter; Hugh R. Thrasher, Douglas, in religion Brother Paul. The new novices have all just graduated from the Junior Department of the College where their places are being filled by many new recruits from all parts of the Province who are entering for the scholastic term which begins with the Annual Retreat, September 3rd.

THE I WON'T WORKS

"Big Bill" Haywood, the father and Grand Sachem of the I Won't Works. was interviewed in Chicago last week. According to the account given by his interviewer Haywood made it plain that the moral questions of "right" and "wrong" do not occur to his men. Ethical aspects of any development in their fight are not considered. That is why the propaganda points out that sabotage, both the European method of throw-ing monkey wrenches into the machinery and even destroying a plant, or the "gentler sabotage" of "doping the soup"—"poisoning"— does not appear to an I. W. W. as a human society if it should ever come day offer to God your heart stopass that Haywood's delectable work. 10. If you fall into crew should get into power and control. A state of civil society in which there would be no moral standards of right and wrong, and anything is yours which you are strong enough to take and keep, would be a reversal to the law and life of the jungle. Some years ago a Socialist writer, Upton Sinclair, wrote a novel which he called "The Lungle." It purposted to be a design of the control of the strong of the stro Jungle." It purported to be a description of economic and social conditions and the consequent moral conditions of the industrial slaves who labored for their pittance in Chicago's stockyards. While doubtlessly many of the conditions described in his book had a basis in fact, yet we may be sure that the whole pic-ture was overdrawn—it was a revolting, brutal, and sordid picture of social conditions, and resulting moral conditions that Sinclair gave us. Yet his Jungle would be a paradise in comparison with the Jungle which the I. W. W.'s would establish in human society. The very raison d'etre of any form of human society, it matters not what form it may be a monarchy or a democracy—is to protect human rights-to make possible for its subjects the security and stability of the blessings of life, of liberty, and of material happiness. It may be that sometimes some political form of society either through tyranny or through popular corrup-tion fails to accomplish the purpose of its existence, but this is a consequence of the frailty of human nature. and it is a condition that can be remedied by the people when once they are aroused to a sense of their wrongs. It is, however, no argument for a return to a condition of anarchy or the ethics of the Jungle. There can be no rights without a into treason through following that corresponding existence of duties. combination of Judas Iscariot and

me. As an individual I may even have certain rights which it becomes necessary for me to sacrifice for the public good. My right to life is unquestionable, but it ceases when the very existence of my country demands my services to defend her. Civil society is established to protect these rights and to compel other men to respect them, and when any man or any aggregation of men de clare that they have no respect for rights or duties, that they have no regard for property or human life then they place themselves on record as enemies of human society, and place themselves outside of the pale of civilization. It is a strange thing that this Government which is conto fight the battle for democracy and human liberty, to extend the reign of human justice and human rights, should tolerate within its borders a class of moral beasts and traitors such as are represented by the I. W. W. Gertrude Atherton, the and clothed with the habit of St. novelist, in an interview given to one of the local weekly papers, sums up the situation succinctly.

'We are a week-kneed race," she says, "when punishment is concerned and no doubt we will content our-selves with putting the I. W. W. ringleaders in jail and then go to sleep until new ringleaders, after lying low for a while, squirm through the country again. When a farmer finds a nest of rattlesnakes on his place does he Father Lewis Drummond, S. J., of Edmonton, who is conducting the Rechange of the place does he wait for them to bite his family or does he exterminate them at once?" America better wake up to the danger Those who received the holy habit of the snakes which she is warming were: Edward H. Connolly, Montreal, in her bosom and which we know are in her bosom and which we know are injecting their virus into the commonwealth and working upon the ignorant minds of chronic malcontents to strike the country at this very hour when she needs the lovand consecration of every one of her citizens .- The Monitor.

ENGLAND'S CATHOLIC SOLDIERS

If anyone in the middle of the last century had written that England was to furnish her soldiers and sailors with a prayer book of purest orthodoxy, he would have been laughed to scorn. However, such is the fact. Her statesmen and military chiefs are so convinced that morality is impossible without religion, that they have thrown to the winds all their Protestant traditions and prejudices, and have printed and distributed to the Catholics of the army and navy a prayer book — a purely Catholic prayer book. Here follow a few extracts from the same :

 "Gustavf Adolphus used to say : The best Christians are the best soldiers. As to the enemies from without, your officers will signal them to you in the hour of the fight. But there are your enemies from within: impurity, drunkenness, human respect, profanity, sloth." We find also the following counsels to the soldiers: "1. On awakening, offer your heart to God. 2. Never omit your morning prayer, however short it may be. 3 Before retiring, praise God, at least in your heart.

4. Do not fall asleep without having said your night prayer and made a sincere act of contrition. 5. If you happen to pass near a church, and have time, enter and pray a few moments. 6. Go to confession and Communion, if possible, on the principal feasts. 7. Assist at Mass with devotion on Sundays and holy days. 8. Obey your officers with respect Picture to yourself the condition of 9. From time to time during the work, 10. If you fall into sin, ask S. D., Leo Pfefferle, Claresholm, Albert pardon and go to confession when possible. 11. Have great confidence in the Sacred Heart, the Blessed Virgin and St. Michael. 12. If you where apparently the only rule of human life would be brute force—the only ethical consideration that always some blessed object under your uniform."

Could we do anything better than imitate England?—L. in Denver Register.

TURNED AGAINST HIM

TOM WATSON AS SEEN BY A GEORGIA STATE OFFICIAL

Tom Watson of unfortunate notoriety is reaping a rich harvest of pretty much the same epithets as he has been hurling at his Catholic fellow citizens. Unable to make any striking success with the exploita-tion of his anti-Catholic issues he has, as is well known, turned the energies of his misguided talents against the recently enacted draft-

In doing so he has stirred up an opposition, quite as bitter in as Watson's own unreasoning campaign against everything Catholic. We merely subjoin as an illustration of this anti-Watson sentiment an extract of a speech recently made in Buford, Ga., and quoted in the Buford, Ga., and contained the sentiment of Buford, Ga., and contained the sentiment of Buford, Ga., and contained the sentiment of the sentiment ing papers in the South.

In an address on "Education and Citizenship" State Superintendent of Schools, M. L. Brittan said, after speaking of his own son having enlisted for the war: "But in the sadness there is a pride in his response to his country's call and I would not change places with those of you in Gyinett who have been led of your in Gyinett who have been led of your many control of the price of

66 A savings account pays a large dividend socially, in addition to its steady financial returns. 99

ILDERTON MELBOURNE

QUALIFIED SECOND CLASS TEACHER wanted for S. S. No. 4, Galway. Salary $500 per annum. Apply J. J. Guiry. Sec., Kinmount Ont

HOUSEKEEPER WANTED HOUSEKEEPER WANTED
WANTED HOUSEKEEPER FOR ADULT
free family of three. One capable of taking entire charge. Moderate wages and good home to right party. Apply with full particulars to
C. Langley. 50 St. Paul street, St. Catharines,
Ont. 2026-2

ALL STEEL FIRE PROOF

To hold your Censers, Charcoal, etc.

MISSION SUPPLIES

BEST ON THE MARKET

J. J. M. LANDY

405 YONGE ST. TORONTO

VESTRY CABINET, $25

Full compound interest paid at highest bank rate on Savings Deposits of One Dollar and upwards Branches and Connections Throughout Canada LOCAL OFFICES:

trade, he first abused President Wilson for his long patience under German injuries and now that War is declared tries to weaken his arm by counseling his deluded followers to resist the law of the land which has shielded their slacker hides. Will you follow such a yellow dog?" This is strong language and we quote it merely as an example of how chickens come home to roost. Watson has set the style for his own undoing. The citizens of Georgia seem quite capable of telling Watson in language he surely can under-stand, because of such a familiar ring, just how highly he ranks as a et among his own.—The Guard

THE WESTERN FAIR

LONDON, ONT.

The management of the Western Fair, London, Ontario, have this year added $200.00 in cash to what already a very liberal Prize List in the Poultry Department. This is the fiftieth year for this Popular Exhibition and the Board are making every effort to eclipse all previous Exhibitions, good as they have been. In order to do this, one of the first things decided was to add $2,000.00 to the Live Stock Prize List. The Poultry Committee were able to secure $200.00 of this amount for their department, and have placed it all on the list without adding any thing to the entry fee. This will make a very attractive List, in fact one of the very best. Prize Lists, entry forms and all information may be obtained from the Secretary A. M. Hunt, London, Ont.

NEVILLE.-At St. Joseph's Hospital, London, on Tuesday, August 14, 1917, Mrs. Sarah Neville, relict of the late John Neville, in her sixty-eighth year. Many her soul rest in peace.

McCLORY .- On Sunday, August 5th, 1917, at the residence of her daughter Mrs. Daniel Martin, 525 King Edward Ave., Ottawa, Mary A. McLaughlin, relict of the late John McClory. May her soul rest in peace.

SHEA.-After a lengthy illness, in her seventy fifth year, at Vinton, Que., on July 26th, 1917, Bridget Egan, wife of late Denis Shea. Funeral Mass was chanted in St. Elizabeth Church, July 28th, by Rev. Father Kempton, P. P. Of your charity pray for the repose of her

TEACHERS WANTED

A QUALIFIED TEACHER WANTED FOR S. Sept 3. Apply stating salary and giv monials to Thos. O'Reilly, Madoc, Ont,

WANTED TEACHER HOLDING A IST OR

QUALIFIED TEACHER FOR SEPARATE school section. No. 4, Burgess. No. Salary $450 per annum. Apply to R. T. Noona, Sec. Treas., Stanleyville, Ont., R. M. D. No. 2.

TEACHER WANTED HOLDING A 2ND CLASS certificate for Separate school, No. 2, North Burgess, Duties to commence Sept. 1st, 1917. Apply stating salary to P. J. McParland, Sec. Treas, Stanleyville, Lanark Co., Ont. 2024-tf.

SECOND CL*SS PROFESSIONAL TEACHER wanted for S. S. No. 4, Ennismore. Liberal salary paid for experienced teacher. Duties to begin Sept. 3rd. Apply stating experience and salary to Rev. P. J. McGuire, Ennismore, Ont. 2025-3

NORMAL TRAINED TEACHER WANTED for C.S.S. No. 4, Westmeath. (La Passe). Duties to begin Sept 3rd, 1917. One capable of teaching French and English. Apply stating salary and experience to W. C. Gervais, Sec. Treas. C.S. S. No. 4, Westmeath, La Passe. Ont.

TWO TEACHERS WANTED FOR SEPARATE school, No. 5, Bagot, Renfrew Co., holding 2nd class Normal certificates. Duties to commence Sept. 3rd, 1917. School beside the church, and close to railway station. Apply stating salary and experience to J. L. Legris, Calabogie, Ont.

TEACHER WANTED FOR C. SEPARATE School, Town of Pembroke, an assistant teacher holding 2nd class normal certificate.

combination of Judas Iscariot and My rights to life, to liberty, to happiness becomes another man's duty to respect that right, and conversely nature and character assass in by TEACHER WANTED FOR SEPARATE S. S. No. 11, Hay. Teacher must hold a second or third class certificate. Salary $500, Apply to N. A. Cantin, Sec.-Treus., St. Joseph, Huron Co., Ont.

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL, ROCHESTER, N. Y. ST. MARY'S TRAINING SCHOOL, REGIS-tered by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, offers a thorough and liberal three year's course of theoretical and practical training to young women desiring to enter the

AMERICAN HOUSE

LAKE MUSKOKA

ITALY APPEALS TO CANADA IN RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

Goal of $100,000 Set for Southern and Western Ontario District.

Chevalier L. Zunini, Royal Italian Consul-General, to Handle Fund.

Italy's magnificent fight in the heroes, sponsored by the youthful Alpine mountains of Austria is costing hundreds of thousands of to meet pressing needs. brave Italian soldiers' lives. An appeal is now being made by the

You Need These Books

Queen Margaret Beauty Gurses

Also give priceless recipes for toilet preparations as used by famous beauties. $\frac{3}{3}$ is the price of these wonder-working courses postpaid to you. Send express or postal order for your set to-day, or forward stamped envelope for further particulars. Dept. A. QUEEN MARGARET SOCIETY

8 DAY OIL

GUARANTEED TO BURN ORDER NOW YOUR WINTER'S SUPPLY

W. E. BLAKE & SON, LTD. 123 CHURCH ST. TORONTO

General

Classics

Greek and Hebrew

Oriental Languages

Modern Languages

English and History

Modern History

Philosophy

CALENDAR SENT

ON APPLICATION

Political Science

Canada.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE

The Catholic College of the University of Toronto

THE FOLLOWING COURSES LEADING TO DEGREES IN ARTS:

Commerce and Finance Physiology and

TORONTO

Mathematics and Physics Arts and Forestry

Residence will be open to a limited number of Students in other Facultics.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE SCHOOL

Preparatory Department for Young Boys

Commercial and High School Departments

Physics

Biology

Sciences

Physiological and

Household Science

CANADA

For Calendar apply to The Superior

Biological and Physical

Biochemical Sciences

Household Science

Chemistry and Mineralogy

Geology and Mineralogy

For Calendar Apply to THE REGISTRAR.

CHEVALIER L. ZUNINI. Royal Italian Consul-General to

An In answer to this appeal. Southern and Western Ontario have fixed a goal of $100,000 to be raised by popular subscription during August and September. Royal Italian Con-sular Agent Giovanni Danovaro at Welland has been appointed official representative of the Italian Red Cross in this division. L. P. Shum-way and L. Porter Moore, of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. of the United States, and associated with the War Council, American Red Cross during its recent successful Cross during its recent successful drive for $100,000,000 in the United States, officially represent the Italian Red Cross as divisional directors and campaign organizers. Their headquarters are at Brant-

Through Colonel Noel Marshall, chairman of the Central Executive Committee, the Canadian Red Cross has pledged its support, and that of all local units is asked, for the Italian Red Cross campaign. "Every dollar that is given will make its bond between Italy and Canada. Let us show our Italian friends within our borders that we hold in grateful regard the land that gave them birth; that we appreciate her tre-mendous sacrifices in the great cause for which we fight, and that we cannot regard with indifference Government of Italy to the people of Canada through Chevalier L. Zunini, Royal Italian Consul General, Montreal, for the Italian Red Cross and orphans of her fallen Canada.

WANTED HOUSEKEEPER FOR A PRIEST in one of the cities of the Detroit, Mich diocese. Must furnish references as to character. Address, The Catholic Pastor, Belding, Mich 2019.4.f

STANDARD LIBRARY

NEW JUVENILES 35c. Each, Postpaid 50 Copies, $15.00

Jacques Coeur. By M, Cordellier Delanoue, ('n all the dramatic and stormy scenes in French History during the 15th Century, there is no more striking figure than that of Jacques Coeur, whose wonderful caiser fills so large a chapter in the history of Charles VIII's reign, 23 pages,

Jean Bart, Firilling Fale of the Sea. By Frederick Koenig, (A story that will be raed with considerable interest, especially by boys, who ever delight in stories of heroism and exploits at sea.)

Knight of Bloemendale, The And Other Stories (From "The Ave Maria") (A collection of tales and sketches by various hands, containing every diversity of character and style, but, all alike in their purity of tone and purpose. Small 286 pages Menshikoft, Or The Peasant Prince, A Tale of Russia. By Paul D'Aveline, (Fhis beautiful story is one that can be placed in the hand of the young with the assurance that the moral to be drawn from it will be a great factor in properly shaping the character of the young reader,) 222 pages.

Moor of Granda, By Henri Guinot, A Catholic Historical Romanness which the control of the control of the control of the story of the character of the pound reader,)

222 pages,
Moor of Granda, By Henri Guinot, A Catholic Historical Romance in which the young reader has a glimpse of the most romantic of cities, with descriptions of the warring factions, which disturbed the peice of Spain, even during the reign of Ferdinand and Isabella. 274 pages.
Ghost at Our School, The, and Other Stories, By Marion J, Brunowe, Selected from "The Ave Maria," There are in all ten stories, just the kind to interest and delight our children.
That Scamp, Or, The Days of Decatur in Trapoli.

That Scamp, Or, The Days of Decatur in Tripoli, By John J. O'shea, Containing 12 illustrations. A Tale of the Sea, Very interesting for boys, Truth and Trust. By Lady G orgiana Fullerton, Containing six short stories such as our young leaders always acmire.

Mabel Stanhope, By Kathleen O'Meara, A Story of French Custom, Very interesting for girls, Rosemary, By Lady Georgiana Fulletton, A Tale of the Fire of London, A good moral Catholic Tale, of the Fire of London. A good moral Catholic Tale.

Edith. By Lady Herbert. A Tale of the Present Day. The scene is laid in England, telling the many trials of Edith through life, her marriage and discontent, after which she became a Sister of Charity and finally a Mother Superior.

Coaina the Rose of the Algonquins, By Anna H. Dorsey. An Indian story dealing with thrilling narratives of the early French Missions in Canada, Father Etieme's unceasing efforts in persuading Coaina to embrace Christianity. of William Coaina to embrace Christianity, of William Coaina to embrace Christianity. of William Coaina to embrace Christianity. of William Coaina to embrace Christianity. of William Coaina to embrace the Auditor of Singalam Coaina to embrace the second of Singalam Coaina the French. Having been being the second of the Coaina to embrace the Singalam Coaina the Castolic Carlo of Carl

Eliane for the poor and afflicted,
Fair Maid of Connaught The, and other Tales for Carholic Youth, by Kate Duval Hughes. This book contains ten stories of great interest, which aways delight the boys and girls. The work is most respectfully dedicated to His Eminence
Cardinal Gibbons, by the author.

Old Gray Rosary The. "Refuge of Sinners" by Anna H. Dorsey The scene is laid in Virginia and a very strong interesting story of the Catholic Faith, is given to our readers, both young and old,

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

60c. Each Postpaid 50 Copies, $22.50 (6) 44.00

Blessed Margaret Mary Alacoque, by Rev. Geo Tacknel; S. J.
Dvine Life of The Blessed Virgin Mary, by Ven. Mary of Jesus of Agreda.
Dove of The Tabernacle, or the Love of Jesus in The Most Holy Eucharist by Rev. T. H. Kinane.
Duty of a / hristian Towards God by St. John the Baptist De La Salle. Here nothing is left unexplained no point unnoticed, of all the grand and beautiful system of religion from the most sublime mysteries of our Faith, to the simplest and most trivial practices of devotion.
Great Saints, by John O'Kane Murray. Over thirty saints, including the Blessed Virgin Mary, St. Joseph, St. John the Baptist, St. Agnes, St. Patrick, St. Bridget, St. Co'umbkille, St. Francis Xavier, etc. Beautifully illustrated.
Internal Mission of The Holy Ghost by Cardinal Manning. d Margaret Mary Alacoque, by Rev. Geo

Manning.

Irish Martyrs, by D. P. Conyngham, L. L. D.

Irish Saints from St. Patrick to Lawrence O'Toole

by D. P. Conyngham, L. L. D.

Life of St. Monica, by M. L'Abbe Bougaud. Vicar

General of Orleans. From the French, by Rev.

Anthony Farley.

Life of St. Paul Of The Cross, by the Rev. Father

Pins. Passionset.

A Passionist.

Our Lord Jesus Christ, by St. Bonaventure

Catharine of Sienna, by Blessed Raymond of Capus. Cecilia, Virgin and Martyr, By Rev. Father

St. Cecilia, Virgin and Martyr, By Kev. Pather Gueranger, St. Elizabeth of Hungary by Montalembert.
St. Frances of Rome, by Lady Georg anna Fullerton, with an essa* on the saint's life.
St. Francis de Sales Bishop and Prince of Geneva, by Robert Ormsby, M. A.
St. Francis Assisi, Social Reformer. By Rev. Leo. L. Dubois.
St. Ignatius of Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, by Bartoli. Two volumes. 50c. each. St. tignatius and His Companions — St. Francis Xavier, Peter Faber, Simon Rodriguez, etc. St. John Berchmans of the Society of Jesus, and miracles after his death, by Father Borgo. S. J.
St. Joseph. From the French of Abbe Boulian.
St. Margaret of Cortons. Translated from the Italian by John Gilmary Shea.

Margaret of Cortons. Translated from the Italian by John Gilmary Shea. Mary of Egypt. The example and model of a rue penitent.

t. Patrick, by Right Rev. M. J. O'Farrell, Bishop of Trenton.

It. Rose of Lima. By Rev. F. W. Faber, D. D.

It. Stanislaus Kostka of the Society of Jesus, by Edward Healey Thompson.

It. Thomas of Villanova.

It. Trensa. Written by he-self. Translated by Rev.

Canon Dalton

It. Vincent de Paul, by Rev. Henry Bedford

Lemporal Mission of The Holy Ghost by Cardinal

Manning.

Manning.

The Devotion to The Blessed Virgin, by the Blessed Louis-Maye, Grignon de Montfort. Translated Louis-Maye, Grignon de Montfort. Translated Report of the Processor of Processor Religion And Its Dogmas, The; by Rev. Nicholas Russo, S. J., formerly Professor of Philosophy in Boston College.

Action Council, and Its Definitions, by Cardinal Manning.

Manning.
Victims of The Mamertine. Picturing the trials and martyrdom of the saints of the early Church. By Rev. A. J. O'Reilly, D. D.
Year With The Saints, A. Short meditations for each day throughout the year on different virtues with examples taken from the lives of the saints.

The Catholic Record

LONDON, CANADA