GUNBOAT WAS SUNK OFF DEAL

Daring Raid by a German Submarine on the Coast of England.

Crowds of People Witnessed the Explosion.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

DEAL, Eng., via London, Nov. 12, 2.30 a.m.—Thousands of people witnessed the sinking of Deal of the British torpedo gunboat Niger by a German submarine, while lying in the Downs opposite the pier head. When at noon a loud roar of an explosion was heard, dense columns of black smoke were seen to rise and the Niger almost immediately began to go down by the bows. Though partially hidden by clouds of smoke and steam the stern of the Niger was seen to rise gradually in the sea until the greater length of her keel was visible. Then she slid slowly and gracefully beneath the water twenty minutes after she was struck. Her boilers burst immediately before she disappeared and caused a further rush of steam.

Nearly all of the crew were below at dinner when the torpedo struck the ship and order to close the watertight doors were shouted from the bridge. When the crew flew to obey one of them observed the white foam

QUEEN MARY PAYS A VISIT TO HOSPITAL

Hearts of the Tommies Were Gladdened by Her Gracious Majesty.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Queen Mary gladdened the hearts of 200 wounded "Tommies" in the American Women's Hospital at Paignton, Devonshire, by a visit to-day, and a personal gift to each wounded soldier.

At the invitation of Lady Arthur Paget, chairman of the American women's committee, supporting the hospital, the Queen left London early in the morning on a special train for the four hour trip, accompanied by Lady Mary Trefusis, one of her ladies-in-waiting; Sir Charles Cust, the King's household; Lady Arthur Paget, Lady Randolph Churchill and Mrs Lewis Harcourt, the last three members of the hospital committee.

Upon arrival at the hospital, Dr. Howard N. Bottle and the other surgeons and nurses, were presented to the Queen, who remained for two hours, visiting the wards and talking to the wounded and presenting them with pipes, shirts, cigarettes and mufflers.

The Queen was enthusiastic in her praise of the beautiful hospital. She highly commended the immaculate wards, thanked the surgeons and nurses for their efforts in behalf of the British soldiers, and congratulated the soldiers upon falling into such good hands.

Only seriously wounded privates were sent to Paignton, as it is felt that they have the greatest need of succor and are less able to look after themselves. Practically all the patients are bed ridden. The Queen did not overlook men injured. She chatted with and Ypres, discussing those battles and the conditions under which the men were wounded, invariably congratulating them on their valor and thanking them for their services to the nation.

The Queen was specially impressed by the efficiency of the hospital staff, which consists of two red cross units of six surgeons and twenty-four nurses, under the direction of Dr. Beale. She expressed to the committee of ladies, her appreciation of the assistance the red cross is rendering at a time when skilled surgeons and nurses are so badly needed.

CHILDREN KILLED WHEN GERMAN AEROPLANES DROP BOMBS ON WAR STRICKEN TOWN OF YPRES

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 12, 9.10 a.m.—The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company, telegraphs as follows:

"Sixteen children were killed yesterday killed four children. Aeroplanes are reported to have dropped bombs, which damaged the church and town hall and set fire to several other buildings.

"The Kaiser, in journeying through Flanders, visited Courtrai and expressed his satisfaction to the municipal authorities for the manner in which the German troops are quartered.

"From the Minsport zone only feeble gun firing was heard on Wednesday.

"Train loads of wounded are continuously being transported from the battle line.

"The allies continue to occupy Ypres, but shells falling in town

OFFICIAL BUREAU TELLS OF DESPERATE FIGHTING AT YPRES

Territorials Uphold the Finest Traditions of British Regular Army—Allies Capture an Aeroplane—Enemy Has to Abandon Big Guns.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Official Press Bureau issues the following descriptive account, which has been communicated by an eyewitness present with General Headquarters, and which continues and supplements the narrative published on November 6 of the movements of the British force, and the French armies in immediate touch with it:

"November 4. Before the chronological record of the course of events is resumed, a short description will be given of the part in the military history of the British Empire, and marks the first time that a complete unit of our territorial army has been thrown into a fight alongside its sister units of the regular army. Briefly, what happened was this: On Saturday, October 31, being ordered to take up a section of the firing line to support some of our cavalry, and having advanced to its position under heavy fire from field guns, howitzers and machine-guns, the battalion reached a point where further movement forward was impossible. There it maintained itself until dusk, when it proceeded to entrench.

"From 9 o'clock that night until 2 a.m. Sunday, the Germans made numerous attacks on the Scottish line, all of which were repulsed by rifle fire. At 2 a.m. they made their great effort and assaulted the front and left of the position in great force. A considerable number succeeded by a detour in getting around the flank of the regiment. A large proportion of these were engaged by the companies in support and reserve, while others penetrated between the first and second lines of trenches and assailed our firing line in the rear.

"While the fighting with rifle and bombing was going on, both in front and immediately behind the firing line, a reserve company still further behind made repeated bayonet charges against the enemy who had got around and so prevented the entire envelopment of the battalion. Behind the firing line the scene of combat was lit by a blazing house, which the Germans had set alight.

"At dawn it was discovered that large numbers of the enemy had, according to custom, worked around both flanks with machine guns, and a retirement was carried out. This was effected under a cross fire from machine guns and rifles.

"Naturally in an encounter of this nature the battalion suffered a heavy loss, but though unable to maintain its position, it acquitted itself with gallantry and coolness in a situation of peculiar difficulty, and following the national motto of 'Nemo Me Impune Lacesit,' inflicted far more damage on the enemy than it received.

"To turn to the general narra-

Admirals Were Acquitted After A Court Martial

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

WEYMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 12.—via London, 12.43 p.m.—Rear Admiral Troubridge, second in command of the British Mediterranean fleet, was to-day acquitted by a court-martial of neglect in connection with the escape of the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau. Rear Admiral Sir Archibald Berkeley Milne, formerly in command of the Mediterranean fleet, was previously exculpated from similar charges.

While they still belonged to the German navy the Goeben and Breslau eluded British warships sent to attack them, and escaping from the Messina straits, made their way to the Dardanelles, where they were transferred to the Turkish navy.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT IS GOOD NEWS IF ITS TRUE

LONDON, Nov. 12.—3.30 p.m.—A report was current in the lobbies of the House of Commons this afternoon that three German cruisers had been sunk in the Pacific at a place not specified. No confirmation, however, of this rumor is obtainable.

WARSHIPS MAY ACT ONCE MORE

Situation To-day is Regarded as a Critical One on the Coast.

The Germans Have Won Some Parts of River Yser.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Russian successes in the east, which for a time were a predominant feature of the war news, must again divide space with the accounts of rekindled activity on the part of the Germans in West Flanders.

With Dixmude in their possession the invaders were to-day less than 50 miles from Calais, and much nearer Dunkirk, and the fight they have put up in the face of tremendous losses seems to bear out what has been said so often, that they will not abandon this struggle to reach the coast unless they are utterly and completely crushed. The English and French theory is that the holding of Dixmude is only temporary; that its history will be much the same as that of other towns, which have been taken and then retaken in fighting on the Yser. But whether the prediction will be borne out, remains to be seen.

In certain places north of Dixmude the Germans are at least on the verge of a retreat, that is on the side nearest the French coast towns, and their attacks instead of concentrating to the southeast, have been apparently entirely have been renewed almost on the coast line. Here they drove the allies from Lombaertsyde, only in turn to be driven out themselves in fighting on the coast.

The official announcement given out by Paris this afternoon says that the Germans again are trying to take Lombaertsyde, which is to the north of Miesport and within a stone's throw of the sea. How they can operate in this locality if they are still standing guard off the shore, is not quite clear to British observers. For some time past there has been no mention of naval activity on this coast, but it has been assumed that this will be explained by the reports of German retirement from the coast of France and Belgium and the news that they were delivering their attacks further to the south.

GERMAN SPY AT ALEXANDRIA GETS LIFE TERM

He Had Planned to Blow Up the Suez Canal A Straight Case.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—4.40 a.m.—The Chronicle to-day describes the nature of offense of Lieutenant Moors, a German officer, who was recently imprisoned for life for espionage at Alexandria, Egypt.

Moors was despatched to Egypt five years ago and succeeded in being appointed a lieutenant in the Egyptian gendarmerie. His real mission, according to The Chronicle, was to foment a local rebellion among the various nationalist princes and to get them to agree to assist him. When war broke out he was recalled to Germany and was sent back to Egypt in a foreignist as medically unfit for military service, but actually to blow up a steamship in the Suez canal so as to block the passage of reinforcements from India and Australia.

Major-General Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Egypt, heard of the plot and had Moors arrested. In his file were splendid maps of the Suez canal and instructions how to sink vessels there. Two dynamite bombs were found in his belongings.

At his trial, according to The Chronicle, Moors confessed that he received $50,000 for the work entrusted to him. He gave a list of his associates and they have been arrested.

CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY FAILED AND OTHER ARMIES WERE FORCED TO MAKE HASTY RETREAT

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Daily Mail sends the following:

"It is now admitted semi-officially, but not yet mentioned in the official communications, that it was the failure of the German Crown Prince to hold his position in the centre which compelled a retreat along the whole line. While General Von Hindenberg on the left, and the Austrians on the right, were both maintaining their positions, the crown prince's army was fleeing back to the fatherland.

"The Russians poured in between the wings thus left in danger and attacked them, each on two sides, forcing them to scramble back to the frontiers and losing terribly all the way. The excuse made in Germany of bad generalship is ridiculed here since, in spite of bad roads, the Russians accomplished marvels in marching. The Russians, unlike the Germans, do not depend upon the resources of the country they are traversing, but bring ample provisions with them.

"It appears that six German princes were killed in this battle, three of the Lippe family, and one each of the houses of Hesse, Waldeck and Reuss."

WAVE OF OPTIMISM SOMEWHAT CHECKED IN ENGLAND TO-DAY

German Effort to Reach Channel Still Continues—Dixmude on Direct Road to Dunkirk is Now Held by Enemy.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Nov. 12.—10 a.m.—The wave of optimism which has been sweeping England for the past week was checked to-day by news of the occupation of Dixmude by German forces, and the renewed indications of the peril from German submarines by the fate of the torpedo gunboat Niger, which yesterday morning was destroyed by a torpedo launched from a submarine in the narrow part of the channel, where several hundred ships lay.

The importance of the fall of Dixmude is of itself to estimate without an exact knowledge of how the opposing forces are disposed in this locality, but the town is on the direct road to Dunkirk, and if the German forces can debouch from it, the allies probably will be compelled to fall back to new positions in their efforts to block the way to the coast.

The allies still hold Ypres, where the fighting evidently is of the most desperate character. Shells constantly are falling in the town, which also is the object of aeroplane attacks. Armentieres, which has been a constant bone of contention being first occupied by the invaders and then by the defenders has now become too hot for occupation by either side. The Germans are on the hills on one side of the town and the allies are attacking it unceasingly from the other.

The official communication given out in Paris last night claims that the invaders throughout the day continued their efforts of the day before without achieving any fresh result and declares that Germans are making vain attempts to move out from Dixmude along the left bank of the Yser.

For the moment the Russian pursuit along the Silesian frontier has slackened. The Germans are reported in London to be making efforts to further strengthen their present line of fortresses, anticipating a Russian invasion and the marvellous system of strategic railroads, extending along the line of fortresses between Graudenz, Thorn, Posen and Cracow will enable them to bring up reinforcements so rapidly that the German centre is not likely again to be exposed to the same weakness which led to the disaster before Warsaw. The rumor still continues persistently in London that the German crown prince was in command of the German center which gave way before the Russian assault outside of Warsaw, and he is being blamed for this rout.

A despatch received here from Petrograd declares that the dispositions between General Von Hindenberg, commander of the German forces in East Prussia, and General Dankl, the Austrian commander, are so acute that Austrian officers are refusing to co-operate with the German staff.

Vienna officially admits the withdrawal of the Austrians from Western Galicia and the complete investment by the Russians of the Przemyel fortress, but up to yesterday, the Austrian general staff was reporting continued success in the Austrian invasion of Galicia.

Russian army headquarters in the Caucasus reports only minor occupations of the points in Armenia previously captured by them.

Two Members of House of Lords In Enemy's Army

LONDON, Nov. 12, 12.10 p.m.—The status of the two semi-British dukes, who are now fighting in the German army against England, the Duke of Cumberland and the Duke of Albany, will be debated in the House of Commons to-morrow on a question to be put by Swift MacNeil, Nationalist who is anxious to know how Premier Asquith purposes to deal with them. Mr. MacNeil will urge that they be deprived of their British peerages and titles and their seats in the House of Lords.

The Duke of Albany who has also the title of Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, is a first cousin of King George. He was born in 1884 and educated in England and in Germany. He has a commission in one British and several German regiments. His wife is a daughter of the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein. The Duke of Cumberland is a second cousin of the King. He was born in 1845 and is a general in the British army. He married a daughter of King Christian IX of Denmark. The matter of the more favored treatment accorded influential Germans in England will be raised by Harry K. Newton, Unionist, who proposes to question Home Secretary McKenna as to why British naturalization was granted to Baron Bruno Schroeder, a banker, since the outbreak of the war.

PARIS IS STILL CONFIDENT

The Capture of Dixmude by Enemy is Not a Serious Check.

No Decision Has Been Reached in the Battle.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The battle in Flanders is as far as ever from a decision, according to the official communications, and judged from stories told by eyewitnesses arriving from the battle front. The Germans have given an emphatic denial of the reports that they were in retreat by carrying Dixmude on the Yser, 12 miles north of Ypres and on the road to Dunkirk, which the Germans are striving to attain. French bluejackets at Dixmude, had held the town against them in the face of fierce attacks for the past week, but were finally compelled to give way. The allies attempt to drive the Germans out again have thus far failed.

On the rest of the front, as far as the river Lys, the situation, according to latest advices, remains practically unchanged. As the principal action lately has centered to a large extent around Dixmude, the Germans are entitled to claim the advantage, but the French are strong.

ONLY THIRTY MEN FOUND ON THE EMBEN

Sydney Admiralty Board Receives Report From Victorious Cruiser.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

SYDNEY, N. S. W., via London, Nov. 12.—The naval board here has received details of the fight in which the German cruiser Emden was put out of commission. The Emden arrived at Cocos Island and sent armed launches, towing two boats ashore. Forty men with three officers and four maxims were landed in fifteen minutes and the landing party smashed the wireless instruments and the engines of the plant.

In the meantime the Australian cruiser Sydney was sighted on the horizon and the Emden immediately put out to sea, leaving the landing party, both boats and men behind. The Emden started the firing, her practice at first being excellent, but afterwards it fell off. She lost two funnels and took fire at the stern within an hour, while the Sydney was scarcely touched.

The Emden is now ashore north of Keeling Island and burning. The captain of the Sydney says he found only thirty men on her. The landing party having commandeered two months supplies, left on schooners belonging to the owner of the island. They are still at large. It appears that the presence of the Emden was made known to Sydney by wireless from the Eastern Cable Company's staff on Cocos Island.

Goeben Was Hit by Shell

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

PETROGRAD, Nov. 12.—A despatch received here from Constantinople says that the Turkish cruiser Goeben, was penetrated by a shell at her water line during the recent bombardment of the Dardanelles by the allied Anglo-French fleet. The damage inflicted is described as serious.

The Goeben is one of the two German cruisers taken over by Turkey after the outbreak of the war, the other being the Breslau.

Ontario. Beekespeers, in convention, report a poor honey crop this year. J. M. McCutcheon, B.A., B.Ed., English master at the Normal school Stratford, for six years, has been appointed Secretary of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board.

CONVENTION IS TRIBUTE ITSELF TO THE WORK

Baptists at Missionary Conference Yesterday at the First Church.

Perhaps no greater tribute to the progress of Baptist Missionary work has been paid than that at the First Baptist Church, where the annual convention of the Baptist Missionary societies is now being held. The tribute is the convention itself and the vast attendance of the sessions. There are over two hundred and fifty appointed delegates in the city, and they come from all parts of Western Ontario. Toronto is well represented. Hamilton is strong. London has a good contingent and almost every lesser place has its representatives at the great convention.

Yesterday was Foreign Mission day when the sessions were principally devoted to addresses and reports and missionaries from the foreign field, India, Bolivia and other foreign fields of work, were laid open to the delegates by earnest words from missionaries who could speak from actual experience of the countries concerned, and in each instance they gave many accounts incident of personal touch, which made for greater things in the life of a former heathen. Their appeals touched the hearts of the workers and there is little doubt that as a result, the coffers of the society will be considerably enriched. There is nothing to compare with the appeal of heart touching stories told by those of experience for the purpose of supplementing the funds of such a work.

On Tuesday an informal session of welcome had been held, when all members delegated were registered and assigned to their various shelters. The programme has been well carried out and there has not been a great deviation from its lines.

Officers Elected.

Mrs. John Firstbrook was yesterday re-elected as president of the Society, and Mrs. J. M. Larven of Toronto was appointed first vice-president, as second vice-president, Mrs. Foster, also of Toronto was elected. The Board was chosen as follows:—Messdames James Ryrie, Thos. Urquhart, S. J. Moore, Nasmith, R. C. Daney, Charles Senior and Miss Webster, all of Toronto and Mrs. Foster of Hamilton.

A very illuminating address was given by Miss L. M. Jones, of India, who spoke of the progress which Christianity had made in India in spite of several drawbacks.

A really harmonious and splendid duet was rendered by Mrs. W. R. Baird of Brantford, and her daughter. It was well commented upon in every sense.

There were no resolutions passed and the appointing of a committee was deferred.

Prayer, conducted by Mrs. Herbert Remner of Hartford, closed the session.

The Evening Session.

The church was crowded to overflowing last night when the third session of the Convention was opened. It was a rousing and great scene and spoke volumes for the Baptist cause in the city. Almost every delegate was present and with them was a gathering of women workers, such as have seldom been seen in this city. The choir was excellent in its unity and strength and sang under the direction of D. L. Wright to the appreciation of the masses. It was a splendid service of song.

A BELGIAN REFUGEE WHO FLED FROM GERMANS

Above is pictured a refugee woman who fled to the little village of Roosendaal, in Holland, when the Germans were advancing on Antwerp. She is shown washing the family clothes on the steps of a Belgian car. These cars are used for housing refugees. A correspondent who witnessed the Belgian flight writes: "I saw a woman of apparent wealth place her fur trimmed cloak around the shoulders of a delicate and poorly clad young mother who was nursing her baby. The intense suffering of the last few days has united all the Belgians into one great family."

Exports were largely rubber and tin, and has increased marvelously in the last eleven years. The exports facilities were not very extensive and they had in Bolivia some twelve railways. Recently the sea route had been shortened to European trade by 4,000 miles. Trade was carried on principally by Germans and now why not Canadians.

Religiously, how had Bolivia progressed while it had gone forward commercially. It had degenerated, mentally, morally and physically. Law, religion and liquor ran, hand in hand and often a woman carried on the three simultaneously. The peculiar customs of the people were death with, at large, and showed them to be very late in almost every respect. Graft predominated and even on the heads of the people were dubbed Christians, when they were intimately concerned with the loading of burdens upon the shoulders of the natives. But the most surprising thing was that Canada had never felt any responsibility in this direction.

When, seventeen years ago, she and her husband had taken up residence in this South American country, the local priests were supreme, and they were naturally against any interruption of their reign. At first it was hard to bring Christians to prayer, but as time went on the priests lost their power and their monopoly was gone. Modern methods were introduced and the missionaries there now had their own newspapers. This was a great advantage and aid to the workers. Since the war Bolivia had been greatly affected and its tin mining industries were cut down to nothing. This affected the publication of the missionary journal and it was to be hoped that it did not go down.

Through it many drunken natives had been confirmed and it was a great consolation to the missionary.

Drunkennes was a great failing of the natives and women were great offenders, and nothing was more revolting. The workers had done more for the morality of the Bolivians in seventeen years than Romanism had done for the whole of South America in 400 years.

Six hundred dollars was necessary to support a missionary there, and the question was, what would and were the women of Canada willing to do in the matter. Would it not be to their credit if they had an agent of their own there in the form of the printing press.

Your school of missionary interests was not too large to provide for another one and hoping that the ladies of Canada would rally and provide for another one in Bolivia, Mrs. Mitchell closed her address with thanks for their attention.

"Abide With Me"

was the hymn taken for a solo by Mrs. Joseph James of Berlin, her rendition revealing a voice of pleasing sweetness.

Miss Marjorie Cameron, M.D. missionary to India, was introduced by Miss K. G. McLauren of India, in an address in which she outlined the work which Miss Cameron as a doctor would be called upon to do. It was a medical service such as this that was the heart of missionary work and Christianity declared the speaker. This was to have been a farwield address before they had been otherwise ordained, as it had been decided that under present circumstances it was not expedient or safe to send any one across the seas. Another lady doctor, was the prayer of Mrs. Cameron, said Miss K. C. McLauren in introducing Miss Campbell, and in the speaker following that prayer had been answered. The salaries of India missionaries had been raised, and the advance estimate of costs showed several increases, one being $1,500 extra for incomes. But the estimates had been justified by the contributions of the ladies of the Baptist church.

Social and Personal

The Courier is always pleased to use items of personal interest. Phone 276.

Mr. K. V. Bunnell is in Toronto today.

Dr. J. A. Smith of Windsor, is a visitor to the city today.

F. B. Whitmore of New York, is spending a few days in the city.

Mrs. D. J. McGowan, Walter St., is visiting friends and relatives in Fergus and Arthur.

Mrs. Peter Fisher of Wingham, and Mr. Balfour Hamilton, are guests at the Kerby House during the Baptist Convention.

Miss Davis, Miss Renwick, Mrs. Dyrain and Mrs. Henry New all of Toronto, are at present sojourning at the Kerby House. They are delegates at the Baptist Convention.

Mrs. William F. Ellsworth of London, Ont., is spending a few days with Mrs. Frank Kitchen, Richmond St. Miss Ellsworth is formerly of Brantford, and has many friends here.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Van Westrum will be pleased to hear that she and her four charming children have arrived safely at Genoa, Italy, where they were met by Mr. Leo VanWestrum.

The Woodstock branch of the Children's Aid Society have undertaken to house and look after eight Belgian children. Mrs. Pedley, widow of the late C. S. Pedley, has been appointed agent for the society in succession to her late husband, which appointment will likely be confirmed by the provincial department.

Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. A. C. McLean, a very sociable surprise party was given in honor of Mr. Fred Lowes, who is departing on the next contingent of Canadian volunteers. Mr. Lowes was taken entirely by surprise when the bevy of young people arrived to do him honor. Miss Gladys Tucker conducted the party to the residence, where a very enjoyable evening was spent in games and dancing. A presentation was made during the evening to Mr. Lowes, of a very fine sweater coat. Mr. Lowes replied most fittingly. The party broke up in the wee small hours of the morning after wishing their friend God speed and good luck.

Mr. John S. Anderson, 94 Charlotte street, returned home after attending the funeral of his brother Thomas James Anderson, Donegal.

WOOD-CHAPIN

The marriage was quietly solemnized on Nov. 11th, at the home of Rev. Mr. the pastor of Gospel Tabernacle, of Edith May, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chapin, Hillcrest Farm, and Harry L. Wood, 64 Port street. The bride wore a traveling suit, and was accompanied with hat to harmonize.

To The Editor

CHIEF SLEMIN WRITES.

To the Editor of The Courier:—Sir—My attention has been drawn by members of the force to your paper of the 11th inst. of unfair criticisms and statements that are not facts. On the night of the arrest I had two interpreters who interpreted for the officers and I accompanied a squad of police to two of the houses. We proceeded in squads to the different houses. The interpreters informed the Turks that they were wanted at the Police Office and they made no resistance whatever. They were marched in squads to the police station. The members of the force desire me to state absolutely that there was no swearing and that they did not use the language that you have printed, viz.: "To hell with you," and that we consider the publication a great injustice to the members of the force and their families.

This article is sent broadcast all over the country, which is damaging to any police department, and surely not advertising Brantford as a moral city. If the writer of the article had called me up I would have been pleased to give him the facts. As stated above the arrests were made quietly, and the Turks were treated with the greatest courtesy by myself and the members of the police force. Trusting you will publish this contradiction as I am requested to have this made public by the constables who have been aggrieved. Thanking you in anticipation.

Yours truly,
CHAS. SLEMIN,
Chief Constable.

Editor's Note—(The Courier had no desire whatever to reflect on the Brantford Police Department, but merely published what was actually said by one of the Turks in order to show the state of mind these prisoners were in and how they accepted what was rather an unexpected action by the authorities.)

Irwin Hilliard, K.C., of Morrisburg, was nominated by the Conservatives of Dundas county for the seat vacated by the death of Sir Jas. P. Whitney.

Boy Knight Notes

The Boy Knights church parade last Sunday to the Congregational Church was a fine one, and all members who do not present missed a great treat. Rev. Mr. Kelly delivering a most impressive address, which interested not only the large number of youngsters that were present, but also the older people. He based his address on the latter half of the seventh verse of the 33rd Psalm, "He layeth up the depth in storehouses." With apt illustrations he showed how God had created immense pockets in the earth, and in these pockets was stored up the riches of the earth, coal, oil, iron and precious metals. The storehouse of the human body is the brain. Men of science tell us that the brain is composed of millions of fine fibres, each one capable of memorizing a thought and of storing it up for future use. We should fill these storehouses of the brain with useful knowledge, noble thoughts, truths, acts and deeds. Above all we should remember that we can only take out of this storehouse that which we put in. How important it is that we should store up these things and thoughts that would be useful to us in life. Such organizations as the C. L. B., the Boy Scouts and the Boy Knights were doing a noble work in strengthening boys in character, but they could not prevent a boy from coming in contact with evil in everyday life. They could strengthen that boy so that he could control his life that when he came in contact with evil influences he would not be affected, that the world would be better for his life. In conclusion he urged every boy who had not done so to take Jesus Christ for their leader in all things and be ready to follow him, and all would be well. The choir rendered appropriate music. Next Sunday morning we will parade to the First Baptist Church. Let every member be on hand at 10 o'clock sharp. This will be the largest parade of the year.

IS NEW TREASURER

QUEBEC, Nov. 12.—Mr. Walter Mitchell, barrister, of Montreal, has been appointed to-day provincial treasurer in the Gouin cabinet. Mr. Mitchell was chosen Tuesday by the Liberals of Richmond as their candidate to replace the late Hon. P. S. G. MacKenzie, and it is certain now that Mr. Mitchell being a member of the cabinet, will meet with little opposition in the election.

GUNBOAT WAS SUNK

Following the course of the torpedo, the explosion followed and a large hole was made just before the bridge in the forward part of the ship.
Boats were immediately launched, including two lifeboats, and the crew, including Captain Muir and the officers, were rescued. Three of the survivors are injured, and it is reported that two are missing.
This is the first time a German submarine has penetrated the Downs where nearly a hundred ships were at anchor at the time of the disaster.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The little British torpedo gunboat Niger, which was built twenty-two years ago and has been used as a tender, is the latest victim of a German submarine. She was torpedoed yesterday morning in the Downs north of the Straits of Dover, and foundered immediately. The officers and crew were saved.

The Admiralty, in announcing the loss of the ship, says:—
"The Niger, Lieut. Commander Arthur T. Muir, was torpedoed this morning (November 11) in the Downs. All the officers and seventy-seven of the crew were saved. Four men were injured. It is thought there was no loss of life."
"The Niger has been employed in semi-combatant duties. The Downs is the name of a roadstead in the English Channel off the southeast coast of Kent, between Ramsgate and Dover.

The Niger had 800 tons of displacement and a speed of 19 to 20 knots. Her armament consisted of two 4.7 inch quick firers, five 3 pounders and several torpedo tubes. She was used only for purposes of patrol.
The Niger carries a complement of 85 men.
The London Standard says: "Seen at the hospital, Lieutenant Commander Muir, skipper of the Niger, stated that he saw the torpedo which sank his vessel, but he declined to make any further statement. The torpedo is stated to have struck the ship just aft of the forecast. One of the crew said that after the explosion he saw the long, grey body of the submarine come to the surface some distance off to the seaward side of the ship, but it disappeared in a few minutes. Close upon one hundred ships were anchored off Deal at the time the warship was torpedoed. The Niger had been on patrol duty in the vicinity of Deal since the beginning of the war.

A great deal of comment is being made at Deal on the fact that a small cruiser flying the Dutch flag had been in the vicinity of Deal for the last two days, and only put to sea during the morning. In view of the disaster local mariners very much doubt whether the vessel was Dutch or was only flying the flag of that country. They think it quite probable that this vessel was covering the movements of the German submarine. The vessel's agent nor anyone else locally had been able to ascertain the name of this mysterious ship.

DEAL, Eng., Nov. 12.—The realities of war were today brought home to the inhabitants of Deal and Walmer. Early in the afternoon a loud explosion, accompanied by great volumes of smoke, was heard from the gunboat Niger, then lying at the Deal pier. When the smoke cleared the Niger was observed to be settling down forward. Men and children rushed to the sea front exclaiming that the vessel had been torpedoed or mined. It was soon seen that the vessel was doomed. The Deal and Kings-town lifeboats, as well as the boats from the other parts of the beach, were launched in a noble effort to save the sailors. Consternation and almost panic prevailed amongst the hundreds who stood on the beach, as the vessel, which was heavily laden with stores, was launched in a noble effort to save the sailors. Consternation and almost panic prevailed amongst the hundreds who stood on the beach, as the vessel, which was heavily laden with stores, was launched in a noble effort to save the sailors.

"We saw the sailors," said Budd, "jumping from the vessel's side in dozens. As we neared the fast disappearing vessel we came upon swarms of men struggling in the sea, heroically helping to support each other. Some were fully dressed and others only partially so. They were clinging to pieces of wreckage, and some were in lifeboats. It was a heartrending spectacle. The men were so thick in the water that they grasped at our oars as we dipped them in the sea. We rescued so many that our own boat got so choked that we could not move any with our own gunwale only just out of the water. We were in danger of sinking ourselves. We called to the men that we could take no more in or we should sink ourselves, but they continued to pour over the stern and some hung on to the sides of our boat. We had about fifty on board. Never have there been so many in a boat before. One burly sailor whom we told to wait until the next boat came along, laughingly remarked whilst in the water, 'All right, cocky. I will hold on by my eyebrows.' He drifted to another galley.

"Another Deal boat then came along and relieved us of some of our men. Suddenly we heard a shout, and looking round, saw the commander of the Niger waving and beckoning to us on the stern of the sinking ship. We could not go to him as our craft was so heavily laden. Another galley then came along, and after taking out some of our men, together with those who were clinging on to our sides, we went closer to the sinking gunboat and took off some more men, and at the captain's special request, waited until he took a final look round to see if there were any more left on board the vessel, by this time nearly under water, and we shouted to him to hurry up, as the Niger had turned over on her side, and was likely to go down at any moment. That brave captain only just managed to jump in time, when the gunboat gave a lurch and sank on her side in 8 fathoms of water."

PARIS CONFIDENT

ly posted in the vicinity and the possession of the village so far has availed them but little.
The setback at Dixmude, in the opinion expressed here, is somewhat compensated for by the progress made by the Belgians along the Nieuport-Ostend road. If followed up this advance apparently would threaten the German flank East and south of Ypres, the Germans seem to have found fresh masses of troops to hurl into the fray, but the allies seem to be holding their own. The counter-attack here is undulating, well wooded and covered with a multitude of farms, which are surrounded by large elms. The villages are few but small, and most of the population is centered on these, which are distant from each other at the most, from two to three hundred yards. These innumerable and solidly built brick houses with their small, well-kept courtyards and sometimes with deep ditches make excellent bases for small detachments, and play an important part in the long battle. The struggle is taking place among the farms in the direction of the border towns of Comines, Werwick and Menin.

The combats around La Bassée and Arras, where the British are operating, have shown no decisive change. The ground here has been successfully maintained, the British repelling attack after attack.
Aviators report the movement of troops and heavy guns on a large scale in the interior of Belgium, some going towards German outposts towards Antwerp, and yet others towards Courtrai. The explanation of this movement appears to be that solid troops, capable of operating in the open are being sent to East Belgium, where the trenches in the trenches being taken by less trained men. The guns going to Antwerp, it is believed here, are due to a desire to have a strong flank position against the allies in case they advance on Brussels. The objects of the continuous German attacks in Belgium and in the Ardennes region, according to the French military critics, is to achieve a real victory which will oblige the allies to fall back in order to reorganize and repair its losses.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.
MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—Demand from over the cable for Manitoba wheat was lacking but local exporters were in the market and sales of 100,000 bushels of No. 3 were made at $1.16, and 50,000 No. 2 Northern $1.20 per bushel c.i.f. bay ports. There continues to be a good enquiry for ocean grain room, which is the highest rate paid this season to date.
There was some improvement in the demand for butter today, but the market on the whole is quiet. Demand for cheese is good both from local buyers and for export account and sales of some round lots were made. The stock of cheese on spot is light and held in few hands.
The trade in eggs is active, there being a good demand for cold storage stock for export account.

Notes on the War
By An Unmilitary Critic
No Dreadnoughts
The other day we asked our readers to suggest what should be done with the Canadian senators who voted against the Dreadnoughts. Some of the ideas received. Summarized they follow:—
"Pack them up in a packing case and send them to the Kaiser."—A.C.B.
"Put them in a boat just above Niagara Falls and give the boat a shove off."—Alfred R.
"St. Vincent de Paul for life. Work, breaking stones. Diet, bread and water."—Canadian.
"Dress them up in bathing suits and ship them to the North Pole."—Jack Frost.
"Send them over to the Belgian coast; then open the dykes."—Sherbrooke.
"Get a stop watch, then take them up to the roof of the most office building, and see how long it takes them to hit the sidewalk."—M.A.A.
"Put them out in a boat where there happens to be a liberal sprinkling of German mines."—Maple Leaf.
"Send them over to Berlin and make them sing 'Rule Britannia' in a Rathskeller."—A. D. D.
"Put them in a captive balloon, then cut the rope."—Black Hand.
"The German alliance apparently consists of culture and culture."

GUNBOAT WAS SUNK

following the course of the torpedo. The explosion followed and a large hole was made just below the bridge in the forward part of the ship.
Boats were immediately launched, including two lifeboats, and the crew, including Captain Muir and the officers, were rescued. Three of the survivors are injured, and it is reported that two are missing.
This is the first time a German submarine has penetrated the Downs where nearly a hundred ships were at anchor at the time of the disaster.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The little British torpedo gunboat Niger, which was built twenty-two years ago and has been used as a tender, is the latest victim of a German submarine. She was torpedoed yesterday morning in the Downs north of the Straits of Dover, and foundered immediately. The officers and crew were saved.

The Admiralty in announcing the loss of the ship, says:—
"The Niger, Lieut.-Commander Arthur T. Muir, was torpedoed this morning (November 11) in the Downs. All the officers and seventy-seven of the crew were saved. Four men were injured. It is thought there was no loss of life.

"The Niger has been employed in semi-combat duties. The Downs is the name of a roadstead in the English Channel off the southeast coast of Kent, between Ramsgate and Dover.

The Niger had 80 tons of displacement and a speed of 19 to 20 knots. Her armament consisted of two 4.7 inch quick firing guns mounted on a central torpedo tube. She was used only for purposes of patrol.

The Niger carried a complement of 85 men.
The London Standard says: "Seen at the hospital, Lieutenant Commander Muir, skipper of the Niger, stated that he saw the torpedo which sank his vessel, but he declined to make any further statement. The torpedo is stated to have struck the ship just aft of the foremast. One of the crew said that after the explosion he saw a long, grey body of the submarine some 100 to the surface some distance off the seaward side of the ship, but it disappeared in a few minutes. Close upon the torpedo ship were anchored off Deal at the time the warship was torpedoed. Niger had been on patrol duty in the vicinity of Deal since the beginning of the war."
A great deal of comment is being made at Deal on the fact that a small cruiser flying the Dutch flag to the Niger for the last two days, and only out there during the morning. In view of the disaster local mariners very much doubt whether this vessel is Dutch or was only flying the flag of that country. They think it quite probable that this vessel was covering the movements of the submarine. Neither Lloyd's agent nor anyone else locally had been torpedoed or mined. It was soon seen that the vessel was doomed. The Deal and Kings-town lifeboats, as well as the boats from the other parts of the beach, were launched in a noble effort to save the sailors. Consternation and almost panic prevailed amongst the hundreds who stood watching from the beach, and sickening sight from the beach. Fortunately the North Deal gally "Hope," commanded by John Budd, lay at anchor near the spot where the disaster occurred. A London steamer going down the Channel. When the boatmen realized that the Niger had been hit by a submarine or a mine they rowed hard.

"W" said the sailors," said Budd, "jumping from the vessel's side in dozens. As we neared the fast disappearing vessel we came upon swarms of men struggling in the sea, heroically helping to support each other. Some were fully dressed and others only partially so. They were clinging to pieces of wreckage, and some were in lifeboats. It was a heartrending spectacle. The men were so thick in the water that they grasped at our oars as we dipped them in the sea. We rescued as many as we could, but got so choked that we could not move any with our own gunwale only just out of the water. We were in danger of sinking ourselves. We called to the men that we could take no more in or we should sink ourselves, but they continued to pour over the sides and some hung on to the stern of our boat. We had about fifty on board. Never have there been so many in a boat before. One braver sailor whom we told to wait until the next boat came along, laughingly remarked whilst in the water, 'All right, cocky. I will hold on by my eyebrows.' He drifted to another gally.

If the cheering crowds in Berlin think, they have the British navy licked we will, as a special favor, give them one more guess.
It costs $6,000 to fire one of the big German scize guns. The Kaiser has the price to fire them, but is too poor to feed the starving Belgians.
If the greatly annoyed Kaiser pronounces Potsdam with the accent on the last syllable it would only be consistent for him to pronounce Heligoland with the accent on the first.
The Germans have equipped the Turks with guns, ammunition, submarines and officers. All that is needed is for Berlin to send a constant liar to write the Constantinople War Office reports and the job will be complete.
Bernstorff, speaks of Germany's "pledge." Germany's pledge, as Belgium can testify, is about as valuable as the hole in a doughnut.
Austria looks about as cheerful as a dark night in a cemetery.

BRANTFORD DRUGGIST PLEASES CUSTOMERS.

M. H. Robertson, Limited, reports customers greatly pleased with the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika. This simple remedy drains the old foul matter from the bowels so THOROUGH that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. It is so powerful that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-ika is surprising.

"Another Deal boat then came along and relieved us of some of our men. Suddenly we heard a shout and, looking round, saw the commander of the Niger waving and beckoning to us on the stern of the sinking ship. We could not go to him as our craft was so heavily laden. Another gally then came along, and after taking out some of our men, together with those that were hanging on to our sides, we went closer to the sinking gunboat. At the captain's special request, waited until he took a final look round to see if there were any more left on board the vessel. By this time nearly two-thirds of the Niger had turned over on her side, and was likely to go down at any moment. That brave captain, Country, we will conduct auction sales at reduced rates of commission. We will have a perfect system of liberal and generous treatment toward all our customers or the public generally. We extend a cordial invitation to everyone to call and see us and give us an opportunity of doing the best we can to supply their needs.

PARIS CONFIDENT

ly posted in the vicinity and the possession of the village so far has remained but little.

The setback at Dixmude, in the opinion expressed here, is somewhat compensated for by the progress made by the Belgians along the Neuport-Ostend road. If followed up this advance apparently would threaten the German flank. East and south of Ypres, the Germans seem to have found fresh reserves of troops to hurl into the fray, but the allies seem to be holding their own. The country here is undulating, well wooded and covered with deep ditches. The ground here is surrounded by large elms. The villages are few but small, and most of the population is centered on these, which are distant from each other at the most, from two to three hundred yards. These innumerable and solidly built brick houses with their walled country yards, and sometimes with deep ditches, make excellent bases for small detachments, and play an important part in the long battle. The struggle is taking place among the farms in the direction of the border towns of Comines, Werwick and Menin.

The combats around La Bassée and Arras, where the British are operating, have shown no decisive change. The ground here has been successful, maintained, the British repelling attack after attack. Aviators report the movement of troops in the direction of a large scale in the interior of Belgium, some going towards German, others towards Antwerp, and yet others towards Courtrai.

The explanation of this movement appears to be that solid troops, capable of operating in the open are being sent to Eastern Prussia, their places in the trenches being taken by less trained men. The guns go, to Antwerp, it is believed here, are due to a desire to have a strong flank position against the allies in case they advance on Brussels. The objects of the continuous German attacks in Belgium and in the Armentieres region, according to some of the French military critics, is to achieve a real victory which will oblige the allies left to fall back in order to reorganize and repair its losses. The Germans would then have a strong force as they could send the rest against the Russians.

Notes On the War

By An Unmilitary Critic

No Dreadnoughts
The other day we asked our readers to suggest what should be done with the Canadian senators who voted against the Dreadnoughts. Some valuable ideas were received. Summary of them follows:—
"Pack them up in a packing case and send them to the Kaiser."—A.C.B.
"Put them in a boat just above Niagara Falls and give the boat a shove off."—Alfred R.
"St. Vincent de Paul for life. Work, breaking stones. Diet, bread and water. Canadiana for life. Press them up in bathing suits and ship them to the North Pole."—Jack Frost.
"Send them over to the Belgian coast; then open the dykes."—Sherlock Holmes.
"Get a stop watch, then take them up to the roof of the most office building, and see how long it takes them to hit the sidewalk."—M.A.A.
"Put them out in a boat where there happens to be a liberal sprinkling of German mines."—Maple Leaf.
"Send them over to Berlin and make them sing 'Rede Britannia' in a Rastheller."—D. D.
"Put them in a captive balloon, then cut the rope."—Black Hand.
The German alliance apparently consists of culture and violence.

THE SITUATION.

The troops of the Kaiser are still making a desperate effort to force their way through to Calais. Let them keep on trying. They are recklessly spending much of value in men and material, while the Allies are remaining as firm as a rock, and giving blow for blow with a good deal added. If the Kaiser and his war lords do not recognize by this time that it is the beginning of the end, then they must still be as obtuse as when they started in to tick all creation—to ram their alleged culture down the throats of the rest of the world.

The fall of Tsing-tan has proved an awful blow to the culturists! The Kaiser in a message admits that the place had "cost many years of labor," and further declares: "The defensive war which today they sustain against a world of hatred envy and greed is a war which, God willing, will not be in vain."

This ruthless war lord started in with the declaration that he was in partnership with the Almighty, and then, forsooth, he added the Mohammedans as a third section of the firm—a people who consider it a defilement to come into close contact with the Christians.

The King's speech and the speech of Premier Asquith at the opening of the British House were both full of warranted hope—a hope which becomes stronger with each day.

The sinking of the Niger may be regarded as comparatively a minor incident, although it once more brings home the deadly powers of the submarine.

COMMODITY PRICES ARE EASIER.

The Labor Department's index number reviewing prices in October shows a tendency to a lower level. When the war broke out the number rose almost at once from 135.5 to 140.7. It has now eased back to 139.0, or nearly two points. Compared with a year ago, however, it is nearly five points higher. The October relapse is chiefly accounted for by declines under the headings grains and fodders, animals and meats, and fruits and vegetables.

The above refers to wholesale prices, of which 272 are included in the review. Retail prices in the several Canadian cities followed pretty generally in the wake of wholesale. From the householder's standpoint the further advance of nearly one cent per pound in sugar was the most unfavorable incident of the month. On the other hand, potatoes were unusually low in Eastern Canada, and meats went down in several places. Bread went up in four cities. Flour went up in three and down in three. Butter was unusually steady, though it usually advances at this time of the year; the rise in September perhaps accounts for this. Milk came down in two places, which is unusual at this time of year. Rents have been falling pretty generally for some months past.

TRIBUTE TO TROOPS FROM CANADA.

The following leading editorial is from the London Daily Mail:— "We have begun this war with a refreshing abstinence from the somewhat unbalanced demonstrations that marked the progress of the South African campaign. The general and the very just feeling is that this is too serious a business for flagwaving and merely spectacular parades. But, after all, there is such a thing as popular sentiment, and to cater to it and stimulate it, when this can be done without any sacrifice of military efficiency, is, or should be, one of the duties of the authorities. We therefore endorse, and trust the War Office will see their way to adopt, the suggestion put forward in our correspondence column yesterday that London may be permitted to welcome the Canadian troops before they leave for the front.

So far neither the nation nor the capital has had a chance of expressing the universal feeling of pride and gratitude with which every detail of the Canadian rally to the cause of the Motherland and of the Empire has been followed in these islands. The Canadian troops were disembarked at a famous but somewhat remote port; they are completing their training at points that are necessarily removed from the centres of population; it is doubtful whether one Englishman in five thousand has been privileged to set eyes on them. The whole nation would like them to know and feel how deeply it values the high spirit of loyalty and self-sacrifice to which their presence, their quality, their admirable equipment and their enthusiasm emphatically testify. The only adequate medium through which the popular wish can be gratified, is the capital of the country and the Empire. If the Canadian forces could be marched through London on their way to the battlefields in France, the welcome they would receive would be such as to send a thrill to the farthest ends of the British Dominions. We submit that numbers, armaments, and so on, are not the only factors in warfare, that sentiment counts too, that it is possible to wage a campaign with too much secrecy and too little attention to the human and laudable emotions of the average man, and that unless there are peremptory military reasons against it the capital of the Empire should be given an opportunity of wishing its gallant defenders from Canada God-speed."

THE MAN WHO WAS SHOT. The Winnipeg Free Press contains an interesting communication from Mr. William McBride, M.A., managing director of the Metropolitan Securities Limited, who travelled on a steamer with Carl Hans Lody, shot in the Tower of London as a German spy.

Mr. McBride writes as follows:—"Re Carl Hans Lody, alias Charles A. Ingles, whose trial in London, England, as a German spy, was concluded Monday, and who I presume by this time has been shot, I may state that in 1910 I was some seven months in his company during a trip around the world on a German boat, 'The Cleveland' of the Hamburg-American line. From San Francisco to Honolulu he sat at another table, but as he seemed to have taken kindly to my wife and myself, he got a transfer at Honolulu and sat beside us all the rest of the trip. He was a graduate of a German university, and an officer in the German army, and spoke fluently French, Spanish, Italian and English as well with hardly any accent. He had a magnificent state room, and his own dark room for developing photos. He was an expert photographer, and I spent many happy hours with him in his dark room watching him develop his pictures. When I saw his trend was fortifications in Japan, Hong Kong, India, and British Straits possessions, and Egypt, I asked him why he made a specialty of such, to which he replied that as an officer and an engineer, he did it purely for amusement as a German gentleman. I thought him a man of affluence and cultured refinement seeking innocent delectation in his photographic fads.

In talking one day of the death of a fellow passenger, he said, 'my death shall be short and sweet, as I know I shall be shot.' When I asked him why he had this premonition, he said, 'because I am such a dare devil.' He said: 'You know I was nearly shot at Tokio when I was caught getting those photos of the fortifications, and I escaped by the skin of my teeth at Bombay.'

He was continually asking me about military matters in Canada, about our canal systems, about whether the colonies were really loyal to the mother country, etc., but I never for one moment suspected his having any ulterior object other than a personal desire for general information. He was a splendid musician, had a beautiful, trilling voice, and was a general favorite on board. When I left him at Hamburg, he informed me that he would be visiting Canada in a few years, and I was looking forward to a pleasant reunion in Winnipeg.

I have no doubt now that he was then a paid spy of the German government, and that this system of espionage had its ramifications in almost every quarter of the globe."

MT. VERNON

[From Our Own Correspondent] Miss Mae Sturgis spent Sunday with Nettie Robinson. Miss Lizzie Palmer of Paris spent the week-end with Mrs Wm. Glass. We are glad to report that Mr. W. Fairchild is doing well after going under an operation at the hospital on Tuesday. Mrs Wm. Boughner and daughter Alice, have returned home after visiting relatives in Hamilton. Quite a congregation greeted Rev. Mr. Perce, who took charge of the service here last Sabbath afternoon and gave a very interesting talk from the book of Genesis, telling the story of Joseph and his brethren. It was enjoyed by those present. What might have proved to be a very serious accident on Tuesday last, when Lawrence Fowler was thrown from a wagon, cutting his head, which required several stitches and crushing a couple of his fingers. Rev Mr and Mrs. Ames of Burlington are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ames. Mrs Birkett of Brantford is visiting Miss Judson. The Mt. Vernon Methodist entertainers at Christmas will be held on Tuesday evening, December 22.

Success has attended their efforts to such an extent that a parade is to be held at a date. Recruits for this cause can be enlisted any evening at the Armory.

FERRARI IS DEAD. A New York despatch to the Toronto Globe states that Francis Ferrari, widely known as the "king of the carnival show man," a former proprietor, died last night at home here from a complication of diseases. During the twenty years he spent in this country, Ferrari, as he was known, was an animal show and animal acts in every state of the United States. He was born in Italy in 1862. Col. Ferrari visited Brantford with his shows in 1913.

A KEEN RUNNER-UP. Miss Margaret Matthews, most worthy runner-up in the Cup Tournament, she played game through and her sets were howie in the semi-final worth recording. She took the title from the new champion by 1-6-3-3 after losing the first set of 6-2. She then put a valiant game for the final, losing out by 9 to 11, after many games in which she was a year she ought to be one of the players of the ladies club for she has shown much promise.

EXHIBITION GAME. Another very interesting game will be played next evening, 14th, when Brantford Ball Club play their second game against Hamilton. As the Progressives have won the final of the Spectator Hamilton and Kitchener ship of the city, it will be very interesting to see how players fare against them. Unfortunately Brantford has lost their men who played against Hamilton some weeks back. Sid-ton's ankle still being bad, injury received in that game. Stubbs having left for the City and Bert Magill being sick, it is expected that Ernie Roberts will come into the team taking the place of Brian of the prove an excellent substitute Magill.

A final selection of the match will be made on Monday when the executive meets.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The Board of Works will meet tonight in the City Hall as usual. The discussion of civic works will take place.

ERECTING A COTTAGE.

Edward Sears has taken out a building permit for the erection of a cottage on Marlboro street at the cost of $1,000.

LOST HEH VALISE.

One of the delegates at the Women's Baptist Convention has been unfortunately enough to lose her travelling case. She has not seen it since her arrival and a search has failed to reveal the missing bag.

TO MERGE RAILWAYS.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the T. H. and B. and Erie and Ontario Railways yesterday, it was decided to amalgamate, and an application will be made to the Dominion Railway Commission.

RECRUITS WANTED.

The Second Dragoons represented locally by Major Brooks and two subalterns have been of late conducting an energetic campaign for active service men. Success has accompanied their efforts to such an extent that a parade is to be held at an early date. Recruits for this cavalry unit can be enlisted any evening at the Armory.

FERRARI IS DEAD.

A New York despatch to-day says: Francis Ferrari, widely known as a carnival show man, a former circus proprietor, died last night at his home here from a complication of diseases. During the twenty years he spent in this country, "Colonel" Ferrari, as he was known, exhibited animal shows and animal vaudeville acts in every state of the union and Canada. A KEEN RUNNER-UP.

Miss Margaret Matthews was a most worthy runner-up in the Ruddy Cup Tournament. She played a strong game through and her setts with Miss Howie in the semi-final were well worth recording. She took the second of 6-3 after losing the first by the score of 6-2. She then put up a marvellous game for the final set, only losing out by 9 to 11, after making the games nine all. On her form this year she ought to be one of the best players of the ladies club next year, for she has shown much promise.

EXHIBITION GAME.

Another very interesting football game will be played next Saturday, Oct. 14th, when Brantford City Football Club play their second exhibition game against Hamilton Progressives. As the Progressives have passed into the final of the Spectator Cup in Hamilton and likewise the championship of the city, it will prove exceedingly interesting to see how our local players fare against them. Unfortunately Brantford has lost three of their men who played against Hamilton some weeks back, Sid Harrington's ankle still being bad from the injury received in that game; Chas. Stubbs having left for the Old Country and Bert Magill being on the sick list. Ernie Roberts of Tutela will come into the team taking Harrington's place; Briar of Paris will prove an excellent substitute for Bert Magill.

A final selection of the line up for the match will be made on Thursday when the executive meets.

TURKS DEPART FOR DETENTION BY MILITARY

Brantford Got Rid To-day of Sons of Ottoman Empire.

The Turks up till to-day in the Armories were well looked after and professed a great deal of satisfaction with all the arrangements made for their comfort. Chairs had been provided and the scene with beds spread around was quite like an impromptu barracks room for troops, only much more comfortable. The men were fed on a scale which is more than satisfying; they had the best meal many had eaten in some time yesterday at dinner. Breakfast consisted of bread and butter with coffee; dinner was equal service rations; one-half pound of meat being allowed each man with plenty of potatoes and vegetables, and stewed onions. Supper was composed of bread and butter, jam and coffee which they are very partial to. Two members of the colony are excellent cooks and are in charge of the commissariat work. Sergt. Taylor, the regimental cook of the Dufferin Rifles was a hand all day supervising the work of catering and did his work to the satisfaction of all.

In the morning their venerable and elderly Mussulman, conducted the devotional exercises. He is a typical shiek, tall, slightly stooping and with a great grey beard, and his bearing has the dignity of the representatives of Allah wherever they go. He can speak little English and is somewhat shiek, tall, slightly stooping and with that deep inhalant and sober air which one who reflects much and silent as behoves a servant of Allah.

About 4.50 last night their boxes arrived and a smile of satisfaction passed round the groups of dunsy followers of Islam as they eyed their precious possessions, soon to be restored to them. A fatigue party from the Dufferin Rifles sorted them out in houses, and falling in under one of the old addresses in under the east the piles each man shouldering his box as he identified it.

They were quiet and well behaved, and did whatever was required of them with ready alacrity. Card playing, good natured and sure passed the time for them, while others collect round the large stove at the north end and chat of the circumstances now their or tell taves of the days in the "ole country."

A regret with quite a few who have been long resident is the fact that no letters are to be had from Constantinople, owing to the state of war, and news of families scattered will not be forthcoming until perhaps long after the war is over.

Last night about 9 o'clock the patrol wagon drove up to the armory and Detective Chapman with Chief Slemin proceeded into the building where with John Muradian as interpreter they endeavored to sort out each man's petty belongings found in his possession at the time of the arrest and address them to their owners. The job was a long and tedious one requiring careful handling, more especially as the monies found in houses was also returned.

Turk after Turk came forward and touching the pencil or signing the cross on the paper received the cash he has deplored the absence of ever since he has been under guard.

It was also discovered that many had still possessions to claim lying at their old addresses and a party accompanied by Sergt. Ross and a guard from Duff proceeded on a rig from the Armories to Market St., Dalhousie St. and other streets and the miss they were lately procured.

Mayor John H. Spence, evidently anxious to help wherever possible, was present and gave them promissory notes on wages due them at local Slemin and signed in his presence. The episode of their arrest and billeting was exciting and nearly at an end for it was known that they would depart to-day for Kingston.

Their Departure. Ten o'clock this morning they were ready to depart. Their guards assumed their bayonets and ammunition, and almost unnecessary precaution, taken the march to the station was taken. Many curious citizens gazed upon the sight of that peculiar group. Caged in with a guard of the 38th Rifles, they looked harmless enough and many were the expressions of sympathy towards the Ottoman natives. Within a short time they were entrained and under a special guard left the city of their misfortunes, to go where, they know not.

They may be taken and lodged indefinitely in Toronto, or they may be later taken and detained until the end of the war, in Kingston.

Offer of Brantford Armenians to Enlist is Received at Ottawa.

Although it is not possible for an Armenian company to join the second expeditionary force in order to fight at the front, hopes are given to the local Armenians that their desires in this direction may be more speedily acceded to than they expect. Armen Amerkhanian, the mission-ary, wrote to the Department of Military with regard to the matter of establishing an Armenian Regiment for active service in Brantford and surrounding centres, and he has received a reply to the effect that the two battalions have been mobilized for the second division, therefore the services of the Armenians will not yet be required. The deputy minister thanks the Armenians for their offer of assistance, and assures them that if the war lasts long enough, all who desire to serve their King and country will have the opportunity. He advises the local missionary to write on the subject to the commanding officer of the second division at Toronto, who will be in a position to furnish more information.

DECLINE IN TONNAGE.

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—Tonnage through Canada canals up to the end of October shows a decline of 10,000,000 tons up to the first of the month compared with the same period last year. Most of the decrease is in iron ore through the Soo canal. The business of the Welland and St. Lawrence canals increased.

"Annie Laurie," Very Pretty Play, With Good Company, Here To-night.

"Annie Laurie," an extremely pretty play, and one that appeals the world over not only to the Scots, but to all to-night. It is the story of a lass frae Bonnie Scotland, and the company in support is an excellent one. The presentation has received encomiums for dramatic critic and wherever the play has been shown from the London Free Press has shown. A capacity house should greet this stellar attraction to-night.

GERMANS ON LAND NETTED SALMON

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Under the heading "Germany's Defensive War," Le Temps quotes from The Geneva Journal the Swiss military critic, Colonel Feyler, who considers that the war has now definitely entered its third phase, which is that of a German defensive on both fronts. First, it was the "Attaque Brusque" against France; the second, the combined Austro-German movement against Russia.

He concludes: "Russian territory is entirely cleared of the Germans, and France is gradually expelling the invaders, though the latter struggles furiously. Has the reader ever seen a salmon netted? The fish exhausts itself in savage efforts to escape the inexorable closing of the meshes. I consider that the salmon typifies Germany to-day."

Thomas McMillan of Hullett Township was nominated Liberal candidate for the Commons for the new constituency of South Huron.

THE PRICE THAT WAR HORSES PAY IN FIRING LINE

Thousands Of Animals Have Been Slaughtered on Battlefields.

Battle after battle, sieges after sieges, one list of slaughtered, mangled men following close on the heels of another. Yet who has stopped to reckon the concomitant suffering that is being exacted from man's best friend in war—the horse? If men have died in France, in Germany, Austria and Russia, by tens and scores of thousands, then it is no less true that the horses of the cavalry, the horses that haul the field guns, the horses of the transport trains, have paid their fearful price. Indeed, American officers say that it is very questionable whether any of the contending armies has in its ranks to-day a horse that performed duty in the first week of the war.

This is particularly true of the cavalry mounts, of course, although it applies equally to horses in all arms of the services. Horses are like men in that in time of war they die from many other causes than gunshot wounds. Bad water, underfeeding, overwork, lack of rest and care, breed disease among the horseflesh faster even than among human beings; it is one of the most remarkable facts of military history that seasoned infantry in the long run can outmarch and out-tire the best mounted cavalry. Big though they are, the horses have not the stamina of men.

And consider, for instance, the strain to which the mounts of the Ulan divisions that formed the advance guards of the German columns that penetrated Belgium and France were subjected. This sort of work—for that matter, all cavalry work in war time—calls for merciless, persistent riding, at top speed. The best of horses are worn out in from two to four weeks, without intervals of rest for recuperation. The most sturdy of them are broken in spirit and physical endurance.

How Horses Were Commandeered

All of the nations involved in the war undertook the mounting and horsing of their reserve units from their local supplies of horseflesh. That is, in England horses were taken from the buses, from the delivery wagons, from liveries, hunt clubs, private owners. The first emergency call for horseflesh issued by the British War Office called for 74,000 horses for the artillery and transport service, and 56,000 for the cavalry. In Germany, France, Austria and Russia the numbers of horses commandeered were infinitely greater. It is probable, in fact, that practically every horse of any strength in Germany and France has been brought into the service of the armies by this time.

France, like England is not so badly off, because even if she does exhaust her domestic supply of mounts, she can procure additional horses from over-seas. The Argentine and our own markets are open to her. Russia, too, has almost inexhaustible reserves to draw upon and despite the enormous wastage inevitable upon such rough roads as those on the East Prussian frontier, she is not likely to have difficulties in finding animals for her cavalry and artillery for some time to come. But Germany's situation is possibly different. Germany is virtually shut off from the rest of the world. Her ally, Austria, needs for herself all the splendid stock of her own great Hungarian horse-breeder, Denmark and Switzerland, German's other adjoining neighbors, cannot help her to any great extent. The Kaiser's troops may soon be approaching a point where whole squadrons will be dismounted and batteries will be drawn by automobiles or traction engines.

This situation of affairs in Europe is going to mean a high-priced market for American horse and mule breeders. As matters stood, before the war came, horse prices were higher than ever before. It is now predicted that they will climb still higher and if the war lasts long enough it is probable that business houses will find it much cheaper to use automobiles than horses. It will be a serious matter for the United States army, too. Their cavalry have robbled enough as it is getting mounts of the right conformation and breeding; and the practical elimination of racing served to curtail the production of high-class chargers.

If the cream of the stock still left there is sold to Europe, it will have a consequent depressing effect on local supply. Commissions of British and French cavalry officers are now in Kansas City, St. Louis, and Chicago, buying stock by the carload, and some thousands of head have already been shipped across the Atlantic.

Horse Shortage in England

In England the shortage of horses has become pronounced. England and Ireland, too, it must be remembered, are horse-loving countries, boasting strains of international fame. Already, it is said, that there is a serious danger that these strains will be all blotted out. For the pick of every breed, except of course, the stallions—have been taken over by the army. There is many a girl in England to-day who looks at her saddle, gathering dust on its peg in the harness room, and wonders what has been the fate of her pony taken over by the yeomanry. The best that horse lovers in Britain have been able to do is to organize a Purple Cross society which aims to carry on among horseflesh on the battlefield the same work of humanity that is the work of the Red Cross among humans. But after all, the only relief that can be brought to the wounded horse, in most cases, is a death-shot to put him out of misery.

Consider, too, the plight on the hunting fields. This is the time of year when the "hark away" has always resounded over the hills and valleys. But no longer does the traveller in the hunting shires stay his progress to watch breathlessly the panoramic procession of "pinkcoats" flying over fence and wall, the white bits ears ring and his blood tingles to the yelping huc and cry of the pack.

"Gone away" are the hunting men of England; "gone away" are the horses. The huntsman sits alone before the empty stalls, his face turned in the direction of France. The hounds are at his heels, some looking out anxiously, wonderingly, others with drooping heads, while deserted is the hunting field. "Gone away" to the war, many never to return. The pink coat is changed for the khaki, and the hunter listens not to the hounds in full cry, but the shrieking of shrapnel, and the whistle of the bullet. His speed is called into action—not across the smiling meads and hills of France, with the ravages of war all around him. He obeys his rider's last pressure on the bridle as of old, but in a vastly different cause, into the spitting, spiteful guns he plunges. His heart is strong, his strength is great, and his pace never falters. He is clearing vastly different obstacles from those he was wont to rise to, back there in England. Now it is a horse and rider who have gone to their last accounts, to be cleared in a cession has German flank must be turned, and, as stout of heart as his rider, he thunders on, a real sportsman taking to try anything his master calls for, no matter what lies on the other side. And his rider, too, knows what is under him and believes in the mount which has been tried out many and many a time in the hunting field.

If at some future time humanity erects a monument to the brave men of all nations who have given their lives for causes such as his, it will be for causes such as his, and not for other monuments beside it, as large and as imposing, to the memory of the animals that charged fearlessly through the shrapnel fire and pelted in the traces until they dropped by the roadside.

LONDON IS ABNORMAL THE FAMILIAR FACE OF 'BIG BEN' IS MISSING

(From the Westminster Gazette)

London is becoming gradually aware of the fact that overhead there is a sky, at night as well as by day. No longer are the bright streets arching merely by darkness; we have grown conscious of the imminently overshadowing, and are developing a nervous habit of looking up into it.

To attribute this habit to the fear of Zeppelins would be the grossest exaggeration. The chief thing is that we have discovered the sky. If the sky contain a menace, that is only adjunctive to the primary discovery.

Several agencies combine to make us alert to the potentiality of this vast roof of London—the drawn blinds, the masked lamps, the searchlights—London at night has acquired an unwonted ed gravity, quiet and darkness. It is impossible to move about town after dusk without feeling that terrible things are happening somewhere; that a miracle—one of those miracles of our own period—may at any moment bring us too into the zone of terror; a sudden and violent shattering of London's ancient immunity. It is our horror that are being enacted upon the other side of that strip of water which washes our southeast coast. We are brought almost to affinity with Paris.

London is Weird

Undoubtedly London is abnormal, weird after sundown. And yet a visitor from an English village, from a substantial county town even, would find it difficult to understand how it is that when the lights have been lit that London dark. A Londoner of the eighties might be equal—puzzled. For we are brought almost to affinity with Paris.

He stands in the gutter himself depressed and gloomy; and invites you to laugh. His clothes are rags, his face bristles; his expression reflects the hopelessness of longstanding. The world on the whole had treated him shabbily; at the least it has not gone out of its way to help him; of the ladder of life the bottom rung has exerted over him a hypnotic, an inexorable influence. One would not suppose that this pedlar deals in laughter, but he does; he offers you "one thousand roars" for a penny. "You must laugh. You can't help laughing," he says, deep laid misery in his voice.

Those who do not dispense laughter are the vendors of patriotism. They stand with great bunches of little flags; the flags of the allied na-ed from the shock that awakened us to the fact that an entire British army had crossed to France without our being properly, collectively made aware of it; and, of course, we are taking this war very, very seriously; also, the explanation, as some would have it, might be simply that we are a ingenuous people—forgetting the fervor when they tramped through town en route for Table Bay.

Whatever the reason the fact remains that Mr Atkins has to wait until he gets to France for the cheers and the flowers and the kisses which he deserves. As for his march across London to the railway station, sometimes it is well night funeral. A battalion of the — was marching into Waterloo station and a crowd of anxious and serious minded English folk was watching it; proud of these stalwart khaki men, but—silent; uplifted, no doubt, and moved, but—moved to silence. The last ranks were marching in and scarcely a cheer had been heard.

Then came a private astride one horse and leading another. He had some slight difficulty with the other horse. The difficulty conquered he looked about him, a trifle exasperated. His eyes rested upon a policeman stolid, London policeman, keeping the route. He addressed the policeman with mock pleading—

"Oh, policeman," he said, "do smile!"

His Last Will

ditions, and their invitation to the purchaser is more imperative. "Wear your colors," they say; and it must be conceded that many thousands of people have rendered obedience.

CANADIAN LEAGUE MAY PLAY IF ADVISABLE

National Association Leaves 1915 Arrangements to Discretion of Officials.

OMAHA, Nov. 12.—A horizontal reduction of 20 per cent, in the salary limit of minor league clubs was the recommendation of the Committee on Constitutional Revision of the National Association. It was adopted, so far as it concerned Class A and Class B leagues. Leagues in Class AA were permitted to revise their salary lists as fitted their convenience.

President Herrmann reviewed last season's financial results of the baseball business and declared that immediate and drastic action was necessary for the preservation of organized ball. "There must be a drastic economy in the operation of the business department of the national sport," said Mr. Herrmann. "The time is past when 'angels' can be called upon to support the business."

It appeared probable that the making up of at least four leagues of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs would be changed next season. The Northern League has two changes in view—Winona and Winnipeg.

The Canadian League, which includes Erie, Pa., will probably not take advantage of an option they have of remaining out of the game next year. The league was given permission to retain its standing, even though it finds it necessary to disband in 1915.

The forward effects of humors are worse than the outward. They endanger the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla eradicates all humors, cures all their inward and outward effects. It is the great purgative and tonic, whose merit has been everywhere established.

Local News

THE PROBS TORONTO, Nov. 12.-Moderately cold weather is general over the Dominion, attended by some light snow falls or flurries in many localities.

Moderate to fresh northwest to east winds, fair and moderately cold. Light local falls of snow or sleet, chiefly on Friday.

EARLY PRAYER. There was a very representative gathering of business men at the services held early this morning in the Y. M. C. A. as part of the programme, of the week of prayer.

TRIAL TO-MORROW. William Draper comes up for trial before Judge Hardy and a jury of twelve men to-morrow in the County Court House, when he will answer a charge of criminal assault.

NO ACTION TAKEN. The government has apparently taken no action with regard to the Saturday Evening Post. It was on sale as usual, this week. It had been stated that owing to the pro-German articles written by Irving S. Cobb, its sale here should be prohibited and that it should be confiscated in the mail.

THEY ARE WANTED. A list of all Germans, Turks and Austro-Hungarians at present in city or county jails is requested by R. W. Bruce Smith, government inspector in order that the Dominion might take action immediately upon their release from the prison upon the expiration of the terms of imprisonment. Officials are asked to communicate with A. P. Sherwood of Toronto upon the subject.

PROSPECTORS GONE. An impudent thief took place yesterday when Henry Winham, last two pairs of prospectors. These are high boots used by engineers. He had just purchased them in a Market street shoe store and brought them out and laid them down for a few minutes. He afterwards discovered them to be missing and a search did not reveal them. He informed the police who are investigating the circumstances.

FALLEN ASLEEP. It is with regret that the Courier records the death of Mr. John D. Grant, son of Captain William Grant, formerly a leading merchant of Brantford. The deceased also resided here for many years and was generally popular. The demise occurred in Dallas, Texas. For a long time he had been in the dry goods business in Dallas, and leaves a widow and one daughter. Deceased was a Mason, member of Doric Lodge. Interment took place in St. Joseph, Mo.

OFFICIAL BUREAU

(Continued from Page 1) tive: On Nov. 7, the full violence of the enemy attack again fell on our left, their main efforts being still directed slightly south of Ypres. Such was the force of the onslaught and the weight of the artillery supporting it that our line was temporarily driven back. It was soon readjusted, however, and by evening the situation in this quarter was the same as it had been twenty-four hours earlier.

"That night some shells were thrown into Ypres itself. Farther to the south the Germans had, during the previous night, retaken the village of Messines, and had also captured Wytschaete. By 11 a.m. our cavalry, working in co-operation with the French, drove them out of the latter place by a brilliant bayonet charge, but we did not occupy it. A few of the prisoners taken at this place were only 7 years of age and had practically no training and little food. Some of them had never fired a rifle before.

"The fact that Messines still remained in hostile hands necessitated a slight adjustment of our front in the centre. But apart from this there was no change in this quarter, the bombardment continuing all day.

"During the action around these two villages the Germans moving across our front suffered very greatly from the massed fire of our heavy artillery at very short range, but though they fell literally in heaps they still came on with admirable determination.

"South of the Lys some of the trenches which had been lost on the previous night were captured by us; otherwise the situation remained as it had been. No attacks were delivered against us, and the enemy contented themselves with a bombardment of our trenches.

A list of all Germans, Turks and Austro-Hungarians at present in city or county jails is requested by R. W. Bruce Smith, government inspector in order that the Dominion might take action immediately upon their release from the prison upon the expiration of the terms of imprisonment. Officials are asked to communicate with A. P. Sherwood of Toronto upon the subject.

PROSPECTORS GONE. An impudent thief took place yesterday when Henry Winham, last two pairs of prospectors. These are high boots used by engineers. He had just purchased them in a Market street shoe store and brought them out and laid them down for a few minutes. He afterwards discovered them to be missing and a search did not reveal them. He informed the police who are investigating the circumstances.

FALLEN ASLEEP. It is with regret that the Courier records the death of Mr. John D. Grant, son of Captain William Grant, formerly a leading merchant of Brantford. The deceased also resided here for many years and was generally popular. The demise occurred in Dallas, Texas. For a long time he had been in the dry goods business in Dallas, and leaves a widow and one daughter. Deceased was a Mason, member of Doric Lodge. Interment took place in St. Joseph, Mo.

OFFICIAL FRENCH NOTICE

(By Special Wire to The Courier) PARIS, Nov. 12.-2.45 p.m.-The French official statement given out in Paris this afternoon says that the fighting on the left wing continues with violence and advances and retirements without importance. Speaking broadly the battle front has not varied greatly since the 10th of November. In the evening of yesterday it was extended along the line between Lomzaertzyde to Nieuport; the Nieuport canal to Ypres; the approaches of Ypres; in the region of Zennebecke and to the east of Armentieres.

"There has been no change in the positions held by the British army, which repulsed the attacks of the enemy and particularly an offensive movement undertaken by detachment of the Prussian guard.

"From the canal of La Bassée as far as, and up to the River Oise there have been minor engagements. In the region of the River Oise, in the neighborhood of Vailly we retained our positions against a counter attack and we strengthened our positions in the territory previously conquered by us.

"In the region of Craonne and on the Heurtebise farm, our artillery succeeded in reducing to silence the cannon of the enemy. Several of their pieces were even destroyed. We also made some progress in the vicinity of Berry-au-Bac.

"In the region of Argonne and in the Woëvre district, in Lorraine and in the Vosges, the respective positions show no change.

Prof. J. C. Hume, in a lecture, severely criticized Prof. Munsterberg, who had been the pro-German sentiments.
