The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

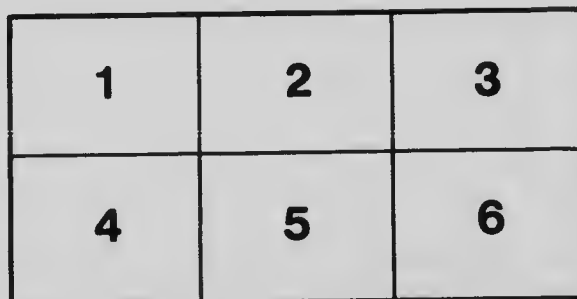

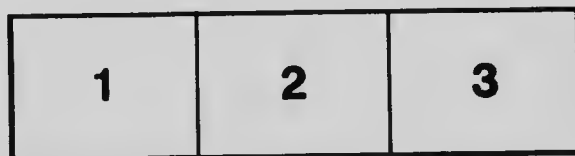

National Library of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol  $\rightarrow$  (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol  $\nabla$  (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

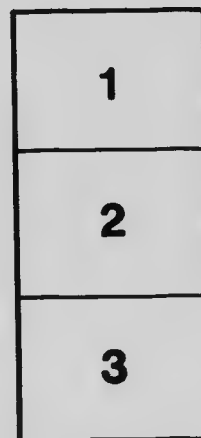

Bibliothèque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

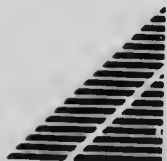

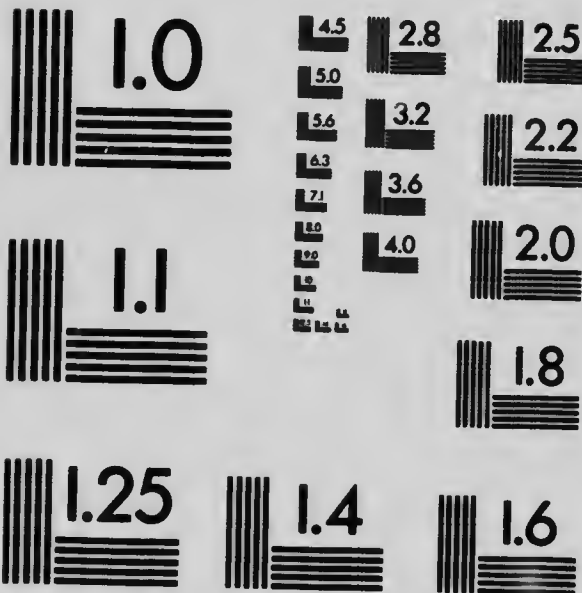

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole  $\rightarrow$  signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole  $\nabla$  signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

A type of the true Imperialist and an example worthy of imitation by the young Briton in the Dominions beyond the seas.

PREFACE

THE object of this collection of Imperial events and poems is to render the reader more familiar with the glorious history and traditions of the British race, to be a convenient means of reference, and to make all, especially young people, realize anew in some degree the sequence of events which bound together many scattered nations as one Empire, afloat on that element the mastery of which no other people for a century has dared to dispute.

No one will be more apt to see imperfections and shortcomings in the book than the compiler; there were many items which might have been included to add to its interest and usefulness, but time in preparation and limitation in space forbade.

The main idea has been, after noting the outstanding great events which are household words, to select incidents of Imperial significance, and quote the best poem, if any, on the subject. Occasionally minor local affairs have been noticed, as such dates are often matter of discussion.

The events are fairly representative of the whole Empire, but there are, no doubt, important occurrences in the history of the Colonial nations which have been omitted; the aim, however, has been to preserve a certain perspective and relative proportion throughout.

In compiling, not a few conflicting statements of dates, even in modern history, were discovered, and in such cases several sources of information were consulted before a decision was made.

It has been impossible to obtain the names of the authors of some poems culled from newspapers, or printed anonymously. This is a matter of regret. Any information that may be furnished giving the authorship of any of these anonymous extracts will be greatly received.

There are many notable tributes to the essential greatness of British rule and the high quality of British character from foreigners, but it was thought best to quote from Imperial poets only. Most selections are appropriate to the days for which they were chosen; in a few instances there is no direct connection, merely a stanza worth remembering, illustrating some typical phase of British life; and the thoughts of dead and living writers about the Empire and its problems have been varied by quotations containing words of warning, or reminders of the ideals which the British race has always upheld.

I would call the attention of the thoughtful reader to the following points:

1. The national religious feeling shown in the majority of the poems—the belief in a special mission, characteristic of no other people but the ancient Hebrews.
2. The national watchword—"Duty"—which runs like a golden thread through the lives and utterances of not one alone, but many of our heroes and poets.
3. The "sea-spirit" of the race, which in its original island home made the ocean its defence, then won it for an immutable kingdom, and is now striving dimly to comprehend that the world-wide Empire, founded upon the sea, can only continue to exist if the control of that vast highway is vested in one supreme all-

British Navy, the guardian of our free heritage, the arbiter of justice, the guarantor of peace.

Finally, if the issue of this little volume shall in any degree contribute to the growth of the true Imperial spirit, and the desire to promote Imperial unity, the author will be amply repaid for the time expended in arranging the material.

The millions who acknowledge the sovereignty of the British Crown, and whose hearts thrill at the unfurling of the Union Jack, can say individually, without boasting, but with a pride which no other nation of the past or present has so justly attained, "Civis Britannicus sum."

"Breathes there the man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand?

The wretch, concentrated all in self,
Living, shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the vile dust, from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored, and unsung."

—Sir W. Scott.

"Never was isle so little,
Never was sea so lone,
But over the scud and the palm-tree
The English flag has flown."

—Kipling.

"One Empire, Senate, Flag and Throne,
One Fleet, and Britons hold their own!"

EGYPT: GORDON

"What is the blue on our flag, boys?
The waves of the boundless sea,
Where our vessels ride in their tameless pride,
And the feet of the winds are free;
From the sun and smiles of the coral isles
To the ice of the South and North,
With dauntless tread through tempests dread
The guardian ships go forth.

"What is the white on our flag, boys?
The honor of our land,
Which burns in our sight like a beacon light,
And stands while the hills shall stand;
Yea, dearer than fame is our land's great name,
And we fight, wherever we be,
For the mothers and wives that pray for the lives
Of the brave hearts over the sea.

"What is the red on our flag, boys?
The blood of our heroes slain
On the burning sands in the wild, waste lands
And the froth of the purple main.
And it cries to God from the crimsoned sod
And the crest of the waves outrolled,
That He send us men to fight again
As our fathers fought of old.

"We'll stand by the dear old flag, boys,
Whatever be said or done,
Though the shots come fast as we face the blast
And the foe be ten to one;
Though our only reward be the thrust of a sword,
Or a bullet in heart or brain,
What matters one gone, if the flag float on,
And Britain be lord of the main.

—Frederick George Scott, Canada.

MY OWN NEW ZEALAND HOME

"I love my home, my happy home,
In fair New Zealand's Isles,

While on this British Southern soil
I dwell content and free."

"'God save the Queen!' the heartfelt aspiration

Of many years shall now be heard no more;
But in its stead from all the stricken nation,
New strains shall beat on the eternal shore.
The Queen is safe: for all that she hath been,
For all that she hath done, God bless the Queen.

Nay! not farewell! altho' our prayer no longer
Be for her guarding and length of days,
Our grateful love shall echo all the stronger.
The new and nobler hymn our hearts shall raise."

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA, 1901

ADVANCE, AUSTRALIA

"Rise, Australians, mark your day,
Seize the Standard, bear the sway;
Drive the clouds of sloth away,
And advance—still advance!

"Know your fathers left their home,
Far beyond the ocean's foam,
Know they trod your native strand,
Led the way and left command
To advance! still advance!

"Sense of duty must prevail,
When did British courage fail?
Wave the Cross o'er hill and dale
And advance—still advance!

"By each honest heart's appeal,
By the patriot's burning zeal,
By that never-dying love,
By our store of hope above
We advance—still advance!
—J. Eccleston Walker.

TASMANIAN HYMN.

"All hail the land we love so well, bright jewel of the sea;
Fair home of Britain's stalwart sons, the brave and bold and free.
Tasmania, land of joy and peace, whose sons are true and brave,
No scornful foe shall lay thee low while Britain rules the wave."

—F. A. Packer Hobart.

ENGLAND: SHAKESPEARE

"All our past acclaims our future;
Shakespeare's voice and Nelson's hand,
Milton's faith and Wordsworth's trust,
In this our chosen and chainless land,
Bear us witness: Come the world against her,
England yet shall stand.

"Earth and sea bear England witness,
If he lied who said it; he
Whom the winds that ward her,
Waves that clasp, and herb, and flower, and tree.
Fed with English dews and sunbeams,
Hail as more than man may be.

"No man ever spoke as he,
That bade our England be but true,
Keep but faith with England fast and firm,
And none should bid her rue;
None may speak as he; but all
May know the sign that Shakespeare knew."
—Swinburne.

"English we! shall we hand it on,
The heritage fair that we entered on;
Broad and firm and just as of yore,
Breathing the spirit that formed its core,
For our sons to fulfil their destiny?
That the rolling deep where our fathers sleep,
All the earth their feet have trod,
In the breadth of our children's rule shall be
But as corner-stones to their memory,
Raised by the hand of God."

OUR LATE BELOVED QUEEN VICTORIA

THE VOICE OF THE WHOLE EMPIRE IN THE LAST YEAR OF HER LIFE.

"Mother and Queen, from the golden West
We offer in love at the foot of thy throne
And all we can give thee, our dearest and best,
Flesh of our flesh and bone of our bone.
Take them, Queen of the brave and free;
They come in their love to die for thee.

"Mother and Queen, our homes were bright
And pure as the air of the sunlit north;
But tears have darkened the women's sight
Since the day that the brothers and sons went forth.
Take them, Queen of the brave and free;
They come in their love to die for thee.

"Mother and Queen of the spotless throne,
Lady and Lord of the sea and land,
Thou makest our far-born sons thine own
By the tender clasp of a woman's hand.
Take them, Queen of the brave and free;
They come in their love to die for thee.

"Mother and Queen, from the strong, glad West,
From the rivers and plains where our children roam,
We give thee our dearest, our bravest, our best;
Take them, Queen of our heart and home.
Asking no bounty, favor, or fee.
They come in their love to die for thee."

WATERLOO: WELLINGTON

"There was a sound of revelry by night,
And Belgium's capital had gathered then
Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright
The lamps shone o'er fair women and brave men.

But hark! a heavy sound breaks in once more,
As if the clouds its echo would repeat;
And nearer, clearer, deadlier than before!
Arm! arm! it is—it is—the cannon's opening roar!

"Ah! then and there was hurrying to and fro,
And gathering tears, and tremblings of distress,
And cheeks all pale, which but an hour ago
Blushed at the praise of their own loveliness.

And there was mounting in hot haste; the steed,
The mustering squadron and the clattering car
Went pouring forward with impetuous speed,
And swiftly forming in the ranks of war;

"And Ardennes waves above them her green leaves,
Dewy with nature's tear-drops, as they pass,
Grieving, if aught inanimate e'er grieves,
Over the unreturning brave—alas!
Ere evening to be trodden like the grass
Which now beneath them, but above shall grow
In its next verdure, when this living mass
Of fiery valor rolling on the foe,
And burning with high hope, shall smoulder, cold and low."

DOMINION OF CANADA, 1867

THE MAPLE LEAF FOREVER.

"In days of yore from Britain's shore
Wolfe, the dauntless hero, came,
And planted firm Britannia's flag
On Canada's fair domain.
There may it wave, our boast, our pride,
And, joined in love together,
The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwine
The Maple Leaf forever!

"The Maple Leaf, our emblem dear,
The Maple Leaf forever.
God save our King and Heaven bless
The Maple Leaf forever!"

—Alex. Muir, Toronto.

O CANADA!

Translation.

"O Canada! our fathers' land of old,
Thy brow is crowned with leaves of red and gold.
Beneath the shade of holy Cross
Thy children own their birth,
No stains thy glorious annals gloss,
And valor shields thy hearth.
Our mighty patriot shout ever shall ring,
As in the days of old, 'For Christ and the King.'"

PLASSEY—CLIVE—DELHI

"Lord, by whose might the Heavens stand,
The Source from whom they came,
Who holdest nations in Thy hand,
And call'st the stars by name,
Thine ageless forces do not cease
To mould us as of yore—
The chiselling of the arts of peace,
The anvil-strokes of war.

"Lord, turn the hearts of cowards who prate,
Afraid to dare or spend,
The doctrine of a narrower state
More easy to defend;
Not this the watchword of our sires
Who breathed with ocean's breath,
Not this our spirit's ancient fires
Which naught could quench but death.

"Great God, uphold us in our task,
Keep pure and clean our rule,
Silence the honeyed words which mask
The wisdom of the fool.
The pillars of the world are thine;
Pour down Thy bounteous grace,
And make illustrious and divine
The sceptre of our race."

QUEBEC: WOLFE

"Afar Quebec exalts her crest on high,
Her rocks and battlements invade the sky;
The pride of Canada, her strength and head,
England's assurance and Columbia's dread.

"O glorious sight! as golden sunset showers
Athwart the long-drawn walls and gray towers,
Corrusant rays play round the cross-topped spires,
And gild each salient point with shimmering fires.

"Huge cliffs above, precipitous that frown,
Like Atlas bend beneath another town,
Where all along the gray, embrasured steep
In grim repose the watchful cannon peep.

"O glorious spot! The Briton's boast and pride,
Where armies battled and where heroes died,
Where gallant Wolfe led his devoted band,
Rejoiced in death, and waved his dying hand;

"Though few his years and young his lofty frame,
With greenest garlands England crowns his name,
And on her roll of glory proudly reads
The eternal record of his mighty deeds."

TRAFALGAR: NELSON

"Treasure ye all the flag that streams
O'er the sundering deep where the foeman schemes.
Guard it, England, from all the world,
Never must Nelson's flag be furled:
Thy life, thy fortune, thy fame, thy star,
Hang on the battle of Trafalgar.

"Sailor of England! year by year
Whisper this day in England's ear;
Whisper thy name, O sacred dust,
Lest England swerve from her mighty trust,
Lest the whirlwind come and the jealous states
Sweep with the flood thro' our shattered gates."
—Harold Begbie.

THE DEATH OF NELSON.

"O'er Nelson's tomb, with silent grief oppressed,
Britannia mourns her hero now at rest;
But those bright laurels ne'er shall fade with years,
Whose leaves are watered by a nation's tears."

"'Twas in Trafalgar Bay,
We saw the foemen lay;
Each heart was bounding then;
We scorned the foreign yoke,
For our ships were British oak,
And hearts of oak our men.
Our Nelson marked them on the wave,
Three cheers our gallant seamen gave.
For England, home and beauty;
Along the line the signal ran,
'England expects that every man,
This day will do his duty.'"

The deed of an alien legion hear me tell,
And think not shame of the hearts ye tamed, to learn,
When succor shall fail and the tide for a season turn,
To fight with a joyous courage, a passionate pride,
To die at the last as the 'Guides' at Kabul died." —Newbolt.

1521. Title, "Defender of the Faith," first used.

"Dim, shapeless shadows pass like ghosts,
Along the trembling earth they feel
The distant tramp of marching hosts,
And hear the smothered clash of steel;
Till, marching out for friendly hands
To guide them thro' the gloom, they press
To where one silent figure stands
Serene in lofty loneliness."

—St. James Gazette.

1780. Great hurricane, Barbadoes.

1857. Agra relieved (three months' siege).

"And 'spite of famine, blood and pain,
A spot of scarlet 'gainst the blue,
Serene above the iron rain
The flag of Britain flew.
And close and closer yet they drew,
Foe facing foe, eye watching eye,
And ever o'er the combat flew
The British flag on high."

—Bertrand Shadwell.

"For the temple bells are callin' and it's there that I would be—

By the old Moolmein Pagoda lookin' lazy at the sea,

"On the road to Mandalay,
Where the flyin' fishes play—

Can't you 'ear the paddles chunkin' from Rangoon to Mandalay?

"On the road to Mandalay,
Where the old flotilla lay,

And the dawn comes up like thunder, outer
China 'crost the bay." —Kipling.

SOUTH AFRICA: LORD ROBERTS

IN MEMORY OF THE IMPERIAL SPIRIT OF DECEMBER, 1899.

"Southward are faces set:
The stirring music of the marching feet,
That shook the nations with its rhythmic beat,
Rings on the pavement yet.

"Across the earth and sea
A long line stretches—men and men and men;
We may not look upon the like again,
Nor braver sight could be.

"This page of history,
Written in warriors' blood and women's tears,
Ending the mighty volume of the years
That make our century,

"Will be a tale sublime
When the great Empire heart grows calm again;
Britannia's eyes, through all the stress and pain,
Look to that after time."

—Effie Foster, Canada.

1844. Birthday of Her Gracious Majesty Queen Alexandra.

"Sea-King's daughter from over the sea,
Saxon or Dane or Norman we,
Teuton, or Celt, or whatever we be,
We are all of us Danes in our welcome to thee, Alexandra!"

—Tennyson.

1875. Prince of Wales (King Edward) landed at Ceylon.

---

1697. St. Paul's Cathedral opened.

"We are a people yet;
Though all men else their nobler dreams
forget;
Thank Him who isled us here, and roughly set
His Briton in blown seas and storming showers;
We have a voice with which to pay the debt
Of boundless love and reverence and regret
To those great men who fought and kept it ours."

—Tennyson.

1829. Abolition of Suttees, India.

1839. Sir Redvers Buller born.

"And if for England's sake we fall,
So be it, so her cross be won,
Fixed by kind hands on silvered pall,
And worn in death for duty done."
—Cory.

—8—

1282. Llewellyn, last of Welsh Princes, defeated and massacred.

"On thy dear countenance, fair motherland,
Age after age thy sons have set their sign,
Moulding thy features with successive hand,
Not always sedulous of beauty's line—
And yet man's art in one harmonious aim
With nature's gentle moulding here have worked
A perfect whole to frame."
—Palgrave.

1608. Milton born.

"In our halls is hung
Armor of the invincible knights of old ;
We must be free or die, who speak the tongue
That Shakespeare spoke ; the faith and morals hold
That Milton held."

—Wordsworth.

1768. Royal Academy founded.

"Count not the cost of honor to the dead—
The tribute that a mighty nation pays
To those who loved her well in former days
Means more than gratitude for glories fled.
The monuments of manhood, brave and high,
Do more than forts and battleships to keep
Our dear bought liberty. They fortify
The heart of youth with valor wise and deep ;
They build eternal bulwarks, and command
Eternal strength to guard our native land."

—M. Monaghan, Canada.

1899. Disaster to Highland Brigade at Magersfontein.

"Was there a man dismayed?
Not tho' the soldiers knew
Someone had blundered.
Theirs not to make reply,
Theirs not to reason why,
Theirs but to do and die."

—Tennyson.

"O King of kings, Thy blessing shed
On our anointed Sovereign's head;
And, looking from Thy holy heaven,
Protect the crown Thyself hast given.
Him may we honor and obey,
Uphold his right and lawful sway;
Remembering that the powers that be
Are ministers ordained of Thee."

—Coronation Hymn.

---

Coronation or "Holy Stone" removed from Ireland to Scotland in 513, taken from Scone to England, 1296, and placed in Coronation Chair made to receive it.

"O God of Jacob, by whose hand
Thy people still are fed;
Who thro' this weary pilgrimage
Hast all our fathers led:

"Our vows, our prayers, we now present
Before Thy throne of grace;
God of our fathers, be the God
Of their succeeding race."

—Doddridge.

HOME, SWEET HOME.

It is to be noted that the English language alone contains a special word for "home" (French, "Chez-vous"; German, "zu-hause," etc.), and that in many of the "Dominions of the Seven Seas," together with the love of the native-born for their own land, there is a second patriotic affection, equally strong, which makes thousands of those who have never stood on the sod of Great Britain speak of it as "home."

"'Mid pleasures and palaces tho' we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;
A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there,
Which, seek thro' the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere.

Home! home! sweet, sweet home!

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

CHIEF FLAGS OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE

Symbols to distinguish nations were first used in the Crusades. Richard Cœur de Lion caused the red cross of St. George to be worn by the English soldiers as a badge over their armor, and in the reign of Edward III., St. George (of Cappadocia) became the Patron Saint of England.

"Jack" meant a surcoat worn by sailors in 1315, and on occasion raised on a staff to show to what nation a vessel belonged.

ST. GEORGE'S FLAG—a vertical red cross on a white field—was the Flag of England till 1707, and under it many notable naval victories were won. With the "Union" in the upper canton next the staff, it forms to-day the Ensign of the Royal Navy.

ST. ANDREW'S FLAG—a white diagonal cross on a blue field—was the separate Flag of Scotland till 1707, in which year the Parliaments of England and Scotland were united. The first "Union Jack" was composed of the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew only, and was used till 1801.

ST. PATRICK'S FLAG—a red diagonal cross on white field—was added to the National Flag of Great Britain in 1801, when the three Parliaments were united under George III., from which year the present "Great Union" flag dates.

(The white saltire of St. Andrew is above the Irish in the dexter half of the flag next the staff, in a properly made Union Jack, signifying that Scotland came first into the union, and in the other half the Irish saltire is above the Scotch, representing their equality.)

ROYAL STANDARD—the personal banner of the Sovereign—bears the arms of England, three golden lions on a red ground, repeated in the opposite canton; those of Scotland, a red lion on a golden field; and the golden harp of Ireland on a blue ground.

RED ENSIGN—a plain red flag, with the "Union" in the upper corner next the staff—is the flag of the British Mercantile Marine.

FLAGS OF THE EMPIRE

BLUE ENSIGN—plain blue flag with the "Union" added—signifies the Royal Naval Reserve.

CANADIAN RED ENSIGN—sometimes called Dominion Flag, having arms of Canada in the fly—was authorized by the Admiralty in 1870 to be used to distinguish vessels registered in the Dominion. The Blue Ensign with coat-of-arms is carried on Canadian Government boats. This in no way supersedes the Union Jack, and though commonly bearing the arms of all the provinces, the correct official flag should only show those of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia, the four original provinces which in 1867 became the Dominion of Canada.

Australia and New Zealand have adopted special additional flags since their creation as Commonwealth and Dominion.

PROPER USE OF FLAGS.

ROYAL STANDARD—Only to be used by the Sovereign or members of the Royal family when representing him. Also on ships and fortresses on his birthday, Coronation Day, etc.

UNION JACK—Flag of the Empire—is the proper flag to be used by all British subjects, to be carried by the army, and to be hoisted over public and private buildings.

(The "Union" on a blue ground is flown by all garrisons of the Empire, whether Imperial or Colonial.)

WHITE ENSIGN—Must not be used ashore except by special permission, and then only by members of the Royal Navy.

Note.—No foreign flag should be allowed to be hoisted on a flag-pole anywhere in British territory, either alone or above a British flag (except alone on the official residence of the Consul of such foreign country). Laws in other countries are very stringent in this respect, amounting in the United States to extreme intolerance of the display of any British emblem, and in a lesser degree of those of other nations.
