IMITATION COUGH CURES

Is an Imitation Cough Medicine Good Enough for Your Children?

When you are sick and send for the doctor you don't want him to send a young medical student to examine his child. You would rather have the same fellow experiment on your child's system with the medicine you know to be of proven value in the cure of disease.

The remarkable story of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the cure of croup, bronchitis and colds has proven too great a temptation to imitators. They expect you to be so deceived by their imitations because the price is a few cents less.

Imitations are never sold on merit, but depend on the merit of the article they imitate. You don't want to be experimented on, and for this reason will insist on seeing the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the bottle you buy.

As it is made of simple ingredients of proven value, it is well suited for use as a treatment for children. That it is effective in the cure of croup, bronchitis, whooping cough and the most severe coughs and colds is attested by its many years of continued success and enormous sale. 25 cents all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

JUBILEE CELEBRATION

The celebration services were continued in St. Mary's and St. Jude's churches last evening and proved very enjoyable. St. Mary's school room was filled with a happy throng, the evening being given up to a Sunday school festival with Archdeacon Raymond, the rector, presiding. The programme included addresses by the chairman, Archdeacon Newham, a former rector of the church, and by Mrs. G. A. Kuhring; choral selections by the children; reading by Doris Ingraham; piano solos by Louise Eckbrecht and Harry Coleman, and a duet by Miss Maud Willis and Ed- die Willis. After the entertainment the children enjoyed a series of indoor sports and games followed by the presentation of prizes by the rector.

In St. Jude's church a thanksgiving service was conducted at 8 p. m. and this was followed by a historical and social evening in the school house.

The services in these churches this evening promise to be interesting. In St. Mary's church it will be known as historical evening. Brief addresses are to be given by Archdeacon Newham and Rev. Joseph Smith, former ministers of the church; also by J. N. Rogers and D. C. Fisher. It is expected that many of the clergy of the city, together with His Worship Mayor Frink and possibly Hon. Mr. Hazen and others, will be present. The St. Mary's band will play one or two selections during the evening.

In St. Jude's church there is to be a musical evening, the programme to be carried out in the school room.

ELECTION BEFORE END OF YEAR IS POSSIBLE

Ottawa, May 5—There will be a general election before Christmas if the opposition stick to their avowed intention of opposing the government's proposal to extend the term of the Parliament.

The census figures will be ready by October. The government will win easily on reciprocity. Expansion of the I. C. R., building of the Hudson Bay Railway, C. N. R. bond guaranteed for extension, Georgian Bay canal, enlargement of Well- and Canal will also enter into the contest.

There will likely be a declaration that the government feels a start should at once be made with both the Georgian Bay canal and the enlargement of the Welland canal.

Finally the country is likely to be asked to declare for or against a reasonable clause being adopted in the house of commons so that no opposition will be able to carry obstruction to such an unreasonable degree that the minority has the appearance of running parliament.

The government would welcome the opportunity of having the country pronounced upon all of these questions and would be pleased if the opposition would only keep on talking until there is a chance for re- distribution and election.

SHE HAD CONSTANT PAIN

Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dorvilleville, N. Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered nearly all the time with headache, neuralgia, backache, rheumatism, and a burning down the spine, and had a constant pain in my side. I made me sick if I tried to walk much, and my back was so sore that I was obliged to wear a corset all the time. I was in any of these troubles, I have a strong baby daughter now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. A. A. GILES, Route 44, Dorvilleville, N. Y.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., writes all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

OLD GUILDHALL TO GO

London, May 7—A new building is to take the place of the old Guildhall in the hall at Westminster. From early times, certainly from the time of Edward the Confessor, this spot was a place of sanctuary in connection with the abbey, and here it is said that Margaret Woodville, wife of Edward IV, laid farewell to the two princes, when they were carried to the tower by their uncle, Richard III.

The present building which stands almost under the shadow of the twin towers of the abbey, and close to Westminster hall, is of middling growth compared to its great neighbors, since it was built only in 1770 when the old sanctuary was removed.

In 1889 it was remodelled, and now, in its turn, it is to give place to a modern and more capacious building, having been found altogether inadequate to meet the needs of the present day. An upright and very massive the abbey, with no beams to recommend it, it will pass away unregretted.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

CONFEDERATE SOLDIER FARMER OF 1865

By Henry W. Grady, 1887

THESE is a figure with which history has dealt lightly, but that, standing pathetic and heroic in the genesis of our new growth, has interested me greatly—our soldier farmer of 1865. What chance had he for the future as he wandered amid the empty farms, his stock, labor and implements gone—gathered up the fragments of his wreck—arguing kindly his borrowed mule—paying 60 per cent for all that he bought, and buying all on credit—his crop mortgaged before it was planted—his children in want, his neighborhood in chaos—working under new conditions and retrieving every error by a cost-by-year—plodding all day down the furrow, hopeless and aching, save when at night he went back to his broken home, where his wife, cheerful even then, renewed his courage, while she ministered to him in loving tenderness. Who would have thought as during those lonely and terrible days he walked behind the plough, kicking the sunshine in the glory of his harvest and spreading the showies in the verdure of his field—no friend near, save nature that smiled at his earnest touch, and God that sent him the message of good cheer through the rustling breeze and the whispering leaves—that he would in 20 years, have carried these burdens, uncomplaining make a crop of $850,000,000. Yet this he has done, and from his bounty the south has rehabilitated cities, and resumed her losses. While we exult in his splendid achievement, let us take account of his standing.

Whence this enormous growth? For 10 years the world has been at peace. The pioneer has replaced the soldier. Commerce has whitened new acres, and the merchant has occupied new areas. Steam has made of the earth a chessboard, on which men play for markets. Our western wheat-grower competes in London with the Russian of the East Indies. The Ohio wool-grower vies with the Australian shepherd, and the best of the now historic sheep of Vermont is answered from the steppes of Asia. The herds that merged from the dust of your amazing prairie make the hoofbeats of antipodes. The cheese and butter markets fight American dairies. The hen caudles around the world. California challenges vine-land France. The dark continent is disclosed through meshes of light. There is competition everywhere.

The husbandman, driven from his market, balances price against starvation and undercuts his rival. This conflict often runs to panic, and profit vanishes. The Iowa farmer burning his corn for fuel is not an unusual type. Amid this universal conflict, where stands the South? While the producer of everything we eat and wear, in every land, is fighting through glutted markets for bare existence, when in southern farmers? In his industrial as in his political problem he is at least—not in doubt, but in assured independence. Cotton makes him king. Not the fleeces that Jason sought can rival the richness of this plant, as it unfolds its "blossom" and rattles from admiring friends and relatives.

It is gold from the instant it puts forth its tiny shoot. The shearer that whistles to it is heard around the world. The trespass of a worm on its green leaf means more to England than the advance of the Russians on her Asiatic outposts. When the fibre, current in every bank, is marketed, it renders back to the south $200,000,000 every year. Its seed will yield $600,000,000 worth of oil to the press and $40,000,000 in food for soil and beast, making the stupendous total of $450,000,000 and income from this crop.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A GREAT many parents take a positively unfair advantage of their little helpless babies.

"If there were fewer cute babies there would be fewer fretful and nervous children."

"The baby under a year old who can do any sort of a cute trick hasn't had a square deal."

Such are some of the statements I recently heard a mother who really thinks, make about babies.

In the course of the conversation someone had spoken of a baby who happened to be the first grandson and nephew on both sides of a southern family? In his industrial as in his political problem he is at least—not in doubt, but in assured independence. Cotton makes him king. Not the fleeces that Jason sought can rival the richness of this plant, as it unfolds its "blossom" and rattles from admiring friends and relatives.

will meet in Newcastle tomorrow to deal with this call, and also to dispose of the call from Leogville to Rev. E. M. McEwen of Redbank—Chatham Gazette.

A Cleveland mother caused the news of her daughter's engagement to be announced in a novel way. At a luncheon a small white satin bag was at each place. The guests were asked not to open the bags until a given signal. When they did so they found a card tied to its neck, reading "Margaret Woodville to Rev. E. M. McEwen of Redbank—Chatham Gazette." That was the way the card was let out of the bag.

A GREAT WORK THE FORESTERS ARE DOING

Caring for the Orphans of the Order—"Happiness Fund" a Feature

(Toronto World)

The work in connection with the orphan and fatherless children of members of the order occupies a warm spot among the members of the Independent Order of Foresters, and the report of the finance committee recommending that the contribution to this fund be 25¢ per month instead of 10¢, was carried unanimously. The work of caring for the orphan and fatherless child is naturally a philanthropic character.

"Because too many toys spoil the child," she answered promptly.

"I don't think it's wholly that the child," she answered promptly.

"I think this is the way I do with Gretchen. Say, I'm getting dinner. I put her in her chair where she can watch me and I don't give her any playthings at all. Then she is quite content to watch me for about half an hour. When she begins to get restless I give her spoons and she plays with them for awhile, and when she is tired of them she has her blue celluloid ball tied to a string and hung from the ceiling. She is happy with that at least half an hour and by that time dinner is probably gotten and eaten, and Gretchen instead of being nervous and cross and tired as she would have been if I had plied her with playthings and talked to her and shaken a rattle at her has had her time, is a good as a kitten."

"People think she is a remarkable baby, I don't. I think any baby would be just as good if its parents gave it a chance from the beginning."

"Perhaps you've heard what a good baby my Gretchen is."

"Perhaps every mother won't agree with all these conclusions, but surely she will find this an interesting and aggressive point of view."

A "HAPPINESS FUND"

The organization of the society is so maintained that these wards are in constant touch with the head office. In some cases the children are many miles away, but they are encouraged in educational progress, prizes are awarded for high standing.

Under this arrangement 273 homes each essential and valuable in its sphere, have been held together and protected, while 328 children, drawn from England, Ireland and Scotland, as well as from all parts of the United States and Canada, are being cared for by the society. Over fifty more have been benefitted indirectly because, through this relief, the mother has been able to remain happily. So that in all 373 children in these few years have been protected by the ministrations of the society, at that period in their lives when care and discretion are most needed.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

Stripped of the imaginary terrors with which politicians for partisan purposes have clothed it, reciprocity is revealed as a business arrangement, which would greatly benefit Canada, and which may be terminated at will by either party.

The vast audience which filled St. Andrew's rink last evening, nearly twice as great in numbers as that which attended the meeting addressed by Mr. Ames and Prof. Leacock, heard the case for reciprocity stated with clearness and force, by those who are under no delusions concerning this important question, and who are able to give sound reasons for their advocacy of the measure now before parliament.

The subject was viewed from every standpoint. The arguments that had been presented by Dr. Daniel, Mr. Ames and Prof. Leacock were shown to be fallacious or misleading. For example, Mr. Ames had stated that New Brunswick imported $2,000,000 worth of American products, and he left it to be inferred that this was competition with the New Brunswick farmer, when as a matter of fact cotton, corn, early fruits and vegetables which do not compete at all, made up the great bulk of the total.

Then Dr. Daniel asserted that if the agreement were made it could not be abrogated. Mr. Guthrie pointed out last night that it could be terminated at will by either party. If anyone doubts Mr. Guthrie, here is what President Taft said yesterday in Washington: "If we carry through this treaty and it turns out that it does produce the injury that you anticipate, it can be repealed by a single congress. It does not last longer than either side desires. I am convinced that after it has been given one year's trial neither side will think of reversing it. That is my conviction."

Dr. Neely, Mr. Guthrie and Dr. Clark took up every phase of the question last night, and made it clear to every thoughtful listener that there is no danger but great advantage to Canada in the proposed agreement. Mr. Guthrie and Dr. Clark made perfectly clear the reason why certain large vested interests in Toronto and Montreal oppose reciprocity. They do not want the farmer to get a larger market and better prices; for that might interfere with their profits on watered stock. It was also made clear that the increase in trade resulting from the pact would be in exports from Canada and not imports into Canada from the United States. As a result production in Canada would increase, farm lands would increase in value, and every branch of business would share in the general prosperity.

No far as the port of St. John is concerned, the speakers were very emphatic. Not only would its winter trade increase, but there would be a revival of the coasting trade. It was very gratifying to hear the men from the west declare that when money was needed for the development of facilities at this port there would not be a voice from the west raised against it. They stand for a united Canada, and for wealth in east and west trade as well as in trade north and south.

Dr. Clark very properly ridiculed the argument that reciprocity would exhaust our raw materials. That is a matter entirely in the hands of our own people, and an immense development of resources is possible without waste. This applies alike to products of the soil, the forest and the fisheries. And all these industries would expand under reciprocity to the great benefit of the people.

The speakers from the west made it clear that there is not a monopoly of loyalty to Canada or devotion to the empire in the cities of Toronto and Montreal. The western people are more likely to be alienated in sympathy by charges of disloyalty than by any enlargement of their market for grain and cattle. They resent with deep feeling the assertion that they would sacrifice the interests of the country as a whole for the sake of mere personal profit.

Last night's meeting cleared the atmosphere, so far as St. John is concerned. The Liberals of New Brunswick are indebted to those representatives from other provinces who have so clearly and ably presented the arguments in favor of freer trade with our great neighbor to the south. They have brushed aside the misleading assertions that obscured the real issue, and showed the people that in seizing the opportunity offered by the rebels against the rapidly rising cost of living in the United States to get free entry to that market for Canadian natural products, the government has conferred an enormous benefit upon this country. For more than forty years Canada has waited for this opportunity. Why should she wait longer?

AN ENCOUNTER

Who cares for the burden, the night and the rain. And the steep, long, lonesome road. When at last thro' the darkness a light shines plain. When a voice calls hail, and a friend draws rein. With an arm for the stubborn road? Tho' his way lie over the prairie green, And mine up the sunrise hill. Tho' no more in my path may his light be seen, And I never may travel the leagues between. His succor aids me still. For life is the chance of a friend or two. Tho' the world be a desert the long night thro'. Yet the gay flowers bloom and the sky grows blue. When a soul salutes a soul.—Anonymous.

THE POLITICAL FLIES

Dr. Clark, M. P., made an interesting contribution last night to the discussion of the campaign against flies. He has no doubt been impressed by the appeal of Earl Grey to the mayor of Ottawa, and by the many articles in the press. Having had his attention also directed at Ottawa to a pair of New Brunswick flies whose buzzing is more annoying than dangerous, he gave the citizens of St. John a word of counsel last evening. He said: "If Dr. Daniel votes against reciprocity he will vote against the best interests of his constituency, and the best interests of Canada; and if I were a citizen of St. John I would vote against Dr. Daniel, and do my best to remove one of two small flies from the precious box of vitments."

The people of York county will know what to do with the other one. New Brunswick fares well in the supplementary estimates.

Hon. Dr. Pugsley has taken the first step toward providing St. John with a new post office.

An Ottawa despatch to the Telegraph states that if the opposition continues their policy of obstruction there will be a general election before Christmas.

A more vigorous policy is to be adopted by the government in relation to the Intercolonial Railway. Provision is made in the estimates for the construction of five new branch lines, and a number of existing branches will be taken over. This is good news for maritime province people.

Says the Ottawa Journal:—"Following the last year example of Ottawa the city of Sault Ste. Marie held a spring clean up week. During this week the citizens united to such good effect that the entire city was placed in a spotless condition. The city hall staff placed its street workmen, and its horses and carts at the disposal of the citizens, and so great was the benefit of the clean-up that Sault Ste. Marie has made the occasion an annual one." Mayor Frink has not yet invited the citizens of St. John to follow the example of Sault Ste. Marie.

William H. Murray, who with C. N. Hasell, wrote the constitution for Oklahoma, is a citizen of Fishamingo. He moved to Indian territory years ago. He has taught and farmed and has lived among the Indians nearly all his life. He is an insatiable reader, a professional philosopher and asserts that he has made a special study of constitutions and political economy. He is purely a theorist, though some of his constituents contend that the document mentioned is far beyond the constitution of the United States, and will immortalize the man who wrote it.

Glasgow Street Railway (Toronto World)

On the street railway system of Glasgow a distance of a little over half a mile costs one cent, while for two cents a passenger can travel about two and a half miles. Some time ago an experimenter made in the way of issuing tickets, enabling passengers to travel two-cent stages for one cent and a half. In order to avoid the necessity of conductors carrying change, passengers paid three cents for the original ticket, which they retained and could present in payment of a second two-cent stage journey on any part of the system. The fares were based on the two-cent stage, the experiment was made temporarily in order to ascertain what effect it would have on the returns. The manager, James Dalrymple, recently reported that while the issue of these tickets has considerably reduced the number of penny fares, on the other hand many more passengers, who formerly took only one-cent tickets, are using the two-cent stage tickets. Not only so, but the concession has had the effect of increasing the number of travelers over short distances. As a net result the revenue will not be reduced and the change introduced as an experiment has now been confirmed. The World quotes this as evidence both of the principle that a public service considers the general advantage and of careful business management.

The butcher accidentally discovered the nest and carefully picking out the banknotes returned them to the bank. He received $37.50 back, the bank claiming $2.50 for "material loss," caused by the mouse's teeth.

RAILWAY CARRIES ON REFORESTATION ON LARGE SCALE

Pennsylvania Company Launches into Latest Venture in Subsidiary Interests (Montreal Gazette.)

There seems no end to the diversity of subsidiary interests that go with the maintenance of our modern railways. Nearly all of the transcontinental lines have large land holdings, which have been a constant source of revenue to the companies, and incidentally of even greater value to the communities in which they are located than might have been the case had they been owned by private individuals, for the railway companies have put these lands in better shape, through irrigation and other methods, for immediate cultivation by the settlers who take them up than either the individual farmer himself or the vendor of privately owned land could possibly accomplish.

Other railways own great coal areas, whose revenue producing qualities have been somewhat hampered by constant legislation on the part of the state. But probably the latest venture in subsidiary interests is the work undertaken by the Pennsylvania Railway to reforest great tracts of land adjacent to their tracks, serving the double purpose of ornamentation and the creation of a forest reserve from which the company will be able in future to draw all the timber necessary for the work of the railroad. The report of the company's forester for 1910 has just been published, and the report shows that since the company undertook forestry work on a comprehensive scale more than four million trees have been set out.

Last year alone 617,328 trees were set in permanent locations on tracts of land adjacent to the company's right of way. In addition to growing ornamental shrubbery and trees for the future requirements of ties and lumber, the Pennsylvania has established two large tie and timber treating plants, both using the pressure treatment, one at Mt. Union and the other at Greenwich Point, Philadelphia.

These plants have a combined capacity per year of a million and one-half cords of ties or their equivalent. It is believed by the management that the conservative lumbering and the forest planting which the company is conducting on its wood lots and farm lands will serve as object lessons for farmers, and provide an incentive to intelligent forest development on the part of the public generally. No More Mails to Be Landed at Rimouski By Atlantic Vessels—Direct to Quebec

(Montreal Gazette)

George Hanna, passenger manager for the Allan line of steamers stated yesterday that in future there would be such changes made in the mail service between Canada and England, as would result in a saving of some eight hours in the case of the east bound mails, and about two hours in the case of westbound mails. The Virginian, which is expected to arrive in Quebec today, and which is bringing not only the Canadian mails, but also those for Europe will be the first to operate under the new conditions.

The change will have for its main objective the going away with the long drives which often take place at Rimouski. Hitherto all mail steamers arriving from England have transhipped their mails to a tender there, and they have been sent from that point to their destination by train. Under the new system the mail matter which will be landed at Rimouski will be that destined for the maritime provinces which an outside calculation will hardly ever exceed sixty sacks. The remainder of the Canadian mail will be brought aboard the steamer to Quebec. Here a special train will convey the mails to their destinations. As this portion of the whole mail amounts on an average to some four hundred sacks at a low estimate, the saving of time at Rimouski, and the facilities for handling of such a quantity are far from perfect, will at once be apparent, said Mr. Hanna, and it might be said that the saving of time on the ocean, and the time occasioned by the difference in speed between the steamer and the train between Rimouski and Quebec, will be more than counterbalanced. "I believe that under the new system it will be possible for us to have the mails well on their way in the special train out of Quebec, before under the old system they could have been loaded on to the train at Rimouski," he said.

The saving of time under the new arrangement is expected to be even greater when it comes to the mail matter, for there will in future be none of that vexatious waiting at that point for seven, eight and even on occasions ten hours, for the mails to be put aboard. The facilities have never been adequate to the demands which have been made upon them, and Mr. Hanna, and since these demands have been growing greater year after year, while no commensurate increase has been made in either the staff or the appliances for handling mail matter, it is followed that the delay of the mail matter at Rimouski grew greater rather than less.

Now it is arranged that mail shall be loaded on to the ship at Quebec, no stop being made at Rimouski at all. This should save at least eight and on slight stop, and will enable a ship not only to carry just as much mail matter as heretofore, but also to land her passengers at the pool early on Friday mornings. They will thus be able to reach London on the evening of that day, and on the morning of Saturday, which has too frequently been the case of late.

Passenger traffic will not be interfered with in the slightest degree, indeed it will be advantaged, for there will be both a sleeping and a dining car attached to the special mail train which will meet the boat at Quebec, and passengers who wish to do so will be able to avail themselves of this train. They will by this means be spared what is very frequently a long and tedious wait at Rimouski, and will in exchange a longer boat trip and a shorter train journey.

Daily Hints For the Cook

HOMEMADE RAISIN BREAD.

The raisins in this recipe make it a great favorite with children, and if grown-ups, too, appreciate a treat of this sort to start the day with. Take one part of water, one pint of sweet milk, two table-spoonfuls of sugar, a scant table-spoonful of salt, two table-spoonfuls of lard, one cupful of yeast cake, one cupful of each of raisins, three quarts of sifted flour. Have the milk and water warm. Dissolve the yeast in the water. Mix the raisins with a little of the flour and add after all the other ingredients have been mixed. Let the dough rise over night and in the morning form into small loaves. Let them rise again and bake in a moderate oven. Serve this bread at breakfast the day after making.

DAISY CAKE.

This is made in two colors; for the white part take two cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls sour cream, two table-spoonfuls of soda, and the whites of six eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Whip the cream and sugar together and stir in the soda; then flour enough to make a good batter, and lastly the beaten whites. Flavor with almond. For the yellow part, stir a cup of sugar with a cup of sour cream; add a table-spoonful of soda, the yolks of four eggs beaten very light and a table-spoonful of vanilla and flour enough to make a good cake batter. Bake the white part in two layers and the yellow in one and use orange icing for putting together.

CITY SCHOOL MATTERS

At a meeting of the board of school trustees last night, Dr. Briggs was authorized to have men employed to take an enumeration of the school children of the city. The work will be done before too many move to the country. It was reported that the committee had engaged temporary quarters for Kerr's Business College. It was said that the King Edward school would be ready by June, and the Bell building by that time also. A communication asking for a position for the teaching staff was received from Miss E. Currie, and placed in the application book.

Alice K. Lingley asked for $100 increase in salary to commence next school year. This was sent to the teachers' committee.

Charles E. Myers applied for a janitorship and his letter was referred to the buildings committee.

The chairman next reported that the $80,000 bonds had been all arranged for. The report of the finance committee on this matter was read and adopted.

Mr. Coll thought steps should be taken to finish up the lawn in front of the High school. It was pointed out that the contractor is required either to sod or seed it. The secretary was instructed to write a letter to the architect, H. H. Mott, who acted as inspector of the work, to see that it was finished properly.

The chairman suggested that after the June meeting there should be no more meetings during the holidays except at the call of the chair.

The secretary's report for last month showed a total enrollment of 7,223 with an average attendance each day of 6,109.

Mr. Smith said he would like to give a prize to the boy or girl in grade VIII, making the highest number of marks in Albert school at the final examination. Mr. Smith received the thanks of the board for his action in the matter.

EXTENDING THE ORGANIZATION OF GIRL GUIDES

Patrols to be Established in Several Thousand Cities

The Rules Which the Girls Must Follow—Some Requirements Which Must Be Met in The Three Classes

Spokane, Wash., May 9—Plans have been completed by Rev. David W. Ferry, pastor of Emmanuel Presbyterian church of Spokane, founder of the Girl Guides of America, to organize patrols in several thousand cities, towns and hamlets of the United States and Canada within the next six months.

The following excerpts from the guide laws explain the purpose of the organization: "A guide's first duty is to her home. She will gladly forego pleasure of any kind for the sake of that duty."

"A guide will endeavor to do a good turn to someone every day. In addition to being helpful in her own home, she will visit the sick and help the poor and be ready to assist others at all times."

"A guide will be simple and modest in dress, never wearing anything extravagant or extreme in fashion or material. A guide will be respectful and obedient to her parents and teachers and officers."

"A guide will be on the lookout for girls who are strangers, lonely, homeless or unhappy, and be ready to help them. A guide will take at least a half hour's exercise every day, unless excused by the advice of a physician. She will sleep and work the open air as much as possible."

"A guide will be cheerful at all times and under all circumstances, and endeavor to carry cheer and sunshine wherever she goes."

The plan of organization is similar to that of the Boy Scouts. A patrol is composed of from six to eight girls, the officers being a leader, of at least fifteen years of age, and an assistant. Two patrols form a company or troop under the leadership of a captain, who must be more than twenty-one years of age, and hold a certificate of appointment from the national headquarters.

The qualifications of the first class guide are to sketch the outline of a tree, house or landscape, to name ten wasteful things, to list ten good things, to name ten things to do, to name ten things to avoid, to name ten things to be, to name ten things to be, to name ten things to be.

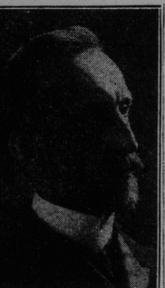

The guide uniform is a sailor suit of dark blue material and a sailor hat with a band of company colors. Each patrol is named after a favorite flower, for example: White Roses, in which event the patrol color is white and green. The flower design is worn as a crest on the left breast of the blouse.

Wearing artificial hair is a harmless defect of which many ladies are guilty. These women are all objects for sympathy rather than criticism. Early neglect in the care of the scalp has caused the loss of so much hair that their personal appearance is sadly marred. To correct this defect they resort to artificial hair.

Most ladies would resent imputation of personal carelessness and neglect. And yet very many women permit their natural hair to become so brittle and listless that it is no longer than the artificial. All this is an unfortunate state it is unnecessary. Hair is being lost, or thinning, usually because of the malevolent activity of the dandruff germ. This vicious germ burrows down into the hair follicle, shortly destroying it. The hair becomes dead, loose and finally drops out.

There is a remedy sold by all druggists, the intelligent use of which will kill the dandruff germ. It also cleanses the scalp of all accumulations and makes the hair shine with the lustre of life and beauty. That remedy is Newbro's Herpicide, the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. This preparation in one dollar size bottles is sold and guaranteed everywhere. Applications may be obtained at the best barber shops and hair dressing parlors. The Herpicide Co., Dept. B, Detroit, Mich., will send a nice sample and booklet to you addressed upon receipt of 10c in postage or silver. E. Clinton Brown, Special Agent, corner Union and Waterloo streets.

OPEN FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE ON FRIDAY NEXT

Wonderful Representations in Crystal Palace and Grounds

Thousands of People to Take Part; Thousands of Pounds Spent in the Preparations—Splendid Lighting Effects—Glorious Music

(Correspondence of Times) London, April 27—During the last six months 7,000 workmen and nearly half a million of money have entirely revolutionized the Crystal Palace and its 250 acres of grounds in readiness for the Festival of Empire which will be opened on May 12.

In the Crystal Palace, which has been repaired without and entirely redecorated within, will be an all-British Exhibition together with various other stands. On that opening day a great imperial concert will be given at which an imperial choir of more than 4,000 voices will appear together with various orchestras. Noted composers who will conduct their own works are Sir Hubert Parry Bart., Sir Arthur Coates, Sir Henry J. Wood, and Dr. Charles Harris, under whose direction the concert will be. A section of the exhibition will be the parklike grounds of the Crystal Palace. Never before has a display of this kind had so large a number of buildings.

In all some 80 buildings have been erected in the grounds, the largest one being the new building which will be the main entrance to the exhibition. It is a mile and a half of electric line, the All Red Route which has been laid down at a cost of £200,000. On either side of the line are gigantic scenes depicting the various parts of the empire. With a six-mile railway line, the train at the Crystal Palace Station and is taken for a complete trip through the most interesting representation of the world's history. Each of these scenes has been constructed under the advice of experts, while ninety of the finest scenic artists have been engaged upon the work.

The lighting of the palace and the grounds has been so thoroughly carried out that, with the aid of high pressure gas and electricity the whole place will be a veritable fairy land by night, and in particular this All Red Route, under the glow of many thousands of hidden lamps, will produce a series of scenes of unprecedented character.

There are in all ten miles of roads in the palace grounds. In addition to many kiosks there are ornate buildings, such as the club house, cinematograph theatre, band, naval exhibition, post office, Irish cottages, Big Ben, a farmstead, and so forth.

More than ever will the Crystal Palace be the playground of the people, for an endless array of popular and novel amusements has been established and is already in full working order.

The Palace Upon a specially arranged ground edged by gigantic scenery and by Sir Aston Webb's amphitheatre to hold 10,000 people, will be held the Pageant of London and Empire in which 15,000 performers will take part in thirty-two scenes for eighteen months. Frank Lascelles, the master of the pageant, and an army of workers, have been engaged in the preparation of this most important of all pageants. The dresses, properties, armor, arms, and scenery have cost nearly £300,000 while every case historical correctness to the most minute detail has been insisted upon. Many ladies and gentlemen of the robes, all performers will be assembled on May 12th to be reviewed by the king and queen.

Part of the pageant will be devoted to episodes connected with our overseas dominions, and the climax will be reached by a grand imperial parade, the Masque of Empire.

Other notable features of the Festival of Empire will be superb gardens, a 240,000 collection of old English curios, 600 specially selected paintings by modern British artists, an exhibition of child life, a gallery of photographs forming an empire album, and a stand containing two million pounds worth of diamonds.

There there will be a camp of imperial cadets, naval and military tattoo, a gigantic carnival, an open-air concert, when 20,000 people will sing together, battles of the sword, flower show, a parade of British giants, and fire-work displays.

It has often been contended that the Crystal Palace is a long way from London. This is no longer true, for the London, Brighton and South Coast Railway Company have electrified their lines from Victoria and London Bridge to the low level station which immediately adjoins the palace, in the palace grounds, 10,000 London children.

This is the first time in sixty years that His Majesty's government has lent its assistance to an exhibition, and it should therefore be noted that all the profits derived from the Festival of Empire will be given to the King Edward VII. Hospital Fund.

That the Festival of Empire is in every way a desirable occasion may be judged from the fact that on June 3 King George, in celebration of his coronation, will entertain in the palace grounds, 10,000 London children.

It is estimated that if there were but one potato in the world a careful cultivation might produce 10,000,000,000 from it in ten years and thus supply the world with seed again.

Presents a Modern and Complete Picture of the Operations of the Great Army of Modern Civilization

THE penalty of modern progress is the sacrifice of extensive to intensive knowledge. Like the soldier on the firing line of a modern battle, each individual unit in the great army of civilization is compelled, in order to hold his place, to concentrate his undivided attention on the task which immediately confronts him. He has little opportunity of finding out what even his immediate neighbors are doing. Still less chance has he of learning the nature of the whole general scheme of operations in which individually he is merely a pawn.

But while this illustration reflects very clearly the character of the situation in which the modern man finds himself, it is deficient in one very essential particular. Though the best soldier is probably the one who knows nothing and cares nothing about what is happening to the right or left of him, the desire to possess something more than the minimum of knowledge demanded by society from each of its members in return for clothing, food, warmth and recreation is the sole impulse behind the movement we call progress. It was curiosity that was ranked by the Greeks as the highest of human motives, and it is the soldier of civilization who seeks to know what his regiment is doing, what his battalion is doing, what his army corps is doing, and what the whole army is doing, who is most valuable to himself and his time, and is in line for promotion.

It is only, however, when a man has made this discovery for himself, has found that but few things are really worth while and that a personal share in the intellectual life and culture of his time is one of them, that his real difficulties begin. The moment he tries to acquire accurate information he is confronted with the fact that the enlightenment he needs is so various in source, diffuse in form and technical in expression that an ordinary library is inadequate to help him. He is halted by the discovery that the run of really informing books have little to offer anyone outside of the limited circle to whom they are particularly addressed.

The source of information open to an actual soldier on the fighting line desirous of learning the nature of the movement in which he is participating are the company, battalion, regimental, divisional, and corps commands, and, if he went far enough, the general staff, and lastly, the commander-in-chief himself.

Now, when the editor and permanent staff of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica made an exhaustive survey of the battlefield of modern progress and employed 1,500 of the leading experts in the world to prepare under their supervision an account of it, they enjoyed all the unique advantages, and their position closely resembled that of the commander and general staff of an army in the field. They may be said to have placed at the service of every soldier in the army of modern civilization a detailed summary of the collated, analyzed and indexed reports of every officer engaged in its operation. This summary (literally, as the word implies, a summum of human knowledge, thought, and activity) is the new 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

A completely new work, founded on a fresh survey of the world in every department of knowledge at the end of 1910. 28 quarto volumes (12 inches by 9 inches) of text, each containing 960 to 1,060 pages; and index volumes containing 500,000 references. 40,000 articles aggregating 4,000,000 words; 7,000 text illustrations; 450 full-page plates; 417 maps. The production of the work cost $1,150,000 before a single volume was printed. The 1,500 contributors include the great scholars, leading authorities and the best practical experts in all civilized countries. The employment of India paper reduces to one-third the weight and bulk of the volumes, and makes it a work one to read, not merely to refer to.

Applications at present prices can only be accepted until May 31st, after which date the prices will be increased. Those who have already received forms for making application should send them promptly to The Cambridge University Press, Encyclopaedia Britannica Department, Toronto, and those who have not yet availed themselves of the opportunity to learn full particulars of the new edition (prices, binding, cash and deferred cash payments, etc.) are urged to apply for the prospectus and specimen pages on India paper at once.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL

May I trouble you to pass the H. P. P. How many times in one day does this simple request go round the tables of these happy people who have been acquainted with H. P. P. and all its distinctive and good qualities? It is no trouble to pass the H. P. P. to you again, because it's self-evident not to be a member of a man with a distinctive and good quality. H. P. P. is the only expression of choice of the Orient and Europe and pure malt vinegar. Its name, borne out by the letters "H. P. P." and a picture of the British House of Parliament upon the bottle, is first remembering by every man and woman who desires to taste, for the first time, a perfectly delicious sauce.

Plain Talk by President Taft

Washington, May 8—President Taft indulged in some plain talk today in explaining to twenty-five members of the National Grange that he does not mean to play politics with the Canadian reciprocity agreement if the enactment of that measure by congress costs him the farmer vote. The president told his hearers bluntly that he was sorry to hear that Republican farmers would desert the party if the agreement goes through, but no such desertion would change his conviction as to the wisdom of such legislation.

IT WAS COUNTERFEIT

Chief of Police Clark, recently sent away to the government mint at Ottawa a fifty-cent piece that had been taken in at one of the local theatres, and which was thought to be a counterfeit. He has received word that his supposition was correct and that the coin was genuine, and the authorities thanked him for his interest in the matter.

A twenty-five cent piece, which also looked doubtful, was sent with the fifty, but it was stated that this piece was all right, except that it had been split in the process of minting. It is understood that some doubtful coins are in circulation here and citizens are advised to exercise care in accepting them.

WHARF WAR AT INDIANTOWN IS AT CLIMAX

C. H. Ferguson and Mr. Austin Take Possession, But Capt. Mitchell Makes Trouble

Matters in connection with the taking over of the Star Line wharf and warehouse at Indiantown by its new owners, D. J. Purdy, came to a head this morning, when Clarence H. Ferguson and M. D. Austin went to Indiantown and took possession. People who happened to be in the vicinity at the time were treated to a few minutes of real excitement, for they were not allowed to take possession without a struggle.

The Victoria, with Dr. L. A. Currey on board, left on her first trip to Fredon from about 9 o'clock. She had not gone up river far when Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Austin arrived to take over the property. Captain Mitchell, whom Dr. Currey had left in charge, was working about the warehouse at the time, and when he saw the invaders he locked the doors.

This had but little effect, however, for the doors were soon broken open. Captain Mitchell was called upon to vacate the premises, but this he stoutly refused to do. According to the captain's statement, he was removed bodily from the place.

The captain, on reaching the street, started to cry out at the top of his voice, "Police! Murder! Help!" A crowd collected and the proceedings began to get warm. The police were telephoned for and Policeman Corbett arrived. Captain Mitchell then endeavored to go into the building, but he was prevented from entering. After hearing Captain Mitchell's story the policeman told him to go to the police station and swear out warrants for the arrest of Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Austin. He went to Chief Clark and laid information against Mr. Austin for assault, and the case will probably come up in the court tomorrow.

In the meantime a telephone message had been sent to Gagetown to inform Mr. Currey of the proceedings, and he will likely return to the city on the Elaine, which is due about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Austin were still in charge at the time of going to press, but Captain Mitchell was doing business for his company outside of the warehouse, receiving cargo, etc. D. J. Purdy, when asked this morning, said that he would likely take over the property from Mr. Austin tomorrow.
