

"August Flower"

I have been afflicted with biliousness, indigestion, constipation, flatulency, and stomach pains. I have tried many other preparations, but none have done me any good. At last a friend recommended August Flower. I took it according to directions and its effects were wonderful, relieving me of all my ailments. I can now eat and sleep as usual. I feel like a new man. I am sure that August Flower is a blessing to humanity, and its good effects can be described in no other words. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

DR. JAMES BEANS. The most valuable cure for all ailments of the stomach, liver, and bowels. It is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

UNPRECEDENTED ATTRACTION. Louisiana State Lottery Company. Incorporated by the Legislature for Educational and Charitable Purposes. The most valuable cure for all ailments of the stomach, liver, and bowels. It is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

Grand Monthly Drawing. At the Lottery, New Orleans, Louisiana. Capital Prize, $300,000. 100,000 numbers in the wheel. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

SEND MONEY BY EXPRESS AT A EXPENSE IN SUMS NOT LESS THAN FIVE DOLLARS. W. T. HARRIS. BOYS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS, REEFERS AND MEN'S SUITS AT COST TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING GOODS. $50.00 FOR A CHICKEN.

W. T. HARRIS. BOYS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS, REEFERS AND MEN'S SUITS AT COST TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING GOODS. $50.00 FOR A CHICKEN. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

W. T. HARRIS. BOYS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS, REEFERS AND MEN'S SUITS AT COST TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING GOODS. $50.00 FOR A CHICKEN. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

W. T. HARRIS. BOYS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS, REEFERS AND MEN'S SUITS AT COST TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING GOODS. $50.00 FOR A CHICKEN. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

W. T. HARRIS. BOYS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS, REEFERS AND MEN'S SUITS AT COST TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING GOODS. $50.00 FOR A CHICKEN. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

W. T. HARRIS. BOYS AND MEN'S OVERCOATS, REEFERS AND MEN'S SUITS AT COST TO MAKE ROOM FOR SPRING GOODS. $50.00 FOR A CHICKEN. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine. I have tried it myself, and I can say that it is a most valuable medicine.

Miramichi Advance.

CHATHAM, N. B., MAY 5, 1892.

Unsatisfactory.

A return was made to parliament the other day showing the amount expended since the construction of the Miramichi river, and the amount expended since the construction of the Miramichi river, and the amount expended since the construction of the Miramichi river.

Some of the papers state that our representative at Ottawa is becoming dissatisfied with the scant attention paid to the legitimate claims of this and other maritime constituencies for consideration. We hope it is so. This country, at least, has been almost neglected for a decade and has paid hundreds of thousands into the Dominion treasury which it has received no return. The ministry seems to ignore us, so far as our actual requirements are concerned, although parliament appears quite willing to do us justice when our claims are presented.

North-Westland will endorse Mr. Alder's should it turn out that he has shown himself no longer disposed to be trifled with. He has already borne such treatment long for the satisfaction of his constituents. If Mr. Costigan or Mr. Foster's positions in the cabinet are to be maintained at the sacrifice of the interests of the people represented by their supporters in parliament, they may learn, when too late, that New Brunswick will favor men of different views of their mission to Ottawa at the next election. In common with other Maritime constituencies we are growing impatient under Ottawa neglect and the manifest inefficiency of its departmental management. When subordinates in the civil service practically control the departments, and ministers remain in offices of which they are only nominally the heads, it is not a matter of surprise that those acquainted with the facts should be dissatisfied with the result of affairs.

It is too plain to those acquainted with the subject, that the departments are rendered inefficient, in many respects, by reason of the inattention of civil servants to their work and that neglect of duty is the rule with them. This is largely the fault of the ministers, who give more attention to political intrigue for the purpose of maintaining themselves in their offices, than to the faithful discharge of their public stewardship. This neglect of duty on all hands grows by usage, and the consequence is a large arrears of work necessary to the proper administration of public affairs, and which might easily be performed but for the inattention and inaction to which we have referred. It seems impossible for even the best friends and well-wishers of the government to hide from themselves these glaring faults of omission, and for maritime men, especially, to escape the growing conviction that the interests of the eastern sections of the Dominion are treated with an indifference that nearly the whole of the New Brunswick representation experiences a feeling of humiliation over the fact that they find it impossible to have the just claims of their several constituencies recognized and their requirements met in a fair and business-like manner. Political exigencies are introduced with discouraging frequency as a plea for procrastination which are really based on official neglect of duty and a state of departmental inefficiency that has become chronic. Partyism has, thus, become the bane of public administration, and a remedy ought to be sought. Instead of the old names and issues, which seem to have become meaningless, save for improper purposes, we should have new ones based on the assertion of our long-looked-for rights as provinces. Whether Tory or Liberal dominates Ottawa, practical content for the other maritime constituencies is the rule, while their representatives are induced, by party fealty to subordinate the interests of their constituents to those of the party managers in office. The people of New Brunswick, who are accustomed to Ottawa neglect as to the charges of corruption which, when proved, are unpunished and when made aware, too often, not enquired into, are growing restless under the silence of so many of their representatives. They would like to hear of our men throwing off the demoralizing and enervating restraints of party and insisting not only upon the purgation of the Cabinet, but of a more just recognition of what is due to New Brunswick, whose material growth and prosperity have been dwarfed, in order that its resources might be levelled upon the building up of pampered, thankless and too often insolent western provinces.

The Proposed Public Building. The site of the proposed Dominion public building at Chatham, which the benefit to the farmers of Ontario. Only the heavy co-operation of the farmers needed to do the duty on cattle and it is not reasonable to suppose that this will not be cheerfully given.

The British Succession. The London Times has recently given an interesting list of the first eighteen names in the succession to the British throne. The letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch, and the letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch.

The Lumber Trade in Great Britain. Latest advices from England concerning the lumber trade in Great Britain are very encouraging. The great shipping centres report stagnation in business, with here and there a better feeling, but not much promise of improvement. There is little doubt but that the strikes have had a depressing effect on the sales of lumber. At Tyne the arrivals have improved, giving an appearance of life to business. Speaking of the situation the Timber Trade journal says: "The lumber trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be. There is a steady demand for lumber, and the trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be."

An Experiment that Should Pay. The provincial government certainly deserves credit for the step they are taking to encourage and develop the dairying interests of the province. As our readers are probably aware, the province has made an appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose, and if the money is judiciously expended, most beneficial results should follow.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

benefit to the farmers of Ontario. Only the heavy co-operation of the farmers needed to do the duty on cattle and it is not reasonable to suppose that this will not be cheerfully given.

The British Succession. The London Times has recently given an interesting list of the first eighteen names in the succession to the British throne. The letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch, and the letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch.

The Lumber Trade in Great Britain. Latest advices from England concerning the lumber trade in Great Britain are very encouraging. The great shipping centres report stagnation in business, with here and there a better feeling, but not much promise of improvement. There is little doubt but that the strikes have had a depressing effect on the sales of lumber. At Tyne the arrivals have improved, giving an appearance of life to business. Speaking of the situation the Timber Trade journal says: "The lumber trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be."

An Experiment that Should Pay. The provincial government certainly deserves credit for the step they are taking to encourage and develop the dairying interests of the province. As our readers are probably aware, the province has made an appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose, and if the money is judiciously expended, most beneficial results should follow.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

benefit to the farmers of Ontario. Only the heavy co-operation of the farmers needed to do the duty on cattle and it is not reasonable to suppose that this will not be cheerfully given.

The British Succession. The London Times has recently given an interesting list of the first eighteen names in the succession to the British throne. The letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch, and the letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch.

The Lumber Trade in Great Britain. Latest advices from England concerning the lumber trade in Great Britain are very encouraging. The great shipping centres report stagnation in business, with here and there a better feeling, but not much promise of improvement. There is little doubt but that the strikes have had a depressing effect on the sales of lumber. At Tyne the arrivals have improved, giving an appearance of life to business. Speaking of the situation the Timber Trade journal says: "The lumber trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be."

An Experiment that Should Pay. The provincial government certainly deserves credit for the step they are taking to encourage and develop the dairying interests of the province. As our readers are probably aware, the province has made an appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose, and if the money is judiciously expended, most beneficial results should follow.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

benefit to the farmers of Ontario. Only the heavy co-operation of the farmers needed to do the duty on cattle and it is not reasonable to suppose that this will not be cheerfully given.

The British Succession. The London Times has recently given an interesting list of the first eighteen names in the succession to the British throne. The letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch, and the letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch.

The Lumber Trade in Great Britain. Latest advices from England concerning the lumber trade in Great Britain are very encouraging. The great shipping centres report stagnation in business, with here and there a better feeling, but not much promise of improvement. There is little doubt but that the strikes have had a depressing effect on the sales of lumber. At Tyne the arrivals have improved, giving an appearance of life to business. Speaking of the situation the Timber Trade journal says: "The lumber trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be."

An Experiment that Should Pay. The provincial government certainly deserves credit for the step they are taking to encourage and develop the dairying interests of the province. As our readers are probably aware, the province has made an appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose, and if the money is judiciously expended, most beneficial results should follow.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

benefit to the farmers of Ontario. Only the heavy co-operation of the farmers needed to do the duty on cattle and it is not reasonable to suppose that this will not be cheerfully given.

The British Succession. The London Times has recently given an interesting list of the first eighteen names in the succession to the British throne. The letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch, and the letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch.

The Lumber Trade in Great Britain. Latest advices from England concerning the lumber trade in Great Britain are very encouraging. The great shipping centres report stagnation in business, with here and there a better feeling, but not much promise of improvement. There is little doubt but that the strikes have had a depressing effect on the sales of lumber. At Tyne the arrivals have improved, giving an appearance of life to business. Speaking of the situation the Timber Trade journal says: "The lumber trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be."

An Experiment that Should Pay. The provincial government certainly deserves credit for the step they are taking to encourage and develop the dairying interests of the province. As our readers are probably aware, the province has made an appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose, and if the money is judiciously expended, most beneficial results should follow.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

benefit to the farmers of Ontario. Only the heavy co-operation of the farmers needed to do the duty on cattle and it is not reasonable to suppose that this will not be cheerfully given.

The British Succession. The London Times has recently given an interesting list of the first eighteen names in the succession to the British throne. The letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch, and the letters S, G, S, G, D, and M, are the initials of the British monarch.

The Lumber Trade in Great Britain. Latest advices from England concerning the lumber trade in Great Britain are very encouraging. The great shipping centres report stagnation in business, with here and there a better feeling, but not much promise of improvement. There is little doubt but that the strikes have had a depressing effect on the sales of lumber. At Tyne the arrivals have improved, giving an appearance of life to business. Speaking of the situation the Timber Trade journal says: "The lumber trade is not so far from being at a standstill as it might be supposed to be."

An Experiment that Should Pay. The provincial government certainly deserves credit for the step they are taking to encourage and develop the dairying interests of the province. As our readers are probably aware, the province has made an appropriation of $100,000 for this purpose, and if the money is judiciously expended, most beneficial results should follow.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

Practical Poultry Raising. Now-a-days we hear farmers in the older provinces complain that their land is not so fertile as it once was, and that the crops that they used to raise are not so good as they once were. This is due to the fact that the soil has become exhausted, and the farmer must use artificial manure to keep it fertile.

