To be cautious in the choice of medicines. Many are injured by trying experiments with compounds purporting to be blood-purifiers, the principal ecommendation of which would seem to be their "cheapness." Being made up of worthless, though not always narmless, ingredients, they may well be "cheap;" but, in the end, they are dear. The most reliable medicines are costly, and can be retailed at moderate prices only when the manufacturing chemist handles the raw materials in large quantities. It is economy,

MONTREAL, Feb. 12 .- Jailer Vallee, in charge of Montreal jail, discovered a desperate plot among convicts to escape. Litzenberg, alias Morgau, who was awaiting papers from Ottawa for extradition to Chicago, where he is wanted for attempted murder and jail breaking, was at the head of the revolt. He took six of the most desperate convicts into his confidence, but at the last moment one of them acquainted the jailer with the facts. He said he was forced into the plot and told if he broke faith he would be killed. The jailer at once seized the convicts and lodged them in the dungeon. In one of their cells a large knife about a foot long was dis covered, also a large bunch of keys. The intention was to overpower the guards and then effect their esca e. Papers for Litzenberg's extradition arrived to-day. He is well known in Chicago, and has a bad record. A detective from Chicago will arrive and take Litzenburg to that city. He has been in jail here for eleven days.

London, Feb. 12.-The Vienna correspondent of the Graphic says : The destitution that prevails here at present is greater than it has been in Liany years. Thousands of respectable people of the laboring classes are idle and starv ing through the operation of the new American tariff. A large percentage of the mechanics here are glad to emigrate, but are deterred from doing so by conscriptions. The misery of the poor people in this city is enhanced by an influx fron the provinces of a large number of persons who are out of employment and are flocking to Vienna in the hope of obtaining work. The total number of unemployed persons in this city is estimated at 70,000. It is hoped that the extension of the city limits will give an impetus to building operations, and public works which the government is inaugurating will also improve the deplorable state of affairs.

Sir George Trevelyn, a prominent member of the Liberal party, says that it is the intention of Mr. Gladstone, when he comes into power again, to give the London County Conncil charge of the water supply of that city. This is one of the most important problems that now confronts that great municipality. In 1890 the population of the metropolitan district was estimated at a little more than five and one-half millions, while the average daily supply of water was 175,000,000 gallons. The average supply per head of population thus was about thirty gallons. Now the question is how this supply can be increased. London gains at the rate of 100,000 a year in population. This means that the water supply must be increased about 3,000,000 gallons a day capacity.

The Wesleyan Methodist Committee has approved the proposal to apply to the British Parliament for power tochange the Weslevan constitution so as to enab'e the conference to deal at discretion with the system of itinerant ministers, which is now established by the act which incorporated the body, and can not be modified, despite its growing disadvantages, without an act of Parliament. The committee has expressed the opinion that the term of the ministers in each charge cught to be six years at least, and the drift of its recommendations point in the direction of permanent settlement, subject to the vote of the local members
