GRANTS FOR FERRY SERVICE NOW SEEM ASSURED

CAMPBELLTON WINS SEASON'S FASTEST GAME WITH MOST BRILLIANT WORK OF THE YEAR

Visiting Summerside Team, Champion of Western Section, Defeated by Score of 8 to 1.—Match One of the Amazing Speed and Spectacular Team Play—Every Member of The Local Squad Turned In A Stellar Performance—Game Fast All Through.

If there remained one shred of doubt as to the ability of the Campbellton Vets to continue their remarkable work of the latter part of the hockey season here, it was forcibly removed by their brilliant performance on Tuesday night when in the fastest and most spectacular game of the season here they defeated the visiting Summerside team, champions of Prince Edward Island in the M. A. H. A. to the merry tune of an 8-1 score.

In view of Tuesday's sensational victory it is hoped that an exhibition game with Sussex may be arranged, but if this does not materialize, the recent victory of the local boys supplies a fitting climax to their season's activities.

Brilliant Work
Tuesday's match was a memorable one for in this game the locals showed greater speed and stamina than was expected of them even by those who knew the team best. The visiting Summerside team, champions of the Maritime Provinces, were expected to give a good account of themselves, but the Campbellton team showed their superiority over them in Tuesday's engagement. The contest, despite the one-sidedness of the score was exceptionally fast from beginning to end save for two brief lulls in the second stanza. The match was fast fought throughout for the visitors put up a splendid game, but the work of the locals constituted an unusual exhibition. They took the first period and kept constantly on the attack until the final goal, giving the most brilliant performance ever placed to its credit by a Campbellton team. Clever combination was featured of the counter and in no game here this season have we seen so much effective teamwork. In no game here that we can remember did the locals exhibit such speed. Spectacular rushes followed in rapid succession and as the match progressed each sensational burst of speed was followed by another which seemed to surpass the rapidity of the last.

The Scoring
The first period opened with a rush at 9:10 and it was at once apparent that Campbellton was honored by speedy guests. The Summerside boys began with a whirlwind rush and after two minutes of play Ross, on the visitors' defence line, notched Summerside's lone goal before LeBlanc had time to get to business. Near the end of this period Thomas sagged the visitors with a neat shot from the wing. This tied the score.

In the second stanza Howard scored for the locals on a pass from McLean when the period was about half over. A few minutes later Sharpe dropped the disc behind Morrison receiving the rubber from Howard who was in the right place at a critical moment. Gauthier at centre for the visitors got a bad fall on this juncture and was relieved by Morris for the balance of the period.

McLean opened the scoring in the last period with a successful shot after an end to end rush. Miller scored on a pass from Matthews. Howard added another goal. Sharpe tallied the seventh on a drive up along the board and Howard notched the eighth and final score on a timely pass from Williams.

ABUNDANCE OF SNOW FOR LUMBERING

Archibald Fraser Says Operations About Normal in N. B.—No Word of Pulp Mill for Maine.

Moncton, March 16.—The Fraser Companies' lumbering operations this year will be almost as great as last season, according to Mr. Archibald Fraser, of Fredericton, who was in the city yesterday enroute to his home from an inspection of the recently-acquired Steveston, Cutler properties of the Fraser Companies in British Columbia and the pulp mill at Chatham.

There has been plenty of snow throughout almost the whole season in the northern and central parts of the province and, unlike this section, no difficulty has been encountered in this direction. Mr. Fraser added, however, that owing to the lack of water the hauling operations had been made a little more difficult. It had been impossible to ice the roads.

As for the other operators on the St. John River, Mr. Fraser said that the situation was about normal. He said that the pulp mill at Edmundston is running full time and it is expected that the strike of mill workers in Sweden materialized. The Fraser Companies have been Canada's greatest competitors and during the past year it is estimated that it shipped more than one million tons of pulp to the United States as compared with a quarter of that amount when Europe consumed its normal quantity.

With regard to the proposed construction of a new mill on the Maine side of the St. John River, Mr. Fraser would say nothing. He could give no information as to when the operations might be expected to begin he said.

NEW CARLISLE AND CHANDLER TIE

In a fast and interesting hockey game played here Tuesday the Carlisle and Chandler teams tied the score of 5-1 in the last scheduled game of the C. C. H. L. This leaves both teams tied for the championship of the Gaspé Coast Hockey League and the right to claim the Irving Cup. The game was fast and given throughout, and nice hockey was seen as the large crowd that attended. Mr. Thos. Munro of Gaspé handled the whistle to the entire satisfaction of both teams.

BOARD OF TRADE ELECTS OFFICERS annual Meeting Held Last Evening—Plans for Year Discussed.

The annual meeting of the Campbellton Board of Trade was held in the Town Hall last evening, President Pinault presiding.

The annual report of the Secretary-Treasurer showed that although there had been few meetings of the Board, the Council of the Board had dealt with a number of important matters. The election of officers resulted as follows:
President—H. J. Currie.
Vice-President—A. F. Bisson.
Sec. Treas.—H. B. Bisson.
Council—Dr. F. Pinault, Dr. Murray, W. H. Miller, Geo. G. McKenzie, Dr. Champoux, John Harquail, D. A. Stewart, Geo. St. Onge.

There was a lively discussion on town matters generally and members expressed the opinion that the two delegates sent to Ottawa by the Town Council should pay their own personal expenses as did the members of the Board of Trade who went on the same delegation. It was stated that each of the Council delegates was paid $50.00 town funds for expenses.

Matters of general policy of the Board were also discussed and it was decided to endeavor to make the coming year more interesting, and hold meetings at regular intervals. The meeting then adjourned.

EVER DELIVERED AT A PUBLIC MEETING

here. Address follows in full:
Mr. Chairman, Miss Bliss, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is a great pleasure to meet you all today, the Staff and the friends of the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital. And this is indeed an auspicious occasion, for it represents the first Graduation Ceremony of Nurses from your own School. It is a great honour to share in this celebration, and to congratulate Miss Bliss and her Training Staff. This class represents the first-fruits of their labours, and rightly enough, they are seven.

May I first pay a tribute to the quality of the Medical Service in this town, and in this community. No other district in the Maritime Provinces, or indeed in Canada generally, is better served than you are served here. You have your two Hospitals, with their attending and nursing staffs, and indeed, your Doctors. I shall not mention them, for they are well and favourably known, not only in their own community, but in the country generally, and in the United States. I congratulate you upon the quality of this Medical Service.

I believe, and you will agree with me, that Hospitals are in some sort the measure of the civilization of a people, or even of a city. In other words, show me the Hospital in any town, and I will tell you the kind of town it is. This being interpreted, really means, how do we treat the sick and the afflicted? Are we in any practical way our brother's keeper? And Campbellton, I am glad to say, need not be ashamed, but is rather to be proud of its answer.

Dominion Expected to Vote $1000 TOWARD MAINTENANCE OF IMPROVED FERRY SERVICE

Success of Project Would Connect Campbellton and Dalhousie With Coast Points in Bonaventure—Federal Government to Grant $1000 If Quebec and N. B. Each Grant $500—New Brunswick Ready To Contribute His Share—Letters From Veniot and Michaud.

Word has been received by Mr. T. H. McEvoy of Dalhousie, through Mr. F. Pinault, M. P. for Restigouche-Madawaska, that the Dominion government will, in all probability, vote the sum of one thousand dollars towards the maintenance of the proposed improved ferry service between the towns of Campbellton and Dalhousie and points along the Quebec coast provided the provincial governments of Quebec and New Brunswick vote the sum of $500 each for this purpose.

CURLING MATCHES AT DALHOUSIE

St. Patrick's Day Marked By Interesting Games—Banquet in Club Rooms

Dalhousie, N. B. March 18.—The only exciting event that took place in the shiretown on St. Patrick's day, was the local curling competition of the year, when four Dalhousie Rinks, composed of single men, played against four Town Rinks of married men. The game played in the afternoon between Skip Andrew Barberie and Skip A. B. McKinnon was very exciting all through and ended in a tie. In the evening the Rink was crowded with spectators, when Skip J. B. McKay for the Singles defeated Murray McKay. Score 14 to 5 in favor of J. B. McKay. Skip Rev. J. A. Hart playing for the singles, defeated Skip A. J. LeBlanc, score 10 to 7 in favor of Rev. Father Hart.

After one of the most interesting games of the season, a Banquet followed held in the Curler's Club Rooms in the Rink. The ladies served at the banquet. The Skip Cup was presented to A. J. LeBlanc, the Sub-Cup to J. B. McKay, the Trudelle Cup was presented to the winner S. L. T. Clifford, and the Trophy to the single men was presented to J. B. McKay. Interesting speeches were made by Rev. J. A. Hart, Rev. C. D. MacIntosh, W. A. R. Cray, A. B. McKinnon, J. B. McKay, and Dr. W. W. Fleck. H. P. McEvoy, S. L. T. Clifford, J. B. McKay, and John Eric O'Keefe.

N. B. ROADS ARE CLOSED FOR MOTOR TRAFFIC

Announcement was made on Saturday by W. H. McQuade, Inspector of Licenses for New Brunswick, that, effective at once, all roads in the province would be closed to automobile traffic until further notice.

Mr. McQuade said he had received this word from B. M. Hill, provincial road engineer. The idea is to await the frost leaving the roads.

This order has gone into effect every spring.

Courts Investigation. Suspicious Character—"Wot am I supposed to 'ave stolen?"

Police—"A horse and van." "All right; search me?"

Training School. As I have said, quite rightly, their number is seven, and I am sure it will be a lucky, a fortunate seven.

These girls came to you three years ago, from Restigouche, Pointe La Poudre, and Dalhousie and New Richmond. They came to you, and to Miss Bliss and her Training School, and I am sure that each one of them had a good home training behind her. Each one of these could at least boil an egg with more or less general satisfaction. As you all know, there is a good deal of training even in the boiling of an egg. True, it does not take quite so long as the attainment of a B. A. Degree, but I sometimes feel that, as a general accomplishment, it is of much more use in the world.

And their Nursing Training has been one of three years, twenty-seven months in this Hospital, six months at the Royal Victoria, and three months at the County Hospital of St. John. And this really represents an excellent training, and a good foundation for such a Course. Such a Course as in Training here honour where honour is due, in speaking of the splendid co-operation that has been shown by the citizens of Restigouche and Bonaventure Counties. I should like specially to mention the Ladies' Aid Societies of Campbellton, Matapedia, of Dalhousie and of Louisbourg. It is rather remarkable, I think, the actual money raised by these Societies. I wish you had such Societies in the City of Montreal. We remember too, the Provincial Grant, the County Grant, and the special Grant from the Town of Campbellton. In the words of your Chairman, Judge McLatchey, "Your task is not yet completed, but a way of purpose and a wise leadership will overcome all difficulties."

HIGH STANDARD OF SERVICE MAINTAINED ON SPECIAL TRAINS OF C. N. R. SYSTEM

Every Comfort and Convenience Provided For Those Who Travel the National Way—Eight "Crack" Trains Operated Over 17,000 Miles of Territory—100 Dining Cars And 250 Sleeping Cars In Daily Service.

In no department of the whole system of the Canadian National Railways is the progress and improvements made in the past few years more evident than the passenger train service of the road and neither is there any phase of the system in operation which more clearly reflects the advancement of the railways as a whole or gives better reason for the increase in business and the optimism of C. N. R. chiefs in the future of Canada's national railways.

Seldom perhaps, as he steps aboard one of the limited trains of the Canadian National, does the average traveller contemplate the multitude of factors which combine to constitute a service of such magnitude and yet which is so precise and so satisfactory in all details. As he finds a speedy train awaiting him at the point of his departure he never stops to think that these fast, modern trains are operated day after day from one end of the continent to the other and from the northern outposts of civilization in Canada to the Capital City of the great country to the south. Not this is the scope of the Canadian National passenger service and nowhere throughout the entire continent of North America are so many all-steel, fast limited trains operated by one railway organization between such a widely separated number of terminals.

High Standard of Quality That the service attained by the Canadian National lines has been raised to a high standard of quality and that they have won an enviable reputation is clearly proven not only by the increasing patronage of the public, but by the consensus of that public commenting upon the comforts and convenience of travel.

ing the National way. Probably no greater collection of such testimony was ever accumulated by any one individual than by the writer on a recent coast to coast trip. This trip was a little more than begun before we had formed our own personal opinion of that service in comparison with that of other roads but we went out of our way to ascertain the candid opinions of fellow-travellers of various experience. The result was a volume of praise and favorable criticism which should be worth much to the Canadian National railway. Numerous improvements were pointed out, details which might have been our notice were brought to our attention and we elicited exhaustive comments which, if quoted verbatim, would require many columns of space.

A Huge Task Something of the huge task daily performed by the Canadian National Railways may be realized and the high standard of quality attained more fully appreciated when it is known that on the C. N. R. lines today over 100 dining cars and 250 sleeping cars are operated in the system and these over a territory of over 17,000 miles. To maintain such a standard of service on these hundreds of moving units is a huge task and the way it is being done records it as a remarkable achievement.

Eight Special Trains The Canadian National operates eight special limited trains. These speedy trains which afford the traveller the maximum in convenience and comfort and have become known as the "crack trains" of the Canadian National are as follows: The Continental Limited, operating between Montreal and Vancouver. The National Limited operating between Toronto and Winnipeg. The Ocean Limited between Montreal and Halifax. The International Limited, linking Montreal and Chicago.

The New York—Chicagoan operated over the Central Region and Grand Trunk Western Lines, in conjunction with the Lehigh Valley, between Chicago and New York. The Washingtonian—Montreal, connecting Quebec, Ottawa and Montreal with Washington, D. C., via New York and the Bell Gate Bridge route. The Capital City Limited between Ottawa and Toronto. And the Montreal—Quebec connecting the two cities of these names.

At first glance it would appear that this is a large number of special trains for a railroad to classify as such, but when the magnitude of the entire system is remembered, it is easily realized that these trains are but a few as compared with the many which are in daily service over the whole system.

Many Features Many features in travel comfort and convenience contribute to the popularity of these trains, and there are many details, of interest to the prospective traveller, which deserve special mention.

On the Continental Limited, the National and the Ocean Limited, sleeping cars are owned and operated by the Canadian National. In these special attention has been given to the comfort and requirements of women travellers. The ladies' boudoir dressing rooms are very spacious, containing every facility such as dental facials, winged mirrors, sanitary holders for towels, controlled mirror lights, a full length mirror in door and dressing table chairs. The men's smoking room is also quite spacious and is equipped with leather upholstered sofa and chairs, providing ample seating capacity as well as adequate room for those wishing to use the wash stands etc.

In these sleeping cars the berth curtains are of a special type, the upper berth being provided with a separate curtain and so arranged that there is no possibility of the occupant falling out. Dome fasteners have also been supplied to replace the old-fashioned button.

Another detail which is much appreciated by travellers is the thermostat of ice drinking water which is placed in drawing-rooms and compartments. In the drawing room, also as well as in many of the compartments, is a special box in which the occupants may place their shoes at night. This box can be opened from the outside, enabling the porter to secure the shoes to clean and polish them without disturbing the occupants of the compartment or drawing room.

On these trains, each section is equipped with three garment hangers, two in the lower berth and one in the upper, and in the drawing room an additional portable hanger is provided. Garment hangers were first used on Canadian National cars. Window screens in Canadian National cars are of full size, providing unobstructed view for passengers. Radiant buttons on call bells and electric light controls may seem in themselves a small feature, but to the person who is not an experienced traveller they are certainly a great help. The electric floor lights in the aisles of sleeping cars for use after other lights have been extinguished is also a greatly appreciated innovation.

Electrically-controlled exhaust fans have done a great deal towards providing an even type of ventilation for these cars.

between Toronto and Winnipeg. The Ocean Limited between Montreal and Halifax. The International Limited, linking Montreal and Chicago.

The New York—Chicagoan operated over the Central Region and Grand Trunk Western Lines, in conjunction with the Lehigh Valley, between Chicago and New York. The Washingtonian—Montreal, connecting Quebec, Ottawa and Montreal with Washington, D. C., via New York and the Bell Gate Bridge route. The Capital City Limited between Ottawa and Toronto. And the Montreal—Quebec connecting the two cities of these names.

At first glance it would appear that this is a large number of special trains for a railroad to classify as such, but when the magnitude of the entire system is remembered, it is easily realized that these trains are but a few as compared with the many which are in daily service over the whole system.

Many Features Many features in travel comfort and convenience contribute to the popularity of these trains, and there are many details, of interest to the prospective traveller, which deserve special mention.

On the Continental Limited, the National and the Ocean Limited, sleeping cars are owned and operated by the Canadian National. In these special attention has been given to the comfort and requirements of women travellers. The ladies' boudoir dressing rooms are very spacious, containing every facility such as dental facials, winged mirrors, sanitary holders for towels, controlled mirror lights, a full length mirror in door and dressing table chairs. The men's smoking room is also quite spacious and is equipped with leather upholstered sofa and chairs, providing ample seating capacity as well as adequate room for those wishing to use the wash stands etc.

In these sleeping cars the berth curtains are of a special type, the upper berth being provided with a separate curtain and so arranged that there is no possibility of the occupant falling out. Dome fasteners have also been supplied to replace the old-fashioned button.

Another detail which is much appreciated by travellers is the thermostat of ice drinking water which is placed in drawing-rooms and compartments. In the drawing room, also as well as in many of the compartments, is a special box in which the occupants may place their shoes at night. This box can be opened from the outside, enabling the porter to secure the shoes to clean and polish them without disturbing the occupants of the compartment or drawing room.

On these trains, each section is equipped with three garment hangers, two in the lower berth and one in the upper, and in the drawing room an additional portable hanger is provided. Garment hangers were first used on Canadian National cars. Window screens in Canadian National cars are of full size, providing unobstructed view for passengers. Radiant buttons on call bells and electric light controls may seem in themselves a small feature, but to the person who is not an experienced traveller they are certainly a great help. The electric floor lights in the aisles of sleeping cars for use after other lights have been extinguished is also a greatly appreciated innovation.

Electrically-controlled exhaust fans have done a great deal towards providing an even type of ventilation for these cars.

The dining-cars operated on these steel trains are modern to the last degree. The interior of each car is each and each car has seating capacity for thirty guests. The kitchens are large and equipped with every convenience, including exhaust fans which eliminate

GOSSIP OR WORSE

What grievous injury has not gossip done in this world, still doing in this world! Even the best and staunchest reputation can be worn away by the constant wear of the gossiping tongue or a villifying pen. Throw enough mud and some will stick. Such is the doctrine of the malicious gossip.

All gossip is not malicious by any means but it has the same effect. There are those who will deliberately make up stories about their fellow beings, or by suggestion plant an adverse thought in some one's mind. The piece of gossip that is based on a barefaced lie is of malicious origin. Then there is the group that reads its own explanation of a set of circumstances. Circumstances sometimes point either in a harmful direction or have no special significance at all. But there are those who must interpret along the harmful, injurious lines. They can't give their fellows the benefit of the doubt. If there is a chance to think evil, evil must be thought.

Gossip is unending in the trouble it can make. It can break up homes that would have been happy if gossiping tongues had been still. It has sent many an innocent, but sensitive creature to a suicide's grave. It wasn't long ago that a murder trial was brought about by gossip which had become so insistent and took such form that it could hardly be resisted by public officials.

We have a good many offenders against a good many laws who are altogether more respectable, more to be respected than all the gossips who sit at home in snar security and think of themselves as the Lord's anointed. Indeed there is no offender against good taste or good morals more despicable than the individual who is willing to tear to shreds the reputation of another, such attempt being based on flimsy perhaps, and maybe—Ex-only work in a saw-mill. And with all this gentleness, don't quarrel with your patient. And you will be loyal to that patient, loyal to the trust that he, or she, confers upon you. The patient pays for your time, and it is up to you to deliver good measure, even pressed down, and sometimes running over.

Economy in the household is a useful gift, and especially so at this time in Canada. Make things do. A hot compress can quite easily be made from a bit of old blanket, and a piece of the oil-cloth from the kitchen table. It does not require surgeon's lint and oiled silk from the chemist. Economize then, and make things do.

Good manners and a certain fastidiousness are requisite; to be neat and clean about the room, the food-tray, and about your own person.

Loyalty, of course to the physician whom you serve, quite regardless of any personal predilection. This means loyalty to the patient and to yourself. Above all things, don't talk too much. Respect inviolate any confidence. There is no household that I know but has a cupboard, and a cupboard with a skeleton therein. As a nurse, in any household, you are in a position of great trust. Respect that trust—don't talk too much. Don't talk at all.

Mark Twain has paid a great tribute to a good nurse, when he wrote, you remember, concerning the medicine of trouble: "If profession, the following words: 'If the medical profession had only a little more Christianity, and the Christian Scientists had only a little more science, it would not matter in the least which of the two you employed—provided always that you had a good nurse.'"

Nursing is the great handmaiden of Medicine, and the Medical Profession is truly a great Profession; and into this I welcome you today. With- in our arms, and leaning upon our strength, mankind enters this world and also leaves it; ours is the care at the beginning and at the end. Sooner or later all men come to us, the rich and the poor—and very often it is the measure, acquired. It must be possessed, if you are to succeed in your profession.

Gentleness too, is a requisite, gentleness even in the shutting of a door or the making of a bed; noise is all-in, a dancing, hurtful thing. There are some people that I know, accomplished, good work that you have doctors and nurses alike, who should do.

CROSS WORD AND RADIO RUN UP LIGHT BILLS Increased electric light bills confronted many householders last week. If members of the family are cross word puzzle fans, don't blame the Electric Light Department. Persons, who complain of increases should bear in mind that longer hours with lights going for puzzle and radio fans, is sure to show an increase in the consumption of electric energy. Pay up and look pleasant is the proper spirit in cases of this kind. It is useless to think that enjoyment of this kind can be had without in some way paying for it.

TIRED OUT ALL THE TIME

Nerves Gave Little Rest
Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Harroworth, Ontario.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would take weak, fainting spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, day or night. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman in doing what I can to publish this good medicine. I find that little book you sent me to say one I can help. You my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if I will serve to help others."

In a recent canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 100,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 said they had been helped by its use. This medicine is for sale by all druggists.

Its Uniform Quality is due to Infinite Care

YOU know how impossible it is to judge flour quality by a mere inspection.

Different flours may cost the same and look the same, yet give entirely different results. Then, too, you will often find a good flour that varies in quality—a success in one baking and a failure in the next.

Your only real safeguard in buying flour is to select one that has been tested and proven in advance—and is guaranteed uniform in quality.

Maple Leaf Flour is made from the finest selected Canadian hard wheat, skillfully blended and milled. Exact tests at every stage of its milling make possible its sale under a definite "money back" guarantee of uniform quality and satisfaction. You can depend on Maple Leaf Flour for unvarying baking results—always.

A Romance of the Spanish Main CAPTAIN BLOOD by RAFAEL SABATINI

"Nor will that serve you," Ogle warned him, still more fiercely. "The men are of my thinking, and they'll have their way." "You come to give advice, then, do you?" quoth Blood, relenting nothing of his sternness. "That's it, Captain; advice. That girl, there, she's a bare arm to point to her. Bishop's girl; the Governor of Jamaica's niece. . . . We want her as a hostage for our safety." "Aye!" roared in chorus the buccaners below. "It's a providence having her aboard; a providence. Heave to, Captain, and signal them to send a boat, and assure themselves that Miss is here. Then let them know that if they attempt to hinder our sailing hence, we'll hang the doxy and fight for it after. That'll cool Colonel Bishop's heat, maybe."

"And maybe it won't." Slow and mocking came Wolverstone's voice to answer the other's confident excitement, and as he spoke he advanced to Blood's side, an unexpected ally. "If ye're counting on pulling Bishop's heartstrings, ye're a bigger fool, Ogle than I've always thought you was. We've got to fight, my lads. . . . How can we fight, man?" Ogle stormed at him. "Then, louder than before roared a gun away to leeward. "They are within range," cried Ogle. "Wait!" Blood bade him, interrupting, and he set a restraining hand upon the gunner's arm. "There is, I think, a better way. Mine is the safe and easy way. Put the helm down," he bade Pitt. "Heave her to, and signal to them to send a boat." A silence of astonishment fell upon the ship—of astonishment and suspicious at this sudden yielding. Captain Blood turned and beckoned Lord Julian forward. Briefly and clearly he announced to all the object of Lord Julian's voyage to the Caribbean, and he informed them of the offer which yesterday Lord Julian had made to him. "That offer I rejected. But now, outwitted and likely to be outflanked, as Ogle has said, I am ready to take the way of Morgan; to accept the King's commission and shelter us all behind it." The main body of them welcomed the announcement as only men who have been preparing to die can welcome a new lease of life. "No man need follow me into the King's service who is reluctant," Blood went on. "That is not in the bargain. What is in the bargain is that I accept this service with such of you as may choose to follow me. And even those of you who do not choose to follow me shall share the immunity of all, and shall afterwards be free to depart. Those are the terms upon which I sell myself to the King. Let Lord Julian the representative of the Secretary of State, say whether he agrees to them." Prompt, eager, and clear came his lordship's agreement. Meanwhile the boat signalled to the Jamaica ships to send a boat, and the men in the waist broke their ranks and went noisily flocking to line the bulwarks and view the great, stately vessels that were racing down toward them. An Ogle left the quarter-deck, Blood turned, and came face to face with Miss Bishop. "She set a hand lightly upon his arm. "You have chosen wisely, sir," she demanded. Captain Blood appeared surprised, pained. He turned in appeal to Lord Julian. "Do ye hear that now? And did ye ever hear the like? But what did I tell ye? Ye see, the young gentleman's under a misapprehension entire. Perhaps it'll save broken bones if your lordship explains just who and what I am."

"I have the honor to inform you, sir," he said stiffly, "that Captain Blood holds a commission in the King's service under the seal of my Lord Sunderland, His Majesty's Secretary of State."

"And who the devil may you be?" "You're not very civil, sir, as I have already noticed. My name is Wade—Lord Julian Wade. I am His Majesty's envoy to these barbarous parts, and my Lord Sunderland's near kinsman. Colonel Bishop has been notified of my coming."

"I believe that he has," said Calverly, between doubt and suspicion. "That is: that he has been notified of the coming of Lord Julian Wade. But . . . aboard this ship If Captain Blood will show you his commission, perhaps that will set all doubts at rest," concluded his lordship. Captain Blood thrust a parchment under Calverly's bulging eyes. "I must return to Colonel Bishop for my orders," he informed them. At that moment a lane was opened in the ranks of the men, and through this came Miss Bishop, followed by her octoon woman. Over his shoulder Captain Blood observed her approach.

"Perhaps, since Colonel Bishop is with you, you will convey his niece to him. Miss Bishop was aboard the Royal Mary, and I rescued her, together with his lordship. She will be able to acquaint her uncle with the details of that and of the present state of affairs."

"As for me," said Lord Julian, "I must return to Colonel Bishop's departure free from all interference on the part of the buccaners. I shall remain aboard the Arabella until we reach Port Royal. My compliments to Colonel Bishop. Say that I look forward to making his acquaintance there."

HOSTILITIES
CHAPTER XIX
In the great harbor of Port Royal the Arabella rode at anchor. Almost at her side, a prison ship, for a quarter of a mile aside, to starboard, rose the lofty, massive single round tower of the fort, whilst a couple of cables length astern, and to larboard, rode the six men-of-war that composed the Jamaica squadron. On a cane-day-bed that had been set for him on the quarter-deck, Blood had not slept at all with him in the past fortnight, since his acceptance of the King's commission. There had been trouble with the Arabella until the moment of her departure. As Blood and Lord Julian had stepped shore together they had been met by Colonel Bishop, who took no pains to disguise his chagrin at the turn of events, and his determination to change it.

Blood's thoughts were upon this and other things as he lounged there on the day-bed. He had been a fortnight in Port Royal, his ship virtually a unit now in the Jamaica squadron. And when the news of it reached Tortuga and the buccaners who waited for his return, the name of Captain Blood, which had stood so high among the Brethren of the Coast, would become a by-word. And for what had he placed himself in this position? For the sake of a girl who had avoided him so persistently and intentionally that he must assume that she still regarded him with aversion. Nor was that the worst of it. He was allowed plainly to perceive that it was the graceful, elegant young trifter from St. James's, Lord Julian Wade, to whom her every moment was devoted. What chance had he, a desperate adventurer with a record of outlawry, against such a rival as that; a man of parts, moreover as he was bound to admit?

A boat that had approached unnoticed from the shore came scraping and bumping against the great red hull of the Arabella. Captain Blood rose, tall, active, and amazingly elegant in his scarlet, gold-laced coat that advertised his new position. "A note for you from the Deputy-Governor," said James Pitt, shortly Blood broke the seal and read. "It is a very preposterous summons," he said, and passed the note to his friend. The young master's grey eyes skimmed it. "You'll not go?" he said, between question and assertion. "Why did ye let Wolverstone and the others go?" he cried with a touch of bitterness. "You should have seen the danger."

"How could I in honesty have de- . . . gain. Besides, how could their staying have helped me?" And as Pitt did not answer him: "Ye see?" he said, and shrugged. "I'll be getting my hat and cane and sword, and go ashore in the cockpit. See it manned for me."

"Ye're going to deliver yourself into Bishop's hands," Pitt warned him. Blood knew as well as Pitt that in going ashore that morning he carried his life in his hands. Walking leisurely, he skirted the embattled wall and passed through the great gates into the courtyard. On his right stretched a spacious garden, beyond which rose the white house that was the residence of the Deputy-Governor. In that garden's main avenue, that was fringed with palm and sandalwood he had caught sight of Miss Bishop alone. He crossed the courtyard with sudden lengthened stride.

"Good morning to ye, ma'am," was his greeting as he overtook her; and, hat in hand now, he added on a note of protest: "Sure, it's nothing less than uncharitable to make me run in this heat."

"Why do you run, then?" she asked him coolly, standing slim and straight before him, all in white and very maidenly save in her unnatural composure. "I am pressed," she informed him. "So you will forgive me if I do not stay."

"You were none so pressed until I came."

"Since you perceive it, sir, I wonder that you trouble to be so insistent."

"Faith, you explain yourself!" after a fashion," said he. "But, since it was more or less in your service that I donned the King's coat, you should suffer it to cover the thief and pirate."

"So that ye can be charitable in some ways!" He laughed softly. "Glory be, now, I should be thankful for so much. Maybe I'm presumptuous. But I can't forget that when I was no better than a slave in your uncle's household in Barbados, ye used me with a certain kindness."

"Why not? In those days you had some claim upon my kindness. You were just an unfortunate gentleman then."

"And what else would you be calling me now?" "Hardly unfortunate. We have heard of your good fortune on the seas; how your luck has passed into a byword. And we have heard other things; of your good fortune in other directions."

"She spoke hastily, the thought of Madeleine's d'Ogeron in her mind. And instantly would have recalled the words she had said. But Peter Blood swept them lightly aside, reading into them none of her meaning as she feared he would. "Aye; a deal of lies, devil a doubt, as I could prove to you."

"I beg that you will let me pass," he commended him, "however much against your inclination. . . . I owed it to you—or thought I did," he said. "Your resolve delivered me from a horrible danger," she admitted. "But I do not understand why you should have hesitated when first it was proposed to you. It is an honorable service."

"King James's?" he sneered. "England's," she corrected him in reproof. "The country is all, sir; the sovereign naught. King James' mine; England remains, and is honourably served by her sons, whatever rancour they may hold against the man who rules her in their time."

"You should have spoken to the crew. Do you suppose now that this honorable service might redeem one who was a pirate and a thief?" "If he . . . needs redeeming. Perhaps . . . he has been judged too harshly."

"Why, if ye think that," he said, considering her, an odd hunger in his glance, "life might have its uses, after all, and even the service of King James might become tolerable. If you will go below, and get your gear and your woman, you shall presently be sent aboard one of the ships of the fleet."

"You have chosen wisely, sir," she commended him. . . . notified of the coming of Lord Julian Wade. But . . . aboard this ship If Captain Blood will show you his commission, perhaps that will set all doubts at rest," concluded his lordship.

"Why not? In those days you had some claim upon my kindness. You were just an unfortunate gentleman then."

"And what else would you be calling me now?" "Hardly unfortunate. We have heard of your good fortune on the seas; how your luck has passed into a byword. And we have heard other things; of your good fortune in other directions."

"She spoke hastily, the thought of Madeleine's d'Ogeron in her mind. And instantly would have recalled the words she had said. But Peter Blood swept them lightly aside, reading into them none of her meaning as she feared he would. "Aye; a deal of lies, devil a doubt, as I could prove to you."

That was in Bridgetown on the night of the Spanish raid. Mary Trall would tell you of it. She was present.

He clapped his hat on his head with a certain abrupt fierceness, and strode away, before she could answer or even grasp the full significance of what he had said.

An absent-minded Bishop, was travelling in Devonshire, and when the stopped at a place where tickets are inspected he searched his pockets in vain.

"It does not matter, my Lord," said the railway official.

"It matters a great deal," was the Bishop's reply, "for how can I tell where I am going to if I cannot find my ticket?"

ONTARIO TO JAIL

ALL BOOTLEGGERS

Reported Also That Doctors' Prescriptions May Be Abolished There.

Toronto, March 18—On Thursday of this week the Ontario Legislature is likely to receive from Attorney General Nichol the promised amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act which will legalize the sale of 1.4 per cent. beer, and which, it is pretty generally assumed, will make some important changes in the method of securing hard liquors for medical purposes.

Doctors' prescriptions may be abolished, although as late as Friday Premier Ferguson said that the Government had made no change in regard to it. In any event the O. T. A. amendments will contain drastic changes providing more stringent penalties on bootleggers and, according to Premier Ferguson's statements in the present session, will provide jail terms with no option of a fine for individuals who seek to make their living out of the illicit sale of liquor.

She—How's that?

He—Because he's got a mortgage on it.

Sheriff of the County of Restigouche—March 10-2 mos.

FORMER LOCAL BOY KILLED IN ONT.

Victor J. LeBlanc of Maple Green Victim of Fatal Accident Near Port Arthur.

Former friends and acquaintances of Victor LeBlanc, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William LeBlanc of Maple Green, N. B. will regret to learn of his death which occurred on March 18th, near Kemptville, Ontario, as the result of injuries sustained in an accident while on duty as a brakeman on a C. N. R. train running out of Port Arthur.

As far as can be learned, the accident occurred when Mr. LeBlanc attempted to step from the engine of his train into a freight car. His foot evidently became caught in one of the steps and he fell on a high bank of snow, sloping toward the tracks. Being unable to prevent himself from slipping under the wheels of the engine, one leg was severed at the hip and his left arm and body badly crushed.

The injured man was immediately placed in the baggage car of his own train and rendered first aid. This train, which is known as the Ashcroft local, was speedily separated from its freight car equipment and turned into a special passenger train rushing to Port Arthur on fast passenger time. The unfortunate trainman lived until reaching the city at 2:30 p. m. and the remains were taken to Thomson & Sargent's funeral parlors.

The late Mr. LeBlanc was well known here, being the son of the late William LeBlanc of Maple Green. He left home fifteen years ago to engage in railroad work and has been in the service of the C. N. R., running out of Port Arthur for the past twelve years or more. The deceased, who was thirty-four years of age, was a conductor and a member of the O. R. C., but had been working for a short time prior to his death. During the late work was the late Mr. LeBlanc served in France with the 43. Battalion.

He leaves to mourn the loss of an affectionate brother, three brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Ben of New Carlisle, Phil of late William LeBlanc and Alexis of Campbellton. The sisters are Mrs. John T. Wilent of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. J. Brossard of Maple Green. The brothers left for Port Arthur as soon as word of the accident was received and attended the funeral which was held in that city on Monday morning.

Heavy Canadian Quake Predicted

May Come at Any Time, Say Fr. Odendach—Likely to Reach Ohio.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 22—The next great earthquake may occur in Eastern Canada and probably will at the northernmost section of the United States and possibly Ohio, Fr. Odendach, seismologist, at John Carroll University here, predicted Sunday.

"This region of Canada experiences earthquakes almost daily," said the scientist. "A big quake may come any time."

FARMERS WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

Dairying On The North Shore To Be Discussed—Butter Factory Planned.

A meeting of farmers of section, at which Mr. McIntyre, Agricultural Inspector for the district will be present, is being arranged tonight for the purpose of discussing dairying on the North Shore. For the establishment of a butter factory here are also under consideration. In view of the worthlessness of movement it is to be hoped that some may attend the efforts of promoters.

WILL AFFECT AROOSTOOK

The new Canadian export duty on hydro electric energy announced by Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, in his Budget speech Ottawa yesterday, will affect Maine & New Brunswick Electric Power Company, whose plant is located at Aroostook Falls on the Brunswick side of the border of Aroostook river, it was estimated.

The tax amount to about $100,000 a year and would be levied on the power generated at Aroostook Falls.

Mr. Thos. Welsh, representing the Saw Co., is in town on business. We are looking forward to his visit and his company in some of the choir next Sunday.
