Later in the evening the emperor, Prince Chun and a dozen members of

The emperor had evidently arranged the entire ceremony with a view of impressing Prince Chun with the feeling that the ceremony meant expiation for a foul crime and that only through expiation has Prince Chun acquired he right to be treated with princely honors. Not until after the ceremony did the atmosphere change. Then, the troops outside having saluted and the band having played, Hussars escorted Prince Chun back to the Orangery. CEREMONY WAS BRIEF. The ceremony lasted only ten minutes. In the meantime, six Chinese dignarities of the highest rank, who were halted in the ante-room, remained motionless and speechless, awaiting Prince Chun's return with evident anxiety. Prince Chun returned backward from the throne room, powing profusely. There was apparently but little public interest in the mission among the people of Berlin. A small but demonstrative crowd watched Prince Chun driving in the park.

The Chinese emperor's letter to Emperor William confessed "penitence and shame" for the crime (the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister at Pekin) which he had been unable to prevent. Emperor William's reply in part was that while he was ready to believe that the Emperor of China stood aloof from the murder, all the heavier guilt resting on his advisers and the government, the latter must not delude themselves with the belief that they are able to obtain attonement and pardon for their guilt by an expiatory mission alone, but will be judged by their future conduct in accordance with the laws of nations. MYSTERY SURROUNDS SARA. Mystery surrounds recent movements of Sara Bernhardt, and the curiosity of her friends has been aroused by the secrecy maintained by the actress and her secretary regarding an illness with which she is said to be suffering. A fortnight ago Mme. Bernhardt promised her services at a charitable per-formance at St. Malo, but she did not appear, and wrote, two days aftervards, that she had an incredible experience on board a yacht, which, how-

Nothing more was heard of the actress until, in reply to a reporter who inquired for particulars, Mme. WOMEN'S WORK.

Pretoria, Sept. 4 .- Of late a large number of Boer women have importuned the authorities for permission to go to their husbands in the field to attempt to persuade them to surrender, and in many cases the permission has been granted, but it appears that the requests are frequently proferred merely as excuses by the women, who are desirous of seeing their husbands, and who have no intention of trying to get them to lay down their arms. Two prisoners were tried today on the charge of having joined their commandos after submitting to the Brit-

DROPPED DEAD ON THE MIDWAY!

Sudden Demise of a Canadian Tea Merchant at the Pan-American Exposition.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 5 .- Archibald Boyd, a visitor from Alexandria, Ont., dropped dead of heart disease in the lobby of the Moorish Palaca on the north Midway, Pan-American grounds, late yesterday afternoon. Boyd had spent the morning and a part of the afternoon on the exposition grounds, and had not complained of feeling ill. Shortly before his death, accompanied by William Lightman, a fellow townsman, he stepped into the outer entrance of the Moorish Palace, or Panopticon, at the extreme eastern end of the north Midway. Boyd was engaged in conversation with his companion, when he put his hand to his side and fell to the floor. The exposition ambulance was hurriedly summoned, but Boyd died before its arrival. Boyd's body was removed to the exposition hospital, where it was held to await the arrival of Coroner Wilson.

Boyd was 43 years old and a prominent man in his home town, where he conducted a profitable tea business. He was married and had three children living in Alexandria. Coroner Wilson ordered the body moved to Boyd's boarding place, and later com-municated with Boyd's relatives in

Something About the Utopians at Summer Brook.

A Pretty Picture of Vacation Life That Might Often Be Realized.

[Springfield Republican.]

Away up in the wilds of the Adirondacks, surrounded by great billows of mountains—Marcy and White Face topmost-is gathered together every August a little community of people—reformers, teachers, journalists and the like—who meet here for the month and exchange hand and brain work. It is not a serious attempt at community-making, only an agreeable and socially instructive way of spending a summer month together. Log-house and chalet, the opportunity to live thus in the office of Protection. to live thus is the gift of Prestonia Mann, now Mrs. Martin, of New York, who for several years was editor of the American Fabian. And the only requisite for admission is, I am told, good-breeding, there being a decided objection to fisticuff argument and such violent expressions of personal dislike as once led an emotional French "brother," acting as waiter, to spill soup over the gown of his detestation.

Each member of the community is number of people in the community; the more the cheaper.

Entering the log-house by the vine-covered porch and loafing admiringly around the big room inside, your attention, perhaps, is first attracted by the social proportions of the fireplace, with its inscription: "Ad Majorem Gloriam Amicitiae." over which is one of Walter Crane's inspiring decorations—enobled workers bearing aloft their banners of "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity." Nearby a photograph of Walts' familiar portrait of William Morris adds warmth to the hearth. You linger by the long western window which frames mountains and valley, gaze at e solidity of the beams overhead, the broad staircase which leads to the chambers above, and begin to wonder if you can stop looking around long enough to read a Fabian essay or some other of the books placed so temptingly on rustic shelves and table. Through a back door near the book-shelves you pass into the dining-room—a broad veranda, with big spruce trunks for posts, long table and Shaker chairs. And now you look down upon a wooded ravine which grandly accentuates the height of the mountains beyond. On the other side of this ravine is the summer home of "advanced" in the competitive contest station.

She was cited for examination, and stood highest in the competitive contest that followed. Point clinary limits at the competitive contest that followed. Point of land jutting into the sea Mrs, Fish obtained permission to add to the accommodations, and built a comfortable residence with modern improvements for herself. The grounds that had heretofore brought forth only tin cans and old boots were improved, and the erstwhile brickyard now blossoms as a rose, with decorative and useful vegetation. Mrs. Fish tense for her new quarters her spoils of travel in many lands, her handsome furniture, Jersey cows and fine horses, and her Chinese servants, of whom she says it would require an act of emancipation to separate them from her.

Mrs. Fish keeps the light with great care, allowing no one to relieve her of the mo centuates the height of the mountains beyond. On the other side of this ravine is the summer home of "advanced individualism," to whose learned lectures one "brother" rather naughtily suggests that we take the clothes to dry on a wet Monday. dry on a wet Monday.

are easy enough! Another entry, at right angles, is part papered with quotations from some of our greatest Bellamy, Ruskin, Morris, humans. Tolstoi and many more are here, all speaking the truths we have yet to You pass throught the adjoining shed and along a plank walk, by gay poppy beds, over to the chalet-a decorative structure of spruce and birch where the sleeping-rooms are, each cot, wash-stand, table and candle, hooks and shelves, so restfully simple and airy. One of my latticed windows faced the thatch-roofed stable of Aristophanes the donkey. "'Arry," you see, has a whole house to himself, and a servant-sometimes more than one-and he is really the most exclusive in the community. All individual alone in his house, he contentedly wags his ears; thought sometimes when I listened to that most obstreperous bray. I could not help thinking that perhaps it might be the donkey's expression of a social unrest which even an individual kick could not satisfy.

On Monday we all did the week's washing in about sixty minutes. The 'brothers' worked the two machines, while the "sisters' handled the wringers. An exclamation at the rapid disappearance of buttons was checked by "Brother John's" editorial announcement that no buttons could be returned unless accompanied by self-addressed, Tuesday, stamped envelopes.' course, was ironing day. It made the hour pass quickly to work beside a "sister" who had been "mistress of the dairy" in the workaday Brook Farm; to hear about Margaret Fuller, cold of eye, coming there to rest, the young Hawthorne in search of a home for himself and wife, interesting personal details of that famous at-tempt to materialize the great ethical uplift of the time. On Wednesday morning, perhaps, a portion of us would choose to tramp a mile over to the farm and there trim trees with saw and ax until time to start back for dinner. And so on to Saturday night, when the rugs were rolled off the floor of the log-house, our musician seated herself piano, and old and young joined in the march and danced to end the week merrily. While the lesson it all taught of equal work and play and freedom to speak and act within the common law of kindness was the best Sunday sermon in the world.

Every evening, at supper, the red labor book was passed along the table, a kind of collective conscience whereon was recorded the amount and sort of work done by each member during the day. And "the lazy man who will not do his share" certainly did not show up here. Then, after supper, we would listen to an hour's talk on Morris, Burns, Marx or Wagner, the social conscience of Dickens as expressed so clearly in different passages of his Brother Will's lately published historical novel. Before each meal, "Sister Mann" would give us food for discussion frem Bellamy's "Equality." Ruskin or Mr. Dooley; and the table talk often was lively, for around the board sat women and men of varying opinions, social and political. The young lawyer who was sure that Bryan's election meant disaster to the country, sat side by side of the English Fabian who was preparing to stump for Bryan. The conscientious Marxian socialist admired the young woman of aristocratic convictions; and the young lady in silken gown, when asked for a defi-nition of abstract justice said she had read "Das Kapital." "Conservatives" and "radicals" came to at least a better understanding of their differences. To live thus, working together, discussing and playing is certainly a social pleasure and benefit in these days of diseased individualism, and heartily recommended to any little group of co-operative thinkers who will plan to utilize an abandoned farm.

SOME KEEPERS OF LIGHTHOUSES.

Brave, Faithful and Clever Women Who Have Created Happiness Amid Lonely Surroundings.

The first women to be appointed light-Each member of the community is required to give at least two hours' work in and around the house every morning, and one hour of teaching, if desired, at night. In this way all the daily work of living is accomplished by "brothers and sisters," with the exception of the cooking, which is left to professionals in the kitchen. And the cost of so living, being equally shared, amounts to a trifle over $3 - a week for each member. This sum varies, of course, according to the number of people in the community; the more the cheaper.

The first women to be appointed lighthouse keepers on the Pacific coast are widows, Mrs. Emily A. Fish, at Point Pinos, and Mrs. Julia F. Williams, of Humboldt, California. The story of the former appointee is one of the most pleasing experiences known to lighthouse inspectors. Mrs. Fish was the wife of an army surgeon, who resigned his commission to practice in Monterey. He lived extravagantly, and died leaving his wife just means enough to be poor without being an object of charity. Mrs. Norvell speaks of this period as a "sad novitiate when I took up my husband's work and kept a huge light and several beacons for years. Now I have been rewarded, and signally, too, and given this ideal home on famous Lake Pontchartrain. I have spent some of my best days in a tall lighthouse, glving my services to my country, not as my revolutionary ancestors did, in battle, but in peace, perhaps salvation. nalipox Nurse Traveled from Saginaw Bay City, Mich., in a Bathrobe.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 5.—According to Dr. M. C. Bristol, the Saginaw Board of Health is composed of a peculiar lot f people. His story was told at a speal meeting of the board of health of his city.

The doctor's sister-in-law, Miss nelia McGilvery, a nurse, attended umerous smallpox patients in Sagaw county, and a short time ago as taken with the disease herself, nd sent to the detention hospital. The Saginaw authorities asked the amily, who live here, to send a urse, and Miss McGilvery's sister, uriel, went to care for her, although was not immune.

A few days ago, between 10 and 11 lock at night, Miss Muriel appeared Dr. Bristol's home here, clad only underclothing and bath robe, in hich garments she had walked four les from the Saginaw detention hosal to a street car, and came to this in an interurban car.

liss Muriel's story was that before sister had fully recovered. Dr. in, who was in charge of the hospiwanted to take a vacation, and ered the patient discharged and the ce disinfected. The sisters were ced on the lawn and left there sevral hours waiting the pleasure of the ealth officer, and Muriel was then old to go home, but given none of er clothing, being forced to make er way in the attire which she wore en she reached here. Miss Muriel came down with a mild se of smallpox, a day or two after er arrival, and is now being cared for y Dr. Bristol.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 5.-Charles Llewellyn, cashier for R. T. Holman & Co., of this city, was accidentally drowned at Summerside Tuesday

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 5 .- J. T. Pearce and Alfred Cameron, two young business men of Lake Linden, were drowned in Portage Lake by the overturning of a rowboat in which they were racing.

FATAL RUNAWAY ACCIDENT. Kingston, Ont., Sept. 5.—Daniel Campbell, carter, was seriously injured in a runaway yesterday. Death ensued some hours later.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING. San Diego, Texas, Sept. 5 .- A runner from the ranch of Cayetanos Rios, about eight miles west of this place has reached here with the information that Luis Canirollo, Fustacio Resendez, Ysabel Lopez and Jesus Rios were killed by lightning, and that Juan Trevino was fatally injured. The five men took refuge in a small house.

DEAD AT HIS POST. Rat Portage, Ont., Sept. 5.—James Norton, a lighthouse keeper at Tomahawk Island, in the Lake of the Woods, 65 miles south of here, was found dead on Monday night by the crew of the Monarch, one of the Rat Portage Lumber Company's tow boats.

CRUSHED BY TROLLEY CAR. Detroit, Sept. 5 .- Before the eyes of his mother, little Arthur Barz, the 7year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barz, 93 Thirty-first street, was caught on the fender of a swiftly-moving Michigan avenue car and then ground to death under the wheels at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The little fellow has been to the western market with his mother, and they had just reached Twenty-fifth street when the child spied an ice wagon across the street. He called to his mother and then made a dash. With the coveted piece of ice in his hands he started back across the street, not noticing the fast approaching car.

KILLED BY LANDSLIDE. Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 5.-Three men were killed and two others seriously injured by a landslide at the new Lake Shore bridge over the entrance of Gordon Park today. Seven hundred tons of earth, loosened by the flood of Sunday, suddenly slid down from the bank burying a force of laborers engaged in work on the bridge. The Angelo Donno, Nick Manico

She was shot by an Italian who gave his name to the police as Ambelie Raisles. The shooting took place in St. Lawrence street, one of the most frequented thoroughfares of the city. Baisles' act, according to reports of eyewitnesses, was entirely unprovoked. The woman is at the general hospital in a serious condition. Baisles

LADIES KILLED AT CROSSING. Milwaukee, Sept. 5.-Mrs. S. S. Barney, of West Bend, wife of Congress-man S. S. Barney, of the fifth district, and Mrs. W. H. Ramsay, sen., of Port Washington, wife of a former state bank comptroller, were killed by a Northwestern train Tuesday, one mile south of Port Washington station The women were driving across the track, and the train struck them. Their identification proved a tragic affair. After many had viewed the remains, W. H. Ramsay, jun., who was about to take a train for Port Washington, was asked if he recognized the bodies. Mr. Ramsay picked up the covering on the body of Mrs. Barney, but the remains were so terribly mangled he could not make out the features. He lifted the cover from the other body, and fell back trembling, with blanched face. He had looked upon the dead face of his mether.

UNNATURAL FLESH. Reduced by Leaving Off Coffee and Using Fostum Food Coffee.

"I have used coffee many years; in fact, ever since I was a child, until a few months ago I became satisfied it hurt me—caused the miserable, drowsy feeling and the bloated condition of my body. I was very fleshy all the time, unnaturally fleshy.

"Since I left off drinking coffee and use Postum Food Coffee the effect has been wonderful. I feel like a different person. The bloating has all gone. I am very much thinner and more natural in shape, have a better appetite and do not feel sleepy and drowsy as before. I shall never use any more regular coffee.

"When first I tried Postum I was not satisfied with it, but decided that the fault must be my own, for so many people used Postum and liked it that I knew there was some trouble in my preparation of it, so I examined the directions carefully and found that I should boil it long enough to bring out the flavor and the food value. When I prepared it right it was elegant and I am more than pleased with the delicious beverage I have for break-fast every morning." Mrs. E. M. Pope, 1158 Twenty-third street, Detroit.

Negro Charged With Assaulting a Girl Killed by an Alabama Mob.

Troy, Ala., Sept. 4. - Bill Fourney alias Bill Hilliard, a negro, charged with assaulting Miss Wilson at Chestnut Grove, was shot and his body burned by a mob near the scene of his crime yesterday.

Miss Wilson, who is 17 years old, and the daughter of Dr. Carroll, about 12 years old, were on their way to school at Chestnut Grove, just across the line in Coffee county, when they were overtakei by the negro. The negro seized Miss Wilson, and the other girl ran off. As she did so he fired his pistol at her, but missed her. The little girl raised the alarm, and soon a posse was in pursuit of the ne-gro. When they reached the scene of the crime they found Miss Wilson un-conscious and terribly injured. The posse tracked the negro to his home, where he was found in bed, saying he was sick. The little girl identified him

By their ANTI-BILIOUS properties they stimulate the liver in the secretion of the bile and its discharge through the billiary ducts. These Pills, in doses of from two to four, will quickly regulate the action of the liver and free the patient from these disorders. One or two of Radway's Pills taken daily by those subject to bilious pains and torpidity of the liver will keep the system regular and secure healthy digestion.

"I am 120 miles from the nearest drug store, and want you to send me a dozen boxes of your Fills. I have muscular rheumatism, and for nine months have been at Hot Springs. My liver and kidneys are affected. I find that your Pills do me more good than all the medicine I have taken and the Springs combined. "Respectfully, W. JAMES. "Harqua Haia, Yuma County, Arizona." "Your Radway's Pills have worked wonderfully in my family. My children, when sick, have received instantaneous and complete relief by their use. Sudden colds, sore throat, I find I can quickly cure by the use of your Ready Relief and Pils. They should not be wanting in any well-kept home. "That doubly serves what helps you once." SEPTEMBER MAGAZINES.

The September number of Table Talk contains some very excellent articles. One, entitled "Mushrooms, Their Food Values and Poisonous Properties," goes into the subject exhaustively. It tells you how to detect the poisonous ones and how to prepare the good ones. It is written by Dr. E. Elmer Keeler, an eminent authority on this subject in the States. "Queer, Quaint and Curious Corea" is written by an old traveler, who has in her travels gone out of the beaten paths of globe trotters and has given in this article information about the queer customs of these little-known people that will interest anyone. At Chicago thousands of copies of the World's Fair number were sold at $1 a copy after the edition—the plates having been worn out—began to be exhausted, and a few copies at the price of $5—something that has never happened in the history of any other periodical since printing was invented. The Cosmopolitan's Pan-American scuvenir will be an even finer number than that of the Chicago Fair. To those who have visited the exposition it will recall vividly in days to come every feature they have seen, and those unable to go there will secure such a comprehensive view of its main attractions as will be well worthy of preservation. Boom the Western Fair!

Toronto newspapers have been making a strong appeal to the citizens to stand by the Toronto Industrial Fair, on the ground that it is a great advertisement to the city, conferring many direct and indirect benefits, and bringing to the Provincial Capital not a few visitors, who, getting into the habit, come again and again. Every word uttered in favor of the Toronto Exhibition applies with equal force as a stimulus to increasing friendliness on the part of the citizens of London in regard to our magnificent Western Fair, now in progress and open to the

The managers and directors are asking for a special manifestation of goodwill from the citizens of London in the shape of an especially large attendance on Monday next.

The Western Fair is one of the greatest yearly exhibitions on the continent. It is no small advantage and credit to London to be the seat of so splendid a display. As a matter of local pride, as well as of enlightened self-interest, The Advertiser would ask every citizen to take an enthusiastic interest in its suc-

Railways, Electricity and Progress

Any number of articles have been written to show, and it would be taken for granted that railways have made wonderful progress during the past 50 years. So they have, in speed, comfort and safety. But how much less does it cost to go to Toronto today than it did nearly 50 years ago? Bills have been introduced into the Dominion House of Commons to make a twocent rate compulsory. Mr. Maclean, the member for East York, has more than It may be that out West, or in the thinly settled parts, such a law would be unfair; but does any such objection apply to the well-settled parts, such as old Ontario? The State of New York has a twoflourish. If, therefore, the law could not fairly be applied to all Canada, why not apply it to such part as is in justice entitled to it?

Many of the arguments that could Maclean's bills were introduced, have ceased to have any force now. The introduction of electricity and the multiplication of electric railways have largely taken away the argument of the great original cost. The people of today ought not to be asked to pay a rate based on the cost of building &

The Term Canadian.

Many have been the comments during the past on the monopolistic or exclusive use of the term "American" by the people of the United States. It is difficult to find a word applicable to the people of the neighboring republic that contains euphony and convenience of pronunciation. There is no appartaining to a double continent should single country. We admit that very little can be done by way of rescuing the appellation "American" from the exclusive use of the people of the United States; much can be done, though, by the Canadian press by ceasing to cater to their vanity.

A good suggestion has been thrown out by a contemporary, namely, to emphasize the word "Canadian." Not enough stress has been laid upon the significance of that word which has so many desirable and so few qualities. "Canadian" products, whether natural or manufactured, carry with them a purity and hardiness of quality which recommend them to consumers the world Canadian products wherever prac-

Ald. Campbell's Suggestion.

The proposal of Ald. Cl. T. Campbell. that the City Council should appoint three park overseers, was referred back to committee for certain changes. We trust that no changes will be made such as would destroy the intention of Campbell's proposal. London's parks and trees are among the city's most valuable and interesting assets. It implies no lack of confidence in the members of the Council, nor in any official, to say that neither parks nor trees can ever be properly looked after by yearly processions of changing aldermen. What is wanted is continuity. and the working out of large, well-considered plans. This can only be had by the appointment of park overseers along the lines suggested by Ald. Campbell.

Arbitration in New Zealand.

With what avidity did the opponents of compulsory arbitration seize upon the statement cabled from Sydney, New South Wales, the other day, to the effect that Mr. Seddon, Premier of New Zealand, had admitted that the arbitration law of that country not succeeded in securing its passage. is a failure, and had declared its abandonment to be "imperatively demanded in the interests of industrial peace."

As we expected, it turns out that Premier Seddon made no such statement, and that the whole telegram was cent rate, and the railways appear to a "fake" worthy of the Montreal fabricator of sensations for Opposition Journals. The fact that the news was sent from New South Wales, instead of from New Zealand, ought to have put those tempted to place faith in be urged against it at the time Mr. it on their guard, and should have restrained them from penning homilies on the supposed utter failure of the New Zealand experiment.

The Quebec Opposition journalist is a veritable Rip Van Winkle! Where has he been hiding all these months? Having failed to do so, they surely are debarred from cavilling should the royal commissioners hand back their commission with the statement that having repeatedly held sittings to hear evidence, and having advertised far and wide that they were ready to hear testimony, no one responded to their appeal.

It is a humiliating dilemma that these Opposition leaders have put themseives in. They have acted the part of common caluminators, and now they berate those who supplied them with the opportunity they professed to be longing to have presented and bewail the fact that the commission did not hear the evidence that they failed to produce! Great Scotch Preacher in America

The Scottish American refers to the coming of a distinguished preacher from Edinburgh, Rev. Hugh Black. belongs to St. George's United Free Church, Edinburgh, and preached his first sermon in America last Sunday in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York,

He first preached in Paisley, where he was very successful: then went to Edinburgh, and for six years he has been associated with Rev. Dr. Whyte, in St. George's in Edinburgh. In the City Temple in London he is almost as welcome as Dr. Joseph Parker It is true that the New Zealand Premier has been speaking on the subject

His coming to America is creating a stir in Presbyterian circles in New York, as he is one of Scotland's greatspare, with a smooth face, a wealth of hair and large eyes. He was born and educated in Scotland; is fond of unusual texts, and is more clerical in appearance, dress and bearing than most Presbyterian ministers. We hope he will come to Canada, and that Londoners may have a chance to hear

Two Sides of Socialism.

There are two sides to the socialistic problem, as there are to almost anything that comes within the domain of discussion. The Socialist seeks the establishment of industrial democracy through the agency of the State. The strength of Socialism, taken in a broad sense, consists in its plea for the scientific organization of the productive forces of society and a just distribution of annual social income. Socialism is necessarily opposed to competition. It is co-operative. In an ideal social democracy, if such were possible, there would in a sense be great economy in the means of production and distribution. Under the competitive system two railways are sometimes built where one would be sufficient. Two trains run parallel between two towns where one would serve the public just as well. The waste of human force incident to increasing business enterprise would be obviated. These are some of the sources of strength of socialism. Much also is made out of the justice plea, namely that it cannot be claimed that each one's income is at present in exact proportion to his services to humanity. The popularity of socialistic theories is due largely to the fact that it is easier to plan than to execute. There are many evils that are perfectly palpable, but for which it is quite another thing to find the proper remedy. The one thing needful and the object that has not yet been attained is a theory that will work in actual life. Socialism seeks satisfaction. Were it not for discon- bottles 25c. tent, doubtless with good reasons, polit-We make these suggestions because, glican), and Rev. It is desirable that some should serve the public in an adapted to that work—but it is equally desirable that an ample field should be left for those who prefer private initiative and activity. It seems to the author that thus only will our civilization be rendered rich and full."

Great Britain All Right.

Sir C. H. Tupper used to tell the Dominion Parliament that Great Britain was going to the dogs-that her commerce was being fatally assailed by her rivals. Lord Strathcona is in a much better position to speak on this subject than was the champion longspeech-maker of Canada. His Lordship, as an intelligent Canadian, a man of large affairs, and a resident in the heart of the Empire, has no misgivings with regard to the position of the motherland and her prospects. "England," he said to a Montreal interviewer this week, "is all right. She is constantly progressing, and it is nonsense to talk about her decadence, or that she is losing her prestige either at home or abroad." This is the view of all fair investigators of the position of Great Britain. It is only those who have party ends to advance, or who are jealous of the splendid standing of the United Kingdom, who undertake to argue to the contrary.

Mr. Henry Watson, postmaster at Highgate, has quite a collection of interesting relics, one of the most interesting of which is a large petrified tur-

A noted French engineer asserts that the Nicaragua Canal, if built, will cost the United States at least $500,000,000, and then there will be no guarantee that the tremendous tropical storms, with their colossal downpours of rain. may not render the canal useless almost as soon as constructed. It may be just as well for Great Britain to undertaking the job. If this French expert knows what he is talking about the United States people would mighty soon tire of an enterprise so very precarious.

Men Cut of the Church.

(The Congregationalist.) Working men are outside of the Church for the same reason that rich men are outside of it. Both are living for what they can get, though they are pursuing it in different ways, and the rich man seems to have the advantage. But the Church can attract neither by offering them substitutes for what they possess, to aid them in their pursuit. What it has to offer is a different purpose in life, to give, instead of to get. Suppose it be admitted that the church has forgotten its mission, that as some working men say it does not teach the priciple of Jesus

Fashion in Feathers.

[Boston Herald.]

The birds who have been closely scanning the fashion journals to see which branch of their family is likely to be murdered this fall for the trimming of rats according to Dame Fashion's edict will be pleased to learn that ostrich tips are to be used largely this fall and winter. As a matter of course, most any sort of a bird from a canary to a turkey buzzard comes in in trimming a hat, so none of the feather tribe should consider themselves immune from the dangers that have always confronted them.

Another Point of View.

[Rev. G. Campbell Morgan.] I am sometimes asked if I believe in faith healing, and I always say absolutely "No;" I believe in divine healing, which is a very different matter. I do not think there is any healing that is not divine. When I am ill I will get the best medical skill I can and thank God for it every time, perfectly sure that under certain conditions, and at certain points, for certain reasons, God can heal me without medical skill if he will do it. What I object to in the nonsense talk of today is that God must heal me if I

There is, unfortunately, no accurate record of the amount of our yearly immigration from Canada, and there is fortunately-in the West at least-rarely any occasion to distinguish between the Canadian immigrants and the native-born population. The English and Scotch Canadians constitute a wholly homogeneous element in our popula-lation. It is in fact, almost the only important part of our present immigration which those who care national homogeneity can regard with satisfaction. The figures of our immigration bureau for the year just ended show the following contrast with with conditions twenty years ago:

IT KEEPS THE MUSCLES PLIANT.—

Men given to muscular sports and exercises and those who suffer muscular pains from bicycle riding, will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil something worth trying. As a lubricant it will keep the muscles pliable and free from pains which often follow constant use of them without softening or impairing their strength. For bruises, sprains and contusions it is without a peer.

Shape-retaining,

When you step down, your foot sinks into the Resilia Centresole, away from the toe cap. This makes the shoe a size larger inside, when your foot is widest, so the upper leather is never stretched out of shape over ball. When you lift your foot, the insole expands from the outsole, thus taking up slack in the leather, preventing wrinkling and over running on sides. The shoe thus retains shape and wears longer, because it is never over-stretched.

are running at large, contrary to by-law, and breaking into crops continuously. What redress have the sufferers? There is no pound convenient, and it is npleasant for each individual to imound his neighbor's stock. Is the pathster obliged to keep the road clear being notified? Ans.-It is not the ity of the pathmaster unless specially made so by the bylaw. The bylaw should provide a penalty on the owners of animals running at large. If it does the remedy is to have them presecuted before a justice of the peace. The township clerk will on application furnish a copy of bylaw. The owners of the animals are liable to an action for damages done by their animals when running at large in any case.

LANDLORD .- A house is rented to man with no visible means of support, who occupies it with his wife's parents. The mother-in-law owns the furniture. The house has been occupied since April last and the rent is paid till Aug. 17, but as it was to be in advance they are now one month in arrears. What steps can I take to secure my rent, or in the event of failure to do this, how can I have them injured whether the fire was set o ejected? Ans .- You can distrain for the month's rent due, but the tenant is en- not.

The grain market was very well attended here this morning, both by buyers and sellers. Wheat and oats formed the bulk of receipts, as usual. Corn deliveries were considerably heavier, and there was quite a little peas and barley marketable. Prices were same as on Saturday with the exception of corn, which was about to lower. Closing quotations were:

New wheat, $110 to $112; old wheat, $112 to $114.

New oats, $5c to 96c; old oats, $1 to $114.

New oats, 95c to 96c; old oats, $1 to $1 14. Corn, $1 to $1 10. Barley, 85c to 90c. Peas, $1 to $1 65.

The general demand was good.
Hay receipts were rather light, and demand not very brisk; sales ranged from the live and dressed hog market was gulet and prices unchanged.

A SAD TALE.

Quite a Number of Cree Indians Have Died of Starvation.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 5. - Corre received by the Indian spondence department goes to sustain the statements made by Rev. J. G. Stevthe ens, Methodist missionary, that a number of Cree Indians had perished from starvation in the Oxford House district, 100 miles north of Winnipeg, during the winter of 1899-1900. Grossly exaggerated reports of the reverend gentleman's statement were unfortunately sent out to the press, in which he was represented as having said that forty Indians had died of hunger and hundreds of others were in the last stages of starvation. The actual number of victims mentioned by Mr. Stevens was fourteen, but he said he had been also told that a tentful of others succumb-ed. Mr. C. C. Chipman, Hudson Bay commissioner, admitted that a number of Indians in the Oxford House district died from starvation. The sufferers the commissioner said, were too far from relief to make their condition known so that assistance could be given or sent to them in time.

THE STEEL

MEN'S STRIKE.

Was Apparently Not Affected by the Last The Hostess Deliberately Drank a Deadly "Peace" Conference.

New York, Sept. 4.-Today's peace onference was asked for in behalf of President Gompers and President Mitchell. The session lasted continuously

President Gompers said he would be in New York tomorrow, and the statement was taken as an indication that he has not given up his effort to effect a settlement. One of the steel officials made this brief statement:

"Nothing was accomplished by the conference. The strike is just in the same position as before it was held, Future action is with the strikers. I don't know of anything that is to be done. The Steel Corporation has re-stated its position and the men themselves must elect what they will do on the subject."

The latest edition of the Evening Telegram says:
"Charles M. Schwab's proposal to the strikers was that the company shall retain as 'open' mills all those which it has succeeded in starting and operating since the strike was de-clared. Pittsburg, Sept. 4 .- McKeesport was thrown into a state of consternation this afternoon by the arrival of a force of deputies, demanded of Sheriff William C. McKinley by the officials of the American Tinplate Company. Mayor R. J. Black held a conference over the telephone with the sheriff. Later he went to Pittsburg and on his return was boiling over with indigna-tion. He denounced the action of Sheriff McKinley in the bitterest terms. Later he gave out a signed statement in which he declared that the action of the sheriff was uncalled for and ill-advised, reiterated his ability to maintain order, and called on the strikers to give the lie by their conduct to the Chloroforming Incurables.

"The civilization of today has not been ground to that razor-edged keenness when the painless putting to their final sleep of incurables would be justified," said a well-known Washington alienist. "The progeny of a single couple of de-generates and paupers have been traced to their various ramifications through several generations, and out of over 1,000 descendants 95 per cent have become paupers, thieves, convicts, murderers, persons of ill-repute and charges upon the public in one form or another, male and female alike. Students of this in-teresting social question have made other compilations of degenerate families with ally authentic and startling results.

power of the state to legislate for protection of the majority against the sof the minority is undisputed, and is exemplified in many ways, notably in arresting lawbreakers and confining them in prisons, the control and restraint of lunatics and the seizing and isolation of smallpox patients. In the advanced civil-ization of future centuries this power will have been greatly extended, and will, will have been greatly extended, and who doubt, place an iron-bound restriction upon the marriage of persons in undesirable mental and physical condition, with the object of the benefit of mankind in general."—Washington Star.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Geo. Hanson, a St. Marys stonemason, was yesterday committeed for trial at the December sessions on a charge of appropriating to his own use an overcoat owned by R. E. Graham, hotelkeeper, at Ilderion. It appears that on May 1 last Hanson hired a rig from Graham, and borrowed the coat. He failed to return the latter and told several conflicting stories to account for its absence. Hanson, it is alleged, promised to pay for the coat, but did not do so, hence the present charge. The case was heard by Field, B. C. Squires Smyth and Lacey, Detective Northgreaves having served the papers in it. Hanson was released on $400 bail.

TO THE NOISE

Street Railway Company Have Put Their Cars in Good Repair.

The street railway company's cars are in better repair today than they have been for a long time. A campaign of improvement all round has been instituted by the company. Cars that have had flat wheels have had them replaced; loose gearing has been remedied, and even now men are raisof the most annoying sources of noise -it not only makes a racket for a car to go over a sunken joint, but soon loosens the gearing so that it makes a noise wherever it is.

they said they hadn't. "Haven't noticed it?" he'd say. "Why, where are your ears. The gearing of 74 has been fixed and the flat wheel on —" and so he went over the list of former nerve-rackers. "It just shows what the company can do if it wants to," he said. "The cars now are in first class shape and can be kept that way with very little trouble. Then, there wouldn't be this trouble about noise all the time." Mechanical Foreman Welburn, the repair department, disclaimed any credit on the part of the company, for any extra work at the present

"No," he said, "we've just worked ahead at the usual rate, doing what we can to keep the cars in good shape.' The fact remains that more cars have started running quietly in a given time than has been the case for many seasons, and those who have been worried by the noise are correspondingly happy.

Edwin E. Bugler, a teamster, living on Christie street, was painfully injured on Richmond street shortly after noon today. He was driving north, PRETTY WEDDING and near Kent street he turned on to the street or tracks to pass a north-bound wagon in front. Trolley 102 of the Wellington street line came along behind him and struck his vehicle, throwing Bugler off. He was carried to Dr. Stutt's office, where he was found to be suffering so painfully that his exact injuries could not be immediately ascertained. His back was severely wrenched, and it is though that several ribs are broken.

City Clark Unearths Valuable Papers of Early Date.

Report of London and Port Stanley Board of '59 Reveals True Purpose of the Road's Construction.

In a hunt for documents relating to the Lake Erie and Detroit River Railway Company, City Clerk Kingston has discovered a very valuable one, the annual report of Sept. 2, 1857, in which is contained an account of the first year in which it was operated. It was presented at a meeting of the directors by the president, Mr. L. Lawing the tracks at joints. These are one rason, and Mr. W. Bowman, secretary.

Some of the statements made by the president are interesting, because they show that the board of that day had much the same ideas concerning the value of the road as have been voiced The city engineer is delighted, naturally. This morning he was asking everybody he met if they noticed the change, and looked disappointed if loudly in favor of trying for a larger rental than that offered by the Walkers, he has maintained that the road's value should not be considered from this viewpoint alone, but should be largely estimated from the foundation fact that its possession was vastly beneficial to the city indirectly by reason of balking the purposes of the

This argument is backed up by the report of 1857 thus: "The building of this road," says the report, "is altoge-ther a municipal enterprise, and was commenced solely with a view to the general advancement and improvement the French colonies, of the Mexican of the country, and as a check to monand south American republics, who congratulated and thank-ed the commissioners of Canada, of the Country, and as a check to monand south American republics, who opolies, and not from any expectation the road was constructed, direct pe-cuniary benefits were of secondary import and its real value was, as Mayor Rumball contended, in its power to control the trunk lines.

"From the geographical and local po-sition of the London and Port Stanley Railway," it says further, "its direct communication with the leading thoroughfares in the United States and Canada * * * we must come to the conclusion that our railway, with prop-er managament * * * will ultimately become a well-paying road equal, if not superior, to any other short railroad in the province.

The report stated that by the reduction of rates caused by the road in the one year it had been operated, the city saved £11.930.

Fruit for Summer Thirst.

[The Lancet.]

Chemical analysis would assign practically no nutritive value to the juicy fruits, for they consist of little more than a cellulose envelope containing a solution of sugar, the amount varying from 17 per cent, as with grapes, to about 1.4 per cent, as with lemons. The amount of water in fruit is considerable. In watermelons it is no less than 95 per cent; in grapes, 80 per cent; in oranges, 86 per cent; in lemons, 90 per cent; in peaches, 88 per cent; in apples, 82 per cent; in pears, 84 per cent; in plums, 80 per cent; in nec-tarines, 83 per cent, and in strawberres, 90 per cent, not a fruit in the whole category containing less than 80 per cent. The irresistible conclusion, considering these facts, is that fruit plays an important role in diet as a thirst quencher. Certainly, when fruits are freely represented in the diet less fluid requires to be consumed, and fruits would appear to be endowed with a subtle, inimitable flavor which is ample inducement to imbibe fluid in this most wholesome form. The question so prominent in people's thoughts at this hot season of the year as to what to drink might, therefore, on sound physiological reasoning, be answered, eat sound, ripe, juicy fruit. It is noticeable that as fruit enters into the diet the induigence in alcoholic drinks is diminished. Thus it is most satisfactory to observe people taking a good juicy slice of melon as preparatory to a meal instead of sherry and bitters or a "cocktail." This is a most commendable practice, and the proceeding is, dietetically speaking, perfectly rational. The flavorings of fruits, aithough of little nutritive value, are undoubtedly stimulants to the appetite and aids Pittsburg, Sept. 5.—Further breaks fresh-cut fruit is perfectly free from milk, and the fruit acids tend to inhibit of power of those disease-proday. Peaches and that delicious and delicately flavored fruit, the nectarine, contain quite a small quantity of sugar, and this, coupled with the fact of the tenderness of their pulp, makes them suitable for the gouty and dia betic. There can be no doubt that the juice of sound, ripe fruit is an ideal means of assuaging the intense thirst of hot weather—cooling, refreshing and of an agreeable flavor.

It is a common experience that the more a person drinks to satisfy the demands of thirst in hot weather, the worse he feels. The temptation is to gulp down huge quantities of fluid, with the result that excessive perspiration sets in and a very uncomfortable and unrelieved feeling follows. the other hand, a judicious amount of sound, ripe, juicy fruit, while containing all the water necessary to assuage thirst, would lead to no such distress, and would exercise other healthy effects on the bodily functions.

Passing of the Ear-Ring.

A French savant is protesting vigor-ously against the practice among civilized women of wearing ear-rings. He pronounces it not only a relic of barbarism, extraordinary and incongru-ous at this stage of the world's progress, but remarkable, besides, in the light of our improved sanitary knowledge. Every wound, or even abrasion, of the skin is a danger spot, thoroughly understood in these days of germs and microbes, and wanton laceration of a healthy part of the body for the display of gold and jewels is a relic of savage vanity which the modern woman should be ashamed of. It may be added, for the savant's enlightenment. that the custom is by no means prevalent as formerly. Comparatively few mothers nowadays, even those whose ears bear the trace of the puncturing needle, consent to the operation to their daughters, and still fewer daughters suggest or desire it.

FRIEND'S,

"What a Job's comforter you are!" re-torted Elsie. "I dont feel the least afraid now that we are out of the house. Come on, Jem; keep up your courage."
"I had the most awfullest dream, miss," began Jem.

"Eggs are not worth calling eggs at this time of the year, Jem; I wouldn't talk about eggs. Your mind must be running on a Christmas pudding."

"And there's a big one hanging up in the kitchen, and a mince ple wot Jetty made with things as Miss Phillipson left for to make them, and if those villains get in they'll eat 'em every bit up!"

Jem sighed a heavy sigh. Plum pudding and mince pie were both alike dear unto his childish heart. Elsle appreciated his fear and his dismay. Little Jem was no better and no worse than hundreds of tear and his dismay. Little Jem was no better and no worse than hundreds of other boys whom one meets in this oddly-adjusted world. The prospect of the loss of the pudding appealed more keenly to his sensibilities than the idea of the destruction of Jetty, with whom he often quarreled, though on the whole there was a tolerably friendly feeling existing between them between them.

On, on, the two hastened. When they reached the Tryst the black clouds blotted out the moon, and the snow began to whirl around in dazzling circles. The fugitives bent their faces towards the ground and ran on. At last the welcome lamp lights of the

At last the welcome lamp lights of the village appeared in sight—one, two, three, gleaming yellow through the dense air. Another five minutes and they stand breathless in the village street opposite a small square brick house with "Police Station" painted on it in black letters. A lamp glowed through a fanlight in the door. Elsie tugged at the bell handle as lustily as her cold fingers allowed. There was a stir inside, and almost immediately the door fell back and a sturdy, beited form appeared.

It was after midnight, but Mr. Hobbs.

It was after midnight, but Mr. Hobbs, the worthy superintendent of police, was entertaining a couple of friends in his yery snug and warm parlor, and tobacco very snug and warm parlor, and tobacco fumes were wafted, not unpleasantly, to the nostrils of slender, half-frozen Elsie. She told her tale in a very few words. Instantly hurry, excitement, professional eagerness, coupled with a certain chivalrous admiration and hospitable endeavor to make the young lady as comfortable as circumstances admitted, occupied worthy Mr. Hobbs; he buttoned on another coat; he did not, like Dundee of old, "saddle his horses and call out his men"—that is, he had no horses to saddle, but he did call up his men; they soon mu tered, six strong, and they marched out into the snow, armed with their usual weapons, wrapped from the cold in their usual gear; all their excitement repressed and wrapped from the cold in their usual gear; all their excitement repressed and held in by professional rule.

Silently, swiftly, steadily they set out for Coome Hill House, within whose precincts danger lurked for Miss Philipson's plate, for poor Jetty's life and last, not least in Jem's estimation, for that big plum-pudding and rich mincepie, designed for the impending Christmas dinner.

"Bless me, miss, what a courage you must have—what a spirit! Most young ladies would have screamed and fainted, they would, upon my word. I know that I should when I was a young person; and even now, if such a thing nappened to me, I know I shouldn't be fit to move. I could no more have run and taken that key out of that door and have put it on the outside, when I saw that man's face at the window, and heard him shouting and raving at me, than I could have jumped over this house."

Mrs. Hobbs, the wife of the superintendent, was a short, very stout old lady, attired in a goodly black silk and a someed in brewing hot grog for her good husframe shivering with old, her dark dress sprinkled with snow, had startled the worthy dame and disturbed the serenity of the hitherto peaceful party.

Mrs. Hobbs was used to the sight of ramps and thieves; she abode in the very center of them, so to speak, for in the neat paved yard at the back of the house -the yard whose walls were draped in summer with the golden blossoms of the naturtiums which clambered over themnaturtiums which clambered over them-in this same back yard were cells, wherein tramps, pickpockets, gipsies suspected of stealing eggs and poultry or of telling fortunes, with a view to extorting money from the unwary, were locked up for the night previously to being tried by the magistrates in the large apartment used as a justice room at the Golden Stag, the big, old village hotel. But although Mrs. Hobbs had, to use her own phrase, "seen a many strange things," during the twenty years that her husband had been superintendent for that district. superintendent for that district of the county of Surrey, she had never seen or heard of a young lady shutting the door of her school-room in a robber's face and running for a mile through the snow, with a shawl over her head, at 12 o'clock at night, to seek the help of the police! hat a spirit you must have!" repeat-

"What a spirit you must have!" repeated Mrs. Hobbs.

The farmers had ceased to smoke out of respect to Miss Carew; they were both large, ruddy men, with round faces and round eyes; they stared at Elsie, whom Mrs. Hobbs had supplied with dry slippers, and had placed close to the fire. Elsie had also accepted thankfully a glass of the wine and a slice of the kind. of port wine and a slice of the kind dame's rich cake. While she sipped the wine color came back to her cheeks, and even smiles to her lips. Jem had been sent into the kitchen, where the maid, who was up late that night, entertained him with hot ale and mince pie by the side of 'e great fire.
"I hat not an atom of real courage," said Elsie, "I was frightened to death.

Jetty was crying, and laughing, and talking, all at the same time, so that Elsle could not understand what she was saying, but the man, the thief, he was in the large room, and Mr. Hobbs asked Elsie if she would step in there and identify him. Elsie put her hand before her eyes. She shrank from what seemed like a most hideous duty, if indeed it were a duty at all.

"I should not really know him." she said. "I don't know either of their faces or expressions. It was quite dark when I met them in the lane, and—" she stopped short.

"In the lane, missie?" cried Mr. Super-intendent Hobbs. "Had you met these rascals before?"
"Well, I den't know," returned Elsie.

"Well, I den't know," returned Elsie.
"I met two tramps, who frightened me by begging. I gave them all the money I had, and asked them the way back to Allanbury, for I had lost my way. They alughed, and seemed inclined to be disagreeable; but just then the two Mr. Hammonds came up with their guns and game bags, and the men went away; but not until Mr. Owen Hammond had given each of them half a crown. "I think you will soon recognize the gentleman, miss; if you'll step into the charge-room and take a look at him." There was something like a command in the superintendent's tone.
"Bless your heart, don't you be afraid, miss!" she cried. "The fellow can't do no harm to nobody; he's got 'andcuffs on all right!"

Elsie stood stock still.
"I hate having to do this!" she said. "To stare at a fallen enemy is so paltry. I don't think I will, please."

"And I'll come with you, my dear," said Mrs. Hobbs.

Elsie was obliged to obey. She allowed herself to be led from the warm parlor across a stone passage, and into a stone-floored apartment, with whitewashed walls, a couple of benches, and some immense scales hanging from the ceiling.
Under a gas jet stood the grimmest group Elsie had ever seen in her life—four sterdy policemen, two standing on each side of a man whom she had no difficulty in recognizing by his rags, his beard, his height, build, and tout ensemble, as the second and more repulsive of the tramps in the lane. The man hung his head and glanced up at her, scowling from under his black brows.

"Is that the man you saw at the window?" asked Mr. Hobbs.
"I am not sure."
"But you saic, miss, the man had a black beard?"
"Yes."

Columbia Again Defeats Constitution in the Trial Races --- Golf Tournament at Niagara--- Lawn Bowling.

THE RACE POSTPONED. Rat Portage, Ont., Sept. 4.-It is a disappointed crowd in Rat Portage owing to the failure to pull off the championship boat race this afternoon. The morning was fine and warm with no breeze. About 1 p.m. a stiff wind got up and raised quite a choppy sea. The judges steamed over the course in their boat, but decided to postpone the race for an hour or two, in hopes of the wind dying down. At the expiration of that time they again went over the curse and postponed the race until 7 p.m. At the time, however, there was still such a swell in the bay that the men were unable to race, and it was decided to attendance was not so great as was expected. Betting was very slow, and ruled at 2 to 1 on Gaudaur at the finish, but there were few takers.

COLUMBIA WINS AGAIN. Newport, R. I., Sept. 5.—In a trial suitable cash prizes for the best design." race yesterday between Constitution and Colombia, sailed in a fine breeze over a 15-mile windward and leeward course, the Columbia won by 17 seconds (corrected time). The Columbia led throughout, but started 1 minute and 13 seconds ahead of the Constitution. The Constitution, however, sailed the first 15 miles 32 seconds faster than the Columbia, and came home 22 seconds faster, which was not quite sufficient to cover the time allowance. With the cup race only a couple of week away, and the new yacht not yet experimenta day is of increasing value, and every ban's friends, two farmers of the neigh-borhood, whom she had been entertain-ing at supper, when the entrance of pale Lisie, her shawl over her head, her slight

At the very best those on the Constitution can figure on but nine days for actual sailing after today, for a week will be necessary to put the chosen yacht in dry dock, overhaul the rigging, and get her inside of Sandy Hook Bay. This nine days, of course, does not include two Sundays, which in an emergency undoubtedly will be utilized for tuning up work. ANOTHER TRIAL SPIN.

New York, Sept. 5 .- As soon as the Shamrock crew had breakfasted yesterday, preparations were made for a trial spin. At 11:15 o'clock, Sir Thomas Lipton, Commodore Hilliard, Mr. Watson and several other guests, including two ladies, left the steam yacht Erin in one of the launches, and boarded the Shamrock. The crew of the Shamrock had the new mainsail and club topsail hoisted by 10:30, but there was no wind. While the challenger lay rocking on the swell and her sailors were whistling for a breeze, the steam vacht Reverie having on board the members of the Irish rifle team, went alongside the Shamrock at 11:30 and one of the members shouted to Sir Thomas: "The members of the Irish rifle team and the ladies of the party drink your health and wish you all success." Thereupon Sir Thomas replied, "Thank you," and invited them all to go on board the Shamrock. There were seventeen in the party and they all were taken on board. Thomas entertained his guests got under way at 2:30, and stood out by the Hook. Leaning far over with her beautiful suit of sails, all drawing well and helped by the ebb-tide, she made rapid progress seaward and cleared the bar buoy at 2:47. After a short spin of two hours the Shamrock returned to her mooring at 4:50 p.m. It was estimated that she ran out from Sandy Hook to the whistling buoy, outside Gedney's Channel, at a rate better than 14 knots

THE FLATBUSH STAKES.

New York, Sept. 5.—Wm. C. Whitney's $50,000 colt, Nasturtium, who ran such a disappointing race in the Futurity, won the Flatbush stakes of $5,-000 at Sheepshead Bay yesterday. Goldsmith, his stable mate, ran second, beating the much-talked-of western filly Endurance By Right, a neck. The Whitney stable was favorable in the betting, backed from 6 to 5 to 9 to 10. Some disappointment was felt that John E. Madden did not add the futurity winner, Yankee, and after the race this feeling was increased, as Nasturtium galloped in front all the way and won cleverly, almost easily, track record time for the distance, furlongs, in 1:25%. Goldsmith had to be hard ridden to beat the western illy a neck for the place.

MANITOBAS GREAT CROP OF WHEAT.

Totals 48,857,225 Bushels, Or 20,000,000 Above Average.

Ontario's Crop Estimated at 16,000,-000 Bushels, Compared With Average Yield of 23,765,424 Bushels Since 1891.

Ottawa, Sept. 4 .- Official returns from the department of agriculture, Manitoba, based upon crop report state-ments of the latest date, indicate that the yield for the principal grain crop will be as follows:

48,857,255 30,206,775 6,433,319 The total grain crop for the year is thus estimated at 85,497,949 bushels. The wheat crop is over 20,000,000 bushels more than the average for the period of 1891-1900.

It surpasses the highest previous year by more than 19,000,000 bushels, and is 27,800,000 bushels over the year

The yield of oats is 6,000,000 bushels more than the average of the ten years preceding, and has only been exceeded twice in the history of the province.

The crops in Ontario do not give so favorable a showing as these of Manitoba. The wheat crop, which has been a constant crop, averaging, during ten years 23,765,424 bushels, and in 1900 yielding 23,369,737 bushels, will not be more than 16,000,000 bushels. The yield for oats is estimated at somewhat less than the normal of 80,- years. The hay and clover crop is estimated at 4,638,317 tons, a yield of 1.81-100 tons per acre, compared with 1.35-100 tons, the average of ten years, 1891-1900. Taking wheat, barley, oats, peas, and beans, rye and hay and clover, the yield for 1900 is 7,690,266 tons, compared with 6,508,526 tons in 1900 and 5,497,498 tons in 1891-1900 (ten years). The proportion of wheat was in 1901 only 8.60 per cent as compared with

000,000 bushels per annum during ten

13.97 per cent in 1900 and 12.50 per cent in the ten years 1891-1900. A mode of comparison may be found by taking the export prices and applying them to the several years' crops By using the export prices of 1900 for the crop of 1900, and the average of 1901-1900 for the crop of that period, and also for the crop of 1901, we obtain the following results for Ontario: Wheat 15,967,034 21,520,150

Barley 7,410,293 8,647,583
Oats 27,155,423 27,804,936
Peas 7,436,012 10,381,623
Beans 1,078,487 877,800
Rye 1,614,016 1,391,004 1900. 17,215,432 6,277,536 26,858,968 7,117,117 931,054 1,149,156 Peas Beans Rye Hay and clover ... 40,354,358 25,252,347 Totals...101,005,623 95,275,443 The totals for 1901 will be less or more according as the actual prices obtained are less or more than the average of the export prices of 1891-Apples in Ontario give an estimated yield of 13,834,224 bushels, or a little more than two bushels to each tree of bearing age.

This is less than 40 per cent of last year's yield. The National Shippers'

Association recently estimated the yield of apples for this year in New England at 25 per cent of a normal crop; other parts of the United States 45 per cent; Ontario 35 per cent, and Nova Scotia 75 per cent. The lastnamed has an exceptionally fine quality of apples this year.

dragging pains in the loins, the headaches

To all these kidney and backache suf-ferers Dr. Pitcher's Hackache Kidney Tablets come as a veritable boon and lessing. They clear out the clogged-up kidneys, cure the backache and urinary troubles, roll away the burden of pain, and give health, strength and energy. Miss Anna Defoe, a young lady whose address is 355 King street west, Torento, recently wrote as follows: "For a number of years I have had kidney trouble and backache, so bad that in the morning I could hardly raise my-self. A severe dragging pain would catch me in the small of my back, and I had no appirite, and often suffered from severe headaches, and a general breaking down of the entire system was the result. But, thanks to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, they put new life and energy in me, relieving me of that awful pain and soreness gently and easily, so much so, that I continued to get better, until I was entirely cured. I am in condition now to make known to the world what Dr. Pitcher's Tablets have done for me and for

TEMPTING OFFER TO A CHORIS-

The position of lay vicar in the Westminster Abbey choir is at all times an enviable, dignified and lucratice office. Each of the twelve layvicars is entitled to a pension for life and a stall in the choir. When any great national ceremony takes place members of the choir could sell their stalls at fabulous sums, if such were allowable. In fact, it is difficult to say how much such a choir stall at the coronation of King ward VII. next year would bring but one member of the choir, which is on a brief visit to this side of the Atlantic, was offered, 500 guineas, or $2,500. These are the privileges of the great singers and the wonderful boy sopranos who will be heard here tomorrow night, Friday, Sept. 6.

ST. MARTIN'S SCHOOL BLESSED. On Tuesday morning, the new St. Martin's school, Duchess avenue, South London, was blessed by Bishop Mc-Evay, assisted by Rev. P. J. McKeon, director of schools. Among those present were Mr. Philip Pocock, chairman of the school board, Mr. T. J. Murphy, and many parents and friends of the 27 pupils now in attendance. In his address the bishop congratulated the separate school board and the parents of the children on the remarkable success made by the schools during the past, and spoke of the advantages which would accrue from having such a substantial and well-built school in South London. St. Martin's school-as also St. Peter's, Holy Angels' and St. Nicholas', in this city—is conducted by the Sisters of St. Joseph.
