

SURRENDER OF HARRY THAW DEMANDED GOVERNOR GLYNN

Immigration Authorities Decline To Take Any Action Until After the Extradition Proceedings Are Concluded—Govt. May Seize and Deport Thaw, Who Is Now Quite Anxious.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Formal demand for the surrender of Harry K. Thaw, Canadian immigration authorities here today by Acting Governor Glynn, of New York. The department replied that it would take no action till the present extradition proceedings should be concluded. The department let it be known that it would seize Thaw and attempt to deport him should his extradition to the United States be refused by the Dominion courts.

WON FIRST MOVE.
[Canadian Press.]
Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 21.—Lawyers for Harry K. Thaw, fencing for positions in his fight to resist deportation to the United States after his flight from Mattawan, won an advantage behind the scenes in Sherbrooke today by delaying his appearance in the superior court on a writ of habeas corpus. Dominion immigration officials, and with them the district attorney and the sheriff of Dutchess County, New York, had hoped that Thaw would be produced at 10 a.m. charged on the present defective commitment, and thus fall into their hands for deportation at a point on the border as yet undecided.

Thaw, however, remained in his cell, chatting with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie. Superior Judge Globensky was sought by the immigration officials, and the officials had to wait, ostensibly returnable forthwith, but the court held that Thaw's lawyers were within their rights.

There were no court proceedings during the forenoon, although townspeople jammed the court room.

Thaw's battery of lawyers, victorious so far in the fight to resist deportation, keeping their client in jail, agreed to announce this afternoon what disposition they purpose to make on their side. If they still persist in not serving it, the immigration authorities and District Attorney Conner, of Dutchess County, planned to have the writ declared void and insist on Thaw's arraignment at once, either here or at Coaticook, near where he was arrested.

Today the case had reached a stage where the usual relations of the parties to a criminal action are absolutely reversed. On the one hand, the lawyers for the prisoner were found fighting hard to prolong his imprisonment, while the authorities, local, Dominion and United States, were anxious to have him set free, and in the belief that the immigration authorities would seize and force him across the frontier.

THAW IS WORRIED.
[Canadian Press.]
Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 21.—Feverish and worried, Thaw dressed before sunrise today and received Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie as his first visitors. Though apparently cheerful by their arrival, their presence seemed to make him more close-mouthed than ever regarding his escape.

Thaw's fellow prisoner, who describes himself as a "thief," but who has been identified as Roger Thompson, driver of the black racing car which whisked Thaw away from the asylum, remained silent in his cell today. Charged with counselling Harry K. Thaw in his escape, Thompson was unable to furnish the $500 bail required, and must stay in his cell until Friday, when he will have a hearing.

In order to get the immigration officials' inquiry that must ultimately take place held in Coaticook, which is close to the New Hampshire and Vermont borders, which state Thaw would prefer to go, W. L. Spurlin, K.C., one of his lawyers, left for Ottawa last night to interview the department of the Minister of the Interior. Little importance is attached by the immigration department to the fact that Thaw has a through ticket to Detroit, which it has been claimed by the defence side would enable him to proceed on his way out of Canada. The fact that Thaw is in the eyes of the country from which he came makes his entrance into the Dominion illegal, and gives the immigration authorities, once they get hold of him, power to detain him, or, immediately ship him back from whence he came.

Safe at Present.
While Thaw is in jail on the commitment signed by the justice of the peace at Coaticook, he is safe from the immigration department, who have no power over him, and it is thought that the defence lawyers will leave him there until they have formulated a definite plan of action.

It is known that Thaw lawyers want to get permission from the Minister of the Interior for Thaw simply undertaking to leave Canada and to allow him to select his own destination, which might be, as one of his counsel said today, South America.

TRIAL STANDS OVER.
[Canadian Press.]
Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 21.—After an all-night conference, counsel for Harry K. Thaw announced that they would not produce the Mattawan fugitive in the superior court today on the writ of habeas corpus obtained yesterday.

CHANGED TACTICS.
[Canadian Press.]
Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 21.—With the arrival here last night of J. D. Green-shields, K.C., Montreal, to lead the legal forces now working for Thaw, the policy of the defence underwent a complete reversal. Instead of fighting to get the slayer of Stanford White out on a writ of habeas corpus, it was decided, it is understood, at a conference held last night, not to hurry the proceedings, and it was expected today that the writ executed would not be served for a while.

Thaw, from appearances, will not

CAN'T GET HYDRO IN BUILDINGS OF DOMINION GOVT.

Mr. Beck Went All the Way to Ottawa About It, But "Nothing Doing."

Dominion and Ontario Govts. at Loggerhead Over Lighting of Offices.

A pretty little war between the Federal and Provincial Governments, centring around the lighting contracts in the federal buildings, is engaging the hydro-electric commission. None of the federal buildings have been wired for hydro-electric lighting since the inauguration of the system, despite repeated attempts of the local commission to secure the business.

Mr. Beck Peeved.
This has made Hon. Adam Beck, Mr. Pocock and Mr. Gaultzke exceedingly peevish. Whenever Mr. Beck or Mr. Pocock has not been peevish about it, Mr. Gaultzke has. They think that Premier Borden should be turned out of power, and several other things.

The federal buildings in London include the postoffice, the customs house, the armories, the barracks and the different offices. It would be a nice fat contract for the hydro-electric commission. It would more than offset what the commission does not receive from the London Free Press, for instance.

Borden and Beck.
Recently Mr. Beck made a special trip to Ottawa. He put the case before the powers in strong language. But for some reason or other Mr. Beck's language is more strong than convincing when he is talking to Premier Borden. And Mr. Beck, for some mysterious reason, came back empty-handed.

So that with the London Free Press and the Borden Government not using hydro, and turning down solicitors for the company, and asking hold-up raising for advertising space on a quarantine, and with his own business still consuming large quantities of shavings, Mr. Beck doesn't sleep as dreamlessly as might be expected.

RAID CASH REGISTER OF EAST LONDON STORE

Twenty Dollars Was Carried Off During Absence of the Proprietor.

Arthur's drygoods store on Dundas street, East London, was broken into Wednesday afternoon some time between 2 and 4:30 o'clock and $20 in money taken from a cash register.

Entrance was gained through a rear window, which was forced open. It is not known whether any goods were stolen, but a rumor to the effect that a small cartload was carried away was circulated about the city this morning.

The proprietor was reticent when questioned, and although he admitted that his place had been entered, refused to give any details. The police are working on the case, and it is said that Detective Dowling expects to make an arrest before night. It is also said that some neighbors saw several boys hanging about the rear of the store during the afternoon, and that they are the ones suspected by the police.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Aug. 21.—An order winding up the Dominion Refineries, North Bay, was made by Mr. Justice Leitch at Osgoode Hall today. NO C. N. R. ACTIVITY THIS WAY DECLARES COLONEL DAVIDSON

Hasn't Bought the McArthur Farm; Hasn't Even Heard of It; and Road Has No Surveyors in Western Ontario at Present—Nothing New in Regard to the L. and P. S.

Col. A. S. Davidson, of the Canadian Northern Railway, was interviewed over the long-distance telephone in Toronto by The Advertiser this morning.

Col. Davidson disposed of a whole flock of rumors at one fell swoop. "Have you bought the McArthur farm?" he was asked.

"No; never heard of it," he replied. "Aren't you surveyors working this way?"

"Haven't got a surveyor working in any part of Western Ontario."

No London Plans.

"Any other C. N. R. activity in the district that would lead people to talk of your coming to London before long?"

"Not a thing at present; we aren't in that field at all just at present."

Asked as to the likelihood of the company re-entering into negotiations for the securing of the London and Port Stanley Railway, Col. Davidson stated that there was nothing new in the matter.

Worked for London.
"I left for Vancouver soon after being in London," he stated. "Then I went to England, and not a thing has been done since. It may be that we will be a factor in the situation again, but I cannot say at present. One thing I know—I have had assurances from some of the best men in London that the citizens of London were ready to receive the C. N. R. with open arms. At that time I said that our main line would not come to London unless we were given fair treatment. I may say that I was using personal influence to do something for London. It's my old home town, and I did some fighting in directors' rooms to try and give the city a new line."

Bandits Fire at Him and Queen of Roumania Near Sinaia.

RAIN IS BADLY NEEDED

NEITHER WAS INJURED

[Canadian Press.]

London, Aug. 21.—Revolver shots were fired by bandits today at King Charles and Queen Elizabeth (Carmen Sylva), of Roumania, as they were riding in an automobile near Sinaia, a fashionable health resort in Roumania in the Carpathian Mountains, according to special dispatches received here.

Neither of their majesties was injured.

As soon as the bandits began firing, the chauffeur of the royal car speeded up his machine and succeeded in carrying the king and queen to safety.

C. N. R. Will Handle Grain Trains Soon

[Canadian Press.]

Quebec, Aug. 21.—The Canadian Northern Railway has made it known in Quebec that the company expects to be operating grain trains over its line from the Canadian Northwest to Quebec this fall.

All connections between Quebec and Ruel, Ont., 849 miles, will be ready for train service next month, and the road from Sudbury to Port Arthur opened for traffic a month later, which will give the Canadian Northern Railway direct communication from Quebec to the end of its present line in the northwest.

Without Food For Two Days

English Family Appealed to the Salvation Army for Help.

Asserting that they had been without food for two days, an English family, husband, wife and three small children, appealed to the Salvation Army last week for aid. As they had come to Canada through the East End Immigration Society the Army could not aid them through its regular channels, but the officers, touched by their necessity, privately contributed to secure them a boardinghouse for several days. Later they secured quarters in the east end fire hall, but unable to secure work they again appealed to the Army for money to buy food. Since then the baby has been taken to the hospital with whooping cough.

There are fifteen thousand more claims to be dealt with, and they are still coming in.

SENATE MAY SEND TROOPS TO PROTECT AMERICANS IN MEXICO

Situation Is Again Very Acute as Result of Practical Deadlock in Lind-Huerta Negotiations—President Wilson Refuses to Entertain Huerta's Demands.

[Canadian Press.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—Senator Penrose introduced today a resolution requiring President Wilson to take the necessary steps to place United States troops in Mexico to protect American lives and property, such a step to be decreed by the Senate as in no way an unfriendly act toward Mexico.

DEADLOCK ALMOST REACHED.
Administration officials, though not entirely without hope of an amicable understanding, were inclined today to believe that the negotiations between John Lind and Provisional President Huerta had almost reached a deadlock.

Huerta demands immediate recognition, and President Wilson is absolutely and firmly against it. In all likelihood the American note and the Huerta answer will be published simultaneously.

LIND HAS DONE LITTLE.
It is now understood that Lind's supplementary negotiations, while personally cordial, have availed nothing. Officials today may not sanguine that Huerta would recede and the disposition was to make public the attitude of the United States as expressed in its note.

Mr. Lind's mission is conceded in official circles to have been a failure so far as its effect on the Mexican Government is concerned.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DISPUTE TO GO TO HAGUE ARBITRATION

Panama Canal Row Will Probably Be Settled Shortly—Germans Blamed for Not Helping Limit Armaments—Delegates Indignant Over Peace Palace Opening.

[Canadian Press.]
The Hague, Aug. 21.—The international peace congress adopted last evening a resolution that the differences between the United States and Great Britain regarding the Panama Canal act should be referred to The Hague court of arbitration.

In his presidential address Professor De Loutre referred to the United States as the foremost nation in the peace movement and to the palace of peace as an expression of homage from the new world to the old world. He said that while the east was shrouded in darkness the star of hope was ever brightening in the west.

Professor Quiddie in moving his resolution severely blamed Germany for the last increase in armaments in Europe. He said that there would have been no increase by France but for the action of Germany.

Much indignation has been expressed by the delegates at the failure to invite them to the opening of the peace palace. Not one of them originally was invited to the ceremony, and after pressure had been applied only four have received invitations.

CROTHERS LEAVING NOW

Many Think He Should Look Into Nanaimo Labor Trouble.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Aug. 21.—There is considerable surprise at Ottawa that Hon. Thomas Crothers, minister of labor, should leave Canada at the present time.

With five thousand coal miners and three thousand soldiers threatening one another in British Columbia, it is thought here that Premier Borden would have acted wisely in instructing the Minister of Labor to remain in Canada rather than to leave the situation to the militia authorities.

It is stated that Mr. Crothers could obtain in British Columbia more useful information on the relations of the miners and mine-owners than he will be able to obtain in Britain, where, it is announced, he will go to study the industrial conditions of the mining class.

"GARBAGE COLLECTION" SOUNDED TOO CRUDE

So Supt. Dodd's Pretty Little Buzz-Wagon Bears Sign "Public Work."

[PUBLIC WORKS, LONDON.]
It's a pretty little gilded sign and it is emblazoned on the side of London's latest civic motor car—the buzz wagon of Garbage Superintendent W. C. Dodd, head of the mayor's pet smell factory, and official garbage collector of the Forest City.

"Garbage collector" sounded too crude; it jangled on the aesthetic tastes, eyes and ears of someone, and accordingly the sign for the little runabout was made "Public Works."

To date the city hall oracle has not come through with the information as to whether this is an infringement of the copyright act by robbing the public works department of the Federal Government of its official moniker. May be it is and maybe it isn't, but just the same it is the "Board of Works," and not the "Public Works" under which Supt. Dodd is working.

By raking up some old facts it might be construed by some that the "Public Works" sign on the auto was the "wringing on the wall" which indicates the intention of the Graham ring in the council to create a new department and incidentally to appoint one of its members inspector in this new branch of tax-spending industry.

Thaw's Chances Better in States

Canadian Immigration Laws Are Very Strict, Says U. S. Official.

Mr. F. C. Buzzell, United States immigration officer, and acting United States consul in this city, in commenting on the Thaw case today, said he could not understand why Thaw ever entered Canada.

"He would have been far safer in any one of a dozen states, and less liable to be sent back to New York from them than he is to deportation to New York State from Canada," said Mr. Buzzell. "Canadian immigration laws are very strict, and although I think the law says a man shall be deported at the port at which he enters this country, there may possibly be a way to deport Thaw at the New York border. If he had transportation through to Detroit, as some of the dispatches say he had, the Canadian authorities are holding him illegally."

"There are a great many people in the United States today who would be glad to see Thaw make good his escape. Not for his sake, but for his aged mother's, who has put up such a fight for her son."

TOTAL YEARS BUILDING
GREATER THAN ALL 1912

Building permits for August, 1913, already total $95,265. This is close to the record of the entire month last year, when $110,000 was the aggregate value of permits issued from the building inspector's office. The total building for the year has now reached over $1,200,000. This is $100,000 greater than the entire 1912 record. New permits issued this morning were: Lang estate, repairs and roof to stable (Walper House), on Talbot street, damaged by fire, $2,200; Thomas Jones, 1 1/2-story brick-veneer dwelling on Ridout street, $1,700.

Rumors of Plot to Dynamite Police

Strong Guard is Now Watching Headquarters at Nanaimo.

[Canadian Press.]

Nanaimo, B. C., Aug. 20.—Rumors of a plot to blow Vipond's boarding-house in Robson street, where a large number of the special police are quartered, have reached the officers of the militia.

A strong guard has been thrown around the place. It was asserted that a number of men held a secret meeting and agreed to dynamite the house last night.

Another story which is given considerable credence is that a quantity of arms and ammunition had been discovered in the city.

The flooding of No. 1 shaft of the Western Fuel Company commenced this morning, several large centrifugal pumps being employed in drawing water from the harbor and pouring it down the shaft mouth. This will be continued until the workings have been flooded to put out a fire raging there. As most of the mine is beneath the harbor the leakage is considerable. There are 100 miles of workings, and once they are filled with water it will take from six months to one year to pump out the mine.

Thorndale, Aug. 21.—The continuation school that is being established in the auditorium of the Masonic hall is now being fitted up by Messrs. The trustees have not yet announced what the tuition fees are to be, but it is expected they will be $10 for the term, the same for residents as non-residents.

Fear Incendiary Is Busy at Walkerton

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Walkerton, Aug. 20.—Last night about 9 o'clock a strong smell of smoke was noticed at the Queen's Hotel, and upon investigation a fire was found smoldering in one of the back halls among some rags. It was quickly extinguished. Within half an hour another fire was started in a distant part of the house, but had not made much headway. Later in the evening still another fire was found. It is hardly possible that these could all be accidental, and there is a strong feeling that some firebug is busy, as only ten days ago two other fires occurred in different parts of the town, which appeared to be anything but accidental.

DESERTING HIS POST.

Hon. T. W. Crothers has gone to England, to enjoy a vacation, in the midst of the most serious labor trouble that Canada has experienced in many years.

He went to Vancouver Island and glanced over the scene, perhaps did try to do something, but did not stay with the business. A little effort tried and a little thinking over complex things only confused him perhaps. Anyway, he left. Violence and uproar, gunfire and soldiers out, men in jail and intense bitterness, have ensued.

Perhaps his further removal to England, putting another 3,000 miles between him and his duty, will not make much difference. Since Mr. Crothers took office he has been uniformly and singularly unsuccessful, about, say, what Dr. Pyne or Mr. Duff might amount to in more stirring roles than provincial farm and school administration. Going to sleep on the job is apt to be very much noticed in the Dominion department of labor. It is a new one, but Mr. King made it something large to fill. The ace was followed by a two-spot. Either Mr.
Crothers lacks the requisite knowledge of economic and industrial matters or falls short of his predecessor in personality and pertinacity. Certainly the record of the labor department since he took hold of it is one melancholy failure, so far as his personal work is concerned.

He is gone now to England and perhaps his subordinate may do better without him. But how will the rural mail service in Western Ontario get on? It is in this avocation or hobby that he really shines. He has taken on himself the direction of rural mail around here, kindly relieving Mr. Pelletier of the duties of outlining routes
and tinkering the personnel of the service. In such work he feels no doubt at home, lifted into an office that he was not born for, or trained for, he falls back inevitably upon his proper plane of parish "politics." Water finds its level and Mr. Crothers snatches his
There was a king chosen once to rule

Mr. Crothers, chosen by irony of fate to manage the most difficult of Government offices, turned to his natural work, even if he has to borrow it from Brother Pelletier. Will the Western Ontario postal service be able to go on without his providing genius? Or has he everything fixed up now for years ahead?

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND.

That Scottish home rule will be an issue of the next general election is foreshadowed by the passage of a tentative measure for that purpose in the House of Commons by a vote of 204 to 159. The bill outlined a scheme of Scottish self-government as a part of a wider plan for the federation of the United Kingdom. While the vote had no effect in law, it pledged the Liberal party to the home rule principle. Sir Edward Parrott states the case for it with force:

"Not only does Scotland suffer from legislative anaemia, but she is afflicted with an almost entire paralysis of control over her administrative departments. Four years after his departure for England James VI delivered himself as follows: 'Here I sit and govern Scotland with my pen;
I write, and it is done, and by a clerk
in Parliament I govern Scotland now.'
No better description of the state of Scottish administration at the present time could be penned. The secretary for Scotland is, in the language of the comic opera, the Lord High Everything Else. He has to do the work of two or three English ministers, and the task is utterly beyond the powers of a single human being, however notable his ability and industry."

The social side of the question cries for redress. Scotland, says Sir Edward, is bleeding white under present conditions:

"Every week in the season ship-loads of the best fish and silver in Scotland leave her shores. Since 1905
Scotland's loss by emigration actually exceeds that of Ireland. In 1910 no fewer than 38,384 Scottish people abandoned the land of their birth. At the present moment Scotland contains fewer cultivators of the soil than any other country in Europe. Denmark with half the area and a little more than half the population, with a worse
soil and a somewhat similar climate,
has 510,000 agricultural workers, while Scotland has but 200,000. Every year more and more Scottish land goes out of cultivation, and unless something is done, and done speedily, Scotland
outside the coal and iron area, bids fair to become little more than a vast game preserve."

The overworked Imperial Parliament has little time for Scottish affairs, and Scots of all classes are clamoring for local administration machinery. The land problem is the overshadowing one.

While the tide of emigration cannot be stopped, it can be stemmed by opening a career for Scottish cultivators in Scotland.

MIDSUMMER MADNESS.

Apropos of nothing particular, the Toronto Telegram suddenly bursts forth in a violent denunciation of some of the leading Liberal papers for an imaginary advocacy of French-Canadian supremacy. Listen to it:

"The object organs of Leurierism assert the right of French-speaking Canada, not merely to express its own opinions, but to suppress any and all opinions out of harmony with the principles or prejudices of Quebec. So far as the Laurier organs could terrorize the representatives of English-speaking prejudices or principles, no issue could be raised at Ottawa, except with the consent of Quebec, no speech could be made at Ottawa except such as Quebec approves of, and no vote could be given at Ottawa of any principles or ideas other than the principles and ideas of Quebec."

Why this outbreak of midsummer madness? We are not aware of any particular French-Canadian ideas that have been advocated of late by Liberal papers. A certain section of Quebec, though, we believe, a very small one, has been dominating the Conservative party the past two years. Conservative papers as well as Conservative politicians have been swung into line by the Nationalist party, which claims to be pre-eminently French-Canadian. But we have not seen any Liberal papers backing them up. These "object Laurier organs" have always taken the ground that Quebec has just the same rights as other provinces—neither more nor less. If there has been any undue subservience to French-Canadian opinions, and any undue submission to French-Canadian control, it has to be looked for among the Conservative allies of the Nationalist party.

This is the sort of diet served up for Conservatives by the Telegram. It only voices in more extravagant language the fictions that are common to all. That they believe what they proclaim so loudly is not likely. That would be assuming a degree of mental aberration which it would not be charitable to impute to anyone without the strictest proof.

The impeachment of Sulzer by Tammany is a case of the pot calling the kettle black.

The United States may rest assured that Canada is not hankering to annex Harry K. Thaw.

The city of Toronto has just borrowed $4,250,000 in the United States.
If this isn't disloyalty, what did Toronto vote against in the federal election?

The Fiji Islanders and the Malayans wear breech-cloths and eat with their fingers. Why should Canadians copy their naval ideas any more than their clothes and manners?

Sir Wilfrid made a bullseye when he spoke of "the rustling of the hay."
This is the music which brings the Conservative Nationalists into sweet concord. As Job said, "Doth the wild ass bray when he hath grass?"

Do you know that Canadian lumber sold for more in Hamilton than in London, England? Do you know that you can buy Canadian fruit and meat in England for less than they

Well, that's what the people voted for.

Sanity is returning, female reason is resuming its sway. A sign in Madison

THE WATERPLANE IN WAR.

[London Mail.]
On every part of the coast the water-plane has proved itself the best of scouts, the surest protection against the submarine. Stops are already being taken to surround the coast with a chain of waterplane stations. From these the closest surveillance on surrounding waters can be exercised by the naval airman, and such rates as those of last week upon Grimsby and Sunderland should be rendered impossible, because the assailant will be seen hours before he nears the coast.

world for its size, and chiefly because it has a wideawake newspaper.

WORLDLY ADVICE.

[Cleveland Leader.]
A minister was addressing a school class recently, and was trying to enforce the doctrine that the hearts of the little ones were sinful and needed regulating. Taking out his watch and holding it up, he said:
"Now, here is my watch. Suppose it doesn't keep good time—now goes too fast and now too slow—what shall I do with it?"
"Hock it!" shouted a boy in the rear.

PEACHES AND PLEASURE.

[Vancouver Province.]
When the city man gazes upon the carmine-tinted peaches in the fruit
shops, his imagination conjures a life of pleasure and ease in growing the luscious fruit. The reality is not quite so primrose according to one who has tried it. "The peach-grower's life is a life of anxiety. He watches the clouds, he marks the winds, he studies the thermometer, as another man might the tape on a stock-ticker. He has to plow to do and fertilizing. He must cut back the young trees and prune the older ones.

There are insidious diseases he must treat—yellow, leaf blight, leaf curl, black spot. Insect disease possesses of the orchard—bark beetle, aphid, peach tree borer and an occasional stranger with an appetite for destruction quite as strong. The price of land in the peach-growing district indicates that the orchards pay. But there is one thing that the peach grower will swear to by the deadiest oaths. This is that he earns his money. There are none who can readily dispute the fact."

IN PUBLIC LIFE.

[Birmingham Age-Herald.]
"If I doubt the egotism of a man, I stand on a street corner he thinks he's
in public life."

EDUCATION.

Schuyler—What constitutes the three R's in the education of a debutant?
Van Puyster—Well, I should say—raiment, ragtime and repartee.

THE REDISTRIBUTION QUES-

[Toronto World.]
We believe that redistribution should be made at the first session rather than at the last session of the Parliament chosen in the year. At any rate, all will admit that the redistribution based upon the census of 1911 is now long overdue,
and therefore that further postponement would be unjustified.

AN ONTARIO VILLAGE LIBERTY.

[Toronto Telegram.]
"Going for the mail" is one of the cherished institutions of life in the villages and small towns of Ontario.
The quest for letters is the bi-daily or tri-daily joy of young people who journey to the postoffice wicket on behalf of letters that do not receive a letter once a month. The right to daily or oftener repair to the postoffice and ask for letters, if any, is a liberty the village and town youth of Ontario prize above all other liberties,
and will not surrender.

AVOIDING THE STRENUOUS TIME.

[Vancouver Province.]
Westbound weary walkers are mapping out their summer itinerary with great care, fearing they might arrive
on the prairies in the midst of the harvest season.

PROBABLY SAME MAN.

A Chicago man shot his wife just to scare her. He's probably the same chap that sent his wife a fake telegram of his death.

FALLING OUT.

[Brooklyn Citizen.]

Jackson—Yes, I lost my balance.

SONG.

[Clinton Scollard.]
O, we go wandering up and down,
Athwart the teeming earth;
Leaf of green and leaf of brown,
Summer's smile and winter's frown.
Dreams of new and old renown,
For some a cross, for some a crown.
And that's the boon of birth.

It's you to fare and I to fare,
Along the devious track;
Glints of sun or starry air,
Silk or motley for our wear,
Each with his pack of joy and care,
But with the bourne we all must share.

There's never a road leads back!

UNIONISTS WILL LEARN.

[Toronto Star.]
It is said that the Unionists are arranging to send agents into Canada to find out how Canada is run. The agents will be able to discover any kind of public

COURT DECIDES CITIZEN'S ARREST WAS NOT UNJUST

Magistrate Declares Evidence Shows That Anderson Was Intoxicated.

Decision Clears Sgt. Birrell of Charge—The Case May Be Appealed.

In a lengthy judgment, in which he quoted numerous reasons for his finding, Police Magistrate Judd handed out his decision in the charge of drunkenness preferred against James Anderson, an East London man, who claimed he was arrested unjustly by Sgt. Birrell last Saturday night.

The decision of the court was that J.
Anderson was drunk.

Anderson appeared before Magistrate Judd Monday morning, and through his solicitor pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of being drunk preferred against him by Sgt. Birrell.

Case May Be Appealed.

Three members of the police force,
all of whom swore that Anderson was intoxicated when arrested, were called as witnesses against the defendant.
Against this evidence Mr. J.
McEvoy called the defendant and five other witnesses, all of whom swore that Anderson was perfectly sober. After hearing the evidence, the court decided to reserve his judgment until this morning. When he informed Mr. Mc-Evoy of his intention, the former told him he would appeal the case in the event of a finding against his client.

The magistrate's finding in particular was: "That on his own admission the defendant had had at least two glasses of liquor."

INTERFERED WITH ARREST.

"That he had interfered with the time of the arrest of two parties for disorderly conduct near the Collins Hotel in East London, with the policeman who was making the arrest, in so far as to tell him that he thought the police were making an improper arrest, and that in reference to a man
he did not know, and whom he had never seen before."

"That he came to the station to obtain the release of the man, whom he did not know and whom he had never seen, when it apparently was none of his business at all."

"That upon being requested quietly to return to his home, he refused to do so, or at least neglected to do so."

In closing his judgment, the magistrate said: "I therefore find the defendant guilty of being drunk in a public place, but, following the usual course,
I discharge him, as it was his first appearance."

AUTO "ROAD HOGS" ARE NUMEROUS THIS SUMMER

Water Commissioner Wyatt Ditched by Flying Car Near Ingersoll.

"Road hogs," usually prevalent in the summer auto-touring season, seem to be present in even larger numbers than usual. Further, the said R. H.'s are pulling off stunts that are endangering the ordinary tourists and travellers. Yesterday afternoon Water Commissioner William Wyatt was coming west from Ingersoll in his automobile, when he was forced into the ditch by a large touring car that whizzed past in the centre of the road,
refusing to concede him the right of way.

The chauffeur gave his motor more gas and kept to the centre of the road, refusing to grant an inch lea-way. It swept past six inches, so close ly that the road first rear wheels and then the front ones slipped into the ditch. Fortunately, it was only about four feet of a drop. Had it been deeper, the machine would have been toppled over.

The cloud of dust raised by the other car was so great that it was an impossibility to secure its number.

"HOGS" ON SPRINGBROOK ROAD.

General Manager H. J. Glaubitz, of the water commission, had a similar experience last night on the road between London and Springbrook. The G. M.'s car was shaven twice by road hogs, who insisted on keeping the centre of the road instead of conceding
the right of way.

The Springbrook road is a favorite spot for the road hogs, alleged "sporting" motorists, who take the scenic route from London, taking the other vehicles delight in forcing them into the ditch.

The county council's alibi has been notified of the practice, and special officers will be detailed to keep close tab on the road, and act as preventatives for the "hogs."

Thousands of Men Required—This Year's Harvest Promised To Be the Largest in the History of Canada.

According to present indications the wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, thus requiring the largest number of men in the country for harvesting the world's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective provinces state that many thousands men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year.

Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run and special trains operated,
including the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route. Dates, rates and conditions will be announced

Cured Her in Four or Five Days.

Mrs. WILLET ELLIS, London, Ont., writes: "My little girl had Diarrhœa so bad that nothing would stop it, in fact she got so bad she passed nothing but a tinklish blood. I even steeped raspberry leaves, but all to no purpose, until a neighbor told me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which I did, and with such good results that after four or five days she was quite normal again. I would not like to be

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD

Jailed for Selling Booze to Indians

"Pirate" King Just Out of Central Begged Hard for Liberty.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Aug. 20.—But a few days out of Central Prison, William, more familiarly known as "Pirate" King, narrowly escaped going back for another visit. King was arrested last night for supplying liquor to Indians.
He was caught in the act by a couple of policemen in Victoria Park. He had just come from serving a term in the Central Prison for the same offence.

Today he was tried in the police court and made a most pathetic plea for his liberty. He told the magistrate that if he was ever caught with whiskey in his possession again, he would be willing to serve two years in Central Prison.

The court was lenient, and imposed
a month's sentence in the local jail,
with the condition that if he is brought up again, he will be sent to Central.

SOME COURT GOSSIP ON GOWNS AND EXPENDITURE AT COURT.

It is always Queen Mary's court differ greatly. Two of the most extravagantly attired women in England are amongst her majesty's ladies-in-waiting, though they are not frequently at court. On the other hand the lady of the dyed gowns just mentioned, and one or two others, are amazingly economical in the matter of dress. During the reign of King Edward $2,500 per annum was considered a fair and reasonable sum for a lady at court to dress upon, and the salaries of the ladies were fixed at that sum in order to cover their dress. Queen Mary, however, does not expect her ladies-in-waiting to be as brilliantly and as modishly attired as did Queen Alexandra. A lady-in-waiting at the English court today, if she were not constantly in attendance, could probably dress on $1,000 a year, and a few do it on less. The fact is that a lady in the very best English society today—I quote the English correspondent—need not spend large sums upon her dress. She can dress as well as ladies of the highest rank on $1,500 a year. The Duchess of Sutherland of whom we hear so much, although she dresses gorgeously at times, does not disdain on out of the way furs for one who is obliged to dress whether she will or not. Why, Damon, with the forward day,
Dost thou thy little spot survey,
From tree to tree, with doubtful cheer,
Pursue the progress of the year,
What winds arise, what rains descend,
When thou before that year shall end?

What do thy noontide walks avail,
To clear the leaf, and pick the snail,
Then wantonly to death decree
An insect smaller than thee?
Thou and the worm are brother-kind,
As low, as earthly, and as blind.

Vain wretch! canst thou expect to
The downy peach make court to thee?
Or that thy sense shall ever meet
The bean-flower's deep-embosomed

Exhaling with an evening blast?
Thy evenings will then all be past!

Thy narrow pride, thy fancied green

All must be left when Death appears,

Nor one of all thy plants that grow
But Rosemary will with thee go.

There are two kinds of aluminum ware, the "spun" and the "cast." The spun is much lighter, and should be chosen for lightweight utensils and not for fryingpans or serviceable kettles. Never use any alkali in water in which aluminum is washed. It will cause the outer surface to become dark. Polish nice ware weekly with a good whiting or silver cream and the ware retains its lustre longer.

Often a straw hat that has grown dingy with dust and dirt may be considerably freshened. First brush it vigorously to dislodge as much dust as possible, and then with a fresh brush scrub it well with denatured alcohol or gasoline. If it is a white straw, remove any yellow spots with oxalic acid and then scrub it with a pure white soap lather. Do any work with gasoline away from fire. Oxalic acid is a poison.

A fruit stain, as a rule, may be quickly removed by sponging it with alcohol. An advantage of alcohol over water treatment is that the alcohol does not injure the color or texture of the fabric. In rectilinear patterns, sometimes, may usually be removed by pouring boiling water through it, and if the water is poured from a height, the additional force when reaching the linen is an aid in the cleaning process.

The way one woman cleans her white buckskin shoes is so simple that others may care to follow her example. She makes a rich lather of some good scouring soap, such as is used in the kitchen or bathroom, and with a small brush scrubs the lather well into the shoes. When the shoes are dry, she brushes them off again. The effect is almost magical. Of course, before applying the soap, she brushes the shoes to remove any surface dust or dirt.

A Fiji Home

The ordinary Fiji home looks like a great oblong haystack standing on a mound raised a few feet above the surrounding level, with a long ridgepole extending beyond the roof at either gable end, sometimes ornamented with shells. The haystack is a doorway or two, with a mat suspended in it. Houses with greater pretensions, however, have the walls prettily latticed with reeds, and are distinct from the roof, which is elaborately thatched, with great projecting eaves. Inside, immense pestles, usually of wood, and a very ingenious framework support the roof. The interior decorations of sinnet (cocoanut fibre), always in rectangular patterns, sometimes very pretty. The black squared timbers of the doors are the stems of tree ferns. On a great shelf overhead is stored the family law, a word equivalent to the Italian word robba, which comprises their fishing gear, huge rolled-up mats, or native cloth, mats, immense pottery vessels, and so forth.

Tomato Puff.—Scald and remove skins from eight ripe tomatoes. Cut up fine and add one clove of garlic and cook slowly one and one-half hours. Cool and press all through a sieve. To every cup of tomato pulp allow two egg yolks beaten to a light yellow froth. Add a cup of cornmeal and season with salt and one tablespoon of granulated sugar. Beat the left-over whites to stiff dry froth and fold into tomato mixture. Put into pudding dish. Set in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven, allowing ten minutes' time for each egg used. Serve immediately.

Omelet For One.—Toast to a golden brown a slice of bread, butter it and lay an individual omelet on it, which is prepared as follows: Beat one egg with a tablespoonful of milk and a bit of salt, put a tin in a frying pan with a small piece of butter and pour into the ring the egg and milk mixture. Let it brown a little on the bottom and then turn it over. It will puff up very light and brown delicately on top. Run a knife around the edge and lift with a griddle cake turner onto the toast. One may fold it over or leave it round, as preferred. It will slip from the ring very easily and looks as good as it tastes.

THE CROSS OLD CRAB.

By C. BEACH

There was once an old Crab who lived by the sea shore, and one day he met a Lobster while crawling along the sand. "I hear," said the Lobster, "that the girls and boys are coming, and a nice time we shall have while they are here." "A nice time, indeed," said the old Crab. "I shall take care to keep out of their way. I don't like children." A little while after this the children came—crowds and crowds of them running down to the beach with their spades and pails to build castles in the sand. "Dear me!" said the old Crab, as he peeped out of his hiding place. "I think, after all, I will walk along the seashore just to see what this merry laughter is about. He had not gone far when he came to where Bertie and Mabel were out of their way. I don't like children." A little while after this the children and saw the old Crab, "Mabel! Mabel!" he cried. "Run, run! Here's an old Crab coming to bite us." And off the children ran, while the old Crab crawled away as fast as ever he could, saying to himself as he went: "Dear, dear! What a fright I have had. I never did like children. And when Mabel and Bertie came timidly back at last, they said: 'Dear, dear! What a fright we have had. We never did like Crabs, did we?'"

When the Prodigal Returned

[BY OLIVE.]
In the first place Miss Martha Brooks was organically nervous. Secondly, she was horribly frightened of burglars and tramps. Her life was spent in trepidation. To be sure no one had ever bothered, or was likely to bother, her unpretentious village-home, but she remained unconvinced but that some bold highwayman or robber with brandishing sword and pistol would yet molest her. But this particular morning she was preparing for an unexpected event—the visit of her brother Tom, whom she had not seen for seven long years. It was at the impromptu time of baking (Brother Tom did love apple pie), that someone knocked quietly, yet persistently, at the back door.

Enter the Book Agent.
Miss Martha Brooks' weeping from behind the kitchen window. Rumors of a book agent making his rounds, and generally disturbing the peace, living villagers had reached her ears. Standing on the doorstep was a man with regulation grip, supposedly filled with literature. She advanced cautiously to the door and opened it a crack. Into this she thrust an eye, and in a loud voice bade the man be gone. "Is this Miss Martha Brooks?" quietly asked the man, stooping for his grip. Miss Brooks' heart, as she afterwards confessed to Mrs. Muggins, her neighbor, jumped into her mouth, but at the time did not have any effect on her vocabulary.

"Well, you can clear right out. I take enough magazines and books, and don't need any more," she cried, and she prepared to close the door. "Well, the man, with a smile, said: 'Well, now, Miss Brooks, allow me to—' but Miss Brooks' arm advanced with the rolling pin. 'If you don't leave my premises instantly I'll have the sheriff after you. I haven't any time to spare talking about the latest fiction of the day. Life got two pies in the oven.' The smell of burning pastry issuing from the region of the range, Miss Brooks withdrew long enough to take from the oven a somewhat browned pie. Then she returned hot and somewhat disheveled to sentinel duty at the door.

Threatens a Threshing.
"You'll just have three minutes to leave," she exclaimed, crossly. "I'm expecting my brother, and you'll get the thrashing of your life, if you don't clear out."
Over Tom Brooks' face there flashed an inkling of the truth. Poor Martha had mistaken him for a tramp. Picking up his suitcase he came to ward her. "Why, Martha, don't you know your big brother Tom? Where is the fatted calf for the prodigal?" Martha stood petrified, rolling pin still held conveniently in mid-air, incredulously written on her flushed face. "Why, Tom, dear old boy, will you ever forgive me?" and Martha dropped her weapon of defence, and flew to the arms of her long-absent brother.

Tom still tells the joke of how he nearly spent the day with the sheriff, and laughs at the narrow escape from death by the rolling-pin. Martha is very penitent, but Tom declares the only way she can square herself is to have apple pie for every meal, and to which request Martha has smilingly complied.

Next Time You Go to a Wedding

For ages the wedding ring has been a token of binding authority. The gold symbolizes the purity of affection; the circle the endless love; the price paid for it takes the place of the ancient purchase money. If the ring is lost, tradition says, it is a warning that the husband's love will soon pass away; if broken, that he will die soon.

It is customary to wear the ring on the third finger of the left hand because the third finger of the left hand has been supposed to be connected directly with the heart by a vein called the "vena amoris." Do you know which finger wears white? In olden days a bride of the poorer classes went to her wedding in white, as a warning to the public that, since she brought nothing to the wedding, her husband was not responsible for her debts. At the beginning of the eighteenth century brides began to introduce touches of color into their costumes. Blue was the color of the rich, green for youth. Yellow was never worn, as it stood for jealousy.

Not until Shakespeare's time, says the Chicago Tribune, did English wives wear blue. Until then, the custom had been for the bride to go to her wedding with her hair hanging loose as a sign of freedom. Immediately, however, upon entering her new home, the bride was to wear a sign of submission. Wedding gifts in olden times were mere loans, to be returned when the couple were well established in their new home. But when the feudal lord increased in power, he gave to his vassals presents for his newly wedded children from those dependent upon him. Later laws were passed compelling a present in value up to one-twentieth of the yearly rent of the tenant.

Garden of Paradise

AS TOLD BY AUNT GERTIE.

Chapter IV.
They went into the cave and the poor young Prince nearly fell at first! Gradually it grew warm, as they walked through the winding passages.

"Surely we must be going over the path of Death to the Garden of Paradise," said the Prince.
But the old man did not say a word. Instead, he pointed to a wonderful blue light, which seemed to beckon to them.

After a while they came to a wonderful river, which golden fish were swimming. There was a bridge made of marble, which the Prince discovered led to the land of Bliss.
The East Wind took him across the bridge. Right away, the air grew sweet with the perfume of flowers; the grass shone with diamondlike dew. Birds sang, and the whole flock of peacocks, with their beautiful tails spread, welcomed them.
And now at last they came to the Fairy of Paradise.
Her garment shone like the sun. She was very young and very beautiful. She took the Prince by the hand and led him all around the beautiful garden. She showed him a wonderful tree which she told him was the Tree of Knowledge.

"May I stay here always?" asked the young Prince.

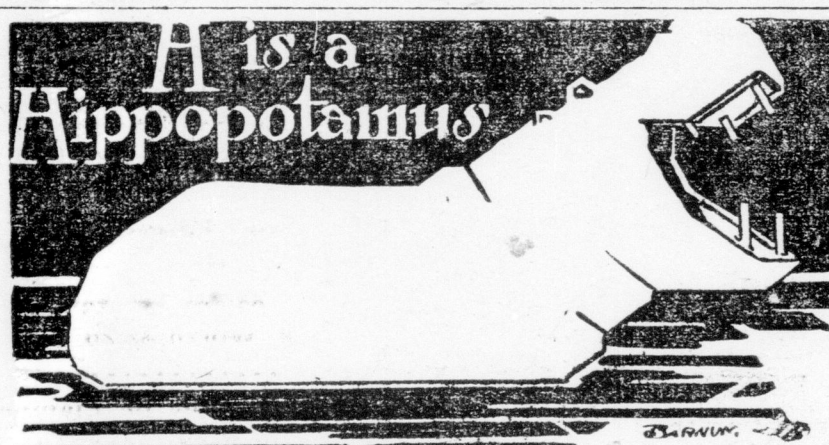

"If you are good and do not do what you are forbidden to do, you may," said the Fairy. "The East Wind is just going back home. Make up your mind now whether you want to stay here or not," she added. "If you do, you must not be tempted when I ask you to come with me to the Tree of Knowledge, because that is the place no human is allowed to go. It is part of my business, though, to try and make you come."

"Every night I shall say to you, 'Come with me.' You must say, 'No,' if you say 'Yes,' and come, then you will see the beautiful Garden of Paradise fade away from you. You will be left all alone!"
The young Prince decided to stay. He thought he was strong enough never to come when the Princess called. "Tonight," said the Princess before she left him, "I shall have to ask you to come. Remember, you are NOT to come if you want to stay here."

"All right," said the Prince. "I'll remember."

It is a Hippopotamus

The strangest, ugliest, biggest-looking creature in the Zoo is a hippopotamus. The meaning of this queer name, which seems to have been picked out on purpose for this remarkable animal, is RIVER HORSE!

It lives more in the water than on land. And it has all sorts of wonderful oddities about it which Artist Barrie and I discovered while we watched it floundering around in its great lake-like basin of water in the Zoo grounds.

The first thing we learned was that the "hippo" has a huge mouth, which it can open about FOUR FEET!

Its spongy, rough, warty skin is two inches thick in some places and is covered all over with a network of fine wrinkles.

This old river horse looks as if it weighed about four tons and was at least 12 feet long.

The body is barrel-shaped. The head is swollen-looking and very ugly; apparently too heavy for the stout neck.

Did you ever see a hippopotamus? If not, you may not have heard that its skin is quite naked, except for a few bristles on its broad, rounded muzzle, and a few tufts of hair on sides of head, neck, and ears and tail.

This great water-loving animal has quantities of a strange, oily substance in its skin which always comes out, more or less. And when the "hippo" gets excited it comes out very fast. With it comes blood, which produces the "bloody sweat" for which this animal is famous.

Suddenly, while we were watching it, the creature disappeared under the water.

What do you think, boys and girls? Why, this animal has a way of closing its ears and nose so that it can stay under water for quite a time.

It swims well and can dive very quickly. That water-loving animal has such a clumsy-looking thing.

At night, it is said the hippopotamus, when living in its own haunts, wanders on the land, eating plants that grow along the water's edge.

There's something else you would like to know. When baby hippopotamus is very, very small, it cannot swim, so mother "hippo" puts it on her neck and carries it around in the water till it learns how!

and lay in kerosene for ten minutes, then wring the dusters until no oil drips from them, and dry in the shade. Thus treated they absorb the dust without scattering it. The process should be repeated whenever the cloths become stiffened by dirt.

An Eye Lotion.
Dear Miss Grey: Kindly give me the recipe for a harmless lotion to be used in weak eyes. VIOLA.

A—A very harmless lotion which you may use is made of: Boric acid 1 ounce, boiling water 1 pint. Put boracic acid in a basin. Pour water in and allow the boric acid to dissolve before bottling. Use with an eye cup.

"He's Honest and Sincere."

Dear Miss Grey—I have a girl friend who goes with a young man. I know this young man is honest and sincere. As I don't go with anyone, he told me when he came up again he was going to bring one of his friends along and wanted me to meet him from the way of talking, this friend of his is well liked where he lives. Now if this friend comes up and I like his appearance after meeting him, do you think it would be proper to accept his company while here and afterwards?

A—If the young man is desirable and asks for your company, there is no reason why you should not accept his attentions.

Sticky Table Top.

Dear Miss Grey—I have an old mahogany table I have repainted mahogany color. It looks all right except the top, and that just sticks to everything. Can someone tell me what to do with it?

PERPLEXED.
A—If the table be real mahogany it is a pity it was painted at all. It would have been far handsomer had it been cleaned and "restored" by competent hands. Were it mine I should have the paint scraped off, the surface rubbed smooth and varnished. But I submit the tale of your perplexity to wiser readers. What can be done with the heirloom?

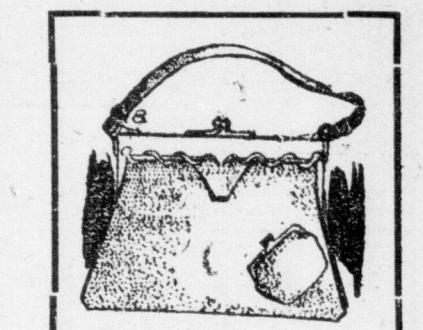

Items Referring to Bernhardt.
Dear Miss Grey: May I ask you to send me in obtaining magazine articles, newspaper clippings, or books containing information concerning Mme. Bernhardt? HELEN C.

A—I do not know whether or not any biography of the famous actress has ever been published in book form. You may ascertain this by inquiry at the public library. It is possible that some reader can supply you with cuttings of the kind desired. I cannot think it probable.

Dustless Mops and Dusters.
Dear Miss Grey—Can you tell me how to make dustless mops and dustless dusters? I hope to see a recipe soon.

A—Wash the dusters well in soft water and soap, rinse three times, dry.

Exercise Ten Minutes a Day To Strengthen Legs and Arms

BY A PHYSICIAN.

Exercise of the muscles gives the brain increased control over them. This brief talk on exercise is confined to the leg and arm muscles—what they are, and a few simple ways of strengthening them stronger and more pliable.

The fingers, hands and wrists are moved by the muscles below the elbow in the arm and in the hand.

The movement of hand muscles is in two kinds, closing and opening the fist. The movement of the forearm muscles consists of bending the hand backward and forward, bending it to the thumb side and in the opposite direction.

Besides this, the hand can be turned so that the palm faces up and then down.

Six Exercises.
These groups of muscles may be built up by exercises.

1. Close the fist by pulling hard with the palm muscles, pulling against these with the muscles of the back of the hand and arm.

2. Open the fist antagonizing the same group.

3. Move the hand toward the thumb, pulling all the time on the opposing muscles.

4. Reverse, by moving the hand toward the little finger in the same way.

5. Bend the palm up, while pulling hard on the muscles which bend it down.

6. Bend the palm down, using the same method of resistance.

There are two groups of muscles which bend the elbow. The first group is and are situated on the front of the arm. The second straighten it and are situated on the back of the arm.

The shoulder is lifted up by the neck muscles. It is pulled down, forward and backward by the chest muscles. This exercise should be taken regularly by forcing the one set of muscles to outpull the other.

The leg muscles, including those of feet and toes, should be just as carefully exercised and in the same general way.

Ten minutes a day is sufficient to keep these muscles in excellent condition.

For the Midsummer Picnic

Do not make the picnic hard work either for the one who provides the lunch or for those who must carry it and help serve it. If one's idea of a picnic is a course luncheon, served with the usual china, silver, glass and linen the porch should be the limit of distance. If you have the true picnic spirit you will make the luncheon as simple and easy to carry and serve as you possibly can and still have it attractive.

The Toothsome Sandwich.
The basis of every picnic lunch is the sandwich. There are numberless kinds of sandwiches, but a few continue to hold their places as favorites. Most women like salad sandwiches; that is sandwiches filled with lettuce, water cress, romaine, celery, tomatoes, olives or some form of pickle or any green dressing. Children like jelly sandwiches. Then there are the heavier peanut butter, egg, cheese and meat combinations.

The best meats for sandwiches are ham, chicken, tongue and game. Some persons like sardines as a filling, and almost every one likes brown bread with cream cheese and English walnuts. It is well to make some plain bread and butter sandwiches to eat with the meats and jellies.

But it is not necessary to be confined to sandwiches. Tea biscuits and butter rolls are very good cold. Butter to spread these may be made in a paper cup. An especially nice addition to the picnic lunch is made by scooping out the centre of finger rolls and filling with minced chicken, moistened with stock or cream. It should be well seasoned. The chicken may be mixed with mushrooms or hard-boiled eggs or celery or chopped olives and moistened with salad dressing.

As picnics are remarkable for the appetites they develop there should be at least one substantial dish. Cold meats are the easiest to manage, boiled tongue, fried or passed chicken, beef or veal loaf. Meat and fish salads are relished. If salad is taken the celery or lettuce should be wrapped tightly in a wooden trap and the dressing carried in a glass jar. The ingredients can then be mixed when needed and be fresh and delicious. Fruit, potato or cabbage salad can be managed in that way.

Eggs Are Favorites.
Eggs, either devilled or stuffed, may be substituted for the cold meat, here

LONDON IS NOT YET COUNTED OUT OF CANADIAN LEAGUE RACE

Locals Have Plenty of Opportunity Left to Bring 1913 Pennant to This City—Much Will Depend on Outcome of Present Series With Ottawa—Beebe Has a Sore Arm.

BY JINX.

Although London's defeat at Peterboro yesterday, while Ottawa was beating Berlin, has widened the gap between the locals and the Senators, London is by no means out of the running for the pennant yet. At the present time the two teams are separated by 25 points, or 3½ games. With these two clubs opening a series in the capital today, interest in the race should be at fever-heat. By taking two out of these three games London can gain much of the ground lost at Peterboro, and will come home in as good a position as it went on the road.

London's Advantage Next Week.

The London team will have a distinct advantage over the Senators next week, and it will be then that the championship will be decided. Ottawa plays on the road all week, at Guelph the following three days and in this city the following three. This will be the toughest road trip the Senators have experienced this season. The Senators have never been very successful in the Royal City, and Louis Cook's bunch can pretty nearly be depended upon to win two out of three games from them. Then they will come to London, where they will strike the biggest snag of the season. If London fails to take at least two out of the three games scheduled here, then the Deneaults do not deserve the pennant, while the chances are that the locals will cop the whole series. London is just as hard to beat at Tecumseh Park as Ottawa is at Lansdowne Park, and the Senators have only won one out of the six games played in London this season.

Red Sox Here Next Week.

While Ottawa is battling Guelph the early part of the week London will be engaging the lowly Red Sox, and as the locals had no difficulty last week in winning four straight from Brantford, no trouble should be experienced next week in making it three straight.

However, a great deal depends on the outcome of the present series at Ottawa. A win today for London will put the locals within 24 points of the present leaders, and as Bobby Heck will be on the mound the chances are all in favor of a favorable verdict for the Deneaults. The other two games are not so certain. Beebe is nursing a sore arm, as his work at Peterboro showed yesterday, and Steiger and Boldt cannot be depended upon.

GAMES AT OTTAWA WILL BE BULLETINED PLAY BY PLAY IN FRONT OF ADVERTISER OFFICE

The Advertiser has made arrangements for a complete wire service on the London-Ottawa games in the capital, and the matches will be bulletined in front of this office play by play, and in the city, as they occur at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa. The Advertiser will be in direct connection with the press box at Ottawa, and the result of the innings will be posted on the bulletin boards within five minutes from the time they are completed.

Since the baseball season opened The Advertiser has catered to local fans, and provided them with the best bulletin service in the city, and the large crowds that gathered on Dundas street each afternoon in front of this office bear testimony to the fact that the service is greatly appreciated. Local interest is at fever heat over the London-Ottawa series, and The Advertiser believes that this effort to supply the fans with the very latest on this series at the earliest possible moment, with all the details, will be doubly appreciated.

Just Chatter

The Pates certainly went after Beebe yesterday, and the former Cleveland pitcher got the worst trimming meted out to him since he has been in the Canadian League.

Beebe has a sore arm. He complained of it last Saturday when pitching against Brantford, and apparently it has not yet recovered. London is badly in need of a good pitcher.

Boldt held the Pates scoreless after he had succeeded in retiring the side in the third. Too bad that Rube did not start him in the first place.

The wonder is that Rube did not pull Beebe sooner. He waited until the Pates had scored six runs off the big fellow before he chased him to the dugout.

Hennie Steiger will likely be released when the team arrives in London on Sunday afternoon. Steiger was signed up for the remainder of the season, but his work recently does not warrant him being retained.

The Saints, with Wilkinson in the box, grabbed one from the Kolts yesterday. Too bad that London has not got a Wilkinson on its line-up to assist Bobby Heck.

Guelph handed Brantford another beating yesterday. The Red Sox are out to break all losing records in the Canadian League.

President Stevely, of the London club, Fitzgerald, of the Canadian League, and two big league scouts on their way to Ottawa, remained over in Peterboro, yesterday and saw London humiliated.

It is likely that Bierbauer will be back in the game at Ottawa today. He received quite a shaking up, but beyond a few bruises was not seriously hurt.

The Brantford Club made an effort to get Hackbush, who has been playing with the Stratford W. O. B. L. team, but Hack refused to go. A loser does not look good to anybody.

Big Ed Renfer will oppose Bobby Heck today. It is going to be a pitcher's battle, and will mean something if London wins.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORT

By Jinx

A wild-eyed London baseball fan stood on the bridge and cried, "I've lost all interest in life, here goes for suicide."

"Nay," a stranger passing said, "Just calm yourself, I pray. Postpone this maniacal act until some other day."

"Impossible," the fan replied, in accents loud and shrill, "I have no more desire to live, I'm really very ill."

Last week I thought this London team would cop the pennant sure, the Senators were due to lose, the Pates were playing poor."

But London crossed me up and lost two ball games in a row; I've nothing left to live for now, so please, sir, let me go."

The stranger hailed a near-by cop, who took the fan in charge, "For," reasoned he, "such nuts as he should not be left at large."

Just when our old pennant hopes were trying to brace up a bit, along comes Peterboro and gives them a kick in the shins. The way of the pennant is not always a primrose path.

According to a dispatch from Ottawa the game there today may be called off owing to bush fires. That's what comes of having a bush town in the league.

Telegram from President Stevely: "Rush around gripful of horseshoes and rabbits' feet. Don't seem to be able to get these working right." May be someone slipped him the wrong grip.

MEAN CUSSES.

"Ah, woe is me!" the fan exclaimed, "I would make a gink feel blue. 'When'er the champs annex a game, the Cockneys grab one, too.'"

—Ottawa Journal.

To which we have added: "A London fan then up and spoke, 'Our pennant hopes are thinning; 'When'er the Cockneys lose a game, the champs just keep on winning.'"

The office boy paused at our desk this a.m. and propounded the following: "If Manager Deneault had not yanked him in the third inning where would Mr. Beebe?" The answer Steigered us for a moment; then we made Boldt to answer: "In the dug-out, by Heck!"

Bobby Heck will work today, 'tis said. Mr. Heck seems to be our only reminder that once in a while London actually wins a game.

"We expect a pitcher from Cleveland in a few days," remarked President Stevely before leaving for Ottawa. But we are led to suspect that Mr. Stevely got into the wrong crockery store.

PROMISING ROYAL STAR BEAT ORIOLE'S FAST MAN

Outfielder Gilhooly, of Montreal, Who Is Sought by Big Leaguers, Shows Some Speed.

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, Aug. 21.—Before the Royal-Oriole baseball game at Altwater Park yesterday, Frank Gilhooly, the Montreal outfielder, much sought by big league teams, defeated Cooper, the Baltimore outfielder, in a hundred yard race.

With Jack Dunn as starter, the runners were sent away together and were on even terms for the first half of the distance. Then Gilhooly forged ahead of his tall opponent, and won by about three yards. The time was 10 3-5 seconds.

GERMAN ATHLETES COMING TO AMERICA

Promise to Take Part in Panama Pacific Exposition.

[Canadian Press.] Berlin, Aug. 21.—James E. Sullivan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, who with several other American delegates is now in Berlin attending the sessions of the International Athletic Federation, today obtained the promise, that a team of German athletes would be sent to San Francisco to compete at the Panama Pacific Exposition in 1915.

In return for this courtesy, it is considered most likely that the American team which is to compete in the Greek Olympic games, known as the "local cycle" in the spring of 1914 will, upon leaving Athens, make a trip to Berlin and participate in an athletic meet here.

IRISHMEN WILL HAVE AN IMPROVED TEAM

Tecumsehs Will Meet Strong Team in Montreal Saturday.

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, Aug. 21.—When Toronto Tecumsehs appear in Montreal Saturday afternoon next for their final game of the season with Irish-Canadians on the Mascotte grounds, they are likely to go against an improved local team, if the efforts now being made to secure Johnny Howard are successful. Howard, one of the greatest defensive men who ever played the game, and one of the former stars of the famous Shamrock aggregation, has finished the season in the west, and is stated to be on his way east. The lineup of the Irishmen will be about the same as last Saturday, though if Howard gets here in time a change in the defence will be necessary.

COLTS ARE CHAMPIONS OF INGERSOLL LEAGUE

Defeated the Ramblers Last Evening by 9 to 5—Morrows Finished Second in Race.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Aug. 21.—By defeating the Ramblers last night by a score of 9 to 5, the Colts practically clinched the championship of the town league. They have been leaders right through the series, with the Morrows now a good second. The Colts still have one more game to play, and should they drop this the Morrows would have a chance to tie up the league, but this is hardly probable.

The league has been very successful this season. The attendance has shown an increase, the quality of the ball played has been better, and the interest that has developed will probably mean much for next season.

Exodus of Chinese Bad for Business

[Canadian Press.] Colon, Panama, Aug. 21.—Not a single Chinaman in Panama has complied to date with the law requiring the registration of all Chinese in the republic, the time limit of which expires on Sept. 1.

Pressure was brought to bear on the Panama Government by local merchants to modify the provisions of the law, but a public statement issued by the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Ernesto Lefevre, indicates that the Administration intends to adhere to its policy.

Ou Yang-Keng, the Chinese consul-general at Panama, will, it is reported here, be given his exequatur because of his alleged delinquency in representing the law in its proper light to his countrymen.

Strict application of the law, unless the Chinese accept the situation, means a wholesale exodus of the race, in which event merchants here predict a temporary demoralization of business. There are about 500 Chinese in Colon.

Bank Cashier Was Shot by Bandits

[Canadian Press.] Hamburg, Germany, Aug. 21.—A robbery which culminated in murder and savored much of the methods employed in recent months by Parisian and American automobile bandits, occurred today at the Commercial Savings Bank of Wilhelmshagen, a suburb of Hamburg.

Two men drove up to the bank in a taxicab, and on entering the building levelled revolvers at two young clerks, who scurried for shelter. The cashier, an institution, an aged man, in an attempt to save the money in his care until help should be summoned, fought with the two men, but was shot dead.

The bandits then appropriated all the cash in sight and escaped in the automobile.

ENGINEER SIFTON IN A HEATED VERBAL BOUT

Ex-Londoner Brands Hamilton Alderman as Unfit for Council.

The Hamilton Spectator of Wednesday has the following: "Any alderman who has no more sense than to bring up such a question in open council, without first privately investigating the matter, is not fit to occupy a seat in the council."

In these scorching words, E. I. Sifton, manager of the local hydro department, replied this morning to a question asked at the council meeting last evening by Ald. Wright in connection with some telephone accounts forwarded by the hydro department for payment. Ald. Wright publicly stated that the city had received accounts for five long distance calls from Mr. Sifton to Mrs. Sifton, and that there were other long distance calls in which the names of other ladies figured. Ald. Wright therefore wanted to know last evening if the city was expected to pay for these private conversations, and, if so, what sort of account checking system was in vogue at the city hall. Controller Morris, who is assigned to the hydro department, was unable to tell him.

Mr. Sifton himself came right back with an answer this morning.

He says that he did use his office telephone to call up his wife, and that he intends to keep on doing so.

"It is true that the calls are naturally charged to this telephone, but in every case where I have a private long distance telephone conversation, I pay the charges myself. The accounts are sent in, with credit notes attached. Before bringing up such questions publicly the least an alderman could do would be to make some inquiries."

Attached to the telephone account presented last evening was a credit note for $5.30. Mr. Sifton says that that figure represents what he paid out himself for private conversations, which, as a matter of form, were charged to the city corporation.

Mr. E. I. Sifton was for some time in charge of the hydro-electric in this city.

Emile Ollivier Was Famous Politician

Took a Leading Part in French Government Affairs.

[Canadian Press.] Anney, France, Aug. 20.—Emile Ollivier, the famous French politician, who was premier of France under Napoleon III, died here today.

Ollivier was born at Marseilles July 2, 1825. He became a member of the Paris bar in 1847, and in 1848 was commissary-general of the republic at Marseilles. Elected as Opposition candidate for the third circumscription of the Seine in 1857, he took part in several important discussions, including the expedition to Italy and the regulation of the press.

Emile Ollivier was chosen by the emperor as arbitrator of the difficulties which arose relative to the isthmus of Suez, and it was upon his report that the final decision was founded.

In 1870 he was invited by the emperor to form a ministry, which task he assumed, himself taking the portfolio of justice. The declaration of war against Germany and its disastrous results led to the overthrow of the Ollivier Government on August 9, 1870, seven months after its formation. Of late years M. Ollivier has not taken any part in contemporary politics except as a correspondent to newspapers. He was the author of numerous judicial works.

M. Ollivier's first wife, who died in 1862, was a daughter of Liszt, the famous pianist and composer. In September, 1869, he married Mile. Gravier, the daughter of a Marseilles merchant.

Reulbach-Stack Trade a Good Thing For the Players and Clubs Involved

Once an important cog in the "Cub machine," in the days of Chance, Kling, Brown, Sheekard, Tinker and the others of that merry crew of pennant winners, Ed. Reulbach is now with Brooklyn.

LEMIEUX SCORES CHARGE MADE BY COMMANDER ROPER

Claims Documents Were Never Presented to Him at Any Time.

Used Only by Conservatives to Do Duty After the Election.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux last night made reply to a letter just published in the Conservative press from Commander Roper, who came to Canada from the British Admiralty in 1910 to be chief of staff of the Canadian Naval Service.

In that letter Commander Roper took strong exception to some statements made in Parliament last session by Mr. Lemieux in commenting on the memorandum written by Commander Roper in the autumn of 1911 criticizing the naval policy of the Laurier Administration. Commander Roper in his letter, as just made public, declares that Mr. Lemieux had no right to impugn his motives in writing such a letter just on the eve of the change of Government.

A Plain Statement.

Mr. Lemieux made a plain statement of the facts of the case in regard to the now famous letter of Commander Roper which had done frequent duty in Conservative literature and speeches as an argument against the Laurier policy.

"When the Liberal Government decided to establish a local navy, after the Laurier navy bill of 1910 had been passed," said Mr. Lemieux, "it was found necessary to establish first a naval department of the marine service, with Mr. Desbarats as deputy minister. Then Rear Admiral Kingsmill, who had served in the British navy, was appointed to the service, and in 1910 Commander Roper was borrowed from the British Admiralty. He came here and immediately began to praise the idea of a Canadian navy, and even went so far as to deliver a speech at the Ottawa Exhibition deprecating the attacks made on the so-called 'tin-pot navy' by the Nationalists and the Tory jingoes. Of course Commander Roper had no right to make such a speech, and he was later taken to task in Parliament for it by Mr. P. D. Monk and other Conservative leaders.

The Reason Why.

"Later on," added Mr. Lemieux, "as matters progressed, the Government called for tenders for the construction of Canadian war vessels, and a number were received from British ship-building firms.

"The contract was not let immediately because it called for the expenditure of a very large sum, over $1,000,000, and as the imperial conference was gone and was followed almost immediately afterwards by the general elections, it was not thought wise to give out so important a contract.

"The result of the elections showed the wisdom of the course adopted by the Liberal Government, since they resulted in the return of a government opposed to the idea of a Canadian navy. And I can assure you that never before the elections, nor immediately after they had closed, did Commander Roper impress upon his minister the necessity of at once awarding the contract, nor did he ever complain at the delay.

Brodeur Had Left.

"Some time before this Hon. L. P. Brodeur had left the Government and I had been called upon to succeed him as minister of marine and fisheries and naval affairs, which office I had during the last month or two of the Liberal Government.

"As minister, I several times saw Mr. Desbarats, deputy, and Admiral Kingsmill, but I never saw Commander Roper, nor did I ever hear from him at all. Neither Mr. Desbarats nor Admiral Kingsmill ever referred me to Commander Roper's alleged complaints against the inaction of the Government with regard to this contract. It was only after during the first session of the Dominion Parliament that Hon. Mr. Hazen, the new minister of marine, in order to support the Tory view that the Canadian navy was useless and would be obsolescent before it was built, quoted from a document purporting to have been sent to me as minister of naval affairs by Commander Roper before the elections came off.

Never Sent It.

"Commander Roper never sent that document to me. I never saw it. Commander Roper never spoke to him, nor did I ever see the document which Hon. Mr. Hazen quoted from. In fact, during the last session, when I stated in Parliament that this whole matter had been concocted and this alleged complaint had been antedated for political purposes, Hon. Mr. Hazen admitted that this document had been sent, after the elections were over, by Commander Roper to Admiral Kingsmill, to be laid before the new minister, but he claimed that it had been written before the elections. It was a very shaky explanation.

Rank Treachery.

"What would any employer think of an employee, whom he had trusted, and who after he had left his employment had sent such a document? Would it not be an act of betrayal and treachery? Was not Commander Roper paid to advise the minister of his department? Only after the elections were over and he had left Canada did Commander Roper start to arm the new Government and the new minister with weapons against those who had employed him and when he was supposed to loyally support.

A Significant Name.

"Does not the whole thing look as though Commander Roper was anxious to support the Admiralty policy of concentration and colonial tribute which has been so zealously adopted by Mr. Borden, rather than support the Canadian policy of a local navy as proposed by the Liberal Government which first engaged him? I see Commander Roper is now serving on the 'Chameleon.' There is a significant fitness in the name." "As to what I stated in Parliament," concluded Hon. Mr. Lemieux, "I have not one word to retract."

MRS. PANKHURST COMING TO CANADA ON LECTURING TOUR

Militant Leader Tells of the Tortures of Hunger Strike.

Claims Govt. Has Broken Faith, and Methods Used Are Justified.

Trouville, France, Aug. 20.—The suffragette movement is an international one. Mrs. Pankhurst, the leader of the English militants, said in the course of a chat today, at the same time announcing her intention of visiting the United States and Canada at the end of the year to lecture in various other cities.

Mrs. Pankhurst said that the justification of the fierce militancy prevalent in England lies in the fact that the British Government has broken faith with the suffragettes, for after having promised to introduce a woman suffrage bill in the House of Commons, the cabinet took care to make its passage impossible.

"The only way," she said, "if you will—is the only means of effecting our purpose," she said. "If the Irish had not persisted in harassing the Government, would the latter have consented to give them home rule? Why was the Welsh disestablishment bill allowed to pass? Simply because Lloyd George himself threatened trouble in Wales if it failed.

"We have got to fight to obtain our rights. There is no other way." Talking of her personal experiences in the course of five hunger strikes—one of which lasted nine days—Mrs. Pankhurst said:

Terrible Tortures.

"Abstinence from food, though torture enough, is nothing compared to the awful agony of self-imposed thirst. One's body literally shrivels up until it resembles a mummy. If people could only see some of our martyrs lying inert after a hunger strike, with their faces white, drawn and shrunk, and with clenched fists, the imagination would be so struck that the contention would be so struck that the Government to stop the struggle by giving us the vote.

Mrs. Pankhurst believes the Government has arrived at an impasse through the failure of the "cat and mouse" act.

"What can it do?" she asked. "Its only logical course is to recognize our political rights."

Sheep—Receipts, 14,000; market strong; natives, $3 35 to $4 00; yearlings, $5 to $5 95; lambs, natives, $5 50 to $7 85.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—East end market: Receipts—Cattle, about 1,325; calves, 700; sheep and lambs, 800; hogs, 300; prime, 1,224 head of cattle, 2,549 head of hogs, 380 to $65; calves, 23c to 6c; sheep, 44c to 46c; lambs, 7c; hogs, 10½c.

TORONTO, Aug. 21.—(Union Stock Yards)—The run here yesterday totalled 119 cars, containing 1,911 cattle, calves, 1,224 head of hogs, 380 to $65; calves, 23c to 6c; sheep, 44c to 46c; lambs, 7c; hogs, 10½c.

Contrary to expectations, another very large run marked the second day of this week's cattle market. In spite of the fact that there was very little change in prices from the opening day, though the cattle trade was a trifle slower than ordinarily, the only grade of cattle to be seriously affected was the medium butchers, which suffered a decrease of about 25c per cwt. All other grades remained about firm with the opening, and while some decreases were recorded they were not extensive, and these could not be taken into account with the general tone of the market. The quality of calves being shipped in is about on a par with last week, and the selling price of choice offerings still continues high. Owing to the moderate consignments to this market, all offerings are going at a very good price, and the trade has been brisk. While hogs, fed and watered, remained steady, a slight advance of 1c per cwt. from 10c to 11c was noted on both the other two grades. Notwithstanding the very large runs, this market has been a steady one for the past two weeks, and the prices have set a record for this season of the year. While sheep did not suffer a material decrease yesterday, trade, owing to the large run, was rather slow, and no increase was recorded. Spring lambs were a fairly good sale at the ruling quotations of the past two weeks. The effect of the cool weather on the market has been well defined this week. During last month's large runs such as have been coming into the yards, this week sent the prices a trifle lower, and a drooping tone pervaded the market. This week, in spite of the large runs, no radical decrease has been registered. This is also probably due to the increase in meat consumption. With the exhibition in full swing, the market of the next few days is expected to be very steady and also brisk. With moderate runs there is no doubt but that prices will advance, while even with large runs there is not likely to be any notable decrease in prices. The quotations on Wednesday were:

T. O. R. O. N. T. O., Aug. 20.—With business moving quietly, grain prices have little excuse for moving either up or down, and few variations are noted in the day's list. Old Ontario wheat is one weak spot, the immediate of heavy deliveries of new crop taking the edge off values. NEW I. O. O. F. GRAND MASTER GIVEN A ROUSING WELCOME

St. Marys Had a Half Holiday to Honor Return of Dr. P. T. Coupland, Recently Elected to Highest Office at Oddfellows' Convention.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Marys, Aug. 21. — The merchants' weekly half-holiday was utilized yesterday afternoon in giving a fitting celebration to Dr. P. T. Coupland, who was duly installed grand master of the Independent Order of Oddfellows of the Province of Ontario.

A procession was formed on Queen street in the vicinity of the town hall, headed by the Maxwell Maple Leaf Band, followed by the Patriarchs Militant of Toronto in dress uniform, a long cortege of Oddfellows comprising members of St. Marys and Stratford districts, a number from Toronto and other points, twelve decorated automobiles loaded with leading Oddfellows.

The first carried the guest of the day, Dr. P. T. Coupland. After a musical parade down Queen street, around Water street, and a number of the across the Trout River bridge to Station street, and then up Winder street to Wellington street, the party entered the Collegiate Institute grounds.

The Collegiate Institute building was gallantly decorated, and a large banner, inscribed, "Welcome to Our Grand Master," was flying.

Bro. F. E. Maclean presented a congratulatory address to Dr. P. T. Coupland, signed by Wm. Atkinson, noble grand, of Downie. Dr. P. T. Coupland made a felicitous reply. Past Grand Master W. S. Johnston, of Toronto, occupied the chair, and a number of fine addresses were delivered by local members of the order and others, including Bro. Campbell, of London;

ex-Mayor Jos. Oliver, of Toronto, past grand master; Bro. M. G. Bissett, of Stratford; Grand Secretary, Bro. Brooks, Major S. C. Parkes, of Toronto, of the Patriarchs Militant.

Bro. Baker, representative of Perth district, No. 16, presented a past grand master's jewel to Bro. Charles Spencer, of the same district. A suitable reply was made by Bro. Spencer. The celebration ended up with sports and refreshments.

Wants Reporters To Wear Uniforms

[Canadian Press.]

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 21. — The suggestion is made by the commander-in-chief of the troops in the mining district, Col. Hall, that newspaper reporters in the strike zone should be provided with military uniforms, be attached to the corps, and have all news censored by an officer.

Col. Hall declared that many of his strategic moves had been laid bare in the press before being executed, and he had had much trouble as a result. Newspapers have not yet submitted to the request, as they are uncertain whether to wear kilts, khaki or red coats, and military compulsion has not been suggested.

JOHN NOBLE IS ILL AND LAYS DOWN PEN AFTER MANY YEARS

Itinerant Scribe Will No Longer Tramp the Highways of Elgin and Middlesex.

Has Had a Unique and Picturesque Career as Free Lance Newsgatherer.

John Noble—"Itinerant scribe," literary tramp and news gatherer from half a dozen townships for more than half a century, is laying down his pen. The last chapter of the life history of one of the most unique characters in Western Ontario is now being written at Victoria Hospital, for the literary tramp has been confined there for the past six weeks.

It was this sickness that temporarily at least ended the journeyings of the itinerant scribe through Yarmouth and South. Dorchester Townships in Elgin County, and through West Nisour, Westminster and Dorchester Townships of Middlesex. Six years past the allotted life span of three score years and ten, John Noble may be discharged from the hospital, but it is hardly likely that he will ever again take up his tramping and his search for news.

The Call of the Open.

Born in Yarmouth Township on March 27, 1837, John Noble has since early manhood, known and been known to more people in Elgin and Middlesex Counties than any single individual. Save for three years of school teaching he has followed the call of the open. Conventions have had no tie for the itinerant scribe, a title that he gave himself. Here one day—there tomorrow, with no special route, with no cares or worries, he has tramped the countryside from Thamesford to Port Stanley.

A Care-Free Life.

Unhindered by excess baggage, it has been a care-free life that the "scribe" has led. Tramping forty and sometimes more miles a day, he has covered an immense amount of territory in the half century that he has been Western Ontario self-constituted news purveyor. Stopping at one farm house for dinner, at another for supper, and a third for bed and breakfast, he has possibly seen the inside of more farm houses than any agent, collector, official or "tramp" in the world.

Clothes have been the least of John Noble's worries. He was always neat, but no laundress was ever employed to wash his clothes. Stopping at one farmhouse to wash a pair of socks and at another to "do up" his shirt, wash-dish had no terrors for him. It was seldom that he ever carried more than one shirt with him, and he generally borrowed one from the family, where that one happened to be washed, and went tramping on till his own was dry.

A Wonderful Memory.

Middlesex and Elgin families may have their written family trees and their verbal family histories, but both were stored in the mind of this wonderful old man. He knew every family of the old school, knew every one of its branches, every one of its intermarriages, its connections, and its descendants for four generations. He was an authority on family trees, and many a dispute as to lineage has been settled when John Noble came tramping that way.

Always "On the Job."

For the past 50 years and more, no wedding, no funeral, no christening, no lawn social, no church entertainment, no party, has been complete without John Noble. He was there to "get the facts," and the facts he got. Weddings and obituary notices by the thousand have been turned out by John Noble's pen for the London and St. Thomas papers. From Belmont, from Lambeth, from Thamesford, from St. Thomas, from Union, and from a score of other small country postoffices, the scribe's "stuff" has been mailed to city papers for half a century. The news of the countryside was gathered and written in farm houses, in country postoffices, in fence corners, everywhere and anywhere, but it was news just the same.

Ponderous Sentences.

John Noble's "copy" had an individuality all its own. Since his first efforts at news gathering, it has been the despair, the envy and the pride of copy readers and reporters. Imbued with a certain literary spirit, the pen of the itinerant scribe flowed in ponderous sentences replete with high-sounding words with which the common-place events of everyday country life were garnished with a literary splendor that was almost uncanny.

Knew a Good "Story."

To one that ever handled a line of

John Noble's copy, the signature, "John Noble," at the bottom of the pages, was unnecessary. Among the contributions from a hundred correspondents his could be picked out with hardly a second glance. No other country news gatherer attempted the written oratory that covered the pages of his "stuff," nor could any other single correspondent turn in the same amount of real news from such a wide range of places. He knew everyone and everything, and though his copy might not be of the accepted style, there has been many a big story tucked away in some corner of his "jottings."

Tips From His Notes.

The first inklings of tragedies, sensations and feature stories have often-times come to London newspaper offices from the contributions of old John. "Tips" obtained from his notes have often developed into the biggest stories of the day, and many a prayer of thankfulness has been muttered by generations of harassed city editors when a budget from the itinerant scribe found its way into a newspaper office on a dull news day.

Some of London's newspapermen who have gone forth from this city in their chosen profession and have made names and reputations for themselves in wider fields, have had their first aspirations and inspirations fanned into enthusiasm and reality by the news-gathering ability of old John. It has been his stories and his capacity for securing news that has fired them into hustling themselves. He has been a sort of beacon light that has lit many an aspiring newspaperman into wider fields and better positions.

A Dickens Type.

Were Dickens only alive again, or were their some successor to his inimitable style, John Noble could live forever in the immortal pages of his works. Character par excellence for a novelist of the Dickens type, the lights and shadows of 50 years that have been John Noble's lot would have proved an inexhaustible storehouse from which literary gems might be extracted.

His life may have been a quiet one; it may have been free from "adventures," and his whole career may have been spent in what some would term an aimless existence, but John Noble has seen more, heard more and had a truer insight into life than those who have led adventurous careers. He has recorded the births of some of the most foremost men of the county, he has written their marriages, has chronicled the birth of their children, and has indited their obituaries. His pen has recorded the passing events of half a century, but it now seems as if it will be laid down forever.

There can never be a successor to John Noble. He created his own "profession," he carved out his own life work. "Work" in its accepted sense was never part of his existence. He tramped the countryside and wrote its doings, its laughter and its tears, but he was something foreign to his nature. He was one of those natures that craved after something different from the rest—and obtained it.

An Interesting Factory

HANDSOME NEW FACTORY OF KELLOGG TOASTED CORN FLAKES

The new Kellogg factory on Dundas street was thrown open yesterday in order that the public might see how their Toasted Corn Flakes are made. One lady remarked as she was leaving, "What a wonderful process," and that just expresses what everybody must have thought who had the pleasure of following the various stages a grain of sweet corn undergoes before it is safely stowed away in the carton as a Toasted Corn Flake. Visitors were first introduced to the finished product in a neat little dish accompanied with cream and sugar and the necessary spoon. This brought to light more than one Oliver Twist, and had it not been for mother, several of the kiddies of the party would have stayed with it all afternoon. It is useless trying to explain the process properly, you must see it.

The corn comes all ready shelled and with the "germ" removed. The germ is the part of the grain that starts fermentation—that's why Kellogg's Corn Flakes will keep any length of time. After being thoroughly washed, it is put into tin cans covered with the "Kellogg" fluid and baked for three hours and a quarter. This fluid, we suppose, gives it that delicious flavor peculiar to Kellogg's Corn Flakes and naturally is a secret. After this thorough cooking, it is something like well-cooked beans in appearance. The next process is a thorough shaking and drying till each grain is separate and hard as a piece of glass. The corn then has cold air forced through the bottom of the bins and when cool is stored away for four days to mature. Then comes another washing before the drying. The way those hot steel drums revolve and the steady stream of flakes travel along each conveyor is most interesting, and one would suppose that the process was finished. Not so, although at this stage they tasted very nice—the flakes are now passed eleven times through an oven as tall as a house, and on their journey to the "packing" department, all the fine particles are blown out, so that the flakes in the package may not appear dusty.

The way they are packed is another surprise: It would require an hour's examination to see exactly how the wonderful machinery does everything, from measuring the right quantity of corn flakes to sealing up the boxes.

The only hands that might come in contact with the corn flakes belong to two white-clad girls, who give the paper lining of each carton a twist to close it before the top of the carton is sealed down. The most surprising thing about such an intricate process as the manufacture of Kellogg's Corn Flakes is that from start to finish, they are not handled. If you have ever wondered at breakfast how those dainty flakes were made, just go out to the spotless factory and see.

REFUSED TO VOTE ON SCOTTISH HOME RULE

Members of Royal Clan Decline to Discuss Political Questions.

[Canadian Press.]

Philadelphia, Aug. 21. — The Royal Clan of the Order of Scottish Clans, in annual session here, has declined to go on record either in favor or against home rule for Scotland, on the ground that the organization is non-political in character, and that action one way or another would be violating the principles of the body.

A statement prepared by the press committee, to which the matter was referred, pointed out that a clause in the constitution provides that the "Clans shall at all times be free from political and theological sectarianism," and declared that the order "had been represented in regard to its alleged relationship to the political propaganda advocated by a paid organizer of a British political party."

Clans in all parts of the United States and Canada are represented in the Royal Clan. The question of home rule for Scotland came before the Royal Clan through the presence in Philadelphia at this time of F. J. Robertson, an officer of the International Scotch Home Rule League, and a member of the Edinburgh town council. Mr. Robertson, who is in this country to enlist support for the home rule movement, has been invited to be one of the speakers at the banquet of the Royal Clan to be held tonight.

Overdraft of $2,800 Is Not Alarming

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Aug. 21. — The report that Sarnia is broke has aroused considerable indignation throughout the town. The municipality is rated financially as one of the best in the States or Canada, and altogether has only an overdraft of $2,800, which to those familiar with the financial aspect of municipal affairs, is very small indeed. In trade journals on the American side Sarnia is described as an ideal location for manufacturing purposes.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

What Glasses Are to Weak Eyes —Cascarets Are to Weak Bowels.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whipl the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Young People's Excursion.—The A. Y.
P. A. of Christ Church held an excursion to the lakeside Tuesday evening. On account of a stormy lake the evening had to be spent in Port Stanley, but was enjoyable none the less. On Monday night, at a business meeting, the association appointed Messrs. Bert Parkinson and H. R. Franks to the Dominion A. Y.
P. A. convention in Toronto, Sept. 8 to 10.

Mr. W. A. Dier Safe.—Mr. W. A. Dier,
a former resident of St. Thomas, and a brother-in-law of Mr. Joseph Poock, of London, was not drowned in the disaster
to the steamer State of California, near Juneau, Alaska, the man who was drowned being W. Dier, a newspaperman connected with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Friends of Mr. W. A. Dier, who is a resident of Victoria, B. C., in answer to inquiries, sent word on Wednesday that he was well and preparing for a trip to California.

Social at Rescue Home.—The Salvation Army held a fine lawn social and musicale on the lawn of the Rescue Home Wednesday evening. A long program of classical selections was rendered by No. 1 Band. The audience evidently appreciated the efforts of the players, for they were exceptionally liberal with their applause.
During the evening ice cream and cake were served to all present. The large crowd of nearly 500 people was well pleased with the entertainment provided.

Early Morning Blazes.—Two early mornings blazed one at the Grand Trunk freight sheds and the other in East London, gave the firemen little difficulty this morning. The first one was to the freight sheds at 1 o'clock, where a crate of crockery caught on fire. It was extinguished by a hand chemical.
The damage was slight. The second one was to 712 Nelson street, at 6:30, where
a small blaze in the kitchen of Mrs.
Ryckman's house alarmed the residents.
It was extinguished with but little damage.

CARD OF THANKS.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS SOCIAL CENTRE PLANNED FOR CITY

Effort Will Be Made to Have Neighborhood "Gatherings"
This Winter.

Object of Idea Is to Build Up a Better Type of Citizenship For London.

Schools as social centres are this fall
to become an accomplished fact, if expressions of board of education
members may be taken as any criterion.
The idea of utilizing the public school buildings as community centres in the evenings is not a new one in London. That is, the idea as an idea is not new, but it has never been put into practice. There have been agitations for the social centres, but they have been little more than agitations. However, it would seem that at last the dream of progressive citizens
was at last to blossom into a reality.

Social Centre Idea.

Chairman E. R. Dennis, of the board of education, is a strong advocate of the social centre idea. He is even now securing data on the question from the cities where it has been successfully tried, and he will lead the fight in the school board to grant the request of certain organizations for "social centres." There are members of the board and there are citizens at large who regard the use of school buildings for anything but school purposes as being little short of profanity. The school, they contend, is a sacred institution, and it should not be belit-tled, that being the term they give it,
by being used as social centres.

Makes Good Neighbors.

The theory of the profanity of school buildings by being used for anything but school purposes has been exploded in those cities where the community idea has been tried out.
The growth of "neighborly" spirit and a consequent increased civic pride and enthusiasm is said to have grown out of the social centre idea.
Those who have witnessed the idea in actual operation are unstinting in their praise of it.

The social centres of some of the larger American cities have proved themselves the finest aids in building up a better type of citizenship," was the opinion expressed by one who saw the centres in full swing in some large American cities. "Contrary to the impression that some seem to have that the social centre is nothing but an amusement device, it is a character builder of no mean significance.
In the first place, having a central meeting-place brings the people of the neighborhood together. Topic of civic importance—better road-building,
street cleaning, gardening, anything at all are discussed. The husbands and fathers can gather together—smoke their pipes and informally, or formally if they wish, discuss some of the civic problems, can devise schemes for securing better pavements for their section, and generally act as an improvement society. The women can have their sewing bees, their "gossip," if you like, and their pickling, canning, preserving and all that sort of thing.

Good for Community.

"It is really surprising how such simple topics as these gradually grow,
and there is an awakened civic pride
and a resulting increase in civic improvements. Across the line the community 'improvement societies' and commercial clubs have the schoolhouses as their meeting-places. These societies and clubs have primarily the interest of their own community at heart, but in every city they have a central organization, to which the individual organizations send representatives, and this central body wields an enormous power for the advancement of the city.

"This is a progressive age and we can't have too much progress along the lines of bringing people together for the promotion of the city's own development. There can be nothing better than the social centres to bring this about.
"However important this civic advancement phase of the social centre movement may be, there is no stronger inducement to have them here than our young people. Youth naturally desires company. When it has an opportunity to congregate in a school building instead of on street corners it develops a healthy interest, instead of the morbid, questionable pleasures that the streets and the pool halls may afford.

"Let them dance in the schools if they want to, let them have their entertainments, their concerts and whatever else they want, but let them have the run of the building and let it be a true social centre."

Home Treatment for Removing Hairs

[Beauty Culture.]

Elaborate and expensive treatments for removing objectionable hair or fuzz are not nearly as satisfactory as the simple and painless method which any woman can employ in her own home. This consists of a paste made with a little powdered detaine and water, which is spread on the hairy surface for two or three minutes, then rubbed off, after which the skin is washed and it will be free from hair or blemish. This is quite harmless and the cost is nominal.

Any woman can beautify her eyelashes
by applying pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Thin eyebrows grow thick and glossy if pyroxin be rubbed on occasionally. Be cautious and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.
